Despite repeated efforts, mostly in the past 15 years, the 58-year-old rule has been changed only once. The requirement was lowered from two-thirds of all senators to two-thirds of those present and voting, which remains in effect.

SAD ANNIVERSARY

South Vietnam let down

Usually anniversaries are proud moments, dates on the calendar when people recall noteworthy events. However, Americans will find little to applaud on Jan. 27, the second anniversary of the cease-fire in Vietnam.

Looking back to that period, who can forget the surge in the collective American pulse when Henry Kissinger announced on Oct. 26, 1972 that "peace is at hand."

It wasn't. In typical Communist fashion, the North Vietnamese negotiators had simply employed a ruse to raise false hopes among Americans and to put Mr. Kissinger into a more difficult negotiating position. They wanted to extract every last possible advantage from the United States of America.

The cease-fire agreement actually was not signed until three months later. On that occasion, Mr. Kissinger said at a press conference that the United States held out so long in signing an agreement because we were seeking a "peace that heals... a peace that lasts."

A reporter asked what the cease-fire agreement of 1973 contained that the United States could not have settled for four years earlier. Mr. Kissinger replied that until Jan. 27, 1973, the Communists would accept nothing less than dismemberment of the legitimate government of President Thieu in South Vietnam.

Americans will note that Mr. Kissinger, now the secretary of state, isn't talking much about peace in South Vietnam these days, and with good reason.

There is no evidence to contradict the fact that Communists never intended to fulfill the terms of the cease-fire agreement. Today they are sending troops and war material over a paved Ho Chi Minh trail into South Vietnam in direct contravention of terms of the cease-fire agreement. They are trying to dismember the Thieu government by force, subversion and economic pressure. More than 14,000 South Vietnamese were killed last year by North Vietnam's aggression. Moreover, the Communists have not even bothered to hide their contempt for the agreed upon Council of Conciliation and Concord which was intended to establish detente between North and South Vietnam.

So far as the United States is concerned, the Communists have even failed to live up to their word to help us to account for our men missing in action, a simple and humane act that has no relationship to hostilities.

All of this would be melancholy enough to contemplate without the knowledge that North Vietnam is not the only problem faced by the people in South Vietnam.

The United States itself has not lived up to the spirit of its promises to South Vietnam in 1973. We are delinquent on the economic aid that South Vietnam needs in order to fight its own battles.

If liberty does not perish in Southeast Asia it will, in many ways, be in spite of American actions not because of them. That is the cruelest of facts to accept two years after we expressed such hope for the survival of freedom in this embattled area.

The old system works

Sen. William D. Hathaway, whose name is not exactly a household word, is not likely to establish a claim to lasting fame with his plan to reestablish a balance of power in Washington.

The Maine Democrat has submitted a constitutional amendment which would allow Congress to call a new presidential election on a two-thirds vote of "no confidence" in the incumbent.

The proposal, which has its roots in the parliamentary system, has had its flaws exposed in recent years in both Britain and Israel, where the uncertain path of government sometimes has led to periods of no government. The parliamentary structure can be efficient only under strong political party organization and discipline, which in the United States is caught up in an erosive trend.

Hathaway, still fascinated by the Watergate mess, deploras the American assumption that the old system provides sufficient checks and balances on White House power.

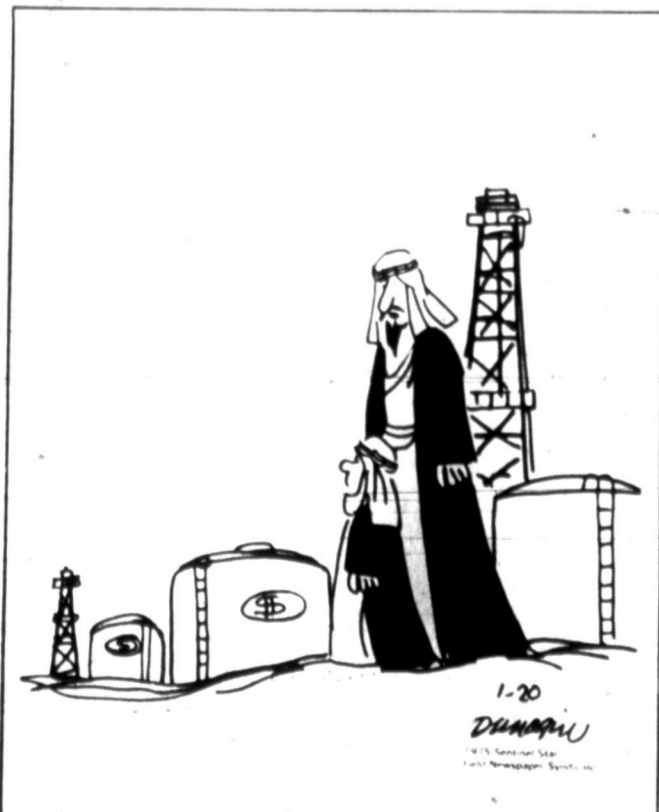

"Events of the past dozen years," he says, "demonstrate this is not an entirely safe assumption."

A more substantial case can be made for the claim that Watergate, to the contrary, has proved that our tried and tested form of government can indeed cope with excesses and abuse.

"IT MAKES A NICE SHIELD"
CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE
It's The Year Of The Rabbit

By WILLIAM RUSHER
HONG KONG — January is a splendid time of year to visit Hong Kong. Along the southern coast of China it is always fairly humid and never really cold, but spring, summer and fall are usually just plain hot. In December and January, however, the sun relents and for a brief period this magnificent old city enjoys weather not unlike that of San Francisco. Sunny days alternate with cool and cloudy ones, when the mist hangs low over Victoria Peak and even the neon dazzle of Hong Kong nights seems muted.

But however much winter's mists may at times obscure the world-famous view of Hong Kong harbor, they are transparent as glass when compared to the mists that shroud political developments on the mainland of China. Here in Hong Kong, "Peking watching" has attained the status of both a science and an art, and scores of lifelong students of Chinese politics daily apply their stethoscopes to every burp and gurgle emanating from the vast hinterland beyond the hills. Nor are they necessarily at a disadvantage, compared to the foreign diplomatic missions huddled in their little compound in Peking itself, circumscribed as those are on every side and limited to such crumbs as drop, accidentally or otherwise, from the plates of Chinese officials at formal receptions.

In Hong Kong, for example, one can see radio antennae permanently turned to the frequencies of provincial stations all over China, and tape recorders steadily absorbing their output — broadcasts often containing a statement here, a name there, that will, when pieced together, tell an expert things that Peking had no intention whatever of revealing.

And what do the oracles say, as the Year of the Rabbit in the Chinese calendar is about to begin? The past 12 months have witnessed a murky struggle in Peking, in which the more aggressively revolutionary elements surrounding Mao Tse-tung's wife, Chiang Ch'ing, engaged and tried to topple Chou En-lai. Their weapon, with characteristic Chinese subtlety, was the "pi-lin p'ik'ung," or "criticize Lin, criticize Confucius" campaign, ostensibly aimed at Mao's dead ex-husband and the ancient Chinese sage, but actually intended as a condemnation of all elements currently favoring the internal stability of the regime. Since Chou is both Premier and the leader of these elements, he was the implicit bull's-eye of the target.

Chou reacted with a subtlety easily the match of his foes. It is popular in China these days to be identified with the cause of stability — but it is also highly dangerous to be popular. So Chou took to his bed — a modest, even retiring stance, that afforded minimum exposure while leaving him free to do everything that really needed doing. There are old China hands in Hong Kong who frankly doubt that Chou was ever really sick at all (though of course at 76 it is quite possible), and they scoff at the notion that his indisposition, whatever it may have been, still needs hospital attention after eight months. As they dryly observe, his "illness" hasn't kept him from seeing anybody he really wanted to see — including, not long ago, Henry Kissinger.

As a result of these Fabian tactics, powerfully reinforced by the almost universal resentment of the old Army and Party cadres at the humiliations to which they were subjected during the riotous Cultural Revolution of the late 1960's, Chou seems for the moment to have faced down Chiang Ching and her "Shanghai group." But, qualified Hong Kong observers warn, this holds true only for the moment.

U.S. Forest Service
In Monopoly Business

By C.R. BATTEN
The absence of competition can arise from the nature of things or from the perversity of mankind," wrote Frederic Bastiat in 1850. An absence of competition arising "from the perversity of mankind" is an artificial monopoly.

"Artificial monopoly is downright plunder," Bastiat explained. "It produces evils that otherwise would not exist. It inflicts hardship on a considerable part of society, because it often includes the most vital articles. In addition it gives rise to resentments, hatred, reprisals, and all the fruits of injustice."

The natural monopoly is one where the scarcity of a product causes the lack of competition. In an artificial monopoly, scarcity has been created by the use of force to stifle competition.

If the strength of a monopoly is to be judged by the share of the total resource the monopolist controls, and by the power with which that monopolist enforces its restrictive actions, we need look no further than to the forest resources of the United States.

Let us jump to the conclusion that big industry has enforced a monopoly of timber upon the consumer, let's look again. The timber industry owns only 13 percent of the productive forest land in the nation. The standing softwood sawtimber volume on that land is 17 percent of the nation's total. I use softwood sawtimber volume because that is the source of most of the wood that goes into housing and many other consumer products. The largest industrial owner controls no more than 1.5 percent of the productive timberland.

On the other hand, the federal government owns more than half of all the standing softwood sawtimber in the U.S. Most of that resource is owned and controlled by one agency — the Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. In most of the West, the National Forests are virtually the only source of wood products. The Forest Service has all the characteristics of a true monopoly.

Since the Forest Service is a government agency, it is not responsive to current economic conditions, but only to political pressures. Its income is not retained by those who control it and make the decisions, nor are its losses taken out of their pockets. It uses other people's (taxpayers) money, and therefore has little incentive to seek to meet the true needs of its customers and, through them, the consumers. It does not depend for survival, as a business does, upon its ability to meet consumer needs.

The Forest Service has embarked on an "even-flow" interpretation of sustained yield, which means an immediate reduction of allowable harvests, in order to have an even flow of raw materials into the indefinite future. This means that billions of board feet of overmature and decadent timber that should be harvested now will be wasted. The lands on which these overmature trees are standing will literally be unproductive until the old forest can be replaced by new and rapidly growing forests.

If he's twice her age, he must be rich

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the 20-year-old man who said he liked older women interested me. You said he was probably looking for his mother, and you recommended counseling.

What about older men who prefer girls 20 or 30 years younger than themselves? Would you say that they are probably looking for their daughters, and recommend counseling for them, too?

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: The 20-year-old man wrote to say he "grooved on women between 45 and 50 with gray hair and middle-age spread." Now if that doesn't sound like he's looking for Mamma, I miss my guess.

On the other hand, most older men who go wild over young chicks have insatiable egos and a horror of growing old. It may be only a coincidence, but when a young beautiful girl marries a man who's old enough to be her father, he's usually very rich — or famous.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to meet that young kid who likes gray-haired women with a middle-age spread. (You said maybe he was looking for a mother.)

Well, I like young boys. Maybe I'm looking for a son. But what difference does it make as long as we both find what we're looking for? Sign me...
"46 AND LIKES 'EM YOUNG"

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 70 and widowed. Recently, my daughter visited me, and I mentioned that I had made provisions for my kidneys and eyes to be donated after my death, and I also told her that I had already made provisions to be cremated.

She said, "No way! I will not permit you to be cut up and cremated!"

Abby, this is MY wish. I have no use for a plot of ground for someone to keep up, or a headstone for someone to visit once a year. What right has my daughter, the oldest of my five children, to say that SHE won't permit it?

My plans are made and I've even paid $250 for my cremation, and I don't want those in charge to have to hassle my daughter after I'm gone. So what can I do?

MADE MY PLANS

DEAR MADE: What you "can" do depends upon the state in which you live. There are state laws covering this situation. Talk to your lawyer. I'm with you, Mother. Your wishes should be carried out as soon as you are.

DEAR ABBY: I've been wanting to write this for ten years, but the problem has become increasingly worse every year, so here goes a pet peeve which I'll wager plenty of others have:

I refer to the business of subtly pressuring people to give Christmas gifts to those whose JOB it is to perform a service.

I live in an apartment building where there are two doormen (a day man and a night man), also an elevator operator, two girls on the switchboard and six men in the garage. Before Christmas the manager sends me a list of their names. I think you're getting the idea.

Abby, these people are not "volunteers." They are paid to do a job. If any one of them had gone out of his way to do something special for me, no one would have to tell me to give that person a present. I ask no special services, and get none, so why is a present in order? And that goes for the mailman, the paperboy and the hairdresser whom I tip 52 times a year! (SHE should give ME a present!)

Thanks for letting me get this.

Demos Begin Victory Gala

AUSTIN, Tex (UPI) — Texas Democrats, sporting a guest list of 90,000, began a two-day inaugural celebration for state officeholders today that is austere compared to years past.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby will take oaths of office at noon Tuesday for the first four-year terms in Texas since Reconstruction. Voters authorized the new extended terms in 1972.

The Democrats planned a gala victory dinner for 7 p.m. Party Chairman Calvin Guest said 3,000 of the 90,000 Texans who were sent invitations to the inaugural festivities were expected to attend the dinner.

This dinner will be a milestone in Democratic party tradition. Guest said, "not only because it comes on the eve of the beginning of the first four-year terms for statewide elected officials, but also because of the unprecedented mixture of both state and national officeholders attending the traditional victory party."

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., and Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss of Dallas were scheduled as principal speakers for the $35-a-plate dinner at Municipal Auditorium. Proceeds will go to operation of the state party in 1975. Guest said.

Inaugural day activities will begin with a prayer breakfast Tuesday.

Following the swearing-in ceremonies at noon on the south steps of the statehouse, Briscoe and Hobby will host a public reception in the capitol rotunda as they did at their first inaugural two year ago.

The traditional parade and inaugural balls were canceled this year in deference to the state of the economy and the energy shortage. In past years several inaugural dances ran concurrently on inaugural night.

Guerrillas Free Hostages, Leave Orly Airport

PARIS (UPI) — Three masked Arab guerrillas set free 10 hostages and flew from Orly Airport today, ending a 17-hour siege that began with an abortive attack against an Israeli jetliner.

The gunmen, their faces covered with black hoods, released the last eight blindfolded hostages this morning on the steps of their getaway jet and then flew off to an undisclosed location.

"All the hostages are in good health, but some are suffering from shock," a police spokesman said in announcing the departure.

The plane, an Air France Boeing 707 jetliner, took off at 9:55 a.m. and headed in a southerly direction. Various reports said the gunmen wanted to fly to Rome, Athens or an Arab capital.

Rome airport reported the plane went into a flight pattern over Leonardo da Vinci field at 11:20 a.m., but it was not immediately certain whether it would land at the Italian capital.

Italian officials said only that the control tower was in contact with the plane.

Egyptian Ambassador Naguib Abdel Hamid Kadry met with the guerrillas this morning in a barricaded room at the airport and negotiated the release of the captives.

Ten minutes after the Egyptian diplomat entered the room, the guerrillas freed the first two hostages — a sobbing mother and daughter. They were bundled up in blankets and driven off by ambulance.

The guerrillas, who exchanged fire with police during the attack against the Israeli jet, had rushed into the restroom before authorities could tell the exact number of gunmen and captives involved.

During the drama, police issued differing reports on the number of guerrillas and hostages involved. Most earlier versions said there were two guerrillas and six hostages.

Alfred Mousset, the Interior Ministry spokesman, said the Egyptian ambassador agreed to talk to the Arab-speaking gunmen at the request of French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

The Egyptian ambassador has initiated negotiations with the women, he said at the start of the talks. "The Egyptians have done us great service. As you know the two men are extremely difficult."

The guerrillas had previously refused food for themselves and the captives. "The hostages share our fate," the gunmen shouted out to police from their stronghold in the men's washroom.

Police reported 16 persons injured Sunday afternoon in the airport shootout with eight of the victims requiring medical attention. One riot policeman was shot in the stomach.

"The first objective of French authorities is to save the hostages," Mousset told reporters at the airport.

Police sources said the gunmen claimed to be members of the splinter Arab guerrilla group that took responsibility for last Monday's abortive bazooka attack against another Israeli jetliner.

It was a perfect day for airplane-watching with hundreds of visitors crowded onto the Orly observation deck to look at planes take off and land.

The guerrillas paid 50 cents apiece for tickets to the deck and joined the crowd as an El-Al 747 jetliner was taxiing for takeoff.

The gunmen threaded their way to the front of the platform, suddenly produced submachine guns and then opened fire on the departing aircraft.

As bullets ricocheted, screaming bystanders tripped and fell over each other, dropping to the ground or huddling behind pillars and stuffed chairs.

"I heard gunfire and people fell down on the floor," Celine Ktorza said. "They weren't aiming at anyone but just spraying bullets in all directions."

The plane, Flight 418 to Tel Aviv, took off safely, however, with the pilot apparently unaware of the attack. Police said the jet was not hit.

The guerrillas, dropping grenades to cover their retreat, seized hostages and forced them down a stairway into the men's lavatory. Two women were wriggled free of the guerrillas and ducked into a nearby restroom.

Airport police, strengthened after last Monday's attack, were reinforced by special riot police, tear gas experts and sharpshooters with bulletproof vests.

PAMPA DAILY NEWS
Pampa, Texas
88th Year
Monday, Jan. 20, 1975

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The way Johnny Miller is destroying golf courses, you'd have to doubt even Jack Nicklaus can beat him this week when the PGA Tour moves to Pebble Beach, Calif., and the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

In the event there were any who needed final convincing Miller has reached superstar status, he provided it in Arizona the last two weeks — winning the Phoenix Open by a record-tying 14 strokes and the Dean Martin-Tucson Open by nine.

The 27-year-old Californian took the Phoenix with a 24-under-par score of 260, lowest on the tour in 20 years, and followed by winning the Tucson with a 25-under-par score of 263. In the two tournaments, he had three eagles and 51 birdies, and he finished the Tucson Sunday with a record 61.

"The way I'm playing now," Miller said in victory Sunday, "I don't think there is anyone who can beat me." Miller, presumably, includes Nicklaus in that group. In years past, Miller always has said that Nicklaus, winner of a record 14 major titles, was the best. Now, he isn't that sure.

"Jack is tough, he always is for me," Miller said, "but I'm looking forward to playing against him in the Crosby. It's another challenge and I feel up to it."

Pebble Beach has been very kind to Nicklaus over the years. Jack won the U.S. Amateur, a U.S. Open and three Crosby titles over the famed course and like Miller, he is fond of the seaside layout.

Miller called his final-round 61 in the Tucson "the greatest I've ever played in my life, even better than the 63 I got to win the U.S. Open two years ago."

"I hit the ball so good," he said. "It was a joke."

Maybe to Johnny it was a joke. What it did to John Mahaffey and Tom Watson was shattering. The two young pros played well enough to win any tournament. Mahaffey shooting rounds of 67-69-69-67 for a 16-under-par 272 and Watson had 72-67-67-67-273.

But Miller, who hasn't had a round over 69 this year, shot 66-69-67-61—263. His final total beat the old tournament record here by eight shots and his 61 topped the 62 he shot a year ago in the first round of the Tucson Open.

Miller picked up $40,000 for his victory here and now has won $70,000 in two weeks. That's a little ahead of his pace of a year ago when he won $57,750 in taking the rain-shortened Crosby and Phoenix the first two weeks. If he wins the Crosby this week, it will mark the first time any player has taken the first three events two successive years.

In a little more than four years on the Tour now Miller has won 13 titles but his 1973 U.S. Open victory is the only major one. In his first five years, Nicklaus won 16 titles with five of them major ones.

Mahaffey, whose only tour victory was in the 1973 Sahara, won $22,800 for finishing second here, while Watson, winner of the 1974 Western Open for his only title, took home $14,200.

Mike Hill and Don Iverson wound up in a tie for fourth at 276, 12 under par but 13 shots behind Miller, and won $8,800 each, while Al Geiberger finished at 278 and won $7,200.

Next, at 279 and winners of $5,900 each, were Bruce Crampton, Tommy Aaron and Leonard Thompson. Arnold Palmer, who made his 1975 debut in the Tucson but will pass up the Crosby, was 10th at 286 and he won $5,000.

Palmer, who played in only 20 events last year and won a career low of $36,293, said he was encouraged by his play here and he plans to compete more often in 1975.

Groom Senior Earns Award At Ceremony

AMARILLO — Donald Burgin, senior football player at Groom last season, received the Dee Henry Memorial Award Sunday during the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame ceremonies, held at Amarillo College.

Burgin, who underwent open heart surgery when he was three in 1960, added the award to another honor he received over the weekend. Burgin was one of several area players named to the Class B all-state team, making the second team at both center and linebacker.

The Dee Henry award goes annually to the most courageous athlete in the Panhandle.

TOUGH LAYUP — Miami's Ken Jenkins has a tough shot, as he jumps from out-of-bounds line under the backboard and lays the ball up. The shot went in but to no avail for the Warriors, who lost to Allison, 45-39, Friday.

NFL Pros Meet

MIAMI (UPI) — Eighty stars from 22 NFL teams will play for pride and the difference between a $2,000 check for the winners and $1,500 for the losers in tonight's AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game.

The 80,010 capacity Orange Bowl is expected to be half-filled for the event. That would be a record low for the modern version of the event.

On the field, the American Conference is expected to win its fourth straight on the basis of what AFC Coach John Madden of the Oakland Raiders calls a "young defense," anchored by half the Super Bowl champions' Pittsburgh Steelers front four.

In addition to the Steelers' Joe Greene and L. C. Greenwood, the defensive line will contain Miami's Bill Stanfill and Cleveland's Jerry Sherk. Two more Steelers—Jack Ham and Andy Russell—will patrol at outside linebacker with Baltimore's Mike Curtis in the middle.

Offensively, Madden will open with Oakland's Ken Stabler at quarterback and O. J. Simpson of Buffalo and Otis Armstrong of Denver at running back.

Madden said he will pull Armstrong after the first offensive play and insert the Miami Dolphins' Larry Csonka in order to get a fullback into the game instead of two halfbacks. Simpson and Armstrong are required to start because they led the coaches' voting for the dolphins.

The Dolphins' Bob Griese also is expected to share a bout half the quarterbacking time with Stabler.

The NFC offense will feature St. Louis' Jim Hart at quarterback with Minnesota's Chuck Foreman at one running back and Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles at the other.

Hart will be throwing to wide receivers Charlie Taylor of Washington and Drew Pearson of Dallas and light end Charlie Young of Philadelphia.

Hart will be backed by James Harris who replaced Fran Tarkenton on the NFC's 40-man roster. Tarkenton withdrew from the game because of a sore arm.

The game will be televised by ABC-TV's regular Monday night NFL crew.

Cards Struggle Again To Win MVC Contest

Maybe it's time for another team meeting at Louisville.

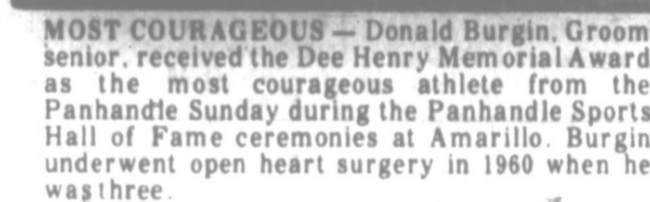

It was a little over a week ago that Louisville's undefeated and fourth-ranked Cardinals, after outlasting West Texas by a mere two points, held a squad meeting that touched off rumors of team dissension.

Two days later the Cardinals mauled New Mexico State, handing the Aggies the only Missouri Valley conference loss they have suffered this season.

But last Saturday Louisville had to put up with another squeaker against Drake before finally prevailing in overtime, 55-53.

That boosted Louisville's record to 12-0 and conference mark to 4-0. Of those four league wins, three have been by two points and two of those were in overtime.

Three other league teams — New Mexico State, Wichita and North Texas — each have only one loss.

MOST COURAGEOUS — Donald Burgin, Groom senior, received the Dee Henry Memorial Award as the most courageous athlete from the Panhandle Sunday during the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame ceremonies at Amarillo. Burgin underwent open heart surgery in 1960 when he was three.

Kareem Pours In 50 Points; Bucks, Kick, Walton, Portland

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Professional basketball players are used to stellar performances.

"Doing it" is what they call it.

And Sunday, nobody was doing it more than Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The Milwaukee Bucks whipped the Portland Trail Blazers, 122-108, and Abdul-Jabbar led the way with 50 points, 15 rebounds, 11 assists and three blocked shots.

Rookie, Bill Walton of Portland, a three-time Player-of-the-Year during his collegiate career at UCLA, collected just seven points, six rebounds, seven assists and one block in 21 minutes of action.

The Trail Blazers stayed close through portions of the game and trailed by just eight points in the fourth period. But the Bucks scored eight straight points midway through the final quarter and coasted to the win.

The triumph moved the Bucks over 500 for the first time all season and it was an uplifting performance for a team that early in the season looked like it belonged in the minor leagues while playing without Abdul-Jabbar who was recovering from both an eye injury and a broken hand.

"We're really starting to put things together," Bucks Coach Larry Costello said. "Things are looking up."

The Bucks shot 53 per cent from the floor to 46 per cent for Portland and Milwaukee enjoyed a 51-41 edge in rebounds.

"Kareem was just magnificent," said Oscar Robertson, a former Bucks guard and now a color commentator for CBS-TV. "I said before the game he would score 60 against Walton and LaRue Martin, but I missed by 10."

The victory kept Milwaukee three games behind first-place Detroit in the Midwest Division as the Pistons kept pace by edging Cleveland, 100-98. In other NBA games, Boston nipped Philadelphia, 102-100, to remain one game in front in the Atlantic Division as second-place Buffalo topped New Orleans, 117-112. Phoenix beat Kansas City-Omaha, 109-97, and Atlanta topped Seattle, 117-109.

Pistons 100, Cavs 98: Bob Lanier and Dave Bing combined for 18 of their 40 points in the fourth quarter to give Detroit its win over Cleveland. John Mengelt, who came off the bench to tie Cleveland's Steve Patterson for the game high of 23 points, sank two free throws with seven seconds left to seal the Pistons' 10th win in their last 12 games.

Celtics 102, 76ers 100: Dave Cowens' two free throws with one second remaining enabled Boston to get by Philadelphia. Jo Jo White had tied the game for the Celtics by hitting a 23-foot jump shot with only 14 seconds left. White paced the Celtics with 25 points.

while Philadelphia's Billy Cunningham led all scorers with 28.

Braves 117, Jazz 112: Bob McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer, popped in 43 points to help Buffalo beat New Orleans. Pete Maravich led the Jazz with 40 points.

Suns 109, Kings 97: Charlie Scott scored 28 points before being ejected with 9:08 to play to lead Phoenix past Kansas City-Omaha. Scott was ejected after drawing his second straight technical foul. The Suns led, 84-77, when Scott led the game and the Kings couldn't get any closer than two points the rest of the way. Jimmy Walker was first in Kansas City-Omaha scoring with 31 points.

Monterey, Harvesters To Tangle

Lubbock Monterey has delivered Borger its only two losses of the season and that makes the Plainsmen the most respectable home opponent, besides Northwest Classen of Oklahoma City, the Harvesters will have played all season.

Pampa hosts Monterey beginning at 7:45 Tuesday in the Harvesters' final nonconference game of the season.

Pampa whipped Monterey, 81-55, when the teams met this season at Lubbock. But the Plainsmen have not lost since then, downing Amarillo High, Palo Duro and Borger.

Monterey won the latter, 67-54, at Lubbock and upped its non-conference record to 12-8. High for the Lubbock school were Scott Gardner with 28 points and Jackson Pace with 18.

The loss was Borger's second against 19 wins.

In other games involving 3-AAAA teams Friday, Pampa stopped Liberal, Kan., 53-42. Hereford surprised Casco, 67-60. Lubbock edged Amarillo High, 47-45. Plainview routed Palo Duro, 73-52, and Lubbock Coronado downed Caprock, 59-50.

Only Pampa and Borger, which visits Lubbock Coronado, are scheduled to play Tuesday. District play begins Friday with three games slated.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JANUARY 21
Your birthday today: Wind up a long job or hold onto whatever comes into your hands during the earlier months, as you'll need all reserves for the complex, transitional period near the end of this year. Relationships range from precarious to rewarding. Keep on your toes. Today's natives go their own way, seldom if ever heed advice. Today's men usually prefer serious, simple lives.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Business deals are brisk, long-standing matters settled readily. Ease tensions in your home; talk of the "good old days," childhood memories. An early rest is suggested.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Renovations, replacements are in order. Review your budget, current plans. Constructive hobbies should fill any gap left by basic routines today.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: It's up to you to set your own pace now, so make definite appointments early. A friendly, cheerful approach makes a second round of benefits possible. Keep at it!

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Moves that have been secret can successfully be brought into the open. Career surprises are likely. Changes relating to your household are favored.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Let somebody else speak for you, and in turn do the honors for someone who has earned recognition. There's plenty of opportunity, aside from these amenities.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your birthday today: Wind up a long job or project, at least to a good stopping place. Associates are all for taking short-cuts. Be prepared for serious study.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Consult an expert rather than relatives on insurance, investments, technical matters. You'll have to make your own decisions, but you'll be better informed.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Replenish your wardrobe. Get rid of anything around the house that has lost its purpose. Clear space for the arrival of articles not yet seen or measured.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Traditional approaches to health care pay off again. Intuition rises in case of discrepancy (probably there'll be several). Follow quietly where intuition leads.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Old objects come into use out of context with original purposes. Current questions vex you to the point of doing something about them—but nothing rash.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Listen carefully to your premonitions. They may be off a little, but near enough to put you well ahead of problems. Parents, older people require unusual attention.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be sociable, accept what is at hand as the dispensation for the day, do what you can with it. Routines must be double-checked. Quit early.

Dallas Council Planning Single Member Districts

DALLAS (UPI) — The city council is expected to require eight candidates for the council run in single-member districts and three run at large to satisfy a redistricting plan ordered by a federal judge who said the current system discriminates against minorities.

U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon told the council Friday it must have a redistricting plan ready to offer him Feb. 6. Mahon must rule on its legality in time for the April city elections.

Mahan said that the methods proposed so far by the city discriminate against minorities, especially blacks, who seek election to the city council.

Testimony has shown that blacks have run in every city council election since 1959 with the exception of one race. Mahon said.

In that time only two blacks have been elected and each of these two won only after being endorsed and supported by the dominant slating group known as the CCA (Citizens Charter Association).

The Citizens Charter Association, despite recent liberalization efforts that allowed the election of two black and one Mexican-American councilmembers, is dominated by the city's older white business leaders.

"Often a black candidate can muster the plurality or majority of that community, but not be elected at large—unless endorsed by the slating groups," Mahon said. "This limits their access to the political system."

About 26 per cent of the city's population is black, but 93 per cent of them live in the inner city area. The group of blacks that originally filed the case in 1971 said the at-large system diluted their voting power.

"Anything less than 10-1 would dilute the black vote," attorney Jim Johnson said.

"We'll appeal if we have to."

Sen. Bentsen's Encouraged By Presidential Prospects

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., says he has "obviously been encouraged" about his prospects for the Democratic presidential nomination and he said he will make a definite announcement soon on whether he will make the race.

"I would expect within the next several weeks to make a decision on whether or not I will run for the Democratic nomination for the presidency," said Bentsen.

in San Antonio Sunday to address a conference on race.

"I've obviously been encouraged or I wouldn't have continued at the pace I have on the weekends and recesses, going around the country."

Bentsen said he thinks Congress will give quick approval to President Ford's proposed income tax cut for middle and low income citizens.

But Bentsen criticized Ford's oil tax proposals which he said will contribute to inflation.

"He (Ford) is talking about raising the price of oil to what in effect will be about $14 a barrel, as compared to an average of $7.50 a barrel. You can look toward the same kind of inflationary impact that you had when the Middle East countries raised the price four times to $7.50."

"I think to do that and talk about doing that in a year will be a substantial blow to the economy and assures double digit inflation. And then he (Ford) talks about windfall profits tax that would take all the increase and more and give no credit for a plowback, by that I mean drilling."

"So when you put that all together, I think it's an unacceptable package. And I think we'll (Congress) make material changes in it."

Bentsen said an income tax cut is needed badly to halt a recession.

U-T Library In Debt

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — University of Texas president ad interim Lorene Rogers says a prestigious university library may be wasting its funds and so she has stopped any further state appropriations designed for the facility.

The library says it needs the money to pay creditors the hundreds of thousands of dollars it owes them.

Dr. Rogers said she placed a freeze on further payment of the $400,000 in school funds appropriated by the board of regents for the Harry H. Ransom Humanities Research Center, which includes valuable art and literary collections.

HRC has been experiencing personnel problems as well as criticism that money has been wasted. Mrs. Rogers said. "I am waiting until these problems can be resolved to be sure the money is spent as it was intended to be."

Rogers said she plans to commission a team of experts to study the library and its operation. She said she will not release any further university funds to the library until the study is completed.

Management of the library was listed by an investigating committee as one of the reasons UT System Chancellor Charles A. LeMaistre fired UT Austin President Stephen H. Spurr last year.

The Austin American-Statesman said in a copyrighted story during the weekend the library was in debt several hundred thousand dollars.

Senate Considers Employees' Wages

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A bill scheduled for Senate consideration today giving state employees pay raises of up to 14.2 per cent will not even be enough to make up the loss of buying power caused by inflation last year, according to the head of the Texas Public Employees Association.

Jim Stewart, director of the TPEA, asked the Senate Finance Committee to approve a bill giving the 140,000 state workers raises of 20.4 per cent—effective immediately and for the remaining seven months of this fiscal year.

Instead, the committee voted to give employees making less than $10,500 a year a raise of 14.2 per cent, and those making more than $10,500 a 10.5 per cent increase.

"Even if the 20.4 per cent raise passed today, it would be very doubtful if our people would recoup what they lost to inflation last year," Stewart said. "I don't think they will live that long."

He said even though state salaries have steadily increased, the purchasing power of state workers is less today than it was in 1967.

Stewart said a number of lower echelon state employees are on welfare rolls and getting food stamps to help supplement their incomes.

The pay raise bill was one of two measures dealing with money which were pending when the legislature returned today from its first weekend recess.

Both the House and Senate last week approved their own versions of bills making jobless Texans eligible for an additional $5 million in federal unemployment compensation benefits.

The two houses must agree on the bill and get it signed by the governor before midnight in order for the state to qualify for the federal program.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe submitted both the pay raise and unemployment compensation issues to the legislature as emergency matters, and asked for immediate action on them.

The cost of the pay raise bill will be $100 million. It also includes increases in travel expenses and insurance benefits for the state workers.

Country Music

By KATHLEEN GALLAGHER

Not many 15-year-old boys have ever owned a Gran Torino, a diamond ring, 20 pairs of custom-made cowboy boots, a closeful of fancy western shirts or an electric fiddle.

But then, few 15-year-olds have had the chance to play in a top bluegrass band like Marty Stuart, Lester Flatt's mandolin player and chief sidekick, and get paid for it.

Marty already qualifies as a veteran. He has been picking with Flatt since age 13, and he's not just another talented sideman. His personality provides a twinkling counterpoint to the taciturn Flatt.

Marty sparkplugs the Nashville Grass, Flatt's group. And although Lester will probably go on introducing Marty as "this little boy from Mississippi who just turned 15," right up until the day Marty turns 16, Flatt treats him like a man offstage.

"You can't call him a kid any more," Flatt said recently during an interview at his spacious lakeside home in Hendersonville, Tenn., where Marty has been a star boarder for several months.

"He's an old man, 15 years old. Marty is very far above the average talent, but the one thing that sold me on him was that he's a pro to begin with," Flatt recalled how his former mandolin player, Roland White, introduced him to the talented youth from Philadelphia, Miss., at a bluegrass festival in Delaware.

"A lot of times you hear a kid with talent, but you don't always find someone with a professional manner. Marty just had it naturally."

"It was just an overnight thing," Marty said of his arrangement with Flatt. "Lester heard me playing on the bus. He asked me if I reckoned we could work it out with my schooling to go on the road with him. So I joined him and played guitar until Roland left."

Marty, who played in rock bands in Mississippi before he was a teen-ager, said he used to sit in school and dream about coming to Nashville to perform. Now he doesn't have to sit in a schoolroom at all, thanks to a series of high school correspondence courses he is taking.

"I do my studying on the bus, and they all help me. Lester is my teacher," Marty grinned.

"Well, I don't seem to be getting too far with him," joked Flatt, a smile cracking across his face.

Even though Marty's lifestyle is vastly different from most kids his age, it doesn't bother him, although he finds he has very little in common with other 15-year-olds.

His clear voice, finely chiseled features, silky black hair and double-fringed eyelashes could make him a country Donny Osmond, but Marty says he has no intention of leaving the Nashville Grass.

"I think I'm working with the greatest, and you can't do any better," he said. "As far as going out on my own, I think I've got plenty of time to think about that. And besides, what do I want with a lot of 12-year-old girls hanging around me?"

When Marty is at home, he enjoys waterskiing on Old Hickory Lake, collecting old records and musical instruments, or jumping into a car with friends to get a hamburger or check out a few of Nashville's night spots.

"I'm staying in the background, watching people like Lester and Bill, the old pros, just picking up a few things that might be helpful to me in years to come," Marty said with a wisdom belying his age. "Right now, a million bucks couldn't budge me."

The Almanac

United Press International
Today is Monday, Jan. 20, the 20th day of 1975 with 345 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

Polish-American pianist Joseph Hoffman was born Jan. 20, 1876. American actress Patricia Neal was born 49 years ago today.

On this day in history:

In 1892, the first officially recognized basketball game was played at a YMCA training school in Springfield, Mass. The game was invented by Dr. James Naismith.

In 1936, King George V of Britain died.

In 1969, Richard Milhouse Nixon was inaugurated as the 37th president of the United States. He was inaugurated for a second term on this date in 1973.

In 1972, an airplane hijacker was captured, with Air Force aid, after collecting $50,000 ransom and parachuting out of the plane over Colorado.

A thought for the day: British poet Philip Bailey said, "It matters not how long we live, but how"

Because you need money now and then...

Money now for things that need fixing now — a regular account pays for repairs — without busting your budget, with money that earns until you need it.

5.25% Yields 5.39% Annually

Money then for things like the new kitchen you've set your heart on — a certificate earns more to help you afford some of the better of life's blessings.

5.75% to 7.75% Annually

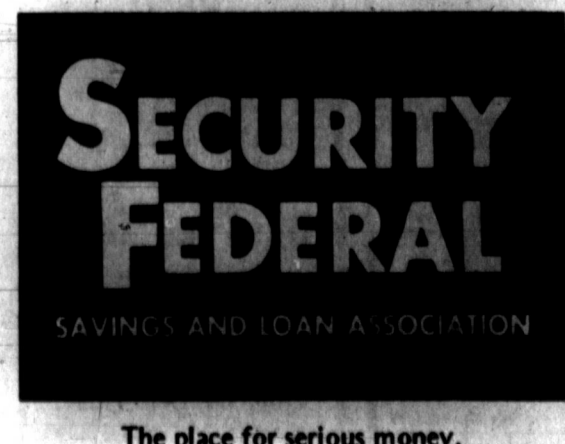

Substantial penalty required for early withdrawal.

...you need two accounts at Security Federal.

When something good comes along, or something goes wrong, a PASSBOOK account is your best friend. Presto — the money is here, waiting for you. While it waits, it earns, which is more than you can say for a checking account.

A CERTIFICATE account brings bigger goals nearer faster through greater earnings.

You will always need money TODAY and TOMORROW. That's why you need two insured accounts here for the money you can't afford to risk.

All Security Federal accounts — savings as well as certificates — earn interest from date of deposit to date of withdrawal, compounded daily, paid or credited quarterly. Accounts insured safe by an agency of the U. S. Government.

Security Federal — the oldest and largest association in the High Plains; has three offices, two in Amarillo and one in Pampa.
