Party Office Shelled in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Fourteen mortar shells exploded near the downtown offices of the right-wing Phalangist party today, hours after two mortar bombs damaged a building where Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat was holding a meeting.

120-mm mortar shells landed 20 and 50 yards from a building where Arafat and other Palestinian guerrilla leaders were meeting Thursday night to discuss ways of exercising greater discipline among the Palestinian guerrilla ranks.

Locating the hearings there (Amarillo) will facilitate maximum participation with the least inconvenience for the participants. U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower of Vernon said Thursday.

Authorities Searching For Hitchhiking Couple

CENTRALIA, Ill. (UPI) — The FBI and police have been unable to find a hitchhiking couple who vanished after giving names and birthdates matching aliases and birthdates of Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives William and Emily Harris.

Although the FBI said police in neighboring states had been notified because "there's a chance they may be beyond this area," the couple was not found.

The pair was stopped by Centralia police officer Robert Smith and gave their names as Mike Andrews and Mary Hensley. They said they were migrant workers from Oklahoma and en route from Tennessee to Ohio to find work.

The Harrises were named in FBI wanted flyers in connection with the kidnapping last year of Miss Hearst, who later joined her SLA captors.

FBI Agents Ambushed; Search Starts In Hills

OGALA, S.D. (UPI) — Four carloads of rifle-carrying FBI agents in battle dress spread out through the hills of the Pine Ridge Sioux Indian reservation today, searching for the killers of two agents slain in a gun battle while trying to serve an arrest warrant.

the shooting scene—a house protected by bunkers similar to those used by the 1973 occupiers of the nearby village of Wounded Knee—was told by a senior official, "I don't think it would be worth your life."

The shelling marked the first time this week's fighting between Phalangists and Lebanese leftists spread to the downtown area from the suburbs of Ain Rummaneh and Chah.

Housing Bill Collapses In Dispute Over Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An attempt to rush a new middle-income housing bill through Congress has collapsed in a dispute over how much banks and other mortgage lenders could charge for handling government-subsidized mortgages.

The fight potentially involved hundreds of millions of dollars.

It meant adoption of a measure to replace the $1.35 billion Democratic bill President Ford vetoed Tuesday will have to await Congress' return from a July 4th holiday.

To replace that measure, the Senate Thursday passed, 94-0, a bill tailored to Ford's specifications. It gave the administration authority to release on its timetable and at its discretion $10 billion for the government purchase of home mortgages at subsidized interest rates of 7.5 per cent.

The bill would have imposed a limit of 1 per cent on the fees and points banks, savings and loan institutions, and other mortgage lenders could charge for handling the mortgages. A point is a fee paid by a homebuyer equal to 1 per cent of the price of a house.

When the House approved the Senate bill, it removed the 1 per cent limit on fees and points. That would have permitted mortgage lenders to charge more for handling mortgages bearing attractive, subsidized interest rates.

On $10 billion worth of mortgages, each one point increase would be worth $100 million to mortgage lenders.

Skeleton In Closet Seems Pretty Healthy

A Pampa woman reported to the Pampa Police Department that she was struck when she opened her son's closet door before daybreak Thursday.

A girl reportedly was hiding in the closet and ran out the door after the blow.

Other Police Department incident reports ranged from a life threat to vandalism.

An incident reported that a woman was living with a man who bound her feet and hands then threatened her with scissors.

Under vandalism, one report reads that "neighborhood kids have been throwing apples and beer bottles" at a woman's house. A window was broken and a screen door torn.

One resident said his Cadillac convertible top was cut and a burglar reached through and opened the door and took $170 in items.

Police Say Radio Quiz Local Hoax

Pranksters operating in Pampa informed several local residents this week they had won a prize from Pampa radio stations.

However, radio station officials knew nothing about contest questions which residents had been informed they answered correctly.

One lady called KGRO to collect her winnings, which were allegedly more than $50. Another reported to KPND that she would like more information about the washer-dryer she had won.

Police Detective Fred Brown said the pranks were apparently the work of teenagers with too much time on their hands.

FOREIGN INVESTMENT STAMFORD, Conn. Man's Stay In Institution Gets Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kenneth Donaldson lost 15 years out of his life. As a result major changes may now be made in America's system of caring for the mentally ill.

The Supreme Court ruled Thursday that Donaldson, 67, was unconstitutionally confined in a Florida mental institution for 15 years, even though he was not considered dangerous, and without any treatment. He received only custodial care.

His lawyer, Bruce Ennis of the Mental Health Law Project and the New York Civil Liberties Union, said the court's unanimous ruling is likely to result in the release of thousands of other mental patients around the country found in hospital reviews to be not dangerous and who are receiving only custodial care.

"The mental health hospital system as we know it can no longer exist in this country," Ennis said. "They can no longer continue as custodial warehouses."

The court sent the issue of a $48,500 jury award as compensation to Donaldson back to an intermediate court. Donaldson, now a resident of York, Pa., had been diagnosed as a paranoid schizophrenic in 1957 and was confined in the Florida State Hospital at Chattahoochee until 1971.

Bertram Brown, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, applauded the Supreme Court decision. He said it "will give strong impetus to the movement away from treatment in large institutions, which too often may become merely custodial confinement, wherever possible toward treatment in the patient's own community."

He said society must provide programs such as community mental health centers to help more mental patients as an alternative to confinement.

Man Charged In Drug Case

Charges of possession of a controlled substance — 50 suspected codeine tablets and a small amount of suspected marijuana — were filed Thursday against Billy Wayne Bailey of 435 N. Ballard.

The arrest was made Thursday by members of the Pampa Police Department.

Police Chief Richard Mills said officers learned today that Bailey is a parolee from Leavenworth where he served a sentence for possession of marijuana.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

One of the attributes of the better player is his ability to interpret the bids, or lack of bids, made by the opponents. An example of this can be observed in today's deal, in which the failure of one of the defenders to have made a bid pinpointed the way to winning declarer's play. The hand came up in a duplicate game. East-West vulnerable. West deals.

SOUTH

♦ Q 8 3
♣ A K J 10

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ 3 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.
After West's opening spade lead was taken by East's ace — felling South's king — East continued with a spade, which South ruffed. The jack of trumps was then laid down and won by East's ace. East exited with a trump to South's ten, after which the trump king was cashed, picking up East's remaining trump. On the last two trump leads West discarded two spades.

Declarer next cashed the queen, king, ace, and jack of clubs. He then led a diamond, inserting dummy's ten — spot when West played low. It was declarer's hope, of course, that West possessed the diamond jack. In this case East would win the trick with his (presumed) king, and South's queen would be promoted into a winner.

As is evident, however, East won the trick with the diamond jack. East couldn't return a spade, for if he did South would discard the eight of diamonds as he ruffed the trick with dummy's last trump. So West returned the seven of diamonds.

Declarer now had a crucial decision to make, the outcome of which would determine whether he would fulfill his contract or go down one. If East possessed the diamond king, the winning play would be to put up the queen. But if West had the diamond king, and East the nine — spot, then the winning play would be to play the eight, which would force West's king, and promote South's queen into a winner.

Declarer found the correct answer by reverting to the bidding. East had thus far shown up with the two major suit aces and the diamond jack. Surely, reasoned South, if East had also possessed the diamond king, he would have made a third position opening bid.

And so, on East's lead of the diamond seven, South played the eight — and fulfilled his contract.

Texas Girl Wins Prize In Table Setting Contest

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Judith G. Moeller of San Antonio, is the 1975 national grand prize winner of the Twenty-First Annual Lenox Creative Table Setting Contest.

The national table setting competition open to high school and college home economic students drew 350,000 entries from more than 8,000 schools across the country. Miss Moeller's winning table setting, and those of the second and third place national winners are currently on display in a department store.

For her ability to imaginatively plan a setting and properly coordinate all the displays Miss Moeller, a senior at Southwest Texas State University, received eight place settings each of china and crystal. Her professor, Dr. M.L. Daggett also won her choice of eight place settings of china or crystal. Miss Moeller and Dr. Daggett will be honored at the exhibit, part of the National Home Economics Convention held this week.

Each contestant in the national competition selected a theme for a setting, chose a particular occasion, decided on a color scheme, selected materials for table cover and napkins, and illustrated the completed table setting on contest forms provided by Lenox, a leading manufacturer of fine china and hand-blown crystal.

Miss Moeller's prize-winning table was centered around a German color theme celebrating her grandparents' return to Germany for their 50th wedding anniversary. "Venture" china and black "Venture" crystal were underscored against a black and white checked tablecloth and place mats of red and yellow. For her centerpiece, a diminutive German anniversary clock surrounded with greenery and flowers of red and yellow completed the festive mood.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I've found an easier and faster way to cut out a garment when I'm using a commercial tissue paper pattern.

Simply lay the pattern on the material and run a warm iron over it.

The paper will adhere to most materials and you can eliminate lots of tedious pinning.

The paper can then be removed very easily. Jane C.

Dear Heloise: Many of us have hobbies that require the mixing of small amounts of epoxy, and we are always looking for something to mix it in that can be disposed of.

My idea, which I have found to be very satisfactory, involves saving all caps from bottles or jars, such as catsup, pop, etc.

When I need a small amount of epoxy, I use one of these little caps, and a toothpick for stirring.

When finished, I just throw all of it away. I hope this helps other hobbyists. Evelyn Curry

Officials Say Mace But No Beating Used

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — State officials admit using mace and "such force as necessary" in arresting a Mexican-American activist outside a bar. But they say the man was not beaten as he and other witnesses claim.

Officials of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund say they are gathering affidavits from witnesses outside the bar in Pearsall, Tex., a week ago today who said they saw state officers beat Modesto Rodriguez. The organization also says evidence is being gathered from persons arrested with Rodriguez who will swear they saw him in the jail bleeding from the face and nearly unconscious.

The White House and congressional committees have asked for an investigation of the incident by the Justice Department and the FBI.

Following the incident, Rodriguez, a witness in congressional hearings earlier this year concerning voting discrimination against Mexican-Americans in Texas, was hospitalized for four days because of a head wound.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked DPS Director Wilson E. Speir and Alcoholic Beverage Commission assistant administrator Henry C. Knowles for a report on the incident.

Those reports, released by Briscoe Thursday, said highway patrolmen, liquor agents and local law enforcement officers did not use excessive force in arresting Rodriguez.

According to Knowles, a liquor agent received a complaint the Buenos Aires Club in Pearsall was frequented by drunks. The agent sent an undercover agent to investigate and, with the help of two DPS troopers, a Frio County deputy sheriff and a constable, tried to arrest several persons believed to be drunk in the bar.

The agent and the two DPS troopers said Rodriguez tried to coax a prisoner out of their car, refused to move when ordered to, pushed one inspector's hand from the car door and appeared drunk. When the state officials told Rodriguez he was under arrest, he said he started swinging his arms and kicking them.

A struggle followed in which Rodriguez was handcuffed, but the officers state that only such force as necessary to complete the arrest was used. Knowles said in his two-page report.

Knowles said Rodriguez cursed the agents all the way from the bar to the jail and threatened to get even with them.

"Upon arrival at the jail he refused to leave the vehicle, kicking at the inspectors when they attempted to remove him from the car," Knowles said.

According to the report, an agent subdued Rodriguez with chemical mace and he walked into the jail under his own power.

Knowles' report also said none of the agents knew Rodriguez was involved in Mexican-American activist groups at the time of the incident.

Celanese Adding to Plant

Pampa, Texas PAMPA DAILY NEWS Friday, June 27, 1975 7

is now estimated at three billion pounds per year.

Celanese currently produces acetic acid at three Texas locations, Pampa, Clear Lake and Bay City. Wall said the Clear Lake and Bay City plants are based on ethylene oxidation to acetaldehyde, and secondary oxidation to acetic acid. The Pampa acetic acid unit is based on liquid phase oxidation of butane.

The new acetic acid unit at Clear Lake, which a company spokesman estimated would cost in excess of $50 million, will employ a methanol carbonylation process licensed from Monsanto.

The board of directors of Celanese Corporation Wednesday approved funds for a new 600 million pounds per year acetic acid unit at its Clear Lake chemical plant, Southeast of Houston.

James E. Wall, president of Celanese Chemical Company which operates the Clear Lake Plant, said the new unit, when it comes on stream in 1978 will relieve the serious nation-wide shortage of acetic acid that has been predicted to begin in 1976 or 1977.

With this new capacity, Celanese will have a company-wide acetic acid output of more than 1.7 billion pounds per year. Total U.S. acetic acid capacity

"Celanese will thus have the flexibility to produce acetic acid at four plants in three locations, utilizing three different feedstocks," Wall said.

Acetic acid is a basic industrial building block for production of vinyl acetate, acetic anhydride, terephthalic acid and solvent esters. These products, in turn, are used to manufacture pharmaceuticals, herbicides, plastics, solvents, emulsion paints, dyestuffs and man-made fibers.

Celanese Corporation is a diversified international chemical manufacturer, producing a broad line of petrochemicals, fibers, plastics, paints, coatings, and agricultural chemicals. Its 1974 worldwide sales were $1.9 billion. The corporation and its affiliates operate 65 plants, with 44,000 employees, in the United States and 16 other countries.

No Country Music For Kenton

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Jazz musician and bandleader Stan Kenton has joined drummer Buddy Rich as a persona non grata in the land of country music.

Kenton became an outcast with these words:

"I hate country and western music. It is ignorant music and perverted music. As a professional musician—a jazz musician—I abhor it."

Kenton, whose progressive jazz has been popular for 30 years, told the Nashville Banner newspaper Thursday that country music is "a national disgrace."

"I've waited a long time to say this," he said in his dressing room at Cedar Lake, Ind., where his group was performing. "The country and western music is an absolute national disgrace and the lowest form of contemporary music."

"It's a lot of whining and crying and I cannot understand why the American public is buying it. I guess because it is being crammed down their throats."

Kenton said he didn't want to start a "revolution" in Tennessee, but thought it was time somebody spoke out.

TDA Complains About Funds

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas tourism will suffer because of the legislature's stinginess, according to the head of the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

"In essence, our funding in 1976-1977 puts Texas at a sore disadvantage in the marketplace considering the heightened competition that we'll be facing from our sister states," Frank Hildebrand said Thursday.

The TDA asked for a 44 per cent budget increase, but the legislature agreed to an increase of only 5.5 per cent per year during the two year budget.

Hildebrand said the funding level is painfully small especially during the nation's bicentennial year.

"On the surface it might seem as though a 5.5 per cent increase each year is sufficient," he said. "Yet most of the new dollars will go into administration. Although the same number of dollars will be available next year for marketing, inflated costs of advertising means that Texas will, in reality, be falling behind for the first time since the agency's program began in 1963."

The legislature appropriated $1.4 million for the agency for the next two years, a $100,000 increase over current funding levels. TDA officials requested a two year budget of $1.9 million.

Hildebrand said other state governments increased their expenditures on tourism by 24 per cent last year. In many cases, those increases were based on expected higher tourist interest in bicentennial celebrations.

He said his agency will have to increase its efforts to squeeze $2 worth of effect from each tax dollar spent to promote tourism in Texas.

Hildebrand said the TDA is changing advertising agencies Sept. 1 in an effort to get more benefit from the money available. He said he expects the advertising agency to work closely with TDA's 10 member staff.

Willie Nelson To Play With Dallas Symphony

DALLAS (UPI) — Willie Nelson has played Madison Square Garden, western bars, posh hotel ballrooms and even cow pastures with his band, his friends and a me. Friday night the bearded Nashville rebel joins the Dallas Symphony Orchestra as its guest performer.

The concert, staged under a blue and white canvas tent on a shopping center parking lot, was sold out days in advance despite the prospect of Texas summer heat and a top ticket price of $7.

The show is part of the symphony's Summerfest series of cabaret concerts which opened with Tony Bennett and include Victor Bore, Roger Williams, Sarah Vaughan, Dave Brubeck, Chet Atkins and Nelson.

"We wanted to make sure that we featured the finest performers in every area of music and we feel we have done this," said Russell Gloyd, symphony operations director.

"We couldn't have had more cooperation from Willie and his band. They're really looking forward to it. This will be their first appearance with a symphony, so this is quite a milestone for them. We have gone to the expense to hire an arranger. We'll be premiering his tunes with full symphony for the first time."

Nelson said he wants to keep the symphony musicians on stage with him during the entire performance, interspers-

Blast Shakes Nevada

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — The most powerful nuclear explosion in the United States in two years erupted in the Nevada desert Thursday, sending shock waves as far away as Las Vegas, Nev.

Federal scientists said the weather was clear and the much-delayed blast went off on schedule at 5:30 a.m. PDT. There were no radiation leaks, scientists added.

The explosion rocked high rise buildings in Las Vegas, 120 miles away from the explosion site, and was felt less than one minute after the blast.

He Didn't Know About Car Says Ousted Judge A. Parr

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (UPI) — Ousted Duval County Judge Archer Parr says he was unaware an automobile stored on his ranch for several months belonged to the fugitive widow of narcotics gangster Fred Gomez Carrasco.

Texas Rangers picked up the automobile June 10 and said they believed it was owned by Rosa Carrasco.

Rangers said Parr told them he gave private investigator Robert L. Forche permission last fall to store a modified Ford Galaxie, assembled in Mexico to resemble a Continental.

"He told me it was a Mexican car, but not who it belonged to, and asked to keep it there," Parr said Wednesday.

Forche currently is helping District Attorney Arulfo Guerra in an investigation of alleged graft and corruption in Duval County that resulted in Parr's removal from office last March.

Forche also worked for San Antonio attorney James Gillespie last year while Gillespie was defending Parr in federal court on a perjury charge.

Gillespie also was one of Carrasco's attorneys at the time the San Antonio gangster was shot to death trying to break out of prison last August.

Rangers said the car contained a cosmetics case and a wanted circular on members of the Carrasco gang, along with a set of Mexican license plates.

Another auto belonging to the Carrasco was located in a mini-storage garage in San Antonio.

Authorities said they believe Mrs. Carrasco, who fled the day her husband and other

Cuban Reconciliation Still Long Ways Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba's announcement through Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., that it is willing to return $2 million in hijack ransom money to an American airline is unlikely to speed a resumption of trade or diplomatic relations with Cuba.

A long, hard road must be traveled before either becomes a possibility.

Just how long and difficult the journey will be spelled out to a congressional committee by William D. Rogers, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, when he testified against a House bill that would lift the embargo on U.S. trade with Cuba.

Certainly, no gestures of reconciliation will be made until the Organization of American States votes to lift sanctions against Cuba adopted in 1964.

The first occasion on which this will be a possibility will be the meeting of the OAS Conference of Plenipotentiaries in San Jose, Costa Rica, July 16-28.

However, even if the conference lifts the sanctions, as seems likely, none of the Latin American states, or the United States, will be automatically obliged to resume trade or relations with Cuba.

All it will mean, Rogers explained, is that each nation will be free to decide for itself whether or not to conduct trade and diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger opened the door only a little when he noted that Premier Fidel Castro had recently moderated the tone of Cuban propaganda.

"We are prepared to reciprocate Cuban moves," Kissinger said. "We do not consider that an animosity toward Cuba is an essential aspect of our foreign policy."

That was by no means the full story, however. Rogers spelled it out in greater detail.

"When and if the multilateral measures against Cuba are repealed by the OAS, there are a considerable number of issues on both sides," he said. "Trade is one."

The U.S. issues, he said, included family visit, prisoners in Cuban jails, the return of aircraft hijack ransom money, the question of compensation for expropriated property, Cuba's attitude about Puerto Rico and whether Cuba is prepared to follow a clear practice of nonintervention everywhere in the hemisphere.

He said Cuba was not only interested in resuming trade, but also with the re-institution of diplomatic relationships, the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo and expanding athletic and cultural relations.

"This agenda of interrelated and sensitive national-interest issues can only be addressed through a diplomatic process which can deal with the total agenda," he said. "That process, at best, will be long and intricate."

As a result of continuing media speculation, more than 100 U.S. companies have expressed interest to the State Department in prospects for trade relations with Cuba.

Rogers had a note of warning for them: "Our reading of the situation leads us to caution on the immediate prospects. The legacy of over a decade of antagonism and diversion of trade relations elsewhere, together with the complex question of Cuba's attitude toward and respect for private enterprise will restrain any great expansion of business."

But the most vexed question of all for the administration is Cuba's lack of respect for "human rights and fundamental freedoms."

Rogers said that Cuban leaders had been reticent about the number of political prisoners incarcerated in Cuban jails—including eight Americans. Also, there were 765 American citizens and 1,177 Cuban national relatives of American citizens presumably still seeking to leave Cuba.

"We continue to be concerned with the condition of human rights in Cuba," Rogers said, "and to have a humanitarian interest in seeing families reunited."

Churches And The Women's Movement

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Earlier this month the National Council of Churches filed a "friend of the court" brief in Connecticut in an effort to stop the jailing of three young women who refused to testify before a grand jury.

The action marked a new and more militant stance for church women involved in the feminist movement.

Prior to action in Connecticut, prompted by the formation of an Ad Hoc Committee of Concern, feminists in the church had spent most of their energy on such parochial—but important—issues as sexist language in liturgical forms, increasing the power of women on boards and church agencies and ordination-related questions.

In the secular field, most of the energies were spent in the area of lobbying for the Equal Rights Amendment.

In the past few months, however, a growing number of church women have begun to express concern about what they see as "an emerging pattern of harassment of members of the women's movement across the United States."

The words are Peggy Billings', of the women's division of the Board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church and they open a memo that is being circulated among religious feminists.

The memo notes that in several cities since the beginning of the year, FBI agents have intensively questioned women activists in the feminist movement looking for possible leads to such fugitives as Patricia Hearst, Jane Alpert, Patricia Swinton and Susan Saxe.

Miss Saxe has since been captured and has pleaded guilty to bank robbery charges.

When the women have refused to answer FBI questions, according to Miss Billings and other women, they have been summoned before grand juries, be granted immunity and, in essence, forced to testify. If they refuse, they are sent to jail for contempt as in the New Haven, Conn., case and in Lexington, Ky.

"The thing which concerns me," Miss Billings said, "is the potential long-range impact of such harassment on the woman's movement."

She also expressed concern about whether "grand juries have abused their authority in the process of these interrogations, and whether or not they have done this in collusion with local law enforcement officials and/or the FBI," she added.

In particular, she said in her memo, she was concerned about the spread of such harassment to women's centers funded by national church bodies.

"I am concerned for these centers, because they form a cross-roads between traditional church women's groups and the so-called secular women's movement," she said.

To fight what they regard as potential harassment and intimidation the Ad Hoc Committee of Concern was established, with letters going out under NCC letterheads to 700 women's groups informing them of their rights before both the FBI and grand juries.

The NCC, in its brief, challenged the notion that people can be submitted to protracted jail sentences for civil contempt. In the New Haven case, the three women could serve as much as 16 months in jail—the life of the grand jury—and be jailed again if they refuse to answer questions before a new grand jury.

"It is resoundingly offensive to the generally accepted sense of fairness of our society that a person who has committed no criminal act, has not been convicted by a jury of her peers or even charged with any crime, can because of moral commitment be placed in jail.

Amarillo Will Host Convention

A series of over one hundred conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses is scheduled this summer in the United States and Canada.

Eddie Ripley, presiding minister of the Pampa congregation, said 70 delegates will represent this area at sessions set for the Civic Center in Amarillo.

Ripley said 4,000 persons are expected for the four-day meeting July 3-6.

"It is clear," Ripley said, "that the early system is a closewoven fabric. Whether we like it or not, the nations are all interdependent. Yet this fact has not brought them into cooperation, even though they see the desperate need for this."

"Why is it nations cannot work out their problems by cooperation? In particular because they are divided in so many ways," he said.

They have different political ideologies, economic systems, social arrangements and religious beliefs. And people, as a result, often have deep-seated prejudices against those who hold views different from their own.

Discussing the convention program, Ripley said it will explore all the problems confronting mankind today and systematically review the ultimate solution.

Ripley said sessions are scheduled daily from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 3 to 5:30 p.m. The program will feature four Bible dramas, lectures and general discussion periods.

First Assembly Slates Special Service Today

The Women's Mission Council of First Assembly of God Church is sponsoring a special service at 7:30 p.m. today.

The special guests will be "Donna Moon and the Stars", being comprised of Mrs. Moon, whose husband is Dean of Southwestern Assemblies of God College in Waxahachie, along with five young ladies from the student body of the college.

They present a program referred to as "Operation Cheer," which is a singing and witnessing program especially for the military personnel of the United States on bases at home and abroad. Mrs. Moon works through military chaplains and arranges concerts in hospitals, chapels, service centers, stadiums, and even in mess halls.

Through their efforts "the group" has brought real cheer and encouragement to a host of servicemen around the world who needed strength from back home.

A second aspect of their ministry, according to pastor R.L. Courtney, is meetings, such as the one scheduled today.

Mrs. Moon is an accomplished musician and singer, having served for more than 10 years as organist and soloist for the regional Veterans Hospital in Dallas.

An investment in Your Future

...ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

FOR EVERY PROBLEM, THERE IS A SOLUTION

Such a predicament! Stuck in mud a foot deep! What to do? Just sit in despair? Wring your hands? Of course not! There is a solution. Obviously, this is a simple predicament. But what about the enormity of some of life's problems? There is an answer. There is help. God is "a very present help in time of trouble," the scriptures say. Try Him—try Jesus. Feel His presence and let Him speak to you in church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Residents Don't Want Bobby Vinton Street

CANONSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Bobby Vinton, whose top hits include "Please Love Me Forever," apparently isn't such a big hit with some of the people where he grew up.

Their reaction to a proposal to rename a street after the pop singer is more like "Tell Me Why," another one of his hits.

"I wouldn't walk across the street to see Bobby Vinton," borough councilman Jack Passante said when the proposal came up recently.

Passante said he watched a television interview in which Vinton reluctantly gave Canonsburg as his hometown. According to Passante, Vinton sluffed off Canonsburg as an area near Pittsburgh.

"A Perry Como Street I could see," he said, "because he is proud of his community."

A street already has been named for Como, another native son who has fewer gold records than Vinton.

Passante cast the only dissenting vote as the motion passed, 6-1, but the next day it was discovered a legal technicality requires the council to vote again on the proposal July 7.

Meanwhile, families living on Smith Street, where Vinton grew up and lived until five years ago, have gotten up a petition to block changing their street's name. Of the 18 families on the street who were questioned, all of them opposed the name change.

Rio Grande Families To Get Water System

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI) — More than 60 contractors have submitted bids to build a water system for thousands of families along the Lower Rio Grande who have to haul their drinking water.

The bids were to be opened today.

More than 2,000 families have signed up for the water distribution system being funded by grants from the Economic Development Administration and the United States Catholic Conference Campaign for Human Development, which allotted $180,000 for more than 3,000 families to use the system.

Arturo Ramirez, manager of the Military Highway Water Supply Corp., said the water system is expected to greatly improve the overall health and socio-economic position of the residents along the river.

"We've worked long and hard for this system and we know it will improve the lives of our people," Ramirez said.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 28
Your birthday today: You make all kinds of adjustments in your life. Circumstances challenge you to surmount problems. Relationships are important, provide most, if not all, of the available channels by which you find what you need to work with in the decade ahead. Today's natives are tactless at times but always come through well in emergencies. They have more self-discipline than most others do.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Despite tension, as you revise an earlier estimate, progress is virtually certain. Information is incomplete but consistent with what you already know. You spot a few errors but have no surprises.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Whatever you do on the job or in business ventures gets publicity and arouses widespread but restrained comment. Romantic excursions and celebrations of marital happiness are in order.

Spray Industry May Evaporate

NEW YORK (UPI) — An $8 billion aerosol industry hangs in the balance, being weighed against possible health hazards, as the National Academy of Sciences studies the impact of fluorocarbon gases on human health, crops and insects.

More than 3 billion aerosol "spray" cans are sold annually containing such diverse products as antiperspirant and insecticide. The fluorocarbons are used as propellants for more than half, and that segment of the industry accounts indirectly for $8 billion and as many as a million jobs, according to industry estimates.

In mid-June a government task force — including representatives of 14 federal agencies — urged fluorocarbons be banned as propellants by 1978. More than 50 per cent of fluorocarbon production goes into aerosols, more than 25 per cent into refrigerators and air conditioners.

The recommendation, coming a year after a scientific journal first claimed the gases are depleting the ozone layer that shields the earth from ultraviolet rays and increasing the hazards of skin cancer each year, raised the question of cumulative impact on life, human and otherwise, throughout the world.

The ban would await confirmation of current evidence when the National Academy completes its study next spring. The industry has rebutted the charges and is conducting a $5-million research project of its own, funded by 19 fluorocarbon producers here and abroad.

Other safety questions have been raised with aerosols, involving the possible health hazards of inhalation in ordinary use, possible misuse such as "sniffing," and accidents from misdirected spray.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission recently refused to ban a spray-on shortening product allegedly linked to deaths among children who sniffed it. The commission plans an educational campaign on the dangers of inhalation and probably will require industry to make valves that do not misspray. But apparently the group will leave to other government agencies the overall question of aerosols.

In the meantime, however, there have been many changes affecting the industry.

The government task force urged mandatory labeling to alert consumers to dangers, and avoid penalizing companies whose products are not so propelled. Most water-based products such as shaving creams and paints use hydrocarbon propellants, and foods employ nitrous oxide or carbon dioxide.

Federal Official Says 'Keep Sex Out Of It'

DENVER (UPI) — A federal civil rights official says an investigation on employment practices is one thing, but questioning employees about his sex life is another.

"The investigation of anybody's sex life cannot be condoned," said Gilbert Roman, regional director of the civil rights office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"I don't feel any investigators of any agency should be allowed to ask questions about someone's religion, politics or sex life," he said Wednesday.

He has complained to Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., about investigators questioning employees about their sex lives, apparently to determine if there had been favoritism in hiring.

"I wouldn't mind if they'd asked me or my wife. I'd be glad to give them the details," Roman said. "I wonder if they have microphones under my bed."

Roman said also he complained investigators questioned him about alleged favoritism by HEW regional director Rulon Garfield in hiring members of the Church of the Latter-Day Saints. Garfield is a Mormon.

In his letter to Mrs. Schroeder, Roman said investigator Patrick Reed asked an assistant if he was having an affair with another employee.

"I was...informed by Ms. Helen Pulliam, secretary in the personnel office, that Mr. Patrick Reed had intimated to her that I was having an affair," he said.

Roman said although he was not worried about his career being jeopardized by the investigation, questions about his sex life were clearly out of line.

"If federal officials don't come out and say something, these things will keep going on," he said.
