President Continuing Democratic Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford showed none of the strain of his Midwest campaign trip early today as he bounded off Air Force One, confident that his attacks on Democrats were helping GOP candidates.

As the jet flew back from appearances in Des Moines, Melvin, Ill., and Chicago, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said of the President, "he does feel that in some of the places where he has been, the Republican candidates seem to be coming up."

Nessen said Ford used campaign in South Carolina, Kansas and South Dakota as examples of areas where the polls showed GOP candidates improving their chances.

"This is not an exclusive list but it's what I heard him talking about tonight," Nessen said.

In Chicago, Ford expressed another feeling about the polls when speaking of a congressional race where Republican Samuel H. Young was a definite underdog against Democrat Abner J. Mikva.

"I know what the polls tell me," Ford told 950 people who had paid $250 to see him. "I don't believe it."

The President appeared tired as he spoke. He frequently digressed from his prepared text and the applause was more polite than enthusiastic.

But his language — which has been stronger and stronger as his month of campaigning progressed — was still strong.

"How did inflation get out of control?" he asked.

"There are many villains, but the biggest burden of guilt lies on the shoulders of the biggest spenders.

"And the fact is that one political party has run the Congress and held open the nation's purse strings for 38 of the last 42 years, and for the past straight 20 years.

"That party is the Democratic party and we cannot allow it to drive the budget deeper into the red and the rate of inflation higher into the blue."

In Des Moines, Ford

sounded the same theme. "It was heavy Democratic majorities over the years which helped create most of the problems we are faced with today," he said.

He said he wanted the Democrats to stop "undermining our foreign relations with handcuff-like restrictions on the policies of the President and the secretary of state."

Ford got a warm personal welcome everywhere he went, despite between 500 and 1,000 demonstrators in Chicago, whose causes included more jobs, getting the CIA out of Chile and boycotting grapes.

A sign above the crowd in Des Moines said: "Pardon Me, I'm a Bankrupt Cattleman."

He was mobbed at a $50-ahead reception in a Chicago hotel, pressed toward the bar in the back of the room.

The President did not want a drink, but it took him five minutes to go 45 feet, and the Secret Service said that should not have happened.

Melvin is located in Ford County, and from the warmth of his reception it could have been named after him. "Hey, ho, this is Republican country, I know," he said as he stepped out of the helicopter.

Housewives wept and there were shouts of "Hi, Jerry." The crowd, six or seven deep, pressed forward to touch his hand.

About 450 people live in Melvin. Between 8,000 and 9,000 were at the fairgrounds to see Ford.

He thanked the retiring local congressman, Les Arends, the assistant GOP leader in the House, for the "close, warm, deep, personal relationship that I don't think has been matched by any other I've had in Congress."

In Iowa, GOP state legislator David Stanley is considered an underdog against Rep. John Culver, a Democrat, in the Senate contest.

In Illinois, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III is favored over George Burditt, and Democrats are given a good chance of capturing 3 of the 14 GOP congressional seats.

TO STOP MEDICARE County Judge Moves To Waiver HEW Order

By ALETHA DAVIS
Gray county Judge Don Cain, in an attempt to offset a Department of Health, Education and Welfare decision to cut off Medicare aid to the McLean Hospital, has appealed to Sen. John Tower, Congressman Bob Price and Sen. Lloyd Benson, for assistance in obtaining a waiver of the Registered Nurse requirement of HEW, P.L. 91-690 (Burelson Amendment).

In the program, a hospital must meet all of the statutory provisions of section 1861 and be in compliance with the conditions of participation established by Secretary Health and Education, and Welfare.

Additionally, it must be making the best use of its resources to improve the quality of care being rendered and be free of hazards to the health and safety of patients, Cain said.

The notice further indicated the McLean Hospital did not meet the requirement which states a hospital must provide 24-hour nursing service rendered or supervised by a registered professional nurse.

office of impending changes, but that his administrative assistant had been working on the matter, and he himself would continue to do so.

The congressman also expressed concern over the prospective loss of the facility to public use, also pointing out the utilization of the hospital by travellers.

1-40 is one of the busiest highways across the country. The closing of the McLean Hospital would leave the area between Amarillo and Shamrock, with one hospital at Groom, he added.

He is seeking the action because the hospital referred to in the notice of Medicare cessation to the McLean Hospital listed another hospital within 30 minutes driving time of McLean.

Judge Cain pointed out the McLean Hospital and Highland General Hospital in Pampa, are county hospitals, both operated by a Board of Managers appointed by Commissioners under the State Hospital law.

The hospital referred to is Shamrock General, which is in Wheeler County. Medicare patients make up 60 percent of the McLean patient load. The board of managers has spent $18,000 this year to comply with the HEW requirements and has another $10,000 earmarked for this year. The HEW decision is based on the shortage of nurses.

The facility has been notified Medicare benefits will cease Nov. 8, 1974.

Thomas M. Tierney, director of Bureau of Health Insurance, told the McLean Hospital a hearing could be arranged before an examiner of Social Security Administration. The written request for such action would have to be accompanied by any evidence or arguments which the hospital officials deemed suitable in change of any part of the HEW decision.

The letter from HEW notified the McLean Hospital a review of facts by the Social Security Administration had determined the McLean Hospital no longer met the requirements for participation as a provider of services in the Health Insurance for the Aged and Disabled Program (Medicare).

Nazis Protest In Boston Intergration Of Schools

BOSTON (UPI) — Five uniformed members of the American Nazi Party were blocked from entering a federal building today to deliver to U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity a letter opposing his order to desegregate Boston schools.

A yellow bus bearing huge "White Power" signs arrived at the federal building at 11 a.m. Five men wearing brown shirts and red swastika armbands emerged from the vehicle and attempted for 20 minutes to enter the building. They were pushed back a number of times by General Services Administration police.

Among the group was Matt Koehl, national commander of the Nazis. Koehl, when confronted at one door by a plainclothes federal official, said, "I am here to hand deliver a letter to Judge Garrity. I would like to enter the building."

The official answered, "Get lost. You're not getting inside."

"Do you mean to say this building is off limits to the public?" Koehl asked.

"I mean to tell you it's off limits to you," the official replied.

Four other uniformed members of the group remained inside the bus.

Three members of the Nazi party were arrested Thursday on state charges of attempting to incite a riot. The charges were later reduced to disorderly conduct.

A federal grand jury Thursday handed down the first indictments for civil rights violations stemming from implementation of Garrity's order. The charges involved the alleged beating of a black man by two whites.

Racial fights at Hyde Park and Jamaica Plain

High Schools on Thursday resulted in suspension of seven students. A 17-year-old black student enroute to English High School was sprayed in the face by whites with a chemical, officials said.

Officials said 181 of the 358 blacks scheduled to be bused to previously all-white South Boston High School showed up for classes Thursday.

But his language — which has been stronger and stronger as his month of campaigning progressed — was still strong.

"How did inflation get out of control?" he asked.

Judge Agrees To Give Nixon Tapes Reports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today agreed to supply former President Richard M. Nixon the transcripts of all White House tapes that have been played or may be used as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Sirica's ruling came without comment before the day's court proceedings began with John W. Dean's eighth day on the stand.

Nixon's lawyer had earlier asked the court to supply the transcripts in case Nixon does appear as a witness in the trial of his five former aides and associates charged with the cover-up conspiracy.

Dean's stint on the witness stand was coming to an end today, and the only major cross-examination left was being conducted by David Bress, lawyer for defendant Robert Mardian.

The government has indicated it would like convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt put on the stand next as a court witness. Lawyers are allowed a broader range of questioning when a person is designated as a court witness.

President Plans Conference For Livestock Men

In a meeting with the President two weeks ago, Congressman Bob Price of Pampa was asked to submit a list of livestock, feeders and cow-calf ranchers representing a cross-section of the livestock industry from all over the United States.

The veteran member of the House Agriculture Committee recommended to the President that he meet directly with responsible and knowledgeable leaders in the livestock industry. It was the Congressman's feeling that this would be the best opportunity for the President to learn firsthand about economic conditions in the industry.

The conference will be held Wednesday, Oct. 30, at the White House.

"Wednesday's conference in Washington will be informal," Price said. "The White House plans a larger meeting later so that additional producers can be heard and a broader spectrum can be represented."

IN KIWANIS ADDRESS Price Notes Importance Of Free, Open Market

Citing examples of past and proposed regulatory laws, Price opposed what he termed "arbitrary government decrees which only create additional unemployment by causing small businesses and marginal workers to be forced out of making a living."

Price told the Pampa Kiwanians "it is our system of the free and open market place which has allowed Americans to build and create the greatest civilization with the highest standard of living for its people in the history of the world."

But he warned that a "new regulatory ethic is on the rise which seeks absolute government control over business."

City Officials To Speak At State Meetings

Two Pampa city officials will speak at the statewide conferences to be held next week in Fort Worth and Galveston.

Mayor R.D. Wilkerson will speak at the 62nd annual conference of the Texas Municipal League in Fort Worth and City Tax Collector Aubrey L. Jones will address the annual conference of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers in Galveston.

Both meetings run from Sunday through Tuesday.

Mayor Wilkerson is expected to oppose a resolution to be introduced at the TML meeting urging creation of a state utilities commission to regulate electric and gas rates for Texas municipalities.

Jones will be the principal speaker at a Tuesday breakfast meeting of the TAAO. As the only active charter member of the group, Jones has been asked to talk on history of the organization from its founding back in the 1940s.

Accompanying Mayor Wilkerson to the Fort Worth TML conference will be City Manager Mack Wofford, Ward 4 City Commissioner Linden Shepherd, Public Works Director R.B. Cooke, City Secretary S.M. Chittenden, City Atty. Bob Gordon, Police Chief Jim Conner and Fire Chief Finace Dyer.

Attending the TAAO meeting in Galveston with Jones will be Monty Gordon, deputy tax collector, and James McCarley, city tax department real estate appraiser.

Both the Fort Worth and Galveston conference will wind up with annual banquets on Tuesday night.

The two groups of city officials will return to Pampa Wednesday.

Scouts Planning Battle Pageant At Area Camp

A Centennial pageant marking the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Adobe Walls will be presented Saturday by Boy Scouts in the Adobe Walls Council at Camp M.K. Brown.

Adobe Walls Council takes in 15 counties, 12 in Texas and three in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

An all-day festivity is planned by the Scouts which include eight Pampa troops with 75 to 100 Scouts enrolled, according to David Southern, AWC official here.

The public is invited by the BSA to attend the event Saturday: Camp M.K. Brown is located east of Pampa on Highway 1152. Large signs mark the camp exit between Wheeler and Mobeetie. Dinner will be served to visitors for a $1 fee.

The pageant is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Southern said everyone is urged to visit the camp anytime Saturday, stay for dinner and enjoy the pageant.

Demonstrations of projects depicting the area during the pioneer era will also be on public display.

Guerrilla Boycott Threatens Talks

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — A guerrilla threat to boycott summit talks left the Arab foreign ministers conference in turmoil today and endangered efforts to negotiate a peace agreement with Israel.

Conference sources said a Palestine Liberation Organization boycott of the weekend talks would almost certainly wreck the attempt by Arab heads of state to work out a joint policy toward peacetalks.

The dispute between the PLO and Jordan over representation of the Palestinian refugees disrupted a three-day-old foreign ministers conference trying to arrange the summit talks.

The PLO claims to represent all refugees displaced by the creation of Israel in 1948, Jordan, however, claims to represent Palestinians living within its borders.

Jordan and the PLO are also at odds over which should take over abandoned sections of the occupied West Bank region if Israel agrees to give up the area.

At a news conference Thursday night, PLO delegate Said Kamal said the ministerial conference had cold-shouldered Palestinian demands. He said a PLO boycott of the summit "cannot be ruled out."

After seven hours of ministerial talks Thursday, Kamal said the PLO delegation "honestly felt that there has been complete silence from all the Arab countries" in response to guerrilla demands.

He said the guerrillas contacted PLO leader Yasser Arafat about the crisis. He said Arafat's attendance at the summit depends on the outcome of the ministerial conference.

Diplomats said Thursday's session was "stormy" with Jordanian Foreign Minister Zeid Rifai insisting the refugee dispute be solved at the summit and PLO delegate Farouk Kaddoumi accusing Jordan of "a long black record of treachery."

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said President Anwar Sadat wants the summit to endorse Egypt's diplomatic drive to get back all Israeli-occupied lands and achieve self-determination for the Palestinians.

In Israel, the National Religious party voted 301-193 Thursday to join the ruling Labor coalition of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, boosting his majority in parliament from one seat to 11.

The NRP, however, reserved the right to vote against Rabin. The party has insisted on Israel keeping all of the West Bank, which was captured from Jordan during the 1967 Middle East War.

The Civil Rights Movement, a three-seat coalition favoring territorial concessions to Jordan, said it will decide Sunday whether to pull out of the government because of the NRP entry.

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Affront Still With Us

The vigilant Wall Street Journal points out that 657 young men were indicted in the first six months of 1974 for failure to register under the Selective Service law.

In fact, federal prosecutors have obtained 2,328 such indictments under the law since establishment of the all-volunteer Army.

Although President Nixon successfully put an end to physical conscription, Congress retained most sections of the draft law, including a requirement that 18-year-old males register.

The Journal quoted John Dewhurst, deputy director of Selective Service, to the effect that the registration is "insurance." He explained that if an emergency causes Congress to reinstitute the draft, the armed forces will have a ready pool to manpower to draw from.

As economist Milton Friedman, who helped conduct Mr. Nixon's draft study pointed out, conscription amounts to an unequal tax. It is a tax upon the bodies of males in a particular group. We regard it as involuntary servitude. Instead of working at a job and paying part of his income to the government as a tax, the inductee works full time for the government and receives a partial income for personal upkeep.

The problem is how to unwind the system while retaining a workable national defense. The congressional solution was to put the military on an all-volunteer basis, but to keep the draft mechanism handy. The only thing you can say in favor of that solution is that it's not as bad as actual conscription. It was a step in the right direction, provided, however, the improvement continues.

Keeping the registration requirement is a galling affront to individual liberty. The longer it persists the more galling it becomes. It is a gun barrel pointed at the bridge of the nose, not tolerable for very long. Young rebels might take notice, however, the glaring injustice was publicized by a Wall Street paper.

The Family Farmer

A reader writes to us lamenting the demise of the family farm. He sees the transformation toward corporate farms as a tragedy.

No doubt many people share our reader's concern over the disappearance of the family farm. It is one of the hallmarks of progress that old ways give way to new ways, but we cannot agree that this must be bad in itself.

It may be true that those who live close to the land have more constant reminders of the value of thrift and hard work, but the farmer in our reader's image has no monopoly on stalwart character, independence and self-reliance.

It is nearer the mark to observe that those farmers who did not recognize and practice the virtues of thrift, hard work and self-reliance were failures at farming and they found a haven in the urban areas where someone else stood the risks of capital investment to provide employment.

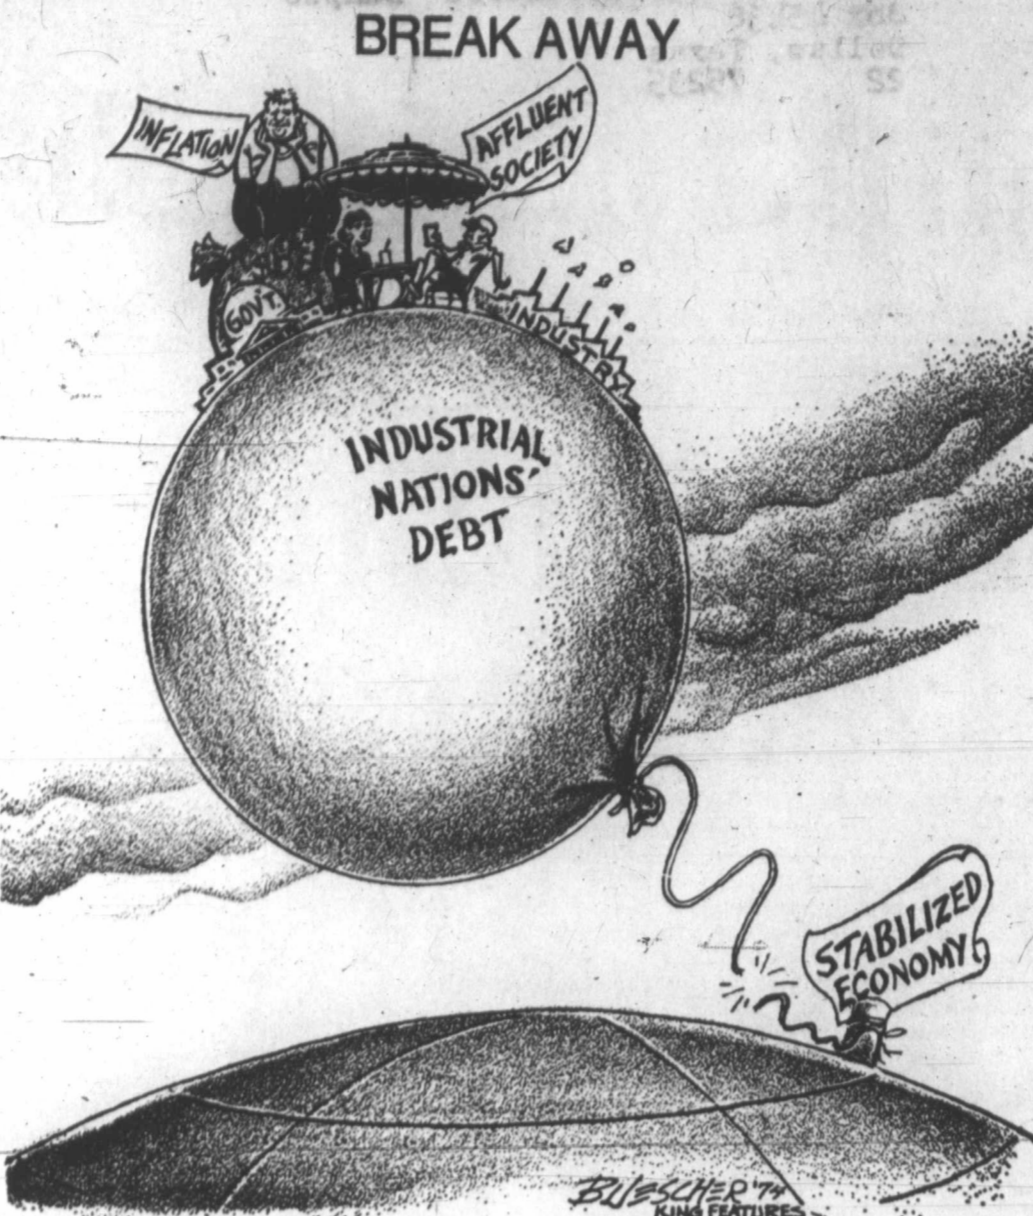

This does not mean that all who left the family farms were failures. Nor does it mean that the failing farmer always was a character failure. There simply are too many variables in the economics of agriculture.

Our ancestors did not engage in small family farming for the purpose of developing high moral principles in their offspring. They engaged in farming so that they might have food to eat, shelter from the elements and clothing for their bodies. That, for the most part, was the only way to survive and survival meant hard work, strict conservation practices and the wisdom to recognize error.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

INSIDE THE VATICAN: Chavez Welcomed By Pope

By VICTOR RIESEL
NEW YORK — Cesar Chavez, maker of social waves in the fields and on the streets of America, has just returned from a most uniquely successful trip abroad. The 47-year-old United Farm Workers leader was warmly received in a private audience by Pope Paul VI.

Those who were with Chavez when he visited the Vatican report the slim open-shirted California Mexican-American received "the red carpet treatment" in the Vatican. His Holiness was sympathetic. He had strong words of support for the table grapes-lettuce-wine boycott leader. And support was expressed for Msgr. Joseph Donnelly, chairman of the U.S. Bishops' Committee on Farm Labor, one of Chavez's staunchest allies.

With Chavez was his long-time mentor and champion, Msgr. George Higgins, Secretary for Research, U.S. Catholic Conference, headquartered in Washington, D.C. This visit to the center of world Catholicism marks the ultimate in ecclesiastical support I believe any labor leader has won for his cause.

It marked the end of a long European journey and the winning and welding of clerical support unprecedented in the free world. It, therefore, becomes part of the most significant developments to be recorded in the annals of labor history. It blends the spiritual support of the Catholics with that of Jewish, Methodist and the Protestant organizations of clergymen and moves them into the jurisdictional battle with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (IBT).

The IBT now has virtually all but one or two of the field workers contracts in the California lettuce and vegetable valleys which feed America and much of Europe.

In the clerical coalition now officially behind Chavez, for example, is the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis.

Two months ago the Bay State rabbinical council actually declared non-black Aztec eagle grapes and lettuce non-kosher. The famed eagle is the UFW union label. The Teamsters pack their produce under the equally known twin horse head and wheel, symbol of the union now almost 100 years old.

In the past the Board of Church and Society of the United Methodist Church moved for similar support of the UFW label.

Thus Chavez, having been to the summit, and with other religious leaders backing him — though not quite unanimously — returned to the U.S. He sped to the national AFL-CIO headquarters, reported he was "inspired." Then he flew back to California to plan strategy with his own high command for a renewed battle with the Teamsters for leadership of some 50,000 field workers — now mostly in the IBT which, with 2.2 million members, is the free world's biggest union.

Its general president Frank Fitzsimmons, himself a devout Catholic, charges the Chavez boycott is failing in America and thus the latter has had to turn to European leaders for support. It apparently has been a successful temporal as well as spiritual turn. Chavez had a long talk with the full "Executive" of the militant Jack Jones' giant British Transport and General Workers Union. It's all right, said Jack to Chavez, he hoped the "California grapes and lettuce rot in the (British) docks."

To Chavez then, this is the moment to dispatch his legions of pickets across the U.S. Most of this past week in Keene (Calif.) he and his executive council met from 7 a.m. to late evening. They discussed his reports on European labor and Catholic support. They planned for their new offensive.

To give it steam, old-timer Fred Ross, the Saul Alinsky social revolutionary who discovered Chavez back in 1942, and for whom Chavez apprenticed for a decade, gave a one-week course over in New Jersey for some 60 to 75 neophyte UFW organizers. Ross will be back in January for another workshop. Meanwhile, similar hit-the-street boycott training is under way in many sections of the nation.

Supplementing this is Chavez's private meetings with influential non-Catholic clergymen who are secretaries of other religious councils. Chavez has been urging them to organize regional boycotts as did the Massachusetts rabbis.

There is no doubt of the enormity of this coming battle. AFL-CIO president George Meany has been flaying the Teamsters. He and Leonard Woodcock's United Auto Workers have been supplying Chavez with the logistics needed by the tiny union. During 1973, the AFL-CIO taxed itself $1.5 million for the UFW. The auto workers leaders, who helped on Chavez's technical European trip needs with routing and door-opening all the way from Scandinavia to Dusseldorf, Germany, contribute $10,000 weekly to the black Eagle banner. Thus in 1973, the UFW reported it took in $4,347,375. It spent $5,207,699.

On Jan. 1, 1974, it had some $259,000 in cash bank accounts. So it's in the red. But many of the AFL-CIO unions are quietly contributing more money than boycott pickets. This reports that the UFW and its campaign are dead are exaggerated.

It's not quite certain what the Teamster reaction will be. It can counterthrust. It can stay silent. It can retaliate by not coming to the aid of Chavez's labor allies and boycott supporters who call Teamsters headquarters for help daily.

This is no ordinary internal labor feud. A new socio-religious era has been born.

Kissinger's Peace Effort Needs Middle East Miracle
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 — Outcome of Secretary Kissinger's furious maneuvering for time in the Middle East is highly iffy.

Characteristically, the peripatetic Secretary of State talks optimistically and confidently under the circumstances, that's to be expected. After all, what else can he do!

And there are definitely favorable factors.

Kissinger has made headway in his hectic wheeling and dealing to avert another war in this strife-wracked cockpit. Key question is how much headway.

Because menacingly offsetting that are critical obstacles.

Among the gravest are some more or less beyond his agility and power to do very much about. How adversely they affect his anxious peace parleying will be considerably determined by what happens at the conference of Arab chiefs next weekend in Tabat, Morocco.

That's the unannounced reason for Kissinger's stopover there.

The young Sultan has long been on good terms with the U.S. Morocco is a big beneficiary of U.S. economic and military aid — to date, more than $850 million. Also, while Moslem, Morocco has not been directly involved in the series of Middle East wars.

Hopefully, Kissinger is counting on the Sultan to help preserve peace.

One thing is certain: Kissinger needs all the help he can get.

After a week of strenuous scrambling and dickering among the opposing capitals, he emerged with a hand of fateful cards comprising both good news and bad news.

The Good News

Potentially, ace card in this grim game is the basic reluctance of Egypt and Israel to engage in another round of fighting — which almost certainly would be the most costly and devastating they've waged.

Both countries are aggressively arming to the teeth — on the basis of what happened in the October 1973 conflict. Also, leaders in both talk tough and rough.

President Sadat particularly gives vent every now and then to a truculent blast of fire and brimstone.

But this threatening rhetoric is largely for home consumption in Sadat's case and for other Arabs, too, especially Palestinians and Syrians.

In reality, responsible Egyptian and Israeli leaders are acutely aware there is nothing to be gained in another armed conflict — almost certain to leave both countries ferociously mauled and maimed.

They want to avert that. They definitely want a period of peace and internal development.

The same goes for Jordan. King Hussein makes no bones that he knows full well his small country has everything to lose and virtually nothing to gain in another (and cataclysmic) war.

This situation is Kissinger's trump card — and he's playing it for all it's worth.

That's why the U.S. is quietly shipping 100,000 tons of wheat of Egypt for what amounts to giveaway terms — a $16.5 million low-interest, long-term credit. This is in striking contrast to the Russian grain deal which was junked: Sadat is getting the wheat he asked for — and virtually gratis.

Similarly, that's why the administration is vigorously pressuring Congress for $250 million in economic aid to Egypt, as well as upwards of $100 million in economic and military aid to Jordan.

The Bad News

Offsetting these favorable cards are three loaded with boobytraps that could turn the Middle East into a raging inferno.

Most menacing is Syria, which in the past year has been immensely rearmed by Russia and become a virtual Soviet dependency. The estimated $2 billion in Russian weapons include 700 T-62 heavy battle tanks; 40 MIG-23 latest model fighter-bombers, and scores of SA-3 and SA-6 surface-to-air missiles — which proved so costly to the Israelis in the 1973 fighting.

Also, and in some ways the most sinister of all, are an unknown number of SCUD ballistic missiles and a round 150 FROG bombardment rockets. These weapons are a direct threat to Tel Aviv and every other Israeli city, port and industrial center.

Accompanying these armaments are pilots, technicians and specialists from Russia, North Vietnam, North Korea and Cuba — who are both manning this hardware and training Syrians to operate and maintain it.

Under Egyptian wheedling and large-scale money handouts from oil-rich Saudi Arabia, Syria's President Hafez al-Assad has been relatively quiescent. How long he can, or will, remain so is conjectural — under Soviet prodding on the one hand and the intensifying clamor of Syrian warhawks for recovery of the Golan Heights on the other.

Syria was badly clawed in the 1973 fighting, losing hundreds of tanks and considerable territory. Not only is the demand for "revenge" insistent, but Syria is now more massively armed than ever before. It's a toss-up how long Assad remains peaceful.

Viciously churning this witch's cauldron are the Palestinians and Libya's equally extremist strongman Colonel Muammar Qaddafi.

The faction-ridden Palestinians have nothing to lose in a new war; and Qaddafi, who talks venomously and is spending huge amounts of Libya's oil billions for weapons, has never done any fighting. But he and the Palestinians are doing their utmost to undercut Kissinger and precipitate another conflict.

Qaddafi's chief inducement is making his country a sort of Arab arsenal.

In addition to the 110 Mirage fighters he bought from France several years ago, he is in the process of acquiring another 40 "latest model," plus 300 heavy tanks and scores of SA-3 and SA-4 missiles from Russia. Ironically, Libya does not have either the pilots or tank and missile crews for this hardware costing hundreds of millions of dollars.

With a population of slightly more than two million, Libya has around 25 pilots capable of flying Mirage jets, and no missile personnel. Its armor crews are novices, with no combat experience.

In short, Qaddafi has plenty of weapons but has to depend on others to man them.

Also adversely and perversely in the background is oil-rich Iraq. It, too, is being heavily armed by Russia, and its pro-Soviet regime is doing everything it can to undermine peace efforts. But the radical-socialist Iraqi rulers have their hands full trying to crush the revolting Kurds, who have been fighting for independence since 1947, as well as feuding with Iran over domination of the Persian Gulf.

Currently, this long-smoldering struggle is in a non-shooting stage. But it could erupt into battling again at any time. Iran has adamant claims to the oil-rich Gulf and has vehemently made it clear it is determined to hold onto them.

That's why the Shah is spending billions buying latest model U.S. warplanes and other armaments.

It may be that Secretary Kissinger can somehow achieve peace in the war-threatened Middle East. But he manifestly has his work cut out for him. A miracle certainly would be a big and timely help.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I am a good Catholic woman. God gave me 13 children and I am proud of it. When people find out how many kids I have, they look at me like I committed some kind of crime. I am not on welfare, and I am not asking anybody else to help me raise them.

Some people ask me if I ever heard of birth control. I have, but the only method permitted by the Catholic Church is called "the rhythm system."

Why can't people mind their own business?

PROUD MOTHER

DEAR PROUD: One reason may be that they are concerned about a very real problem, which cannot be ignored. It's overpopulation.

At present, the world population is increasing at the rate of about 68 million a year — much more than the total population of Great Britain, France, Italy, or West Germany!

Every day there are 185,000 more mouths to feed. This means that the present world population of 3,632 million will double by the year 2010!

But criticizing parents of large families after the fact strikes me as not only irrelevant to future solutions, but as meddling and unkind.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who will be 16 his next birthday, is fast-talking, persuasive and attractive. Jeff can charm the birds out of the trees when he wants to. He keeps making remarks like: "I can't wait until my next birthday so I can drive." He's all set to sign up for driver's ed in school.

He doesn't have a car to drive, and we hadn't planned on buying him one, but he's been buttering up his grandparents lately, hoping they will buy him a car for his sixteenth birthday. (I have news for him. He still needs OUR permission to drive.)

Jeff's grades are just so-so, he doesn't always keep his word, and he has to show a lot more maturity and responsibility before we'll let him drive.

He had a summer job and didn't save a dime.

How do we get it across to this boy that just because the law says he's old enough to drive doesn't necessarily mean he's going to?

MOM AND POP

DEAR M. AND P.: You seem articulate enough. Why don't you just TELL him?

DEAR ABBY: I would like to just walk away from my home and husband, and start a new life somewhere where nobody knows me.

I hate being married. I've been married for 25 years. I have no children at home. I didn't really want to get married and I didn't have to, but in those days, social pressures made a girl feel like if she wasn't married there must be something the matter with her.

Abby, could this feeling I have be the "change of life" blues?

RESTLESS

DEAR RESTLESS: Could be. Women in their middle years (men, too) sometimes become depressed and dissatisfied with their lot. That "let-down" feeling could be caused by a hormonal change. Get a thorough physical checkup without delay, and tell your doctor what's on your mind. I promise you, he's heard that tune before. There IS help for you.

ALT Plans Presentation Of 'Tom Sawyer' Play

The Amarillo Little Theatre's multimedia presentation of "Tom Sawyer" is a tricky treat for all. The adaptation of Mark Twain's American classic has been given special treatment for the Theatre's Peter Piper Players, the performing company of the Children's Theatre Academy.

The result is a memorable theatrical experience combining the technique of film and live performance, according to Bill Sherr, ALT representative.

Performances are scheduled Oct. 30, 31, with two shows each night beginning at 7 and 8:30 p.m. In addition, there will be a Saturday matinee Nov. 2 at 2:30.

Tickets for any of the performances are available at the Amarillo Little Theatre box office in Wolflin Village (355-9991). Student tickets are on sale for $1 with adult tickets priced at $1.50.

Troops or other children's groups will be admitted at the special rate of 75 cents each.

Following the evening performances of "Tom Sawyer" on Oct. 30 and 31, the audience will have a chance to explore the spooky "Injun Joe's Cave," where the youngsters will find additional thrills and refreshments provided. Children are encouraged to come in costume if they wish.

Want To Use A Hot Chair?

ANGOLA La. (UPI) — Louisiana state penitentiary Warden C. Murray Henderson said Thursday he knew nothing about a reported request to borrow the Texas electric chair.

"If anybody called they did it without my knowledge and consent," Henderson said.

"Certainly we don't have to borrow anything from Texas," Henderson said.

Henderson was asked about the condition of Louisiana's electric chair, last used in the early 1960's, after Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Ron Taylor said Louisiana had requested use of Texas' electric chair but was turned down.

PROXIMIRE CHARGES

HUD Improperly Increased Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has improperly increased the interest rates Congress established in its new housing program, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

HUD responded that the additional fees were the same as the ones under other government mortgage programs and that the effective interest rate was 9 1/2 per cent — still higher than the level Congress established — "not 9 1/2 per cent, as charged by Senator Proxmire."

President Ford signed a law last week providing additional government-insured mortgages for homes not covered by FHA and VA financing — $19 billion last year.

It allows the Government National Mortgage Association to spend $3 million more to back private mortgages.

Proxmire said that Congress had established an 8 1/2 per cent interest rate for these mortgages but that HUD had raised the rates to 9 1/2 per cent.

He said HUD set the initial rate at 8 1/2 per cent and imposed additional fees of 3/2 per cent for bad debt reserves, 2 per cent for origination, and a 1 per cent commitment fee.

The Ford administration has converted a congressionally mandated 8 1/2 interest rate into a 9 1/2 percent effective level by artful deception," Proxmire said.

He added that he calculated that the change would "price over 4 million families out of the mortgage purchase program." He explained his reasoning this way:

"On a $30,000 mortgage loan, the additional fees imposed by HUD will come to $1,950. In theory, $1,500 of this amount is payable by the builder or seller and $450 by the buyer. In practice, the buyer will wind up paying the entire $1,950 in the form of higher prices.

"These fees will thus cost the 100,000 families who are expected to be 'assisted' by the program nearly $200 million."

HUD Secretary James T. Lynn responded to Proxmire's comments by saying "I would like to announce that we have already committed $172 million under this program in the past two days. Need I say more?"

Moscow Gets Siberian Gas From Pipeline

MOSCOW (UPI) — Natural gas from remote Siberia has started flowing directly into Moscow for the first time, the official government news agency reported today.

"On the eve of the 57th anniversary of the October revolution, gas from the Tyumen region reached the capital of the USSR," the news agency Tass said.

The breakthrough was achieved with completion of a 1,800-mile pipeline which the Soviet press said snakes across 13 Russian regions and republics and crosses 23 waterways, including the wide Ob and Volga Rivers.

Press reports said workers had to fell thousands of miles of forests and drain large areas of marshland to bring the gas from the Medvezhye field in the Tyumen region of northwest Siberia.

Newspapers said it took nine months to lay the line which in the near future will have a capacity of 14.5 billion cubic meters of natural gas a year, several times more than current supplies to Moscow.

Moscow is the westernmost outpost of the line. Before, natural gas used in the capital came from other areas or was carried in liquefied form into the city by tankers.

News reports said completion of the project provided a significant boost to Moscow energy supplies and was a major advance in Soviet efforts to harness the resources of the desolate icelands of Siberia.

Tass said "the new pipeline will ensure a steady and adequate gas supply for the population and industries in the European part of the country."

FmHA Officials Explain Livestock Loan Program

An Emergency Livestock Credit Act, enacted by Congress July 25, 1974, was designed to aid farmers and ranchers who have suffered heavy operational losses during the past year.

Lynn Futch, director of the Farmers Home Administration for the state, and J.D. McKenzie, chief, farmer programs, are on a tour through the Panhandle explaining the program and discussing eligibility requirements with area bankers. Credit Production Associates and Farmers Home Administration officials.

Twenty area bankers met with the pair Thursday at First National Bank.

Futch, former head of Credit Production here, said the Farmers Home Administration is guaranteeing eighty percent of each loan under the new act. Futch pointed out Texas is the leading state in processing the aid loans. Some 115 loans have been guaranteed by FmHA in the state, totaling over $17 million.

The Farmers Home Administration guarantees loans made by banks or other legally organized lenders to ranchers and farmers in the livestock business to permit them to maintain their operation. This loan guarantee program will be in effect through July 25, 1975. It may be extended for six months if the secretary of agriculture determines it is needed to help the livestock industry obtain sufficient credit.

The FmHA guaranteed loan programs are available to all qualified applicants regardless of race, color, creed, sex or national origin, Futch explained.

Loans can be made by individuals, partnerships and corporations who are established, bona fide farmers and ranchers.

Those primarily engaged in livestock operation are those applicants whose majority of gross income is derived from livestock operations, and whose time primarily is devoted to livestock operations, according to the FmHA fact sheet.

FmHA will guarantee up to 80 percent of losses on loans made by lending institutions. No fees will be charged by FmHA for the guarantee. The total loans guaranteed for a borrower cannot exceed $250,000.

Funds obtained through the program may be used for agricultural production purposes essential to conducting livestock operations, including replacing livestock, providing feed, paying usual charges for grazing permits or use of land and buildings, providing farm machinery, moving livestock, and for building or repairing pens and fences. Loans cannot be used to expand livestock operations.

Former Pampan Says Little Box Doubles Auto Gasoline Mileage

IT'S IN THE BOX — Dee R. Love, has convinced wife, Nadeane, the device in the box does work. Love has perfected a gas-stretching chamber he promises will double mileage. The device is enclosed in the box on the test car for protection from curious eyes, but the "gadget" itself is tiny. Love says. The former Pampan has spent the past 10 months perfecting the theory he says occurred to him while he was a student in Pampa High School.

Dee R. Love, former Pampa electrician, says he had an idea for increasing gas mileage "back there in 1933" while a student in Pampa High School.

Love recalls his physics teacher's reaction to the theory — "If that would work, somebody would already be doing it. The theory is too simple to be passed up."

Well, 40 years later, Love has proved his theory will work, it is practical, and the system costs about $25 to install in a car.

Armed with a portfolio of road test results Love visited Pampa this week, and just in case somebody might doubt his invention, he brought a battered foreign car showing nearly 78,000 miles on the speedometer, and it's equipped with Love's "little idea" for stretching more miles out of each gallon of gas.

Skeptics are welcome to look through his record book. That car has been tested uphill, downhill, in cold weather, hot weather, rain, wind and you name it — the mileage recorded while it's been "hooked up" to Love's "heat chamber" is just about double the mileage he coaxed from the vehicle with a lean carburetor.

"It works," the electrician, would-be inventor flatly states. "But I'm through with this thing — I've got another idea now that will make this look little."

Love said the device, small in size, will not guarantee 40 miles per gallon, but it will double (or thereabout) gas mileage on any car. He points to a road test to show unleaded gas really tested out best. He's tried them all, leaded and unleaded.

Love says he built the first working model of the gas-stretcher in 1934 while living in Denver. "That chamber was on a Chevy motor and the altitude didn't affect its effectiveness, but the thing blew up!"

"They put me in the hospital," Love relates. "And they said I wouldn't use my arm again. After that, I sort of lost interest for awhile."

"But, I found the bug," he continues. "In the mid-thirties, I came back to Pampa and built another device. I put that one on a Model A Ford. You know THAT THING blew up too!"

"It was after that I found out what I was doing wrong."

Love says he built several models of the device through the years. Some models turned out more miles to the gallon, but they weren't practical or probable, either, he states.

In December, 1973, Love took time off from the electrician trade and devoted all his time to making a perfected gas-stretcher.

Working in his workshop at his home in Rogers, Ark., Love put his invention under rigorous testing for 10 months. Changes have been made, but the inventor states he's sure it's ready to be tested by anybody now. He said "I'll test one for anybody."

Final evaluation has been made here.

"We took the car out north of Pampa and tested on the straightaway. Here's the results." The results are there, in his record book. They're witnessed by persons following the test car. Mr. Love's physics class idea does work.

The principle, says, the home workshop inventor, is to turn all of the gasoline into fumes and then control the fumes as it is utilized by the engine. There's no pollution because the gasoline is all used.

Love has tested the exhaust emission with a meter. The minute amount of carbon monoxide, Love believes, comes from the oil used by the engine.

"That old car is drinking oil," he says.

He's used the old car as a test vehicle to really prove his invention works, he says. "Just think what it'd do on a newer car."

His wife, Nadeane, is convinced. She's having the device put on her car.

"I'm going back to Arkansas for awhile," Love said, "I'm going to work on another idea. This one proved good."

"Anybody that wants to can contact me. I'll show them this thing works. Tell them to contact me at 105 W. Easy, Rogers, Ark., 72756."

We'll be here a few days though," he added, "visiting our daughter, Mrs. Bill Greer."

National Guardsmen Ask For Free School Tuition

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The National Guard Association of Texas will ask the 1975 legislature to provide free tuition for any of the 17,000 state guardsmen who wish to attend state-run colleges and universities.

Under current legislation, most National Guardsmen are ineligible for federal veterans benefits such as the G.I. Bill or even for a limited state tuition exemption which veterans who have exhausted their G.I. benefits have received.

Leonard Tallas, director of the National Guard Association, said the request to the legislature is an attempt to provide some equity for guardsmen who enlist for six years or more yet receive few of the benefits of fulltime military personnel.

"We feel like we have a good selling point to the Texas Legislature because the guard serves a state as well as a federal mission," Tallas said. "It's very possible that the bill's sponsors might want to include members of the reserves as well."

Tallas said he expects Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, and Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, to sponsor the legislation. Both are officers in the Texas Guard.

Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Bishop, the state adjutant general, said he would support such legislation, although the guard itself will not take a position. The National Guard Association is a private organization which includes legislative lobbying among its activities.

Bishop said free tuition and fees in addition to the pay which guardsmen receive for monthly drills would be a recruiting incentive.

"I think it would be a splendid benefit," he said. "If we could provide that educational advantage to members of the guard who wish to pursue it, it would have an untold favorable effect on attracting good, competent and dedicated guardsmen."

Tallas said the legislation also will ask for an exemption in some of the fees which often total more than tuition. If the bill passes the legislature and is signed into law by the governor, guardsmen could receive the tuition and fee exemptions on a yearly basis for up to four years, he said.

Nuclear Power Plants Lacking Enthusiasm

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — More and more people are wanting the energy produced by nuclear power plants, but fewer and fewer are enthusiastic about having one for a neighbor.

Safety questions raised by environmentalists have prompted an increasing number of legislatures to take a critical look at the plants, which have blossomed without many, if any, state-imposed limitations.

Dr. R. Y. Nelson, chairman of the Oklahoma State Radiation Advisory Committee, and R. H. Bentley, a doctoral candidate at the University of Oklahoma, report 15 states now have laws covering the locating of nuclear power plants.

"More are being enacted every year," the pair said. "A wide variety of approaches to the problem of power-plant siting have been adopted."

The State of Washington has established a council to develop guidelines for evaluating site acceptability for thermal power plants. In Oregon, a council was created to investigate possible sites and recommend acceptance or rejection to the governor, in addition to conducting environmental monitoring programs.

The State of New York has an authority empowered to designate, acquire, develop and furnish by sale or lease sites to electric utilities.

Part of the drive for state controls may be traced to the energy crisis, which focused national attention on possible sources of energy, especially nuclear power plants, and their effect on the environment.

The Atomic Energy Commission says there are plans to operate 400 nuclear breeders by the year 2000, producing as much electricity as all other types of power plants produced in 1973.

As the number of nuclear plants has increased across the country, reports of problems involved in their operation increased, and the

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The repeated failure since late August of the Dow Jones industrial average to break through the 680 to 690 resistance zone could soon have a negative impact on trading psychology, according to E.F. Hutton.

"We would not be surprised to see some additional consolidation before a new assault on this resistance zone is attempted," the firm says. The overbought condition in the market may have to be neutralized before it can gain enough steam for a new upside move, it adds.

"Recent market action does contain characteristics similar to the first stages of past bear market bottoms," says Rosenkrantz Ehrenkrantz Lyon & Ross. But based on past history "a final shakeout" usually has preceded the beginning of a new bull market, the firm continues. "To confirm a major bottom the next test of the lows should be accompanied by high levels of pessimism as measured by a high odd-lot short sale ratio, a high short interest ratio and a continuing in mutual fund cash positions," it adds.

Moscow Police Capture Killer

MOSCOW (UPI) — Police have captured a killer responsible for the stabbing deaths of two persons in Moscow recently, the newspaper Vechernaya Moskva said today.

The newspaper said the killer, whose name was not published, had been found hiding in a railroad station after a passenger was knifed to death on a platform. It said he was found to have committed a previous killing as well.

The brief report was unusual in the Soviet press, where crime news is usually ignored unless it has a moral.

The report also came at a time when many residents of the capital have been made nervous by sensational but unconfirmed reports of a psychopathic killer on the loose who preys on single women.

Many women were refusing to leave their homes after dark.

The capture of the killer was referred to indirectly. The newspaper report was devoted to praising a militia captain named Nikolai Kochetkov for risking his life by capturing the criminal.

The newspaper said Kochetkov, who grappled with the killer until help arrived, had been awarded a medal.

The sharp drop in durable goods orders in September "raises the concern that existing spending programs may be stretched out more than presently projected," says Townsend-Greenspan & Co. It points out that many companies review their capital budgets around this time of year so that capital expenditures could be "hit by the deterioration in confidence." As a result, the predictions of a recession could become somewhat self-fulfilling, the firm adds.

Going Abroad? Better Check On Prohibited Imports

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

Did you know it's against the law to smuggle salamanders into the United States?

Or that articles made of straw, such as hats and baskets, may be brought in from abroad but that items stuffed with straw are banned?

And that smuggling prohibited or restricted food, plant and animal products into the United States is a federal crime punishable by confiscation, fine and imprisonment?

So warns the U.S. Department of Agriculture in a new brochure "Travelers' Tips," which lists some of the banned and restricted items and explains the reasons for the controls.

It notes the regulations are aimed at protecting plant and animal life in the United States against harmful pests and deadly diseases from foreign countries and applies equally to the tourist and other travelers as well as commercial importers.

"Personal luggage and carry on baggage are major channels for the international spread of agricultural pests and diseases," the brochure says. "One plant, a piece of sausage, or a pet bird could be the means of accidentally introducing pests into this nation."

It said persons who believe in what it described as "my one peach will not hurt anyone" theory are wrong.

"Those one peaches tend to mount up. For example, 56 destructive Mediterranean fruit flies were discovered recently in figs, pears and peaches in passengers' baggage on a single international flight," it said. "Medflies invaded the United States on four earlier occasions and had to be eradicated — at a cumulative cost of over $20 million."

As another costly example, the brochure said one imported, diseased parakeet was responsible for the outbreak in 1971 of the exotic Newcastle disease among U.S. poultry. More than 11 million exposed chickens had to be destroyed to control the dreaded bird virus with commercial poultrymen receiving more than $26 million in indemnities.

"Plant and animal pests and diseases cost Americans over $12 billion annually. Many of our most destructive pests are foreigners that cause much greater damage in the United States than in their native environment where natural enemies hold them in check," the brochure said.

Infection home on his shoes or clothes.

Travelers who would like to bring back restricted animals, birds and plant materials must obtain a written permit from the USDA before going overseas. Such permits are granted only to persons with addresses in the United States. For full information write to Veterinary Services, APHIS, USDA, Federal Building, Hyattsville, Md. 20782.

Inquiries regarding the importation of fish, wild birds and animals should be addressed to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Dept. of the Interior, Washington, D. C. 20240.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

...it tells you how

Back around 1969 or 1970, when the current "back to the land" movement really got underway, the "smart" guys all bet that it was merely a passing fad which would run its course within two or three years.

The smart guys were wrong. More people than ever are now moving from the cities to "a little place in the country" where they can forage wild-foods, raise a garden, keep a cow or couple of goats and otherwise become at least partly self-sufficient.

Even more families would be making the move if they could afford to buy rural property... which, like every other kind of property in this country, has skyrocketed in cost during the past decade.

But there's good news—finally!—about those land prices. The cost of U.S. and Canadian rural property (despite inflation) seemed to reach a high-water mark sometime in the first half of 1974. While everything else has continued to climb, the price of country acreage has stabilized and, in some cases, actually begun to slide downward. Maybe, if you hold tight for a few months, you'll be able to afford that little "homestead" you've been dreaming about after all!

Some dealers in country property are "good guys" and others will try to take you to the cleaners. For a concise guide that tells you how to spot the "bad guys" and what to do if you find yourself dealing with one, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, Box 657, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. 'HOW ABOUT $25?' Vice Squads Using Miniskirted Women

OKLAHOMA city (UPI) — A man dressed in the grubbist of clothes lounged against a building, wine bottle in hand. Another cruised by in a car.

Sherry Hamman, dressed in a purple miniskirt, stood under a streetlight. A man drove up in a car, got out and walked toward her.

"He asked me where I was going and I said nowhere," she said. "He then asked, 'Do you want to go with me?' I asked him where and he said, 'To a motel for sex.'"

"Will $25 be okay?" he asked and she replied, "Fine."

The wine got up. The cruising car approached and the man talking to Sherry was arrested.

The attractive 5-foot-8 brunette had shed her blue police uniform for the abbreviated purple dress to become a pseudo-prostitute.

The two-year veteran patrol officer and the first woman hired by the Oklahoma City police, is one of several decoys used by some cities to crack down against men as well as women in morals investigations.

The "wino" is a vice squad officer, as is the man driving close by in an unmarked police car.

After the first arrest, Officer Hamman walked around a corner to stay out of sight and immediately was approached again.

"Do you want $25," she said a man asked.

"For what?" she replied, and within minutes the man was in custody. The three-officer crew made five quick arrests.

Sherry wandered to a nearby park bench, and it wasn't long before another man approached.

"He kept talking, I acted bored and finally asked, 'what do you want?'"

"His answer was rather blatant," said vice squad Sgt. Russell Rigby. "She gave a signal and the suspect was arrested."

The plan was approved by the Oklahoma City district attorney's office.

The prosecutor warned police to make certain there was no entrapment. Rigby said.

Mrs. Mack Presents Talk On Recent European Trip

Members of Xi Beta Chapter in the home of Mrs. Dwayne Blakemore Oct. 14, with President, Mrs. Price Smith, calling the meeting to order and asking members and guests to introduce themselves.

Guests present were Joyce Rascoe, Kay Nash, Monica Leonard, Francis Louvier and Sherry Carlson. Mrs. Robert Benyshek reported the 1975 Area Convention will be March 1 and 2 at the Villa Inn in Amarillo.

Mrs. James Schaffer, ways and means chairman, reported there is to be a bake sale Nov. 1 at the Hughes Building. Also, Xi Beta Chi's Christmas Bazaar will be held Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. at Citizens Bank.

Mrs. Smith told the story of Beta Sigam Phi to members and guests.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Georgia Mack. She told of her recent trip to the Middle East, starting in Paris, France. The old saying "Paris is so beautiful in the Spring" is a very true statement, she stated. The beautiful Majestic Thames River was so inviting beneath the blue Parisian sky, she told.

From Paris, she visited Athens, Greece. Athens is full of historical monuments and is located on rolling hills that lead downward to the Mediterranean Sea, she continued.

Upon departure from Athens, she flew to Beirut, Lebanon. Beirut also features many fascinating historical sites and is a unique city in its own way. Beirut was Mrs. Mack's introduction to the Moslim world.

She continued her journey to the capitol of Iran, Tehran. Here she visited her daughter and her family. Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Williams.

Tehran has many outstanding features and is completely surrounded by the Alborz Mountain range of which Mount Damaevand is the highest peak of 18,000 feet. She Tehran has a population of approximately four and one half million people of many cultures, religions and nationalities. One of Tehran's most beautiful qualities is their outstanding flower and rose gardens. These gardens are bountiful throughout the city and there are beautiful statues, monuments and historical sites that enrich the beauty of this 300-year old city.

One of the highlights and honors of her visit to Tehran was acting as an official sponsor of the 1973-1974 graduating class of the Tehran American High School. This years class had a total of 107 graduates and graduation service was held in the Rose Garden of the American Embassy.

While serving as sponsor of the graduation class, she took field trips and visited many intriguing places in Tehran including the Golastan Palace, one the Shah's five palaces. She visited museums, a small bazaar, watched workers make pottery, gold and silver.

Upon her departure from Iran her son-in-law who is a drilling advisor for Reading and Bates Overseas Drilling, presented her a turquoise necklace and ring. The turquoise came from the Tourquoise mines of Mashhad, Iran, a city approximately 50 kilometers from the Russian border. The ring featured delicate carving done by hand and the turquoise in the necklace is grout by gold bars.

Her son-in-law also presented her with a strand of very small sea shells from the Caspian Sea which lies on the northern border of Iran and separates Iran from Russia.

Mrs. Mack returned home with a visit to Tel Aviv, Ireal, the Greek Islands, then to Paris, France and landed in Houston, Tex. as her return point to the United States and then home to Pampa, and very glad to be home but thankful for her visit to the Continent of Europe and points of interest in the Middle East.

Members present were Mrs. Bill Baten, Robert Benyshek, Dwayne Blakemore, Don Carpenter, Darrell Danner, Ted Erickson, Sonny Golden, Tommy Hill, James Lee, James Schaffer, Benny Stout, Price Smith, Junior Warden, Dean Wilson and Norma Briden.

Hostesses for the evening was the social committee.

MRS. GEORGIA MACK Visits Middle East

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK
Prayer of a housewife Who Gets Out Once a Year and tonight is the Night.

Please, Lord, don't let the spots on Laurie's chest mean what I think they mean, and if they do mean what we both know they mean, grant that our sinner has had chicken pox.

Give me the humor to smile when I turn on the Bath water and realize that someone has left the knob on "Shower" and it drenches an $8 hairdo.

Grant me the serenity to put on my eyelashes without gluing my left eye permanently to my cheekbone.

Do not let me despair when my husband arrives home thirty minutes late, with a three-day beard that can't wait, a front seat full of dirty Little League bases that smell like a stable, and then tells me he has to stop at a discount house to cash a check.

Smile upon me this one night so that I may not have to endure a klutz on one side who hums the overture and Typhoid Annie who is sitting behind me and is coughing down my back.

And when it rains (as we know it will) lead us into the nearest gas station so that we may buy the refills for

WALK WITH US as we get the table by the kitchen door and I get the bent fork and my husband's soups is cold and by the time we get to the dance floor the waltz turns into "Tie a Yellow Ribbon, Round the Old Oak Tree" and we don't dance fast because my husband thought it was a fad that would go out with Gene Kelly.

Comfort us as we go fifteen miles out of our way for a gas station that is open all night and the sinner is angry because we are late and it is a school night and we have to write her a check for the tip and she's never had chicken pox before tonight.

If I ask too much, Lord, give me the strength to say, "Who needs a night? I'd rather stay at home."

SHE REALLY MOVED — ELM, England (UPI) — When Gillian Rawson told her widowed mother to pack her things and move closer to the family, 71-year-old Grace Drew took her daughter at her word. She brought everything — including her house.

Mrs. Rawson's husband Derek and nine other construction workers loaded Mrs. Drew's frame house onto a truck, hauled it 10 miles and put it in the Rawson family garden, where Mrs. Drew is to live.

TWO PROGRAMS CONN. (UPI) — The Hartford Stage Company this season inaugurated two new community programs. One involves an expanded series of experimental workshop productions and the other offers experienced local amateurs courses in theater techniques.

23 YEARS LATER — Mrs. R.A. Claunch, age 90, is pictured holding her great-granddaughter, Melody Darlene Dennis, age one month. Standing is her son, John Claunch, her granddaughter, Mrs. Virginia Welch, and her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Kathy Dennis. All reside in Pampa.

The bat will eat about one fourth of its weight at each meal.

Electricity Is 4-H Program

Mildred Prince presented the program on "Electricity" to members of the Grandview-Hopkins 4-H Club.

During the recently held meeting, Mrs. Prince told approximately 13 members, the safety of electricity and an educational film on the subject was shown.

Refreshments were served following the program.

Clothing Must Have Certain Amount Of Sureness, Says Men's Designer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Salvatore "Sal" J. Cesarani, a lower East Side kid who has become one of the rising stars of men's wear design, has a simple philosophy — "basically my whole concept is beautiful clothing." And beautiful clothing he does design.

Take his monochromatic suit, for example. It's not really a suit if you demand that the coat and pants match: The tan jacket is a soft and muted glen plaid with suede patches on the elbows. The pants are a muted herringbone in the same shades and it is worn with a cream colored shirt and brown knit tie.

The result is an eye-soothing outfit that makes ordinary suits look slightly old-fashioned. It was featured on the current cover of Gentlemen's Quarterly magazine, accessorized with an odd sweater in the same tone. Designs like that are some of the reasons why at 33 he is one of the Coty fashion award winners this year.

Cesarani is chief designer and merchandising director of Country Britches, a firm that took its name from a defunct pants manufacturing company. Country Britches, which has nothing to do with jeans splattered by mud or cockleburrs, is a division of Joseph & Feiss Co., which in turn is part of the Van Heusen empire.

Cesarani's introduction to the clothing business came at an early age. His Italian-born parents were working class artisans in the clothing industry in New York and I always wanted to be a designer, as far back as I can remember. They sent him to the High School of Fashion Industries and the Fashion Institute of Technology and he was on his way.

There was a stint with Bobbie Brooks, a women's wear firm, four years with Paul Stewart, a men's wear firm in New York, and then in 1971 he joined Polo Fashions, assisting Ralph Lauren with design and fabric selection. Lauren collected a number of Coty awards along the way and apparently some of that success rubbed off, on Cesarani.

Nearly 18 months ago Joseph & Feiss chose Cesarani to head its Country Britches division and he was on his own for the first time. The result was what he calls "a full spectrum line — all the needs for a gentleman: clothes, sports coats, touch wear, outerwear and a sport of sweaters." Fashion magazines call it "neo-traditionalism."

Asked about the monochromatic suit he explained, "It gives a gentleman a greater diversity in his wardrobe. He can always split the suit and wear it in other ways for his many, many moods."

Cesarani deals almost entirely with natural fabrics — Harris tweeds, soft Saxony flannels, British woolens, English flannels, gabardines, cotton corduroys — "they are all really earthy fabrications." The result is a handsome line that looks a lot more expensive than it really is.

He is oriented toward active sports and one of his innovations includes a hooded bicycle jacket in reversible Donegal tweed and poplin. A detachable pocket gives it a bit of flair — a 14 by 9 inch envelope-type container that attaches to the front of the jacket with snaps.

An indication of his versatility came in his use of Saxony flannel suits. One in a pinkish-tan could be worn in the city with the vest or in the country with a sweater. But the same flannel in a dark brown pin-stripe was strictly a city suit. Another Cesarani touch came in a blanket plaid jacket with a huge shawl collar, belted like a Norfolk jacket, a blend of outer wear and sports wear.

Some of the designs for Spring 1975 also showed the Cesarani touch. There were cotton oxford cloth suits, also in seersucker and bedford cords, which were totally unconstructed and belted simply "sports clothing." They were made with bellows pockets and two cinch rings at the waist to nip in the waistline. The pants were plain with an extension waist and straight legs.

Also for spring was a sports shirt with a "hint of raincoat about it — a white chino coat with a storm flap on the chest and wind tabs on the collar. It was belted, had two vents and could be worn either with or without a shirt and tie.

"Clothing is a form of communications and people recognize us by our appearance," he said. "Clothing must have a certain amount of sureness — but definitely at prices we can understand." (Natural shoulder suits range from $130-$140, sports coats $104-$140).

A bee must visit 2,000 flowers to produce a tablespoonful of honey.

Higher Vegetable Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most fresh vegetables will be sprouting higher price tags this fall than last and many processed vegetables will be in short supply, says the U.S. Agriculture Department.

Among fresh vegetables, only potatoes and dry beans are expected to fall in price from last year at this time, according to a report issued Wednesday, which also forecast record high beef supplies and adequate supplies of pork in November.

The report said available amounts of many processed vegetables will be down, although the overall supply will be "moderately larger" because of "bigger production of most frozen vegetables and canned tomatoes."

"We will not run out of processed vegetables, but our vegetable choices in 1974-75 may be different," economists predicted.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said earlier Wednesday that retail meat prices should hold steady or even drop a bit this year, although pork and poultry prices may rise again early in 1975.

Experts said increases in fresh vegetable prices earlier this year were due largely to bigger margins for middlemen, but increases this fall will be caused by smaller supplies of items including western lettuce and carrots and Florida tomatoes.

The report said a record crop of fall-harvest potatoes and dry beans will offset that trend. The potato crop is up 13 per cent from last year and the dry bean harvest is up 31 per cent.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Salvation Army

Capt. BART DEGGS
Salvation Army

BUT YOU ALREADY KNEW THAT. Many stories are told of the Civil War days when men from the South marched off to war, leaving their wives and children behind. One such man was saying goodbye to his family. He picked up his 4 year old son, hugged him and said: "Mind your mama not, I love you!" He squatted down, hugged his seven year old girl and said, "You help your mama with her chores like a good girl. I love you!" He pulled his nine year old boy to him by the nape of the neck and said "You do as your mama says or I'll skin you alive," as he smiled. His solemn faced 13 year old boy stood next to his mother holding back the tears as best his young manhood could, as he watched his father saying goodbye to the others. Now it was his turn to be hugged and given instructions.

The man took his wife in his arms, and kissed her. He turned picked up his belongings, shook hands with his oldest son, turned and started down the road. As the oldest boy saw his father walk into the distance, tears began to roll down his cheeks. Suddenly he broke into a run and caught up with his father. The father heard him running up to him. He stopped and waited. The boy grabbed his father in a tight hug, tears streaming down his face. Through his tears he uttered, "Don't you love me?" The father was startled. He held the boy at arms length: "What makes you think I don't?" "You didn't hug me and tell me what to do!" The father then told the boy, "Set down over there and dry your face." The boy made his way to the side of the road, drying his tears on his sleeve, as he sat down. "Son you're 13 years old. You've worked beside me as we've brought our place into shape each year. You jumped right in last winter when I was sick in bed, and you done a good job. You learn well and you got a good head on your shoulders. You know I'll be away awhile and I know you'll jump right in and take good care of thing. I have confidence in you because I love you. I didn't tell you what to do, because you already know. I shake hands with you because you're now a man I can depend on to take care of mama and the kids." The boy set there awhile, then slowly got up and faced his father. The father stuck out his hand. The boy reached for it and clasp his father's hand. They stood looking at each other for a time. The father turned and went off to war. The boy turned and started back to the house — now a man.

As Christians we labor side by side in our work for the Lord. Each word and each action, it is hoped, would bring someone closer to our Lord. As we give forth His Word He has promised it will not return void. As a minister of His Word, I would charge you to be more involved in your Christian responsibilities. I would charge you to read your Bible, to pray and witness every day. I would charge you to be a better person tomorrow than you are today. I would charge you to be a Christian, for a Christian is involved in his duties far beyond just attending church services. Bear the good news of the Gospel that simply says: "Jesus loves me."

Founder of the Salvation Army, William Booth asks, "What is the business of your life?" then he answers: "Not merely to save your soul, win the bread that perisheth not, and make yourself meet for Paradise, no, you are to be a redeemer, saviour, a copy of Jesus Christ Himself." So wake up to all the powers of your being and consecrate every awakened power to the great need of saving men. BE A CHRISTIAN!

Social, Political Church Involvement Questioned

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

A lot of debate goes on in denominational headquarters and in local congregations about the impact of church involvement in political and social questions.

But it seems quite clear that no one knows for sure how to measure the influence religious leaders or organizations might have in policy decisions various government officials or agencies make.

Two recent events are worthy of note in this regard, one of them suggesting churches may have influence, the other suggesting that influence is less than many think.

The first involves the issue of organizations and individuals working to make corporations more socially responsible.

In a survey conducted by the Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N. J., churches and various groups active in the corporate reform movement came out slightly more influential than either Senators Kennedy, Muskie and Humphrey and about as influential as the AFL-CIO.

On the other hand, Ralph Nader and his affiliated organizations were far and away considered the most influential, followed by environmental groups and Common Cause.

While one might conclude then, that church groups can marshal their forces to have some influence, the amnesty debate would appear to be an issue where the church's impact seems to have been negligible.

Before President Ford announced his earned re-entry and limited clemency program for draft resisters and military deserters of the Vietnam era, most major churches and agencies were on record for a universal and unconditional amnesty.

Churchman after churchman appeared before the House Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the amnesty question in March of this year, and nearly all of them argued that in moral terms, only a universal and unconditional amnesty would meet the demands of justice.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Bone Separations Are Unstable

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: A few weeks ago I was vacuuming a rug and the bone up by left shoulder let out a loud crack and I had terrible pain.
An X-ray showed a bone separation and arthritis. Every time I use this arm I get a lot of pain, and especially at night I have to prop a pillow under the arm near the shoulder which seems to put the arm in place and the pain stops.
Is there anything that can be done for a separating bone? — A.G.

Dear Dr.-Thosteson: What is the effect of estrogen on male breasts? A doctor gave me large doses for about six months because of an inflamed prostate and now I have an enlarged and sore left breast.
In the opinion of my family doctor this is a result of these estrogen injections but it has been four months since the last injection and the trouble still hasn't gone away.

I wonder if my doctor could be wrong? How long should it take for it to wear off? Is there anything one can do to help the process? — A.L.C.
Your family doctor is quite right. Estrogen can cause enlargement and soreness. The effect will disappear in time after the estrogen is stopped, but the time necessary is very variable. I don't know any way to hasten it.

that it is an allergy, consult an allergist.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: When I eat foods with sugar, it makes my feet hurt, burn and ache. When I omit sugar my feet become good again, and life is worth living.
But I find it hard to go without sugar. Can you tell me what to substitute? — E.O.
I don't know specifically why you should have this trouble unless you happen to be a mild diabetic (and don't know it) and the burning represents a neurotic phenomenon. (Not a customary one.)
But there are sugar substitutes — saccharin in tablet form, or sugarless sweeteners in powdered form.

TV In Review

By FRANKS SWERTLOW NEW YORK (UPI) — "The Gun," ABC's dramatic look at the effects of a revolver on its owners — is rapidly becoming a controversial on screen, as it is behind your set.
The 90-minute film, which will be aired Nov. 13, was filmed in the Los Angeles area. It depicts the effects a .38 cal. pistol on the lives of its owners from the day it moves off the assembly line until it falls into the hands of a truck driver and his family.
Although the film was shot in a low-keyed, semi-documentary style, pro gun groups may object to the movie because, in their view, the outcome may be unfavorable to legitimate gun owners.
The vocal National Rifle Association, which has more than one-million members nationwide, has sought to preview the film, but the request was rejected by ABC Tuesday.

However, ABC recently consulted homosexual groups for an episode of "Marcus Welby, M.D." entitled, "The Outrage."
The ABC spokesman said that in this case the network sought the advice of gay activists during the early stages of the show, primarily at the script level. Despite this, some gay groups launched vocal protests about the program.
In Hollywood, Brandon Stoddard, ABC vice president for TV movies, said the NRA and other pro gun groups were not consulted about "The Gun" because the film "is not about gun control, but about the effects of a gun on people."
Despite ABC's policy of not previewing the show, Universal/ABC, the overall producers of "The Gun," is in the process of showing the film to the heads of more than 75 gun groups in Southern California, according to a Universal spokesman in Hollywood.

"The NRA will not pursue the matter any further," said Steve Hines, the NRA's manager of public relations at the organization's headquarters in Washington, D.C. "We will wait for membership to comment on it. We want to see how accurate it is, and how it treats the legitimate sale and illegitimate sale of guns."
Hines said the organization may seek to implement the FCC's fairness doctrine if the film is found to put legitimate gun use in an unfavorable light.
Hines said that in the past the TV networks had sought the advice of the NRA in shows about guns. He said, however, these shows were documentaries. "The Gun" is a drama.
Asked to comment on ABC's decision, a network spokesman said it was his company's policy not to screen programs to pressure groups.
"If we do it for one group then we have to do it for all," he said.

The Universal spokesman added that members of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, the Los Angeles Police Chief's Department, and the Alcohol, Tobacco and Fire Arms Division of the U.S. Treasury Dept. have seen or will see the film.
In addition, he said the Coalition for Gun Control, an anti-gun group, has been offered the opportunity to view the show.
"We want all sides to see it," the spokesman said. "It's an important show, and we want everybody to see it."
Although Universal may be mounting a subtle publicity campaign this way, the screenings actually may conflict with ABC's policy on previewing.
"Ultimately it's our air time and our necks," the ABC spokesman said. The spokesman said that ABC and Universal would have to discuss the screening policy.

Portland Storms Past Southmen

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — It was a "superb win" for the Portland Storm but it may have been a disastrous loss for the team's front office.

Portland upset the Memphis Southern 26-25 Thursday night, with NFL castoff Pete Beathard and pint-sized runner Rufus Ferguson leading the attack.

But a disappointing crowd of 13,288 kept the franchise in trouble. Owner Bob Harris had said earlier in the week that the club would consider a move if fan support did not improve. He lauded the team's hard corps of about 15,000 fans but said more would have to attend for the World Football League team to stay in Portland.

A national television audience also watched as Portland, now 6-10-1, handed powerhouse Memphis only its third loss against 14 victories and snapped the Southern's 11-game winning streak.

Injured Rebs Host PHS

By PAUL SIMS
The three biggest reasons Tascosa has not been blown out of the stadium in any game this year are running backs James Mayberry, Nathan Woods and Joe Harris, who have rushed for a combined total of 1,009 yards and scored 10 touchdowns.

Now that Woods and Harris are out with injuries, the Rebels must rely on Mayberry and their so-far shaky defense if they are to stay in the game with the Pampa Harvesters, Tascosa's opponent tonight in Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium.

Woods, who hurt a knee, and Harris, out with a jammed lower back, were the only two casualties Tascosa had in last week's 28-14 loss to Palo Duro. But those two running backs were about one-half of Tascosa's entire offense.

That's not exaggerated, either. For most teams, the line is half the offense. But Tascosa's line is small, in fact the smallest in the district, and not very quick. Most of the Rebels' rushing yardage has been picked up on the individual efforts of the backs — it's hard to open holes when your line averages only 175 pounds.

Luckily for head coach Jocko Harris, Mayberry is one of the best breakaway runners in four — a football in the Panhandle. The 190-pound senior rambled for 430 yards on 653 carries for a 6.8 average and five touchdowns. Shut Mayberry down and you shut down Tascosa, but he's awfully hard to stop.

Taking the place of Harris and Woods at fullback and halfback respectively will be 163-pound Shane Rea and 175-pound Lewis Moore, both juniors.

Danny Ross, a 6-0 senior, will run the offense tonight and probably do more passing than running. His favorite target will be split end Chuck Hartman, 5-10 and 165, who has caught six passes for 83 yards and no touchdowns. Tight end David Gilbreath, a 210-pound senior, should also get thrown to some against the Harvesters.

Other linemen are left tackle Jim Gibbs, 185-pound junior; right tackle Steve Bowers, 187-pound junior; left guard Brent Westbrook, 167-pound senior; right guard Mike Williams, 165-pound senior, and center Joe Babcock, 156-pound senior.

A week ago, Babcock had the unenviable job of blocking Palo Duro's Wesley Roberts, 6-5 and 242. Babcock's job won't be Jim Hix and Joe Holt, two area football players, haven't gotten the recognition they deserve in this week's News. It was Hix, left halfback, whose picture was on yesterday's sport page. The News erroneously failed to print his entire name.

And in Sunday's Harvester of the Week photo, linebacker Coy Free was listed as defensive player of the week, when the player in the picture was actually Joe Holt, Pampa's other linebacker. Hopefully, Joe will soon be named again so he'll get the publicity he's earned.

We aim to please, and in those two cases it's understandable that readers get upset. Nobody called me about the mistakes, but I wouldn't have blamed them if they did.

But sometimes the criticism this department gets is not really fair. For example, a woman called Thursday to tell me she had a complaint. The complaint was that we "Haven't run Little League football in three weeks." Truth is we only missed last week's scores, and that was because the man who covers the game and writes the roundups was out of town due to a death in the family. We didn't get the story or the scores.

Anyway, she was nice about the whole thing, and when I explained the situation to her, she understood. I hope the Tiger League players are just as understanding because I'd hate to have 400 sixth graders ambush me the next time I step outside.

I received another complaint recently (I can't stop now, I'm just now getting warmed up) concerning the absence of big-time wrestling on the sports pages of The News. At the risk of sounding facetious, I can only say that big-time wrestling has but a few local fans, and those buffs can find everything they need to know in the Amarillo Papers.

And then there was the fellow who was angry "because I read more about Pampa in the Amarillo paper than I do in Pampa's." He was particularly irked about junior varsity coverage, something I had thought was very adequately covered.

All sports writers get complaints and many of the scribes let it get to them. I try not to. I'd rather have a person tell me that they read the sports page (and that's what a complaint shows) than never hearing from readers, which would make me wonder if there are any readers.

Yannigans Trip Pampa Jayvees

AMARILLO — Jamie Whyte caught touchdown passes of 18 and 23 yards to lead the Amarillo High Yannigans to a 13-12 win over the Pampa Shockers in a defense-oriented junior varsity game Thursday here.

Whyte's first reception came on third down and long yardage late in the first quarter. Carl Birdson booted the extra point.

Pampa came back on the following series as quarterback Garland McPherson rambled 38 yards for six points. A pass to Mike Hunnicutt fell incomplete on the conversion try as the Shockers settled for a 7-6 score, which remained unchanged until early in the fourth quarter.

Whyte's second touchdown came on a 23-yard pass from Tim Ritchie. The kick failed this time.

With three minutes to play, the Yannigans punted to Paul Sloan who returned it four yards deep in the end zone, broke down the right sideline and went all the way. The run failed on the try for two points.

"He (Sloan) and Bruce Reeves have done an excellent job for us running back punts this year," said Pampa coach Phil Pirkle. "Our junior varsity takes a lot of pride in their ability to return punts."

Defensively, Sloan (safety) played real well, and so did Frank Stowers (linebacker) and Pat Bailey (tackle). The defense played real well, it just broke down a couple of times on those long passes. They've played well all year.

Their (Amarillo High's) backs are big. As a team, they were much larger than we were. They've got a good J.V."

Didway praised the play of McPherson, Hunnicutt, Phil George and Jay Spearman on offense.

IN SWC HIGHLIGHT Bears, Texas A&M To Meet Saturday

United Press International
Grant Teaff and Emory Bellard have been at Baylor and Texas A&M for almost three seasons now, and they certainly agree on one point this week.

The game in which they will coach Saturday night will be the biggest for them since they arrived in Waco and College Station.

But now it brings together two of the teams that remain undefeated in Southwest Conference play before what is expected to be a record turnout in Waco.

"There is no question about it," said Bellard this week. "This is the biggest game we've played since I've been here."

Perryton Nudges PJH 9th-Grade

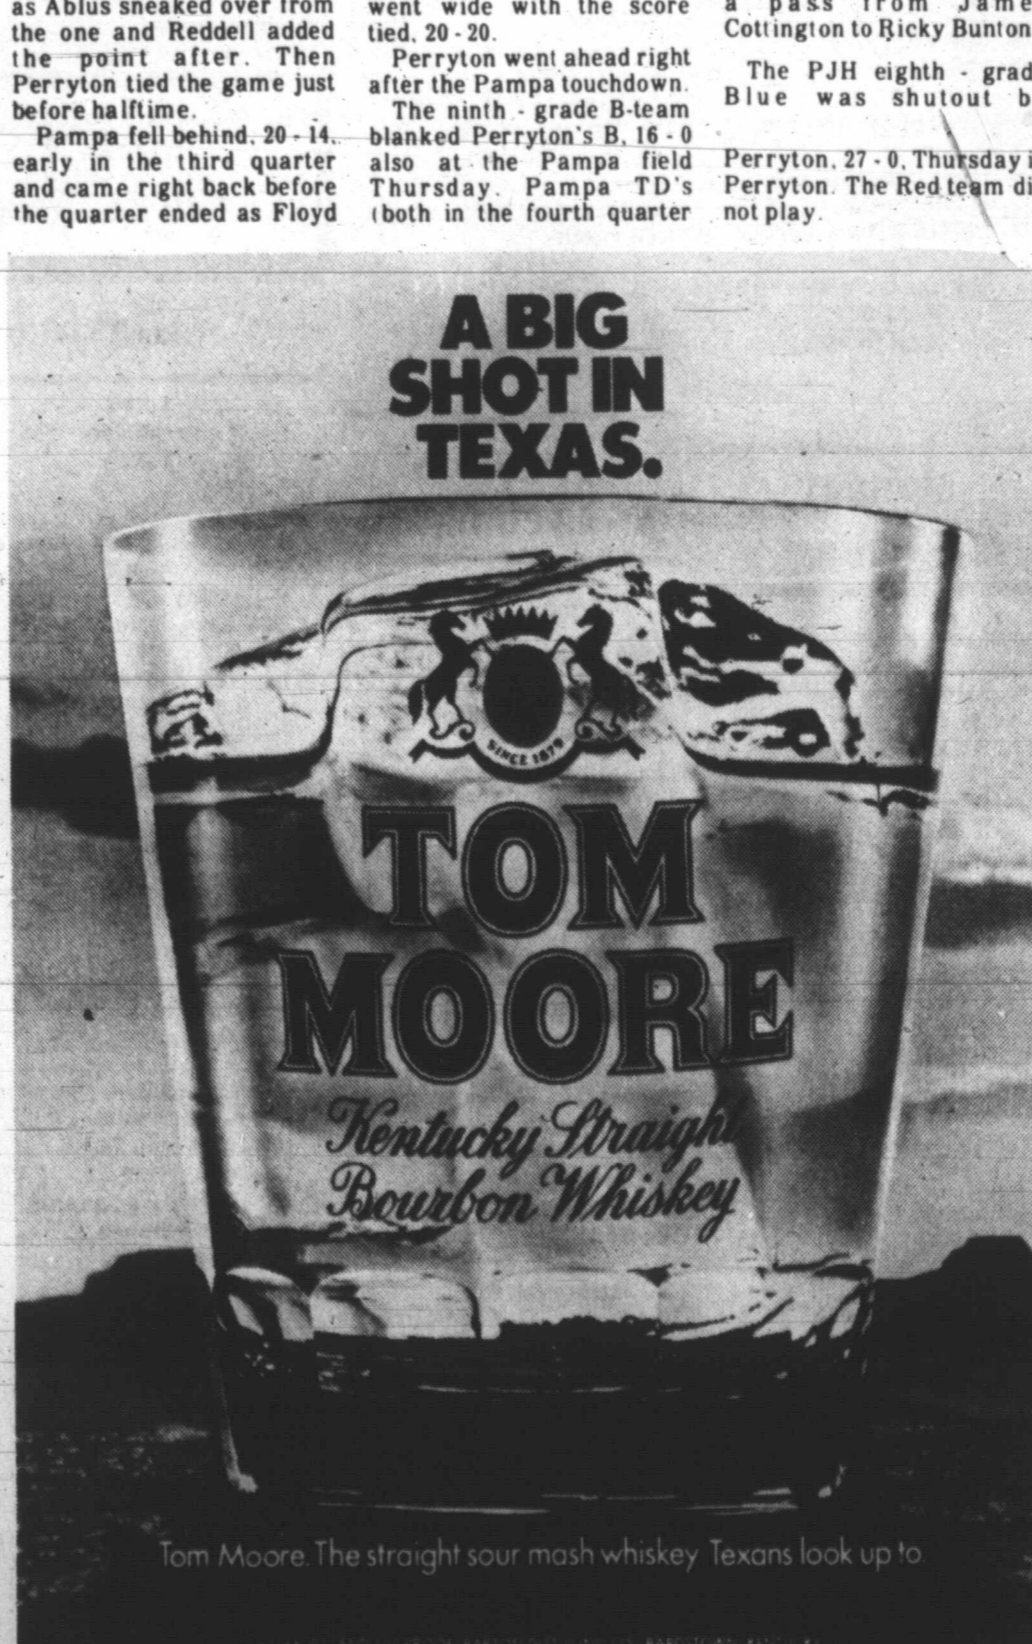

Pampa, down 26-20 in the fourth quarter, had a passed dropped in the end zone on the fourth down and Perryton held on for a 32-20 win over the ninth-grade Pampa Junior High A-team Thursday afternoon at the Pampa JH Field.

On the first play after Pampa gave up the ball, with 1:15 left in the game, Perryton scored on an 86-yard run. "We had a letdown after coming that close and dropping the pass," said PJH coach Dickie Crockett.

Pampa led the game early as Tommy Albus passed 35 yards to Gary Dumas and Tim Reddell kicked the extra points.

UNTIL AFTER BIRTH Young Girl Keeps Pregnancy Secret

DETROIT (UPI) — "Don't tell daddy — give me a chance to commit suicide first."

Mrs. Sanford Derrick read those words Monday in a letter from her 16-year-old daughter, Janet. The letter had been left for her on a telephone table.

On Saturday, Janet and her 10-year-old sister Helena had come home from church with a newborn baby girl.

Helena found it abandoned, wrapped in a white blanket but blue with cold and crying with hunger.

Mrs. Derrick cared for the baby until police and medical help arrived. The baby is now listed in satisfactory condition in a Detroit hospital.

But the incident seemed to depress Janet.

"She just sat in a chair and cried," Mrs. Derrick said. "I was scared she would do something desperate."

Then Mrs. Derrick found the letter, beginning "Mama, I don't know how to tell you this..."

It was a confession that Janet was the infant's mother.

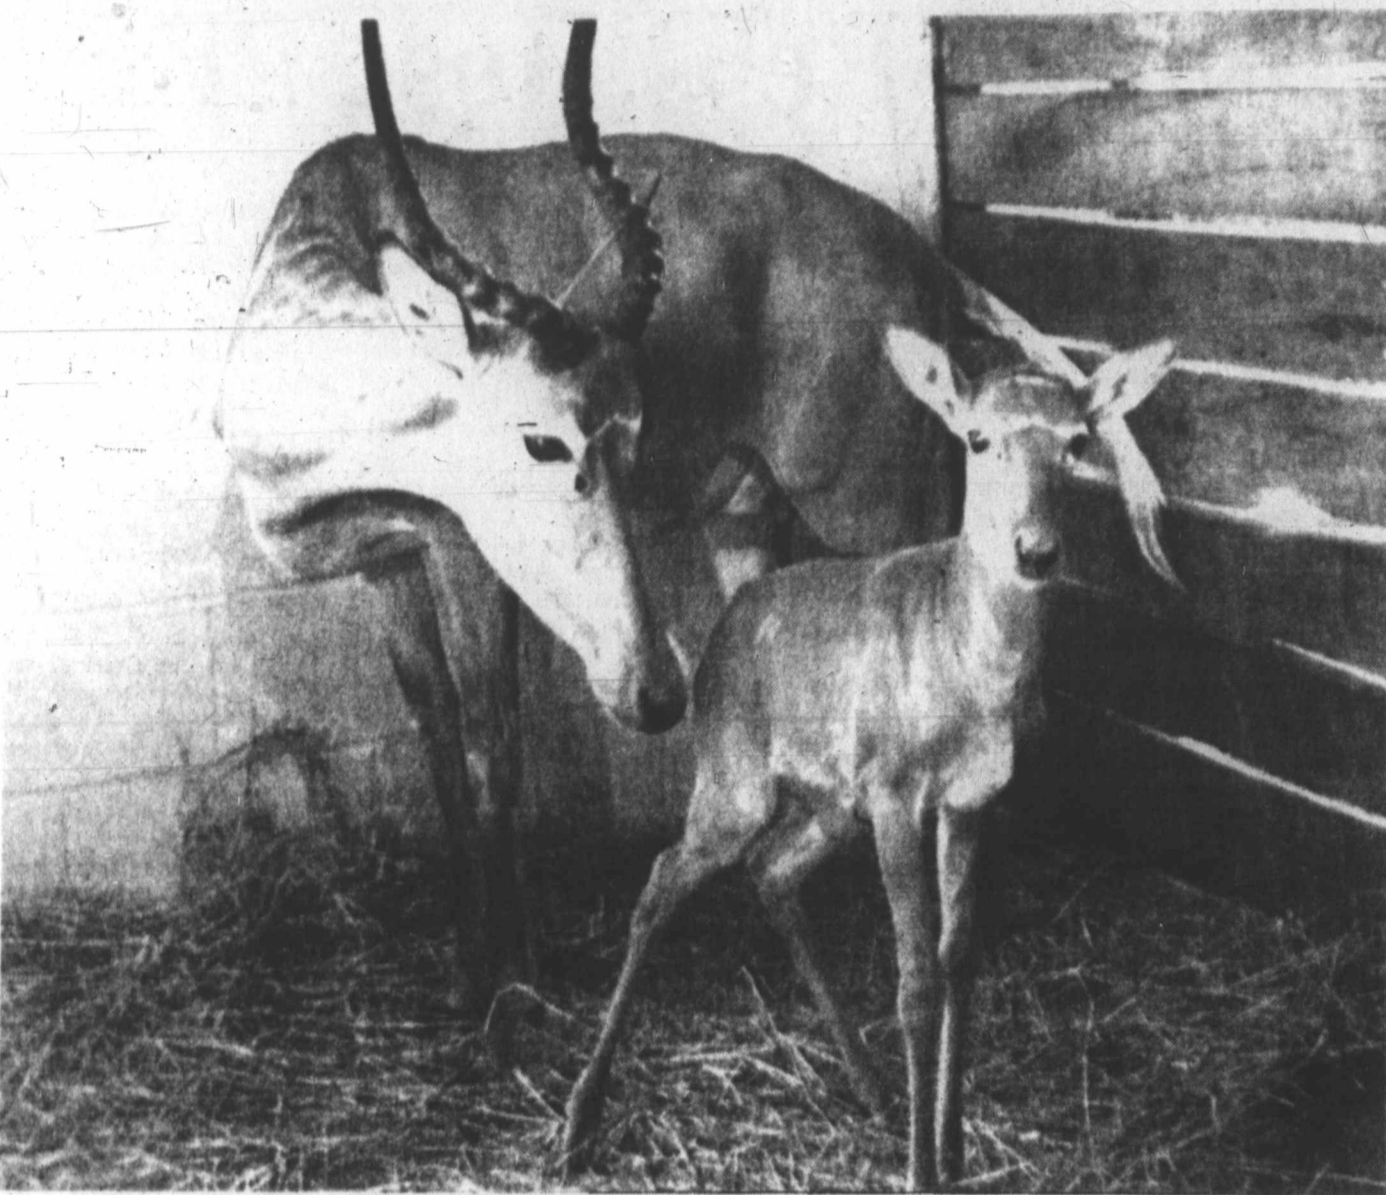

She said she kept her pregnancy secret from the family and gave birth to the baby last Friday in her bedroom while the family was out.

Then, she said, she wrapped the baby in a blanket and kept it hidden Friday night before taking it to St. Luke's Roman Catholic Church about three blocks away.

Helena found it there after attending a confirmation class.

After reading the letter — in which Janet took responsibility should the baby die and also willed her belongings to other family members — Mrs. Derrick found her daughter and called for help.

Janet was admitted to a Detroit hospital suffering from depression and an infection caused by the birth.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here's a rule I would like to see adopted:

When people suggest an energy-saving measure, they must also propose a substitute to replace whatever it is we are supposed to give up.

Otherwise the overall conservation program is going to create a great many national voids.

Any country, particularly one as strong as America, can withstand a few national voids. But when the national fabric begins to resemble Swiss cheese, we must ask ourselves whether the empty spaces being created aren't more undesirable than the energy wastage.

A prime example of calling for cutbacks without proposing alternatives was Sen. William Proxmire's recent denunciation of Air Force fly-bys.

Proxmire complained the Air Force was needlessly burning jet fuel by having formations of planes fly during retirement ceremonies for high brass.

Then he subsequently reported that the Air Force had acted to limit fly-bys to very unusual circumstances.

Well, sure, this will save a certain amount of fuel. But what about the void it creates in the retirement program?

Proxmire offered nothing in the way of a suggestion for compensating for the loss of that thrilling moment when the jets swoop out of the wild blue yonder.

It's like foregoing the presentation of the gold watch with the engraving on the back at the retirement of an insurance executive.

If the senator had been obliged to think the matter through, there are a number of suitable substitutes he might have proposed — things that use less energy but retain some of the tradition and excitement of the fly-by.

One thing the Air Force might consider is the acquisition of a couple of old circus catapults used in human cannonball acts.

At the climax of a retirement ceremony, after the troops have passed in review and the general has had the Distinguished Service Medal pinned to his chest, the cannon would be fired and John Wayne would zoom past the reviewing stand into a waiting net.

Admittedly, the cannon smacks a bit of the field artillery. But the commanding figure of John Wayne, hero of so many aerial combat movies, hurling overhead is Air Force all the way.

What general is going to miss a few jets with a spectacle like that in his honor?

If Wayne isn't available, maybe the Air Force could book Evel Knievel to cap its retirement ceremonies by jumping his motorcycle over a row of mothballed B-29s.

Admittedly, part of the military flavor would be lost. But as long as Knievel remained airborne for a few seconds, the fly-by symbolism would still be there.

WORKSHOP GRANT

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — The Black Theater Workshop on the University of Michigan campus has received a $10,000 grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts to enable it to expand its program.

EARTHQUAKES HONG KONG (UP) — Hong Kong is jiggled by an average of three or four minor earthquakes each year, but the last time a severe quake hit the British Crown Colony was in 1918.

PACKAGING NOTICE

PACKAGING NOTICE
Packaging Company of Texas, Inc., P.O. Box 2458, Pampa, Texas 79861 has applied to the Texas Water Quality Board for a permit for a proposed discharge of effluent into the Red River at a rate of 200,000 gallons per day of industrial wastewater (100 percent process water) from the beef slaughtering, packing and processing plant which is to be located on the north side of U.S. Highway 80 approximately one (1) mile east of the intersection of U.S. Highway 80 and State Highway 223 on the eastern edge of Pampa, Gray County, Texas. The treated industrial wastewater effluent will be discharged into stabilization ponds, evaporated and utilized in an irrigation system. There will be no discharge to the surface water body. A public hearing on this application will be held in the Council and Court Building Main and Freeman Streets, Pampa, Texas on November 12, 1974 at 10:00 a.m. November 12, 1974 to receive evidence on the conditions of any order which the permit may be issued, and to determine whether State Certification in accordance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 may be issued. Preliminary information available to staff of the Texas Water Quality Board indicates that a water discharge conforming to the conditions shown in the Fact Sheet would not unreasonably impair the quality of waters in the State.

Additional data will be developed at the hearing, but further technical information concerning any specific aspect of the discharge, if available, can be obtained by writing the Texas Water Quality Board, P.O. Box 12244, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.
