Residents Drinking River Water NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - Recent reports of potential cancer causing agents lurking in drinking water from the Mississippi River has not stopped Gov. Edwin Edwards, belly dancer Habeba and hundreds of thousands of others from drinking the water and liking it.

DESPITE CANCER REPORTS

The Environmental Protection Agency said a recent study found traces of 66 chemical compounds in the New Orleans water supply, after purification. It said 11 of those could cause cancer.

City health officer Dr. Doris Thompson and city coroner Dr. Frank Minyard said the risk of getting cancer from water was very slight.

Dr. Thompson said her family was still drinking the water since the risk involved was "less than probably anything else you will do in New Orleans.

Minvard said 18 to 20 cancer cases in the area might be attributed to the water supply. "There's that many cancer cases watching a color television or using a microwave oven. "All of us who are natives have

If the congressional presidential stad - off persist, the marketplace can be relied on to adjust the economy

The uncertianty ahead is not what the market will do. but whether political forces will remain so preoccupied with the intra - government strife that no energy will be left for forays into the private sector.

Writing in Barron's ational Business And Financial Weekly, Alan Abelson summarized post election optimism. The results, he said, "Raises some interesting, even promising, possiblities. Not the least of which is that the victors will be consumed by quarreling over the spoils. and the vanquished so humbled by their defeat. that the nation will be blessed with benign neglect.

"Chances are, of course," he went on, "that we're not apt to be so lucky. Politicans are intrinsically vain and they can't reconcile themselves to the likelihood they were sent to Washington to get them out of the neighborhood. On this score, we were pleased to see that citizens in Nevada still retain their sense of decency by refusing to elect a certified madam to the state legislature. They are to be commended for saving a dear but obviously innocent lady from a fate worse than death.

And then he got to the nitty - gritty:

If the voters spoke with an awesome roar, it nonetheless is difficult to neglect!" The country could make out exactly what they __pull through.

The results (were) ... a bit like ... putting Mickey Mouse in charge of e cheese factory." We do not think it is possible to determine what the mandate was for Different voters had differen whims. But determining the mandate is not necessary. What the losing voters hoped for no longer counts. Moreover, what the winning voters expect never did count. The only significa ce of the voting process is that an activity occurred in which substantial numbers of persons supposed they were making a decision. Now that the activity has subsided. the appointive bureaucracy will continue to do what it has been doing all along. Nothing has changed except the minds of those who believed hat in voting they were managing thir own destiny. Having put a mark on a piece of paper, they now wait for the desired transformation to take place. The belief has about the same relation to reality that a pacifier bears to a bottle of milk. The two don't look or taste alike. but apparently to give an equal impression of satisfaction. In the meantime, the marketplace moves on just folks making things and swapping them with one another. That is not all that life holds, but it is a necessary and fulfilling fraction. Blessed be "benign

DEAR ABBY: That letter from "Fourth Time Around." who asks what her chances for success are with the same mate has prompted me to write.

I am an authority on the subject, having married the same man FIVE times."

The first time we were married we were just kids-16 and 17. Over a period of 38 years we were divorced and remarried five times. (We're divorced now.)

We couldn't live without each other. It was like a sickness. We were a couple of neurotics who needed each other to fight with. God, how we suffered! And our children suffered, too.

I'm alone now, and I miss him. But I'm better off without him. At least there are no more bloody noses and broken dishes. HAD IT IN ATLANTA

DEAR ABBY: I married Ed Twice. After 19 years I decided that I'd be better off alone. I had my choice of five grounds." (Marge, Nancy, Lucille, Peggy or Helen.)

Ed had done very well in business, and my lawyer got me a really good settlement. Two years later Ed started to court me. It was like old times-flowers, dinner dates, the whole bit. Like a fool I fell for it and married him again. It didn't take me long to realize that he was in big trouble at the bank and he only married me for my money. He didn't treat me any better the second time than he did the first, so I divorced him again, but it cost me a bundle. The only ones who came out ahead on the deal were the lawyers. BROKE IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR ABBY: I've been up to bat SEVEN times, but Number One, Three, Five and Seven were the same man. (I had three different husbands in between.)

Everybody thought we were crazy, and maybe we were, but each time we married somebody else we realized how much we loved each other. (My husband had only two other wives.)

This time it's going to last. He's 77, and I'm 76. TOGETHER IN SUN CITY

DEAR ABBY: "Fourth Time Around" must be crazy. I made the same mistake twice, and that was enough for me. "I always say, "A new broom sweeps clean." MILT

The 75 new Democrats, along with 216 carry-overs, meet in an unprecedented early party caucus today to get a jump on organizing the House before Congress convenes Jan. 14.

The 144 Republicans in the new House also meet today to decide a five-way race for whip, the No. 2 House GOP. leadership post, and a twoman contest for chairman of the GOP conference, the No. 3 spot

The Senate plans to do its organizing as usual after the new Congress convenes. Only House incumbents and new members can participate - retiring or defeated members are barred.

The executive committee of the Democratic Study Group, a private organization of about 150 moderate to liberal House Democrats, invited new Democrats to a reception Sunday to urge support of a series of reform proposals to be put to today's caucus:

-Take committee assignment power away from the Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee, who have traditionally had it, and give it to the Democratic Steering committee, a 21member group of leaders. -Enlarge Ways and Means, the tax-writing panel, from its present 25 members to at least 37. Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., supports enlargement to 31 members.

-Require that all recorded votes in closeddoor caucus sessions be made public.

BOSTON - Despite the initial difficulties faced by Boston in its attempts to comply with the racial balance act. the future, both of the city's schools in general and of racial balance itself, seems promising.

U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. has made it clear that his primary goal is to improve education for all students here, to do so in a manner as little disruptive as possible, and to remain as flexible as possible.

Garrity would like to increase the city's metropolitan education plan, which currently buses some 2,000 black students to suburban schools where enrollments have fallen in recent years. Metropolitanization is becoming a leading issue here. Many suburbanites resent the possibility of their tax dollars going to help educate inner-city children and yet, in areas where the plan has been in effect for years, it has worked well. One such area is Brighton, a suburb of Boston which in socioeconomic as well as ethnic population, closely resembles South Boston.

As one resident, a 41-yearold Irish Catholic woman puts it: "Like it or not, we're as much lace-curtain Irish as those in Southie. I graduated from Brighton High nearly 25 years ago, and they were busing in blacks from Dorchester then. My brother graduated from there, and so did my son, and busing never bothered us. I guess, with all the empty spaces we've got in the school, we can afford to open it up to others.'

Although the federal court ... has the power to order increased metropolitanization, it appears the court will not do so except as a last resort, in view of the 5-4 U.S. Supreme Court decision barring crossbusing between Detroit and its suburbs.

According to Jean McGuire. head of the Metco program, the initiative will have to come from the suburbs themselves.

What is more, any suburban school wanting to initiate such a program will have to prove to Metco that both the school and the community have a genuine interest in bringing

PAMPA DAILY NEWS Pampa, Texas 68th Year Monday, Dec. 2, 1974 TO SUCCEED TANAKA Candidate Picked For Japan Post

TOKYO (UPI) -American - educated diplomat Takeo Miki seemed certain today to succeed Kakuei Tanaka as Japan's prime minister despite lastditch resistance by some leaders of the ruling Liberal Democratic party Party sources said Miki appeared to have gained overwhelming backing for the post even though Finance Minister Masayoshi Ohira, a rival for prime minister, held back his support.

Top Kiwanis Leader Dies At Hereford

HEREFORD - Kiwanis leader Thomas W. Duncan, 52, of Dallas died of an apparent heart attack Sunday seconds before he was to address some 150 Kiwanis leaders assembled in the Hereford High School library

Duncan, who had been elected governor of the Texas - Oklahoma District of Kiwanis International two months ago, was sitting on the podium during the meeting's devotion when he was stricken.

His wife, Lois, was present and rushed to her husband's side when he slumped down in his wheelchair. Duncan was a polio victim

Duncan was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival at 9:50 a.m. Duncan was in Hereford to address Kiwanis leaders and officials from throughout West Texas in a one - day leadership training session.

Duncan, a graduate of Southern Methodist University and owner of an insurance agency in Dallas, had been in Kiwanis work 19 years.

LDP Vice President Etsusaburo Shiina met Sunday with four candidates seeking to succeed Tanaka and chose Miki as the most suitable. Tanaka resigned last Tuesday in the face of corruption charges.

"I recommended Mr. Miki because I thought he is most qualified among the four.' Shiina told newsmen. He described Miki as "a man of uprightness and courage." The 67-year-old Miki, a former foreign minister and deputy prime minister, said accepted the he recommendation and at the same time asked all other leaders for cooperation."

Two other candidates for prime minster -former Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda and Yasuhiro Nakosone, mihister of international trade and industry, quickly endorsed Miki Ohira, however, withheld his backing. He criticized the selection of Miki by just one man and called for a party election to fill the premiership.

Three top party leaders -Secretary General Susumu Nikaido, Executive Council Chairman Zenko Suzuki and Policy Affairs Chairman Sadanori Yamaka -threatened to resign because Miki was chosen without consulting them

Food is closely associated with our emotions. It is deeply rooted in our subconscious and our attitudes toward food has been nurtured since childhood

Copley News Service

Much of this emotional approach has been influenced by our parents and by ethnic mores.

We are born with instincts, but without formed habits. Habits begin to develop in infancy. To demonstrate this, observe how fussy and irritable a baby becomes when its routine is varied even slightly.

The warmth and love so needed by the tiny baby is naturally provided by the mother as well as the truly perfect food, milk. As the baby grows, his experiences with a variety of food are also linked to emotions.

Many foods evoke memories of the seasons. "Strawberry time" means spring and early summer. Turkey is associated with fall as well as are pumpkins. "Spring lamb" is habitual as is watermelon in the summer.

Depending on where you spent your childhood, ethnic foods revive memories and closely linked vearnings. The adult need for emotional fulfillment is unconsciously sought through the overindulgence in a certain food that may be linked to a childhood experience. A woman I know, of Latin American background, had grown up on highly seasoned foods. In later years she developed a duodenal ulcer and was forced to forgo her frequent intake of peppers.

Giving up this food caused her considerable emotional distress leading to depression. It was extremely difficult to convince her that they were not "good for her." She had been fed them by her mother and her mother wouldn't give her anything that wasn't good for her.

Many people will suffer the equivalent of "withdrawal symptoms" if certain foods are restricted, even temporarily. Fear is the ugly emotion expressed under these conditions. The grossly obese person who has substituted "sweets" for love will become angry and hostile if he or she is deprived.

Fear of starvation, stemming from a childhood of want when sufficient food was not available, will provide the impetus to overeat in adulthood. When food is suddenly restricted the subconscious

Monday, Dec. 2, 1974 will react to cause an "overcompensating" eating pattern.

Anger is also another emotion often evidenced in eating. The angry, hostile person will overeat specific foods as an expression of his anger and hostility.

Often this person unconsciously selects food that is crunchy or chewy - nuts, potato chips, hard candies, apples. These provide the means to "grind his teeth." This grinding and chewing provides an acceptable way to dispel his anger.

Sweet foods seem to have a soothing effect on emotional hurts or insults or slights. The attempt to relieve this with pies, cakes, chocolates and sweet drinks is fairly common.

If you find yourself overeating, or eating improperly, it will be helpful if you can identify the emotional cause. Maybe then you can start to overcome it by yourself. Dear Shirley:

Are sweet pickles permitted on your diet? I am told they are low in calories.

HEART LINE Watch calories and trim pounds

Copley News Service

Worrying about overweight is a popular American pastime, and rightly so. Being overweight does matter. It matters to one's health in general, and to one's heart in particular.

Overweight is one of the six risk factors which could lead to heart attack - the others being high levels of cholesterol in the blood, cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, lack of exercise, and diabetes.

Excess poundage puts undue strain on the human body, particularly the heart. Those who are overweight also seem to be more susceptible to certain other diseases, such as circulatory diseases and diabetes. In general, the weight that is desirable for a person in his mid-twenties is considered the best weight for later years, too.

Calories equal energy. Food is the source of energy for the body. When the foods we eat provide more energy than is needed to meet the daily demands of the body, this extra energy is stored in the body as fat. The term "calories" is commonly used to mean food energy.

In order to lose weight, one must eat fewer calories than his body burns for energy. Thus the body is forced to obtain the extra fuel it needs from the body's stored fat reserves (the extra, too much fat).

make her comfortable with this fact. She cited the fact as a cold statistic in an interview.

"Fifty per cent of married women in this country have jobs and 43 per cent of the work force is made up of women," she said.

In spite of this, she says, women are still hampered by certain problems. The most obvious is child care.

The obvious answer, she says, is in child care centers.

Mrs. Janeway has written two books on women's status, "Man's World, Woman's Place," and the very recent, "Between Myth and Morning, Women Awakening.'

The child care centers could be sponsored, she suggests, by large companies for their employes, and by smaller companies banding together. This is economically feasible, she says, if companies could get some kind of tax write-

Her idea of a child care center, however, goes far beyond the concept of a place to leave the children, but is tied up with her idea of a restructuring of society. It would not necessarily be a says. from each other and children are now being brought up without exposure to a wide variety of people - such as grandparents, people of varying ages, and, for much of the day, fathers. Children are not aware of much of life - particularly that part involving working.

In the preindustrial society, she says, the home was the scene of work as well as of living, and children and wives were a part of it.

While she has no idea of re-creating a preindustrial society, she does envision small towns centered around businesses, where there will be centers for children that are very much a part of the community.

Mrs. Janeway, who feels that the boundaries of the nuclear family today are too narrow for children, feels that many segments of the community could be drawn into the centers.

"There would have to be some professionals involved, but others - the elderly, and perhaps college students could also be used, and parents would be very much involved as well," she

Nations salute Yuletide By LEA BLAUVELT Copley News Service

Once more Christmas is stamping around the globe. The mailbags are already beginning to bulge and the postmen to groan. And, once again, the colors, beauty and the designs of the stamps franking the holiday mail vie strongly with those of the cards inside the envelopes. A little over a decade ago, Christmas moved out of the nursery and into the stamp album. Now, it is almost a universal custom for nations to issue special Christmas stamps

Cuba began a special "Navidades" series in 1951 and Australia initiated its Christmas series in 1957. By 1962, the United States had joined the growing parade of Noel saluters, with Canada coming in two years later. Starting as early as October, the special holiday stamps begin to be released by post offices throughout the world, growing to a regular snowfall by late November and early December. Some of those snowflakes follow:

Great Britain's 1973 Christmas stamps depict medieval interpretations of the Nativity, the Adoration of the Magi and the Virgin and Child found on church roof bosses done by craftsmen dating back to 1224.

On a 312-pence stamp appears The Adoration of the Magi, taken from a roof boss (the center of the vaulting ribs) in the nave of York Minster (1355). The Nativity, from a roof boss of the South Transept Chapel of the Church of St. Helen at Norwich (1480) is seen on the 41/2pence. Two versions of the Virgin and Child are portraved on the 8- and 10-pence stamps. The first is from the Chapel of the Church of Ottery St. Mary, Devon (1350) and the latter, from the East End of the Lady Chapel in Worcester Cathedral (1224).

Great Britain is also one of the growing number of countries issuing special Christmas aerograms for use bearing personal greetings and news at this time of the year. The 1974 one is a 7-pence one with the stamp imprint illustrating the Christmas carol, "We Three Kings of the Orient Are." The front panel and the back show scenes from "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by

Camera case may make gift

Only a properly instructed Santa Claus should consider buying a camera for the skilled photographer who, normally, has some fairly definite feelings about the equipment he needs.

But it is quite possible to buy a longed-for lens for a camera already owned - if you can find out what it is. And there are all kinds of gadgets and accessories alphotographer is forced to

They hold too much - and the tendency of a conscientious photographer is to fill them up until it takes a pack mule to carry one. The most practical cases generally are those which (1)

But the handiest case he can own is a small-to-medium size gadget bag that allows him to put a camera, a couple of lenses, and extra film where it is handy, then hang a camera round his neck - or on a shoulder - and go to work. If it is mostly outside shooting only a small flash unit may be required and that can -be attached to the camera to use as a "light fill" or to make a closeup from the "shadow side" using the sun for a back or side light

AIR CHALLENGE Mock dogfight proposed for $3.5 billion stake

Monday, Dec. 2, 1974

By FRANK MACOMBER Copley News Service

PAMPA D'AILY NEWS

Pampa, Texas

A mock aerial dogfight between American- and European-built fighter planes? It sounds incredible, yet it's not impossible. Of course no pilots or airplanes would suffer, for each side would shoot "blanks" with photo guns during the air battle

French aircraft producer Marcel Dessault issued the challenge after Gen. Paul Stehlin, a former French air force chief of staff and a member of the French Parliament, said American technology was superior to that of France and that the American-built YF-16 and YF-17 were better fighters than the French Mirage built by Dassault-Breguet.

The General Dynamicsbuilt YF-16 and the Northrop YF-17 Cobra are lightweight, low-cost fighters presently undergoing tests for the U.S. Air Force at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The French entry, if an international air competition should develop, would be the Mirage F1 built by Dassault-Breguet and powered by a new M53 jet engine.

Outraged by Gen. Stehlin's claims, Dassault said he is ready to put his Mirage up against the American entries to prove the French plane's superiority. He added the Swedish SAAB Viggen jet fighter should compete, too, because it is "an excellent plane.' At stake is a $3.5 billion-plus contract for the winner in this strange international rivalry - a pact to sell 350 jet fighters to a NATO consortium of Holland, Denmark, Norway and Belgium.

General Dynamics and Northrop, for political reasons, decline comment on the proposed dogfight. The Air Force in January is expected to select one of their fighters for production of up to 650 planes as a complement to the higher-priced F-15 Eagle, or possibly a "mix" of the two aircraft, since each is performing well during flight tests. Air Force officials indicate an invitation for a mock air battle with the Mirage, but only if they were asked to do so by the NATO consortium. So far it has not reacted to the suggestion.

they at least would consider

Gen. Stehlin resigned as vice president of the National Assembly in the face of accusations that he had damaged French prestige by urging Europeans to buy U.S. jet fighters in preference to the Mirage.

Gen. Stehlin, however, emphasized that his report to the French government that American jets were superior to the French also included a proposal that the U.S. planes be built under license in France.

But his critics ignored that, the soldier-politician charged. He even was charged with being an advocate of Ameri-

AG EXPERT SAYS Beef Import Controls Expected year show actual shipments

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Import controls of some type for beef in 1975 now appear to be a virtual certainty, an Agriculture Department expert says. The private forecast by the government specialist was based on his belief that an official announcement due later this month will show that if controls are not imposed, imports will rise above the level at which President Ford has publicly promised to impose restraints.

Ford, in a farm belt speech during the recent Congressional campaign. said he would act to put a ceiling on beef imports for the protection of American cattlemen -- if the Agriculture Department estimated that 1975 imports were likely to exceed a "trigger" level specified by the currently-dormant federal meat import control That "trigger" point, according to the expert interviewed here, will be about 1.182 billion pounds of fresh, chilled or frozen beef, veal and mutton. The specialist said that although 1974 imports almost certainly will be below that level, it now appears very likely that 1975 shipments will exceed the trigger. Ford has left himself two options for action if the forecast is confirmed later this month. He said he might impose controls at the level required by the federal import law - a total of 1.973 billion pounds but as an alternative, Ford added, he might negotiate a system of voluntary shipping restraints with beef exporting countries including Australia and New Zealand.

Pampa's

Business is good here at Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet and we're proud of our nearly 48 years of continuous service to the people of Pampa and vicinity. Our volume in 1974 is greater than ever in new and used cars and trucks - service and party - body shop - leasing and rentals - financing and insurance.

We believe that the 1975 Chevrolet is the greatest buy of all time. The price is higher, but, they operate better, the maintenance is lower and the fuel economy is greater. You save money on your mileage.

We are proud of our dealership and its experienced employees who are customer oriented. Now is the time to buy a new car-you will help yourself and many others.

WASHINGTON - An allpervasive lassitude seems to have settled over this city and left the White House, Congress and the nation without the ability to react effectively to impending crises or to shed old ideas that no longer work well Prices soar, unemployment increases, production drops and recession arrives, trailing the specter of potential depression in its wake. But no worthwhile program has been articulated by either party to deal with it. World oil prices quadruple, the Western industrialized na-

with reality. tions are stripped of $60 billion One is the widespread belief to $100 billion of their wealth that the federal budget is full annually, the world's moneof fat, and that all Washington tary system creaks and groans under the strain, nafor inflation to subside and the tional bankruptcies become economy to prosper.

For decades, political budget crusaders have marched onto this field of battle, always to come away with few results. The cuts prove to be mainly delays of spending rather than reductions.

This does not divert those Perhaps central to that inwho rail about the giveaways of welfare, Medicaid, food ability is the dogged pursuance of old concepts that stamps, the claimed wastefulness of the Pentagon budget might have once been valid but today seem out of touch and other similar targets.

an effective cure for nation's ills

The only logical conclusion is that the federal budget is not full of fat. In recent years it has actually been fairly lean. A $5 billion reduction is about the most that can be hoped for. In a trillion-dollar economy, that has about as much impact on inflation as trying to dam the ocean with a

Another possibility: if it is not the expenditure side of the federal budget that is out of whack, it must be the revenue

It is not difficult to bolster this idea. Tax cuts in 1964, 1969 and again in 1971 have removed the equivalent of some $40 billion in annual revenue from the U.S. Treasury in today's dollars

And that $40 billion could go a long way each year toward fighting inflation or financing massive new investments in such critical shortage areas as steel, fertilizer and energy production.

The loss of revenue has also played a significant role in creating today's 12 per cent inflation. The money lost since 1964 would have been enough to wipe out most if not all of the 10 budget deficits the United States has incurred in the last 11 years.

If it is true that the federal government is not raising enough revenue, this in turn suggests another disturbing conclusion - that the nation needs a tax increase and probably a very large one.
