CHILDRESS, April 21.—(Special)—Pampa was selected as the 1929 convention city of the Panhandle Press association at the closing session here Saturday afternoon. The North Plain oil metropolis and Amarillo were the only bidders, and Pampa's vote on the first ballot was so heavy that as was made unanimous on that ballot.

WACO BOYCOTTS DALLAS AS RESULT OF BAYLOR TROUBLE

Merchants Break Off Trade Relations—Students Declare Against Removal of University.

WACO, April 21.—(P)—Enflamed by suggestion that a trade boycott be practiced against Dallas because of removal of Baylor university to that city, all-day sessions planning Waco's fight and protest removal occupied the Waco Chamber of Commerce today.

Tonight Waco Baylor alumni and ex-students at their annual banquet heard an address by H. S. Garrett of Fort Worth, president of the Baylor University Alumni association, in which he strongly opposed removal of the school to Dallas. The Waco Alumni also passed similar resolution and one of their number, G. B. Rogers, Waco attorney, called it to the attention of the Baptists of Texas that they should not attempt to encompass the earth with junior colleges and medical schools before they had done one thing well, namely, Baylor university.

Two merchants reported to the Waco Chamber of Commerce they had definitely severed their trade relations with Dallas business houses and asked that the "boycott" be made city-wide. So far, the Waco Chamber of Commerce directors have taken no action in this regard, but as conclusion of sessions today sent this telegram to E. R. Brown, president of the Dallas chamber:

Press reports indicated Dallas Chamber of Commerce has made proposition to Baptist educational committee calling for removal Baylor university Waco to Dallas. Recognizing grave importance this step and far-reaching on both our cities as well as on Baylor and Southern Methodist University and other North Texas educational institutions we urge you, if not already definitely committed, make careful survey all factors entering in to situation. If you are definitely committed we believe your reconsideration pending completion such survey and its findings would be entirely warranted. Your reply will be appreciated.

Noah Sisk of the postoffice staff left yesterday morning for Ft. Worth over the week-end. Mrs. Sisk, who has been visiting her parents in Ft. Worth, will return with her husband Tuesday.

Potential Wells Are Expected to Bolster Slowing Gray Field

Texas M. B. Davis Test Hits First Pay—Other Drillers to Deepen Holes to Increase Flows.

With no new wells completed in the Panhandle last week production dropped 2,581 barrels. Gray county suffered the greatest decrease of the six counties.

Drilling activities, especially in Gray county, are increasing and several wells are on top of pay, ready to drill in. This is the first time in several weeks that the county production had dropped below the 20,000-barrel mark.

Production by counties from the 1-477 wells, last week: Carson, 7,291; Gray, 18,968; Hutchinson, 41,713; Moore, 215; Potter, 25; Wheeler, 926.

TOTAL, 69,138 barrels.

The Texas company's No. 1 M. B. Davis, in the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 8, block 1, A. C. H. and B. survey, in southeast Gray county, encountered first pay at 2,781 feet, erecting storage preparatory to drilling in. An additional heavy flow was picked up at the same depth and is being shut off before drilling.

The Eslick, Reiger, and Sines No. 3 Hopkins in section 84, block B-2, three miles south of production, is drilling ahead at 3,000 feet after fighting caves. First pay in this wildcat was picked up at 2,987 feet. It is making an additional 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas from drilling depth.

The Phillips Petroleum company's No. 2 Davidson (Myson) in the northeast quarter of section 87, block B-2 pumped 40 barrels the first eighteen hours from 3,047 feet and was showing an increase. This well is a diagonal offset to the Delaney well in section 88.

The Sun Oil company's No. 1 Jackson in the northeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 94, block B-2, swabbed 120 barrels the first 24 hours from 3,150 feet and will be placed on the pump. This well is a diagonal offset to the Phillips well in section 87.

Ochiltree et al's No. 1 Morse in section 1, block 26, southwestern Gray county, is making 175 barrels a day from 2,610 feet and may deepen. This location is a direct offset to the Danziger Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Morse in section 2 of the same block.

The Atlas Royalty company of Tulsa has made a location to drill in the southwest corner of the B. E. Chaney survey, in section 17, block 8. This location is two miles north of the LeFors township and a half mile south of the Roxana producer.

Hillbrook et al has made a location and will commence immediately to drill a well in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 15 block 1, on the J. E. Williams lease. This location is two and a half miles south of LeFors and three miles southwest of production.

TRAIN CRASHES INTO TRAILER WEST OF HERE

Victims Are Struck By Flying Bits Of Vehicle

IDENTIFICATION IS DIFFICULT

Inquest to Be Held At Funeral Home Today

Marvin T. Snelling, 22 years old, of Amarillo, and a Mexican youth were instantly killed about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon in a crossing accident 4 miles west of Pampa.

Struck by pieces of a trailer which Santa Fe passenger train No. 22 hurled at them as it smashed the vehicle, the two men probably never knew what hit them. The bodies were brought here by Malone ambulances, and an inquest will be held this morning at the funeral home.

The trailer was attached to a truck driven by P. R. Todd of Amarillo, who had loaded it with empty oxygen drums. Mr. Todd, who was uninjured, said he could not see the train on account of the fog and the fact that tank cars were on both sides of the crossing. He saw the train approaching as he drove upon the track, and was able to clear the truck but not the trailer. He had given Snelling a ride to Pampa Friday from Amarillo.

Snelling apparently had preceded the truck across the tracks and was talking to two Mexican laborers, Juan Reyes and Jose Yeper. Reyes saw the impending crash and leaped aside, but Snelling and Yeper were unaware of the danger and were struck by bits of the trailer and possibly by the drums, which were scattered along the right of way for 25 yards. The truck driver was heading southward. E. H. Lupter, engineer of No. 22, said he did not see the obstruction until he was right upon it. The conductor on the train is C. W. Owens.

Identification of the white youth was extremely difficult owing to the fact that Todd did not know him merely having given him a ride in the truck on the day prior to the time of the accident. The boy had a "Texas Truck" belt, but so far as could be ascertained he was never enrolled in the Lubbock school. He until recently was employed in a tire shop in Amarillo, but came here Friday in search of employment. In his clothing a 1927 chauffeur's license furnished the only clue upon which he basis for an investigation. His father came to Pampa last night, and will take the body to Amarillo today for burial.

"Not Guilty" Is Belated Verdict Of Teapot Dome

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(P)—Harvey F. Sinclair stood free today of charges that he conspired to defraud the government in the Teapot Dome oil lease. A jury in the district of Columbia on the second, ten for acquittal and 2 quiring only three ballots to reach its decision.

One of the jurors, who withheld his name, later said not a single vote for conviction was cast, by any of the jurymen in the one hour and fifty minutes they considered the case. On the first ballot he said, eight were for acquittal and four for undecided, and on the second, ten for acquittal and two undecided.

In declaring Sinclair not guilty of conspiring with Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, to defraud the government in the rich oil lease, the jury accepted the story told by a government witness, M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Fall, of the Liberty bond deal which the government charged was bribery.

The jury upheld Everhart's story that Sinclair gave Fall $250,000 in Liberty bonds for one third share in the Texas Rites Cattle and Land company, the Fall ranch in New Mexico. Everhart had testified that he had received the bonds from the oil operator and had given them to Fall, but insisted that they had no connection with the oil lease.

It was a tense moment when word came that the jury was ready to render its verdict.

MOTHER LOVE

I call an angel down to guide my hand
To write of love, near kin to love divine
I pen with trembling hand, before
Love's shrine
Words from my heart that all may understand
I've lifted up my voice on sea and land
And faced a listening world, through rain and shine
To sing a song of love of Mother mine—
My song down heaven sung by angels band
Her love has stood the test for fifty years—
A love through sacrifice and service done
Its depth beyond compare with any other
Her love is of the heart through smiles and tears
Forgiving and forgetting all it woe
The crown that only can belong to

Jack Vincent of Chickasha, Okla., to Meet Joe Kopecky

Another big wrestling card will be presented at the Pla-Mor auditorium Thursday night under the auspices of the American Legion. Elmer Gutrie is sending two of his best heavies to appear before a Pampa audience.

In the big match of the evening Joe Kopecky will meet Jack Vincent of Chickasha, Okla. In a finish match two falls out of three. Kopecky needs the introduction before a Pampa audience as he has been here often and has never been thrown. The rough and tumble artist may lose a fall when he meets Vincent, who is classed as one of the best at his weight.

Vincent also has been seen here and will be remembered as a fast, fair wrestler of unusual ability and grace. He comes highly recommended by several local fans who have recently seen him in action and who predict that he will take two of the three falls from the Bohemian.

Leo Chase, the Roxana boy, will give Young Sampson ten pounds in the preliminary event, which will be one fall to a finish. Chase is a favorite with Pampa fans. He wrestled here last winter and beat some of the best boys in his class.

Sampson is big and tough, but somewhat slower than the flashy Roxana wrestler who is an oddtimer in the game.

The card will commence at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. Martin's father sustained a broken leg, and Martin, his wife and three children were severely injured according to reports. A fourth child was uninjured.

A barn on the farm belonging to Mrs. A. Dixon, five miles northeast of Rockland Chapel, was also destroyed. The storm touched other points, but extent of the damage was not learned.

When Kid Granite and Jack Doss meet in the main event of tomorrow night's boxing card at the Pampa Athletic club, fight fans of Pampa will see one of the cleverest exhibitions introduced here in some time. They are fast hard hitting boys and oddtimers at the game, even though they are but youngsters.

Making Good in Hornsby's Job

When Rogers Hornsby was traded down the river, the job of making New York fans forget that such a famous person as Hornsby ever existed fell upon the shoulders of young Andy Cohen. Cohen, a Jewish performer who got his start at the University of Alabama, his timely hitting and excellent fielding. He has made a great hit with New York fans and his playing has drawn praise from all critics.

Elderly Couple, on Foot, Returning to Panhandle Home

DALLAS, April 21.—(AP)—After walking more than 5,000 miles from Canada to Dallas, Tex. E. Tyler, 94, and his wife, 69, left Dallas today for their Panhandle home by train.

The daughters of Caledonia, an organization of Scotch women provided the pair with clothes, transportation and some spending money. Mrs. Tyler is decidedly a Scotch and her husband's mother was of that race.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler went to Montreal, Canada, to visit a neighbor who invited them, but they were unable to locate her. They set out to return to Texas by foot a year ago, on many nights they slept by the roadside.

Kid Granite Will Try to Out-Slug Demon Jack Doss

Two main events will feature the boxing card at the Pampa Athletic club Monday night. Kid Granite, 155-pounds, of Roxana and Pampa, will meet Jack Doss, 136-pounds, of Fort Worth.

Kid Granite is the favorite of the Pampa ring and always puts up a great fight. He recently defeated Wildcat Monte in the local ring and held Lou Avery to a draw. Doss is a fast stepping, hard hitting boy, as he displayed last Monday night when he defeated Billie Springfield in the main event.

The second ten-round bout will bring together two newcomers to the Pampa arena. Bob Mantell, said to be the fastest stepping light heavyweight in the Southwest, will go ten rounds with Sergeant Sam Riley, claimant of the title of his class. Both have long strings of victories over some of the best boys in the country and should put up a real battle from gong to gong.

Sam Carlton, who has boxed himself into the good graces of Pampa fight fans, will meet Haley, the boxer flash, in the semi-final event to go six rounds. These two boys put up a class of fighting seldom seen in the larger cities. They at least fight from the opening round to the finish.

The other attractions on the card will be between two boys not yet named and two colored boys of fighting ability.

Parachute Ace Plans Sheer 4,000 Foot Drop To Try Out War Tactic

By jumping from a plane at a 12,000-foot height and falling 4,000 feet before he opens his parachute, John Trantum, who has made more than 512 jumps in nine years, hopes to show at Los Angeles how fliers leaping from wrecked planes in wartime may better evade the fire of foes.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—John Trantum, a slim youngster with 512 parachute drops to his credit and only one minor injury, is preparing to cut loose with a silken chute in a try for a new record fall. He will leave his plane at an altitude of 12,000 feet, drop "dead" for 4,000 feet and then pull the cord that releases the parachute. Trantum believes that an airplane pilot in time of war should be able to drop like a plummet until he is within a thousand feet of earth, opening the parachute just in time to soften his fall, in order to avoid making himself a floating target for enemy sharpshooters.

If he succeeds in his experiment Trantum will turn over to the United States government the information he gains.

Trantum began his parachute jumps in Denmark nine years ago. Since then he has made leaps in most of the countries of Europe. Once, while flying a plane in Denmark, a wing was torn off his ship and he had to take to his chute. A few years ago his plane caught fire near Fresno, Cal., and again he jumped to safety. The others of his more than 500 leaps have been made for exhibition or demonstration purposes. Nor was he ever injured until he landed recently with one foot on a stump and the other on the ground, twisting his ankle.

The jumper's attempt at a record for dropping "dead" will be made at the American Aircraft corporation field here.

PIES EATEN QUICKLY

The pie eating contest, given for the boys of the Pampa Daily News carrier force, Friday night at the Pez theatre, was won by "Pie Eating" Maddux in 4 minutes, 32 seconds. Fourteen boys entered the contest and all finished the race. A prize of $2 was awarded the winner. The pies were donated by Wright's bakery.

Wilma Jean Cox underwent a minor operation in the Pampa hospital Friday.

port. Mrs. Sinclair, who for six years has stood beside her husband as he fought various charges growing out of the oil lease, broke under the strain and began to sob. Sinclair took his place at the counsel table and arose as the jury filed into the court and stood beside the jury box. The calm face of the jurymen gave not the slightest indication of their verdict. The court asked if they had reached a verdict and upon an affirmative answer, the clerk asked: "What is your verdict, Mr. Foreman?"

"Not guilty," he replied.

An audible sigh from somewhere followed, and then congratulations were heaped upon Sinclair by his friends and counsel who crowded around him. Mrs. Sinclair cried openly as the strain of six years were lifted by the jury's two words. She was surrounded in the court corridor by friends and as soon as Sinclair could push through the crowd he went to her side to lead her from the court to their apartment in the Carlton hotel.

Local Men to Go Before State Highway Body

E. A. Taylor, commissioner of Precinct 2, F. P. Reid, Charles Thomas and J. N. Duncan, will leave today to represent Pampa and Gray county before the state highway commission in Austin this week.

This delegation accompanied by groups from Roberts and Ochiltree counties will present to the commission objections to re-designating highway 33 from Pampa to Miami and points east.

A report from Austin states that among the questions to be discussed at the meeting will be the relocation of the highway east of Amarillo to avoid two grades, relocation of highway 33 from Pampa to Roberts county line and permission to build a viaduct.

The Panhandle delegations will also under the Santa Fe tracks in Pampa, present a petition to build a bridge across the Canadian river at a point 33 miles north of Pampa and a road connecting with highway 33 at a point northeast of Pampa. This project is being sponsored by Charles H. Sharp, J. H. Lavender, and E. D. Read, and approved by the commissioners of Gray, Roberts, and Ochiltree counties.

This new road would connect with the Perryton road north of the river and the Cannon Ball trail to Liberal, Kan., and points east.

If highway 33 remains as at present, Roberts county plans to vote bonds to hard surface the highway to connect with the Gray county section to be paved this year.

THIS IS WRITTEN in the office of the Childress Index, during the annual convention of the Panhandle Press association.

Childress is an interesting and progressive city. Connection with Pampa by rail would link two of the best little cities in West Texas.

The highway between the two points has many small hills and sharp turns, but the surface is very smooth, inviting speed that is hardly perceptible until a corner is reached.

Vegetation is noticeably in a different season in the Childress country. Locust blossoms scent the air, in contrast to the barren but greening branches of the upper prairie.

Childress as a city appears somewhat ragged in general appearance, but distinctive in its large business section and its abundance of trees.

It was remarked in the address of welcome by J. C. Thomas, former editor of the Childress Post, that a quarter of a century ago the city was treeless.

On the second floor is the Board of City Development, with a suite of offices for the manager, a small assembly hall for the members in meetings, and offices for such officials as home demonstration agent, county agent, and superintendent of schools.

On the same floor, above the fire engines, are quarters for the firemen. A large, airy sleeping room is provided, with shower baths, etc., and adjacent is another large room used as a recreation center for the salaried and volunteer firemen. This room is similar to that of small clubs, and makes membership in the department valued by the enthusiastic fire-fighters.

Subject to Change Without Notice

The city has a $40,000 city auditorium seating 1,100 as a separate building. It is not exactly a thing of beauty, but its utility is such that it is readily self-supporting.

"When you build an auditorium," make the floor level, with removable seats," advises Manager Debenport.

Moreover, the small assembly room idea is a good one. Twenty-one organizations regularly use one such room in

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY WUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—If turbulent Tom Blanton of Texas doesn't get himself elected a senator in the forthcoming campaign, it will be something of a pity, for there has always been excitement here during Tom's terms in the House and Childress. Pampa, as a new city, stands in need of such accommodations and a study of how other cities solve this problem should result in Pampa's building, within the next two years a city hall-auditorium that will be a show place as well as a civic asset from the standpoint of utility.

what he would do to the Senate heaven only knows Washington would be a very quiet place, indeed, with this congressman gone.

They put Tom on the District of Columbia committee of the House, which has much to say about government of the city of Washington, and that started it. Singlehanded, he drove from office one of the three district commissioners who was charged with collecting large fees from the estates of insane war veterans.

This came after a committee hearing in which an inkwell was hurled along with some very dirty epithets.

Tom has also been in the thick of it at other committee hearings where blows were exchanged and others where such encounters were barely averted.

A few weeks ago he started out to clean up the police force of the District of Columbia, after a few preliminary skirmishes covering a long period previously.

First he accused cops of receiving graft from bootleggers. He accused the chief of police, Major Hesse, of drinking liquor in protected speakeasies. He located a few speakeasies and appeared at a morning police roll call at one station house and lectured the cops about them.

Everything reached a climax when Patrolman Orville Staples was arranged before the police trial board on charges of taking bribes from bootleggers and insulting women.

nounced that it was a "dastardly, infamous and lying frameup."

On the first day Blanton appeared for Staples and challenged the legality of the presence of the member of the trial board. The prosecutor then challenged Blanton's presence.

On the fifth day the session broke up in a general disorder. Blanton was challenged to a fist fight by an opposing lawyer; Blanton accused the official court reporter of insulting him and demanded that he be sent home.

Blanton isn't through with the police department yet, but he asks this writer to explain that his real work is not in the District of Columbia government, but in the House.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED
The summer she is 16, Sally Ford is "fatted out" to Clem Carson and leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known from the time she was four. At the farm she meets David Nash, athlete and university student, working there during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about their friendship, David strikes him a terrible blow and not knowing then whether the man is dead or alive, Sally and David flee.

They join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a side-show disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

Nita, the Hula dancer, becomes infatuated with David and threatens Sally with exposure to the police for the Carson affair; if she doesn't keep "hand off" David, Sally hears they are going next to Capital City, where she spent so many years in the orphanage. She tells David they must run away. David promises to meet her that night after the train is loaded to talk things over with her. They stroll to a clump of trees and sit down to talk. David takes her in his arms and for the first time they confess their love for each other. She tells him the news of her mother which Mrs. Bybee uncovers for her in Stanton. The woman who had left her at the Home was not her mother, according to Mrs. Bybee's information, but was a maid hired to take the baby from the mother in New York and disappear.

As they sit there, they are startled to hear Nita's voice in the darkness somewhere near them. "Steve—in warning you, if you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out. Fifty-fifty—" bee wants us all in the privilege car. "Everybody tumbles out! Pop Bybee wants us all in the privilege car," a carnival employe shouted running down the sleeping car and pausing only to thrust a hand into each berth like a Pullman porter awakening his passengers.

But Sally was already dressing, getting her dress on backward and sobbing with futile rage at the true loss in reversing it. When she was scrambling out of her upper berth, a tin hand reached out of the lower and tugged at her foot.

"Don't forget me, Sally," the midget commanded sharply. "And for heaven's sake, don't take on so! You'll make yourself sick, crying like that. Of course your David didn't rob the safe I'm all dressed."

Sally parted the green curtains and stretched out her arms for the midget, who was so short that she could stand upright upon her bed without her head touching the rounded support of the upper berth. Little Miss Tanner ran into Sally's arms and clambered to her shoulder.

"It's that Nita," she nodded her miniature head emphatically. "I always did have my suspicions about her. Always turning white as a sheet when a policeman dove into light."

"But David's missing, too," Sally sobbed, as she hurried down the aisle which was becoming choked with frizzy-headed women in all stages of dress and undress. "Of course he didn't do it—"

"Hurry up, everybody! Don't take time to primp, girls!" a man bawled at them from the door.

They found most of the men employes and performers of the carnival already assembled with the Bybees in the privilege car. Pop Bybee's usual lobster-colored face was as white as putty, but his arm was gallantly about his wife's shoulder. Mrs. Bybee still wore the black saten petticoat and red sweater in which she had hurried from the show train to the carnival immediately after the storm. Her reddened eyes showed that she has been crying bitterly, but as the carnival family crowded into the privilege car she searched each face with fury and suspicion.

"Come here to me, Sally Ford!" she shrilled, when Sally entered the car with "Pitty Sing" riding on her shoulder.

"Now, honey, go easy!" Pop Bybee cautioned her futilely. "Better let me do the talking."

"You shut up!" his wife commanded angrily. "Sally, you knew where I put the money! You saw the safe! Oh, I was a fool, all right, but I wanted to show that I trusted you! Huh! Thought I'd wronged you by accusing you of taking presents from my husband! Tell him you saw the safe! Tell him! And she seized Sally's wrist and shook her so that the midget had to cling tightly to the girl's neck to keep from being catapulted to the floor.

"Yes, Mrs. Bybee," Sally answered, her voice almost dying in her throat with fright. "I saw the safe. But I didn't tell anybody—"

"You're a liar!" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "You told that David boy that very night! Sneaked off and went walking with him and cooked up this robbery so you two could make your getaway. Thought it was a grand way to get out of the state so the cops couldn't pinch you, didn't you? Didn't you?" she repeated, beside herself with anger, her fingers clamped like a vise on Sally's wrist.

"Oh, please!" Sally moaned withering with a pain of which she was scarcely conscious, so great was her awe and bewilderment at this unexpected charge.

"Sally certainly didn't go with him," Pop Bybee interposed reasonably. "Sure she didn't! His wife shrilled with angry triumph. "She couldn't! She was buried under the tent! If I hadn't been for the storm she wouldn't be here now, working on your sympathies with them dying-calf eyes of hers—"

"Better let me handle this, honey," Pop Bybee interrupted again. "I'll take care of it. Turn the child loose. Ain't a bit of use breaking her arm. Now, folks, I might as well tell you all just what happened, and they try to get to the bottom of this matter. When the worst of the storm was over Mrs. Bybee left the show train to look for me, to see if I was hurt or if she could do anything for anyone who was. She hadn't been out of the stateroom all evening till then—no since she'd put some money into the safe right after supper. She found that boy Dave starting out to look for Sally and she ordered him to stay on the train to keep an eye on it, in case rams or crooks tried to board it. There wasn't anybody else on the train, that right, Mother?"

He turned to Mrs. Bybee, who nodded angrily.

"She told him she'd look after Sally, but he'd have to stand guard on the train. She didn't say anything to him about the safe—just told him to patrol the train while she was gone. The safe is under a seat in our stateroom and far as we know, nobody knew where it was, except Sally here, who happened to come into the stateroom when my wife was counting a day's receipts."

"Please, Mr. Bybee," Sally interrupted, memory struggling with the panic in her brain. "Someone else did know! Nita knew! When I left the stateroom that last day in Stanton I saw Nita disappearing into the women's dressing room, and I thought she'd been listening. She—"

"Hold on a minute!" Bybee cut her sternly. "How do you know she'd been listening? Any proof?"

"Yes, sir!" Sally cried eagerly. "Mrs. Bybee had been telling me that she'd found out that Ford isn't my real name, that the woman I always thought was my mother wasn't really my mother at all. She said she guessed I—that my mother was ashamed I'd never been born. And that same day Nita called me a—bad name, that means—"

She could not go on. Sobs began to shake her small body again and her face was scarlet with shame.

"That's right!" Gus, the Barker, edged toward Bybee through the crowd. "I found Sally lighting into Nita for calling her that name. And Nita didn't deny she'd done it. Reckon that proves she was eavesdropping, all right. And if she was listening in, she was probably peeping in, too, or heard Mrs. Bybee talking about the safe. Was the door, open, ma'am?"

"I don't know!" Mrs. Bybee snapped. "Yes, it may have been. It was awful hot. And I didn't know anybody was on the train."

"It was open a little way," Sally cried. "I remember distinctly. Because I worried about whether Nita had overheard what Mrs. Bybee had been telling me. And there's something else—something that happened that night, when David and I were walking. Memory of that blessed hour in the moonlight brought tears to her eyes, but she dashed them away with the wrist which bore the mark of Mrs. Bybee's rage.

"What was it, Sally?" Pop Bybee asked gently. "All we want is to get at the truth of this thing. Don't be afraid to speak up."

"I hate being a tattletale," Sally shivered. "I never told on anyone before in all my life! But David and I were sitting under a tree, not talking when we suddenly heard Nita's voice. She couldn't see us for the tree, but we peeped around the trunk of it and we saw Nita and a man walking awfully close together, and Nita was talking. We just heard a few words. She said: 'No monkey business now, Steve. I, you double-cross me, I'll cut your heart out! Fifty-fifty or nothing—'

Unconsciously her voice had mimicked Nita's, so that to the startled carnival family it seemed that Nita, the Hula dancer, had appeared suddenly in the car.

"Sounds like Nita, all right," Gus the Barker, nodded with satisfaction. "Steve, huh? Who the devil is this Steve?"

"What did he look like, Sally?" Bybee asked.

"I don't know," she answered, her big blue eyes imploring him to believe her. "We couldn't see their faces. We just recognized Nita's voice and her yellow hair that looked almost white in the moonlight. He wasn't tall, no my taller than Nita, and I guess he wasn't very big either, because they were so close together that they looked almost like one person. We didn't hear the man say a word. Nita was doing all the talking—"

"Nita would!!" a voice from the crowd growled. "Reckon I can tell you something about this, Pop. I was just ready to ballyhoo the last performance of the 'girlie' show when Nita come slouching up to me, pulling a long face and a song-and-dance about being knocked out with the heat. Bessie had fainted at the last show and I thought Nita might really be all in, so I told her she could cut the last performance and go to the dress tent. I never seen her nor hide of her again, and—"

He paused significantly, "I don't reckon I ever will."

"No, I reckon you won't not unless the cops nab her," Mrs. Bybee cut in bitterly. "I always said she was a snake in the grass! And that David too! Them goody-goody kind ain't ever worth the powder and lead it'd take to blow out their brains! I told you, Winfield Bybee, that there was something phony about that hussy and Dave! 'Tain't like a star performer like Nita thought she was to trail around after a cook's helper, like she done with Dave. They didn't pull the wool over my eyes, even here—if they did double-cross her! Mind you, Bybee, I ain't saying I believe a word she's been saying! She knew where she safe was, and she tipped off the boy."

"I ain't forgot they was both wanted by the police when they joined up with us! As I said before, if it hadn't been that she was buried under the freak tent, she'd have skipped with Nita and Dave. You roped Nita in on your little scheme, didn't you, because she'd had more experience cracking safes than you or the boy?"

"That's right, ain't it?" the old lady demanded fiercely of Sally.

Sally shrank from her in horror, but the midget, still perched on her shoulder, patted her cheeks reassuringly. "No, no! I didn't even tell David where the safe was! I didn't! David didn't do it! He couldn't! David's good! He's the best man in the world!"

"Then where is he?" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "Why did he blow? I left him to guard the train, didn't I? And he ain't here, is he? He wasn't here when we got back from the carnival lot after the tents was raised. If he's so damned good, why did he blow with Nita and this Steve you've made up of your head?"

"Now, now, Mother," Pop Bybee soothed her, but his eyes were troubled and suspicious. "Reckon we'd better notify the police, folks. I hate 'o call in the law. I've always said I was the law of this outfit, but I suppose I've been harboring thieves I'll have to get the help of the law to track 'em down. Ben, you and Chuck beat it down the tracks to the police station and give 'em a description of Nita and Dave and this Steve person, as much as Sally's been able to tell us anyway—"

"Please, Mr. Bybee!" Sally ran to the showman and seized both his hands in hers. "Please don't set the police on David! I know he's innocent! There's some reason why he isn't here—a good reason! But he didn't have anything to do with the robbery. I know that! But if you tell the police he's been with the carnival they'll somehow and put him in jail on those other charges—and me, too! It doesn't matter about me, but I couldn't live if David was put in jail on my account! Oh, please! You've been so good to us! And she went suddenly on her knees to him, her face upraised in an agony of appeal.

Overtake the "72"?

If CHRYSLER "72" were merely more beautiful—if it were just an average good value—it would deserve no special consideration from the buyer.

But it clamors for his consideration and demands his attention by reason of a gauge and proof of greater value which cannot be escaped.

All cars today seek to approximate Chrysler "72" performance by patterning after Chrysler engineering. But after three years of striving, how close are they to the "72" today? No closer than they were three years ago. As they have struggled to approach, Chrysler "72" has pulled away and gallops around and past them with more than the ease of the old original Chrysler sensation-car of 1924.

CHRYSLER "72"

There may be pocket-book reasons for choosing cars of lesser price than the "72." There simply cannot be a valid reason for paying as much or more for any car other than the "72."

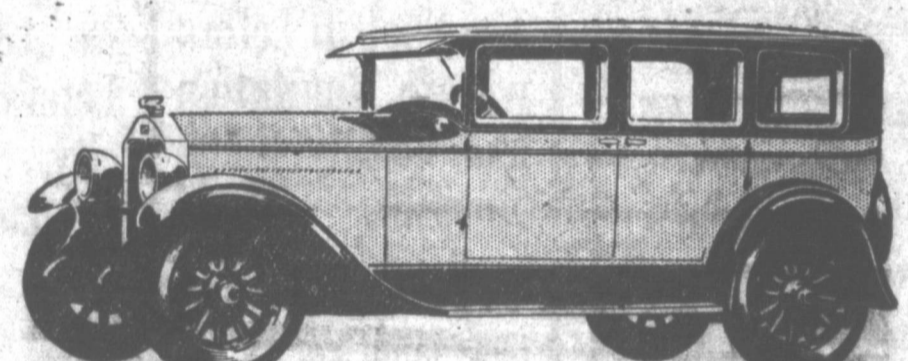

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1995; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to change without notice. Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in a position to extend the convenience of time payments.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, standard equipment on all body models of the 112 h. p. Imperial "86," also standard on the roadsters and available at slight extra cost for other body types, of the "62" and "72."
