Judge Orders Delay On Tapes Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge has ordered the government to delay any final agreement on turning over to former President Richard M. Nixon any of his

White House tapes and documents. U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey Monday heard testimony from a group of historians and reporters asking for a temporary restraining order on the turnover. Nixon's attorney, J. Herbert Miller, argued the former president needed access to the material. Richey, admitting no one would be satisfied with his ruling, said Nixon, now recuperating from phlebitis at San Clemente, Calif., can use his documents—still in Washington—for the sole purpose to prepare any testimony which he might give in the Watergate cover-up trial.

He (Nixon) shall be allowed to make copies," Richey ruled. Judge John J. Sirica has asked for a medical report in three weeks on Nixon's condition and his ability to appear in court at the Watergate cover-up trial.

The executive director of the American Historical Society said today his group "in general" had no political reasons for seeking a delay in the agreement.

"Our interest really is in the preservation of those papers to make sure that historians, political scientists and others will have access to them in the course of discharging their responsibilities as historians," said Mack Thompson on the NBC Today show.

Prevented the General Services Administration, the federal agency supervising the materials, from disclosing, transferring, disposing or otherwise making known to any person, be he private citizen or public official.

Dean's Credibility Crucial To Claims For Haldeman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III testified today that H.R. Haldeman tried to stop him from going to federal prosecutors in the waning days of the Watergate cover-up by saying that "once the toothpaste is out of the tube, it's going to be very hard to get it back in."

Dean, formerly President Richard M. Nixon's counsel and now the Watergate prosecution's star witness, testified during his fifth day on the stand about events in the White House in late March and April, 1973, when the cover-up began to unravel. Chief trial prosecutor James F. Neal was expected to complete his direct questioning of Dean early in the day, opening the way for Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, to cross-examine.

Haldeman, Nixon's former chief of staff, and four other former Nixon associates are on trial in the cover-up. William S. Frates, lawyer for former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman, told U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica that Dean's credibility "is the crucial thing in this case, as far as my client is concerned."

Much of Dean's testimony was word for word what he gave at the nationally televised Senate Watergate hearings in June, 1973. Dean recalled that he talked to Haldeman in California on April 8, 1973, shortly before he met with the Watergate prosecutors.

"John," Dean quoted Haldeman as telling him, "I think you ought to think about that before you do it."

Dean said he received a telephone call March 23 from Nixon, who said, "Well, John, you are right in your prediction that someone was going to break rank"—meaning that someone was going to destroy the cover-up.

He said Nixon was referring to a letter that Sirica had just received from one of the original Watergate defendants, James W. McCord Jr., saying that others were involved in Watergate.

Fog Moves In: Rain Predicted

Moderate to heavy fog covered the Panhandle this morning and weather forecasters were predicting rain beginning sometime today and continuing through Friday.

A mild 55 was recorded as the low temperature in Pampa last night. The high yesterday was 69 with 63 the projected high for today. Weather forecasts called for 60 percent chance of rain today and tomorrow.

Warm humid air surged across Texas today bringing with it scattered rainstorms in the northwestern half of the state and the Texas Hill Country.

Rainstorms were reported by radar stations over North Texas between Sherman, Waco and Abilene. Showers also were scattered across the Hill Country west of San Antonio and over West Central Texas near Midland. Scattered thundershowers struck the Plains and the Panhandle from Lubbock to near Amarillo.

Skies were cloudy from the Lower Rio Grande Valley to the Panhandle where temperatures ranged in the 50s and 60s because of the moist flow of air from the Gulf of Mexico.

Early morning temperatures were in the 50s under clear to partly cloudy skies over central and eastern sections of the state.

Rain and snow pestered the Rockies and thundershowers plagued portions of Texas today.

A Western storm system spread rain and snow over the central Rockies and scattered thundershowers stretched from central and western Texas into New Mexico and Arizona.

Assault Trial Starts Today

Trial by jury in the case of Victor Rodriguez, Pampa, charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, began in 31st District Court at 10 a.m. today.

Rodriguez was charged following an April 27, 1974, incident which resulted in a gunshot wound sustained by Manuel Sosa Zamora, 30, also of Pampa.

According to police reports of the incident, the alleged offense occurred during a wedding reception at the St. Vincent Parish Hall.

An unidentified caller alerted police a fight was in progress at the hall shortly before midnight. About the same time, Zamora arrived, according to records, at the emergency room of Highland General Hospital.

Zamora was treated at the facility before being transferred to Amarillo for further care.

Witnesses at the scene reportedly identified Rodriguez as the gunman.

He was booked on charges of intoxication and aggravated assault early April 28, according to police records of the incident.

Testimony in the case was expected to be completed today, according to the office of District Attorney Guy Hardin.

Judge Doesn't Want War Debate

CLEVELAND (UPI) — With selection of jurors underway, the judge in the Kent State trial said Monday the case only involves eight former National Guardsmen charged with killing four students and wounding nine others, and should not be used as a forum to debate the Vietnam War.

"The entire Ohio National Guard is not on trial here, just certain members of it," said Chief U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti in recessing court Monday. "The Kent State University student body is not on trial. The legality of the Vietnam War is not on trial."

The shootings occurred May 4, 1970 during a student protest of the war. Two jurors were chosen Monday, the opening day. Battisti predicted the trial would take about six weeks and urged defense and government attorneys to speed up. Earlier the judge had read the indictments returned last April by a federal grand jury to the panel of prospective jurors and then cautioned them "the indictment is not any evidence whatever against the defendants."

"The government has the burden of proof—that burden never shifts to the defense," Battisti said. "Each defendant is presumed innocent until the government proves it's case beyond a reasonable doubt in the mind of each juror."

Five defendants—William E. Perkins, 28, Canton, Ohio; James E. Pierce, 29, Amelia Island, Fla.; Ralph W. Zoller, 27, Mahtua, Ohio; and James D. McGee, 27, and Lawrence A. Shafer, 29, both of Ravenna, Ohio—face maximum sentences of life imprisonment if convicted in the deaths of four students demonstrating against the Southeast Asia war.

Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City, Ohio; Mathew J. McManus, 29, West Salem, Ohio; and Barry W. Morris, 29, Kent, Ohio, could be sentenced to up to one year imprisonment and fined up to $1,000 if found guilty.

CLOSING BITTER RIFT

United Press International Arab foreign ministers met in Rabat, Morocco, today to lay the groundwork for a summit conference to work out a joint policy toward peace talks with Israel.

Arab sources said the ministers had to heal a bitter rift between Jordan and the Palestine Liberation Organization over refugee representation before tackling the quarter-century conflict with Israel.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Ha'aretz today reported that King Hussein has warned that if the summit recognizes the PLO as the sole representative of all Palestinians, Jordan will drop all responsibility for the occupied West Bank.

The newspaper quoted sources "close to ruling circles in Jordan" as saying Hussein threatened to cut off grants and loans to West Bank towns and organizations and stop paying former Jordanian civil servants in the West Bank.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Monday Israel's "only hope for peace" was in giving up the occupied West Bank region, captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East War.

Rabin told a Tel Aviv dinner his government would take the "calculated risk" of giving the West Bank back to Jordan if Israeli voters approve.

French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues met with PLO leader Yasser Arafat in Beirut Monday while Israeli air force jets roared overhead, creating sonic booms that rattled windows in the Lebanese capital.

Sauvagnargues, the first Western foreign minister to meet with the guerrilla chief, was asked afterward whether he advised the guerrilla leader to curb the violence of his followers.

"The way to end this violence is to have them assume international responsibility," Sauvagnargues said. He said he told Arafat the PLO "should concentrate its activities in the political field."

Arab League officials said 15 foreign ministers were meeting in Rabat to draw up an agenda for Saturday's summit talks involving 20 Middle-East heads of state as well as the PLO leader.

Public Works Department Studies Traffic Hazards

An in-depth study of "blind corners" and other traffic hazards in Pampa is being made by the public works and engineering departments at City Hall. City Manager Mack Wofford said today.

As one step in that direction, Mayor R.D. Wilkerson today asked that an ordinance be prepared to include a recommendation of the City Traffic Commission to prohibit parking on N. Ballard St. From Browning St. to Sunset Drive.

The recommendation was presented to city commissioners in a letter from Floyd Sackett, chairman of the Traffic Commission.

Public Works Department Studies Traffic Hazards

The city manager said when the traffic hazard study is completed, recommendations will be made to the City Commission and an educational campaign will be initiated to get cooperation of Pampa residents and motorists.

At today's regular semi-monthly meeting city commissioners: Set Nov. 12 at 9:30 a.m. for a public hearing on two proposed zoning changes. One would change a 300 sq. ft. block just south of Pampa Nursing Center on W. Kentucky from agricultural to retail and the other would change a portion of the NE

4 of Sec. 115, Block 3 in the Kalene North Addition west of N. Wells and south of Somerville from agricultural to multi-family.

NO NEW VIEWS
Ford, Echeverria Conclude Meeting

TUBAC, Ariz. (UPI) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria told President Ford Monday the United States will get no special benefit from the big, new oil strikes in his country, and Ford told Echeverria the U.S. attitude toward Cuba remains unchanged.

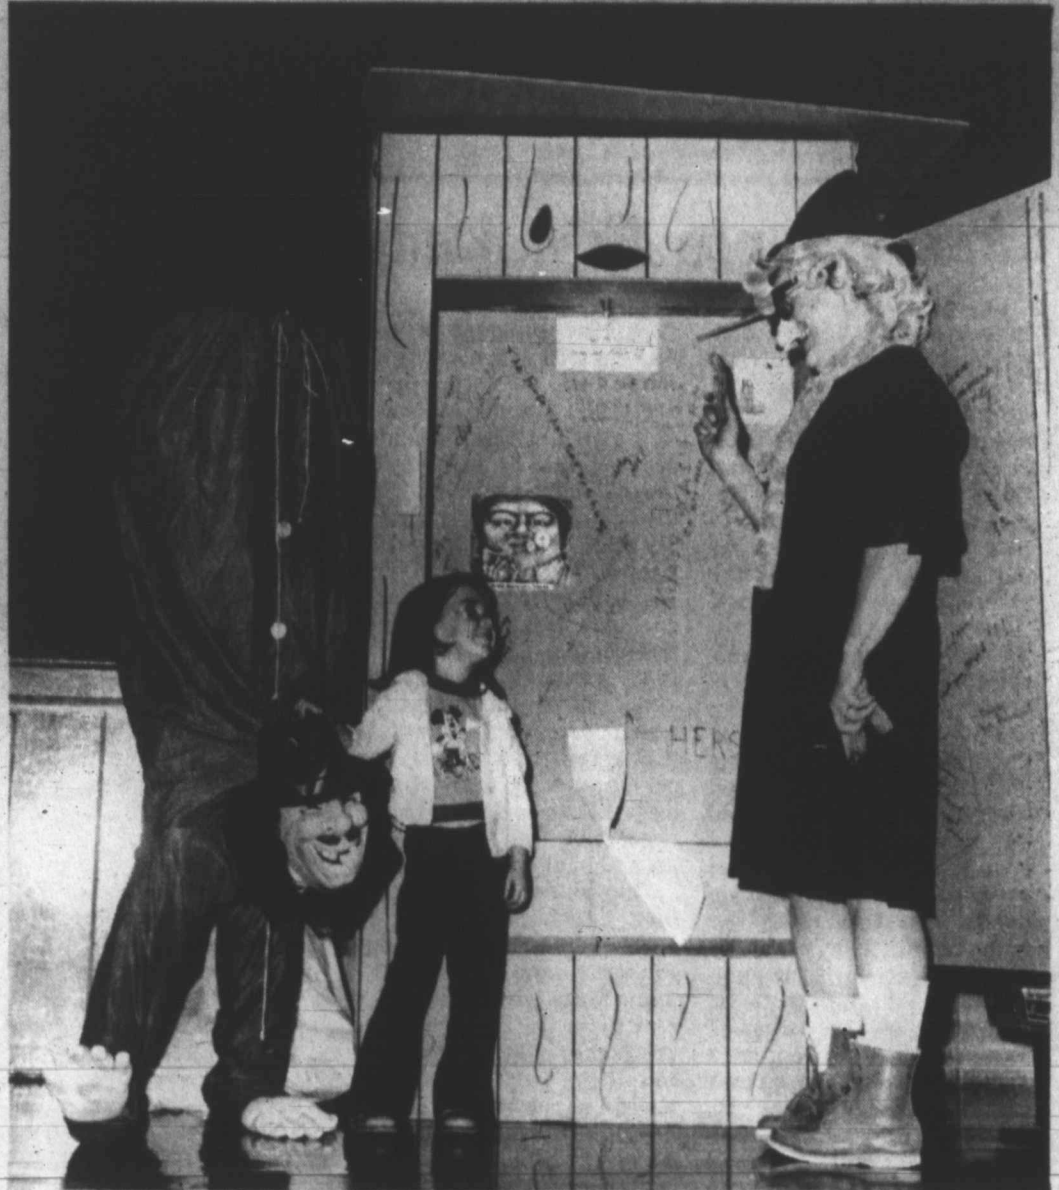

Both Presidents had to take domestic audiences and international considerations into account in their public joint appearance, and they could have been staking-out positions subject to quiet negotiation later.

Echeverria told Ford that Mexico's newly discovered oil reserves will not be used to force down the international price of oil, but will be sold to all comers—for cash, at the high prices decreed by the Arab-dominated oil cartel.

"Mexico is selling oil to anyone who wants to buy at the world price," Echeverria said.

The new finds have permitted Mexico—for decades barely self-sufficient in oil—to begin exporting petroleum.

On Cuba, Ford said he told Echeverria "we had not seen any change in the attitude of Mr. Castro and the people in his government. Inasmuch as there has been no change, it is not expected that our attitude would change toward Cuba."

Four persons pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated during arraignments conducted Monday in Gray County Court. Don Cain, county judge presiding.

Virgil Beckner, Amarillo, was fined $200 and assessed a 30-day jail sentence and six months probation following his plea of guilty. Jerry D. Belt, Pampa, pleaded guilty to the DWI charge and was fined $200 and costs, assessed a 30-day jail sentence, and placed on six-month probation.

Joseph McKinney, Bovina, and Robert L. Lewis, Pampa, were fined $200 each on the same charge and handed 30-day jail sentences and placed on six months probation.

Gomesindo Delossanto, Pampa, pleaded guilty to two counts of driving while license suspended and was fined $5 on one charge, and $10 on one charge, plus court costs.

In other court action, Donald Ray Wells, Pampa, was fined $5 and court costs on a charge of child nonsupport.

Two men, Curtis Michael Archibald, 19, Pampa, and David Allen Clark, 21, Oklahoma City, pleaded guilty to charges of possession of marijuana and were fined $200 each and each was assessed a 60-day jail term by the court.

Fuel Stamps Fool Many

One of several "humane" suggestions for dealing with a recurrence of the oil crisis is energy stamps. The proposal recently came from Pennsylvania Senator Hugh Scott and Governor Milton Shapp. The idea is much the same as food stamps. It is particularly aimed for the elderly who will have a hard time heating their homes if the price of heating fuels rises as it is almost certain to do.

The measure of the intended humanity contained in the proposed legislation can be detected by envisioning an aged couple receiving the fuel stamps with trembling hands, pressing them out and placing them carefully in a drawer until the time that the fuel bill is to be paid. The official pieces of paper thus serve as a continuing assurance that the government and its leaders have not forgotten the condition of the aged and infirm. No doubt the recipients of fuel stamps will be warmed in heart, if not in body.

That's the way the fuel stamps program seems and that's the way any person with a cubic centimeter of sympathy in his bloodstream wishes it could work out. But the reality is something else. Here is the factual situation.

The fuel stamps will not create more fuel oil. The most that they can do is reallocate the existing supply of fuel oil. By raising the amount of negotiable paper that will be used to buy fuel oil, the fuel stamps will tend to push up the price. Thus, while the old folks are receiving tangible proof that lawmakers have not forgotten them, they will possibly pay as much to heat their homes as if the stamps had never been run off the printing press. At the same time, of course, all fuel users are penalized by the higher fuel prices caused by the government's introduction of fuel stamp "money" into the economy.

Rationing or price control will not avert the hardship of rising costs on the poor, the infirm and the aged. Such measures will aggravate the price problem by creating black marketing, counterfeiting, and shortages. When you have a shortage, it doesn't matter how many fuel stamps there are in the bureau drawer.

The cold, hard facts are not nearly as appealing as the "humane" intercession that was offered by Senator Scott and Governor Shapp. The reader is therefore much in the situation of the Persian emperor who was at the point of invading Greece. He interrogated a Greek captive to inquire whether his fellow countrymen would fight or surrender. Fearful for his neck, the prisoner of war asked diplomatically whether his majesty preferred a truthful answer or a pleasant one. The ruler decided that he wanted the truth and received the disagreeable information his enemy would fight like tigers.

Likewise, the reader has a choice to make between fact and fiction. The fiction is that political intercession can soften the effect of rising prices. The fact is that regulation never has been able to accomplish that objective. Especially, regulation has failed in the area of energy and heating.

The alarm over heating fuel dates historically to 1960 when the Federal Power Commission (FPC) undertook to impose price controls on natural gas producers. The method was to tell the producer what he could charge for gas sold to distributing companies who operate in interstate commerce. The aim was to protect consumers from higher prices, especially those consumers in the faraway northeastern states. The result was significantly different from the aim.

In a typical instance, the ceiling for natural gas in Boston was set at 67 cents per thousand cubic feet. Economist Robert B. Helms authored a booklet, "Natural Gas Regulation" that records what the result was, following that price setting for that city. He said, in short, that increasing numbers of Bostonians turned to the use of liquefied natural gas (LNG) selling at $1.58 per thousand cubic feet because not enough domestic natural gas could be obtained at 67 cents. An 80 cent price for natural gas, he said, would have increased domestic prices enough to make the $1.58 LNG unnecessary.

The Boston experience was representative for cities that derive their natural gas through interstate commerce. That is, price regulation did not hold down costs of heating homes. To the contrary it resulted in the use of higher price fuels.

After a survey of the total effect throughout the country, Helms observed, "Those who wanted to protect consumers through natural gas regulation may have had good intentions — but that is what the road to hell is paved with." The unfortunate consequence of a regulation policy based on fiction will be felt less by the well-salaried "humane" legislators than by the old folks they are trying to help.

INSIDE LABOR Treat Of Socialist World

By VICTOR RIESEL
NEW YORK — Suave and cultured British Prime Minister Harold Wilson — who is second only to Dick Nixon in his distaste for the press — has been scoring the disquieting success of the fiddle salesman in Nero's palace. As a result, it's quite likely the United Kingdom will go the way of Nero's Rome while the world fiddles.

It's not understood in the United States — but the British Labor party's parliamentary victory last week is a victory for a very viable international socialist movement. Should the government of the urbane Mr. Wilson last four to five years, the Socialist and Communist Internationals will be competing with each other for the honor of destroying world capitalism. This may well be accomplished by a series of "Union - States" drawing political and philosophical — perhaps financial — strength from Britain's newest laborite government.

The impact of such phenomena on the American multinational corporations and jobs will be awesome. In effect, though gentler and in more civilized fashion, it will result in the governmental control of world industries, just as though they were seized by scores of Allendes.

It's not necessary to growl or impugn the personal characters of the fantastically cultured British Laborite government leaders. They are socialists. They attend Socialist International Bureau party meetings. They plan to "socialize" the free world. And just a few hours after Harold Wilson was assured reelection, he said frankly he has no intention of "watering down" the Labor party's socialist program.

Just what this means needs no other explanation than the words of a quiet-spoken, bookish Len Murray, leader of the British labor movement known as the Trades Union Congress (TUC). Murray's philosophy is revolution by evolution.

This means the state, which now for all intents actually is the TUC, slowly will take over all production in Britain. This will include the automobile industry, for example. Therefore, I believe American companies such as Ford, General Motors and the Chrysler combine U.K. installations will be nationalized.

There is no mystery, no secrecy, in the TUC plans for a union-state. It's all on paper. People just don't read.

In London recently, I examined a sheaf of papers containing the nationalization plans of both the TUC and the Labor Party which it controls through their joint "Liaison Committee." The TUC is seeking to extend the rights of workers by developing collective bargaining and by

QUESTION BOX

Question: We have an unselected president, a vice president, and a promise made by President Ford in a recent speech in Philadelphia saying he will have the inflation problem licked by our 200th birthday, July 4, 1976.

Dr. Franz Pick, publisher of "The World Currency Report," author of some 66 books on money and currency and financial adviser to large companies and 40 foreign governments, in an interview on May 31, 1973, revealed that the U.S. government Treasury Dept. in 1972 printed new money that we will be using in the United States. The $1 would remain green with a new design, the $5 bill would be blue, the $10 bill would be beige, and the $20 bill would be red. Does President Ford's promise mean that we will be issued this new money before our 200th birthday and we will be given $1 for every $20 or will we be given $1 for every $100 that we now have as a solution for inflation, and still unbacked by gold or silver? How can our president or anyone else pinpoint a date for solving the inflation problem?

—J.H.

Answer: We are not sure that the printing of new colored paper "money" is necessarily connected with any design to devalue the present currency. It is one of the tricks one might expect from the money managers in order to make the change more palatable to some segments of the economy.

Inflation, of course, is one of the gimmicks used by people in government in order to wipe out government debts. It would not be surprising to see some people use runaway inflation to "pay off" bonds and other government obligations, in advance of any move to revalue currency with new issues. Apparently there is no plan by any present government officials to return to some form of currency backed by anything of value such as gold or silver.

However, unless the politicians renege, Americans are scheduled to be permitted to own and make contracts in gold after the first of the year. It is conceivable that there will be a dual standard of "money" as some persons will make contracts based on specific amounts of gold, while the devalued paper currency will continue to circulate as "legal tender."

We do not know how President Ford or anyone else is prescient enough to say when inflation will be "licked." Even if he had a subservient Congress that would give him everything he asked, and if he were truly in favor of anti-inflationary measures, we doubt if he could foresee all of the possibilities of actions taken, or if he could pinpoint dates.

The statement sounds more like political rhetoric than anything else. Mr. Ford had not yet demonstrated evidence that he is prepared to recommend government cutbacks that would bring governments spending below receipts. When he advocates cutting back some employe salaries, while pushing continuation of foreign giveaways, he has lost a great many followers who believed his early statements about government spending being the prime cause of inflation.

We have seen no one on the political scene who has demonstrated willingness to take the necessary steps to end inflation.

BATTIN' AROUND Never Too Late

By C.R. BATTEN
"Perhaps we should ask whether land use planning is even necessary," said the courageous soul at the end of the conference table. The chairman motioned to the list on the blackboard of agencies that are already regulating land use. "It looks to me like you are too late," he said.

The people at the conference were a mixed group. Some represented statewide associations of real estate brokers, bankers, railroads, builders, developers, timber industry, Chambers of Commerce, farmers and cattlemen. Others represented local public interest organizations whose members include retail businessmen, realtors, farmers, union leaders, and just plain citizens.

They have seen the obstructionist tactics of no-growth advocates that have created shortages and unemployment, and increased costs. Those tactics have prevented them from using their own property for their own best interests, and to help relieve some of those shortages.

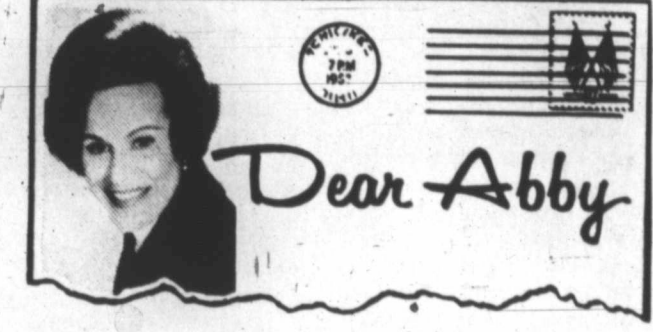

The local groups were adamant — they recognized that it is business that makes adequate housing and other consumer needs available to all. "We don't represent you," they told the businessmen. "We represent the consumer. We may at times support positions that are diametrically opposed to yours. But we are fighting on the local level for the same things you are fighting for, and we can use methods you cannot use, and get results that you cannot get."

They were tough — talking people, with a religious zealotry for their cause. They were asking for assistance — for better communications between themselves and business and industry, for good information they can use in their battles at the local level, and for assistance in raising the necessary funds to get organized and carry on their battles.

Yet, if the chairman's attitude that "it is already too late" prevails, then it is, indeed, too late. We may as well lie down in the road and pave the way for those authoritarians who want centralized control of the means of production.

In colonial America there was a legal instrument known as the "writ of assistance." It authorized the King's men to search homes, ships and businesses, to break down doors and open containers in their search for contraband. James Otis opposed in court the issuance of writs of assistance. If he had argued his case on legal precedents, we would not remember James Otis today. But he argued his case on the basis of reason and the inherent rights of British subjects.

James Otis lost that day in court. But it was only 15 years later that others wrote, "... that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness..." Those who signed that treasonous document staked their fortunes and their lives on their beliefs, and with others fought a war that threw off those tyrannical laws. Thomas Jefferson and many others did not believe they were too late — and they changed the direction of humanity on this earth.

How to respond to news of divorce

By Abigail Van Buren
1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a dear friend when she tells you that her married daughter is coming home "for good"? I was speechless because there had never been a clue that all was not going well.

The daughter was the apple of her parents' eye, and only five years ago she made such a promising marriage. She has a darling two-year-old child.

I was lost for words, Abby. I automatically said, "I'm so sorry." But if the marriage had to fail, I suppose it's better that it ended while they were both young enough to start over again. But what does a friend say in such a situation?

NO WORDS

DEAR NO: The less said the better. It's a kindness to ask no questions. And the most generous thing you can do for your friend (and her daughter) is to keep the young divorcee in mind should an eligible bachelor appear on the scene. Also include the daughter whenever possible, to keep her socially active.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my late 50s and I'm in love with a man who is younger. We work in the same office. He is married and has a family and he thinks he's an alcoholic.

He has come to my house after work on a Friday, gets drunk and stays drunk the whole weekend. Then he goes to work, goes home and stays sober for two or three months. He also attends Alcoholics Anonymous meetings.

I don't think he is a true alcoholic. I think he just likes to drink. I always have liquor available for him at my house which his wife does not. (She goes to those dumb meetings for wives of drunks.)

This has been going on for three years. How much longer must I wait before he leaves his wife and comes to live with me on a permanent basis? I love him and I believe he loves me. He says he loves his wife, but I think he feels pity and maybe some loyalty and obligation to her because she stuck with him for over 20 years.

Answer soon. I trust your judgment on most matters.

WEEKEND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I think that he will never leave his wife for you. For one thing, he probably loves her deeply. She's proven that she loves him enough to stick with him. (Those "dumb" meetings she attends are Al-anon, whose function it is to teach spouses of alcoholics how to cope with the many problems alcoholism creates.)

You, on the other hand, are a convenience and a bad habit. Do the man and yourself a favor, and quit providing him with a handy haven for his weekend binges.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if you think I misrepresented myself. I was divorced many years ago. I never remarried. My husband remarried, but his wife died. Well, a few weeks ago, my ex-husband died, and I referred to myself as a "widow." I was severely criticized for this.

I feel that since we are now separated by the grave and not the divorce court, I am a widow. I was told in no uncertain terms that I am a DIVORCEE and not a widow. I'll leave it to you.

RECENTLY WIDOWED

DEAR WIDOWED: Sorry, but regardless of how you "feel," you are not a widow. Technically, a widow is a woman who has lost her husband by death. A man can have any number of ex-wives — but only one widow. If he dies unmarried, he leaves no widow.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Order Restored In Mozambique

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Black and white troops restored order in Mozambique's capital today to end a night of battles between departing Portuguese soldiers and African guerrillas, but white settlers stayed off the streets.

Hospital authorities said at least 48 people were killed, including 33 whites and 15 blacks, and 160 injured.

Street battles Monday night between black and white troops set off rioting in the city's African shantytowns. The clashes endangered the East African territory's transition to independence.

School Board Holds Informal 'Input' Session

An informal open meeting of the Pampa Independent School District board of trustees was conducted in Baker School cafeteria Monday night.

Sam Anderson, secretary of the board, presided during the session which was devoted almost entirely to discussion of proposed changes in the policy manual of the Pampa Independent School District.

Anderson said early today the board was disappointed more parents did not attend the meeting which was scheduled to give parents an opportunity to make suggestions and ask questions of the board.

However, the official concluded, the meeting was informative for the 30 persons, most of them teachers, that did attend.

Board members have expressed a desire to schedule another open discussion session in this series of input meetings. A location and time will be announced, according to Paul Simmons, president.

Anderson indicated a favorable response to policy changes concerning dress, married students and formation of an accident leave policy for district employees that have been proposed by the board.

The attendance and test exemption policies of Pampa High School were also discussed during the meeting last night.

The bodies of whites and blacks lay in heaps in Lourenco Marques hospital, covered by blankets and surrounded by wailing relatives.

A Roman Catholic priest, Joao Romano Alves, 64, was among the dead. His weeping nephew said the clergyman was beaten to death by blacks.

Military sources said white settlers were staying indoors and avoiding the streets, stained with blood and littered with rocks, sticks, burned out cars and smashed shop windows.

They said some dissident Portuguese commandos were still at large, although the government announced the troops were restricted to their camps and dozens were flown home to Portugal during the night.

The sources said the fighting threatened to set off a new exodus of white settlers from the riot-torn land.

The fighting between Portuguese troops and guerrillas sent civilians on downtown streets fleeing for cover in arcades and behind pillars.

The violence then spilled over into outlying black-inhabited shanty towns. Black mobs attacked whites, overturned cars and beat up bus passengers.

Rear Adm. Victor Crespo, Portugal's high commissioner, and Mozambique Prime Minister Joaquim Chissano, a Frelimo leader, ordered their white and black forces to put down the violence.

"Today we have seen the provocation of reactionaries who have attempted to divert us from our aims," Chissano said. "The Portuguese troops and Frelimo soldiers have taken the necessary measures to neutralize opposition groups."

FROM ARMORED EXPRESS CORP.

Robbers Seize $1 Million-Plus

CHICAGO (UPI) — Had it not been for a lack of air in a vault at an Armored Express Corp. office, a $1 million-plus robbery might have gone unnoticed.

Between $1 million and $3 million in cash was taken from the vault during the weekend and plastic bags containing gasoline and equipped with time fuses were placed in the vault.

The firebombs went off Monday morning, but the fire burned itself out because of the lack of air in the 15-by-20-foot vault, said Lt. Edward Neville of the police bomb and arson squad.

"Only two of the 13 bags ignited," Neville said. "They just couldn't burn without air," said another investigator. "If they had, the robbery might not have been discovered."

Investigators would think the money was destroyed in the fire.

The loss was discovered after a smoke detector alarm sounded early Monday and firemen arrived at the scene. They found the vault filled with smoke, but the fire had burned itself out.

Several left-over bags containing money were scorched, but no money was destroyed, police said.

Officials of Armored Express, a division of Purulotor Security Inc., today were attempting to determine the extent of the loss, estimated at between $1 and $3 million.

"We know they got a good $1 million, probably more — maybe a lot more — but we won't know exactly how much until Tuesday," a police spokesman said.

The FBI said it was attempting to find grounds for entering the investigation.

Police theorized that two bombings in the North Side area where the Armored Express Office is located may have been carried out in order to divert police from the robbery.

The two bombings — one in a building where Cook County Board President George Dunne makes his home, and the other at a massage parlor — occurred early Sunday and early Monday.

Police said they may have been set to cover the robbers' entrance or exit from the express office.

Money collected by Armored Express trucks was being stored in the office vault during the weekend for deliver to banks, currency exchanges and businesses Monday.

The money in the vault included $1.3 million collected from suburban Hawthorne Park racetrack Saturday.

Investigators said the robbery apparently was the work of sophisticated professional thieves, but the thieves also may have had "inside" help.

FORD, JACKSON REVEAL

Soviets Haven't Clarified Jewish Emigration Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., say the Soviet Union has set no exact number of Jews and other dissidents who will be allowed to emigrate.

Their statements, issued Monday, clarified last week's agreement in which the Russians promised to liberalize emigration in return for favorable trade terms from the United States.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen, speaking for Ford, told newsmen aboard the President's plane on the way to his meeting with Mexican President Luis Echeverria that the promise was in general terms rather than specific numbers.

Nessen said initial news reports that the Russians had agreed to 60,000 emigrants a year were based on misunderstanding of announcements of the agreement which were made in Washington Friday.

Jackson issued a statement later Monday agreeing with Ford that the Russians set no specific figure. But Jackson said an emigration level of 60,000 would be "a benchmark, a minimum standard" used by both Congress and the President in judging the "good faith" of the Soviet Union.

Jackson quoted a letter to him from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, which said the United States assumed from negotiations with the Russians that the Soviet emigration rate would begin to rise promptly from the 1973 level and would continue to level and correspond to the number of applicants.

Congressional sources said the Soviet Union has a backlog of some 110,000 exit visa applications and has allowed only about 25,000 emigrations per year through 1973.

With the Soviet assurances conveyed by Secretary Kissinger to me to end harassment and intimidation of those seeking to emigrate, and with the number of visas rising to correspond to the number of applicants, I believe that more than 60,000 persons will emigrate each year," Jackson said.

Jackson led a move in Congress to hold up legislation improving Russia's tariff treatment until it agreed to liberalize emigration. His statements Friday and Monday made it clear that continuing trade concessions would depend on how the Soviet Union carries out its emigration agreement.

Ray Prepared For Reversal Of Confession

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — James Earl Ray, was described as tense but optimistic heading about his federal court fight today for a new trial that could reverse his confession that he killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The slender Ray, gray beyond his 46 years, was secretly whisked here from the state prison in Nashville Sunday night and lodged in the maximum security Shelby County Jail cell where he spent eight months before his March 10, 1969, confession.

In the same cell, Ray claims, Texas attorney Percy Foreman pressured him to plead guilty to the April 4, 1968, sniper shot that killed King on a motel balcony. The Nobel Peace Prize winner was in Memphis to lead a city sanitation workers' strike.

Ray's attorneys, Bernard Fensterwald and James Lesar, both of Washington, D.C., and Robert I. Livingston of Memphis, will attempt to convince Federal Judge Robert M. Cray Jr. that Foreman's financial interests in William Bradford Huie's book on the King death, "He Slew the Dreamer," overshadowed the lawyer's provision of proper defense counsel.

Depositions from Foreman and Huie, who have chosen not to attend the hearing since they live outside the distance range of the subpoenas, will be admitted as evidence for the state, Cray reaffirmed Monday.

Ray, serving 99 years at the Nashville State Penitentiary for the black leader's death, is scheduled to testify at the hearing which authorities now expect to last about one week.

"He is tense, of course," Fensterwald said of his client Monday. "But optimistic."

Spectators and reporters, expected to fill the courtroom on the block-off 11th floor of the Federal Building on the shores of the Mississippi River, will be screened by hand and walk-through metal detectors before entering each session.

Foreman said in his sworn statement entered as evidence that if he could handle the Ray case again, he would not recommend the guilty plea to save the Missouri State Prison escapee's life. But Foreman added he had no doubt that Ray gunned down the civil rights leader.

'Lift Economic Embargo', Castro Tells United States

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro says he would be willing to begin talks on resuming U.S.-Cuban diplomatic relations if the United States first agrees to lift the economic embargo.

In an interview taped with CBS television to be broadcast tonight, 10 p.m. EDT, Castro declared: "I would say that number one is the lifting of the economic blockade. When the economic blockade is ended, we shall be in a condition to speak under conditions of equality: the United States and ourselves."

In a talk with CBS correspondent Dan Rather, Castro, at 47 still sporting his famous beard, criticized President Ford for warning petroleum producers against high prices and for his public admission that the Central Intelligence Agency supported Chilean newspapers opposed to the late President Salvador Allende.

But, he said, he hoped for a change in U.S. policy toward Cuba.

President Ford "is not involved with the Cuban counter-revolutionary elements," Castro said, as opposed to former President Richard Nixon, who "was personally very much involved with them."

Castro said Cubans regard Ford "with a certain hope in the sense that he may after all adopt a different policy towards Cuba."

Pythians Plan District Meet

Members of Amarillo Lodge No. 479 will attend tonight's meeting. David Harrah, chancellor commander, will preside.

But, he said, he hoped for a change in U.S. policy toward Cuba.

President Ford "is not involved with the Cuban counter-revolutionary elements," Castro said, as opposed to former President Richard Nixon, who "was personally very much involved with them."

CORE Blasts Court-Ordered School Busing

BOSTON (UPI) — The Congress on Racial Equality Monday came out against court-ordered busing to desegregate city schools, saying it prefers black control in the black neighborhoods.

The CORE statement put the group in direct conflict with the NAACP, which filed the class action suit leading to the federal court order to bus 18,235 students. The NAACP has consistently supported the order.

Mary Dennison, acting national director of CORE, said "we feel that busing because the issue because no alternative to achieve quality education was available."

CORE calls for desegregation through community control because the most obnoxious feature of segregation is not the fact that black and white children are not sitting next to each other," she said.

"The fact that whites control schools in the black community as well as in their own is the feature of segregation which is intolerable."

Ms. Dennison said she will request an immediate end to the busing ordered by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity June 21. The judge now is drafting a long-range school desegregation order for next fall.

Cardinal Humberto Medeiros, Roman Catholic bishop of the Boston archdiocese, Monday said he "appreciates the feelings of those who do not want their children bused."

USDA Charges Market Agents With Violations

WASHINGTON — Flynn W. Stewart and Flynn W. Stewart II, of Wichita Falls, have been charged with violating payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

The respondents operate as a market agency, buying livestock on a commission basis throughout the West Texas area.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that during March, 1974, the respondents failed to pay, when due, for more than $71,000 worth of livestock.

Filing of the complaint does not prove that the pair has violated the Packers and Stockyards Act. They have a right to a hearing to determine whether the evidence supports the charge. If the charge is proven, they would be placed under a cease and desist order.

Market agencies are required — under the Packers and Stockyards Act — to make prompt payment for livestock, unless credit has been arranged in advance.

The P and S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry, and meat.

The record in this case is open to the public. Copies of this complaint, P&S Docket 5038, may be obtained from the Information Office, Packers and Stockyards Administration, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Clothing For The Senior Citizen

COLLEGE STATION - Comfort should be considered right along with attractiveness in choosing clothing for older people, one authority said this week.

Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out several considerations when buying clothing for senior citizens.

Action pleats, tucks and gussets provide extra ease for body movement. Pleated, A-line or gored skirts for women and pleated trousers for men may be more comfortable.

Elastic waistbands or waistband sections allow for activity while helping clothes remain neatly in place.

Knit fabrics are comfortable because they do not restrict activity. Garments made of natural fibers such as cotton and wool are soft and absorbent, while allowing air to reach the body.

Look for styles that provide easy on/off features - such as convenient front openings, zippers and large buttons.

The specialist pointed out that sewing cuff buttons on with elastic thread eliminates the need for unbuttoning sleeve cuffs.

If small buttons and fasteners are difficult to handle, replace them with small pieces of nylon or polyester self-gripping fasteners, such as Velcro, which can be sewn on.

Be sure the neck opening is adequate if the garment is to be put on over the head.

Washable knits of cotton and man made fibers such as polyester, acrylic and nylon should be washed from four to 10 minutes in hot or warm water. The water temperature and washing time depend on the color and weight of the fabric and how soiled it is. Check garment labels for details.

Rugs with nonskid finish should be vacuumed often and cleaned from time to time with a detergent or soap filled sponge. Dirt is dangerous because it keeps the finish from gripping the floor. Rough or uneven floors, loosened tiles and wide cracks are just as dangerous.

American Legion Auxiliary Has Supper, Business Session

The American Legion Auxiliary met Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. for a Dutch supper at Furr's Cafeteria with Mrs. Lysel K. Stout presiding, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Lee Harrah.

The pledge of allegiance was given in unison followed by the Preamble to the American Legion Auxiliary. During the business session, the group voted to send a letter to the President of the United States supporting the Legions' request that veterans seeking amnesty should be judged on an individual basis instead of as a group.

A letter was read from the Lovett Memorial Library asking for good books. The group voted to take books as individuals when they had completed reading them.

Mrs. T.M. Turner, membership chairman, reported 28 members for 1975, who had paid their dues.

The group voted to place flags on the graves of departed veterans Oct. 28 which was the day named by our governor this year, to honor departed Veterans.

Friends of the Auxiliary are invited to meet at Fairview Cemetery at 6 a.m. and remove flags at 6 p.m.

FROZEN FOODS

Frozen foods that have thawed may be refrozen safely if they still contain ice crystals or if they are still cold - about 40 degrees F. - and have been held no longer than one or two days at refrigerator temperature after thawing. Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reports.

Keep household and cleaning products in their original containers with labels intact. If you transfer them to other or unmarked containers, especially food storage containers, you run the risk of misuse that could poison someone.

Vic Helton Wants To Balance Soil

Although both he and his product are relatively new to the area, Vic Helton is ready to help area people put their land back in balance with nature with Planters II.

Planters II is a help to the soil but not a plant food. Being a totally organic fertilizer, it contains no nitrogen.

The fertilizer enables earthworms to come back to the soil.

Given the organic materials to work with, an earthworm can make one-half pound of soil humus per year. As he burrows deeper into the soil, the worm catcombs the soil with tunnels, promoting soil aeration and encouraging absorption of whatever moisture is naturally or artificially available.

Research shows the earthworm's wastes, its castings, are five times richer in nitrogen, three times richer in magnesium, seven times richer in phosphorous and 11 times richer in Potash, than is contained in the materials it eats. They can produce 12 and one-half tons of topsoil a year in each acre of good garden-type soil.

Used in an season, under any conditions, wet or dry, Planters can eventual increase soil and crop quality and higher protein quality while it continuously builds up the soil. Used for two or three years, Planters can increase yields.

Helton, originally from Briscoe, Tex., has been in the Planters business for two months.

New to this area, Planters II is being used in 37 states. Discovered 22 years ago in Salida, Colo., the organic fertilizer has been in use over 11 years across the country.

Headquarters for Helton and Planters II are 1120 Sirocco Road. Orders can be made and information obtained by calling 665-8889.

DISPLAYING A HANDFUL OF Planters II is Vic Helton, Pampa distributor for the organic fertilizer. Containing no nitrogen, the fertilizer is designed to put the land back in balance with nature by using earthworms to produce humus.

Communists Strike

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces blew up two major bridges near Saigon today hours after police clashed in the capital with protesters demanding the resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The Saigon military command said Communist bomb squads blew up a strategic bridge over the Dong Hai River 13 miles northeast of Saigon and destroyed a vital Highway 10 span five miles west of the capital.

The blasts came after about 1,000 demonstrators clashed with police during a march Sunday on the National Assembly building in downtown Saigon.

The protesters, carrying signs calling for observance of the 1973 truce agreement and Thieu's resignation, swept aside barricades and burned a secret police jeep.

A government spokesman said 36 policemen were hurt and taken to hospitals, but none was believed seriously injured. He gave no casualty figures for the demonstrators.

In another protest, some 2,000 Roman Catholics waded in Can Tho, a Mekong Delta city 95 miles southwest of Saigon, as an opposition congressman fired two pistol shots at an effigy of Thieu. A sign on the effigy called Thieu, "No. 1 corrupt man."

An announced boycott by Saigon's 18 daily newspapers of all government news failed to materialize as today's briefing was attended by the usual number of local reporters.

The Saigon command said Communist sappers, using a raft full of explosives, knocked out two spans of the half-mile long Hoa An Bridge over the Dong Nai River.

The bridge, second largest highway bridge in the country, carries hundreds of military and commercial trucks daily. All traffic was suspended indefinitely.

The command said the Communists also used a bomb laden raft to knock down a Highway 10 bridge leading to Hau Nghia Province. Traffic was halted over the span.

NATIONAL TOUR

Eleven cities will be visited, with the finale being in Los Angeles.

Former Pampa English Teacher FB Coach Elevated To Director

Randolph M. Roten, who has been an educator and administrator at Northwood Institute of Texas for the past five years, has been named director of operations for the campus at Cedar Hill.

In his new capacity, Roten will be in charge of day-to-day activities at the college, located just south of Grand Prairie between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Appointment of Roten was announced by Paul O. Ridings, dean of the campus of Northwood Institute of Texas.

Northwood is a private, non-profit, tax-exempt, coeducational, degree-granting, business-oriented college, headquartered in Midland, Mich., with four campuses in four states for students in residence and a like number of adjunctive educational activities which extend its scope both internationally and from seventh graders to adults of all ages.

Northwood's four college campuses are: Northwood of Michigan in Midland, Mich.; Northwood of Indiana in West Baden, Ind.; Northwood of Texas in Cedar Hill; and the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies in Monterey, Calif.

Roten's Northwood career has been centered at the Cedar Hill campus, where he has taught advertising, business history of the United States, journalism, political science, public relations, public speaking and sociology.

In addition, he has served as dean of students, director of plant operations, director of the association management curriculum and public relations director.

A native of Dallas, Roten is a graduate of the city's Sunset High School. He earned a BS degree from McMurry College and a master's degree from SMU.

Prior to joining the Northwood organization, Roten was a coach and teacher at five Texas high schools.

His educational career began in 1961 at Duncanville High School as speech and English teacher as well as assistant football coach. He then served from 1962 to 1963 in the same positions at Pampa High School. Roten was speech and English instructor, athletic director and head football coach at Cedar Hill High School from 1963 to 1967 when he joined Dallas' Bishop Lynch High School as assistant football coach and speech and English instructor. From 1968 to 1969, when he joined Northwood, he served as athletic director, head football coach and instructor in English at Rockwall High School.

Roten and his wife, Merle, live on Cedar Hill Road in Cedar Hill with their son, Rex Allyn, 11, and daughter, Renee, 7. Roten serves as chairman of the Cedar Hill Zoning Board and as director of the Cedar Hill Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the Dallas Press Club and the Public Relations Society of America.

The Northwood campus where Roten will direct operations offers associate of arts degrees in association management, automotive marketing, business management, fashion merchandising and hotel restaurant management. In addition, students may work toward a bachelor of business administration degree in cooperation with the Midland campus of Northwood.

Northwood is unique in that it is the only college in America providing degree and short-course training programs in association management and automotive marketing.

The Texas campus, opened in 1966, is located on 352 acres just south of Grand Prairie on State Highway 1382 at the northern edge of Cedar Hill. Its contemporary buildings, including dormitories which look more like modern apartment complexes and a new seminar center adjacent to the dormitories, are nestled midst a heavily treed, rolling hill, rustic site.

Three Volcanoes Shake Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Agriculture authorities Monday estimated heavy damage to cotton, sugar cane and sesame seed crops from three volcanoes that spewed sand and ash over much of Guatemala's Pacific coast.

More than 1,000 persons left their homes and were cared for by the Red Cross.

The volcanos Fuego, Pacaya, and Santiaguito began erupting Friday and sent clouds of smoke into the sky all weekend.

Wine, Cheese Festival Draws Large Turnout

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the last 10 days a few hundred thousand people have gotten up $5 each to get into the "Second Annual Wine and Cheese Festival."

"It's something different to do rather than dinner and movies," said one young man as he waited in line for a chance to sample about a half an ounce of a Yugoslavian rose wine.

The festival's organizers estimated attendance at "a couple of thousand" for the event, which closed Sunday night.

Once inside, the crowd — most of them young people — were issued two very small plastic glasses each — one for white wine, one for red — and set loose on the 50 booths set up on the cavernous second floor.

Many of the booths had lines snaking around behind them with as many as 30 people waiting, however, and even the most dedicated oenophiles would have had to give up with tired feet before getting very much to drink.

What they finally got, in fact, was considerably less than you can buy in a $5 bottle of wine.

Despite the economics of it, it was a friendly, patient crowd, one that was not bothered by the commercialism.

They crowded around the cheese counters, buying everything from the plainest Swiss to something called "The Nut Ball," a blend of gruyere and cheddar with chablis wine, coated with pistachios.

Though the wine was not for sale, the exhibitors, producers and importers who sponsored the booths made every effort to get the names of their products across with big posters and souvenir pamphlets, labels and even balloons.

The festival, which was first put on last year, included a number of films, talks by authors on wine and seminars for wine-sellers and the general public.

Agribusiness Seeks Fresh Face

CHICAGO (UPI) — It wasn't on their official agenda, but a group of marketing men who had assembled for a business convention agreed today that one of their most critical problems involves the "fresh face of agriculture."

"We want to keep the image of the American farmer shiny and bright," said Gordon Sawyer, president of the National Agri-Marketing Association. "That's the way it's been since this nation was founded and that's the way it's got to be if we're going to do our job of feeding ourselves and part of the rest of the world."

The association headed by Sawyer, president of a Gainesville, Ga., advertising agency, is composed of 1,600 executives employed by firms which fall into the general category of "agribusiness."

The term is broad enough to include a broad assortment of business operations," said Ernest T. Marshall, Kansas City, Mo., the association's executive director. "As a result there may not be agreement among ourselves as to some of our goals."

The stated purpose of the Chicago meeting was to focus the members' attention on "the increasing world demand for food" and to give them a chance to explore "the problems and opportunities facing American farmers and the companies that serve them."

Sawyer was asked if these problems include the general attitude of non-farmers toward farmers. "Everybody in agriculture should be concerned about the public concept of agriculture," he replied. "I don't like the word 'image,' but agriculture must make sure its image doesn't become tarnished."

One member said the televised slaughtering of calves in Wisconsin last week might be an example of the image problem. "The idea of killing a lot of little calves is repugnant to everybody, whether he is a farmer or a city dweller," said Ron Peabody, director of seed advertising, DeKalb Ag Research, Inc., DeKalb Ill. "There's just got to be a better way to call attention to a problem."

The calf slaughter was criticized by an assortment of public officials, including Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., who took the opportunity in the same statement to demand the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz. Stevenson said Butz is a tool of "big agribusiness."

"If the Secretary of Agriculture receives a great deal of criticism, that could easily become a problem of agriculture in general," said William B. Raufer, advertising manager, Moorman Mfg. Co., Quincy, Ill. "The criticism wouldn't necessarily have to relate to exclusively to politics," Raufer added. "We are not a political organization," Sawyer emphasized. "But that does not prevent us from being concerned about what goes on in Congress. We are aware that no longer does a majority of Congress come from farm districts. Perhaps we are ahead of most people in agriculture in being concerned about the image of agriculture but we feel it's going to be an increasingly important concern."

"We know how to make the system operate to produce more food for the nation and for some of the rest of the world," Sawyer said. "We want to make sure we get a chance to prove we can make it work — and that's exactly what we're doing for these many years that American agriculture has been the world leader."

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

"What's a nice guy like you doin' in a place like this?"
Go ahead, just ask "Nice guy" Mike Battle what the heck he's doing here in the Panhandle of Texas, in Pampa, no less.

It's not that Pampa is a bad place to live, because it isn't. In fact, not many of its 22,127 or so residents would live anywhere else — Pampa's just their kind of people. But, let's face it — Pampa isn't New York City or a Miami or a Dallas or even a Green Bay, Wisconsin, so why is a one-time NFL defensive back punter returning putting down his roots around here.

"Well, it's like this," explains Battle. "I married a girl from Borger (the former Debbie Watkins), and she stayed here and I went off to training camp. She was gonna have a baby."

Weeb (Ewbank, head coach of the New York Jets when Battle ran back kickoffs and punts and sometimes an interception) and I didn't get along too well, and he wouldn't trade me. Finally, it came down to the last release and I had the opportunity to go to some other teams. But I came here instead."

Two things — Weeb Ewbank and an expecting wife — brought Battle, an All-American at Southern Cal., to the Panhandle, and brought him here for good.

Recently, the Southern California Sun of the slowly-deteriorating World Football league attempted to entice the 28-year-old out of retirement by offering him "six figures for three Battle, although temped, refused the offer. "I played three years for New York (1969-71) and in every big city and stadium — college and pros — in the country, and there's just not enough money to get me to move out of Pampa. I wouldn't play for anybody."

"I like to go hunting and fishing when I can. Yeah, I like this life where I can drive 10 miles and see an antelope. It's great out here."

So Battle, instead of knocking heads with the big boys every week, is spending Sunday afternoon returning punts and playing quarterback and defensive back in the Pampa Men's Flag Football League. And, instead of going through week after week of practice and watching game films and making curfew and listening to an assistant coach bark, Battle is helping his father-in-law in the oil business and "doing some production on my own."

But most important with Battle is that he's home with wife and boys, ages 2½ and 1½.

"Football's great life if you're single, and if you're one of the so-called superstars."

The superstar bit is one reason the former Jet didn't always see eye-to-eye with Ewbank.

"I didn't get along with him. They only pay you for playing between the white lines, so why should they try to run your life when you're not playing. But if you're a superstar like Joe Namath, you could slide around like you wanted to."

"I think he (Ewbank) knows a heckuva lot about football, but he really doesn't know how to treat people. He's a little partial to his studs."

And there's another reason. "Ewbank gets his feet wet during game time; he's far from being a quick-decision artist. He let ol' Joe run the show. Namath has a brilliant, brilliant football mind. Joe can make quick decision. You know, Weeb's getting up in years, his decisions took longer, like on kicking field goals. Joe would always come to the sidelines and would have the answer just like that (snap). Sometime he'd know what to do even before he came to the sidelines."

There are two people Battle, although he never sees, expect on the tube anymore, really appreciate. One is Namath. "You know, he parties a lot, but he puts in more hours than anybody else studying game films."

"When I first got to New York, everybody wore suits to the away games. Namath was the only one who didn't. Oh, he wore one every once in a while. But soon a couple other guys wouldn't wear a suit and then the whole team quit wearing them. But Joe started it."

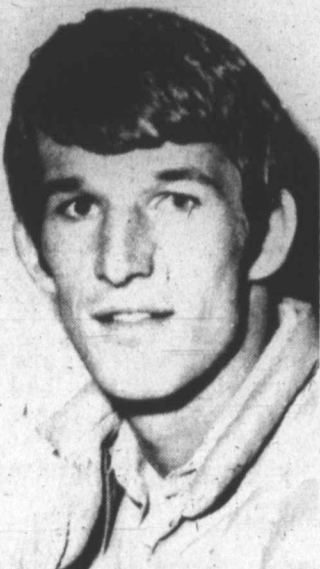

"One time Joe and I were going to the show and he got me a date. Boy, she was far out! A real dog. In the middle of the show, I got sick and told everybody I had to go." Battle added, "I didn't get a good look at her. I was too scared. Joe's a real clown."

The other guy, a pro in his own right, big with Battle is Rocky Graziano, who is now peddling spark plugs and motor oil in commercials.

"Rocky Graziano's a classic; he's one of the funniest guys I've ever met in my life. One time I did a radio commercial with him, and it took him 36 takes to do it."

Battle, although he's got his favorite people, his heroes, doesn't care to have a big name for himself and be somebody else's heroes. "I'm not the type of guy that likes to go around saying 'I played professional football.' It was a personal accomplishment for me."

He played because he wanted to and he lives in Pampa because he wants to. That's all that needs to be said. So, if you're a head coach of some WFL team, don't go asking Mike Battle, "What's a nice guy like you doing" in a place like this?"

MIKE BATTLE

Ali Thumps Drums To Anger Monster

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali was back at the old stand Monday thumping the closed circuit TV drums for his heavyweight title fight with George Foreman.

The occasion was a closed circuit "press conference," set up by the promoters of the fight, and seen in New York. It turned out to be a monologue by Ali inasmuch as Foreman, the champion, did not show up.

Why? Listen to this.

Mitten-Nickell Team Capture Bass Tourney

GREENBELT LAKE —

Pampa's George Mitten and Dossie Nickell caught 11

pounds of fish between them and captured top money in the monthly Top O' Texas

Bassmasters bass tournament, held Sunday here.

In second place was Babe Hall and Joe Dan Watson, both of Lefors, with 9 pounds, 8 ounces. An Amarillo team, Cliff

Cummings and Jerry Ashton, took third with 6 pounds, 9 ounces.

Jim McBroom of Pampa, a new member in the club, won the Big Bass pot with a 3-pound, 15-ounce fish.

Next month's tournament at Ellsworth Lake near Lawton, Okla., will close out the Bassmasters' season.

Dallas Gridster Dies Following Tackling Injury

DALLAS (UPI) —

Defensive tackle Calvin Isaac, a South Oak Cliff High School junior, died Monday of a severed spinal cord suffered last Friday night as he tackled a ball carrier.

Funeral arrangements for the teen-ager were incomplete today.

"Calvin made the tackle and his head turned toward the side in an awkward position," his coach, Norman Jett, said. "I knew it was very serious when we went out on the field. He asked me if he was going to die then."

A Dallas school district trainer administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation because the youth was unable to breathe.

"We knew it was a broken neck and later at Parkland (Hospital) the doctors told us it broke the third and fourth vertebrae, severing the spinal cord," Jett said. "They told us to look for the worst."

"Sunday night I saw Calvin and although he was on a respirator he was alert. It was after the visit I found out that his motor skills were gone, meaning he could not cough or clear his lungs. The result of this is usually pneumonia."

Isaac was a straight-A student.

Defense-Minded Bears Trip Pack

CHICAGO (UPI) — The defense made the big plays for the Chicago Bears on national television Monday night and left Green Bay Packer Coach Dan Devine second guessing himself after a 10-9 defeat.

The win for the Bears left both teams with a 3-3 record, tied for second place in the National Football League's Central Division, two games behind the front-running Minnesota Vikings.

The Bears started out like gangbusters. Mirro Roder kicked a 23-yard field goal to wind up a march from the Bears' 47 the first time Chicago had the ball.

Then less than five minutes later, Gary Huff hit wide receiver Charley Wade in the middle of the Packer secondary and Wade outran the defense for a 57-yard touchdown play and a 10-0 Chicago lead.

But that was the end of the Bear offense as far as scoring went and the defense, though hard pressed, was adequate.

The first time the defense took charge was after the Packers had marched from their 21 to a first down on the Bears' nine. John Brockington gained two yards, a pass to Brockington gained another and a pass to Rich McGeorge put the ball on the two with fourth down.

That was when Devine made the decision he second guessed later.

"As it turned out, the decision to go for it looms as the big one," he said. "The decision was mine. Naturally I won't do it again knowing what we know now. But at that point we felt we needed seven points. We didn't know we were going to play so well in the second half."

SPORTS

The Pampa Daily News

The second big play by the Bears came just before the half when the Packers drove from their 42 to a first down on the Bears' 12 and Brockington gained seven yards on the first play. But then Jerry Tagge tried to pass to McGeorge and rookie linebacker Waymond Bryant intercepted in the end zone to kill the threat.

"That's one I sure wish I had back," Tagge said. "Bryant made a hell of a defensive play but I threw the ball too soft to attempt to reach McGeorge."

Tagge agreed that Brockington's failure to get in earlier was the most important play because "if we had scored, the momentum would have gone our way and it would have been a different ball game."

All of the Green Bay points were by Chester Marcol on field goals of 34, 33 and 36 yards.

Coach Abe Gibron of the Bears declared the result came because of "physical, aggressive football. We think we can beat anybody."

Bears defensive Captain Doug Buffone, conceding, "we got hurt a little outside," added: "When we got close in, we really tightened up."

Pampa Dolphins Finish Seventh

Forty swimmers from the Pampa Dolphin Swim Team competed in the High Plains Invitational Swim Meet Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Amarillo Town Club. Approximately 400 swimmers from three states entered the AAU Swim Meet, sponsored by the Amarillo Aquatic Club.

Teams from the Amarillo Aquatic Club, Arlington Swim Club, Kerr McGee, Dolphins de Santa Fe, Midland College, City of Midland, Odessa, Lubbock, Pampa, Amarillo Maverick Boys Club, West Texas State University and the Amarillo YMCA entered the meet.

The Dolphins finished seventh in a field of twelve teams. The Pampa swimmers entered 211 individual events and bettered their best individual times in 175 of the events entered. They also entered nine relays.

Three Pampa swimmers turned in outstanding performances by gaining "A" times at the meet. Cary Smith (Boys — Age 13 and 14) in the 200 Back, 200 Breast and 200 Individual Medley, Tammy Glascock (Girls — Age 13 and 14) in the 200 Back, Clay Douglass (Boys — Age 10 and under) in the 200 Individual Medley.

Cary Smith and Kris Douglass lead the Pampa swimmers in improvement points for the meet. They were closely followed by Ronnie Gibson, Sam Gilbert, Tammy Glascock and Robbie Hill.

The next meet for the Pampa team will be at Midland, Texas, on November 15, 16 and 17.

Dallas Getting Close To Deadline For Trading Dissatisfied Morton

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys have until 3 p.m. today to try to trade veteran quarterback Craig Morton, who refused to practice Monday and demanded to be traded.

"I'm just not playing and it's obvious they're not going to play me," Morton said. "I'm not contributing anything and I can't see just standing around. The trading deadline is coming up so I wanted to see what might happen."

Morton, 31, quarterbacked the Cowboys after the retirement of Don Meredith and was the starter in Dallas' 16-13 loss to Baltimore in the 1970 Super Bowl. Roger Staubach took over the starting job in 1971 and led Dallas to a Super Bowl win over Miami.

Morton last year grew unhappy with his backup status and demanded to be traded and the Cowboys management promised to comply if they could get a player of worth in return. No trade was made and Morton signed with the WFL Houston Texans who subsequently moved to Shreveport, La. It is not known if Morton's WFL contract is still valid because of the franchise transfer. He was playing out his option with Dallas this season.

"It didn't surprise me," coach Tom Landry said of Morton's decision Monday. "He had said before he wanted to be traded. Craig didn't tell me this but I would imagine the Houston developments had something to do with him wanting to go now rather than to wait until after the season."

"If he was sure the Houston deal was waiting for him, I think he'd have gone ahead and played out the season with us. Sure I hate to see him go but if he doesn't want to play for us he'd be better off somewhere else."

The Cowboys said they did not know what action would be taken if a Morton trade could not be worked out.

Morton's departure left the club with Staubach and rookie Clint Longley from Abilene Christian at quarterback.

Supreme Court Rules On Varied Actions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has agreed to rule on whether society has a duty to give professional care to the people it locks up for psychiatric reasons.

In a flurry of activity Monday, the court also let stand a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis requiring public hospitals to allow abortions.

The action directly affects only Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

but it will be a strong lead for other states to follow.

The justices voted 6-3 to strike down California's law giving tax credits to parents of nonpublic school children. The court merely affirmed without opinion a decision by a three judge federal court.

Seven of the justices also upheld Missouri's refusal to provide bus transportation for parochial school children.

They also upheld South Carolina's 5-year residency requirement for gubernatorial candidates, thus writing an end to the campaign of Charles D. (Pug) Ravenel, who won the 1974 Democratic primary but was forced off the general election ballot.

In other action, the court refused, for the fifth time in six years, to decide whether public schools can enforce hair length regulations for boys.

—declined to intervene in a lower court decision which said that merely smelling moonshine whiskey, rather than seeing it, is not cause for a search without a warrant.

—let stand an Alabama decision allowing a husband to tap his wife's phone in a divorce suit.

—let stand a lower court order forcing an increase in the number of blacks on the Mississippi highway patrol.

The mental care case involved Kenneth Donaldson, who was locked away for 14 years after he blamed "rich Republicans" and a "foreign policy association" for persecuting him and supposedly poisoning his food.

The court agreed to decide whether the state can place people — in some cases with neither trial nor hearing — for an indefinite period of time in a mental institution without giving them treatment.

If it decides no, states would have to spend millions of dollars to improve overcrowded, understaffed hospitals.

Killer Stalks Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — "My sister's husband told me to be careful," a woman office worker said. "I'm going home early tonight — and taking a taxi."

She was one of a growing number of Muscovites troubled by persistent rumors in the capital about a psychopathic killer stalking women in Moscow.

The murder scare is growing by word of mouth in the absence of hard news in the official media. The Soviet press, virtually ignores crime news unless used to point up a moral.

Soviet sources say, however, that police have visited a number of factories, offices and schools in the capital to warn women and children not to go out alone at night.

An official spokesman said Monday police are looking for a blond man, about 25 years old, for questioning in connection with the murder of one woman.

Soviet sources said there seems to be more than usual police activity and document checks in the capital. But a Western traveler said he noticed nothing unusual during a drive to Borodino, west of the city.

The rumors going around the capital generally say the killer has slain at least seven women in Moscow. The stories say the murders have taken place in dark lobbies or elevators of apartment buildings.

One of the more gruesome versions says Soviet authorities found the dismembered head of one of the women victims in a Moscow pond.

The rumors tend to be vague. One says the murders have taken place in the capital's Taganka district. Another mentions the Kievskii region. Others don't bother to mention any location.

The last Moscow murder scare, however, had some basis in fact. The rumors preceded the arrest of a man in 1964 for five apparently senseless slayings in the capital.

The murder scare isn't the only rumor in the capital. Another says scores — or even hundreds — of escaped Soviet prisoners are on the loose in Moscow.

Some versions say the prisoners escaped from a train heading for Siberia. Others say they freed themselves in a coordinated jail break.

Problems with wind or ice damaged shade trees can be avoided by proper trimming of the damaged areas and quick treatment.

COMMITTEE GIVES NOD District Judge, Attorney To Get Pay Increases?

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A legislative committee moved Monday to fatten the paychecks of district judges and attorneys and, in separate action, took steps to save about half a million dollars by abolishing an amusement machine control agency.

The legislative budget board writers adopted a motion to raise district attorney pay from $16,000 annually to $23,000 and judges from $25,000 to $31,000.

"The problem is not in Houston and the problem is not in Dallas," said spokesman for the proposal Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells. "It is middle Texas that is suffering from a lack of law enforcement."

"You're not going to have good prosecution until you get bright young men in there, and you're not going to get them until we pay for it." The proposal recommended district attorney salaries be hiked to $24,800 by 1977 and that judges pay be moved to $33,000 by that year.

Also recommended to lawmakers next year will be a resolution to abolish the Texas Amusement Machine

Commission which regulates and collects taxes on jukeboxes, pin-ball machines and other devices.

The action came when a commission request for $506,689 was received for next fiscal year. Instead of approving or trimming the request, the board deleted it from the budget appropriations and called for its abolition as a state agency.

A court decision earlier this year held the law setting up the commission unconstitutional but the commission made the budget request anyhow, anticipating lawmakers to put forth a constitutional bill that would have legalized it.

The motion to dry up the commission funds was placed by Bryan Democrat Sen. William Moore and was approved without opposition. Lt. Gov. William Hobby then instructed the legislative staff to dry up the resolution to dissolve the commission.

"Abie's Irish Rose" by Ann Nichols, a native of Dale's Mills, Ga., ran for 2,532 performances on Broadway.

BIG DISCOUNTS LISBON (UPI) — Some Portuguese resort hotels are offering discounts of up to 50 per cent to tourists in an effort to reverse the falling trend of business. A room and three meals at a south coast luxury hotel can now cost as little as $15 a day.

The energy crisis and political instability in Portugal this summer resulted in an estimated drop of 25 per cent in foreign tourism. Tourism also has suffered from reports of cholera outbreaks in the country, but authorities have said that if some basic rules of hygiene are observed the danger of infection is small.

FAMOUS BATTLE LEICESTER, England (UPI) — After 489 years as little more than a name, Bosworth Field is now a tourist attraction. The local county council spent $142,000 to spruce up the famous battleground where hunchbacked Richard III, the last of the Plantagenets, lost his crown and his life to the founder of the Tudor dynasty which produced Henry VIII and the first Elizabeth.

Richard Duke of Gloucester recently opened the battleground's "interpretative" center, built into a former farmhouse.

A stone marks the place where his predecessor-in-name and title was hacked to death on foot (remember his cry in Shakespeare: "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse.") A toy soldier battlefield models the battle, and the white bear banner of Richard III flies again on Ambion Hill, with Henry Tudor's red dragon standard waving in the valley.

ASK LAW OFFICERS

What's Being Done About Crime?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The tenth story in this series on organized crime is an interview with Robert C. Flowers, director of the Governor's Criminal Justice Council, about crime-fighting and crime-prevention activities now in progress.

The twelve stories in this public education program developed through the Texas Department of Public Safety are based on interviews with state law enforcement officials and representatives from the ten Texas Organized Crime Task Forces.

The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, co-chaired by DPS Director Col. Wilson E. Speir and Attorney General John Hill, sponsored the series in conjunction with the Governor's Criminal Justice Council, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Texas Department of Public Safety, the office of the Attorney General of Texas, and local law enforcement agencies.

AUSTIN — Everyone recognizes the threat of organized crime in Texas, but what is being done about it?

A great deal of counter-organization work by law enforcement authorities and much more to come, answers Robert C. Flowers, director of the Governor's Criminal Justice Council which funds federally-assisted police activities in the state.

"Law enforcement is not sitting on its hands," Flowers says. "There are over 50 special units of local police who work on a daily basis with crimes of an organized nature."

Our fight against organized crime is really just beginning in Texas, but we're certainly making a large and effective dent in enterprises sponsored by syndicate associations, Flowers said.

Such enterprises, reports the Texas Department of Public Safety, cover:

Bookmaking — perhaps the single largest financial return the syndicates have established in Texas. In a typical season, on football alone, the mob reaps $100 million from sports-minded Texas gamblers.

Narcotics — Texas' long borders offer vulnerable targets for traffickers in illegal drugs.

Fencing of Stolen Goods — merchandise, credit cards and securities change hands with ease through "businessmen" who specialize in hot items.

Motor Vehicle Theft — often used as a "proving ground" for novice crooks, who aspire to sub-boss and boss positions in the syndicate structure. Over 50,000 cars a year illegally change hands in Texas alone.

Pornography — dirty business with known ties to the national criminal syndicates.

Prostitution — an unsavory aid effect, in many cases, evidencing an expensive heroin habit.

Gang killings — mostly in fighting among career criminals to decide power and territorial rights to the local narcotics trade.

From the local policeman on the beat up through the vice squads, special narcotics units, intelligence units, sheriffs departments, special investigators and assistant district attorneys — all Texas law enforcement officers are putting forth 100 percent cooperation to dam up these illegal channels of organized crime in Texas.

The Criminal Justice Council, a division of the Office of Governor Dolph Briscoe, works with all Texas law enforcement agencies in developing and funding crime-fighting programs.

Through the CJC, we assisted in originating and funding ten special organized crime task forces, a brand-new concept in fighting organized crime nationwide, Flowers reports.

The ten Texas Task Forces are located in Amarillo, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, San Antonio, and Wichita Falls.

Their main purpose — although each may vary in function and method of operation — is to develop and disseminate intelligence on organized criminal activity, Flowers reported.

"Our job is to offer technical assistance in developing programs, monitoring allotted budgets, and funding these projects in cooperation with the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in Washington.

"Organized Crime Task Forces work closely with the Organized Crime Division of the Texas Attorney General's Office and specialists in several areas at the Department of Public Safety.

But these tools, as they are, are not deemed sufficient to bring the real criminals involved to justice.

"Surprisingly, Texas law does not define an organized criminal act."

Flowers declared: "We need strong laws and the means to execute and enforce them that aid officers and agents in breaking through the smokescreen of underlings with high risk, high visibility jobs to the core of men who actually finance and reap the profits from bookmaking operations, theft rings, and narcotics rings that we know exist in Texas.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Tuberculosis Home Treatment?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband's uncle lives with us, but was found to have tuberculosis. The doctor now is treating him at home, but with two children, we are worried. What precautions should we be taking? — Mrs. R.D.

TB being a communicable disease, I can understand that you are worried — but at the same time I can tell you that you really have little need to worry. The drugs now being used for TB are extremely effective and they start their work rapidly. This has made it possible to treat more patients at home. But the question has lingered: How safe is it?

A report at the annual meeting of the American Lung Association, by Dr. Richard L. Riley of Johns Hopkins and Dr. Allan S. Moodie of Baltimore, was encouraging.

They tested 80 members of families with TB patients being treated at home, using skin tests to see whether the TB germ had entered their bodies.

They found none who picked up the germ after treatment was begun.

Thus your precaution is to make sure that none of your family acquired the germ before uncle's case was discovered and treated. It can take as much as a couple of months before the skin test will show a contact, so a repeat test is wise.

recovered in fine shape. Four weeks later, a double hernia. But since then he has never had even a cold or fever.

My mother-in-law claims the baby's growth was stunted and he'll never be able to eat very much and will be very small.

Everytime she sees him she has to say something like "he'll need a brace because his feet point outward" or "he has bronchial asthma" because of light sporing.

Can you get her to understand that my baby is not an invalid? — Y.M.

Well, I'll try. The little boy has had more than his share of surgical problems for one so young, but you mother-in-law is totally off base in her opinions. Does she do this to needle you, or what?

His current state of health should convince her that she ought to stop making these gloomy predictions. Only answer I can think of for you to give her is just a calm, "The doctor says that isn't so."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are rheumatic fever and St. Vitus dance the same thing? In your first book you say that rheumatic fever sometimes results in "St. Vitus dance or Huntington's chorea." You are saying that Huntington's chorea is the same as St. Vitus dance, but it is not — Mrs. K.

You are correct; that was an error in the book, and it should have said Sydenham's chorea. Both types of chorea involve involuntary trembling and movement. Sydenham's, or St. Vitus dance, occurs occasionally as a complication of rheumatic fever but in time subsides.

Huntington's chorea occurs in older people and, unfortunately, does not subside spontaneously. Note to Mrs. M.G.: Yes, exercise, whether just walking or otherwise, is helpful in preventing varicose veins.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 25 cents.

TO RENT ADDRESS

Coeds Find Little Response To Ads

By ANN ARNOLD AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Two enterprising coeds at the University of Texas are offering to rent out their address to female students who want to conceal from their parents the fact that they are living with a boyfriend.

So far there haven't been any takers.

"Apparently girls don't worry about that anymore," said Anne, the graduate student who placed a classified ad in the Daily Texan, the student newspaper. She refused to reveal her full name.

"We thought it was a good idea but it just didn't work out. It looks like we may have to give up."

After three days in the newspaper, the coeds' classified ad had drawn only two calls from curious reporters and numerous calls from other girls also interested in renting out their addresses.

"There are more people willing to rent out their addresses than are interested," Anne said.

Anne and her roommate came up with the idea as a way of reducing their rent bill without crowding a third roommate into their house.

For $50 a month they offered to rent their address and some storage space and to relay telephone messages from inquiring parents.

Such an arrangement would be attractive, Anne thought, to girls whose actual living arrangements could cause problems when parents came to visit.

"We thought we could get someone to move her things in and when her parents visited she could be living here when they showed up."

Anne, in five years at the Austin campus, said she's seen numerous such arrangements in the past.

So she was surprised at the poor response to the ad.

"I don't know if people don't understand the ad or if it's just not important to girls anymore what their parents think about their living arrangements," she said.

LABOR NEWSPAPER CINCINNATI (UPI) — The "Working Man's Shield" was the name of the first labor newspaper in America, published here in 1831.

Dear Consumer

Coming to Terms With Insurance

By Virginia Knauer Special Assistant to the President and Director Office of Consumer Affairs Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Insurance comes in many forms. It can protect you and your family from financial loss resulting from theft, accidents, illness and death—and also from such natural disasters as floods, tornadoes and storms.

But buying insurance can be complicated, especially if you do not understand the terminology used by insurance agents.

So here's help—an insurance "vocabulary list":

- POLICY—Legal document stating the terms of insurance coverage and payments to be made. PREMIUM—Amount of money you pay for insurance, usually in regular installments.
