

Ford Rejects Gasoline Rationing, Price Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford told the nation he would veto a gasoline rationing bill and reject authority to impose wage-price controls. He was "horrified" over driving the government another $75 billion in the red.

It was the start of a Ford blitz to sell his economic program to the nation.

In a televised news conference Tuesday, Ford also said the United States reserved the right to go to war to prevent economic "strangulation" through cutoff of its overseas petroleum supply. But he cautioned this was "a hypothetical question of the most extreme kind."

Ford used most of the session with reporters to boost his anti-recession package of economic and energy proposals unveiled last week in his State of the Union message.

He planned a follow-up sales pitch tonight to a Washington meeting of the Conference Board, a New York based business research group. On Thursday, he meets with governors of New England states, the region most likely to feel a pinch in heating oil price increases.

Friday, Ford will take the first actual step in his program, one of the few allowed without congressional approval. He will sign an executive order raising the tariff on imported crude oil from a token 42 cents a barrel to $1 and eventually $3 a barrel.

A number of Democrats have lambasted

Ford's plan to boost tariffs and excise taxes on foreign and domestic oil as inflationary. Gasoline rationing has been offered as an energysaving alternative.

But in a prepared statement before taking questions, Ford turned thumbs down. An effective rationing program would take five to ten years and would limit the average motorist to about nine gallons of gasoline a week, working a special hardship on farmers and long-distance commuters, he said.

Later, during the questioning, he said that if Congress legislates mandatory gasoline rationing he would veto it.

The price tag of Ford's anti-recession program is an estimated deficit in the current fiscal year of $30 billion and $45 billion in fiscal 1976.

Ford said he was "horrified" at those figures. But he added: "I believe that it is the right medicine for our current illness. And I think that if we had nothing, the patient would have been in much worse condition."

Ford's carefully worded answer to a question to possible future U.S. military involvement in the Middle East endorsed a similar statement recently by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

"If a country is being strangled," the president said, "and I use 'strangled' in the sense of the hypothetical question, that in effect means that a country has the right to protect itself against death." But an embargo similar to the one imposed in 1973 by the Arab oil block would not be considered such an act, he said. The President promised to consult with Congress before committing American troops to any future military action.

On the domestic front, he said a billion-dollar plan for government-backed health insurance drafted by the Nixon administration will not be put forward in the proposed 1976 budget because of spending limitations.

And he defended his decision to raise the cost of food stamps to the poor and to cut automatic increases in Social Security benefits from 9 to 5 per cent.

"Government causes inflation by creating and spending too much money, and inflation won't ever end until government stops doing so."

Israel, Egypt Emphasize Willingness To Negotiate

By United Press International
Israel and Egypt have muted their talk of war and emphasized their willingness to negotiate, but Israeli government sources said today an interim agreement with Syria in the Golan Heights is not within reach.

"Concerning Syria, there is a place for negotiations for peace, not for intermediate agreements because of the conditions in the area (the Golan Heights) and the topography, and also because this is in fact the position of Syria," one government source said in Jerusalem.

"I think (Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger understands Israel's position with Syria is viewed in different terms than Israel's position with Egypt," the source said.

The sources said Syria's stand on possible negotiations over the Golan Heights is to get back as much territory as possible without committing itself to peace.

The sources also said Israel would be willing to negotiate with Jordan's King Hussein about the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, but that Hussein had been replaced as negotiator by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Ha'aretz, in a dispatch from Washington, quoted Israeli sources today as saying the United States had recently considered long-range contingency plans to establish U.S. military bases in Israel.

Ha'aretz said Washington took the possibility of U.S. bases in Israel off the agenda because Israel had not requested them.

The newspaper also said Kissinger told Foreign Minister Yigal Alon in Washington last week Israel must begin talks with Syria about a withdrawal on the Golan Heights after a disengagement accord had been reached with Egypt in the Sinai.

In Moscow, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said today in a comment on Alon's Washington visit that Israel is prolonging the Middle East conflict by putting forward "obviously unacceptable" conditions to the Arabs.

Pravda said Israel's plan for step-by-step withdrawal in the Sinai "completely ignores the interests of Syria and the Arab people of Palestine. It is designed to make the Arab countries give up an all-around political settlement for the sake of partial, separate agreements."

Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres departed Tuesday from previous statements and said he believed Israel would give up the oil fields at Abu Rodeis in the occupied Sinai Desert in exchange for a peace agreement with Egypt.

"If Israel has to make a choice between giving up the sources of petrol or keeping it, I would recommend keeping it," Peres told a gathering of foreign Jews in Tel Aviv.

"But if Israel would have to make a choice between peace without oil or belligerence with oil, I would say peace is more important than oil."

Peres said, however, Israel "will not give away positions vital to her security" unless Egypt agrees to make "significant concessions" in the peace talks.

Israel captured the Sinai during the 1967 Middle East war. It receives about 50 per cent of its crude oil from the Abu Rodeis fields.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said in an interview published Tuesday in the Paris newspaper Le Monde: "I am ready to conclude a peace accord with Israel and respect the undertakings arising from such an agreement."

At the same time, he warned that any new Middle East war would involve the threat of a U.S.-Soviet confrontation.

Sadat said "it would be easy" to reach a friendly settlement if Israeli officials "reached the same conclusion" as the Egyptian leader.

Ford To Ask Congress For More Indochina Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is still maintaining some of its ties with Indochina, President Ford says he is going to ask Congress for emergency military aid to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

And he has left open the possibility the United States could renew naval or aerial bombardment.

Congressional sources predicted today Ford will face a tough fight on Capitol Hill when he presents the supplemental aid request, expected to total about $300 million. They said he would face vigorous opposition to any renewed bombing, presently banned by law.

Ford told a news conference Tuesday he would present the emergency aid request to Congress this week or next.

He said he could foresee no circumstances under which the United States might "actively reenter" the Vietnam war. But he skirted the question of whether the United States might renew its bombing of Communist forces in Vietnam.

"I don't think it is appropriate for me to forecast any specific actions that may be taken. I would say simply that any military actions, if taken, would be only taken following actions under our constitutional and legal procedures."

Legislation passed by the 93rd Congress forbids the United States from engaging in warfare "in, over, or from the shores of" the four Indochina states.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has said Congress cannot be expected to provide more military assistance for South Vietnam and Cambodia.

"More aid means more killing," Mansfield told newsmen immediately prior to the convening of the current 94th Congress.

Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and William Scott, D-Va., who toured Southeast Asia during the congressional recess as members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, have come out strongly in favor of emergency aid.

In separate news conferences last week, both said they were appalled by the lack of ammunition in South Vietnam. They said the United States has a duty to make good on its commitment to replace worn-out equipment on a one-to-one basis.

State Department and Pentagon officials have been critical of the restrictions which Congress has placed on aid to Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Congress appropriated only $700 million for military aid to South Vietnam — half of the administration request. It limited military aid to Cambodia to $377 million, and relief aid to South Vietnam to $450 million.

Group Makes Annual Stock Shows Plans
Work is progressing in preparation for the annual Top o' Texas Stock Show scheduled in Pampa March 3, 4, and 5, according to Luther Robinson, chairman of the Agriculture & Livestock Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the show.

The three-day event includes the Junior Livestock Show and Sale, the FFA Livestock Judging Contest and the Top o' Texas Hereford Association's Show and Sale. The Gray County Junior Livestock Show has been set for Saturday preceding the opening of the Top o' Texas event.

Judging the steer show this year will be John W. McNeill of the Agriculture Department of West Texas State University. Judging the hogs will be L.M. Hargrave of the Agriculture Department of Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Clyde Carruth will be superintendent of the show with Bill Skaggs and Jim Green assistant superintendents.

The Junior Livestock will be judged on Monday and the registered Herefords will be judged on Tuesday. The junior sale will be Wednesday March 5, at 9 a.m. and the Hereford sale will be at 1 p.m. the same day with Col. Walter Britten of College Station as auctioneer.

Complete details on the three-day event will be announced within the next few days, Robinson said.

Briscoe To Give Details On Legislative Program

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who spoke of his legislative program in generalities during his inauguration, has promised to go into detail today during a speech to the joint session of the legislature.

"If enacted by the legislature it will touch the lives of all Texans," Briscoe said of his proposed legislative package.

"It will face up to the pressing problems of our times. It will help set our priorities for years to come."

"It will be a substantial program, designed to carry out the platform upon which I was elected.

Briscoe said Texans have basic rights which must be protected and perfected by the legislator. These rights included the right to economical and honest government, fair elections, quality education, privacy, safe streets, health care, a clean environment, mobility, and decent treatment for the young and old.

"It is to these rights that I pledge myself and my efforts during the next four years," Briscoe said.

Briscoe, whose election platform included a tax cut for Texans and pay raises for retired teachers and state employees, took the oath for a four-year term Tuesday. Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby was also inaugurated for his second term during a 30-minute, televised ceremony.

Hobby's inaugural address was more detailed than Briscoe's. The lieutenant governor called for another constitutional convention composed of citizen delegates, laws against invasion of privacy, and creation of a state utilities commission to protect citizens against what Hobby called franchised utility monopolies.

CPR Program Presented At Local Clinics

A local dentist and two certified instructors have presented a training program in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) for office and dental assistants of a dentist office and doctor's clinic here.

Presenting the program in conjunction with CPR Week locally were Dr. Joe Pieratt and Mrs. Lois Stephens, R.N., and Mrs. Agnes Dorman, L.V.N., representatives of the American Heart Association.

The program was presented for personnel of Dr. Pieratt's dental clinic and the Pampa Clinic.

Mrs. Stephens gave a brief lecture and then she, Dr. Pieratt and Mrs. Dorman demonstrated the CPR techniques on Anatomic Anne (see picture this page), a mannequin training aid.

Participants included Darlene Crass, Rita Russell, Joyce Cotham, Gila Eudy, Mary Lively and Neva Weeks.

This week has been proclaimed CPR Week by the mayors of Pampa, Lefors and McLean and Gray County Judge Don Cain to publicize the need for everyone beyond the sixth grade to know how to administer CPR techniques to save lives.

The techniques are used in case of heart failure and - or stoppage of breathing.

Mobile Home Hearing Held

A public hearing on proposed enlargement of three mobile home zoning areas in Pampa was scheduled to get underway at 3 p.m. today in City Hall.

Areas involved included a portion of the city just west of Hobart St. and south of the Borger Hwy. to the San Fe Ry., west of Hobart and south of Wilks St. to McCullough St., and south of Tyng St. and east of Barnes St. to Tignor St. and south to Frederic St.

The meeting, scheduled for the City Commission Room, was moved to the office of the director of public works.

The City Commission Room still was occupied today by continuation of the federal hearing on union representation at the Packerland Packing Co. plant.

City Manager Mack Wofford said if there was an overflow crowd at the zoning hearing it would be moved to the M.K. Brown Civic Center.

PIONEER SAYS Local Curtailment Of Gas 'Unlikely'

By TEX DEWEESE
Curtailment of gas supplies to Pioneer Natural Gas Co. customers in the Texas Panhandle is unlikely this winter unless the area falls into the grip of a prolonged cold spell.

That was the opinion of Pioneer officials who announced today that information on the status of the utility's gas supply was contained in a letter the company has sent to city officials along the company's West Texas system which includes Pampa.

Pampa City Manager Mack Wofford said this forenoon, however, the letter had not yet been received locally.

Company officials state the firm's gas acquisition program is progressing favorably with 1974 gas purchases helping to compensate for a drop in natural gas buys in 1973.

K. B. Watson, Pioneer president, said purchases of gas supplies have started off well in 1975.

Watson said an estimated 233 billion cubic feet of new gas reserves were added in 1974 and that amount exceeded gas sales for the year.

Pioneer currently is constructing 13 miles of 16-inch pipeline west of Pampa to transport more Anadarko Basin gas west and south on its system.

Officials of the company state that although Pioneer has been able to acquire a small volume of gas on the system's southern end, it is the northern Anadarko Basin that has been extremely productive, enabling the company to obtain the reserves mentioned.

Watson said material shortages and drilling delays have slowed actual gas deliveries, but Pioneer was able to connect with 28 wells in the Anadarko field during 1974.

Another 31 wells in the Anadarko Basin are awaiting connection, he said, and 17 wells are being drilled on committed acreage.

In addition, the company is negotiating for gas from three sources at the south end of its West Texas system and the company is optimistic about its chance of buying it. However, Watson said the price will be higher.

The pioneer president said record gas sales last summer as the result of heavy increase in irrigation led to curtailment of industrial customers in July and August.

He added that curtailment for the year will be in the vicinity of five per cent of the annual volume of the contractually interruptible customers most affected. And that, Watson said is significantly better than the average in Texas and across the nation.

RODEO CONTRACT — Officials of the Top o' Texas Rodeo Association met yesterday with representatives of Beutler and Sons of Elk City, Okla., to sign a contract to provide stock for the annual Top o' Texas Rodeo, set for July 29-31 and Aug. 1-2. Signing the contract are, sitting, Kenneth Royce, left, ToT president, and Jiggs Beutler. Standing are Benny Beutler, left, and Bill Tidwell, ToT vice president. (Photo by Jim Williams)

INVESTMENT CAPITAL CRISIS

Drop in profits will hurt

There is a tendency in the United States of America to criticize the profits of industries. "Ripoff" is a commonly heard noun.
To be sure, the dynamics of the U.S. economic system are complex and not always fully understood. However, the matter of profits was put into a much better perspective recently in a survey published by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The department reported that, in terms of uninflated funds, U.S. business and industry will spend 5 to 6 per cent less on new plants and new equipment in the foreseeable future. The reason is clear — the real income of business is dropping, the corporate debt has risen to more than $1 trillion and sources for borrowing capital are drying up.

To grasp the full significance of the figures a citizen needs only to know that business investment in plants and equipment actually rose slightly last year. Despite the increase, the over-all national economy declined by 2 per cent when the rate of inflation is considered — and unemployment also rose significantly.

If the industrial community does not build and furnish enough new plants in 1975 there will be even fewer jobs. If fewer people are employed there will be less goods on the market. Ordinarily the two might come close to balancing out if the laws of supply, demand and investment were the only forces at work.

Unfortunately, they are not. The leaders of both parties in Congress and in the administration have made it clear that rising unemployment is not politically acceptable. We see some manifestation of this in the billions of dollars being spent in public employment programs. To a degree the federal government has become the employer of last resort.

Additionally, the majority of national leaders are advocating cuts in personal income taxes that range into billions of dollars. In one case or the other, the federal government will pour billions into the national economy. The marketplace will be enriched, but industry may not be able to meet the new demand because profits are too low to build new plants and corporate debt is limited.
Or, conversely, if the tax cuts for individuals are balanced by tax increases on industry, as some advocate, the capital available for investment in new plants and jobs will be further decreased.

It's an old story. The further the government gets into the business of business the firmer the grip it gets on the tail of the bear.

And the reason that it is getting deeper into economic tinkering is that American citizens — or at least their representatives in Congress — are not yet willing to accept the fact that the only cure for what ails us economically is the old prescription of biting the bullet.

Calling The Champ

When gasoline went from 41 cents a gallon to 60 cents, we heard a lot about windfall profit. Now, with controls off, the price has dropped back to the vicinity of 50 cents. But we don't hear any talk of a windfall loss. The point is thus made that a swing in prices is not a proof of profit or loss. Senator Jackson, champion of high wages and low prices for everybody, are you listening?

ENSLAVEMENT OF THE BALTIC STATES
Every year, Communist delegates to the United Nations bring up the question of Puerto Rico's "colonial" status and issue loud denunciations of U.S. "oppression" of the island commonwealth. One of the purposes for this action is no doubt to draw attention away from the Soviet Union's enslavement of the three Baltic nations: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

In 1940, after an agreement with Nazi Germany, Soviet troops marched into the three independent states and annexed them to the USSR. Sham elections were held, but no one was fooled. When they issued the Atlantic Charter, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill declared that the Baltic States should be granted their independence.

This support of the brave nations didn't last long. The U.S. quietly withdrew its demand for independence of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, in order to gain Soviet cooperation in the founding of the United Nations. The United Nations decolonization committee, formed largely at communist insistence, has not even once taken up the question of the suppression of the Baltic states.

Some drinking drivers get shot

If you think your local constabulary is too tough with drinking drivers, consider some penalties invoked in other countries.
In Malaya the drunk and his wife go to jail; in Turkey the drunk driver is driven 20 miles out of town and forced to walk back under escort; in South Africa he gets a 10-year sentence and/or a $2,000 fine.
But the toughest sentence is probably that levied in San Salvador: drunk drivers are executed by firing squad.

NO WAY TO CURE A HANGOVER

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTORS
Bonanza for the Tax Lawyers

By C. MOLLENHOFF
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Political organizations were given tax-exempt status in a last flurry of legislation from the 93rd Congress wiping out a million-dollar income tax problem for the Nixon re-election committee.

As a result the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is abandoning plans to try to collect federal income taxes on stocks and bonds contributed to the Committee to Reelect the President. The taxes would result from the stocks and bonds being worth more when the Nixon committee sold them than what the donors paid for the securities.

Although the changes in the law will probably be more beneficial to the Nixon re-election committee than to any other political group, there are a number of Democratic and Republican political groups that will also benefit in varying degrees. IRS officials reason that these bipartisan benefits are probably the cause for no Democratic or Republican opposition to the legislation.

A different beat

By LARRY HOLLIS

Visitors to the Panhandle regions of Texas for lack of better information, often feel that this is a desolate area with little to offer for permanency.

We won't go into the arguments against that conclusion. But for those who feel that Pampa and surrounding areas have little to offer, we invite them to join a group of scientists currently living near the South Pole.

A large aluminum dome, over 160 feet in diameter, and a long, horizontal half-cylinder of corrugated steel have been erected, over a period of four years, to house 18 scientists and support personnel conducting studies of the Antarctic wastes.

The structures rise from a flat, white, featureless snow plain that extends for hundreds of miles in every direction — all north, according to a news release from the National Science Foundation.

Although the Pole Station personnel do not have to contend with very high winds (which this area, admittedly, suffers from once in awhile), they work where the average yearly temperature is 46 degrees below zero. Summertime never tops zero and wintertime temperatures have been measured as low as minus 122 degrees.

The dome, by the way, covers three two-story buildings. The connecting cylinder stretches for 800 feet.

Not much to offer in way of scenery there, is there? So the Panhandle isn't really all that bad.

As a nation we have been used to living in a land of abundance, but recent shortages and strikes and the economic ravages of inflation and recession have caused many of us to revise our estimates of the continued abundance of the land.

In the last few decades many of the nations have faced widespread starvation because of food shortages, caused by inefficient agriculture as pointed out in a "Newsweek" article last April. Since then even more cases of underfed populations have been subjects of news broadcasts, government studies and a special conference of the United Nations.

In this country we have tended to look upon food shortages as something that can't happen here. But recent situations have caused many to reevaluate the food stability of the nation.

Last winter, spring and summer, nature struck a blow at a number of crops in various sections of the nation with wheat and corn and other grains being especially hard hit. In addition to natural food shortages, such as those caused by disease or disaster, man made shortages threatened, with farmers and ranchers going out of business, transportation strikes posing trouble in the distribution of food, and rising costs adding to the problems of many people finding enough food to place on the table.

In case of a natural disaster, such as earthquake or hurricane or similar, how long could most of us survive on the food we have in our house — particularly if there were no transportation available to supplement market supplies damaged by the disaster?

An unlikely situation? Remember the trucking strike of not too long ago? And if the government-operated train system were to fold under? Or the strikes that have plagued airlines recently?

Of course, it can't happen here. Or can it?

Mrs. Bob Hatfield, 2101 N. Zimmers, relayed the following information to us from the Malvern, Ark., Daily Record.

Christopher Columbus was responsible for thinking of the techniques of modern government. He didn't know where he was going when he started, he didn't know where he was going when he got there, and he did it all on borrowed money.

Heroin abuse is increasing

Serious heroin abuse and addiction are increasing rapidly, according to the National Council on Drug Abuse Director Dr. Jordan Scher who says current statistics show there are at least 600,000 to 800,000 heroin addicts in the United States — and the number is rising.

Current supplies from the Far East, Middle East and Mexico are higher in quality and much more potent — 15 per cent pure, compared to an average of 1 to 5 per cent pure a year earlier — leading to higher overdose rates. — CNS

She calls affair with her ex "highly moral"

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I recently began an affair with my ex-husband. We've been divorced for five years and have two children, but I never stopped loving him.

We met to discuss the children a few months ago, and I had to admit that the old magic was still there because after he kissed me just once, I was helpless to resist him.

We were divorced because I caught him cheating on me several times. He admitted that he had a weakness for other women that he couldn't overcome, and being a highly moral woman, I couldn't tolerate it.

A year ago, I married a fine older man. He's wonderful to me and the children but he is impotent, and all efforts to correct it have failed.

For some strange reason I don't feel guilty about carrying on with my "ex." I almost feel that under the circumstances I am justified. What's wrong with me? I'm basically a very moral person. What should I do?
FIRST LOVE

DEAR FIRST: You can't have it both ways. If sex is that important to you, perhaps you'd better divorce your husband and re-marry your "ex."

To continue this adulterous affair without guilt feelings indicates that you are not the "moral woman" you claim to be.

Infidelity is not justified under any circumstances, be it your ex-husband's weakness for other women, or your present husband's impotence.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem involving tact. I don't drive. Each week I go to a meeting with a neighbor who lives a few doors from me. Her silly chatter and vicious gossip bore me; however, it's convenient to be driven by her and I appreciate it.

She recently went on a two-month trip, and in her absence another club member offered to drive me, even though it meant going about five minutes out of her way. We have now become good friends.

My problem is how to get around to telling my neighbor that I don't need her transportation any more for these club meetings. My new friend doesn't care for her gossiping tongue either.

I'm afraid if I offend my neighbor, her vicious tongue will lash out on me.
IN A BIND

DEAR IN: Don't be blackmailed. If you prefer to be driven by your new friend, simply tell your neighbor that you have transportation. How can she hurt you? People of quality pay no attention to vicious gossip. And who else matters?

A group of interested persons in Pampa have made plans for the formation of a Christian "outreach" house to provide an informal meeting place for young persons to gather for Christian fellowship.

Hargis as assistant director. Other board members are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Clark, Rev. Ronald Palermo, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McMillin, Danny Casey, Kent Clark, Rev. Sam Godwin and Kathy Kille.

The house will operate under a flexible program, Warnock said, with informal Bible "rap sessions," services with live Christian music and other activities to interest youth in the Christian life.

To be called Hosanna House, the organization, located at 218 N. Cuyler, will be inter-denominational in scope, not sponsored by or affiliated with any local church. Several community churches, though, are providing some financial aid and volunteer work.

The building which has been acquired for the Hosanna House is currently being furnished and painted prior to the formal opening, which will be announced later.

Items needed for the house are furniture (couches, chairs, etc.), lumber, nails and other building supplies, paint and brushes, carpeting, lamps, tables, public address system, 8-track tape player, cassette players, tools, bulletin board, Bibles, books, magazines and tracts (Christian material), coffee pot, posters, plaques and writing material, brooms, mops, vacuum cleaner and rags.

turn youths from drugs and study of the occult to the Lord Jesus Christ. The house will serve as a "half-way place between the church and the street," he said.

His ability to give new meaning to life. Our second goal is to provide a place of interdenominational Christian youth fellowship. Warnock said that while the House is not sponsored by any denomination, after a young person with no religious background makes a commitment to the Christian life or seeks more fellowship, he or she will be directed to a church. Names will also be provided for church visitation programs.

IF CONVOY FAILS Airlift Needed For Phnom Penh

By ALAN DAWSON
PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A 20-ship supply convoy from Vietnam ran into heavy rebel resistance on the Mekong River today and a U.S. source said there is "no other choice" than an American Berlin-style airlift if the convoy doesn't make it.

The convoy, reported half way up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh, was the first serious attempt in 25 days to replenish the besieged Cambodian capital with badly needed fuel and ammunition.

Fuel to power such basic plants as electric generators is so low that more than 80 percent of the electricity has been cut. Food supply is dropping radically and within two weeks the situation will be critical.

The convoy, escorted by Cambodia navy boats, entered Cambodia late Tuesday after it had sailed nearly 25 miles inside the border from South Vietnam to a point just south of Neak Luong, the Mekong river's major port city 40 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

From the South Vietnamese border to Neak Luong the convoy tugs took heavy fire all night Tuesday and into the day today. The rebels also stretched cables across the river to stop the convoy but the tugs snapped the cables and were able to continue although the progress of the convoy was slowed. Communist frogmen also cut one tow line, causing other delays.

The normal Mekong river convoy trip from the South Vietnamese border to Phnom Penh used to take three days. Neak Luong, a Cambodian naval base, has been sealed off from Phnom Penh by the Khmer Rouge insurgents and shipping sources said the final water route to Phnom Penh "is the toughest" stretch of the river. The river between Neak Luong and Koki, nine miles east of Phnom Penh, is totally in rebel hands.

There is no alternative to a U.S. airlift, said the senior U.S. source when asked what the result would be if the convoy fails to reach Phnom Penh.

Up to 10 military C130 Hercules cargo planes are already flying daily ammunition flights from Thailand to Phnom Penh. The C130's carry up to 23 tons each, but the Cambodians are

Hess Sweeps Stock Events

F. Jake Hess, owner of the Doctor Herford at McLean, swept the Herford Open at the Amarillo Stock Show yesterday by showing the grand champion bull and both the grand champion and reserve champion female.

Hess first showed Dr. Lady S. Britt 4063, a spring yearling, as grand champion heifer, before going on for the reserve slot with Dr. Lady MI Axt 4454, a spring calf.

The Dr. Lady S. Britt heifer also was named grand champion at Abilene and Denver this year.

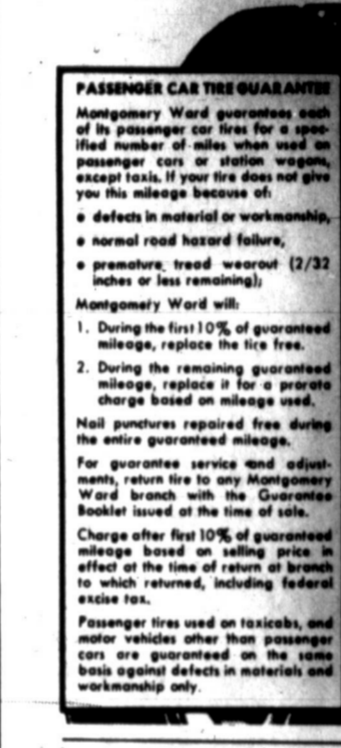

Hess then topped his day by showing Dr. MI Britt 3999, a spring yearling, to the grand champion winner's circle.

Hess, former American Herford Association president, whose show strings are known throughout the Southwest, also took first in two bulls, pair of yearlings, pair of calves and numerous top spots in the classes at the Amarillo show.

By ERMA BOMBECK
EDITORS NOTE:
 Requests are constantly being received from readers asking to have one or another of the Erma Bombeck columns repeated.

We are taking the opportunity today to accede to her fans' wishes by publishing those favorite Bombeck columns most often requested.

This country is extremely age conscious. That is why a new group has been formed called "40 Anonymous" to help people overcome the problem. Here's how it works. Several months before reaching age 40, birthdays are invited to a group therapy program.

There is a ten-minute film where Doris Day wrinkles her nose, moistens her lips and smiles, "I'm over 40 and I still have freckles" just to get the audience in a receptive mood. Then a testimonial is given. The one I heard was from Sylvia X.

"I'm over 40," she said in a faltering voice. (Applause) "A few months ago I was depressed and morose and thought life was not worth living. I got a chill when the furnace blower went on. I refused to eat apples even though I had my own teeth. I nipped at Geritol in the mornings after the kids went to school. I sent sympathy cards to myself and refused to start any long novels. A friend suggested I come to a '40 Anonymous' meeting. That night I heard Strom Thurmond speak. He was wonderful."

"I went home and practiced saying '40' in front of the mirror. I thought I was cured. Then one night I went to a party. Everyone there was under 30. It was terrible. No one knew the verse and chorus to the Beer Barrel Polka. They had never heard of Lyle Talbot or Maria Montez. When I said Okey Dokey, they laughed.

"I went berserk that night and drew a mustache on the Mod Squad; made an obscene phone call to Annette Funicello. A member of '40 Anonymous' found me throwing rocks at a rock festival. 'Get hold of yourself,' he said. 'Just say out loud, I am forty.'"

"I am fofooooofffoooooerrrr...I can't do it," I cried.

"YOU CAN!" he challenged.

"It's no use," I said. "This world is for the youth. Everyone around me is younger than I am. My doctor carries his stethoscope in a gym bag. My attorney has to shave only once a week. My son's math teacher is still in braces. I rode a plane the other day with training wheels on it. Good Lord, man, don't you understand I am older than Mickey Mouse."

Sylvia's voice broke. "Today, I am proud to say I have learned to live with my problem one day at a time." (Applause)

That night I stood in front of my mirror and said, "My name is Erma X and I'm fffffffffff...I don't like it, but I'm fffffff...some days I look... fffffooooo...last year I was... It was no use. I called '40 Anonymous' to come over and have a drink."

Career Cases Designed for Women Execs

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

NOT TOO LONG AGO, women's business bags (attache cases and briefcases) were just as rare as women in the executive suite. Handbags frequently doubled as portable offices or else women borrowed or bought heavier cases designed for men.

Today, however, with more women than ever before involved in management, business case manufacturers have come up with an attractive array of business bags designed especially for them. And viva la difference in styling! Women's cases are lighter in weight and far more fashionwise. Some are soft and supple, others are molded and angular. They come in shades, such as bone, rust and pearl gray. A number, including the two pictured here by Dopp, have shoulder straps.

SOFT vinyl attache case is one-third the weight of a man's four-inch attache case.

WOMEN'S shoulder case by Dopp has special pocket for clutch purse or makeup bag.

Forum Club Given Program On 'Investing Our Money'

Mrs. Homer Johnson was hostess recently for members of the Twentieth Century Forum Club.

Mrs. John Warner and Mrs. Bob Finney asked each member to write an unsigned New Year's resolution and the group guessed who had made the resolution.

Mrs. Holt Barber presented a program on "Investing Our Money." She told a woman must learn to invest for herself, said Homer Hargrove, one of the top level partners of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Benne, in talking to his wife, Colleen Moore, silent movie star of the 20's.

"She went on to become one of the most outstanding and knowledgeable women guides to the market."

Most women can't balance a checkbook but statistics show that women live longer than men, so it makes sense for a woman to know how to manage money, the speaker told.

The world of stocks and bonds is unfamiliar territory to most women and they approach it in a different manner from men. Money is an ingenious invention and turning money into money isn't magic. The name for it is INVESTING, she stated.

Before investing, one should first have money for income, emergencies, insurance, a home; all these should come early in life, she continued.

There is responsibility and risk in investing — your risk. You can gamble or you can invest with the lowest degree of risk.

What should you do with your money? Study — talk to your broker, avoid hot tips and be aware of the rise and responsibility, she concluded.

Members attending were Mmes. Frank Kelley, Jack Ward, Victor Raymond, Bob Melescon, Jerry Wilson, Richard Steele, Bob Williams, David Holt, John Warner, Bob Finney, Richard Van Kluyve, N. McDaniel, Aubrey Steele, Nichols, Glen Larsen and Larry Cross.

Missouri found a unique way of getting rid of 10 tons of foodstuffs and clothing and medical supplies stored for years in Civil Defense fallout shelters. The materials were sent to Bangladesh, through a federal program.

LADIES AID GROUP

The Zion Lutheran Women's Missionary League (Ladies Aid) met recently in fellowship hall of the church.

The President, Mrs. Gene McAldo, presided and Mrs. J.D. Burns read a poem.

The Rev. Timothy Koening, pastor, presented the program "Missions Is..." The group was asked to respond with things that came to their mind when they heard the word, "Mission."

Mission might be defined as the dynamic movement of God; His work in history and the personal lives of people showing His love and asking people to pass it on to the world, the speaker stated.

The church is God's Mission and the church is Christ's mission to the whole world; to the church; to the whole society; to the whole man, and the whole church is Christ's mission. We are in Mission to one another, he told.

The business meeting followed with 19 members answering roll call and three guests, who later joined the organization.

Mrs. A.M. Stroebel, chairman of the bazaar and planning committee for the Good Samaritan Home in Cyprus, gave a report on the amount of money sent to the home. Several other projects were discussed.

New 1975 yearbooks were distributed and the mite box and free will offerings were taken.

Following the closing prayer, refreshments were served by Nevelle Vess and Betty Burns, co-hostesses for the meeting.

FIRST BAPTIST WOMEN

Mrs. Louis Tarpley was in charge of the meeting when the Betty Law Bible Study Group met Wednesday, Jan. 15, at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Tommie Grant was hostess to the group in her home at 1301 N. Russell.

The group gave donations for radio advertisement of the Spanish Baptist Church here in Pampa as their mission action project.

Mrs. Tarpley gave the "Call to Prayer" and Mrs. R.L. Edmondson, Sr. voiced the opening prayer.

Feb. 12 at 6:15 p.m. is the date set for the WMU Missions Fair to be at the church. Also noted was the Week of Prayer the first week in March. The mission study book will be taught Wednesday of this week, March 5, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, with a luncheon to follow.

Mrs. Owen Johnson then taught the Bible lesson from Acts 8 and 9.

The next meeting of this group will be Feb. 19 in the home of Mrs. Edmondson at 1101 Christine.

Mrs. J.P. Heath gave the closing prayer.

Members attending were Mmes. Hugh Ellis, Myron Porter, J.V. Young, Cecil Lunsford, H.C. Wilkie, Lee Moore, D.W. Osborne, Johnson, Heath, Edmondson, Tarpley and Grant.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Church of Christ has launched a new program of regional workshops designed to alert citizen groups to Federal Communications Commission rules and involve people in citizenship programs aimed at improving television broadcasting.

Lecture And Demonstration By Russell Woody Slated

Russell Woody of New York will be in Amarillo with the National Art Show held by Artist's Studio for a lecture and demonstration. Woody will be at the Ramada Inn, 1 - 40 and Nelson Feb. 4th and 5th.

Woody is well known as a painter, author, and lecturer. His paintings have been featured in exhibits from San Jose, Calif. to Norfolk, Va. and from Rockland, Maine, and Boston to Sarasota, Florida and Mexico City.

For several years, Woody has lectured on acrylic polymer emulsion techniques and approaches. These lectures have taken the artist to over 300 Art Schools, Colleges, and Universities throughout the United States, Canada,

Puerto Rico. Recently he has worked with Henry Levison, paint chemist and past president of Permanent Pigments, Inc., and Nathaniel Jacobson, artist and colorist, helping to perfect Jacobson's new concept of color in artists paints. This innovative direction and concept of what color can and should be are discussed in Woody's lecture demonstration, "A New Sense of Color in Polymers: Modula Colors."

This is not a lecture where the artist paints a pretty picture. It is not limited to any media. It has special benefits in a modern and versatile material such as the polymers. It shows how you can make sense out of color in a new media; how you can make color work for your own purpose.

Harvesters Rip Lubbock Monterey

By PAUL SIMS
Billy Wilbon scored 30 points and led a tenacious Pampa defense which limited Monterey to only three field goals in 20 attempts during the final period as the Harvesters whipped the visiting Lubbock school, 65-51, Tuesday in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The win left Pampa with a 15-3 final non-conference record and gives the Harvesters a four-game win streak going into district play against Amarillo Caprock Friday.

Monterey fell to 12-9 and will also open 4-AAAA action Friday, hosting Lubbock Coronado.

Pampa, ahead by nine, 34-25, at halftime, saw the lead cut to three, 48-45, at the end of the third quarter. In that period, 6-4 forward Jackson Pace tallied seven points and guard Jody Overbeck scored six to close the gap.

Monterey outscored the Harvesters, 16-14, in the third quarter. With 30 seconds left in the period, Overbeck connected on a 12-foot jumper from the left baseline to pull Monterey to within a point, 46-45.

Pampa's Nick Slaymaker hit a 10-foot jumper a few seconds later to up the lead back to three.

The hosts outscored the Plainsmen, 17-6, in the last eight minutes, capitalizing on cold Monterey shooting. Monterey didn't score a point from 5:30, when Pampa led 54-49, to :15, when Pampa led by 13, 64-51.

Monterey's leading scorer was Pace with 19 points but the big forward only scored one field goal in the last quarter. Six-foot Dick Clardy, through the first three quarters, managed 15 points but was unable to score in the last quarter.

Pampa post Howie Lewis, 6-5, was manhandled by Monterey's three big men Clardy, Pace and Scott Gardner, who held him to eight points. Lewis still managed to grab 10 rebounds to lead everyone in that category.

"That was an emotional one for Monterey, who 'got scared in the last quarter,'" according to Caprock coach Bill White, a spectator at the contest.

Plainsmen coach Joe Michalka was slapped with a technical foul in the fourth quarter after Pampa was given the ball on a close-out-of-bounds play.

Wilbon led all scorers in the contest. Other Harvesters to score in double figures were Robert Young with 16 and Slaymaker with 14.

"I thought we played tremendous defense," said Pampa coach Robert McPherson. "We rebounded real well and shot well, too. We were experimenting a lot during the game."

"They (Plainsmen) are real physical. If you don't do a good job on defense, they'll beat you bad."

About Caprock, McPherson

said, "They're quick, they hustle real well on defense and they're very disciplined on offense."

Pampa made it a sweep Tuesday night, taking the sophomore contest, 51-49, in five overtimes and the junior varsity clash, 62-45.

The score was tied at the end of regulation time in the sophomore game, 43-43, and the end of the first four overtimes, 43-43, 43-43, 45-45, and 45-45.

Brent Bailey hit a field goal to give the Pampa sophs a two-point lead with a minute left in the final overtime. Maxey tied it, but a free throw by Henry Williams and one by Lorenzo Griggs put the C-team back in front.

Raford Young scored 16 and Pee Wee Steele 12 to lead the shockers in the JV contest. The Shockers open district play at Caprock Friday prior to the varsity contest.

Also Tuesday night, Berger edged Lubbock Coronado, 71-67.

Ablene Christian College will be the site of the Region I AAAA basketball tournament in early March, the University Scholastic League announced recently.

Winner of the bi-district games will advance to the regional tournaments March 7-8. Regional champions qualify for the state AAAA tournament.

In Conference B (boys' basketball), the same format will be followed that is used for AAAA teams. This area's region is Region I which will hold its tournament March 7-8 at South Plains College in Levelland.

When basketball season ends for Pampa High School, and hopefully that will be in late March, all Harvester spring sports should be going full steam.

Track season opens March 8 with Pampa's own Top O' Texas Invitational Track Meet. Tracksters were originally scheduled to begin competition in the Bulldog Invitational at Plainview, but that meet date has been changed.

Baseballers open March 4 at Dumas. Golf and tennis teams will also begin spring schedules near the end of basketball season.

The Pampa High volleyball team will open its season sooner than other sports, competing in the Berger Invitational Tournament Feb. 1.

Strong showings in district play by Pampa's spring sports would put the District 3-AAAA All-Sports Trophy in the Pampa High trophy case.

Allison Grabs 1st Half Title

LEFORS — Allison wrapped up the championship for the first half of District 3-B play, routing Lefors, 78-53, Tuesday.

The Antelopes upped their district record to 5-0 in the first half finale, while Lefors fell to 1-4 with the loss.

"We played pretty good," said Pirate coach Leonard Tolbert, "except for the turnovers. We had 27 turnovers. Other than that, we played good ball; we scored more points than we have in a long while."

"They've got some pretty good shooters," Allison was led by John Grayson with 30 points. High for

Girl Tells Of NFL Drug Ring

ST. LOUIS, MO. (UPI) — A 19-year-old black girl has told St. Louis police she was part of a well-organized ring which distributed marijuana to National Football League players throughout the country.

The girl's story is contained in a detailed 30-page police report complete with the names of prominent NFL players, which has been sent to league Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

The girl, Roxie Ann Rice, first came to the attention of law enforcement authorities Jan. 6 after she told a St. Louis motel manager she was the wife of Ken Houston, all-pro defensive back for the Washington Redskins.

The manager learned from football officials Houston's wife has a different first name, and Miss Rice was arrested for defrauding a motel operator.

She then unraveled her strange tale of airport dropoffs, disguises and parties at football player's residences. Although St. Louis police claim no information about the inquiry, a copy of the intra-department memo sent to Rozelle was obtained by news media.

Miss Rice told police she was living in St. Louis and working for a life insurance company when she met a woman she identified as Patricia Cleveland last September. She said she told Miss Cleveland she needed money and Miss Cleveland later introduced her to a man with a thick accent who was known only as Tony.

They gave her a new identity as Dr. Andiza Juzang of Ghana, coached her to speak with an accent and told her she would be carrying briefcases to NFL cities before and after football games. They told her to wear a turban and said she would be identified as a representative of Ghana.

She told police the cities included Cleveland, Denver, Los Angeles, San Diego, Detroit, Houston, Dallas, Washington, Chicago, Miami, Kansas City, Cincinnati, St. Louis, New York and New Orleans during the Super Bowl.

In a typical pickup, Miss Rice said she would fly to an NFL city and be met by a football player. Frequently she would stay at a player's residence and sometime during her stay a "heavy" suitcase was carried, complete with NFL stickers, to her room. She then would make another connection and receive an identical, full suitcase.

She told police she was not sure what was in the briefcases, and that Pat and Tony supplied her with expenses and took care of most financial dealings in advance.

"Rice went on to state that she and Pat (Miss Cleveland) went to the game that Sunday in Houston, when they played Dallas, adding that Pat had the tickets," the memo said.

"However, they never sat down and watched the game, Pat and she just wandered around. People would then come up to Pat and would give her money. Rice was wearing a jacket with big pockets and Pat would stick the money she was receiving in her pockets. When Pat finished this, they left the game."

From questions in the memo, it is apparent police are centering their inquiries on Miss Rice's visit to a palatial estate in Miami. "She stated that this home was very big and luxurious and there was a swimming pool on the grounds," the memo said, "even though the beach was only about a half-block away."

"There were about 20 to 25 people there, mostly older men, and some young girls," it said.

"They were eating when she and Pat and the driver arrived. There were some Great Danes running around." The house is described as a Spanish-style stucco. Miss Rice said several football players were there.

The report said Miss Rice visited the home of two Kansas City Chiefs players. "While she was there," the memo said, "they talked about the 'stuff' and how much the other team members wanted. She added that (player) told her he was buying everything for the team for the upcoming game."

"(Name deleted) then gave her about $2,500 for the 'stuff'. He also gave her a list of different things that the Chiefs wanted, like speed, pills, etc. Some wanted grass, and (player) also asked her if she could provide 'coke' and she told him no. She added that Tony had previously told her that they could not provide anything like cocaine."

"She reiterated that the list contained mostly grass, speed, pills, downers. She added that the team members who were originally from Los Angeles wanted something special, some sort of stuff that they used out there."

In Detroit, Miss Rice said, she met Rick Forzano, head coach of the Lions. "She talked with Rick Forzano, who did not know what she was going on and who thought she was really from Ghana," the memo said. "They talked about Shirley Temple Black, who is the United States Ambassador to Ghana."

Miss Rice told Forzano she wanted to interview some of the players, as a member of the Ghana press. The memo says, "She further stated that that night, some of the players came up to her room and got the memo said. "They talked about Shirley Temple Black, who is the United States Ambassador to Ghana."

Hawaii became a state on Aug. 21, 1959.

MINING COURSE
WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Waynesburg College is offering a crash course for prospective miners.

The subject matter and teaching methods were worked out by a committee of union and management officials, state and federal inspectors and college faculty members.

Topics to be covered in a two-week program include roof and rib control, ventilation, first aid, use of self-rescue devices, methane detectors, procedures in entering and leaving a mine, noise and dust control and safe handling of explosives.

The college decided to offer the course because more and more mines are being opened in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Harold Hartley, coordinator of the program, said taking the course is "not a guarantee of a job in the mines, but it is intended to maximize the employment possibilities of those who complete it."

More than 100 persons, including some women, applied for admission to the course when it was offered.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Agricultural scientists believe corn yields can be increased by obtaining more energy from the sun.

SIMILAR PAINS

Bursitis Or Heart Attack? It Matters

This the fourth of eight articles sponsored by the Panhandle Emergency Medical Services Systems, Inc. to acquaint the public with the early warning signs of heart attack.

Bursitis or heart attack? Pain in one arm or both arms occurs frequently in combination with chest pain as an early warning sign of heart attack, according to The American Heart Association. But pain can also occur in the arm without being in the chest at all.

It can be mistaken for bursitis, arthritis or muscle strain, says the Heart Association.

In the absence of an obvious reason for a pain or discomfort in either arm or both arms, a prompt checkup by your physician is indicated.

The education program, developed by the State Heart Association in consultation with the American Heart Association, suggests that persons who experience early warning signs should call physicians first. This enables the doctor to participate in a decision on the mode of travel if the patient needs to go to the hospital.

In many cases, a physician may advise a patient that transport by auto might be preferable to ambulance, as a time saver, especially in rural areas.

In any case, one physician advisor says that a patient who does not feel faint is more comfortable sitting up. The most common mistake made by well-meaning friends or relatives is to have someone who is experiencing heart attack warning symptoms lie down.

The physician stresses, however, that the patient must not drive himself.

The Heart Association points out that pain in the center and front of the chest is the most frequent heart attack early warning sign—because that's where the heart is located.

Second to this discomfort "under the necktie," as one physician puts it, is arm pain.

This may be a sensation of pressure, fullness, squeezing or aching, and can also occur in the neck, jaws, back or upper abdomen or in a combination of those areas. There may also be shortness of breath, sweating, nausea or vomiting.

The Heart Association urges that you don't gamble that a pain in your arm is bursitis rather than a heart attack. Have it checked by a physician.

There's good sense in the Early Warning Signs' rhyme: "Early attention can mean prevention."

Next: Symptom — neck and jaw pain.

Surgeon once was so plentiful in the Hudson River that steaks made from the almost boneless meat of the big fish were called "Albany beef."

English chemist John Walker developed the wooden house match in 1827. He did it by dipping strips of thin wood into a mixture of sulfide, potassium chlorate and glue, and ignited them by rubbing them on sandpaper.

FOR BREAST CANCER

Local Anesthetic Aids Biopsies

CHICAGO Ill. — Most women who need biopsies of the breast can have them under local anesthetic, thus lowering both the risk and the cost, according to a recent study by two California surgeons.

Currently, in most communities, biopsies are done under general anesthesia.

Writing in the January issue of "Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics" (SG&O), the official scientific journal of the American College of Surgeons, Hollis Caffee, MD, and John R. Benfield, MD, FACS, of Harbor General Hospital, Torrance, Cal., and the UCLA School of Medicine, Los Angeles, report that it is possible to predict with 91 percent accuracy whether a lump in the breast will be benign (non-cancerous) or cancerous. This makes it possible to designate those patients with a probably benign lesion for local anesthetic.

The accuracy of prediction does not mean a benign lesion can be ignored. Because the risk in biopsy is low and the risk of leaving a cancerous mass undiagnosed is very serious, Benfield and Caffee insist that all patients with breast lesions have the lesion biopsied.

Although biopsy remains mandatory, the preoperative diagnosis of carcinoma of the breast can currently be made with sufficient accuracy to justify restricting recommendations for general anesthesia to those patients likely to have carcinoma of the breast," the authors report.

The next step to explore, according to the authors, is the efficiency of excising benign lumps on an outpatient basis.

"Although we have never either recommended or routinely done biopsies of the breast for presumed benign masses on outpatients, this approach is clearly the next logical step," the authors say. "However, our data should not be used as a blanket endorsement for biopsies of the breast performed on outpatients as office procedures."

The propriety for biopsies of the breast upon women who have not been admitted to hospitals needs to be evaluated critically in each individual setting, and it is clear that the judgement and qualification of the surgeons should be at least as important a consideration as the quality of the outpatient operating facilities which are available.

Caffee and Benfield reported on 184 consecutive biopsies performed over an 18-month period between January, 1972 and July, 1973.

In all cases, general anesthesia was reserved for patients who refused local anesthesia or for whom the breast lesions were thought likely to be cancerous, if they accepted the recommendation for possibly proceeding with mastectomy (removal of the breast) under the same anesthetic.

Of the 184 patients, only 11, or nine percent, had an erroneous pre-operative diagnosis.

It is particularly noteworthy that only three patients, or less than 2 percent, had carcinomas of the breast unexpectedly found after biopsy performed using local anesthesia," the authors note.

Local anesthetic was recommended for biopsies where the lesion was believed to be benign, for biopsies to obtain tissue diagnoses prior to initiating palliative therapy for incurable carcinomas, and for those patients who wished to defer the decision as to whether or not to accept mastectomy until they could be informed of the results of the biopsy.

There are almost 60 nuclear power plants operating in the United States, with a capacity to produce more than eight percent of the nation's electricity.
