Area Producers Favor FPC Move

By TEX DEWESE

Local and area producers reacted strongly today in favor of the Federal Power Commission's recommendation to eliminate regulations on the price of natural gas.

The FPC's proposal would remove federal regulations from interstate natural gas in all wells drilled after Jan. 1, 1973.

Pampa and area gas producers see the move as a boon to the industry.

E. J. Dunigan of Dunigan Bros. Oil Producers in the Combs Worley Bldg., pronounced it "a move in the right direction."

Dunigan pointed out the recommendation pertains only to what is known as "new gas" produced after January of 1973.

"There are 4,500 old wells in the East and West Panhandle fields that are not affected," Dunigan said. "On those wells the price is frozen at 14 1/2 cents per thousand cubic feet, the cheapest price of any area rate set by the FPC."

Dunigan said 6,000 cubic feet of natural gas is the equivalent of one barrel of oil. That amount of gas sells for about 85 cents and the barrel of oil brings $11.

"That's ridiculous," Dunigan said.

Arthur J. Holland, stock broker and independent producer, said the federal regulation of natural gas has held prices at an unrealistic level.

"That's the reason we have no gas reserves," Holland said. "The prices are way below the comparable price of oil and coal."

E. C. Sidwell, of the Sidwell Companies in Pampa, said:

"Deregulation of the price for natural gas would be the greatest thing that could happen to the industry. It would take off the shackles and provide inducement for exploration. The price should be regulated by the market place."

ONE MORE CHANCE — Suzanne Etheredge, a senior at Pampa High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Etheredge, does not appear satisfied with the grades on her report card. Pampa students entered the last nine-week lap of the school year this week, moving toward May 23 which is graduation day for seniors and the last day of classes for the other high school students.

TEXAS SIZE BIRD

Big Beast in Big Bend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 65 million years ago, a long-necked beast with wings 51 feet wide soared like a vulture over a west Texas stream bed in search of a meal from a fallen dinosaur, turtle or crocodile.

That's the scene that might be imagined on the basis of a report by Douglas Lawson in this week's issue of Science magazine.

Until now, most scientists had not believed any flying creature could be that big. But Lawson says he found the fossil bones of such a winged reptile in the siltstone and sandstone of what

Committee Turns Down Cambodia Aid Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee today rejected by a vote of 18 to 15 a proposal to send Cambodia $135.6 million in emergency military and economic aid during the next three months.

The vote on an amendment proposed by Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., represented a severe blow to the Ford administration which has been seeking $222 million in emergency aid for Cambodia during the balance of this fiscal year ending June 30.

Rep. Pierre S. Dupont, R-Del., said he would offer a further motion to report the rejection to the House floor so that the full House could vote on the matter.

The rejection came after three attempts were made to change the Hamilton amendment which was approved Wednesday 4 to 3 by the subcommittee on special investigations. The Hamilton amendment was an attempt at compromise with the administration to provide some funds for Cambodia.

Acting Secretary of State Robert Ingersoll made a last minute plea for President Ford's emergency aid request, but indicated reservations about the Hamilton amendment because it sought to cut off all military assistance after June 30, 1975 and required that the United States change its policy to achieve an end of the conflict in Cambodia by that date.

"This is not a local controversy between Robstown and Corpus Christi," Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, said. "This bill is of major statewide significance."

Massey proposed the repeal of a section of the Texas Water Code which allows a water district to change the designation of water supplies from an "inferior" use such as irrigation to a "superior" use such as domestic consumption.

"I think Mr. Massey's intention here is to consolidate power and authority in the Water Rights Commission, and I do not think that's a good thing to do."

Massey said the purpose of his bill was to "insure that we have an orderly system of water use in Texas."

"We cannot do that if we have a situation where a permit holder can change his permit without permission," he said.

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces attacked government posts along the full length of South Vietnam today, expanding their six-day-old drive in fighting from the Mekong Delta to the highlands of the north.

Selective Service Lottery Lists Priority Birthdate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Men born Dec. 8, 1956 were placed on top of next year's emergency draft list in Wednesday's annual Selective Service lottery.

But odds are that no one will be called to serve in the now all-volunteer Army.

Nobody has been drafted since 1972 but the draft list is being set up annually to take care of military needs in case of a national emergency.

Men born on June 19, 1956 got No. 2 priority and March 22 was third.

July 3 was the first birthday actually drawn and it was assigned a priority of nine in a corresponding drawing.

Those born February 12th came in last. If the country should again begin drafting men, the priorities would determine who goes first.

He said those who drew number 95 or less would be reclassified "into an available class unless eligible for a deferment or exemption, and they will make up the readily inductible pool for 1976."

"It's not like the old days," said one of the two dozen persons watching the affair. "I can remember when the reading of those numbers and dates would always draw gasps from the audience."

Peppitone said the volunteer system is meeting military needs now, but "there is still enough uncertainty about relationships between nations to merit the continued functioning of the Selective Service System in a standby status to assure this nation the ability to augment the all-volunteer military force in the event of a national emergency."

All the rest will remain in the "holding class I-H and they could conceivably continue in Class I-H until they reach the age when they will no longer be liable for training and serving under the law — age 26."

Intelligence Committee Wants Colby Spy Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee has asked President Ford for Central Intelligence Agency Director William Colby's secret report on domestic spying.

"The ball is now in the President's court," Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho said following the committee's unanimous vote Wednesday.

Last week after meeting with Church, Ford said he would cooperate with the committee, but each request for information would be taken up on a case by case basis.

Church refused to say what the committee would do if Congress again got into a battle with the President over executive privilege.

But vice chairman John Tower, R-Tex., said: "I think the President is disposed to cooperate."

The committee also requested Ford turn over all executive orders pertaining to intelligence agencies. But Church refused to say whether that included long-secret National Security Council directives — orders that some

Ballots Due March 28 For Absentee

Today was the second day for absentee balloting in Pampa's April 1 municipal election.

City secretary Stanley M. Chittenden said the absentee voting period will end March 28.

Persons planning to be out of the city on election day may cast ballots at the city secretary's office on the second floor of City Hall.

Only contest in the election so far is in the mayoralty race between incumbent mayor R.D. Wilkerson and Clovis Ship, Cabot Corp. employee.

Ward 1 Commissioner Ray Thompson and Ward 3 Commissioner Leo Braswell are asking voters to return him for a fourth term.

The mayor and each of the city commissioners are elected for two-year terms.

Airlift Halted In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The U.S. airlift of food, fuel and ammunition to Cambodia's besieged capital was halted today by a rebel-fired rocket that hit an ammunition dump at Phnom Penh's airport and set off an explosion and fire.

"Flights are expected to continue as soon as conditions at Pochentong airport permit," an American spokesman in Bangkok said. "There was no damage to any U.S. airlift aircraft."

Military sources in Phnom Penh said rebels did not make major penetrations of the Phnom Penh defense perimeter

FEDERAL GRAND JURY Investigates Hiding Of Hearst

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — U.S. attorney John Cottone confirmed today that a federal grand jury was investigating the likelihood that "a person or persons" illegally hid fugitive newspaper heiress Patty Hearst in northeastern Pennsylvania last summer.

One newspaper said indictments likely would reveal that Miss Hearst hid out in the Scranton area several months ago. Willie Wolfe, whom Miss Hearst said she loved prior to his death last year in a police shootout in suburban Los Angeles, was from the Allentown, Pa., area — about 60 miles south of Scranton.

In San Francisco, Randolph A. Hearst said he was told by the FBI several weeks ago that it was believed his daughter spent last summer on a Pennsylvania farm, but that the trail was now "cold." Hearst said he also was told by the FBI "they didn't know where she is now."

"The grand jury is sitting and one of its investigations involves the Hearst case," Cottone said today. "That's all I can say at this point."

FBI and U.S. Treasury agents, carrying briefcases and files, visited Cottone's office at the 23 grand jurors were sequestered in a small room on the 10th floor in the federal building here.

The grand jury room was cordoned off and newsmen who tried to enter Cottone's office were threatened with arrest.

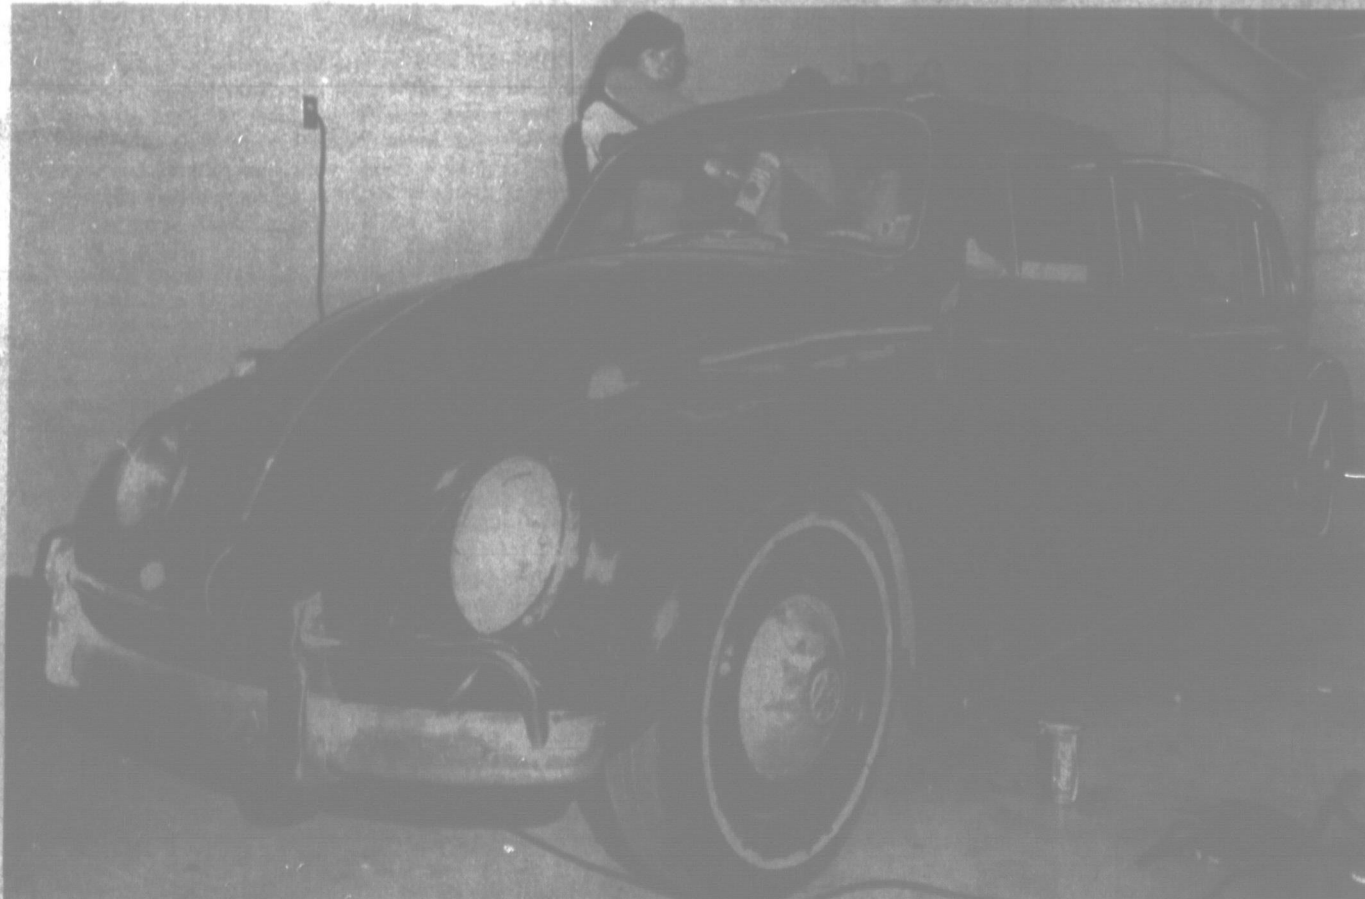

The Harrisburg Patriot said in its morning edition that indictments involving the Hearst case would be handed down later today.

The Patriot said it had learned "from reliable local sources" that the grand jury later today would indict "a person or persons accused of harboring Miss Hearst in Scranton."

It said the sources could not say whether the indictments also might involve the harboring of William and Emily Harris, Miss Hearst's companions in the Symbionese Liberation Army.

The Scranton Tribune also reported in its morning edition that the grand jury here would be asked to "consider" such an indictment.

The Tribune said Miss Hearst had been seen in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area earlier this year.

PROJECT IN CREATIVITY — A mechanics class at Pampa High School added one VW and one VW and came up with one very unordinary car. 'Technically It's VW Limo'

By JANE F. MARSHALL

It almost caused sprained necks and wrinkled fenders during its maiden appearance on Pampa streets. And it's bound to cause a stir at registration time. What will the title people in Austin say?

As yet, it's developers and inventors don't really care. It has been fun for them — teacher Larry Kilbreth and his vocational class at Pampa High School.

"Well, technically I guess it would be called a Volkswagen limousine," Kilbreth said.

The mechanics class of Coordinated Vocational Academic Education (CVAE) constructed the vehicle from two Volkswagen bodies... with a little help from Kilbreth.

The basic idea came from Popular Mechanics magazine. But in the magazine the limo was built in Wisconsin by pros. "And we're all amateurs," Kilbreth laughs.

If the schedule progresses according to plans the limo should be ready for the show room floor in a couple of weeks.

There is the driver's section to cover with a rag top and some bucket seat covers to scrounge and an intercom to convert from house wiring to car wiring so the two sections can communicate.

And, of course, a tape deck so passengers can ride in style.

Kilbreth's aim was to keep the attention of his general mechanical repair class; it is made up mostly of 15 and 16-year-olds who aren't that interested in school.

"I like to go with whatever turns them on because the idea of this program is to keep them in," he said.

The two cars, a 1959 and a 1964 model, were found and purchased by Kilbreth last fall. And with some cutting here and some welding there, some rewiring here and some unwiring there, they slowly fashioned their double beetle.

Of course, getting 15 boys and their teacher to agree about the car was another matter.

"If we had it our way we'd jack it up and put mags on it," said one enthusiastic student.

Peppy's Coming

Since each had a different idea about the color of their limo, Kilbreth decided that it should be stately black like a real limousine. The school handicapped class provided the paint job.

The carpeting was donated.

Kilbreth's name will be on the registration so the school won't have to fool with insurance and license plates.

But when it comes to driving it, "everyone will get a crack at it, even Havier, if he's careful," Kilbreth laughed.

But what they are going to do with it, they are not sure.

"We're open to suggestions," the teacher said.

Students working on the limo project are: Ronnie Terry, Houston Woods, Denny Mullens, Havier Santacruz, Bruce Ray, Terry Green, Glen Black, Tony Coleman, Larry Devoll, Brian Davis, Ray Hood, Jerry Green, Eddie Bresse, William Holman and Brian Glover.

"I don't think you'll find another like it," Kilbreth said of the bi-car. And he seems to feel the same way about his class.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Brother Is Watching

In the genre of negative utopia literature, from Huxley to Orwell to Burgess, the commonest thread is the depiction of how totalitarian states keep tabs on individual citizens. More than submachine guns and midnight raids, more than jackboots and jail cells, the ingredient that freezes people from exhibiting the kind of free, venturesome, exuberant behavior that makes humans unique is the simple apprehension that the government knows what you're doing.

The impossibility of arranging and making transactions in complete privacy denotes absolutely the loss of freedom. That point has been made so well that it should seem ingrained in our collective consciousness: George Orwell's title "1984" has come to be regarded as the year to avoid, the historic juncture when the inexorable abandonment of freedoms will have been completed. Even the word "Orwellian" has entered the lexicon to describe unfreedom.

Still, even with all the publicity of the totalitarian scare stories, even when everybody knows what to avoid, there are people — government officials mostly — who keep advocating anti-freedom measures according to the script. It is as though they read Orwell et al and did not get the point.

Now Frances G. Knight, director of the State Department's Passport Office, has advocated that the government require citizens to carry an official identity card, complete with fingerprints. The curious explanation is that she believes such a requirement will cut down on crime. That the procedure merely affords one more opportunity for crime, namely, forgery, seems not to have occurred to her.

Worse is Miss Knight's convoluted misunderstanding of individuality. The identity cards, which will amount to a sort of domestic passport, will provide "an acceptably secure method of guaranteeing a citizen's personal identity." Government has always been outrageously ambitious, but how it will "guarantee" personal identity defies rational explanation.

Individuality is a quality that exists in infinite variation notwithstanding the state's attempts to classify it. It is beyond the ability and the scope of the state to guarantee, i.e. rigidly, something so complex as individuality. Personal identity existed before, states came into being. And personal identity will burst out of government-conceived molds.

Is Miss Knight's proposed identity card a mold? The answer has to be yes. In order to "simplify" things, the card would replace drivers' licenses and Social Security cards as the most universally accepted identification. If the radicals of the 1960s complained of being numbers and not names, they will have seen nothing yet. The likelihood is that each transaction in which the card is used — and these will proliferate — will ultimately be recorded in Washington.

Few things can so dampen individual enterprise than the knowledge that the government knows a person's every move. Miss Knight's identity card plan only increases the probability of government surveillance, nothing else.

The plan will do nothing to halt the increase of crime — those who believe otherwise would buy shares of the Brooklyn Bridge, too. But it will do lots of things to enhance the totalitarianization of this country, the progress of which is pretty well along as it is.

Delaying 'Remedies'

The word battle between President Ford and the Congress over which has the best remedy for the economic ills might be considered helpful since it could prevent government from doing anything or, at least, slow it down.

It is certain that there could be a delay in government programs so long as the two branches spar. That could be good news because individuals would be left with what freedom is left to plan for their own futures.

The bad news, however, is that it is inevitable that something eventually will come from the Washington idea mill, and that will keep most businessmen a bit wary.

Not knowing what the government will do next is troublesome. Will it be the foolishness of wage and price controls again? Will it be gasoline rationing and all its evils?

The only thing that makes sense are the suggestions that the government not take as much away from people in taxes. Somebody apparently believes that individuals can spend their own money for themselves with better results than they receive from government spending.

The tax cut suggestions will sound good to individuals and to business. But the bad news is that government spending programs are not earmarked for the junk heap.

This means the government will keep right on spending while reducing its income from the usual taxes, which means more borrowing and more taxation via inflation.

Thus it appears there is no way out of our dilemma, but it also appears the best chance is offered when government powers bicker among themselves and thus delay their programs.

That scientific term "astronaut" is rather romantic in the original Greek. Astron means star and nautēs sailor, so an "astronaut" is one who sails among the stars.

THE CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE Abortion: Tragic Dilemma

By WILLIAM RUSHER

It is routine these days for journalistic discussion of the abortion issue to mention the religion of any Roman Catholic who happens to be involved on the anti-abortion side. Thus the Massachusetts jury that recently convicted Dr. Kenneth Edelin of manslaughter for permitting the subsequent death of a legally aborted fetus was described in press accounts as "predominantly Roman Catholic" — the implication being that it had allowed its religious bias to get in the way of its legal obligations. Curiously nobody ever mentions the religion — or irreligion — of abortion advocates. And there are, of course, many people of other faiths, or none, in the anti-abortion camp, but you would never know it to read the papers.

Which is why it is necessary to preface my own remarks on the subject with the otherwise spectacularly irrelevant information that I am not and never have been a Roman Catholic. In just about every identifiable respect I am a product of the Midwestern subdivision of the general Protestant cultural dispensation. I rise nonetheless, with a heavy heart, to affirm that I believe abortion is the moral equivalent of murder.

I say "with a heavy heart" because I know many fine and supremely moral individuals, my own indisputable superiors in this and just about every other respect, who disagree with me strongly on this matter, believing that abortion is not only permissible but often desirable — a far lesser evil than bringing into the world an unwanted child who would only compete with his brothers and sisters for food that may already be far too scarce to nourish any of them adequately. But this is one of the great stand-up-and-be-counted issues of our time, and not even so miserable a sinner as I can escape the obligation to take a stand, one way or other.

As for the food argument, it is probably the best one — almost the only one — the abortion forces have, but let's not disregard its necessary implications. If it is permissible to destroy unborn children to conserve scarce food (leaving aside, for the moment, just how scarce food actually is), why isn't it equally permissible to destroy infants for the same reason? Or why not, like certain Eskimo tribes, leave the elderly outdoors to freeze, when they become merely another mouth to feed? And if we ever do thin out the world population to a point where there are 2500 calories per day for everybody who is left, what would be wrong with wiping out as many millions of people in the higher age brackets as may be necessary to increase the calorie intake of the lucky survivors to 3000, or even 3500?

Or, conversely, why shouldn't we all be compelled to tighten our belts a bit (meatless Wednesdays) and make room for another million or so children otherwise doomed, while yet unborn, to be flushed down the drainpipes of abortion clinics? To deny the basic humanity of a viable fetus seems to me the merest chop-logic. Thanks to science, we know precisely when a new life begins: at the moment of conception. To argue that, at any point thereafter, a woman who submits to an abortion is merely exercising her sovereign right to control the functioning of "her" body is to disregard the plain fact that another body, with its own sovereign rights, is growing inside her. If she did not want that child, the time to have acted on the wish was during those first fine moments of rapture, when, unfortunately but typically, all she was thinking of was herself.

There are, of course, a thousand variations on the scenario, each more painful than its predecessor. What of the innocent rape victim, doomed to bear the (equally innocent) child of a criminal psychopath she never even knew? But the existence of such tragic dilemmas ought not to blind us to the typical case, or to the main point, which is, that we have learned (or think we have learned) how to escape, at comparatively little cost to ourselves, the consequences of our behavior. And man, the killer ape, is running true to form.

IN GREAT BRITAIN Is Press Freedom Doomed?

By PHILIP VANDER ELST

(Editor's Note: Mr. Vander Elst, former treasurer of the Oxford Union, is a contributor to the SUNDAY TELEGRAPH (London) and other publications.)

Freedom of the Press has been a distinctive British tradition for two centuries. In spite of the progress of collectivism in so many national institutions, the British press has up till now been a vital haven of independent news and commentary. This position however, will be ended by the Labor government's authoritarian "Trade Union and Labor Relations (Amendment) Bill", which threatens to become law in the very near future. The main provision of this bill will legalize closed-shop agreements and force British newspapers, among others, to sack any person who refuses, on other than religious grounds, to belong to the union negotiating that agreement.

The objection to the statutory enshrinement of such a principle is, ordinarily, powerful enough. In a free society no government, union or other body has the right to force a man to form an association against his will. That only a minority of workers may not wish to belong to a union is not a mitigating circumstance since the genuine libertarian has never counted heads.

On the contrary, if left-wing politicians and labor leaders are ready to ride rough-shod over the aspirations of the individual on such an issue, how can they justly claim to believe in "minority rights"? The individual is the smallest minority of all!

Nor is it any excuse to argue that it is unfair for a man who does not belong to a union to benefit from the process of collective bargaining. For a start that assumes that it is chiefly restrictive practices which raise workers' living standards, an assertion hotly contested by many eminent economists who rightly stress the paramount role of competition, innovation and the investment of risk capital, in economic progress.

In the second place, a man who wants to remain independent and work under separate contract, has not asked for any favors from a union so why should he be bound by the latter's claim to exist for his benefit? The truth of course is that there is no credible moral basis to the closed-shop which is merely a device for increasing the power and privileges of a bureaucratic trade union elite.

The moral argument against the closed-shop applies with redoubled force to the newspaper industry which is such an important vehicle of free expression. Under the provisions of this new bill, editors will no longer be responsible to their readers for the contents of their papers but will be obliged to become members of the National Union of Journalists (NUJ) with all that entails in the way of subjection to union rules and union discipline. Supporters of the bill argue, in the words of the NUJ Press officer, that editors "are not free, they are responsible to management. I would prefer to see editorial policy determined by a democratically organized body like the NUJ than by proprietors whom nobody elected."

Nonsense! Proprietors, if they are to make a success of their papers, must satisfy their markets and are therefore accountable ultimately to their readers. Furthermore the existence of competition checks abuses in the same way as in other industries organized along market lines. Proprietors and editors also vary in their attitudes and policies and commonly give expression to a wide spectrum of views, as the history of the British press testifies.

If it is nevertheless thought that there is an excessive degree of concentration in the industry today, is that not largely due to the economic effects of previous strikes and abuses of union monopoly power? A "democratically run" newspaper industry will mean that editorial policy will be subject to "majority rule" which is less likely to allow "proportional representation" of minority opinions, particularly as contributions from independent writers will be barred by the bill's clauses.

Moreover, if the NUJ is the only union for the whole industry (a likely possibility, being the biggest at the moment) every single newspaper will reflect the same editorial policy in a way which would be quite unthinkable under a "capitalist" regime.

Thus instead of the present situation in Britain where for example some papers are politically conservative (the Daily Telegraph) and others are socialist inclined (Guardian, Daily Mirror), we could evolve towards a state of affairs in which a "left-wing" or "right-wing" majority in the NUJ could impose a uniform political bias throughout the media.

That is not all. In reality so-called "democratic control" is unlikely to reflect even majority rule. It is well known that "moderates" are more apathetic than political militants in turning out for general meetings and in voting in elections, which means that extremists with axes to grind gain control of policy making. That is why communists in Britain wield power in the unions wholly disproportionate to their popular support in parliamentary elections. It also explains why the most active NUJ campaigners for the closed shop belong to a Trotskyist organization, the International Socialists, which in a recent internal policy document about the NUJ stated that "we can very easily control it if we work in the right way."

Opponents of the "Trade Union and Labor Relations (Amendment) Bill" who see it as a potentially dangerous weapon in the hands of extremists, base their fears on the behavior of the printing unions which have already had a closed shop for some time.

There have been numerous cases of the censorship of cartoons, news reports, articles and advertisements by the printers.

For instance there were several stoppages on political grounds against the Heath government's Industrial Relations Act, which cost the industry over $20 million.

In 1973-74 advertisements placed by Aims of Industry (the pro-free enterprise pressure group) attacking the extreme left in the trade unions were banned from the Daily Mirror after initial publication.

The Sunday Express, in the same case, was compelled by its print workers to publish a disclaimer and offer free advertising space to Ray Buckton, the train drivers' union leader. Donald Treflor, the deputy editor of the Observer, was moved to write in an article on Nov. 24, 1974, that if an editor "says anything unflattering about the printing unions his paper may not appear at all." So much then for the tolerance and liberalism of the printing unions!

The NUJ, though not yet guilty of misdemeanors on this scale, showed the same narrow spirit in October 1971 when more than 350,000 copies of the Daily Express were "lost" because of union objections to a cartoon showing "Irish Republican Airlines" unloading tanks in Glasgow. Not surprisingly, British editors and Opposition members of Parliament have been fighting the Labor Government's bill bitterly. One can only pray that they succeed (however slender the hope) in beating off this latest Orwellian manifestation of "Newspeak" Socialism.

He's against fiddling around in the bedroom

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "Old-Fashioned Mother" concerning her daughter and boyfriend practicing guitar in her bedroom gave me mixed feelings. They may not have been doing anything "wrong," but if allowed, the bedroom might get to be a convenient place to visit for a bit of privacy.

I am married now, but when I was in high school, I had a similar experience. A girl in one of my classes offered to teach me how to play the violin. She practiced in her bedroom, so that is where the lessons commenced.

Her mother came in and told us that she was going next door for a little while. Nothing "bad" happened, but I confess, I felt very uncomfortable the whole time.

I'm glad that in this case there were no more lessons. I might add that a year or two later this girl had to get married.

OLD-FASHIONED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Your young classmate obviously did a little fiddling around. But why mistrust the entire next generation because of one violinist's accidental?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for eight years and have two children. I used to have a really nice figure, but now I have absolutely no bust at all. I have been wearing padded bras so I'll look halfway decent in clothes.

I have been thinking about getting some silicone implants, but need to know more about it. How much does it cost? And how long does it take to fully recover from such surgery?

You see, my husband is going abroad for six weeks and I may want to surprise him with a new "me" when he comes back.

Hurry your answer, please.

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: The healing time varies with the patient, and the cost varies with the doctor.

Talk to your own plastic surgeon. I seldom offer unsolicited advice, but in your case I'll make an exception, and urge you NOT to surprise your husband with a new "you." If you're doing it for him, he may prefer the old "you."

DEAR ABBY: I am truly desperate. Never in my wildest dreams did I ever think that when I became a mother it would be the loneliest time of my life. I am so depressed that I can't even communicate with my husband anymore, and he is tired of hearing it.

Abby, if I had even an inkling that motherhood was such a one-sided affair, I swear I would not have had a baby. I love my three-month-old baby very much, and I love my husband, too, but when does it all come together? It seems all I do is make formula and wash diapers now, and my husband and myself caring about each other comes last on the list.

Why did everything change so drastically? What I expected to be the happiest time of our lives has turned out to be a nightmare.

I have lost all my freedom, my husband (emotionally, so far) and my own identity. In spite of being a wife and mother now, I am still ME! I can't wait to go back to my job at the office.

I feel so guilty about the way I feel, but I can't help it. Please help me, Abby. I love my husband, but I have never been more miserable, and I don't want to lose what once was a good marriage.

LOST MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Please tell your doctor what you have told me. You are apparently suffering from "postpartum depression." It's not uncommon, and your doctor will help you get over it. Don't despair. Many new mothers have experienced the feelings you describe, but it need not last long.

WINNERS SHARE — Sally Brainard, left, and Elaine Webb, share their winning entries in the Gray County Food Show with each other. Both winners will compete in the District 1 4-H Food Show March 15 in Amarillo.

APRICOT BRAID
2 to 2½ cups flour
½ cup sugar
½ teas. salt
One-third cup dry (nonfat) milk
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup (½ stick) margarine (room temperature)
½ cup very warm water
1 egg (room temperature)
2 tablespoons oil
Prepare Apricot filling (below) and Drizzle following below.
In a small bowl thoroughly mix ¼ cup flour, sugar, salt, powdered milk, and dry yeast. Add margarine.
Gradually add tap water to dry ingredients, beat 3 minutes at medium speed of mixer. Scrape bowl occasionally.
Add egg and ¼ to ½ cup flour and beat 2 more minutes at high speed. Add enough flour to make a soft dough that will leave the side of the bowl. Make it into a soft ball.

Cover and let rest 20 minutes.
Roll into a 12" x 12" square. Transfer to a greased cookie sheet. Spread with melted oil.
Spread apricot filling over entire square. Cut 1-inch wide down each side leaving the middle uncut. Fold strips at an angle across center, alternating from side to side.
Brush with liquid shortening, cover lightly with plastic wrap and place in refrigerator 2 to 24 hours.
Remove from refrigerator, uncover the dough carefully. Let stand uncovered for 10 minutes or until double in bulk.
Bake at 350 degrees F. 20 to 30 minutes.
Remove onto wire rack with two spatulas, drizzle with powdered sugar.

Apricot Filling
Combine ½ cup of ground or finely chopped dried apricots and 1 cup water in a small saucepan. If you have time soak apricots in the water for 2 hours.
Bring to boil. Cook until liquid is absorbed and apricots are tender, about 20 minutes; stir in ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar. Cool.

Drizzle
½ cup sifted powdered sugar
1 tablespoon cream
Blend powdered sugar and cream; drizzle over warm braid. Serves 12; Costs $1.27; and 10¢ cents a serving.

The neat thing about Elaine Webb's Apricot Braid is that it needs no kneading. And that's not all that's neat about it.
"You can make it up and put it in the refrigerator one evening," Webb said, "then take it out and bake it for a hot dessert the next evening."
A junior at Lefors High School, Webb, won the March 8 Gray County 4-H competition in her field with the Apricot Braid. It is an original.
"My mother and I started developing the recipe about two years ago," the 17-year-old champion chef said.

The recent 4-H cook-off was the ninth annual one for Webb. Each year she has won first place in her division and has gone on to district competition. Six of the eight years she has placed at district and she hopes to add to her blue ribbon collection when she goes to district this year — Saturday, in Amarillo.
District winners compete in the state finals. In 1973, Webb placed sixth in that contest.

Creative Cook Makes Easier Weight Loss

Cooking for a weight loss can be just as creative and a great deal more healthful if you take the trouble to learn a few fundamentals.
Halved - out large tomatoes make attractive receptacles for strips of celery, green peppers, radishes and romaine. Cucumbers, peeled and split lengthwise, become "boats" that can be piled high with mixed greens and chopped fresh vegetables.

KNEADLESS TO SAY — Elaine Webb wanted to create a pastry that is convenient and easy to make. The result of her experiments is this Apricot Braid which requires no kneading and which may be refrigerated up to 48 hours between the mixing and the baking.

County Food Show Winners To Cook in District Meet

Six County Food Show winners were selected March 8 to go to the District 1 4-H Food Show set for March 15 in Amarillo.
There were 32 contestants in the junior and senior divisions. Each contestant prepared a dish and a day's menu, and answered questions concerning their food product. Senior division contestants also took a nutrition quiz. Judges were Kay Harvey, Cathy La Roe, Sue Martin, and Karen Skaggs.
Elaine Webb won in the senior breads and desserts division. Sally Brainard won in the senior snacks and beverages division. Teresa Baggerman received a red ribbon in the same division.

The junior division had 29 contestants. In the breads and desserts division were Linda Lee, Misty Edwards, Jeff Brewer, Susan Savage, Lori Watson, Bobbi Skaggs, Tana Trusty, Delton Brown, Crystal Barham, Cindy Stubbs, Tonya Owens, Crystal Atchley, and Debbie Hutchinson. Bobbie Skaggs won first place.
Snacks and beverages division competitors included Amy West, Donna Preston, Cindy Gage, Randy Barkley, Kim Shorter, and Greg Wilkins. Cindy Gage won first place.

Those in the side dish division included Amy Brainard, Cynthia Hannon, Carolyn Mumford, and Mike Wilkenson. Mike Wilkenson won first place.

In the main dish division were Penny Miller, Berkle Brainard, Lindi Livingston, Brad Green, Roy Livingston, and Patricia Snuggs. The winner was Patricia Snuggs.

Two food groups were recognized for 100 per cent participation in the food show. They were Mrs. Joe Miller and Mrs. Kenneth Mumford's group and Mrs. Rex Gage's group. Brad Green and Patricia Snuggs were recognized as outstanding first year contestants.

Awards were presented by 4-H Councilmen Frank Morrison and Dana Smith. Refreshments were provided by Mrs. Rex Gage's food group. The public viewed the foods following the awards.

Start Good Budget

COLLEGE STATION — Even though today's young adults start out with more education in financial matters than previous generations, they can still go overboard when spending money. Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist, reminded this week.
"First requirements for trying to avoid debts is a realistic view of actual income available. The lifestyle of young adults should be based on net income, not how much can be charged," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Just existing from paycheck to paycheck with no plan usually results in ending up short of cash with debts piled up, she said.

"One problem the young adult frequently faces is that of buying a home. Adding to this problem is his desire to fill the new home with new furniture, new appliances and an endless list of wants — causing an equally long list of bills to pay."

Teen Denied Rights; Conviction Reversed

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Daniel Farr, 17, sat handcuffed in the back of a patrol car. A policeman, Jim Lubbock, stuck his hand through the car's rear window, grabbed Farr and began slapping and choking him. Another officer, Raymond Hernandez, waited until Lubbock finished hitting Farr and then told the teen-ager:

"You might as well go ahead and tell us you stole the motorcycle and the plates on the van or else he (Lubbock) will kill you. He likes doing stuff like this."

This incident, the Court of Criminal Appeals said Wednesday, violated Farr's constitutional rights and the court reversed the conviction and five-year prison sentence Farr received on a theft charge.

The court said undisputed evidence of Farr's arrest proved the teen-ager was denied his rights.

Farr and a 14-year-old companion were arrested July 28, 1973, on suspicion of stealing a motorcycle and trying to take license plates off a parked truck.

The appeals court said the arresting officer, Hernandez, never warned Farr of his rights.

The court said the evidence proved Farr gave Hernandez an oral confession in the back seat of the patrol car after Hernandez had issued his warning about Lubbock.

The evidence also showed, the court said, Farr and his companion were taken to police headquarters and told by Hernandez to sign a written confession "or else we will bring Lubbock back up here."

At this time, the court said, neither suspect had yet been advised of their constitutional rights.

In another case Wednesday, the court reversed the robbery by assault conviction and life sentence handed Charles Anthony Redd of San Antonio. The court said Redd's trial judge permitted the jury to consider evidence of two crimes for which Redd was not accused.

Redd was convicted of the Nov. 18, 1972, robbery of a Gibson's Discount Center. Four witnesses positively identified Redd as the person who committed the robbery, according to court records.

During Redd's trial, prosecutors introduced evidence of an April 29, 1972, robbery of a Handy Andy supermarket and a July 6, 1972, robbery of an H.E.B. food store. Prosecutors connected the cases to the Gibson robbery because, in all the cases, the robber held members of the store manager's family hostage while committing the crimes.

The appeals court said the two offenses were extraneous under the circumstances of the case and the court committed reversible error in admitting them as evidence.

B&B Packing of Pampa donated the processing of the beef.

Regents, Students Disagree On Merger of Pan Am-UT

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI) — The next step in the proposed merger of Pan American University into the giant University of Texas system will be up to Lower Rio Grande Valley legislators.

The Pan Am Board of Regents voted Wednesday to seek the merger on the condition the legislators are satisfied the UT system wants to absorb the 7,183-student school.

The merger question has been a controversial one on the palm-lined Pan Am campus, a school of mostly commuter students from the predominantly Mexican-American Valley.

In recent secret balloting students voted against the proposal while faculty members favored it.

Student president Eddie De La Garza said the students will lobby against the merger in Austin. He said it will rob Pan American of its identity and local control in favor of a board of regents in Austin not familiar with needs of the South Texas border area.

The regents approved the merger plan 6-2, with Moses Vela of Harlingen and Leonel Garza of Brownsville casting the only dissenting votes.

Regent Morris Atlas, a McAllen attorney who headed a study committee that voted 6-3 last week to recommend seeking the merger, made the motion for approval of the plan.

Under such conditions as are satisfactory to our legislators, conditioned upon our legislators satisfying themselves that the UT system and its board of regents look favorably upon such a merger.

Atlas said a merger will strengthen Pan Am's funding, prestige and curriculum.

"I'm satisfied," Atlas said after the meeting. "I think obviously, as I've stated, there are some hurdles yet. It's got to be approved by our Valley legislators."

"I think if they're satisfied that a majority of the board is correct, they'll go forward with it. Obviously if the UT board doesn't come forward with some kind of statement or the system doesn't come forward with some kind of statement that they favor this, then it won't go forward. Period."

Garza said he voted against the proposal because, "I just don't think this school is doing all that bad itself. It has grown. The University of Texas is wonderful, but they're just too big."

"Just like some of the big conglomerates of business today, they're going to pieces gradually. And I don't think they can give the attention to this school that people here on this board could give it."

DONATIONS ORDERED

CHICAGO (UPI) — A bookstore operator will donate 3,000 books to the Cook County Jail — but the volumes won't be coming from his stock.

Harold Rubin, owner of Ward Harold's adult bookstore, was fined $1,200 Tuesday on charges of selling a pornographic magazine to a police investigator.

A circuit court judge also ordered him to donate 3,000 pocketbooks — wholesome ones — to the Cook County Jail. Rubin, 35, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Oilfield Use of H2S To Be Questioned

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Oilfield accidents involving hydrogen sulfide gas have killed 16 persons in recent West Texas mishaps.

The Texas Railroad Commission opens hearings today to decide if revised regulations are needed to cover the oilfield use of hydrogen sulfide.

A fitting on a hydrogen sulfide injection well near Denver City ruptured Feb. 2, killing nine persons. That incident — and two others which killed seven persons — apparently prompted the investigation by the Railroad Commission.

Hearing examiner James Smith said notice was sent to all operators and transporters asking them to present an testimony they want the commission to consider in revising the regulations.

"In that sense it directs all of them to appear if they want to influence any regulations we might adopt," Smith said.

The commission's notice of the hearing said testimony will be taken on five specific topics:

Texans Condemn Plans To Expand Army's Hood

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Legislature has sent Congress and President Ford a resolution condemning plans to expand the sprawling Ft. Hood army installation in Central Texas.

The House version of the resolution passed Wednesday said such an expansion would rob residents of Coryell County of "their homes, their livelihoods and their heritages."

Clarendon Sets Spring Program

The Fine Arts Division of Clarendon College will present March 24 its spring Evening of Fine Arts. The program will include sections by the art department, the music department and the drama department.

An art show and Easter reception in the college cafeteria at 7 p.m. will start the evening. The art show will include oil paintings and craft and hobby projects.

At 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium, the music department will present a combined program. The drama department will contribute a one-act melodrama entitled "He Ain't Done Right by Nell" by Wilbur Braun. This play is being presented by special arrangement with Samuel French Inc. of New York.

The music department will follow the play with a concert by The College Singers, including varied selections from popular and show music.

Admission to the Evening of Fine Arts is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students. Clarendon College students may be admitted on their I.D. cards. Tickets may be purchased from any of the fine arts faculty or students.

C of C Cancels March Meeting

Because of the business rush prior to the Easter holidays the regular March membership meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce has been canceled, C.E. Steel, chamber manager, announced Wednesday.

Steel said the next luncheon will be Monday, April 14, at 12 noon in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

Program for the April luncheon will be presented by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. with demonstrations of latest developments in communications, according to Gary Stevens, local manager of the telephone company.

Death Penalty Proposal Killed in Kansas House

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — The debate was emotional but never bordered on shouting hysterics. The House was hushed. Its members attentive as the full magnitude of the decision before it appeared to grip each of the 125 legislators.

Silence engulfed the chamber when the vote came and lips moved silently as each member pushed a button then raised his eyes to the electronic tally board of red and green lights reflecting a 71-46 vote to kill the proposal.

The bill in question would have reinstated the death penalty for the murder of an on-duty policeman or fireman, the murder of a kidnaped hostage or murder committed by an inmate. It was recommended by the governor.

Kansas does not now have a capital punishment law.

"The bill serves an important social service," Rep. Randall Palmer, R-Pittsburg, and floor manager of the bill said. "It serves as an expression of society's moral outrage. It serves as a deterrent against crimes so vicious they call for retribution without vindictiveness."

Majority Leader Donn Everett, R-Manhattan, led the fight to kill the bill.

"A number of years ago a young Kansas marine was firing a gun in policing action which killed a young woman," Everett said. "That scar left damage to my moral conscience since then. I cannot support this bill."

Everett argued the death penalty was imperfect because across the land defendants do not have the same right to hire legal counsel. He said some 90 per cent of the death row residents in states which have restored the penalty are minorities.

"That says something about the quality of our judicial system and juries' attitudes toward defendants," Everett said. "We will not save the people we are attempting to save. With all the bombing, killing and maiming in Great Britain today, that parliament, by a three to two margin, turned down a death penalty a few weeks ago."

Rep. David Miller, D-Parsons, argued the death penalty would not bring back murder victims and would be nothing more than vengeance by the state.

"The state," argued Rep. John Bower, R-McLouth, "is no more justified in shedding blood than an individual man."

Rep. Wendell Lady, R-Overland Park, said the legislation was an attempt to "put the cart before the horse."

"We are considering a cure and not the cause," Lady said. "Until we can address ourselves to the problem of the availability of the tools of murder we have no business deciding this issue."

USIA Man Dies in Fall

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — What was John A. Lepper, a cultural affairs officer for the United States Information Agency, doing in El Paso? How did he fall to his death from the 17th floor of a motor hotel? What was he doing on the 17th floor when he was registered in a room on the 11th floor?

These are among the questions that remained unanswered today as police and federal officials try to unravel the mysteries surrounding Lepper's death.

Lepper plunged from the fire escape on the 17th floor of Plaza Hotel Wednesday. He landed in an alley in the back of the hotel. Police said today they don't know how he fell.

Lepper, 35, was recently appointed cultural affairs officer for Jakarta, Indonesia. Bob Swol said Lepper left Nagoya, Japan, Feb. 28 for his new assignment in Indonesia. The information officer said, however, it was not unusual for employees to take several weeks of vacation before reporting to Duke, the Washington correspondent for the El Paso Herald-Post, asked USIA officials the purpose of Lepper's visit to El Paso. Duke said he talked to Erwin Van Swol, the USIA's information, and informed him of Lepper's death.

"What was he doing in El Paso?" Duke said Van Swol asked him.

The information officer said there was nothing in Lepper's record connecting him with El Paso.

Identification on his body listed his home as 4232 Crabtree Court, Plymouth, Mich.

Records show Lepper checked into the Plaza Hotel Sunday and had a room on the 11th floor.

Police said they found several notes in Lepper's room. Although they would not divulge the contents of the notes, sources said they did not appear to indicate he committed suicide. The sources said the notes apparently were connected to Lepper's job.

Lepper joined the USIA as a public officer trainee in July, 1963. He served in New Delhi and Calcutta from 1963 to 1965 and was transferred to Katmandu, Nepal, and promoted to assistant cultural affairs officer.

In his last assignment in Japan, he served as branch public affairs officer. He spoke fluent Japanese.

Is CIA All Abuses? Battles Communist Attempt In Africa, West Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The public hears only about the failures or abuses, alleged or real, of the Central Intelligence Agency.

What about its successes? CIA Director William E. Colby once told a largely hostile forum discussing the agency that it at times harbored "bad secrets," "nonsecrets" and "good secrets."

During a recent interview at his headquarters in the countryside of northern Virginia, Colby was asked if he could talk about some of the "good secrets"—CIA successes.

"This is hard," he said, "because if they're going to be successful they will be quiet.

"Let's put it this way. In the '40s and '50s there's no question about it that there was an attempt to expand communism, to take over Western Europe—political action among other things."

"There were various things done at that time which I can't go into. But the end result—not that it was the CIA that did it itself—that (Communist) hope of taking over Western Europe by political action failed."

The same could be said, he added, "in the early '60s of expanding Cuban subversion throughout the Western Hemisphere and Communist attempts later in Africa."

"There was a great vogue for the guerrilla insurgency. You look at it today. Those efforts failed. Again that wasn't just intelligence, but intelligence made a contribution."

"In Africa, there was a rather extensive effort to profit from the withdrawal and decolonization of several countries. And there was a contest there in various regards. But essentially, the Communists did not achieve any great position in Africa."

In still another area, Colby said the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks could never have got off the ground without some form of inspection—and that required a highly sophisticated intelligence capability.

The Russians, he said, "didn't like foreigners tramping around their countryside. So we couldn't get anywhere until we developed this capability of looking in and counting the missile launchers, telling exactly how much there is."

He referred to U.S.—and Soviet—"spy satellites," which continuously streak over each other's country and China, hundreds of miles high, photographing with remarkable detail what goes on below from missile-silo building to troop movements.

Generally, how was his main opposite number, the Soviet KGB Secret police, doing these days?

"KGB is both the CIA, FBI, State police, border guards, everything," Colby said.

"But if you merely stick to its activities outside their own country, it's bigger than ours. They have more Soviet citizens traveling abroad and traveling here."

While there are continued incidents of bugging, attempted compromise, blackmail, recruitment, bribery and financial offers to Americans by Soviet agents, Colby said, the KGB is playing it a bit cool these days because use it is so much easier for them to operate in an open society.

"They are quite relaxed and easy about the way they can reach out and use other agencies and people for their purposes or work or for their cover—quite a lot easier than ours," he said.

"They are getting to learn that a lot of information is freely available that doesn't have to be gathered through espionage."

How did he feel about that?

"Basically, you cannot object to that," Colby said. "In fact, I welcome it because that's only a good thing."

West Texas Offers Bid For Horse Hall of Fame

CANYON — The Panhandle Plains Historical Museum has made a bid to get the American Quarter Horse Association to locate the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame on the West Texas State University campus.

Keith L. Winter, director of development at WTSU, is in charge of the project.

Jim Hanson, director of the museum, has submitted a letter offering space and security for the hall of fame.

Letters have also been submitted by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and the Canyon mayor stating their support for the project.

"I have invited the AQHA to come down and look at the facilities we have," said Winter.

Quarterhorse representative Ron Blackwell said that the group will set up a committee but will not make a decision of location yet.

Winter listed several reasons for the establishment of the hall of fame on this campus. WTSU is the logical site because it is near the AQHA headquarters, the museum would like to do this, and WTSU will make a place for a permanent site. The hall of fame would be located at the same site of the museum, and it would be convenient to AQHA members and employees. The proposed site is only 15 minutes from Amarillo.

Membership in the American Quarter Horse Association is near 70,000. The AQHA also publishes a journal which has a circulation near 65,000.

Each will receive the Ski-Craft Weather Forecaster.

All winners will receive their prizes by mail.

Veteran Office To Reopen March 24

The Veterans County Service Office in the VFW building, 123 W. Foster, will be closed March 19 through March 21, according to Warner A. Phillips, veterans service officer.

Phillips will be in Waco three days attending the Spring Conference of Service Officers, sponsored by the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission and the Veterans Administration.

He said purpose of the Waco conference is to provide service officers with current information concerning public laws and regulations controlling state and federal benefits for veterans, dependents and survivors.

Phillips said the Pampa service office will re-open on Monday, March 24.

Lad Wants To Be Doc With Reattached Arm

HOUSTON (UPI) — Gerry Villarreal, 9, spends his days playing cards, listening to the radio and watching television — "just staying around the house." But he wants to go back to school so he can become a doctor someday.

His future now depends on a team of surgeons who will try to give life to his reattached left arm severed by a washing machine.

Doctors will connect the nerves and muscles in the arm, but it may be a year before he has use of the limb.

Gerry's arm was wrenched off by the machine in a washateria Jan. 31 and doctors at Ben Taub Hospital reattached the arm which has healed except for the nerves which were severely damaged.

He returns to surgery this week or early next, but he's not afraid.

"The operation will take 12 to 18 hours the doctors told me," Gerry said in an interview. "They're going to fix my bones and my nerves and my muscles."

"He's looking forward to getting through the long operation and going back to school at Franklin Elementary."

"It's going to be 12 to 16 months before I can go back,"

he said. "You bet I want to go back. I like it a lot better than just staying around the house. I play cards, listen to the radio or watch TV. Just play around."

Less Mortensen, Gerry's teacher, said he has kept up with his schoolwork through a homebound teacher and is ahead of his class in math, his favorite subject.

"I'm thinking about being a doctor. I always wanted to be a doctor," Gerry said. "I'm going to be okay and someday I'll go to school and be a doctor."

Mrs. Mortensen said even if Gerry doesn't get full use of his arm again, it won't hold him back.

"He's a determined little kid," she said. "I don't think it will slow him down at all."

"He's not worried about it at all. He seems to be just a real cheerful kid. I saw him the very first day visitors were allowed after the accident and he was already in good spirits."

She said he's left a void in her classroom.

"You can really miss him. Some of the kids you could take out of the class and not miss, but his absence is really missed. Not only by me but by the other kids, too."

Talkers Lose Interest

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland, and Bill Patman, D-Ganado, stood and talked for more than three hours, waving their arms and threatening to kick the money lenders out of the Texas capitol once and for all.

But other senators outmaneuvered Clower and Patman procedurally, cutting off their filibuster and sending the governor a bill changing the procedures for calculating interest rates on home loans.

"The borrower is going to be gouged," Patman said. "The people are not going to be fooled by this kind of Mickey Mouse."

Patman first began his filibuster against the bill before noon, but lost the right to continue speaking because he stopped to get a drink of water. Clower took up the cause, and with the help of lengthy questions from Patman the two delayed a vote on the bill by Sen. Bill

Meier, D-Fort Worth, until midafternoon.

"Somebody ought to stand up and kick these money lenders out of the capitol once and for all," Clower said.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, won a parliamentary ruling blocking an attempt by Patman to regain the floor with a proposed amendment to the bill, and the Senate quickly passed the bill 25-4 and sent it to the governor.

The measure allows lenders to spread the interest "points" on loans over the entire life of the loan, rather than figuring the additional costs as part of the first year's interest. If the points were figured on only a one year basis, lenders could be charged with usury on some loans where the points would push the first year interest rate to more than 10 per cent.

Lubbock Man Fixes Reed Organs

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Harlan Fisk was an accountant. Now he is a man who makes a hobby of putting the music back in old reed organs and watching tears of joy well up when the owners hear them play again.

Fisk, 60, spent 23 years as a federal government accountant, most of the time at Reese Air Force Base near Lubbock. Now retired, he concentrates on his hobby of repairing the old pump organs.

The reed organ deserves a definite place in our country's musical heritage," Fisk said, but his big reason for restoring them is to "make a few people happy."

livelihood because of the time and expense involved. But it's worth it when I get one fixed up and see tears in the eyes of the owner when it plays."

Fisk was born to music in El Dorado, Kan., where his father ran a music store and was the school's bandmaster.

"I grew up blowing a horn. While I was still in high school I got a job playing music at the old theatre during silent movies," he said. "I worked around the back shop at Dad's store, and got to know a lot about all kinds of instruments."

After graduation from high school, Fisk bought his own music store in Winfield, Kan., which he operated with a partner until he sold out in 1950 and moved to Lubbock.

"The reed organ is probably best known to the public as a pump organ," Fisk said. "A lot of people don't even know there are reeds in them."

The average home organ had 122 reeds. The larger, more resonant church organs had as many as 354 reeds.

Reed organs were most popular around the turn of the century, Fisk said. "The nicest ones I've worked on — the ones with the latest inventions — were built about 1900 to 1910."

By 1920 most organ companies had gone out of business or converted to building pianos, he said, but the reed organ left its stamp.

"These organs were the forerunners of our present day electric organs," Fisk said. "The antique value today is unlimited. People who have them usually attach sentimental value, too."

"In most cases I can make them play almost as good as they did when they were new," he said. "I often have to make parts because some just aren't available anymore," he said.

Although he does the work only as a hobby, Fisk stays busy and says he always has a waiting list of people who want reed organs repaired.

Beneficial Anguish

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Supreme Court today ordered a new trial on a Port Arthur man's claim Beneficial Finance Co. harassed and caused him mental anguish in an effort to collect a debt on a movie camera.

Larry Tarkington contends Beneficial or its Port Arthur office manager, Jerry Wooten, made a call to the headquarters of Tarkington's local union and left a message Tarkington's brother had been killed.

When Tarkington called the number left with union officials, the man who answered said it was "Sears." Tarkington later learned the number was that of Beneficial Finance.

He filed suit against Sears on July 9, 1971, then amended the suit more than a year later to make Beneficial and Wooten the defendants. Tarkington asked damages on grounds the telephone call and harassment caused him mental anguish and humiliation.

A trial court granted an instructed verdict in favor of Beneficial.

The Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals overturned that decision, saying there were fact issues raised as to whether the telephone call had been placed by Wooten or other Beneficial employees. Those issues should be resolved by a jury, the appellate court said.

The supreme court today agreed with the civil appeals ruling, and sent the case back to Port Arthur for a new hearing.

Babies Killed

SEOUL (UPI) — A fire today swept through a home for infants waiting to be adopted by families in the United States and other countries, killing 14 babies and injuring another.

Police said the victims all were 15 days to 1 month old.

Thirty-six other babies and children two to six years old were rescued after the fire started in the home, the House of Angels, on the northern outskirts of the city.

The blaze was blamed on a hotplate that became overheated.

Disclosure Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission today ordered the makers of radio and television sets to tell consumers in plain English what the cabinets are made of.

Labels and advertising will have to say what the cabinet is made of — such as "plastic" or "vinyl" — or must state what it is not, for example, "simulated wood" or "imitation wood grain."

"Terms such as 'molded components,' 'walnut plastic' or 'carved effect' will not suffice to disclose that exposed surfaces are plastic or that they are not wood," the regulation states.

Home-grown Urged

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — State Rep. Stephen Kainoury, sponsor of legislation which liberalized Oregon's marijuana laws in 1973, says pot users should be allowed to grow their own.

Before the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday was a bill which would allow growing up to 10 marijuana plants.

He said growing marijuana in small private plots would simply allow users to have their own supply. "It's kind of a fad," he said, "a lot of people are growing vegetables in their backyard."

Albritton Out

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe today yielded to Senate pressure and withdrew his appointment of Ford D. Albritton Jr. of College Station to the State College Coordinating Board.

Briscoe said Albritton requested his appointment be withdrawn in a March 6 letter. Albritton told Briscoe he had learned that a Senator was going to oppose his confirmation. He apparently meant Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, who had made his opposition to Albritton known, but refused to say why.

Newspaper Emerges

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — An Oklahoma newspaper executive Tuesday said the newspaper has been in a financial crisis for the last two years but it had emerged in pretty good shape.

Richard L. Jones Jr., president of the Newspaper Printing Corp., at Tulsa, said the industry had met the many problems caused by the recession and the demand to use new techniques and electronics. He said he was optimistic about the industry's future.

Jones, whose corporation publishes both daily newspapers at Tulsa, spoke to a production meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

He said he was willing to give television "its due" as an advertising medium but said "no advertising produces results as quickly and effectively as that done in newspapers."

Walgreens

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals has blocked the state Pharmacy Board's attempt to revoke the licenses of 58 Walgreen Drug Stores because of the firm's advertising policies on prescription drugs.

The court upheld a district court ruling Wednesday and said revoking the licenses would cause Walgreen's irreparable harm.

Walgreen challenged the constitutionality of a 1973 law

Health Compromise

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Supporters of different versions of health maintenance organizations have reached a compromise on a bill to create state-regulated health insurance groups.

Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, announced he was dropping his health maintenance organization bill, the product of a two-year study, to support a joint bill sponsored by Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, and Sen. Bob Gammage, D-Houston.

Von Dohlen successfully worked to defeat Leland's HMO bill during the 1973 legislative session.

CABOT CONSULTANTS — Among 90 specialists and 86 professional and vocational fields to participate at the 15th Career Clinic of Pampa High School on March 19, are Cabot Machinery Division employees from left, standing R.G. Yono and Sam Smith, and Chuck White and Jan Young. The event is being sponsored by The Altrusa Club of Pampa, Junior Service League, and Pampa Chamber of Commerce. (Photo by Jim Williams)

Machinery Division Will Represent Cabot At Clinic

Clinic coordinators have selected over 75 different career areas to spotlight the 15th Career Clinic to be held Wednesday morning, March 19 at Pampa High School.

Four clinic consultants from the Machinery Division at Cabot are Joan Young, C.S. (Sam) Smith, Charles M. (Chuck) White, and R.G. (Bob) Yono.

Mrs. Young is a Secretary in the Personnel Department at Cabot Corporation, Machinery Division. She began her work with Cabot in January, 1972, as an office clerk in the accounting department. Since that time she has served in the capacities of receptionist and secretary in the employment offices of the personnel department.

Joan received her secretarial training in high school, and later took additional training at Pampa School of Business. Prior to her association with Cabot, she was employed as secretary to the Administrator of Highland General Hospital, and as secretary-receptionist at Security Federal Savings & Loan Association.

Mrs. Young has a daughter, Cindy, who is a senior in Pampa High School, and a son, Buck, who is a sophomore at Texas Tech.

Sam Smith joined Cabot Corporation, Machinery Division, in April, 1973 as Cost Accounting Manager. In this capacity he is responsible for the various cost functions of the division, physical inventory, maintenance and warranty costs analysis and other cost related activities.

Smith is a graduate of Wichita State University at Wichita, Kan., and prior to his association with Cabot, was employed by Santa Fe Railway and Boeing in similar positions. He is married and has two children.

Chuck White came to Machinery Division of Cabot from their main offices in Boston, in 1967. At that time he assumed his present position as Manager of the Marketing Department, which includes both domestic and international operations. In this capacity he supervises the direct selling activities of the Division product lines, as well as promotes new product and market development activities.

White graduated from Culver Military Academy, Williams College, and Northeastern Management Development Program.

He is active in various civic organizations and community affairs; and he, his wife, Babs, and children reside at 2014 Charles Street.

Bob Yono began his career with Cabot Corporation in April, 1969, as a Draftsman in our Engineering Department. He has since progressed to the position of Senior Designer, and in this capacity checks blueprints in their final phase before they go to production.

Yono started his drafting career at Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, Ohio, where he worked as a combination Draftsman, Machinist and Atomic Reactor Operator. Later, he moved to Colorado to pursue his career in drafting. Working at "Perfect Circle Piston Division," he drew up and designed tools and gages for each operation on the assembly line. He also designed cams and templates for "Fuji" and "Exello" lathes.

Yono has taken correspondence courses through "American School," Chicago, Ill., I.C.S. with a course in Industrial Engineering. He also has attended Southern Colorado State College for a course on computer programming.

He and his wife, Diane, have three children, and reside at 1942 N. Nelson.

Anniversary Reception Fetes Gamma Conclave

A group of Pampa teachers accepted an invitation extended 25 years ago by Myra Ann Wallace of Lubbock, to meet with her and some friends to learn about Kappa Kappa Iota, a sorority for teachers. As a result of this meeting, the Gamma Conclave was founded with Nicki Gordon and Lilly Nichols elected president and vice president.

Gamma honored seven active members, of the original 14 present for the first meeting with a silver anniversary dinner reception Monday evening in Lovett Memorial Library. Guests attending were members of Alpha Iota and Beta Chi of Lefors.

Honored were Nicki Gordon, Lilly Nichols, Faye Stowell, Hazel Parker, Dora Meech, Edna Begert, and Aileen Coker. All seven of these charter members have served as local president and have held various offices at the local, state and national levels, with four having served as state president.

It was the formation of Gamma that made Texas eligible to become Kappa Kappa Iota's Delta State.

Mrs. Laura Penick, Texas State President, KKI, lit the Delta State birthday candle; Jeannine Puirfoy lit Alpha Iota's candle; and candle lighter for Beta Chi was Mrs. Virginia Archer, president.

Mrs. Earl Davis, mistress of ceremonies, led the group in singing the KKI Prayer and Mrs. Archer introduced the country western music program, presented by guitarist, Jaylene Wallis accompanying Leatrice Vincent. Both are sophomores at Lefors High School.

Austin Is Site For BSP Spring State Convention

At a recent meeting of Rho Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, it was announced that the BSP state convention would be held in Austin this year and that the 1973 yearbook and the 1974 scrapbook entries should be completed for entry in the state competition during the convention this spring.

Joyce Barrett hosted the meeting with President, Diane Groeters, presiding.

Joyce Barrett gave a report on the activities of the membership committee and pledges would be given their pledge test early in March. The Ritual of Jewels ceremony for the pledges will be held March 25. Cathy Green, chairman of the ways and means committee, announced a bake sale would be held on March 14.

Members were informed that the next meeting would be a Model Meeting and invitations would be sent to Phi Mu members who wanted to move to a Ritual of Jewels chapter to visit Rho Eta at the meeting.

Members were encouraged to attend the next meeting where Mrs. Georgia Mack will be showing pictures of her recent trip to Iran.

The executive board meeting will be held prior the next chapter meeting.

Election of officers will be held the first meeting in April.

Mrs. Lois Steele, member of the board of directors for Genesis House, spoke about Genesis House, a home for teenage girls. Mrs. Steel told about the creation of Genesis House, how it was organized, credited and funded, and how it can and does help teen-age girls with problems.

Members present were Groeters, Nancy Sowers, Jan Reader, Linda Aftergut, Jan Morris, Pat Rich, Vicki Hayes, Lisa Maddux, Joyce Barrett, Carolyn Maxey, Pat Winkleblack, Cathy Green, Connie Holland, Pam Crockett, Marilyn Mitchell, Debbie Callison, Jenny Dorman, Sharron Hurst, and Mrs. Mack, Rho Eta sponsor.

Tuesday, March 4, Rho Eta pledges were given their pledge test, and were treated to a surprise party afterwards by active members of Rho Eta.

Care Of A Mixer

COLLEGE STATION — Regular care of a mixer can give it a longer service life. One family resource management specialist pointed out this week.

"Regular cleaning can prevent damage to the motor and the possibility of electrical shock," Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

She explained that the head can be wiped with a soft, soapy cloth, then rinsed and dried. But consumers should avoid abrasive cleansers which can mar the finish. The head should never be immersed in water.

"The beaters and bowl should be washed after each use, either by hand or in a dishwasher. Before using the mixer again, be sure that all parts are completely dry," Mrs. Chenoweth said.

It's a good idea to wipe the cord occasionally with a damp cloth when the mixer is unplugged, the specialist said.

Special Education For Discussion At DKG Meet

"Every child is unique. There has never been nor will there ever be another like him. In this respect every child is exceptional. Some children, however, are exceptional in special dimensions. Their individuality or uniqueness may be outstanding, or at least beyond the usual range of individuality or uniqueness. This exceptionalism may require special training, medical care, and special educational provisions. Such children may be known as "handicapped" in our society."

Thus Mrs. Joe Duncan, diagnostician, introduced the scope of the Special Education program in Pampa, as she spoke to the Theta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, Saturday afternoon, in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

She stated that from 16 percent to 20 percent of the young people in the state and nation are handicapped to the extent that they need special education provisions, and continued, "Our goal is that special education will help the special child realize his full potential, will help him grow strong — physically, mentally, and emotionally."

Mrs. Duncan traced the history of the program in Texas and explained the instructional provisions being made and the process whereby the child is placed in special education courses through recommendation by teachers, parents, or others concerned followed by review by the Admissions, Review, and Dismissal Committee. She stressed the flexibility of the program to meet the needs of the child.

Mrs. Bill Harwood introduced the speaker.

Miss Mary Ewing led the group in singing and Miss Marjorie Ewing, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Homer Bowers was granted reserve membership; Mrs. Clifton Kelly reported on the gifts made to Genesis House; and members contributed one dollar each to the Golden Anniversary Fund to be used for expansion and scholarships.

Miss Ewing announced that there would be a spaghetti dinner and a bazaar at the War Memorial Building in Panhandle, March 19, proceeds from which would be used to pay on the original debt for the Garretson Memorial Home in Panhandle.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack C. Williams, Elbert Walker, W.K. Mackey, Bill Harwood, and Miss Mary Dean Dozier.

Twenty-five members were present and attending from Pampa were Mrs. Harwood, Mackey, Walker, Williams, Ed Lehnick, John Vantine, and Quentin Williams; and Misses Dozier, Claudia Everly, Lelia Clifford, and Ila Pool.

Films will tell freedom's story

WASHINGTON, D.C. — To commemorate the 200th anniversary of the struggle for American independence, the National Park Service has created one of the most extensive programs in its history.

One of its major efforts is the making of two general films, one telling the story of the common American of the war period, the other relating the cultural diversity of the land that was to become the United States.

Regent Quizzed On Birch Society

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Senators today demanded University of Texas Regent Walter G. Sterling explain his membership in the John Birch Society and conflicting testimony about his performance on the board of the state's largest university.

Sterling said he belonged to the rightwing organization for three or four months 10 or 12 years ago.

"When I heard this man Welch that started the thing I thought he had a pretty good idea. When I found out the real import of the thing I just resigned. I couldn't stand the thing myself," Sterling said.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, revealed Sterling had belonged to the Birch Society and demanded he explain why.

"I'm seriously concerned about your motivation to join," Schwartz said.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, accused Sterling of misleading senators about his plans and efforts to meet with students.

"I want to remind you're under oath," Doggett told Sterling before demanding an explanation for inconsistencies in the Houston regent's testimony.

Sterling said he skipped a meeting with student leaders Jan. 31 because he was not informed of the time or place for the session.

Under questioning by Doggett, however, he admitted he had a letter indicating the time of the session.

Sterling and two other men nominated by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to the UT Regents — Thomas H. Law of Fort Worth and Dan C. Williams of Dallas — were summoned before the Senate Education Committee today to answer critics' questions.

The Senate Nominations Committee cut short interrogations of the trio and endorsed the nominations 6-0.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, called the trio before his committee today and promised to extend hearings as long as necessary to hear opponents of the three appointments.

Report from America Man Wants Revival Of Klan in Kansas

KINGMAN, Kan. (UPI) — Dan Winkle, 22, an unemployed engineer, is convinced rural Kansas is fertile ground for revival of the Ku Klux Klan. He hopes to inaugurate a local chapter.

"We still wear the robes and light the cross at secret meetings," Winkle said in an interview, brushing back his long reddish-brown hair framing wire-rimmed glasses and a moustache.

Winkle needs 12 members to start a chapter. He has placed classified ads in some newspapers, but stopped doing that when he ran out of money. He would not predict when a Kansas chapter of the Klan could begin holding meetings.

The Klan was banished from Kansas in 1925, but Kansas Attorney General Curt Schneider has ruled the creation of a chapter in this state would not break any existing laws. Winkle said the ruling was fair, since he said the Klan does nothing illegal.

"There's none of the night riding or the terrorizing any more. That's not the way to do things these days. We want to elect people to office and to lobby for conservative Americans."

"We want our system run on the ideals of white Western Christian civilization, instead of the ideas of Africa or Israel."

Winkle admitted the task in Kansas may be formidable. In endorsing the legality of a chapter, the attorney general called the Klan's goal of racial separation "obnoxious to fundamental constitutional guarantees of equality before the law."

Numerous state civil rights groups, including the Kansas Civil Rights Commission, asked Schneider to rule against the Klan. Winkle said the modern-day Klan is misunderstood.

"People who oppose the Klan don't know anything about it," Winkle said. "When I try to explain it, they get steamed up and hot and bothered, right off the bat. People won't listen."

The Klan is nothing but a bunch of white people expressing their opinion on political and social matters. It's really no different than the NAACP. It just shows people can express opinions without being shut up or confined."

Winkle said sporadic racial tensions in Wichita, Kan., 40 miles east of Kingman indicate a Klan chapter could be formed. He said many Wichita whites are "fed up with busing and fed up with their kids being threatened all the time by black kids."

NM Teachers May Receive Unemployment

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — More than half of New Mexico's 28,000 school teachers is expected to take advantage of a change in federal law and file for unemployment benefits this summer, according to the state Employment Security Commission.

"We expect about 15,000 of them to file for unemployment benefits this summer," ESC Director Rudy Ortiz said Tuesday.

Ortiz said the teachers will be eligible for the federal benefits under the Special Unemployment Assistance Act, passed by Congress late in 1974.

Teachers unemployed during the summer months but looking for work will be eligible for the benefits, Ortiz said, and their chances of getting employment will not be great because summer jobs are expected to be scarce.

The amount of compensation will be 50 per cent of weekly wages, not to exceed $71 per week. School teachers receive an annual salary but normally work only nine months during a single year.

Egg Producers Hatching Plot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major egg producers co-op is advising its members to cut production this spring if they want to avoid losing money.

"In nine of the past 10 years, average egg producers have not received enough for their eggs to meet costs during April, May and June," explained John Pederson, director of statistical analysis for the United Egg Producers in Atlanta, Ga.

Your Horoscope

By Joane Dixon

FRIDAY, MARCH 14
Your birthday today: Finds you enjoying the first phase of a tremendous surge of personal energy. This year your inner nature surfaces. As you evolve, you discover new values, new criteria for judging what you want, and become more selective. Today's natives have magnetic personalities, often are dedicated to scientific efforts or creative musical activities, susceptible to mixed influences.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: New and unfamiliar procedures, strange people turn out to be challenging. You handle them as well as anyone could. Be sure of travel arrangements early.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You needn't explain much of what you're doing or what you might do in hypothetical circumstances. Give others the freedom to earn their own way; take care of yourself first.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You've got to make a firm deal if you want help. Do less by yourself and get things right to begin with. Skip postponable routines; try original experiments.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You have substantial endorsement from people who prefer to remain anonymous. Coax or provoke others to enough comment to let you know where they stand and what they're likely to do.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: If you can lend a helping hand without inconvenience, do so, once you're sure it's needed. Just don't expect thanks. Older people and distant relatives offer useful advice.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Wind up the work week neatly without introducing additional projects. Survey your establishment for security, insurance, potentially hazardous conditions. Rid yourself of an annoyance.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Announce last night's idea, then make your decision effective. Move on quickly to new activities and keep in step with your colleagues. You have something special to celebrate.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: In the middle of this busy day, give a moment's thought to the care and protection of your health. Resolve to make changes in your daily living. Share lively talk tonight.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: A career move is open for action with no advertisements or announcements. Put on a good show, whatever your intentions, and continue to pursue confidential information.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You have unusual distances, real or symbolic, to cover during this long, complex day. Evening winds up in fun and relaxation. Avoid shoptalk; you'll only be misled.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Keep your sense of humor as friends and loved ones take turns teasing you or possibly play a practical joke. Get your work caught up despite temptation to take time off.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Proceed boldly toward your objectives. You've got encouragement or discreet help from several sources. Be sure of the details if you lay out extra money now.

Dallas Deputy Files Discrimination Suit

DALLAS (UPI) — Deputy Sheriff Marsha Richardson filed a federal discrimination suit Tuesday alleging most female deputies are assigned to supervise female inmates at less pay and those who seek transfers are harassed by their superiors.

Mrs. Richardson also alleged her co-workers "instigated a course of harassment and intimidation" when they found she had started criminal proceedings. She did not explain the incidents.

The two-year veteran said she filed the complaint against Sheriff Clarence Jones and Dallas County commissioners after being notified by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission of her right to sue. She has asked U. S. District Judge William M. Taylor to enjoin the county from discriminating against women and award victimized employees any deserved back pay.

According to Mrs. Richardson, she was transferred from the jail supervisory post to the civil division last December. She said, however, she was transferred to an undesirable downtown district where deputies have more work but are not given the use of a county car.

She said Jones knew of her complaint and the alleged harassment but failed to investigate either.

Jones has denied all allegations.

"We're not discriminating against women," he said.

In Dallas County 21 per cent of the 556 employees are women, including one female captain who heads the bond division. Female employment percentages are much lower among the so-called "sworn" positions.

Vacationer Discovers Diamond In Arkansas

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (UPI) — A man vacationing in Arkansas found a 2.86 carat clear, white diamond Monday at the Crater of Diamonds State Park.

A spokesman for the state Department of Parks and Tourism said the diamond found by William Mugley of Kanorado, Kan., was the largest found in several months at the crater, the only diamond mine in North America.

Mugley, a former resident of Fort Smith, Ark., visited the crater several years ago without finding a diamond.

The spokesman for the Parks and Tourism Department said the field at the crater had recently been plowed and washed by rains.

WORLD'S TALLEST WOMAN Sandy, 7 Feet, Travels To Florida for Date

FLORA, Ill. (UPI) — Townspeople gave 7-foot-5 Sandy Allen a mighty tall welcome to this Southern Illinois community Saturday, showing her with presents on her second date with 7-foot-2 Dan Gerber.

It was "Sandy Allen Day" in honor of the Shelbyville, Ind. girl who is tabbed as the world's tallest woman. Sandy, 19, made a special trip to Florida for the date, after Dan had traveled to Shelbyville to meet her several weeks ago in the "world's tallest blind date."

After the first meeting, Sandy complained she didn't get a chance to talk to Dan amid all the hoopla. This time, things seemed to start off the same way, but neither could complain while they were being wooed with gifts by local residents and merchants.

Before taking a tour of the 500-acre farm on which Dan grew up, they met for breakfast, compliments of the Ranch Steakhouse. The restaurant already was jammed with about 50 people and "a lot of them were coffee drinkers," said Mrs. Geraldine Knight, the manager.

Sandy and Dan frequently were interrupted by wide-eyed, autograph-seeking youngsters. Mrs. Knight's niece, Sandy Grubb, helped wait on Sandy and said she would talk about it in a "show and tell session" at her first grade class.

Lloyd Bateman, a farmer from nearby Louisville, Ill., said, "She's bigger than I thought she would be."

Sandy and Dan shrugged it off, each eating a tall order for breakfast. Sandy, wearing a green-and-white checked pants suit, two orchids and white tennis shoes, had a large orange juice, four scrambled eggs, two sausage patties, four slices of toast, two home-made cinnamon rolls and four cups of tea.

Dan, 22, was nattily attired in a custom-made red sports coat and a flower in his button hole — two of his gifts for the day from area merchants and a Shelbyville flower shop. He breakfasted on four scrambled eggs, six sausage patties, two cups of coffee, two large orange juices and two cinnamon rolls.

Natural Gas Must Be Decontrolled FPC

WASHINGTON — The Federal Power Commission said last week that it can't do very much to lessen the natural gas shortage unless Congress acts to decontrol natural gas prices.

Without a return to "the impersonal forces of a free marketplace," the FPC said in a conclusion to a four-year study on the issue of deregulation of natural gas, there will not be sufficient incentives for oil and gas companies to find and develop new sources of natural gas.

Congress presently has before it legislation that would deregulate the price of natural gas and is expected to take up the issue later this year. A compromise between deregulation proponents and opponents, who contend decontrol would cost consumers billions of dollars without necessarily boosting gas supplies, is considered possible.

One of the five FPC members, Don S. Smith, strongly disagreed with the majority's conclusions. Smith said he favored deregulation only for small producers — those with less than one percent of the natural gas market. He predicted that decontrol would cause the price of natural gas to skyrocket.

Some opponents of decontrol have predicted that the price of natural gas would increase by 400 percent.

The U.S. imported a record 285 million barrels of oil — and spent $3.3 billion — in January, the U.S. Commerce Department reported last week.

The 285 million barrels works out to an average of about 9.2 million per day, about 50 percent more than the 6.3 million barrels the U.S. has been importing in recent months.

January oil imports skyrocketed apparently because oil importers were attempting to avoid a $1 per barrel tariff placed on imported oil by President Ford as of Feb. 1.

Social Security Q's, A's

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 North Hobart Street, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By Howard L. Weatherly
Q. I understand that if I wait until after I am 65 to begin my social security benefit, it will be higher. Is that correct?
A. Your benefit will be increased one percent for each year after age 65 that you do not receive a benefit up to age 72.

Q. My husband of 25 years divorced me last year. He has not given me any money since our divorce. I hear that he has filed for his social security. Can I receive any social security on his record?
A. If you are at least 62 years old or have a child of your husband's in your care, you may be entitled to a monthly benefit.

Q. I received a student social security benefit. Is it true that my checks will stop when I reach age 22?
A. A recent change in the law allows your benefit to continue through the end of the semester or quarter in which you reach age 22.

Q. What is the new law on additional social security credit for military service?
A. Additional credit in the amount of $1200 per year can be granted for people in military service in the years 1957-1967. Anyone receiving benefits on the record of a person who had military service in these years should contact their social security office.

Q. Is it true that the 1972 Amendments to the Social Security Law did away with the six months waiting period for disability benefits?
A. No, the amendments did not do away with the waiting period. However, they did reduce the six month waiting period to five months, effective January 1973. A waiting period consists of the first five full months and individual is too disabled to work. However, application for payments may be made as early as it is known the worker will be disabled for 12 or more months.

Gold Treasure Still Untouchable

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — No one will be going to look for the fabled $250 billion Victorio Peak gold treasure in southern New Mexico, at least for some time.

The State of New Mexico agreed Tuesday to drop its jurisdiction suit against the federal government over the treasure that allegedly includes thousands of gold bars and artifacts.

The treasure is believed buried somewhere on the barren White Sands Missile Range in southern New Mexico. Parts of the range are owned by the state and leased to the U.S. Army.

Former State Attorney General David Norvell, acting on behalf of persons who claim to know where the gold is hidden, sued the federal government last year to gain access to the range. The Army has steadfastly refused.

U.S. District Judge Howard Bratton had ruled earlier the state and federal government had to give consent to any search. He required both parties to sign an agreement to that effect before he would dispose of the state's suit.

Bratton said if the Army did not sign the agreement he would order a trial to hear the state's side. But the state, represented by Land Office Attorney William O. Jordan, and the federal government, represented by Asst. U.S. Attorney James H. Grant, signed the consent agreement Tuesday and Bratton dismissed the case.

Among the claimants to the treasure was a group represented by lawyer F. Lee Bailey, who presented former Gov. Bruce King last year with a candy bar sized bar of gold they said came from the treasure. Assays by the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory showed the bar could have been jeweler's gold and there was nothing to tie it to alleged treasure.

Bailey's group says it knows the exact location of the treasure, which they valued at $250 billion.

Reports of hidden treasure in southern New Mexico's desert country have circulated more than a century. One man, the late Milton "Doc" Noss, claimed to have located the treasure in a cave in Victorio Peak in the 1930s but lost it in a landslide.

Two Pampa Writers Will Be Honored

Two Pampa writers will be among 21 Texas Panhandle residents honored Saturday, March 22 by Friends of the Amarillo Library for having published a book within the past year.

At the 7th Annual Book and Author dinner in the Amarillo Y.W.C.A., Mrs. Quentin Nolte, 2004 Williston, will be honored for her book, "Westward, Ha!" and Mrs. Cameron Marsh, 2200 Evergreen, for "They Came to Stay."

Deadline to reserve tickets for the dinner will be Thursday, March 20.

George Fabian Scher, author, editor, literary agent and publisher, will speak at the dinner. He is expected to discuss the publishing business, what happens to a manuscript and how to go about getting a book published.

A business session will include election of officers for Friends of the Library and annual reports.

Exxon Agrees To Sell Gas From Alaska

HOUSTON (UPI) — Exxon USA has signed an agreement with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. of San Francisco to sell its remaining 30 per cent of anticipated natural gas production from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay. An Exxon spokesman said the 20-year contract and others Exxon has signed with companies insures Prudhoe Bay gas will be available to top gas consumers of the eastern, central and western parts of the country.

Cattle change grass to protein

Only about one-fourth of the food consumed by cattle is grain and this is feed grain such as sorghum and field corn, according to the Council of California Growers.

The unique digestive system of cattle enables them to digest otherwise useless fibrous plant materials, thereby converting them into high-protein human food.

Check Boats Before Heading To Meredith

A few minutes of checking at home can prevent frustrating troubles for Panhandle boaters at Lake Meredith.

1. The engine should be tuned for the start of the season, suggests the National Park Service. Nothing can ruin the day faster than the engine quitting before the boat clears the harbor.

2. Running lights should be checked and dead bulbs replaced. If lights seem dim, the battery should be checked.

3. All safety devices required by state law should be on board and in good condition. Personal flotation devices must be serviceable. The straps must be firmly attached and cloth covering not torn.

4. The boat trailer should be checked and moving parts lubricated. Tires should be properly inflated and tail lights working properly.

In conjunction with Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, the park service provides free boating information for Lake Meredith. Persons having questions should contact Lake Meredith Headquarters in Fritch or ask a ranger.

Malone Trips Tri-State In College Tournament

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Jay Bowerman is sticking to his red shirt, red slacks and blue plaid jacket — quite literally. The Malone (Ohio) coach began wearing the outfit 10 games ago after Malone dropped a 74-73 decision to Rio Grande. Since then, the Pioneers haven't lost.

Making their first appearance in the NAIA basketball tournament, the Pioneers advanced to the quarter-finals Wednesday night with an 80-63 victory over Tri-State (Ind.).

Baseballers Open Play In Lubbock Tourney

HEREFORD — Pampa's baseball team opens play today in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Baseball Tournament against the team which beat Pampa in the finals a year ago — Levelland.

entered, drew a bye in the first round. The winner of the Pampa - Levelland game will play either Amarillo High or Canyon Saturday. The two losers will meet Friday.

"I'm going to wear this until we lose," said Bowerman, "even if we go all the way to Saturday. I do change the socks and underwear, though."

The two will start at 4 p.m. in games already played today. Canyon took on Amarillo High and Hereford hosted Dumas, Borger, the only other team

The championship game is set for 3:45 p.m. Saturday, consolation for 10:15 a.m. and third-place at 1 p.m. Pampa is 2-3 for the season after dropping a pair to Altus, Okla. Saturday.

Malone, which knocked off top-seeded Kentucky State in the first round Tuesday night, will face another heavily favored foe tonight when the Pioneers go against Alcorn (Miss.), last year's runner-up team.

Netters In Lubbock Tourney

LUBBOCK — Pampa high school tennis team, which has had a taste of winning for the first time in history, takes on Lubbock High at 2:30 p.m. today in a tune-up match for Friday and Saturday's Lubbock Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Both teams will be competing in the tournament, which starts at 8:30 a.m. Friday and involves some of the top netters in the state. Should Pampa lose Friday, it will not compete Saturday in the single-elimination tourney.

John Michie said "It'll be the toughest competition we've faced all year long, boys and girls included."

Brittany Club To Hold Spring Dog Competition

The Top O' Texas Brittany Club will hold its annual A.K.C.-licensed Spring Field Trial March 29 - 30 on the Haynes Ranch, located 16 miles southeast of Pampa.

The field trial committee includes George Parr, Dr. R.C. Busted, Sara Leverich, Frank Roach, Dee Nix, T.M. Cox Jr., Dr. Jack Zachery, B.D. Caddell, Andy Lincecum and Hershel Robertson.

Laycock is Pampa's number one boys singles player and has won eight matches with no losses this year.

Open All - Age and Open Derby division will be limited to the first 60 dogs combined. Single Course Stakes, Open Puppy, Open Gun Dog and Amateur Gun Dog will be limited to the first 90 dogs combined. Dogs may be entered in either the Open All - Age Stake or the Open Gun Dog Stake, but not both.

The Harvesters captured the first team trophy in history for a Pampa team Saturday in the Berger tournament, finishing second. Pampa was only a point behind champion Borger.

Picking up points for Pampa were Laycock, the boys doubles team of Jerry Allen and E.B. Ellis, Stacy Douglass in girls singles and the girls doubles team of Karen Hampton and Donna Coufal.

Entry applications for the field trials should be mailed to Mrs. Jim Leverich, 1824 Christine St., Pampa. Entries close promptly at 8 p.m. March 26, with drawings immediately following. The Judges for the trial are George Miller of Amarillo, Jimmy James of Cyril, Okla., Frank Hanwright of Albuquerque, N.M., and Bud Higgenbotham of Canyon.

Laycock and the boys team won championships, while the three girls scored by making it to the semifinals.

Sports

Pampa will be among nine teams competing for the team championship of the 30th West Texas Relays, a meet chock full of history but owing limited stature in recent years, in Odessa's W.T. Barrett Stadium Saturday.

Nine Harvesters will make the trek to Odessa; the remainder of the Pampa track squad will journey to the Plainview Invitational Track Meet.

Running event preliminaries will start at 1:30 p.m. Friday and end with the 4:55 p.m. mile-relay prelims. Finals in the field events will start at 1 p.m. Friday.

NCIT Opens

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Twelfth-ranked Southern Cal and 17th-ranked Arizona carried the favorite's roles into their first-round games tonight in the second annual National Commissioners Invitational tournament.

Southern Cal (18-7), with one of the nation's most polished guards in Gus "Wizard" Williams, takes on Drake (16-10) in the nightcap following an encounter between Arizona (20-6) and East Carolina (19-9) at 7:05 p.m. (EDT).

The opening round of the eight-team tourney will be completed Friday night when Purdue (16-10) battles Missouri (18-4) in the first game and Tennessee (17-7) plays Bowling Green (17-9) in the second.

The team emerging with the championship in the nationally televised final Sunday afternoon will be hoping to follow the trail blazed by last year's winner, Indiana.

The Hoosiers used their championship in the initial Commissioners Tournament at St. Louis last year as a springboard to an undefeated season this year.

PD, Pampa Spikers Meet In District Play

PALO DURO, the only team which lost to Pampa in the first half of district play, host the Harvesters tonight in 3-AAAA girls volleyball action.

Pampa, 1-0 in the second half after its win over Caprock, the first half champion, Tuesday, must win the second half to force a playoff with the Longhorns.

The junior varsity match is set for 6:30 p.m. today; the varsities will play 20 minutes after the conclusion of the JV match.

Finals in running events start at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and end with the 4:30 p.m. mile relay. In all running events, the running order will be Divisions 2A, 3A, 4A.

The Odessa meet was once the state's prime track affair, drawing some of the top athletes, including college tracksters, in the country. High school names out of the past include Randy Matson, Buddy Ward, Lewis Wilson, Ronnie Shanklin, Randy Lightfoot and Tim Son.

Colleges no longer attend the meet; in fact, few high schools do. But this year's nine-team AAAA field will include several of the top athletes in the state, and at least a little bit of the fabulous tradition comes alive.

Entered are San Angelo, which has won three straight championships in the meet, Odessa Permian, Midland Lee and Midland High, El Paso High, Austin and Coronado, Odessa High and Pampa, which has a good shot at the team trophy.

Pampans entered will include Noel Hansen in the 880, Howie Lewis in both hurdles, Barry Lemmons and Chuck Quarles in the 440, David Caldwell and Mike Glover in the sprints, Willis Price in the high jump and long jump and Garland McPherson in the pole vault.

Rick Leverich, still hurting from a strained leg muscle, is listed as "possible" for the meet by Pampa Coach Scott Dunham. "He's doubtful, I'll enter Caldwell in the sprints and possibly Leverich. Glover will be in the 220 but not the 100; Caldwell will be in both."

Odessa High's Darrell Shepard has run a 9.8 this season and is tied for 10th in the state rankings in the event. He could be pressured by Caldwell, who did not get a chance to compete in either of the sprints in Saturday's Pampa meet because of bad starts.

Midland Lee's Robert Johnson has run a 22.2 220 and likely will be favored to win, although Glover is capable of beating that time.

Midland High's Larry Munson is tied for third in the state in the intermediate hurdles, having a 39.1 clocking. "I believe we have a good chance in the relays and the hurdles and the 880," Dunham said.

Pampa could also be competitive in the pole vault, which McPherson won Saturday with a 12-6 leap. The Harvester weight men, other varsity tracksters and entire junior varsity is entered in the Plainview Invitational.

Man Buries 'Child' In Spot Of Visions

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI) — A man who says his religious faith led him to bury the body of his infant son in a mystically devined spot has police baffled, but convinced of the sincerity of his beliefs.

John Shirey, 27, was arrested earlier this week after an anonymous tip led police to the burial site in the western Wayne County community of Romulus.

Shirey told police that he and his brother, Mark, carried the body of his son, Child of the Land, to the site two weeks ago and buried it. He said he had seen the spot in three previous visions.

An autopsy report Friday revealed that the boy, called simply Child by his parents, died of pneumonia. Police said they were satisfied from the report that no foul play was involved.

Learning that he might be charged with failing to report a death, Shirey replied: "How could I report a death I didn't believe happened? I believe Jesus took him straight into the Kingdom of God."

Shirey and his common-law wife, Micki Noblett, said they do not believe in doctors. They explained his illness by saying he was being "cleansed" of poisons.

"I didn't consider him sick, to consider calling a doctor," Shirey told a reporter. "It's not that I think doctors are evil. It's just that what I trust in is higher than a doctor."

He said he doesn't believe himself guilty of a crime. "To be guilty of a crime, I'd have to have evil thoughts in my mind. I have none," he said.

Shirey said he and his wife, former Dearborn residents, developed their religious beliefs about four years ago. They have another child, John David, 6.

Dearborn Heights detectives said he could possibly be charged with a misdemeanor count of burial without a permit. But they said the matter would probably not be pursued.

"I like them, they're nice," said Frank Van Wulfen, chief of detectives. "I think they're absolutely genuine in the way they believe. Shirey didn't mind staying in jail ... he apologized to us twice for putting us out."

Pampa Grad Breakfasts Among Bangkok Hibiscus

EDITOR'S NOTE: Martha Pattillo is a 1964 graduate of Pampa High School who is now stationed in Bangkok, Thailand with the United Nations. Pattillo graduated in 1968 with a bachelor of arts degree and in 1969 with a master of library science degree from the University of Texas. Recently, her mother, Mrs. J.C. Pattillo of Pampa, joined Martha for two and a half months. The mother and daughter collaborated on the article during the visit.

By MARTHA PATTILLO
A pleasant way to start the day in Bangkok is to have breakfast in the hibiscus, oleander, bougainvillea - filled garden. Breakfast (prepared and served by a polite servant) might consist of Ceylon tea with lime, toast with sweet orange marmelade and fresh pineapple.

After taking a good look at one of the three English language newspapers available, one might think it was time to do something else. However, a Bangkok garden, if it looks onto one of the lanes called "sois" (formerly small canals) offers a view on enough activity to provide a whole morning's entertainment.

The first activity of the day is provided by the charcoal seller on a bicycle cart he looks very much like his wares, charcoal braziers. Many Thai houses are not equipped with cooking stoves in the kitchen; the servants' quarters have braziers and prepared food is carried into the dining room.

From 7 a.m. on a hand cart is parked in the middle of the block and people come out for an after-breakfast break, attracted by an appealing cadence on a rubber horn. The cart, equipped with a charcoal fire and a big wooden tub of ice, contains bread, rolls, sweet rolls, hot coffee or tea. Also available is the local favorite: a plastic bag with ice and coffee or soft drinks a straw, and a rubber band around the top hopefully to keep the straw and liquid in. The arrival of this cart is welcome since traditionally have several small meals a day rather than one or two large ones.

A bit later the fruit vendors might appear. Their wares are displayed in two bamboo trays one tied to each end of bamboo pole. The curved pole balances gracefully on one shoulder and its weight gives the vendors a lulling walk.

Shrimp and other dried fish often are sold in the same manner. Potted orchids in a large box tied to the back of a bicycle are hawked in a sing-song voice. Small leis or necklaces, of fragrant white flowers usually are sold by children carrying a number of them on a long stick.

Every hour is marked by the rounds of the neighborhood watchman on a bicycle. He sounds the number of hours on a melodious low brass bell. The khaki - uniformed postman, wearing a fancy metal-trimmed cap with a chin strap also makes his daily bicycle rounds. About twice a week the dyers make a neighborhood stop. They will put anything into their big pots and dye it black for a funeral. Once a week, a delivery truck brings around soft drinks and bottled water to all interested parties.

Around lunch time, the noodle carts appear, equipped with the same cooking and refrigeration facilities as the coffee carts. They can produce an amazing variety of one - dish meals based on rice noodles, meat or seafood and vegetables.

John Lennon Accused Of Monopoly

NEW YORK (UPI) — A lawsuit filed against former Beatle John Lennon accuses him of monopolizing the sale and distribution of his records and tapes.

The suit was filed Friday in Manhattan Federal Court by the Big Seven Music Corp. of New York, against Lennon and his firm, Apple Records Inc.

Big Seven alleged Lennon broke an agreement made last October in which he gave the firm exclusive rights to sell his album of 15 rock and roll songs. Big Seven said the agreement was part of an out-of-court settlement of an earlier copyright infringement suit against Lennon.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An Arrow Commander twin engine plane, that posted no flight plans when it left the Apple Valley, Calif. airport March 8, was reported overdue Tuesday by its Oklahoma-based owners. Capt. Malcolm Cook, of the Civil Air Patrol, said California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma opened search bases to try to find the missing plane.

Two persons were believed to be aboard the plane, owned by Kerr-McGee Corp., Oklahoma City. Their names were not released pending notification of next kin.

DALLAS (UPI) — Owners of

H. P. Cassidy's singles bar in North Dallas, pleaded "no contest" Tuesday to charges of racial discrimination against their customers and were fined $1,000.

Municipal Judge Frances Godwin assessed maximum fines of $200 each on five separate charges from complaints by black customers they were required to show identification before entering the club.

DENVER (UPI) — Author, broadcaster and world traveler Lowell Thomas has donated his $2 million New York estate to his alma mater, Denver University.

University Chancellor Maurice Mitchell said Friday the estate near Pawling, N.Y., was the largest individual donation in the school's 111-year history. The 600-acre estate will be sold, Mitchell said, with the proceeds to be used for expansion of the university's law school.

Caroline Kennedy Joins NBC School Project

NEW YORK (UPI) — Barbara Walters move over. Caroline Kennedy, the 17-year-old daughter of the late President John Kennedy, has joined the staff of NBC's "Weekend" show for an off-campus project at Concord Academy in Massachusetts.

During an unsalaried senior year project, which she completed this week, Miss Kennedy traveled 26,000 miles with NBC staffers for a story on Adnan Khashoggi, the mysterious jet-set Saudi Arabian entrepreneur. The show airs this weekend.

Among the spots Miss Kennedy visited as she criss-crossed the Middle East with the NBC crew were Beirut, Khartoum, and Cairo. Her duties as an aide to a cameraman included carrying gear, holding up lights and helping out wherever she could. She also snapped a few photographs for NBC's publicity department with a borrowed Leica.

"She's very bright and very astute," Frank said. "And she sees through people very well. Otherwise she's very much a 17-year-old, blue jeans and all. And she worked so hard that I think I might give her a week off."

According to producer Karen Lerner, who is a family friend and who was in charge of the "Weekend" assignment, Miss Kennedy wanted to work for NBC as her senior year project. She began her duties during the first week in February. Right now, Miss Kennedy is in New York watching producer Lerner edit the Khashoggi segment.

"Caroline is extremely perceptive," Miss Lerner told Newsweek. "she uses funny words like 'retarded' and 'gross' ... but she's very quick and accurate at picking out people's characteristics. She absolutely zeroed in on everybody."

THE 85 WHEAT was on the same boat that carried the 850 steers and don't think either will be back. I have individuals interested in purchasing dryland or irrigated wheat for grass or other purposes. They might give more than it's worth when you consider no worry about inflated harvest costs, hail insurance, and get the advantage of summer fallowing. Call 669-3787 or after 5:00, 669-5246.

Mainly About Skellytown

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pace were in Amarillo Friday where they visited Don Carter and Mrs. Carl Cade at St. Anthony's Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Gary Gortmaker and daughter Julie returned home late Friday evening from Norman, Okla. where Gary attended classes for Skelly Oil

Co. at the college last week. Mrs. Carl (Margie) Cade underwent open heart surgery last Friday morning at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. Donald Gene Carter of Knoxville, Tenn. flew in last week to be with his father, Don Carter, who is seriously ill

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Allen were called to Camargo, Okla. last week due to the death of Leroy's father, Mr. George Allen, whose services were held Sunday at Camargo. Bill Evans who suffered a heart attack recently still remains in the Highland General Hospital in Pampa. Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Herd had as Sunday dinner guests his father, Hamey Herd of Wheeler who is spending a few days with his son and his wife, June. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Zitterkob of Oklahoma City, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane George and family of Perryton. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meadows and children of Amarillo spent the weekend with Mrs. Meadows parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kaiser and attended church services Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church with her parents.

Too Many Wives To Bury

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A judge allowed the funeral service for James E. Booker, 43, but not his burial — not, at least, until the judge determines which of two women was his legal wife. Circuit Court Judge Clifford B. Olsen ruled after a hearing Friday that the Little Chapel of the Chimes funeral home could proceed with the funeral.

However, Olsen said a trial would have to be held, while Booker's body was held in cold storage, to determine which was the legal wife. A suit was filed against the funeral home and Rosalie Booker by Ida M. Booker, who maintained she lived with Booker for 23 years in Texas and Washington. She said that, since Oregon accepts such status if legal in the state in which it originated, she was still Booker's wife. The question will take on legal importance if a wrongful death suit or other litigation is undertaken in the death of Booker, who was killed in a ship construction accident Feb. 26.
