Scandal Called Basic Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Convicted Watergate mastermind G. Gordon Liddy views the events of the Watergate scandals as basic politics—“like brushing your teeth”—and says Richard M. Nixon should have covered them up more ruthlessly.

Liddy, the former Nixon campaign finance counsel who drew up the intelligence gathering plans that led directly to the Watergate bugging, relaxed his vow of silence on Watergate somewhat in an interview with Mike Wallace scheduled for broadcast Sunday on CBS-TV's “60 Minutes.”

Sporting a beard he grew since leaving prison, Liddy is free on bond pending an appeal of the 6-20 year prison term he received for conspiracy, burglary and illegal wiretapping in the 1972 break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

Indian Seige Continues

GRESHAM, Wis. (UPI) — Sounds of gunfire Saturday punctuated what had been a quiet takeover of a 64-room monastery by a group of militant Indians.

Authorities said the gunfire came only from inside the complex and there had been no exchange of shots.

Roadblocks around the monastery, which has been occupied since early New Year's Day by a group calling itself the “Menominee Warrior Society,” were rearranged and a second set of checkpoints set up about three miles farther away from the building.

Authorities expressed a willingness to negotiate further with the Indians on their demand that the monastery and land around it be given to their people. But officials said they would not continue talks until the gunfire is stopped.

Some of those involved in the negotiations were critical of a deadline set Saturday for the Indians' accepting or rejecting the latest offer.

Famed Quintet Plans Concert Session Here

The George Shearing Quintet will be the second attraction of the Pampa Community Concert Association's 1974-75 season at 8 p.m. Monday in the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

Concert association officials said Saturday admission will be by membership card only and there will be no box office seat sale.

By the time English-born George Shearing was 21 he had already established himself in London as a top star in supper clubs and his recordings there were on the best-seller lists.

In 1947 Shearing and his wife came to America to reside and later became American citizens.

Two years after their arrival, Shearing organized his first quintet for the now historical LP recording date which included a number called “September in the Rain,” the album that launched what is now known as “The Shearing Sound.”

children while Mrs. Liddy works as a school teacher. Mrs. Liddy said she regards her husband as a hero and likened him to a prisoner-of-war.

Unrepentant and proud of his Watergate service to Nixon, Liddy still refuses to discuss “substantive” Watergate matters. But he gave Wallace his views on political morality and scathing assessments of the “stool pigeons” who served Nixon and later provided the government with evidence.

“Power exists to be used,” Liddy said in defending the morality of the Watergate break-in, which he planned, and other aborted 1972 campaign schemes to kidnap anti-Republican radicals and entice Democratic politicians with prostitutes.

“If Watergate is as it's alleged to be, it was an intelligence gathering operation of one group of persons who were seeking power, or to retain power, against another group of persons who were seeking to acquire power. That's all it was.”

“It's like brushing your teeth, Michael. It's basic.” Other Watergate conspirators testified Liddy carried out his “campaign intelligence duties with fanatical devotion, drawing up grand schemes for sabotaging the Democrats and organizing the Watergate break-in.”

Liddy was convicted of conspiracy in the 1971 burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and served an 18-month contempt-of-court sentence for refusing to talk about Watergate.

On one of the presidential tapes, Nixon called Liddy “a little bit nuts.” Liddy said he took no offense at the remark and remains loyal to Nixon.

“He's evidently a very sick man,” Liddy said. “And I regret that. I think he has demonstrated towards the end of his presidency that he was insufficiently ruthless, in that these domestic difficulties in which he was engaged, he did not act ruthlessly.”

Liddy said Nixon should have destroyed the tapes.

Asked what he thought of John W. Dean III, the former presidential counsel who was the star witness for the Watergate prosecution, Liddy said: “You'd have to put him right up there with Judas Iscariot.”

He said Dean's motivation was simply “to save his ass.”

Liddy also called Jeb Stuart Magruder, who was his boss at the Nixon re-election committee and who also testified and went to prison, “an accomplished, skillful liar.”

Liddy said he would refuse to testify even if his prison term were reduced to one year in exchange for his testimony.

If his appeal fails and he must return to prison, Liddy hopes there will be no Watergate informers in that prison.

“I don't want to be in any bird-cage for stool pigeons,” he said. “I'd rather have an honest bank robber any day in the week as a cellmate.”

Daniel Reveals Texas Charter Revision Plans

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Outgoing House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. Saturday revealed details of a proposal to call a new Constitutional Convention with specially elected delegates to rewrite Texas' 100-year-old state charter.

“Constitutional revision remains as a top priority item on the state's agenda,” Daniel said. “If we are to have a modern, workable and efficient structure of government in Texas, constitutional revision is essential.”

Daniel served as president of the unsuccessful Constitution Convention that met in 1973 with legislators as delegates. The lawmakers met for seven months and spent more than $4 million without agreeing on a document to submit to voters for approval.

The proposed legislation Daniel unveiled Saturday calls for a new election on Jan. 27, 1976 to authorize another convention and elect 72 special delegates — three from each congressional district — to do the revision job.

Voters would then get a chance at the November, 1976, general election to approve or reject any constitution produced by the so-called citizen convention.

Sen. William N. Patman, D-Ganado, Friday proposed the legislature simply let Texas citizens vote on the document produced but not passed by the 1973 convention. Patman prefilled his proposal in the Senate for consideration when the 1975 Legislature convenes Jan. 14.

Daniel said Saturday the proposal for a new convention “will be introduced and sponsored by Sens. Max Sherman, D-Amarillo, and Bob Gammon, D-Houston, and a dozen House members — Reps. Ron Waters, Woody Denson and Craig Washington of Houston, Dave Finney of Fort Worth, Neil Caldwell of Alvin, Pike Powers of Beaumont, Ron Bird of San Antonio, James Kaster of El Paso, Carlos Truan of Corpus Christi, Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad, Don Kubiak of Rockdale and Ronald Earle of Austin.”

Daniel will not be a member of the 64th Legislature convening Jan. 14. He did not run for reelection to the House last year.

Although he will no longer hold a state office after Jan. 14, Daniel has indicated he intends to remain active on behalf of constitutional revision.

The recent

Constitutional Convention brought into sharp focus for all involved, as well as all Texans, not only the serious need for constitutional revision, but also the tremendous advantages and benefits that will accrue to all of us if we simply move our government at all levels out of the horse and buggy days,” he said.

“The failure of that convention to produce a new constitution for voter consideration left all of us with a desire, and a challenge, that can, and I hope will, be fulfilled and met during the 64th Legislature and a subsequent citizens constitutional convention.”

Daniel noted that Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby, Attorney General John L. Hill and the Democratic and Republican Party platforms have endorsed calls for a citizens constitutional convention.

The legislation Daniel unveiled Saturday, however, would not prohibit public officials — including legislators — from running and being elected as delegates to the convention.

approximately $1.7 billion more than current salary scales during the 1976-77 biennium.

Carolyn Harrell of Gonzales, chairman of the TSTA legislative committee, said the proposed salary schedule would provide an average salary of $13,865 in 1975-76.

The average Texas teacher's salary last year was $8,967 — $1,760 below the national average. Texas ranked 37th in the nation in average pay for teachers.

The committee turned down a proposal for a $12,000-a-year minimum recommended by a group of San Antonio teachers.

CIA Faces Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford announced Saturday he is creating a “blue ribbon” citizens commission to examine charges that the Central Intelligence Agency spied on Americans, and said the Justice Department already is investigating whether the CIA broke the law.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will name five to seven persons to the citizens commission. He said the commission would hand in its report in three months.

“I have today established a commission to ascertain and evaluate any facts relating to activities conducted within the United States by the Central Intelligence Agency that give rise to questions as to whether the agency has exceeded its statutory authority,” Ford said in a special White House statement.

“It is essential in this republic that we meet our security requirements and at the same time avoid impairing our democratic institutions and fundamental freedoms.”

Ford said he has ordered what he called “this blue ribbon panel” to “determine whether existing safeguards are adequate to preclude agency activities that might go beyond (the CIA's) authority and to make appropriate recommendations.”

The President said the Justice Department already is “looking into such aspects of the matter as are within its jurisdiction.”

Nessen said the Justice Department investigation has been underway “for the past few days.” Ford, in an executive order setting up the commission, ordered all federal departments and agencies to cooperate with the panel.

Nessen said Ford “welcomes” any independent investigation of the CIA case which the Congress wishes to launch. There have been several congressional calls in recent days for tighter supervision of the agency by Congress and for a Watergate-type special prosecutor to investigate the alleged illegal spying.

The White House announced Ford's action three hours after the President spent 20 minutes in his Oval Office in a private meeting with former CIA director Richard Helms.

Helms asked for the meeting with Ford, Nessen said. The press secretary declined to say more about Helms' visit.

Helms, who arrived in Washington Friday night on leave from his post as ambassador to Iran, served as CIA director from 1966 until late 1972 — a period embracing some of the Johnson administration and most of the Nixon years.

It was during that period, according to newspaper and congressional charges, that the agency spied illegally on thousands of American citizens within the United States.

Helms has categorically denied accusations the CIA conducted any illegal surveillance of antiwar activists, dissidents and other Americans while he was director of the agency.

Nessen told reporters Ford ordered the commission investigation after reading a 50-page report prepared by William E. Colby, the present CIA director, in the wake of the public allegations.

“It's fair to say that from his reading of Colby's report and talking with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, and (Defense Secretary James R.) Schlesinger and director Colby that enough questions were raised for a citizens commission to look into this matter,” Nessen said.

The press secretary said he expected the panel to be named next week. He said it would include no congressmen or government employees.

Nessen said Ford already had sounded out some persons for commission membership, but declined to name them.

A Justice Department spokesman, Robert Havel, said he could not go beyond the President's disclosure except to say: “We will assume our responsibilities on what is assigned to us. Whatever manpower it takes we will, I suppose, employ it.”

The department's inquiry, however, was believed centered in the Criminal Division of the Justice Department and in the Civil Rights Division.

SIGNS EMPLOYMENT BILL

President Studies Tax Cut Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford called in Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and other advisers Saturday for an anti-recession strategy session which administration sources said included a proposed income tax cut for low and middle income Americans.

Sources said the advisers, members of the President's Economic Policy Board executive council, recommended a tax break as a recession fighting measure that would spur spending and create more jobs.

Ford has not yet decided firmly whether to propose a tax cut, sources said, and must still settle on the size of any reduction he does endorse. But according to unofficial estimates the President might choose a plan that could free as much as $20 billion a year from taxation.

In addition to the economic strategy meeting, Ford signed more than 30 pending bills into law. The measures included one to fight recession by providing $4.5 billion in unemployment benefits and new government job programs.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, assuming a full working role in the Ford administration, joined Treasury Secretary William Simon and the other top economic advisers at the meeting of the Economic Policy Board.

White House aides said Ford and the economists also discussed a proposal that the President seek a tax on both imported and domestic oil in order to enforce energy conservation.

Ford faced a midnight Saturday deadline to act on the stack of pending congressional bills. One of the most important among those he signed was the $4.5 billion measure to aid the unemployed.

The new law extends the time jobless persons can receive federal benefits and creates 100,000 jobs for the unemployed. Ford signed the bill even though, under pressure from Congress, he has dropped his plan for a 5 per cent income tax surcharge to pay the costs.

Another bill the President signed made the nationwide 55 mile per hour speed limit permanent.

On another issue, presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford supports Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's statement in a magazine interview that U.S. military action against Arab oil suppliers, while not considered in any way likely now, has not been ruled out if the petroleum pipelines to the world's industrial consuming nations are shut off.

Kissinger's interview did reflect the President's views, Nessen said.

Reds Claiming Good Economy

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Communist party Central Committee said Saturday the Soviet Union has no economic crisis, unemployment or inflation but it is plagued with bad management, wastefulness and inefficiency in industry.

A 2,600-word New Year call to workers filled the entire front page of the party newspaper Pravda. It urged them not to close their eyes to existing drawbacks in the economy.

City Tax Deadline To Arrive Feb. 1

Paid your 1974 city taxes yet?

If not, January is the final month to pay them without a penalty.

The 1974 city taxes become delinquent on Feb. 1.

City Tax assessor collector Aubrey L. Jones said tax statements were mailed to all taxpayers on Oct. 31.

The tax collector added that many calls have been received from property owners who say they have not yet received statements.

“Anyone who has not received a tax statement can get the amount of his tax bill by coming by the tax office in City Hall,” Jones said.

subject to a 6 percent per annum interest plus an 8 percent penalty on the entire amount of tax due.

Tax collections this year are running slightly behind one year ago, Jones stated.

At the close of business on Dec. 31, he said, the city tax office had collected 38.59 percent of the total taxes due and that was about 4.3 percent less than on the same date in 1973.

“We just want property owners to know,” Jones said, “that they do not have to have a tax statement to pay their taxes. Just come to the tax office and the amount of the tax can be given to them in just a few minutes.”

The fact that a tax statement has not been received does not have any bearing on the tax becoming delinquent if not paid before Feb. 1, Jones explained.

“The statements were put into the mail and if they were not received, there is nothing the tax department can do about it except to furnish the amount of the tax to those who apply at City Hall,” Jones said.

The Busy, Busy IRS

All governmental bureaucracies are, by their very nature, dictatorial. And, without doubt, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) tops them all in this respect.

As anyone who has incurred IRS wrath can attest, that federal agency is policeman, investigator, prosecutor, prosecuting attorney, judge and jury. Verily, a law unto itself.

But now, according to a report in the Wall Street Journal, the IRS has surpassed all previous limitations. Now, in addition to taxing you, seizing your personal papers, indicting, trying and fining you, it presumes to dictate your accounting procedures and the wording of your correspondence.

Incredible? Not at all. Read on.

In recent months, as corporation began to realize what inflation was doing to them, many firms began to switch from their old accounting procedure known as "first in, first out" (FIFO) to a new procedure known as "last in, first out" (LIFO). Under FIFO accounting, it was discovered an inflated profit picture was being presented, and the switch to LIFO was made in an attempt to reduce tax payments on non-existent profits.

Very well, said the IRS, but if you use LIFO for tax records, you must use it in reports to stockholders, too. A meddling ruling, incidentally, which was quite uncalled for, since no firm in its right mind, having once realized the error of previous accounting procedures, would continue reporting inflated profits to its stockholders since, that, in turn, would call for inflated dividend checks to such stockholders.

But the IRS was not yet finished meddling. It had yet another ruling up its sleeve: a really vicious one, this time.

It went on to rule that firms switching to the more realistic LIFO accounting method were prohibited from adding footnotes to reports to stockholders explaining what the firm's profit picture and, consequently, dividend checks to stockholders, would have been under the abandoned system of accounting.

In other words, forced to change their accounting procedures by governmental debauchery of the currency (inflation) in order to stay solvent, firms are prohibited by the IRS from explaining to their stockholders what is going on.

As the Journal pointed out, the IRS ruling appears to be an encroachment on territory staked out by the Security Exchange Commission (SEC) and in conflict with guidelines laid down by that agency. But that didn't stop the IRS.

Little wonder that both businessmen and investors are angry, frustrated and confused, the stock market going up and down like a yo-yo, and the economy as a whole in a nosedive. With nothing of their own invested, bureaucrats running the show, how could it be otherwise?

Plunder Can Be Legal

Socialism has been defined in various ways. "Ownership or control of the means of production by the State," "from each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs" (with both abilities and needs being determined by the State bureaucracy); the "forced redistribution of wealth" (by the State), etc., etc.

All quite accurate, of course, and all quite instructive in helping us to understand just what socialism is.

But, as it seems to us, a simpler, more easily grasped definition is needed if the plunge of this country into the slavery of socialism is to be stopped or even slowed. Toward that end, we offer the following:

Socialism is the forcible transfer of control over property from its rightful owners to the control of persons to whom it does not rightfully belong.

As Bastiat, the nineteenth century philosopher-economist, pointed out, when this forcible transfer of control over property is carried out without benefit of law, it is obviously, "plunder," but that, when the color of law is added, the character and nature of the act does not change in the least becoming, merely, "legal plunder."

In this connection, it is also instructive to note that the act of taxation (a "forced contribution of wealth," according to Merriam Webster's) submits to both our simplified definition of socialism and to Bastiat's definition of legal plunder.

Nor do the various "good" reasons offered for plundering owners of the control of their property rightfully transferred from its rightful owners to persons to whom it does not rightfully belong, is still socialism and plunder.

Individuals who advocate socialistic projects are, knowingly or unknowingly, Socialists.

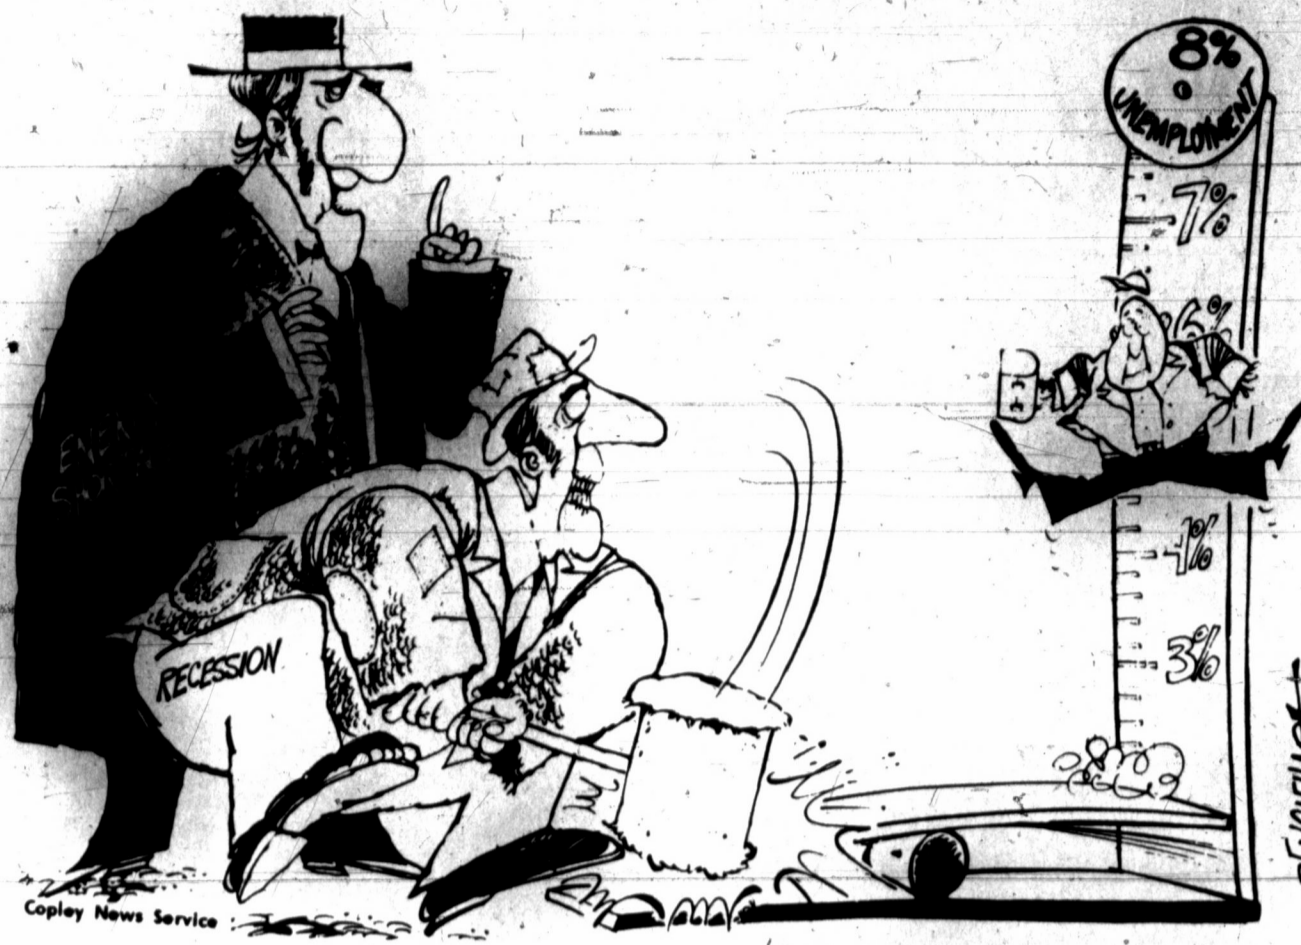

Individuals who advocate acts of plunder are, knowingly or unknowingly, plunderers.

In Dahomey, it was believed that a knife-shaped god was used in the shaping of the original men.

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

"HELP, I'M MARoonED ON A DESERT ISLAND. SEND FOOD, WATER, AND THE BOWL SCORES."

Question Box OUTRIDER Goldwater On Rockefeller

QUESTION: With 85,000 new parasites added to the government payroll by order of President Ford, when will our 51 per cent of voters put together a bill where the other 49 per cent will be forced by law to allow the 51 per cent to vacation forever with excellent incomes? — K.L.

ANSWER: We have no crystal ball, but are able to comment from many years of observation.

We doubt if there is anyone who can predict the exact time, if ever, such a situation will occur. From our observation, such things happen gradually.

It should be recalled that about 15 years ago, the late Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, father of the present independent senator, brought forth the fact that in the United States at that time there were some 48 million persons either on government payrolls or receiving some sort of assistance from government. This included subsidies, welfare assistance, subsidized loans, and the like. There were persons who predicted that eventually 51 per cent of the people of the United States would be on the "dole," and that when that time occurred, Ayn Rand's then new prophetic novel, "Atlas Shrugged," would be seen in reality.

It appears that more and more of the events in "Atlas Shrugged" are being seen with the politicians at all levels seizing more power over the individual, attacking the producers in business and industry who have made America's economic progress possible.

At the same time, there continues to be a move away from production by persons who have grown weary and impatient with carrying an increasing load of what Miss Rand called looters.

When oil and gas operators reduce their search for new energy supplies while they are attacked by politicians as monopolists and profiteers, it seems that just what Miss Rand foretold is happening before our eyes. One observer said re-reading "Atlas Shrugged" was like reading history.

But the politicians still seem not to have learned the lesson, as demonstrated by the continued assault on individual enterprise by leaders of both parties. They continue to advocate more intervention in the lives of producers in favor of an increasing number of looters amounts to 51 per cent, since we no longer have a Harry Byrd as head of the Senate Finance Committee. His place has been taken by a typical political looter, who tends to push more of the same old hokum of taking from some to give to others.

We do not believe that the 51 per cent will have "excellent" incomes, however. They are giving themselves more paper dollars, but the dollars are so inflated as to be nearly valueless. And that's a part of the picture.

By GARRY WILLS

It is always disconcerting to find one's self on the same side of any question with Senator William Scott of Virginia. It makes for panicky reassessment of one's own views — how can I possibly be right if he agrees with me?

Scott, you will remember, is the only senator who felt obliged to call a press conference to announce that he is not the dullest man in the Senate — which had the same effect as President Nixon's going to Disney World to announce that he was not a crook.

Yet Scott was one of only three Republican senators voting against Nelson Rockefeller's confirmation. As one expects from Scott, he gave as the grounds for Rockefeller's ineptitude a practice that he, Scott, has indulged in. Arguing against Rockefeller's loans and gifts to men in public life, Scott said he feels that such loans may undermine the recipient's integrity. Yet Scott himself took a $200,000 loan from millionaire J.D. Stetson Coleman in his 1972 campaign, and has paid back only half of it.

I know that any argument sounds silly coming from Scott's mouth, but when Senator Goldwater makes the same argument, I sit up and listen. Goldwater, God knows, can be wrong; but he is one of the few politicians about whom one can use the word "conscience" without being silly.

I listen to him because he is a man of such probity. Even when he was running for president in 1964, and voted against the Civil Rights Bill, thus helping along his campaign in the South (the only part of the country he eventually carried), those who knew him felt confident that on a matter of deep principle he was voting his conscience — his own best view of the Constitution.

Karl Hess, Goldwater's old speech writer, tells what happened next. The Civil Rights Bill vote hurt Goldwater in other parts of the country. Even more than it helped him in the South, some right wing crazies figured that if they could just stir up some race trouble in the cities, people would come around to Barry's way of thinking.

When Goldwater heard rumors of these schemes, he called in his top campaign aides and told them to get the word around to all his supporters: If there was even one city riot in the summer of 1964, he was drawing out of the campaign. When he levels with you, you can trust him. His aides did, and they passed the word. It may seem odd to praise a politician for what many would conceive to be basic decency; but chances were that nothing would come of the crazies' talk, there was no need to make such a large pledge. Goldwater could have just let events take their course. Most politicians would have. It was said, last summer, that the press had only come around to praising Barry when it looked like he could be used against Nixon. But he always had admirers and friends on the left, among newsmen as well as politicians. He liked, and was liked by, John Kennedy. He earned respect.

That is why it was a relief to see that Goldwater voted against Rockefeller, on roughly the same grounds as Scott, but without sticking straws in his hair while he recited all the solid arguments against Rockefeller's confirmation. Goldwater decided that Rockefeller's lavish gifts to officials who were his allies had to be destructive of integrity. Goldwater was right — and he has had to settle for being right, through the years, rather than president.

Palm-reading regarded as rubbish

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset I can hardly see straight. The other night, my husband came home and told me that some woman had read his palm for five dollars and told him that either I was going to die and he was going to marry somebody else, or he and I were going to get divorced because she definitely saw TWO marriages in his palms. How do you like that?

Ever since my husband told me this I've been afraid to go to sleep for fear I might not wake up again. Also I'm afraid of saying something that might not set right with him for fear it will start a fight which may lead to breaking up our marriage.

Man, this thing has really hit me hard. We've always had a pretty good relationship, but not anymore. I need your help.

SCARED

DEAR SCARED: The only thing you can tell by looking at a person's palm is whether it's clean or not. Fortelling the future? No way! It's all a lot of rubbish, so forget it. And tell your husband to forget it, too.

DEAR ABBY: I just had a miscarriage, and while I was in the hospital a neighbor lady sent me a get-well card, and she wrote on it, "Some people have all the luck!" (She has nine kids and I don't have any.)

I thought that was in very poor taste. Do I have to thank her for the card?

EMPTY ARMS

DEAR EMPTY: Not unless you want to. But when you see her, tell her that as far as you're concerned, your "luck" was bad.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, I returned home from shopping and found my 16-year-old daughter and her 18-year-old boyfriend in her bedroom. (He has been teaching her to play the guitar.) The door was open and her two brothers were in the living room.

I'm afraid I over-reacted, because I said in front of the boy, "I would rather you didn't have David in your bedroom."

They promptly put away the guitar and went for a walk, but before leaving, she said: "We weren't doing anything wrong, Mother."

I told her she could have her lessons in the basement — that it would look better and she said: "With the boys and their friends running through every few minutes? My bedroom is the only quiet and private place I have."

After thinking it over, I realized that she was right, and as long as they weren't doing anything wrong I shouldn't have said anything.

Abby, how do you feel about a 16-year-old girl entertaining a boy in her bedroom?

OLD FASHIONED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A girl should not "entertain" her boyfriend in her bedroom — so you aren't wrong there. But she wasn't entertaining him. She was taking a guitar lesson. There's a difference. Privacy is necessary and legitimate under special circumstances. This was one.

THERE IS something about the first few days of a new year that's entirely different from any other time of the year.

Just what it is — we haven't pinned down yet, but it's a mysterious something that makes you speculate about what is in store during the months ahead and reflect on what happened in the months just behind.

It also has a tendency to make you wonder if you will be here for the start of the next New Year. Will you be among the survivors on Jan. 1, 1976?

The first few days of 1975 seem to have cast such a spell of uncertainty that a personal decision has been reached to try and forget the whole thing and hop over on the optimistic side of the fence.

So, be of good cheer. Cross over to the sunny side of the street and see if the view isn't better.

And while you're over there — let us know what you see.

THERE ARE many who say the former President was punished enough when his Watergate cover-up forced him to resign from office. Perhaps. But the men who helped him with the concealment all lost their jobs, too. If the scales were to be balanced shouldn't that also have been enough punishment for them?

In the name of fairness why not treat them all the same?

John Dean was the only one of the top-drawer cover-up gang who had the courage to call a halt to what was happening when he decided he wanted no further part of it and warned the man in the Oval Office that there was a cancer on the Presidency. But where is John Dean today? Was he pardoned?

These are among reasons Watergate continues to hang over into 1975 and refuses to go away. Justice still has not been done.

Why should subordinates in the scandal be hauled through the courts and the head-man be pardoned and pensioned? Anyone having an answer to the question please send it along and help erase reflections on the past year that have bobbed up again in the first few days of 1975.

FOR ONE thing we haven't recovered during the first few days of 1975 from the shock of the $250 per day rental on that chalet your President rented while on his skiing vacation up at Vail, Colo., during the Christmas holidays.

You get to thinking about things like that as you begin to figure how much money you will have to scrape up to pay your 1974 income tax bill.

How long has it been since you rented a $250 a day chalet? And how long has it been since anybody chipped in to help you pay for your holiday ski vacation?

It would be interesting to check the tab for the entire two weeks the Presidential entourage stayed up there on the snowy Rocky much extra it cost to equip them for skiing.

THERE'S something else hanging over from 1974 that continues to bug a lot of folks.

Federal Reserve Board Reduces Interest Rates

United Press International
The Federal Reserve Board, hoping to stimulate a worsening economy that has put 6.5 million out of work, has eased credit restrictions.

The board reduced its discount loan rate from 7 3/4 per cent to 7 1/4 per cent Friday to make more money available at cheaper interest rates for business expansion to create more jobs.

The discount rate is the rate Federal Reserve charges commercial banks for loans. The board lowered the rate last month from 8 per cent to 7 3/4 per cent.

The move followed the unexpected news of a 7.1 per cent unemployment rate, which President Ford's economic advisers had not expected until mid-1975. The 7.1 per cent figure stemmed from the loss of 1.3 million jobs in November and December.

Some government officials predicted the jobless rate could reach as high as 8 per cent in the immediate future.

The new discount rate was approved for Federal Reserve banks in Boston, Philadelphia, Richmond, Cleveland, Dallas and San Francisco.

The rate was one of the emergency steps suggested Friday by AFL-CIO President George Meany to ease unemployment. Meany also said Ford should act "tomorrow morning" to release $13 billion in impounded public construction funds and reactivate housing programs.

In other economic news: American Motors Corp. says it is freezing cost-of-living raises at current levels for about 7,500 non-union salaried employees. The cost-cutting measures also include a delay in implementing a dental plan for salaried employees and a halt to any merit pay increases until further notice.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a 7.2 per cent rate increase on interstate calls beginning March 4.

Under the proposal for increased long distance rates, a new, one-minute initial period would replace the customary three-minute period for customer-dialed, station-to-station calls.

Depending on the time period, a company spokesman said customers could make a one-minute, coast-to-coast call for as low as 24 cents.

The new rates would produce $717 million in additional interstate revenue annually for the Bell System or a net of $433 million after taxes, the spokesman said.

Charges will increase for all person-to-person, credit card, collect, bill to third person and station-to-station calls placed with an operator.

Current Recession Nears Painful State

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current U.S. recession already is as bad as the short, mild one in the late 1960s, and is approaching in severity the painful recession of the 1950s, new government statistics show.

But by every measure, the current slide is not as steep as the plunge leading to the bottom of the Great Depression in November, 1933, the figures show.

The data were prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to give perspective to Friday's announcement that unemployment, in its second sharp jump, had climbed to 7.1 per cent in December.

With that report, the BLS stopped quibbling over whether the term "recession" properly described the current condition of the U.S. economy.

The BLS figures measured the depth and duration of four downslides — the period between the crest of a boom and the start of a recovery.

The figures showed that if the current recession were to bottom out how it would prove to be about equal to the 12-month downslide of the mild recession that began in November, 1969.

But it would be less severe than the 10-month downturn which began in July, 1957. Richard M. Nixon felt the 1957 slump cost him the presidency in the 1960 election.

In the current recession, starting in November, 1973, the U.S. gross national product has fallen 2.7 per cent. BLS figures show the GNP decline was 1.1 per cent in the mild 12-month recession that started in November, 1969, 3.9 per cent in the severe recession of the 1950s; and 32.6 per cent in the Depression.

Industrial production so far has fallen 4.3 per cent. That compares to 6.8 per cent in the mild recession, 12.6 per cent in the deep recession and 53.4 per cent in the Depression.

But unemployment, at 7.1 per cent, already has surpassed the peak of 6 per cent hit during the mild recession and is close to the 7.5 per cent high during the 1950s recession. It is far, however, from the 25.2 per cent peak in the Depression.

Total civilian nonfarm employment actually stands six-tenths of 1 per cent above where it was when the slump set in.

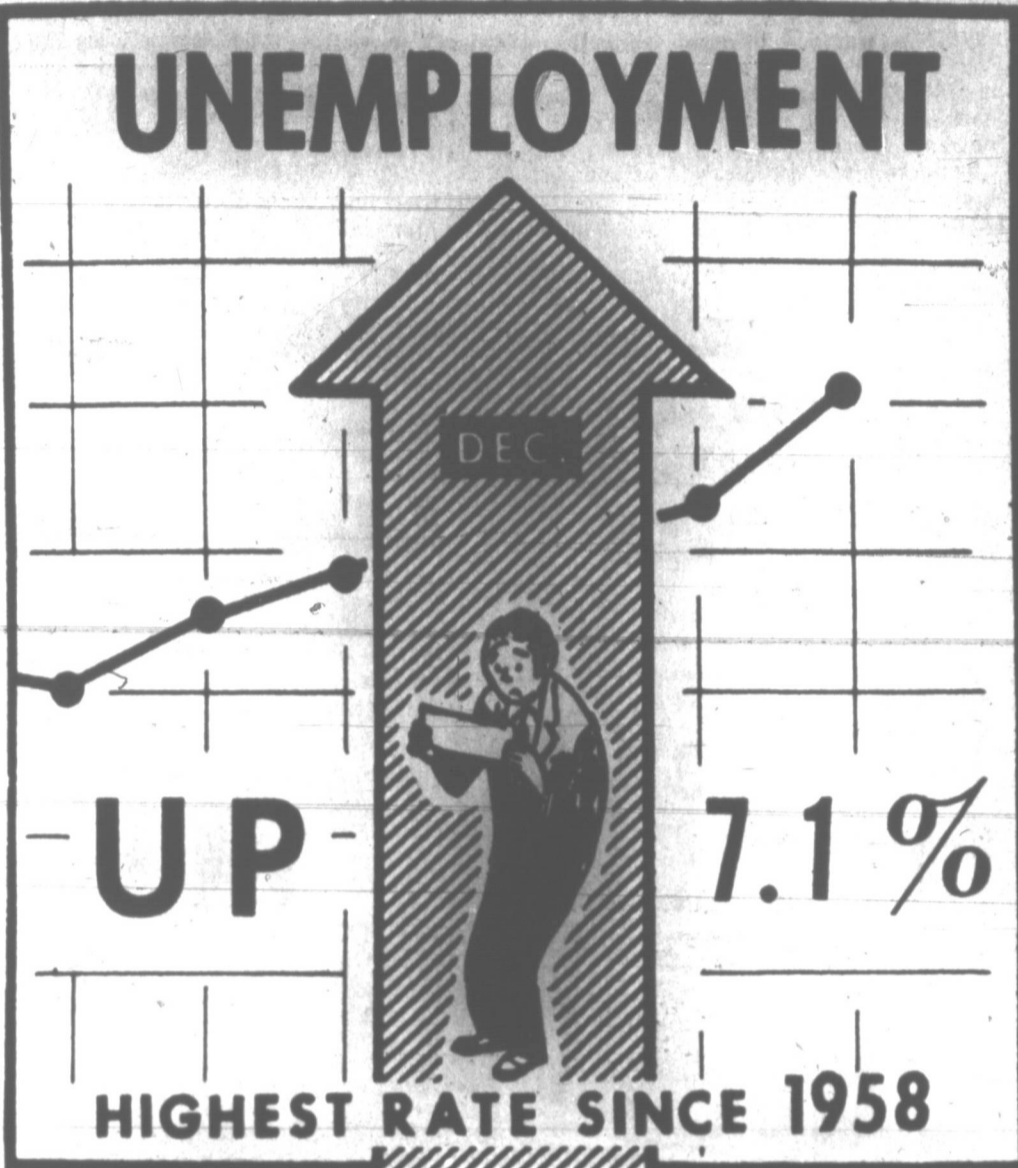

Total employment, which reflects the overall growth in the work force, fell by 1 per cent in the mild recession, 4.3 per cent in the severe recession and 31.6 per cent in the Depression.

The BLS statistics show that in the last half of last year 32.8 per cent of the industries among 172 categories for which statistics are recorded were still adding to their work forces. Only 19.2 per cent were expanding in the mild recession, 11.7 per cent in the severe recession and none in the Depression.

The study isolated one profound difference between the last two downturns and their more painful predecessors when prices fell as business activity slumped. In the 1960 economic downturn and the present recession prices rose.

The Consumer Price Index rose 12.1 per cent in the 12 months ending in November. It rose 5.6 per cent during the slide of the 1960s.

HIGHEST RATE — The nation's unemployment rate jumped to a 13-year high of 7.1 percent in December when approximately 6.5 million Americans were out of work, the Labor Department revealed last week. The jobless rate reached 7.1 percent in May, 1961 and the current statistic was the highest since unemployment hit 7.4 percent in August, 1958.

NEW PROFESSIONS UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.

(UPI) — Dr. G. Lester Anderson, director of the Center for the Study of Higher Education at the Pennsylvania State University says that segment of the American work force known as professionals will grow in coming years.

The number of professionals in the work force will increase and the proportion of the work force that is professional also will increase despite the lessening population growth and lower postsecondary enrollments.

Anderson, whose research shows that the population and college enrollments is reached, an increasing demand for professional workers is projected, he said.

New professions will undoubtedly emerge and will become a vital force in our society, old professions will experience spinoffs that will seek recognition as new professions.

Port Arthur Police Chief Under Fire

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI) — City officials said they would announce their response Saturday to demands from the city's black community for the dismissal of Police Chief James Newsome and four officers involved in the fatal shooting of a misdemeanor suspect.

City manager George Dibrell scheduled a news conference for 2:30 p.m. to announce the decision.

Dibrell had originally planned to make a statement Friday afternoon but was unable to reach every city council member to determine their opinions. He would not disclose the views of the council members he did meet with.

Newsome, who assigned the four officers to clerical duty pending his department's investigation and a Jefferson County grand jury study, said he would abide by the decision of the city manager.

Clifford Coleman, 22, was shot Sunday morning as he fled the city police station. Coleman, convicted in 1971 of narcotics possession and under indictment when he was shot, had been arrested for disorderly conduct at a grocery store.

Blacks held two protest marches during the week following the shooting.

Twenty-two black community leaders Friday met with Dibrell and Mayor Bernis Sadler to demand the firing of Newsome and the other officers. Among the 22 citizens were two of Port Arthur's three elected black officials.

The black leaders said Newsome should be fired because he maintained "an antiquated, racist police system or force."

They also said Newsome should be dismissed because of "his inability to select competent men for the post of peace officer."

Dallas Residents Defending Mayor

DALLAS (UPI) — A group of businessmen are trying to find a way to pay off a $30,000 judgement against Mayor Wes Wise, who has gone deep in debt on his $50-a-week salary.

"We think the guy is being crucified unjustifiably. We would like to get something started to help him out," one of the businessmen told the Dallas Morning News.

The Morning News reported Saturday that the businessmen, who did not want to be identified, were only in the preliminary stages of working out an arrangement to pay off Wise's debt.

The businessmen said they had not contacted Wise yet.

Wise and his former business partner George Rodgers were ordered to pay the $30,000 to pay back a loan made to a company they once operated.

Besides his city salary, Wise also makes about $22,000 a year in his job with the World Trade Center. But a financial statement he filed during the court proceedings showed he was deep in debt.

Wise's 1966 Volkswagen was seized and auctioned off Thursday to pay part of the judgement. The sale started a controversy about the mayor's salary.

Six of eight city council members said they favored raising the mayor's salary. The two who oppose increasing the $50-a-week salary say the mayor should serve in the interest of the city and not out of self-interest.

"I have not seen any evidence we will get better persons to serve because they will be paid," councilman Charles Storey said Friday.

Wise said he favors an increase in the mayor's salary but not while he is in office.

The mayor's office has been a plaything for the wealthy men of Dallas. City councilmembers also make $50 a week under the current charter.

Mayor pro tem George Allen said the voters don't understand the amount of work goes into running the nation's eighth largest city.

Farmer's Tax Guides

We now have a supply of the current Farmer's Tax Guides on hand. They are yours free for a telephone call to our office. They are extremely helpful to anyone doing Farm Tax returns.

New Government Reports
In times past, many Government reports would have a great bearing on the futures market. Not so any more on most of the commodities. It seems of recent years there are private forecasters that do a good job of tracking market conditions. They use Government weekly slaughter reports and Government methods and usually have a pre-forecast that is pretty well in line with the Government reports. This tends to take the extreme gyrations out of the market soon after the report is issued. In other words, it isn't often the reports have any big surprises in them.

Recently there has been three reports that should be of keen interest to farmers in this area. First, let me mention the hogs and pigs report. Hogs and pigs on U.S. Farms as of December 1, 1974 stand at fifty-five million head, down ten percent from a year earlier and seven percent below December 1, 1972. This is the lowest December 1 number since 1965. Breeding stock is down fifteen percent from a year ago. Market hogs are down nine percent from a year earlier. The 1974 pig crop was the smallest since 1965. The average litter size was the lowest since 1960.

Hog producers in the U.S. intend to farrow fifteen percent fewer sows from December 74 through May 75. The pig crop is expected to drop by a similar amount. This will be the lowest pig crop for this period since 1935.

Some forecasters feel pork production during 1975 could drop as much as fifteen percent. This would mean the per capita consumption of pork would be down from six to nine pounds per person. Broiler production is also scheduled for a drop. No doubt this will help some on beef prices since production of beef is supposed to be up sharply.

Texas Livestock Auction Report
Do you wonder why you see such few double-deck cattle trucks on the road? Two or three years back the highways were clogged with double-decked cattle trucks. One of the reasons is because fewer cattle are moving through the auction rings in the Eastern part of Texas and the Eastern states. A recent report showed the number are down twenty-three percent from a year earlier. This doesn't mean there are few cattle. It does mean there has been a substantial increase in direct marketing of fat calves and cull cows. Small locker plants back in the Eastern part of the country have a two-month waiting list. A lot of middle men have been cut out. This is why you often hear cattle people talk about the demand for beef is down. Actually, the per capita consumption of beef is supposed to hit an all-time high this year. What has happened is the marketing pattern has changed drastically in the Southeastern states. Because of the milk fat bidding on feedlot cattle by many of the packers in the Southeastern states. The price of cattle doesn't react in a direct relationship to the percentage of supply and demand. Reduce the demand by five percent and you could get a twenty percent drop in price. You have a half dozen small packers drop out of the Panhandle market and you get a substantial price drop. We feel the cow-calf producer to the East here is going through the same ringer the stocker operator and the cattle feeder are still going through.

A substantial number of producers are withholding from the market because of the price. Therefore, we believe you will see an increasing percentage of grass cattle coming to market in 1975 and a decreasing percentage of grain fed cattle.

Wheat Report
Although I've never placed much confidence in a wheat crop forecast made in December, I'll give you the data on a current one made as of Dec. 1. U.S. growers seeded fifty-five and one-half million acres of wheat in Fall of 1974. This is the largest seeded acreage since 1953. The Government projects the total bushel yield at one and six tenths billion bushels. The acreage is probably pretty accurate. However, the yield forecast is a guess. Last Spring a relatively short time before harvest they projected the Texas yield of wheat to be close to one hundred million bushels. I wrote in this news column we would be lucky to make half of this amount. The final yield figured showed we made about fifty-three million bushels. So you see a lowly County Agent can sometimes out-guess the experts on wheat.

Again, I say it is more of a guess than anything else.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
The Panhandle Regional Planning Commission was designated by the Governor of Texas as the planning agency for the Canadian River Basin. Robert Lort, the regional engineer for the Commission, has been working on the proposed goals and objectives for the Canadian River Basin. We have been carrying these proposed goals and objectives in this column the past two weeks. Today we will finish the objectives and go further into the characteristics of the planning area.

The objectives of this report are for the citizens of the Canadian River Basin to provide the State of Texas, through the Texas Water Quality Board, with:

1. The goals of the Basin for water quality management, and 2. The information required for the State to integrate the needs of the Basin into a state-wide program upon which to base water quality management and maximum water quality benefits for the Basin and the State.

The Canadian River Basin comprises the northernmost part of the Texas Panhandle. The western boundary of the Basin planning area is the Texas-New Mexico state line. The area is bounded on the east and north by the Texas-Oklahoma state line. The southern boundary across the first county west of the Texas-Oklahoma state line is a well-defined, topographic divide between the Canadian and Red River Basins. Westward therefrom, the boundary meanders through a noncontributing playa area to the extreme southwestern corner where it again becomes defined by an escarpment. Most of the City of Amarillo is naturally tributary, or has been made tributary through sanitary and storm sewer systems, to the Canadian River. The Basin drainage area includes all, or part, of 15 counties and the small part of Randall County occupied by the southern section of the City of Amarillo. Twenty-three incorporated municipalities lie within the Basin.

The general physiographic terms, the Canadian River Basin can be considered to be a combination of the Rolling Plains and the High Plains. The drainage areas of the Canadian River and the North Canadian River tributaries below the escarpments, have the topographic characteristics of the Rolling Plains and are often referred to as the "breaks". This Rolling Plains area provides the range lands for the ranching sector of the Basin's agricultural economy. The relatively flat lands above the escarpment are the High Plains portion of the Basin upon which the grain and feed crops are produced both by dry farming and by use of groundwater for irrigation.

The southern and northwestern portions of the Basin are drained by the Canadian River and its tributaries. The northern portion includes a short reach of the North Canadian River and four major tributaries which flow into the North Canadian River in Oklahoma. The Texas Water Quality Standards divide the Basin into stream segments which exhibit significantly different water quality characteristics from those of adjoining segments.

The Texas portion of the Canadian River Basin has a temperate, semi-arid climate with the percentage of possible sunshine ranging from about 72 percent in the winter to about 84 percent during the summer. The variation in altitude from about 4,735 feet in northwestern Dallam County to about 2,170 feet in the Canadian River Valley at the Texas-Oklahoma state line has a relatively minor effect on the climate.

The frost-free growing season ranges from about 180 days in the west to slightly more than 200 days along the eastern edge of the planning area. The average annual precipitation is generally in the 18 to 20 inch range, with about two-thirds of the moisture occurring erratically during the April-September growing season in about six or seven days per month. The annual relative humidity is about 53 percent, varying from about 60 percent in mid-winter to about 50 percent in mid-summer. Free water surface evaporation averages approximately 67 inches per year.

Double-Cropping Benefits Yields
MUNDAY, Tex. (UPI) — Spring cabbage planted in the protection of winter wheat will outyield unprotected cabbage, researchers in this West Texas community have learned.

The test was made by Texas Tech University agricultural researchers in Knox County 140 miles east of Lubbock and 75 miles southwest of Wichita Falls.

The initial test showed the protected cabbage outyielded the unprotected crop by 143 per cent," said Joe D. Tidwell, who heads up the vegetable research program. "Thus, the yields would have paid for the land taken out of cabbage production and used for wheat."

Tidwell said the major benefit appeared to be in the promotion of crop growth. "The heads of cabbage in the windbreak strips averaged 119 per cent larger than those in open ground," he said.

Tidwell said the winter wheat windbreak had no consistent effect on cabbage stands, although the average number of plants per acre was slightly higher in the protected strips.

The cabbage was field seeded in February, using three-bed strips between strips of winter wheat four beds wide. Cabbage was also seeded at the same time in open ground without any kind of wind protection.

The wheat was harvested June 3, leaving 10 inches of stubble height. The cabbage was harvested only two weeks after the wheat as cut.

"The real protection came from the time the cabbage was seeded until near maturity," Tidwell said.

"The benefits derived from windbreaks such as wheat strips are associated with the reduced velocity of the wind over the soil surface," he said.

Increased soil temperatures speed root growth, the rate of nutrient uptake by roots and the conversion in the soil of minerals such as nitrogen and phosphorus," Tidwell said. "It also aids water absorption by the crop plants and encourages root extension into areas where additional water and nutrients are stored."

Vegetable research in the Munday area by Texas Tech agricultural researchers has been under way since 1969.

Planned Grazing System Must For Good Range Use

At a time when cattle prices are low and operating costs are high, it is more apparent than ever that the rancher must produce at a maximum with the least costs while improving his rangeland. Since many ranchers are producing less than their potential quality and amount of grass, planned grazing systems can aid the rancher in his plight.

Planned grazing systems are not the complete answer to the problems of the rancher today, but by the use of these systems he can improve his rangeland while producing at a high efficiency.

A wide variety of grazing systems can be developed for a ranching unit, however, the systems must be adapted to the particular ranching operation according to the needs of the livestock, vegetation, and operator.

Some grazing systems that should be considered by Gray County ranchers include deferred rotation and short duration systems. Deferred rotation grazing systems can be developed effectively for two, three, or four pastures. For example, in a four pasture system, the cattle that would be grazed on the four pastures would be placed in three of the pastures with the remaining pasture allowed to rest. Approximately every 4 months one herd would be rotated to the rested pasture in a cycle. It would take 16 months to complete one cycle and four years to complete the system.

A system being used with much success in Southern Texas is a short duration grazing system. Four or more pastures work best where the total number of cattle that would be grazed on all pastures are placed in one pasture for a short period of time and rotated to another pasture when the grass is properly used. This system provides faster improvement of the range by allowing for a long period of rest for most pastures.

Gray County ranchers interested in a planned grazing system should contact personnel of the Pampa Soil Conservation Service to discuss advantages and disadvantages of these systems and assistance in their development.

Quarter Horse Directory: Computerized For Accuracy

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — More than a million names are on file in a small, plain office, but unlike the Smiths and Joneses listed in a metropolitan telephone book, no two are alike.

Because names are the main identifier of registered quarter horses, the American Quarter Horse Association uses an IBM computer to help search its files when applications are received to assure a name hasn't been assigned already to another animal—living or dead.

Also stored in the computer's vast data base is extensive information about the pedigree, show and racing performance of 1.2 million quarter horses," said Don Jones, executive secretary of the association.

"That information is now available instantly from computer files. It is useful to inquirers who are planning to purchase a horse, or for breeding purposes. One phone call to our office can answer all questions in a matter of seconds," he said.

The computer-assisted equine registry, larger than all others in the world combined, makes it possible for the association staff to provide answers to members' questions faster than ever before, according to Jones.

"With the system we can now keep up with the nearly 250,000 registrations and transfers we process each year—as well as over 200,000 show and racing performance record entries," he said. "Previously we had a backlog of several weeks."

Jones said headquarters personnel handling calls sit in front of display terminals and retrieve data from computer files instantly.

The registration process begins when owners of quarter horse dams send in application forms after foaling. Besides indicating a suggested name and alternates, the owner lists the horse's color, sex, when and where foaling took place, as well as the registration numbers of the sire and dam.

This information is entered into the computer when received in the Amarillo offices.

"While this action establishes a file on the newly registered horse, it also updates information on others," Jones said. "For example, the breeding record of the owner, sire and dam will be changed to reflect the new data."

The AQHA racing department obtains information on the official results at tracks around the country where quarter horses are entered. Last year this involved almost 10,000 races and nearly 14,000 starters. After entering the racing data in the computer, past performance charts are generated by the system with not only current data for use at tracks still having meetings, but monthly and annual charts as well.

Gray County Farm Bureau Represented At Convention

Gray County Farm Bureau was represented by six delegates to the 431st annual meeting of the Texas Farm Bureau at the Convention Center in Dallas. Some 1,500 persons from all parts of Texas attended.

Policies to guide the state's largest farm organization next year were adopted by the more than 900 voting delegates representing the majority of the 210 organized county units. Also approved were recommendations on national issues. These will be forwarded to the American Farm Bureau

The computer is also used to check on all performance claims made when advertisements on quarter horses are submitted to the Quarter Horse Journal.

"With the use of our computer and files, we can assure that ad claims coincide with the information in our system to make sure our readers are getting the correct data," Jones said.

Bull-Breeding Conference Set In Amarillo

Pioneer Beef Cattle (Southwest) will conduct a conference Jan. 9, in Amarillo to acquaint Panhandle cattlemen with the company's bull breeding program.

The session, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in the W.M. Gouley Livestock Sales Arena on the Tri-State Fairgrounds, will include an exhibition of bulls and a presentation on Pioneer's breeding and testing program.

The meeting is open to all area cattlemen. Pioneer Beef Cattle officials said

Dr. Richard McDonald, executive assistant of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, will be the guest speaker for the gathering. He will discuss "Tools for Sire Selection."

McDonald holds degrees in animal science from Texas A&M University and Louisiana State University and is the author of a number of articles on livestock production.

Reared in San Benito, Texas, he was an area livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Renner before joining the Texas Cattle Feeders Association staff a year ago. In the TCFA post, he coordinates the association's cattle research programs.

Robert F. "Bob" Brandenburg, Pioneer Beef Cattle representative for the Panhandle, will serve as host for the meeting. Lionel Lane, customer service director, will outline the Pioneer system for breeding, evaluating and marketing performance-qualified bulls.

Pioneer Beef Cattle

(Southwest), headquartered at McGregor, Texas, has one of the most sophisticated breeding programs in the world. Each Pioneer bull is the progeny of a superior herd sire and one of 15,000 registered cows in the program.

The Pioneer feed-testing technique uses a normal growing ration, rather than a high-gain ration, so that results will reflect hereditary growth potential instead of fat production. Computerized performance data is kept on every bull and on his ancestors for several generations.

Pioneer's cattle program includes eight breeds — Angus, Red Angus, Hereford, Polled Hereford, Charolais, Barzona, Maine-Anjou and Simmental. Only about the top 60 per cent of bulls considered for testing meet all of the standards to be offered for sale.

Each Pioneer bull is certified fertile, and a semen evaluation certificate is furnished to the buyer.

The Pioneer bulls displayed at the conference will be available for sale by private treaty.

Brandenburg said: "Pioneer Beef Cattle (Southwest) is a division of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., the world's oldest and largest agri-genetics organization."

BIG BABIES

Baby beef, now appearing in some retail markets, comes from 7 to 10-month-old animals grown on a diet of milk and grass to a weight of 400 to 600 pounds, according to the Council of California Growers. — CNS

Lantern Fish Helps Find New Currents

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — At a time when most geographical discoveries are being made in outer space, a young college professor has found a heretofore unknown ocean current in the waters near Antarctica.

Evidence of the current in the "Southern" ocean was discovered by Dr. Richard McGinnis, who teaches biology at Pacific Lutheran University here.

McGinnis doesn't take full credit for the discovery. He points out that the existence of the current was suggested in 1937 by a noted Antarctic research scientist in England, Sir George Deacon. However, it was Sir George made in a publication concerning the current evidently went unnoticed by subsequent authors.

McGinnis noticed it and he suggests the current be named after the Englishman.

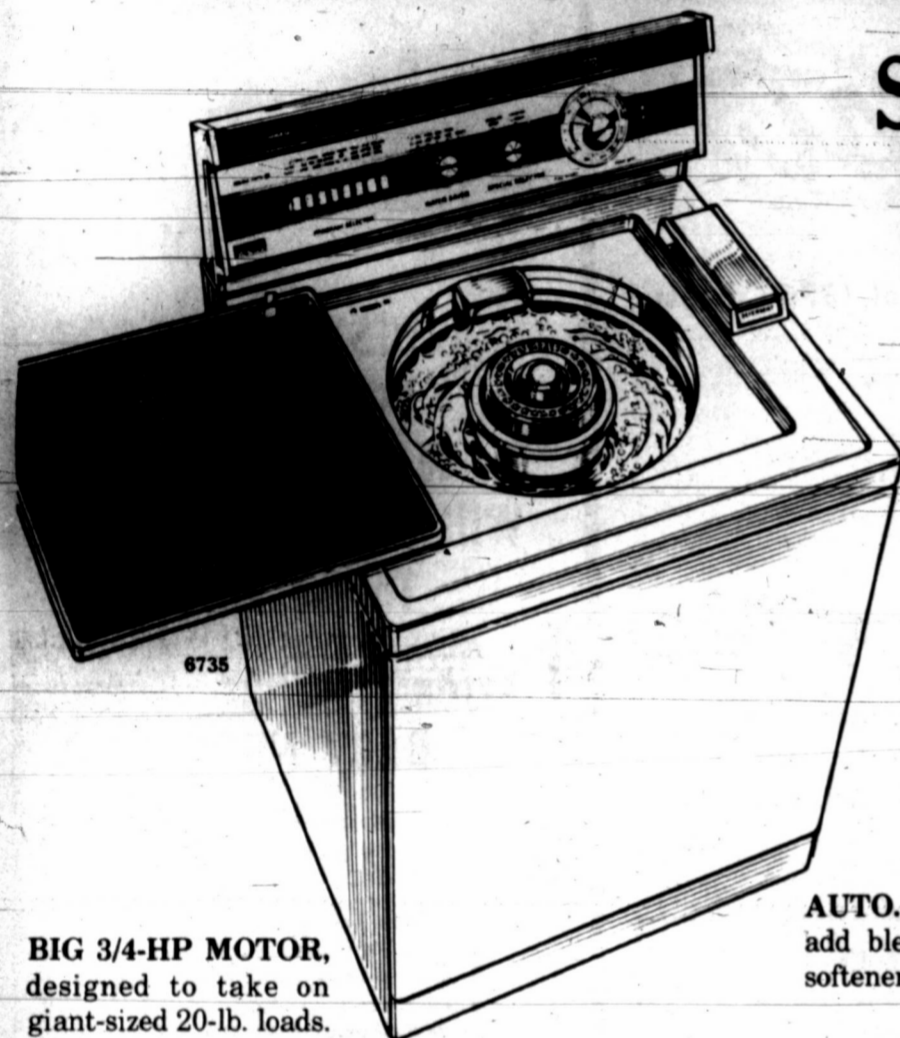

McGinnis says the current is unusual in that it flows in a westward direction, counterclockwise to the prevailing currents in the sub-Antarctic Ocean waters.

Iowa entered the Union as the 35th state on Dec. 28, 1846.

At Wit's End

Everytime someone mentions the country's state of depression, someone will smile and say optimistically, "Yes, but it will bring families closer together."

Then they will laugh into a nostalgic reminiscence of families sitting around popping corn, eating apples and playing Happy Days Are Here Again on their spoons.

Heaven knows we could use a little of that. Just the other day I responded to the doorbell and ordered a lipstick and a jar of bath crystals before I realized the caller wasn't the Avon lady, but my daughter who had forgotten her key.

As I was telling mother, "I never got the breaks like the other people. Leave it to me to be born just after the depression. Tell me about the popcorn and the togetherness."

"We got on each other's nerves so bad I thought I'd go crazy," she said. "No TV, no pizza, no stereo."

"But the games, you all sat around and played games."

"Did you ever play Chinese checkers with Kung Fu? Your father used to get so mad when you jumped his marbles, he just smashed the whole board."

"But the neighbors. You really had a sense of reaching out and saying, 'Hey, gang, we're all in this thing together,' right?"

"I didn't know 'em. We didn't have dryers then and in the winter I'd count to ten, run outside and hang up a lineful of clothes with the steam rolling off them and try to get pins in them before they froze solid. I got more bruises from frozen underwear than I care to remember."

"But the values," I persisted, "they were basic and they were good then. And there was a feeling of determination, motivated by a sense of survival coupled with a moralistic code that strengthened the family structure."

She thought a moment. "That's easy for you to say."

But we spent all our time trying to get your Uncle Howard to work. They called him one day for a job and he went to bed with a headache for a week. He still gets a chill when he thinks how close he came to finding employment."

"Ah, those wonderful bologna, yellow soap, oven-to-heat-the-kitchen-days are coming back," I mused, "and when they do families will be drawn closer together."

"That's true," sighed Mother. "Had the depression gone on another year, your father would have gone home to his family, your uncle would have been put up for adoption to strangers and I would have gone to live with a friend and her mother."

Come to think of it, the optimists never say "whose" family you'll be closer to.

RX FOR BOTULISM

CHICAGO (UPI) — To avoid botulism, an Illinois Institute of Technology microbiologist, Dr. Nicholas Grecz, suggests:

—Never eat or taste foods which are known or suspected of being spoiled.

—Do not throw away swollen cans or spoiled foods which may be retrieved or consumed. Return them to store managers.

—If in doubt, heat the suspected food to the boiling point. Heating will destroy any toxin which may have developed, although it will not kill the botulism spores.

—Always refrigerate leftovers.

—Never attempt to do home canning without a pressure cooker. Heating should be at 250 degrees F. for 20 minutes.

Recipe For A Perfect Brunch:

California Avocado Salsa Omelet

Want to know the secrets for making a perfect omelet? Use eggs that are at room temperature. Beat them with a fork until fluffy. Add one tablespoon of milk or cream per egg. Season with salt and pepper. Use one teaspoon of butter for each egg and melt over low heat in skillet until it sizzles. Pour omelet mixture into skillet. Cook slowly... keeping heat low. As the underpart becomes set, start lifting the omelet ever so slightly with a spatula so that the uncooked part will flow underneath. Continue cooking till golden done. Just before folding, add the filling you desire and then serve on a warm platter.

One truly sumptuous omelet is the California Avocado Salsa Omelet. You'll be sure to get baskets full of compliments on this original recipe which is so simple to prepare:

Omelet

- | | |
|-----------------------------|----------------------|
| 6 eggs | 6 teaspoons butter |
| 6 tablespoons cream or milk | 1 California Avocado |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt | peeled and diced |
| dash pepper | |

Prepare omelet as directed above then arrange avocado chunks across center of omelet. Fold over sides and remove to warm platter.

Sauce

- | | |
|-------------------------|---------------------------|
| 4 slices bacon, chopped | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| 1 small onion, diced | 1/8 teaspoon pepper |
| 2 large tomatoes, diced | 1/4 teaspoon chili powder |
| | 2 California avocados |

In medium skillet, cook bacon until almost done; pour off about 1/2 bacon grease. Add onions, tomatoes, salt, pepper, and chili powder. Simmer several minutes or until onion is soft. Remove from heat. Peel avocados while simmering (reserve slices for garnish); mash remaining avocados and add to sauce. Serve in pitcher or gravy boat so your guests can "pour it on". Four to five servings.

A few happy things about avocados: California avocados are available all year round. They must be used when fully ripe (to test for ripeness, cradle an avocado gently in your hand. Ripe fruit will yield and be soft to the touch.) Ripening can be hurried by putting fruit in brown paper bag or wrapping them in foil. Or, they can ripen right in your fruit bowl, adding that extra bit of decoration. Avocados have 7 essential vitamins and 5 vital minerals. Only 132 calories in a half. And, avocados have no starch and minimal sugar.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I never miss reading your column! I edit them for publication in our paper, and have found many marvelous time and money-savers sent in by your readers.

In one column, a reader suggested a use for the long narrow plastic bags in which newspapers are delivered. Here's my suggestion, and I think others who sew may like it, too.

After a garment has been cut, fold the leftover scraps into a flat bundle that fits the sack. Sometimes, I have quite a large piece left over, so I insert a label stating "One-half yard, 60 inches wide, plus scraps."

If it is pertinent, include fiber content and price per yard so if trimming is needed, the information is there without unrolling a bundle.

Also, these flat bundles lie in stacks on the utility shelves in my sewing closet, which makes it easy to find a particular color. I guess I get pretty wordy

Two Wheeled Hazards

COLLEGE STATION — Two-wheeled bikes top the national Consumer Product Safety Commission's hazardous product list, according to Mrs. Janice Carberry, family resource management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She said that in an effort to reduce the one million yearly bicycle-related injuries, the Commission has adopted mandatory safety standards.

Bike frames, wheels, steering and brake systems will have to meet new tests of effectiveness. New standards call for visible reflectors on fenders, wheels and peddles. Also protective coverings or edges for fenders, protruding bolts and chains will be necessary, Mrs. Carberry said.

These new standards will apply to all bicycles produced after Jan. 1, 1975.

To distinguish which bicycles meet the requirements, the Commission has proposed the safer bikes bear the label "meets U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission safety regulations for bicycles," she said.

Roadrunners can run faster than 15 miles an hour.

Home Sewing Beats Inflation

COLLEGE STATION — Home sewing has become an increasingly popular way to beat the high cost of living in recent years, one clothing specialist noted this week.

"Stretching the clothing dollar can be fun when one looks her best and knows she saved money doing it," Marlene Odle, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, contended.

The specialist suggested some advantages to home sewing.

— Clothes can be made to fit easier than making major alterations in readymade items.

— The sewer can usually make exactly what she wants in the fabric desired.

— Home sewers can save 60-70 per cent over the cost of readymade clothing prices.

— Quality of workmanship is usually better and lasts longer on a homemade garment.

— Feelings of pride and accomplishment result from home sewing.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

The suit - preference signal is a device used in defensive play whereby a player may indicate a desire to have his partner lead one suit rather than another when his partner has a choice. The signal never applies to the current trick, nor to the trump suit. Thus it is designed to guide partner's choice between the other two suits.

The essence of the suit - preference signal is this: when one has the lead, the play of an unnecessarily high card by his partner calls for a lead in the higher ranking of the two obvious suits; the play of an obviously unnecessarily low card calls for a lead of the lower ranking suit.

In today's deal, we have an example of the suit - preference signal in action. It should be noted that the signal applies only when it is OBVIOUS that the signal is not a "come-on" signal.

Handling Stressful Situations Effectively

COLLEGE STATION — Families are often faced with stressful situations for which they have no immediate solutions. Tension or stress may be the result of changes in the normal routine, illness or death, disagreement with a loved one and financial worries — even vacations and holiday seasons cause some tension for families.

"Facing the problem squarely and evaluating what is happening is the best way for families to cope effectively with a stressful situation," Irene Carrington, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out this week.

Part of a realistic evaluation is the ability to acknowledge and express one's feelings about the situation. It is also important to deal with what is currently happening, she said.

"Blaming others for the problems or letting unresolved troubles haunt you can be detrimental and will only complicate the situation."

"Ignoring one's feelings or the situation isn't a satisfactory solution either," the specialist said. "Deal with one problem at a time and consider all the different alternatives."

"Then decide what is the best possible solution for the stressful situation — and act on that decision. If necessary, seek the help of friends, relatives and community services. The reassuring love and support from someone who is concerned can be a great asset in a time of stress," she advised.

Misa Carrington suggested another guide for handling stress effectively is plan for it in advance.

person's life can be anticipated and prepared for — such as pregnancy, retirement, a move to another city or children leaving for college.

"Families can anticipate these changes and discuss their feelings and plans before the event occurs to reduce much of the tension and stress," she said.

LAST WISH
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron has directed public officials in Argentina not to name streets, plazas, buildings or other public places after her late husband, Juan D. Peron.

Mrs. Peron asked officials throughout the country to respect the wishes of Peron, who died July 1, "who said publicly on numerous occasions that such homage does not contribute to national unity."

My Daughter The Fireman?

HOUSTON (UPI) — Linda Honeycutt doesn't really want to wrestle firehoses and climb ladders, but she does want to be a paramedic with the Fire Department's ambulance service.

She did 12 pullups, 40 situps, 27 pushups and sprang 89 1/2 inches in a standing long jump to pass the physical fitness test and clear the last major obstacle before attending the Fire Academy March 31.

"My father is excited that I chose a civil service job with security. But my mother prays every night I'll change my mind," said the 23-year-old wife of a civilian jet pilot instructor.

"She said she would rather be able to say 'my daughter the teacher' instead of 'my daughter the fireman'."

The December University of Houston graduate need only pass additional background, polygraph and physical examinations to be the city's first female in the Fire Department Academy. Her physical fitness test, height of 5-7, and minimum required weight of 140 were the hardest parts.

"She said she wants to be a paramedic because 'I'd like to help people,' but will have to serve a minimum of two years and nine months as a firefighter to qualify.

The department presently doesn't have facilities for women to live at fire stations when on duty, but chief John Little said she would probably be assigned to a large station where something can be arranged. She said that wouldn't bother her.

"I was raised as an individual and know how to handle people," Mrs. Honeycutt said. "I'm a well-rounded person."

'WONDERFUL PROGRESS' Angola's Independence Agreements Reached

MOMBASA, Kenya (UPI) — Angola's three big guerrilla organizations have reached virtual agreement on an independence formula for Portugal's last major African colony, diplomats said Saturday.

"They are making wonderful progress," a high level source said after a five-hour meeting among the leaders of the three groups. "They will meet again tonight to finalize things and then issue a communique Sunday."

The delegates were relaxed and smiling as they emerged from Mombasa's old statehouse for lunch accompanied by their host, Kenyan President Jomo Kenyatta.

They met for the first time Friday to try to resolve differences built up during 14 years of guerrilla warfare in Portugal's largest and richest African territory.

The groups—the Angolan Liberation Front, the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola and the Movement for the Liberation of Angola—will use the agreement as the basis for negotiations with Portuguese authorities.

The Kenyan News Agency said the talks will start in Lisbon Friday.

Although delegation heads refused to answer all questions from newsmen, conference sources said they were working toward a statement of principles on independence and the composition of a transition government.

They said the leaders were sidestepping for the time being such tricky issues as overall leadership of the guerrilla movement and political ideology.

Such delicate subjects probably will be resolved only after the independence issue is settled with Lisbon, the sources said.

—Once the guerrillas reach a compromise, it is believed Angola will achieve independence within 12 months.

Since the military takeover in Portugal last year the colonies of Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau and the islands of Sao Tome and Principe have become independent.

Inflation, Recession Hike Bankruptcies

United Press International. The double burdens of inflation and recession have forced thousands of Americans into bankruptcy, with the rate soaring almost 100 per cent in some spots. Experts predicted it was only "the tip of the iceberg."

A UPI survey of bankruptcy courts across the country showed personal bankruptcies leading business failures by far. Judges said most of the bankrupt were victims of easy credit who had either lost their jobs or were buried under inflation.

According to Federal Judge Garnet W. Taylor in St. Louis, where bankruptcies rose by 500 last year, "The majority of personal petitioners are men and women under 30. They want everything their parents had right from the start—two cars, a color TV, a boat. They are in over their ears."

"Say, you get a man and his wife both working, and they are making just enough to pay the bills. Then you get a recession and one is laid off. That's why you're getting a rise in bankruptcies."

Other judges said losing a job wasn't necessary to cause disaster. Too many people were so heavily in debt that when inflation raised of necessities, bankruptcy seemed the only way out.

Business bankruptcies also have increased, but only by a little over 6 per cent in number—8,402 in the first 10 months against 7,913 a year earlier.

Construction, textile and apparel manufacturing and retailing led with the most bankruptcies.

Florida and Michigan had biggest increases in bankruptcies. The auto industry slump brought the huge wave of both business and personal bankruptcies in Michigan to 7,625 in 1974, against 5,435 in 1973.

Irving August, a Southfield, Mich., lawyer who is believed to handle the most bankruptcies in the state, said, "We've only seen the tip of the iceberg."

"For every bankrupt firm in Michigan there are four or five others bargaining with creditors and barely able to avoid filing."

Referee G. Harold Carswell of the Northern District of Florida said, "I venture to say we have had more bankruptcies in the past 12 months in this district than in all the years combined since 1958."

In the Columbus, Ohio, district, bankruptcies almost doubled in the last year. Referee Don Schneider said the cases were 90 per cent personal and he expected the increase to reach a flood tide by spring.

Boston had a 26.43 per cent increase in bankruptcy filings, 2,296 cases against 1,816 in 1973. The increase was mostly in individual petitions.

Judge Harold Lavien said there was noticeable increase in bankruptcies by couples in the $12,000 to $20,000 a year income bracket who optimistically had taken on too large mortgages and other burdens and suddenly suffered from inflation and shrinking income.

"But remember," the judge said, "Bankruptcy also is a safeguard. I prefer it to a debtor's jail."

The Southern District of New York, which comprises much of New York City, had a bankruptcy increase of about one-third—1,887 filings in '74 against 1,327 in '73.

Pittsburgh had a 25 per cent increase and Bankruptcy Judge Gerald K. Gibson said he expected at least a 10 per cent further rise this year. But he said the fact Pennsylvania has no garnishment law makes people in the Keystone State less quick to file in bankruptcy.

The monthly case load in Delaware doubled in November and December from the 1973 pace, U.S. Magistrate Helen S. Balick said.

November and December also were record months for bankruptcy filings in Baltimore.

Groom Board Plans Meeting

Groom Independent School District board of trustees will convene at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the office of the superintendent.

New business will include a curriculum awareness presentation, consideration of a contract for superintendent and contract for the principal.

Other items listed for scrutiny by the board are payment of due bills, approval of the audit report, consideration of a contract for the tax assessor-collector's contract, purchase of a new bus, lunchroom operational costs, employment of a teacher and formal presentation of a letter of resignation from John Birchfield.

Study will be given to a Student Council request to change the appearance code in relation to the length of boys' hair and the sale of a 1966 International Travelall and a 1969 Dodge bus.

DISGRUNTLED BUYER — Bill Martin, right, owner of a Dallas bar, purchased this 1966 Volkswagen for $760 last week at a debtor's auction and promptly returned it to its owner, the city's mayor, Wes Wise. The mayor says the seizure and sale of the car is an attempt to embarrass him and Martin says if they seize the car again, "I will buy it again and give it back to him."

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

It's games like Friday night's 57-54 loss to Odessa Permian that clip a team's wings. And that means Pampa won't be flying so high in their final few non-conference basketball games and in preparation for the start of district play in less than three weeks.

The Harvesters won their 11th game of the year against only two losses, knocking off a fine Odessa Ector team last Thursday. It's victories like that, coupled with an impressive win-loss record such as the won Pampa has, which causes any team to get a little too high on themselves. And that's one reason Pampa lost Friday, according to Coach Robert McPherson.

"Our kids went down there and played well against Ector. It was a case of us being a little overconfident. They (the Harvesters) were cocky, but they're not so cocky today."

"They got beat by a good ball club... they have to learn to respect every opponent, regardless of size. Permian's got a good ball club, a better overall ball club than Capitol Hill."

Capitol Hill beat Pampa, 61-53, in the Oklahoma City tournament. Pampa's second loss of the season came to another Oklahoma City school, Northwest Classen. Permian has been the only Texas team to defeat Pampa.

"Permian doesn't have the one good player like (Winford) Boynes at Capitol Hill but they've got three or four good players."

Publicity and ratings (Pampa is ranked first in 3-AAAA and considered among the top 4A teams in the state) can also affect a team's play, although it's hard to say if the Harvesters have been affected. Teams in 3-AAAA that have been picked to win district in the past always seemed to lose out, but Pampa has a good shot at disproving the "jinx" this season.

It's obvious Pampa has much talent, returning three outstanding seniors — 6-5 Howie Lewis, 6-3 Billy Wilbon and 6-1 Robert Young — off last year's team and having excellent depth to go along with the returnees. Six-four Nick Slaymaker is steadily getting back to top playing form after sustaining a foot injury. There are other bright spots, too, including a pair of fine sophomores — Brian Bailey and Donnie Hughes.

"It's one of my better ball clubs," McPherson said. The Pampa coach, in his fifth season at Pampa, owns a district championship in 1971 and has coached three other teams which were all potentially the best in 3-AAAA.

"Right now, we're in good shape injury-wise. Last year, we were in bad shape. To win district, it's going to take no injuries, being consistent and playing good defense."

McPherson makes no bones about his having a strong team but he's also not making any bones about the other five teams in 3-AAAA owning a good shot at the title. Berger and Tascosa look to be the toughest, besides Pampa, but Caprock, Amarillo and Palo Duro are catching up and will be awfully tough on their home courts.

"We're going to have to stay healthy. It hurt us last year when we got injuries and in the second half of district, we never had a healthy lineup. Against Caprock, four players were on the court with 100-degree temperatures because of the flu."

McPherson also realizes, and now his players realize, that over confidence will hurt Pampa as much as anything, including injuries.

There's another reason the Pampa coach is praying his team can stay injury-free and free from the cockiness that goes along with being picked first. "I think that the team that wins this district will go to regional. It makes you want to win that much more."

"I thought the same thing last year, the winner (Berger) could have gone a long way. If Joe Kerr would've stayed out of foul trouble, they'd have beaten Monterey."

There are bad moments that go along with every basketball season for Robert McPherson. Those include insomnia.

"I always lose sleep during basketball season. If we win, I replay the whole ball game in my mind. I think about the things we did right... If we lose, I think about all the things we did and what we could have done. It drives you crazy."

Hopefully, the insomnia that goes along with winning will be the only bad thing to happen to McPherson this season. It's been three seasons since Pampa had a district championship in basketball and for McPherson, that's too long — the man is a winner and winners don't deserve to lose.

Banks, Dellinger Coaches Of Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Track Coaches Association elected as coaches of the year Saturday Ted Banks of the University of Texas at El Paso, Stan Humpman of the University of Tennessee, and Bill Dellinger of the University of Oregon.

Banks was named coach of the year for indoor track. Humpman was for outdoor track and Dellinger for cross country.

Their selection came as the track coaches association convened in advance of a three day meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association beginning Monday.

The college track and field coaches also endorsed a resolution advocating that all the national track and field coaching associations unify under the new leadership of a single organization.

The proposed unification would include collegiate high school and club track organizations, apparently as a gesture to end the long feud between the NCAA and the Amateur Athletic Union on jurisdictional disputes.

Basketball Center Suspended At Hawaii

HOUSTON (UPI) — University of Hawaii basketball coach Bruce O'Neil Saturday suspended starting center Tommy Barker for an indefinite period for "disciplinary reasons" following the Rainbows loss to the University of Houston Friday night.

Barker, 7-0, scored 13 points in the opening game of the Bluebonnet Classic. Houston beat Hawaii, 105-96. Hawaii was matched against the University of Nevada at Las Vegas Saturday night in the consolation game of the tournament.

Missouri Tops Texas In Non-Con Cage Game

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sophomore forward Jim Kennedy converted a three-point play with a minute remaining to lead Missouri to a 64-60 victory over Texas in a regionally televised basketball game Saturday.

Smith had 14 points for the Tigers who are 9-2 for the year while Bruce Baker led Texas with 18, points

East Tips West In Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (UPI) — The East welded a bulls-eye passing attack plus smoothly executed option sweeps to beat the West, 34-25, Saturday in the 29th annual Hula Bowl game.

Some 22,000 sometimes wet, sometimes dry fans saw the East, quarterbacked mostly by Condredge Holloway of Tennessee build up a 26-6-halftime lead and then frustrate Southern California's Pat Haden's passing attempts to pull the game out in the closing minutes.

The second of the West's two last-quarter touchdowns came four seconds before the end of the game.

Thirty to 35 knot winds and a heavy rain squall failed to upset either Holloway or Haden's passing, but the East, playing clutch defense, came up with key interceptions that won the game.

Holloway was voted the outstanding offensive player and Rubin Carter of Miami was named the outstanding defensive player.

Holloway threw a 59 yard touchdown pass to Larry Burton of Purdue and scored on a six yard run. Burton tallied a second TD when he hauled in a 55-yard pass from Dennis Franklin of Michigan. The other East points came on an eight yard run by Stan Fritz of North Carolina

State and a 47-yard pass from Harvard's Mill Holt to Danny Buggs of West Virginia.

Haden, who took over in the second half, passed for three touchdowns. His first was a record 98-yarder to Oscar Roan of Southern Methodist, the second a 19-yarder to Roan and the third a 14-yarder to USC teammate John McKay. Roan had scored the West's first touchdown by grabbing a ninety yard pass from All America Steve Barikowski of California in the first half.

The East scored four times before the West finally got on the scoreboard. Once Haden was inserted as the West quarterback, the complexion of the game changed dramatically as he time and again hit open receivers. His TD throw to McDonald cut the East lead to nine points but on the following kickoff and with only four seconds left, the star Southern California quarterback was unable to muster a drive and in fact, his final desperation pass was intercepted to end the game.

Heavy rain fell during the first half and again just as the game ended.

East — Fritz 8 run (Gooden kick) (pass failed)
East — Burton 58 pass from Franklin (pass failed)
East — Buggs 47 pass from Holt (Gooden kick)
East — Burton 50 pass from Holloway (pass failed)
West — Roan 98 pass from Barikowski (pass failed)
West — Roan 19 pass from Haden (Boyd kick)
East — Holloway 47 run (Kovach pass from Holloway)
West — Roan 98 pass from Haden (pass failed)
West — McKay 44 pass from Haden (pass failed) — 37-00

Football Big At Berkely

By JACK MURPHY
Copley News Service

If Mike White doesn't reform soon, he's going to give football a good name at the University of California.

Berkeley, of all places, has discovered that collegiate football isn't necessarily the opium of the masses but a pleasant way to pass a Saturday afternoon.

It was Gov. Ronald Reagan who joked that Cal might have a pretty good football team if the athletes could wear cleats on their sandals.

To the radicals, the revolutionaries and the street people involved with social ferment on the Berkeley campus, football was beneath notice or, at best, an object of scorn. Football players were patronized, not idolized.

But Mike White has developed the kind of football that both the straights and the hippies can enjoy. Suddenly the game is becoming more fashionable, and customs regarded as hopelessly bourgeois have been revived.

The big game pep rally, for example. In recent years only the squarest of the square bothered to attend. But a winning team gives romance to a bonfire.

"The atmosphere on the campus is changing and I have to believe football is a factor," says White. "Football is a unifying influence. California is a great school and it has been a long time but, after all, it's difficult to rally behind the chemistry department."

White radicalized the campus with a team which won seven games this year and tied USC, 15-15.

White is a young (38) coach who likely will become much more prominent in the next decade.

He has rebuilt California's football program in just three seasons despite a hostile environment and he's on the rise. Already the San Francisco press is speculating he'll be the next head coach of the 49ers.

He's an attractive guy. Three years ago he had a choice of the head coaching jobs at both Cal and Stanford. He had served as offensive coordinator under John Ralston when Stanford placed two teams in the Rose Bowl and his authority was such that Ralston seldom bothered to listen as he called plays from the sideline.

Then Ralston went to the Denver Broncos and urged White to succeed him at Stanford. But White chose the harder path. He went back to Cal, his alma mater. Stanford then promoted another of Ralston's aides, Jack Christiansen.

"Cal offered the greater challenge," explains White. "The competitor in me compelled me to try."

MUSCLES NEED TUNING Going To Work Out? Be Sure To Warm Up

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copley News Service

"What do you know about warmup, dad?" The question was posed by my younger daughter, our athlete-in-residence.

"My trainer says I don't warm up long enough or thoroughly enough to suit him. Is a warmup really helpful?"

I had an answer for the athlete-in-residence, but waited until we were joined by wife, the jogger, and my older daughter, who enjoys modern dance. Since warmup is useful for all kinds of physical activities, I thought it might be helpful if everyone took part.

As a matter of fact, warmup has to do with muscle activity, whether for sport or for work.

Actually sport is just work done under the disguise of pleasure. Work and sport both involve the same principal: use of muscles. When a muscle works, it goes from a longer size to a shorter one. To do this, each cell in the muscle becomes a little shorter. This shortening uses oxygen to burn sugar and release carbon dioxide and water. As the muscle uses sugar and oxygen to contract, heat is given off. This heat improves the efficiency of the contracting muscle.

"Are you saying that a warm muscle works better than a cold one?" asked the dancer.

I was saying exactly that. Lowering the muscle temperature below normal decreases the ability of the muscle to contract and therefore its capacity for work. During physical activity muscle temperature rises. These two findings have led to the belief that warmed-up muscles work better than cool ones.

Besides the fact that the chemical reactions work better at a higher temperature, warming of muscles increases the blood flow to the muscle itself. During a warm-up period, the heart rate and breathing rate both increase so the body is able to supply more blood and more oxygen to the muscles.

The dancer looked puzzled. "Isn't that what happens when I put a hot pack on a sore muscle? Doesn't that increase the circulation there? So why can't I warmup by taking a hot bath or using a sauna?"

You can. There are two types of warming up, active and passive. Active warmup is when the athlete actually goes through some muscular activity which burns sugar and raises his temperature. Passive warmup can indeed be done with showers, hot packs or even massage. For work and sports, passive warming up is unnecessary and impractical. So when we talk about warmup we usually mean the active kind. The jogger agreed. "I can just see me taking a shower before I run instead of after."

"How about for skating?" asked the resident-athlete. "My trainer says I can get almost as much benefit of warmup from some stretch exercises, situps, pushups and running in place as I can from actually skating and jumping on the ice. Is that right?"

Sure is. Any exercise that speeds up the heart and lungs

Guide Provides Rugged Fishing

SARATOGA, Wyo. — Ned Feidler is a young (27), good-looking son of a gun.

He's employed as a dishwasher in Laramie. He's a student at the University of Wyoming there, majoring in wildlife biology.

Most of all, though, he's a river guide. Say the magic word, fishing, and Ned will drop the books and dishes and take off across 180 for the North Platte River, which flows through here en route from the Colorado mountains to the Missouri River in Nebraska.

Feidler works out of Len Benson's place, a metal box of a building on the river bank.

Entertainment is in short supply in Saratoga, a town of 1,100 with a couple of paved streets.

There's a pool table at the Rustic Bar and tennis and golf across the river at the Saratoga Inn, where the dudes stay.

Mostly what brings outsiders here is hunting and fishing and therefore you automatically wind up at Benson's where Len, in that low, cutting voice of his, will let you know how and where to fill your trout, elk, antelope and deer needs.

Chances are you'll end up with a guide because your visit will be short and expectations long.

Twelve miles up river, south, we drove — six fishermen, three guides, Benson at the wheel, three wooden, flat-bottom boats trailing.

Public access to the Platte is limited. Ranchers and sportsmen's clubs control most of it; through a quirk in legislation, they even own the river bottom but not the water.

We bumped down a dirt road to a Game and Fish Department-owned access point. Feidler said little; slipped a hunk of snuff into his mouth. He looks Wyoming, as much a part of this state as the sagebrush and thunderheads.

Later, he revealed he's been here seven years, having pulled in from Pennsylvania when he grew weary of people stepping on his toes back there.

Nothing much fazes Ned. If his life has seen some boulder-strewn rapids, it doesn't show. His face is a deep, quiet, clear pool where the water runs slow and the trout are eager.

Ned smokes roll-your-owns, and with good reason. "Every time I smoke 20 of these I gyp the government out of 30 cents in taxes. When you can do that you can't afford not to smoke."

The river was low, a mere trickle of its springtime flow. In some places Ned had to jump out and pull the boat across rocks. A float trip became a drag trip.

Cottonwoods crowd the river, occasionally reaching out to grab a spinning lure. "The trout don't nest until later in the season," informs Ned as you frantically try to jerk a Roostertail from a branch's grasp while the boat kept gliding.

Ned Feidler had seen tumbling river fishermen before; he just kept munching on those thin, round pieces of homemade beef jerky with all the rowing power in them.

The fishing was fairly slow, although in the boat ahead a Laguna Beach, Calif., angler, Dave Myers, is loaded up by slinging a nymph around.

Myers looked as if he knew what he was doing, which is a reasonable observation because as a Fenwick employe he used to teach flyfishing at the company school in West Yellowstone, Mont.

Once in awhile an 8-inch rainbow or brown would seek out a Mepps or Roostertail and jump on. Could Myers be catching every one-and-one-half and 2-pound fish in the river?

The catching improved after lunch. "It's always a better bite in the afternoon," noted Feidler. Doug Dare of Los Angeles tied into a two-and-one-half-pound brown trout. Numerous fish of lesser, but nevertheless respectable, dimensions were taken and released.

By midafternoon the cottonwoods were whipping in the wind. At least it seemed to be wind.

Not so, said Ned. "What happens is Utah keeps exhaling and Nebraska keeps inhaling and Wyoming's caught in the middle."

It was a nine-hour float and long before it was over the temptation was great to stand up and fish and unknit your legs. Such posture is not without risks, as one of Ned's customers discovered the following day.

It's the shallow rapids that get you. They sent Ned's non-believing passenger over the gunwale headfirst and deposited him on his wallet in three inches of water. He sat there a moment, stunned, holding on to the boat with one hand holding his fishing-rod high and out of harm's way with the other.

Only his pride was punctured, and his pants were soggy.

As we neared Saratoga, signs of civilization appeared — a house here and there, a bridge, an airplane overhead, an angler or two fishing from the bank.

Reentering Saratoga-style civilization after nine hours in the wilderness is no great shock. The bright lights, neither one of them, ever blinded anyone.

10 Spartans Quit

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Coach Gus Ganakas of Michigan State said Saturday the walkout by his 10 black players because the lone white on the team was starting was not "a racial thing."
"I don't think it is a racial thing," Ganakas said after his lone varsity player, skinny 6-foot-7 freshman forward Jeff Tropf, and the varsity reserves were handed the worst loss in Michigan State history, a 107-55 beating by No. 2 Indiana.
"I really don't think it is," Ganakas said. "There may have been other things."
"The players walked out of the meeting and I suspended them. I don't know what's going to happen," he said.
"Sunday we'll hold practice with the players who played Saturday," Ganakas said. "They (the suspended players) were the ones who walked out. They'll have to mend the fence themselves."

The Spartans had a morning meeting at which Ganakas started to announce the lineup for the game with the Hoosiers. Tropf said, but when the coach came to his name the rebellion began.
Tropf was due to start along with junior forward Terry Furlow, captain and senior center Lindsay Hairston, plus senior guards Bill Glover and Pete Davis.
"It can't be that way," Tropf recalled somebody as saying when Ganakas came to the freshman's name.
"I'm the coach. I'll make the decisions," Ganakas replied.
The squad got up in a group and left the coach and his freshman standing there bewildered.

They were informed upon their return at 3 p. m. EST, one hour before the game was to start, that they had been suspended.
Ganakas had spent the intervening time calling the junior varsity members, most of whom had returned to their homes since school was not in session yet, to get enough players to face the Hoosiers.
Backing up Ganakas' feeling that the walkout was not racially inspired is the fact that three of the junior varsity members who played were black.
Tropf was starting only for the second time this season.

Pardee Wants Bears To Remain 'Physical'

CHICAGO (UPI) — New coach Jack Pardee wants his Chicago Bears to keep their "physical image."
"I remember when I was with the Rams," he said, "the Bears were always one team we hated to play because they were so very physical. I certainly hope we can keep that physical image."
Pardee, who played 15 years in the National Football League as a linebacker with the Los Angeles Rams and the Washington Redskins, signed a multi-year contract to replace Abe Giron as coach of the Bears and Friday he met the press for the first time.
His first few months, he said, would be a "learning process," since he confessed he knows little about the Bears. But he said he was "going to do what it takes to win."
His decisions on what it will take will have to be made after he has time to study film of the 1974 Bears games, his current personnel and whoever might be added. The personnel, he said, should be available.
"I probably know less about the available college talent than anybody in this room," he said.
"It's hard work to make trades for good players. The Bears have good players, and we're going to be looking for good players. I think the World Football League had many outstanding players, and I'm convinced there's a lot of talent available. It's a matter of finding it."
Acquisitions, he said, would be made after consultation with general manager Jim Finks, who joined the Bears last fall, and the team would attempt to add talent in every possible way, through trades, the draft, and signing of free agents.
"Good ball players move the ball," he said.
"Formations and shifts don't move it. The quickest way to lose is to beat yourself, and our aim mainly is not to beat ourselves."

Pardee said he would "like to have great players who can do everything, but if not, I'll have them doing whatever the players do best."
"I haven't made a decision about quarterback," he said, "and neither Bobby Douglass nor Gary Huff (who took turns quarterbacking the Bears last year) are eliminated from my future plans."
The Harvesters' scoring in the first period was limited to a pair of field goals by Howie Lewis, one by Billy Wilbon and a free throw by Nick Slaymaker. Permian, on the other hand, was led by Huter with seven points, four on field goals, in the quarter. Hunter finished with 16 points.
Pampa outscored the hosts, 21-16, in the second quarter and trailed 32-28 at halftime. Not once in the game were the Harvesters able to tie the game or take the lead.
"I thought we played well against Ector," Pampa coach Robert McPherson said Saturday. "But against Permian, we had a poor first quarter and they played extremely well in the first quarter."
"We just never could get that lead when we had to. We got no breaks, like

ODESSA — Odessa Permian, behind the shooting of center James Hunter, jumped out to a 16-7 lead at the end of the first quarter and held on to nudge the Pampa Harvesters, 57-54, Friday.
The loss closed out a two-game road stint here for the Harvesters, now 11-3 on the season. Pampa edged Odessa Ector, 71-68, Thursday.
The Harvesters' scoring in the first period was limited to a pair of field goals by Howie Lewis, one by Billy Wilbon and a free throw by Nick Slaymaker. Permian, on the other hand, was led by Huter with seven points, four on field goals, in the quarter. Hunter finished with 16 points.

"We just never could get that lead when we had to. We got no breaks, like rebounds were bouncing off our fingertips."

"Our kids went down there and played well against Ector. It was a case of us being a little overconfident. And it was a long, hard trip, a 330-mile trip down there."
The win was the 15th straight at home for Ron Mayberry's Panthers, who are 18-2.
Pampa was placed by senior guard Billy Wilbon with 19 points. Lewis and Robert Yound added 12 and 10 respectively. Donnie Hughes, a sophomore forward, came off the bench and grabbed nine rebounds for the Harvesters.
Pampa shot 35 percent from the floor, the lowest percentage of the season. Pampa travels to Lubbock Monday Tuesday in the Harvesters' next action. Pampa's next home game will be against Liberal, Kan., at 7:45 p. m. Friday.

Judge Reset Woolley Trial

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — District Judge Raymond Magee has reset for Jan. 16 the trial of former Ball High School coach Joe Woolley, charged with altering grade transcripts of two University of Oklahoma football recruits which led to the two-year probation for the Sooners.
Woolley and co-defendant Lynn Nix failed to appear in court Friday. Judge Raymond Magee reset their trial on the misdemeanor charges which carry a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.
Woolley's attorney, John Thomas, said he didn't have his client in court because he was unaware the case was set for trial on that day's docket. Nix now lives in Arkansas and did not respond to warrants, a prosecutor said.
"If anyone should find Nix we'll try him, too," the judge said. "But Woolley is number one. We're not going to be waiting for him here Jan. 16."
Woolley, who was head football coach at Ball High School, and Nix, who was a teacher and an assistant coach at Ball, were accused of altering the transcripts of Sooner quarterback Kerry Jackson and center Michael Phillips.

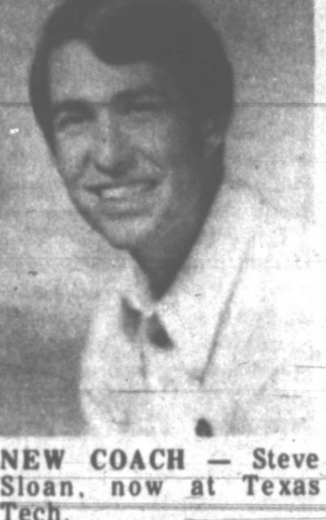

Tampering with transcript records is a violation of the Texas Education Code.
Woolley, now an assistant coach of the Houston Oilers, was fired by School Superintendent Eli Douglas in July, 1973, after he admitted changing Jackson's transcripts so the Ball graduate would be eligible to play at Oklahoma.
Oklahoma was forced to forfeit eight of its 1972 victories in which Jackson played as a freshman, including a Sugar Bowl triumph. Jackson and Phillips were declared ineligible for the 1973 season because of the incident.

This weekend will be used in making preparations and putting new lacquer on the lanes for the upcoming Top O' Texas Open tournament. This is the yearly invitation for all the men bowlers in our neighboring states and communities as well as our local bowlers to come to our fine town and bowl with us.
The tournament directors are Jessie Smartt, Dale Haynes and Ted Erickson. I want to wish them every success and hope some big scores are rolled. We'll give you some of the highlights of the tournament in our article as they happen.
Would like to mention of the fact that the Ladies State Tournament entry deadline is Jan. 25. The event will be held in Irving, which is just a stone's throw from here and a suburb of Dallas. Girls, give it some thought and get your entry in. You'll have a lot of fun even if you don't bowl some kind of fantastic.
Did you catch the first bowlers' tour broadcast yesterday? Hope so — this was the beginning of the 14th telecast season and they will make 16 stops along the way this year. Enjoyed the commentary and helpful tips given by one of our favorite bowlers, Dick Weber.

NEW COACH — Steve Sloan, now at Texas Tech.

NEW COACH — Steve Sloan, now at Texas Tech.

Sloan, Staff Behind For Now In Recruiting

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Tech's new head football coach Steve Sloan says he has a lot to do and a lot to learn in his first weeks on the job.
"Neither I nor my assistants know West Texas from a jar of Vicks," he said. "We do know the streets are in alphabetical order one way and numerical order the other."
"What we've got to do right now is try and catch up in the recruiting game. There's no doubt we are behind there right now."
The former Alabama quarterback and coach at Vanderbilt until announcing his decision New Year's Day to move to Texas Tech, made his first official appearance in Lubbock last week. He took off again almost immediately to gather his staff and some new players.

Sloan and his crew are, of course, behind in recruiting, both in time and in knowledge but Tech officials don't think he will stay behind long.
"I told myself after it was all settled last week that if we could have put all the facts into a computer and had it turn out a new head coach for us it couldn't have picked a more perfect man than Steve Sloan," said regents chairman Clint Forby. "He will be able to communicate with a farmer or rancher in Muleshoe just as equally as he will be able to sit down with the president of the largest bank in Dallas or Houston. He's just what we needed."
He will do well at Tech if he can duplicate his work at Vanderbilt.
"The real secret for any coach's success is having people who are loyal to him and willing to work," Sloan said. "Then, together you get out and get the best players. They can make good coaches out of anyone."
Sloan was pretty well into that at Vanderbilt. He started this year, his third, with 26 players committed. But he's not all football either.
"One thing that I've already noticed that I'm going to have to change at Tech is my golf game," he laughed. "I'm going to have to hit the ball a little lower."
Sloan, 30, suffered a little indecision in coming to Tech. A day before announcing his decision to move, he announced he would not be moving.

DALLAS (UPI) — Baylor University coach Grant Teaff, who has picked up one honor after another following his club's Southwest Conference football title and Cotton Bowl trip, captured another Saturday.
Teaff, whose Bears compiled an 8-3 regular season mark before losing to Penn State in the Cotton Bowl, was named Texas senior college coach of the year by the Texas Sports Writers Association.
The vote was not close. Teaff picked up 99 first place votes out of a possible 120. Gil Steinke, whose Texas A&I Javelinas went undefeated and won the NAIA football title, finished with seven first place votes.
Next came Texas-El Paso coach Gil Bartosh and Vernon Glass of Lamar University. Also nominated for the honor were Jim Wacker of Texas Lutheran, Emory Bellard of Texas

Bookies Snap Tradition

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The oddsmakers have gone against tradition in establishing the Pittsburgh Steelers as three-point favorites over the Minnesota Vikings in next Sunday's Super Bowl IX.
The Steelers, who have never won a league title in their 42-year history, are making their debut in the Super Bowl while Minnesota will be appearing for the third time. Both previous appearances were losses.
And tradition had it that no team appearing in the Super Bowl for the first time has ever beaten one that's been there before.
The situation has come up five times and all five times, the experienced club came out ahead.
Green Bay, which defeated Kansas City in Super Bowl I in January, 1967, was the first club to make a repeat appearance and downed Oakland the following season. The Chiefs made their second appearance in Super Bowl IV and defeated Minnesota and the following year, Baltimore, which had lost to the New York Jets in Super Bowl III, came back to beat Dallas.

The Cowboys' turn came a year later when they blasted Miami in Super Bowl VI and then it was the Dolphins who picked up the tradition the next year, beating Washington in Super Bowl VII.
Last year's game was the first matchup between teams that both had previous Super Bowl experience and again, the more experienced club won. Miami, with two previous title games, beat the Vikings, who were there once before.
The biggest betting disaster was in Super Bowl III when the Jets were listed as 18-point underdogs and upset Baltimore 16-7. Minnesota was a 13-point favorite the following year and again the AFC club stunned the bettors as Kansas City won 23-7.
Dallas was a one-point favorite in Super Bowl V and lost 16-13 to Baltimore but managed to bounce back the following year, entering the game as five-point favorites and beating Miami easily 24-3.

Washington was a two-point favorite over Miami in Super Bowl VII but the Dolphins kept the experience tradition alive with a 14-7 win. Last year Miami was favored by six points and won 24-7.
The first two Super Bowls only seemed to strengthen the National Football League's claims of superiority over the AFL, which had been formed in 1960 and eventually forced a merger six years later. Vince Lombardi's Packers absolutely dominated Kansas City and Oakland the first two years.
But then came the game that established parity between the former warring factions. Joe Namath, openly scoffing at the huge odds against his club, predicted the Jets would beat Baltimore, then being acclaimed as possibly the finest defensive team of all time. He was right and the merger was finally complete.

The Chiefs came back the following year and Hank Stram's club overwhelmed Joe Kapp and the Vikings and Baltimore, moved to the AFC in the merger.
The teams traded turnovers time and again before Jim O'Brien's 32-yard field goal in the last five seconds won it for the Colts.
Dallas became the only NFC club to win the title since 1969 when the Cowboys ripped Miami.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, JAN 5

Your birthday today: Begin now to build up a definite program that will effectively meet competition. There is no easy way out of your current responsibilities. Cultivate artistic or technical skills at every opportunity. Don't expect relationships to sustain themselves; you must keep them thriving. Today's natives prefer a moderate course and avoid extremes.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Leave business aside and be easy-going. Take a good look at people and find out what they're up to. Think about where you fit in or what you should get out of.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You hear many comments that are either out of context or spoken in ignorance. Discipline your responses; your turn comes later.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Take special care to mind your own business even though you find out that some people are less than desirable. Avoid travel whenever possible, but go early and cautiously if you must do so.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Keep your eye on what happens at home. You receive much unsolicited advice, but can learn from it even though very little offers you a feasible course of action.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Be kind and positive, and take the lead in clearing up recent disagreement. Your personal energy is needed and attracts others who have vigorous ideas. Quit while you're ahead.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Sit tight where you are and realize that friends want to solve their problems by talking them out. You meet with poor advice in handling your own affairs.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Go it alone this Sunday since you won't get any enthusiasm from others. Don't bring acquaintances into the center of your plans until you know them better.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Check incoming information, which is incomplete or erroneous. Don't offer excuses for yourself in personal relationships but listen well. Find time for reasonable exercise.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: It's all too easy to let yourself be talked into departing from routines. If you don't really care for certain people, don't waste time and attention on them.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You can't be expected to keep quiet today but just be sure you're right when you speak up. Leave side issues unstirred. A small gift conveys feelings well.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Everybody is in a rush, seeking short cuts and quick service. Take the time to do things well. Put off travels until midweek. Study and plan during a quiet evening.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: You are naturally inclined toward suggestions now. Not all the results are obvious; some are not what you would want in the long run.

MONDAY, JAN. 6

Your birthday today: Emphasize the present this year. Overcome current limitations or take them into account while negotiating a definite break with the past. Relationships worth continuing survive despite your candor; adjustments happen naturally. Today's natives are solidly independent, follow individual courses or vocations.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Don't expect anything to go much further in its present form, but get out of it what you can. Ignore tenseness among associates; you are not the target.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Keep homelife peaceful. Don't accept any more responsibility than you must. Associates change their minds and upset schedules or long-standing appointments. Try to stay calm.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You're already busy enough; skip short trips or odd jobs.

Advise friends to wait and do likewise. Leave joint funds alone unless everyone agrees about them.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Almost anything you say today will be taken quite seriously, particularly in emotional matters. Lending or borrowing now leads to disarming consequences.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Concentrate on cleaning house and get rid of possessions that serve no purpose. People around you remain undecided about their course of action. Bypass them and pursue your own route.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: A "repair job" now only prolongs your problem. Make a fresh start if possible. Recover your poise by using traditional approaches.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Career progress veers suddenly; be prepared! Communicating clearly prevents inconvenience or misunderstandings about appointments. Avoid financial maneuvering.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You encounter demands from friends or even strangers in areas where you've taken needless initiative. Thrift pays off and keeps your home life stable. You enjoy nostalgic moments.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: If you have goofed lately, you'll hear about it today. Make prompt amends and wait for a better chance later. Get a second estimate on any business offer.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Select your business and social company carefully. Avoid extremes. Keep activity to a minimum; you may find that local conditions change your plans.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: You receive your retribution, whether punishment or reward, for your past actions. Theoretical schemes don't work. Relationships take unexpected turns.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: It's a plodding but eventually productive day. In some matters, just follow normal routine.

SWIM LESSONS — The Pampa Youth Center's swim program is being changed just a little bit during the months of January and February. Usually during these very cold months there are very few parents that will allow their children to take the swim lessons, so we are going to rest these two months and resume lessons in March.

Classes taught during the school year begin at 4 p.m. and 5 p.m., lasting one hour in instruction time. All classes are taught by our Red Cross Water Safety Instructor, Ruth Carter. Classes meet on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays for 10 meeting dates or 2½ weeks.

Enrollment is free to Youth Center members and $5 for non-members. At all times memberships are available for purchase at the front receptionist's desk. All classes are open to the general public.

DOLPHINS SWIM TEAM — Young people who are interested in competitive swimming will be interested to know that the Youth Center has its own A.A.U. swim club called the Pampa Dolphin Swim Club. This club is for both boys and girls between the ages of 8-18.

The Dolphins hold their workouts usually from 6-7:30 p.m. during the weekdays and 10-12 on Saturday mornings. If you know how to swim and are interested in swimming competition, you may come by the Youth Center pool anytime during the workout hours and receive full information on how to join the club.

Swimmers swim within their own age groups in classes 10 and under, 11-12, 13-14, 15-17 and Seniors.

YOUTH CENTER WRAP-UP — The Calico Capers Square Dance Club. This is an adult square dance group that meets at the Center on Saturday nights from 8-11 p.m. They dance to an out-of-town caller and really enjoy themselves.

The club is always open for membership and they invite you to come by any Saturday night to look them over and receive information on how you might join.

MEMBERSHIPS — The Pampa Youth and Community Center is a non-profit organization which does not receive any tax money from our city, state or federal governments. We do not participate in any drives to raise money through the United Fund, but rather we function through a voluntary donation plan and a membership usage plan.

Of this usage plan, there are two types of memberships offered to the general public. One is the limited plan which includes full use of the swimming pool, dressing room facilities, recreation hall and gymnasium. This is the membership that we have sold for 14 years.

The cost of this plan for an individual who is at least 8 years of age is $8 for six months or $10 per year. For a family with no limit on the number the cost is only $15 for six months and $25 a year.

If you want to add to the above facilities the use of the health club, you would purchase our second type of membership, called the unlimited membership. It gives you full use of everything we have to offer.

The health club houses all the exercise equipment such as bicycles, barrel rollers, benches for exercising, barbells, dumbbells, sun lamp, all the latest pulley machines and weight lifting machines, rowing machine, machines for the legs, stomach, arms, etc. swimming exercises, Swiss facial machine, dry sauna room, two handball and racquetball courts and many more fascinating health building machines and weight reducing machines.

The cost of this unlimited membership is only $68 for six months for an individual or $128 a year. We do allow you to pay out the six months plan on an installment basis. This would be $18.50 the 1st month and $10.50 for five months.

For a husband-wife combination membership the second person gets in at one-third price. The cost would be $96 for six months or $170 a year. On an installment plan this would cost $29.87 the first month and $19.87 the other five months.

You are allowed one free trial session, if you live in Pampa. Come by and see us and try us out.

1 Card of Thanks

ROBBIE NELL MORRIS
Our hearts are so full of love and gratitude to the many friends and neighbors who were with us in our time of sorrow. The same loving kindness and thoughtful deeds that you did for our wife, mother and grandmother when she was with you did in turn for her loved ones in their darkest hour. For all of the beautiful flowers and food that was prepared, we thank each and everyone. May you be blessed.

A SAVINGS ACCOUNT THE BEST INFLATION FIGHTER

A savings account at Panhandle Savings continues to be the best hedge against inflation. The last seven years show very few months an investor could have pulled his original investment in stocks or bonds without suffering a loss. But the Panhandle Savings investor received the highest accrued dividend allowed by law, and his money was insured safe by the federal government. Savings accounts at Panhandle Savings are now insured up to $40,000 and plans are available with dividends up to 7.34%. Proof once again that your best hedge against inflation is a savings account at Panhandle Savings and Loan.

Texas License Plates Will Have New Look

AUSTIN — If all goes according to plan, the Texas motor vehicle license plate might soon outlast the motor vehicle that "wears" it.

Beginning Feb. 1, the majority of motor vehicles operating in Texas may be eligible to use the new "multi-year" license plate, renewable annually for five years of driving. According to Bob Townsley, director of the Highway Department's Motor Vehicle Division, approximately 9.2 million renewal notices are already in the mail to vehicle owners announcing the fact.

"Motorists will notice no change in the registration procedure this year," said Townsley. "Only the license plate to be issued will be different."

Instead of the usual metal plate, a heavier, non-corrosive steel will be used for greater endurance. Also, the plate will be reflectorized and will feature black letters and numerals on a white field, considered by experts to be the most easily readable color combination.

"The real change in registration procedure will come in 1976," explained the Highway Department official.

Next year, instead of buying a new license plate, owners will purchase a 4-1/2 by 2-inch adhesive-type validation tag that will be placed in the debossed upper left corner of the plate. In 1977, the tag will be stuck in the upper right corner to cover the debossed "75," and alternated for the ensuing years.

Townsley said the tags cannot be easily removed without deterioration, a part of the plan to discourage vandalism or theft.

The "multi-year" plate to be used in Texas is almost identical to the one adopted by California some years ago. Specifications for plate design, letters and numerals were obtained from that state after careful study by Highway Department officials.

"We found California to be completely successful with its 'multi-year' licensing system and it came closest to the 'new look' we wanted for Texas," said Director Townsley.

The 1975 Texas "version" is expected to cost the state 44 cents per plate to produce, almost double the manufacturing cost for the '74 plate. The difference in costs is attributed to different materials and plate design. However, the validation tags to be used beginning in 1976 will run some three cents apiece.

According to Townsley, the state will realize an $8.5 million savings in additional revenue from using the semi-permanent plates for the five-year period.

Some motorists will recall this is not the first time "multi-year" license plates have been used in Texas. During the war years 1943 and 1944, small metal tabs were issued to renew the 1942 plate. Then again in 1947, when there was a shortage of metal plates, windshield stickers were issued as evidence of the payment of registration fees.

Townsley praised the convenience the five-year plate will afford motorists.

"Especially those who find changing license plates annually a chore!" He reminded. "Certain classes of motor vehicles will still require annual purchase of plates. These include radio operators, dealers, state officials and those passenger cars displaying 'personalized' plates."

Motorists using the new plates will notice the use of vowels for the first time. Since 1965, when the "English" system of a three-letter prefix and a two-to-three digit basic number was adopted, only consonants were used. Townsley says there are just 400 many vehicles in Texas to allow consonants only. The first 1975 license plate will be AAA 10 to be issued in Bastrop County.

Also for the first time, a new five-year travel trailer plate will be available. This classification includes all camper trailers and house trailer-type vehicles which are (1) not in excess of 6,000 pounds gross weight or (2) not in excess of 8 feet wide or 55 feet in overall length when measured in combination with the towing vehicle, regardless of weight.

The registration fee is based on actual weight including all furnishings. Annual license plates and movement permits will be available for mobile homes and house trailer-type vehicles exceeding these specifications.

Annual registration fees for motor vehicle owners will remain the same as in the past — $12.30 for vehicles weighing up to 3,500 pounds; $22.30 for vehicles weighing 3,501 to 4,500 pounds; $30.30 for vehicles weighing 4,501 to 6,000 pounds; vehicles weighing 6,001 pounds or more are charged at the rate of 55 cents per hundred pounds of weight.

Motorists are encouraged to register their vehicles early and avoid the "last minute" rush. Registrants may apply by mail immediately, or "in person" at their county tax office and substations beginning Feb. 1.

Mail applicants are reminded to return the entire renewal notice along with their payment and one dollar per vehicle to cover postage and handling. Allow at least 30 days for delivery of plates.

The registration deadline is midnight, April 1.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
We have received a letter from William Schweitzer, manager of the West Texas Division telling us he would retire Jan. 1, 1975.

We will all miss Bill, as he was affectionately called, but we will work with his successor, Pete Upton. Bill states that he will carry with him a deep regard for all Red Cross people and an enduring gratitude for the support we have given him.

We have received our manequin, Anatomic Annie, which will be used in teaching our First Aid classes as well as our nurses teaching artificial respiration in the classes sponsored by the Heart Association. This doll is very lifelike and a fine teaching aid for our instructors.

This is just another way your money is used by the Red Cross.

We will be forming classes soon in Multimedia First Aid and in nursing service. If you are interested in taking such a course, call our office, 689-7121, or come by the basement of City Hall and register for such a class.

We are saddened by the death of our Chief of Police, Jim Conner, this last week. Jim was a good friend to Red Cross and we knew he was in the other end of the building to help and protect us if there was a need. We will miss him.

Melinda Millikin, president of the High School Red Cross was selected to be Girl of the Month by the Business and Professional Club for the month of December. We are proud of Melinda.

Her 1971 Cadillac, with flashing red light, siren and two-way radio, is her squad car and her office is her home in this middle class Wichita Falls suburb on Lake Wichita.

"I've lived in this area nearly all my life and I'm pretty optimistic about my role here," she said.

Lakeside Claims Only Woman Chief

LAKESIDE CITY, Tex. (UPI) — A bright yellow Cadillac is parked in front of a suburban lakefront home. Inside, a blonde housewife, trying to prepare dinner, wears a pantsuit and busily answers the telephone. It is hardly a picture of a typical hard-nosed, modern crime fighting force.

But Carolyn M. Deen, 36, packs a .38-caliber police special she says she can shoot better than most men and, with a little help from her friends, she says she's prepared to handle anything that comes along as Texas' only certified female chief of police.

Her 1971 Cadillac, with flashing red light, siren and two-way radio, is her squad car and her office is her home in this middle class Wichita Falls suburb on Lake Wichita.

"I've lived in this area nearly all my life and I'm pretty optimistic about my role here," she said.

grinning. "My neighbors are helping me. If they see anything suspicious, they take down a license number or description and let me know about it."

Her mandate eight months ago from the 300 residents of the community couldn't have been much stronger. Without a campaign or announcement she was available. Mrs. Deen received about 100 write-in votes. No one else received even one.

Women's liberation, she said, had nothing to do with her election or her enthusiasm for the job.

"I believe women should get equal work for equal pay, but I still enjoy being a wife and being at home."

Her election began with a joke by her husband, a commissioned special Texas Ranger.

"They asked him to be chief, but he already had a commission and state law forbids two commissions at the same time. So, he said, 'Write my wife in. She's young and stronger than I am anyway.' He said it sort of as a joke and they did it."

Now that she's has the post, she said she will run again.

Mrs. Deen was raised on a ranch near Childress, Tex., where she became familiar with use of guns. She finished in the top 10 percent in firing range tests during law enforcement training provided by the state. She did not take any self-defense courses and has not had any in the past.

So far, her work has been confined to traffic violations, kids shooting BBs through windows and a few stolen outboard motors. But she says she expects worse in the future and isn't afraid to use her pistol.

"I these smaller towns, crime is on the rise. I think anyone would be a little apprehensive in a tough situation, but I'm willing to do what is necessary."

With a family background in law enforcement, she said the courts in the past have interfered with the jobs of law enforcement officers and "provided too much sanctuary for criminals."

"I think the Supreme Court may be swinging back the other way and giving the law enforcement officer a break now," she said. "In the past, I think they've been a little lenient. I think its swinging back and that's helpful."

Besides his Texas Ranger duties, her husband, Edgar Jr., was the first chairman of the Wichita Falls fire and police commissions.

Her colleagues in the area have taken to having a woman chief.

"I've had every law enforcement officer in the area offer their assistance to me," she said.

The amazing Amazon River

The flow of the Amazon River, the largest river in the world, accounts for about 15 per cent of all the fresh water discharged into the oceans by all the rivers of the world.

By comparison, the Amazon's flow is over four times that of the Congo River, the world's second largest river, and 10 times that of the Mississippi, the largest river in the North American continent. — CNS
