We Can Make It Happen, New C-C President Says

By TEX-DEWESE
C. E. Steel, general manager of Celanese Chemical Company's Pampa plant, was installed as president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce last night at a dinner meeting of chamber officials and their wives in Coronado Inn.

"We are operating on the edge of a new frontier. There are new things to be done and progress means improvement. It will be the aim of the Chamber of Commerce to serve all segments of the economy in our community."

Boyd Taylor, Delmar Watkins and Rufe Jordan. All will officially assume duties at the annual chamber banquet set for Thursday night, Oct. 17, in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Civic Center.

SURPRISE VISIT

Kissinger Makes Stopover In Spain

MADRID (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger held an unannounced 45-minute meeting today with Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina at heavily guarded Torrejon airbase where he stopped briefly en route to the Middle East in search of peace and lower oil prices.

Each of you has been selected because they think you can do the job on that plane," Watson said.

White House economists like Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon also have stressed

50 Planes Set To Arrive On Air Tour Stop

Fifty planes carrying approximately 150 persons from more than a dozen states were scheduled to arrive around 5 p.m. today at Pampa's Perry Lefors Airfield.

"I just came out with all the cabinet members and others in the administration to express our appreciation to the Secretary of State for going on this vitally important mission, and to indicate my full support and support of the administration for these ... tremendous efforts to bring peace in an area of the world that has been so volatile, so controversial that it is important for the world as well as the countries involved that the maximum effort for peace be made," Ford said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The time-honored formula of an earlier Republican President was "talk softly and carry a big stick."

Deliberately, however, he shunned the big ammunition in favor of largely modest measures designed to keep government interference in the economy at a minimum.

His biggest weapon, a 3 per cent personal and corporate income tax surcharge in 1975 that will raise $4.7 billion and thus offset the spending required for other programs, faces a politically dubious future.

Ford admitted that his tax measure will be a dangerous liability for any office-seeker to support in the forthcoming congressional campaign.

The few proposals with a quickie effect rely on voluntary action — like cutting speed limits and energy use in business and homes.

White House economists like Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon also have stressed their ultimate faith in the ability of the free enterprise system to carry the day.

"We have in the United States more government than we need," Simon told reporters prior to the speech to emphasize this theme.

Not only was there a minimum of direct government intervention in Ford's address, there was a conspicuous absence of jawboning.

The same President who, after just a few days in office, criticized General Motors for raising prices, laid down no threats, direct or implied, to companies or labor unions in his most important speech on inflation.

True to his word, Ford made no move to control

Price Opposes Ford's Plan On Tax Increases

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa issued the following statement today in reaction to President Ford's economic address before a joint session of Congress:

"I cannot agree that a tax increase will effectively combat inflation. On the contrary, giving more money to the federal government may only spur inflation because the big spenders in Congress have, over the years, demonstrated a lack of responsibility by spending all of the money it takes in; in fact, the federal government usually spends more money than it takes in."

"The surest road to economic health is the road back to fiscal responsibility. The federal government simply must spend less."

"I am encouraged by the President's remarks calling for elimination of unnecessary government spending, but I have no faith that the Congress would refrain from spending any additional funds collected through increased taxes. I'm opposed to raising more money for the government to spend."

"Also, I was glad to hear the President lend his support to a proposal I have introduced in successive Congresses — de-regulation of the price of natural gas at the well-head."

wages, prices, profits and interest rates. He shunned both a gasoline tax increase and the more severe step of gasoline rationing just as he said he would.

But the President also passed up a variety of other measures proposed during a month of summit conferences and studied seriously at some point by his advisers.

For example, there were no new proposals for tax relief for the working poor or any tax reform measures beyond the narrow administration bill already virtually assured passage in the House Ways and Means Committee.

The President made no mention of actions to deal with the most inflationary section of the economy, the cost of medical care and health services.

The speech spurned proposals to ration credit so that deserving businesses might get more of the scarce money supply and speculators less.

The President passed up ideas to create reserves of agricultural commodities to help stabilize domestic food prices and rejected proposals to exempt interest on savings accounts, an idea that some thought would attract money to savings and loan associations and savings banks.

In the last analysis, the Ford program fits comfortably into the traditional Republican doctrine of getting government out of government. Whether the President's proposals are also good economics remains to be seen.

President Ford drew praise from businessmen, economists, labor leaders and everyday citizens on most of his proposals to wage war on inflation. But many reacted sourly to his suggestion for a 5 per cent income tax surcharge.

"Speaking for the man on the street," Ford's message was not for the man on the street," said Ray Ransom, a Salt Lake City data technician. "I'm just about ready to trade my take-home pay for what the government withholds."

AFL-CIO President George Meany, speaking in Miami, said Ford's proposal to apply the surcharge to families earning $15,000 annually and single persons with $7,500 salaries was unacceptable.

At today's prices, he said, those salaries are not high. However, he praised Ford for sweeping "the economic mess out from underneath the rug."

One economist said if the surcharge helps stop inflation, the cost to the American wage earner will be worth it.

Dr. E.W. Wood of the University of Mississippi estimated that a family of four making $20,000 a year would pay about $2.50 a week more in income taxes under the surcharge proposal.

"Inflation is going to raise our tax rates anyway, because it pushes us into higher income tax brackets," Wood said.

"So if an increase in the personal tax rate proves antinflationary, we will be no worse off and perhaps better off because the tax burden may be more equitably distributed than the inflation burden."

In New York, Tilford Gaines, chief economist for Manufacturers Hanover Trust, said the 5 per cent surtax "is inequitable for people who in today's world are essentially in a lower income bracket."

Snag Develops In Release Of Kidnaped Group

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A snag developed today in the release of seven hostages held for 13 days in the Venezuelan consulate by a band of pro-Castro guerrillas when Peru and Mexico reportedly raised objections to giving asylum to the six guerrillas.

Diplomatic sources said the Panama government had indicated it would accept the six terrorists, who agreed to release their hostages in exchange for a safe conduct into exile, if no other country would take them. The release was delayed pending further negotiations with Panama City.

The guerrilla band, members of the Jan. 12 Liberation Movement, had originally expressed a preference for asylum in Mexico or Peru, but diplomatic sources said apparently those two nations had raised objections.

In his Monday night speech offering the safe conduct, President Joaquin Balaguer had said the French government had already decided it would not accept the guerrillas.

Government authorities and diplomatic teams worked throughout the night to arrange the exchange after the terrorist team announced Tuesday night it would accept Balaguer's proposal.

"Everything's been resolved," Gen. Rafael Guillermo Guzman Acosta, chief of the national police, said Tuesday night. "It's just a question of working out the details."

U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch said the six guerrillas told him they would end their 13-day siege and release the hostages, including American Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison, in exchange for asylum abroad.

Hurwitch reported the 47-year-old diplomat from Newark, Del., and the other hostages "safe and in good condition."

Surtax Is Unacceptable

President Ford's proposal for a 5 percent income tax surcharge would be a blow to middle income families if Congress gives it final approval.

Reaction to the President's plan to wage war on inflation seemed today to be generally acceptable in most instances to businessmen, economists, labor leaders and everyday citizens — but his suggestion to put a tax on the income tax of families earning $15,000 a year and single persons with $7,500 a year is unacceptable.

The Pampa News is opposed to the surcharge and wonders why the President passed up still bigger ideas to keep government out of government.

There were no ideas to create reserves of agricultural commodities to help stabilize domestic food prices. Proposals were rejected to exempt interest on savings accounts an idea that was believed would attract money to savings and loan associations and savings banks.

The President had no new proposals for tax relief for the working poor, and no suggestion to deal with the most inflationary sector of the economy, the cost of medical care and health services.

But, especially does his proposal for the 5 percent income tax surcharge take a severe crack at the pocketbook of the middle income families and individuals.

The News believes the President and Congress could do a better job fighting inflation by directing efforts to stay within the budget and cutting government spending instead of cooking up plans to place a heavier tax burden on the average American citizen.

Dancing Group To Appear For Concert Season

First attraction in the Pampa Community Concert Association's 1974 - 75 season will be on stage in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Coming to Pampa will be the 80-member company of Soviet Georgian Dancers and the Tbilisi Polyphonic Choir.

The company of dancers, singers and musicians is making Pampa one of the stops on its long-awaited United States debut tour.

Curt Beck, president of the concert association, said there will be no box office ticket sale for the performance, which has been sold out along with all other concert attractions for the fall and winter season.

Admission to tomorrow night's concert will be by membership card only.

Fire Prevention Events Continue

Observance of Fire Prevention Week continued in Pampa today with a demonstration of rescue procedure at 1 p.m. atop the Rose Bldg., 110 W. Kingsmill.

Open house for public inspection was conducted at Central Fire Station from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. today.

Fire truck demonstrations are scheduled at Lamar and Baker schools Thursday forenoon and afternoon.

Pupils at Travis elementary school will have an opportunity to see the fire truck demonstration at 1 p.m. Friday.

Well Water Tap Getting Repairs

The well water tap on N. Ward St., opposite Carmichael - Whitley Funeral Home, will be out of service for an indefinite period of time.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today. Wofford explained the well that services the tap is undergoing extensive repairs.

FHA Conducts Area Meeting

The Pampa Future Homemakers of America and Home Economics Related Occupations chapters hosted an Area I FHA meeting at Pampa Junior High School Tuesday evening.

The meeting was held to acquaint the EHA's with the organization's "Impact" program, which provides each chapter with a more meaningful, active part in the community. Mrs. Nita Williams, Pampa High School FHA sponsor, said.

Mrs. Ima Dora Haile, Area I consultant, was in charge of the homemaking teachers' meeting. Mrs. Marian Staton, Sunray homemaker teacher, worked with the FHA members in attendance.

Chris Fry, chairman of the PHS council of FHA, welcomed the group to Pampa.

FHA chapters were represented from Pampa, Claude, Groom, Clarendon, Panhandle, Borger, Lefors, Phillips and Sanford-Fritch.

The 'Woody Owl' Law

If you speak or write the words "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute" and derive a profit in doing so, you are liable to a fine of $250 or six months in jail or both.

Technically, the Gazette Telegraph is guilty for telling you this. For we sell our paper, hopefully for a profit and the prohibited words are part of today's package. Further, since we define profit as an increase in happiness, that, too, could be held against us. For we enjoy a good belly laugh in showing how ridiculous lawmakers can become. We also gain a sense of accomplishment by being able to forewarn the reader that he himself can land in the slammer should he "knowingly and for profit" utter or write the forbidden clause "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute." We omit a few letters so as not to aggravate the penalty.

Are we serious? Do we jest?

Yes to both questions.

The prohibition in question is Public Law 93-318, adopted by the 93rd Congress on June 22, 1974. The precise language of the penalty section states:

"Whoever, except as authorized under rules and regulations issued by the Secretary, knowingly and for profit manufactures, reproduces or uses the character 'Woody Owl,' the name 'Woody Owl,' or the associated slogan, 'Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute' shall be fined not more than $250 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both."

Chief proponents of the bill (S1585) that became PL93-318 were Rep. Don Edwards, D-San Jose, and Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Fullerton, both of California. Principal antagonist was Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky. The bill was brought to the House floor on April 2, 1974. On that date the following exchange took place between Edwards and Snyder.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I have read this report. Am I in error that if this bill becomes law and I say, "Give a hoot, don't pollute," I can go to jail for 6 months unless I get the Secretary of Agriculture to approve my saying it?

Mr. EDWARDS. In answer to the gentleman from Kentucky, if he does as he describes knowingly and for profit, then he would be subject to the penalties.

Mr. SNYDER. If somebody would pay me for saying that, I could be fined $250 or sent to jail for 6 months or both?

Mr. EDWARDS. I suppose the gentleman could. I think that is highly unrealistic.

Mr. SNYDER. A great many unrealistic things are running around loose in this country. Angela Davis is loose. The Chicago Seven are loose. Ellsberg is loose after giving away the secrets of the country, and so on. Now we want to send somebody to jail for saying, "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute." Did the gentleman's committee have hearings on this?

Mr. EDWARDS. That does not fall within our jurisdiction.

Mr. SNYDER. Did the gentleman's committee have hearings on this bill?

Mr. EDWARDS. No, we have not.

Mr. SNYDER. Any hearings on the antiabortion amendment?

Mr. EDWARDS. No, we have not, but both of these items are under study by the committee.

Mr. SNYDER. But the committee has had time for a hearing on Woody Owl?

Mr. EDWARDS. Actually, we consented to the Department of Agriculture's request both in the interests of their environmental program and also partly because the entire matter did not take more than an hour of the committee's time.

Mr. SNYDER. The committee had to delay the impeachment proceedings

MAROONED INSIDE LABOR Meany Calls It 'Nonsense'

WASHINGTON — A strange phenomenon is seeping across the free world. And it's time to spotlight it: labor leaders abroad and some here believe the cure for social evils, including inflation, is to give union chiefs a piece of ownership action. In fact, a piece of ownership itself though they use the word co-management.

The proposal is simple — put the union officials on the corporate boards of directors. Free. Gratis. Simply because the union represents the workers in the plants.

In Britain, where I discussed it at length with national union officials and leaders of the governing Labor Party, they call it "industrial democracy." In Germany, it's called "co-management." In Norway, a total "strategy for change" inside society.

This phenomenon isn't just a conversation piece in intellectual circles. As AFL-CIO leader George Meany, who believes it to be pure "nonsense," said recently: "There isn't a prominent labor leader in Germany... that isn't on four or five boards."

And in Europe, learned of a worldwide International Labor Organization (ILO) conference on the subject held in Norway between Aug. 20 and 30. The U.S. was among the 60 tripartite national delegations sent to this Oslo "Symposium on Workers' Participation in Decisions Within Undertakings." No reference here to moving the bodies "Undertakings" is ILO jargon for businesses. Our delegation consisted of five men, most of them quite skeptical, including Chase Manhattan Bank's very knowledgeable Paul Shaw, vice president, employee relations; Bill (Wimpy) Wimpinger, general vice president of the AFL-CIO Machinists, a tough bargaining trade unionist; Paul Weinberg, director of employee relations, American Express Co. They were official U.S. Delegates to this conference called by the ILO's Labor Law and Labor Relations Branch, headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland.

Meany adds: "Co-determination is absolutely and completely out. It will not work."

"Now, how does it work in Germany? Well, Ludwig Rosenberg (former president of the German Labor Federation) was on seven boards of directors of German corporations... in the final analysis, I never saw a union that was worth a damn to workers unless it was free — completely and absolutely free. Free to make its mistakes, free to gain its experiences and free to mature as a lot of unions have."

Meany concluded that co-determination "doesn't do a damn thing, in my opinion, for the workers."

Nor for the corporations, so far as I have observed in over 50 lands I've visited, where there is some co-management even to a slight degree on the shop-floor or "workplace" level as the ILO thinkers put it.

But the "worker participation" thing is growing. All sorts of conferences (many of them for private profit run by promoters who wouldn't think of giving their employees "co-decision making") are cluttering up meeting halls.

Actually, as Meany points out, German co-determination started as a move there after the war to guarantee there'd be no repetition of Hitler's seizure of major corporations such

THE CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE Kennedy And The Nomination

By WILLIAM RUSHER

Senator Kennedy's announcement that he is not available for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976 sounded forthright and convincing. If he didn't use the word "irrevocable," it was probably an oversight. After all, short of committing suicide there is no way a man can make absolutely sure that he will not do a given thing in the future. The Kennedy disavowal was as definitive, as, in the nature of things, such assertions can be.

He was another of Watergate's many victims. As recently as a year ago he seemed the inevitable choice of his party, and very probably the next president of the United States. The Democrats' problem is a serious one: To bring under one tent the northeastern liberals, the Catholic bloc vote, the blue-collar union workers, the Deep South, the older ethnic minorities, and all but the outermost fringes of the New Left. This is a tall order indeed, and yet it seemed that Kennedy, and Kennedy alone, might just pull it off. The nomination, almost by common consent, was his for the asking.

But the events of the last twelve months, and the immense priority they have conferred on the virtue of candor, brought him down. At a time when the charge of "cover-up" was forcing the resignation of a president and the prosecution of his highest aides, the incubus of Chappaquiddick and all the unanswered questions concerning it proved simply too much to bear.

Which is not to say, by a long shot, that America has heard the last of Edward Kennedy. He is just 42 years old, and if Gerald Ford is reelected in 1976 Kennedy will still be only 48 when 1980 rolls around — very young, as presidents go. Alternatively, if some Democrat beats Ford in 1976 and insists upon re-election in 1980, Kennedy can still bide his time and run in 1984, at the age of 52. Meanwhile he has an absolutely safe seat in the Senate. In one sense, therefore, time is very much on his side.

All this assumes, however, that Kennedy doesn't drive off of any more bridges in the meantime. The point is not quite so flippant as it may sound. This scion of the House of Kennedy has a demonstrable knack of getting into (and, to be sure, out of) embarrassing scrapes.

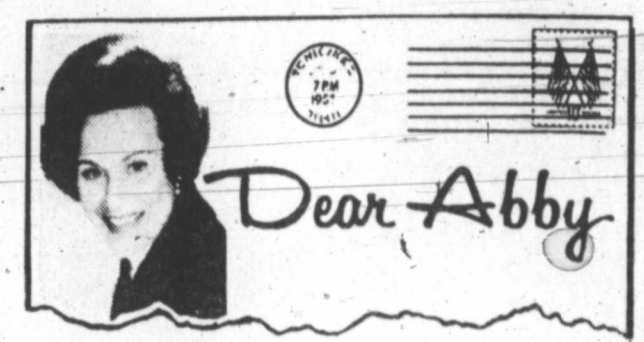

We may dismiss the Harvard cheating episode as too far back in the mists of time to bother anyone very much. But it was only in 1964 that Kennedy's light plane crashed in an apple orchard en route to a Massachusetts Democratic convention and he was pulled out of the wreckage amid a positive welter of greenbacks evidently destined for distribution to the faithful. And even since Chappaquiddick there has been enough smoke about his private life to indicate the probable presence of fire. It will not be easy for a man with Kennedy's track record to make his way through the next six or ten years, under the watchful eyes of the media, without affording further important ammunition to his critics.

Meanwhile the Democratic Party, released from its thrall to Kennedy, is looking afresh at the problem of 1976. External circumstances may come to its aid — a serious recession, say, or a deep split in the Republican Party. But it has not yet found a man who can do the crucial job of uniting the party nearly so well as it once seemed that Kennedy could. Senators Jackson and Bentsen are fatally unacceptable to the Democratic left, which retains the option of backing a splinter candidate if it doesn't like the convention's choice. Senator Mondale's support seems pretty well confined to the editorial board of the "New York Times" and Mrs. Mondale. There are various semi-anonymous Democratic governors around the South who are favorably mentioned from time to time, but reason whispers that they are all basically vice-presidential timber, if that.

Hugh Carey, the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, is something else again. He possesses many of Kennedy's strongest assets — Catholicism, Big Labor approval, a moderate liberal voting record, and family wealth — without Kennedy's accident-prone temperament. He may well prove to be what the Democrats are looking for, if he wins this November.

Give bully an out-of-school lesson

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: If someone tries to pick a fight with you at school and you have done everything you can to avoid a fight, but that person starts pushing you around, and you have to use force to defend yourself, do you think it's fair that the person who was trying to defend himself should get punished just the same as the troublemaker?

What is a person supposed to do when he is picked on by someone who is trying to get him into a fight? I am not going to just stand there and let him push me around. Fighting is against the rules on our school grounds.

UNFAIRLY PUNISHED

DEAR UN: When someone tries to provoke a fight by pushing you around, instead of pushing HIM around, report him to the authorities.

This may sound like the chicken's way out, but it's the only way to protect yourself from the punishment of breaking the "no fighting" rules at your school. (P.S. You might consider taking some lessons in self defense, and give that bully a surprise lesson in case he ever tries to push you around OFF the school grounds.)

DEAR ABBY: I read about that mother who never wanted children but she accidentally had two anyway. She said not all women were cut out to be mothers, and she was one of them.

She may be interested in my story: My husband and I always wanted a large family. Ten months after we were married I gave birth to a healthy baby boy. We couldn't wait to have more.

Twelve miscarriages later, I had another son. He was born dead.

A year later, I gave birth to another son. Eighteen months later, a third son was born, but we soon discovered that our second and third sons were both severely deaf.

They needed special education. After thousands of dollars worth of tutoring and much hard work, our two deaf sons are now able to talk nearly as well as our normal son. I wanted children desperately, and their being handicapped doesn't make us love them any less. Some handicaps can be overcome.

I hope that mother realizes that in her refusal to love her children she is handicapped. And I hope she overcomes her handicap before it handicaps her unloved children.

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS

DEAR LUCKY: Your children are lucky, too. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the young mother who had the courage to admit that she felt "stuck" with her two kids who were both accidents.

I have one child, but she wasn't an accident. I really wanted a child, but I soon realized that I wasn't cut out to be a mother. I have never abused my child, but I am positive that I do not want another one.

Now if my in-laws and friends would just leave me alone, and quit telling me how "wrong" it is to raise only one child, I would appreciate it.

And if this letter is printed, I hope my husband's family in New Jersey reads it and sees the light. Thank you.

ONE IS BEAUTIFUL IN N.Y.

DEAR ONE: Leave nothing so important to chance. Clip this column and mail it to them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. IN MINNEAPOLIS: Tell your husband that you'll lose ten pounds if he'll lose 20. I can't think of a better way to have a closer relationship.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

2 Men Struck By Lightning, Both Survive

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Lightning struck twice during a rare thunderstorm on the San Francisco Peninsula, and both men it hit lived to tell about it.

"I really thought I had died. It was like a truck ran over me. It went right through me," Arthur Sanchez, 22, said from his hospital bed Tuesday.
Sanchez, a roofer, was tarring the roof on an apartment house in Sunnyvale when the thunderstorm struck Monday. He heard a loud crack and felt the bolt of lightning hit his back.

"I'm dead," he said he thought. "The world's ending."
Three miles away and 32 minutes later, Lester Tikvica, 51, a fruit grower in Sunnyvale, Calif., was hitching a four-foot steel rod to his tractor when lightning struck him.

"I didn't know what it was. All I know is that I was out instantly."

PCA Meeting Planned Here

About 150 persons are expected to attend the Oct. 17 fall meeting of the Panhandle Police Communications Association to be held at the Coronado Inn.

Pampa Chief of Police Jim Conner will welcome the guests, who also will be addressed by several communications personnel from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas.

Among the subjects to be discussed are problems of dispatchers and high-band radio communications.
The event will open at 9 a.m. Following a noon luncheon, business sessions and election of officers will be held.

OLD METHOD STILL USED — Centuries old hand scoop method of harvesting cranberries is still used on bogs when ditch picking is done. Although modern mechanical machines clean level areas, when it comes to the final cleaning along the water canals near South Yarmouth, Mass., the age old method is employed. Ford Visit Delayed A Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's visit to Capitol Hill to testify about his pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon has been postponed one week because a Watergate cover-up jury would not have been locked up by the time of his testimony.

Presiding Judge John J. Sirica said through a spokesman meanwhile that he hoped to have a jury selected and sequestered by Friday in the trial of five of Nixon's closest aides.

Opening statements and initial testimony will not begin before next week.

Rep. William L. Hungate, D-Mo., chairman of a House Judiciary subcommittee, announced the postponement Tuesday after Sirica sent word a jury could not be sequestered by the time of Ford's scheduled testimony Thursday.

Ford now is scheduled to testify the following Thursday.

In a one-sentence statement Hungate said the postponement was made with White House concurrence and would "afford ample time for selection and sequestration of the Watergate jury."

Sirica continues questioning prospective jurors on the seventh day of the trial. He is doing so in closed court to avoid any more pre-trial publicity involving the conspiracy case of five of Nixon's former aides.

It was believed by many that Ford's testimony would add to the pre-trial publicity. After the jury is sequestered, however, it will not have access to Watergate news stories.

Some of the questions congressmen want to ask Ford are related to the same charges for which the five defendants have been indicted.

Man Surprised At Quints Birth Despite X-Ray

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Charles R. Rohrer Jr. had to be told twice when the physician said X-rays indicated his wife, Karen, might have five children.

"I still thought he was pulling my leg," Rohrer, a bakery worker, recalled after his 28-year-old wife gave birth Tuesday to four girls and a boy. "Then he brought back the X-ray and showed me."

The quintuplets, born six weeks early, were reported doing well at the University of Maryland hospital. Mrs. Rohrer, who took fertility drugs which have been linked previously to multiple births, also was reported doing fine.

Despite receiving the warning shortly before the multiple birth, hospital spokeswoman Terry Capp said Rohrer was "in a complete state of surprise and more or less in isolation."

Rohrer cancelled a planned news conference Tuesday although he was expected to meet with reporters today.

"He's very concerned about his wife and not used to all the publicity. And he's so tired. I have sympathy for him," Capp said.

Dr. Ronald Gutberlet, the hospital nursery director, said the babies all appeared healthy, despite minor respiratory problems in two of them.

"The two babies who had some mild distress have improved somewhat," Gutberlet said late Tuesday.

"Two of the babies, we have taken out their central catheters and they have received their first feeding. They tolerated it well."

The quintuplets, weighing from two pounds, three ounces to three pounds, nine ounces, were born by Caesarean section beginning at 5:23 a.m. Tuesday morning.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the City still is negotiating with representatives of the Solomon estate concerning property needed for the street extension.

AG DEPT. SAYS Some Vegetables In Shorter Supply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department predicts that production of 14 fall fresh market vegetables will be 12 per cent lower than last year, with snap beans, tomatoes and carrots showing the biggest production losses.

A report on the vegetable harvest potential for the next three months indicated higher production for cabbage, cauliflower, sweet corn, cucumbers, eggplant, escarole and spinach. In addition to tomatoes, snap beans and carrots, other vegetables that will be in shorter supply this fall are broccoli, celery, lettuce and green peppers.

Melon lovers will find this year's crop to be 14 per cent larger than last fall, with an estimated total production at 500,000 hundredweight. Cantaloupes account for most of the melon increase, but honeydew production is also up from last year.

Officials said 24 per cent fewer acres of snap beans were planted this year than in 1973, and the projected harvest of 497,000 hundredweight would be 21 per cent below last fall's crop.

About 13 per cent fewer acres of carrots were planted in 1974, and the production levels could be 19 per cent less than last fall. Tomato production was estimated to fall 22 per cent below the high yielding 1973 crop.

The fall broccoli crop of just over 1 million hundredweight would be about 7 per cent lower than 1973, while projected production estimates for lettuce show a 1974 crop that would be 19 per cent less than the crop last fall.

Green pepper production was expected to be about 8 per cent below a year ago.

Cauliflower production was expected to be 7 per cent higher than last year, and cabbage production will be 5 per cent higher. Sweet corn production may increase slightly from 1973.

Cucumber production should be up about 23 per cent this year, but celery production will fall from both 1972 and 1973 totals.

Fire Victims Fund Started

A young Pampa couple who recently suffered a serious financial setback have found that they have friends willing to help in such emergencies.

Friends of Mike and Sharon Cockrell, who lost their trailer home and contents in a fire Oct. 5, have asked that cash donations be made to assist the young people in getting a new start. Contents of the trailer were not insured.

Two Pampa business firms have agreed to accept cash donations to be forwarded to the Cockrells.

They are Gibson's Discount Center and Panhandle Savings and Loan.

Local Teachers Will Attend Regional Meet
 Mrs. Faye Watson, president, and 16 other members of the Beta Kappa Gamma, honor society for women teachers, plan to attend the regional meeting Oct. 12 in Dumas. Speaking on the topic, "Aim High," Mrs. Luginia Hale of Austin, state scholarship chairman, will give the keynote address. Mrs. Luginia Carter of Stratford is president of Gamma Xi, the host chapter. The convention program, opening with the Presidents Breakfast at 7:30 a.m., will tackle the regional theme of "Aim High," which Mrs. Carter said grew out of Delta Kappa Gamma's concern for today's changing world and the need "to strengthen the moral and spiritual values of all peoples, if we are to survive." Mrs. Hale will speak at the noon luncheon. After having taught school in Texas, Arkansas, Kansas, Japan and Germany, Mrs. Hale became a supervisor of student teachers for four summers at Rice University and one year at the University of Texas. To be more involved with her students, she became a dean of women for nine years. The mother of three children and grandmother of three, Mrs. Hale has been active in a number of professional organizations, including Texas State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Altrusa Club and Delta Kappa Gamma. Planning to attend from Pampa are Mmes. Watson, Ann DiCosimo, Betty Tom Graham, Marjorie Gaut, Essie Mae Walters, Willie Mae Mangold, Kay Hood, Wilsam Hill, Hazel Poole and Vera Mae Eubank. Mary Reeve, Rhetta Sue Durham, Myra Neil McLaughlin, Exa Pay Hutton, Nova Mayo, Eula Morris and Lillian Mulanax.

At Wit's End
 I addressed myself to a pair of feet waving like a flag from the clothes hamper. "What are you looking for?" I asked. "My brown corduroys," said my son. "They're dirty." "I know, but Dan is wearing his today. Where's my shirt?" "The clean ones are in your closet." "I want the T-shirt I tie-dyed in art class." "I've been dusting the piano with it." "Mom! C'mon, I'm going to be late." "Why can't you wear a clean one?" "Dan is going to wear his tie-dye." "Your hair looks funny. Can't you do something with that cowlick?" "I'll see if Dan wears his ... if not, I'll take it off. Where are my shoes?" "Where are they usually?" He thought a moment. "In the bathroom, under the bed, on the porch, in the car, in my locker, the bike basket, the school bus, the hall closet, the playground, the drugstore, or Dan's house." "Wear your good ones." "They got dust on them. You trying to make me look bad?" "Did you brush your teeth?" "No, Dan's not brushing his." "If I were Dan's mother, I'd lock him up on trash day for his own safety." "I think Dan looks neat." "Wait a minute, let me take a look at you," I said. "What's that pink around your mouth?" "Kool-Ade." "I didn't know you had Kool-Ade for breakfast." "Out!" I said, ordering him back to the bathroom. Minutes later he stood proudly before me, the picture of poverty in a pair of wrinkled corduroys, a tacky T-shirt, hair that looked like an unmade bed, and a pair of gym shoes with

BSP Sorority Holds Couples Rush Party

The theme was western and the place was Pam Cel Hall and the event was BSP. Rho Eta's couples Rush party. The membership committee and social committee, planned the dinner, served after Wanet Hill sang and played the guitar. The main dish was chili with an assortment of salad vegetables. Rho Eta's good cooks provided pies and cobblers for dessert. After dinner Ramona Houseman showed member and guests how to play Crazy Bridge. The door prize was won by guest, Marilyn Mitchell. High and low for the Crazy bridge were won by Bill Reader and Pam Crockett. Rho Eta guests were Carolyn and Dick Maxey, Karen Polansky, Nancy and Jim Sowers, Pam and Dick Crockett, Lisa and Melvin Maddux, Joe and Connie Holland, Marilyn and Robert Mitchell, Paula and Roy Webb, and Wantea and Richard Hill.

Bluebonnet Hostess

The Bluebonnet Home Demonstration club met recently in the home of Mrs. Clyde Gray. Mrs. Marie Boyd, vice president, conducted the business session. The meeting opened with the club prayer and roll call was answered with "my recipe that made a hit with the family." Mrs. Elaine Houston, County Extension Agent, spoke on "New Fall Fashion Trends," and she showed films on the different colors in materials. The group visited Mrs. E.N. Bozarth's shell collection and her hobby of making floral arrangements with sea shells. Mrs. Houston announced that a training workshop will be held in the annex on "Double Knit Scraps." Members present were Mmes. Marie Boyd, Jimmy Clifton, J.W. Dart, Clyde Gray, Tony Smith, Fred Drum, J.M. Thompson, Anita Thompson, Barney Gatlin, Francis Ellington and our guest, Mrs. Houston. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Francis Ellington for a luncheon.

Elegant Fall Neckties

NEW YORK (UPI) — Once upon a time neckties burst into flower in the spring, while fall neckties were dark and somber. That's all changed now and fall and winter ties this year are an unabashed explosion of color and pattern, tempered somewhat by a dash of elegance. Most of the ties remain at a width of 4 to 4 1/2 inches, but there is a new shape to cope with — the body hugging shirts which are usually called "Eurofit" by the manufacturers. This shape vaguely resembles a bottle and is narrower at the knot and spreads out to 5 inches at the bottom. The burst of color and pattern results in part from the fall and winter suit and shirt designs which more often than not emphasize solid and low keyed tone on tone patterns. So a man goes wild with his neckties — apple green, orange, shades of rust, fireman's red, jade, emerald and bright pink. For the conservative gentleman type there are still the old standbys — paisleys, stripes and all over club designs such as shields or lions' heads or some such. But for the avant garde which wears the Eurofit shirts you get such things as pictures, abstract designs and surrealist designs. The men's Tie Foundation, which keeps careful watch on such things, sums it up by saying there is something to match every man's life style, whether he is into formal three piece, pin striped business suits or wearing offbeat leisure suits usually consisting of a shirt-like jacket and pair of pants. Surface interest is strong this fall — meaning the necktie has a sort of three dimensional effect whether it is in stripes, clubs, polka dots or a simple overall design. If it is a design it is apt to be raised slightly to get away from the old flat look. Some of the more popular designs featured this fall are called "conversational," meaning that people will talk about them, usually asking "where did you get that?" If the emphasis is on the word "that," with a rising inflection, you know you've done something wrong. The harmonica was the first instrument to be played in outer space — astronaut Walter Schirra "smuggled" one aboard his Gemini VI space craft and played "Jingle Bells" to the delight of the entire world.

Adviser Attacks State Property School Taxes

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The governor's chief adviser on school finance says it is politically impossible to use a state property tax to make sure each public school district in Texas gets equal money to operate on.

Richard Hooker said Tuesday Gov. Dolph Briscoe would like to expand and improve the present program. But Hooker was roundly criticized by one member of the House subcommittee on school finance.

"I highly resent you saying that you can pool federal money but not local tax money," Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas, told Hooker. "People feel tax money is theirs whether it's federal or local."

Hooker had suggested that federal aid to education be handed to the state in a block grant and then parceled out to local districts by state authorities.

"It's just my judgment that local folks would object to your taking their ad valorem tax money and spending it in other districts," Hooker said. "I base my feelings on the way people feel about the ad valorem tax. If local folks had to finance the Pentagon out of local taxes, they'd have a lot less money up there."

Hooker, director of the governor's education office, said Briscoe favors expanding the basic program that the state finances for local districts, revamping formulas for allocating state aid, and establishing guidelines to require uniform property appraisals by local school districts.

Establishing uniform rules for determining the tax base of each local school district would solve many of the problems surrounding use of the current economic index to determine each local district's ability to finance its schools, Hooker said.

Hooker said any school finance equalization Texas achieves could be offset partially by continuing the present system of federal aid to particular school districts.

"There's $300 million annually that comes into Texas for public schools (from Washington). This flows to the school districts without any regard to the wealth of the local districts or their ability to support their education system," Hooker said.

On revamping formulas for state aid, Hooker said his recommendation to Briscoe calls for replacing the present system based on how many classroom teachers a local district qualifies for with a system based on the cost of educating the children in each district.

Explorers Help In Dog Surgery

Members of Explorer Post 488 assisted in emergency surgery Tuesday night on an injured dog.

The post was meeting at the Hendrick Animal Clinic, 1912 Alcock, when the dog, suffering cuts on one of its legs, was brought in.

Dr. Ron Hendrick allowed the members, who are interested in the veterinary field, to assist him in the surgery. The wound received successful treatment.

Members of the post sold hand crafted tiles at the Coronado Center flea market Saturday. They will sell more of the tiles at the Pampa Fine Arts Festival Oct. 12 - 13 at M.K. Brown Auditorium.

The explorer post meets on second and fourth Tuesdays, alternating between the Hendrick Animal Clinic on second Tuesdays and at members' homes on the fourth Tuesdays. The next meeting will be Oct. 22 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Beck, 1940 Fir.

"The small businessman must get money from the free enterprise system," Bentsen said Tuesday. "The federal reserve is a laying too long and too hard on the monetary system and that is being paid for by the consumer."

Bentsen appeared with Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., on a Public Broadcasting System debate on the economy. Their major disagreement was on government funding of state and local projects.

Brock said federal funds should not go for local crime prevention, education, housing or sewage. But Bentsen said some local projects, as mass transit, demand federal help because of their high costs.

"We're going to have to improve mass transit, and we're going to improve it," Bentsen said. "Not just rail service, which is not appropriate for most areas, but we ought to be looking at the buses."

Brock said stimulating the free enterprise system would help fight inflation and unemployment and help the small businessman.

ON ENERGY BOARD

Morton To Use Heavy Hand

HOUSTON (UPI) — Secretary of Interior Rogers C.B. Morton Tuesday said the newly created Energy Policy Board would coordinate other federal agencies in carrying out President Ford's energy proposals.

Morton, named chairman of the policy board, said a heavy hand may be needed to coordinate activities of all the agencies concerned.

"We will work for a minimum of overlap, minimum of delay and a minimum of confusion in implementing the programs to realize the goals the President outlined," Morton said at a news conference during the Society of Petroleum Engineers meeting.

Morton said conservation of energy was a major goal of the board.

"I don't think I want to commit murder or mayhem, but I think we ought to take a very strong position against waste and inefficiency," he said.

Morton backed the goals Ford outlined before Congress earlier Tuesday and said he favored the income surtax rather than a gasoline surtax to battle inflation. He was wearing a handmade stick-on tag with the single word "Win" which Ford said symbolized his energy and inflation mobilization program.

Morton said one of the first major goals of the board will be to push for deregulation of natural gas and the use of coal in place of gas and liquid petroleum products.

"What we are going to get to in this country is a position where we cannot be held hostage by oil producing nations," he said. "We need a good deal of legislative muscle, especially for the deregulation of natural gas. On the conservation side, hopefully we're going to get voluntary action."

Morton said that although gasoline rationing will probably not be needed, prices will not go down.

The farmers' housewives I've talked to seem to be upset about the costs — they don't understand it," he said. "The only thing we can do about costs is to increase the supply."

He said the policy board will keep a close eye on energy costs to make sure they are justified. He said money is needed by industry for new development.

WATER USAGE NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American uses 60 gallons of water each day for drinking, bathing and cleansing — or roughly 300 gallons for an average family, water experts at Ecdoyne Corp. say.

Hooker, director of the governor's education office, said Briscoe favors expanding the basic program that the state finances for local districts, revamping formulas for allocating state aid, and establishing guidelines to require uniform property appraisals by local school districts.

Establishing uniform rules for determining the tax base of each local school district would solve many of the problems surrounding use of the current economic index to determine each local district's ability to finance its schools, Hooker said.

Hooker said any school finance equalization Texas achieves could be offset partially by continuing the present system of federal aid to particular school districts.

"There's $300 million annually that comes into Texas for public schools (from Washington). This flows to the school districts without any regard to the wealth of the local districts or their ability to support their education system," Hooker said.

On revamping formulas for state aid, Hooker said his recommendation to Briscoe calls for replacing the present system based on how many classroom teachers a local district qualifies for with a system based on the cost of educating the children in each district.

Minister Finds Life 'An Oddity'

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (UPI) — The marks of Ernest Hewitt's life are upon him — a bent nose from his years as prize fighter and bouncer, the delicate hands of a croquet expert and a gentle satisfaction in his eyes from 20 years as a Methodist minister.

"It's an oddity that God would call me," he said. "A man with my background. The things I've been and done. Sometimes I can't believe it myself, how I got away with it."

One life led to the other, and he is now the Rev. Ernest Hewitt, pastor of the little St. Paul United Methodist Church, membership 168 "including about 30 children."

"It's a minimum salary church and most of my people are elderly," the Rev. Hewitt said. "Of course they have never done much, but we're getting them around. We have a nice little brick building, and it's paid for. It's got heating and cooling."

He learned needlepoint as a child, but did not do it much until he became a boxer.

"You see, I was the welterweight boxing champion of the U.S. Navy along in there," he said. "I was wound up pretty tight, you know, and my reflexes were razor sharp, and my trainer wanted me to do something to relax me and sort of quiet me down."

But boxing was the thing back in those days, the 30s and 40s.

He was a contender as a civilian for the world welterweight title, fighting under the name "Spider" Hewitt. He put in a considerable amount of time barnstorming as "Willie Fool." He fought 168 professional fights, winning 68 by knockouts and losing only seven times, never by a knockout.

His face at 61 years old does not reflect the loser — no cauliflower ears, no thick eyebrows, no scars, only the offset nose. He said he quit when promoters started asking him to carry an opponent, maybe for six rounds before ending the fight, or to "go to the tank" sometimes — take a dive.

He joined the Navy and came out with a disability discharge near the end of World War II and training as a machinist's mate. He had fought for 12 years when he hung up his gloves in 1942.

"You carry the marks of that kind of life," he said. "Bartender, bouncer, shipbuilder, house painter, fighter. Of course I have lots of things left to look back on, a lot of writeups to read about my fights. And I had lots of fun."

It was in the late 1940s that the Rev. Hewitt, living with his wife and two children in Florida, encountered personal problems which turned him to God.

"When I did let go and let God take hold of things, I got the right answer," he said.

At the age of 39, on Dec. 10, 1950, in the Southside Baptist Church in Jacksonville, Fla., Hewitt was baptized a Christian. Two years later, with only an eighth grade education, he entered East Texas Baptist College in Marshall, and graduated in two years and 11 months. His life from then to now has been dedicated to God.

Pittsburgh Keeps Alive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In the 13 seasons of Dodger Stadium, only one man has hit the ball out of the park. And he has done it twice.

That man is Willie Stargell, and the Pittsburgh Pirates' cruncher gets his share of timely hits, too. Backed into the corner by the Los Angeles Dodgers, the Pirates—and in particular Stargell—came out swinging in the first inning of the third game of the National League playoffs. "We just wanted to go out and get a jump on them," said the Pirate strongman after Pittsburgh averted playoff extinction by bombing the Dodgers 7-0 Tuesday.

"I felt that when I came to bat in the first inning, I had to drive in runs because it was one of the few opportunities we've had to score first in this series."

Stargell got the Pirates off to a 3-0 lead and Richie Hebner then extended it to a 5-0 advantage with first-inning homers off southpaw Doug Rau into the rightfield pavilion.

Jerry Reuss, beaten 3-0 by Sutton at Pittsburgh Saturday, is scheduled to go for the Pirates.

If the Pirates do win today, they'll go against 20-game winner Andy Messersmith Thursday. Messersmith, with the help of ubiquitous Mike Marshall, stopped the Pirates 5-3 Sunday.

Oakland's Money Man To Try To Wrap It Up

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Confident they have won the big one, the Oakland A's send "money man" Jim Hunter to the mound against the Baltimore Orioles today in an effort to clinch their third straight American League pennant.

Having beaten Jim Palmer, 1-0, on Vida Blue's brilliant two-hitter and Sal Bando's homer in Tuesday's vital third game, the two-time world champions need only one victory in the two remaining scheduled games to win the pennant. They would be the first to win three straight pennants since the great New York Yankee teams of the early 1960s.

As close as they are to scoring a triumph which would entitle them to be ranked among the great teams in AL history, the A's were still fussin' and feudin' among themselves.

Angered at being removed from Tuesday's game for a pinch-runner in the seventh inning, first baseman Gene Tenace sharply criticized Manager Alvin Dark for the move and hinted it was made to satisfy Oakland owner Charlie Finley, who introduced Herb Washington as a designated runner to baseball, instead of for sound strategic reasons.

Texas A&I Number 1

NEW YORK (UPI) — Texas A&I, which has ended winning streaks of 13 and 11 games in successive weeks, finally climbed into the United Press International Board of Coaches' small college football ratings.

Louisiana Tech continued as the top-ranked team, but the Javelinas captured the No. 15 position after handing previously-ranked Stephen F. Austin its first loss of the season and its first in 11 games Saturday.

The previous week the Javelinas had snapped 10th-ranked Abilene Christian's 13-game winning streak. Texas A&I is now 4-0 after a 2-8 season last year.

Louisiana Tech captured 19 of 35 first-place votes for a total of 314 points. Second-place Western Kentucky totaled 270.

Nevada-Las Vegas climbed from seventh to fifth with its fourth straight victory of the year.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Bobby Cowan, the backup to injured starting running back Mike Luttrell, has hurt a knee. Coach Jim Shofner of Texas Christian said Tuesday.

"We don't know the extent of Bobby's injury," Shofner said. "But we think he has reinjured some scar tissue from a knee operation he had last year."

Luttrell injured the knee in last week's loss to Arkansas and is questionable for Saturday's conference game with Southern Methodist.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Defensive tackle Doug English and tight end Tommy Ingram returned to the Texas Longhorns' practice Tuesday but two running backs missed the drills. Coach Darrell Royal said.

Running backs Don Burris and Joe Aboussie both were out with leg injuries.

English busted a blood vessel in his foot in last week's victory over Washington and practiced Tuesday in oversized tennis shoes. Ingram broke a thumb last month against Wyoming and missed two games.

Tight end Joe Samford, out last week with a muscle pull, returned to practice. The Longhorns meet Oklahoma Saturday at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Landry Quiet Sunday About Game's Officials

United Press International This was a few years ago and Texas Longhorn coach Darrell Royal was involved in discussions right after his club had prevailed after a tough afternoon against Southern Methodist.

And the conversation drifted around to officiating. It seemed that during the game there was a close interference call that went against the Longhorns and gave SMU a good scoring opportunity.

"You know," said Royal. "I ran down the sidelines and started yelling to the official, 'did he interfere, did he interfere.' That was a silly thing to do. The referee set the ball on the ground down there and told them to start playing. That's all that matters."

Royal's remarks were remembered Tuesday when Dallas Cowboy coach Tom Landry chose not to prolong the controversy over a series of close calls that went against his team last Sunday and led to a 23-21 Minnesota win.

"There were a lot of plays that went against us," Landry said. "That was unfortunate. But that is history now. I'd like to discuss St. Louis (a team Dallas must face next Sunday) and our team. But I don't want to discuss Minnesota."

Landry was prompted to outline the process by which an NFL team gives its critique of officials to the league office.

"We send films and fill out a report for Art McNally (supervisor of officials) and his crew," Landry said. "That is a good procedure."

The bitter loss to the Vikings on Fred Cox' last second field goal put Dallas three games back of the undefeated Cardinals in the NFC East, and although the Cowboys have found themselves in a stress situation at some point in the season for the past several years, Landry said things were a lot worse this year.

"People have said that we have been in this same situation before," said Landry. "But it isn't the same. Before we have had some good things happen early in the season and then hit a slump in the middle of the year."

"This year we haven't had those good things happen. We must put it together as a team from now on."

Landry, however, was optimistic.

"It is all before us, still," he said. "Our next four games are against division clubs. We can do it all ourselves. We don't have to have any help from anybody else."

And what if Dallas loses to St. Louis and falls four games back of the division leading Cardinals?

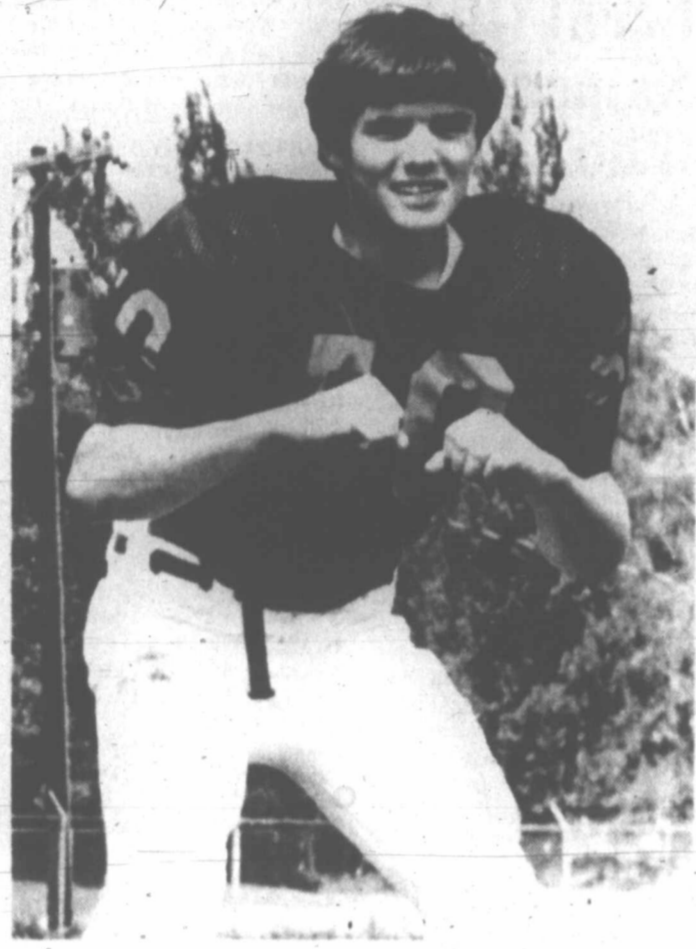

"We could still be 10-4," Landry said. "We have won 10 in a row before and we can do it again."

Lucious' Baby Brother Emotional About 'Horns

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The Texas football game being the emotional experience it always is, Dewey Selmon would just as soon work on the techniques of his new job a little longer.

Dewey has been moved to noseguard in the Oklahoma defense this fall, to fill the gap left by graduation of his all-American brother, Lucious.

"I'd rather have another game before Texas," Dewey said Tuesday. "This is our biggest challenge so far, no doubt about that."

But the pattern set by his older brother is a big help and fans in the Cotton Bowl this Saturday aren't likely to notice much difference.

"I look at films of Lucious a whole lot," he said. "The Texas game of last year marked the first time three Selmon brothers started in the Sooner defensive line. Dewey and LeRoy were the tackles."

"Up until about a week ago I liked defensive tackle better," Dewey Selmon said. "But it's coming around to me now I just hope to get better at it."

Because the last two Sooner games have been runaways, with reserves getting most of the work, Dewey hasn't had much game experience in the middle of the defensive line.

Dewey, 6-1 and 248, will have a different Longhorn across the line from him this year in center Bob Tresch, an offensive tackle last year. His brother LeRoy, 6-2 and 259, will face offensive tackle bob Simmons, who played opposite Dewey last year.

Ecomet Anchoring Defense As Junior For Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Football folks usually choose not to run at the left side of the Texas Tech defense, and coach Jim Carlen is quick to say the main reason is tackle Ecomet Burley.

"Every week we expect him to put on his cape and fly across the stadium," says Carlen. "That's just how good he is. We're to the point that we expect him to make the big plays instead of hope he does."

Burley, a 5-11, 230 pound junior, is no newcomer to defense. He's been a defensive tackle since he started playing the game back at Lufkin, Tex., high school. His dad is an elementary school principal back home, and Ecomet got an early start at the game.

"The defense gets its recognition," Burley says. "If you get through and drop the offensive man for a loss people notice it. They also notice when you don't fill your hole and the offensive man makes yardage right over you."

An articulate fellow who speaks in a soft tone voice the bulky tackle admits a large part of the game plan by the four-teams Texas Tech has played this year has been to the weak side—or the other side of the field from him.

"The main thing for me to do is to be prepared for anything," he says. "It's really been hard for me to judge my performance so far this year, because our opponents haven't run to my side much.

"This has called for me to then perseu across the field and make tackles on the other side," he said. "But, I've still got to be prepared, because I look for the next play to come straight at me."

Burley certainly wouldn't be surprised to see that happen this week when Texas Tech puts its 3-0-1 mark against Texas A&M (3-1) in a national televised Southwest Conference game at College Station.

"I had a real good game against the Aggies last year, and they may want to run at me a lot this time," he said. "They are big across the line, and their two biggest men—Billy Lemons (280) and Dennis Smelser (260) are on my side. I look for them to run my way. I've just got to get prepared and be ready for anything."

Carlen says Burley hasn't had a bad game all season, and his strength on the Raider defense has helped Texas Tech to its current ranking as the seventh team in the nation.

"When a play makes as many big plays as Ecomet does, you stop thinking of them as big plays and start expecting him to do it every time," Carlen said. "That's not fair to him, but it becomes habit forming."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10
Your birthday today: For some groups, this is a day of historic commemoration. A life begun today is full of strong emotions, high skills, your year ahead is exciting, rewarding in proportion to the energy you put in. Relationships improve after a period of difficult candor. Today's natives work hard, often pursue mystical goals.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Make full use of the fallout from the first half of the week. Close-out matters that are pending. Do something special for your loved one.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Despite differences of opinion, you can accomplish a great deal for yourself. Possessions can be increased in value. Sentimental ventures thrive.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Rapport is your guideline. Forgive the shortcomings.

lapses of communication among associates, continue to do your best. Celebrate in later hours.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You're fairly free to spend money you've saved and earmarked for special projects. It's easier to get agreement among influential people.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Let your real feelings show. Abandon temporary positions recently adopted, seek new cooperation. Help from relatives is available if you go after it.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Continue looking for information by careful listening, sensible questions. Conflicting ventures complicate your personal life.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Haste saves nothing. Reflect a moment, then take the basic step; the rest will happen naturally. Above all, sign no long-term papers today.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Estimates, yes; final figures, no. Recruit the help of well-placed friends, make a new try at resolving old problems. Repay past favors.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: With due care, you make progress today. Ask for whatever rewards you've earned. Don't forget your friends, anybody who has been helpful.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Again the keenest source of guidance is your own intuition invoked by deep meditation. Clear up business details first; play later.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Disagreement now crops up on any cooperative effort you have under way. See that it gets no worse, mainly by leaving out personalities.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Expect critical comments from all sides. Before you do an about-face, find out what motivated them. Go on in good spirits, ask help where you need it.

TO DEMAND REASONS Briscoe Authority Asked For Spurr

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who said last month he wanted a full explanation of the firing of University of Texas-Austin President Stephen H. Spurr, has been asked by the school's student president to use his constitutional power to force UT regents to divulge the basis of the dismissal.

"If the governor was seriously concerned at the time he made his statements, he should use the authority at his command and see that all the information is brought to the surface so that the people of this state will know the true reasons behind the action that shocked this campus two weeks ago," student president Frank Fleming of Dallas said Tuesday.

The regents have refused to make public the reasons since Chancellor Charles A. LeMaistre fired Spurr Sept. 14.

Fleming said Briscoe may require the regents to submit testimony under oath and in writing stating the reasons for Spurr's dismissal. Briscoe has such power under Article 4, Section 24 of the Texas Constitution, Fleming said.

That section says in part "the governor may, at any time, require information in writing from any and all officers and managers of state institutions upon any subject relating to the duties, conditions, management and expenses of their respective offices and institutions, which information shall be required by the governor under oath."

The section provides penalties for removal if the state officer refuses to cooperate or commits perjury in responding to the governor.

"There has to be a complete and full explanation (of the firing)," Briscoe said on Sept. 27.

Fleming said he was concerned that Briscoe, who has been campaigning for reelection, has said nothing since Sept. 27.

Regents' Chairman A.G. McNeese of Houston said Sept. 26 the reasons why Spurr was fired won't be made public because he said the public is in no position to evaluate the reasons. He said there is "no particle of difference" between the board of regents and the board of a private corporation.

"Any state board must expect to explain and justify its actions to its stockholders, the people of Texas," Briscoe said Sept. 27, "just as any private board would have to justify its actions to its stockholders."

Frank Erwin Arrested On DWI Charges

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Frank C. Erwin Jr., a University of Texas regent, has been arrested for the second time in two years on charges of drunken driving.

Police officer John Mitchell said Erwin's car almost slammed head-on into his patrol unit at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday. He said Erwin's car was traveling the wrong way on a one-way street and made a wide turn into the wrong lane of a two-way street. Erwin's car weaved across the center line for five blocks and Erwin staggered and slurred his speech, Mitchell said.

Erwin refused to take a breathalyzer test and was jailed, Mitchell said. He appeared before a municipal judge a few hours later and was released on $300 bond.

Erwin said he had consumed some wine at a club but was innocent of the charge. In 1972 Erwin was arrested on drunken driving charges but found innocent in a jury trial moved to Belton because of publicity. He said he would ask for a jury trial on the latest charge.

Travis County records show Erwin has been arrested eight times since 1962 on traffic offenses that include speeding (four times), driving without a license, running a stop sign and drunken driving. All were dismissed except the 1972 drunken driving charge.

Local Girl Named To Who's Who

A Pampa High School senior has joined others in being selected for inclusion in the 8th annual edition of Who's Who among American High School Students, 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Brenda Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lee, 208 Tignor, is active in the Harvester Band, Junior Classical League and National Honor Society.

Student from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the nation are recognized for leadership in academics, athletics or community service in the book. Less than 3 percent of the junior and senior class students nation-wide are awarded the honor.

In addition to having her biography published in the book, Miss Lee will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual survey of high achievers.

Miss Lee plans to attend West Texas State University upon graduation.

Regardless of the pros and cons on wiretapping, 812 court approved taps last year produced 2,306 arrests and 409 convictions, says Advance Industrial Security, Inc.

Mainly About Wheeler

By RENA SIVAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fulks, Mr. and Mrs. David Turner and daughters of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Turner and family of Shamrock, Mrs. Sylvia Cross and Jay Swetnam, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Swetnam of Amarillo, have been here visiting with their father, Jess Swetnam, who is a patient in the Parkview Hospital and with their sister, Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Sivage of Midland came last week and picked up his mother and father. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sivage and they motored to Dallas where they visited in the home of their son and grandson, Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Sivage and little Amy. The Olaf Sivages then came back and spent a week with his parents before returning to their home in Midland.

and Lois Baumgartner, all of Hayes, South Dakota, and Mr. and Mrs. R.O. Johnson of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Johnson of Corpus Christi; and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Jochetz. Mrs. Irene Sivage remained for an extended visit with the Harold Sivages. Harold was dismissed Monday from a three weeks stay in the Parkview Hospital and is reported to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Childress had a family reunion at the Club House on Alexander Ranch recently. Those attending were Bar Childress and family, Helen Dyson, Weynola Sanders and family, Kenneth Childress and family, Carroll Ronney and family. The grandchildren there were Wayne Childress and family, Janice Helen Berry and family, Kathy Hunt and family. Seven out of the eight children were there. Red Childress is in Germany, J.T. and Maybell Childress visited in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Normal Dyer and Betty Ann and Mrs. Evelyn Elliott and children visited Sunday in Allison with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank George and attended Church there.

Dorman Thomas transacted business in Austin the first part of the week. Jodie Thomas is a patient in the Parkview Hospital. We wish for Jodie a speedy recovery. Mrs. Charlie Whiteley spent last week in Fort Worth with her son Kenneth Whiteley and family. Mrs. Whiteley's brother from Wisconsin came by on his way to Fort Worth to a convention and she accompanied him.

George Hefley, Hester Dodson and W.O. Pendleton were given plaques at a reception given by the courthouse crew held last Thursday. A plaque was also presented to Helen Franklin, former employee of the Tax office. Judge Hefley has served 34 years as a county official. Pendleton has served 24 years as County Commissioner and Hester Dodson has worked in the tax office for 27 years. Helen Franklin worked in the tax office for 17 years, before retiring because of ill health. Hester was also presented an engraved pen and pencil set from his co-workers.

October 14th is the date to remember if you have an old junker that needs to be removed. A unit will be in Wheeler on the 14th to remove old automobiles. There will be no charge for this service.

Home furnishings specialists suggest that furniture glides or cups be used to prevent heavy pieces of furniture from putting permanent indentations in carpets.

She Gets Worried Over Sugar Level

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am pregnant with my second child. Shortly after my first son's birth I became very nervous, weak and dizzy and thought I was "cracking up."
A doctor suggested a six-hour glucose tolerance test and found I have low blood sugar. I quit eating sugar immediately and within two weeks I was much better. I am still eating no sugar but my obstetrician doesn't seem to know much about it. He says I need to eat sugar and I know I can't.

heart attack or cancer or gunshot wound or broken neck. Emphysema is not a germ-borne disease. Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances.

Social Security Q & A

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 N. Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By H.L. WEATHERLY
Q. My mother recently received notice of denial on her application for Supplemental Security Income, because she receives too much unearned income.

The only income she has is her $118 a month social security check. If I didn't let her live in a house I own, she just couldn't make it. What is the limit on income?

A. An individual is not eligible if she has unearned income (income other than wages or self-employment income) of $166 a month or more. In addition to your mother's social security check of $118, we must consider the rental value of the home which you furnish rent free.

Since the rental value of the house is more than $18 a month, her income exceeds $166.

Q. I married young and have never worked under social security because I have children at home. The youngest child is now in school and I want to get a job. What do I need to get a social security card?

A. New regulations require that persons over age 18 furnish proof of age, identity and citizenship when applying for a number for the first time. Age can usually be proved with a birth or baptism certificate.

To prove identity you may use a driver's license, voter's registration or some similar document. If you were born in the United States, citizenship is usually established by the documents you submit as proof of age and identity.

Q. I am in my second year of high school and I plan to seek summer work. When should I apply for a social security card?

A. Anyone in need of a social security card should apply well in advance since it takes from six to eight weeks to obtain a card.

Body Tissues Can Grow Into New Material

DALLAS (UPI) — A Houston orthopedic researcher has developed an artificial implant material which, four years of human tests show, permits body tissue to grow into it without rejection.

The material, known as Proplast, has been used in facial bone supplementation, filling mastoid cavities and in surgery that aids in support of insecure dentures, according to its Philadelphia firm marketing it.

The SmithKline Corporation said Proplast was a felt-like composition of Teflon and carbon fibers with an open pore structure which encouraged tissue growth to the center of the implant.

"Five years of animal studies have shown that tissue ingrowth with Proplast is sufficient to stabilize an implant three to six weeks after implantation," the marketing firm said Monday at the annual convention of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

The material reportedly can be used as a bulk implant for bony tissue augmentation and has been used successfully in clinical trials in applications involving parts of the bony structure of the face, jaw and ear.

"Proplast also can aid persons with ill-fitting dentures caused by a loss of the bony ridge which supports the denture," SmithKline said. "It is estimated that 2.5 to 3 million denture wearers in the United States have this type of problem."

"In plastic surgery, Proplast has been used in the repair of facial bone defects, regardless of whether the defects were caused by congenital anomalies or traumatic injury."

Proplast was developed by Dr. Charles Homsy, of the Prosthesis Research Laboratory of Methodist Hospital, Houston.

Pennsylvania is split nearly down the middle politically.

Bogus Operators Swindling Elderly Texans

AUSTIN — State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie today said fast-talking, high-pressure operators are at work swindling elderly Texans through bogus insurance deals.

Christie said a pre-trial hearing recently of two salesmen in Cuero refocused attention to false and deceptive sales practices and gimmicked-up schemes that could spread through the state.

Raymond Kelsie Townsend, 47, of Hurst and John Lee Bradley, 49, of Fort Worth face charges in DeWitt County for felony theft.

Christie said Wiley Cheatham, the district attorney in DeWitt County, reported Charles Anthony Smith, 24, of Fort Worth and Norman Paul Cowart, 32, also of Fort Worth, have been jailed on a total of five counts of felony theft.

Christie said the State Insurance Board would cooperate with law enforcement officials in providing technical assistance on insurance matters in the prosecution of criminal charges.

He said the Board would also take disciplinary action under the Texas Insurance Code for alleged violations of licensing and sales regulations.

"We are going to take a cold glance at the behind the scenes approaches of these smooth operators with corkscrew rhetoric and the companies they supposed to represent."

Law enforcement officials in Victoria have also reported that two elderly residents were defrauded of more than $1,500 in an insurance swindle.

"We have reports that men represented themselves as agents and sold hospitalization and medical insurance as well as an 'automobile warranty plan' which supposedly covers all repairs done to the victims auto for a number of years," Christie said.

He said, "salesmen have also conned victims into believing that they represented legitimate agricultural concerns with the use of picturesque, canned sales pitches describing potential insurance benefits to farmers and ranchers."

Christie said that reports of "twisting" policies — replacing existing ones with new ones of dubious values — will also be investigated. "I hope that the local prosecutors will not be soft-hearted with those who exploit the elderly or cajole consumers into quick purchases. The Board intends to put a stop to 'policies' that are as funny as the paper they are written on and to the con men preying on unwary citizens."

Christie said those who think they may have been swindled through bogus insurance deals should contact either the State Insurance Board or local law enforcement officials.

More than 5,000 workers were employed to build a replica of the Alamo on a ranch near Brackettville in Kinney County, Tex., for the movie "The Alamo."

IN PANHANDLE Senior Citizens Center's Manager Set To Retire

PANHANDLE — After 10½ years of service, Maurice Garner is retiring as manager of Garretson Senior Citizens Center in Panhandle. His retirement will be effective Nov. 1, 1974.

On Oct. 28, at 6 p.m. the board of trustees will host an appreciation dinner at the center honoring Garner.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Garner and trustees and their spouses, center employees and residents will also be in attendance. The dinner will take the place of the annual Thanksgiving dinner usually held at the center.

Garner was hired Jan. 1, 1964, as the first manager of the new center, which was not quite ready for occupancy. During the first months of that year he helped supervise the furnishing of the center, and later, on April 15, 1964, was on hand at the formal opening to welcome George Sims and Mrs. T.B. Ramey, the center's first residents.

Since that time, approximately 68 persons have considered the center their "home away from home," and Garner has shown his love and concern for each and every one of them in many ways.

"His devotion and faithful service to and for the center during the past 10½ years is well known, and such loyalty is to be commended," one of the trustees said.

On or before Nov. 1, the board of trustees will name a new manager to fill the vacancy created by Garner's retirement. A public announcement naming the new manager will be made in the near future.

Plans are also being made to shorten the center's name

MAURICE GARNER
10½ years of service to Garretson Manor. Other changes are also being anticipated, such as age limit, etc., in an effort to make the facilities available to more people.
