GIRL ALONE

by ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

Sally Ford is "farmed out" to Clem Carson, prosperous farmer, the summer she is 16, and leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known since she was four. At the farm she finds a friend in David Nash, student and an athlete. Carson is angered because David prefers the little orphan to his daughter, Pearl. When he makes insulting remarks about Sally, David hits him a terrific blow.

David and Sally run away and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

The "midget," "Pitty Sing," takes a fancy to Sally and warns her to beware of Mrs. Bybee, wife of the carnival owner, promises Sally she will go to Stanton and see if she can find any news about Sally's mother. Sally has told her about her years in the orphanage and that the only information she has about her mother is that she lived in Stanton at one time. Later in the morning when Mrs. Bybee sends for her, she goes with anxious heart.

CHAPTER XXII

"Poor kid!" David consoled her after her first almost hysterical outburst. "I can't talk to you now, and you shouldn't be here. You've got to go back for your last performance. The show has to go on. They've been down to us, and we can't throw them over without warning."

"But David, we've got to run away again!" Sally whimpered, clinging to both his arms. "I have my shoulders in anticipation of his words, helping to lead the carnival for its 30-mile drag to the capital. 'We can't go back to capital city. We'll be caught! Listen, David—'

"Go back to your show tent," David commanded her sternly. "I'll be working pretty late helping to load up, but I'll whistle a bar for 'Always' under your Pullman window. We'll sleep on the train tonight, and pull out for Capital City some time before morning. We pick up the engine at three o'clock. I believe. Plenty of time then to decide what to do." He shook her a little to make her stop shivering and whimpering with fear. "Buck up, honey! I'm not going to let the police get you, neither is Pop Bybee. Dear little Sally! and she stooped from his great height to brush the tip of his short, brown-powdered nose with his lips.

guys think I am. I'm on to your tricks—been going to carnivals man and boy for 50 years."

With his eyes as remote and sad and patient as if he had not heard or understood a word of the constable's insult, Jan obeyed, rolling his trousers to the knees. When the Doubting Thomas representative of the law had plucked the pale, putty-colored flesh of Jan's pitifully thin calves and found them to be flesh-and-blood indeed, he passed on, red of face, furious at the snorts of laughter which filled the tent.

"What if he takes a notion to wash my face?" Sally shivered, bending low in an attitude of mystic concentration over the crystal which she was pretending to read for a farmer's wife who had no interest in Boffo, the human ostrich, but who did have perfect faith in the powers of "Princess Lalla."

"What if he is just pretending to be interested in the other freaks and is really looking for me? Has Nita dared to tip him off that Sally Ford is here?" But her little sing-song voice droned on, predicting prosperity and happiness and "a journey by land and sea" for the credulous farmer's wife.

"What's your real name, sister?" the constable demanded loudly, officiously tapping up the steps that led to the little platform.

"Please," Sally pleaded, prettily making her eyes wide and cloudy with mystic visions, "do not interrupt! The law don't have to pay, and I'll run you in for obtaining money under false pretenses. Come on, now! Miz Holtzman has already give you a good tip-off, and I guess my star speaks for itself. Knowing my name and my business, you oughta be able to take a pretty good line for me, but if you don't let me my wifed name, how many kids I got, where I come from, and anything else I'm a-mind to ask you, I'll make you a present of free board and lodging at the county's expense."

Unknown to Sally, whose eyes were fixed, blind with fear, upon the crystal tightly cupped in her ice-cold palms, Gus, the Barker, had drawn near enough to hear the constable's threats and demands.

"Sure, officer!" he boomed heartily, to Sally's amazement, "just ask the little lady anything you like. She sees all, knows all. Step right up, folks, and hear Princess Lalla, favorite crystal-gazer to the Sultan of Turkey before she escaped from his harem. Tell you the truth, the whole truth, and something besides lies and lies and lies. Things that are going to happen to him that officer Sam don't yet dream of! Step right up, folks! Don't be bashful! Step up and get an earful about your esteemed fellow-townsmen and officers of the law."

Sally felt the ice melting slowly in her veins. Dear Gus! He was stalling.

gaining time, subtly frightening the constable, whose face had gone redder and redder, whose eyes glimmered with furtive unease from the crystal to the grinning faces of his "fellow-townsmen," who apparently had no great love for Constable Sam Pelton.

Then that which Gus had arranged by means of a code signal took place between the two "schillers," hastily summoned by a carnival employe, suddenly broke into loud curses and sharp, slapping blows which echoed in the instantly quiet tent.

"Pick my pocket, would you?" the saucy voice of a "schiller" demanded between slaps and punches. "I seen you—sneakin' your hand in my pocket!"

Constable Pelton, glad to be able to assert his authority, glad also, possibly, to escape a too intimate revelation of his past, bounded from the platform, collared the fighting "schillers," and dragged them triumphantly away.

When the last stragglers of the carnival crowd had been ushered rather unceremoniously from the tent, Sally rose from her chair and pattered swiftly to where Gus, the Barker, stood talking with Pop Bybee, owner and manager of Bybee's Bigger and Better Carnival.

"Thank you, Gus! I was scared nearly to death! It was wonderful the way you stalled along till those two rubes—"

"Please," Sally pleaded, prettily, with carnival lingo—"got into a fight with a fellow—got into a fight with a fellow—got into a fight with a fellow—"

"Hell, kid!" Gus grinned at her and tilted his derby more rakishly over his left eye. "It was a frameup. Them's the boys. The guy that pretended to have his pocket picked will swear he made a mistake, and the worst old Sam can do is to have 'em fined for disorderly conduct. I'll square it with 'em, and they'll be in Capital City by show-time."

"Pop Bybee included, didn't he?" Sally's bright, pale-blue eyes gleaming with the lobster-red expanse of his old face.

"Didn't I tell you, child, that the law couldn't touch you long as you stuck with the carnival? Dave tells me you're babbling about running away again because we're hitting the trail for your home town tonight. You stick, Sally. Pop Bybee and Gus and the rest of us will take care of you."

Sally's lips parted to tell him of Nita's threat to tip off the police if she did not relinquish her claim upon David's love and friendship, but before the first word tumbled out, the old inhibition against tattling, taught her in the stern school of life in an orphanage, restrained her.

"You're all so good to me," she choked, then turned abruptly away to where "Pitty Sing," the midget, was impatiently awaiting her human sedan-chair.

"I don't want to influence you unduly," the midget piped in her prim, high little voice, "but Mr. Bybee and Gus are right. You are safer with the carnival than anywhere else in the state, and if you run away I should be very sorry, I like you, Sally, I like you very much."

The dress tent was taken down by the "white hopes" almost before the women performers had had time to change from show clothes to night-gowns and kimonos. By 12 o'clock the lot was as bare of tents and booths and ferris wheels and motordromes and "whips" and merry-go-rounds as if those mechanical symbols of joy and fun had never existed.

And Sally lay on the lumpy, smelly mattress of her upper berth in the ancient Pullman car, waiting for her David's whistled signal—a bar of "Always." She was fully dressed.

"The heart sang the words—'Tlebe: loving you—always! Not for just an hour, not for just a day, not for just a year, but always!'"

She could have sent word to David by Gus or Pop Bybee that she had given up her frantic plan to run away; that he need not meet her in the darkness of the pulsing, hot June night. But she had not.

It came then—clear and true, the whistled notes of the song which her heart sang to David—"I'll be loving you—always!"

She edged over the side of the berth, the toe of her slipper groping until it found the edge of the lower berth in which the midget was sleeping. When she was safe in the aisle she cast a fearful glance up and down the car and noted with uneasy surprise that Nita's berth, directly opposite the midget's, was still unoccupied, the green curtains spread wide so that the grayish-white blur of the sheet and pillow was plainly discernible in the faint light from the one electric globe over the door.

Wichita Falls Impressive When Exporters Lose

Results of their first two games indicate that the Wichita Falls Spuders may live up to prognostications of those who picked them as outstanding contenders for the pennant in the Texas league this year.

Joe Kiefer held the Spuders to one run, two hits and six errors in their first game. Individual honors went to Ziggy Sears of the Spuders, however, who recorded two hits in four times up.

The Dallas Steers got revenge for defeat on the previous day by winning the first game of the season at Dallas 4 to 1, as a result of McCoy's good hitting and hasty clotting in the fifth and sixth.

Grover Alexander Starts Off With Brilliant Shut-Out

(By The Associated Press.) Grover Cleveland Alexander still wears with dignity the appellation of "Alex the Great."

The burden of 41 summers, not to mention winters, apparently rests lightly upon the broad shoulders of this old knight of baseball wars.

Entering upon his 18th major league season, he turned back the champion Pirates without a run in the lists at St. Louis yesterday while his cardinal mates triumphed by 5 to 0.

Alexander's effectiveness in keeping the Corsairs' seven singles well scattered puts a more threatening aspect on the Cardinal pennant hopes. Figuring exhibition performances in the spring training exercises, it marked nineteen scoreless innings for the veteran right hander.

Opposing old Alex on the hill was Burleigh Grimes, who was back in Pittsburgh harness after an absence of ten years during which time he played with the Robins and Giants.

The Cincinnati Redlegs joined the Chicago Cubs for the second consecutive day, this time by 9 to 3, a six-run flurry in the eighth inning breaking a tie of three-all. With the bases loaded and two down in the eighth, English bungled in fielding Kelly's roller, allowing a run to trickle in.

Cold and wet grounds forced idleness upon other big league outfits.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any anonymous reflection upon the character, standing, or reputation of any individual, firm, concern, or corporation that may appear in the columns of the Pampa Daily News will be gladly corrected when called to the attention of the editor.

THERE HAS BEEN AN instinctive feeling that The Bremen would make Mitchell field or some other North American landing point during the day.

The facts that the plane once broke an endurance record and that Captain Koehl is one of the best aviator-scientists probably inspire unusual hope. A roaring motor, however, is a dangerous thing upon which to risk human lives.

The press dispatch that a new motor, or turbine, operated from exploding gas pressure, may revolutionize transportation is highly interesting. Power is still in a crude stage of development, especially for airplane use.

OUR FINE ARTS

Wednesday's editorial on what music can mean to a city has caused the attention of The News to be called to the dramatic arts as well, and the fact that there is much talent available for most any kind of stage presentation a director might desire.

It is likely that a move will be started soon to develop and utilize this talent, with organization of a Little Theatre of greater proportions at a later date in prospect. Aside from the pleasure derived by the patrons of such productions, the enjoyment of those participating is a great factor.

In urging fuller development of local music, it was not the intention of the editorial to review every activity, but to cite a few examples. All of the Pampa churches are stressing music to the largest degree possible. Each has its soloists, most have orchestras as well, and special Easter music was featured by nearly all last Sunday.

Other clubs and organizations are developing quartets and stressing better group singing. The younger generation should be given full opportunity to develop its artistic ability, for the future Pampa will greatly profit thereby. Art grows by individual development, then by grouping. Within the near future Pampa should merge her talent for occasional productions of larger proportions.

Sound Your "A", Professor!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—These be happy days for Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter, candidate for the presidency.

The senator is confident that he has the nomination sewed up. He has spent no money, of which he has very little, nor even any time or wind, of which he has plenty. Today he hasn't a single delegate and therein according to Senator McWhorter, lies his great strength.

"It was a hard struggle, but it's over now," said McWhorter in a recent exclusive interview. "I thought for a while that I might get the delegation from my own state, but my fears were groundless.

"My nomination is as sure as a speech by Tom Hefflin. It is an infallible political rule that the candidate with the most delegates at the start of the convention is never nominated. By the law of compensation and converse, it follows necessarily that the man who comes in with the least delegates of all has the best chance of all to cop the little red apple. "And no man has any fewer delegates than I have. There are some men who haven't any more, but none of them are actual candidates.

"Who can deny that the great curse of a presidential candidate is delegates?

"My good friend and esteemed public servant, Jim Watson, will have 33 of them if he's unlucky. That means my majority over Jim is 33.

"Yessir, this campaign of mine is based on the new strategy—that was Warren Harding's strategy, only it was pretty hard to nominate him because he had a few delegates. If John Davis hadn't had a few delegates in 1924 it wouldn't have taken 674 ballots to nominate him, either.

"The only man I have to fear now is Vice President Dawes, who is playing the same game, but he'll probably come in and spoil himself by getting delegates on early ballots. None of the ballots count except the last.

"Maybe some Chicago politician will say something nasty about me in the next couple of months. Then I can ride to the convention in an army tank and get my picture in every newspaper in America as the candidate who defied the bombs. That'll take care of the publicity.

"Just watch me go after those southern delegates! Nobody dares pay 'em any money this year for votes and they're pretty discouraged. But after I bring a carload of watermelons outside the hall and invite them en masse, every one of these fine dusky boys will march back in carrying a McWhorter banner."

TWINKLES

The mayor of Reedsville, Mo., is out of a job—the last inhabitant except himself moved away. Truly, no matter how great a man is, honor comes from his fellows.

Some people in this country seem to think Pampa is another Chicago from an election standpoint, but we would hate to think any city with 1,500 gas meters couldn't poll all the votes that we did March 9, and more too.

Old-fashioned love must be wonderful, if that is what caused a Kansas City girl to ask a judge to jail her fiancé to break his whiskey habit before marriage.

However, that is considerably more logical than to leave the job to after marriage. Reform movements in the home are never sweet, despite the fact that a woman killed her husband with a sugar bowl this week.

San Angelo has issued $40,000 in emergency warrants to purchase an airport. In San Angelo, as in Pampa, a little emergency work would have been a lot better.

Calisthenics is a part of the daily routine of policemen in Santa Barbara, Cal. Kindly explain the big word to the children, for they'd never guess it by looking at the average policeman.

The Starbeams writer in the Kansas City Star says he can enough silk to "swish". Remember when girls were probably the only swish he hears now is from automobiles that barely miss him.

The man who says he has never failed to see the sun rise must be a Londoner.

BARBS

(By N.E.A. Service Inc.)

Mumtax Begum, dancing girl, plans to take the Maharajah of Indore away from his American spouse. Mumtez told Sikh reporters. Don't tell us that even the reporters are getting Sikh over the whole thing!

Judging from the scope of the D. A. R. blacklist, it would have been much easier for them to draw up a list of speakers they would listen to.

A Chicago husband sought a divorce from his wife because she smoked a cigar. Oh, well, girls, a husband is a husband, but a good cigar is a smoke.

Maybe Rickard will have to boost the prices a little on this Tunney-Heeny fight. Otherwise the customers never will think it's worth going to see.

Almost time for the hoggalling contest—or, is it husband-calling? We always get them mixed up.

Our idea of a poor sport and officer is one who will do in private what he helps to punish others for doing more or less in public.

Mrs. W. A. Bratton Directs Christian Easter Cantata

Another Easter cantata rendered in our city that deserves mention in that one given by the choir at the Christian church under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Bratton.

The thought expressed in the title "The Living Lord," was outstanding throughout, and was so deeply impressive that the large audience gathered in the auditorium was attentive from the opening solo sung by Mrs. J. B. Townsend accompanied by the choir in the singing of the chorus to the last lingering note of the final glorious "Amen."

Mrs. Bratton had given untiring effort to make the cantata a success and her work was well rewarded by the words of commendation heard after the service. Mrs. Bratton also took one of the solo parts. Other solos were those of Miss Lula Hutchins, DeLea Vicars, and Mrs. J. B. Townsend.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Transfiguration and Service.

Scripture Lesson: Mark 9:2-8, 17, 18, 25, 29.

2. And after six days Jesus taketh with him Peter, James, John, and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart by themselves; and he transfigured before them;

3. And his garments became glistening, exceeding white, so as no earth can whiten them.

4. And there appeared unto them Elijah with Moses; and they were talking with Jesus.

5. And Peter answereth and saith to Jesus, Rabbi, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.

6. For he knew not what to answer; for they became sore afraid.

7. And there came a cloud overshadowing them; and there came a voice out of the cloud. This is my beloved Son; hear ye him.

8. And suddenly looking around about, they saw no one any more, save Jesus only with themselves.

17. And one of the multitude answered him, Teacher, I brought unto thee my son, who hath a dumb spirit;

18. And whosoever he taketh him, it dasheth him down; and he foameth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away; and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast it out; and they were not able.

25. And when Jesus saw the multitude came running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I command thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26. And having cried out, and torn him much, he came out; and the boy became as one dead; inasmuch that the more part said, He is dead.

27. But Jesus took him by the hand, and raised him up; and he arose.

28. And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him privately, how is that we could not cast it out?

29. And he said unto them, this kind can come out by nothing, save by prayer.

TIME—The transfiguration occurred in the summer of A. D. 29, the third year of Christ's ministry.

PLACE—On one of the ridges radiating from Mt. Hermon, and also at the foot of the ridge.

GOLDEN TEX—He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit; for apart from me ye can do nothing.—John 15:5.

INTRODUCTION

Our Lord and His disciples had gone to the most northern limit of Palestine, the region of Caesarea Philippi, and there we find them in today's lesson.

We are to study the event which, of all the happenings of Christ's life save only the resurrection, must have seemed to the disciples and most surprising and the clearest evidence of His deity.

This was six days after Peter's bold and complete acknowledgement of Jesus as the son of God, the prophesied That great confession was a fit prelude to the disclosure of Christ's deity in the wonderful event we are to study. Confession precedes illumination.

The Three Chosen Disciples

"Jesus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John." "Peter who loved Jesus so much, John whom Jesus loved so much, James who first of the apostles was to bear witness in martyrdom to his love for the Lord." These three were the inner circle of the Twelve, those closest to Jesus, the three who, with the exception of Paul, were to lead all Christians in the service of the Saviour. They had been singled out to witness the raising of the daughter of Jairus from the dead, and they alone were to share Christ's anguished vigil in Gethsemane.

"Apart by themselves." "St. Luke (9:28) tells us that one object of His own withdrawal was that he might engage in solitary prayer. We may infer, therefore (comparing Luke 9:27) that evening was the time of this solitary retirement. The fact that it was night must have infinitely enhanced the grandeur of the scene."

Moses and Elijah, v. 4.

"And there appeared unto them Moses and Elijah." Moses the great law giver; Elijah, the great prophet. In Jesus was the fulfillment of both the law and the prophets. Both had gone to the Glory Land from the same general section, the rough mountains east of the Jordan river. But they had gone years apart. Moses had been invited by Jehovah to the top of Pisgah and there he died and had a celestial funeral. Elijah had been translated, going to heaven in a whirlwind (2 Kings 2:11), accompanied by a chariot of fire and horses of fire.

Both are alive, conscious and are taking place in this world. The conversation of Jesus with Moses and Elijah is true a narrative as is the account of the baptism of Jesus, or any other incident in the life of him.

Three Tabernacles, v. 5.

"Let us make three tabernacles." The Feast of the Tabernacle was near at hand. The Jews celebrated this feast in the fall when all the fruits of the earth had been gathered. All of the male population were to gather at Jerusalem and live in booths during the continuation of the feast.

And note how unselfish was his request that he and his fellow disciples should be allowed to make three tabernacles, "one for three, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah." He and James and John would dwell out in the cold.

The Sleepy Disciples, v. 6.

"For he knew not what to answer." Peter was in a half dazed condition because he was so tired and sleepy (Luke 9:32). There is no wonder that Peter did not know what to say. He and the other disciples missed a part of it because they went to sleep. There had been a long hard climb; and they were tired. It was probably far into the night. Just as it wiled to the other occasion when they went to sleep. In the garden of Gethsemane he found sleep three times (Mark 14:37, 40, 41). Sleepy Christians miss a good many things.

"And there came a voice out of the cloud." It was the voice of God the Father. Always keeping watch above his own, the Father is deeply concerned for the Son and those whom he had come to save.

A cloud settled on the tabernacle in the wilderness to indicate the presence of Jehovah. When Solomon built the temple a cloud filled it to indicate the presence of Jehovah. (1 Kings 8:10). These three men with Jesus knew the Old Testament Scriptures and they understood the cloud to indicate the presence of Deity. It is therefore natural that "they feared as they entered into the cloud." (9:34 Luke).

"Good to the last drop"

"JUST like choosing and mixing the ingredients for a new sauce—only far more difficult!" So one noted cook has described the delicate art of coffee blending! Coffee added to coffee—taste joined with taste!

It was to create a flavor no single coffee grown could yield, that a southerner started years ago in the old South on his great work of blending.

A special shade of richness, a wonderful mingling of many coffees—this was what he finally perfected. Years ago his blend, Maxwell House Coffee, became the favorite of the great families of Dixie.

Today the full-bodied smoothness of this blend has swiftly made it by far the largest selling coffee in the entire country.

A new experience awaits you in the mellow liquor and rich fragrance of Maxwell House Coffee.

Friday 13 Cheated of Executions When Stays Are Granted

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP)—Friday the 13, a favorite date for Illinois executions, has been cheated of three victims through court stays and a gubernatorial reprieve.

Charles Birger, Southern Illinois gangster, convicted for the slaying of Mayor Joe Adams of West city, was one of those whose execution was to have taken place today but who lives on an insanity plea because of last minute intervention by a circuit judge at Benton. Dr. Amati Rongetti, believed to have been the first man sentenced to death on a murder charge based on abortion, also was saved from execution today because of court action.

Joseph Bella, who confessed slaying Mrs. Julia Flaherty of Danville, Ill., mother of seven children, was the third of the trio of convicted Illinois murderers for whom Friday the 13th of April had been fixed for death. Every preparation for his electrocution had been completed the Chester State penitentiary when a reprieve until May 22 was issued by Governor Small. The reprieve was recommended by the board of pardons and paroles.

Had there been no intervention, Bella would have been the first man in Illinois to die in the electric chair. Birger would have been the last, having his conviction having come before the law replacing the gallows with the chair became effective.

Dr. Rongetti, Chicago physician, also is under sentence to electrocution execution of the sentence being held up until the state supreme court cur rule on his appeal.

Girl Alone--

But she had no time now to worry about Nita or Nita's threats. David was awaiting her—with the song still humming its sweet, extravagant promise in his heart. Or—was it? Had he chosen the song idly? Had he meant anything by that teasing kiss on the tip of her nose, by his "Dear little Sally!"

"Being in love hurts something terrible," Sally shook her head at her own turbulent emotions, unconsciously employing the homely language of the orphanage. "But even if he doesn't love me I'm glad I love him. David, David!" (To Be Continued)

Sally hears the words she has been longing for from David's lips. In the next chapter.

The Afflicted Boy, v. 17.
"Master, I brought unto thee my son." The fame of Jesus had spread far and wide. Here in the land of Syria comes a man with his afflicted son. Jesus was in the land in order to get away from the multitude, but that was impossible. The man whose son was so sorely afflicted had no doubt heard that Jesus was in the region and so he brought his son to Jesus. Finding him gone, he appealed to the disciples to heal him.

But they could not do it. Why? They had cured the sick. They had been on tours and healed many. But they could do nothing in this instance. Jesus the Healer, v. 27.

"But Jesus took him by the hand and raised him up." The scribes had gotten in their work. They had been asked all kinds of embarrassing questions. The disciples were powerless because they did not have sufficient faith. "O Faithless Generation," said Jesus. They had been trying in their own power to solve the problem. Jesus is the solution to all of the world's problems. "Bring him to me," said Jesus. The same gracious words are spoken to us in this generation. Bring to Jesus your problems—problems of suffering, disease, sin, demon possessed people.

Life after Death.
"There appeared unto them Elijah with Moses." Death does not end life. The grave is the robing room where we dress for eternity. Death is the servant who opens the door into our Father's house. Victor Hugo in his later years said, "When I go down to the grave, I can't say, like so many others, 'I have finished my life.' My day's work will begin the next morning. My tomb is not a blind alley, it is a thoroughfare; it closes with the twilight to open with the dawn." A Scotchman said, "It matters little to me whether I live or die. If I die I will be with Jesus, and if I live, Jesus will be with me."

Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners Court will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the second Monday in May, same being the 14th day of May, A. D. 1928, the old court house building which is now located at Lefors, Texas, and the Delco plant which is located in and near the old court house building.

WORST IOWA BLIZZARD

EMMETSBURG, Iowa, April 13.—(AP)—The worst blizzard of the season was raging at noon today in this vicinity. Two inches of snow had fallen since 10 o'clock this morning. The storm showing no sign of abating.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 13.—(AP)—For the second time in a week a heavy snowstorm swept parts of Minnesota and the Dakotas today accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature.

Location---

"Communities without roads cannot keep pace with the towns and both suffer," Mr. Ely said. "And I want you to bear in mind that the commission is established to build 'state systems of roads and that you are merely voting money to help the state.'"

The commission appeared impressed with the proposed highway north across the Canadian river to Liberal, and the proposal may have a distinct bearing upon the route of Highway 33 to Miami. Mr. Ely and Mr. Sterling were emphatic in their statements that connected systems, wide roads and short routes must be insisted upon by the commission. Location of routes, they insisted, is an engineering detail.

"These people have the money voted and ready, and I don't see why a route location should not be made at once," Mr. Ely told Engineer Gilchrist. Delayed by Punctures

The state officials spent last night in Memphis, and proceeded here by way of Clarendon, although their announced itinerary did not call for their coming to Pampa. Five punctures this morning delayed their trip so much that they did not remain here for lunch, but proceeded to Panhandle. They expect to reach Lubbock by nightfall and tomorrow will proceed into New Mexico to inspect suggested connecting highways in that state.

Commissioner Cone Johnson, third member of the highway body, could not be present. While the visit of the party was impromptu, a good representation of local and Miami men was assembled at the Chamber of Commerce, and it was the opinion after the meeting that the occasion should expedite Gray county road building.

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP)—Along some 1,000 miles of the north American seacoast eyes and ears today sought a solution of the latest mystery of the skies.

was pointed out, however, that much of the route would lie off shore and that at the previous rate of flight, the plane could not be expected at New York before 2:30 p. m., Central time. It was believed to have sufficient fuel for flight one hour after that.

A plane reported passing Popham Beach, a mine, at 1:20 p. m., developed later to have been a biplane, while the Bremen is a monoplane.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., April 13.—(AP)—A crowd of about 1,000 persons broke into cheers and rushed police lines guarding the flying field this morning when a plane the watchers believed to be the trans-Atlantic Bremen swooped to ground.

The plane proved to be the Junker C-38, sister ship of The Bremen, arriving from Curtis field, one mile away.

The crowds began gathering early and by 8 o'clock the road along the edge of the field was crowded. The weather was perfect with sunny skies and a fresh westerly breeze.

The Bremen was not seriously expected for several hours, but the watchers scanned the skies ceaselessly. Because of the fine weather a large crowd was anticipated at the field and 500 soldiers were assigned to police duty. Besides this fifty patrolmen of the Nassau county police and 24 motorcycle police were on duty.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Along some 1,000 miles of the north American seacoast eyes and ears today sought a solution of the latest mystery of the skies.

The mystery began at 2:05 a. m. Eastern Standard time Tuesday when the German plane Bremen headed from Costello, Galway, Ireland, westward over the Atlantic, its German-Irish putting trust in God and relying on such mechanical preparations as man could devise. A day and a night passed without further word from them.

Yet hopes ran higher than in the cases of three other westbound trans-Atlantic planes which were lost with five men and two women. Hours passed without any indication that the Bremen's venture might have failed or would fail.

Conditions Are Fair Conditions at sea were reasonable, so far as knowledge went. At least the possible disturbances were light from all evidence. The Bremen took enough gas to keep it in the air until after 4:38 Eastern Standard time this afternoon, or 40 hours from its departure in Baldonnel airdrome, near Dublin at 12:33 E. S. T. (12:33 a. m. C. S. T.) a 12:38 Eastern Standard time, Thursday morning.

Shortly after midnight this morning the plane was due to make a landing, either Newfoundland or Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, should its course be a bit further south. The early morning hours passed without her being reported. But this gave no cause for alarm. Aviators pointed out that it would be scarcely possible for the plane to have made a landfall after 2,000-mile water jump and unseen on sparsely settled coast during the dark, to have turned toward its destination, Mitchell field, Long Island, New York, 1,000 miles away.

At Mitchell field the assumption was that all was well; that sometime this afternoon the silver grey monoplane would be seen flying the flags of Imperial Germany and the Irish Free State and, in honor of the flyers' hosts the Stars and stripes.

"We are not afraid to come back again," he said. "I don't go in for the do or die stuff. We will fight storms but if we can't get through we will come home."

The Bremen carries no lifesaving apparatus and has neither life buoys nor wireless aboard. The plane has, no pontoons and should it descend to the sea, experts said, the all-metal construction provides practically no buoyancy. Its whole fate rests on the roaring motor.
