Unemployment Up To 9.2 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment in May rose to 9.2 per cent, the first time the jobless rate has exceeded 9 per cent since 1941, the Labor Department said today.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said that the number of unemployed persons rose 362,000 to 8,538,000 last month.

The jobless rate has increased steadily since late last year and hit 8.9 per cent in April. The rate has been above 8 per cent for five consecutive months.

The last time that unemployment reached such high levels was 1941 when the 12-month average was 9.9 per cent. The government did not keep monthly statistics then.

Despite the gloomy unemployment picture, the number of persons with jobs increased for the second consecutive month. The number of persons working in May reached 84,402,000, up 316,000 from April.

Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop and Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, predicted earlier this week that unemployment would be peaking somewhat over 9 per cent.

Both are optimistic that recovery from the recession is underway and the job picture will soon improve.

Unemployment figures are based on monthly surveys of about 47,000 households and take into account changes in the numbers of persons actively seeking work and working and those who are out of work.

Britain Votes To Keep Market

LONDON (UPI) — Early official returns from the referendum on continued British membership in the European Community showed today the nation had voted nearly 3-1 to stay in Market opponents conceded defeat.

With counting of an estimated 26 million votes still continuing in this first such referendum in British history, indications were that the final vote would be close to the 3-1 margin predicted in public opinion polls.

On the basis of early results Independent Television News said a computer forecast of the final result was 68.6 per cent "Yes" and 31.4 per cent "No."

Norman Atkinson, an anti-Market Labor party member of Parliament, said "It looks as if it's all over. It's very sad news."

Jack Jones, leader of Britain's largest labor union, the 75 million strong Transport and General Workers Union, who also campaigned for a "No" vote, said:

"Now we've got to face up to the real world. We're almost burst (broke) in consequence or partly in consequence of our membership of the European Community. But we should unite with the Labor government and try to get united backing for it."

William Hamilton, a pro-Market Labor party member of Parliament, said the seven Labor government ministers who campaigned for a "No" vote ought to quit now.

But Prices Secretary Shirley Williams, a pro-Market, said there is no reason why they should quit.

They said they would accept the democratic verdict of the country and I think they will do so," Mrs. Williams said.

Chief Counting Officer Sir Philip Allen said about 66 per cent of the country's 40 million registered voters—about 26 million—cast ballots.

In the first district reporting, the tiny Isles of Scilly off the southwest coast of Britain, 802 persons, or 73.9 per cent, voted "Yes" to stay in the market and 278, or 25.3 per cent, voted "No," with eight spoiled ballots.

The turnout in the islands where Prime Minister Harold Wilson has a summer home was 77.5 per cent of the registered voters.

The second result from Gwynedd county in North Wales showed a 65 per cent voter turnout with 76,421 or 71 per cent "Yes" and 31,807 or 29 per cent "No."

Chief Counting Officer Sir Philip Allen said about 66 per cent of the country's 40 million registered voters cast their ballots.

Last minute opinion polls and almost all London's newspapers predicted a 2-1 margin for keeping Britain in the Common Market.

Polls predicted a landslide vote of at least two to one to keep Britain in the nine-nation European Economic Community.

The referendum, the first in Britain's history, was designed to settle once and for all an issue that has divided the country for nearly a generation whether to remain a member of the prosperous Common Market or try to revive the British ailing economy alone.

All London's morning news papers said a huge majority was certain.

The tabloid London Daily Mirror switched to French "Oui, Oui, Oui, All the Way."

The London Daily Telegraph headlined "Stage set for big Yes."

A poll released at the close of voting Thursday night said the final outcome would be a better than two-to-one margin for staying in.

The poll, conducted by Opinion

Research Center for independent television news, showed 68.3 per cent of 10,000 voters polled had voted in favor of continued membership while only 31.7 per cent had voted against it.

In many parts of the country — particularly London, the south, the industrial midlands and the north — the voter turnout was heavy, reaching 70 per cent in some areas.

In Wales, Northern Ireland, and Scotland's main cities the turnout was poor. Forty million residents of the United Kingdom were eligible to vote.

Bond Issue Election Likely for Sewage Plant

By TEX DEWESE
Pampa News Staff

A bond issue election to cover the city's cost of Pampa's proposed $1.4 sewage treatment plant is expected to be called at next Tuesday's City Commission meeting.

Emergencies and prior commitments kept a quorum from being present at Thursday afternoon's called meeting of the council to hear Bob Underwood, Dallas fiscal agent for the project, explain bond alternatives and discuss methods of financing and paying off the proposed bond issue.

City Manager Mack Wofford and Commissioners Leo Braswell and Ray Thompson, talked individually with Underwood. Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, unable to appear at the 2 p.m. meeting time, arrived at City Hall later and met with Underwood.

Commissioner Joe Curtis was unable to attend because of an appointment at Highland General Hospital. Commissioner Lunden Shepherd called and said he would be unable to attend because of emergency business.

City Manager Wofford said, although nothing was finalized at Thursday's conferences, it is expected the bond election will be called Tuesday. The election probably would be set for sometime in mid-July, it was indicated.

Amount of the issue, it was suggested by fiscal agent Underwood, probably will be around $300,000.

City officials also are considering placing on the ballot at the same referendum a proposal to use an estimated $90,000 to $100,000 in unused money from a 1964 bond issue voted to replace the city's old concrete sewer lines.

That work has been completed, Wofford said, and it is hoped the money can now be used to implement the city's share of the sewage plant costs.

The city manager said the action on calling a bond election is necessary in order to be ready when the Environmental Protection Agency announces approval of Pampa's application

$250,000 Damage Suit Filed in Gray County

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A $250,000 damage suit was filed this week in 31st District Court here as a result of a hot mix plant accident near Groom 23 days ago, which allegedly claimed the life of a 45-year-old contractor.

The civil action, the largest damage suit filed this year in Gray County, alleges that Price William Moore died a short time after he was struck by a "large dirt loader" driven by Clay Johnson on May 14, 1975.

Suspects Apprehended, Volkswagens Upended

Seven juveniles are in custody of law enforcement officers in Borger today in connection with 30 burglaries in Hutchinson County since Jan. 1.

"And we suspect they may be involved in one burglary at Pampa," said Borger Police Chief Arthur Waite this morning. "Nothing has been pinned down on the Pampa burglary, Chief Waite said."

From police headquarters in Pampa today, Police Chief Richard Mills said three Volkswagens within the city were over turned during early morning hours.

The chief said those acts are classified as criminal mischief and more than 50 per cent of recent cases have been solved.

In most of them the offenders were children who were returned to their parents, the chief said.

The overturning of the small foreign cars was reported by Mrs. J.M. Thompson of 1204 Garland, Earl O'Neal of 700 Nelson and Robert Haggard of 2125 Chestnut. All vehicles had been returned to their wheels by 10 a.m. this morning.

The chief estimated that damages would total $300. He attributed much of the criminal mischief reported this week to the fact that school is out.

He encouraged citizens to call the police department anytime a need arises.

Officers dispatched to residences where the cars were overturned include Patrolmen Roland McGill, Bruce Bailey and Lt. Gene Aufleger.

That would leave, officials estimate, between $350,000 and $400,000 as the city's share of the construction cost.

A $300,000 bond issue plus the $90,000 to $100,000 left over from the 1964 sewer bond issue would get the job done, according to City Hall staffers.

Chester Green of Lubbock is the city's consultant engineer on the plant project and Dumas, Huggen and Boothman of Dallas have been retained as bond attorneys.

Attorney General Nixes Special Session Idea

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Legislature will not have to meet in special session to fix the appropriations bill, thanks to a ruling by Attorney General John Hill.

He (Moore) died a short time later due to injuries inflicted in the collision," according to the petition.

In filing the suit, Templeton claims that the equipment operator was negligent in failure to keep a proper lookout and in operating "dangerous and hazardous machinery without ascertaining the location of persons known to be in the proximate vicinity," and in failure to stop the dirt loader before colliding with the deceased.

HUD Embarrassed House Torn Down by Mistake

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Villavasso's house vanished because of a "breakdown in communications," but the Department of Housing and Urban Development says it will make good the error.

HUD officials Thursday promised to provide a $4,500 home to Villavasso 49—and he could get it for as little as $1.

Villavasso had bought a HUD home for $1,200 two months ago and spent another $3,000 and his spare time fixing it up in hopes of moving in with his wife and two teen-age children. It would have been their first house.

Tuesday, Villavasso headed for the house after work, a bathtub he planned to install strapped to his car.

The house wasn't there. Instead, there was merely a patch of mud strewn with some rubble.

He learned it had been torn down by wreckers on orders from the city.

Vandalism Review

Vandalism, burglary, and other records were reviewed today at the Pampa police Department headquarters where the Chief Richard Mills reported that more than 50 per cent of the recent crim-

Police Get Transcriber From Grant

The Pampa Police Department has received a transcriber valued in excess of $1,000 with most of the cost defrayed by a Criminal Justice grant through the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Its cost to the City of Pampa is $150. The announcement was made by Police Chief Richard Mills.

He said the transcriber will allow officers to dictate reports which may be transcribed by a typist, enabling officers to spend more time in law enforcement work.

The equipment is labeled as a 1977 Lanier Transcriber.

Ford Found Allies Concerned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In Europe President Ford found some concern among allies about congressional support for his foreign policy. Today the President worked to prove them wrong.

He summoned Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to the Cabinet Room for a report on his NATO summit in Brussels, his meeting in Salzburg, Austria, with Egypt's president Anwar Sadat and sessions with the Spanish and Italian governments and Pope Paul VI in the Vatican.

He was expected to tell the legislators that his six-day trip was a success in reasserting American leadership in the Western alliance and, in the Sadat meeting, making progress toward a post-Nixon foreign policy.

The President also was expected to applaud the defeat in Congress of an attempt to cut defense spending by $1.2 billion. Ford has made defense readiness a keystone of his foreign policy.

The defense vote and a House vote sustaining Ford's veto of a $3 billion jobs bill, a measure Ford had called unwise and inflationary, brought expressions of satisfaction Thursday when Ford met with a group of Republican congressional leaders at the White House.

The President was quoted as telling the party leaders that Wednesday — when both votes occurred — "was a great day." GOP congressional leaders said they thought the Democrats, despite a two-to-one majority, were in political trouble.

Asked whether Ford still thought, as he did after last fall's elections, that Democrats might control a veto-proof Congress, Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Thursday. "The so-called revolution which was hailed with such fanfare at the beginning of the year is going through a bad winter at Valley Forge."

Scott's House counterpart, Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, said Ford's "political clout now is very high" in the House, although "I'm not going to say that every veto is going to be sustained."

Refugees Offered Land

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Southern California group has offered to turn over nearly 1 million acres of desert land, some of it fronting on the Colorado River, to Vietnam refugees for development as farmland.

The only thing on there now are squatters and scorpions, and maybe a few rattlesnakes," Rev. Elizabeth Monsour of The Christ Church of Parapsychological Research explained.

But she told newsmen that much of the land spread across three counties already has canals and could be irrigated and farmed.

She said she now holds quitclaim deeds on the land, and offered the government a 99-year lease in exchange for clear title and cash for the lease. She said an agency in Washington, D.C., which she refused to identify, is considering her offer.

Another organization, meanwhile, charged Thursday that "general bungling" by U.S. officials may stretch out the refugee resettlement program for as long as two years.

Weather

Fair and warmer temperatures are forecast for today and Saturday. The highs both days will be in the mid 90s, and the lows are expected to drop to the 60s tonight.

House Passes Measure To Help Housing Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite an almost certain veto, the House passed another big Democratic anti-recession bill—this one to help home builders, home buyers and home owners.

The $1.35 billion measure was adopted Thursday with even some Democrats questioning why Congress insisted on passing bills which face certain presidential rejection.

The vote was 253 to 155—not large enough to provide the two-thirds margin required to override a veto. Forty-four of the 289 House Democrats voted no.

Approval followed by a day the House's failure by a five-vote margin to override President Ford's veto of a $5.3 billion bill to create 900,000 jobs.

The housing bill would provide interest subsidies or $1,000 in cash to middle-income buyers of 400,000 new homes. It also would provide loans of up to $250 for jobless homeowners facing foreclosure.

"I don't understand why we insist on serving up these veto pitches the size of a pumpkin to the President," said Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, during debate. He called the bill "doomed." Rep. Thomas Rees, D-Calif., called it "overkill."

But Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., argued the Democratic

Congress should pass a Democratic program—Ford's objections notwithstanding.

Only after Ford vetoes the bills should Congress decide whether to try to override the veto or modify the bill, he said.

Backers of the bill said it would stimulate the construction or rehabilitation of 500,000 housing units, create 800,000 jobs and help 300,000 homeowners avoid foreclosure. But they, too, conceded a veto awaits the bill.

The measure offered a choice of three types of help to homebuyers whose income was within 20 per cent of the average income of their communities.

Goldwater, McGovern Battle Over Bombers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two senators, two former Air Force pilots, two presidential candidates who lost by huge margins, two very differing philosophies: George McGovern and Barry Goldwater.

McGovern, D-S.D., and Goldwater, R-Ariz., led the opposing forces in the fight over the B1 bomber Thursday. McGovern wanted to eliminate it entirely. Goldwater said it was needed to replace the B52 as the main U.S. bomber in case of nuclear war.

McGovern lost. His amendment to eliminate the $600 million for B1 research and development was defeated 57-32.

It was the last battle over a $25 billion bill to set troop strengths, buy weapons and conduct research for next year. A final vote comes today.

The bill is different from the $32 billion House-passed version, so a conference is needed to work out differences.

Critics of the military budget were unable to make major changes. The Senate Thursday rejected attempts to bring 200,000 U.S. troops home from overseas, voted 58-38 to keep the AWACS flying radar system and voted 54-39 to conduct research on a missile defense system in case SALT agreements banning the ABM fall through.

McGovern opposed the B1, saying the 30-year-old B52 could do the job of backing up existing submarine and land-based atomic missiles. The plane, he said, is "one of the most expensive airplanes ever built."

"We simply cannot afford this system," he said. "It adds nothing to our security when we obviously have an overkill capacity."

Goldwater recalled McGovern's World War II record.

"The arguments of the senator from South Dakota," he told the Senate, "remind me of the arguments made in the late 1930s against building the B17 and the B24, which the senator from South Dakota flew in World War II."

McGovern smiled.

"Back then," said Goldwater, "we were making $10,000. We're now making $42,500—and I'm not sure we're four times more effective. The bombs the senator from South Dakota dropped cost between $400 and $500. The newest 'smart' bombs cost about $8,000 each. My point is that everything is more expensive."

Goldwater called the B1 "vital," and the most "carefully thought out weapon in military history." He rejected McGovern's argument the B52 could suffice.

"I don't think anyone in his right mind would get into a B52 in 1990. They are museum pieces now. I doubt any B52 will be flyable in 8 to 10 years."

In Summer School Here 445 Students Enroll

A total of 445 students, including two adults, are in this enrolled year's summer school, according to Mrs. Mardi Lusby, Pampa High School registrar.

This year enrollment is about the same as last year, Mrs. Lusby said.

The most popular course is Driver's Education with more than 300 students enrolled, including 185 sophomores. The most popular academic course is history, which this year combines American and world history. Enrollment is 90.

Tennis has attracted 65 students with health close behind with 50. Forty five are taking English and 30 are enrolled in business courses.

The school will last until July 12 and the two hour classes are six days a week from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Seventeen teachers, including seven academic and 10 Driver's Education teachers, are leading instruction this year.

A.R. Nooncaster is the Driver's Education coordinator and James Lusby is the summer school superintendent.

Ohio Guardsman Says Hears No Fire Orders

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Lawrence Shafer was an Ohio National Guardsman that day five years ago on the Kent State University campus, and he thought his life was in danger. He fired his rifle and saw one young man clutch his stomach and fall.

Before the day—May 4, 1970—was over, four students died in Guard gunfire and nine others lay wounded. Shafer said he himself suffered a severe arm injury from a thrown brick.

Shafer Thursday was the first Guardsman to testify in the $48 million Kent State civil suits. He is one of 44 Guardsmen and state officials being sued by the victims.

Shafer testified as the third week of the trial ended that he fired once at a demonstrator he felt threatened him.

He said he heard only two orders that day—one to "move out," the second to cease fire, between those orders, Shafer added, the Guardsmen:

—Marched across the campus through drifting tear gas, up "Blanket Hill" and down the other side to disperse the demonstrators.

—Reached a practice football field where Shafer suffered his arm injury and where he and about nine other Guardsmen knelt and pointed their rifles toward students.

—Marched back up the hill past jeering students to the crest where some turned and fired.

"I heard what sounded like a shot on my left," said Shafer. "I turned around. After the man on my right fired, I fired my rifle."

The first shot was into the air, he said, because he assumed there was an order to fire warning shots.

Then, he said, he saw a young man he estimated 35 to 40 feet away, with one hand upraised in an obscene gesture and the other partially hidden behind his back, and "fired in that direction."

"Did you intend to hit that individual?" asked plaintiff's attorney Joseph Kerner. "Yes," Shafer replied, adding he felt his life was in danger.

He said he saw the person clutch his stomach and fall, but was not positive his shot wounded the youth "because there was a lot of other firing going on."

Afterward, he said, he fired three more shots into the air.

DA Trapped in Political Feud

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — On March 19 — the day the Carrillo political faction officially split with the Parr machine — George P. Parr stormed into the Duval County courthouse to kill District Judge O.P. Carrillo, according to testimony presented to a House impeachment committee.

Clinton Manges and Duval County District Attorney Arno Guerra. A Texas Ranger, George E. Powell, was summoned to the ranch that day when it was learned Parr had allegedly threatened to kill Carrillo.

The House committee, which is considering an impeachment resolution against Carrillo, heard testimony Thursday from two persons at the ranch that day — Powell and Guerra. It hoped to hear today from the third person who can answer questions about that day — Manges — who has avoided a committee-ordered subpoena for two weeks.

Texas Ranger Capt. John Wood officially served the subpoena on Manges Wednesday at 11:05 p.m. Wood found Manges in a mobile home on his ranch in Freer, Tex. Sources said the trailer was located a mile from Manges' main ranch house in a row of buildings illuminated by street lights.

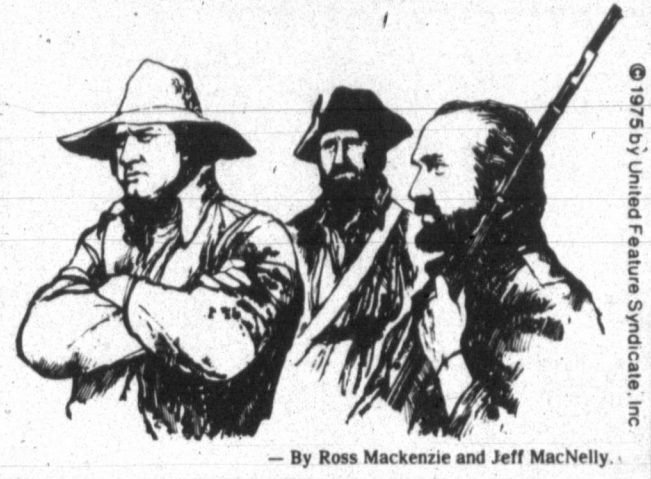

He was ordered to appear at 9 a.m. today to testify before the House select committee. If he does not appear, he could be cited for contempt by the legislature, fined $1,000 and sentenced to a year in prison.

Guerra, told the committee Thursday he was at the ranch on March 19, but no conspiracy was discussed. He said took no sides in the Par-Carrillo dispute and that he has ordered grand jury investigations into the political activities of both families.

Doctors Vote To Strike Another Week in Protest

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Two hundred doctors decided Thursday night, with only two dissenting votes, to try at least another week of a work stoppage called to protest the high cost of malpractice insurance.

Dr. Nell Nations, head of the local society of anesthesiologists, said the doctors attending the meeting also included surgical specialists, dentists and oral surgeons, obstetricians, family physicians and pediatricians.

She said by the vote the doctors agreed to continue the work stoppage by scheduling only emergency procedures at their offices and at hospitals.

The consensus opinion was to petition the Bexar County Medical Society to actively support us," she said.

WT Chairman Will Fight To Stay

CANYON, Tex. (UPI) — The chairman of the West Texas State University Art Department says he does not know why the school requested his resignation, but he will fight to stay with the university.

Neither Green nor Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, were available for comment.

My letter of resignation was requested by John Green, dean of the School of Fine Arts," Dr. Emilio Caballero said Thursday. "Dean Green told me if I did not submit my resignation he would demand it. I considered today. Caballero submitted his resignation to the university board of regents at a Feb. 26 meeting, but it was to be reconsidered today.

Caballero has taught at West Texas State for 27 years and has been head of the Art Department for 20 years. A petition containing 2,000 signatures from 25 Panhandle cities was submitted to the board calling for the reinstatement of Caballero, according to Mrs. Robert A. Johnson of Pampa.

Senate Rejects Bill For Troop Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate rejected by voice vote today an amendment to a $25 billion defense bill that would have required 200,000 U.S. troops to be withdrawn from overseas bases.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said the amendment by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, "would wreck NATO, demoralize Japan and jeopardize the SALT talks."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., opposed the troop cuts on grounds U.S. military forces already were being withdrawn from overseas posts in Asia.

"I can assure the senator there will be no American troops in Thailand after six months," Goldwater told Gravel.

The discussion about the troop strength came on the fourth day of Senate debate which has centered on American foreign policy and defense spending.

Liberals attempted to slash $1.2 billion from the bill Wednesday, but were unsuccessful. The overall bill would provide weapons, research and troop levels for the Defense Department.

In floor debate today, the main topics of discussion was funding for the proposed B1 bomber as well as other Air Force planes.

Goldwater said the Air Force bases at Utapao and Udorn in Thailand were being closed "this week, leaving only three bases there. One remaining base has a collection of the most highly sophisticated communications equipment anywhere on earth. We cannot allow that equipment to fall into the hands of the enemy."

Goldwater, who said he uses his home ham radio set five or six hours a day to converse with people in Thailand, said American troop levels in Thailand already were down to 17,000 "as of today."

"We are faced with one of the gravest dangers of war in Korea," Goldwater said. "The North Koreans are backed by China and they have a peasant army that is determined, something which we are not."

Gravel accused opponents of painting a Soviet global military threat to the U.S. greater than it is. "You have said the Russians are all powerful. This is not true. We can destroy the Soviet Union many times over," Gravel said.

The Armed Services Committee has proposed spending roughly $600 million in B1 research in the next year. But it rejected a $77 million Air Force request for the first actual procurement of the plane. An attempt to eliminate all funds for the B1 is led by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

Another key amendment up for debate is on AWACS, a modified Boeing 707 to be used as a sophisticated airborne warning system that can detect fast, low-flying enemy planes.

Legislators from the Panhandle were present at Governor Dolph Briscoe's signing of a resolution making June 18th "TEXAS' Day in Texas." The date marks the opening night of the show's tenth season. The resolution was authored by Representative Simpson of Amarillo and supported unani-

Court Opposes Woman Priest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An ecclesiastical court today found the Rev. William A. Wendt guilty of disobeying his bishop by allowing an irregularly ordained woman priest to preside at holy communion.

In the first church trial resulting from the issue of women priests, the five-member court split on the finding three to two.

The court recommended that Wendt's bishop, the Right Rev. William Creighton, admonish the priest and "forbid him to permit any person whose ordination is not in conformity with the canon of the church to exercise his or her ministry in his parish."

The court majority said that in acting on the Wendt case, the validity of the Philadelphia ordinations "is at best peripheral and no judgment as to their validity or invalidity is necessary."

Bishop Creighton said he would have no comment to make on the decision as he has the case under advisement until sentencing.

Wendt can appeal the court's decision. If there is no appeal, the bishop shall pronounce his sentence no sooner than 30 days from now.

Wendt was brought before an ecclesiastical court this spring on the unusual charges that he disobeyed a "godly admonition" of his bishop and allowed an irregularly ordained woman priest to consecrate the bread and wine of the Eucharist at his church.

Wendt's three-day trial was the first judicial test of the validity of the ordination of 11 Episcopal women deacons to the priesthood by three retired bishops in Philadelphia July 29, 1974.

St. Stephen's, an activist church in social and liturgical reform, invited one of the women, the Rev. Alison Cheek of Annandale, Va., to preside at celebration of the Eucharist

Nov. 10, 1974. The Rt. Rev. William Creighton, while expressing his support for the future ordination of women, told Wendt he could not sanction the celebration at that time since the Episcopal House of Bishops had not recognized the Philadelphia ceremony as valid.

The defense argued Wendt allowed the service to go forward as "an act of conscience."

The Minnesota General Convention in 1976 is expected to consider a change in church canons which would clearly allow ordination of women as priests and bishops.

Fashion Consultants Lower Hemlines For Fall-Winter Season

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff
A return to natural fibers, a mid-knee to just below the knee length, rich earthen colors — all designed for travel and comfort — describe a glimpse at fall fashions.

The prices? "Virtually unchanged," says Doug Coon who returned recently from a Dallas market where he ordered fall fashions and accessories for Behrman's and Gilberts, both of Pampa, Saied's of Perryton and the Dixie Shop in Plainview.

The natural fibers include cottons, woolens and silks. The lines, he said are easy flow — packable and comfortable.

"Denim is in," he commented. Blazers are as high as $80 with jeans in the $40 range.

Coon said earth tones will be especially good for fall and winter including — jewel, jade, camels, bones, eggshell, greens, mauves and rust.

Fur trim coats are will be popular. For that something new, he named jump suits for day and cocktail wear.

Women are definitely coming out of pants into dresses for a while," he said. "The skirt-suit look is excellent."

Long dresses for dinner and cocktail engagements is still a fashion highlight.

"The pajama pant for dinner is relatively unimportant. Soft pants are preferable," Coon explained.

Swedes and leathers are in. "We'll see lots of those for fall and winter," he said.

Scarves at the necklines tied in different ways, are still a highlight in the accessories line, Coon said.

Lots and lots of jewelry is recommended. Models, he said, shawled layers of chains and chokers.

"It seems as if they couldn't get too much," he said.

As for bags, its a return to the soft look of swedes and leathers.

Coat materials, in addition to furs and fur trims, include cashmere and camel hair.

"Cocktail clothes are glamorous, glittery and feminine," Coon said.

The door is open — and there's a style and color for every personality, designers say.

In sportswear — its the skirts, shirt and pant coordinates.

"Create your own look," fashion consultants recommend.

Coon said women will see the shell give way to the shirt look.

Long dresses, said Coon, are dramatic — designed with lots of fabric.

The holiday market for Thanksgiving and Christmas occasions is scheduled for August.

Taos Art Show Features Pampa

A one-woman show of the works of Doris Johnson, Pampa, will open at the Conquistador Gallery of Taos, N.M., from 2 to 7 p.m. Saturday with a champagne reception.

Mrs. Johnson has studied privately with Dirk von Driest of Taos. John Pellew of Connecticut, and Guy Johnson of Houston. She has a degree in art from West Texas State University, where she studied under Dr. Emilio Caballero.

Experimentation with textured materials and liquid plastic led to the development of the new media, syntage, used by Mrs. Johnson to depict historical Spanish figures. She has researched Spanish history extensively in order to authentically garb the 16th century Spanish figures she most often paints.

Mrs. Johnson also works in the media of watercolor and copper enameling. From the kiln in her studio, she produces pieces of copper enameling as large as three feet.

The exhibit will hang throughout the month of June.

In today's deal, we have a good example of the functioning of the expert mind. As I'm sure the reader will agree, South's performance was top-notch.

Pass Pass 3NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

After West had led the jack of hearts and the dummy came into view, declarer paused to study the situation. He quickly perceived that after winning the opening lead, if he attacked the diamond suit, he would be dooming himself to defeat. That is, if at tricks two, three, and four he played the ace, king, and a third diamond, the defenders, upon winning the third diamond lead, would return a heart, driving out declarer's remaining stopper.

All declarer would now have would be eight tricks: one spade, two hearts, and five diamonds. When declarer would subsequently lead clubs, the defenders would take their club ace, and cash their established heart suit. Had the declarer played the hand as stated: he would have lost three hearts, a diamond, and a club.

And so it came to pass that declarer won the opening lead with dummy's ace of hearts, after which he led the five of clubs. When East played low, South's jack won the trick.

Declarer did not now make the mistake of continuing clubs in the hope that the six outstanding clubs were divided 3-3 (which would have given declarer five club tricks). Instead, he properly attacked diamonds, on the mathematically sound assumption that the five missing diamonds were divided 3-2. At trick three, he led his six of diamonds, and when West put up the ten, it was permitted to win the trick.

A heart was returned, declarer taking the trick with his king. He then led his remaining diamond to dummy's ace, and made five diamond tricks, one spade, two hearts, and one club.

It should be noted that if East had taken his ace of clubs (at trick two), South would have had an easy time for in this case he would have made five club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and one spade.

Of course, if West happened to possess the club ace, it might have been another story. But the point is that by attacking diamonds first, declarer could not fulfill his contract. So it became a matter of hope versus no hope.

Christian educators in a number of mainline Protestant denominations have been crying the blues over Sunday schools, pronouncing them at best sick and in some cases dead.

One of the reasons cited in the numerous seminars held on the subject is that Christian education has become too much of a top-down affair, devised by so-called experts and forced down the throats of local congregations.

Can an even wider group of experts, representing some 15 denominations in Canada and the United States, do something about revitalizing Christian education for the local congregation?

Yes, according to people working in the unique Joint Educational Development ecumenical partnership.

Or at least to a degree. JED has developed a four-part program which they call "Christian Education: Shared Approaches."

"Note we are using the word approaches, not curriculums," said one staff member. "The word curriculum suggests that education can be done through a package of resources that define what local education must be and how it should be developed.

"No one can tell the churches how to run their programs today. The churches are all different."

The shared education approach emphasizes local church planning.

The four approaches, according to JED, give careful attention to theology and biblical interpretation and all based on "the Word." "Knowing the Word," made up of three sets of resources for Bible study for kindergarten through adult level; "Interpreting the Word," for congregations who want to develop more advanced techniques of Bible study; "Living the Word," which attempts to provide resources for moving education out of the one hour of Sunday School, and "Doing the Word," which JED describes as resources for use when a church wants to emphasize the impact of the Christian community on contemporary society.

have been made despite the fact that science has flourished without the benefit of Christianity in China, in ancient Greece and in medieval Islam.

Ecological mismanagement is not the property of any religious group or technology, Derr maintains, pointing to the overgrazing and deforestation that helped destroy the civilizations of the Egyptians, Assyrians, Romans, North Africans, Persians, Indians, Aztecs and Buddhists.

And, he observed, centuries before the Christian era, Plato was deploring the deforestation of Attica.

"Since primitive times," Derr said, "man has been altering his environment dramatically, in ways that upset ecological balances."

He cited the early hunters who used fire to drive out game as well as the clearing of fields by farmers, who also dammed streams, wiped out predatory animals and killed plants that "got in the way."

"To say that technological society is in a mess, and that therefore the fault must lie in the dominant religion," he said, "is to credit religion with too much power over culture and to forget how easily culture perverts religion."

The root of the Christians' problem lies in the first book of the Old Testament, which Derr points out states that "it is in the charter for man's existence that he should have 'dominion' over and 'subdue' the earth and all its other creatures."

He goes on to say that this passage "irritates the sensitivities of the kind of ecological consciousness that puts heavy stress on man's continuity with the rest of nature, to the exclusion of his uniqueness."

An investment in Your Future

ATTEND CHURCH

GOD'S WILL

The greatest commandment is that we should love our God. This is a free choice that man has, but it is God's desire that all would seek Him. He is our heavenly Father, and desires only the best for us.

ATTEND CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Can Christian Ethic Help Solve Pollution?

By CLAIRE COX
Copley News Service

NEW YORK — An approach to ecology based on the Puritan ethic is being urged as a result of international studies of the havoc wrought by man on nature throughout history.

A leading participant in joint study conferences sponsored by the World Student Christian Federation and the World Council of Churches suggests that while environmental problems cover far more than Christian segments of world society, some elements of Protestant values might be used constructively in the search for solutions.

Dr. Thomas Sieger Derr, associate professor and chairman of the department of religion at Smith College and consultant to the World Council's department on church and society, has presented his views in "Ecology and Human Need," issued by the Westminster Press, the publishing house of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Among all the earth's creatures, he observes, man alone is aware that his actions might destroy or preserve the systems that make all life possible.

Many blame the Protestant tradition for the "exploitation" of nature through science and technology, Derr says, but they seldom support their accusations with specifics. He finds these charges

Delays Put Oil Program Behind

LONDON (UPI) — Beneath the turbulent gray waters of the North Sea lie millions of tons of oil and vast natural gas deposits which a crisis-plagued Britain hopes will provide the bonanza answer to most of her economic woes.

So far more than a dozen oil fields have been confirmed in the sector of the North Sea allocated to Britain by international agreement.

Norway and the Netherlands have their sectors, too.

A number of international consortia, with strong American participation, are prospecting and working to bring up the oil.

North Sea natural gas already is being piped into millions of British homes and within a few years the government hopes to have switched most of the nation to "Seafame," as it has been dubbed by the state-run gas corporation.

But earlier hopes that the first trickle of North Sea oil will come ashore this spring and become a torrent in a few years have been disappointed.

The government has admitted its earlier predictions were too optimistic. Unexpected delays in building and placing the giant oil rigs up to 100-150 miles out in the North Sea have slowed down production.

Fierce winter storms have held up operations, too.

A couple of years ago the government predicted the first five million tons of North Sea oil would be brought ashore this year and that production in 1976 would total 23 million tons.

Now, the government has had to revise that estimate down sharply.

Latest official predictions are that 1975 output will not exceed one to two million tons and that output in 1976 will be only 15 million tons.

However, the government says that by 1977 the North Sea should be yielding about 40 million tons and 50 million tons by 1978, with the big breakthrough coming with a yield of 100-130 million tons by 1980.

Britain's Department of Energy says sufficient reserves exist to sustain production throughout the 1980s at between 100 and 150 million tons a year. The department says proven reserves in Britain's North Sea sector now are estimated at one billion tons and that the actual figures could be as high as 3.1 billion tons.

It says when potential oil discoveries in other offshore areas still to be allocated to exploration companies are tapped, the total of reserves could well be as high as four billion tons.

Government officials say that would be sufficient to cover Britain's own oil needs for up to 45 years.

The country's present consumption level is about 100 million tons—imported from the Middle East, Latin America, the United States and Nigeria.

The government, deeply worried by the beating taken by Britain's international balance of payments from having to import oil at present inflated prices, sees North Sea oil as the answer to most of this country's economic problems.

It estimates imported oil costs the country around 3 billion pounds ($7.2 billion) a year in scarce foreign exchange.

But by 1980, government officials say, this whole picture will be changed. Britain no longer will be an importer but an exporter of oil and she will be able to start paying back the billions of dollars she has had to borrow to finance petroleum

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 7

Your birthday today: Opens a prolonged busy season in which every sort of potential can be brought closer to working reality. Wherever you're able to realize a profit or have a chance to add to your expertise in some specific line, do so. The problem now is mainly priorities and schedules. Relationships thrive as long as you aren't overly complacent about them. Today's natives are good at inventive ideas, but are often plagued by laziness.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Make this a quiet day for looking back over recent events and drawing conclusions. Line up facts and figures and prepare for new moves this coming week. Take time for family ties.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You have neglected correspondence to answer and a great deal to do that isn't in immediate demand. Stir yourself now rather than be caught napping at a future date.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Keep your contacts simple and don't offer any more of a story than you can get by with. Minor items can be put in order in person, by telephone or in writing. Clean up; discard clutter.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Remember your friends by doing something to remind them of happily shared experiences. Take care of personal matters that are difficult to find time for during the week.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Be satisfied with a moderate course now. Continue existing projects, but don't expect any sensational progress. Adopt habits that save energy and provide protection.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: It's important to realize that you're doing just about all that is feasible for the moment. Make the best of it for yourself and everyone concerned.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Planning the future in an outline is O.K. Decisive action must wait for small details to be settled. Bring your records up-to-date.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Go along with what you've agreed on rather than experiment in ventures that come to your attention. Emphasize teamwork and stay on an established route.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Keep a steady pace wherever you can this weekend. Work on some project until it pays off. A new rainbow has its attractions but is at best temporary.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your search for thrift and happiness is rewarded today with prompt results. Balance your schedule; complete chores before you go seek entertainment.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Realize that you have really good friends. Seek information on more efficient ways to organize your lifestyle. Stay busy with home repairs.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: You don't have to do much beyond routines that provide income. Since your simple pleasures are so plentiful, there's no reason to daydream of intense romance or high adventure.

Summer Talks Set on Books

The 1975 summer discussion groups, sponsored by the Amarillo Public Library, will begin June 23 in Amarillo.

Youth and adults are invited to join. Officials said there is no fee, and the only cost is the purchase of paperback readings. Each group will have eight weekly sessions of one hour each.

Now more than ever it pays to compare car insurance rates.

And there's never been a better time to compare State Farm. For most Texas drivers, State Farm has rates that are 15% less than the now-rates set by the State. Call for details.

Farm Chores

Hugh Gegan, manager of the Living Waters Gospel Ranch southeast of Pampa, supervises and counsels three young men currently on the ranch working to solve their drug problems. Gegan said that tentative plans for development of the ranch call for facilities for 30 young men between the ages of 18 and 30. (Pampa News Photo)

Young Men Seek Solutions To Problems at Gospel Ranch

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Hugh Gegan, who operates the Living Waters Gospel Ranch southeast of Pampa, said that the facility offers help to any young man between 18 and 30 years of age who has a drug problem and who can "convince me he wants a different way of life than he's had."

The 15-acre ranch has been in operation since February. Four young men have sought help there and three of them are still working — working on the ranch and working on solving their personal problems.

Gegan and his wife, Greta, said they offer a "home life. It isn't an institution."

But it is a "closed environment," Gegan said. "We offer them a place where they can heal and get better — a kind of spiritual hospital."

Days on the ranch begin at 5:30 a.m. when Gegan gets everyone out of bed. The first item on the day's agenda is a half hour of reading and studying the Bible. Work begins after breakfast with one of residents helping with kitchen duties while the others work outside.

There are chickens, rabbits, cattle, to care for and a large garden plot to keep watered and weeded.

There are short rest breaks in the morning and afternoon and work generally stops about 5:30 p.m. Supper is at 6 p.m.

The evening schedule includes counseling on Monday; Bible study on Tuesday; more Bible study or church on Wednesday; prayer meetings at the ranch on Thursday; Bible study on Friday; activities (croquet, etc.) on Saturday; and church on Sunday.

The Gegan's said their qualifications for running the facility come from having raised eight children of their own.

Private donations support the ranch and pay the Gegan's a monthly salary of $200. Rabbits, chickens and garden produce will help furnish food for the ranch and result in some revenue, Gegan said.

The board that aids in running the ranch was set up in December of 1974, Gegan said. Its members, all of Pampa, include Ira Carlton, Don Harris, Earl Husted, Kirk Duncan, Melvin Clark and Dave Warnock. Officers are Hugh and Greta Gegan, Bob McMinn, the Rev. Gene Allen and Gene Hall.

Gegan said that one of the first adjustments young men make when they come to the ranch concerns the schedule.

"They are used to living at night," he said.

Wayne Wilson Elected

Wayne Wilson, assistant vice president of the First National Bank, was elected treasurer of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Institute of Banking at a recent meeting.

It is an association of bankers who believe in, increasing their knowledge of banking.

Wilson said that the schooling organization was instituted about 75 years ago. It owns textbooks and issues college credits to those completing courses, he said.

Cadet Had To Change Plans

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — Cadet I.C. John Bruce Dodds says he'll decide in about a week what he wants to do with his life. His first choice, jet pilot training and a career in the Air Force, are out of the question.

Dodds graduated from the Air Force Academy Wednesday and received a standing ovation from his fellow cadets, their parents and commencement speaker Defense Secretary James Schlesinger.

It wasn't his academic achievement which won him the accolade, nor was it his prowess on the sports fields.

Rather, it was his courage and determination to finish his studies despite having lost a leg to cancer a year ago.

Dodds, in his blue-and-white dress uniform, was one of 572 graduates who crossed the stage set up in the shadow of the Rocky Mountains to receive his diploma. He limped slightly as he went forward to accept his degree, minus the usual commission as a second lieutenant.

Following the amputation of his right leg in April of last year, academy officials considered dismissing him from the military school. Storms of protest from fellow students prompted the introduction in Congress of two bills granting him permission to finish his studies.

That wasn't necessary, however, because Dodds received special authority from the secretary of the Air Force to complete his education. He said at the time he wanted to go to law school after he graduated.

Dodds joined his classmates in the traditional tossing of hats in the air following the ceremony, the same way he has joined in most other academy activities since his operation.

O'Brien Rules Against Teams

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Newly appointed NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien has established himself as a hard-line administrator by punishing the New York Knicks and the Atlanta Hawks for their attempts to land a pair of ABA superstars.

In only his fifth day on the job Thursday, the former head of the Democratic Party fined the Hawks $400,000 for illegally signing Julius Erving three years ago and then declined to permit the Knicks to sign 6-foot-8 George McGinnis, who had been drafted by the Philadelphia 76ers but signed a reported $2 million contract with New York.

He also made the Knicks forfeit next year's first-draft choice as punishment.

In the Erving case, an NBA spokesman said the Hawks would have to pay $250,000 to the league and $150,000 to the Milwaukee Bucks, who own the draft rights to the 6-7 Erving.

considered possibly the top forward in basketball.

Erving has been playing under a long-term contract with the ABA's New York Nets. The Bucks will receive Atlanta's two second-round choices in the 1976 draft.

O'Brien said of the McGinnis decision that under NBA by-laws, it was the only decision he could make.

"If violations of the rules were permitted," said O'Brien, "then it would be the same as if there were no rules at all. This would, of course, threaten the structure and very existence of the league."

The huge fine against Atlanta might threaten the very existence of the Hawks, although the franchise is in the process of being sold to a new owner.

As outgoing President John Wilcox remarked Thursday upon being told he must pay the $400,000 immediately: "I didn't bring my checkbook."

It still is not clear whether the prospective new owners of the Hawks, the family of Simon Selig Jr., will be liable for payment.

"As of this moment, we haven't had a chance to discuss it with our attorneys," said Selig in Atlanta. "I'm not in a position really to make any comment."

McGinnis starred for the Indiana Pacers for the past four seasons. New York did not have the draft rights to him because he left the University of Indiana after his sophomore year to play in the ABA. The Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA drafted him two years ago when his class was graduated.

McGinnis has said he wants to play in the NBA for New York but not for Philadelphia. He is expected now to take his case to the courts.

Knicks President Michael Burke said he was "surprised and disappointed" by O'Brien's ruling. He said he "felt the action we took was proper and in the interests of the club and the NBA."

O'Brien did give New York a slight break. He said the Knicks could trade or make other arrangements for a first-round choice but they would not have their own.

Student Roper

Cowboys interested in learning steer-roping technique have come from all across the country to Cokrell Cattle Company, east of Pampa, to attend Walt Arnold's steer-roping school. The school started Monday and will end Saturday. Arnold, former national steer-roping champion, ranks No. 2 in the event this year in the Rodeo Cowboys Association standings.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Tom Gilley, dean of 3 AAAA basketball coaches and the only cage mentor Amarillo Palo Duro has ever known, was fired Wednesday by the Amarillo School Board.

Gilley, PD's head coach for all 20 years since the school opened, was "not recommended for re-election to his job by Mr. (Robert) Ashworth," said De Walker, Amarillo athletic director.

Ashworth is superintendent of Amarillo Public Schools.

Gilley learned of the decision at a Wednesday meeting attended by Walker, Ashworth, James Garrett (Palo Duro principal) and Sid Bayless (assistant personnel director of Amarillo Public Schools).

The outspoken Palo Duro mentor did not originally know why the meeting was called, he said Thursday in a telephone interview with The News.

"No, not exactly," Gilley said. "I thought we could work out our differences."

Some Don followers feel the "differences" were statements made by Gilley in the Feb. 12 Amarillo newspaper, in which he made public his feelings about inadequacies in the Amarillo basketball program.

Among those inadequacies, according to Gilley, were: Amarillo has no full-time basketball assistants and no summer program (like Pampa and Borger have for basketball). He also spoke out against the fact all district games in Amarillo are not played in the Civic Center.

Amarillo sports writer Bob Williams said in a column Thursday Gilley was probably fired as a result of those comments.

Williams wrote, "Gilley said that the reasons given him for not rehiring him include his ability as a teacher, his coaching, etc. His statements to the Globe-News were never mentioned."

"These reasons might hold water if it wasn't for the fact that Gilley has taught and coached 32 years in Amarillo, the last 20 at Palo Duro."

"It's just too coincidental that Gilley's contract wasn't renewed for the first time in 32 years after speaking out of what he felt were injustices in the sport he coached."

It may be coincidental but it also may be the comments in the Amarillo paper Feb. 12 were just the straw that broke the camel's back.

Gilley is best known for his antics pulled during a basketball game. Benches where Gilley has sat suffer from dents where his foot slammed. Officials' ears must burn from Gilley's razing words.

Yes, the T's (technical fouls) have been many.

"I think I was more or less fighting for my team," Gilley said. "I think a coach should. Maybe I should have got some of them; maybe I could have been a little better on the bench."

"If a coach doesn't have the spunk to stand up for his team, he's not much of a coach."

The T's have been fewer in the last two seasons, however, as Gilley may be mellowing. "I imagine I got called about three or four times last year and three or four times this year."

Even lately, though, the 57-year-old Gilley had his times. Like at Borger last season when he gave the Bulldog fans an obscene gesture for harassing him.

Gilley thinks, however, like Williams — that the reason for Wednesday's announcement was the comment.

"I think it all stems from the article where I was talking about upgrading the basketball program in Amarillo. They never did mention it in our conference," Gilley said.

"I think I was probably too close to people in sports (writers). I let them give all my statements instead of giving them myself."

Whatever the reason for his firing, Palo Duro will have only its second basketball coach in history.

And Gilley must find his second job in 20 years.

Seaver Nets 8th; Astros Fall

United Press International

Only a year ago Tom Seaver of the New York Mets was a confused pitcher standing at the crossroads of his career.

Today he is a star again—a "thinking man's pitcher" who mixed his pitches instead of trying to throw smoke past hitters.

A three-time 20-game winner and two-time Cy Young Award-winner during seven previous seasons with the Mets, Seaver had a 3-5 record at this stage of the 1974 season. The once-carefree, articulate native of Fresno, Calif., had become a somber, emotion-wracked chap who talked more like a head shrinker than a major league pitcher.

But all that is in the past. Adjusting to the fact that he no longer has the overpowering fast ball that he once had, Seaver now mixes his wide variety of stuff with outstanding control. The result is that he has an 8-4 mark this season—especially significant since he didn't win his eighth game of an 11-11 season in 1974 until Aug. 29.

"I can still reach back for the fast ball," said Seaver Thursday after pitching a six-hitter that gave the Mets a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros. "But I've learned I can't overpower the hitters in any situation—I have to mix up my pitches."

The Mets snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning when Dave Kingman singled with the bases filled to score Felix Millan, who opened the inning with a single. It was Kingman's third game-winning hit in the last four games. Tom Griffin, who went the distance for the Astros, suffered his sixth loss against two wins.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the San Francisco Giants, 8-4, in the other National League game. In the American League, the New York Yankees beat the Minnesota Twins, 7-4, the Cleveland Indians shaded the Kansas City Royals, 8-7, in 11 innings, and the California Angels topped the Detroit Tigers, 8-3, Texas at Baltimore was rained out.

Cubs 8, Giants 4: Singles by Don Kessinger, Jose Cardenal and Bill Madlock were the big blows of a four-run, eighth-inning during which the Cubs sent 10 men to bat and snapped a 4-4 tie. Darold Knowles pitched the last 3-2-3 innings and shut out the Giants to win his second game. Randy Moffitt suffered the loss.

Yankees 7, Twins 4: New York's Jim Hunter pitched an eight-hitter, raising his record to 8-5 behind a 14-hit attack, which included homers by Thurman Munson and Graig Nettles. Mud Carew hit two homers and had three hits in his fifth straight game to raise his average to .425 for the season and .634 in his last 11 games. Jim Hughes lost his third decision against six victories.

Indians 8, Royals 7: Buddy Bell's fourth homer of the year in the bottom of the 11th inning gave Cleveland reliever Dave LaRoche his first win of the season for 1-3 innings of one-hit relief. The Indians came back from a four-run deficit to tie the score with three runs in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Angels 8, Tigers 3: Bill Singer pitched an eight-hitter to raise his record to 5-7 for the Angels, who rallied from a three-run deficit. Dave Chalk had two doubles and a single and Billy Smith added a two-run single to lead California's attack that dealt Vern Riffe his second loss against five victories.

Borger To Host Meet

For Juniors

The West Texas AAU Junior Olympic Tra and Field Championships will be held June 28 in Bulldog Stadium at Borger.

Preliminaries for the running events and the finals for the field events will begin at 9 a.m.

The Meet is sanctioned by the West Texas AAU Association and is sponsored by the Borger Chamber of Commerce. The Chevrolet Motor Division is the National Sponsor of the Junior Olympics Program.

This phase of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States is designed to encourage age-level competition between both boys and girls up to 18 years of age. The program includes a variety of sports and is conducted each year throughout 58 District Associations of the AAU and involves in excess of 100,000 volunteer workers.

In 1974 millions of youngsters competed in some phase of the Junior Olympics program.

Four individuals in each of the selected events will qualify for Regional Competition. First place at the Borger meet in the Intermediate (born 1960-61) Division and the Senior (born 1958-59) Division will qualify to compete in the Region IX Championships July 12, at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattisburg, Miss.

In addition, the next two best times or distances in these Divisions will be qualified. Winners at the Region IX Meet will qualify to compete in the National Championships.

WT Announces Cage Schedule

CANYON. — A non-conference slate that includes such powers as Oklahoma State, Texas - El Paso, Jacksonville, and North Texas State, plus 14 games in the tough Missouri Valley Conference, are the main features of West Texas State University's 1975-76 basketball schedule announced this week by Athletic Director Dave Mayfield.

Fifteen of the games will be played at home and nine of the contests will be against schools that participated in post-season action last year.

MVC members Drake and Louisville were the most successful teams in that category last season. Drake won the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament, and Louisville finished third in the NCAA meet. Also, Southern Illinois, the newest Valley member, played in the National Invitation Tournament, and New Mexico State and Texas - El Paso played in the NCAA.

"I'm pleased with our schedule," Buff Head Coach Ron Ekker said. "I feel that it's a little tougher schedule than we've had in the past, and we've got some non-conference games that will be very rough."

"I'm happy that the non-conference schedule is a little stronger to get us ready for the Valley schedule if all we had was the Valley schedule, it would be tough enough."

The schedule starts with three home appearances in December before the Bulls meet UTEP in El Paso on Dec. 9. That same week, WTSU will host Oklahoma State (Dec. 11) and 1975 Southland Conference champ McNeese State (Dec. 13). The December schedule also includes road dates at Jacksonville (Dec. 20) and against Samford University (Dec. 22) in Birmingham, Ala.

The Missouri Valley Conference season opens Jan. 3 at defending champ Louisville. The first MVC home game is Jan. 8 against Tulsa.

Floyd Grabs 2-Stroke Lead In Rebuilt Kemper Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — After last year's Kemper Open with its embarrassingly low scores, officials got busy planting trees and digging bunkers to make the course tougher. Apparently Ray Floyd never got the word.

Floyd, 32, picked up birdies on each of the four par-5 holes on the Quail Hollow Country Club course and fired a 7-under 65 Thursday to take a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $250,000 Kemper Open.

"If you birdie the four par fives, you're not going to shoot over par," Floyd said after a round that was only one stroke off the course record.

"I hear about these rounds, but I don't think I've ever described one before," he smiled.

Floyd, a native of Ft. Bragg, N.C. and winner of the 1969 PGA tournament, said he had a "thinking man's round" with no "mental errors."

Roger Maltbie, a mustachioed San Jose State University grad looking for his first tour victory, and veteran Bobby Mitchell shot 5-under-par 67's in Thursday's morning round before the winds picked up over the 7,160-yard course.

Dick Rhyan, Jim Dent and Bob Murphy, winner of this year's Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic, were three strokes behind Floyd at 4-under-par 68 entering today's round.

Kleasen Says He's Ready To Die in Electric Chair

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Robert Elmer Kleasen says he is innocent of the murder of a Mormon missionary but he still would rather die like a man in the electric chair than beg for his life "like a dog."
District Judge Tom Backwell formally sentenced Kleasen Wednesday to death for the dismemberment murder of Mark Fischer, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis.
Defense attorney Roscoe Haley said he will appeal the murder conviction and death sentence as quickly as possible.

Blackwell asked Kleasen if he had any final statement to make before being sentenced to die.
"Yes sir," Kleasen replied. "I'm innocent."
Outside the courtroom, Kleasen criticized Haley for begging for Kleasen's life before the jury ordered the death sentence Tuesday.
District Attorney Robert O. Smith said Kleasen was angry with the Mormon church, and had written a Mormon elder in San Antonio saying "I've been insulted and lied about. I want to go after my false accusers. I have no pangs of pity. I want their heads."

Wheat May Become Feed For Cattle

HAYS, Kan. (UPI) — Beef specialist John Breathour at the Ft. Hays State College experimental station says feeding wheat to cattle can soon become commercially feasible.
Breathour told a group of farmers touring the station Wednesday the cattle feeding industry is concerned about possible shortages of corn and milo before the upcoming predicted bumper crop is harvested.
"Many commercial feedlots are interested in feeding wheat if they could be assured of a continuous supply," Breathour said. "As much as 140 million bushels of wheat could be fed to beef before this year's corn and milo harvest comes in."

Dr. McQueeney Gives Workshop for Schools

Dr. David McQueeney is instructor at the Pampa Independent School District sponsored workshop currently going on at Horace Mann Elementary School.
The workshop, which opened on Monday, is entitled "Summer of '75 — A Summer Without Failure."
Dr. McQueeney, of the Convalescent Hospital for Children in Rochester, N.Y., is presenting "Discipline in the Classroom: A Reality Therapy Model" to participants in the workshop who will receive either two units of credit through La Verne College or 30 hours of professional growth credit. La Verne College is an accredited institution of higher education in La Verne, Calif.
Dr. McQueeney received his doctorate from the University of Missouri. He has taught in the public schools of New York State and has served as an educational consultant and counselor in Missouri.

The Educator Training Center, a non-profit, teacher-in-service institution has credentialed Dr. McQueeney. The center is headed by Dr. William Glasser who has written "Identity Society," "Schools Without Failure," and "Reality Therapy," which contains the practice and principles on which the workshop is based.
More than 40 area educators are attending the workshop. It is designed so that they take part in learning activities that will enable them to develop positive techniques based on reality therapy for handling student behavior problems.

Reformatory Inmates Rebel in Oklahoma

GRANITE, Okla. (UPI) — State reformatory inmates demanding more privileges staged a seven-hour uprising in an education building Wednesday taking the prison's school principal and 10 other persons hostage.
The inmates, armed with homemade knives, clubs and icepicks, demanded their grievances be read over the radio and tuned in to a Hobart station to hear them. A short time later they released their hostages unharmed and returned to their cells.
"There were no injuries and little physical damage," Gov. David Boren said. "We are thankful the hostages are released. This kind of action by the inmates can not be and will not be tolerated. This is not a way to bring about reforms."
John Grider, former Granite reformatory warden and now acting state corrections director, promised the inmates he will meet with them to discuss their complaints.
Boren credited Grider with successfully ending the rebellion.
About 20 inmates of more than 60 in the area took school principal Lester Denny, eight other staff members and two fellow prisoners hostage during regular classes. Denny, who suffers from a heart condition, was released a short time later to deliver a statement of grievances to corrections officials.

The inmates wanted improved opportunities for visitation, vocational rehabilitation and training and permission to have radios and stereos in their cells. They also demanded segregation of mentally disturbed inmates from the others.
Boren said neither he nor the corrections board could promise the inmates immunity from prosecution. He said local District Attorney Richard Dugger said he would take their behavior into consideration if they freed the hostages unharmed.
Grider flew to the reformatory in far southwestern Oklahoma from McAlester, scene of the country's most destructive riot in 1973.
Sam Hammons, Borens' corrections aide, said most prisoners at Granite were between 18 and 20 years-old. He said some were multiple offenders, but few, if any, were over 21.
He said after the McAlester riot some older and more hardened prisoners were sent to Granite because of overcrowding elsewhere, but they had been transferred to other institutions.

Whales have all the bones that humans do, minus those of the hind limbs, says Warren Zeiler, manager-curator of the Miami Seaquarium. The total for a whale is about 194 bones.

Former Miss Oklahoma

Calls Beauty Pageants Sexist

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The crown and banners should be eliminated from the Miss Oklahoma and Miss America pageants and each contestant allowed to compete as an individual and not as a sex object, according to the reigning Miss Oklahoma, Debbie Knight, commenting Wednesday on her year as Miss Oklahoma on the eve of this year's pageant, said some portions of the competition and some of the activities she was involved with since winning the crown had a "sexist" nature.

"This is true to a certain extent," she said. "In some of the situations I found myself in I was treated or looked upon more as an object and not as an individual. I think it would help."
Asked if she agreed with feminist criticism of the pageant, she said:

"Everyone is a person, more than just a female or a male, and I really agree with their stand on (beauty pageants) creating just an object image. If something could be done to do away with the crown and banner and let each person be an individual, I think it would help."
Despite her attitude toward the crown and the city and regional banners the contestants wear, however, she supported the continuation of the swimsuit competition, one of the most criticized events in beauty pageants.

"It's more than just what the person looks like and how she is carrying herself," she said. "If you can walk across the stage in that little amount of clothing, I think you can exercise a certain amount of poise and that is what they're looking for."

Miss Knight also advised would-be pageant contestants to wait until they are in college or older before entering the competition.
"How do you really know you want to be Miss Oklahoma until you become really aware of yourself as a person or aware of what you can contribute? What good is Miss Oklahoma if she can't contribute anything?"

Tarpley Music Company

BUZZ TARPLEY

"To stay in a community this size for so long, really means something," said Buz Tarpley of Tarpley Music Company, 117 N. Cuyler.

A piano is a lasting thing, he explained. "Many times we are selling to the same people, whether it be music or service, so we need to set a reputation and maintain it."

Clara Tarpley began the music store in 1927 at 115 N. Cuyler. It burned in 1956 and the store was rebuilt at the same location. It moved in the early sixties to the larger location next door.

Tarpley is a native of Pampa. He graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a business degree. His field was accounting until he joined the music business.

He explained that the percentage of piano families is growing. "It is greater now than it used to be and keeps increasing." One explanation for the growth is that there is more than one child to a family. Many times a parent will pass on a piano from one generation to another leaving it to the child who had the lessons when he was young.

"Those who buy today are interested in giving their children music. It is something that can always be used and is always appreciated," Tarpley added. "They buy because they had the opportunity to take lessons when they were growing up and either did not want to or they did not have a piano."

"Last year was the biggest year I ever had," Tarpley claimed. "Pampa has a steady economy with many people in the middle income bracket."

The Tarpley's also own the operate Tolzien Music Company in Amarillo.
