FEAR FOR SAFETY OF SANDINO'S CAPTIVES

RAINY SEASON PREVENTS FAST RESCUE DRIVE

Rebel Is Moving Into Almost Inaccessible Country

INDIAN CANOE ONLY RESOURCE

Additional Marines Are Needed to Pierce Jungle

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 24.—(P)—American Marines faced a hazardous and difficult task today in searching for Rebel General Augustino Sandino two American gold mines he was believed to have seized with his staffs. Fear was expressed for the safety of the captured men.

W. J. Crampton, collector of customs at Puerto Cabezas on the northeast coast, reported two mines near the headquarters of the Pis Pis river had been robbed by rebels.

While neither Marine headquarters nor the American legation received further information from Nicaraguan sources, it was believed that the La Luz, Los Angeles, and Bonanza mines were seized. This belief was strengthened on receipt of word from New York that La Luz-Los Angeles mine had been confiscated and its staff including three Americans, an Englishman and a Norwegian, made prisoners.

Recent advices received here after Sandino captured the town of Sangsang on the Ocoo river said he was working toward the Pis Pis river region in order to obtain food, supplies, ammunition, and dynamite with which to make bombs.

With the rainy season beginning and making troop movements difficult, it is almost impossible to reach the Pis Pis mining section from the interior. There are no roads and the trails in the rainy season have become almost impassable. It will be necessary to send Marines up the Primapolka river in small Indian canoes known as pipans. These small craft are the only ones that can ascend the stream, which is full of dangerous rapids. Where the river becomes impassable they will have to make an overland march of two or three days to the mining region which is about 150 miles inland from Primapolka on the east coast. This march will be a hazardous trip through a tropical jungle.

It is believed that additional Marines must be sent to the east coast either from the United States or from the interior of Nicaragua, since Sandino has shifted the scene of his operations to a new and undeveloped country which is almost inaccessible. This presents Marine headquarters with a difficult problem.

Those held prisoners by Sandino, as identified by D. Watson Fletcher of New York one of the owners of the La Luz-Los Angeles mine, are: Harry P. Amphlett, a British subject superintendent; George E. Marshall, New York, assistant superintendent; L. B. Milberry, Woodville, N. H.; Roy Burley, also an American; and Peter Peterson a Norwegian whose sister lives in Brooklyn.

Mr. Fletcher said that as soon as he learned of the seizure he talked to Secretary Kellogg by telephone from New York and was assured that everything possible would be done to rescue the prisoners. Mr. Fletcher understood that Marines would be sent from Bluefields, which is on the east coast of Nicaragua.

Locked on Jury

BREMEN READY FOR FLIGHT TO MITCHEL FIELD

For the first time in District of Columbia supreme court history, a girl, Mary Margaret Haltigan, 26, was chosen the other day for a jury that was to be locked up during a trial. The jury was to be housed in a hotel during the trial of an alleged rum runner for manslaughter. A special woman bailiff was appointed for Miss Haltigan.

TWO COUPLES STILL DANCING

Look Able to Stay for Several Hours More

At noon today two couples remained in the marathon dance at the Pla-Mor auditorium. The endurance test started Sunday morning at 12:01 and at noon the two contestants had passed the 36-hour mark and seemed fresh for several hours more.

The grind commenced with two couples entered, but at 8 o'clock yesterday morning had dwindled to nine couples. They continued in the race until 11 o'clock this morning, when the first of the nine quit the race.

The remaining two couples, Miss Crystal Burris and Hub Barrows and Miss Sylvia Finley and Bill Elston are going to the finish, which may be some time tonight. The last couple to drop out was Miss Patsy Wehren and J. C. Willis, who stayed in the race until 11 o'clock this morning for a time stretch of 35 hours and 30 minutes.

Music last night was furnished by the Pla-Mor orchestra and during the day by player piano and a Columbia Vivatone loaned by the Oden Music Shoppe.

More than 800 visited the Pla-Mor yesterday to see the dancers, and about 75 couples danced last night. Several enthusiastic watchers stayed all night to watch the marathons.

Those who remained longest in the race and Mason Minnis, 26 hours, 15 minutes, 35 hours, 30 minutes; Mari Folster, 26 hours, 25 minutes; Edna Mills and Lee Larsh, 26 hours; Rose Long and Joe Dowell, 25 hours, 25 minutes and Lucille Johnson and Bill Baker, 25 hours.

Safety Committee of Service Company Here on Inspection

Four members of the safety committee of the Southwestern Public Service company arrived here yesterday afternoon on a tour of inspection. These men are from the Southwest district and represent various utility departments of the service.

They made a trip over the city, visiting the company plant, power lines and large users. They are making the inspection looking for hazardous and dangerous equipment.

It is understood that they will order important changes in the plant and system in Pampa which will mean an expenditure of several thousand dollars here.

Those making the inspection were F. D. Burr, Glenn Greene, Howard Williams, and John Armstrong.

Satisfactory Repair Made on Arrival of Ford Plane

LINDBERGH TO WELCOME MEN

Condition of Floyd Bennett Is Grave Today

CURTIS FIELD, N. Y. April 24.—(P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh expects to fly to Quebec this afternoon with anti-pneumonia serum for Floyd Bennett, aviator, who is critically ill in a hospital there.

LAKEST. AGNES, Que., April 24.—(By the Canadian Press)—A report received by the Canadian Transcontinental Airways here this morning said the Bremen and the Ford relief plane were storm bound at Greenly Island.

The message received by R. Jeff Cannon of the company said that snow was falling and a strong northeast wind blowing at the tiny island where the trans-Atlantic plane made a forced landing ten days ago.

LAKEST. AGNES, Que., April 24.—(P)—Indications today were that the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen perhaps reach Mitchell field, N. Y. late tomorrow night or early Thursday.

Advices from Greenly Island shortly after mid-night said satisfactory repairs had been made and that Captain Koehl, Baron von Huenefeldt and Major Fitzmaurice would take off at dawn for the 700-mile flight here. The flight to Lake Ste. Agnes would take about eight hours.

The latest plans call for a stay overnight here with a take-off early tomorrow for New York.

Ideal weather conditions were forecast over the route from Greenly Island.

Spare parts to replace those damaged the landing which brought to an end her ocean flight and fuel to carry the plane here were taken to Greenly Island by Major Fitzmaurice and Bert Balchen in the Ford relief plane.

Waiting here to accompany the Baron to New York is Clarence Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, and Edward Kelly, representative of Mayor Walker. They flew here from Hartford, Conn., to give Baron von Huenefeldt, Captain Koehl, and Major Fitzmaurice welcome and pilot them to Mitchell Field.

NEW YORK, April 24.—(P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was somewhere in New York city today waiting to welcome the German-Irish crew of the Bremen to this country.

He landed at Curtiss field late today in his new monoplane after a flight from Washington, dropping his ship lightly to the field through a driving rain for a perfect landing.

His stopping place here was not divulged.

QUEBEC, April 24.—(P)—Floyd Bennett, noted American aviator who is seriously ill with lobar pneumonia, today was waging a battle for his life.

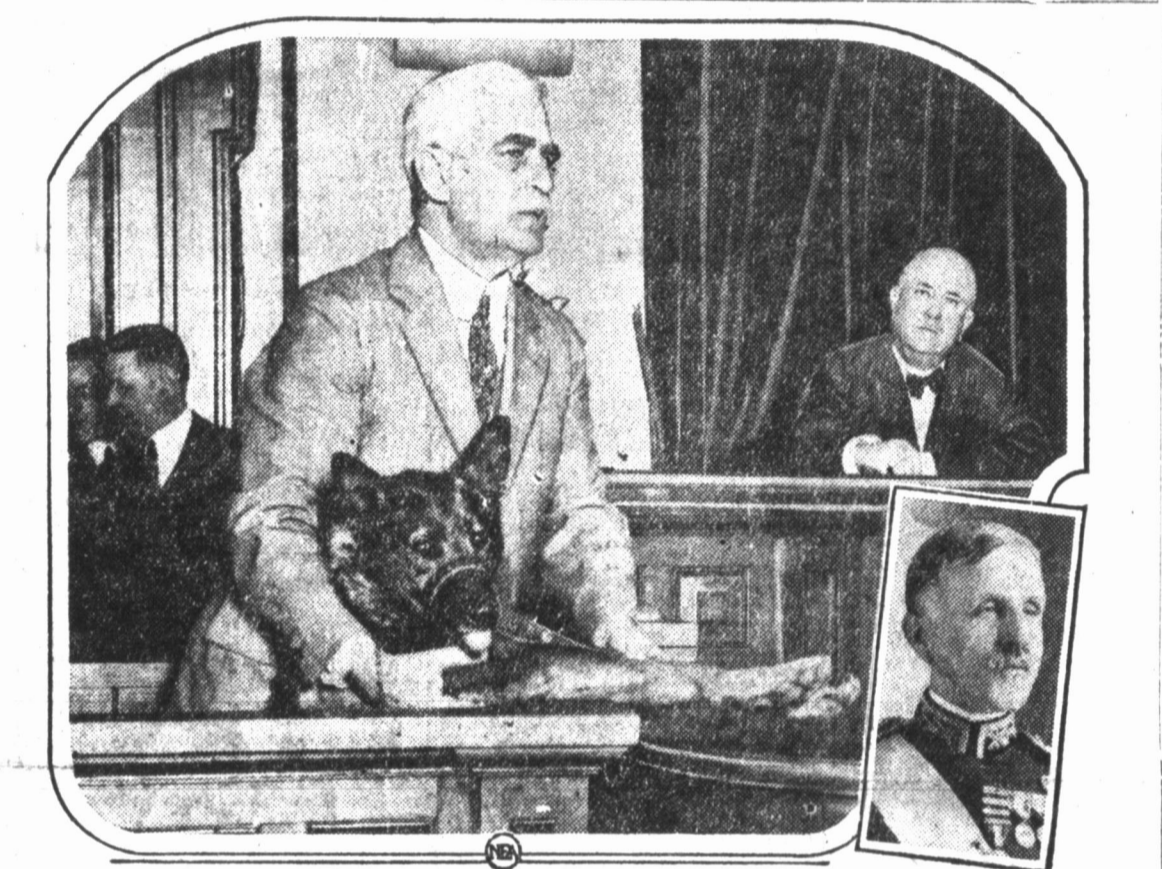

His condition was described as very grave in a bulletin issued at the Jeffery Hale hospital. Meanwhile, his wife, who hurried to her husband's bedside, also was under medical care, suffering a bad attack of bronchitis.

Bennett, who gained world-wide fame in 1926 when he flew over the north pole as pilot for Commander E. Byrd, was stricken upon his arrival at Murray Bay last Friday as pilot of the Ford relief plane for the stranded German fliers at Greenly Island. He has left a sick bed in Detroit to make the trip.

Commander Byrd, who had selected Bennett as his second in command for his arctic expedition, left his home in Boston for Quebec last night.

Miss Alice Rittenhouse has returned from Dallas where she recently graduated from the Metropolitan Business college.

Plea Wins for Dog, Sentenced to Die

Next to his wife a man's best friend is his dog, according to Judge Robert E. Mattingly who lifted a death sentence imposed upon "Bogus", a pedigreed German police dog charged with biting a storekeeper in Washington. More than 30 character witnesses, including Maj. Gen. George George Barnett (son), war time commandant of the U. S. marine corps, appeared for "Bogus". Robert I. Miller, attorney hired by the dog's owner is shown holding "Bogus" on the stand with Judge Mattingly in the background.

TOOTH PULLING WAS MISTAKEN FOR KIDNAPING

Geraldine, Age 4, Causes Excitement Even in Rough and Ready Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 24.—(P)—Geraldine McLaughlin, age four, had a tooth pulled yesterday, and the entire police department heard about it.

With the tooth out, Geraldine was bundled into the tonneau of her father's touring car. She was crying lustily and her father, Joseph McLaughlin, attempted to ease the pain by holding a handkerchief over her mouth.

Inquisitive bystanders, putting two and two together and getting five, came to the prompt conclusion that the girl was being kidnaped by a man who was holding her tightly with one arm and attempting with his free hand to stifle her cries for help.

Police were notified and a message to watch for the kidnapper was sent to every police station. One witness had taken the license number. When the car was traced the police learned the truth.

Henry Howlett underwent a minor operation at the hospital yesterday.

BANK ROBBED

SEDALIA, Mo., April 24.—(P)—The Bank of Kingsville, Jackson county, was robbed today of $2,500 by four men who escaped in an automobile.

Alabam Loss in Rain Storm Totals Over Two Millions

DOTHAN, Ala., April 24.—(P)—Loss estimated at more than $2,000,000 in Houston county alone from heavy rain and the loss of three lives near Whatley, as well as extensive damage through this part of the state and Western Florida was reported today.

Near Whatley a tornado destroyed several houses including that of Ras David, a negro, killing three members of his family and leaving him pinned beneath the wreckage. Dothan and Madrid were isolated by rail and high way as a result of swollen waters washing out highways and damaging tracks.

Receipts from Columbia and Chattahoochee river said that the property damage there was heavy from a cloudburst and that in addition to loss of railroad tracks and bridges that the southeastern power company's dam had been destroyed. Cotton and other crops were said to have been literally washed out in the lowlands throughout the flooded areas and at places the wind accompanying the rains reached the proportions of a tornado.

Most Dead Men Tell No Tales But This One Asks 'How Come?'

CHICAGO, April 24.—(P)—Dead men ordinarily tell no tales. Arthur McCaffray is different.

He was pronounced dead by his own father. Crepe was hung on his door. An inquest was held. A jury returned a verdict that he had come to his death at the hands of the usual person or persons unknown. His grave was dug and his friends ordered flowers.

The body had been taken to an undertaking establishment. A friend, William O'Connell, went there to see what service he might render. Then he telephoned Mrs. McCaffray, the widow. She appeared in "weeds" and discovered the corpse was not Arthur after all. McCaffray, who had not been home for several days, elected to return at the time Mrs. McCaffray was at the undertakers. He saw the crepe on his door and found a mournful air within Mrs. McCaffray found her husband at the head of the table.

"This place," he told her, "is like a morgue. You and the five children are in mourning. How come?"

There were explanations all around Mrs. McCaffray said that he had been taken care of a sick friend and had neglected to notify his wife.

The body had been identified as McCaffray's was found in an alley, a bullet hole in the head.

The coroner's jury verdict will be changed to read "John Doe."

TEAMS REPORT FINE RESPONSE THIS MORNING

Lavender and Barcus in Charge of Two Groups

PLANS DISCUSSED AT SCHNEIDER

Workers Will Attend Rotary Meeting as Guests

Pampa's annual Chamber of Commerce membership drive got away to good start this morning, as members of the soliciting groups reported the response good when they met at the New Schneider hotel for lunch.

Captain J. H. Lavender's group brought in 34 memberships, and that of Scott Barcus 25. Additional workers are out this afternoon. All solicitors to meet at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. At noon they will be the guests of the Rotary club.

Salesmen are busy here today distributing what is asserted to be "the best selling article in Pampa"—the Chamber of Commerce.

The salesmen are local business men who have organized teams to put over the annual membership drive by Friday evening, when a banquet for the membership will be held.

Soliciting of memberships began this morning following a breakfast at the New Schneider hotel. J. H. Lavender is captain of one group of teams and Scott Barcus of the other. Prospects have been evenly divided between the teams. A goal of 600 members has been set, with $14,000 as the budget for the year. The drive is expected to be finished before the end of the week, in order that George W. Briggs, when he arrives next Tuesday, will take over a well-finished city building institution.

No other Chamber of Commerce in Texas in a city of this size accomplished as much as the local Chamber did in the last year," declared Mr. Lavender in a short talk this morning at the breakfast. In addition to accomplishments which have been described in The News, the refinery under construction west of here and the subway project in West Pampa were mentioned. The subway has been approved by the Santa Fe, and only financial details remain to be worked out.

It was asserted that the Chamber of Commerce membership drive is more important than personal business, because the entire program of the year is to be largely determined by the outcome of the campaign. To invest all in goods and little in the organization which is building a Greater Pampa to consume those goods was pointed out as an unwise procedure.

The soliciting teams are working in pairs under the supervision of their captains. Frequent reports are being made to check progress. Membership buttons which are given as pledges are taken will be the admission price of the banquet Friday evening.

In Texas fields bluebonnets grow,
The babbling brook to the Gulf doth flow.
Where the fragrant oleanders grow,
And the waters lave and breezes blow
And the birds sing in the tree-top tall,
And the wild coyotes of the desert call,
The lone wolf howls on the crags so dread,
Rousing the grazing flocks with fear
The cattle rove o'er the prairies wide
Among or near them, the cowboy ride,
In golden fields that wave and blow
Along the coast line to mountain snow.
There's welcome free, and joys in store
And more of love and less of hate,
There's paradise within the gate,
Of my beloved Lone Star State.

TODAY

Let the hills alone today;
They will stay.
They'll be ready for your rhyme
Any time.

And the mountains and the sea—
Let them be,
You can fill up future days
With their praise

And the planets and the sun—
Let them run,
Though they light a distant track
They'll be back.

Better in the present hour
Smell a flower;
Better celebrate the rose
While it blows.

Better rhapsodize the brief
Autumn leaf,
Or the momentary bliss
Of a kiss.

Music dying on the air
Like a prayer,
Or a dreaming bird at rest
In its nest.

These, O Poet, strive to get
In your net;
For at some tomorrow's dawn
They'll be gone.

Jack Doss Too Fast for Granite In Slugging Match—Riley Leaves Ring With Injury in Sixth Round

Last night brought one of the most wild and woolly slug-fests that has ever been held in Pampa, replete with wild bursts of fighting, the first that had been seen in the local arena in a long time. One K. O. one technical knock-out, and several closely-contested battles furnished the night's entertainment.

Kid Granite met his match in Jack Doss of Ft. Worth. The local boy weighed in at 135, and Doss at 126. Doss proved to be one of the cleverest hitters as well as one of the hardest hitters that Granite has met while fighting here. The bout opened with both fighters boxing cautiously, but soon opened into real battle. Granite's slugging tactics failed to connect, Doss being too elusive. The Kid's well-known swings met a lot of atmosphere but not much Doss. In other words, the Ft. Worth boy was just a little too fast for Granite, who evidently was out of condition.

The Pampa boys as usual started on the aggressive, and Doss was hitting his three times coming in and having a slight advantage of the in-fighting the first four rounds. Granite was probably hitting the more solid blows during the opening rounds, but the elusive Doss had him swinging wild repeatedly while he danced in and punished Granite to the head.

Without a doubt it had the fastest ten-round battle ever witnessed in the Pampa Athletic club. Although fouled in the first round and elbowed during the fifth round, Sergeant Sam Riley came out in five rounds with the veteran Bob Mandell who outreached him many inches, turned sick at the opening of the sixth round and had to leave the ring. The little fellow would have in and shot a left to the head repeatedly which had the big Californian out of his feet in the third round, but lack of condition showed and Riley couldn't finish Mandell. It was a good fight while it lasted.

Mandell met young Mickey Walker in the second main event next Monday night. The surprise of the evening was the six-round semi-final. Sam Carlton, the Pampa school boy, not conceding a chance to stay with the veteran Jerry Haley, was knocked out by a combination of left and right to the head at the opening of the third round after Haley had been saved by the bell in the second.

The school boy came out of his corner in the opening round and had to lead the fight to Haley. The second saw Carlton boring in and hitting hard, right cross to the head dropped Haley left in the second round. He took the count with rights and lefts to the head. From the viewpoint of hard fighting, Pewee Roberts of Borger and Jack Morrison of Isom displayed something not seen here in some time. Morrison by his aggressiveness and hitting won the decision, putting the Borger boy down for an eight-count in the third round.

The opener between Earl Bordon and Roy Lewter was fast and furious. Both boys are comers in the game. Another double main event is being scheduled for next Monday night, with Speedy Sparks coming up against either Fred Whittington or Walter Varner.

Tommy Lown of New York Leading Amateur Starters

BOSTON, April 24.—Tommy Lown of New York, one of the greatest amateur boxers in this country, today was well on his way to his fourth national title. He started out in an unimpressive manner in the A. A. U. championship tournament last night by scoring a one-round knockout in his trial bout in the 147-pound class.

Society Woman Walks 74 Miles As Hiking Stunt

BOSTON, April 24.—After hiking 74 miles to this city from Newport, R. I., the last 25 miles through a drenching rain, Miss Eleonora Sears, 44, society woman, rested today well content with her walking time of 16 hours, 30 minutes.

She ran up the steps of her Beacon street home at 9:15 o'clock last night, 17 hours and 15 minutes after starting from the Newport Casino shortly before sunrise yesterday. Three male pacers had been pretty much used up by the strenuous pace set by their companion although none of them walked steadily, but Miss Sears' only visible ailment was a limp in her left foot.

Yesterday's walk was the longest but one which Miss Sears had made in the

Payne Loafs Over Missouri Lap, But Holds Derby Lead

WAYNESVILLE, Mo., April 24.—C. C. "Cross Country" Payne's junior derbyists, 73 survivors of an original field of 199, left for their 52nd day of travel which will carry them to Rolla, 34 miles east of here today.

Payne has covered the 1936.1 miles from Los Angeles in 224:54:52.

Sam Fenberg and Frank Soodhalter were Amarillo visitors today.

Lewis Is Easy Winner in Match With Poland Man

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, experienced little difficulty in disposing of Stanley Stasiak of Poland here last night after the latter was weakened by a series of headlocks.

While both used headlocks almost from the start, the Strangler's grip proved the most effective and he took the first fall in 53 minutes, after hurting Stasiak from the ring. Lewis won the second fall in less than a minute.

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following during the last week: Miss Sarah Schafer, and C. E. Kuykendall, Mrs. Ruby Marshall and O. O. Mosey; and Miss Beatrice Gillman and W. A. Graham.

League Winners Must Register for May State Meet

AUSTIN, April 24.—District winners in interscholastic League contests are only partly qualified to enter the state contests of the League which will be held in Memorial stadium at the University of Texas Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5, according to B. Henderson, athletic director of the Interscholastic League bureau.

To fully qualify, the district winners must formally make known their intention to enter the meet by not later than April 26 or at least ten days prior to May 4. Mr. Henderson said only district winners will be eligible for the state track and field meet.

DEMPSEY'S PROTEGE GOOD

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., April 24.—Armand Emanuel, undefeated San Francisco boxer, kept his record unblemished when he fought Mike McGuire, twice light heavyweight champion, to a ten-round draw in their bout here last night.

A near-capacity crowd saw the 22-year-old San Francisco attorney, a protegee of Jack Dempsey, give the veteran New Yorker a tough evening.

Stanley Marsh of the Empire Gas and Fuel company of Bartlesville, Ok., is here on company business this week.

PAMPA'S SHOWING at the Canyon track meet was little less than remarkable considering the fact that preparation of a large, well trained delegation was not possible this year under the conditions that exist.

In the first place, there was no county meet for the main participants and local competition was not as strong as is desirable. In the second place, unlike many other schools over the plains, the Pampa system is not organized to count coaching of teams and individuals as a part of the regular service of the teachers. Local instructors have full schedules of class work, and extra-curricular work is left to their willingness to burden themselves with coaching, often in subjects outside of their departments. Thirdly, while the entire faculties of many schools were present to prime their students, find them living quarters with good environment for rest, handle registration, and provide inspiration, the school here was continued as usual and few of the teachers or coaches found it possible to accompany their charges.

Obviously, this system cannot be depended upon to produce winners, and the fact that a few exceptional entrants upheld Pampa honors does not lessen the desirability for considerable change in the method next year. If the interscholastic League contests are worst state-wide competition with special machinery for the meets, school officials and school trustees certainly should make special local arrangements if Pampa students are to seek district and state honors.

The American Mind

Stressing of local and sectional interests to the exclusion of more distant subjects is making Americans "provincially minded," in the opinion of Henry J. Allen, former Kansas governor and editor of the Wichita Beacon.

Being of this state of mind is, to state it differently, being ignorant more distant peoples, customs, and happenings. Ignorance is deplorable, but everywhere exists to a certain degree. With world-wide communication such a common thing, provincialism should be disappearing, and we believe it is.

Mr. Allen's case example serves to show how he fell in to such a pessimistic frame of mind. He supports the administration's Nicaraguan policy, and other international policies, to provincialism. Is it so?

As a parallel example in other countries, the Kansas cities the attitude of Europeans toward Uncle Sam, whom they look upon as "Uncle Shylock" and as "Imperialistic." The validity of such attitudes is denied by him in a picture of America's expanding commerce as "peaceful penetration."

This penetration is one thing and penetration of commercial interests in ill-governed countries is another, if the United States must follow with Marines to protect this acquired property from bandits. Late Nicaraguan news indicates that Sandino has seized an American-owned mine and other property. The privilege of sending American Marines into such a country to protect these outposts of commerce may be an inherent one in the Americas, but instant trouble would result if the same method were used in the interior of China, for instance.

There are a lot of people not "provincially minded" who criticize the administration policy in Nicaragua. Perhaps Mr. Allen is partly right, but picked a poor illustrative example.

German glider experts who are on their way to this country are welcome to visit the Panhandle, although take-offs from the windmill towers—our chief points of eminence—may not suit their purpose very well.

As much as we like publicity, we would not advise local Pampans to try to break the dancing record, which was set at 200 hours in Rio Janeiro by a man and wife who traveled 600 miles and, in the man's case, lost 20 pounds.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The row in the D. A. R. over its state blacklists of nationally known persons designated as "radicals" has emphasized the fact that the good old cry of "bolshhevik" at men and women not entirely satisfied with the existing order of things isn't quite as effective as it used to be.

One hears the word less and less. For awhile it was one of the most terrible epithets in the language, but it was so worked to death that in these days its use generally brings a laugh.

Washington has had its "bolshheviks," but most of them are now again recognized as good American citizens. Among those who have been attacked by various interested persons or organizations as "bolshhevik" or "communists" are Senators Borah of Idaho, Shipstead of Minnesota, Wheeler of Montana, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Norris of Nebraska, Frazier of North Dakota and Brookhart of Iowa.

All are Republicans except Wheeler.

For some reason or other, Grace Abbott and Julia Lathrop, the present and former heads of the government's Children's Bureau, have also been held up as agents of Moscow or something of the sort.

So has Jeanette Rankin of Montana, the first congresswoman, who is now vice chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union, an organization formed to preserve the right of free speech.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, also has been an object of the anti-bolshhevik attack, along with William H. Johnston of the International Association of Machinists. Labor leaders have often flung the term "communist" at each other in fights for union control, but the A. F. of L. has repeatedly proved its conservative tendencies.

There is evidence that some persons for awhile made easy money by forming patriotic societies whose business it was to keep members informed by confidential letters of the activities of the "reds" in America.

The Federal Trade Commission, in its investigation of public utilities, recently found that some electric power interests had been spreading propaganda to the effect that advocates of municipal ownership of electric light plants were bolshevistic persons, despite the fact that there are some 2400 municipal electricity plants in the United States—in Los Angeles and Cleveland among other cities. Reputable manufacturers and business men have sometimes been led to contribute to anti-communist organizations by misrepresentation of the "peril".

Military men, worried by propaganda of peace societies, have helped spread the idea that the nation was menaced by Russian agents. One officer in the War Department once told this writer in all seriousness that there were 7000 subversive organizations in this country seeking to undermine the government. As a matter of fact, a census taken by a communist a year or two ago revealed that there were only 115,000,000 inhabitants.

An article in the Army and Navy Register once said that the "Communist International" had sent $3,000,000 in gold to America and that it would be used by the National Council for Prevention of War in a campaign to wipe out our army and navy "so that when the red uprising comes the country will be at its mercy."

TWINKLES

Heights to which folks soar by chance are often fleeting, and it is seldom that mere personal power will hold its peak very long. The airplane sweeps to giddy altitudes, but foot-holds, attained step by step, lead to the solid mountain peaks.

Two Pampa boys nearly won the Canyon track and field meet. If they had been twins first place honors would have been ours.

All hands to the C. of C. wheel—we are to entertain the district convention of W. T. C. C. soon and the place to begin plans is at home and the time is now.

BARBS

(By N.E.A. Service Inc.)

A headline says "Al Smith Sets Dizzy Pace." We thought the wet Democrats were saving that for Houston in June.

A prominent hotel man who died recently received his first instruction in English from a bartender. Education isn't what it used to be.

Judging from the trouble the photographers had in reaching Greenly Island, that would be a good place for an oil witness to spend a vacation.

Storks were frozen in a recent blizzard in Poland, says a dispatch. Sometimes the stork gets a chilly reception in this country, too.

Bandits shot at a Chicago silver dollar in his pocket. Not much of a chance for a newspaper man in that town, even though the bandits are all dead.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

That Flying Irishman

The "Flying Irishman" of the Bremen's crew, this. The hardships of his flight across the ocean, his stay at bleak Greenely Island, and his nerve-wracking hop to Murray Bay, Quebec with Duke Schiller had not erased that Irish grin from the face of Major James Fitzmaurice when this NEA photo was taken.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

The summer she is 16, Sally Ford is "fanned out" to Clem Carson and leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known from the time she was four. At the farm she meets David Nash, athlete and university student, working there during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about their friendship, David strikes him a terrible blow and not knowing then whether the man is dead or alive, Sally and David flee.

They join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

Nita, the Hula dancer, becomes infatuated with David and threatens Sally with exposure to the police for the Carson affair if she doesn't keep "hands off" David. Sally hears they are going back to Capital City, where she spent so many years in the orphanage. She tells David they must run away. David promises to meet her that night after the train is loaded to talk things over with her. They stroll to a clump of trees and sit down to talk. David takes her in his arms and for the first time they confess their love for each other. She tells him the news of her father which Mrs. Bybee conveys to her in Stanton. The woman who had left her in the home was not her mother, according to Mrs. Bybee's information, but was a maid hired to take the baby from the mother in New York and disappear.

As they sit there, they are startled to hear Nita's voice in the darkness somewhere near them. "Steve—I'm warning you, if you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out. Fifty-fifty—"

CHAPTER XXXI

Before she reached him Sally almost fainted with terror. In the pale light of the dawn she saw that David's shirt about his left shoulder was soaked with blood. But his uninjured right arm was stretched out in urgent invitation, and his voice was halting her gaily, in spite of his ferocious weakness and fatigue.

"Dear little Sally," he cried huskily, as his right arm swept her against his breast. "Why aren't you in bed, darling? But I'm glad you're not! I've been able to keep sleeping on in the hope of seeing you. Did you think I'd run away and left you? Poor little Sally!" he crooned over her, for she was crying, her frantic hands playing over his face, her eyes devouring him through her tears.

"But you're hurt, David!" she moaned. "I knew you were hurt! I told them so! I was looking for you. I knew you hadn't run away!"

"And she made us believe you hadn't, too," Pop Bybee panted, having reached them on a run, dragging his wife behind him. "What happened, Dave boy? Had a mix-up with the dirty crooks?"

"Whitfield Bybee, you are a fool!" Mrs. Bybee gasped breathlessly, from the train. "Let the poor boy get his breath first. Here! Put your arm about him and let him lean on you, Sally. You run back to the train and get help. This boy's all done up and he's going to have that shoulder dressed before he's pestered to death with questions."

"I can walk," David panted, his breath whistling across his ashen lips. "I don't want Sally out of my sight. I would give up—then. Nothing much—the matter. Just a bullet—in my shoulder. Be all right—in a day or two."

"Please don't try to talk, darling!" Sally begged, rubbing her cheek softly against his right hand and wetting it with her tears.

"Learn on me and take it easy?" Pop Bybee urged, his voice husky with unashamed emotion. "And don't talk any more till we get you into a berth, God! But I'm glad to see you. David boy! I'd made up my mind I'd never trust another man if you'd thrown me down. But Sally didn't doubt you a minute. Keep me from telling the police that you'd been with the show and had disappeared with the crooks."

"Thanks," David gasped, leaning heavily on the showman. "I was scared sick—the police—had found—Sally. Knew there was—bound to be—an awful row."

He fainted then, his splendid young body crumpling suddenly to the cinders of the railroad track. Somehow the three of them managed to get him to the show train and into the Bybee stateroom, where the barber, who had graduated from medical school before the germ of wanderlust had infected him, dressed the wounded shoulder.

"The bullet went clear through the fleshy part of the arm at the shoulder," Gus told them, as he washed his hands in the stateroom's basin. "No bones touched at all. Just a flesh wound. Of course he's lost a lot of blood, and he'll be pretty shaky for a few days, but no real harm done. You can turn off the faucet, Sally. Save them tears for a big tragedy—like ground glass in your cold cream, or something like that. Want a real doctor to give that shoulder the once-over, Pop?" he asked, turning to Bybee.

It was David, opening his eyes dazedly just then, who answered: "No other doctor, please. I'm a fugitive from justice, remember. If I could have some coffee now I think I could tell you what happened. Mr. Bybee?"

A dozen eager voices outside the stateroom door offered to get the coffee from the privilege car, and within a few minutes Sally was kneeling before David, holding a cup of steaming black coffee to his lips.

As many of the carnival family as could crowd into the small space of the car also pressed against the open door of the stateroom to hear his story. Jan, the Holland man, who was too tall to stand upright in the car, was invited into the stateroom, where he sat between Pop Bybee and Mrs. Bybee.

"I suppose Mrs. Bybee has told you that I was leaving the show train to go to the carnival grounds to see if anything had happened to Sally. I'd have gone sooner, but the storm was so violent that I knew I'd not have a chance to get there. Mrs. Bybee said she was going to the lot and would look after Sally for me, but she wanted me to stay on the train, or near it, to protect her. She didn't tell me there was a lot of money in her stateroom, or I'd have stationed myself in there."

"You see," Sally interrupted eagerly. "I told you I hadn't said a word to him about the safe."

"Safe?" David glanced down at her, puzzled. "So this Steve crook cracked a safe to get the money, did he? I didn't know—didn't have time to find out."

"And I told you it was a man named Steve," Sally reminded them joyously, raising David's cold hand to her lips. "They thought I was making it all up, Dave, but they believed me after a while."

"I suppose Sally has told you that we saw Nita and some man walking in the moonlight that last night we were in Stanton," David addressed Pop Bybee. "We heard her call him Steve, and say something about what she'd do to him if he double-crossed her. I should have told you then, Mr. Bybee, but I didn't have an idea Nita was planning to rob the outfit, and anyway—" he blushed, his eyes twinkling fondly as Sally—"by morning I'd forgotten all about it. I couldn't think of anything but—Sally. You see, we'd just told each other that night that—that—we'll say, that we loved each other and—"

"Anybody else in the whole outfit could have told you that," Bybee chuckled. "It's all right, Dave. Carnival folks usually mind their own business and spend damn little time toting tales."

"I'm glad you're not blaming me," David said gratefully. "Well, sir, I was walking up and down the tracks, just wild to get away and see if anything had happened to Sally, when suddenly I heard a soft thud, like somebody jumping to the ground on the other side of the train. I crossed over as quick as I could, but by that time they were running down the side of the train pretty far ahead of me. It was Nita and a man. They must have been hidden on the train, waiting their chance, when the storm broke—were there when Mrs. Bybee left."

"I suppose they hadn't counted on any such luck; had probably intended to overpower her before you got back, sir, and the storm saved them the trouble."

"I'd have given them a run for the money," Mrs. Bybee retorted grimly, her skinny old hand knotting into a menacing fist.

"That's just what I did," David grinned rather whitely at her. "I yelled at them to stop, because I had an idea they'd been up to something, since they'd jumped off this car, and I knew Nita had no business on the train, since all you people were sleeping on the lot."

"They were carrying a couple of suitcases that looked suspiciously heavy to me. It flashed over me that Mrs. Bybee, being treasurer of the outfit, must have left a lot of money in her stateroom, and that Nita and this Steve chap had been planning to rob her when Sally and I heard them talking the other night. I started after them, still yelling for them to stop, and Steve turned and fired at me. He missed me, lucky for me, and I kept right on.

"About a hundred yards beyond the end of the train they climbed into a car that was parked on the road that runs alongside the tracks and after talking me goodby with another bullet that missed me, too, Steve had the cat started toward Capital City to notify the police when I noticed there was a handcar on the tracks, just where this spur joins the main line.

"I threw the switch and in a minute I had the handcar on the main line and was pumping along after them. The state road parallels the railroad track for five or six miles, you know, and I could make any good time in my handcar as they could in their flivver, for it's a down grade nearly all the way." He paused, his eyes closing wearily as if every muscle in his body ached with the memory of that terrible ride in the dead of night.

"Better, rest awhile, Dave," Pop Bybee suggested gently, bending over the boy to wipe the cold drops of sweat from his forehead.

"No, I'll get it over with," David protested weakly. "There's not much more to tell. They couldn't see me—had no idea I was trailing them in the handcar. But I could keep them in sight because of their headlights. I guess they'd have got away, though, if a freight train hadn't come along just then and blocked the road. They were just reaching the grade crossing where the state road cuts the railroad tracks when this freight came charging down on us—"

"But you, David!" Sally shuddered, jolting her head on his hand, the fingers of which curled upward weakly to cup her face. "You were on the track. Did the train hit you? Oh!"

"Of course not!" David grinned at her. "I'm here, and I wouldn't have been if the engine had hit the handcar when I was on it. But I'm afraid the railroad company is malarious on this morning. The coachcatcher of the freight engine scooped it up and tossed it aside as if it had been a baby's gocart, but I'd already jumped and was tumbling down the bank into a nice bed of wildflowers.

"Pretty wet after the storm, so I didn't go to sleep. I'd jumped to the other side of the tracks and was hidden from Steve's car while the freight train rolled on. They didn't stop to hold a post-mortem over the handcar. Probably figured a tramp had been bumming a free ride on it and had got his, and good enough for him."

"When the train had passed I was waiting by the road for Steve's car. I guess he was pretty badly surprised when I hopped upon the running board and grabbed the steering wheel and swerved the car into a ditch, nearly turning it over. I don't remember much of what happened then, what with Nita screaming and Steve swearing and popping his gun at me. But somehow I managed to get his revolver—didn't know I'd been shot at first—and dragged him out of the car."

"It must have been a pretty good fight, for Nita decided to beat it before it was finished. She started off with one of the suitcases but it was too heavy and she dropped it in the road and lit out. If Nita could dance as well as she can run," David interrupted himself to grin at Bybee, "she'd be a real loss to the outfit."

"Well, Dave, even if Steve did get away with the money, my hat's off to you, boy," and he reached for the hand which Sally was still cuddling pealously.

"Who's telling this?" Dave demanded, with just a touch of boyish bravado, which made Sally love him better than ever. "He didn't get away. I'm afraid he won't be good for much for

Oil Curtailment Session Is Called

AUSTIN, April 24.—(AP)—Aiming to head off possible overproduction and waste in the new Howard county of fields before it starts, the state railroad commission today called a meeting for Saturday, April 28, at Fort Worth to consider an agreement similar to the remedy about to be applied to the Winkler county field.

TULSA, Okla., April 24.—(AP)—A meeting of the committee authorized by a mass meeting of Kansas and Oklahoma oil operators here Saturday to supervise the operations of a "Glen Jenney's agreement" not to drill unnecessary oil wells, will be held sometime this week it was announced today. It will be called by H. H. Smith secretary of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

VEGETABLES SUGGESTED

Having been asked about varieties of vegetables for Pampa conditions, I have prepared this list:

Radishes, mustard, lettuce, cabbage, onion, tomato, dwarf beans, peas, okra, squash, Irish potato, and strawberries do well here when the soil is thoroughly prepared and is kept moistened.

Irish potatoes can best be grown under straw mulch conditions.

Strawberries also respond to mulch conditions. If berries alone are wanted, the runners should be kept cut back. Strawberries will need artificial moisture in this section of Texas. In fact all the varieties of vegetables listed above may often need artificial moisture, especially when the spring and early summer seasons are dry.

If there is any certain vegetables that you would like to have information about, write or see me if I may help you. I am

Very sincerely,
J. L. Lester.

U. S. Production Increases 32,000 During the Week

TULSA, Okla., April 24.—(AP)—Despite shut downs and talk of shut downs total production of crude oil in the United States increased 30,101 barrels during the week ending April 21, with the sensational West Texas fields taking the lead with an augmented production of about 32,000 barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal will say today.

Total production exclusive of the West Texas showed a slight decrease with total Oklahoma production dropping about 4,000 barrels during the week. Seminole production continued to decrease, dropping during the week from 283,185 barrels to 280,410 barrels. The majority of other Oklahoma fields showed decreases of a few barrels each.

The West Texas production continues to ascend toward the 400,000 mark with the total during the week jumping from 341,214 to 373,241 barrels. The Hendricks area led the West Texas increase with 34,019 barrels of new production during the seven-day period.

All other fields of the mid-continent area showed small decreases except North Central Texas, where there was an increase of about 2,000 barrels.

Operator Hero Tells World of Corinth Quakes

ATHENS, Greece, April 24.—(AP)—As the earthquake laid waste to Corinth the telegraph operator there clicked out over and over again without ceasing the words: "Help! Help! Help! All is lost." Remaining heroically at his post in order to acquaint the outside world of Corinth's plight, the operator a few minutes later was buried alive by the collapse of the building in which he worked.

ATHENS, April 23.—(AP)—The devastated city of Corinth was rocked by two more earth shocks this morning and Corinthians must seek homes elsewhere.

Four Greek ministers who went to the stricken returned today and said reconstruction on the same site was considered impracticable, especially since this was the second time in seventy years that Corinth had been destroyed.

The damage was estimated at 900,000,000 drachmas ($70,000,000). The death toll was set at thirteen.

The government sent food, tents and two steamers to serve as a temporary refuge for the homeless and destitute.
