Industrial Burn Seminar Urges Fire Prevention

The Industrial Burn seminar, sponsored jointly by the Burn Institute of Baton Rouge, La., and the Fire Prevention Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, conducted its first session last night in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room with 26 persons enrolled for the three-day course.

The first session dealt primarily with fundamentals of the course, stressing need for a national fire prevention code. It was pointed out that the United States has a higher death rate, caused by fires, than any other country in the world. More than 12,000 persons lose their lives from fires annually in the U.S.

Ford, Schmidt Meeting Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford welcomes West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt to the White House today for the first in a series of sessions with allied partners about European economic and defense problems.

Ford will meet for three days, late next week in Martinique with French President Giscard d'Estaing to further bolster traditional U.S. ties with European allies.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will also consult with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson early next year.

Schmidt, who arrived in Washington Wednesday, was to be formally welcomed at the White House today before sitting down with Ford and later with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Schmidt will be guest of honor at a black-tie state dinner in the evening.

Ford also planned today to review his fiscal 1976 budget proposals and talk to aides about the legislative program for the 94th Congress.

Wednesday, Ford met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and talked about Canada's plans to phase out oil exports to the United States. But there was no indication the policy would be changed.

Still, all seemed amenable. Trudeau described the talks "great" and Ford called them "excellent."

Dr. R.A. Kolvoord, director of the Burn Institute, a non-profit organization, is the coordinating instructor in the practical course, dealing with latest techniques and strategies in fire and burn accident prevention. Dr. Jon King, of Houston, is assisting Dr. Kolvoord.

Seminar hours today and Friday are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. All sessions are being held in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

The following were in attendance at the first session last night: City of Pampa — Carl Mann and Fire Chief, Finace Dyer; Phillips Petroleum Co., Borger — J.L. Pierson; Diamond Shamrock, Sunray — Virgil Sumpter; Cabot Corp. — Morris A. Powell, Earl Farley, Neal Stovall, Dean Wyatt, and Dave Redus.

Cabot Machinery Division — Bill Robinson, Harold Lewis, and Elvis Duck.

Lake Meredith Recreational Area — Michael D. Smith; Celanese Chemical Co. — Courtney Broddus, James White, David Clark, Helen Sweet, Cal Barbaree, and Homer Thomas.

Highland General Hospital — George Ford and J.J. Roach; Pampa School System — Don Nelson; Medical Park Convalescent Center, Amarillo — Lloyd Nollner; Fraser Insurance Co. — Lee Fraser; Dr. Raymond Laycock — Laycock Clinic, and E.O. Wedgeworth — manager, Chamber of Commerce.

The seminar is sponsored jointly by the Burn Institute of Baton Rouge, La., and the Fire Prevention Committee of the local chamber.

The committee responsible for all local arrangements includes: Lee Fraser, chairman; Dr. Raymond Laycock, Homer Thomas, Celanese; Dave Redus, Cabot, and E.O. Wedgeworth, manager, Chamber.

RETURNING HOME

Cattlemen Fail To Meet Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of the new 100,000-member Independent Cattlemen's Association, unhappy they were unable to meet with President Ford and urge him to act to ease some of the nation's farm problems, planned today to return to Texas.

Spokesmen for the Texas-based ICA carried a plan to the White House Wednesday but could not meet with Ford and left without disclosing it.

T. A. Cunningham of Goliad, Tex., president of the organization with members in 18 states, said he and other members wanted to ask Ford to order a reduction in beef imports.

Cunningham said the group also wanted to urge Ford to require only American-raised beef be served to the armed forces and school children, to set up an agricultural advisory board of knowledgeable farmers, and to promote exports of American beef.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Buttz was described as "the worst thing that ever happened to agriculture" by Cunningham. He said his rap at Buttz was based partly on Buttz' call for all-out food production without apparent consideration of the risks of low prices for farmers.

Cunningham and other association members arrived at the White House at 2 p.m. believing they were scheduled to see Ford. Instead, they were met by an official of the White House Domestic Council who said there had been a misunderstanding and that he — not Ford — was to meet the cattlemen.

Cunningham said the association leaders refused to give their farm plan to the aide. Norman Ross, said they would be "available" if Ford wanted to meet with them later.

Cunningham said he planned to return home after two days of meetings which included House Speaker Carl Albert and GOP Senate Leader Hugh Scott.

"We're not calf-killers, but we're very alarmed," Cunningham said.

"We're getting $70 to $80 now for calves that cost us $230 to produce... we have cows that were worth $600 two years ago and are worth $150 now," he said.

Miners Okay Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller today signed a new, three-year contract with the coal industry and then ordered the nation's 120,000 miners to return to work, ending a strike that began Nov. 12.

Miller told a news conference that the miners ratified the pact by a vote of 44,754 to 34,741 — a margin of 56 to 44 per cent in favor.

Miller said the miners would begin returning to work at 12:01 a.m. EST. Friday.

A spokesman for the coal industry called the new contract a "very forward-looking agreement."

Miller said he does not consider the new contract, which calls for a 64 per cent boost in wages and fringe benefits over the next three years, to be "inflationary."

He also said that the miners who voted against the contract "will accept the majority rule" and return to work.

Asked if the union thought the price of coal would go up in order to pay for the new contract, Miller said: "We don't know how much it will go up. I don't think it requires (higher prices) but I'm not saying they (the companies) won't raise the price of coal."

"I'm hopeful that in the future we can reach an agreement" without a strike, Miller said. He said he was aware of the impact of the strike on other industries and the nation's economy "but it could have been worse."

N.T. Camicia, chairman of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said in a statement immediately following the signing that the coal mine operators are "naturally pleased that the new agreement has been ratified by the mine workers."

He also said the membership of his association has also approved the new pact.

"The new three year contract, while a very costly one for the industry, is a very forward-looking agreement and will be of great benefit to the miners."

The contract provides the miners with an immediate $80 "catch-up" bonus payment, a 10 per cent pay increase this year and 4 per cent and 3 per cent in the following two years.

The miners will have for the first time a cost of living clause which will provide a penny-an-hour increase for each 0.4 rise in the government's Consumer Price Index, up to 8 per cent. For the first time, miners will get paid sick leave.

GOES BACK TO SENATE

House Passes Antibusing Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed a bill forbidding use of new federal funds to enforce busing or reassignment of students and teachers in order to desegregate schools.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said Wednesday's vote would effectively bar his department from enforcing desegregation under the 1964 Civil Rights Act. He predicted that if the bill becomes law it is "certain to be presented to the courts."

The action came on a compromise HEW appropriations bill, which now goes back to the Senate for approval. The vote was 212 to 176.

The Senate version did not contain the anti-busing provision, sponsored by Rep. Marjorie Holt, R-Md., and if that body refuses to go along with the conference committee report passed by the House, a new compromise must be worked out on the $5.8 billion supplemental funding measure.

In other developments Wednesday:

—The Senate voted 46 to 45 approval of a $2.7 billion foreign aid bill, which would cut off military aid to Turkey unless there is progress by mid-February on Cyprus peace talks.

—The House Education and Labor Committee unanimously approved a bill providing $2 billion to help cities and states provide jobs for unemployed workers.

—Embattled House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills was reported under heavy sedation in a hospital and Speaker Carl Albert said Mills would not remain head of the powerful tax-writing committee.

—Ways and Means Democrats rebelled against reform moves by the new and more liberal Democratic caucus by insisting on organizing subcommittees now, rather than waiting until January when that power goes to the caucus.

—The House voted to force President Ford to spend $540 million of the $657.6 million he wanted to cut from his budget. It was the first use of the Impoundment Control Act Congress passed earlier this year to prevent a president from refusing to spend appropriated money.

—Ford formally asked Congress to spend the $813.7 million needed to finance the veterans benefits bill it passed over his veto Tuesday.

DENIES REQUEST

Sirica Rejects Delaying Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today denied a request by the Watergate cover-up defendants for permission to take a deposition from former President Richard M. Nixon beginning Jan. 6, and ordered the trial to proceed without interruption.

Sirica's ruling did not cover his own suggestion that the ailing former President possibly could be asked to answer written questions. That suggestion is awaiting the report of the court-appointed panel of medical specialists.

The ruling means that the trial probably will be finished by Christmas, an objective the Sirica has held for several months.

Nixon's lawyers said today that although he may be well enough to answer questions Jan. 6, he will not be prepared.

The missing ingredient in this proposed timetable is the ability of Mr. Nixon, and the necessary time coupled with the ability, to carefully review tapes, documents, so as to be prepared to answer fully and completely the interrogation proposed by defendant Ehrlichman and others," Miller said.

"Thus Mr. Nixon may be able healthwise to give a deposition on Jan. 6, 1975, but he is not and will not be able to prepare to give a deposition prior to that date."

Ehrlichman, Nixon's former No. 2 White House aide, has asked Sirica to allow the now-sequestered jury to go home for the Christmas holidays and summon them back when Nixon is ready to testify.

Meeting Planned For 'Tax Revolt'

By TEX DEWESE

A tax revolt that has been taking hold across the nation for some time and more recently in several Texas cities will be the subject of discussion at a tax study meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. today in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank & Trust Co.

Howell C. Willis of Dallas, on temporary assignment with Cabot Corp. in Pampa, is chairman of the Citizens for Constitutional Compliance, sponsoring tonight's meeting.

Willis, who has been active in a similar movement in Dallas, said tonight's speaker will be Ralph Olmstead of Plainview, one of the leaders in the tax rebellion action there.

The meeting will be open to the public, Willis said, and interested persons are urged to attend. He added there is no membership fee involved.

Willis issued the following statement in explanation concerning the nation-wide aims of the tax revolt:

"It is growing by leaps and bounds. The fires of revolt are being fueled by those who honor the American Founding Fathers, who believe in our Constitution and are willing to fight for its preservation."

"Heavily involved is the great but virtually silent majority who have always paid the taxes, supported themselves and their families, caused no trouble for the police, asked no favors or subsidies from government, but are nevertheless forced to meet ever-increasing demands of a huge political superstructure and a wasteful bureaucracy which repays them with empty promises."

"It is arousing that sleeping giant, the Middle Class, which is gradually learning that government, especially at the federal level, is fearfully venal and corrupt and should be denied the power to extort untold millions in taxes to be used for perversion of the Constitution and destruction of individual liberty."

"Its leaders insist that the American Tax Revolt is in no sense a movement to overthrow the law; on the contrary its purpose is to enforce the Constitution against those who would destroy it. Its aim is to re-establish ideals and principles which are not as yet utterly extinguished even if the Constitution has been shamelessly ignored. Tax rebels only seek to restore our American heritage."

Willis, who resides at 406 N. Somerville, said the tax revolt movement now is active in Dallas, Houston, Midland, Odessa, Plainview, Crane and several other Texas cities.

"We believe the same interest will be aroused here in Pampa," he said.

C-C To Have PUF Program

A program dedicated to the United Fund cause in Pampa will feature the December membership luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at 12 noon Monday in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

C.E. Steel, chamber president, said special recognition will be given to UF leaders for surpassing the $101,000 goal for 1974.

Recognition also will include a brief history of the United Fund in Pampa along with the story of local civic leaders who led the way in its organization.

Chamber officials urged that luncheon reservations be made as soon as possible. The deadline will be 10 a.m. Monday.

Keys On The Way Out

As laissez-faire economists have long maintained, profits are not made in a free market economy by adding to the selling prices of goods and services (competition rules that out), but by cutting overhead operating costs.

Thus, as is often the case, a company which has discovered a more efficient method of operation may actually be UNDER-pricing its competitor and making a profit while the competitor, satisfied with its "business as usual" method of operation, may be operating in the red and going bankrupt although asking a high price for its products or service.

Cognizant of this never-ceasing search in the business community for ways to increase efficiency and keep costs down, innovators and inventors in the marketplace are very alert for opportunities which can be turned to their own advantage and profit.

The ADT Security Systems of New York City, as commented on in the November issue of Nation's Business magazine, is a typical case in point.

Noting the rising frequency of hotel rooms being robbed and, at the same time, the complaints of hotel managers at the costs of replacing room door keys taken off by departing guests, the ADT people decided to do something about it.

That "something" turned out to be "Cardgram," and electronic system that does away with the door locks and keys now generally used in hotels. According to Nation's Business, "Cardgram" works like this:

A guest checking into a hotel (or motel; for that matter) receives a plastic card that has a series of hole punched in it by a machine at the desk. At the same time a duplicate card is punched and inserted into a master console.

When entering his, or her, room the hotel guest simply inserts the card into a special sensing device in the door which electronically compares with the card downstairs in the master console. If they match, the door opens. If they don't, it doesn't. Moreover, if the sensor is tampered with, an alarm goes off.

When the guest checks out, the card is discarded and the next guest using the room gets a new card with a different code.

According to the engineers who developed the system, over 2.25 million combinations of codes can be used, which severely limits the possibility of chance duplication of cards.

Results: The hotels making use of "Cardgram" are spared the costs of replacing keys taken away by guests gain increasing their profit potential, and hotel guests gain increased security against being robbed by former "guests" making us of those missing keys.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a grandmother who met a young couple at the home of a mutual friend. I liked the young man, but his wife is simply awful! She talks incessantly and never says anything. She is also a phony. She claims to "love" ballet, art, opera, literature—you name it, and she's an "expert"—but after listening to her for a few minutes, it's apparent she doesn't know much. She is also pushy and her never-ending chatter is punctuated with obscenities, which I detest.

This couple dropped in on me without phoning first. I was shocked, but didn't want to be rude. I should have been, because they dropped in on me again, and stayed and stayed and stayed. Then they told me they had bought property very near me because they loved the area!

Abby, how do I tell them to please leave me alone? I could tolerate an occasional visit, but when they become neighbors I will be robbed of my cherished privacy. Should I tell him? Or her? And how do I phrase it? I can't say, "Please forget that you know me. I cannot stand you!"

ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR ORANGE: Tell THEM that you are not the "dropping in" kind of neighbor and do not appreciate folks who drop in without calling first. Admit to being a bit of a "nut" on the subject to the point of being thought anti-social—but do let them know you are not kidding.

DEAR ABBY: My husband loves to hunt, and he gets positively rabid when anyone mentions any kind of gun control.

I've always hated guns, and think that handguns should not be manufactured except for use by law enforcers.

The other day my husband came home with bumper stickers on our new car. They said: "Guns don't kill people. People kill people."

I finally had to agree that those bumper stickers made a lot of sense. No?

SOOTHED IN SYRACUSE

DEAR SOOTHED: Prepare to become unsoothed. That bumper sticker should read, "Guns don't kill people, but people with guns kill people." Run that through your old rifle barrel a couple of times.

DEAR ABBY: Like so many others, I never expected to be writing a "Dear Abby" letter because I thought I had the perfect marriage.

I would like to tell every wife whose husband works away from home to go with him because if she doesn't, another woman is waiting to step into her shoes.

My husband worked away from home for the last three years, but he drove 100 miles extra every day so he could spend every night at home with me.

Well, six months ago he started to call me around 5 P.M. saying he was too tired to make the drive home. Finally, he confessed that he met another woman and he thinks he's in love with her. He says he can't make up his mind between us, so we are sharing him.

I can't tell you what I have been going through, Abby. I don't know whether to tell him to stay with her and not come back, or what. My best friend says I should kick him out. My sister says to share him until he gets tired of her.

If I ever get my husband back I will be like Ruth in the Bible. What should I do?

J. IN FLORIDA

DEAR J: Don't make any decisions now that you might later regret. You don't say how long you've been married, or if there are children. (That could make a difference.) Get some counseling. This is too heavy to handle alone, and friends tend to tell you what they think you want to hear.

Does A Tree Possess Any Legal Right?

By C.R. BATTEN

Contemporary public concern for protecting nature's ecological equilibrium should lead to the conferral of standing upon environmental objects to sue for their own preservation. The "standing" referred to is the legal right to sue in court on one's own behalf.

Those words were written by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas in his dissenting opinion in the famous Mineral King Case. The Sierra Club has sued the Secretary of Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture to prevent the construction of a resort in the Mineral King Valley.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals had noted "that there was no allegation in the complaint that members of the Sierra Club would be affected by the actions of (the respondents) other than the fact that the actions are personally displeasing or distasteful to them."

"We do not believe such club concern without a showing of more direct interest can constitute standing in the legal sense sufficient to challenge the exercise of responsibilities on behalf of all the citizens by two cabinet level officials of the government acting under Congressional and Constitutional authority," said the Appeals Court.

The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the court of Appeals but Justice Douglas dissented. As a ship or a corporation have standing, so should valleys, alpine meadows, rivers, lakes, estuaries, beaches, ridges, groves of trees, swampland, or even air that feels the destructive pressures of modern technology and modern life. The river as plaintiff speaks for that part of it. Those people who have a meaningful relation to that body of water—whether it be a fisherman, a canoeist, a zoologist, or a logger—must be able to speak for the values which the river represents and which are threatened with destruction.

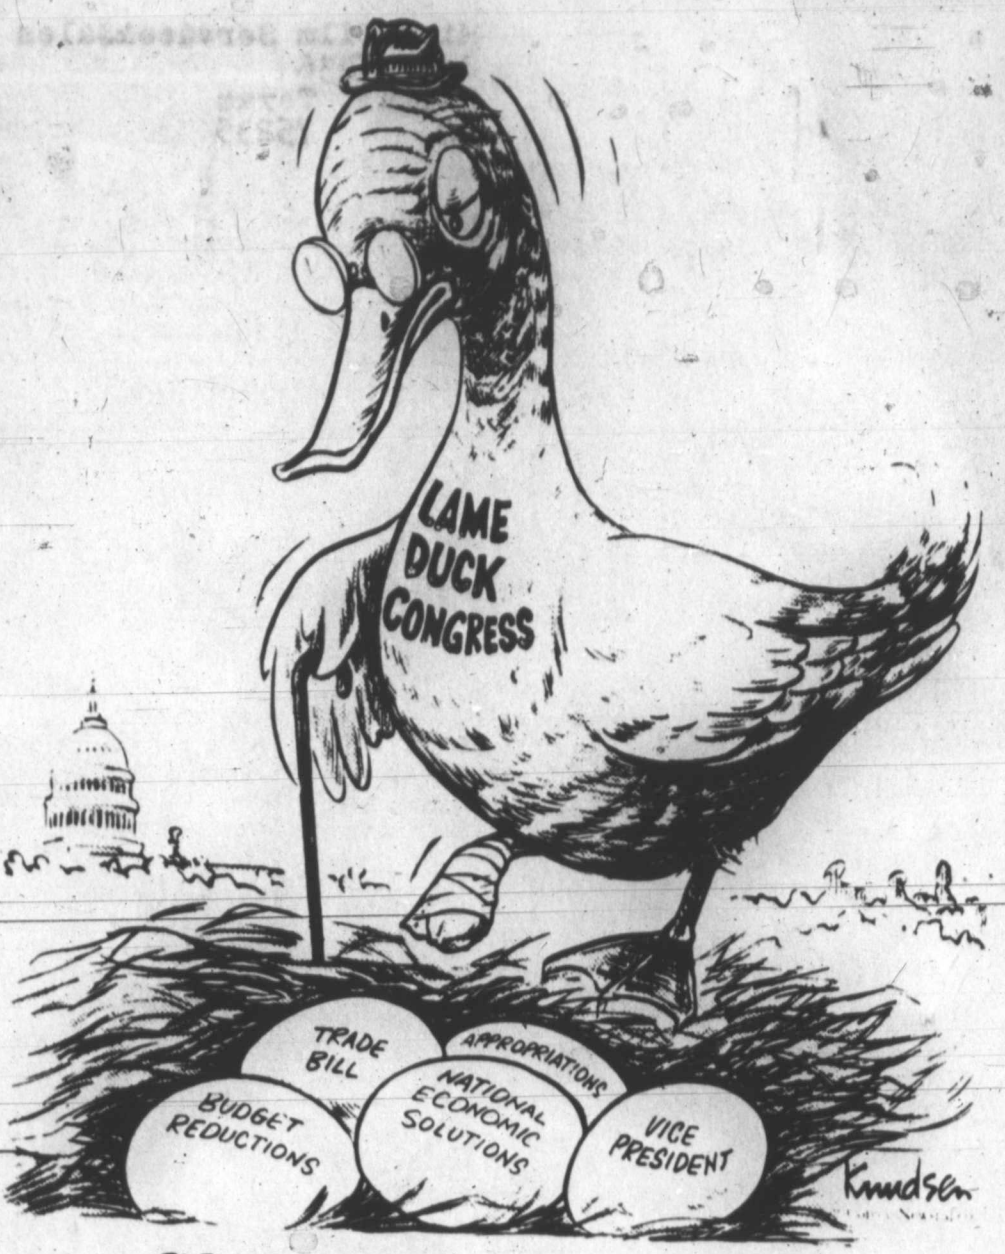

Dr. Christopher D. Stone describes this idea at length in his book Should Trees Have Standing? Toward Legal Rights for Natural Objects, from which these quotations were taken.

The proposed new doctrine has been widely embraced by environmental attorneys and preservationists. It offers a new method of virtually stopping any and all development. It is the ultimate in the search by some to find ways of imposing their personal values onto others. It would deny any ownership of natural resources, on which all man's activities are based, and his very life depends.

Stone has proposed that a "friend" of some natural object that is "endangered" could apply to a court to create a guardianship. The "friend" or some organization (such as the Sierra Club) could be appointed guardian of that tree or rock, and could sue in court in its behalf.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Odd Couple: Ford And Meany

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — There are an ex-star football center and an ex-Bronx sandlot baseball utility player searching around town for a game plan to block off $1-a-pound sugar and $1-a-loaf bread. They're the new odd couple Jerry Ford and George Meany.

They scarcely knew each other a year ago. But now the Republican President and the labor chief get on very well, indeed.

Fact is, Meany could have an ambassadorship with the flick of one of his famous cigars. Mr. Ford asked Meany to represent the U.S. at last week's funeral of the late Irish President Erskine Childers. But Mrs. Meany is ill, and her husband declined.

As for the game plan — unfortunately there still isn't one. Last Wednesday afternoon (Nov. 20) White House economic operations chief coordinator William Seidman dropped in on the AFL-CIO for a half-hour conference with president Meany and labor's second-in-command Lane Kirkland. It can be revealed. No doubt at the suggestion of President Ford.

The President, via Seidman, wanted to know just what labor thought could crack inflation — without wage — price controls. There was much confidential talk of the economy and of the heavy layoffs. Meany did think part of the answer was in giving the construction industry a multi-billion-dollar shot in the arm. And it will happen.

As for controls Meany doesn't want the Congress to put "the monkey" on President Ford's back. That's why the labor chief is grumpy with his own "People's Congress." Labor leaders want the Congress to spell it all out, and very specifically write it into any law they pass. Meany doesn't want "standbys" (controls) which would give the President wide stabilization power.

This simply would position Jerry Ford politically as the nation catapults into a presidential election season.

I believe there's considerable political significance in Meany's stance. He's hanging loose. He's not permitting the Democratic party, "People's Congress" or not, to take the powerful AFL-CIO political machinery for granted between now and the mini and major conventions. The last time the crusty labor chief hung loose, the AFL-CIO went neutral. History did the labor federation in. But they did help douse Sen. McGovern, and many of the labor federation chiefs consider this a giant plus. And Jerry Ford isn't about to Make Dick Nixon-type of history. So there's no telling where labor officially will be in 1976.

But the search for the anti-inflation game plan rolls on. Roaming anonymously in the backfield is Harvard's Dean John Dunlop. He's the man to watch.

Actually Dunlop is calling whatever signals there are out in the field. He's been talking at considerable length with the country's most powerful labor chiefs and some industrialists. First it was the 3.5 million-member AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Dept. president Bob Georgine. Then other union officials who lead additional millions of militant workers.

Prof. Dunlop's game plan, it appears from those with whom he has sat for hours, is to get those labor leaders to "monitor" the wage negotiations in their fields — industry by industry. Thus, this would mean setting up a series of labor-management committees to urge unions and companies to moderate wage increases and price hikes respectively.

It would all be voluntary. So it isn't easy. There would have to be a series of labor-management boards, region by region as well as industry by industry. Local labor leaders aren't about to take much advice from the men on top here in the capital.

Look at the coal crisis, for example: there still isn't any inkling of the rank and file's attitude on ratification of what I believe to be one of the most fantastic compacts ever offered any union by an industry. It's very costly. Runs into the billions over three years. Could be at least four to five billion dollars in wage-fringe increases.

Actually the current estimate in the highest White House circles, which pushed for it so there wouldn't be any further spread of allied joblessness, is a 55 percent increase over three years. And that's without the cost-of-living gimmick which could add another 10 to 15 percent. And that's before overtime.

Typical cost-of-living contract clause labor costs is what has just happened in the aluminum industry. Their cost-of-living allowance has added $17.20 a week more per man in wages in less than one year. It has built in tension springs.

No game plan appears possible. But the new odd couple and their advisers will keep searching.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE I LOST THE ELECTION. I WAS AN INNOCENT VICTIM OF THE WATERGATE BACKWASH."

Who Gives A Hoot What The UN Says Or Does?

By WILLIAM RUSHER

If I were the government of South Africa, I would be sorely tempted to respond to the recent vote of the UN General Assembly, barring South Africa from voting or participating in this Assembly session, by withdrawing from the world organization altogether and telling it to go jump in the conveniently adjacent East River.

It is a constant source of amazement to me how seriously the UN appears to be taken by various grown-up countries that ought to know better. Since approximately 1960, when it was taken over by the so-called "Third World" as a result of a heavy influx of new colonial nations that had sprung up in Africa, the UN has served largely as a source of comfortable and remunerative employment for various lucky politicians who have outgrown the delights of Addis Ababa and Ougadougou, and as a novel, off-Broadway amusement for jaded New Yorkers in search of kinky fun.

Yet, save in a handful of the world's really important capitals, it is often seriously supposed, even by mature governments and peoples like those of South Africa, that the "deliberations" and votes of this comedic extravaganza really matter.

I can understand why the citizens of, say, Chad or Yemen might be favorably impressed with an organization willing to treat them as recognizable countries, and downright thrilled to learn that their ambassador to the UN has contrived to wind up on the winning side of a vote. And I can certainly see the utility of the organization from the standpoint of somebody like Yasir Arafat, who is desperately seeking recognition and national status for his refugee Palestinians. But why on earth should any substantial existing government give a hoot what the UN does or says?

The latest and zaniest habit into which this little forum has fallen is withholding or withdrawing diplomatic recognition from sovereign governments, and/or conferring it on various guerrilla movements, depending on whether it happens to like them. Thus the government of Rhodesia has never been admitted to the UN at all, though it presides over one of the pleasantest and (for blacks and whites alike) most prosperous regions in all Africa. And the government of the Republic of China on Taiwan was summarily dis-recognized in October 1971, despite the fact that its population of over 14 million people (larger than that of 4 of all UN members) enjoys a level of democracy, let alone prosperity, exceeded in the Far East only by Japan.

More recently, warning to this new parlor game, the UN has been gravely considering whether it should withdraw the accreditation of the government of Cambodia and confer it instead on the Communist Khmer Rouge, whose jungle fighters frequently penetrate to within 5 or 10 miles of Phnom Penh.

Also, it is quite likely that before long the Talleys of East 43rd St. will recognize something called the Government of Namibia — though it will have to be a government in exile, since South West Africa (which is Namibia's real name) is currently administered by the republic of South Africa. And it is by no means impossible that one of these days the UN will declare Puerto Rico independent of the United States, and accredit as its representatives the spokesmen of the Puerto Rican independence movement, which regularly polls 3 or 4 percent in referendums on whether the islanders want to cut their ties with Uncle Sam.

Some while back, Indonesia for some reason — I forget what — pulled out of the UN altogether, and stayed out for several years. Switzerland has never bothered to join. Yet the sun rises quite regularly over these lovely lands, and life goes on. South Africa would do well to consider their example.

Of course I realize that it is useful, both to South Africa and to its noisy tormentors in the UN, to have a comfortable lounge or bar where certain little — shall we say? — arrangements can be entered into, even while the yacking is still going on in the General Assembly upstairs. But is that really worth the appearance of importance that South Africa, by seeming to care about the UN, confers on its antics? I seriously doubt it.

Since we refused to recognize Cuba, we'll be getting our lumps — and it's not sugar.

Now that Congress freedom the veto on the Freedom of Information Act, there's less chance of a Christmas party being stamped "Top Secret."

The way the economy has been going, Rockefeller is an anxious to become VP because he'll need the extra income.

The White House kept its promise about an "open administration." Policy decisions go from one office into the next and out the window.

At the pace Congress has been waddling around, it's hard to tell which are the lame ducks.

Kissinger described the Russian meeting as a "breakthrough" on nuclear arms. Neither side will build any until the prices come down.

Despite Thanksgiving, the White House still couldn't seem to bring itself to get rid of the Nixon turkeys.

SMOOTH AND SAVORY Salmon Loaf makes a delicious change of pace for the family menu.

For a Change of Pace Try Cooking Up Something New

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
IT'S TIME to get away from ho-hum menus and come up with recipes that tempt the appetite because they're out of the ordinary. Here are four that will add variety and good eating to December meals.
If you've forgotten how good a salmon loaf can be, it's time to refresh your memory. This one is smooth and savory. Pimiento-stuffed olives give it a touch of color and appealing tang.

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
In small saucepan, combine sour cream, egg yolks, salt and lemon juice. Heat over low heat just until hot, stirring constantly. Do not boil.
Soup and sandwich suppers are economical. The soup should be as hearty as this one and, for convenience, as quickly made. Serve with a grilled cheese sandwich and call it supper.

SALMON OLIVE LOAF
2 cans (16 ounces each) salmon
3 cups fresh bread crumbs (about 6 slices)
1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Dash pepper
3 eggs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Lemon Sauce*
Pimiento-stuffed olives
Lemon wedges
Parsley

HEARTY SUPPER SOUP
2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cups water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas
1/2 pound cooked ham, cut in julienne strips (about 1-1/3 cups)
1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

Drain salmon, reserving 1/2 cup liquid.
In a large bowl, combine salmon, bread crumbs, olives, celery, onion, parsley, mustard and pepper. Beat together 1 egg and 2 egg whites; reserving 2 yolks for Lemon Sauce. Stir in reserved salmon liquid and lemon juice. Add egg mixture to salmon mixture; mix until well combined.

Blend soup, water, lemon juice and seasonings in 3-quart saucepan; add frozen peas. Bring mixture to a boil; cover and simmer, 10 minutes. Add ham, olives and eggs; cook just until heated through. Serve soup in large bowls. Serves 6.
Next time you serve soup, serve them special with:

ORANGE NUTMEG BUTTER
3/4 cup (6 ounces) butter
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Salt and pepper to taste
4 medium Louisiana yams, cooked and peeled or 2 cans (16 or 17-ounces

LOUISIANA YAM CAULIFLOWER CASSEROLE
3/4 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup sliced onion
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/4 cups grated Cheddar cheese
4 medium Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and sliced or 2 cans (16 or 17-ounces each) Louisiana yams, drained
1 cup cooked, fresh cauliflower (about 3/4 pound raw) or 1 package (10-ounces) frozen cauliflower, cooked and drained

LEMON SAUCE
1 cup sour cream
2 egg yolks

In saucepan, saute celery and onion in butter until crisp-tender. Quickly stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk; cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils 1 minute. Stir in seasonings and 1 cup cheese. Cook, stirring, until cheese melts.
Pour 1-1/2 cups sauce into 2-quart casserole; arrange yams and cauliflower on sauce. Drizzle over remaining sauce and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake uncovered in 375 F. oven 15 minutes or until bubbling hot. Serves 4 to 6.

ON MOON TITAN

Pioneer 11 To Search For Life Near Saturn

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 11 will flash between Saturn and its three rings to make a blind pass of the moon Titan, a likely place for the existence of advanced life.

Earth, has the right chemicals, the same age as Saturn and an atmosphere with "a possible greenhouse effect, which could produce the right surface temperatures," NASA scientists said Wednesday.

John H. Wolfe, project scientist, said the space agency's "planetary quarantine people" must be satisfied that Pioneer will not accidentally hit Titan and contaminate the place.

College Invites PHS Students To Reception

Clarendon College will host parents and students of Pampa High School at the Coronado Inn, Dec. 10. The mid-term graduates of Pampa High School and their parents are invited to join representatives of Clarendon College in the Emerald Room between 5:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The decision to send Pioneer, which visited giant Jupiter Monday, to Saturn and Titan was reached Wednesday after considering several approach options. They chose the trajectory which seemed to be the safest.

When Pioneer arrives at Saturn in September 1979, the planet will be close to a straight line with Earth, with the sun in the middle. It was decided to speed Pioneer up a few days to increase the angles, which should eliminate radio interference by the sun's corona.

Parents and students will have an opportunity to ask questions and get information pertaining to attending college, regardless of the college they wish to attend.

Some scientists suspect the entire region of Saturn is full of flying rocks. If so, the hazard to the 570-pound Pioneer is great because at high speed a single fleck of dust would destroy the spaceship.

But the 16,000 mile space between the innermost ring and Saturn should be swept clean of rocks by the planet's gravity. Pioneer will angle in from above, slip through the space and shoot away toward Titan.

IN SRI LANKA

Disaster Kills Moslem Pilgrims

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — A Dutch airliner carrying Moslems to Mecca and a nine member crew slammed into a 1,000-foot-tall wall of rock like a "giant fireball" Wednesday night, killing all 191 aboard and scattering the debris through the thick jungle below, aviation officials said today.

It was the second worst air disaster in history. A team of Dutch aviation experts flew to Sri Lanka, formerly Ceylon, to investigate the crash of the Martin Air DC8 on approach to the fog-shrouded Colombo Airport.

Tilaka de Zoysa, a planter from a tea plantation near the crash site, said the plane went directly over his head and then there was an explosion.

"It was something like an earthquake," he said. "I rushed (out) and saw the plane scattering. The whole plane was breaking into bits and it was on fire."

Another witness from a nearby village told rescue workers it was like a "giant fireball in the sky."

De Zoysa said the plane hit a wall of almost sheer rock rising 1,000 feet above the jungle on 5,140-foot-tall Laxabana Hill about 80 miles east of the capital of this island nation.

The hill is part of the Seven Virgins mountain range and the crash site was not far from the huge hydroelectric project at Laksapana. Searchers said the terrain was extremely rugged and accessible only by helicopter.

Aviation officials said there were 182 passengers aboard the plane, all but two of them pilgrims bound for Mecca, in addition to the nine crew members. A Martin Air spokesman listed the crew as two pilots, one mechanic and four stewardesses, all Dutch, and two Indonesian stewardesses.

Martin Schroeder, the charter airline's president, flew with Dutch government aviation officials from the Hague to Colombo early today to investigate the crash.

"We were informed that just after the aircraft was given permission to go down from 8,000 to 2,000 feet in the landing procedure, a huge ball of fire was noticed," Schroeder said. "We do not know, but we presume this ball of fire marked the impact when the aircraft crashed."

A Martin Air spokesman said the Colombo control tower's last radio contact with the pilot indicated the plane may have gone out of control.

It appeared that somehow the plane got out of control when it was at a height of 4,000 to 5,000 feet, but I cannot draw any conclusions from this," he said.

The death toll was second only to the 345 persons who died in the crash of a Turkish DC10 jetliner last March near Paris.

The one-year-old Dutch DC8 was making its 19th flight in an airlift of 25,000 Moslem pilgrims from Surabaya, Java, to Mecca for religious celebrations.

Schroeder said the crash was the first major accident in the history of his 16-year-old company, which has flown Moslems to Mecca for years.

Erwin pleaded innocent to the drunken driving charge Wednesday. He had previously said he had consumed wine prior to his arrest but has maintained he was not drunk. He refused to take a breathalyzer test which could have cleared him of the complaint when it was issued.

Erwin's trial, his second on drunken driving charges in less than three years, was scheduled for Jan. 27 with pre-trial hearings on Jan. 10, the day Erwin's second six-year regent's term expires. Erwin has said he will not seek reappointment.

Defense attorney Roy Q. Minton said he will file a motion to move the trial to the pre-trial hearing.

"There are 20-25 reporters here today and you ask me why I want a change of venue?" Minton said, referring to widespread publicity over Erwin's case in Austin.

Erwin was found innocent of the drunken driving charge in a jury trial heard in Belton in July, 1972.

He was arrested again Oct. 8 by a policeman who said Erwin's car drove the wrong way on a one-way street and weaved over the center line for several blocks on a two-way street, nearly colliding with a police car.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Mamie Fischer, and a sister, Mrs. Suritha Thompson, both of Pampa; a grandfather, P.V. Rogers, Plainview; and two nieces, Kiona and Katrina Thompson, both of Pampa.

He was born June 23, 1958 in Borger and moved to Pampa in June, 1965.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Mamie Fischer, and a sister, Mrs. Suritha Thompson, both of Pampa; a grandfather, P.V. Rogers, Plainview; and two nieces, Kiona and Katrina Thompson, both of Pampa.

You Can Do It

A television series for local do-it-yourselfers will teach viewers how to repair leaky faucets this week. "You Can Do It" with hostess Cindy Kidwell will be aired Saturday at 1 p.m. on KAMR-TV, Channel 4. The six part educational television series of 30-minute programs is sponsored by the Gray County Family Living Committee and KAMR-TV. It was created and produced by home economics specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System, through a special USDA grant. Bulletins on any of the projects taught during the series are available through the County Extension Office, at 669-7429 or Box 1756 Pampa, Texas. There is no charge for the bulletins. Next week's program will discuss toilet repairs and adjustments, according to Mrs. Elaine Houston, County Extension Agent. Recorded announcements on the Japanese telephone system end with chimes.

Hints from Heloise

Heloise

Dear Folks: All you who wear kid shoes—especially the women and those little folks and you men who scuff the toes, etc.

I find that many times my shoes get a hunk of leather missing or what I call chopped off, with just a little piece of "skin" hanging on!

Know what I discovered that is a wingding?

Children's wax crayons! I very carefully pulled off the little piece of leather that was sticking out. (I did find that this cannot be glued back. It looks like awful.)

I then took a grease crayon—such as they sell to school students—and took the point of the crayon and marked, drew and scampered the "lost skin."

Then I buffed it.

It's a beaut!

Sugarpies, I saved all those shoes. Wonderful! And nobody can tell the difference except little ol' me.

I did find that if you would go to your dime store and buy a DOUBLE box of crayons—that they have every color under the rainbow.

'Twas and 'tis magnificentville.

Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I have houseplants that are admired, but my daughter has the most beautiful plants I have seen anywhere except at a florist.

The plants are low to the floor and her children stand around and admire them, naturally breathing on them all the while.

So I tried breathing on my plants and you should see the difference! I think it even beats talking to them!

Marie Bolton

Dear Heloise: My daughter borrowed my car, parked it in the drive and forgot to roll up the window on the driver's side.

We had an awful storm that lasted all night. The next day when I went to use the car, there was at least an inch of water in the front and back on the driver's side. I scooped the water out with a ladle and then sopped as much as I could with paper towels and old bath towels.

Then I remembered reading in your column about kitty litter. I put some in the car and it did the trick. The car dried out in a few days, and there was no musty smell.

God bless you and your readers—just couldn't live without you.

Louise R.

It's your kind of letter that makes me think living is worth while. It made my day. Always my love.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint that I have told many a new and older bride.

Buy canned potatoes when they are on sale. They are great for many things.

Drain and put them into meat drippings and your pot roast. Keep them in the refrigerator so they will be cold for a quick potato salad.

They are great sliced and fried for breakfast, especially when camping.

Beverly

You sure are a sweet potato to think of this one. What a time saver!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have just made the greatest discovery. My daughter drew all over our house siding (latex painted) with bright red crayon.

Past experience had already shown me that I couldn't remove it and new paint won't cover it. As a last resort I tried the tar and oil remover normally purchased for use on cars.

I put some on a rag and it washed off the crayon in nothing flat. A little soapy water rinsed away the oily residue and the whole job only took seconds!

Then I went bananas with the stuff. I've found it removes the gook off auto bumpers, cement smears off a plastic counter top my husband put down. I'm sure the possibilities must be endless!

Nutritious Holiday Snacks

COLLEGE STATION — With the children home from school during the holiday season, many mothers will be hearing "I'm hungry...I'm thirsty" more often than usual.

Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, suggested satisfying those young appetites with snacks that offer more than just calories.

"Children need extra 'go power' for their holiday activities. Mothers can tailor snack choices to the calorie needs of different family members.

"Oatmeal or peanut-butter cookies are good selections for the active ones who could use a high calorie energy boost. But for those who don't need the calories, choose fruits, raw vegetables and cheese for nutritious snacks."

Miss Reasonover suggest as a frothy holiday delight, blend together two parts orange juice and one part vanilla ice cream.

"For a sunshine milk drink to brighten up gray winter days, mix one teaspoon of a flavored powdered fruit drink mix in one cup of milk. If the powdered drink mix wasn't presweetened, add sugar to taste," she suggested.

Designer's Showcase

Doubly Appealing

Functional Fashion Designs

Kay Unger

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"I LIKE TO design clothes that are easy to wear and very feminine," says Kay Unger, "clothes I would enjoy having myself."

This is the success secret of Kay's own firm, St. Gillian. The clothes are seasonless, functional, easy to care for and, above all, soft and feminine.

Designer's Specialty

Kay says her specialty is "soft sportswear."

"Easy clothes that flow with the body are important to women today," she says. "Women want to look attractive, but they also want to move. Body clothes have become the norm." One of Kay's specialties is the dual-purpose design. A jumper for example, is also a dress; a shirt doubles as a jacket.

A native Chicagoan, Kay discovered her flair for fashion while attending Washington University in St. Louis. She transferred to Parsons School of Design in New York to sharpen her natural abilities. At Parsons, she won a scholarship from J.C. Penney and the Irish Linen Association for her sportswear designs.

Practicing Her Trade

After school, Kay established herself on Seventh Avenue with stints at Patullo Jo Copeland, Gayle Kirkpatrick, Geoffrey Beene, and the Teal Traina Boutique. By the time she ventured out on her own, the fashion magazines and trade press were calling her "one of the most talented designers on Seventh Avenue."

Kay has definite ideas about what she likes in clothes.

"When I shop for myself, I look for clothing that is functional and made of easy-care quality fabrics," she says. "I think a great many other women do, too. This is what I keep in mind when I sit down at the designing table."

'Women And The Olympics' Described In Forum Talk

Twentieth Century Forum study club met with Mrs. Aubrey L. Steele recently. Mrs. John Warner presented the program, "Women and the Olympics." She gave a brief history of the Olympics, from ancient times to the present, then gave an account of the woman's games, which were held since women were forbidden to attend or take part in the ancient Olympic Games.

The lives of three famous women Olympic participants were then described. The first was Babe Didrikson, who received two gold medals and one bronze medal in the 1932 Olympics. She then took up golf, and became a well-known champion in that sport. She was named A.P. Woman Athlete of the Year five times, and was also named the Greatest Female Athlete for the first half of the 20th century.

Sonja Henie was perhaps the most famous former Olympic star. She won her first gold medal for figure skating at the age of 14 and two more gold medals, in 1929 and 1932. After that, she organized her own ice show, and became a top box office attraction.

Wilma Rudolph, who was one of 19 children, and who was stricken with double pneumonia and scarlet fever at the age of four, became a basketball and track star in high school. She won three Gold Medals, becoming the first American woman to win that many in track, at Rome in 1960.

Mrs. Warner concluded by stating that there has been much discussion lately about doing away with the Olympics or of revising the rules of the present Olympics. She presented several alternate suggestions which have been made.

Members attending were Mmes. Richard Steele,

Plan Holiday Spending Now

COLLEGE STATION — Plan ahead now for holiday spending, one family resource management specialist suggested this week.

"Most families feel they will need to cut down on the amount of money spent this year. Call a family council and let each family member know the situation," Mrs. Doris Myers, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Start by taking a look at where money is going now. List all expenditures that must be met for the next several months. Then list the amount of money that will be coming in to pay these bills, she advised.

"This provides a realistic picture of how much money is left for gift giving, entertaining and other holiday functions.

"In most families some adjustments will need to be made. Let the family figure out together what can be done," Mrs. Myers said.

She suggested ways to make the season happy for others without spending money. Making gifts instead of buying them, visiting a shut-in, and doing a job such as babysitting for a friend are ideas for bringing joy at no cost.

TRAUMA TO TRAUMA Court Order Creates Pressures For TYC

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The board of the Texas Youth Council, "moving from trauma to trauma" because of federal court pressure, has approved a $94 million budget its members had only 10 days to study.

The board Wednesday gave approval to the two-year budget on condition it could make later amendments.

"We're moving from trauma to trauma in this agency with a court order breathing down our necks," said Board Chairman W. Forrest Smith when Wichita County Probation Officer Bill Ballard complained he was not provided a copy of the budget so he could comment on it. Smith said board members did not get to see the budget until 10 days ago.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler has ordered the TYC, which provides care for the state's delinquent and neglected youths, to phase out its Mountain View and Gatesville facilities by July 1975, as a result of a lawsuit charging neglect and brutality in the detention homes.

TYC attorney Bob Salter told the board negotiations will begin Monday in the attorney general's office with plaintiffs in the suit. Once the negotiations are completed, probably in January, Salter said, Justice will offer a final judgment in the case and both sides will be allowed time to appeal the ruling.

Smith, of Dallas, said the TYC budget normally could have been prepared by July had it not been for the court order.

Smith and Mrs. Robert M. Ayres of San Antonio voted to approve the budget, but board member Don R. Workman of Lubbock voted against it as "too ambiguous" in the fields of community service and grants-in-aid programs.

Smith and Mrs. Ayres also said they would have liked to have heard proposals for a "master plan" for the TYC before submitting the budget to the legislative budget board, but time did not allow it. The TYC advisory committee meets in San Antonio Thursday to discuss the master plan.

The $94 million budget provides for a balance between institutional and community programs projected to serve a total of 68,162 Texas youth during the years 1976-77.

The TYC said its programs will serve an estimated 5,709 youths in 1975, up from 5,156 during 1974. The state agency currently is budgeted for 1,986 employees and is asking for 2,497 workers by 1977.

George Wallace has big role potential

By JAMES CARY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Today we drift in a becalmed political sea, the midterm elections behind us, the far-off presidential battles of 1976 only a faint cloud on the horizon.

Yet the lack of political movement, the stillness, in the dying months of 1974 may be pierced sooner than expected by the rising winds of 1976.

There are at least two full-fledged although unannounced Democratic presidential contenders already in the field — Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama — each with rudimentary organizations in place.

The Watergate-shattered Republican Party will also presumably be seeking ways to rebuild its ranks as quickly as possible.

All this points toward 1975 being a far more active political year than would normally be expected so far in advance of the presidential primaries and nominating conventions.

If so, then there is no man more central to the fate of both Democrats and Republicans in 1976 than the enigmatic, paraplegic governor of Alabama, George Corley Wallace. He is now 55 and apparently restored to comparatively good health after a near-fatal brush with a would-be assassin's bullet in 1972 that left him paralyzed from the waist down.

For what Wallace does, and what he accomplishes in seeking the Democratic nomination during the next two years will have a major impact on the potential for success of all other major candidates.

In 1972 he demonstrated he has the potential to capture presidential primaries in the South, southern border areas and in some northern states. If he can repeat that kind of performance again he could well emerge as a power broker, or spoiler, if not a front-runner in the upcoming presidential sweepstakes.

After a long struggle with pain, infection, depression, and numerous operations to repair the damage from the assassin's bullet, Wallace emerged in a somewhat different role from his former one.

No longer was he an Alabama red-neck bigot, an outcast shouting and "sending his messages to Washington" from the outer perimeter of political power.

He had at last won his battle for respectability.

He had demonstrated he could score heavily outside the South. He was soon being treated with a deference he had never received before.

Big name columnists came to interview him. Prominent politicians who had once denounced him traveled to Montgomery to appear on the same platform with him, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, former President Nixon, and Sen. Jackson.

The fact, too, that he had hovered near death, had suffered terribly from his 1972 wounds and had had the courage to fight back from a wheel chair, helped drain away much of the past animosity he had engendered.

Perhaps not surprisingly too, as the black revolution in the South became an accepted part of history, Wallace began to mute the racial overtones of his political dialogue.

He was even endorsed by some black organizations, and for the first time by the Alabama AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last May.

In August, 1973, he also personally crowned the University of Alabama's first black homecoming queen. And this was the same man who in his 1963 gubernatorial inauguration address sent a battle cry ringing through the South — "segregation today ... tomorrow ... forever."

Still, if this means that Wallace and Alabama have changed, so too has the nation, and despite his proved powers as a vote getter it remains to be demonstrated whether his impact on voters will be as charismatic in 1976 as it was in 1972.

Ethiopian Officials Court-Martialed

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The military regime in Ethiopia has begun court-martialing imprisoned former officials passed over during last month's mass execution of ex-leaders.

A military spokesman brushed off U.N. concerns about the prisoners and said the estimated 140 former officials in jail on corruption charges are being well-treated.

The Military Council, in a brief statement Wednesday, announced the start of trials of former leaders charged with corruption and incompetence.

The council, which executed 60 ex-officials 11 days ago, declined to identify the men being tried or even say how many are on trial.

A spokesman said a three-judge military court is considering the case, but he declined to reveal the location of the proceedings.

Brig. Gen. Teferi Beniwn, chairman of the Military Council, sent a message to Secretary General Kurt Waldheim Wednesday, saying there is "no reason for the U.N. General Assembly to be concerned with the fate of the prisoners."

Waldheim cabled Ethiopia's rulers last week to express the assembly's concern about the fate of the prisoners following the mass execution.

"They are regularly fed and clothed by their families with whom they maintain contact," the general said. "This in itself is a privilege which prisoners in other countries rarely enjoy."

The armed forces seized power in Ethiopia last February in a gradual coup ending a half-century of absolute rule by Emperor Haile Selassie.

Court Orders New Trial For Drug Possession

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Finding some drugs in an apartment may not be sufficient evidence to convict the person who has leased the apartment of possession, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled.

In an opinion handed down Wednesday the court said a jury must be convinced the person who leases an apartment has knowledge of the drugs. One justice dissented from the opinion, but he said a jury could convict if it believes enough evidence was presented to imply the leasor had knowledge of the drugs.

The case involved Robert

Walter Troyer of Houston who was convicted of marijuana possession. The appeals court ordered a new trial for Troyer saying the trial court jury should have been asked to consider whether Troyer had knowledge of the 164 grams of marijuana and an LSD tablet found in his apartment on May 9, 1972.

Troyer said a number of other persons had keys to his apartment and that he had been inside the apartment only five minutes when police arrived.

Judge Leon Douglas dissented from the majority saying he didn't think a new trial was needed because enough marijuana was found in the apartment to make 658 cigarettes.

"From the evidence it appears that the jury could have reasonably deduced that the appellant was not only a possessor, but a possessor of marijuana cigarettes and his place of business was his apartment," Douglas said.

In other decisions Wednesday the court overturned a one-year sentence against E.E. Shackelford for allegedly libeling a Williamson County constable by painting a large sign in March, 1973, on a building in Liberty Hill, Tex., that said "Lee Hays is a liar."

Shackelford claimed it would be unconstitutional to jail him because of the sign. The appeals court agreed but based its reversal on the technicality that the complaint against Shackelford was improperly dated.

The court also upheld the attempted murder conviction of Ronald Mitchell, sentenced to 14 years in prison for attempting to run down a West Texas police chief with his automobile, but said there was not enough evidence to prove Larry Davis, who was riding with Mitchell, was a willing participant.

Boyd Baker, police chief of Merkel, Tex., testified he was nearly hit by a car driven by Mitchell at a highway roadblock in Taylor County on Aug. 22, 1973.

Mitchell led highway patrolmen, Abilene police and other officers on a high speed chase through West Texas after a patrolman tried to stop the stolen car for speeding.

Several shots were fired at the pursuing officers. Baker said he saw Davis holding a gun but could not be sure if he fired any of the shots.

The court upheld a life sentence against Robert Joseph Payne for the murder of an employee of the South Park National Bank in Houston during a March 22, 1972, bank robbery. James Garbs was killed and a Houston policeman wounded in the holdup.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

On Nov. 10, 1962, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was buried at Hyde Park, N.Y. At the gravesite were President John F. Kennedy and former Presidents Harry Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

U.S. Experts Confident Of Spacecraft Docking

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. space experts expressed confidence today in the docking system being tested by two Soyuz cosmonauts on a rehearsal flight for next summer's joint Soviet-American mission.

Lt. Col. Anatoly V. Filipchenko, the commander, and civilian Nikolai N. Rukavishnikov, the flight engineer, wound up preliminary tests Wednesday night aboard the orbiting Soyuz 16 spacecraft.

Bob D. White, leader of 12 American experts visiting the Soviet Union, said his team spent two months conducting ground tests with the docking mechanism at Moscow's Institute of Space Research.

White said his team ran trials with the same docking system to be mounted on a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft and an American Apollo vehicle during next July's rendezvous in orbit.

He said Soviet and American spacemen even tried a practice run simulating a high-impact crash docking, but the two ships linked up without a hitch.

Independent Business Rejects Federal Funding

The concept of combatting recessionary trends with the use of federal funds to provide public service jobs does not find any favor with the independent business people.

While there are many proposals being made to create jobs, originating both on Capitol Hill and on the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, a fairly modest legislative proposal by Representative Michael Harrington of Massachusetts was submitted by the National Federation of Independent Business to a nationwide poll of the membership.

The final results show only 23 percent in favor, with 73 percent opposed, and four percent undecided.

In Texas the vote is 18 percent for, 78 percent opposed, 4 percent undecided.

The majority of the independent business firms are engaged in retailing or the service trades, and thus depend on the people in their area having the means to buy. On this basis it would appear that there would be a somewhat stronger support for this method of offsetting unemployment.

This thinking does seem to prevail more heavily on those areas where the ratio between metropolitan and rural areas is heavily on the city side. For example, 34 percent of the respondents in Rhode Island favor such legislation, as do 33 percent of those in the District of Columbia and 36 percent in Hawaii.

However, the membership of the NFIB is heavily non-metropolitan oriented with an estimated 75 percent located outside of the big cities. And while current data shows that in some metropolitan areas the unemployment rate is well above the national average, there are persistent indications that unfilled jobs are going begging in the small town and rural areas.

The quarterly economic reports prepared for NFIB by Faculty Associates have continued to show that there are jobs open that employers have not been able to fill.

Around midyear this data showed that 16 percent of the independent enterprises responding report they have not been able to fill their needs for skilled labor, and while the demand for unskilled labor has diminished almost to the vanishing point, two percent were shown in this report as having unfilled jobs for the unskilled worker.

Obviously, to the employer unable to fill jobs that are open, the idea of a tax supported "make-work" program meets with strong resistance.

The NFIB studies tend to indicate that the problem, even in the face of the current recessionary trend, is not that of creating artificial jobs, but rather working for a solution to the problem of a mal-distribution of labor.

While the year long shortage of skilled labor reported by respondents to NFIB surveys could be construed to indicate that there is an acute shortage of skilled workers, there is no data to support this supposition.

Lacking information of this calibre, it can probably be assumed that the unemployed, heavily concentrated in the metropolitan centers, are not aware of the jobs open throughout the country.

But it does seem obvious that as long as the independent businessmen cannot fill open jobs, they will continue to resist the idea of providing public service jobs.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

As the Christmas season approaches, millions of doting parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, brothers, sisters, and just friends will be heading for the toy counters of their favorite stores. The State Health Department hopes that they'll remember to consider safety when they choose toys for younger children.

Harold Ray, the Director of the Product Safety Division of the Texas State Department of Health, discussed the toy safety problem in a recent interview.

Q: Harold, what role does your program play in protecting our children from unsafe toys?

A: Under the provisions of the Texas Hazardous Substances Act, we have some regulatory authority over toys, both with the state program and through an interagency program with the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission, dealing with any safety hazard that might be present through the normal use or abuse of toys for children.

Q: How serious a problem, or how serious a matter, is toy safety?

A: There are no complete figures on it, but we do know that each year in the United States there are approximately 150,000 children who are treated through hospital emergency room admissions. Obviously there are many more who are treated by private physicians or treated at home. The fatality rate, we don't have any figures and there really isn't any way to get those, but it is a substantial problem from the injury standpoint.

Q: In recent years the federal government has had a pretty strong consumer protection program. Haven't all the really unsafe toys already been banned from the marketplace?

A: Well, most of the unsafe toys that were on the market at that time, when the federal program started, perhaps have been banned. This does not mean there are not some of those still available, but not many. But you have to keep in mind that toys are sold either by repeat demand or because they're different, and so there are many new designs and new toys available each year that attract children. These products may not have been tested and cleared for safety.

Q: Are toys that are made and sold only in Texas subject to federal regulation?

A: Unfortunately, no, not as the interstate commerce rule is interpreted. If a toy is made in Texas and sold only in Texas, then at the present time there is no regulation on that toy other than with regard to flammability characteristics.

Q: Let's talk about what some of the specific hazards are that people should watch for when they buy toys.

A: I think the obvious ones, of course, are those toys that fall apart so that small pieces are available for small children to inhale or ingest; sharp points and sharp edges; and toys that break too easily. This is particularly true with the plastic toys; although plastic toys as a class are not necessarily bad, there are those that will shatter easily and leave very jagged edges.

There are, of course, some hazards also from the toxic standpoint because of the paints that are used, although this is being controlled pretty much under the lead-based paint control program of the federal and state hazardous substances enforcement.

Q: Isn't it true that there are some toys that may be perfectly safe for one age group or one particular type of child, and not necessarily safe for another?

A: This is very true, because a toy that was designed for a child ten years of age may be perfectly safe if properly used by that child, but if he has a two-year-old brother or sister who finds that toy lying around and does not know how to use it, and if it does not have built-in safety characteristics, it can become a hazardous toy for that smaller child.

Q: Are "cheap foreign import toys" inherently more dangerous than domestically-produced toys?

A: Well, let me say that "cheap toys" as a rule, whether imported or domestic, are going to be far more hazardous, simply because they do not have the quality-control measures built in - that's why they are cheap toys. I think it would be unfair to criticize or single out the imported toys as opposed to domestic because actually a large percentage of the toys available on the American market are from import sources.

So, the quality toys should have quality controls built in, and the cheaper toys should be highly suspect.

Q: Do you anticipate having a more active toy safety program at the state level in the future?

A: We would certainly hope so. We know that it was proposed in the last session of the legislature that the state Hazardous Substances Act be updated to include thermal, mechanical, and electrical hazards now contained in the federal Act.

Grandchildren Could Receive S.S. Benefits

Some children may be eligible for social security benefits on a grandparent's earnings record but aren't getting payments because they haven't applied for them, according to information received from Howard L. Weatherly, branch manager in the Pampa Social Security Office.

Children supported by a grandparent may be eligible for monthly payments if the grandparent is getting social security benefits. A child also may be eligible for payments if he or she was a dependent of a grandparent who died after working long enough under social security.

Generally the child's parents must be deceased or disabled at the time the grandparent began getting social security payments or died. In some cases, children legally adopted by their grandparent can get social security payments.

A child can get payments until age 18 - or age 22 in the case of full-time students who remain unmarried. People can get information about applying for benefits by calling or writing any social security office.

The Pampa Social Security Office is at 1541 N. Hobart. The phone number is 806-669-3381.

Mainly About Wheeler

By RENASIVAGE
Mr. and Mrs. White Whiteley, Mrs. Sandra Whiteley and Barbara Kreyling were in Pampa Monday for Mr. Whiteley to be fitted with new glasses. Mr. Whiteley has just recently undergone eye surgery and is reported to be doing real good from it. Little Master Shane Whiteley had gone home with his aunt, Mrs. Vivian Riley on Sunday and spent the night in Pampa and returned home with the Whiteleys.

Mrs. Lorene Errington spent most of last week at Gem City in the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Dickinson and new son. Other visitors were Mrs. Errington's sons Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Errington, Brett and Kendra, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Errington and family. They were all there to view the new nephew and grandson. Palmer Sivage of the Phillip Nursing Home in Phillip, S.D. celebrated his birthday with a card and letter shower by his friends in Wheeler County and surrounding area. Palmer, served in the capacity of county treasurer for 27 years.

Palmer loves the nursing home and is very involved in the work there. He helps with the typing and they are in the process of a bazaar and he has been doing work on that. He sends regards to his friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Killingsworth and family, and Mrs. Minnie Starkey of Canyon visited here with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Killingsworth and with Mr. Clarence Robison. Mrs. Betty Lou Cox was in Amarillo for a dinner Tuesday night in honor for all employees of Southwestern Public Service. Betty received a 10-year pen from Roy Tolk, the company's chief executive.

Mr. Verbon Smith of Leedy, Okla. was in Wheeler visiting recently. He visited with the Harold Sivages and with Mr. and Mrs. Darville Atherton of the Briscoe community.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Davidson of Kentucky and Mr. and Mrs. Don Nafzger, Wade and Jan of Olton spent the week end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson. Mrs. Davidson was just recently dismissed from the Shamrock General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Whitener and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Vanpool spent the week end in Kansas with Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Miller and managed to get in some pheasant hunting while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Hatter and Rebecca spent the week end in Altus, Oklahoma with Ricky's mother. On Sunday Ricky motored to Sulphur, Okla. and preached at the Baptist Church there. He stated that you could still see signs of the flood that they had there. They returned home Sunday evening.

R.O. Johnson of Pampa visited Monday in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sivage.

Mrs. Virginia Lee Holdeman and Mr. Bud Holdeman made a business trip to Amarillo Monday. They visited the different florist wholesale houses and thoroughly enjoyed it.

The second grade Brownie Troop met at the First Methodist Church to get organized for the coming year. Dues were paid and plans were discussed. Those present were Tracy Road, Hope Coffman, Chandra Denton, Teresa Williams, Becky Crockett, Leslie McCormick, and leaders, Nancy Denton and Wanda Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Normal Dyer and Betty Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Miller, Peggy and Shelly Miller, Perry Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Gilmer and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sparlin recently to attend a birthday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank

A thought for the day: American historian Henry Brooks Adams said, "Accident counts for much in companionship as in marriage."

In 1933, liquor prohibition was abolished when Utah became the 30th state to ratify the 21st Amendment to the Constitution. In 1963, former New York governor and senator, Herbert Lehman, died.

Colombians staggered by Lopez tax hikes

By PENNY LERNOUX
Copley News Service

BOGOTA, Colombia — Practically no one in Latin America can understand all the fuss made in the United States about income taxes. Most Latins are allergic to the tax collector and nobody in his right mind would file an honest tax return.

Any company that can afford the extra accountant keeps two sets of books. Probably most Latins pay no income tax at all; they don't earn enough. Those who do, but who are not too ostentatious, rarely get caught up, unless they have to travel abroad and need a tax certificate to obtain a passport and an exit permit.

Even then, in most countries, such certificates can be purchased for a modest sum. So it is that considerable attention is being focused on Colombia's new president, Alfonso Lopez Michelsen and his sweeping new tax reform decree.

Within weeks of taking office in August, Lopez invoked a never-used 1968 law and declared a 45-day economic emergency that permitted the government to decree a sweeping tax reform. Lopez claims that the budget deficit, now $923 million but which will rise to nearly $2 billion in 1975, is the chief cause of inflation, currently running at 22 per cent or more a year. Without new taxes, said Lopez, the government would not be able to pay the nation's teachers or the armed forces.

Taking a page from U.S. textbooks, Lopez not only increased taxes to 30-56 per cent for incomes in the upper brackets, but also slapped stiff new sales taxes of up to 35 per cent on a wide range of consumer goods from autos to soap, stoves, liquor and kerosene.

Hardly a murmur has been heard against the revised income tax schedules. After all, it still is possible to cheat on personal returns, no matter what percentage the government sets.

Sales taxes are something else again as the tax inspector has only to go down to the assembly plant to find out how many units are being produced. So to checkmate the wily Colombians, Lopez decreed that the tax be paid by the producer.

Trying to keep track of the accounting procedures of thousands of small shopkeepers would be impossible and unproductive, as the government knows.

The howls of outrage were not long in coming. Everyone from soap entrepreneurs to leather goods manufacturers have taken full-page advertisements in the local press to complain that the new sales tax will bankrupt them.

The poorer classes are complaining, too. Although foodstuffs are exempt from taxation, the corner grocer has used the new taxes as an excuse to up the price of any number of items, from eggs to eggplants.

FOR REMODELING

St. Anthony's Hospital To Have Open House

By TEX DeWESEE

St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo will have an open house and ribbon-cutting ceremony at 2 p.m. next Sunday to show the public the completely remodeled and renovated $1.5 million Annex B, original wing of the hospital.

Following the ribbon-cutting there will be public tours of the hospital until 5 p.m.

There have been many changes made at St. Anthony's under the remodeling program, which started in December, 1973.

Among these are the Hill-Rom Enviro Care units in 99 new patient rooms with modular installations including closet, basin, console control of lighting, color television, telephone and other functions.

There are also three new solariums, one especially for children, a teen room and the much-enlarged physical therapy department.

Sister Kathleen Coughlin, hospital administrator, says visitors from many surrounding communities are expected at the open house Sunday due to the fact St. Anthony's has enjoyed a larger number of patient referrals from cities outside Amarillo than any other hospital.

The hospital administrator also pointed out that the entire $1.5 million for financing the project will be paid out over ten years entirely from hospital revenues with no public or church funds or no community "drives."

"In light of present day costs," she said, "we think what St. Anthony's has achieved for $36 a square foot, compared to $62 quoted for a similarly equipped building new from the ground up, becomes an accomplishment of considerable interest."

The bed capacity of St. Anthony's is 275 beds with each floor dedicated to a particular specialty.

St. Anthony's was established in 1901 by four sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word from San the soul of this little-known land unfolded itself before our eyes.

Our car, as most of the others we saw on the road, was new. But more than a few times we passed timeless bullock carts.

Lots of modern buildings in Kuantan, a town of some 72,000 and the capital of Pahang state.

Yet, even within the city limits, you see simple wooden homes, most of them up on stilts, windows open to the cooling breezes from the nearby South China Sea, the simplicity of the structures hidden by an eye-popping array of flowers and plants.

As we sped toward Cherating, a fishing village set amid swaying palm trees on an ivory sand beach, we saw tiers of jungle-clad mountains forming a seemingly impenetrable barrier between this coast and Kuala Lumpur, the capital of Malaysia. But this natural border some 180 miles long, much of it yet to be trampled by man, is slashed by a good, though narrow road. And you can skip over the whole lush thing in less than 45 minutes aboard one of Malaysian Airline Systems' aircraft.

In short, this is a land of colorful contrasts. And not just the scenic variety.

Television Notes

By Jack Gaver

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jan. 4 is the date for ABC's airing of the Royal Shakespeare Company's production of "Antony and Cleopatra," starring Richard Johnson and Janet Suzman. The three-hour attraction is one especially conceived for television.

Jackie Gleason will be host for the fifth annual American Guild of Variety Artists "Entertainer of the Year Awards" to be telecast as a 90-minute special by CBS on Jan. 18. Members in 12 entertainment categories will be honored. The late Ed Sullivan was the host of previous programs.

Universal Television has signed playwright Tennessee Williams to write an original drama for video. This is the first time he has written for the home screen.

NBC has another three-year contract for exclusive U.S. television rights to title matches of the Wimbledon Open Tennis Championships in England. The first three-year agreement expired this year.

Playboy Productions has actress Sally Field, star of several previous television series, signed for another series being developed for the 1975-76 season.

Anya Seaton's best-selling novel, "The Winthrop Woman," is being developed into a video drama for ABC. The historical work is based on the life of Elizabeth Fones, a member of the John Winthrop family in the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1630.

On the streets as well as on the road we passed lovely Indian girls clad in pastel saris, Chinese women in shapely cheongsam sheaths, and their Malay counterparts in bright sarongs and kebayas. We saw Chinese farm boys fending off the sun with wide straw hats, Malay chaps sporting neat velvet caps, and fine-featured Indians their soft Sikh turbans.

As we were to see later elsewhere in the country, miles of dreamy beaches share a rather uncommon denominator — hardly a soul on them.

The fact is this country about the size of New York state, though packed with natural attractions and whose people are among the friendliest anywhere, is bypassed by most visitors to the Orient. And it isn't out of the way either, edged between Thailand and the Philippines and within an hour or two from most Southeast Asian capitals, Malaysia somehow has remained off the tourist map.

Travel industry figures show that in 1973 an impressive 1.3 million visitors, of whom 103,000 were Americans, made the traditional swing that usually includes Tokyo, Taipei, Hong Kong, Manila and Bangkok. But only a few of them came to Malaysia.

Despite inflation, most of these cities in the standard Orient itineraries have shown an increase in the number of visitors during 1974. Hong Kong, for instance, reports a 5.3 per cent boost.

This 13-state nation, on the other hand, has remained pretty much the uncrowded and unspoiled destination that so far attracts mainly the experienced traveler and, of late, a number of mostly young men and women seeking an inexpensive and rewarding travel experience.

If few foreigners include Malaysia while in this part of the world, fewer yet make it to Pahang state or for that matter to any part of this country's east coast. This chunk of land rich in rubber, rice and teak embraces three other states, Kelantan, Trengganu and Johore.

Malaysia, by the way, became a nation not quite a dozen years ago. In 1963, along with Singapore which later withdrew to become a city-state, the previously independent 13 states agreed to be part of the new country under one flag. Each of the states has its own sultan or governor and an elected assembly. The head of state is a constitutional monarch elected by the state rulers for a term of five years.

The last veteran of the American Revolutionary War died April 5, 1869.

USDA Announces Food Stamp Allotments Up

Food stamp allotment for a family of four will increase on January 1 from $150 to $154, based on August food-price statistics, according to an announcement by Under Secretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell.

The Food Stamp Act, as amended by the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-86), requires that coupon allotments be adjusted semiannually to reflect changes in the prices of food as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Allotment adjustments are based on the cost of the Department of Agriculture's (USDA) economy food plan as it is computed from Bureau of Labor Statistics food prices.

The law requiring semiannual adjustments specified that the January, 1974 adjustment reflect changes in food prices through August, 1973.

A similar procedure was used for the July, 1974 adjustment and is being used for the January, 1975 increase in the value of the coupon allotment, which is based on the cost of the economy food plan in August, 1974.

Cost of the economy food plan for August was $153.40 for a family of four with school children. Accordingly, USDA will raise the value of the coupon allotment from $150 to $154 for a family of four and make appropriate adjustments for other household sizes.

The maximum income eligibility standard for the four-person household will increase from $500 to $513.

The following tables giving coupon allotments, income eligibility standards and purchase requirements for all household sizes in the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia are scheduled for publication in the Federal Register of Monday, Nov. 18, 1974.

Separate tables for Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam will be announced shortly.

Maximum income eligibility standards by household size starting Jan. 1 are:

One	$194
Two	280
Three	406
Four	513
Five	606
Six	700
Seven	793
Eight	886

For each additional household member over eight, add $73 to the eight-person eligibility level.

HILL-ROOM Enviro Care Units in 99 new patient rooms in St. Anthony's Hospital, Amarillo, are complete modules containing closet, basin, cabinets, and console-control of lighting, color television, telephone, and other functions.

THE ORIGINAL WING of St. Anthony's Hospital, known as Annex B, is shown on the left. The red tile roof has been an Amarillo landmark for half a century.

Havana Tries To Stir Fear Of Cuban Exiles In Propaganda

By ALFONSO CASTRO
Copley News Service

MEXICO CITY — Communist Cuba is trying to turn the United States and the rest of the world against those hundreds of thousands of anti-Communist Cuban exiles who left their Caribbean homeland rather than submit to the dictatorship of Premier Fidel Castro.

Cuba's propaganda agencies are spreading the story of Carlos Rivero Collado who said that the exiles are plotting the assassinations of diplomats and others who favor a change in U.S. policy toward the Havana government.

Rivero Collado, once a Cuban exile activist, recently returned to Cuba from the United States and pronounced himself disillusioned with the "Yanqui imperialists."

Rivero, son of Andres Rivero, the man who won the last presidential elections held in Cuba, but who was prevented from taking office by the triumph of the Cuban revolution and Castro's seizure of power in 1959, was a 19-year-old when he went into exile in the United States.

In 1961 he took part in the ill-fated exile invasion attempt at the Bay of Pigs and spent two years in Cuban Communist prisons before he and most of the other invaders were ransomed by the U.S. government.

According to the story that he told in a lengthy TV interview in Havana, Nov. 3, he was a member of a Cuban exile terrorist group that was responsible for numerous attacks on Cuban Communist government offices in the United Nations, in Canada, Mexico, Spain and elsewhere.

Now, the recanted exile told his TV audience, "the terrorist campaign that these elements have carried out in these last 10 years against diplomatic offices of various countries is being converted into open warfare by the most aggressive counterrevolutionary factions against the nations that favor lifting the sanctions" against Communist Cuba.

Attempts against the lives of U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Costa Rican Foreign Minister Gonzalo Fazio form part of the terrorist strategy, according to Rivero.

Rivero also said that U.S. congressmen who favor revision of U.S. policy on Cuba are marked for attack, and cited columnist Jack Anderson as source for that information.

That the Cuban Communists were anxious to spread their warning against anti-Communist terrorist activities was obvious. Radio Havana, the short-wave voice of the Castro dictatorship, sent cablegrams to a number of individuals and organizations in the United States the day before the program was broadcast, inviting them to listen the three times that the interview was repeated over the radio.

What is more, Prensa Latina, the Cuban Communist news agency, made the full text available to those newspapers that print its propaganda. The newspaper, El Dia, here in Mexico City, dedicated more than a full page to the questions put to Rivero and his answers.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH
Indentation In Legs A Warning

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a married woman, 62. I have noticed that if I press my fingers in my legs it leaves an indentation which leads me to believe that I retain liquid.
 Does this shorten your life? Is there anything that will cure this? If so, what?
 —Mrs. J.S.
 You are quite right — this is an indication of fluid accumulation, and a person is wise to heed the warning. (More than likely you have some swelling of legs or ankles to go along with it.)
 The human body, of course, contains a great deal of fluid, and the body must not "dry out" too much. Too much loss of fluid (dehydration) can be disastrous, as is the case of people lost at sea or on a desert without water. They don't survive long.
 Fluids (blood, naturally, but other moistures, too) move constantly through the body, carrying nutrients to the tissues, picking up waste matter to be carried to the kidneys or other organs to be discarded.
 But when the body's tissues accumulate too much fluid, it doesn't flow as efficiently. Like a slow-running river, it forms stagnant backwaters. Flotsam gathers. A fast-running river cleans itself, stays clear. It's the slow-moving one that turns brackish.
 So when you press your fingers into your leg, you squeeze out fluid from a spot, and the indentation remains until the fluids slowly seep back in.
 The dents are not a disease, they are a sign of trouble, not trouble in itself.
 What causes the slow flow, the fluid accumulation? It can be because the bloodstream can't be carried back to the heart and lungs as promptly as used to be. Tight garters and girdles can be the prime cause. Or so can varicose veins in the legs.
 But there are more central possibilities: heart or kidneys not operating at normal efficiency.
 So yes, those dents indicate fluid. But what causes the fluid accumulation is something that you should determine — or rather have your doctor determine.
 Until the cause is pinpointed, you have no way of knowing what the proper treatment, is, but it is essential that you find out, because when excess fluid accumulates it can indeed affect your life expectancy.
 It most certainly can affect the way you feel, have its effect on your briskness, endurance, zest for life.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can an adult male, age 26, increase his height with HGH, the "human growth hormone"? — E.S.S.
 No, because by that age the bone structure has become fixed and cannot grow any more.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: My brother and I had intercourse and since then I have had a rash and sperm drain from me like a faucet. Could it be from being his first time ever and he did something wrong? Or is it a sign of venereal disease? I want to have a Pap test to see for sure but don't have any money.
 In school I learned there was a place that will do it for free if you don't have any money, but I forget where it is. How can I find out? — Miss X.
 Easiest way in most cases (and probably yours) is to phone the city health department and ask. But ask about V.D. testing — not about Pap tests, because the Pap test is not designed to detect V.D. Your symptoms are highly suspicious, so see about a test at once.
 "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois, 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

FRIDAY, DEC. 6
 Offers a broad range of personal achievement based on improving skills and keener judgments. You make many and varied productive breaks with the past. Relationships pose a challenge in finding time to follow up on them while tending to everything else. Today's natives are versatile, fond of travel, frequently gifted in languages.
Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: A recap of current and recent events is uncomfortable but clears the air; you at least know where everyone stands. Carry out routine rather than experiment.
Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Clarify your doubts, search for facts. You encounter opposition, unknown critics. Don't give them extra material for discussion. Avoid secrets.
Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Settle your accounts promptly. You rely on your own resources and should allow others to do so, too. Distant matters are easier to deal with than local ones.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Managing money continues to be a question for which there are no ready-made answers. Investigate the home situation; see that nobody has a secret problem.
Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be a bit less self-centered; take other people into account and share your successes with them. Express yourself gently in family situations.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Concentrate on winding up the work week with efficiency. Add no last minute projects; don't expect help or encouragement. Sentimental ventures falter.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your pride is "dangerous" and leads you into almost anything, including over-spending. Important people's advice is no better than your own judgment. Use common sense.
Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Go after business that relates to factors besides new spending or big investments. Recommendations are probably garbled and require study, further verification.
Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Everybody has his own interests to look after now. Look after your own; make allowances for others. Home and family life promises rewards.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly every day on the news ticker there's a dispatch from Brussels, London or Amsterdam reporting that the U.S. dollar is weakening in European money markets.
 Until recently, I only read these items with half an eye. For I had been given to understand that the international monetary system was nothing more than the play toy of a group of financiers known as "the gnomes of Zurich."
 It was not until my half-eye fell upon a dispatch from the Far East that the true gravity of the situation was impressed upon me.
 It reported that "the U.S. dollar has been steadily weakening against the Hong Kong dollar."
 The Hong Kong dollar? Good grief! I didn't even know there were any gnomes in Hong Kong.
 I was under the impression the population of Hong Kong consisted entirely of wizened tailors.
 And if the currency of the mightiest industrial nation on earth, or wherever you go, can no longer hold its own with that of a small colony of wizened tailors, it may be about time to abandon ship.
 Deeply disturbed, I called a friend in Atlanta who once told me his family had a trunk full of Confederate money in the attic of its ancestral seat in Malignant Springs, Ga.
 "How's the U.S. dollar doing against Confederate money?" I asked anxiously.
 "It's sinking fast," he replied. "The latest exchange rate quoted by the gnomes of Dixie equates a trunk full of Confederate money with a carpetbag full of U.S. dollars."
 Hurriedly, I placed a call to a friend in Philadelphia. I said, "Do you have any word on how the U.S. dollar is doing against the continental?"
 "It's steadily weakening," he reported. "The gnomes of Independence Hall now say the dollar isn't worth a continental."
 There was only one place left to turn. And that meant a call to the Indian trading post at Puma City, Ariz.
 "I'm almost afraid to ask," I said, "but how's the U.S. dollar doing against wampum?"
 "Losing ground," the manager confided. "The gnomes of the Navajo reservation have suspended further trading until the situation is clarified."
 There is only one encouraging aspect in all this pressure against the U.S. dollar. It is widely dispersed among marks, francs, yen and assorted other currencies.

Danny Gilliland, Miami senior, has been nominated for the Texas Eight - Man All Star Game, set for next summer in Brownwood.

Gilliland, son of head coach Bill Gilliland, was the only Miami football player chosen for the game. Gilliland was named to the 2-B, Eight-man all district team as a defensive back. He also was named second team quarterback by the 2-B coaches.

First team offensive players were ends Rennie Burrus, senior, Follett, and Clifton Shaw, senior. Patton Springs: guards Rusty Early, junior, Miami, and Devin Burrus, junior, Follett; center Billy Howard, senior, Darrrouzett; quarterback, Jerry Adcock, senior, Patton Springs, and running backs Bobby Roach, senior, Follett, and Bruce Porter, senior, Patton Springs.

DANNY GILLILAND
Makes All-District

Follett, and Bruce Porter, senior, Patton Springs.

Defensivemen named to the all-district team were ends Greg Haynes, junior, Miami, Kevin Duke, sophomore, Darrrouzett, and Kevin Kellen, junior, Follett (tie); guards Shaw, Patton Springs, Craig Holt, senior, Darrrouzett and David Burrus, Follett; linebackers Kirk Flowers, sophomore, Miami, and Rennie Burrus, Follett, and halfbacks Gilliland, Miami, Kelly Wynn, senior, Follett, and Kelly Lewis, junior Darrrouzett.

The biggest surprise in the all-district team is Patton Spring's Adcock. Although the youngster had an impressive season, Wynn of Follett and Gilliland were generally thought of as two of the best signal callers in eight man football.

Wynn was chosen to play in the all-state game. Congratulations should go to Adcock and everyone else making the prestigious squad.

Miami placed five on the second team. Those were Haynes, junior offensive end; Stan Cowan, sophomore center; Gilliland; Early, junior defensive guard, and Mark Mercer, junior defensive guard.

To the surprise of Miami fans, senior Don Ed Howard and junior Ken Jenkins were not named first or second team all-district running backs.

I can't wait to release the District 3-AAAA Coaches All-District Squad. The Amarillo Globe - News team had five Harvesters on it and named John Welborn as Coach of the Year and tackle Dane Rasmussen as Defensive Player of the Year.

Other Harvesters named to the team, which was voted on by district coaches, sports writers and broadcasters, were defensive lineman Ron Willett, defensive back Mike Adair, split end Howie Lewis and center David Hampton.

My only disagreement with the Globe - News team was that Chuck Quarles wasn't named quarterback. Danny Ross, Tascosa, was an outstanding passer, but in my estimation Quarles was more versatile and was one of the main reasons Pampa had one of its best seasons ever.

Over one-half of the 500 Harvester football banquet tickets have been sold and the others are expected to disappear by today or Friday. Price is $3.50 for the banquet set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Texas Tech head coach Jim Carlen will be the featured speaker. Tickets probably can still be purchased from Jewett Scarbrough at Coronado Finance.

Tickets for the Lefors - Celina Class B semifinal game, set for 7:30 p.m. Friday at Vernon, are on sale for $1.00 (students) and $2.00 (adults) in the Lefors school business office. Tickets will be available at the game but prices will be 50 cents higher there.

Celina, according to the Harris-Rating System, is a seven-point favorite for Friday's game. The Bobcats are No. 2 in the state and are only one touchdown weaker than top-ranked Big Sandy. Lefors is ranked fourth.

Other highly ranked teams are Moody, No. 3; Bronte, No. 5; Groom, No. 6, and Sundown, No. 9. Lefors beat the latter three to make the semifinals.

PHS Cage Teams In Tourney Play

The Pampa Harvester basketball team is in Oklahoma City today for the first round of the Sunburst Classic Invitational Tournament, the second of three prestigious tourneys for unbeaten Pampa.

Pampa, 5-0 and coming off a 57-48 win over Perryton Tuesday, plays Ada, Okla., in the first round this afternoon. The Harvesters won the championship of the Key City Invitational last weekend in Abilene.

The Pampa Shockers and sophomores are also in action today, playing in the Borger Junior Varsity Tournament. The Shockers and Canyon junior varsity play at 6:30 p.m., and the Pampa sophomores take on Hereford junior varsity at 5 p.m.

In other games today the Borger sophomores play Dumas junior varsity at 4 p.m., while Borger JV challenges Plainview JV at 8:30 p.m.

Class B Semis Friday

By PAUL SIMS
Celina has rolled over 12 teams this year en route to a 12-1 season record and at first glance it looks like the Bobcats are about to roll over another opponent, the Lefors Pirates, who've lost five games in 12 outings.

But at second glance, and that's the glance Celina coach G.A. Moore is taking, the game looks like a dogfight and one Moore knows he would be foolish to take lightly. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at Vernon.

Moore was overly impressed with the Pirates of District 1-B when he scouted them in the 28-13 quarterfinal victory over Bronte last week.

"Lefors looked great on the ground. They have a real fine offensive and defensive team. They look sound, and I think the key is whether we slow their offense down," the soft-spoken Moore said.

Lefors' record does not indicate how well the team has played in recent weeks. The Pirates won only twice during the first seven weeks of the season but have lately experienced a total revival.

The Pirates' last loss, a 21-19 setback to Boys Ranch six games ago, was actually an indication of things to come. The Ranchers are a double-A team and a good one, and Lefors almost upset them.

Then, Lefors opened 1-B play in fine style: whipping Booker, 42-18; Textline, 61-14; and Groom, 13-7. In bi-district, Lefors surprised Sundown, 28-15, and Bronte, 28-13.

The Lefors turnaround is especially apparent in facts and figures.

Fact - Lefors has outscored its 12 opponents this season, 287-160, or an average of 23.8-13.3.

35.6 points, while holding the opposition to only 12.4.

Fact - Lefors, for the season, are averaging 242 yards rushing per game and opponents have a 173-yard clip.

Figure - In the last five games, the Pirates have averaged 362 yards on the ground, and the opposition only 137.

Fact - Fullback Barney Sawyer, the Pirates' leading ground gainer, has amassed 1,625 yards for the season on 211 rushes for a sparkling 7.7 yards-per-carry average.

Figure - Sawyer has gained 958 yards on 111 carries in the last five games, owning an 8.6 average.

Sawyer has been a key figure in the rags-to-riches story of Lefors. The 185-pound senior, who seems to be at his peak against prime teams, has gained over 100 yards eight straight times and has rushed for over 200 twice this season.

Quarterback Greg Beck, also a senior, is the Pirates' second-leading rusher with 476 yards on 105 carries, good enough for a 4.6 average. He is also a capable passer, and ends Bobby Dunn and Keith Baker and capable pass catchers, although their receiving has been limited due to the fine running game.

The two halfbacks are Rick Jennings and Jim Hix, both seniors and both underrated because of Sawyer's standout year.

Jennings has gained 100 yards twice this season and has been used primarily as a blocker recently. The 155-pounder, like his backfield counterparts, has outstanding speed.

Hix, alternating with sophomore Phil White, another speedster, against Bronte, managed 57 yards on nine carries. Against Sundown, Hix picked up 91 yards on 16 tries. For the year, the 170-pound halfback has 58 carries for 408 yards, which is a bit over seven yards an attempt, second best on the team.

The offensive line has probably developed more than any other phase of the Pirates. Groom, Sundown and Bronte all had extremely talented defensive lines and all were whipped at the line of scrimmage.

The line consists of tackle Carl Cady and Lynn "Tom Tall" Allison, guards Kim Squiers and Larry Franks and center Mike Watson.

Defensively, Lefors coach Leonard Tolbert will go with ends Allison and Franks, tackles Cady and Larry Jackson, noseguard Beck, linebackers Jennings and Sawyer and backs Baker, Dunn, Jennings and Bobby Crain.

Turnovers, particularly fumbles, have plagued the Pirates, who will really be in trouble if they cough up the ball against Celina.

The Bobcats are notorious for turning opponents' miscues into touchdowns, which they did four times last week in a 49-6 quarterfinal win over Valley Mills.

Celina's forte is its terrific offensive balance. Quarterback Frank Andrews, a senior, passed for 1,199 yards and 16 touchdowns during the regular season, while completing over 50 percent of his throws. The leading rusher on the team is junior fullback Randy Nelson with 890 yards and 10 touchdowns on 140 carries.

He's a lot like this number 34, this Sawyer kid. He's straight ahead runner," said Moore. Halfback David Renteria, a senior, piled up 874 yards and 13 TD's on 107 rushes in Celina's first 11 games. The other halfback, also a senior, is Mike Esther, who runs extremely well and catches passes just about as consistently as he runs.

Joey Wester, a 6-0 senior, is the left end and the Bobcats' No. 1 receiver with 700 yards on 31 catches. He also scored 10 touchdowns in the regular season. The right end is Steve Carey, whom Moore calls "another good pass receiver. They've all caught pretty much the same amount."

Defensive linemen are ends (left and right) Carey and Steve Harris (155) and tackles Esther and Renteria, linebackers are Butler, Nelson and Rex Glendenning (185), cornerbacks are Balch and Patt Hunn (150) and safeties are Scott Tingle (129) and Wester.

Hunn is also the second team quarterback and a halfback who often throws from the running back position. He has also played split end.

Celina has outscored opponents, 547-73, and has lost only to Allen, a Class A school, 7-6.

The Bobcats have much more overall strength than either Bronte or Sundown, so look for Class B football at its best - on both sides. The winner will likely take on Big Sandy, which plays Moody Friday, in the state championship game.

Celina is No. 2 in Texas and Lefors is ranked fourth. Bobcats by 10.

View From The Plains

By J.D. PEER
LUBBOCK - Texas hunters will be in the grain fields early Dec. 14, as the 1974 pheasant season gets underway on the High Plains.

Reports coming in from wardens, biologists and landowners indicate a good upcoming season.

"We have a good population of ringnecks," Chuck Cosper, warden at Hereford said today, "but, the hunter will have to contend with an abundance of cover that developed after the September rains."

"There is an increase in the acreage of corn and grain and the counties of Deaf Smith, Parmer, and Castro show an increased range of the sporty ringneck," Cosper continued.

Upland hunters are reminded that 33 counties in the Panhandle regulatory district open to pheasant hunting have a stable population of birds but, grain and cover are the key requirements.

"The Northeastern Texas Panhandle grainfields always hold a good supply of pheasant," Gary Merrell, warden commented, "and it looks as though the 1974 season will be an average year."

Pheasant are continuing to spread south across the Panhandle and the South Plains.

"Even though Hale, Lamb and Floyd counties are in the southern section of the open area," Ronnie Ainsworth, Plainview game warden said, "we have a good supply of birds."

"Most of the Playa lakes are full and the birds will be in the grain fields or weed patches this year," Ainsworth stated.

The regulations for pheasant hunting dictates a daily bag limit of two cocks and a possession limit of four cocks after the first day.

The head and feet must remain attached to the pheasant carcass until the birds are delivered to the residence or a commercial processor.

The season for these Chinese imports is from Dec. 14, through Dec. 29, and shooting hours are from one half hour before sunrise to one half hour after sunset daily.

Most pheasant hunters use shotguns with maximum loads of number 4, 6 or 7's, and as the season progresses, the birds will be harder to find and the shooting distances will increase.

Rifles are legal for pheasant hunting but, the chances of a ricocheting bullet or an insufficient backstop increases the hazards of these firearms.

Several complaints have been called in from irate landowners concerning pheasant hunters trespassing on their property.

All sportsmen are reminded that nearly all of Texas is private land and permission to hunt is required either verbally or written from the landowner or controller.

There are several methods of hunting pheasant and the most popular one is to get a hunting party together and line up across the cut grainfields. As the hunters move across the field, birds are kicked up and bagged. It is recommended that all hunters identify their pheasants and tell their hunting companions also.

For individuals or small groups of hunters, small weed patches, irrigation ditches, fence rows, turn rows and small grain fields should be hunted thoroughly.

The ringneck is considered a real tough bird and he will run and stay on the ground if not pushed hard enough.

World Bowl Set Tonight

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) - The World Football League's first championship game, World Bowl I, could be the most intense contest of the season when the Florida Blazers and the Birmingham Americans meet tonight.

Americans Coach Jack Gotta said the World Bowl, scheduled for kickoff at 8 p.m. CST at Legion Field, "will show that much of the negative publicity about the WFL has been wrong. This game will be played with more intensity than any game of the season just because of the adversity these two teams have gone through."

AT TRAVIS

Flag Playoffs Sunday

BOO JOHNSON - Six-three forward Boo Johnson is averaging 20 points a game for Southwestern University (Georgetown, Tex.). Johnson and the Pirates (3-4) will play West Texas State (1-0) tonight in Amarillo.

Detroit Sets Cage Record For Defense

DETROIT (UPI) - The Detroit Pistons set a team defensive record Wednesday night in a 86-69 victory over the Houston Rockets. The 69 for the Rockets was a low for the NBA this season.

Detroit held Houston, which lost its sixth game in a row, to under 20 points in each quarter, the first time the team had done this. By quarters the Rockets scored 16, 17, 18 and 18.

The Pampa Jaycees Men's Flag Football League concluded regular season play last Sunday and will begin its playoffs Sunday afternoon at the Travis Elementary School fields.

First place winners of each division will play the second place teams in the opposite division of the same conference.

Dan Carter (Team 3) finished regular season play with a 6-1 record and won the NFC East title by a game over White Deer (Team 5), which finished at 5-2. In the same division, Barry Sims (Team 4) finished 4-3 and the Pampa Daily News (Team 1) 2-5.

In the NFC West, Forrest Taylor (Team 14) captured first place with a 4-3 mark. Nelson Medley (Team 8) was also 4-3, but lost to Taylor in a conference game. Johnny Clark (Team 10) was third in the division with a 3-4 record.

In the AFC East, Herbert Wilbon (Team 9) ran away with top honors, compiling a perfect 7-0 mark. In second was Gibson's (Team 6) with a 5-2 record, followed by Panhandle Industrial (Team 7) at 4-3 and Cabot Welding School (Team 2) at 0-6-1.

The fourth champion was Leroy Knight (Team 11) of AFC West with a 3-3-1 record. The Harrah Methodist Stars (Team 12) tied with Cabot (Team 13), each with 1-5-1 record, and the two teams tied during the regular season. Since Harrah was beaten 13-0 by Knight, and Cabot lost 19-0 to Knight, Harrah earned the right to represent the AFC West in the playoffs.

Games slated for Sunday include Carter vs. Medley at 12:30 p.m. on the north-south field, White Deer vs. Taylor at 12:30 p.m. on the east-west field, Wilbon vs. Harrah at 1:50 p.m. on the north-south field, and Gibson's vs. Knight at 1:50 on the east-west field.

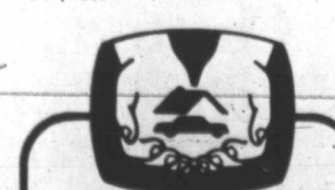

The winner of Carter - Medley will tackle the winner of White Deer - Taylor at 3 p.m. on the north-south field, Wilbon - Harrah will play the winner of Gibson's - Knight at 4 p.m. on the east-west field.

The two conference champions (to be decided Sunday) will play in the 1st

A Locomotive Limousine

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — When O. Clyde Davis and his wife go to antique car meets, they travel in a vehicle that looks like the child of a cross-mating between a limousine and an old-time steam locomotive.

In a lifetime of collecting antique cars, Davis says he has never acquired anything quite like his 1929 Graham Paige touring car outfitted to look like a locomotive, complete with cowcatcher, steam whistle, clanging bell and siren.

The contraption even belches smoke out of its smokestack. The last cylinder on the car's straight-eight engine is baffled off to spew exhaust through the smokestack.

Davis, who will be 80 years old next April, said the strangelooking car was ordered by Paramount Pictures in the heyday of film promotion to use as a publicity vehicle for premieres.

There were at least four of the big seven-passenger vehicles built for use in various parts of the country to transport stars such as Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks in grand style.

Davis has a book that contains a picture of the late band leader Cab Calloway and his wife, Blanche, riding in one of the locomotive limousines, possibly the one Davis now owns.

"Paramount signed a big contract with Graham Paige to build these cars back in 1929," said Davis. "There must have been quite a lot of money involved because of the work they required. The cars were all fixed up by the Baldwin Locomotive Works to look like a steam engine."

"A lot of stuff on the car is authentic railroad equipment. There must be 500 or 600 pounds of brass on the car."

The car has a round metal emblem on the front with the Paramount Pictures logo engraved on it. There is an observation platform built on the back to simulate the platforms that were used by whistle-stopping political candidates of the 1920s.

Everywhere the car appears it becomes an instant conversation piece. Children want to ride it and ring the bell while blowing the whistle and sounding the siren.

Davis declines to say how much he spent for the car which he bought from a 90-year-old Jacksonville dealer. He will say he has between $3,000 and $4,000 invested in it.

"You never can tell," he said. "Somebody might want to buy it someday. You know, there are still some fools like me left in the world."

Arson Climbs As Economy Declines

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Economic woes are stoking the fires of arsonists in Texas.

The number of suspected arsons the state fire marshal has been called in to investigate jumped to 231 during the state's Sept. 1, 1973-Aug. 31, 1974, fiscal year from an annual average of 140 for the past five years.

"It's sort of an economic barometer," said Clint Dare, manager of the Texas Insurance Information

Institute. "When times get bad there are more and more fires."

During the first three months of the current fiscal year, suspicious fires prompted 55 requests for investigations.

"Arson is on the increase," said Gerald Schappe, deputy state fire marshal. Part of the increase in investigation requests is attributed to the State Insurance Board's hiring of additional persons to check out suspicious fires.

But officials in the board's fire prevention office and from insurance companies across the state say the worsening economy also is responsible for increases in incidence of arson.

Schappe said more fires seem to be set out of spite or revenge than to collect insurance, but as economic conditions worsen the incidence of fires set for money increases.

"They don't always have to make money," Schappe said. "Money's tight. Some dude's got a business out here and he can't borrow any more money so it's cheaper for him to sell it to an insurance company. A guy may be $10,000 in the hole and burns his business and winds up $3,000 in the hole. From his point of view he's ahead."

Sometimes such reasoning can backfire even if the arson is not detected. Schappe cites the case of mobile home fires as an example.

"A lot of mobile homes are set on fire. They (owners) want to get out from under the note. They don't know the insurance will only pay off their note. It won't buy them a new trailer. There's no way they can come out ahead."

Bill Harding, chief clerk to the State Insurance Board, said he has received informal reports of increased incidence of arson from insurance companies although industry officials are reluctant to discuss the problem.

"One of the problems is that there are some businessmen that are finding themselves in desperate straits. People (in insurance) are reluctant to talk about this. The companies' traditional position is, 'Let's not talk about this. We might give somebody an idea that they didn't have before,'" Harding said.

Some reports on nationwide statistics on arson indicate the number of fires deliberately set has increased by 200 per cent over the past 10 years.

Austin Fire Chief Bill Pugh said the increase has been nothing like that drastic in the capital although it has gone up steadily—from 16 known arsons and 19 suspicious fires during fiscal 1969 to 36 arsons and 45 suspicious fires during fiscal 1974.

"We are having some increase every year but I don't think it's really alarming because we're also growing. When you have more people and buildings you're going to have more of that kind of fire."

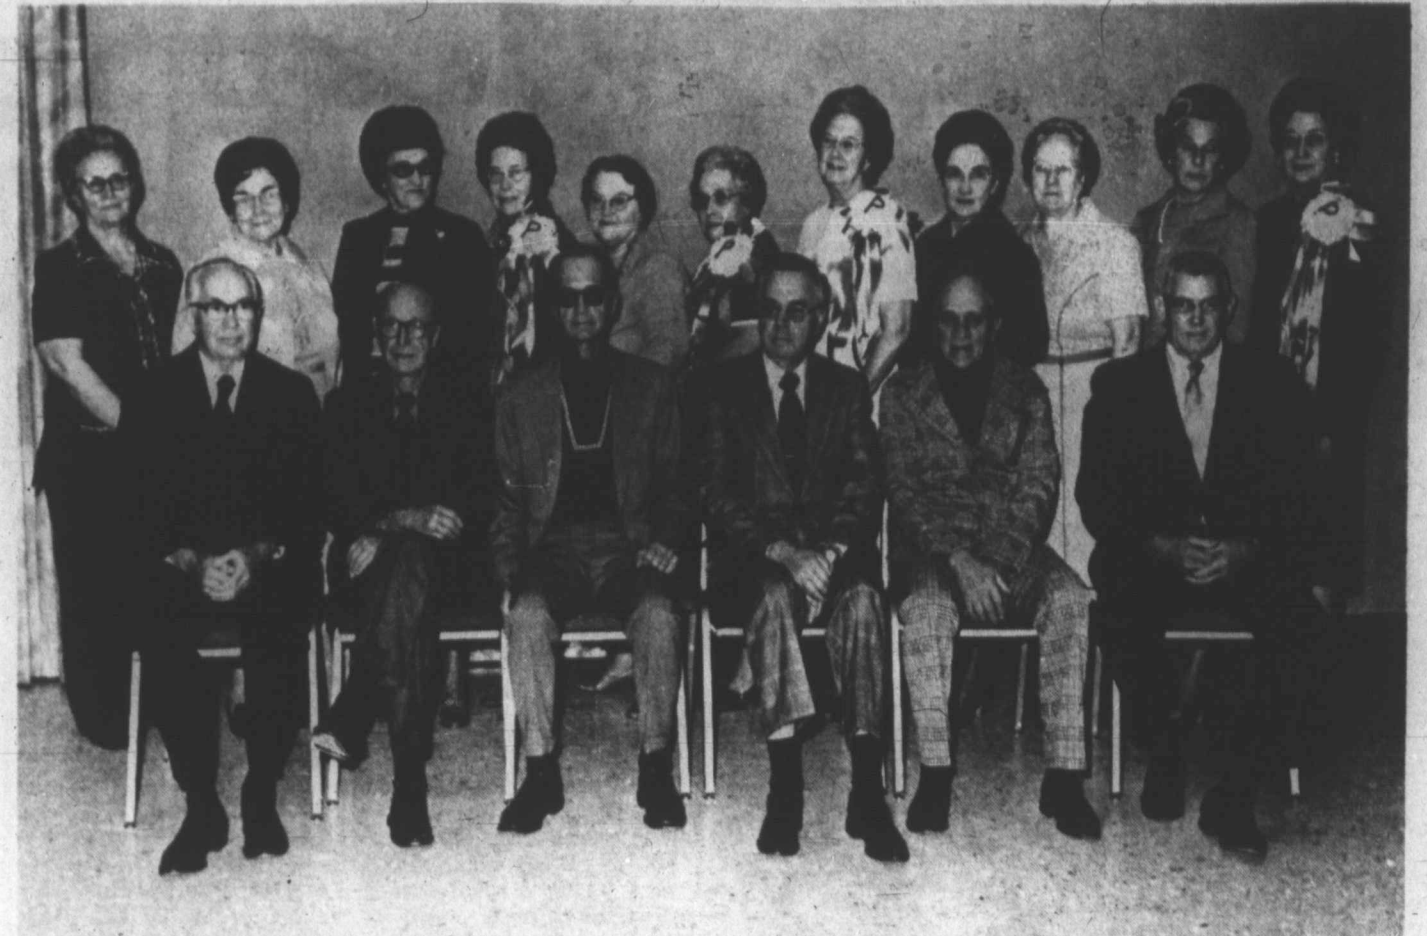

However, when things really get bad in the economy you really have more of these kind of fires. We always say the insurance policies get to rubbing together."

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dean Witter & Co. says "We still advise clients that a selective investment approach is warranted at current market levels." Economic problems cannot be minimized, it continues, "but in our opinion most of the real or potential negatives anticipated for 1975 have already been reflected in the stock prices of many wellcapitalized and effectively managed companies. The firm urges investors to commit more cash reserves near the 600 mark on the Dow Jones Industrial Average than at the 700 level."

The Dines Letter says the current market has hit only a temporary bottom and not a solid bottom. "The bear will return in 1975 in full force and fury," it predicts. "If the stock market caves in from here, and especially if it makes a new low," the letter adds, "sell out immediately."

On Nov. 6, 1972, Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath announced a 90-day freeze on wages, prices, rents in order to curb inflation.

Pampa High School Class Of '24 Convenes For Golden Reunion Day

Pampa High School Graduating Class of 1924 conducted a Golden Reunion here recently with 17 members of the group on hand for a day of remembering. Former classmates spent the afternoon recalling incidents of days gone by, rehearsed football games, like the ones played against West Texas State Teachers College second string, Clarendon College second string and Miami. These were a few gridiron opponents back when D.B. Jameson says about the only requirement for football was to be under 21 years of age.

That year the girls' basketball team, according to 1924 yearbook schedule, wiped out some pretty worthy opponents from Miami, Canadian, White Deer etc. The field house had one room, and "Harvester Stadium" was an improved pasture, but the spirit and competition hasn't changed in the 50 years gone by, a former gridiron star remembers. "High School" that year was the central portion of the old Pampa Junior High building. The original school building was still to the east of the high school building in 1924, and served as a background interest in most of the pictures in the yearbook that year. Other class endeavors are recorded in forms of verse by Monta Carruth Taylor, in the pages of the '24 annual. The favorite subject for rhyme and wit that year seemed to be Fords. The flivver was verse subject on several pages of the publication saved by Jameson.

One ex said later the funniest part of the day was trying to identify former buddies. "We had changed a little," she added.

Classmates together for a Pampa "First" in the form of a fifty year reunion included several former students who still call the city "home."

Gov. Briscoe's Mother Dies, Burial Today

UVALDE, Tex. (UPI) — Mrs. Dolph Briscoe Sr., mother of Gov. Dolph Briscoe, was buried today in a family plot in Fort Bend County, hundreds of miles from the Uvalde ranch where she worked with her late husband to establish an agricultural and banking dynasty.

A memorial service was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. at the Episcopal Church in Uvalde. A graveside service was scheduled for 4:30 p.m. at the family plot in Fulshear, about nine miles north of Rosenberg, in Southeast Texas.

Mrs. Briscoe, 86, died Monday of cancer.

"I am sure all Texans will join us in mourning the loss to our state of one of its finest ladies," said Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby.

Mrs. Briscoe had been in critical condition in Uvalde Memorial Hospital since October.

Briscoe canceled his last weeks of campaign appearances to return to Uvalde where he remained almost constantly until his mother's death.

Georgia Briscoe was born Oct. 1, 1888, to Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery Briscoe of Fort Bend County. Her great uncle, Andrew Briscoe, was one of the signers of the Texas Declaration of Independence.

She married Dolph Briscoe Sr., a distant relative, Oct. 1, 1913, and the couple moved to Uvalde the next year. Briscoe Sr. acquired large cattle, sheep and goat ranching interests and opened a commission warehouse for wool and mohair.

He became a national leader in ranching and related financing before his death July 16, 1954.

Dolph Briscoe Jr., who was elected governor in 1972 and reelected last month, was their only child.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Frank Williford Jr., of Bellaire; two brothers, Mason and Andrew of Fort Bend County; and three grandchildren, Mrs. Ed Vaughn of San Antonio, Dolph Briscoe III, a senior at the University of Texas at Austin, and Cele Briscoe, a freshman at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

GREEK CIVIL WAR

On Dec. 5, 1944, civil war flared in Greece between left-liberal factions and British-supported rightists.

By P. MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — "Part of my mission," said Dr. Lee Salk, "is to make parenthood a male function, too."

That may sound strange to you, but Dr. Salk, psychologist and pediatrician, said in an interview that most people think just of mothers when they hear the word parenthood.

Not only that, but books on pregnancy, childbirth and infancy concern themselves mainly with motherhood. "Fatherhood," said Dr. Salk, "comes in for separate treatment a lot of the time. I change all that in my book, aiming it at parenthood — mothers and fathers."

He was talking about "Preparing for Parenthood" (McKay), which is all about parents-to-be and their feelings about pregnancy, childbirth and infants.

Dr. Salk is director of pediatric psychology at the New York Hospital and professor of psychology and pediatrics at Cornell University Medical College. Dr. Jonas Salk, who developed a polio vaccine, is his brother. So is Dr. Herman Salk, a veterinarian in Palm Springs, Calif. "A child's growing up emotionally sound has its roots in sound parenting. Nothing is more important than preparation," Dr. Salk said.

"My feeling is that persons have not been prepared for the emotional impact of parenthood and that many are unable to cope."

"I think too many persons slip into parenthood passively — without giving it a second thought or maybe even a serious first thought. "If a person realized what was involved, decided he couldn't cope, then maybe he should consider not becoming a parent."

"Those considering parenthood should realize it's hard to keep a house neat and clean when you're raising children."

"And they should know that his new person in the family will take a lot of time and attention — for years."

Dr. Salk, in talking about the stresses and realities, suggested that children be spaced three years apart. This minimizes sibling rivalry. It also would spread out the parental stresses and strains.

In the book, Dr. Salk focuses on feelings and situations that face new fathers and mothers — including emotional ambivalence that frequently accompanies incipient parenthood.

Dr. Salk believes in the involvement of the father-to-be in the birth experience. In the book he takes up natural childbirth; rooming in at the hospital, which he feels helps both parents gain confidence and gives both a much-needed opportunity for mutually beneficial contact with baby. The baby stays in the room with the mother in hospitals having "rooming in."

He also talks about how to handle advice, both good and bad, from friends and relatives. "Such advice," he said, "can undermine your confidence."

"Emotional stability during adolescence and adulthood has been proved over and over again to be significantly influenced by what happens during the very first years of life," Dr. Salk said.

I asked Dr. Salk if a course in "parenthood" for high school students would be a good idea — letting young men and young women know what's involved.

"I wouldn't call it parenthood and I wouldn't have it in high school," he said.

"I would call it Human Survival Training and I would want it to be a mandatory course in junior high school or younger."

"It would cover food, shelter, clothing and care of the young."

Dr. Salk said he taught "care of the young" to a junior high class in New York City not long ago.

"They were not too young," he said.

Television In Review

By F.S. SWERTLOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — The next glass of water you drink may kill you!

It may be hard to believe, but Thursday night, CBS Reports, "Caution: Drinking Water May Be Dangerous to Your Health," shows why water pollution has become a national problem that has been avoided with shocking results.

For instance: —The drinking water in many parts of Vermont, Florida, Colorado and California is contaminated with bacteria that have caused outbreaks in disease.

—Pollutants suspected of causing cancer have been found in the Mississippi and Ohio River drinking supplies.

—The germ killer chlorine is now combining with industrial pollutants to create more dangerous chemicals.

—And finally, there is a lack of communication between science and technology, and bureaucrats and the man on the street.

Many people who see this show will sound the clarion that this is another hysterical documentary trying to grab a headline. They may say, my water smells okay; it looks okay; so what's wrong?

The point CBS drives home with an abundance of evidence is that although water may be colorless and odorless, killer pollutants are present, but no one is mobilizing the country to do something about them.

As Dr. Samuel Epstein, a cancer researcher, said: "Don't alarm the public!" is a familiar outcry by people who either have an economic interest in the particular product or by regulatory agencies and officials whose conduct would become open to public inspection when the public realizes the hazards to which they have been exposed.

"And I think very serious questions have to be raised against a great number of people in authority in this country for having allowed the continued exposure of human populations to chemical carcinogens in water."

One of the most telling scenes in the show is a news conference in New Orleans at which federal officials confirm that cancer causing substances exist in the city's water supply.

One scientist said the cancer rate of Orleans Parish was "greater than the national average," and he admitted "it could be related to water consumption."

Offbeat vacations in faraway places

By HAROLD McCONNELL
Travel Editor
Copley News Service

If you're looking for an off-beat vacation, there's a 23-day "Stone Age Trek" during which you spend a week in Papua, New Guinea, visiting mountains and jungles, and villages along the Sepik River. It also includes a trip to Fiji, Australia and the North Island of New Zealand. Land portion of the trip is priced at $1,463 a person. The package is offered by Japan & Orient Tours and Air New Zealand.

Another faraway place you may wish to consider visiting is Sri Lanka — which is still known as Ceylon and is part of the British Commonwealth. The name was changed to Sri Lanka (meaning Resplendent Land) in 1972. The island, 27 miles long and 140 miles wide, has ruins at Anuradhapura dating back to the 4th Century B.C., lobster dinners for $2, sapphires and rubies at relatively low prices, botanical gardens and fine beaches.

The remote islands in Hong Kong waters are being explored by the Hong Kong Tourist Association and a leading tour operator. They hope to develop sight-seeing trips for visitors. Visits have been made to Lamna Island, Cheung Chau, Peng Chau and Lantau, as well as lesser-known areas.

If you make Bergen the first or last overnight stop on a flight to or from the United States or Canada, you can enjoy a "Day on the Norwegian." This includes free meals, snacks, drinks and sight-seeing. Among other things you can buy your own fish at the waterfront and have it cooked free of charge at one of the Hanseatic Houses.

The 17,000-ton Sun Princess will sail on three 10-day voyages to the "Mexican Riviera" during January. Ports of call will be Puerto Vallarta, Manzanillo, Acapulco and Mazatlan. There will be Mexican entertainment, classes in Mexican arts and crafts, as well as Mexican food and dancing.

If you're traveling in Kentucky, you'll find 10 of the state's resort parks open all winter — at reduced rates. Between now and March 31, the rates are $9.50 a night for one person and $14 for two persons, with no charge for children 12 and under.

UNITY MESSAGE
On Dec. 4, 1970, Pope Paul VI addressed a message of unity to all Chinese from Hong Kong as he completed his Asian tour.
