LINDY'S FLIGHT WITH SERUM CRITICISED

Lack of Workers Slows Down Chamber of Commerce Campaign

LOCAL ANNUAL CAMPAIGN NOW HALF FINISHED

Rainy Weather Brings Delay at Middle of Effort

POSTPONEMENTS ADD DIFFICULTY

Success Seen When All Business Men Are Solicited

The banquet which was to have been held Friday evening at the Pampa at the conclusion of the Chamber of Commerce membership drive has been postponed. It is announced this afternoon. Completion of the drive is being delayed by inclement weather.

With the work about half done, the Chamber of Commerce membership and finance drive slowed down today with a few solicitors combating the inclement weather.

Whether this delay will result in lengthening of the drive, scheduled to end Friday evening at a banquet, had not been determined at noon today.

Jack of workers in the field, together with a number of postponements of pledge making by business men, were principal factors in the slow-down today. Most of those seen by the solicitors have gladly taken out memberships, and it is believed that thorough canvassing will result in early completion of the campaign.

The responses during the first two days of the drive were very gratifying. More than $7,000 of the $14,000 budget for the year has been pledged. The total membership desired, set at 600 members, is still far short of attainment however.

Team Captains J. H. Lavender and Scott Barcus state that the drive will be pressed forward as rapidly as possible. It is desired to complete the campaign before the coming of Geo. W. Briggs of Eastland, the new manager of the Chamber of Commerce, next Tuesday. Mr. Briggs had wired the directors that he will arrive Tuesday to assume charge of the Chamber. He is one of the best known and most successful managers in Texas, and with the annual budget raised before he arrives, he will be able to inaugurate his program without wasting time in financing the activities.

Humble Tanker In Flames After Heavy Explosion

NEW YORK, April 26.—(P)—The American oil tanker Overbrook caught fire following an explosion in the pump room while off the Florida coast early this morning. A message to the owners, the Gladstone Transportation company, said that the blaze was subsiding.

The tanker Fred W. Weller had rescued all of the 34 men in the Overbrook crew, who left their burning ship in life boats. The Weller was standing by to await the arrival of a coast guard cutter to which the men were to be transferred.

HOUSTON, April 26.—(P)—The Overbrook cleared from Texas City last Saturday with approximately 70,000 barrels of crude oil for New York, according to the marine department; of the Humble Oil and Refining company, which has the vessel under lease.

The tanker is commanded by J. S. Hollings.

The Fred W. Weller left Texas City 24 hours after the Overbrook according to Humble officials. This vessel is owned and operated by the Humble company.

F. W. Dye of Tulsa is here on business this week.

George Shuffield transacted business in Amarillo yesterday.

Nine Big Questions Pending On Calendar of M. E. Conference

Proposals of unusual importance will be considered by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church when it meets in Kansas City during May. Dr. E. J. Wade (left), is general secretary of the conference. Bishop E. L. Waldorf (upper right) of Kansas City is the official host and Dr. J. D. Hingley (lower right), will present a new ministerial pension plan.

By BISHOP EDWIN H. HUGHES (Methodist Episcopal Church) CHICAGO, April 26.—(P)—The Methodist Episcopal general conference at Kansas City starting May 1 will be composed of more than 800 delegates, one half preachers one half laymen. The most interesting and important matters for the 1928 gathering are: The question of admitting laymen to the annual conferences. The possible reorganization of the benevolent organizations of the church. The consolidation of the church papers—making a less number of Advocates. The question of electing or nominating to the bishops for appointment of district superintendents. The discussion of the problem of war and peace. Changing the tenure of office of the bishops, who, under the present system are elected for life. The question of continuing a contributing, or general editor for all the official Advocates. The election of native bishops, possibly by the central conferences, especially in China. The election of new bishops by the general conference itself. Five bishops retire by the age limit. Will Episcopal areas be decreased, or will new bishops be elected?

IDEAL WIVES ONLY THREE OUT OF TEN

Well Equipped Kitchens Help to Create Home Makers, However

CHICAGO, April 26.—(P)—Man's chances of getting an ideal wife are only 3 out of 10. Mrs. Glarence G. Goodwin, past president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, has computed.

"American wives fall into five classes," said Mrs. Goodwin addressing a woman's meeting. She divided them as follows:

Home-maker, or "ideal" type	30 per cent.
Jazz, or "can opener" type	20
Nagging type	20
Drudge type	15
Baby doll type	15

Most women would turn out to be good home-makers, she said, if they were supplied with the "makings" which she described as "good plumbing, well-built kitchens and labor-saving devices of all sorts."

Lad Hits Shell With Hammer—Loses Finger by Amputation

After Earl Meeker, 11 years old was taken to the hospital last night it was found necessary to amputate one of the fingers on his left hand. The little lad, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Meeker, residing at the Shaw hotel, was playing with a 22-calibre bullet and when he hit it with a hammer the accident occurred.

He is doing well at the hospital and seems to feel none the worse of his accident, but says it has taught him a lesson about what to play with.

HARMONY NOT YET ACHIEVED BY DEMOCRATS

Moody and Davidson Hold Conference Today

GO TO DALLAS AFTER MEETING

Propose Delegation for Prohibition, Not Candidate

AUSTIN, April 26.—(P)—Governor Moody's conference with Lynch Davidson, chairman of the Texas "harmony" Democrats, closed abruptly here Thursday with both leaders dashing to a railway station.

Mr. Moody left word at his office that he had gone to Dallas and Mr. Davidson presumably accompanied him.

The "Harmony" chieftains discussed what action now is necessary to assure a united party front, already indicated in statements from other factions that all wings had come together under a general agreement in essence pointing to a delegation instructed for prohibition but not against individuals. Neither would make any statement.

Go to Dallas The belief here was that Davidson and the governor went to Dallas to talk to "ultra-dry" lieutenants and further the campaign for an unbound group of delegates.

DALLAS, April 26.—(P)—The Texas political situation continues to ferment, notwithstanding the "harmony" brought about through the efforts of Governor Moody's wing of the party Tuesday.

The latest pyrotechnics came from the pen of Judge William E. Hawkins of Breckenridge, who will oppose Mr. Moody for the Democratic nomination for Governor, in a statement received here last night in which he condemned in the strongest terms what he styled the "subject surrender of the constitutional Democrats."

At the same time it was announced that Governor Moody would appear here on the night of May 3 to address the voters of Dallas county and possibly those of Ellis and Rockwall in the interest of Democrats of this county, for the purpose of "awakening in their precinct conventions of May 5," as C. C. Renfro of Dallas, to whom the governor wired acceptance of the invitation, put it.

Moody to Speak Governor Moody, who has been endorsed by the Democrats of Texas for the chairmanship of the Texas delegation to the national convention at Houston, will speak here for an uncommitted Texas delegation, as to candidates, Mr. Renfro explained.

Meanwhile it was understood that State Senator Thomas B. Love was still unreconciled to desertion of the prohibition banner along with a number of other ardent opponents of governor Ritchie.

Pointing to the naming of Jesse H. Jones of Houston as second choice of the Tennessee Democrats, who will first pay a complimentary vote to a favorite son, national committeeman J. C. Adams urged the alignment of Texas delegation behind the Democratic treasurer as its choice for the presidential nomination. At the same time judge M. N. Crestman of Dallas issued a statement declaring that only Governor Smith and Senator Jim Reed of Missouri have any show for the nomination and urging Texas Democrats to make their choice now between the two.

Out of Work, Man Hangs Boy, Then Takes Own Life CHICAGO, April 25.—(P)—A man and a boy were found dead by hanging in a cemetery at River Grove yesterday. A note, unsigned, said the writer had been unable to find work.

The man was about 38 years old, and his body was found hanging from a tree. At his feet was the body of a five-year-old boy, apparently his son, who had hanged and then cut down.

"I am taking the one I love best in this world with me," said the note.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Shuler of Oklahoma City are visiting with friends here this week.

Where Explosion Killed Nine

The wreckage of the plant of the Alexander Aircraft Co., in Denver, in which nine persons lost their lives in an explosion and fire, is pictured above. Four investigations are under way in an attempt to fix responsibility for the blast, which occurred in a workroom where airplane wings were being sprayed with highly inflammable lacquer.

Bedridden Invalid, Famous Genius in Many Arts, Dies Today at 57

C. Lee Cook Invented Things to Pay for An Education—Achieved Much in Art and Literature

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26.—(P)—C. Lee Cook, 57, "The genius who never walked" died last night after a short illness.

Although an invalid since he was one year old, Mr. Cook was known internationally for his achievements as a scholar, an inventor and an artist. He was an authority on law, languages, history, and art.

Taken from school at seven because his parents believed he would not live, Mr. Cook at eight had built a steam engine that worked. For twelve years he educated himself and worked on the average of seventeen hours a day at a lathe of his own design, producing a product form which he obtained money to continue his work and experiments. He invented a device for locomotives to prevent the escape of steam from cylinders and the first engine equipped with it ran 175,000 miles without repair. His metallic packing was used on vessels of the emergency fleet during the world war. He built lathes for shells and for heavy artillery under contracts for France.

His oil paintings have been hung in prominent art centers of this country and Europe. When one year old he was stricken with muscular stagnation. When he was fourteen he developed curvature of the spine. Although beset by these handicaps he worked seventeen hours a day continually, always in a wheel chair.

In a recent magazine interview he declared his aim in life was to learn more to help others.

Disposal Plant to Be Completed in Short Time

With the exception of the laying of a small amount of six and eight-inch pipe, work on the new sewer system in south Pampa has been completed by the Jordan Construction company. Work will now commence on the lines in the north part of the city, which includes 18,400 feet of 6-inch pipe and 2,250 feet of 8-inch pipe.

Practically all the concrete has been poured in the filter bed at the disposal plant and the tile base is being set. Half the concrete in the disposal plant proper has been poured and is being rushed to completion by a large gang of men.

If weather conditions continue favorable, it is expected that the work will be completed by June 15. Up to this time construction work has cost $51,744.94, which has been paid out for that purpose.

A check up of the amount of large size tile laid to date shows 11,020 feet of 12-inch and 8,656 feet of 10-inch. When completed, the system will have cost $110,357.69 and will accommodate a city of 20,000 population.

Ina Beth Green Dies Suddenly

Ina Beth Green, 3 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Green, who live eight miles east of here, died at her parents' home at 1:30 this morning. She had been ill but a few days and death was unexpected.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon.

CANADA COULD HAVE PROVIDED NECESSARY AID

Officials Call Trip "Vulgar" Stunt for Publicity

LINDBERGH IS NOT BLAMED

Hero's Farewell Paid to Bennett By Regiment

MONTREAL, April 26.—(P)—(By the Canadian Press)—Severe criticism of the flight to Quebec for the treatment of Floyd Bennett has been made by premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec and Provincial Secretary David, but Mr. David made plain that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's part in the flight was entirely admirable.

In an address, the premier asserted that the flight was entirely unnecessary as there was plenty of serum in Canada. Mr. David, expanding on this statement, expressed the belief that the flight was a vulgar and spectacular publicity stunt in which unnamed persons had made use of Col. Lindbergh, himself entirely innocent of wrong doing, to further their selfish aims.

Call the Bluff "As for Col. Lindbergh," said the provincial secretary, "I have the utmost respect and admiration for him. He reflects the bravery of youth. But why this bluff? and especially this bluff perpetrated by the use of an American word figure?"

"I wish to make it quite clear that I am not anti-American, but I cannot stomach this way of taking profit of a tragic situation under the mask of charity. Here we have everything that is necessary and we do not need them to come from the United States to bring us serum. We can get along without American doctors, be they the most accomplished specialists of that great country."

Quebec, April 26.—(P)—Canada gave a hero's farewell today to Floyd Bennett as his body was started toward its resting place in the national cemetery of the United States.

Airplanes Gives Salute Circling airplanes, dipping in salute above the cortege, honored the man whose exploits had brought the science of flying fresh laurels, while slowly through the tortuous streets of the ancient city rumbled the gun carriage bearing the body.

The relay twenty-second regiment was his escort and his tribute came with the tears of the men, women and children who with bowed heads quietly took their places in the ever-lengthening procession as it moved toward a waiting train.

A small group had assembled in the chapel of the Jeffrey Hale hospital, where the aviator who had conquered the frozen north in the first flight to the pole died yesterday.

As the coffin was borne out to be placed on the flag-draped gun carriage, a detachment of the twenty-second presented arms in salute.

Byrd Is On Foot The cortege slowly moved away, winding through the streets. Commander Byrd, with officers of the regiment and of the military area, followed on foot. Mrs. Bennett and consul and Mrs. E. H. Dennison, entered a closed carriage for the sad journey.

Berlin, April 26.—(P)—The death of Floyd Bennett has aroused profound sympathy throughout Germany and this found expression in tribute paid (see CANADA COULD, Page 2)

Artic region. Commander Byrd announced that the airplane he would use in his attempted flight over the south pole would be named "The Floyd Bennett."

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—The first thought of offering aid to Floyd Bennett from Rockefeller Institute, it was learned today, originated in the mind of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who was deeply moved by the plight of the famous aviator.

QUEBEC, April 26.—(AP)—Floyd Bennett, who piloted the first plane to reach the north pole, will be en route to the north pole, will rest near the discoverer of the pole. He is to be buried tomorrow in Arlington national cemetery outside Washington.

Under Military Escort. Upon its arrival at New York the casket will be taken under military and police escort from the Grand Central Station to Pennsylvania station for the trip to Washington which begins three hours later.

Mrs. Bennett first expressed the wish that her husband's body be buried near their home in Brooklyn, but finally consented to let it lie beside America's other heroes at Arlington.

Commander Byrd notified Bennett's 80-year old mother at Lake George, N. J., of her son's death and she plans to meet the funeral party in New York for the trip to Washington.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who risked his life to carry serum from New York to Quebec, returned to New York by plane yesterday. Lindbergh's plane swooped low over the hospital where Bennett's body lay the thunder of his motor plainly audible in the death chamber.

Condolences were received by Mrs. Bennett from the German Ambassador von Pritwitz at Washington and from T. A. Smiddy, Irish Free State minister at Washington.

Commander Byrd was heart broken over his friends death. He refused the offer of friends to send a plane to Quebec for him.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

CHAPTER XXXIII

Sally's sapphire eyes blazed at the man she knew only as "Van," but since they were veiled with a new scrap of black lace to replace the one lost in the storm, the nonchalant New Yorker did not appear to be at all devastated by their fire.

"Thank you for saving my life," she said stiffly, but the man's mocking, admiring attention was fixed upon the delicately young, sweet curves of her mouth, rather than upon the tone of her voice.

"Wonder if you know," he began confidentially, leaning lightly upon his inevitable cane "that you have the most adorable mouth I have ever seen? Of course there are rather adorable details in the pictures of complete loveliness that you present, but really, your lips, like three rose petals—"

"Oh, stop!" Sally cried with childish anger, her small red-sandaled foot stamping the platform. "Why are you always making me, making fun of me? I've begged you to let me alone!"

"Such ingratitude!" the man sighed, really, your lips, like three rose petals—

"Oh, stop!" Sally cried with childish anger, her small red-sandaled foot stamping the platform. "Why are you always making me, making fun of me? I've begged you to let me alone!"

"Such ingratitude!" the man sighed, really, your lips, like three rose petals—

"Again I am forced to forgive you," Van Horne sighed humorously. "I seen always to be forgiving you Sally Ford; You are merely asking a question which is inevitably asked when Enid Barr first bursts upon a startled public."

"She is probably the most beautiful blond in New York society. Those industrious cold cream advertisers would pay her a fortune for the use of her picture and endorsement, but it happens that she has two or three large fortunes of her own, as well as a disgustingly rich husband. Yes, unfortunately for her admirers, she is married, Courtney Barr—even here you must have heard of Courtney Barr—being the lucky man."

"I wonder what she's doing here," Sally whispered, fidgeting with her eyes behind the black lace.

"Oh, I think Courtney's here on political business. The Barrs have always rather fancied themselves as leaders among the Wall Street-makers of presidents. He's hobnobbing with my cousin, the governor, and Enid is probably amusing herself by collecting Americana."

"She must be awfully good," Sally whispered, adoration making her voice lovely and wistful. "She brought all the orphanage children to the carnival yesterday, you know."

"Yes," Van Horne shrugged, arching his brows quizzically. "I confess I was rather stunned, for Enid doesn't go in for personal charity. Huge checks and all that sort of thing—she's endowed some sort of institution for fallen girls, by the way—but it has never seemed to amuse her to play Lady Bountiful in person. Of course she may be nursing a secret passion for child care, and took this means to gratify it where her crowd could not see her about it."

"Hasn't she any children of her own?" Sally asked. "But I suppose she's too young—"

"Not at all," Van Horne laughed. "She's past 30, certainly, though she would never forgive me for saying so. She's never had any children, been married about 13 years, I think."

"Oh, that's too bad!" Sally's voice was tender and wistful. "She'd make such a lovely mother—"

Van Horne interrupted with his throaty, musical laugh, and was in turn interrupted by Gus the Barker's tenor roar.

"Right this way, in-deed, and gentlemen! I want to introduce you to Princess Lalla, world famous crystal-tazer, favorite!"

Sally straightened in her throne-like chair, her little brown hands cupping obediently about the "magic crystal" on the velvet-draped stand before her. Van Horne, with a last ironic chuckle, melted into the crowd, which had surged toward Sally's platform.

When Gus's spiel was finished, the show began. At least a dozen hands shot upward, waving quarters and demanding the first opportunity to learn past, present and future from "Princess Lalla."

She worked hard, conscientiously and cautiously, for she was vividly conscious that both Van Horne and Enid Barr were somewhere in the tent, listening perhaps, whispering about her.

Most of her fear of Enid Barr, which had resulted from the connection of the golden-haired woman with the orphanage children the day before, had evaporated. It was absurd to think that a woman of such wealth and beauty, whose philanthropy had undoubtedly been a gesture of boredom, was seriously interested in one lone little girl who had run away from charity.

It did not even seem odd to Sally that Enid Barr should have paid a second visit to the carnival. Probably Capital City afforded scant amusement for a woman of her sophistication and the carnival, crude and tawdry though it was, was better than nothing.

Since "Princess Lalla" was not a side-show all by herself, but only one of many attractions in the Palace of Wonders, Gus never made any attempt to cajole reluctant "trubers" into surrounding their quarters for a glimpse of "past, present and future," but always bustled his crowd on to the next platform—"Pitty Sings"—as soon as the first flurry of interest had died down and the crowd had become desultive.

By this method, those who were fairly or belligerently dissatisfied with Sally's crystal-gazing, at which she was becoming more adept with each performance, were quickly placated by the sight of new wonders, for which no extra charge was made.

Sally was straightening the black velvet drapery which covered the crystal stand, preparatory to returning to the dress tent for a rest between shows, when a lovely, lilting voice, with a ripple of amusement in it, made her gasp with surprise and consternation.

"Am I too late to have my fortune told?" Enid Barr, gazing up at Sally with her golden head tilted provocatively to one side, was immediately below the startled crystal-gazer, one of her exquisite small hands swinging the silvery-green felt hat which Sally had so much admired the day before.

"Oh, no!" Sally fluttered, both delighted and frightened at this opportunity to talk with the most beautiful creature she had ever seen. Just in time she remembered her accent. "What do you mean by honor to ascend?"

Laughing at herself, and looking over her shoulder to see that she was not observed by anyone who knew her, Enid Barr ran lightly up the steps and slipped into the little camp chair opposite Sally. Her small white hands, with their exquisite nails glistening in the light from the center gas jet, hovered over the crystal, touching it tentatively, with the curiosity of a child becoming acquainted with a new toy.

Sally leaned forward, her own hands rapped about the crystal, her eyes brooding upon it behind the little black veil, her mouth pursed with sweet seriousness.

"You are—what you call it?—psychic," Sally chanted in the quaint, mincing voice with which she had been taught to make her revelations. "Ze crystal, she is va-ry clear for ze I see so-o-o-much!" She hesitated, wondering just how much of Van Horne's confidences about this beautiful woman she dared appropriate. Would Van Horne give her away? Then, as if drawn by a powerful magnet, she raised her eyes suddenly and met those of Van Horne, who was leaning nonchalantly against the center-pole of the tent. He nodded, smiled his curious, quizzical smile and slowly winked his right eye. She had his permission.

"Please hurry" Enid Barr commanded arrogantly. "I'm just dying to know what you see about me in that crystal."

"I see a beeg, beeg city," Sally intoned dreamily, her eyes again fixed upon the crystal. "I see you there, in beeg, beeg house. Much money. And behind you I see a man—your husband, no?"

"Yes, I am married," Enid Barr laughed. "Since you see so much, suppose you tell me my name."

"I see—" Sally frowned, but her heart was pounding at her audacity. "Ze letter E and ze letter E—no, B! I see abeen, beeg place—not your house—with ma-ny, ma-ny girls holding out zeir arms to you. You help zem. You are va-ry, va-ry good."

"Rot!" Enid Barr laughed, but a bright flush of pleasure spread over her fair face. "One has to do something with 'much money,' doesn't one? Listen, Princess Lalla, if that is really your name; give to me you are a real crystal-gazer! Tell me something I'd give almost anything to know—" She leaned forward tensely, her violet-blue eyes darkening with excitement and appeal until they were almost the color of Sally's.

"And what's that, Enid?" a mocking, amused voice inquired. "Do you want to know whether I really love you? How can you ask! Of course I do!"

Enid Barr sprang to her feet so hastily that the camp stool on which she had been sitting overturned, anger and something like fear blazing in her eyes.

"Miss Pampa" Will Be Crowned During Legion Carnival

One of the novelty features of the American Legion benefit carnival to be here soon will be a "Miss Pampa" queen contest open to all young ladies of this vicinity.

All wishing to enter the contest or learn details of it should inquire at the American Legion headquarters. Contestants are urged to file at once. A number are expected to represent oil companies. The contest will officially close Thursday night, May 10, at the carnival grounds, and the winner will be crowned and presented with a $350 diamond solitaire on Friday night at the grounds. The ring is now on display at the Diamond Shop.

Voting boxes will be placed at various points in the business district, and will be in charge of a Legion committee. Standings of candidates will be announced daily.

NOTICE
The Local of the Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers No. 148, have their meetings in the Carpenter's Hall in the Brunow Building on Friday evening of each week at 8 p. m. You are cordially invited to attend.

THIS BEING ELECTION year, the Pampa Daily News will carry much political news emanating from all over the nation. It is with satisfaction that this paper has the most authoritative, most non-partisan political news source in the world—the Associated Press.

Recently a high churchman, in speaking at a press banquet, asserted that "the wisdom of the plan of the Associated Press to band together its nation-wide membership is now openly demonstrated. Its refusal to traffic with tributary or sectional organizations has been amply justified. Newspaper proprietors, publishers, and editors of the North and South, of the Jewish, Roman Catholic, and Protestant faiths, have made common cause in this undertaking with a good conscience. . . . I cannot refrain from wishing that all periodicals, including those belonging to the churches, had learned your lesson. How to be "strong without rage, without overbearing full", commands intellectual respect and instills the moderation which is ultimate power."

This code, it may be said, strongly affects the local policies of member papers. A regard for the public welfare, without assuming the role of community scourge and becoming an administrator of public affairs, is contrary to some of the old blood and thunder ideas of journalism, but the modern policy is in keeping with the better journalism of the day. Freedom of the press is not based on the idea that a newspaper must take the responsibility for governmental details, but upon the idea that the newspapers themselves shall not be fettered by official agencies.

And, to quote Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, "the code of ethics of the Associated Press does not alter when the year of presidential election rolls around, and every candidate holds a serene certainty that the Associated Press will not help or hamper him by becoming an adherent or an opponent."

Property Can Ruin a City (Altus Times-Democrat)

Where do we go from here? That is an appropriate question to apply to Altus just now.

Altus has reached about the limit of expansion unless some of the property that has stood unimproved so long is obtainable for development.

Several vacant properties in Altus could and should be improved now, with modern business structures so much in demand. These properties are too frequently not for sale or held at an exorbitant or prohibitive price. The owner has no intention of developing the property himself but is determined that whoever does will be forced to pay through the nose.

Too often property gets into the hands of men unwilling to either improve it or dispose of it at a fair price. Just such conditions force a city to expand in an unnatural direction or circles the city with a deathchoking band that causes stagnation and retardation.

Frequently the fellow who is holding his for impossible prices, doesn't awake until the town has gone the other way and left his property at lower value. That is hard but nothing more than the just deserts of these men, who in reality are obstructing instead of aiding progress.

Examples of unimproved property retarding the natural growth of a city leads the student to advocate penalty taxes for unimproved property.

The classical example of this human selfishness is that of the French cobbler who owned a property worth about $1,000 but when he discovered Napoleon desired it, he set his price at $2,000. Napoleon met the price and the cobbler doubled his demand. He did this until he was asking the French emperor $50,000 for the property. Not until then did Napoleon become exasperated. Napoleon's retaliation was to buy up all the property around the cobbler, entirely cutting off the cobbler's outlet to the city of Paris and then forbidding trespassing on the emperor's encircling band. The cobbler was utterly ruined, receiving nothing for his property, yet he had been offered $40,000 for it. He died of a broken heart. We don't have examples in Altus of such avarice but we do have too many examples of property priced beyond reason and held by owners who have no intention of ever improving it.

Let's give Altus a fair chance by taking a fair price for property you do not intend to improve.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—At least a third of the administrative executives in the prohibition enforcement system have been weeded out by civil service examinations.

By July, 50 or more of the 150 prohibition administrators, assistant administrators, deputy administrators and other high officers in the 25 prohibition enforcement districts will have been replaced by successful competitors for their jobs. Nine of the 25 administrators are affected, although re-examinations may enable one or two of them to retain their jobs.

Nevertheless, the performance of the men who held these administrative posts by political appointment was far better, when faced with the necessity of proving their qualifications in competition on a merit basis, than that of the 2500 prohibition agents, investigators and inspectors. Prohibition Commissioner James N. Doran complained several months ago that 75 per cent of those rank and filers had failed to pass the written mental exams, with still more to be weeded out by oral exams and characters investigations.

Unless there be some unannounced instance where an administrator on the job was refused reappointment by the Prohibition Unit, after being certified by the Civil Service Commission, the civil service test appears to have been poison for administrators of those enforcement districts with headquarters in Boston, Savannah, Columbus, St. Louis, Fort Worth, Seattle, St. Paul, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The enforcement area involved includes New England, Indiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Minnesota, the Dakotas, part of Wisconsin, Texas, Oregon, Washington, Alaska, California, Nevada and Arizona.

Re-examinations not yet completed affect the administrators jobs in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Ft. Worth, St. Louis, Columbus and Savannah. The incumbent administrators who failed to qualify in the first examinations were eligible to compete in these.

In addition to the nine administrators who were unable to win reappointment, victims of civil service include those who resigned prior to the examinations when they realized they couldn't fulfill the requirements.

Congress passed the law to place prohibition enforcers under civil service with the admitted intent of making an honest, going business out of what had become a national scandal. The law was scheduled to take effect last October. It didn't, except that those not certified by the commission and still on the job are only temporary appointees, for the primary reason that Congress failed to provide enough money for all the examinations.

Pampa Is Second in Canyon Meet

At the district meet held at Canyon last Friday and Saturday, Pampa won second place. Amarillo scored 27 points, while Pampa scored 18 points. Three first places were won by Archie Lee Walstad and Troy Stalls. Archie Lee won first place in both high and low hurdles, and Troy won first place in discus throw. Both of these boys will represent Pampa at Austin in the state meet.

Josephine Lane won second place in Amarillo. The music memory team won second place. They were defeated by Dalhart. Pampa scored 94-3-4 per cent while the Dalhart team scored 100 members and Pampa had seven members which made it harder for the Pampa team to win. Those entering from Pampa are Grace Kite, Anna Mae Fleisher, LaVerne Vickers, LaVerne Twiford, Francis Finley, Paul in Barnard, and Eloise Lane. Each of these children received a silver medal, and they will receive gold medals for having made 100 per cent in the county contest.

SENIOR OF '26 MAKES HONOR ROLL AT CANYON

We are proud to announce that Clara Brown, who graduated from Pampa high school last year, is making first honor roll as the West Texas Teachers college at Canyon. Clara was salutatorian of the senior class last year. She is helping advertise the quality of the Pampa schools. It is true that the reputation of this school shall be determined by its products. The eyes of Pampa high school are upon its graduates.

SALE IS ANNOUNCED

The Fifth Grades of Lamar are planning a sandwich, candy, and fruit sale for Wednesday, the funds of which are to be used in buying a standard picture to leave in our room for next year, and also to help decorate our room. Also, we have started an automobile race in our room, running from New York to San Francisco. We can travel at the rate of two hundred miles a day, but if we talk, our car has a blow-out and gets behind fifty miles, the blinds.

This race will last until school is out, when the losing school must entertain the winners. We are all very interested in our race.

He—They say she has decided to marry a struggling young author.
 She—Well, if she has decided, he may as well stop struggling.

Army and Navy to Play Here

The army and navy will meet in the first pre-season football game to be played on the Ayres field May 4, at 4 o'clock.

Tommie Robinson is captain of the Navy and Bob Kahl is captain of the army. Both teams are in good condition and are evenly matched. The Navy has most of the old team in their back field. The army has many of last year's line men. The army has been practicing in the ball park, while the Navy has been practicing in the Ayres field.

Skeet Roberts, Bob Kahl, Tommie Robinson, Dond Saulsbury, Lloyd Mason, Troy Maness, Elmer Hardin, James Ayres, Gus Green, and Kenneth Bishop are men who were on the last year's team.

The game promises to be very close and interesting.
 Root for the Army! No root for the Navy!

Sophomore Class Gives Program at Chapel Wednesday

The sophomore class rendered a very entertaining program in chapel Wednesday morning.

Vivian Vears played a piano solo, "Old Black Joe," and as an encore she played "Sparklets."

Irene Bolander gave two readings, "Miss Edith Helps Things Along with Her Elder Sister's Beau," and "Especially Jim."

"When We Gather Wild Flowers" was sung by Audre Noel. The entire program was enjoyed by all.

Rev. Strickland, from the schools of Ft. Worth, delivered an interesting talk to the student body.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Payne were visitors in chapel.

A short sketch from the Junior play, "The Charm School," was enjoyed by all. "The Charm School" will be given at the Rex Theatre tonight.

A JUNIOR-SENIOR PARTY

A party is to be given by the Seniors in honor of the Juniors. The faculty is also cordially invited. The party is to be held at the Methodist church basement at 7:30 Saturday, April 28.

This is the first time the Seniors have entertained the Juniors, and we sincerely hope that it will be a "howling" success.

(Signed) The Seniors.

A GYM?

The school board is seriously considering building a gymnasium for Pampa High School and two more ward school buildings. Hurrah for them! These improvements are badly needed.

A NEW ATMOSPHERE

The joy of the students of Pampa high school over the fact that school will be out three weeks after the present, on is somewhat solemnized by the realization that they must pass one great trial before they gain their well-earned freedom. This obstacle is the final examinations. The atmosphere is tense, for everybody is determined not to take only a few steps from his hope of many, but after the supreme trial comes—FREEDOM!
 Dee Blythe.

PAKER NOTES

The principal of Baker school and all the teachers have worked hard the last few days checking all books and assorting them for proper arrangements in the library. An inventory of all books has been taken, which will prevent the last minute rush at the close of school, and the crowded condition in the library.
 We are proud to know that this is well done.

The following pupils in Mrs. Ferguson's room made an average not less than A- in the fifth six-week period: Nadine, Forderman, Betty Blythe, Louise, Whaley, Mae Ellis, Edna Stark, Thelma Cox, Ernie Esabel, Tommie Wright, Cleve Drake, Robert Kilgore, Richard Kilgore and Corene Followell.

SPANISH CLUB MEETS

A meeting to initiate new members into El Circulo Castellano, the Spanish Club of Central high, was held Wednesday night, the 18th of April. The initiation consisted of rolling a peanut down one block of Cuyler street, with a match. Those initiated were Virginia MacMillan, Daisy Crump, Sam Keith, and Lefors Dorette. The next, and last meeting of this club will be on the second of May. At this meeting, officers will be elected for the year '28-'29.

NEW JANITOR

The students and faculty of Central High School welcome Mr. Anglin, the new janitor. Mr. Anglin seems to take a keen interest in keeping the building in good condition, and the students and faculty are giving him excellent co-operation.

Vincent Is Ready To Tame Kopecky Here Tonight

Jack Vincent is here in the best of condition for his big battle with Joe Kopecky tonight at the Pla-Mor auditorium.

What Vincent lacks in speed he makes up in endurance and ability to take punishment. He is well known here and is expected to give the tough Kopecky the battle of his life.

Kopecky is the most disliked and of the best in the game and always gives the audience his money's worth.

In the other finish match, one fall Leo Chase and Bull Young will be the main two in the ring.

Elmer Guthrie says he will have a surprise for the next big card to be held here and will announce it tonight.

Good Pitching Is Feature of Texas League Games

Good pitching has again come to the fore in the Texas league and provided the feature in the battle among first division clubs yesterday.

The Wichita Falls Spudders jumped back into first place when they defeated the Dallas Steers, 7 to 3, behind excellent wiring of Joe Kiefer, while the Houston Buffs were dropping a 12-inning game to the Ft. Worth Stars 1 to 0.

Although he allowed no hits or runs was relieved by Kiefer in the first frame. Manager Carl Williams judged his wildness, as evidenced by 3 bases on balls, as sufficient reason for replacement before damage was done.

Leslie Cox, former University of Texas star, and Bill Hallahan were heroes of the extra inning affair at San Antonio which ended when Dusty Boggs delivered a two-bagger to enter in the twelfth that scored Tommy Taylor with the only run of the contest.

Relieving Hinkle in the first inning after he had yielded one hit and walked two, Cox hurled magnificent ball which was matched by the work of Hallahan. Each hurler allowed five safeties, and Hallahan struck out nine.

With Paul Wachtel, veteran of many Texas league games, in mid-year form the Shreveport Sports, 7 to 0.

Nobel Prize Men Plan Tennis Match

CHICAGO, April 26.—(P)—A tennis match so exclusive it makes the Davis cup contest look like grade school free-for-all was announced today. Entrants must be Nobel prize winners from the University of Chicago physics department.

Dr. Albert A. Michelson, 75 years old, who measures the speed of light as nonchalantly as a clerk measures calico, is the challenger. His intended victim is Dr. Arthur H. Compton, half his age, who toys with gamma rays and electrons and, like Dr. Michelson, is a Nobel prize winner.

Last year the two scientists opposed each other in a doubles match, and Dr. Compton was on the winning side. Dr. Michelson, who takes his tennis seriously despite his years, has notified Dr. Compton that a new test of tennis skill is desired, the two man tournament to take place before May 11.

Easterners Take Boxing Honors in National Tourney

BOSTON, April 26.—(P)—Eastern boxers carried off most of the honors in the A. A. U. national amateur championship tournament which ended here this morning after three days of boxing.

Seven of the eight national titles were won by boys from Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania and the other championship went to a Californian.

Two New Yorkers, Harry Lowm, and George Hoffman, won national titles for the second consecutive year. Lowm successfully defended his welterweight crown and Hoffman, who had outgrown his 175-pound title, replaced it with the heavyweight championship.

Three Massachusetts boys were final victors. Johnny Daley of Waltham took the 118-pound honors. Harry Devine of Worcester, was supreme in the 126-pound division and Ensign Harry H. Henderson of the Naval academy, whose home is in Waltham, was the best middleweight in the tournament. Steve Holabo of Buffalo, led the 135-pound division and Leon Lucas of Philadelphia, the only champion to win by a knockout, was the best in the light heavyweight class.

Four years ago, the great Fidel Labarba of California made the American Olympic boxing team by winning the national flyweight title and this morning Hyman Miller of Los Angeles stepped into the Olympic berth. Labarba gave up when he entered the professional ring. Miller beat Gene Bianco of Boston for the 112-pound championship.

All the new champions and several runner-up will be members of the United States Olympic boxing team.
