Kissinger, French Discuss Peace, Oil

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing of France held an unexpected and dramatic meeting today.

Kissinger, who had been scheduled to see only Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues for four hours, spent an hour with the minister and then drove to the president's Elysee Palace.

There was no immediate explanation of the change of plans. However, Kissinger on previous visits during Giscard's presidency had always met with him.

Kissinger's chief topics with the French had been advertised as an attempt to bring about a new Israeli-Egyptian interim peace settlement and an effort to arrange fresh talks between oil-consuming industrial and oil-producing states.

Kissinger goes to Geneva tonight to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A.

Gromyko who flew there today from Moscow. They will discuss the Middle East and efforts to limit nuclear arms. Then Kissinger will fly to Bonn for talks Saturday with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

The Secretary of State arrived five minutes late for his 10 a.m. appointment at the Quai d'Orsay. He greeted Sauvagnargues in French and Sauvagnargues replied with a broad smile.

Kissinger turned to newsmen with a grin and said, "When I speak to him in French he answers me in German."

The two then marched into Sauvagnargues' office. As Kissinger passed news reporters, he wagged a finger and said, "Some day when I walk by, I am going to say something historic."

The French and Soviet talks on a new Middle East peace pact were warmups for Kissinger's meeting in Bonn Saturday with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

The secretary, playing the role of a marriage broker of peace, has been trying to get Israel and Egypt to agree to a new military disengagement agreement in the Sinai Desert.

"There are a number of crucial issues which have to be solved," a senior American official traveling with Kissinger said Wednesday.

But the official told reporters of "an evolution of both positions since Rabin was in Washington" last month for talks with Kissinger and President Ford.

Kissinger, speaking in Washington before setting out on his trip, said Wednesday the United States would do "whatever is humanly possible" to bring about a new Israeli-Egyptian accord.

Egypt has demanded Israeli pullbacks from key oil fields and mountain passes in the Sinai Desert. Israel has been willing to abandon the Abu Rudeis oil fields but has hesitated about giving up the Gidi and Mitla passes.

The senior official with Kissinger indicated that one key issue in dispute — Israel's demand for an agreement lasting several years — has apparently been settled.

"It's no longer a crucial issue," he said.

Despite the reported progress in the negotiations, there was little chance of a major development until Sunday, when Rabin meets with the Israeli cabinet in Jerusalem.

Diplomatic observers said additional progress might move Kissinger to resume his shuttle diplomacy between Cairo and Jerusalem next month in a bid to seal a new pact.

But the secretary, whose last shuttle talks collapsed in March, was unlikely to launch a new Middle East peace mission unless convinced of success.

Quilting Bee

Members of the Highland Hobby Club got together Wednesday in a cool, shady spot outside Mrs. H.T. Nail's home at 1917 N. Barnes to work on a quilt for her. Mrs. Nail, below, said the pattern "is what you call Oklahoma Strip," and it is her second quilt in two weeks. "The others haven't got theirs ready yet," she said. The club is about 18 years old. "In the summertime we only meet to quilt or something like that," Mrs. Nail said. "Beginning in September we meet in each other's homes." Other members of the club include Mrs. James Kirkwood, above right, Mrs. A.W. Calvert, Mrs. R.D. Holmes, Mrs. Carl Cantrell and Mrs. F.W. Dougherty. Mrs. Delphia Hastings, above left, is Mrs. Nail's sister visiting from Porterville, Calif. How many quilts has the quilt club quilted in the past 18 years? "I can't tell you how many," Mrs. Nail said. "A whole bunch."

Commissioners To Learn Of City Budget Problems

By TEX DEWESE

Pampa News Staff

Faced with inflation and rising costs, Pampa city commissioners were asked today to sit in on a series of meetings for an in-depth study of the city budget for fiscal 1975-76.

City Manager Mack Wofford told the city fathers at their regular semi-monthly meeting this morning he wanted to go over with them in detail the budget requests submitted by city department heads.

First in the series of budget studies was set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 15.

Wofford said he wanted to show the mayor and ward commissioners the requests from various departments and determine what alternatives are available to maintain current services.

"There is a need for commissioners to understand just what we are facing," Wofford said. "We want you to know what we are facing and decide what we are going to do about it."

The city manager gave them an example of continued cost increases. Gasoline used by the city went up another four cents a gallon this week. The city now pays 50 cents a gallon for fuel used in city vehicles, he stated.

Wofford indicated all facets of the city operating budget will be studied along with a search of all avenues for financing the various departments.

In other business today: The commission unanimously supported Commissioner Joe Curtis' motion to have the city manager write to Texas representatives in Congress voicing Pampa's opposition to placing Texas under the Voting Rights Act of 1965 which would place local elections under federal control.

Gray County commissioners recently indicated opposition to a federal take-over of local functions at the county level.

Tony Anderson, superintendent of the municipal water plant, gave commissioners a report on replacement of 2-inch water lines in the city.

He said approximately 11,000 feet of water line replacement was being completed in the north section of Pampa today.

City Manager Wofford said

two and a quarter miles of pipe has been replaced which is about ten per cent of the total city-wide project.

Anderson said work crews moved into an older section of Pampa today in the alleys between Reid and Barnes and between Frederic and Locust streets.

A total of 35 miles of 2-inch water lines are in the project to be replaced, Anderson said.

"We are trying to get into the areas where we have the most complaints of low water pressure," Anderson said. "In some of the lines the pipes have been corroded until there is only about a half-inch opening."

Following a report that the owner had begun remodeling the structure, the building at 500 N. Zimmers was deleted from the list of abandoned buildings.

Commissioners canvassed last Tuesday's bond election and adopted a resolution authorizing the sale of the bonds in the amount of $300,000 to help pay the city's share of the proposed $1.5 sewage treatment plant.

Also approved at today's meeting were routine salary changes for June and payment of $72,687.62 in accounts due.

County Tax Rolls Show All-Time Record Total

By ANNA BURCHELL

Pampa News Staff

Celanese Chemical Co. is Gray County's largest taxpayer on the industrial rolls for 1975.

The industrial rolls were discussed Wednesday when Gray County Commissioners Court met as a board of equalization.

The court will meet at 9 a.m. Friday to hear opinions on the local rolls — which also are expected to increase.

Jack Back, Gray County tax assessor-collector said the final tabulations being processed and indications point to a rise in total assessed values.

Gray County Judge Don Cain said since no official protests were made Wednesday to the board of equalization on the industrial rolls, appraisal of the Thomas Y. Pickett & Co. of Dallas will stand.

The Pickett firm is an appraisal service hired by Gray County to appraise industrial property. The county pays $14,500 annually for that service.

Assessed values for industrial property here total $90,922,855 — an increase of $5,202,260 over 1974.

The Pickett firm in its proposal left the local rolls the same as last year. Those appraisals are under the direction of Back.

However the grand total in assessed values, with the local rolls unchanged, is $101,347,400 — an all-time high.

"The appraisal speaks well for the growth of this county," said Judge Cain.

Celanese Chemical Co. is the number one industrial taxpayer, according to the appraisal proposal with assessed valuations of $7,336,400. Phillips Petroleum is the second largest with Texaco and Cabot, ranking third and fourth. Assessed value is 23 per cent of the market value.

The local rolls now stand at $39,838,500.

Back says current trends lead him to believe that when the figures are all in local rolls will show some increase.

The local rolls include "everything not included on the industrial roll," Judge Cain said.

Everything in Pampa, Lefors and McLean as well as Laketon.

Grandview-Hopkins, Alanreed, Kingsmill and Hoover is assessed on the local rolls.

Gray County includes 937 square miles with more than $405 million in market value property.

The county was formally organized in 1902.

Humphrey Predicts $70 Billion for Oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., says the price America pays for oil could climb as much as $70 billion this fall — with devastating impact on the economy.

If the oil producing countries, meeting in September, raise prices by as much as $4 a barrel — the largest figure in current speculation — that would add $50 billion to U.S. oil prices.

But, in addition, domestic price controls, applied against two-thirds of U.S. production, expires Aug. 31. Unless Congress and the administration agree on a new control formula, the price will jump from $5.25 to $13 a barrel, adding more than $20 billion to America's oil bill, Humphrey said.

Other prices associated with oil — fertilizer, for example — could rise by another $20 billion, made in advance of a joint Frank Zarb, administrator Administration; Rogers C.B. Morton, secretary of commerce, and Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

In addition, Senate Democrats called a caucus today to discuss what to do about extending oil price controls and other energy matters.

President Ford has proposed the removal of controls from the prices of domestic oil and

Kidnapers Grant Stay of Execution

BEIRUT (UPI) — The kidnapers of American Col. Ernest R. Morgan today granted him a second 72-hour "stay of execution" but warned that he would be killed after that if the United States does not meet their food and clothing ransom demands.

Police sources said that in their second message to the Beirut offices of a European News agency the execution until 9 p.m. (2 p.m. colonel "personally asked for mercy."

"This will be our final stay of execution," police quoted the message as saying.

They said the message was accompanied by a tape recorded appeal from Morgan, a black, asking the United States "not to abandon me because of my race and color."

The kidnapers have asked for a massive American aid relief for refugees of a left-wing Beirut suburb devastated by last month's street fighting between rival political militias. They also demanded that the search which Lebanese authorities are conducting for Morgan be stopped.

Sources close to the investigation said that, so far, there were no plans to meet either demand. "We reaffirm that the spy Morgan will be shot as we have said before if the American government does not fulfill all the demands we made in our original note," the new message said.

The incident involving the 43-year-old Petersburg, Va., colonel has created a severe split among the Palestinian guerrilla organizations, and Beirut police reported a street battle today between rival factions arguing whether Morgan should be released.

Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization accused two splinter guerrilla groups Wednesday of refusing orders to release 43-year-old Col. Ernest Morgan.

The harshly worded statement identified the kidnapers as the Popular Struggle Front and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command.

The PLO said talks "reached a deadlock because of the intransigence of the kidnapers" — members of the breakaway "rejection front" of guerrilla groups.

It said the PLO did all it could to convince the two militant guerrilla groups to release Morgan, but "these efforts have ended in failure."

Lebanese officials, who had relied on the PLO to get Morgan back, expressed concern the kidnapers would go through with their threat to kill the Petersburg, Va., colonel.

"We have grave fears for the colonel's life," a source close to the investigation said. "It seems that getting him back through negotiations is now no longer possible."

The kidnaping touched off the worst crisis in the guerrilla movement since the "rejection front" broke with the main groups under Arafat's leadership two years ago.

The front accused the Arafat leadership Wednesday night of trying to "use the Morgan affair to attack the rejection forces and help imperialist and Zionist forces."

"The rejection front's stand represents an open challenge to Arafat," an Arab diplomat said. "In the middle of it is Morgan. For him the danger is that the split becomes so heated that the front will not be able to give him up even if its demands are met without seeming to lose face."

Morgan was kidnaped from a taxi in a Palestinian-held suburb of Beirut June 29 during a stopover in Lebanon on a trip from Pakistan to Turkey.

The kidnapers threatened to kill him Wednesday night unless the United States gave massive relief to a Moslem suburb devastated by recent religious warfare.

The Passing of a Saying

'Tis said that a prostitute, stacked up against a politician, is a paragon of virtue; the reasoning being that the former deals in what belongs to her, while the latter trades off other people's property.

That will no longer be true if members of the "world's oldest profession" don't abandon their coercive tactics and attempts to board the political gravy train.

The reference is to a Paris dailineer report that French prostitutes have gone out on strike against police repression and fines for soliciting customers. Which might be chalked up to their credit if the matter stopped there. But it doesn't.

Demanding that they be taxed instead of fined, the French ladies of the night give the first impression of having been attacked by an excess of civic virtue. But, upon closer examination, their ulterior motives begin to show. Along with the new tax status they are demanding, the girls want social security, mothers' benefits and old-age pensions.

Nor are they adverse to a little old-fashioned arm-twisting reminiscent of unionized activity elsewhere: including picketing, intimidation and the use of force against reluctant fellow members, and the distinctly unpeaceful occupation of churches for sit-ins.

Too bad. So long as they were peaceful and dealing in their own property, the girls were operating at a higher level of morality than most of those who looked down their noses at them. But, now that they have taken the political route of intimidation and force, that can no longer be said. Now, like their political and politically-oriented counterparts, they are just 'hookers.'

Prostitution, outlawed under De Gaulle, is no longer illegal in France, but soliciting is. You figure that one out. We can't.

Bonanza for Senators

A new law requiring that members of the U.S. Senate file a public report on how much they collect in fees on the speech- and -lecture circuit casts a revealing light on this fringe benefit that comes with being a senator.

Two senators actually earned more out of the stump than they did from the government, which

63 Year Old Stumped On What to Call Spry Father's Newborn

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A young lady wrote to you about her boyfriend's refusing to shake hands with anyone, and you said he probably had a "thing" about germs.

That's possible, but there could also be another reason, one that's plagued me for years—sweaty palms.

The only time my palms aren't wet is when I'm asleep. They even sweat in cold weather. In school, I used to wad up a handkerchief and keep it in my hand while I wrote. Otherwise, the sweat would drip off my palm onto the paper, and the ink would run.

I hesitated to ask a girl to dance because I'd get the back of her dress wet before the first dance was over. And the hand I held would get wrinkled from sweat until it looked like she just did a sink full of dishes.

No doctor has been able to help me, so I just live with it. It's rude to refuse to shake hands, so I just wipe my hands on my pants leg or coat at the last moment before shaking hands—but, it's embarrassing.

I sympathize with anyone with this problem because I know how frustrating it is. If you should ever hear of a remedy, please let me know.

SWEATY PALMS

DEAR SWEATY: Doctors say it's nervousness. And the only remedy for nervousness is to build self-confidence and a better self-image. Work on it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 63. His father is 84, and a more handsome, robust, vigorous man you couldn't hope to meet.

Eight years ago, when my father-in-law was 76, his wife died. A year later he married a 40-year-old maiden lady. To everyone's surprise, a year later they became proud parents of a baby boy!

Obviously, this child is my husband's half-brother. The problem is that it sounds so utterly ridiculous for a 63-year-old man to introduce a 6-year-old child as his brother. People either say, "You're kidding," or they look at him as though he's crazy. (Everyone assumes the boy is his grandchild.)

Is there some way to get around this since the child calls my husband by his first name?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Why try to get around it? If an 84-year-old man doesn't mind being called "Daddy" by a 6-year-old, your 63-year-old husband shouldn't worry about introducing the boy as his brother.

DEAR ABBY: I graduated from high school last June and sent out 48 announcements. I received 31 gifts and two cards.

Later, someone said that sending out a graduation announcement is just like asking for a present. I really felt proud to be graduating and didn't think that sending an announcement would be like asking for a present.

What do you think?

GIRL GRADUATE

DEAR GRADUATE: Sending announcements to relatives and very close friends is all right. But a good rule to follow is: When in doubt—don't.

RED PARTY LINE

THAN ONE YEAR AGO Standard of Living Is Lower

Industrial production is running at an annual rate of 12 per cent less than one year ago, according to statistics in the June 16 Washington Report. Housing starts are 35 per cent less, and personal savings 11 per cent less.

Spendable income is 7 per cent above a year ago, and consumer expenditures are up 9 per cent. But consumer prices—a measure of inflation—are up 10 per cent.

With inflation of the money supply at 10 per cent—higher than the increase in either consumer expenditures or spendable income—it is clear that the consumer is spending more money on fewer goods, and dipping into his savings to do so. The average consumer's standard of living is lower than it was a year ago, and there are few prospects of improvement.

Washington Report described a speech delivered by Gaylor Freeman, chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago before the National Conference on Capital Investment and Employment. "We are a consumer-oriented society," said Freeman. We have turned away from saving and toward more spending in the decade from 1965 to 1974.

Freeman pointed out that nations with relatively low savings rates, such as the United States and the United Kingdom, also have low rates of formation of fixed capital—investments in machinery and factories that create jobs and consumer goods.

Our savings over the past ten years have been only a fraction of the total capital needs for the next decade, according to Freeman.

Freeman's point was that personal saving—the surplus income over our daily requirements that can be set aside for the future—is the source of capital that is used to invest in increased productivity for tomorrow. Without savings, there can be no way of increasing the nation's productivity—which we must do if we are to move out of the current recession.

Freeman did not say (or at least was not reported to have said) that it is our guardian, government, that has inflated the currency and destroyed the incentives to save. Interest paid on passbook savings accounts, in some states at least, is a maximum of only 5 per cent by law. It just doesn't make sense to save when inflation is taxing away twice the amount you earn through interest.

When you consider that governments at all levels take 80 per cent of the money supply that is available for borrowing, the picture is even worse. Little is left for the business man, the corporation or the potential home buyer.

Even though our birthrate is nearly at the level which will eventually lead to a relatively stable population, there are people already here that will be entering the future job force in addition to those not yet born. The capital investments made possible by savings are needed to provide for expansion of both jobs and consumer goods those people will need.

The no-growth economy is here.

EMPTY ARGUMENT Chicken Little Forecast Hit

By RICHARD L. LESHNER
WASHINGTON — A 1929 report on the known reserves of important industrial raw materials concluded that supplies of tin would be exhausted in 10 years. Some 40 years—and a lot of tin later another study. The Limits to Growth, foresaw the bottom of the tin cup within 15 years. "At this rate," says the British economist, Wilfred Beckerman, "we shall have to wait millions of years before we have identified enough tin reserves to last us for ever."

Thus does Professor Beckerman poke gentle fun at the fallacies of our present-day Chicken Littles, in his book Two Cheers for the Affluent Society.

Well, four cheers for the professor! There is so much nonsense, misinformation and sloppy thinking underlying the whole question of raw material availability today that I wouldn't be very surprised to see some "expert" predict the world will "run out" of petroleum at precisely 4:00 p.m. on August 2, 1987.

Of course, the world will probably never run out of petroleum, in the sense of having used up the last drop in existence. What will happen is that the easy-to-find, easy-to-produce supplies will be used first, and we will turn to what's left.

WHAT'S LEFT will be more costly to produce, so the price will go up. As the price goes up, less will be used and more substitutes will become competitive in cost. Right now, there are several alternative energy sources which are very close to being cost-competitive with oil, at current world prices.

The day may come when people will wonder why we ever bothered with petroleum (at least as far as its use as a fuel). Sound fantastic? Remember, it was the growing shortage of whales—and whale oil—in the nineteenth century which caused a price incentive for the development of a substitute lamp fuel, kerosene. That search for a substitute created the petroleum industry. How long has it been since you worried about supplies of whale oil?

He put on righteousness as a breastplate.

Those who apply themselves too closely to little things become incapable of great things.

AIRLINE'S RANSOM? Castro's Promise Still Unkept

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON — "Pie-in-the-sky" promises apparently are a common trait among extremists.

Last month, following Sen. George McGovern's fanfare junket to Cuba, it was reported dictator Fidel Castro had decided to return $2 million extorted from Southern Airways by a U.S. hijacker.

Levi Denies Justice Hits Unequally

Attorney General Edward Levi came to the defense of the judicial system the other day, denying that justice falls unequally on Americans, depending on their station in life. Ironically, his own Justice Department was announcing at the same time that it would not prosecute Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss on charges of accepting an illegal $50,000 contribution for the 1972 presidential campaign.

While government attorneys say the statute of limitations rules out the prosecution, the fact remains that the Ashland Oil Co. was subject to prosecution, and paid a fine, for making the contribution which Mr. Strauss received.

The Justice Department has shown zeal in pressing charges against corporations or their officials for violation of campaign financing laws, but less zeal for prosecuting the recipients of their illegal donations. A lobbyist for the Gulf Oil Co., for instance, pleaded guilty to making an illegal contribution to Sen. Henry Jackson for his 1972 presidential campaign. The senator later returned the money, which apparently satisfied the Justice Department.

Mr. Levi said dissatisfaction with the judicial system often is aimed at judges when the target ought to be prosecutors who decide whether to bring cases before a judge in the first place. Part of the problem may lie with government prosecutors who are determined to hale political donors into court when there is a suspicion of a law violation but are willing to overlook the fact that in such cases it always takes two to tango.

Something Must Give

The American wage-earner is getting some grim news from congressional hearings into the financing of the Social Security system, which is faced with insolvency. A search is on for some means to keep the system in the black without abandoning the principle that the cost of paying out benefits to retired people and other beneficiaries should be met by contributions from people who are still working.

One proposal would apply the 5.85 per cent payroll tax—plus the 5.85 per cent also paid by employers—to a maximum of $24,000 of annual income instead of the present ceiling of $14,100. That means the annual Social Security deduction would rise as high as $1,403 each for the employee and employer at the upper end.

It can be argued that this would hit workers in the middle and upper wage brackets too hard, but an alternative plan to spread the increase over all workers would reduce further the paychecks of low-income families whose struggle to make ends meet is already grim.

How long can this progression continue before our lawmakers come to grips with the need for a basic overhaul of the Social Security system? When Congress two years ago pegged the amount of Social Security benefits to the cost of living index, it opened the way for a steadily increasing drain on the take-home pay of workers whose household budgets are also subject to increases in the cost of living. As the saying goes, something's got to give.

This year tennis is celebrating an anniversary. It was exactly 100 years ago that England's Marylebone Cricket Club established the first official rules for the game of lawn tennis and launched it into world popularity.

If all the gasoline burned by Americans were put into one container, the container would have to be large enough to hold all of the people on earth, according to the Center for International Environment Information.

This artfully planted story, like McGovern's palsy walsying with Castro, got a lot of publicity. In that regard, it paid off big for the South Dakota radical and Cuban Communist.

But there is still no sign of the $2 million ransom.

So far this hooped affair is another instance of much hot air and no substance.

Actually, this is not the first time Castro has put on a grandstanding act of returning a hijacked shakedown and not making good. He's a practiced hand at that kind of shell game—now you see it, now you don't.

Several years ago, after bombastically avowing intention to return another $2 million ransom, he issued a check on the Cuban account in the New York Chase Manhattan Bank.

There was sufficient money in the bank, all right—some $30 million. But there was one big hitch—the funds weren't Castro's.

They had been frozen by the U.S. government years before when the Communist dictator came to power and expropriated $1.8 billion in U.S.-owned property and enterprises.

Until there is a settlement on these confiscated holdings, neither Castro nor anyone else is cashing checks on the impounded millions.

But authorities won't be surprised if he tries the same trick again.

ANOTHER PIPE DREAM
That recent rash of chatter about restoration of relations between the U.S. and Cuba is another case of much hoopla and little substance.

Before there can be anything like that, a concrete understanding will have to be worked out in payment for the $1.8 billion in U.S. property seized by Castro and profitably used by his Red regime ever since.

This huge grab does not include an unknown amount in individually owned homes, bank accounts, jewelry and other property confiscated by the Castroites. Prospects of the owners ever recovering anything is virtually nil. The U.S. Foreign Claims Settlement Commission has hundreds of such claims on file—and that's all.

Foremost among the big claims are: $268 million by the Cuban Electric Co., owned by a New York-based concern; four sugar companies with claims ranging between $80 - $100 million; Freeport Sulfur, $88 million; Standard Oil of New Jersey, $72 million.

Long Overdue
It looks as if it's finally curtains for a cushy boondoggle Sen. McGovern has been conducting since 1968—at a cost of more than $1.5 million to taxpayers.

It's the imposingly titled "Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs."

In its seven years of existence the committee has accomplished nothing of any consequence. From time to time, a little attended and less-noted hearing was held, and occasionally a generally ignored report was issued.

But the boondoggle did generate a lot of publicity for the South Dakota radical—unquestionably its main purpose. It definitely was useful in promoting his 1972 presidential maneuvering and his re-election to the Senate last year.

But the end appears to be in sight for the ingenious boodler.

Three months ago McGovern formally requested another "refresher"—$276,100 this time. But the request has been gathering dust in the Senate Rules Committee ever since and seems likely to stay shelved.

Inside word is the committee has quietly pigeonholed McGovern's proposed "refresher" for good.

That was nearly done several years ago when the South Dakotan managed to get only $255,000 after seeking $291,000. And he got the sharply cut amount with a pointed warning from Senate Republican Whip Robert Griffin, Mich., that "a number of Senators believe this special committee is not to go on forever; in fact, its budget was cut to make it clearly evident this temporary committee is to be phased out."

This year all the signs are that Griffin's blunt warning is finally being made good and the expensive boondoggle is being "phased out"—to the big gain of taxpayers.

Addendum: McGovern, now chairman of Foreign Relations subcommittee in South Asian affairs, is weighing a junket to Korea, Vietnam, Thailand, Laos and Cambodia. Certain newsmen have been sounded out on accompanying him on such a swing. Alan Baron, his shrewd press assistant, organized a large party of media representatives to "cover" McGovern when he went to Cuba. Actually, the 31 reporters subsidized the expenses of McGovern's wife and two of his staff members—by footing the cost of the chartered plane.

The South Dakota radical is adept at feathering his nest. In addition to his $42,500 salary and $450,000 in numerous perquisites, allowances and fringe benefits, he has made thousands of dollars moonlighting as a speaker in recent years. That may explain why he came to Washington some 20 years ago, he never earned more than $5,000 a year, but now owns a $200,000 Washington home, a sizable estate on Maryland's eastern shore and a few months ago was disclosed as the purchaser of a $250,000 mansion on fashionable Massachusetts Ave.—where his unrequited presidential aspirations are being busily promoted.

Rick Young of Tickfaw, La., will be clowning the Top O' Texas Rodeo, July 30 through Aug. 2. He has been clowning for about 20 years and works about 40 rodeos a year.

Local Rodeo To Feature Cajun, Beutler Stock

The Top O' Texas Rodeo Cowboys Association (RCA) Rodeo, July 30 through Aug. 2, will be stocked by Elra Beutler and Son, of Elk City, Okla., owned by Rick Young. "The Cajun" from Tickfaw, La., and announced by Warren House of Pampa radio station KPDN.

The Beutler family represents more than 50 years of experience in rodeo production throughout the United States. They have produced rodeos in Madison Square Garden and have worked all the top RCA shows, according to Dr. Kenneth Rayne, president of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association.

Rick Young will be using his happy overall clad body as bait to lure bulls away from fallen riders and will apply other skills of the clowning trade to entertain members of the audience at the four performances.

He works rodeos like the Calgary Stampede in Alberta, Canada; the Chicago International Livestock Exposition Rodeo; La Fiesta de los Vaqueros in Tucson, Ariz.; and many others.

When he isn't working one of more than 40 rodeos every year, Young returns to his appaloosa horse ranch. One of his horses was named reserve world champion appaloosa performance horse in 1961.

One of Young's specialty acts at the rodeo will be a wild chariot race using two teams of mules.

Barrel man for Young will be Frank Rhodes. It will be the first time for Hasse to announce rodeo, but he has many years of experience in announcing football, basketball and baseball.

Music at the shows will be by the Pampa High School Rodeo Band directed by Jeff Doughten. The Kid Pony Show, with events for children through age 15, will be held July 28 - 29. Shows will begin at 7:30 p.m. each day and there will be competition in six age groups.

Entry fees will be: Group I - Age 5 and under - $2 Group II - Ages 6 - 7 - $2 Group III - Ages 8 - 9 - $3 Group IV - Ages 10 - 11 - $4 Group V - Ages 12 - 13 - $5 Group VI - Ages 14 - 15 - $6

Events included in the Kid Pony Show will be the gold rush, barrel race, flag race, boy's saddle race, bull riding calf riding, pole bending, boy's tie down roping, girls' goat tying, boy's ribbon roping and hand potato race.

Practice sessions for the Kid Pony Show will be at 2:30 p.m. July 26 - 27.

Complete information may be obtained by writing Box 1942, Pampa.

Dances will begin at 9 p.m. July 30 through Aug. 2 in the National Guard Armory Building on the rodeo grounds.

Reserved seats for the rodeo performances may be obtained by calling 669-3241 or by writing Box 1942, Pampa.

July 30 will be family night with one $5 ticket admitting both parents and all children under 12 years of age.

McLean Hospital Loses Money Problem - Where To Get Patients

(EDITOR'S NOTE - This is the second of a two-part series on the McLean General Hospital, owned by Gray County, which has an average deficit of about $8,000 monthly.)

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

McLEAN - The McLean General Hospital must house 11 patients each day to break even. It has two patients today.

And that is better than a few days ago when the census dropped to zero.

Lee Miles, assistant administrator at the hospital, called utilization "our main goal."

"There are no new families moving in," he said, explaining one difficulty in attempting to reduce the deficit. "The town stays the same size - except for an occasional family moving out."

Miles said one solution to the occupancy problem is to create enough interest to draw patients from outside the McLean area.

"Getting people to utilize the hospital is our goal. If we don't have telling where we go from here," he said.

However, the low occupancy is "nothing brand new. It has been like this on occasions since the hospital opened," Miles explained.

He added that about two weeks after the hospital opened in the 1960's it closed down for two weeks because there were no patients.

Those who have been around the hospital a while can recall a time or two when the occupancy was 100 per cent in the 19 - bed facility.

"When the hospital recently laid off six employees, Miles said half of the town stopped to ask: "Is it true they are going to close the hospital?"

There are no such plans, Miles replied.

"But we must face another situation," Miles added. "Even though we are a community of senior citizens, they are reasonably healthy."

"Most of our patients are geriatric," Miles said.

According to Miles, medical criteria forced upon the doctors has hurt occupancy.

"We can no longer baby sit because some lady doesn't want to be confined with her husband," Miles explained.

"The patient must be ill - not a convalescent."

Rates at McLean are $45 and $51 per day while at Highland General they are $51 and $56 per day.

"But Medicare has pushed our overhead so high with stringent requirements," the doctor said.

"We have an honest 12 bed hospital - not 19 beds or 20 beds," he said. He explained that the hospital has nine rooms - one equipped for three beds.

"But we must have private rooms also," he said.

Staff physicians here say that people travel from as far away as Maine to use this hospital.

"We never have a patient gripe," Miles said.

Robert Monogue, administrator of both Highland General and McLean hospital.

Efforts to re-open surgery are underway. This calls for a visiting surgeon to come to McLean for a number of scheduled surgeries on a specific day.

Miles said Dr. Harold Fabian, chief of staff, and Dr. A.C. Wood, staff physician, are good doctors, but there isn't enough surgery at this time to warrant the cost of extra malpractice insurance to cover it. Surgeons operating elsewhere would already have the necessary insurance.

Dr. Fabian traced hospitalization to a time when insurance covered the entire cost of a hospital stay with room rates at $7 to $10 per day.

Times have changed since then, he said, and insurance pays only part of a patient's stay in a hospital. Dr. Fabian said in 1957 the McLean Hospital operated as a clinic, prior to a bond issue to build a hospital.

"And it didn't cost the county a dime," he emphasized.

The McLean Hospital was tacked on a bond issue to build a new wing at Highland General Hospital in Pampa.

Thus McLean became a "political potato," says Dr. Fabian. Hospital utilization or the creation of a hospital district are among the solutions to the financial deficit at McLean.

The problem rests with the Highland General Hospital Board of Managers, and ultimately with the Gray County Commissioners Court.

Teacher Says He Didn't Fit Conservative Image

HEREFORD, Tex. (UPI) - Although the school district's attorney says the system is not biased, Wayne Woodward thinks he could still teach next year if he fitted in better with the school's and the community's conservative image.

"It all started when they found out I was involved with the American Civil Liberties Union," Woodward said Wednesday. "After they found out I was the one who formed the union over in Hereford and I was called into the office and asked about the organization, I was told by school officials it was not the kind of organization I should belong to."

"One school official said that all members of the ACLU were radicals. I was told that since I was a radical I should either move to California or New York with the other radicals."

Woodward's friends and persons who taught with him said he would still have a job if he compromised with the administration.

Richfield Asks Court To Prevent FTC Probe

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Atlantic Richfield Oil Co. has asked a federal appeals court to prevent the Federal Trade Commission from obtaining information about some of its natural gas operations unless the FTC agrees not to use the data in an antitrust investigation of major oil companies.

Richfield asked the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday to block FTC subpoenas seeking records of the CAGC group, a partnership of Atlantic Richfield and three other oil companies which explored for natural gas.

The FTC said the material was to be used for a study of energy reserves, but Richfield said it believed the commission might use the documents in a separate antitrust investigation of some of the nation's largest oil firms, including Atlantic Richfield.

The attendant circumstances are sufficient to create an inference that the investigative subpoenas were motivated by a desire to obtain the documents for use in Exxon (the FTC designation for the antitrust case), Richfield said.

The case was assigned to a three judge panel of the court but there was no indication when a ruling will be issued. The federal district court at Houston previously denied the company's request.

At the center of the case were subpoenas issued March 13

by the FTC asking Richfield and its three CAGC partners, Continental Oil Co., Getty Oil Co. and Cities Service Co., for information about their joint venture.

These subpoenas, according to the statements of the FTC staff at the time of issuance, were issued in order to examine CAGC as one example of a joint venture engaged in discovery and production of natural gas, the company said. "This was said to be relevant to the FTC's energy study."

However, Richfield said the commission should have subpoenaed the records of other company groups not named in the separate antitrust investigation, or should guarantee its staff members working on the antitrust case will not be allowed to examine the information sought for the energy study.

3 Execs Indicted For Stealing Oil

ELIZABETH, N.J. (UPI) — The top three executives of a large oil firm, including one who served as a New Jersey state senator, were indicted Wednesday on charges of conspiracy and stealing more than $4 million in heating oil from the Exxon Corp.

Also indicted were five former Exxon employees who worked on piers at the corporation's Linden refinery and three employees of the Empire Oil Co. of Elizabeth, N.J.

Assistant Union County Prosecutor Ronald A. Abramowitz said over $4 million worth of heating oil was systematically pilfered from Exxon heating oil docks since 1969 by the oil workers using a self-propelled oil barge.

Among those indicted were Frank Epstein, 62, of Plainfield, N.J., president of the Raritan Oil Co. of Edison, and his brother, Solomon, 67, of Edison, N.J., also an executive of the firm.

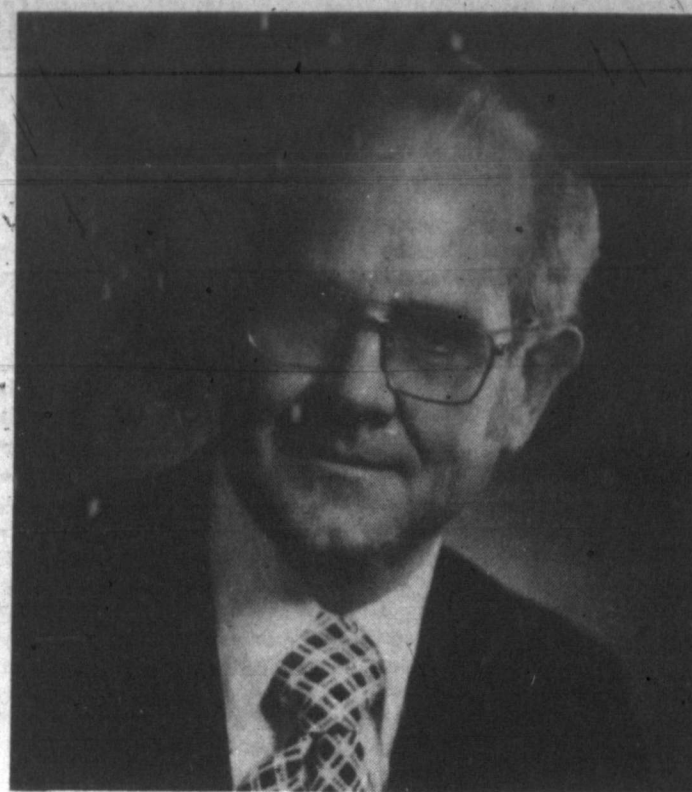

Former state Sen. Jerome Epstein, R-Union, Frank Epstein's son, also was indicted on the conspiracy and larceny charges. All three Epsteins are officers in oil firms including Raritan, Empire and Russo Brothers Fuel Co. in Elizabeth.

Authorities said the thefts of oil apparently were not noticed by Exxon officials until this year because the quantities were small compared to the capacity of the Linden refinery.

Abramowitz said the investigation was begun after Exxon inspectors discovered the pilfering activity. He said the grand jury was continuing to hear testimony about oil thefts prior to 1969.

Schneider was also charged with 85 counts of embezzlement for allegedly keeping false records of the transaction.

He has been a Rotarian for 18 years and is also active in the Chamber of Commerce, the Industrial Foundation and the school board.

Butz Confesses Soviet Deal Sent US Grain Prices Soaring

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says there probably is some truth to those rumors of a U.S.-Russian wheat deal that have sent American grain prices skyrocketing.

The reason, he said Wednesday, is a poor crop production in the Soviet Union.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's estimate of Soviet wheat production was revised downward Wednesday, lending credence to reports the Soviets are in the market for U.S. grain. Butz termed those reports "more than rumor."

"I think the Russians will have to buy some grain from the U.S. and Canada," Butz told a news conference in Kansas City.

But, he said no private grain trader has reported any sales of 10,000 tons or more, as required by law.

Sen. Henry Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations sent telegrams to major U.S. grain exporters asking for information on any Soviet grain purchases or negotiations for such purchases. A subcommittee staff member said there were no reports of sales of more than 10,000 tons but added he was certain some sales were under discussion.

The USDA, which a month ago estimated total Soviet wheat production at 95 million metric tons, revised the estimate Wednesday to 90 million metric tons. The original USDA estimate of Soviet grain production, made earlier this year, set the USSR crop at 210 million tons.

The one-two punch of the revised USDA figures and Butz' comments on the probability of a Soviet grain deal were expected to trigger another sharp increase in futures prices. However, futures prices advanced less sharply on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday than on Tuesday, when initial reports of the deal sent grain futures up their permissible limits of 20 cents per bushel.

It was believed traders on the Chicago Board of Trade were playing a waiting game, looking ahead to today's scheduled USDA report on domestic crop production.

Tuesday's sharply higher prices inspired many Midwest farmers to move into the market with stocks they had withheld because of what they considered excessively low prices.

But much of what the Soviets decide on any grain deal will depend on the position they take on their 1975-76 meat production program. The USDA estimates Russian grain production will fall about 15 per cent short of that nation's needs unless the Soviets choose to modify their meat production program.

Ugandan President Frees British Lecturer Hills

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Ugandan President Idi Amin today dramatically freed an imprisoned British lecturer and said he wanted to strengthen ties with the country's former colonial ruler.

Amin freed Dennis Hills, 61, during talks with British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan at the Kampala State House. Hills was sentenced to death for calling Amin "a village tyrant" in an unpublished manuscript.

"I have kept my word to release Mr. Hills," Amin said. "This proves I am not mad as British newspapers said."

In the three months since Hills was jailed Amin demanded and got an apology from Queen Elizabeth II, demanded that Callaghan fly to Uganda, accused Britain of preparing to invade Uganda and threatened to jail 700 British residents as "spies."

Callaghan said he would fly here only if Amin commuted Hills' life sentence. Amin did, partly at the request of other African leaders, and Callaghan flew here Wednesday.

As Callaghan and Amin met, Hills suddenly walked into the room and told journalists, "I'm very well, thank you."

The three men then moved out onto a balcony where Hills shook Amin's hand and said, "Thank you very much, Mr. President."

The British professor, who is reportedly suffering from cancer, looked tan and fit although he walked slowly.

Callaghan brushed aside all questions at State House, picked appropriately for the occasion because of its very British address of No. 10 Prince Charles Drive.

"I'm pro-British and I want to strengthen my ties with Britain," Amin said. "This is perhaps the start of a new era between our two countries."

Asked about the future of the 700 Britons left in Uganda, whom he had previously labeled "spies," Amin said, "There's no problem. We want the Britons to stay."

Callaghan nodded agreement, saying they had discussed this question and had reached an agreement.

Amin personally escorted Callaghan and Hills to Entebbe international airport for an immediate flight back to London. They were scheduled to arrive at Heathrow airport tonight.

Callaghan flew to Kampala Wednesday for talks with Amin on the fate of Hills after the Ugandan president agreed to spare the professor's life.

Amin announced last week after meeting with Mobutu that he would commute Hills' death sentence. He did not say if the lecturer, who is reportedly suffering from cancer, would have to serve a jail term.

During his month-long dispute with the British government over Hills, Amin accused Britain of planning to invade Uganda and of planting spies among the 700 Britons still living in the former British colony.

Most of the 700, who include missionaries, teachers and diplomats, listened to a pep talk by Callaghan at a garden party Wednesday.

"I understand your problems and realize what they are," said Callaghan, adding that he preferred not to elaborate.

Amin originally said he would not consider clemency for Hills unless Callaghan came to Kampala for talks. Callaghan had refused to make the trip until Uganda commuted Hills' death sentence.

Diplomatic sources said Hills' sentence had threatened the Organization of African Unity summit meeting scheduled to be held in Kampala later this month.

Cher Divorced Again

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — "I made a mistake," said Cher, moving to divorce her second husband only 12 days after divorcing the first.

The svelte singer and television star, 29, Wednesday announced the end of her marriage to rock star Greg Allman, 27. The announcement came nine days after the wedding, and the marriage apparently lasted five days.

Wearing a broad-brimmed straw hat and a deep décolleté blouse, she appeared Tuesday to file a divorce petition in the same courtroom where she was formally divorced June 30 from Sonny Bono, her husband of 10 years and long-time professional partner on records, and in the television show that made her a national star.

"Greg and I made a mistake and I've always believed it best to admit one's mistakes as quickly as possible," Cher said in a statement distributed by a publicity agent.

"We just cannot live together as man and wife."

The Pampa Independent School District will receive sealed bids for offers to purchase old Pampa Junior High School property. See Legal Notice Section.

We deeply regret the inconvenience that we have caused you during the strike with the Piggly Wiggly Company. This was not of our choice, however, we do wish to thank you for your support in not shopping at the Piggly Wiggly food stores. The strike was brought about by Piggly Wiggly (Shop Rite Foods, Inc.) by refusing to grant their employees any economic increases for 6 months. It has been approximately 6 months since most of their employees have received wage increases, yet their prices continue to rise weekly. We sincerely hope that you will continue to support our strike until this labor dispute is resolved.

Homemade Ice Cream Turns on Smiles

By JANE P. MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Ingenious man centuries ago made the first ice cream by literally adding cream or fruit juices to snow.

By the early 1700s the formula crossed the ocean where Doly Madison delighted her guests at the White House with the creamy new cold dessert.

The first ice cream factory was established in 1851 in Baltimore; the ice cream cone appeared in St. Louis at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904.

By the 1900s Americans were screaming for ice cream.

Today this country leads all others in the production and consumption of ice cream. Each American, according to statistics, eats 15 quarts of ice cream a year.

Half of the 700 million gallons of ice cream consumed each year in the United States is vanilla. Next choices, in order, are: chocolate, strawberry, cherry, vanilla, butter pecan, peach, maple nut and coffee.

American's have even gone so far as to produce ice cream with such exotic names as bubbl gum, daiquiri ice, avocado and pumpkin pie.

Mrs. E.L. Anderson, 1002 E. Francis, said her family always requests her special peach ice cream. She prefers vanilla, she said, but she usually ends up making peach.

Here is her recipe which was specially recommended by her son Sam.

Peach Ice Cream
8-12 eggs
1 plus quart milk
1 cup sugar
1 can sweetened condensed milk
1 pint whipping cream
vanilla
1 quart finely

chopped peaches
Beat eggs with one quart of milk and cook to a thin custard stage. Add sugar, sweetened condensed milk and cream and pour into ice cream freezer. Add vanilla to taste.

Mrs. Anderson adds more milk until her freezer is about two thirds full. She said this recipe makes 5 quarts of ice cream.

After the ice cream begins to freeze, add the peaches.

Another local version of ice cream comes from Joan Braxton, 1117 E. Darby. Her recipe uses variations to please every palate.

Vanilla Ice Cream
4 eggs
2 1/2 cups sugar
6 cups milk
4 cups cream
2 tablespoons vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
Beat all ingredients together and freeze in ice cream freezer.

Variations
1. 1 cup crushed Heath Bars
2. 1 cup crushed, sweetened strawberries
3. 1 cup crushed and sweetened pineapple
4. 2 cups mashed bananas and 1 c. chopped pecans
5. 4 tablespoons cocoa mixed with the sugar or 2 ounces shredded chocolate
6. 1 cup crushed peppermint sticks
7. 1/2 cup chopped pistachio nuts and 1/2 teaspoon pistachio flavoring. Cut vanilla to 1 teaspoon.

One could also add crushed peanut brittle or 2 cups of strong coffee mixed with 1/4 cup sugar (omit quart of liquid and vanilla). Or make up your own versions — substitute grape juice for part of the milk, melt cinnamon red hot candies in the milk or combine flavors.

Or try these unusual recipes.

1 6 oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate
1 6 oz. can frozen orange juice concentrate 2 cup water
2 large mashed bananas
2 cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream
3 cups milk
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) apricot halves, drained and chopped.
1/4 cup cut - up maraschino cherries.
Mix first seven ingredients and beat well. Stir in apricots and cherries.
Pour into a gallon freezer and freeze.

German Chocolate Ice Cream
2 cups milk
1 stick cinnamon
1 package sweet cooking chocolate grated
3 eggs separated
1 1/2 cup sugar
dash of salt
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 quart light cream
2 cups milk
Scald 2 cups milk, cinnamon and chocolate in top of double boiler over hot water. Meanwhile, beat egg whites until frothy, gradually beat in 1/4 cup sugar. Set aside.
Beat egg yolks, remaining 3/4 cup sugar and salt together until light. Slowly stir egg yolk mixture into scalded milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon, about 5 minutes.

Remove from heat. Strain into a one gallon freezer. Add egg whites and mix well. Add vanilla, light cream and milk, filling freezer two thirds full. Mix well. Get cool and freeze according to directions.

The amount of air whipped into the churning ice cream depends on the temperature of the surrounding bath of ice and salt and the rate of speed at which the freezer turns. The proportion of salt and ice controls the temperature. A 8 to 10 parts ice to 1 part rock salt produces a smooth texture. Too much salt leads to rough grained ice cream.

After freezing, ice cream should be left to ripen or set. Plug the opening in the lid, cover the can with several thicknesses of waxed paper or foil and put the lid tightly on the can. Pack with more of the ice and salt mixture and cover the freezer.

Leave or put in the home freezer for four hours to ripen.

Ice Cream and Friends

Jason Sheets, right, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Sheets, shares some homemade German chocolate ice cream with his friend, Holly, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan E. Hogarson, who attempts to keep her ice cream out of the reach of the puppy, also one of Jason's friends named Chrysanthemum.

Only Cheap Vegetables May Be Homegrown Ones

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

Its going to be a home gardener's summer. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says higher production costs for commercially grown vegetables could limit output this year and keep prices high.

The USDA says crops from home gardens could force tomato and corn prices down later this summer. But it holds little hope for price breaks on other produce.

Even homegrown fruit and vegetables may cost more than anticipated. Long, dry spells in the midwest already have gardeners grumbling about the price of water to take the place of rainfall.

Generally high prices for meat, poultry and other protein foods are reflected in UPI's weekly survey of basic food prices across the country. Even ground chuck, a favorite for hamburgers and outdoor cooking ranged between 69 cents a pound in Los Angeles to $1.39 in Atlanta, up from a 59-cent low during the base week of March 19.

Poultry prices usually rise during the summer because of increased consumption. They've already started up, with a range of 59 cents to 89 cents a pound reported in Los Angeles and New York.

The high is more than doubled the base price in March. Both broiler - fryer and turkey production are down from last year.

While beef prices are expected to continue sharply higher for the next few weeks, the USDA says more grass-fed beef, and consequently lower prices, may appear in markets late in the summer when grazing conditions generally deteriorate.

Even egg producers have cut back layer flock numbers to reduce financial losses. But the lowest price reported this week, 49 cents a dozen in Los Angeles, was 1 cent below the March base. The high was 85 cents a dozen in Hartford and Honolulu, compared with a high of $1.03 in March. Dried peas and beans, peanuts, almonds and walnuts offer reasonable alternatives for meatless meals. But to get adequate protein, they should be combined with small amounts of meat or dairy products or, in case of dried beans and peas, mixed with rice.

Fish fanciers will find ample supplies of salt water fish, says the extension service of Cornell University. Inventories of frozen fish sticks and portions are high frozen cod filets are especially plentiful.

HONEY CHOCOLATE CAKE

2/3 cup shortening
1 cup honey
2 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
2 tsp. baking powder
3/4 cup buttermilk
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Cream shortening. Continue beating while slowly adding honey. Beat in eggs one at a time. Sift together 3 times flour, cocoa, salt, soda, baking powder, buttermilk and vanilla. Pour batter into two greased and floured 9-inch pans. Bake at 350 degrees 20-25 minutes. Frost with Creamed Frosting.

Creamed Frosting

1/4 cup honey
1/2 cup butter
1 tsp. vanilla
2 egg whites
1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar

Cream honey and butter. Stir in vanilla. Beat 2 egg whites until soft peaks form. Add confectioner's sugar gradually and beat after each addition. Fold egg white mixture gradually into honey mixture.

New Product Threatens Old

NEW YORK (UPI) — Critics who say the American economy is based on planned obsolescence of conspicuous waste ought to talk with John T. McDermid of Bristol, Conn.

McDermid runs a company that makes specialty chemicals used in the electroplating and other metal finishing industries. Recently he formed a new company called Wastesaver, Inc., that makes equipment to enable his customers to recover and reuse the chemicals he sold them in the first place. Thus the new company threatens to dry up much of the market for the older company's products.

Does that make business sense?

"You bet it does," McDermid told United Press International. "Our competitors are trying to do the same thing so it was up to me to do it better than they do."

The particular competitors are Pfaunder Co. and Corning

Glass Works. Like Wastesaver, they make equipment for evaporative recovery of the chemicals from the effluents of the metal finishing plants.

"Our evaporators are smaller and less expensive," McDermid said. "We make a 25 gallon an hour unit for $10,000 compared with a competitive 15 gph unit selling for $30,000 and we can make a big unit for $30,500, comparable to a competitor's $90,000 unit."

However, the motive of McDermid and his competitors in recycling the chemicals is not just to save their costs for the users.

"As soon as the environmentalists began pushing the cause of pollution control into the headlines in the late 1960s it was obvious the metal finishing industry had to do something drastic about its effluents," McDermid explained. "As the makers of chemicals used in the industry we felt we ought to take the lead in solving the pollution problem."

But McDermid said neither he nor anyone else knew what to do in the beginning, so it took a long time to discover that evaporative recovery of the chemicals was the only thing that would work. At first treating the used chemicals with other chemicals to make them harmless was tried. "I never did think that made good sense but it was what the water treatment experts recommended," McDermid said. "It didn't work."

After evaporative recovery was finally chosen, there still were problems. "The makers of evaporating equipment didn't know enough about the electroplating or other metal finishing processes. Their evaporators kept breaking down on us," McDermid said. So McDermid's firm began designing and building its own evaporators to recover up to 75 per cent of the chemicals used, purify the waste water at the same time and accomplish this without interfering with the time proven processes used by the metal finishers.

McDermid said he became an early convert to evaporative recovery because he had served four years in the Navy and had seen how the Navy made fresh water from sea water by evaporation on shipboard.

The Wastesaver evaporating system does this. Its efficiency depends on the use of vacuum evaporation chambers that makes the solution to be evaporated boil at a much lower temperature — about 90 degrees — than the 212 degrees required in the normal atmosphere. That speeds the separation process and raises the chemical recovery ratio to the generous 75 per cent.

Rocky Observes 67th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller quietly celebrated his 67th birthday Tuesday at his Washington estate after returning from a European vacation.

He was to fly to Atlanta today to preside over a hearing of the National Commission on Water Quality and meet with Georgia Republican leaders.

A spokesman for the vice president said Mrs. Rockefeller and the family remained in Europe. The family held a quiet celebration at their Munich hotel Monday night before the vice president departed.

FBI Intensifies Chicago Search For Hearst

CHICAGO (UPI) — The FBI said Wednesday it is intensifying its search around Chicago on the chance that at least one of the fugitives in the Patty Hearst case is hiding in this area.

Richard G. Held, special agent in charge of the Chicago office, said William Harris, one of the principals in the Hearst case, might have fled to Chicago from Centralia, Ill., where Harris was reported hitchhiking with a female companion on June 25.

The hitchhikers were detained by Centralia police but released after they showed Social Security cards identifying them as Michael Andrews and Mary Hensley, names used in the past by Harris and his wife, Emily.

The FBI said the search here was intensified "because of the sighting in Centralia."

An FBI poster released Tuesday contains three photographs of Harris, and included information that he might be in the Chicago area.

Patty Hearst has been seen with the Harrises at least once since she was kidnapped Feb. 4, 1974, the FBI said.

Mrs. Harris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schwartz, who live in Clarendon Hills, just west of Chicago.

Summer Bacon brought Presbyterianism to Texas in 1829, and four years later the state's first Presbyterian Church was organized near Clarksville.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

FRIDAY, JULY 11

Your birthday today: External conditions are full of folly all year. You become wiser from watching and getting involved. Not until year's end do you catch the meaning of what you've been through or how well you've done. Relationships run in a giddy whirl. Today's natives are serious-minded, often are in an artistic field such as music or the theater.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: It's a great day for brainstorming rather than definite agreements. You realize the source of some problem but find no way of solving it. Patient thought yields the answer.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Many minor details add up to major improvements if you will only pursue them far enough. Reach out to make loved ones comfortable; let them know where you are in your progress.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: This seems to be a day for amusing but useless information. A good sense of humor helps get you through. Don't expect lasting material gains now, but be willing to go along for the ride.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: A long-standing issue is raised again and shapes up no better than it ever did. Improvisation gets you past a dilemma. Others are baffled by traditional approaches.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Take advice with a touch of skepticism. Have a go at window-shopping and exploratory talk, but let your budget stand. Postpone major purchases, property or other long-term settlements.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Today is a rehearsal; tomorrow proves successful, although everything indicates otherwise. Distant news is encouraging but incomplete.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: There's more to questions than can be answered, so be inquisitive but don't search for final solutions. Money deals are speculative at best. Check to see that you're getting what you ordered.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Instead of attacking the main line of your project, work out the minor problems and clear the decks for a better view. Friends need new stories and something different to think about.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Don't pursue anything so desperately that you forget what you started out to do and why. Almost any schedule becomes complicated. Be ready with alternative plans.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: This complex day somehow produces much less than it seems to. Make a survey, check on possessions and try to recover loaned items. Depend on personal resources; stay within your means.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Be open to suggestions, but make your own decisions. Don't let anything pass unexamined or unused. You've got a delicate choice with lasting consequences in later hours.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Wind up your work week by claiming all that is due you. Collect scattered belongings, retrieve things you've lent to associates and settle your bills. Expect important changes.

About People

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Movie director Sam Peckinpah has been charged with battery for allegedly punching an airline ticket agent during an airport argument.

The pilot of a Continental Airlines flight to Hawaii refused to take off with Peckinpah aboard June 20, complaining the director and a friend had had too much to drink and were rowdy.

Peckinpah left the plane, but was angered to learn it was about to take off with his luggage aboard. Airport police said Peckinpah landed a hard punch to the mouth of a ticket agent, who needed several stitches to close a cut lip.

Arraignment for Peckinpah, 53, was set for July 22. The city attorney's office brought the charge late Monday. The director's films, such as "The Wild Bunch" and "Straw Dogs," have been noted for their violent themes.

SURGERY FOR FLATT
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Country music superstar Lester Flatt will undergo heart surgery Thursday in an effort to clear three blocked cardiac arteries.

A spokesman at St. Thomas Hospital said Flatt was in fair condition and "the doctors are optimistic about the outcome of the operation."

Flatt, a veteran Grand Ole Opry performer and leader of "The Nashville Bluegrass" band, was admitted to the hospital last week. He is the former partner of banjo picker Earl Scruggs, who has formed his own group, The Earl Scruggs Revue, since the two split several years ago.

ADLER CLEARED
LONDON (UPI) — Harmonica virtuoso Larry Adler, 61, has been cleared of a charge of shoplifting $1.70 worth of candy from a Piccadilly store.

Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Sir Frank Mettropolitan interrupted the case at Bow Street Magistrate's court Tuesday, saying, "I don't think any jury could convict on this evidence."

Adler, who earned $230,000 from the score he wrote for the film "Genevieve," denied stealing the candy March 27. He had more than $25 in cash on him at the time.

RHODES HAILS FORD
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford's decision to run for a full term "comes as good news in the industrial heartland of this nation," according to Gov. James Rhodes.

"President Ford is a neighbor of us here in Ohio, and a good one," Rhodes said Tuesday. "He has not forgotten what is in the minds of people in Middle America."

"His decision to run for a full term as President comes as good news in the industrial heartland of this nation, where we live by the values Gerald Ford holds important," Rhodes said. "He will have the support of the Ohio Republican party."

CARY GRANT, DIRECTOR
CULVER CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Cary Grant was elected to the board of directors of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Tuesday.

Board chairman Frank Rosenfeldt said MGM was "extremely proud" to have Grant because of his "outstanding achievements in the entertainment field and his reputation as an astute and knowledgeable businessman."

Grant, 71, retired from moviemaking for almost 10 years, has for many years been a top executive of a men's toiletries firm and guided the corporation into some movie producing ventures.

FLOREA SUES WIFE
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Movie director John Florea filed a $1.25 million suit against his former wife Tuesday for allegedly stabbing him in the back after an alimony hearing.

Shirley Florea, 36, is awaiting trial on charges she plunged a small knife into Florea's back June 16 as they left a courtroom where the ruling had gone against her. Mrs. Florea, in turn, has sued Florea for $1.25 million, charging that following their divorce he tried to humiliate her. She said Florea mailed to her show business and social friends photocopies of police records and her mug shot showing she had been arrested as a prostitute in a Northern California fishing town 20 years ago.

Florea has been producer-director of such television series as "Sea Hunt," "Mission Impossible," "The Virginian" and "Bonanza."

BLACK JUDGE IN FLA.
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Gov. Reubin Askew may have beaten President Ford to the punch Tuesday in naming black U.S. Magistrate Joseph Hatchett of Jacksonville to a top judgeship.

Hatchett, 42, will become Florida's first black Supreme Court justice early in September, replacing Justice David McCain, who is resigning to avert impeachment.

Courthouse sources said Hatchett was in line for possible appointment to two federal judgeships in Jacksonville that may open up soon.

SLOW AND EASY
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Danny Murtaugh, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, says he has become a better manager since his heart troubles, which have forced him to retire three different times. "It has slowed me down, made me more patient," says Danny.

Nearly 100,000 varieties of flowers, plants and trees comprise the 22-acre Garden of the Groves in Freetown, on Grand Bahama Island. The botanical site also features manmade waterfalls, a hanging garden, a pond and a citrus section.

Designer's Showcase

Elegant Knitwear By A Top Italian Designer

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"I DESIGN CLOTHES for women 30 and over," Marchesa Luisa di Gresy told me, "because the young today don't know how to dress."

Marchesa Luisa, an extraordinarily beautiful woman, is the designer for Mirsa, one of the best-known of the Italian knitwear firms. Headquartered in Galliate, it is run by three generations of the di Gresy family.

"I became a designer," she said, "because I married into the family. Everyone else was in the business, so it just seemed natural for me to contribute, too."

Mirsa's smashing fall collection would certainly indicate that in-born good taste had more than a little something to do with Marchesa Luisa's success. Her knits are done in superbly coordinated colors in a variety of textures and patterns. There are nubby tweeds, soft sensuous stripes, geometric designs, and sophisticated solid colors.

"Lengths hit just below the knee because too long is aging and too short isn't for everyone."

"Wardrobe" Clothes
"I enjoy designing clothes that are literally wardrobes," said the designer. "Things you can mix up for different looks. It's what I call multiplicity because you can wear everything two or three ways."

For example, a long black wraparound skirt has a zebra print border and can be worn with a matching zebra print top, with a plain black top or with a zebra print jacket. There's a black cape, too, the perfect topper for any or all of the parts.

"Simplicity" is the word Marchesa Luisa likes to apply to her evening costumes.

"Ball gowns are passe," she said. "They date themselves."

Marchesa Luisa di Gresy

But a simple style is timeless and versatile. You can dress it up or down. It lets the woman herself shine through."

Sophisticated Black

Black is a color she likes for evening because it's sophisticated. One of the stars of the Mirsa collection is a simple black tube dress, in long and short versions, with spaghetti straps. It's worn with a shawl that can be draped in front or tied in back. It's a knockout costume.

Although she didn't know it then, Marchesa Luisa's career began one summer when she was single and vacationed on the Italian Riviera. It was there she met Sandro di Gresy, managing director of Mirsa and son of its founder, Marchesa Olga di Gresy. They were married shortly thereafter.

"After that," she said, "my brother fell in love with Sandro's sister, and they were married, so now my brother is also my brother-in-law."

When she was in New York recently for the Italian High Fashion Knitwear and Ready to Wear Show, Marchesa Luisa was greeting buyers and doing a little shopping of her own. Whenever she travels, she picks up precious stones and then designs settings for them. Most of her exquisite rings, bracelets and pendants are her own creations.

THE MIRSA LOOK in an outfit that can go separate ways. Cardigan is knitted in blocks of bright green, black and white. Shirt's green; double knit pants, black.

Nationwide Shortage of Lids, Jars, Canners

As 1975 began some major manufacturers of replacement lids (flats) for canning jars were sending out news releases advising that there would be no shortage of supplies during the year. Now they admit that they were wrong. Both large and small supermarkets were interviewed in Pampa this week and store managers agreed the only way to get them is to be at the spot when they are brought from warehouse to truck to stockroom to store shelf. Or, if you are on friendly terms with the store manager, perhaps he can be persuaded to call you when his next allotment arrives, if it does.

told, "We can make no excuses. The problem is that the demand far exceeds our ability to produce."

The Bernardin firm primarily makes caps for commercial canners, but can convert these machines, in a period of three to four months, to making home-canning jars. "We are doing our best, we have more than doubled our production in the last year," McCurdy stated in the report.

"I wasn't one of those who said we would have no problem supplying home canners," he added. "Demand for home-canning supplies had declined steadily since 1969, then in 1974 it shot straight up - and I don't mean at an angle - straight up."

Harold Metzger, vice president and general manager of the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp. consumer products division, Sands Springs, Okla. mentioned in the report as saying there is no shortage of complete home-canning jars. "Part of the problem if replacement lids is that there are seven new jar manufacturers who do not make rings of replacement lids," he told. "Those jars are gobbling up a lot of replacement lids, as are the old jars being dusted off by families that haven't canned in years."

Vern Schrantz, vice president of public relations for Ball Corp., Muncie, Ind., agreed with the other spokesman that there is no shortage of materials (soda ash for glass and timental and sealing compounds for closing) as there was in 1974.

"Based on all the figures we have had from government agencies that predicted number of gardens and number of people canning, there should be enough lids to go around. I have this gut feeling that if people were buying only what (replacement lids) they need there would be enough to go around," he said in the report.

Nationwide, the replacement lid manufacturers are shipping them on an allocation basis, figured on the number of units used by buyers of record from an average of one- or two-year sales figures.

Adams, Cole Exchange Vows In Borger Chapel

Miss Pamela Kaye Adams became the bride of Ricky Lynn Cole at 7 p.m. June 20 in the chapel of Borger First Baptist Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Adams of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Cole of Borger are parents of the bridegroom.

Officiating for the double-ring exchange of nuptial vows was the Rev. Paul Burleson, pastor. Ester Brooks, organist, and Merla Scott, presented music for the ceremony.

A background of tall plants and candelabra flanked by large basket-arrangements of white daisies and gladioli, decorated the setting for the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Dean Mann of Crame. She was attired in a formal gown of white crepe and white lace. White lace and rose appliques enhanced the bodice, neckline, cuffs and hemline of the gown. Her flowers were of yellow roses with baby's breath.

Denise Clark, De Soto, attired in yellow and was matron of honor.

Todd Parker and George Botten both of Borger, lighted the candles and ushered.

Jerry Mitchell of Borger was best man.

For the reception in the parlor, the four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with swans and yellow roses was served by Joyce Adams. Connie McDonald and Becky Cole assisted. The affair was hosted by Rose Gray. The couple will reside in Amarillo and plan to move to Lubbock in the near future.

A graduate of Pampa High School, the bride attended TI in Dallas and is presently employed by Avis Rent-A-Car in Borger. The bridegroom, a graduate of Borger High School, attended West Texas State University and is presently employed by Sulphen's Bar-B-Que.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:

Now is the time to realize that apples now cost the price of wondering birds - and they cost plenty.

So let's you and me take a few apples and make the most of 'em. O.K.?

I just happen to be an apple lover. I've fried 'em and boiled 'em and made many apple pies. But you know what? I never learned to stretch 'em.

Until this week.

And it was a cutie. Really it was.

I took one apple and cut it into six parts, THEN cut the seeds out and when I put it in the pan with the water, I thought "Imagine me doing that? If the apple is red outside, why AIN'T it red inside?"

So? I picked up my bottle of red food coloring and dropped only three drops of this precious stuff in the water and sugar and, by golly, if my apples weren't beautiful!

Oh! I learned that apples go further if you just put 'em on a plate like this with your supper.

These can also be put on top of a mound of cottage cheese and make a lovely lunch salad. The juice you've cooked 'em in is real juicy and red when boiled down.

I happened to use brown sugar in the water I cooked mine in, but white sugar does the same trick.

Love from a "baked apple" Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

Just thought of a couple of hints that might bring a little pleasure to some of our older folks.

Dad is in a nursing home and we visit him often and take him things he likes or needs, one being paper hankies.

One day my sister took him blue ones and he was so pleased. He said since his eyesight isn't so good, the blue ones were so easy to spot on the white bedding.

You can bet we never take him white ones anymore.

Mrs. George Malinky

LETTER OF LOVE

Dear Heloise:

Do you mind if I name my new Registered Angus heifer after you, Heloise?

My wife says you might take offense.

Jake Orland

My heavens, no, my love!

I would consider it the greatest compliment ever.

Maybe I could tell my cow named Heloise that she has a cousin in Montana? O.K.?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have 24 window screens to wash. To speed up the job, I take them to a car wash - the kind that has a wand to wash the car with.

I just stack the screens up along the wall, wash, and then rinse them.

They always come out like new.

Cathy Deker

Dear Heloise:

Some recipes call for grated chocolate in cake batters, etc. I've found those little chocolate cake or cookie decorations work just fine without the mess of grating the chocolate.

I use half a cup to a cake - either the white or yellow cake mix, or a "from scratch cake."

They should be folded into the batter as the last ingredient.

Mrs. H.R.

Dear Heloise:

I have two small boys and they used to hate bath time. So I decided to try to make it more fun.

I used a washcloth and folded it in half, then cut it in two pieces. I sewed up the sides and made a hem and slipped in some elastic through the hem and made mittens for them.

Now they enjoy their baths and are learning to bathe themselves.

Mrs. E.S. Norris

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

The majority of deals that arise during the course of any session of play just about play themselves. But some are very difficult to handle correctly. Today's deal falls into the latter category - and it is a moot question as to whether the winning line was actually the correct one, except if the result is the criterion.

South deals. Both sides vulnerable.

♦ A J 6 4 3
♥ A 6 2
♦ J 3

WEST EAST

SOUTH

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♦	1♦	1♦	Pass
1NT	Pass	2NT	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♦.

Had South opened with one diamond (as he should have), North probably would have arrived at a four-spade contract, which would probably have been fulfilled, thanks to both the heart and club finesses being successful.

A low diamond was played from dummy on the opening lead. East putting up the ten, with South winning the trick with his jack. Declarer realized, of course, that if the defenders ever regained the lead, they would cash a "zillion" diamond tricks.

His first thought was to cash the king of spades and then lead another spade, with the intention of finessing dummy's jack. If West possessed either the doubleton Q-X or the tripleton Q-X-X, then five spade tricks would be made. Combined with one heart, one diamond, and two clubs already in the bag, declarer would now have a fulfilled contract.

But there was another possibility. If both the heart and club finesses were successful, nine tricks would also be made without relying on the spade suit: three hearts, three clubs, two spades, and one diamond. Then there was still another possibility: to cash the king and ace of spades. If the queen were caught, then five spade tricks would be made. If the queen did not fall, then declarer could fall back on the heart and club finesses.

After much thought, declarer came up with another plan: to lead the heart queen at trick two. If West played low, declarer intended to win with dummy's ace, and go after the spades. But West had the king, and covered the queen, giving declarer three heart tricks.

Now declarer had two chances for the price of one. He led a club to his ace, and then cashed the king and ace of spades, felling East's queen. Had he not caught the queen, he would have finessed his jack-of-clubs - which, as is evident, would have been successful.

Young Artist Needs Help

Copley News Service

Q. Will a two-year-old be frustrated if I take away his crayons before he drives me up the wall (that he has almost ruined)? Creativity is great, I'm sure, but so is my mental health. What do you think?

A. Washable crayons and big sheets of paper, or an indestructible setting, may be the answer. To pull his crayons away in anger is probably not a good move. It's not that he'll be emotionally scarred or anything like that, but you could run into the problem of depriving him of something he enjoys or perhaps even needs.

If he really likes to draw as you've implied he does, you ought to provide the setting and materials with which you can live.

Q. Please send me a listing of schools throughout the United States that offer "the open classroom" or other progressive educational approaches. We have two boys to place in school in the next few years, and we can move almost anywhere.

A. It wouldn't be difficult to obtain such a list from either your state education association headquarters in the state capitol or from the headquarters of the National Education Association in Washington. This information may also be available from the U.S. Office of Education in Washington. Such sources perhaps could provide it on a national basis.

Q. I go into other homes and see children working cheerfully, doing the dishes, making beds, helping prepare meals and all the rest. It's pretty upsetting to go home and see our lazy ones whose only interest is television. Our son is 14 and daughter is 11.

They'll do what I ask them, but it is always done begrudgingly. There is no spark or acceptance to it.

Is it too late to establish new habits that are easier to live with?

A. It'll never be any earlier, so if you're to get started now is the time. But honestly, you are almost 11 and 14 years too late.

When schedules of household chores are arranged with the children involved, their responsibilities are clearly itemized and understood, the schedule is followed carefully, and it is generally expected by all that it will be. Children usually come through. A sound example set by their parents is often useful, too.

Some children just naturally seem to be helpful around the house. They may even enjoy these activities and appreciate the fact that their parents recognize what they've done. A smile, "thank you," or "good work" can pay rich dividends.

But let's face it. Others may actually be lazy or go through lazy stages. That's when the scheduling-follow-through-expectation approach may be necessary.

Letters may be sent to Our Children, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column as space permits.

The underachiever, the slow learner, the learning disabled child. Write to Dr. Abraham, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, Arizona 85252 for complete list. Please send stamped return envelope.

Junior High Choir Invited

The Pampa Junior High School Freshman Mixed Choir under the direction of Elena

Donald has been invited to sing a concert at the Texas Music Educators' Association Convention - Clinic on Feb. 13 in San Antonio. The invitation has been declined, Donald said.

In observance of the Bicentennial year, the 30 minute concert will consist of music of American composers.

The PJH Choir was asked to serve as the demonstration choir for a clinic - workshop under the direction of Dr. Lee Kjelson from the University of Florida. This is the first time the invitation has been extended to a choir from a Pampa junior high school.

Brownsville is the other only junior high school choir in Texas to be chosen for an appearance at the 1976 TMEA Convention. Choices of the choirs to perform at the TMEA Convention were made by the TMEA vocal chairman on the basis of submitted tapes. It is believed more than 50 tapes were submitted for consideration.

Court Rejects Lo-Vaca Case Move

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Supreme Court today turned down attempts by Lo-Vaca Gahering Co. and Coastal States Gas Producing Co. to have a trial on a $100 million contract dispute with the City of San Antonio moved to another area.

Lo-Vaca had asked for a change of venue in the case on grounds all prospective jurors in San Antonio were utility customers whose rates had increased, and therefore would be prejudiced against the gas company which supplies the fuel for electrical generation by the city.

Lo-Vaca also sought to disqualify District Judge Peter Michael Curry, who had turned down the original motion to move the trial out of San Antonio.

The supreme court turned down both proposals without a written opinion. Lo-Vaca originally filed the suit against the City of San Antonio and San Antonio Public Service Board on March 17, 1972, seeking a declaratory judgment to define its rights under its contract with the city.

The city filed a countersuit asking $77,497 in damages from Lo-Vaca because the gas company had allegedly broken its contract with the city. The suit was later amended to ask damages in excess of $100 million.

Lo-Vaca and Coastal States, the parent company, contend slanted news coverage and bias on the part of San Antonio residents make it impossible for the utility to get a fair trial in San Antonio. In its appeal to the high court, the gas company cited hundreds of newspaper articles which it said ruined its reputation among prospective jurors.

"The bias fostered by the perfidious reporting and slanted news articles concerning the cause below, coupled with the

Judges Make Ruling on Obscene Movie

HOUSTON (UPI) — A three judge federal panel has ruled a movie must be declared obscene before police can close a theater showing the film.

The panel's decision was made last week in the case of a San Angelo, Tex., movie operator, but it was not made public until Tuesday.

The San Angelo operator's business was closed by the county attorney under Texas' public nuisance laws. The laws allow authorities to close a theater if the operator is commercially manufacturing, distributing or exhibiting obscene material.

But the judges said this amounted to prior restraint, forbidden under the First Amendment, because the film was not declared obscene.

23 Congressmen 'Double Dip'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are 23 members of Congress who get military retirement pay on top of the regular salaries, a practice called "double dipping."

One of them, Sen. Barry

Goldwater, R-Ariz., has said for two years he opposes the double dip, but the National Taxpayers Union said Wednesday he still has been unable to avoid getting paid.

The NTU says military retirees, who can get a pension after only 20 years in the service, should not be allowed to collect their pensions if they take federal civilian jobs.

Goldwater retired from the Air Force Reserve as a two-star general. Two years ago the NTU wrote him to complain of his double dipping amounting to $8,400 a year. Goldwater replied that he agreed with the NTU, but wouldn't be able to stop the Air Force from paying him because computers made out the checks.

A year later Goldwater replied to further prodding that he was trying to find a way for the Air Force to send the money to a charity so he wouldn't have to pay any taxes and undergo "undue hardship."

The NTU list of congressional double dippers and their monthly pensions:

Sens. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., $254; Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., $68 in disability pay; Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, $324; John Glenn, D-Ohio, unknown; Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, $68 in disability pay; Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, $468; Hugh Scott, R-Pa., $181; John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., $222; Robert T. Stafford, R-Vt., $543; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., $617 (plus Louis Wyman, Republican vying for contested New Hampshire seat, $404 partly for disability).

Reps. Carl Albert, D-Okla., $401; John J. Flynn D-Ga., $540; Jim Lloyd, D-Calif., unknown; John Moakley, D-Mass., $339; William F. Nichols, D-Ala., unknown amount for disability; Ray Roberts, D-Tex., $274; Robert G. Stephens, D-Ga., $375; Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., $767 for disability; Al Ullman, D-Ore., $408; Joseph P. Vigorito, D-Pa., $351 for disability; John Young, D-Tex., $483 partly for disability.

Man Wins Appeal For 5,000 Years

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — McLennan County assistant District Attorney Ward Casey went too far to obtain a 5,000 year prison sentence for a man convicted wife, according to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The court ordered a new trial Wednesday for Charles Wayne Anderson.

Testimony at Anderson's trial indicated he shot his sleeping wife three-times with a 12-gauge shotgun at close range. He also shot his 11-year-old son twice and slit his brother-in-law's throat in a rampage after a beer drinking, pill popping session June 20, 1973.

"The horrible facts of this crime did not license the assistant district attorney to transgress the rules governing the trial of criminal cases in order to obtain from the jury a 5,000 year verdict," the appeals court said.

The court took the unusual step of naming Casey as the prosecutor involved. Casey berated Anderson's court appointed attorney at the trial as "mealy mouthed" and too weak to offer an excuse for the crime.

"The prosecutor should not have argued that appellant's counsel did not have the guts to say his client was not guilty," the court said.

In other action the appellate court:

—Reversed a three year sentence, and ordered an indictment against Larry Joe Tribble of Tarrant County dismissed because prosecutors failed to specify how much marijuana he delivered illegally on Jan. 5, 1974, and whether he was paid. The court said without those details it would be impossible to determine if Tribble was guilty of a misdemeanor or felony.

—Upheld a 48 year sentence against a Ft. Hood soldier, Bidal S. Orano Jr., in the Nov. 6, 1973, beating death of the 4-year-old daughter of his common law wife. Orano complained jurors should not have been told of his confession to a nurse at the Ft. Hood Hospital.

Teamster President Avoids Wiretap

Two Officials
By PETER GRUENSTEIN
Pampa News Bureau Chief
WASHINGTON — Justice Department officials decided not to authorize the wiretapping of three telephones in 1973 that could have implicated Teamster president Frank Fitzsimmons in an allegedly illegal health scheme, despite the recommendations of acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III and the head of a strike force in Los Angeles that was investigating links between the Mafia and the Teamsters.

Alfred N. King, who headed the L.A. strike force from July 1970 to July 1973, said that at the time he disagreed and was "upset" with the decision by then Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen and other Justice Department officials not to authorize the taps. He also disagreed with the statements by some Justice officials that previous wiretaps had not produced useful information.

Some sources said the previous taps had begun to penetrate a scheme involving Fitzsimmons and well-known Mafia figures to siphon off $100 million a year from pre-paid health plan for the Teamsters 2 million members.

King and two other sources also said that, under Justice Department procedures, Gray would not have forwarded the FBI affidavit requesting installation of the three wiretaps to officials in Justice's Organized Crime and Racketeering Section unless he believed there was an adequate legal basis for its approval. "Gray apparently thought it was a good cause because he sent it over," King said. "By sending it over, they make the recommendation."

King, presently a trial attorney in the Department's criminal division here, said he has since changed his mind and now believes that Petersen's decision not to ask a federal court in Los Angeles to authorize the taps was correct.

Gray refused to respond to numerous phone calls made to his Gorton, Conn., law office.

It was first reported by the New York Times on April 29, 1973 that Petersen and then Attorney General Richard Kleindienst had decided to discontinue electronic surveillance related to the alleged Mafia - Teamsters health scheme even though the prior taps had proved useful.

In part because the story broke at the time of intense Watergate activity — one day before the resignations of Kleindienst and White House aide H.R. Haldeman and John Erlichman — it received scant nationwide attention.

Under order of a federal district court in Los Angeles, the FBI began electronic surveillance on Jan. 26, 1973 of 11 telephone numbers in the offices of the People's Industrial Consultants. An extension of the taps was authorized on Feb. 14. The P.I.C. is described by the FBI as a Mafia - front through which Teamsters money was channeled to mobsters.

According to an FBI affidavit, Fitzsimmons met in Palm Springs, Calif., on Feb. 8, with three well-known members of the Southern California Mafia, including Peter Milano. At the meeting, Fitzsimmons was reported to have tentatively approved a Mafia - sponsored, pre-paid health plan for Teamster members provided through a Los Angeles physician with money contributed by employers under Teamster contracts.

Soon after this meeting, Fitzsimmons was reported to have met twice with Lou (The Tailor) Rosanova, a member of the Chicago Mafia.

About two weeks after their meeting, Rosanova was reportedly heard by informants bragging that he had made a deal with Fitzsimmons to share future kickbacks.

Raymond de Derosa, identified as a member of the Los Angeles mob, reportedly described the deal in a tapped conversation as involving a seven per cent commission — on a $1 billion per year business to the L.A. Mafia, with the Chicago mob getting three per cent of the take.

According to the FBI affidavit, Milano told Derosa, who is described as Milano's musclemen, in another recorded conversation that Fitzsimmons said "all right" to the health scheme.

One of three new requested taps was reportedly on a public phone used by Milano; the other two were on telephone numbers at bail bond companies operated by Milano.

The FBI affidavit, which was forwarded to the Justice Department after being approved by Gray, described what had been learned from the investigation up to that point as "a pattern of racketeering activity that is, a series of payments of commissions of kickbacks" between the Teamsters and Mafia officials.

Some sources described the wiretaps as providing useful, supplementary information. Others questioned whether the information was sufficient to justify new court - approved taps.

Justice officials have heatedly disputed that the 40 - days of wiretapping produced any information that would have justified the three new wiretaps. They have also denied that Kleindienst was in on the decision to seek the new taps.

Ed Joyce, Deputy Chief of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, who was in on all three decisions involving the wiretaps said: "No evidence at all was produced from any of the electronic taps." William Lynch, the head of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, supports Joyce.

Kleindienst has said he did not think it was unusual that he was not consulted about a major decision — the request of the three new taps — in a case involving the head of a powerful labor union and well-known mobsters. But he said that if he had been consulted, he would have authorized the new taps.

While calling the Times account "substantially correct," King charged that publication of the story was premature and "killed" the P.I.C. investigation, which he said was still ongoing after the third wiretap request was turned down. Because of the story's publication he said, the $100-million kickback deal was aborted before it was put into effect, thus negating the possibility of any successful prosecutions.

Asked if he thought the investigation would have eventually produced an indictment against Fitzsimmons if the Times story had not appeared, King replied: "I hope so."

The Government Printing Office's all-time best seller is a modest little booklet called "Infant Care."

Group Sponsorships For Refugees Pushed

United Press International
The number of Americans wishing to individually sponsor Vietnamese refugees is 25 per cent of what it was two months ago and relocation officials are now going to see if a group plan might work.

Julia Taft, director of the Bentsen Touts Economic Move
VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., a Democratic candidate for President, says Americans are looking for a national leader "who can get this economy moving again."

Bentsen told a Tuesday news conference the reduction of taxes created by unemployment has contributed to the federal deficit.

Interagency Task Force for Indochina Refugees, said Tuesday Task Force officials have decided against starting a national campaign to revive interest in individual sponsors for the refugees and have decided to concentrate on group sponsorship by local clubs and state and local governments.

"People are looking at the responsibility involved in sponsorship and some feel it's too much for one person," Mrs. Taft said. "We're finding people aren't quite so reluctant to make the commitment involved in sponsorship if more people are involved in it and can share the responsibility."

"There has been some falling off in individual sponsorship offers, but interest in group sponsorship is picking up and we feel that may be more successful than individual sponsorship," she said.

An Arkansas official said Tuesday the reason interest in individual sponsorship has declined is because offers to sponsor refugees have been ignored.

"People have been calling us saying they offered two or three months ago to sponsor refugees and have nothing," said Ray Scott, an aide to Arkansas Gov. David Pryor, who has served as a liaison between state officials and officials at Ft. Chaffee, Ark., the largest refugee camp in the country.

Task Force officials in May installed a toll free number for persons to call to offer to sponsor refugees.

In May and early June, about 400 persons a day were calling. The number has now dropped to about 200 calls a day, and less than half of that number are actually volunteering to sponsor refugees, Mrs. Taft said.

More than 21,000 persons have called offering to sponsor refugees, and most, but not all of the persons who have called have been recontacted by Task Force officials to discuss sponsorship, she said.

Senator Seeks Better Trade Relations with Soviet Union

"When you walk down those 500,000 graves, you realize that any world leader who chooses war belongs in an insane asylum."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff has returned from a trip to Moscow apparently convinced Congress and the administration should seek a "new formula" for improving trade relations with Russia and easier emigration for Soviet dissidents.

His statement to a news conference Tuesday represented a softening of his support for heard-line restrictions against the Soviet Union incorporated in the 1974 Trade Act.

He and other senators who visited Moscow recently met Tuesday with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. The Ford administration is making an attempt to get Congress to revise restrictive trade legislation aimed at Russia.

"I would work for a modification of the Jackson amendment. I would be against restrictions on credit," he said.

Ribicoff had co-sponsored with Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., an amendment which denied non-discriminatory trade treatment for Russia so long as it restricts emigration of Jews and other disgruntled citizens.

A spokesman for Javits said the New York Republican would make his views known in the next few days. A spokesman for Jackson said the Washington Democrat had not altered his views.

Ribicoff said Soviet chief Leonid Brezhnev impressed him with his sincerity in seeking détente between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Ribicoff said many decisions affecting world peace depended almost exclusively on the two superpowers, and that others countries were "pawns" of their decisions.

Ribicoff seemed moved by the casualties which the Soviet Union suffered during World War II. He said he had placed a wreath in the cemetery where 500,000 unknown victims of the 900-day blockade of Leningrad are buried.

"When you walk down those 500,000 graves, you realize that any world leader who chooses war belongs in an insane asylum," he said.

He noted Moscow had denounced the Jackson amendment as an unacceptable interference in its sovereign affairs, and that Jewish emigration from Russia had dropped from 35,000 a year to an estimated 15,000 in 1975.

He said U.S. businessmen were losing lucrative contracts with the Soviet Union to entrepreneurs from West Germany and Japan.

Mayors Dispute Uncle Over Revenue Sharing

BOSTON (UPI) — The nation's mayors, under pressure from the White House, state and county officials not to alter the method of allocating federal revenue-sharing funds, hope to avoid a divisive fight on the issue.

The U.S. Conference of Mayors, overwhelming Democratic majority split ranks Tuesday, with five big-city mayors saying they didn't think the revenue-sharing issue was important enough to risk shaky chances for Congressional renewal of the funds after 1977.

The mayors planned to a vote today on a recommendation urging the government to place more emphasis on cities, need in the annual $5 billion distribution of revenue-sharing funds. Such a change would benefit larger and poorer cities.

New Orleans Mayor Moon Landrieu, expected to be chosen the next conference president, said revenue-sharing's complex nature — with funds going to states, counties and cities — made a change inadvisable.

"We have certain natural allies that are also part of the revenue-sharing picture," he said. "We need our allies and they us. Our first and foremost objection is to pass the bill."

If the conference decides to seek change in the formula, he said, an effort would be made, but "if we have to take it as it is, we'll take it as it is."

Vance Wells, president of the National Association of Counties, and Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, chairman of the National Governors Conference, both have opposed any change, he said.

President Ford, who has invited 10 mayors to the White House Thursday to talk about revenue-sharing, has voiced his opposition. White House aides have lobbied against it at the conference.

A conference source said the vote was unpredictable and probably would be decided by which mayors showed up for the debate. Mayor Richard Daley, one of the strongest backers of the need provision and perhaps its most influential supporter, returned to Chicago Tuesday.

Ralph Perk of Cleveland, chairman of the GOP caucus, Tuesday offered a compromise in hopes of calming the situation. He said Republicans would support Democratic demands for $2 billion in immediate aid to cities hardest hit by unemployment, "if the big city mayors will support the GOP in their intention to keep revenue-sharing in the formula as it is now."

Suicide Victims May Receive Compensation

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — James E. Saunders hurt his back at work. His wife contends the pain from the injury and drugs given her husband for the injury drove him to suicide. She sued to collect workmen's compensation benefits.

The Texas Supreme Court said Monday there were some instances in which suicide victims may be eligible for workmen's compensation. It ordered a new trial in the Saunders case.

The court also ordered a new trial in a similar suit brought by Sue Breechen against Exxon Corp. She claims a stream of oil shot into her husband's face when a pipe coupling came loose and the injury caused him to commit suicide.

A trial court said Mrs. Saunders and her child were eligible for workmen's compensation benefits of her husband.

The Houston Civil Appeals Court reversed that decision, however, and said death by suicide is compensable under workmen's compensation only when the person takes his life through an uncontrollable impulse or in a delirium of frenzy without conscious volition.

Mrs. Saunders testified medication taken by her husband for back pain in 1972 radically altered his personality, and caused him to reject his family and friends and become irritable. He killed himself with a shotgun Sept. 24, 1972.

In its new guidelines, the high court said "We believe that in cases where the effects of injuries suffered by the deceased result in his becoming dominated by a derangement of the mind which impairs the ability to resist the impulse to take his own life to the extent that the decedent was in fact unable to control it, the suicide cannot be termed as wilful."

The court noted testimony from a psychiatrist, who said drugs given to Saunders could have encouraged him to suicide. One of the drugs contained a warning suicidal tendencies might be evidenced when the drug was taken in conjunction with other psychotropic drugs.

In the other case a trial court awarded Mrs. Breechen, who has since remarried, $227,000 in damages for the wrongful death of her husband.

Babe Ruth Team Wins

By ROBERT DIXON
Special to the News
Elkhart — Pampa's Babe Ruth Allstars came back to the latter innings yesterday to win a lopsided victory over the High Plains Allstars by a score of 17-5. The losers held the upper hand for the first five frames, then Pampa unloaded with 14 runs in the final two innings while winning pitcher Zach Adcock held High Plains scoreless in the final two innings.

Adcock came on in relief for Pampa starter Gary Free in the bottom of the 5th, with the score 5-3 in favor of High Plains. They had runners on 1st and second and only one way. Adcock threw one pitch which got away from catcher Dale Ferris. The runners moving up to second and third, Ferris threw to second baseman Randy Edmondson who tagged out the runner coming from first, then threw home to get the runner who was coming in from third. That play seemed to wipe out the spirit of High Plains and increased the determination of Pampa as they scored 4 runs in the top of the 6th to take a 7-5 lead.

Armando Soto led off the inning drawing a walk off losing pitcher Raymond Cruse. This was followed by walks to Adcock, Edmondson, Gary Dumas and Dale Ferris, forcing in two runs. The Joe Jeffers got a single which scored two more runs giving Pampa a 7-5 lead. In Pampa's seventh, the bottom dropped out as they scored runs before they were finally retired. Adcock shut out High Plains in the last of the seventh. The loss sends High Plains home from this District One Tournament. Pampa will meet the winner of the Dumas, Top O Texas game which was played late last night. Pampa's game today will get underway at 8:00 p.m.

Royal Thinks Women Should Pay Own Way

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas coach Darrell Royal says he's got nothing against women in athletics, but he thinks they ought to pay their own way.

Royal said Wednesday he was encouraged a Congressional subcommittee approved a bill to exempt money making college sports and teams from regulations of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

An HEW regulation known as "Title IX" would require "equal athletic programs for men and women."

Royal and other college coaches say the rule could force money making men's athletic teams to divide their earnings with women's teams which generate no ticket revenue.

"I'm getting a lot of hot mail from women. They think I'm against women in athletics. But that's not the case," Royal said. "The only question is how they're going to be funded."

Royal said the men's intercollegiate athletic program at Texas earns $2.4 million a year from football ticket sales and half of the earnings go to the football and basketball programs.

He said if the earnings had to be used to fund women's teams, the school could not afford other sports such as track and field, baseball, tennis, golf and swimming.

"If we were using taxpayer money then I could be for that," Royal said.

Two Share Open Lead

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (UPI) — Australian Graham Marsh broke the 22-year-old Carnoustie course record with a five-under-par 67 today to share the early second round lead of the 104th British Open golf tournament with American Hale Irwin.

On a day that seemed perfect for low scoring, Marsh fired nines of 33 and 34 on the par 72, 7,065-yard seaside course and was in the clubhouse when Irwin, third leading money winner on this year's U.S. professional tour, came in with a two-under-par 70 to go with his opening round 69.

Drumming overnight rain gave way to overcast skies on a windless day, making conditions even better for the likes of leader Peter Oosterhuis favorite Jack Nicklaus, who was to tee off later in the day.

Marsh had four birdies and an eagle on the par five 12th hole for a scorecard lined with fours and threes until he hit short with his approach on the par four 17th hole for his only bogey and only five of the day.

Marsh had a first round 72, even par, on Wednesday and was four strokes off the Oosterhuis pace when he began his assault on Hogan's record, a 68 shot in 1963 and tie in 1968 Billy Casper.

Marsh, 31, is a relatively unknown entity on the American tour but has one 15 tournaments in Europe and Asia since opening his professional career in 1970. His best previous performance in the British Open was in 1970 when he tied for 25th.

Those intrepid British bookies made Nicklaus a 5-2 favorite to win this tournament on the basis of his first round performance.

With one of his five colleagues at 69, Hale Irwin, ranked 5-1, and Oosterhuis boosted to 7-1 despite his equaling the course record of Ben Hogan and Billy Casper.

A smiling and confident Nicklaus said he was not happy with his swing until the sixth hole, but "I would think my swing pattern will settle a little more as the tournament goes on."

"I would expect it to be better tomorrow as far as hitting the ball goes."

"I'm not unhappy," the 35-year-old slugger said. "It's a matter of getting settled, getting into the championship."

"It takes a little while to get into something, to get yourself settled. If you can get in with a 69, it's a darn good place to be settled in at."

It blew in the morning Wednesday but gave way to those showers that pelted Nicklaus and the other challengers in the afternoon.

Oosterhuis' one of the biggest men on the tour at 5-5, came through it in style, but relied more on his chipping and putting than his wind cheating driver.

He is the first Briton in contention since Tony Jacklin won this tournament in 1969.

The 273-year-old circuit regular holed putts of four, three, 12, 15, 12 and 15 feet, plus chipping in from 30 for his opening round score.

"It's the course record," he asked when told he had tied it. "Then I've tied it, but there are three more rounds to go."

Gibson's Center Wins

In Men's Industrial Softball League action Tuesday night at Lion's Club Park, Richard Harkcom pitched Gibson's Discount Center to a 4-3 victory over Celanese Chemical. Losing pitcher was Buddy Epperson.

All runs were scored in the first inning as both pitchers pitched the entire seven innings. Gibson's Steve Timmons doubled and Celanese's Ladin Moore tripled. Harkcom allowed five hits and walked three while striking out five.

Both teams collected five hits. In the second game of the doubleheader, Lincoln Mercury stacked up one run to Sims Electric's zero as pitcher Delbert Daniels won the game.

Lincoln collected three hits and scored their single point in the fifth inning. Daniels struck out four, and walked one; Daniels pitched the entire game. Ed Guerra was the losing pitcher.

Dwinnia Treadwell was the winning pitcher in girls National League softball action Tuesday night as her team, the Teasers, defeated the Oilers 3-17.

The Teasers collected 16 runs in the fourth to help stretch their lead by 13 points. The Oilers never had the lead, falling behind 9-7 after the first inning.

In the other night game, the Hoboes defeated the Red Machines, 13-9. Winning pitcher was Rosie Santa Cruz.

Also the Go Getters, behind the pitching of Donna Preston, beat the Ding-a-Lings 12-11 and the Aristocats 13-5.

Mini-vacation Idea

Swim, Fish, Relax At Quartz Mountain

(EDITOR'S NOTE: During the summer, The Pampa News periodically will present stories on mini-vacation spots in the area, places where Pampa families can travel for a day or a weekend away from home. A News survey recently revealed that many local families are taking several short vacations instead of one big vacation this year because of gasoline prices and other economic reasons.)

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Within a three hour drive from Pampa lies accommodations to fit most any pocket book.

Nestled in the ancient granite hills of the 6,791 acre Quartz Mountain State Park, about 150 miles from here in the Hobart - Altus - Mangum area of southwestern Oklahoma, are facilities for fishing, boating, skiing and swimming.

During a recent visit to the area, vehicle registrations from almost every state in the union were parked along the camp grounds. The Lake Altus area boasts large catches of bass, crappie, catfish and walleye, an exotic species imported by state wildlife biologists.

The Altus Reservoir with its 50 mile shoreline was built by the Bureau of Reclamation. Located in the Quartz Mountain area — a land of rugged granite buttes — it provides a true challenge for hiking enthusiasts.

A Houston resident, Kenneth Cook, toured the area recently to reminisce over the many hours where he once spent his childhood vacations.

"The changes are many — but most of all the water is up," he said recalling those "no rain years."

Cook said he remembered a time when camping in the area was nil compared with that of today.

"Apparently, inflation has made a change in vacation styles," he said looking over the lodge dining area — which was almost deserted during the past weekend.

The lodge also offers a club and modern cabins nearby. Recreational facilities include camping, fishing, picnicking, a heated pool, beach, water skiing, boat ramps and a golf course.

The $718,000 lodge opened in 1956, but a re-dedication followed extensive remodeling on Aug. 3, 1973. Reservations are usually needed. The lodge mailing address is in Lone Wolf Okla.

Additional features of the Quartz Mountain area include Indian powwows and famous rodeos.

Be it a mini vacation covering one day or an extensive stay — the Quartz Mountain area offers a variety of history as well as scenic beauty.

The Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge, Lawton, huge buffalo herd, clear lakes and rugged mountains are all within a short distance from the lodge area.

Sandy beaches with six swimming areas dot the Lake Altus shores.

The Quartz Mountains are filled with historic tales of Spanish explorers, gold mining operations Plains Indians and pioneers.

Granite rock rises 1950 feet and is part of the Wichita Mountain Range, which once contained peaks of 20,000 feet above sea level.

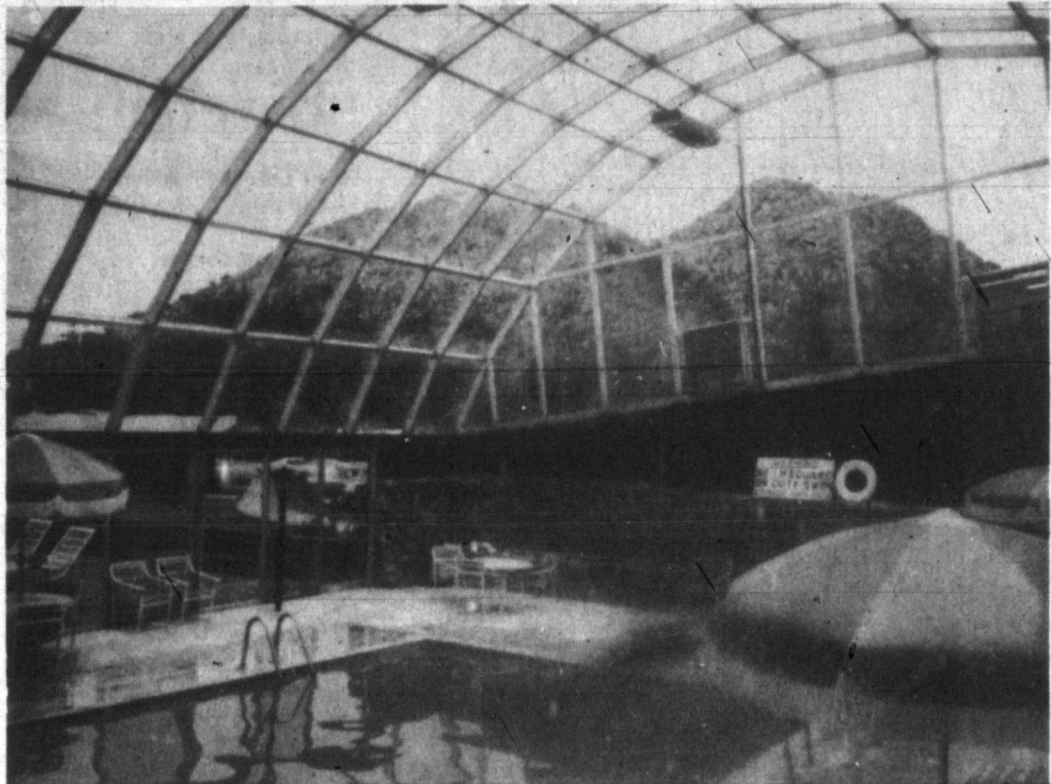

A trail leads to the summit of Granite Rock and features a lookout point with a seemingly endless view of the surrounding plains.

Located east of state highway 44, the canyon is within the park boundaries, adjacent to the north fork of the Red River.

A short drive away is the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge, home of one of the world's largest buffalo herds, prairie dog towns, deer and longhorn cattle herds.

Camping and picnicking areas along with several lakes provide a variety of activities within the refuge. Also located within the refuge is the Holy City, site of the World-famous Easter Sunrise service.

The American Indian Exposition is one of the world's largest Indian celebrations. Powwows are scheduled throughout the year.

Nestled in Granite Hills

Quartz Mountain State Park in southwestern Oklahoma provides adventure for the golfer, swimmer, fisherman water skier or those who just want to relax and sleep or read. One facility includes an indoor swimming pool.

Psychiatric Rx for Vacation

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Health Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Two psychiatrists speak out about what you should know about vacations—from a mental health standpoint.

"A vacation is to develop yourself as a total person, not necessarily to impress the neighbors, compulsively sight-see, or bring back superlatives," says Dr. Francis L. Clark of Georgetown University Medical School.

You'll probably do best if you take several short vacations a year instead of a single long one, according to Dr. Roy R. Grinker of Chicago's Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center.

Getting away for three or four shorter vacations a year is much better for several reasons.

The emphasis varies. Therefore, you can avoid the conflict over what the family wants to do — each member usually pulling in a different direction.

With several vacations you can set up a schedule which allows you to touch the major bases and keep everyone reasonably happy. Through the year, you may ski, camp, sightsee.

Grinker favors family vacations. "It's advisable for families to be alone together, away from other people," he said.

Some persons can't stand long vacations. Such types, the psychiatrist said, only can endure a week away before pinning their minds on home or job.

Another plus for the short vacation: you can't drive your car too far. Grinker is against long car trips. The traffic is full of stress. The driver never gets to see much.

Psychiatrist Clark agrees that several short breaks are probably better than one long one.

For top physical and mental benefits, Clark also recommends:

—Know people well before traveling with them.

The old Creek Indian village of Tulsa was destroyed during the Civil War, but a new town was rebuilt on the ashes of the old when the Lochapoka Creeks returned from refugee camps in Kansas at the end of the war.

—Don't overwork beforehand. It takes longer to unwind.

—Don't expect too much and don't be disappointed. It may rain. Or, you and the wife may have a spat or two, dashing hopes that "this" vacation will patch your marriage.

—Don't rush straight back to work. Allow a "re-entry" day. So you don't feel trapped, immediately plan your next vacation. Family visits don't count.

—Keep your vacation uncontaminated by work.

Grinker agrees that rushing right back to work is harmful. He suggests avoiding stress by allowing three days for "reentry."

"Too often returning to work is a period of stress," he said. "Most persons plunge right in, open their mail, get to work and try to catch up."

"Get into your work slowly and gradually."

The average male smoker takes 8.88 puffs on each cigarette he smokes, according to the findings of a University of Louisville study. The average male's smoking time is 3.97 minutes — and he puffs for 2.07 seconds and then waits 27.4 seconds between the drags.

Leisure Time Shoppe

"I researched the possibility of opening a sporting goods store for over a year," Dennis Haddon said. "We decided that Pampa could use such a store. There are sporting goods departments in stores, but no store itself."

The Leisure Time Shoppe in the Coronado Shopping Center will hold its grand opening soon, after the arrival of store fixtures which were delayed by tornadoes in Omaha, Neb. But the store currently is open for business.

Mr. and Mrs. Haddon said that such correspondence is necessary in opening a new store. "We wrote more than 200 letters to distributors," Sherry Haddon said.

From those came offers and deals that eventually led to the Haddons deciding on 35 distributors which will be supplying the shop.

The Haddons have been in Pampa since 1971. He previously was employed by Montgomery Ward's.

"Pampa has a very stable economy which prompted us to settle on a business here," Haddon said.

Mrs. Haddon added that they had lived in large cities and prefer to raise their children "in a nice place like Pampa."

Haddon said that the store represents sports in a leisure time way.

"We carry anything you can do in your leisure time, plus the apparel needed to go along with it," he said.

The store offers everything from frisbees to exercise equipment and tennis racquets to trampolines.

Haddon said that his personal goal is to give extra service and courtesy to his customers. He keeps the store open until 8 p.m. so that the working man can get home from work, relax a minute, and still have time to get to the store.

"Although we haven't had our big grand opening yet, our business has been excellent," Haddon said. "We think that the people of Pampa have been very patient with our situation."

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Haddon

Receives Award

For his suggestion pertaining to a revision in piping in the gas system, C.O. Spalding, Products Dispatcher of Phillips Petroleum Company's Natural Resources Group, has been awarded $320. Spalding has been a Phillips Petroleum Company employee for 38 years. He and his wife Helen live at 834 S. Banks in Pampa.

Stars' Children Suicide Prone?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Children of Dan Dailey, Gregory Peck and Jim Arness committed suicide within the past two months, victims as much of a tragic show business syndrome as the methods they used to kill themselves.

Dan Dailey III, 29, and Jonathan Peck, 30, shot themselves to death. Jenny Arness, 24, took an overdose of sleeping pills.

It is difficult for living things to grow in the shade.

Their deaths were unrelated, yet the three young people did share similarities in their lives.

Their fathers were internationally known stars. Their parents had been divorced. They grew up in affluent surroundings and were themselves objects of curiosity to school chums and strangers.

None of them had distinguished themselves in show business, but neither had they made serious attempts to follow in their famous fathers' footsteps.

Offspring of other stars have suffered heartache, identity crises, early deaths and psychological hangups to a greater degree than children of just plain folks.

Edward G. Robinson Jr. and Harold Lloyd Jr. both come to mind. John Barrymore's daughter, Diana, died tragically after having too much too soon.

Mr. Linklater's daughter, Diane, 20, jumped to her death from a sixth floor apartment window after taking LSD.

There was the tragedy of Lana Turner's daughter, Cheryl, who plunged a knife into her mother's lover, Johnny Stompanato, thereby changing her life forever.

Other children of the stars have been arrested on drug charges, cited for drunken driving and involved in a variety of crimes. Sometimes their parents have been able to keep their names off police blotters one way or another.

Nazareth To Present German Fest

Square dancing and a German Festival arts and crafts show are two of the events scheduled for the third annual Nazareth German Festival Sunday, July 20 in Nazareth.

A baseball game will kick off the activities at 1:30 p.m. followed by the German Festival Arts and Crafts show at 2 p.m. at the home economics room of the high school. Anyone living in Castro County or who is a member of an art club in Castro County may enter the arts and crafts show.

Square dancing will begin at 3 p.m. in the school cafeteria and will last until 5:30. Admission is $1. Bill Campbell of Amarillo will be the caller.

The Wurst Supper, be served from 4 to 7:30 p.m. will cost $2.25.

The Havlik Polka Band from Rowena will play for the dance which begins at 9.

The German Festival is in connection with the Castro County Round-up which will be continued in August.

The proximity of great wealth, booze and drugs makes it easy for youngsters of famous parents to experiment and to get into trouble out of boredom or, in many cases, imitating their parents. Some are left in the care of servants most of their lives while their parents are off on location or otherwise preoccupied.

The divorce rate among stars is higher than the national average.

There is also the raw psychological trauma of children seeing their parents idolized by millions of persons while they, the children, are unseen, ignored, unloved.

It is difficult for them to equate parental adulation by strangers to their own neglect.

There is one value system for their parents, another for themselves.

Bing Crosby's first family of four sons found adjusting to his fame almost impossible. Only after years of maturity were they able to handle it.

One Beverly Hills psychiatrist describes the syndrome as textbook simple. In order to draw attention to themselves many children of stars misbehave, the more outrageously the better. He said such kids find negative attention infinitely more satisfying than no attention at all.

But there are stars who are excellent parents, who put their children ahead of their own careers, encouraging them to become performers.

Lucille Ball is the best example. She was a stern disciplinarian who kept Desi Jr. and little Lucie on a short leash. She made them regular cast members of her own show. They are flourishing in the limelight.

Lloyd Bridges' sons Beau and Jeff have become fine actors and stable human beings in their own rights. Kirk Douglas' son, Michael, stars in "The Streets of San Francisco."

John Wayne's sons, actor Pat and producer Michael, are respected, independent individuals.

Peter Fonda has come around. Liza Minnelli, daughter of the tempestuous Judy Garland, has found clear sailing.

But it's not an easy road for any child to travel. Living in the shadow of a famous parent has been an overwhelming handicap for most of them. The lucky ones manage to overcome it. The less fortunate become misfits, alcoholics and suicides.

HOLIDAY SHOW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — MGM's "The Sunshine Boys," starring Walter Matthau and George Burns, will be released Thanksgiving Day for the holiday season.

From its source high in the Swiss Alps to its mouth at Rotterdam on the North Sea, the river Rhine washes the borders or heartlands of six Western European countries — Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, West Germany, France, and the Netherlands, the National Geographic Society says.
