House, Senate Negotiates Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators who meet today must either draw up a tax cut bill to satisfy President Ford or satisfy enough members of Congress to pass it over his veto.

Unless everything breaks down, Americans can expect a major tax reduction in 1975 and rebates on 1974 taxes.

The conference committee is made up of members from both chambers, supporting their own versions of the bill. They are expected to have reached agreement by Tuesday night.

The House passed a $19.9 billion measure with rebates between $100 and $200. The Senate passed a $31.1 billion one with rebates from $120 to $240.

Ford recommended a $16 billion cut and is waiting for the bill that will come out of the conference.

"The President has not ruled out a veto," said his spokesman, Ron Nessen.

Ford met Sunday night with Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and considered the most influential member of Congress on tax matters.

Surcharge May Save Rock Island, Wheat Crop

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Sen. James Pearson, R-Kan., today said the Interstate Commerce Commission will impose a rate surcharge for freight on the Rock Island railroad to aid the financially ailing carrier.

Discontinuation of Rock Island as a corporate entity is not doubtful, it's a certainty," he said.

Pearson said whatever solution was made will result in an end to the Rock Island as a separate corporation.

The senator said the Rock Island has lost money every year since 1965 and had been seeking a merger.

Ullman appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers" and Nessen was on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Never Idle Mrs. Powell Celebrates 102nd Year

CREAL SPRINGS, Ill. (UPI) — "It makes me nervous when I'm not doing anything," says Mrs. Anna G. Powell.

Pearson pledged there will be rail service in Kansas to handle the next wheat harvest, but it may not be provided by the Rock Island itself.

Even if it wasn't 13th, Friday was unlucky for several Pampa motorists — especially unlucky for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blandon.

A total of eight traffic accidents were reported Friday to the Pampa Police Department.

Ullman said Sunday a $25 million compromise might be "a little much."

Sharon Farmer Honored In Actinb Competition

Sharon Farmer was named to the All Star University Interscholastic League (ULI) Cast in district competition for one-act plays Friday at Amarillo College.

That would be a $3 million to $8 million per month subsidy, in which the federal government would pick up the difference," Pearson said.

At 5:10 p.m. Billie Jones Graham, Graham's wife, was involved in an accident at the corner of N. Carr and Short streets.

James Kirk Dougless, 23, and wife, Sharon Kay Dougless, 22, 930 S. Reid, entered a plea of guilty Friday in District Court to acting together to possess more than four ounces of marijuana.

Also in District Court Friday, Audrey Otto Atwood, 35, of Mustang, Okla., entered a plea of guilty to a second offense charge of driving while intoxicated.

He was sentenced to two years in the county jail and fined $350. The sentence was probated by District Judge Grainger W. McIlhenny.

PRINCIPLES ALL-IMPORTANT

GOP has strong base

Wearing his political hat the other night, President Ford told his fellow Republicans that their party had reached a low point in public esteem. There are polls to bear him out, including one taken by the GOP itself, showing that only 18 per cent of the voters consider themselves Republicans, and only 7 per cent could be classified as "strong" Republicans.

Mr. Ford did not despair, but pointed out that the Republican Party obviously has no way to go but up. He is right, and if the GOP stands by its principles there is no reason why it cannot shake off the agues and chills of this winter of discontent. Those principles have served to keep the party intact through many trips up and down the political roller coaster in the 120 years since it was founded.

The disenchantment being expressed by some conservatives with President Ford's policies is hardly a novel development in American politics. Ever since the Democratic and Republican parties emerged as the two dominant expressions of political will in our country, there has been continuous tension between right and left within the ranks of both parties. That is inevitable in our two-party system.

The fact is that the Republican and Democratic parties have very much in common in terms of what they want to achieve for the American people. They both want to make our free political and economic institutions work better in providing the greatest good for the greatest number. They differ mainly in the route they would follow in trying to achieve that common goal, and that is why loyalties of individual voters often swing from one party to the other. Conservatives who are toying with the idea of a bolt from the Republican camp to form a third party are really reflecting more than a loss of faith in the GOP. They are rejecting the two-party system and the great means it provides for creating unity out of diversity in American political life.

Republicans who are worried about where their party is going to find the strength and support for resurgence should study the polls more closely. The pulse-takers also report a rise in the number of Americans who consider themselves more conservative than liberal, and a striking number declaring themselves as "independents." We would interpret this as a golden opportunity for the Republican Party to reclaim that wide area of the political spectrum that it has occupied historically.

The Republicans need to remember that progress does not result from aggravating or exploiting shades of difference in the political outlook of Americans, but in uniting them behind principles they hold in common.

Marianas: Mutual need

U.S. Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado wants to stop the Marianas Islands, a strategic Western Pacific island chain strung out north from Guam, from becoming the first new territory of the United States in half a century. He is wrong.

The United States would not be building an empire by granting the Marianas a status similar to that now held by Puerto Rico.

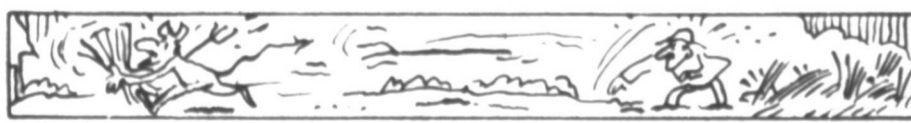

As a matter of fact, the 13,381 islanders asked to join the United States after 20 years as a U.S.-administered United Nations trust territory. They believe that the affiliation is to their benefit.

Vincente Santos, president of the Marianas legislature, put it straight when he said: "The Marianas have been governed by many nations and we have had an opportunity to judge them first-hand. The best is the United States — and we want to be part of it."

Along with Guam, which is already a U.S. territory, dominion over the other Marianas is essential for the defense needs of the United States in the Pacific in the wake of recent changes in the status of our bases on Okinawa and the uncertain outlook for other U.S. positions in the Far East.

And being part of the United States is important to the people of the Marianas. That's an excellent mutual relationship. Sen. Hart's concern is totally misplaced.

"YOO-HOO!"

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE
Nationalize The Railroads?

By WILLIAM RUSHER

Back when I was in high school and college just before World War II, it was traditional for the class socialist (who was usually some kid with a foreign accent and thick eyeglasses) to call for "nationalization of the railroads" as an early step on the road to utopia.

The idea never got anywhere, despite (or perhaps because of) the rumor that Mussolini, who was a Fascist and therefore bad, had made the Italian state-owned railroads run on time. But it appears that, for reasons never envisioned by the class socialist or the rest of us, we may all yet live to see America's railroads nationalized. If we do, however, nobody is likely to hail the step as a triumph for socialism.

On the contrary, the present bankruptcy or near-bankruptcy of America's privately-owned railroads is directly attributable to their long history of tight governmental regulation. Ever since the creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1887, American railroads have been perched on the single most government-pestered enterprise in the land. Every mile of track laid, every service offered (or discontinued), every safety device adopted, and every dollar charged, has had to be approved in advance by the ICC.

To this burden there was added, in the course of time, another: the railway unions, which wielded immense power and ultimately turned featherbedding into an art form comparable to Chinese porcelain. Finally came the truckers, travelling on highways thoughtfully provided and maintained by the government, and the airlines, carrying passengers between municipally-maintained airports over a federally-financed airways system. America's railroads slowly buckled and gave way under the strain.

In these circumstances it would be positively comical, if it weren't so sad, to hear Toby Moffett, a pup Democratic congressman from Connecticut, talking about government ownership of the railroads as if it were some sort of solution. "I don't believe there is anything sinister in the word 'nationalization,'" Moffett declares. "In my district I hear lots of people say, 'Take 'em over and run 'em right.'"

What is really sinister is the idea that the U.S. government has the sort of expertise it takes to run a railroad "right." Can you imagine the kind of shambles an army of bureaucrats, required to tiptoe around the unions and their politician-friends, and lacking the slightest incentive to show a profit, would make out of the American railway system?

Business Must Make A Profit

By PAUL L. POIROT (The Freeman)

It's a very nice thing to be a businessman who earns a profit through his efficiency in using scarce resources to serve customers. Nice, because profit, in the strict economic sense, is something for which consumers pay without its costing them anything. Profit accrues to the efficient producer who manages to cut costs, it is taken out of costs, not something added to the price. Prices in a free market, with freely competing buyers and sellers, are determined by supply and demand. And a given market price may afford one or more sellers a handsome profit while other sellers may be taking a loss. It depends on the efficiency of the seller as to whether he makes a profit; it doesn't cost the buyer anything.

So much for the economics of profit. But that isn't the point of this story. The point is that in today's mail were two laments that "business must make a profit" — from entirely opposite views.

One was a businessman's contention that he was entitled to a fair profit in order to acquire the capital to stay in business — so he could continue to pay high taxes, among other things. True, he's entitled to all the profit the market price will afford him, which means that he will have been more efficient than some of his competitors in that field. If consumers are not willing to pay a price that yields a given supplier a profit, then he's free to cut his costs or go out of business or whatever; but he's not entitled to a profit unless he earns it in open competition. And if he earns a profit, it's not entitled to a profit unless he earns it in open competition. And if he earns a profit, it's no one else's business whether he uses it to increase his capital investment or to pay his taxes, or to support his church, or to keep up with the Joneses.

The other lament that "business must make a profit" came from a misguided socialist who seemed to think that means "the government could do it cheaper." He couldn't know, of course, unless his so-called government exercised no powers of coercion and behaved as just another competitor in the market. In that case, assuming a strong market demand, any supplier who could "do it cheaper" would thereby earn a profit. So what really perturbs the social planner is that businessmen will not attempt to do things that are unprofitable. In that case, if it's going to be done at all, the government will have to force someone to do it — which only seems to be cheaper than paying free market prices for the scarce resources used in the process. Another word, more descriptive of that governmental process, is w-a-s-t-e — just plain waste!

And that's the story. Profit is a fine and honorable reward for efficient service — and no wicked and thoughtless servant is entitled to it.

SHOULD WE REPORT
About the Social Habits
Of Your Officeholders?

By RANDY FITZGERALD

News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The United States senator looked a little drowsy, fumbling with wire rims propped up on his flushed cheeks, and wobbling as he walked. He was drunk. On the floor of what participants like to say is the greatest deliberative body in the world, this senator, mired in the depths of an alcohol stupor, could barely stammer out his name.

Few reporters bothered to mention the incident, though it is not an uncommon occurrence in Congress. Sometimes reporters will shroud the behavior of those they cover with "senator so-and-so appeared to be a bit tired today."

Those reporters who failed to acknowledge the performance of this public official either did not comprehend his state of mind or did not smell his breath. A more logical explanation is that they were either too protective of the man to report his lax behavior or they felt it was "just none of anyone's damn business," which is often a typical response.

The American public rarely ever learns of stories that do not make it into print, those that are "killed" by reporters, editors or publishers exercising self-restraint, which is often but a euphemism for "self-censorship." There are an endless number of examples, most of which have been brought to the public's attention only within the last few years.

"All The News That's Fit To Print" did not apply when the New York Times, on grounds of national security, refused to reveal advance plans for the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in 1962. President Kennedy talked the Times out of that one.

This example has not been previously reported. Columnist Jack Anderson received transcripts of conversations of a friendly nation's narcotics chief "who was wallowing in bed with the Mafia." A United States narcotics official interceded, urging that the story not be printed because an agent would be killed, as a result Anderson complied.

Less Whitten, who shares a byline with Anderson in their syndicated column, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," says a public official's social life is his own, unless that activity "affects the gov's work. Then it's worth writing about."

What people do in bed is their own business. Although we had on tape a prominent Washington hostess talking with a well-known senator about some sexual escapades, we didn't print it," said Whitten.

But there are circumstances when Whitten and Anderson do publish such stories.

"When we caught the general counsel of the General Services Administration going from hotel to hotel with a beautiful assistant using taxpayers' money, we printed it."

It is common knowledge among some reporters that there are members of Congress who are homosexuals, that some lead adulterous lives, that other frequently use illicit substances, like marijuana. But should this be reported?

When it is, the public and many officeholders refuse to believe it. In 1973, while the Texas Legislature was considering legislation to lower the penalty for marijuana possession, one student newspaper published an investigative article revealing that more than 60 members of the Texas House used or had tried the forbidden weed. The information came from interviews with legislative aides and the legislators themselves. Howls of rage erupted. Almost everyone refused to believe it, even the users, although a United Press International reporter published essentially the same information.

But marijuana use, now accepted at all levels of society, is not the issue here. The question for the media and its readers is, where does one erect a standard for such reporting, or should any standards be established?

Let's face it, both the public and press have nurtured appetites for gossip, often in the name of "the public's right to know." And in this age when one flick of the finger can ignite thermonuclear war, a case can be made that we have every right to know whether or not that finger is jerking from the spasmodic effects of some mind altering substance.

Teeth thief gums up the works

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am employed at a very large convalescent home. One of the elderly residents here lost her dentures, so with a pillow case in hand, she crept into the rooms of the other occupants while they were sleeping, and picked up each pair of false teeth from the water glasses. She then returned to her room and tried each set until she found one that fit her. She then sneakily returned any set of teeth to the water glasses.

The next morning, everyone was walking around the place with overbites and underslug jaws, complaining bitterly that their dentures didn't fit!

How do we straighten out this mess? Or must we buy new dentures for 100 residents?

DENTURE DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Call in a dentist and ask him to examine the mouths of the patients and the dentures, in order to return them to their rightful owners. I am told that denture-marking kits are available. Get one, and use it, before another teeth thief gums up the works again.

DEAR ABBY: What do the experts say about children sleeping with their parents in case of divorce? Please be explicit.

I have been keeping company with a 44-year-old divorced man for three years. He has three daughters, aged 13, 11 and 8, and he feels it is all right for them to sleep with him until the age of 10 or 11. I don't.

When the girls visit him overnight, they ask to sleep with him, and he sees nothing wrong with it. The 11-year-old shared his bed until only recently, and the 8-year-old still does. The little one is seeing a psychologist, weekly, and her mother is seeing a psychiatrist regularly, which I hope is beneficial to both.

My friend is a very kind and sensitive man who would not intentionally hurt anyone, but I feel that he is off his mark with regard to bed-sharing. What do you say?

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: I agree that a father should not encourage daughters of this age to share his bed. Not only could this have conscious (or unconscious) sexual overtones for the father as well as for the daughters, but it also tends to foster a dependency in the children that is not in their best interests.

The fact that one of the daughters is in therapy underscores these points, but they could be equally true for the daughter not in therapy. At the very least, I would expect that this "well-meaning" father would check this matter out with his daughter's therapist.

STEEL LEADER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Soviet Union has regained the No. 1 spot among the world's steel producing countries, according to Iron Age Magazine. Figures from the International Iron and Steel Institute show that Russia's output last year was around $137.6 million metric tons, compared to U.S. production of 132 million. Russia first topped the list in 1971, held it through 1972 but lost it to the United States the following year.

Donations Down

Denver Guru Fights Bills

DENVER (UPI) — Michael D. Garson became a devotee of the Guru Maharaj Ji's Divine Light Mission in May, 1974, and resigned nine months later "because I could not tolerate the contradictions."

Garson became the mission's financial advisor one month after his conversion and it became his job to find ways to pay off the mission's $300,000 debt. He said one method was to ask persons who had recently become devotees for donations, preferably their life savings.

One woman in Canada, Darby McNeal, pledged her $400,000 trust fund to the mission and Garson said he has flown to her Canadian home twice in efforts to prevent the mission from taking the woman's money.

"Bob Mishler, the mission's executive director, talked Darby into signing over power of attorney shortly after she joined," Garson said.

He said the transaction was never completed because Darby's sister, Sarah McNeal, said she would not tolerate the contradictions.

"Darby has a total inability to survive unless she is handed a check each month," Garson said. "She has no work history and no means of earning a living. She really needs help in financial matters."

"The mission hopes to use Darby's trust fund to pay off its standing deficit," he said.

Garson said a major reason for the mission's financial troubles was due to its 17-year old leader's "material wishes which take out 60 per cent of the income."

Included in the Maharaj Ji's earthly domain are eight sports cars, mansions in Denver and Los Angeles, plus an assortment of stereo gear, expensive watches and clothing, Garson said.

"When the Guru... wants something, be it a $30,000 car or a new house, he gets it," Garson said.

Garson said traditions of the organization's "Millenium 73" also played a key role in accumulating additional debt.

He said the bill for the Millenium religious festival held at the Houston Astrodome, was only paid when mission equipment and files were repossessed.

Garson said donations to the Denver-based organization have fallen off considerably from the $100,000 monthly average at the guru's 1973 height of recruitment to the current $40,000 a month average.

Texas Records $72 Billion Growth '74

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — Recession may have slowed economic growth but Texas produced a $72 billion economy in 1974, compared to $24 billion in 1959, a University of Texas business researcher says.

Bryan Adair writes in the Texas Business Review the state's economy has grown at a yearly rate of 2.3 per cent despite the recession. However, there are more Texans sharing this increase in the state's economic output.

The growth rate of 2.3 per cent would cause the product per capita to double every 30 years, Adair writes.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:
 Some care should be taken when framing needlepoint. It is best not to put needlework under glass, unless it is very delicate and then it should be kept away from the inside surface of the glass in some way. If it touches the glass, moisture condensation may later cause it to spot. Most needlework needs to "breathe," and can only do so without glass. Taping it is very bad. Masking tape, cellophane sticky tape, in fact, most kinds of tape contain harmful acids that will, in time, ruin the material, cause spots, deteriorations, and tears. Glass-as-backing will also not allow air to go through the needlework, and may trap moisture. Light vacuuming from time to time will keep the dust off the front surface, and the needlework can go for years without cleaning. Stretcher bars allow needlework to float in air and allow moisture to pass through—and not be trapped.

Laraine Wright O'Malley

Dear Heloise:
 For carrying an open box of detergent soap, use a plastic milk jug. Use a funnel to pour the soap into the jug. Fill and replace the cap. Be sure to mark the jug so you'll know what is in it.

Phyllis Meyer

Dear Heloise:
 Dry milk is difficult to pour from the carton it comes in and one often doesn't get an accurate measurement. Now when I bring a large carton from the grocery, I empty it into empty coffee cans and keep a measuring cup inside. Two 3-pound coffee cans are just the right size for a 20-quart carton of dry milk.

Mrs. Carl Hoelting

Dear Heloise:
 I know you are no sob sister columnist but knowing your twins, how did they keep the girls from fighting over clothes and whose is whose for identification?

Mother of Two Sets

Dear Heloise:
 We've discovered that the quickest, easiest and neatest way of removing those jumbo-size staples used to seal heavy cardboard boxes is with all things, a CORKSCREW!
 Hook the point of the corkscrew under the middle of the staple, make a couple of turns with the corkscrew, then jerk on the handle hard and fast. This will force the folded ends to straighten out and pop the staple out of the cardboard clean and fast.

Organ-Vardeman Vows Exchanged In Houston

St. Francis Episcopal Church, Houston, was the setting for the ceremony when Martha Jeanne Organ became the bride of Dana Malcomb Vardeman on Saturday, March 8, at seven o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Albert J. Etting, Chaplain of the University of Houston, officiated the double-ring, candlelight ceremony. Immediately following a reception was held at the University Club in the Galleria. Soloists were Miss Sonya Gallegos of Baton Rouge, La., and Jimmy Frost of El Paso.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Johnson Organ of Spring, Tex., recently of London, England and Bogota, Colombia, formerly of Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Burnett Vardeman of St. Louis, Mo., formerly of Denver, Colo.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a Bianchi gown in white heavy satin, styled with a scooped neckline, empire waistline, fitted sleeves with ruffles and a full train. The bodice was beaded with pearls and she wore a pearl-beaded cloche with waist-length veil. Her bouquet was made of camellias and pink and blue flowers with white lace streamers and pearls. She wore a pearl choker.

The brides sister Miss Constance Victoria Organ of Houston, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid were Miss Les Fatuch of El Paso, Miss Jackie Garrett of Houston and Texarkana and Miss Sonya Gallegos of Baton Rouge, La.

They wore floor-length soft blue gowns, and pearl-beaded headpieces, following the style and cut of the bride's gown. They also wore pearl chokers and their bouquets were of white, pink and blue flowers with matching blue ribbons.

Serving his brother as best man was Michael Vardeman of Dallas. Groomsman were Rick Vardeman, brother of the bridegroom, and Dan Organ, brother of the bride, both of Dallas.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length blue on off-white gown of chiffon; the bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length light blue-gray chiffon gown. Both wore white orchid corsages.

The church was decorated with flowers and ribbons similar to the bridesmaids' bouquets.

Members of the house party were Miss Vicky Davis of River Forest, Ill. and Dallas, who was in charge of the guest register; also Mrs. Michael Vardeman of Dallas and Miss Sandy Vardeman of St. Louis, sister of the bridegroom. Jimmy Frost of El Paso and Dallas, Curtis Boyd of Albuquerque and Dallas and Julian Tablada of Baton Rouge.

VITAMIN C
 CHICAGO (UPI) — Vitamin C will not prevent or cure the common cold. Further, it has not been proved that massive doses of vitamin C are safe. And even if vitamin C did prevent or reduce the discomfort of colds, it would be necessary to take two capsules or tablets three times a day for the rest of one's life to make it work.

These are the conclusions of two reports in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Mrs. Morrison Gives Talk on Art in Russia

Mrs. J.G. Morrison was the hostess for the recent meeting of El Progreso Club with club president, Mrs. Roy McMillen, presiding.

The program "Art in Russia" given by Mrs. J.G. Morrison told facts about Russia, its leaders and the arts.

her most splendid legacy in the Hermitage, where a gallery was added for her rich collections of paintings and other works of art. Under Catherine the first dictionary of Russian language was completed. She founded several new schools," the speaker told.

"It was during the reign of Peter the Great that a site for a new fortress and port was selected and called St. Petersburg. It was later renamed Leningrad. Peter introduced numerous schemes for training and educating young people. He encouraged the printing of books, drafted rules for good citizenship and insisted on social emancipation of women of the upper classes. History shows that the reign of Peter the Great was the beginning of Art in Russia," she told.

Mrs. Morrison stated, "The earliest architecture was that of churches and monasteries with St. Sophia in Kiev being the oldest surviving church. Folk arts were carved into stone and wood, stitched into linen and homespun, painted on ceramics and lacquerware. Folk music was the classical music of Russia until the 19th century."

"The Russian throne changed hands seven times in 37 years. After Peter's death, his second daughter Elizabeth, reigned. She encouraged native developments and under her patronage Russia's first public theater was established. Elizabeth's successor, Peter III, reign was short and uneventful. After his death, Catherine, his wife secured her grip on the throne. She enlarged the royal jewel collection. The diadem, diamond encrusted and topped with a 399 carat ruby was made for her coronation by a Swiss jeweler.

Mrs. Morrison mentioned some of the highlights of her trip to Russia and concluded by saying, "The Russians are a people of stamina, rich in talent in every field of human endeavor; capable of incredible feats of endurance, of long patience and outbreaks of fury. Like their climate, they are a people of extremes."

"Literature was her greatest interest and she loved the pagentry of the theater. However, in architecture she left

Ziegler Stages Comeback, Wins Greater Jacksonville Tournament

Sports

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — You can't blame Larry Ziegler for being a little bit cautious about that $30,000 check he got for winning the Greater Jacksonville Open.

But Ziegler really was only kidding when he said, "I have my check, but I haven't taken it to the bank yet."

It's not that Ziegler really doubts that the check is good. It's just that the only other time he ever won a professional golf tournament, the sponsors didn't have enough money left to pay him off.

The 3-year-old St. Louis native has won two tournaments in a decade on the PGA tour. The first was the 1969 Michigan Classic—and that was the one that ran out of money. Ziegler eventually got his money from the general funds of the PGA's Tournament Players Division, but he wasn't to return to the winner's circle again for nearly six years.

That return took place here Sunday when Ziegler capitalized on a 25-foot eagle chip shot to post a final-round 65 that tied the course record and wound up with a 12-under-par 276 that gave him a two-shot victory over co-runnerup Mac McLendon and Mike Morley.

Ziegler did not move into the lead Sunday until he sank a 25-foot birdie putt at No. 13 to go 9 under for the tournament. He made a 30-foot birdie putt two holes later but Morley hung in there one stroke behind.

Ziegler, who had won a little more than 11,000 this year before Sunday, said that $30,000 "is really coming in at the right time," and his wife, sitting near by, shook her head in agreement.

BORGER WINS

Tennis Team 2nd In Perryton Meet

PERRYTON — Eugene Laycock whipped Borger's Jay Harvey, 6-0, 6-0, in the finals of boys singles and led Pampa to a second-place finish in the Perryton Sports Festival Tennis Tournament Saturday.

Hampton lost in the semifinals to Shelley Schmitz and Donna Engle of Borger, 6-1, 6-2.

In the B division, Pampa Amador Mesa lost in the semis to Dalhart's Roger Stout, the eventual champion, 6-1, 6-1. Diane Jack of Borger downed Maria Martinez in the semis, 6-0, 6-0. In doubles, Borger's Kay Clark and Dana Clark beat Pampa's Cathy Carpenter and Annie Henderson, 6-0, 6-0, in the semifinal play.

"I was exceptionally pleased with Karen Hampton and Donna Coufal for getting into the finals. I was hoping all year long they could do it and they finally did," Pampa coach John Michie said.

No team trophy for second place was awarded.

Babe Ruth Tryouts Set Tuesday-Thursday

Babe Ruth baseball tryouts for youngsters, ages 13-15 on Aug. 1, 1975, will take place Tuesday through Thursday at Optimist Park.

To be placed on a team, a player must attend at least two of the three tryouts, which will start each day at 5 p.m.

Boys that didn't participate in Babe Ruth last year need to sign up. Babe Ruth President Robert Dixon said, "Kids not on the roster at the end of last year will have to try out again. We need about 50 or 60 players. I imagine, to sign up."

Coaches will conduct the tryouts and hold their auction for players immediately following Thursday's tryout.

Coaches this season are Leon Peeler, Ideal Food Store; Melvin Davis, Ford's Body Shop; Paul Sims, Pampa Hardware; H.J. Preston, Pupco, Inc.; Bud Adair, First National Bank; Chuck Hall, Cree Companies; Bob Johnson, Grant Supply, and Lesley Edmondson, Lions Club.

Princeton NIT Champion

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Sometimes you win with your body and sometimes you win with your brains," beamed diminutive Princeton Coach Pete Carill after his Tiger cagers became the first Ivy League team to win the National Invitational Tournament championship in the 38-year history of that event, when they whipped Providence, 80-69, at Madison Square Garden Sunday.

The players left no doubt as to which it had been for them. "We haven't got a really talented player on the team," said senior guard Tim Van Blommestein, who scored 23 points in the final game and 87 for the tournament (ironically, the same total as tourney MVP Ron Lee of third-place Oregon).

Princeton players are fond of talking about how little talent they have.

And "thought" is a word that turns up often in the game analyses of both coach and players. A small team, even by Ivy League standards, Princeton has to carry over its academic tradition to the basketball court.

"Our game plans are so thorough that we know exactly what the other team will do before they do it," chipped in junior guard Mickey Steurer, who scored 26 points in the final game and takes turns with three other players as high scorer for Princeton.

Coach Carill proved himself a thinking man's coach in more ways than one in the championship game but the best example was in his starting line-up for the second half.

Pampa Frosh Wind Up 2nd In BJH Meet

BORGER — Pampa Junior High's freshman track team recorded four first places and two seconds and finished in the runner-up spot in the Borger Invitational Junior High Track Meet Saturday.

Perryton won the meet, followed by Pampa, Borger and Dumas, in that order.

In the eighth-grade division, Pampa finished fourth.

Pampa victories in the ninth-grade division were by Dean Smith in the 100 (10.6), Mark Coufal in the 220 (24.6), Robert Thaxton in the mile (5:19) and the mile-relay team (3:50).

Members of the relay quartet were Armando Soto, Keith Mackey, Coufal and Smith.

Last year, the ninth grade was coming in fourth and fifth and sixth, and this year first and second. Pampa coach Dickie Crockett said, "They've come along way. They ought to be commended for it."

Brown, since he did not finish in the top six, did not qualify for the finals, which were held Saturday night. His time, a personal best, was 4:56.61.

Pampa will compete in the Perryton Invitational April 5.

Evelyn Archer of Amarillo, competing in the girls 500 freestyle, finished seventh Friday.

Brown, a Pampa High junior, will swim in the AAU Age Group State Meet in April at Loos Pool in Dallas.

Citizens Band radios are proving quite popular with Pampa people, according to Norman Sublett, manager of Pampa Photo and Radio Shack, 1820 Hobart.

Called Pampa Photo Shop, when the store opened more than three years ago, it became Pampa Photo and Radio Shack a year later when a complete line of Radio Shack products was added.

"We have cameras, dark room equipment, stereos, radios, film processing, a complete line of camera supplies, do-it-yourself items and hobby kits," Sublett said.

The store is owned by J.T. Norrid of Amarillo. In addition to Sublett, the business employs Susan Lester.

"Pampa people are accepting Pampa Photo and Radio Shack more and more," Sublett said. "They are learning that we can supply them with better service and as complete a choice as they could find in city shops."

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Rep. Tony Polumbo, D-Houston, says his bill authorizing periods of silent prayer or meditation in public schools in Texas is not a religious issue.

Wants School Prayers Returned as Free Right

"It's a free rights bill to allow people in public schools to engage in a few moments of silent prayer or meditation," Polumbo said. "I checked with people of religious sects and those not of religious sects, and those that understand it agree with it."

Polumbo's bill was among the first to be considered by the House when the members returned from their weekend recess.

It was approved 10-1 by the House Public Education Committee earlier in the session. A similar bill is pending in the Senate.

Polumbo said his bill skirts a constitutional ban against mandatory prayer in public schools by providing only for silent prayer period for students who desire to participate.

A proposal by Rep. Joe Harina, D-Breckenridge, prohibiting sale of gas produced on state lands from sale to other states in the future was also due a final House vote today. Under the bill, gas from state-owned lands could be shipped out of state only when the Railroad Commission certified all Texas needs had been filled.

TUESDAY, APRIL 1
Your birthday today: This coming year you have a tendency to overidealize or overglamorize; concentrate on keeping daydreaming in its place. Pray for serenity and wisdom. Relationships are fun and active! Today's natives shouldn't hurry their development, are characterized by a vivid imagination.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Take initiative, set a good example and ask others to cooperate. Be wary of the temptation to take it too easy this afternoon. Use your head where money or figures are involved.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Negotiations, certainly; settlements, not yet. There's more to come, things you don't know about or haven't gotten the gist of. Enjoy this favorable day.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Review your recent work to correct any errors. Rather than letting criticism annoy you, learn and profit by it. Clowning around is a lot of fun, but practical jokes backfire.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Technicalities run to extremes. Work a trifle harder; wait a bit longer for results. Hear all sides and don't support any but your own.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your creative imagination bursts forth in impulsive actions, most of which eventually succeed. You're involved in hobbies that didn't interest you before.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Recovery is your motto of the day. Add to your reserves where possible; invest in the tools needed for better quality workmanship.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Keep your story simple. Communicate directly, in person if possible, rather than assume people remember you. Be ready to take advantage of a break in financial trends.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Move in fast to claim what you've earned; convert latent resources into cash. If you have valuable possessions that have outlived their usefulness, put them on the market.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You've got plenty of drive and energy but if you move too soon, associates can't cope. Give them time to turn around. Discretion is essential for today's success.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Troubleshooting is only part of the story. Settle all accounts immediately; don't start any new ones for a while. Keep your finances private as a matter of principle.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Distractions abound on every side. Discipline yourself to ignore them. Put in all the effort needed for your career, but taper off early, since extra rest is important now.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Long-range results hinge on today's minor adjustments and changes. Have faith in your ability to correct your course. Relax, stay on the surface tonight and don't talk shop.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Move in fast to claim what you've earned; convert latent resources into cash. If you have valuable possessions that have outlived their usefulness, put them on the market.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You've got plenty of drive and energy but if you move too soon, associates can't cope. Give them time to turn around. Discretion is essential for today's success.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Troubleshooting is only part of the story. Settle all accounts immediately; don't start any new ones for a while. Keep your finances private as a matter of principle.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Distractions abound on every side. Discipline yourself to ignore them. Put in all the effort needed for your career, but taper off early, since extra rest is important now.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Long-range results hinge on today's minor adjustments and changes. Have faith in your ability to correct your course. Relax, stay on the surface tonight and don't talk shop.

Congratulations
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore, 2121 Dogwood on the birth of a baby boy at 6:11 a.m. weighing 7 lbs. 13 ozs.

We Appreciate Your Business

A ding-a-ling orders Gas air conditioning now.

A telephone call to Pioneer Natural Gas brings an air conditioning specialist to your home for a free survey and cost estimate at no obligation to you. He'll answer all your questions, and tell you what it will take to install GAS air conditioning in your home. It's the first easy step toward having your dependable GAS air conditioner installed before the first hot, windy days are here.

A GAS air conditioning system is ruggedly built to cool quietly and efficiently. There are fewer moving parts, and no compressor to break down or wear out. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. It's this simple principle that gives GAS air conditioning its long life with no loss of cooling capacity and easy maintenance.

Install gas air conditioning now. You'll avoid the rush, and be enjoying the quiet, cooling comfort of GAS air conditioning while everyone else is waiting. Give us a ring... a-ling.
