PRICE FIVE CENTS

COURT REVERSES 99-YEAR SENTENCE

Hall-Mills Case Re-Opened By Confession At El Reno, Oklahoma

MAN DECLARES HE WAS HIRED TO KILL PAIR

Refuses to Tell Who Paid Him $5,000 for Crime

SINCERITY IS UNCERTAIN NOW

Former Cell Mate Gave Tip Which Resulted in Gruelling

EL RENO, Okla., April 18.—(P)—A confession to the famous Hall-Mills murders in New Jersey has been obtained from Edwin F. Allen, held here on a burglary charge. It was announced today by T. C. Shacklett, sheriff of Canadian county, Oklahoma.

Sheriff Shacklett said he could not tell whether Allen was sincere in making the confession.

In his confession, Allen said he was paid $5,000 and given an automobile for the crimes. He refused to name the person who he said employed him. Sheriff Shacklett was of the opinion that he was holding out the name for "trading purposes."

Allen is about 28 years old and a citizen of Mexico.

The confession said that Allen held up the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills as they sat in an automobile parked along the highway and shot them after driving into a corn field. He said he arranged the bodies by side in Plum lane. The New Jersey spot in which the bodies were found is called Derussy's lane.

NEWARK, N. J., April 18.—(P)—Newark police were informed today that a man known as Edward Allen in jail at El Reno, Okla., had confessed killing the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills near New Brunswick, on the night of September 14, 1922.

The information was contained in a letter from C. T. Shacklett, sheriff at El Reno. Last week Phillip Sebald, captain of Newark police, received a letter from a man who said he was a cell mate of Allen's, which also contained a story of an admission by Allen that he was responsible for the slaying.

Allen, who recently was brought here from the Oklahoma penitentiary at McAlester to face a burglary charge, said that after shooting the couple whose death has been a mystery for nearly six years, he smoked a couple of cigarettes before taking the bodies to the spot where they were found.

After depositing the bodies, he said, he took the automobile in which they were being riding to near Vernon, Delaware. He turned the car near an old saw mill there, he said.

Seventy Booths In Place When Carnival Opens

With 70 booths decorated in carnival array and merchandise on display everything was ready for the grand opening of the first annual Merchant's Carnival and Pure Food show this afternoon in the Pla-Mor auditorium. This carnival is being sponsored by the Presbyterian church for a period of three days. Doors will open at 2 p. m. daily.

Local merchants have co-operated in donating prizes which will be given each night. Many out of town companies have donated liberally towards the show especially to the country store conducted by ladies of the church. Ten prizes to be given each night to the holders of the lucky numbers will be distributed following the program which commences at 8 o'clock.

A free baby clinic is being conducted each afternoon by Mrs. M. P. Downs.

For Rotary Governor

DR. RUE P. PARCELLS

AMARILLO, Texas, April 18.—Dr. Rue P. Parcells, former president of the Rotary club of Amarillo, and active in Rotary work for a number of years, will be nominated for district governor by Amarillo Rotarians at the approaching district conference in Lubbock. Dr. Parcells is one of the best known Rotarians in the district, having been responsible for the creation of a number of new clubs in the Panhandle-Plains district. He has been a member of the club here since 1917 serving for five years as director, one year as president and continuously a member of important committees.

BISHOP DICKEY IS DEAD AT 63

Noted Methodist Gives His Life to Brilliant Ministry

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—(P)—Bishop James Edward Dickey, 62, who died here last night as a result of an operation for appendicitis, had served Kentucky, Illinois, and West Virginia the eleventh district of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, for two years. He was elected to the episcopacy in 1922.

REV. JAMES E. DICKEY

1922 but served four years in Texas and New Mexico before coming to Louisville. For twenty-one years prior to being made a bishop, he had been connected with Emory college, thirteen years as president.

At Bishop Dickey's bedside were his wife, Mrs. Jessie Monroe Dickey; his son, James E. Dickey, Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Boyd, both of Atlanta. Also surviving are three other daughters, Mrs. J. P. Carreker and Mrs. Robert Strickland of Atlanta, and Mrs. Henry H. Jones of Marietta, Ga.

He was one of five Southern bishops who in 1925 violently opposed the movement to unite the northern and southern organizations of the Methodist Episcopal church. On that occasion he lined up with Bishops Denry, Candor Ainsworth and Darlington.

BORGER LEGION ENJOYS TRIP TO PAMPA POST

Commander Norton Brings 36 Members Here

DRUM CORPS TO BE ORGANIZED

Rodeo to Bring Best of Talent, Committee Declares

Commander W. A. Norton and 36 members of the Borger post No. 412 of the American Legion visited the local post last night. Following a short business session, an entertainment was given by local members, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bremen. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to the 135 present.

It was the largest gathering that has ever attended a meeting at the new home. More than 100 members of the Pampa post were present, many of whom had never been in the headquarters since it was remodeled.

George Shuffield, chairman of the rodeo committee made a report and drafted more assistants. The rodeo will be held here June 1, 2, and 3 under the supervision of Bill Jackson. Some of the wildest horses in the Southwest have been secured for the contest and the bulldogging will be a feature attraction.

Many of the best contestants in the country have sent in their reservation and will appear the three days of the rodeo.

James Newkirk, now residing in Borger, will devote part of his time in Pampa organizing a drum corps composed of Legion members. Mr. Newkirk organized the famous 32nd Division drum corps and during his time took it to California. He plans to unite the drum corps from Amarillo, Pampa, and Borger into a Panhandle unit, 100 men strong to attend the national convention at San Antonio this year.

The drum major will be in Pampa Friday night to commence the organization of the local corps. He requests that all members interested, whether drummers or buglers present at the Legion home at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment was featured by numbers by the newly organized Legion quartet, Mrs. E. A. Webb, Sam Riley and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bremen, also by members on the French harp by George Shuffield.

Mrs. Bremen sang several songs which were enjoyed by the large gathering and Mr. Bremen, better known as the Quaker newsboy, gave dance numbers including buckwing, soft-shoe clog and other numbers. The members were loud in their praise of the ability of the two newcomers to Pampa.

BIRGER MUST DIE

BENTON, Ill., April 18.—(P)—Deserted even by his attorneys, Charles Birger, condemned leader of a southern Illinois gang that terrorized the countryside for several years, dies on the gallows here tomorrow.

Robert E. Smith, his attorney who has fought with every legal resource at his command to save Birger, said, "This is the end of the road, nothing further will be done for him," when a circuit court jury yesterday found the gangster sane and his hanging was set for 10 a. m. Monday.

M. A. Turner was a business visitor in Amarillo today.

Insane Farmer Nearly Wipes Out Entire Family

NEWPORT, Tenn., April 18.—D. J. Hawk, 58, well-known Cooke county farmer residing near here, today killed his 30-year-old daughter, Maudie, with an axe, probably fatally injured his wife, and another daughter, Lucille 21, and then committed suicide with a shotgun.

Hawk was said to have suffered from a mental disorder for more than a year.

Physicians said his wife and daughter have little chance to recover from wounds about their head.

MRS. KOEHL TO JOIN HUSBAND

Fearing Failure, Baron Was Almost Ready to Kill Companion and Self, He Tells Nurse; Irishman Is Again Jolly.

BERLIN, April 18.—(P)—Mrs. Hermann Koehl, wife of the pilot of the Bremen, left Berlin today en route to New York, where she hopes to meet her husband. She will go to Bremen where she will embark aboard the steamship Dresden tomorrow.

QUEBEC, April 18.—(P)—The German triumvirate today planned a rendezvous here for a continuance of their flight to New York City in the plane's sister ship, the Junkers F-13. Under these plans the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen would be left at Greenly Island for a while.

The decision of Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld to give up their effort to repair their plane came as Major James Fitzmaurice fought a freezing northern storm in an effort to reach Quebec and start repair parts back to them.

The Irish commandant and Charles A. (Duke) Schiller, Canadian pilot, spent the night at Clarke City Que., where they were forced to land after a takeoff from Natashquan in an effort to fly to Murray Bay.

Communication Poor Schiller, learning that the two Germans wished to come out in a relief instead of waiting for repairs, volunteered to go back after the men but poor communication deferred knowledge of their decision.

Another plane bearing reporters and photographers was at Seven Island today across the bay from Clarke City. They had taken off late yesterday to fly to Greenly Island but were forced back by a storm.

If that plane could reach Greenly Island, the Baron and Koehl could fly out in it, observers here pointed out, providing the waters of the St. Lawrence were calm.

According to the plan, this would permit Fitzmaurice and Schiller to continue their flight here.

The P-13 today was at the flying field at Montreal, where it was flown from New York, ready to take the Bremen crew to the city they set for their goal when they left Baldoon, Ireland, six days ago.

Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the Bremen's builder, was at Murray Bay

MOTORISTS ESCAPE WHEN CAR CRASHES INTO MOVING HOUSE

Three men narrowly escaped death at 2:30 o'clock this morning when the car they were driving crashed into the rear of a house being moved along highway 33 two miles west of here.

They apparently failed to see the light at the rear of the moving building and crashed into it at a high rate of speed. The car, a Dodge coupe, before coming to a stop was completely hidden under the building. The occupants escaped with cuts and bruises about their heads.

The car was a complete wreck, while the building was badly damaged in the encounter.

FORD TO GIVE LLOYD-GEORGE NEW TRACTOR

FORMER PREMIER WELL REPAID FOR LUNCHEON HE GIVES FOR AMERICAN

LONDON, April 18.—(P)—The luncheon which Lloyd-George gave Henry Ford yesterday more than paid for itself.

The former premier complained that the Ford tractor on his farm at Churt Surrey, did not plough deep enough.

"I will send you one that does as soon as I get home," Mr. Ford said.

"Thanks, that will help a lot," said farmer Lloyd-George. "I'll pay the freight."

"No you won't," said Mr. Ford. "The freight and all are on me."

PREJUDICE IN ARGUMENT IS RULED ILLEGAL

Joe Minor Convicted of Chloroforming Man in 1924

BLAKE'S DEATH VERDICT STANDS

Amarillo Youth Shot Swisher Resident With Pistol

AUSTIN, April 18.—(P)—Joe Minor's 99-year sentence for the fatal chloroforming of George Wyatt in Hopkins county in 1924 was reversed and remanded to Hunt county Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals which withdrew its former opinion of affirmative because of "prejudicial" arguments used by the county attorney.

Death sentences of P. W. Howard, El Paso county and Robert F. Blake, Swisher county, for murder, were affirmed.

Howard, who was jointly indicted with W. S. Ham, was convicted of killing N. V. Nixon while the three were on an automobile trip in Ward county in the fall of 1920. Blake was found guilty of killing J. Fred Conner with a pistol.

The court denied a rehearing to Lawrence Davenport, under death sentence for the killing of O. P. Foster at Houston in May 1927, and abated the appeal of James Young of Houston a death sentence for the killing of his wife, Ollie, because of Young's death.

In reversing the minor case, the court held that the prosecution did not have the right to refer to the allegation that Minor had killed a man in Oklahoma and that he had "adulterous relations" with one of the state's witnesses in efforts to prove him a "bad man and criminal generally."

AUSTIN, April 18.—(P)—Proceedings in the Court of Criminal Appeals today:

Affirmed: J. C. Burgess, Knox; H. E. Gray, Harris; Earl Smith, Knox; Jim Kennerly, Lynn; S. S. White, Hale, (two cases); P. W. Howard, El Paso; Charlie Webb, Wheeler; Frank Duda, Milam; Plucencio Hernandez; Frio; Frank Schafer, Bexar; Robert F. Blake; Henry Steel, Potter; Eldred Robinson, Williamson.

Reversed and remanded: Albert Boles, Rusk. Appellant's motion for rehearing overruled.

Ed Spears, Tom Green; Vincent Spero and Lewis Sicola, Harris; Lawrence Davenport, Harris; Tom Robertson Rains, (two cases); Thomas Siftuent and Eusebio Gonzales, Coleman.

Appeal dismissed: L. L. Ray, Wood; M. Zepeda, Frio. Appeal abated: James Young, Harris. Former opinion withdrawn, reversed and remanded: Joe Minor, Hunt. Appeal reinstated, affirmed: Joe Wimberly, Gillespie.

LINDBERGH AT HOME

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—(P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is home again this time with a new motorplane which he will use in place of the "Spirit of St. Louis" which he said would be given to the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

Fighting strong head winds Lindbergh flew 400 miles from Wichita, Kans., and landed here shortly after 3 p. m. last night, with two passengers, I. M. Bixby, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and Harry H. Knight, a broker.

THE GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

BY ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

The summer she is 16, Sally Ford is "farmed out" to Clem Carson and leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known from the time she was four. At the farm she meets David Nash, athletic and university student, working there during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about their friendship, David strikes him a terrible blow and not knowing then whether the man is dead or alive, Sally and David flee.

They join a carnival, David as coach's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

Nita, the Hula dancer, becomes infatuated with David and threatens Sally with exposure to the police for the Carson affair if she doesn't keep "hands off" David. Sally hears they are going next to Capital City, where she spent so many years in the orphanage. She tells David they must run away. David promises to meet her that night after the train is loaded to talk things over with her. They stroll to a clump of trees and sit down to talk. David takes her in his arms and for the first time they confess their love for each other. She tells him the news of her mother which Mrs. Bybee uncovers for her in Stanton. The woman who had left her at the Home was not her mother, according to Mrs. Bybee's information, but was a maid hired to take the baby from the mother in New York and disappear.

As they sit there, they are startled to hear Nita's voice in the darkness somewhere near them. "Steve—I'm warning you. If you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out. Fifty-fifty—"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

Sally's first impulse, when she saw the children of the orphanage, come tumbling into the Palace of Wonders tent, was to flee. She was so conscious of being Sally Ford, whose rightful place was with those staring, shy little girls in white lawn "Sunday" dresses, that she completely forgot for one moment of pure terror that to them she would merely be "Princess Lalla," favorite crystal-gazer to the Sultan of Turkey before she escaped from his harem.

Covering low in her high-backed gilded chair, in an effort to make herself as small and inconspicuous as possible—a useless effort really, since she was by far the prettiest and most romantic figure in the tent, dressed as she was in Oriental trappings—she watched the children, whom she knew so well, with a pang of homesickness. Not that she would want to be back with them! But they were her people, the only chums she had ever known. How well she knew how they felt, liberated for one blessed afternoon from the bleak corridors of the orphanage, catapulted by someone's generosity into fairyland. For to them, the carnival was fairyland. These romance-and-beauty-starved orphans saw only glamor and wonder, believed with all their hearts every extravagant word that Gus, the Barker, uttered in his stentorian bawl.

Suddenly love and compassion filled her heart to overflowing. She wanted to run down the steps that led to her little platform and gather Clara and Thelma and Betsy to her breast. She felt so much older and wiser than she had been two weeks ago, when she had "play-acted" for them as they scrubbed the floor of the dormitory. How awed and admiring they would be if, when their thin little bodies were pressed tight in her arms, she should whisper, "It's me—Sally—play-acting!" It's me, kids! But of course she couldn't do it, she would be betraying not only herself but David, and she would rather die than that David should be caught and punished for defending her against Clem Carson.

As the children milled excitedly in the tent, huddling together in groups like sheep, holding each other's hands, giggling and whispering together as their awed eyes roamed from one "freak" to another, Sally searched their faces hungrily, jealously.

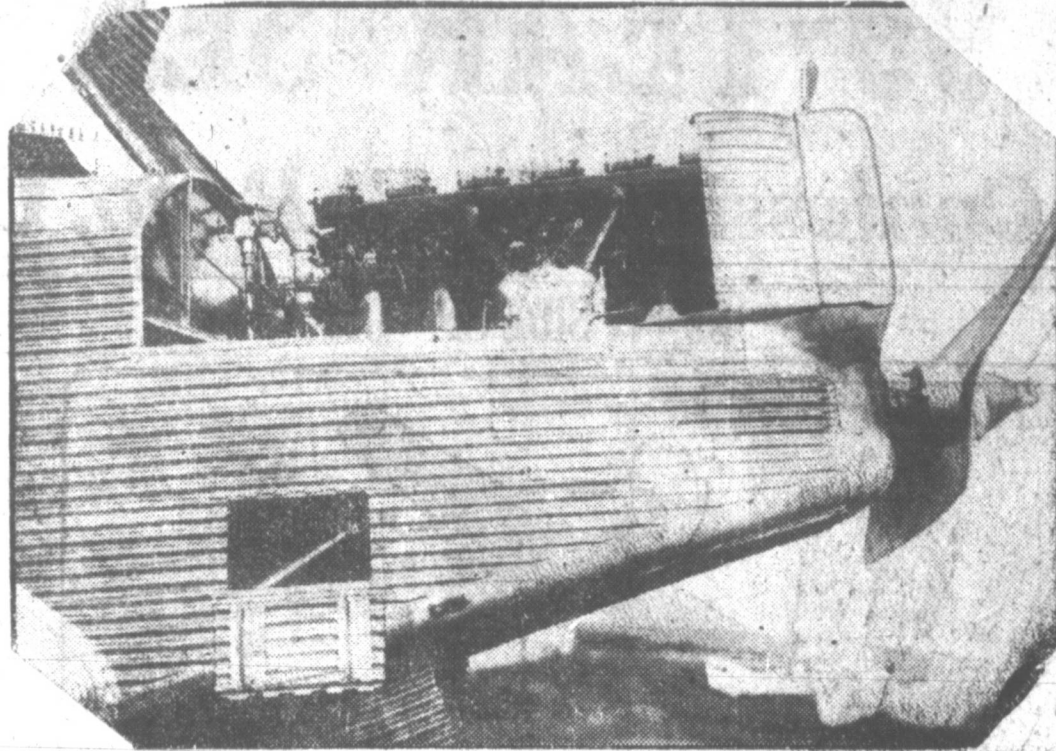

Thelma had cut a deep gash in her cheek; it would leave a scar. Betsy had a summer cold and no handkerchief; her cheeks were painted poppy-red with fever, or perhaps it was only excitement.

There was a new little girl whom Sally had never seen before, such a homely little runt of a girl, with enormous, hunted eyes and big freckles on her putty-colored cheeks. Her hair close to colored hair had been clipped close to her scalp, so that her poor little round head looked like the jaw of a man who has not shaved for three days.

Clara and Thelma were mothering importantly, each holding one of her little claw-hands, and shrilling explanations and information at her. But where was Mrs. Stone—oh, Stone-Face—herself? Sally knew very well that the children had not come alone. While Gus was discoursing grandiloquently upon the talents of Hefo, the human ostrich, Sally sat very prim and apparently composed, her watchful eyes veiled by the scrap of black lace that reached to the tip of her adorable little nose. Undoubtedly the philanthropist was a man—it was nearly always a politician court-impressively by "treating" the orphans to a day at the circus or carnival or to a movie. But if he were present, as the philanthropic politician invariably was, Sally could not find him. That was odd, too, for he was usually the most prominent person at such an affair, taking great pains that no reporters who might happen to be present should overlook him and his great kindness of heart.

Then little old-maidish Miss Pond, sentimental little Miss Pond, who had befriended Sally by telling her all she knew of the child's parentage, came hurrying nervously into the tent. She had undoubtedly been detained at the ticket booth and was sure, judging from her anxious, nervous manner, that the children had gotten into mischief during her brief absence.

"MITCHELL FIELD OR HEAVEN!" IT ALL DEPENDED ON THIS

Here is the single 470-pound motor of the airplane Bremen upon which Colonel James Fitzmaurice, Captain Herman Koehl and Baron Gunther von Huenfeld risked their lives when they started on their flight across the Atlantic. Berlin newspapers severely criticized the flyers for placing their dependence on a single-motored plane.

Three or four of the little girls ran to cling to her hands, abjectly crying notice as Sally had known they would. But with a few absent-minded pats she shooed them away and hustled anxiously toward a woman whom Sally had not noticed before, so complete had been her absorption in the children.

The woman stood aloof near the platform of "the girl nobody can lift," listening to Gus, the Barker, with a slight, charming smile of amusement on her beautiful mouth. When Miss Pond joined her timidly, deferentially, the "lady," as Sally instinctively thought of her from the first moment that she became aware of her, turned slightly, so that "Princess Lalla," whose platform was quite near, got a complete and breath-taking view of her beauty.

"Oh!" Sally breathed ecstatically, her little brown-painted hands clasping each other tightly in her lap. "Oh you beautiful! You are like a real princess, or a queen." But she did not say the words aloud. Behind the little black lace veil her sapphiric eyes widened and glowed; her breath came quickly over her parted, carmine lips.

The woman, who seemed scarcely older than a girl, but who, by her pose and a certain maturity in her face gave Sally the impression that she was a queen rather than a princess, had taken her hat off, as if the heat of the sun were too much for her. It was a smart, trim little thing of silvery-green felt, that had cupped her small head like the great cup that holds a flower. And her face was the flower, a flower bursting gloriously into bloom with the removal of the hat.

Sally had never in all her life seen hair like that—shimmering waves of pure gold, slightly ruffled by the removal of the hat, so that single threads of light caught the light from the gas jet that burned day and night in the rather dark tent. Her skin pale with the heat of the day, was creamy-white, fine-lined, smooth and rich, so that Sally's fingers longed to touch it reverently. Surely it could not feel like other flesh; it was made of something finer and rarer than cells and blood, dermis and epidermis.

Her small lovely mouth, soft and tuppish as a child's, was tender and smiling and proud, the mouth of a woman who has always been adored for her beauty but whom adoration has not cheated of very human emotion. Sally wished that she could see the eyes more closely, for even while they were wide and laughing, sending out little sparkles of color and light, she thought there was a hint of sadness in them, of restlessness, as if only a part of her attention was given to the carnival and its life children.

She was very small and slight, shorter even than little Miss Pond, who had a look down as she talked to her. But for all her adorable smallness she carried herself with a certain arrogance. Every movement she made as she and Miss Pond talked together and then joined the children was proud and graceful.

She was wearing a summer sports suit of silvery-green knitted silk, which showed to the best advantage the miniature Venus proportions of her body. As she swung toward the children, nodding acquiescence to Miss Pond's eager suggestions, little Eloise Durant, the child who had been the "new girl" of Sally's last day in the orphanage, catapulted herself from the huddling mass of children and impulsively seized her hand. The swift, cordial smile with which she greeted the child and released her hand as quickly as possible kept Sally from resenting the action. But Eloise, still hypersensitive, knew that she had been delicately snubbed and hung back as Gus, the Barker, herded the orphans toward Jan the giant's platform.

Sally saw the tell-tale tremble of Eloise's babyish mouth, and her heart ached with desire to comfort the child. Outwardly Eloise had become exactly like all the other little sheep located, obediently excited when they were excited, silent when they were silent—but underneath she was still bewildered and unrecconciled to the death of her mother, the cheap little stock-company actress who had evidently adored her child and been adored in return.

But someone else had seen Eloise's hurt, so unconsciously inflicted by the "lovely and arrogant lady, Betsy, the six-year-old, ran from the herd to take Eloise's hand, with an absurd and touching little gesture of motherliness. "Come on, Eloise, Sally heard Betsy cry in her shrill little voice. "Let's just you and me look at the funny people. We can see the giant when the crowd moves on. I want to see 'Princess Lalla' more'n anything. I want my fortune told. I want to ask her where Sally is—you remember—Sally Ford. That man says she 'speaks all, knows all,' so he ought to know where Sally is."

"The big girls say she run away," Eloise answered, her eyes round with awe. "They say she did something awful bad and run away with a man—" "Sally didn't do nothing bad," Betsy retorted indignantly. "She squawk! She was the best 'big girl' in the Home. She play-acted for us little kids and—oh!" She stopped with a gasp, her eyes popping as she took in the fantastic splendor of "Princess Lalla." "Listen, Princess Lalla," she mustered up courage to whisper coaxingly, "does it cost a lot to get your fortune told? I've only got a nickel that the New York lady gave me—she give every one of us a dime, but I spent a nickel for some salt water taffy—"

Sally could hardly restrain herself from crying out; "Oh, Betsy, it's me! Sally Ford! You don't have to spend your poor little nickel to find me! I'm here!" But she knotted her little brown hands more tightly and managed to smile with a princess-like indifference and weariness as she cooed in her "Turkish" accent.

"Get out, nothing to get ze fortune told. Women and men must pay 25 cents to learn past, present and future."

Charity Work Not Red Cross Aim

Mrs. M. P. Downs, Red Cross nurse, today issued the following statement: "Since there are so many people who think that I am in charge of the Associated Charity work I wish to make this statement in regard to it. I have no connection with it. My work is the Red Cross public health nursing service, and my salary is paid by the Red Cross, the school board. The service is for every citizen of this community, and not for charity alone. When I find people in my work who need help, I refer them to the chairman of the charity board just as any other person would do.

"In regarding to the clothing which asked for Sunday thru the Pampa News, which was further misleading to some, I was asked by the chairman of the charity board to do this when I referred the case to him. I did that just as a human being wanting to help children in want, and not in any official capacity."

Sandino's Men Keep Under Cover

MANAGUA, Nic., April 18.—(AP)—Marines today believed that followers of General Sandino were keeping within the shelter of the mountainous jungle country to avoid patrols constantly active in northern Nicaragua. No rebels have been encountered for five days. General Sandino was thought to be in hiding with a small band of followers. There was evidence several weeks ago that he was near Murra in northeastern Segovia, but nothing has been heard of his whereabouts since then.

BUILDERS OF PAMPA

The progress and development of any city is the result of the energy and effort of the business men and firms who make it up. The businesses listed on this page are permanent institutions and have contributed in many ways to the upbuilding of Pampa.

This page will appear in the Daily News once each week and will contain something new and interesting each day. A study of its stories will give a new knowledge of the reasons for the individual successes.

FRASER AND DOWNS FIRM IS ONE OF THE BIGGEST BUILDERS OF PAMPA

HAVE BROUGHT LARGE LOANS AND THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TO PAMPA FOR INVESTMENT

W. T. FRASER AND M. P. DOWNS OPERATE A BUSY OFFICE IN SHARP-REYNOLDS BUILDING

The firm of Fraser and Downs, writing insurance, bonds, city and farm loans, is one of the oldest establishments of the city of Pampa. The business was purchased in August of 1926, but the various agencies have been operating in Pampa and handed down from one individual to another for the past 26 years. William T. Fraser and M.

P. Downs, owners of the company, are recognized as two of the leading business men of the city. Both are especially known for their progressiveness, being constant boosters of all good civic movements. Through the means of this firm and their backing, large loans and thousands of dollars from out of the city have been brought here and invested.

W. T. FRASER

Recent changes in the system of operating the business has made it possible for Fraser and Downs to handle any line of business that can be handled by the largest agencies in the state. Their office here is readily recognized as the best equipped of its kind between Amarillo and Wichita Falls.

The officers are now located in the Sharp-Reynolds building on Cuyler street. A visit to these offices will reveal that this is one of the busiest places in the city. The business of the firm has enjoyed a large growth during the last year, and the owners are especially proud of the return and renewal business they enjoy, proving that their services merit continuous dealing with all their customers.

NEWSPAPER BOYS and girls are looking forward to a big time at Childress Friday and Saturday. It will be the occasion of the Panhandle Press Association convention, and particular interest attaches in the fact that it will be the first time in many years that the meeting has been held outside of Amarillo.

Amarillo always proved a courteous and gracious host, or hostess as you would have it, but Childress insisted on being seen and heard by the scribes. The coming meeting is being well advertised, and indications are that Childress will make every effort to make things interesting for the news gang.

The sectional gatherings are always more interesting than the state meeting, since all are acquainted and a more serious atmosphere prevails when the work-time periods are called. Every newspaper in the Panhandle ought to be represented by as many members of its force as possible.

Where Oil Isn't

It seems remarkable that scores of wells are drilled in the steady effort to find oil in certain sections, particularly in the Southwest, in the central portion of Texas. Many millions have been distributed among the hundreds of wild-eyed no oil or not enough to pay cat wells which have produced expenses. But it is all in the game, and while geologists usually make the locations, much of the drilling is done in hope, not even remote surety.

Of 24,142 wells drilled last year, 7,210 or 29.9 per cent turned out as "dusters," says The Empire. The average cost per well is estimated at $35,000, making the total cost about $25,000,000 to find where oil is not.

Ordinarily, 25 per cent of wells drilled are dry holes, but wildcatting in the early part of 1927 was unusually active. Total completions, however, were about 5,200 less than in 1926, which was the peak year for such activities.

Over-production did not seriously curtail wildcatting.

Modern Collegians

"Debunked" is a word somewhat in disrepute among enemies or critics of H. L. Mencken and that school of thinkers and alleged philosophers.

But the word is applied to the college student bodies in general rather aptly by C. H. Clapp, president of the University of Montana. He attributes much of the blase attitude of modern youth to their freedom from the old prejudices and ignorance that dominated students of other days in their undergraduate years.

To let him sum it up: "The collegian of today is just as willing to lay down his life for the spirit of adventure, for a belief, or to discover a tick-fever serum, as in the days of 1917 or 1861; but is not quite so sure that his side is right and doesn't care about converting the rest of the world

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Something is going to happen to Senator William E. Borah at the Republican national convention. Borah will either emerge from it with more prestige and influence than he has ever had before or else he will lose a great deal of what he has now.

If the first of those things happens to Borah it will be because he has made a splendid "go through" fight on the issues which he regards as the most important in American government and has either battered down the opposition of party politicians or has gone down fighting hard after letting the whole wide world know that Borah was there to his own point of view". . . Above all, he is courageous, self-possessed, and is free from fears and taboos even to the extent of becoming discourteous.

To which we would add that there never was such wide spread general information and as little specific scholarship in the young life of a nation.

with his fists. Because of the odds against him, there's a moral victory for him either way.

The other alternative is that Borah's belligerent attitude will fizzle out; that he will allow himself to become, little more than one of those present at Kansas City.

All this does not concern the fact that Borah has been entered as a presidential candidate by his devoted home state of Idaho. Unless the first part of June finds his party in all unexpectedly terrible fright, Borah's chances of nomination will be the slimmest. He might enhance those chances by his performance at the convention, but probably not a great deal.

The story is that Borah must simply make good or fall a great deal in the estimation of his friends.

The two issues which Borah has taken to himself are prohibition enforcement and the Teapot Dome campaign funds scandal. These are the very two issues which the party politicians are most anxious to keep quiet about.

But Borah has promised not to keep quiet about them. He has promised to wage a real battle to see that they aren't buried and ignored. Possibly he hasn't made the outright promise to raise the roof of the convention hall, but he has gone far enough to cause those who believe in him to expect it of him. He can go forward to glory, but the prospect is dismal if he turns back.

One commonly hears in Washington and elsewhere that Borah "never fights through on anything." His worst critics call him a "trimmer." They assert either that he has lost his power to carry any struggle to a finish or that he is forever considering himself as a presidential candidate and thus pulling his punches.

Now it is quite true that neither of those explanations can be proved, but it is also true that Borah has often disappointed those who expected a great deal of him. The progressive element once thought that he might become their great leader, but they have long ago given up hope and Borah is not a great deal more popular with them than with the standpatters in his party. Borah has maintained his Republicanism, but it is distinctly a Borah brand.

Secretary of Labor Davis says the fact that a million men are out of work is not a grave situation, according to a dispatch. Of course that depends largely on whether or not you're one of that million.

The English people were amazed to find Henry Ford human and even genial. Probably they expected to see a mechanic with a carburetor sticking out of one pocket and a piston out of another. But the chances are that if King George ever came to America somebody would ask him where he left his crown.

REFLECTION

When the kids are busy singing
On the gate and pearly singing
When the mother's humming ditties
As she works about the place
When I know by all the clatter
That there's nothing much the mater
I can whistle at my labor
And can keep a smiling face.

Oh I'm on my toes and snappy
When the little home is happy,
And I love them winking kisses
Through the window as I go;
When the mother isn't sighing,
And no little one is crying
It's a bright world and a good world
And a merry world I know.

But if care I've left behind me
Then my tasks must ever find me
Lacking strength of finer endeavor
And a dreamer so distressed,
For the strength of every battle
Comes from little children's prattle
And it's only when they're happy
That their daddy's at his best.

State Conservatory Is Suggested Today
at Amarillo Meeting

AMARILLO, April 18.—(AP)—William E. Jones, head of the music department of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, today suggested to the Texas Federation of Music clubs in convention here that a move be launched for a state conservatory.

"There are schools in Texas where one may learn about hogs—why not a school where one may learn about music?" he asked.

It was voted that the suggestion be put in a resolution and brought before the delegates tomorrow for a vote.

Musical education was the theme of today's session. The convention will close tomorrow with the election of officers.

Many Fiddlers In Amarillo Contest

AMARILLO, April 19.—About twenty-five counties will participate in the Old Fiddlers' contest to be staged in Amarillo Friday, April 27, 8 p. m. and eliminations in several counties are now under way.

Three hundred dollars in cash prizes will be awarded, the capital prize being $100, and other cash prizes. In addition to the cash awards, special prizes will be given for stunt fiddling and other features. The program will be varied and entertaining.

Reservations for tickets for out-of-town people may be made now by writing R. T. (Bob) Emmett, secretary of the Tri-State Fair association 308 1-2 Polk street, Amarillo. Prizes are announced as follows: 50c. The grand $1. The contest will not open in Amarillo until Tuesday, April 24, thus assuring out-of-town patrons choice reservations.

Dr. O. H. Loyd, in charge of the program, announces that the contest will not be broadcast.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Hunter of Amarillo visited friends here yesterday. Mr. Hunter was a member of last year's local baseball team.

Purvis Meadow, farmer east of here, has purchased from Doc Colgrove a 20-foot Holt combine and a Hart-Parr tractor.

R. H. Jones of Borger was a business visitor here yesterday.

CHURCH--

W. R. Ellis of Panhandle visited here yesterday.

Name, by the choir of the Pampa Catholic church.

Those assisting Bishop Gerken in the ceremony were M. G. French, pastor of the Pampa and White Deer churches, Rev. Charles J. Dvorak of Childrens C. Gutierrez of Amarillo, J. Krukert of Plainview, F. X. Press of Groom, J. J. Dolje of Umbarger, and J. Mahoney of Cleveland.

After the ceremony at the church, a reception dinner was given at the Schneider hotel by the local church committee and the choir in honor of the visitors.

Short addresses were made by M. Chamber of Commerce and by F. M. K. Brown as president of the Pampa Gwin, city manager.

The church will be completed within the next 30 days.

DICKEY---

cy, Bishop Dickey had given to the church 21 years of educational service including eight as a professor at Emory College and thirteen as president of the same institution.

There followed a pastorate of three years at Grace Church, Atlanta, after which Bishop Dickey returned to Emory College as President in 1922 and served in that office until 1925. His thirteen-year tenure of the president's chair is a record in the history of the institution.

Returning to pastoral work, Bishop Dickey served the First Church, Atlanta, five years and during 1921 was secretary of education of the North Georgia Conference. He was assigned as pastor of the First Church, Griffin, Ga., for 1922, but in May of the same year at the general conference at Hot Springs, Ark., he was elected bishop.

Bishop Dickey's ability as a leader was recognized on numerous occasions when the church honored him by electing him as representative to important conferences. He was chosen a member of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, four times.

In 1910 the general conference elected him general secretary of education, but he declined. The next year he was chosen delegate to the Fourth Ecumenical Methodist Conference at Toronto and received a similar honor in 1921 when he was elected delegate to the Fifth Ecumenical Conference held in London. He was made a member of the unification committee in 1918.

After his elevation to the episcopacy Bishop Dickey labored among the people of Texas and New Mexico for four years and then transferred to the district comprising the Methodist conferences of Illinois, Kentucky, and West Virginia.

In September 1891, Bishop Dickey married Miss Jessie Monroe of Quincy, Florida.

Tomorrow afternoon children between one and two will be given a free physical examination, while children between the ages of two and three will be examined Friday afternoon. Mrs. H. F. Hicks, dentist, will be present Friday afternoon and will give a free examination of the teeth.

The program for this evening includes:

Song and dance by Baker school children.

Eight-hand piano selections by Mrs. Nina McSkimming, Mrs. Marvin Lewis, Laverne Lavender, and Dwight Price.

Dance, Miss Catherine Vincent.

Quartet sections by members of Miss Carter's high school glee club.

Dance, Miss Claudia Artbury.

Great Pitching Decisive Factor in Major Leagues

(By The Associated Press) Three pitchers of the holdout variety in the big leagues were still respecting their distance from their respective clubs today although the campaign already a week old.

An effort by President McDiarmid of Cincinnati to smooth out the wrinkle of a dispute with Pete Donohue in a conference yesterday was unsuccessful.

Donohue said he was returning to his Texas home while McDiarmid wished him the best of luck. The pitcher balked at a reduction in salary.

Urban Shocker, the spitball veteran of the Yankees, is still engaged in a belated training siege at the St. Louis ball park waiting for a move from the New York office to reopen negotiations.

The other prodigal, Vic Aldridge, has ignored the call of the New York Giants and it begins to look like Ed Whitford took the worst of the deal which sent Burrell Grimes to Pittsburgh in return for the current holdout.

The Chicago Cubs had to go ten innings to break the magic of the great Alexander for a 3 to 2 verdict over St. Louis Percy Lee Jones held the Cardinals to five safeties, three of which were grouped in the third inning. The Chicago southpaw closed a single in the tenth, went to second on a sacrifice, and Donohue's leg to the plate with the winning run on a timely single injected by Kiki Cuyler.

Taking advantage of ragged fielding by the Tigers, the Cleveland Indians heaped a 6 to 4 setback on Detroit Manager Moriarty of the Bengals. Benched Bob Fothergill because of a batting slump, Earl Brown took the place with the winning run on a timely single injected by Kiki Cuyler.

Behind the steady pitching of Ted Lyons, former Baylor university star the Chicago White Sox trounced the Browns by 4 to 2. St. Louis outfit Chicago, 10 to 9, but Lyons tightened at critical times to prevent scoring. Nine St. Louis players were left stranded on the bases.

Cold weather and rain kept the other members of the majors idle.

Manager Wilbert Robertson of Brooklyn sent a protest to John A. Heydler, national league president, on the 3 to 1 victory of the Braves on Monday. Robertson complained that pitcher Charley Robertson of Boston had used a "glue" ball on the Braves. The Brooklyn pilot declared Robertson was allowed to continue in the game after the umpire discarded the glove with the "glue" discarded. Robertson said he wanted to know why Robertson was not put out of the game instead of continuing with another glove.

White Deer Man Badly Hurt When Pipeline Bursts

Oscar Phillips of White Deer, an employee of the Schaefer Oil company, pipeline department, is at the Pampa hospital suffering with a broken leg, broken arm and other injuries.

The injured man was working on a pipe-line on the Schaefer ranch when back pressure of gas caused an explosion. He was buried into the air and struck by the flying pipe. He was alone at the time of the accident. He was found by Doc Colver, who was passing on the road near the line at the time of the accident, and brought to the Pampa hospital.

New Locations Are Made in Edge of Gray County Pools

The Southland Oil corporation has made a location to drill a well in the west 193 acres of section 180, block B-2, in the Case lease. This location is directly west of the Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 1 Case in the same section and directly north of the Edwards et al's No. 1 Case in section 162 of the same block, which is flowing from around a lost bit.

Travis and associates made a location to drill No. 1 L. H. Webb in the northwest corner of section 43, block 25, south-eastern Gray county, a half-mile east of the Travis No. 1 Back in section 44 of the same block, which is a producer.

A new location has been made by the Magnolia Petroleum company to drill its No. 2 Boxers in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 63, block B-2 1/2, the McGee pool.

The derrick is already on the ground for the Parson et al's No. 1-Morse in the northwest corner of the north-half of the northeast quarter of section 51, block 23, southeast Gray county. This location is northwest of the Nabob well in section 58, block 25.

Chester Meadows of Miami has taken the Miami agency for Hotchkiss tractors. Mr. Colver, local agent, delivered a tractor to Miami yesterday.

Mrs. E. A. Domastan is visiting with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Coe, who is seriously ill.

THE FINISHING TOUCH.

Payne Spurts to Head Marathon by Over Two Hours

CHELSEA, Okla., April 18.—(AP)—Encouraged by rooters from his home town, Andrew Payne again has taken over the leadership in the cross-country marathon.

The Claremore youth led the field of 77 in the 49.7 mile jaunt from Tulsa yesterday to finish in 7:23:22, forcing Peter Gavuzzi of Southampton, Eng., from the lead in elapsed time. This gave Payne a total of 279:10:52 for the 1,689.6 miles from Los Angeles to Tulsa, who shaved the Oklahoma runner into second place several days ago. He needed 10 hours, 26 minutes and 10 seconds, giving him a mark of 23:07:15, nearly two hours more than Payne. The Caravan today had a 51 mile trek to Miami.

Shoots Husband but Lacks Taxi Fare to Pay for Flight

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—(AP)—Lack of money to pay charges on a taxicab which carried her, exchequered and dished away from where she is accused of slaying her husband yesterday, led to the arrest last night of Mrs. Nadine Weimert, 28, on a charge of murder.

The victim, Bruno Weimert, 47, theatre orchestra leader, was shot to death in the couple's hotel apartment following a heated argument with his red-haired wife. Other roomers heard the shots but were unable to halt the woman, who, fleeing down a rear stairway, flagged a taxi and drove, apparently aimlessly, to a point fifteen miles from Louisville. She then discovered she had no money and returned to the city where she obtained a fur coat from a friend, pledging the garment with the cab company for the fare.

Other drivers in the office recognized her and trailed her to a restaurant after notifying police. Arrested, she is said to have confessed.

Stutz Will Be Pitted Against Big French Automobile

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 18.—(AP)—A $25,000 wager over the relative merits of a Stutz Black Hawk and a French Hispano-Suiza automobile was the prize for which two privately owned stock cars lined up at one o'clock today for the start of a 24-hour race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The Stutz is the property of P. E. Meskovich of Indianapolis while the Hispano-Suiza belongs to C. T. Weymann of Paris, France. Plans for the contest were made in Paris nearly a year ago while Meskovich, president of the Stutz Motor Car, was in conversation with Weymann.

Gil Andersen and Tom Rooney, veteran American race drivers, were to alternate the wheel of the Stutz. Weymann and Robert Stock were to pilot the French machine.

Hitters of Texas League at Last Break Into Form

Hitters of the Texas league came to their own yesterday. Cheered by plaudits of several first-day crowds they ambushed a flock of pitchers from the opening gun, drove some to the showers, and generally seemed to be free from the jinx which hurlers had held over them of late.

One great pitching performance was recorded, however. At Waco, Klidde Carelton of Houston let the Cubs down with two safeties, one a double by Wol-gant and the other a single by Black-berly. Carelton apparently had everything a good pitcher should have.

Living up to pre-season dope which picked them as a contender for championship honors this year, the Buffs jumped on the offerings of Earl Caldwell, drove out 17 hits, and tucked away a 5 to 0 victory. The Houston score was held down by Caldwell's good work in the pinches and by sensational fielding of the Cubs.

One of the best games from the spectator's standpoint was between the Shreveport Sports and the Wichita Falls Spudders at the former's stronghold. It ended in a 10 to 10 tie when called on account of darkness. The Sports led by four runs at the opening of the ninth inning, but the Spudders sluggers and a cracking Sport defense combined to wipe out the lead and put the Wichitans on the long end of a 10 to 9 count.

Whelan's double, a sacrifice, and wild pitch enabled Shreveport to tie the score in its half of the frame.

The Fort Worth Cats and the Dallas Steers likewise engaged in a slug-ging duel, with the former getting 16 safeties and the latter 10, but the Panthers were playing behind the veteran Joe Pate, who knew when and how to bear down and prevent scoring. Fort Worth assumed the lead in the first inning, added to their lead in the twenty thereafter, and won in a walk 10 to 3.

A garrison finish enabled the Beaumont Exporters to cop the first game of the season at Beaumont from the San Antonio Bears 7 to 6. Coming into the ninth one run behind, the Exporters counted twice on a couple of doubles and a single.

Bootleggers Invited to Tax Conference

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—(AP)—Bootleggers of Tacoma and Southwest Washington have been invited to a conference in Tacoma tomorrow. Roy C. Lyle, Pacific northwest prohibition administrator revealed here today.

The purpose of the meeting is to offer the law violators an opportunity to compromise on their taxes for which they are liable under an old statute providing taxation for the manufacture and sale of liquor. Persons invited to the conference have been convicted recorders of violators.

Several hundred violators of the national prohibition act in Tacoma and vicinity have been advised that they will be given an opportunity to compromise on their tax liabilities if they so desire. Lyle's notice read, "Before civil suit is instituted for the full amount of the assessment. Many violators have received notices to pay taxes for amounts ranging from $500 to $5,000."

NO BACK-SEAT DRIVING IN THIS DIVORCE PLEA

Hubby Made Love to Another Woman While Wife Insisted on Being Chauffeur

LOS Angeles, April 18.—(AP)—If a woman insists on driving the family automobile she isn't entitled to a divorce when her husband makes love to a woman in the back seat.

So a superior court judge ruled yesterday in awarding a divorce decree to John Albert Wilkinson. Mrs. E. Sue Wilkinson had brought suit for a divorce accusing her husband of making love to a woman in the rear seat of her car while Mrs. Wilkinson drove Wilkinson, in a counter complaint, said his wife had insisted upon driving and that she had been more cruel than he.

waiting for formulation of the Tiler plans so she might act to aid them. The ice-breaking steamer Mont-calm, which the Canadian government sent to the fliers aid last Friday, was recalled yesterday when the practicability of taking aid to Greenly Island by air was proved.

Hope to Ship Plane

How this would affect the plans of the German fliers was uncertain. It was presumed their decision to leave the Bremen was prompted by the hope it could be shipped out on the Montcalm.

The little steamer had been fighting a losing battle with the ice floes in Belle Isle Straits. At one time it was only 30 miles from its destination but the wind turned and swept it back.

Major Fitzmaurice, said dispatches from Clarke City, was again the rick-eting Irishman he had been pictured.

Shaved and bathed for the first time since he took off from Ireland almost a week ago, he appeared happy and carefree, despite the amazing experiences he had gone through both in the ocean flight and his attempt to fly out to civilization.

From various sources, additional details of the hazards through which the Bremen passed in the first east-to-west crossing of the North Atlantic have been revealed.

Through the Point Armour radio station near Greenly Island Baron Huenefeld furnished the Marconi Wireless company with a short description of the flight.

Experiences Awful "Bremen time flight 36 hours and half," said his message, "struck heavy fog off Newfoundland coast. Forced fly above. Found impossible. Fog at two thousand feet high. Descended fifty feet of waves. Had to mount again. Very high seas. Sleered, went whole night. Heavy storm. Saw stars occasionally. At dawn flew over wooded country. Could not locate position. Also flew over large river the mountain loomed ahead. Rising, continued flight. At noon saw lighthouse, thought to be steamer. Landed quite exhausted, but happy.

Miss Greta Ferris, a nurse at the Greenell Mission, 15 miles from where the plane landed sent a graphic story to the Times-Globe and Telegraph-Journal of Saint John. N. B., telling of the aviators, flight with the elements their landing and their conduct.

Baron Huenefeld, Miss Ferris said when he feared they were going to fail in their flight, was ready to kill his two companions and himself. He was near exhaustion when the plane landed, her story said.

"Thank God," in German and lost Baldonnell Irish, she said, "was the first exclamation of all three fliers when they landed."
