Gas Guzzlers Penalized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has decided on a penalty against gas-guzzling automobiles.

Some members praised the action as a signal to Americans that Congress is "serious." Others called it a "creampuff" designed in Detroit.

It was adopted Thursday as part of an energy tax bill which House leaders hoped to finish today.

President Ford, who met with congressional leaders of both parties Wednesday and scheduled another meeting for today, asked Congress to enact a comprehensive bill. Clearly he thinks the House bill is not.

The bill would put quotas on oil imports, tax certain business use of fuels, reward conservation with tax breaks and penalize car manufacturers whose fleets fall short of a miles-per-gallon standard.

The provision approved

Thursday sets 18.5 miles a gallon as the standard for 1978 models. Cars could miss that by half a mile per gallon and still escape the penalty. But beyond that, a manufacturer whose fleet average fell short would be fined $5 for each tenth of a mile it fell short. The $5 would be multiplied by all the autos he manufactured.

If his 1978 model average were 17 miles per gallon, he would pay a fine of $50 for each car he made. The fine likely would be passed on as a higher price, so the customer would, in effect, pay it.

Rep. Philip Sharp, D-Ind., who introduced the provision, said it was a "middle ground" between various proposals.

"This is one of the strongest things left in this bill," Rep. Robert Krueger, D-Tex., said. "I think we need to tell the American people we are serious about doing something."

Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Min., said the idea saves hardly any energy. He recalled President Ford had said Congress needed to "bite the bullet" and enact far-reaching legislation.

"That bullet you thought you were biting has turned into a creampuff," Frenzel contended.

Without much tougher gas mileage requirements, Rep. Joseph Fisher, D-Va., said, "We do not have an energy bill worthy of the name."

Ford had let it be known, through administration energy officials and friendly congressmen, that the tax bill was not palatable without a provision lifting price controls from oil and without strong measures to stimulate domestic production of fuels.

County Urges US Senate To Approve Creek Project

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A resolution requesting that the McClellan Creek area be declared a disaster and urging early U.S. Senate approval of the McClellan Creek Watershed project was passed unanimously this morning by the Gray County Commissioners Court.

Commissioner Ted Simmons made the motion and reminded the court that Soil Conservation officials estimated $2 million in damages from May 28 storm which let raging waters churn downstream from the overflowing Lake McClellan.

Copies of the Gray County commissioners resolution will be mailed to Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe, Senator John Tower, Senator Loyd Bentsen Jr., Congressman Jack Hightower, and Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

Simmons said if the watershed project had been passed and completed, it would have prevented extensive damages.

In other action, the commissioners approved the May welfare report of expenditures of $2,189.16 to provide needs for 33 Gray County families.

The commissioners also ordered the county clerk to notify taxpayers whose property valuations have increased. The notices will be mailed as soon as the clerk receives a list of the industrial firms and residents with valuation increases.

Judge Don Cain said he received a notice from the Federal Aviation Agency that officials in that department have no objection to the county's five year lease contract with Pampa Aircraft Inc.

The contract, originally signed for two years, was extended to five years recently.

The court also received a notice that the Summer Youth program under the U.S. Department of Labor's Manpower Administration has been approved for $458 million in addition to $15 million for the recreation summer program. Judge Cain was notified that the House passed the measure in a 408 to 8 vote.

The $458 million is an increase above the initial amount of $412.7 million by almost 10 per cent, officials noted.

A spokesman in the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission Office in Amarillo said Thursday that the May report shows that Gray County had 52 youths in the program during May.

Wild Offshore Well Catches Fire Today

INTRACOASTAL CITY, La. (UPI) — The Coast Guard today warned boaters to stay at least five miles away from a gas well blowout in the Gulf of Mexico because of a high probability of fire and explosions.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the message was being radioed hourly to all vessels approaching the vicinity of the Amoco Production Co platform 70 miles south-southeast of Intracoastal City and 50 miles from the Southwest Louisiana coast.

"Mariners are requested to remain clear of the rig to a five mile radius," he said.

He also said equipment to cap the well, spewing a mixture of natural gas, oil and water, may not arrive at the site until Saturday. Water pollution was reported to be minor.

"The drilling rig which experienced the blowout continues to discharge gas and condensate in the air resulting in a high probability of fire and explosions in the area," the warning message said.

An Amoco spokesman said the likelihood of fire was present but may not be as great as the message indicated.

"I view this as being a conventional warning such as issued to small craft when a major rainstorm is coming."

said Joel Power of Amoco. "What we're dealing with is what are the odds of a lightning bolt hitting you walking down the street?"

He also said the chance of fire had been reduced by positioning a spray barge near the well to pump water on the platform.

The gas, water and oil formed a gaseous white cloud over the well, which blew out Wednesday night. Twenty-seven rig crewmen were evacuated without injury as soon as the blowout occurred.

Information on the amount of oil and natural gas feeding the fire was not available.

"After company officials assess the situation they will release further details as they become available," said Joel Power of Amoco.

The Coast Guard previously warned all vessels to stay at least five miles away from the well because of the probability it would ignite. A message informing ship, crewboat and fishing boat captains of the danger was broadcast hourly.

"The drilling rig which experienced the blowout continues to discharge gas and condensate in the air resulting in a high probability of fire and explosions in the area," the message said.

Prairie Dog Dies Here

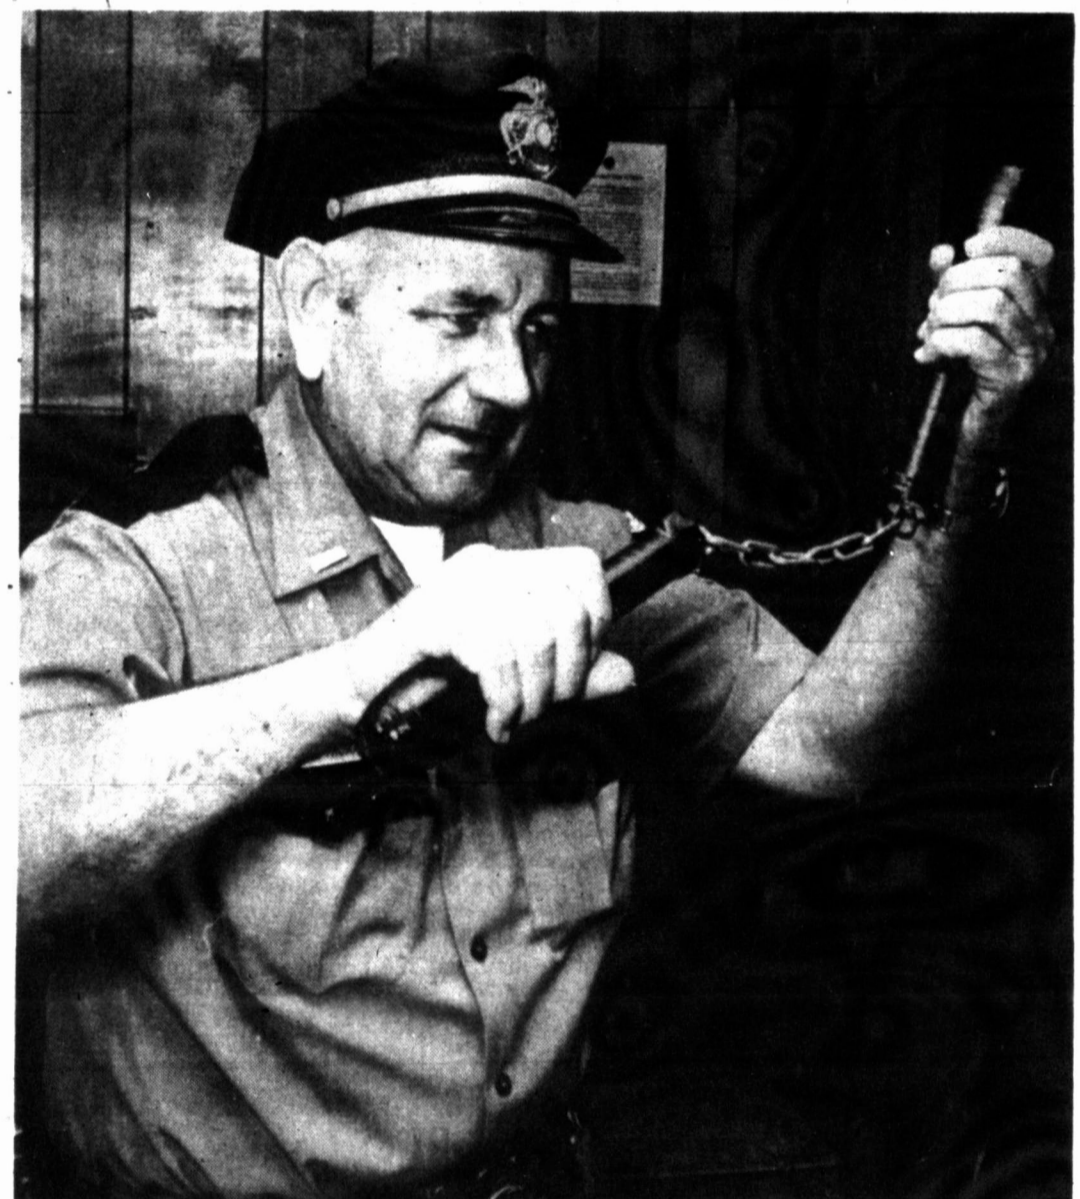

A prairie dog was found Thursday in back of Pampa Hardware in downtown Pampa.

The animal, according to city sanitarian E.O. Devoll, was sick and was taken to Royce Animal Clinic. It was dead on arrival.

He said that the clinic will hold the prairie dog until Saturday morning to try to discover if it is someone's pet or if it had bitten anyone.

Any person having such information is advised by Devoll to contact the police department.

Illegal Weapon

These nuchuckas are a prohibitive weapon and those who break the law by carrying them are subject to a penalty of six months in county jail and a $1,000 fine. Police Chief Richard Mills issued the warning today and said many are apparently unaware of the law since they have seen the weapons on television. Lt. John Thomas of the Pampa Police Department shows how dangerous the weapons can be.

Israel Insists Egypt Honor Nixon Agreements

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin insists that Egypt honor its secret undertaking to former President Nixon to allow Israeli cargoes to transit the Suez Canal.

Otherwise, he indicated at a news conference Thursday, a new interim agreement for Israeli withdrawals in the Sinai could not be negotiated.

Rabin and President Ford wound up two days of talks Thursday. Rabin was meeting with congressmen today before departing in the afternoon for New York.

There have been widespread published reports of a secret Egyptian pledge on Israeli transit made as part of the last Arab- Israeli interim troop disengagement and allegedly repeated to Nixon. Cairo has neither confirmed nor denied the reports.

Rabin did not specifically cite them Thursday, but the context made it clear he had them in mind when a reporter asked about passage of Israeli cargoes through the canal, reopened for traffic June 5.

Rabin replied: "We believe all agreements must be carried out in all their parts before any new agreement can be reached."

He said Israel prefers more step-by-step negotiations rather than a return to the Geneva conference table. U.S. sources indicated that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger probably will go to the Middle East next month to restart his shuttle diplomacy.

Defense Says Army Kept Civilian Files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department said today an Army counter intelligence unit had kept files on civilians in violation of a 1971 promise to stop such action.

Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway told Congress that a microfilm library and computer index kept by the Army's counter intelligence analysis detachment "was discovered to contain information relating to the activities of American civilians not affiliated with the Department of Defense."

He said this was an "apparent contravention of Defense Department and Army regulations which have been in effect since 1971."

"The Army has instituted steps to eliminate all of the nonretainable material from the files," he said. "However, at the request of Congress, the Army is holding the material."

During the 1960s, a time of many demonstrations against the war in Vietnam, Army intelligence conducted a number of investigations, according to a report by the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee.

It said the Army kept files on at least 100,000 civilians in the late '60s, that more than 350 separate Army units compiled files and that in many cases the Pentagon was unaware of this surveillance.

In a report to Congress dated May 6, Callaway said the counter intelligence group had files of about 160,000 documents, 24,000 of them since the June 1, 1971 directive against civilian snooping.

Callaway said 23 of those documents may have violated the regulations and 61 more should probably not be kept because they violate a new Army rule against keeping information gathered overseas.

Denton Recommends Briscoe Veto To Save State Money

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe could save the state $41.9 million and not affect essential state services by vetoing eight items in the 1975 spending bill passed by the legislature, according to Rep. Lane Denton, D-Waco.

Denton recommended Thursday Briscoe veto an appropriation for a mental health program for youths, a prison unit and construction at Texas Eastern University along with five other items.

Denton said the appropriation for the mental health project was "ridiculous because it means sending urban children to a remote area to learn to adapt to an urban environment. He said the prison appropriation could lead to a potentially violent situation. And the school appropriation, he said, would be putting the state in a position of spending twice as much per student for that school as most others in the state.

Denton made his recommendations in a letter to the governor.

"I am very concerned that little attention has been given the fact that excessive state spending and governmental waste over the next two years will almost certainly force the enactment of a major tax increase by the next session of the legislature," Denton said in his letter.

Denton said Briscoe should veto $5.8 million for residential care of drug dependent youths at a Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center in Vernon.

"It makes little sense to send drug dependent youths from Houston, San Antonio, Dallas, etc. out to an institution in this remote area so they can learn to cope with their urban environment," Denton said.

He also recommended the governor veto a $4.8 million appropriation at the state prison's Coffield Unit.

"This construction project was ill-conceived from the beginning and will result in one of the largest single prison complexes in the world," Denton said. "Such a large facility may create a situation ripe for discontent and violence by the inmate population."

Denton suggested the governor also veto a $9.9 million appropriation for construction at Texas Eastern University in Tyler.

"With this appropriation for construction the expenditure per student at this small university will exceed $15,000 per year," Denton said. "This amount is twice as costly as most other universities in Texas."

Weather

The weather forecast today calls for partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures. Highs will be the 90s dropping to the 60s tonight. A slight chance of thunderstorms is predicted.

The largest appropriation Denton suggested be vetoed is a $17.2 million allocation for construction and expansion of the East Texas Chest Hospital. Denton said the hospital is only half full now.

Tugs at Heart Strings

Shauna Kitchens, 2 1/2 years of age, is scheduled to undergo extensive tests and possibly open heart surgery in Galveston on June 26. She models her favorite dress in shades of orange and white, as her mother, Mrs. Howard Kitchens of 609 N. Christy tells of Shauna's condition.

Shauna Goes to Hospital To Have Her Heart Fixed

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Pretty blonde haired, blue eyed Shauna Kitchens, 2 1/2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kitchens of 609 N. Christy, has a defective heart.

She will check into John Sealy Hospital at Galveston at 9 a.m. on June 26 where extensive tests are scheduled along with possible open heart surgery.

The Gray County Chapter of the National Foundation of the March of Dimes will assist the Kitchens family with expenses to Galveston and possibly help with other costs during Shauna's stay.

Shauna, now weighs 30 pounds. She takes a cold easily and requires much more rest than usual," Mrs. Kitchens said.

Born Oct. 1, 1972, Shauna, the youngest of five children, weighed eight pounds.

"We never dreamed she had any problems until eight months ago," Mrs. Kitchens said.

Shauna and her sister, Veronica, 6, had scarlatina. When Mrs. Kitchens took the girls to a doctor, she was told that Shauna had a heart murmur and should see a specialist.

Mrs. Kitchens made an appointment for Shauna—

"We had hoped it would be just a heart murmur since I have one and I know I'm alright," said the 31-year-old mother.

The specialist informed the parents their daughter must undergo more extensive tests and possibly open heart surgery.

With five children, Mrs. Kitchens said she knew the family would need financial assistance. She called Don Loshier, a director with the Gray County Chapter of the National Foundation March of Dimes.

Loshier in turn contacted Howard Weatherly, chairman, who discussed the problem with Mrs. Kitchens.

Shauna has now won the hearts of those she came in contact with.

Mrs. Kitchens said she doesn't know what to expect in Galveston, but she has received many well wishes.

For example, a Groom resident Mrs. Bill Burgin, wrote the Kitchens of the success of her son's heart surgery at the age of 3.

Don Burgin is now 18 and was recently named an "All American" in high school football.

"Without surgery I know that Shauna can't keep up with normal activities. She already sleeps a lot," her mother said.

"If the tests show the surgery is real serious we still know she has a chance, but we don't know what the odds are," Mrs. Kitchens explained.

The Kitchens other children are Darryl, 15; Sammy, 13; Mark, 9; and Veronica, 6.

Relatives will take care of the children while Mrs. Kitchens is with Shauna in Galveston.

Shauna's father is employed by Packerland Packing Co. of Texas Inc.

LOCAL POLLUTION CONTROL BEST

States' rights affirmed

There is some good news and some potential for bad news in the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court allowing individual states more latitude in meeting air quality standards. The good news is that the nation's highest court has recognized the concept that states are in a better position to weigh cause and effect in air pollution problems within their boundaries than the federal government. The bad news will come only if some states choose to use the decision as a loophole to exercise their sovereignty casually or not at all.

The court has ruled that in passing the landmark 1970 amendments to the Clean Air Act, Congress gave the federal Environmental Protection Agency a "secondary role in the process of determining and enforcing the specific, source-by-source emission limitations" of air pollution sources.

Certainly, state governments are closer to the specific problems of pollution control within their geographic and political subdivisions than is a federal agency in Washington. With the leeway granted by the court — including a relaxation of some standards for as long as three years if warranted — the states now can concentrate on antipollution efforts that will prove to be most productive in various communities. For example, one state may be able to increase the use of high sulfur coal in industrial plants in rural areas while continuing to press the fight against vehicular smog in urban areas.

The air pollution pattern in the United States of America is spotty. Russell E. Train, head of the EPA, says the nation may have turned the corner in its fight to control air pollution, but that is far from saying that we have won the fight. For example, automobile pollution has been identified as the major threat to air quality in the Los Angeles area, and antimog efforts there must be continued. In New York City and Pittsburgh, however, factories are the major source of particles of soot, dust and metal that pollute the air. Chicago's large steel industry is being blamed for air pollution there. The problem in Kansas City comes from both cars and utilities which burn coal and controls in those two areas are beginning to show results.

The court's decision takes a step forward in allowing the states to deal more particularly with incidents of air pollution as they arise. It must not be interpreted by the states, however, as allowing a truce in the war against air pollution.

For three years the court's judgment switches quarterbacks from the federal government to the state to allow those closer to the contest to call the plays. But it is still being played under essentially the same rules with the same objective.

Eye on New Hampshire

Lawmakers in New Hampshire, jealously protective of the state's reputation as the first testing ground for aspiring candidates for the presidency, have given flexibility to their primary election law.

Wary of moves in other New England legislatures to establish regional primaries — possibly earlier than the traditional first Tuesday in March scheduled in New Hampshire — Gov. Meldrim Thomson signed a bill authorizing the presidential primary "on the Tuesday a week before any primary in any other state."

Officials of Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and Massachusetts deny their intent to hold the first primary in the nation, but concede privately their disenchantment with the possible effect of the New Hampshire vote on voters nationwide. Their apprehensions are centered upon the influence of the state's largest newspaper, the Manchester Union, and its ultra-conservative publisher William Loeb.

New Hampshire's response to the threat of its neighbors came with commendable alacrity, but may be futile. Political traditions are fleeting in nature as attested to by the memorable assurance that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation" and the crumbling of "the solid South."

MORE GOV'T PROTECTION
Pity The Poor Consumers

By OSCAR W. COOLEY
It seems we consumers are to have another government agency to protect us.

Considering the politicians' concern for consumers it would seem we are being abused, starved, and poisoned by the cooks who prepare our victuals, that is, the business firms that produce for us. Probably the fact is that no society of consumers has ever been served, catered to, not to say coddled, as we.

Let's look at just one aspect of this: the myriad variety of goods and services that are offered to consumers in our markets. Every supermarket has upwards of 10,000 kinds of goods on sale. Nobody buys all of these items, but every item is wanted by some or it would not be stocked.

Some, perhaps taking their cue from Nader, think this is very wasteful. All should want the same things, so that retail stores could be smaller and distribution less costly.

That is the way in Communist countries. Goods are standardized and limited in variety. People buy, not what they want but what the commissars decree they shall have.

A free economy is ruled by the consumers through their purchases. Being free to choose, they express a vast number of preferences, and the economy caters to them.

The reader might think people vote for or against a product just as in a political election they vote for or against a candidate or measure, and as the majority votes all must conform. That is the way in political world but not in the economic. Here is how

Ludwig von Mises, free-market economist, puts it:
"In the political democracy, only the votes cast for the majority candidate or plan are effective in shaping the course of affairs. The votes polled by the minority do not directly influence policies. But on the market no vote is case in vain. Every penny spent has the power to work upon the production processes."
For example, "the publishers cater not only to the majority by publishing detective stories but also to the minority reading lyrical poetry and philosophical tracts. The bakeries bake bread not only for healthy people but also for the sick or special diets."
In short, in political elections, one party wins, the other loses. Depending on which party you support, you either win all or win nothing. In economic democracy no one is forced to accept what the majority favors. Each has a wide choice, and by shopping around each gets what he prefers. Everybody wins. Assume a city in which there are 100,000 people qualified to vote at the polls. If 50,001 vote for a given measure, it will be adopted; 49,999 will lose. One group, only infinitesimally larger, will get its way and rule the entire city. The rest will have to submit. (Examples can be cited in history of how the fate of the nation has been swung by a single vote.)
Consider the same community choosing dessert for Sunday dinner. A majority of 50,001 might "vote" at the supermarkets for vanilla ice cream. Fair enough but not even one of the remaining 49,999 is required to eat vanilla ice cream. Maybe 20,000 will vote for strawberry parfait, 10,000 for apple pie, 8,000 for chocolate eclairs, 7,000 for crackers and cheese, and 4,999 for stewed prunes. Every member of each group will get just what he voted for. Nobody will go away frustrated and determined to get revenge at the next election, as the losers of a political contest do.

The contrast between political and economic decision-making gives one a clue to why so much conflict is engendered by politics. One group of citizens is exerting power over another group, which if fighting back and trying to gain the ascendancy, so it can exert the power. In the marketplace, no consumers seek power over others. The chocolate eclairs fans are not out to proselytize the apple pie gourmets, nor are the stewed prune connoisseurs opposing the vanilla ice cream enthusiasts. Each cares not a fig what the other "votes" for. Every diner to his taste.

So why all the worry about the consumer? He of all people is sitting pretty so long as the producers are free to cater to him, competing for his trade.

In a free-market economy, the "invisible hand" of competition between producers is the consumers' protection. It is a far more reliable protector than the politician.

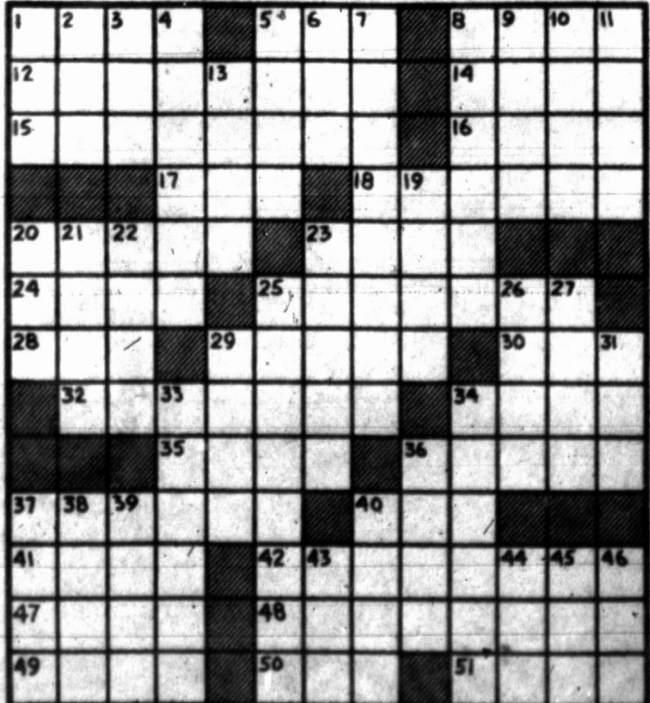

Government in these days has its hands full protecting us from very real foreign enemies. It will do well to stop concerning itself with consumers, who are already well protected.

One senses the reason politicians are so eager to protect the consumer is that they resent his consumer sovereignty — his freedom of choice — which makes him independent of them. They want to limit his choice in the marketplace and force him to make more decisions the political way.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

Weird Teacher Antics
Are Cause for Concern

By MAX RAFFERTY
As a lifelong schoolteacher, I have long harbored the conviction that some of my colleagues are pretty weird. The two news stories documented below are cases in point.

Caper No. 1: A Florida high school civics teacher named Carol Kline apparently got bored to the teeth teaching dull old American government and decided to jazz things up a little. So she and her class proceeded to film a prearranged mock holdup of an Altamonte Springs convenience store in the course of which one of her turned-out students with a stocking pulled over his face and carrying a gun ran into the store, yelled for all the money and escaped in a getaway car driven by a female classmate. Shades of Bonnie and Clyde!

The only fly in the ointment was Sheriff's Deputy Albert Thompson, patrolling the area and blissfully unaware of Ms. Kline's "project." He sped off in pursuit of the gunman and his moll and pulled them over to the curb. Luckily for all concerned, he noticed the extreme youth of the two fugitives and gave them time to explain. Nobody was shot up, no thanks to the ineffable Ms. Kline.

But get a load of her summing up: "Sure, there was a risk involved. But we will take that risk for educational purposes." Educational purposes? Teaching kids to rob a store? Words fail me. I don't think they would fail me for long, however, if I were her principal, her superintendent or her school board president.

Caper No. 2: Southwest Minnesota State College's Thomas Lippert, an assistant professor of business administration, has been charged with the abduction of student Susan Cochran. He and one of his former students are alleged to have kidnaped the young lady from Purdue University and to have held her for an "experiment in love," in which her captors subjected her to electric shocks and "all kinds of mechanical devices" to make her "fall in love" with one of them.

The FBI finally had to track her down and free her from the Southwest Minnesota State College Library — of all places. She had been picked up by two men at her sorority house and held for three weeks, afraid to escape because her abductors had threatened vengeance upon her family. Fortunately, she had not been physically harmed.

Knowing the idiot fringe of my profession, I am convinced that neither of these macabre pedagogical Halloween pranks was caused by sadism, valetence or plain old criminality. They were caused by boredom tempered with stupidity.

Teachers get restless sometimes. They have to teach the same classes, stress the same subject matter, use the same books and follow the same lesson plans month after month, year after year. So they start looking around — those who should never have gone into teaching in the first place — for some new gimmick, some exotic "project" which will cause the joint to jump a little and the old adrenalin to flow. And in so doing, they are very apt to wreak irreparable damage, such as getting somebody killed or ruining someone's entire future.

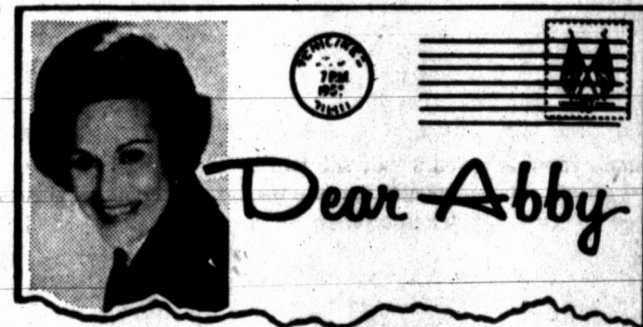

Teaching has never been entertaining or mind-blowing or fun, fun, fun. It's not supposed to be. Like life, much of it is necessarily pretty factual and prosaic and humdrum. The mistake school administrators too often make is hiring swingers instead of scholars — characters who think education should be a perpetual roller-coaster ride instead of a rocky but rewarding path to culture, learning and self-discipline.

With five or six applicants for every teaching vacancy these days, fellow superintendents, why keep on hiring the loose nuts?

Hubby's Dirty Jokes
Turn Guests Off

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was recently the master of ceremonies at a banquet that about 300 people attended. Many of the town's leading citizens were there.

Well, my husband stood up there and told one dirty joke after another. (He never told me those jokes at home.) Some in the audience laughed, but I noticed the looks on the faces of some of the others, and they seemed shocked and somewhat disgusted. I was embarrassed, to say the least, and could hardly hold up my head.

Afterward, when I went to the powder room, none of the women there even spoke to me.

Abby, why would an educated man like my husband get up before a group of men and women, and tell filthy jokes? I can't have you sending your reply to the house since my husband gets the mail first and I don't want him to know I wrote to you.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Your husband probably thought he was being entertaining. It was simply a case of bad judgment. Let him know that you were disappointed in him. He may learn from it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She is usually a very sweet and considerate person, but when we take her to the movies, she hoots and howls and talks out loud. This is not only annoying to the other people in the theater, it is also very embarrassing for my husband and children.

We really love Mums and wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world, but taking her to a movie is a hassle.

Please give us any suggestions you might have since Mums is coming again soon and she loves to go to the movies.

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Hooting and howling during the funny parts would normally distract no one, but if Mums is the only one who thinks a sequence is funny, her problem may be bigger than yours.

Talking out loud is unfair to others, so gently shush her when she gets carried away.

Or take her to drive-in movies. Only those in your car will be annoyed, which would eliminate the embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been dead for several years, but a friend of hers (now quite elderly) asked me if she could use my home to entertain 16 ladies at a birthday luncheon. She explained that her small apartment wasn't adequate.

I agreed gladly, but I did absolutely nothing for the party. The woman who gave the party provided the food and flowers, and even hired the help.

I later learned that one woman declined the invitation because she felt that since the party was being given at my home, the invitation should have come from ME!

This has bothered me. Should I have sent out the invitations?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: No, you were not the hostess. You only agreed to have the party in your home.

India's Gandhi Party Crushed at Elections

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's political fortunes and prestige suffered another major blow today when her ruling Congress party was crushed at the polls in election of a legislature in violence-torn Gujarat State.

Her leadership of India was seriously jeopardized Thursday when a high court convicted her of corrupt election practices in the 1971 national elections and ordered to resign from parliament and the premiership. The court stayed the order for 20 days to permit her to appeal to the Supreme Court.

She called on her supporters today to stand behind her during her gravest political crisis and said she would continue to overcome her difficulties as she has in the past. Political opponents called on her to resign immediately, but she was keeping the nation guessing whether she would remain in office.

As this nation of 600 million was still reeling over Thursday's corruption conviction, returns were made public from the local elections in Gujarat State, showing her Congress party won only 74 seats on her state's 182-member legislative assembly — far short of the majority she deemed crucial to her national image.

Adding to the humiliation of the landmark court ruling was the fact that voting in the western coastal state of Gujarat came several days before the court ruling and she had seen it as a test of her national popularity before the national elections, less than a year away.

Mrs. Gandhi campaigned furiously over the past four weeks throughout Gujarat. But her party won only 74 seats and a United Front Coalition swept 87 of the seats. Congress alone among the nine contesting parties fielded a full slate for the elections — 182 candidates for 182 seats.

Her party's defeat was particularly significant since it was the Congress leadership in the state, charged with rampant corruption, that was the target of two months of sustained rioting in Gujarat by student-led mobs which ultimately brought down the government by forcing its resignation early last year.

Eighty-six persons were killed in the rioting and when the government capitulated, the state with a population of 27 million persons was placed under president's rule pending this week's new elections.

The current results contrasted unfavorably with Mrs. Gandhi's popularity during the last Gujarat elections three years ago, when Congress bagged 140 seats in the then 168-member assembly for a clear majority.

In the aftermath of Thursday's high court ruling against her, Mrs. Gandhi left it to the nation to interpret from her remarks whether she would step down as prime minister. The statements she did make seemed to tilt in favor of her retaining the nation's leadership.

"I am never upset or afraid of anything," she told a huge gathering outside her house today.

Half a Century on a Bike

At the age of 75, Vane Learn has ridden a motorcycle more than a half a million miles all over the country — and he has no plans to quit. He visited his daughter and family, the Howard O'Neals of 1920 Evergreen this week. Learn and his wife look over his moto Guzzi with granddaughter, Kelly O'Neal of Pampa, before they depart today.

Half Million Miles Later He's Still Motorcycling

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Vane Learn is 75 years old — and he has ridden a motorcycle more than half a million miles during the past 61 years.

He started riding at the age of 14 in 1914. Last week he rode from his home in Harvey, Ill., to Pampa — a total of 1,050 miles — to visit his daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Howard O'Neal of 1920 Evergreen.

He stopped in Frankfort, Ill., Hot Springs, Ark., and Tulsa before he reached Pampa.

"When the motorcycle gets me down and I can't get it up — I'll have to quit riding — but until then I'll keep traveling," Learn said.

Mrs. Learn has ridden double with her husband for many years, but she had a heart attack about 18 months ago and was forced to use other transportation for a while.

She flew here to meet her husband, and departed via plane Thursday for home. He left Pampa today to attend the Moto Guzzi Motorcycle Rally in Manhattan, Kan.

The Learn's will celebrate their 45th wedding anniversary Saturday. Mrs. Learn will be in Harvey and Learn will be in Manhattan.

"I'll kiss you goodbye for the summer," she told her husband in Pampa before departing for home. He plans to spend many of the summer months on his 850 motorcycle.

He rides a Moto Guzzi — a $3,000 investment — which costs about 1 1/2 cents per mile to operate, he said.

Learn says you can't beat a motorcycle for economy. He averages 40 miles to a gallon of gas.

"But that isn't the reason I ride one — it's because I like it."

He makes excellent time in his travels — drives as fast as the speed limit will allow.

The Learn's have ridden together in every state in the union — with the exception of Alaska and Hawaii.

He retired in 1971 as an electric welder for the International Brotherhood of Electric Welders.

"I don't stay anywhere for long at a time," he said.

The biggest change Learn has observed in his 61 years of riding is improvement in roads.

"They used to be all dirt and gravel — and now they are superb," he said.

Asked about the dangers of motorcycle riding, Learn replied:

"They are as safe as the operators." He has encountered several accidents, but so far he has come out of each without a broken bone. He sustained a sprained wrist when he collided with a car "going 65 miles an hour."

Rain, shine, sleet or snow, he keeps riding. "I want to keep the motor running," he said.

If you're a new cyclist, Learn advises: "Don't ever know more than the motorcycle." "Riding is comparable to riding a horse — you are a part of it."

In 1959, he received the trophy for riding the most distance — 27,832 miles — in one year. He owned a BMW at that time.

"I was only off work three weeks that summer," he said. He attributed his accumulation of miles to the fact that he rode his motorcycle to and from work each day.

Learn is 5 foot 7 1/2 inches tall and weighs a steady 165 pounds.

He attributes his good health and lack of overweight problems to the fact that he keeps active.

This was the second time the Learn's have visited Pampa.

"It is a nice little town — I find it without any trouble and the climate is lovely," he said.

The Learn's granddaughter Kelly O'Neal, 14, is fascinated with her grandfather's motorcycle and hopes some day to ride with him.

He and Kelly went for a 50-mile ride one evening this week. Kelly has an older sister, Leslie, 19.

V. Meador To Attend Lung Group Meeting

Vermell Meador, R.N., of Pampa will attend an area meeting of the American Lung Association of Texas Saturday at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo.

US Weather Satellite Launched in California

LOMPOC, Calif. (UPI) — The countdown proceeded smoothly Thursday for the launch of Nimbus F, the most sophisticated weather satellite ever developed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration planned to fire the $60 million satellite into space at 1:06 a.m. PDT (4:06 a.m. EDT) today toward an orbit that would carry it over every place on earth at least twice a day.

The butterfly-shaped satellite, 10 feet tall and 5 feet wide, is "the most sophisticated package of meteorological research instruments ever developed," NASA said.

A spokesman said it would be functioning in about two weeks, giving earlier warnings of hurricanes and other destructive storms and alerting farmers, foresters and fishermen to changes in weather patterns up to two weeks in advance.

Its polar orbit, 690 miles high, was calculated to carry it over every place on earth at least twice a day as the globe revolves beneath it from west to east while the satellite circles it north and south.

The satellite would relay to meteorologists data radioed from a network of buoys floating in the oceans and balloons drifting at altitudes of more than 65,000 feet, along with readings from its own package of nine sensors.

It would gather information on cloud formations, their water content, temperatures, ocean currents and temperatures, distribution of sea ice, rainfall and wind patterns and atmospheric radiation.

Nimbus F is one of a series of satellites intended to play a key role in research for the planned World Weather Program, with experiments scheduled to begin in 1978.

Bike-a-thon Raises $89 In Carson Co.

Randy Bichsel of White Deer won the prize for having the most sponsors and raising the most money at the Carson County Bike-a-thon for Cancer Sunday, according to Mrs. Marshall Sherwood, Panhandle, president of the Carson County Chapter of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society.

He had 30 sponsors and raised $89, she said. The youngest rider was 7-year-old Kevin Hogue of White Deer. Bob Curtis 44, of Panhandle won a trophy for being the oldest rider to complete the race.

Approximately $340 was raised by the 20 participants. Mrs. Sherwood added. Proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society.

Riders were required to ride from White Deer to Skellytown and back in the 20 mile event. State Senator Max Sherman of Amarillo led the group.

The event was sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Carson County, which includes three different clubs.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

June 14, 1775:

On June 2, having established an Army Pay Department although there was no army to pay, Congress fills the void. Responding to a request from Massachusetts that Congress assume responsibility for the colonial militiamen besieging Boston, Congress agrees to do so — and designates them the Continental Army. Congress also authorizes the raising of six companies of riflemen to be enlisted in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia; several days later, Pennsylvania is asked to raise four more companies. Frontier riflemen are almost unknown to New Englanders. Writing from Philadelphia to his wife in Braintree, Massachusetts, John Adams says: "They use a peculiar kind of [gun] called a Rifle — It has... Grooves within the Barrel, and carries a Ball, with great Exactness to Great Distances." These riflemen prove indispensable to colonial success in the war.

Geologists Propose Holes To Squelch Earthquake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Geologists want to drill holes in California's notorious San Andreas fault in hopes they later can drain off its earthquake-producing energy.

This would be the first major project in a 10-year, $100 million-plus federally-financed program to drill deep into the North American continent. It was proposed Wednesday by a group of leading geologists.

They also want to penetrate deep into geothermal energy beds, drill into chambers of molten rock and sink record 32,000 foot holes into the continent's "basement" rocks.

The anticipated payoffs would come in energy, mineral and basic research as well as possible earthquake control.

The San Andreas fault probing could begin within a year of the program's start. Scientists would drill through the fault at varying depths down to 29,000 feet in California's Bear Valley to learn more about the conditions which produce tremors along the great fracture zone in the Earth's crust.

If those processes are understood, the next step would be to try to control quakes.

This would be done by injecting water into drill holes in an attempt to lubricate locked portions of fractured rock to induce slippage that would release built up energy in a series of small, harmless tremors rather than by a major quake.

"One has the hope then, if the fault is well understood, to actually control earthquakes along the San Andreas," said Dr. Eugene Shoemaker. "If we don't do something about the earthquake hazard in California, we are headed toward a major disaster."

Shoemaker, with the California Institute of Technology and the U. S. Geological Survey, directed the group of 31 scientists who prepared the proposal. Their work was released by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The program would be a land based counterpart to a highly successful deep sea drilling project financed by the government's National Science Foundation. Scientists have learned more about the globe's sea floors than they know about many aspects of the continental crust.

Another aim of the earthquake research aspect of the drilling program would be to perfect tremor prediction techniques. Shoemaker said this might be done by drilling on the San Jacinto fault near Anza, Calif., which scientists believe is one of the most likely sites for the next moderate sized quake in the state.

Two Pampa Students Attend Georgia Confab

Vincent DiCosimo and Gary Steel, president and vice president of the Pampa High School Student Council next year, will attend the 39th annual National Conference of the National Associations of Student Councils and Student Activity Advisers in Decatur, Ga., June 22-26.

They are two of 1,500 student council leaders selected to attend. Delegates to the conference represent every state and U.S. territory and several foreign countries.

Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Steel, 1900 Grape, and Vincent is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe DiCosimo, 1907 N. Nelson. Both will be seniors at PHS next year.

Towers High School in Decatur is the host for the 1975 conference, in which students and leaders take an active role in sharing ideas with experts in education, youth issues, and government.

The theme for this year's nationally known leadership conference is "America in Motion."

As sideights, the delegates will visit the Confederate memorial at Stone Mountain, Ga., and Six Flags Over Georgia, one of the nation's major amusement centers. Featured entertainers will be Up With People.

Theatre To Produce HMS Pinafore

A special preview performance of the Amarillo Little Theatre's production of HMS Pinafore, a 100th birthday salute to Gilbert and Sullivan, will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Thursday with reduced prices for everyone.

Prices for the special performance are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Regular prices are $4 for adults, $2 for students and $1 for children accompanied by their parents.

Other performance dates are June 20, 21, 27 and 28 with a Sunday matinee June 22. Curtain time for the matinee is 2:30 with all other performances at 8:15.

The show is under the direction of Peter Fox with Richard Kidwell as musical director. Elaine Fields is choreographer.

HMS Pinafore concerns a romance between the Captain's daughter Josephine and another mutual attraction between the Captain and Little Buttercup, a peddler woman who has an important secret. But their respective stations in life prove a hindrance to both romances. The Captain has arranged a marriage between Josephine and the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Joseph Porter, a stuffy man who Josephine intensely dislikes.

"CHANGED" — The traveling singing group, "Changed" will perform at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 18 at Hi-Land Pentecostal Holiness Church at the corner of 18th and Banks. Traveling 25 states during a period of 11-weeks, the public is invited to attend the concert of gospel singing.

First Assembly Slates Special Services Sunday

Pastor Courtney, of the First Assembly of God Church, announces special services to honor Miss Cathy Altman, former resident of Pampa, who is returning home from a year of missionary work in Ghana, West Africa.

She worked at Northwest Texas Hospital for two years after graduation from Nursing School after which she was invited to spend a year in Nakpanduri, Ghana, West Africa doing missionary work while working in the Mission Medical Clinic in Nakpanduri.

Miss Altman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Altman, 1000 S. Faulkner of Pampa and is well known by many former school mates and friends in the Pampa area. She attended Pampa schools, graduating from Pampa High School in 1969. She entered Nursing School at Northwest Texas Hospital and graduated in May 1972.

During her time in Ghana, West Africa, Cathy received missionary support from her many friends at First Assembly of God Church.

Mini-Weekend Study Slates Guest Leader

Father's Day is a special day in the life of the church and this Sunday members of the First Christian Church will have an opportunity to hear guest leader, Dr. Fred Craddock, acting, Dean of the Graduate Seminary of Phillips University. The public is invited to attend the Bible Study Mini-weekend which begins Saturday at 7:30 p.m. followed by a reception.

Sunday is also "Father's Day" at First Assembly and Pastor Courtney will deliver a message to Fathers emphasizing the vital place that Fathers have in the home, in the community, and in the church.

An invitation is extended to Cathy's many friends to share this service with her Sunday.

The activities will begin Sunday morning with an enriching time of Bible study in Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. followed by a worship at the 11 a.m.

The day will conclude with a Sunday Evening Evangelistic Rally at 6:30 p.m.

The Church is located at the corner of South Cuyler at Brown Street and if more information is desired you may call the church office at 665-5941.

Dr. Craddock is listed as one of the most outstanding New Testament Teachers and Preachers in the Christian Church. He has degrees from Johnson Bible College, Phillips University, and Vanderbilt University, where he received his Ph. D. He has written two books, "The Pre-Existence of Christ" and "As One Without Authority."

BETHEL ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Where everybody is somebody and Jesus Christ is Lord
Corner of Hamilton & Worrell

An investment in Your Future ...ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

MAKING WAY...

The drawbridge makes way for the boat to come into the city and down the canal. Dredges make canals in open waters such as the gulf to make way for ships to travel an inter-coastal waterway. Police officers and secret service men clear a path in the crowds to make way for an important foreign potentate so that he might arrive at his destination.

Church members are the ones who can clear the way, and show the right path to those who have not found the way to our Lord.

Isaiah 40:3B reads, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God."

Support your church in every way you can. Ask someone to attend church with you this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere, and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Refugee Family Tackles English

HOUSTON (UPI) — President Ford speaks of self-sufficiency in energy but to a Cambodian family it means hours a day reading children's dictionaries and first grade texts to learn English.

The language lessons and a maintenance job are the links to a home and a new life for Sarik Kuon, his wife Sam Thion and their 2-year-old son, Sovannarath.

They fled Cambodia when it fell to the communists in April and made it to this country. Unable to speak English, their hopes of easy resettlement were dim.

But a young couple, married only six months, wanted to help and opened their two-bedroom apartment to the refugees.

Larry Callahan, 22, a restaurant manager, and his wife, Cathy, 19, have done more than provide shelter for the family. They're the counselors Kuon needs to be self-sufficient.

The Callahans decided to sponsor an Indonesian refugee family and spent days checking with agencies and Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., offering their home. The Catholic Community Service called them two weeks ago and told them the Kuon's were arriving two days later.

"As soon as we found out, I called the library and got a (Cambodian) language book," Mrs. Callahan said. "We looked up the country in the encyclopedia. We learned the population and some general facts about the country which didn't help much. It didn't tell us much about the people."

Once here, Kuon told them through an interpreter he would like to learn English. Mrs. Callahan collected first-grade readers and a children's dictionary.

"Srik will read to me from the readers and any word he doesn't understand, I try to help," she said. "He didn't know what a rock was, for instance, so I went out and got one to show him."

"We're working on numbers now. He writes them out in Cambodian first. I write out the pronunciation in English and repeat after him and write out the English form for him."

She also works with Sam Kion while cooking supper.

"I'll be cooking and say 'roast' and Sam Thion will pronounce it in English and write it down in Cambodian in her notebook," Mrs. Callahan said. "We also have the TV on a lot so they help her English."

Callahan secured a maintenance job for Kuon who was a shipping agent in Cambodia. He hopes Kuon can get a better job soon and their own apartment.

"We're moving into a house in about three weeks," Callahan said. "And we're working now on finding them an inexpensive but nice apartment near the store where he works. We plan to stick around as long as they need us but our goal is to make them self-sufficient."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Oscar winner Delbert Mann will direct "Robert E. Lee," a film biography of the Confederate general.

1975 Woman of the Year for ABWA

ABWA Chapter Presents Annual Award

Mrs. Lloyd (Mary) Summers 1719 Aspen was named Woman of the Year by the Pampa Chapter of the American Business Women's Association at the chapter's monthly meeting Tuesday at Coronado Inn.

Annually, each ABWA chapter selects one of its members for this award. Selection is based on the member's achievement in her field of business, education, participation in the association and in community activities.

Mrs. Summers will represent Pampa Charter in competition for the "American Business Woman of the Year" award.

Announcement of the national award recipient will be made at ABWA's 1975 National Convention, Oct. 9 - 12 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Summers has contributed much to community activities as well as service in the ABWA organization.

She was worked for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company for 25 years as a telephone operator, service assistance, relieved in management and presently is a group manager of operator service. She is also the President of Top O'Texas Telephone Pioneers of Pampa.

For the past 12 years, Mrs. Summers has been a coordinator of the Babe Ruth Queen contest. The program raises between $8,000 and $10,000 a year for the youth program. A total of $11,800 was recently raised by the group.

The Optimist Youth program chose her as recipient of Opti-Mrs. of the Year Award in 1969. She received a plaque of recognition for "Outstanding Service" from the Optimist Club in 1970, 1972 and again in 1973. She served as Opti-Mrs. President two years and is currently second vice president of the organization.

Mrs. Summers is a member of the board of directors for the Community Day Care Center. She is also a member of the First Baptist Church and of the Business and Professional Women's class of the church.

Members of her family include a daughter, Mrs. Jerry Gray and children, Todd and Steve, Maracibo, Venezuela. Another daughter, Penny Summers is a sixth grader at Austin School and a son, Steve lives in Amarillo. Her husband is employed at Kewanee Oil Company.

Sponsoring six new members into the ABWA chapter, her hand of friendship pin holds a pearl of each member.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

If there are those who still believe that "common sense" alone is sufficient to bring about the best result on any given hand, observe today's deal. Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

♠ A K Q J

The bidding:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 6 ♣ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♥

The fact that South failed to employ the Blackwood Slam Convention when it properly should have been employed is immaterial to the discussion. Misbids such as South's happen frequently.

When this deal was played many years ago, East played the deuce of hearts on West's opening lead of the ace. West was at a loss as to what to play next. He chose to shift to a club at trick two, and declarer waltzed in with his contract, discarding his losing five of diamonds on Dummy's king of hearts.

Had this deal arisen in modern times, the contract would have been defeated, for the defenders would have had the "suit-preference-signal" available to them. This signal is used when a defender wishes his partner to switch suits; and the signal eliminates the guess as to which of two suits partner should play.

The reference to "two suits" is not an error, for the trump suit and the suit being led are eliminated from consideration. That leaves the leader with a choice of the two remaining suits. The following is the principle of the suit-preference signal.

"Whenever partner plays an unnecessarily high card that is obviously not a 'come-on-in-this-suit' signal, it commands the leader to play the higher-ranking of the two self-evident suits: whenever partner plays a very low card that is obviously not a 'no-interest-in-this-suit' signal, that card asks partner to shift to the lower-ranking of the two self-evident suits; if he is not interested in either suit, he will play some intermediate card in the suit being led."

And so, in the actual deal, East would have played the heart queen on West's opening lead of the ace. Since it would have been obvious to West that East couldn't possibly desire a continuation of hearts, West would have shifted to a diamond, the higher ranking of the two remaining suits (diamonds versus clubs). As is evident, East's ace would then have taken the setting trick.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I would like to share an idea for a neat and organized "address" book.

I bought a 3 x 5 file card box with lined, alphabet cards to fit. Names and addresses were entered on separate cards (last name first for easy reference), along with any other important information like birthdays and anniversaries.

I use this for my Christmas list, too, by placing a dot next to the year I received, or sent a card.

I also have a card with the telephone number of the stores I frequent, school, churches, friends I visit most, etc., which is placed by the phone for the baby-sitter.

I have used my system for many years and since people acquire new addresses so often, my address book file is always neat and up-to-date.

I have given sets to my friends for presents and they think it is great.

Mrs. H.H. Alger
Honey, I wish I had thought about that years ago. It would have saved me lots of time and kept me from throwing away numbers of address books.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband used nonstick spray vegetable coating in the grooves on our sliding glass doors and windows.

It is so handy and works great.

What an easy way to rid a sticky situation!

Club Holds Bicentennial Tour

Pampa Garden Club members recently toured the Alibates Flint Quarries of the Sanford Recreation Area as a bicentennial pilgrimage. Ed Day, Park technician, gave a guided tour, explaining the different strata of rock, the tools and weapons, or use it for trade.

SATURDAY, JUNE 14

Your birthday today: Nothing else is quite as productive as your resolution to carry proper responsibility. When you can express your individuality, put in your fair share of the work. Professional experiences, arrival of technical advances, or job changes bring forth new skills. Today's natives will need all their natural self-confidence this year and will lead others by their good example.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Draw on the last few days' experience to promote your updated plans. There's a premium on calling your shots now. Reexamine group finances and propose specific improvements.

Former Officer Convicted for Homosexuality

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former Sheriff's Sgt. Robert Weidmar has been convicted of official misconduct for homosexual relations with a county jail inmate.

Weidmar was convicted of the misdemeanor Wednesday in State District Judge Garth Bates' court and sentenced to a probated one year jail term and a probated $2,000 fine.

He was accused of taking a 32-year-old inmate out of his cell Jan. 1, 1974 and having homosexual relations with him.

Norad Says Space Gets Cluttered

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Space is getting more cluttered, according to the North American Air Defense Command.

NORAD's Space Defense Center, which tracks and logs all manmade objects in space, said Wednesday 20 new satellite payloads were recorded last month, the largest monthly total in more than a year.

The center said the explosion May 22 of a United States rocket body was responsible for 130 pieces of orbiting space garbage. The rocket was the nation's first Landsat satellite, launched in 1972 to monitor the earth's natural resources.

The center said Russia accounted for 12 of the 20 new satellite payloads, including the manned Soyuz 18 spacecraft and 11 Cosmos satellites. The United States launched six payloads during the month and France orbited two scientific satellites.

Officials said 28 objects fell out of orbit in May, leaving 3,388 manmade objects in space. The center said 773 of those were payloads and the rest were pieces of debris.

The United States was responsible for 2,223 of the objects. The Soviet Union owned 1,055 and France, 53.

On May 8, 1970, construction workers disrupted student antiwar demonstrations on Wall Street in New York City.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Temporary conditions benefit your work, especially if it's your own enterprise. Take advantage on the chance, but use extreme care with machinery. Let home matters remain untouched.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Mind your own business; everybody is a little on the sensitive side and can use a buffer zone of extra space. Simplify budget and agenda.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Despite good intentions, much of today's program is confused or less efficient, as makeshift measures meet unexpected circumstances. Don't let it upset you.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: If there isn't something new and interesting on your itinerary, it's up to you to create a diversion. Travel goes well and suits your mood—once you've made sure of home conditions.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You act on impulse now and the results are lasting. What happens depends on your reasons and methods. Avoid a rhubarb about clearing a long-standing obligation.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Sidestep publicity where you can. Friendship stands you in good stead as you put in a serious and lengthy session of hard work. An old problem is finally straightened out.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Locate people who are interested in what you do. Move confidently to further your personal venture. Large institutions turn out to be helpful in unusual ways.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Concentrate on your current self-improvement campaign. You attract both new friends and new expressions from old friends, but don't bring them all together at the moment.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: It's important to understand well what you're doing; the course of events accelerates. By evening you'll have begun a different approach based on a changed point of view.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Today comes in three separate phases. You have no time to waste as you sift through incoming information for useful details. You find a real bargain late in the day.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Attend to any health symptom promptly and go on. You've got plenty to do for yourself and others. Evening discussions produce conflict and firm judgments. Force no issues.

Eastern Employees Take Pay Cut To Save Line

MIAMI (UPI) — As Eastern Airlines' new president, former astronaut Frank Borman has a tough job — persuading the airline's 32,000 employees to accept pay cuts ranging from 3 to 8 per cent.

Under Borman's signature, letters went to each employee proposing the salary reductions take effect July 1 for a period of 18 months. But he said the cut "will not be adopted unless it is approved by the majority of our people."

The Borman letter predicted hard times for Eastern for another three years.

Borman also was the man responsible for a belt-tightening move last year that saw 4,000 Eastern employees furloughed or dismissed.

"It now appears highly possible that Eastern can suffer at least three consecutive years of heavy losses," Borman wrote. "If that happens, we could be unable to meet our payroll (without selling needed equipment) or we will have been absorbed by some other airline, some other industry or the federal government."

He said Eastern's losses could equal $30 million this year and that the outlook for 1976 and 1977 "is no better." The airline estimated the proposed pay cuts could save $13 million for the last half of this year and double that next year.

Eastern lost a record $51 million in 1973 but came back in 1974 with a surprising $10.4 million profit after Borman, then chief operations officer, installed his austerity program. Many of the 4,000 furloughed employees were rehired.

Despite the streamlining which saved $39 million, Borman said Eastern's costs — particularly in the area of salaries — continue to run ahead of those of its competitors.

"We simply must get our expenses back in line with the rest of the industry," he wrote.

The pay cuts proposed amount to 3 per cent for employees earning $10,000 a year or less, 4 per cent for those earning from $10,000 to $15,000, 6 per cent for those earning up to $30,000, 6 per cent for non-officers of the company earning more than $30,000, and 8 per cent for officers.

Ervin To Talk to Texas Bar

DALLAS (UPI) — Two men who played major roles in unraveling the Watergate cover-up scandal — former Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. and former special prosecutor Leon Jaworski — will be part of the State Bar of Texas' annual convention.

Bar President Lloyd Luchridge of Austin said Wednesday 4,000 persons were expected to attend the convention July 1-3 at the Dallas Convention Center.

The three-day convention will begin on a Tuesday with a criminal law institute. The luncheon will feature an address by Ervin, who gained national recognition as chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Jaworski, a Houston attorney, will head a delegation of 100 lawyers, who will be honored for having practiced law 50 years in Texas. Jaworski is a former president of the State Bar, the American College of Trial Lawyers and the American Bar Association.

Chief Justice Howell T. Heflin of the Alabama Supreme Court will address the Bar's Judicial Section luncheon. Nicholas Katzenbach, former attorney general and presently general counsel of IBM Corp., will address the luncheon of the new Corporate Counsel Section.

Justin A. Stanley of Chicago, president-elect of the American Bar Association, will address the General Assembly July 1.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Organized frog racing and parimutuel wagering on frogs may soon be a reality in Ohio, where legislation on the sport has been introduced in the Senate.

Should the legislation be passed, frog racing would come under the jurisdiction of the Ohio Racing Commission. The commission would set frog-jumping seasons and supervise all races.

Fines would be imposed for illegalities such as giving amphetamines to the frogs to make them jump faster, using toads and entering one frog under another frog's name.

The latter rule must be strictly enforced, particularly if all the frogs in a race are of the same species—face it, a bullfrog is a bullfrog. If an exceptionally fast frog is substituted for a slower one with 25 to 1 odds, somebody's going to get rich.

In Ohio, toads will be illegal. Why that is, I don't understand because toads are generally much bulkier and slower than frogs and, besides, the toad is a lethargic creature, often remaining motionless for several minutes.

If toads are outlawed, so must be certain varieties of frogs. For example, the flying frog of Africa can stretch its feet into miniature parachutes and glide for 50 yards in one bound. Heck, he'd win the race before the rest of the pack even left the gate.

And the pickered-frog of South America is poisonous to other frogs. Result: nine dead frogs and one rich owner.

Ohio must allow only one type of frog—probably the bullfrog. Then, after a few slow races his legs would make someone a tasty snack.

Besides, bullfrogs don't cause wars. Once the species is established and rules are written up, Ohio should be well on its way to becoming the frog-racing capital of the world. Imagine it! Futurities for two-month-old frogs, derbies for those a month older. Handicap and stake races for the cream of the frog, er crop.

And maybe even the Ohio Derby. Only problem there would be the pre-race march around the track.

Albie At Peace Now

NEW YORK (UPI)—He was full of hate.

A 900-a-day heroin habit will do that for you sometimes.

Out of pure compassion, Albie Pearson, the former big league outfielder ordained to the ministry three years ago, invited the angry young man into his own home. Now pastor of The Church of the Mountain in Mammoth Lakes, Calif., Pearson was only trying to comfort the youngster, show him how to find some inner peace perhaps, that's all.

Sitting with his back to the wall, this disheveled, rebellious 18-year-old wasn't buying. He had so much abhorrence, so much loathing for the whole human race stored up inside him, each word came steaming out of his mouth as if it was a piece of hot molten lead.

"I've been smoking grass since I was 12," he snarled at Pearson. "I've had every possible sexual experience you can think of, and some you can't. I'm a mainliner now, and if you're talking about peace, the only time I feel any is when my veins have stuff in 'em, get it?"

Albie Pearson nodded. He got it, all right.

He talked with the young addict, calmly and reassuringly. He somehow got the message across to him that he understood his troubles, that they weren't hopeless and that he was not only willing, but eager to help him, if the boy would try to open his eyes and heart to God.

"Pray with me," Pearson suggested.

"Man, I don't want a religious trip," snapped the kid. "My old man goes and prays one day and beats up my mother the next. Don't give me any of that religious crap. I don't need it, and I don't want it. What I want is reality, not something I have to take somebody's word for."

The Pampa Independent School District will receive sealed bids for offers to purchase old Pampa Junior High School property. See Legal Notice Section.

Albie Pearson knew this one was going to be all uphill. He was used to it.

When he was younger, they told him he was much too small to play ball, and he certainly could never hope to play with the big boys. He didn't see it that way.

Pampa Club To Sponsor Track Meet

The Pampa Optimist Track Club, instead of attending the Brownfield Invitational Saturday, will host its own track meet beginning at 10 a.m.

Saturday's meet, the first summer action of the season, will be for athletes in five divisions—9 and under, 10-11, 12-13, 14-15 and 16-17.

Ribbons will be awarded to the top four places in each division.

Canyon. Hereford, Amarillo and Groom will be among the teams included in the field. An entrant does not have to belong to a team and does not have to own an AAU card to participate.

Entry fee is 25 cents per event and must be paid prior to the 10 o'clock preliminaries. Finals will begin at 2 p.m.

More information can be obtained from Jim Hogan, Pampa AAU coach.

United Press International
 Hank Aaron is finding American League pitchers much more to his liking the second time around.

Aaron, whose sub-200 batting average most of the early season hasn't scared too many of his new AL pitching rivals, met Vida Blue for the second time Thursday night and the result—a homer, a double, a single and two RBIs—may be a prelude of things come from here on out.

"It's just been a matter of my learning the pitchers in a new league," said the 41-year-old Aaron, whose 3-for-3 night lifted his average from .199 to .212 and played a major part in the Milwaukee Brewers' 9-7 win over the Oakland A's. "Like Vida Blue tonight—it was the second time I've seen him and now I know a little more of what to expect from him."

Aaron's homer, his sixth this season and record 739th lifetime, came leading off the fifth inning and was his first in Milwaukee County Stadium since Sept. 30, 1965. In addition, he singled and scored in the first and doubled home another run in the second.

The Brewers put the game away with four runs in the seventh on George Scott's two-run homer and Gorman Thomas' two-run double.

Otherwise, it was "Nostalgia Night" in the American League Thursday as 36-year-old Billy Williams became the 10th man in history to hit 400 homers when he clubbed a three-run shot for the A's and 38-year-old Harmon Killebrew smacked the 568th homer of his career in the Kansas City Royals' 2-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

In other games, Baltimore coasted past Texas 7-1, Chicago drubbed Boston 9-2 and California stymied Detroit 7-1 after losing the completion of Wednesday night's suspended game 5-3, Minnesota at New York was rained out.

In the National League, it was Montreal over San Diego 3-2, Philadelphia on top of San Francisco 4-1, Cincinnati routing St. Louis 10-1, Pittsburgh atop Houston 4-2, New York over Los Angeles 2-0 and Atlanta edging Chicago 5-4, the second game suspended after eight innings with the Braves leading 6-2.

Royals 7, Indians 1
 Jim Wolford raced home

from third with the winning run on a passed ball by Indians' catcher John Ellis in the 10th inning and right-hander Steve Busby yielded just five hits in gaining his eighth win against five losses. Killebrew tied the score at 1-1 for the Royals with a solo homer in the seventh, his seventh of the season.

Orioles 7, Rangers 1
 Speaking of "comebacks," Jim Palmer scattered seven hits to record his 10th victory of the season for Baltimore and was aided by three RBIs from Mark Belanger on a pair of singles. Palmer (10-3) lost his shutout in the eighth on Mike Hargrove's two-out run-scoring single. Dave Duncan also drove in two runs for the Orioles, who stranded 13 baserunners.

White Sox 9, Red Sox 2
 Deron Johnson and Bob Coluccio clubbed home runs and veteran Jim Kaat scattered 11 hits but went the route for his ninth win as Chicago topped Boston. Johnson stroked a solo homer in the second and Coluccio added a two-run shot in the third as the White Sox rudely greeted rookie southpaw Jim Burton. Burton had pitched a no-hitter in his last minor league game.

Angels 3-7, Tigers 5-1
 Ed Figueroa hurled a six-hitter and Joe Lahoud stroked a three-run third inning homer as California avenged its earlier loss of Wednesday night's suspended game. Figueroa struck out four and was never in serious trouble while Lahoud, who belted a second homer in the ninth, had four RBIs. John Hiller preserved the suspended game for Detroit with 3 1-3 shutout innings for his eighth save.

Mets Top Los Angeles

United Press International
 Jon Matlack is fashioning a career on making "chumps" out of the National League champs.

Matlack, a 25-year-old left-hander for the New York Mets, is generally regarded as one of the top pitchers in the majors in terms of overall talent, but if it were not for his record against the Los Angeles Dodgers, he would be less than a 500 career pitcher.

Matlack made it seven victories in 10 career decisions against Los Angeles Thursday night when he outdueled Don Sutton and stopped the slumping Dodgers on three hits while pitching the Mets to a 2-0 victory. It was Matlack's second triumph in as many decisions against the defending NL champions this season and the victory raised his record to 8-4.

"I feel this is the best game I pitched this year because there were less balls hit with authority," said Matlack. "I always like to pitch against the Dodgers because I know they have a good stud ballclub and I know I can't give in at all. If I do they will take it."

Felix Millan provided Matlack with the batting support he needed by doubling in Wayne Garrett twice. Garrett and Millan hit back-to-back doubles in the sixth inning and Garrett singled and scored first on a double by Millan in the eighth for the only runs off Sutton, who suffered his fifth loss in 15 decisions.

The victory enabled the Mets to remain a half-game behind Pittsburgh in the NL East while the loss dropped the Dodgers 2½ games behind division-leading Cincinnati in the West. Los Angeles has won only 11 of its last 26 games.

In other NL games, Cincinnati routed St. Louis 10-1, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 4-1, Montreal edged San Diego 3-2 in 15 innings, Pittsburgh topped Houston 4-2 and Atlanta nipped Chicago 5-4 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was suspended after eight innings with the Braves leading 6-2.

In American League action, Milwaukee defeated Oakland 9-7, Kansas City edged Cleveland 2-1 in 10 innings, Chicago routed Boston 9-2, Texas whipped Baltimore 7-1 and California beat Detroit 7-1 after the Tigers won the suspended game from Wednesday night 5-3, Minnesota at New York was rained out.

Reds 10, Cardinals 1

Pinch-hitter Joe Morgan delivered a two-run single and pitcher Gary Nolan contributed a two-run double during a seven-run sixth inning that propelled Cincinnati to a rout of St. Louis. Nolan, making a comeback after shoulder surgery last May, went six innings to gain his sixth straight triumph and raise his record to 7-3. The Reds collected 14 hits, including three by Pete Rose.

Phillies 4, Giants 1

Steve Carlton pitched a four-hitter, struck out and singled eight batters and led the Phils with sacrifice flies and Johnny Oates got another run home on a squeeze bunt.

Expos 3, Padres 2

Mike Jorgensen lined a .wo-out double in the 15th inning to

Longhorns Crush SC In Playoffs

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—In the 29-year history of the College World Series—a double elimination playoff—there frequently have been teams which drew byes into the championship round.

This year the Texas Longhorns are the lucky ones, getting a pass into the title game by bombarding South Carolina pitching for 18 hits in a 17-6 victory Thursday night which knocked the Gamecocks out of the unbeaten ranks in the NCAA tournament.

When Texas drew the bye, that pinned the Gamecocks against Arizona State's Sun Devils in tonight's battle which will determine the other finalist for the championship showdown Saturday night. The Sun Devils squeezed past Oklahoma, 1-0, Thursday night to eliminate the Sooners coach Cliff Gustafson said. "We came here with the idea of winning the national championship. Our job is not over but we hope to complete our mission." Getting the bye was "a big boost for us," he added.

Former New York Yankee great Bobby Richardson, the Gamecocks' skipper, was gracious after the pummeling his team took. "I'm not sure Nolan Ryan could have gotten Texas tonight," he said right after the game. "We just ran out of pitchers. It's the first time that has happened this year."

Texas got off to a fast 6-0 yead when Rick Bradley and Doug Duncan cracked two-run homers in the first innings and Charles Proske put one over the wall with the bases empty in the second when the Longhorns scored twice.

The Gamecocks shortened the Texas lead to 8-5 after six innings before the Longhorn bats went into heavy action once again in a six-run seventh inning. Texas tacked on two more tallies in the eighth inning and one in the ninth while holding South Carolina to one more run in the eighth.

Winning pitcher was Jim Gideon, now 17-0, and the losing hurler was Greg Ward who is 14-3.

By far the best pitching job of the night came from Arizona State's John Poloni, who limited Oklahoma to four hits in going all 11 innings.

The Sun Devils, meanwhile, were collecting 12 hits off Bob Shirley but couldn't put a run together until the top of the 11th when Ken Landreaux singled, was sacrificed to second and came home on a single to center by Bob Pate.

Poloni's record went to 10-1 and Shirley finished with 13-3. The loss Thursday night snapped a 17-game Gamecock win streak.

ABA Cutting Costs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Basketball Association, in the midst of a downhanded economy, made its first share effort Thursday with one 20 per cent cut and is likely to make another one today.

In a move encouraged by new commissioner Dave DeBussche and St. Louis Spirits president and general manager Harry Weltman, the ABA board of trustees Thursday unanimously approved the use of the 24-second shot clock, as in the NBA, discontinuing the 30-second clock the league has employed on field goal attempts since its inception in 1967.

Beware of the Bridge

Repairs are underway for the bridge across McClellan Creek in Gray County on State 273 which was damaged May 28 by raging waters. Texas Highway Department officials said the repairs began Saturday and will require several weeks to complete. The bridge is now barricaded at its south end stopping traffic from McLean and at its north side halting cars from Lefors. General traffic on this portion of State 273 is being detoured onto Farm to Market Road 291 at Alanreed, about seven miles west of McLean. Heavy loads are being routed onto State Highway 70 farther westward about 15 miles.

Teachers Find Loophole

By United Press International
Thousands of school teachers in at least 10 states are trying to collect unemployment benefits during their summer vacations.

The teachers hope to capitalize on a loophole left dangling in federal unemployment legislation President Ford signed in December. Congress has agreed to refine the language of the original bill, and Ford will certainly approve the change.

But the amendment changing the unemployment bill is written into a supplemental appropriations bill still unresolved between the House and Senate. If it is not passed, it could cost the government more than $15 million in unemployment benefits each week.

A state official in California said 100,000 teachers are expected to apply for unemployment benefits of up to $90 per week. Any benefits paid to teachers would be borne by the federal government under provisions of the Supplemental Unemployment Assistance Act of 1974.

But Rep. John Erlenborn, R-

Ill., who has sponsored the amendment to prevent the federal treasury from financing teachers' vacations, warned states who honor the unemployment claims they may not be reimbursed once Congress corrects its mistake.

Sources in Washington said the supplemental appropriations bill should be ready for the President's signature no later than next week.

The assistant director of unemployment insurance in Louisiana, Carl Brewster, said 21,000 claims already had been filed by teachers and other school employees, and I would guess that there are about another 21,000 claims out in our regional offices.

In Missouri, 4,600 of the 15,000 teachers in the St. Louis area have signed up for benefits of $85 per week, and state workers said 1,200 more applicants have been filing their claims every day this week.

Thelma Eise, claims supervisor for one suburban office, said, "I'm just trying to figure out how many teachers live in this area. They're multiplying like rabbits."

Another 12,000 teachers have applied for benefits in Arkansas.

Other states that have interpreted the federal legislation in a way that benefits teachers include Illinois, Vermont, Indiana, Washington and Mississippi.

American Student Jailed In Argentina as Terrorist

AZUL, Argentina (UPI) — Olga Talamante, the daughter of American share croppers, sat in the June winter cold of an Argentine prison corridor and shrugged.

"There's nothing but those walls," the 25-year-old woman from Gilroy, Calif., said softly, reflecting on her past seven months in jail.

Charged with being a member of an outlawed terrorist organization, she is in "preventive detention," awaiting the outcome of a trial that could cost her three more years of freedom.

Miss Talamante says she is innocent. "Federal police beat me and tortured me until they decided I just didn't have the answers they wanted," she said.

She arrived in Argentina in August, 1972, just out of the University of California at Santa Cruz, where she held a scholarship in Latin American studies. Her upbringing as a sharecropper's daughter in the Midwest and campus involvement in Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers movement shaped her politics, she said.

"My own thing was to see what problems Chicanos shared with other Latin Americans."

Police raided a ramshackle house downtown in this small

Argentine pampas city Nov. 10 and arrested the American woman and 14 young Argentines. They charged the group was a cell of the Montoneros, a left-wing Peronist guerrilla group that has claimed credit for the death of an American consular official and at least 14 Argentinians.

Police said there was Montonero propaganda in the house, and a .45-caliber pistol stolen by guerrilla gunmen who assassinated a soldier.

Flag Day Ceremony Set To Honor Bicentennial

A special Flag Day ceremony commemorating the American Revolution Bicentennial will be Saturday in front of the Montgomery Ward store, according to Glen Turbeville, store manager.

Beginning at 9:25 a.m., the celebration will consist of the flag of the American Revolution being raised along with the Stars and Stripes.

"The Flag Day ceremony will serve as a demonstration of national commitment of the hope and ideals of the men and women of the American Revolution and will symbolize the rededication of our nation to the continuing improvement of the quality of life for all its citizens," Turbeville explained.

The event is in cooperation with the local Bicentennial committee and has been endorsed by the United States Conference of Mayors.

Ward's is making available to all national service organizations a Planning Guide for this special Bicentennial Flag Day event.

White Stores Inc.

"I've had umpteen offers to move, but they couldn't get wild horses to take me out of Pampa," Dan Chapin said.

Chapin is the manager of White Stores Inc. in Pampa. "The company is celebrating its 45th anniversary this month," he explained. It was started by Tom and Earl White in Clinton, Okla., as an automotive supply store. White now covers the complete lines of a department store.

The Pampa store was the sixth to be built in the chain, which now has a total of almost 2,000 stores located in 18 states.

Chapin said, "The Pampa store was the second best store in the whole company for the year 1974."

"As far as this year has gone, we are presently number three."

Whites was originally located on Cuyler until a New Year's Day in 1969 fire destroyed it. After taking nearly a year to complete Whites is presently located at 1500 N. Hobart.

Chapin began working for Whites in 1964. He worked in Amarillo and Borger until he became the manager of the Pampa store in 1973. "Pampa is home to me. I grew up in Pampa and Skellytown and I'm glad to be here now," Chapin said.

"Our business has been real good due to the economy and excellent clientele and class of people in the Panhandle," said Chapin.

"It has been the people in Pampa that brought the store from near the bottom during the Depression to the ratings that we are achieving today," he said.

"The nice thing about Pampa is that you can know your neighbors and your customers." "People around here really care. You know you have friends."

Chapin added, "Whites was founded on the principles of friendliness and customer service. The idea of 'satisfaction guaranteed' has been the motto."

Although the store has grown, Chapin said that they always were trying to maintain that motto.
