

Antarctic Oil May Cause World Strife

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former assistant secretary of state has warned that the possible presence of oil near Antarctica could cause international turmoil in the years ahead.

Dr. Dixie Lee Ray emphasized in recent testimony made public Saturday by a Senate committee that an international approach to resource exploitation in Antarctica should be developed.

Dr. Ray is former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and was an assistant secretary of state for energy and oceanographic affairs until she resigned to protest her exclusion from policy-making decisions by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"Now the question of resource exploration, an issue which has lain dormant for years, is looming over the horizon," she told a closed session of the Senate subcommittee on oceans and international environment.

"It is only in a cooperative spirit, of which the (Antarctic) treaty is both a symbol and an instrument, that we can effectively deal with this potentially divisive matter," she said.

The Antarctic treaty of 1959 was signed by the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Great Britain, Japan and other nations. It banned military activities in Antarctica, but did not deal with controlling commercial activities or exploitation of mineral resources.

About 2,000 tourists visit Antarctica a year on commercial tours.

The treaty has been hailed as a model international convention which assures scientific exploration and peace in the frozen wastes.

Preliminary geological exploration indicates the presence of petroleum under the continental shelf. Coal, natural gas, gold, copper and other minerals have also been detected, according to specialists of the U.S. Geological Survey.

However, no proven oil reserves have been identified, although some geologists have reportedly concluded that there exist reserves of up to 45 billion barrels of oil.

Dr. Ray told the subcommittee that current U.S. policy calls for avoiding international conflict over resources.

"Resource activities must not become a cause for significant international discord. The sensitive Antarctic environment must be protected from harm caused by mineral resource activity," she said.

"The most effective method for control of expenditures in government is the direct and immediate correlation of spending programs and tax levies. Such control is always lost when one government entity collects the money and another spends it."

With New Status Islands Could Be US Strategic Base

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will acquire a strong strategic base in the Pacific as well as a languorous island group whose main product is coconuts if Congress gives the Marianas commonwealth status.

The 14 tropical islands are scattered over about 250 square miles of the South Pacific. Under a plan approved by island residents last month, the United States will pay at least $117.5 million over the next seven years to acquire full title to the land.

The real estate is now producing a lot of coconuts and some vegetables.

But if Congress, as expected, approves U.S. Commonwealth status for the 14,000 islanders of the Northern Marianas group, the result could be a change in the United States' strategic posture in the Pacific and Asia.

President Ford last week asked Congress to approve the commonwealth covenant after the islanders voted almost 80 per cent in favor of forming a political union with the United States.

The Marianas have been a U.N. trusteeship under U.S. control since World War II.

when they were seized from the Japanese.

Under the new covenant the Marianas would enjoy the same status as the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, with the islanders getting such benefits as U.S. citizenship, social security, Medicaid, food stamps and a guaranteed $14 million a year for economic development for at least the next seven years.

The United States, at a one-time cost of $19.5 million, would acquire a 50-year lease on about 18,000 acres of strategic harbors and land on three islands with an option to renew at no extra cost.

U.S. officials say they have no immediate plans to build bases in the Northern Marianas, but the Pentagon is revising its long-range strategic planning because of its withdrawal from Vietnam, its gradual retrenchment from both Thailand and Taiwan, and a tenuous situation in Korea.

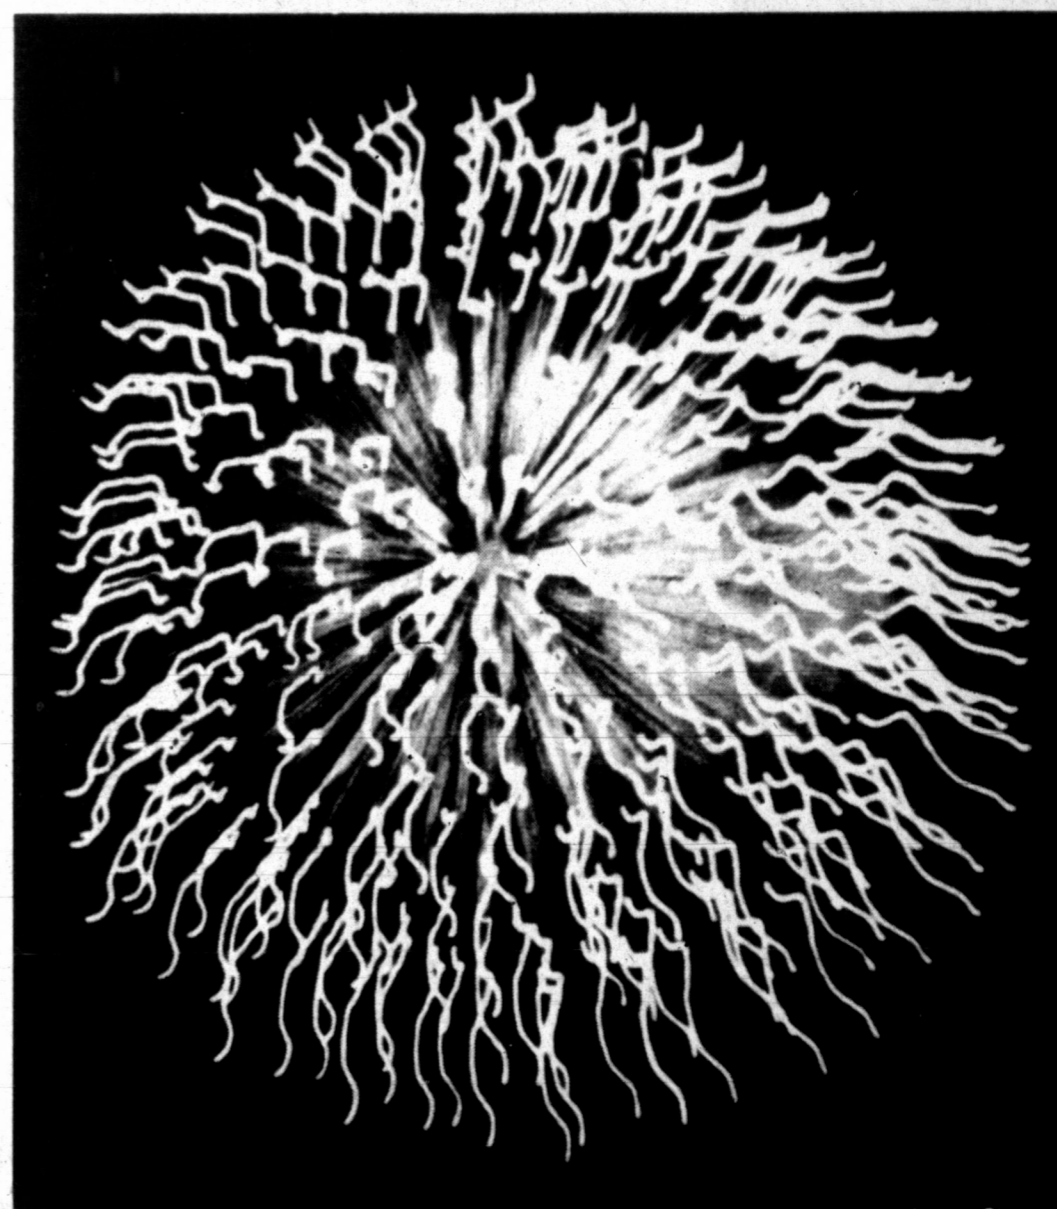

Pentagon planners now seem to be returning to the concept of a Pacific "defense perimeter" first enunciated by Dean Acheson in 1950.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a former Asian history professor and chairman of the Senate's Far Eastern subcommittee, has said America's first line of defense in Asia should run along islands off the Asian mainland to Alaska.

The Marianas are admirably situated in a 500 mile long north-south chain some 1,500 miles east of the Philippines and 5,000 miles west of San Francisco. They could accommodate bases for bombers, ships, nuclear submarines and even marine and troop concentrations within easy strike range of Asian troublespots.

Mansfield's defense view was echoed recently by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., who said: "Generals Marshall, Ridgeway and MacArthur warned against our involvement in a land war in Asia. Now that we have tasted the lessons of such an experience, we should move back, not to isolationism but to a posture which accommodates our strength—a posture which will protect our vital Pacific interests."

Under such a concept, the Marianas could become a major part of the U.S. defense strategy.

Polls To Open Tuesday For City Bond Election

Polling places will be open in each of the city's four wards Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. for balloting in Pampa's $300,000 bond election.

There will be two propositions on the ballot. They will read as follows:

Proposition 1 (for or against): "The use of unexpended bond funds for sanitary sewer system improvements and extensions."

Proposition 2, if approved, would allow the use of approximately $100,000 balance left in a 1964 bond issue fund for sewer system improvements.

Proposition 3, if approved, would fund the $300,000 needed to add to the $100,000 to make up the approximately $400,000 city share of the estimated $1.4 million total cost of the new sewage treatment plant.

Although the election to pay the city's share of the total cost has been called for Tuesday, officials said during the weekend the city has not yet received the 75 per cent aid grant from the Environmental Protection Agency to pay the federal government's share of the total project cost.

Plans for the three phases of the construction have been approved by the EPA and the Texas Water Quality Board.

Necessity for construction of the new plant became apparent two years ago when the TWQB and EPA ordered the Pampa sewage treatment system brought up to federal standards and state standards and the federal government offered to pay 75 per cent of the cost.

The four voting places in Tuesday's election will be at the City Hall in Ward 1, North Fire Station in Ward 2, Optimists Boys Club in Ward 3, and South Fire Station in Ward 4.

Seventeen ballots had been cast when absentee voting ended at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Final tabulation of election results will be made in the office of City Secretary S.M. Chittenden at City Hall when election judges from each ward turned in their totals Tuesday night.

Based on absentee balloting, officials said a high vote indicated although speakers have been urging voters to turn out on election day.

50 Texans Die

United Press International

Sunny skies and mild weather encouraged Texans to travel during the first part of the Fourth of July weekend and the holiday death toll appeared headed for the official estimates of more than 50.

Twenty-seven persons died in 19 separate accidents during the first half of the 78-hour holiday counting period.

Holiday Racks Up Heavy Death Toll

Eastbound on Interstate 80 near Stroudsburg, Pa., the pickup roared into the night at what police said was a high rate of speed.

Seconds later, the pickup skidded, hit a guard rail and overturned, pitching out the young occupants in the rear.

Police said Ann Marie Young, 10, and Charlotte Deetz, 11, both of East Stroudsburg, Pa., and a young boy, were pronounced dead at the scene, three of the many children to die during the three-day Fourth of July weekend.

Two other children were listed in critical condition from the Pennsylvania pickup crash and four others were hospitalized.

A United Press International count at 6 p.m. EDT showed that at least 260 persons had died in traffic accidents since the start of the holiday period.

The breakdown: Traffic 260 Drownings, 97 Plane 8 Other 31 Total 394.

The National Safety Council estimated between 480 and 580 between 6 p.m. local time Thursday and midnight Sunday. A total of 545 died in 1974 over a four day holiday weekend but uncertain gasoline supplies restricted travel that year.

In a bizarre holiday death, James Thurner Jr., 22, of Columbus, Ohio, was killed and four others injured when a fireworks rocket exploded in a crowd of several thousand watching a July 4th display in Columbus. The rocket, last to be fired at the city-sponsored display at Franklin Park, failed to detonate on its upward flight. It exploded near the left side of Turner's face on the way down.

Detroit counted two of the most unusual traffic deaths. Susie Gadson, 49, was run over by a hit-and-run driver, who police said, then made a U-turn and came back and struck and killed Leo Flack, 59. Flack had stopped his car and was walking toward Mrs. Gadson when he was hit. Police launched a search for the double hit and run driver.

President Stresses US Indochina Commitment

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Ford told President Suharto of oil-rich Indonesia Saturday that Communist takeovers in South Vietnam and Cambodia have increased rather than lessened U.S. determination to seek stability in Southeast Asia.

Ford conferred with Suharto in a rustic lodge at this mountain retreat for eighty minutes and in a toast after lunch said:

"The fact that we had a recent tragedy in Indochina actually should redouble, and does, our interests in the stability in Southeast Asia."

In reply, Suharto said: "I believe entirely and I'm also fully confident of the sincerity of the United States government in pledging assistance" to Indonesia and other nations in the region.

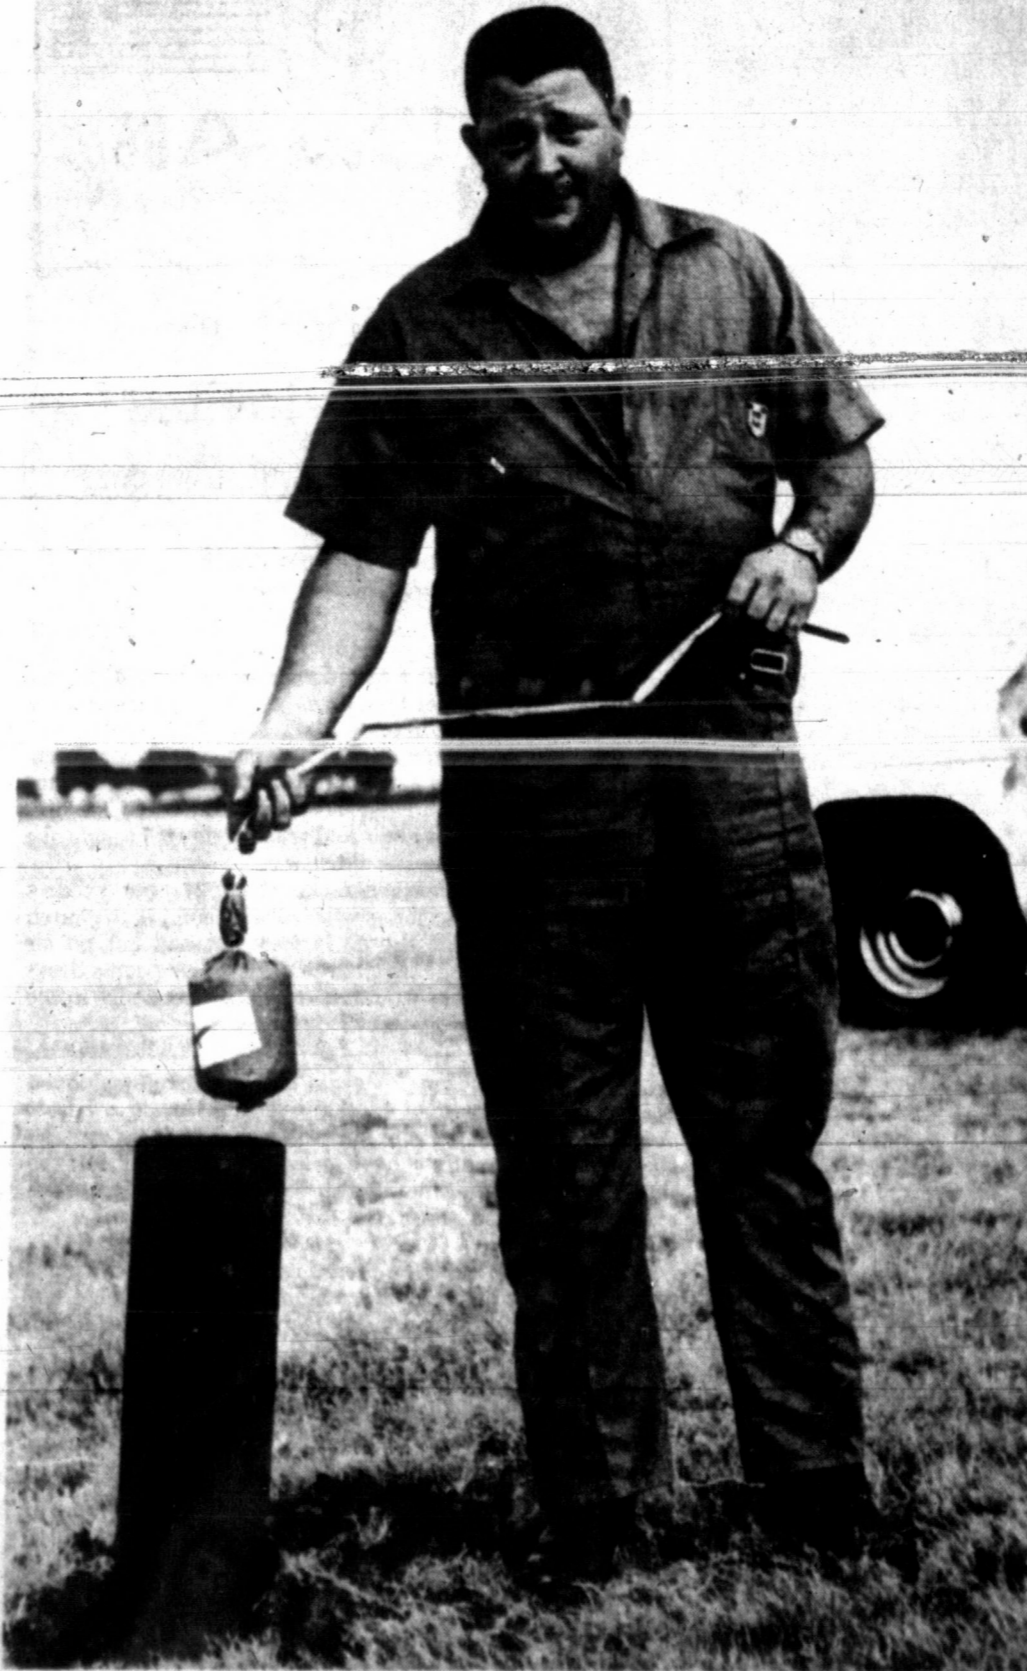

Suharto referred to Communist victories in Indochina and said his government is taking steps to build public confidence and national unity "to enable us to face any eventuality which could endanger our national independence and territorial integrity." Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned from a week-long vacation at Caneel Bay in the Virgin Islands to attend the Suharto visit which marked the first time Ford had invited a foreign leader to the tightlyguarded presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin mountains.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters Ford and Suharto spent almost three hours together — meeting alone some of the time while Kissinger and Indonesian foreign minister Adam Malik conferred separately with each other and a number of other top officials from both countries.

4th of July in Pampa Thousands Watch His Work

Skyrocketing Career

Ron Gilmer, professional fireworks operator from Burnett Fireworks Co., Enid, Okla., presented the display Friday night which marked Independence Day and the beginning of Bicentennial Year in Pampa. The Chamber of Commerce sponsored the event which featured motorcycle contests, Boy Scouts and address by 13th district congressman Rep. Jack Hightower, Vernon, and what Gilmer estimated to be between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of fireworks.

(Pampa News photos by Jane P. Marshall)

The part time career of Ron Gilmer is skyrocketing. When he pops off, people listen. Thousands watch his work.

Gilmer was in Pampa Friday, setting off 4th of July aerial charges at the rodeo arena as fast as his assistant could load them in the steel pipe mortars.

For thirteen years Gilmer has been a part-time employe of the Burnett Fireworks Co. in Enid, Okla. He enjoys the break in routine that setting off fireworks provides him. Gilmer's occupation is auto body repair.

He also enjoys the extra money setting off fireworks provides him. Employees who are in charge of the charges at a display earn 10 per cent of the total price of the show.

This writer asked Gilmer if he had ever suffered any injury or ill effects during his 13 years of working with fireworks.

"Beg your pardon," he said. "I didn't hear you."

It was the background noise from the arena and firecrackers being popped by children in the area next to the open field where Gilmer had set up that caused him not to hear. His hearing had not been impaired in any way and he has not been seriously burned.

Gilmer is very safety conscious and follows all the rules of the fireworks company and the insurance company. No people or automobiles are allowed within 100 yards of the fireworks when they are being fired. An ambulance and firetrucks are standing by in case a need for either of them arises.

Another requirement is that a pyrotechnician serve an apprenticeship of two years before setting off on his own. Larry Hiltzman, a truck driver from Drummond, Okla. who was assisting Gilmer, is in his second year.

The shells are rather disappointing in appearance. There are no red, white and blue wrappers and they aren't rocket-shaped. They are simply round objects, wrapped in drab, brown paper, with about a yard of fuse protruding.

The fuse burns at a rate of 60 feet per second and Gilmer lights them with railroad flares.

Mortars are tilted a bit to allow for wind and they come in different diameters for different shell sizes.

The shells rise to between 150 yards and 300 yards in the air before exploding into one of several aerial displays with names like Spider Web, Flying Fish and Star, Octopus, Peonies and Chrysanthemums.

Many fireworks are made by the Oklahoma company and others are imported.

General instructions packed with Burnett fireworks display the following advice:

"If a shell goes 'woosh' — and nothing comes out of the mortar, move back quickly from the mortars to a distance of about fifty feet, and wait about 15 seconds. If the shell has not left the mortar within that length of time, you can then move back to the mortar position and proceed with firing from the other mortars. If the shell has not left the mortar within two minutes, water should be poured into the mortar containing the defective shell, and the bucket placed over the top of the mortar so that there will be no more shells placed into that mortar. After the show is over, remove the defective shell, and soak it in a bucket of water for a period of 24 hours. Then bury the shell under the ground to a depth of at least 2 feet."

Hog Cholera Found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first cases of hog cholera in the United States in more than a year have been found near Hereford, Tex., the Agriculture Department announced Friday.

Officials said the 170-hog herd owned by Louis Woodford had been quarantined and will be destroyed to keep the disease from spreading. No additional quarantine measures have yet been found necessary, spokesmen said.

Hog cholera is highly infectious and can spread rapidly. It does not, however, affect other animals or human beings.

Hobart Street Park began filling up at 12:30 p.m. Saturday as Pampa High School graduates from the Classes of 1952, '53, '54, '55 got together to visit and reminisce. It was the first reunion for the class in five years and the class of '55 was not included in the 1970 reunion. Emcee of the picnic was Sam Anderson, who currently is serving on the Pampa Independent School District Board of directors.

Shark Attacks Young Surfer

MELBOURNE, Fla. (UPI) — Sixteen-year-old Robert Clark was spending the Fourth of July holiday surfing off Indian Atlantic beach when he felt something grab his foot.

"I never saw the shark," said Clark, son of an employe of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "but one of my friends said he saw its fin."

The predator, described by one witness as about six feet long, severed nine tendons in Clark's right foot.

"I was on my surf board, only 50 feet from shore, when something grabbed my foot. I was pretty sure it was a shark," Clark said from his hospital bed Saturday.

"But I wasn't frightened then and I concentrated on staying on the surf board and letting the waves carry me in," he said.

Stock Market Finishes High

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market finished the record-setting second quarter this week with a flourish and immediately ran into the possibility of higher interest rates as it started the third.

With the threat came the possibility of a period of tighter money, which would hike the short-term interest rates on money instruments — such as certificates of deposit — more attractive than stocks.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which climbed a near record 42 percent in the first six months of the year, slipped 1.33 points to 871.79. The closely watched average had gained 110 points in the second quarter, or 14 percent; 262 in the first half, or 42 percent; and 301 points, or 52 percent, since it hit a 12-year low of 577.60 last Dec. 6.

Because of the market's rise — as reflected by the Dow and other averages — analysts said it was susceptible to the profit taking losses it suffered in this July Fourth holiday shortened week. The market was closed Friday.

Officials of the Minit Mart, 1106 Alcock, reported $600 missing Saturday morning. The report was under investigation Saturday night. Fifteen radiators and 10 batteries were reported missing from a building at 818 W. Foster. C.C. Matheny owns the building which police said had been entered through a door after the hinges were removed. The missing items were valued at $140.

Johnny O. Bowman of 802 Scott reported that someone had taken the headlights and radiator from his dunebuggy parked near their residence. (NYSE officials said the second quarter turnover of 1,351,805,866 shares was an all-time record, topping the 1,310,853,524 traded during the first quarter.)

New York's trendsetting First National City Bank provoked money fears by raising its prime rate to the prevailing 7 per cent level from 6 1/2 per cent Thursday. It may hike it to 7 1/2 per cent soon.

The reason was short-term money rates — upon which Citibank bases its prime rate formula — have risen over the past three weeks despite Federal Reserve Board efforts to keep them down.

Exactly a year ago, the prime reached an all-time high 12 per cent. Its decline since the fall and that of other interest rates has been one of the major reasons for the market's rally this year.

The Fed, which tightened credit reins recently, reported Thursday that business loan demands rose $318 million at New York's leading banks and the nation's money supply in the latest reporting month grew at a 10.8 per cent higher rate than the latest 13-weekly figures.

Inflation remains a concern in Washington and on Wall Street, although a 0.1 percent decline in the Labor Department's June wholesale price index indicated it had dropped sharply from last year's double digit level.

Oil and aluminum companies want to raise prices. The Federal Energy Administration predicted gasoline will cost three to five cents a gallon more by fall. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., wants an investigation. The Council of Wage and Price Stability exerted pressure on the aluminum companies.

The newly formed Congressional Budget Office said the hikes could hamper the economic recovery observers believe is in progress. Government and private reports partially backed up recovery claims.

Factory orders rose 0.3 per cent and businesses liquidated inventories at the fastest rate in 17 years; used machine tool orders rose 5.5 per cent; construction spending rose 1.2 per cent, although most of the rise was due to inflation; automobile production is on the upswing, and consumers, according to the Fed, started borrowing to spend more in May.

Police Investigate Two Burglaries

Two burglaries and one case of assault with a deadly weapon were under investigation late Saturday by officers of the Pampa Police Department.

A local resident reported that he was leaving the Busy Bee Cafe with two female companions when an assailant appeared armed with a handgun and fired a shot into the vehicle.

The armed man then allegedly placed the gun to the complainant's forehead and threatened to kill him.

The complainant escaped by grabbing hold of the vehicle the females were driving and was pulled to safety as the assailant fired the second shot into the door of the vehicle.

The complainant told police he escaped uninjured except for receiving cuts to his leg as the vehicle pulled him to safety.

He reported he did not know the assailant, nor could he give a motive for the attack.

Officials of the Minit Mart, 1106 Alcock, reported $600 missing Saturday morning. The report was under investigation Saturday night.

Fifteen radiators and 10 batteries were reported missing from a building at 818 W. Foster. C.C. Matheny owns the building which police said had been entered through a door after the hinges were removed.

The missing items were valued at $140.

Johnny O. Bowman of 802 Scott reported that someone had taken the headlights and radiator from his dunebuggy parked near their residence.

TEXAS TALK
By Doug Howard

All it takes is a glance at your own checkbook to know that in the long run you have to have more coming in than going out. The same principal works with nations as well. That's why an international trade surplus is more desirable than a trade deficit. American farmers last year did far more than any other segment of U-S industry to reduce a trade deficit topped off by the high prices of mid-eastern oil. Agricultural exports last year were worth 22 billion dollars, producing an agricultural trade surplus of nearly 12 billion. This contribution by food and fiber producers brought our total deficit to 3 billion dollars. Still high, but much less than some economists thought it would be. These figures from last year are considered by many to be the harbinger of agriculture's future importance to the U-S position in world affairs. Farmers and ranchers are moving more directly into the limelight as they produce enough to keep us number one.

Locals To Hear Briscoe Program

The Pampa Industrial Foundation and Pampa Chamber of Commerce will send a combined delegation to Amarillo Tuesday to hear details of the "Texas First" program, initiated by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to create new, permanent and unsubsidized jobs for Texans and encourage the expansion of industry.

The Amarillo meeting Tuesday will be the second of four conferences sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The first is scheduled in Midland Monday. Subsequent meetings will be Thursday in Stephenville and Friday in Wichita Falls.

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce will host the Tuesday meeting in the Reddy Room of the Southwestern Public Service Co.

John Wright of Abilene, chairman of the WTCC Industrial Development Committee, said Saturday that West Texas is first in scheduling regional information meetings to kick off the "Texas First" program.

Each of the regional meetings will be presided over by a West Texas Chamber of Commerce representative.

Wright said E.W. Williams, executive vice president of the Amarillo National Bank and WTCC District I vice president, will preside at the Amarillo meeting.

Representatives of the Texas Industrial Commission and the governor's office will provide programs for each of the sessions.

Local and regional business, industry and government leaders have been invited to the meetings and will be urged to set up job creation campaigns in their areas.

The "Texas First" program is part of a coordinated effort to boost economic development across the state and take the slack out of the economy by identifying 15,000 jobs and placing unemployed and underemployed Texans in them.

Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foundation officials said Saturday the Tuesday Amarillo meeting is open to key leaders in Texas Panhandle cities and towns. There is no registration fee.

Materials for conducting a local program will be distributed and sample awards for achievement will be available. More information may be obtained on the Amarillo meeting by calling the local Chamber of Commerce at 669-3241.

Rep. Jack Hightower

Rep. Hightower Promotes Bentsen, Energy Search

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower said Friday that he doesn't much like the current farm bill and he doesn't like the current oil depletion allowance situation, but he does like Senator Lloyd Bentsen for president.

Hightower was in Pampa to speak at the rodeo arena before the July 4 fireworks display. He appeared at celebrations in Amarillo, Borger, Panhandle, Clarendon and Canyon before arriving in Pampa shortly before 8 p.m. He spoke with the news in the lobby of the Coronado Inn.

"The situation with the depletion allowance is that it is virtually gone," he said. "What distresses me is that there is nothing in any of the energy bills to provide for exploration. We have to provide some incentive. The depletion allowance did provide incentives."

Hightower was asked about the possibility of legislation that would offer some relief to farmers who were saddened by the recent death of the Emergency Farm Bill.

"Because we did not fail to override the President's veto," he said, "we are stuck with the current farm bill."

He doesn't look for any improvement in the farm bill category "until we can generate the support we didn't have before."

The Congressman also commented on fears that Texas oil and gas may be taken away from Texas and used in more populated areas of the nation.

"There is a very real threat that the consuming areas in the East may cast covetous eyes on our intra-state gas and force us into a nationwide allocation," he said.

Hightower asked that "We must realize that alternate energy sources are the ultimate answer. Eventually all oil will be gone."

In speaking of the hearings set for Saturday in Amarillo by the Livestock and Grain Subcommittee of the House and the Senate Agriculture Committee, Hightower said "response has been good."

But he added that committee members "would like to hear from producers. The corporate interests are going to be there, anyway. Producers with anything to pass along should come to the hearing."

Looking ahead to the race for the Presidency, Hightower said, "I don't know who the ultimate (Democratic) pick will be but my choice is Senator Bentsen."

He said that "most people are looking for an ideal candidate but the ideal candidate never shows up. Compared with the others who are running, Bentsen is my choice."

Bentsen, according to the Congressman, will not be hampered because he is a Texan.

"I would like to believe there is not an anti-Texas feeling," Hightower said. "And Bentsen has a different personality from that of Lyndon Johnson. Johnson came across as a Texan foremost. Bentsen doesn't. They are men of different times."

While he supports Bentsen as a presidential candidate, Hightower does not plan to campaign for the Senator.

"I campaign only for myself," he said.

Pampa Man Critical In Oklahoma Hospital

A Pampa man, Harold Glover, 41, was in critical condition late Saturday in Baptist Medical Center Hospital in Oklahoma City as a result of an accident Friday morning on 140 east of El Reno, Okla.

Well's son, Dennis, was in satisfactory condition. His wife and daughter were treated and released.

The Wells car was in a collision with another during a heavy ground fog.

Milton C. Sankey, 32, of Canton was killed in the collision.

Hospital spokesman said late Saturday that Wells was in "multiple trauma."

Radio Club Sets Meeting

The Pampa Amateur Radio Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday in Furr's Cafeteria.

The agenda will include discussion of last week's Field Day contest. Although the logs used during the contest are still being compiled, it is known that the club made more than 800 contacts with other Amateur Radio stations all over the United States and Canada.

Cape Verde Islands End 5000-year Colonial Rule

PRAIA, Cape Verde (UPI) — The Cape Verde Islands—specks on the map of the Western hump of Africa—gained independence from Portugal Saturday to end 500 years of colonial rule.

Crowds at the formal independence ceremony in Varzea Stadium chanted slogans urging the union of the new republic with the African nation of Guinea-Bissau.

Pope Paul VI in a telegram offered Cape Verde the moral support of the Roman Catholic Church.

"I solemnly declare Cape Verde an independent state," said Portuguese Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves at the ceremony formally establishing the Republic of Cape Verde.

Adilio Duarte, president of the newly elected National Assembly, told Goncalves: "I declare to you that an assembly has been elected of which I am the president and it will exchange power with the Portuguese government."

The crowds in the stadium shouted "vivas" to the new republic and "union for Guinea-Bissau and Cape Verde."

Cape Verde was the latest of Portugal's former territories to be granted independence in line with the policy of the new government that took power in Lisbon in the coup of April 1974 that ended a half-century of rightist dictatorships.

Portugal has also granted independence to Mozambique and Angola to the independence later this year.

the 56-man assembly.

In a telegram to the bishop of Cape Verde, Pope Paul VI reaffirmed "the decisive readiness of the church to lend its specific contribution for collaboration on social and moral progress of the new state."

Cape Verde—a collection of 15 tropical islands about 280 miles off the western bulge of Africa in the North Atlantic—has a land area roughly equal to the state of Rhode Island and a population of 272,000, mostly descendants of African slaves.

Portugal administered the islands as part of Portuguese Guinea, now Guinea-Bissau. The PAIGC rebels fought the Portuguese for 11 years in both Cape Verde and Guinea-Bissau.

The PAIGC leaders have said their top priority will be feeding the people of the islands, which have been hit by a prolonged drought.

Kissinger-‘US Committed To Help Israel But...’

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Saturday the United States is committed to preserving Israel, but that the Israelis "must take a chance on making progress towards peace" with concessions to the Arabs.

Kissinger made his comments on the eve of an Israeli cabinet meeting which could result in an announced course for long-range dealings with the Arab nations.

While Kissinger was vacationing this week in the Caribbean, reports circulated that the United States was putting heavy pressure on the Israelis to make some concessions to the Arabs to open the way for a tentative peace.

In a televised interview (ABC), Kissinger said "the United States is committed to the survival and security of Israel, and nothing in the current discussions changes that situation."

Kissinger said the Israelis must realize that "all roads are difficult" in seeking a Middle East peace.

"We understand their fears. We understand their dilem-

Every baseball made is still hand-stitched.

In response to questions, Kissinger said concessions made by Egypt were also the result of United States pressure, although Israel "does have a problem in the sense that it is giving up territory, while it is getting in return some assurances."

He said the United States "has asked nothing of Israel in recent weeks that it did not make clear that it felt was necessary for the last 10 months."

The Pampa Fire Department answered three calls Friday as a result of blazes caused by fireworks.

All were outside the city limits, and caused little damage, according to reports.

'Bob Price Isn't Finished'

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Former Republican Bob Price of Pampa, now busy on his nearby ranch, "isn't finished politically," according to Joe Curtis, 31st District Committeeman from Pampa.

During an interview this weekend, Curtis said, "As for political aspirations, I won't try to out-guess Bob, but I don't think he is finished."

Price was defeated last November by Congressman Jack Hightower, a Democrat.

The former Congressman was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1966.

Since that time, rumors have been rampant that Price will return to the political scene.

Price has made himself available to the area and to Curtis, the committeeman related. "And he (Price) expects to be spending more time in this area."

Curtis serves a 26-county area as committeeman, and he is a member of the Pampa City Commission. Republican committeewoman for the 31st District is Mrs. Jack Hart of Gruber.

Tracing Gray County politics from 1964 when Curtis became involved during the Barry Goldwater campaign, he said he has seen more and more local involvement.

"The first year I was active, Gray County Republicans didn't have a primary," Curtis recalls. "The main change in the Republican party in the past 10 or 12 years is the opening up of the party more to the grass roots level than it was in 1964."

At that time, Curtis said, there were no county or district Republican elected officials in the 31st District.

"Now, we have several," he said. The 1976 election will see the Republicans focus more than ever on the election of state legislators and county officials.

Texas was the only state in the union to gain political office holders in the Republican side in state legislators, and in county and local positions.

National, Curtis says President Ford is "far out front" of any presidential contender.

Asked about inflation, Curtis said "I feel like inflation is caused by deficit spending and until we curb that we will continue to have it."

During the past year, Curtis said many Republicans and Democrats who have worked faithfully have been "turned off and are doing nothing."

"But the pendulum is swinging back to get more people involved," he said.

Born in Carter County, Okla., Curtis was graduated from high school in Ardmore. He spent his first two or three years out of school at the Ardmoreite as a steno-typist. He left that for a job in the oil fields with Haliburton, and went to Venezuela.

When he returned to the states he went into oilfield equipment sales in South Texas and Southern Louisiana.

He and his wife, Wylene, have three daughters, Mrs. Vineta Mullikin and Mrs. Cydell Williams, both of Houston and Mrs. Vicki Neugebauer of Boulder, Colo. The Curtis' have five grandchildren.

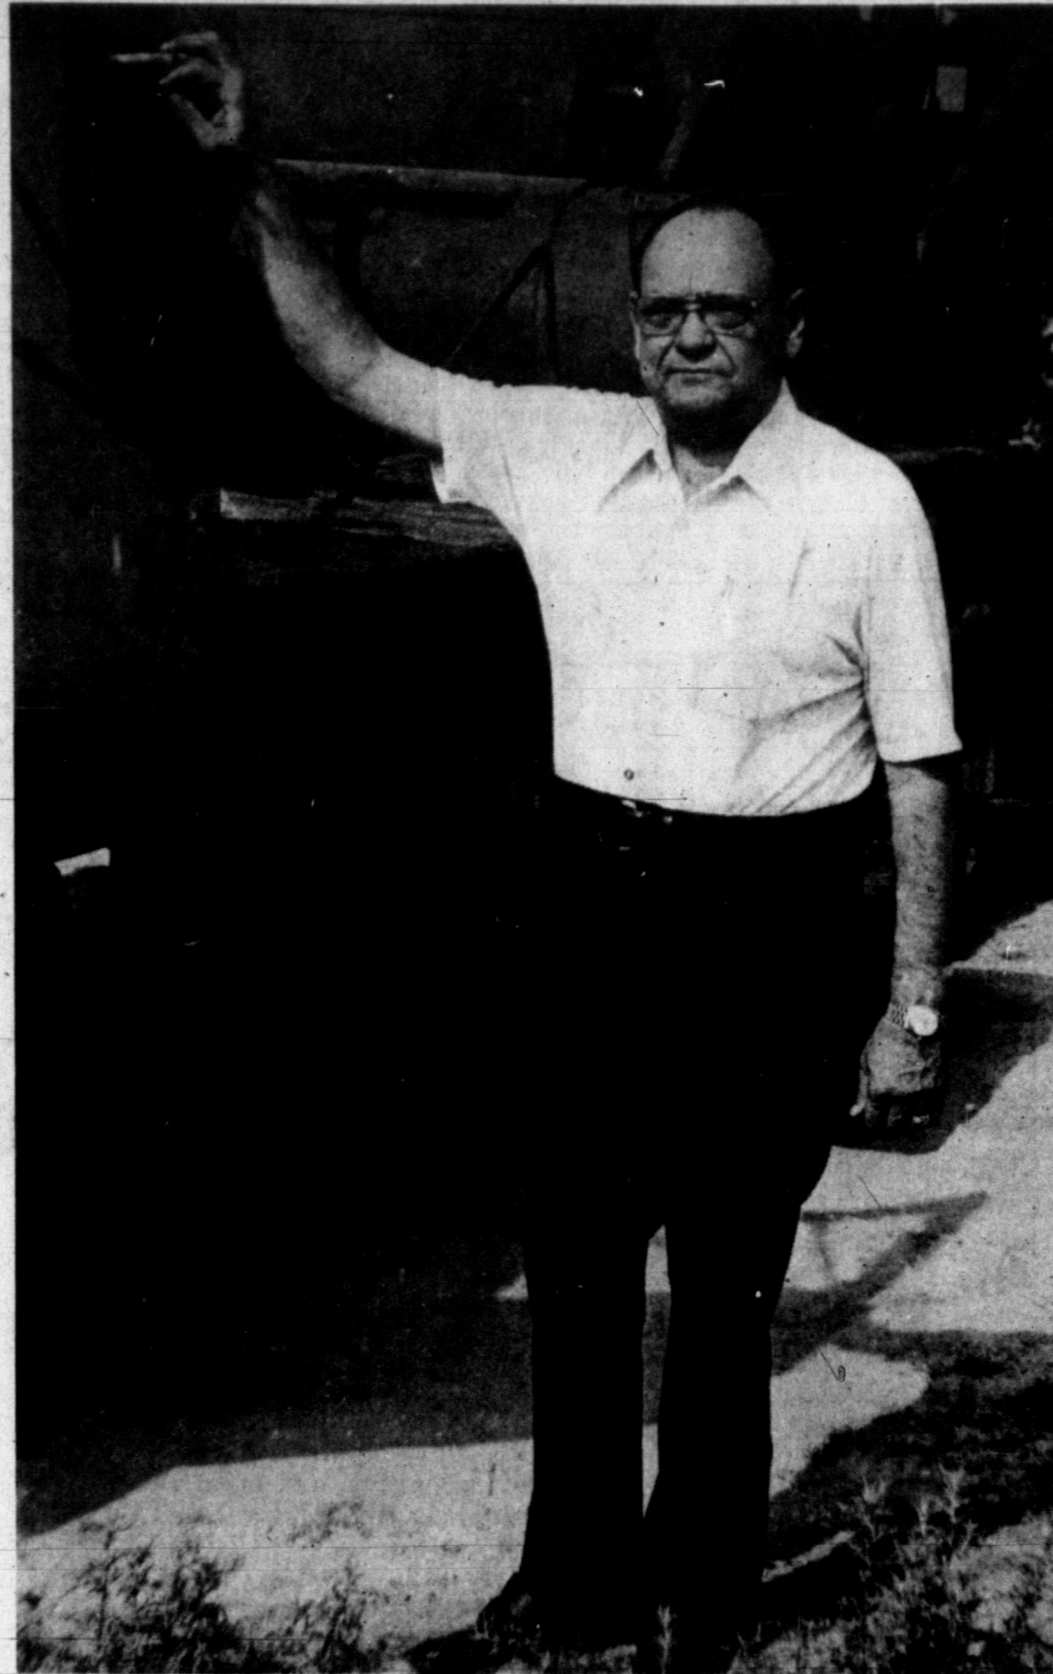

Curtis said when he came to Pampa in 1963 from New Orleans he considered himself a Democrat "simply because his father was a Democrat."

A former partner in the Curtis Well Servicing Inc., the late Claton Husted, was Gray County Republican Chairman and "it was more or less through him that I became interested in Republican politics," Curtis said.

Curtis was in Austin recently when Texas Republicans selected a new state chairman, State Rep. Ray Hutchison of Dallas, who proposes a five-year plan to build Republican strength in local, legislative and statewide offices.

The new chairman called on Republicans to "develop the most powerful conservative organization this state has ever seen."

Hutchison, like Curtis, believes that emphasis of in-state efforts during 1976 should be placed on legislative and courthouse offices.

People Mix With Politics

Joe Curtis, 31st District Republican Committeeman from Pampa, foresees more people involved in politics in the year ahead with the Republican emphasis on legislative and courthouse offices.

Carl Albert Contemplates Retiring from Senate Seat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weary and frustrated, Speaker Carl Albert spent a rare, relaxed week at his home in McAlester, Okla., during the July 4th congressional recess, possibly giving serious thought to retiring at the end of 1976.

The man who twice in one year was only a heart beat away from the presidency appears ready to quit in his 30th year in Congress. But the final decision has not been made and will not be made until early next year.

Albert, 67, said last January when he was elected to his third consecutive term as speaker that he would retire from Congress at age 70. He will turn 70 May 10, 1978, a year and half into the 95th Congress that convenes in January, 1977.

If Albert steps down sooner, he must announce it early enough to give potential successors time to meet the June 7, 1976, Oklahoma election filing deadline. If he announces too early, however, the race to succeed him as speaker will be even more hectic than it ordinarily would be.

A recent spate of publicity over freshmen Democrats who wanted Albert to resign was somewhat exaggerated. Only one of the 75 freshmen, Rep. Bob Carr of Michigan, went on record for Albert's resignation and only about 30 of them actually complained about his leadership.

Thus Albert's frustration is not with the freshmen. It arises instead from the simple fact that his entire tenure as speaker has been spent under a Republican White House.

Albert's health apparently is not a factor in his consideration.

Braless Gal Files Charges

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — A woman forced to quit her job because she worked without a bra says she may file a complaint with the city's Human Relations Commission.

A commission worker said the woman had grounds to file a sex discrimination complaint.

The woman, who requested her name be withheld, said she wore a brassiere while she worked on clean-up details for the Foy Construction Co. for two weeks until her union told her she was not required by law to wear the undergarment.

Occupational safety official Ernest Prather said the Federal government had no specific regulations regarding protective undergarments.

Fred Brown, a Foy Executive, said the woman was asked to quit her job because the company wants its workers to be "dressed as safely as possible."

although he suffered a heart attack in 1966.

He nonetheless does noticeably tire easily these days. He spent several weeks recovering from a trip to China last April and complained of laryngitis and flu in the wake of it.

His usual even temper also has been giving away to occasional outbursts.

Once recently after a minor dispute among a few congressmen, Albert blurted to reporters: "I've never had so much goddam advice in my life and all of it wrong. To hell with 'em."

Albert also wearily lamented the eight-week period in 1973 and the nearly 15-week period in 1974 when he was constantly surrounded by the Secret Service while Congress debated the nominations of Gerald R. Ford and then Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

He Looked Familiar

CORNING, Ark. (UPI) — Sometimes, even governors have to hitchhike.

Gov. David H. Pryor did Friday. He flew to Rector to begin the traditional Fourth of July picnic circuit, but his first appearance was actually scheduled in nearby Piggott.

When Pryor noticed the mistake and found no one at the airport to pick him up, he walked along the highway and hitched a ride with a stranger in a pickup truck.

Pryor told an audience later at Corning that his benefactor seemed to recognize him, but just couldn't place the face.

"I'm David Pryor, the governor of Arkansas," Pryor said he told the man.

"Oh, yeah. I thought you looked familiar," the man replied.

Pryor said his experience did show him some of the transportation problems in Northeast Arkansas.

Commission May Delay

City Manager Mack Wofford said Saturday there is a strong possibility the regular meeting of the Pampa City Commission Tuesday will be adjourned until 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Wofford said two or three city commissioners were out of the city over the July Fourth holiday weekend and were not expected to return in time for the Tuesday meeting.

The city manager said there was only a three-item agenda set for Tuesday. It included a public hearing on proposed removal of an abandoned building at 500 N. Zimmers. approval of routine salary changes for June and consideration of accounts payable.

Moving the meeting to Thursday, Wofford said, also would give commissioners an opportunity for early canvassing of Tuesday's election results.

Police Set Promotion Examinations

Examinations for those who wish to be promoted from sergeants to lieutenants will be Tuesday and Wednesday at the Pampa Police Department.

The announcement was made by Police Chief Richard Mills.

Officers will take a written test on the Texas penal code, supervisory procedures and the Pampa Police Department book of rules and regulations.

Those who pass the test will go before an oral interview board Wednesday. The board is composed of a police officer of command rank and two citizens. Chief Mills said each applicant will receive a grade from the board. The written and oral grades will be averaged and the eligibility list for promotion made from the final grade.

Requirements for the test state that an officer must first serve as a sergeant for two years for the Pampa Police Department.

Written and oral tests for sergeants will be given Thursday and Friday. Eligible to take the tests are those who have worked one year with the department as an officer.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, JULY 6
Your birthday today: The search for deeper spiritual resources and self-preservation begins now and continues for the future. Material prosperity takes care of itself with normal diligence but eludes your grasp if you overdo or force issues. Although complex, romantic relationships thrive. Family ties grow firmer than ever. Today's natives have great energy, are frequently dedicated to mystical or religious pursuits.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Let the morning pass you by since you'll change your mind about the rest of the day. Devote your time to intellectual pastimes, not physical activity. You gain insight and receive good news this evening.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Now the tide is generally favorable in all areas of daily living. You needn't push very hard, but you must respond positively to any suggestion that goes along with your goals.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Carry your share of local Sunday customs. If you are in an unfamiliar place, be sure you're not creating sudden changes. Even the dullest routine offers pleasant surprises.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Relax and enjoy your general good fortune. There's an unexpected compliment for something you did ages ago. Forgive those who disagree with you and let them know it.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Friendship take priority this holiday Sunday, wherever you are. Social moves are easier and introductions in order, some of which promise long, rewarding experience.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Continue a moderate course despite temptations to overdo. This is the time to pop that question and settle the future of a romantic relationship. Change is in the air; travel, favored.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Pleasure and happy surprises are indicated. Do your share for the community and be guided by its standards. Just be sure what they are and how you fit in.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You now have a chance to get group money straightened out. Speak up and be ready to listen. You're called upon to use some neglected skills. Let others decide on the final outcome of your work.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Bring loved ones with you as you move. You're apt to find yourself the center of attention. Don't do anything special or make efforts to exploit the situation.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: As you make your weekend rounds, keep notes for further inquiry. Compile reminder lists and organize your thoughts. Those you love deserve some expression of your true feelings.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Your early mood is one of experimentation. Introduce short-cuts and new ideas. Let everyone know what you're up to. Keep the rest of the day as peaceful as conditions permit.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be up and about early; you have last-minute preparations to make for a successful day. Make the social scene in good humor. Don't linger anywhere since you've a great deal of ground to cover.

MONDAY, JULY 7

Your birthday today: Conditions change in many ways during your campaign for personal perfection. The goal now is to strip your life of heavy burdens. Much apparent progress made in the early months is exchanged for benefits you hadn't planned in previous years. Relationships suffer setbacks; only those shared honestly survive. Today's natives develop one high skill, are short in other talents needed for practical results.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Launching a major new venture is premature. You must organize first, collect fresh information, verify past figures and take inventory. Time is also lost hunting particular items.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Tentative is the word for negotiations and trading. Resist lending, no matter how smooth and complete the presentation or solicitation may be. Later hours are fine for romance.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: As long as you don't take many ups and downs to heart, life is a ball. Make no promises or crucial transactions. Tomorrow you can arrive at a better understanding.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Today's mood is easy-come-easy-go, but don't let it divert you from keeping track of money. Straighten out budget and other details before beginning any important new projects.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You now have friends dashing in and out as they pursue all manner of idealistic goals. You already have enough cut out to do and shouldn't get involved in their schemes.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your spirits improve with unrealistic optimism. Enjoy that symbolic rainbow while it lasts, but make allowances for repairs and expansions of program rather soon.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Information comes in bursts of first one story then another that don't tally. Search for truth, but leave conclusions for tomorrow. You may wake up with a clear decision.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Group ventures encounter a moment of critical review. Have your facts ready to explain or correct. Agreements reached late tonight make more sense than the entire day's haggling.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Concentrate on the personal side of life. Delay shopping for major purchases and hard bargaining until later in the week. Relax; take an interest in temporary conditions.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Faulty communication and errors come to light. Improvise; make the best of things without losing the excitement of progress. Time out for a check-up is a well-spent afternoon.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: What you think is a great benefit to all turns out later to be just a noble experiment, so mothball your schemes in the rehearsal stage. You've enough troubleshooting to keep busy.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Social events are favored; serious business is not. Expect surprises. If you have skeletons in the closet, they wander out when you're least prepared. Be nonchalant.

Unemployment Drops But Jobs Still Not Available

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped 0.6 per cent to 8.6 per cent in June, but due to an influx of students entering the labor market the jobless situation remained unchanged from May, the Labor Department reported today.

Although the unemployment rate last month was not so encouraging as it might appear by the size of the drop from May, it was a signal that rising unemployment may have halted.

The six-tenths of 1 per cent decline from the 9.2 per cent in May was at the lower end of a scale that government analysts had estimated would be needed to show improvement in the jobless picture, which had been deteriorating for the past 14 months.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, which compiles the monthly data, said employment held steady at 84.4 million workers in June. Employment rose in the nonfarm sector but was offset by a matching decline in agriculture, BLS said. Although the number of workers held steady in June, the total labor force for purposes of calculating the jobless rate declined by 600,000 in June, BLS said.

This decline contributed to the "technical" drop in unemployment although in actual terms, the jobless rate was unchanged from May. A study of figures for July will be necessary before a better analysis of unemployment conditions can be made.

The statistical quirk which somewhat distorted the jobless figures is directly tied to the influx of summer workers. "Each year the Labor Department seasonally adjusts the June unemployment figures downward to minimize the impact of summer workers, mainly students, on the unemployment rate," explained Senate banking chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Because overall unemployment is so high this year, Proxmire said, the seasonal adjustment will also be abnormally high. In fact, unemployment would have to jump from 8.5 million to 10 million in June for the unemployment rate to rise from its 9.2 per cent level in May. Since an increase of 500,000 is very large, there was no chance for the unemployment rate to rise.

Proxmire's assessment is similar to that of Commissioner Julius Shiskin of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which compiles and reports the monthly unemployment data for the Labor Department. "A sharp decline in the unemployment rate may represent a deficiency" in how the figures are interpreted, Shiskin said. "The 'true' June rate may be higher than that published."

Before the new figures were released, government officials said a drop of three-tenths or less would mean unemployment worsened in June, a decline of six-tenths would indicate no change. A drop of nine-tenths or more, which would leave the rate at 8.3 per cent or less, would be a clear sign of economic recovery.

The unemployment rate in May was the highest since 1941.

Prison Guards Fear Legal Action

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (UP) — Guards at the state penitentiary are afraid of legal action against them if they enforce prison rules, according to one of the guards.

The situation has been unstable since the McAlester prison riot two years ago which destroyed much of the prison. Lionel Johnson said Wednesday during the federal trial of 10 present and former prison guards.

"Part of the reason is the guards are afraid of being brought before a grand jury and indicted if they enforce the rules," Johnson said.

He said lack of leadership among guards and "too many fighting each other" has added to the problem.

The three present and seven former guards were indicted by a federal grand jury in a series of teargassing after which inmate Robert Forsythe died.

Testimony Wednesday involved a gassing in the west cellhouse on May 22, 1974.

Inmates Jack Meeks, 31, Jerry Wayne Williams, 26, and Ronald A. Hedrick, 35, who were housed in the cellhouse, testified prisoners were gassed for no apparent reason.

They said several guards fired rifles over the heads of inmates as they left a building containing showers and returned to their cells. They said prisoners reacted with obscene gestures and loud remarks.

They were gassed after returning to their cells, they testified.

Defense lawyer Sen. Gene Stipe, D-McAlester, asked if alleged extra manpower and the firing of shots could have resulted from an alleged plan to kill one of the guards, defendant Homer Cacy Jr.

He also asked if an inmate had approached a guard in the shower area and attempted to take his gun.

"The inmates denied knowledge of the alleged plot or shower incident.

Hedrick said the gassing seemingly lasted all day, but it could not have been more than 15 minutes.

"It's a stifling effect," Hedrick said. "You can't breathe, you can't see, it's frightening."

Cellhouse officer James Wagon said he didn't know of any disturbance prior to the gassing.

He said there was a great deal of apprehension among the guards at the time.

He said he didn't feel gassing of inmates in their cells was justified, but he would have gassed them if he was under orders.

The government again requested that jurors be allowed to tour parts of the prison and U.S. District Judge Joseph Morris took it under advisement. He denied a similar request Tuesday concerning other areas of the prison.

COMEBACK

Baldwin, Royse Repeat Marriage Vows In Seven O'Clock Ceremony

The United Methodist Church of Pampa was the setting Thursday, July 3 at 7 p.m. for the exchange of nuptial vows by Miss Laurie Baldwin and James L. Royse.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Lloyd V. Hamilton, pastor.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. H. Creel Grady Jr., 2421 Duncan and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Royse, 2244 Christine.

"Lohengrin's Wedding March" by Wagner was played for the processional and the "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn, was played for the recessional. Organist was Mrs. J.E. Gunn and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Shackelford were vocalists.

The background of white summer flower arrangements and a large rainbow candelabrum formed the setting for the wedding. Clusters of candles and garlands of greenery decorated the communion rail and the bridal aisle was decorated with tall standards of white pom pom chrysanthemums and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta designed with a fitted empire bodice and sheer Victorian yoke. The neck and yoke were re-embroidered with floral lace appliques and pearls. The skirt fell to a deep ruffle with the back fullness cascading into a cathedral length train.

She carried a moonlight bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, white roses and ball pom poms. Miss Lou Ann Wise, Pampa, was maid of honor and bridesmaid was Linda McMurray of Borger. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Scott Baldwin, sister-in-law of the bride, Amarillo and Mrs. Bobby Trolinger, Pampa.

Ushers were Scott Baldwin, David Stockstill, Dale Teague and David Dunn, all of Pampa.

Miss Wise and Linda McMurray distributed silk organza filled with wheat instead of rice which was harvested from the bridegroom's first wheat crop.

The couple will reside in Pampa where the bridegroom is engaged in farming and ranching following the Santa Fe, N.M. wedding trip.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Pampa High School, attended Amarillo College and is presently employed at Security Federal Savings and Loan Association.

For her wedding, the bride chose a formal gown fashioned of soft organza lined in taffeta. Styled with a square neckline, the lace empire bodice featured long sheer sleeves ending with wide lace cuffs at the wrists. Hints from Heloise

Heloise

Dear Love:

I am an old widower who's crippled and tired, with no vim or strength left, and it's hard nowadays to get my garbage can to the street on garbage collection days.

One of my tiny little neighbor boys, who all have young mothers and fathers, came to my rescue the other day.

He had outgrown his skate boards... and, behold, if they didn't make a frame to fit the bottom of my garbage can, and he plopped the garbage can on top of it.

Now all I have to do is push the can down the drive to the sidewalk and when it is emptied, just push it back up again.

My blessings upon the youth of today. I only wish that every neighbor had neighbors like mine. And I do wish that you were one of mine, too, Heloise.

Great grandpa, alone

Oh, you are so sweet, kind sir! Know what I would do? I'd do right now?

I'd make you a cup of coffee with cocoa mix that comes in a package, and we would have a jolly good time... and push your garbage can.

Eh, what?

Dear Heloise:

They are quick and last quite a while.

Area Farmers May File For Soviet Wheat Sale

More than 5,000 area wheat farmers may have the opportunity to file class action suits seeking damages of more than $200 million allegedly lost as a result of the 1972 wheat sale to Russia. This will be the next step in lawsuits filed by Joe Zinser of Deaf Smith County, John Spearman of Curry County, N.M. and Edgar Cleveland of Altus, Okla. Wheat producers filed against Continental Grain Company and Clarence Palmy, a vice president of the company who was an assistant secretary of agriculture of the United States when the sale was being negotiated. Chief U.S. District Court Judge Fred Daugherty, Oklahoma City, has ruled that the lawsuits by the three farmers are class action suits and that the three can represent

What A Tomato

A trip to his uncle's farm near Clarendon about a year ago resulted in a new hobby for 12-year old Darrell Bolin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendel Bolin of 1018 E. Francis. Darrell planted these tomato plants in early May and one has risen to a height of almost 49 inches, including 4 1/2 inches of growth since last Sunday. "I have no idea when I'll use them to eat because it seems like they just aren't ever going to stop growing," young Bolin commented. (Pampa News photo by Mike Higgins)

Livestock May Eat Cottonseed Meal

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — A University of Illinois animal nutritionist says cottonseed meal, peanut meal and sunflower meal may provide a portion of the answer to lower costs of plant protein supplements in livestock feed. Dr. D.H. Baker, a recipient of the American Feed Manufacturers Award, was one of more than 20 speakers at Texas Tech University discussing the swine industry, ranging from the future to diet and management practices. "Soybean meal is rich in lysine; an amino acid essential to growth," Baker said. "Most other plant source proteins, while generally less expensive than soybean meal, are deficient in lysine. Cottonseed meal, peanut meal and sunflower meal are no exceptions. The extent to which other oil seed meals may be used in swine rations to replace soybean meal depends upon replacement quantities of lysine, the availability of lysine supplements and the presence or absence of growth-inhibiting substances." Baker believes cottonseed meal is the oil seed meal choice for replacing soybean meal. Although it contains only 60 percent as much lysine as soybean meal, it still is richer in the

New Agriculture Office To Investigate Grain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department employees have been told to shunt all questions about a broad investigation of grain inspection scandals to a new central departmental office, a spokesman says. Members of Congress as well as newsmen, grain industry groups and others who approach officials for information will be affected by the new directive, he said Wednesday. The memo from assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Feltnier said the agency, working with the Department of Justice, currently is investigating aspects of the storage, grading and shipping of American grain. Twenty indictments charging bribery and other offenses in connection with grain grading already have been returned in New Orleans and Houston, and investigations

Rex McAnelly Says Cattle Market Boom 'May Level Off Awhile'

By THOM MARSHALL Pampa News Staff Fat cattle prices that began a couple of months ago to climb out of a two-year slump should level off for awhile, according to Rex McAnelly of Moody Farms Feed Lot. He said Thursday that he expects 100 pounds of fat cattle to be worth $45 to $50 for some time before the market price goes back down. "No one could tell me when it was going up," McAnelly said. "So I don't know who would know when it's going down. If anybody does, they could sure make a lot of money." But McAnelly figures that at some point the market is sure to leave the boom period for another bust. "I've been in it (cattle business) for 28 years and I've never known it to be any other way," he said. "You can adjust to the weather, but can't adjust to these politicians." Moody Farms Feed Lot currently is operating at about 40 percent of its 17,000 head capacity. The whole Panhandle area is less than 50 percent capacity right now, McAnelly said. He said that there isn't a shortage of cattle, but there is a shortage of finished cattle "because of the number of feedlots that got into embarrassing financial situations" during the recent slump. "I think the cost of choice beef should stabilize in the forties," McAnelly said. "Grass beef may be a lot cheaper." He said that "the biggest problem that we've got right now" is fighting the attitude about prices that comes when people shop at grocery stores. "They have to pay for everything right then and there," he said. "They have to dig out the cash or write a check. If they buy a house or a car or many other things they pay for over a period of time they don't notice that the prices are always going up. They never go down. But paying for food is different. They are always very aware of any price increase." Another problem that cattlemen are having is money. Because of the long and severe bust period, "A lot of that Eastern money has evaporated from the feedlots," McAnelly said. The feedlot manager said he doubts if there will be any wheat fed to Panhandle fat cattle any time soon. That is the prediction in other parts of the country. "I doubt if we'll be feeding any wheat," he said. "If we have the corn crop and milo crop it looks like we're going to have feed will be cheaper this fall." McAnelly was asked about recent criticism from nutritionists and sociologists who claim that feeding grain to cattle is a waste of protein that could help feed the world's starving people. "Meat protein is the most desirable that's ever been created," he answered. "All we have done, we've taken an animal that's gained 75 percent of his weight out eating grass and things that nobody would get any good out of otherwise, and we just finish them with the mulling that gives them the desirable taste and flavor." McAnelly defended cattle feeding even more and said, "We use many products that people couldn't eat in finishing the cattle - cotton seed hulls, alfalfa hay, by-products from the sugar industry, by-products from the corn industry. So most people, when they criticize cattle feeding, just don't know all the facts." He said that he looks for the 50 percent of capacity figure prevalent in area feedlots to climb. "For two years previous to April and May nothing made a profit," McAnelly said. "If prices stay where they are now, feedlots will gradually fill back up. If the price doesn't stay at a fairly decent level, in the first place the cow and calf producer will be out of business, then the feedlots will go and then the grain farmer will be drastically hurt."

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS One Carson County dry land farmer has just completed the third straight bumper harvest of wheat on approximately three and one-half sections of land. He has been farming the land for three years. Former operators of the same land threw in the towel after having had only one or two fair crops over a period of 20 years. Harvesting of the 1975 crop of irrigated wheat is rapidly nearing completion despite the intermittent summer showers that have dotted the area for the past month. One irrigation farmer put the pencil to the wheat harvested on Monday of the past week and found that the yield from this particular section of land was averaging out at 55 bushels per acre. During the late spring of 1973 many farmers began to fear that the rain was going to arrive too late to save the dryland wheat. The rains did arrive, although a little late, and the dryland yield in 1975 will probably exceed that of 1974. The overall profit from dryland wheat in 1975 will exceed that of irrigated wheat. It appears that we may be experiencing a minor change in our normal weather pattern, yet when we study the rainfall of the Panhandle area since 1898 we conclude that we are going to return to a scanty rainfall period. In 1957 the extreme drought that lasted nearly seven years came to an end. The 1975 rainfall greatly relieved the pumpage from our underground reservoir. The 1975 decline in the static water table will reflect the decline of water pumped for irrigation. The rainfall also has cut down the cost of the monthly bill for natural gas used for irrigation. Proposed weather modification legislation during the 1975 session of the Texas Legislature ran into strong opposition from groups of people in the High Plains area. The criticism was so strong that area legislators shied away from sponsoring any weather modification legislation. An evaluation of weather modification activities in the Texas High Plains, was prepared by a team of six scientists of Texas A&M University, working under contract for the board. Project leader was Dr. James R. Scroggins, associate dean for research in the University's College of Geosciences. Cloud seeding to reduce hail began in the region surrounding Littlefield and Plainview in 1970, and has continued there during each spring - summer - fall season to the present. Sponsoring the operations are two organizations of farmers concerned with the high risk of hail damage to cotton and other crops - Better Weather Inc., of Littlefield, and the Plains Weather Improvement Association of Plainview. Clouds are seeded in these operations by releasing very fine particles of silver iodide into the updraft area at cloud bases, using aircraft equipped with flares that dispense the silver iodide. Hopefully, countless small ice crystals, rather than large hail stones, then form in the cloud. To evaluate results Dr. Scroggins' team analyzed by computer the available rainfall data in the block of 14 High Plains counties, and numerous statistics on crop damages from hail in this area for 1970 - 75 provided by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, and the Crop - Hail Actuarial Association. The investigators found remarkably little effect on crop yields from these cloud seeding operations, a sharp contrast with results reported in some states which have different cloud types and weather systems. The report, for example, notes that threefold to fivefold increases in rainfall from seeding isolated clouds has been reported in South Florida and Arizona, and a 25 - percent increase in snowfall from seeding clouds in mountains of some of the Western States. In the Littlefield - Plainview region the effect of cloud seeding has been so small that based on the available data, no effect could be discerned. The research team emphasizes that this does not prove lack of any effect, particularly in view of the extreme variability of natural rain and hailfall, as official rain gages are sparse, and only four years of hail data were available. To help make the new report conveniently available to interested parties, the Water Development Board has furnished copies of Report 193 to County Agents in the 14 counties that were studied. Deaf Smith, Randall, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Floyd, Hale, Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, and Crosby.

The Texas Air Control Board also has several other regulations concerning other types of air pollution, permits for construction and operation of possible air pollution sources, and air pollution emergency episodes. Pesky Pinkeye Problem Improved By Practices

Pinkeye is a serious problem in some beef cattle herds during the hot Texas summers. The disease can cause considerable weight loss and even the loss of sight. There is no cure - all for pinkeye but there are several practices which you can follow to help reduce pinkeye problems, according to Layton Barton, assistant county extension agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Clipping pastures before seedheads develop on grass is one practice that helps. These seedheads may irritate the eyes of cattle and increase the chances of pinkeye infection. Flies spread some kinds of pinkeye. Barton recommends repeated spraying of the faces of cattle with Clodrin insecticide to control face flies. Dust bags, face wipers and backrubbers also help in controlling flies. Locate them near or on the salt box, on the way to water, or in shaded loafing areas. An adequate amount of Vitamin A helps keep eyes healthy. Good pastures generally provide enough Vitamin A. Where dry weather is turning pastures brown, supplementary Vitamin A should be provided. Separate animals with pinkeye from the herd and treat infected eyes with an antibacterial preparation. Keep infected animals in a well-ventilated area. Covering infected eyes will protect them from light and foreign matter and will speed recovery. A simple patch made of burlap and held in place with rubber cement seems to be effective. If treatment does not improve conditions, consult a veterinarian, suggests Barton. Viral diseases such as IBR may be the cause of pinkeye. Your veterinarian can recommend a vaccination program for controlling such diseases. Studies have shown that calves with pinkeye weighed considerably less at weaning time and as yearlings when compared to calves the same age without pinkeye. Thus, controlling pinkeye can pay with increased profits at market time, Barton said.

Sword of the Lord National Conference

D.R. JOHN R. RICE

DALLAS — Coming to Dallas Aug. 3-6 is a National Conference on Soul Winning and Revival sponsored locally by the independent, fundamental pastors and churches of the Dallas and Fort Worth area and nationally by "The Sword of the Lord," a Christian publication with 300,000 weekly circulation. The conference will be held in the 10,400-seat Dallas Convention Center.

For a similar conference last August the 7,500-seat Convention Center in Indianapolis was packed with Christian workers from nearly every state, three provinces in Canada, from Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Japan, Korea, Mexico, and Australia. Fundamental pastors and churches invited Dr. John R. Rice, editor of "The Sword of the Lord," to bring such a conference to Dallas. These churches are pledging a 300-voice choir and will give up their own Sunday night services, Aug. 3, bringing 200 bus loads of their people to the Dallas Convention Center. Local Dallas and Fort Worth pastors will be presiding chairmen in the two services each morning and evening with Evangelist John R. Rice as general host.

The afternoons from 2 to 4 p.m. will be taken up with seminars, workshops, and lectures on soul winning, church bus ministry, young people's work, church administration, work of Christian women, soul winning by laymen, and Christian day school.

The conference is offering 20 cents a mile expenses for buses from churches far and near to bring 30 people or more and remaining two full days at the conference. Last year one charter bus came all the way from San Angelo, to Indianapolis. It is expected buses and chartered planes will bring many.

Rev. Abraham Will Hold Christian Services Today

In the absence of Dr. Ralph T. Palmer, Rev. Alan Abraham will be the preaching minister today for both the morning and evening services. He has chosen the topic "Prayer, God's Miracle for Communion with Him," Matthew 7:7-11 for the morning service and "Eternal Life... God's Design for Destiny," Mark 10:28-30 for the evening service.

Rev. Abraham was born in Pittsburgh, Pa.; ordained at Monte Vista Christian Church, Albuquerque, N.M. on July 7, 1963; and married the former Christine Pierce of Pampa in July of 1964. They have four children, Kevin, Kathleen, Kimberly, and Kelly.

Rev. Abraham received his B.A. from TCU in 1960 and his B.D. from Yale Divinity School in 1963. He has been Associate Minister at the Midway Hills Christian Church in Dallas, pastor of the First Christian Church in Tulsa, First Christian Church in El Dorado, Ark., and is currently pastor at the Heights Christian Church in Houston.

Rev. Abraham is chairman of Heights Meals on Wheels; Vice-Chairman of Houston Heights Tower, a high rise apartment complex for senior citizens sponsored by Heights Christian; and All Saints Roman Catholic Churches; and Chairman of Coastal Plains Area Reconciliation Steering Committee which is the allocating committee for the Brotherhood's Reconciliation program in this geographic area.

Rev. Abraham is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Pierce of Pampa.

An investment in Your Future

...ATTEND CHURCH

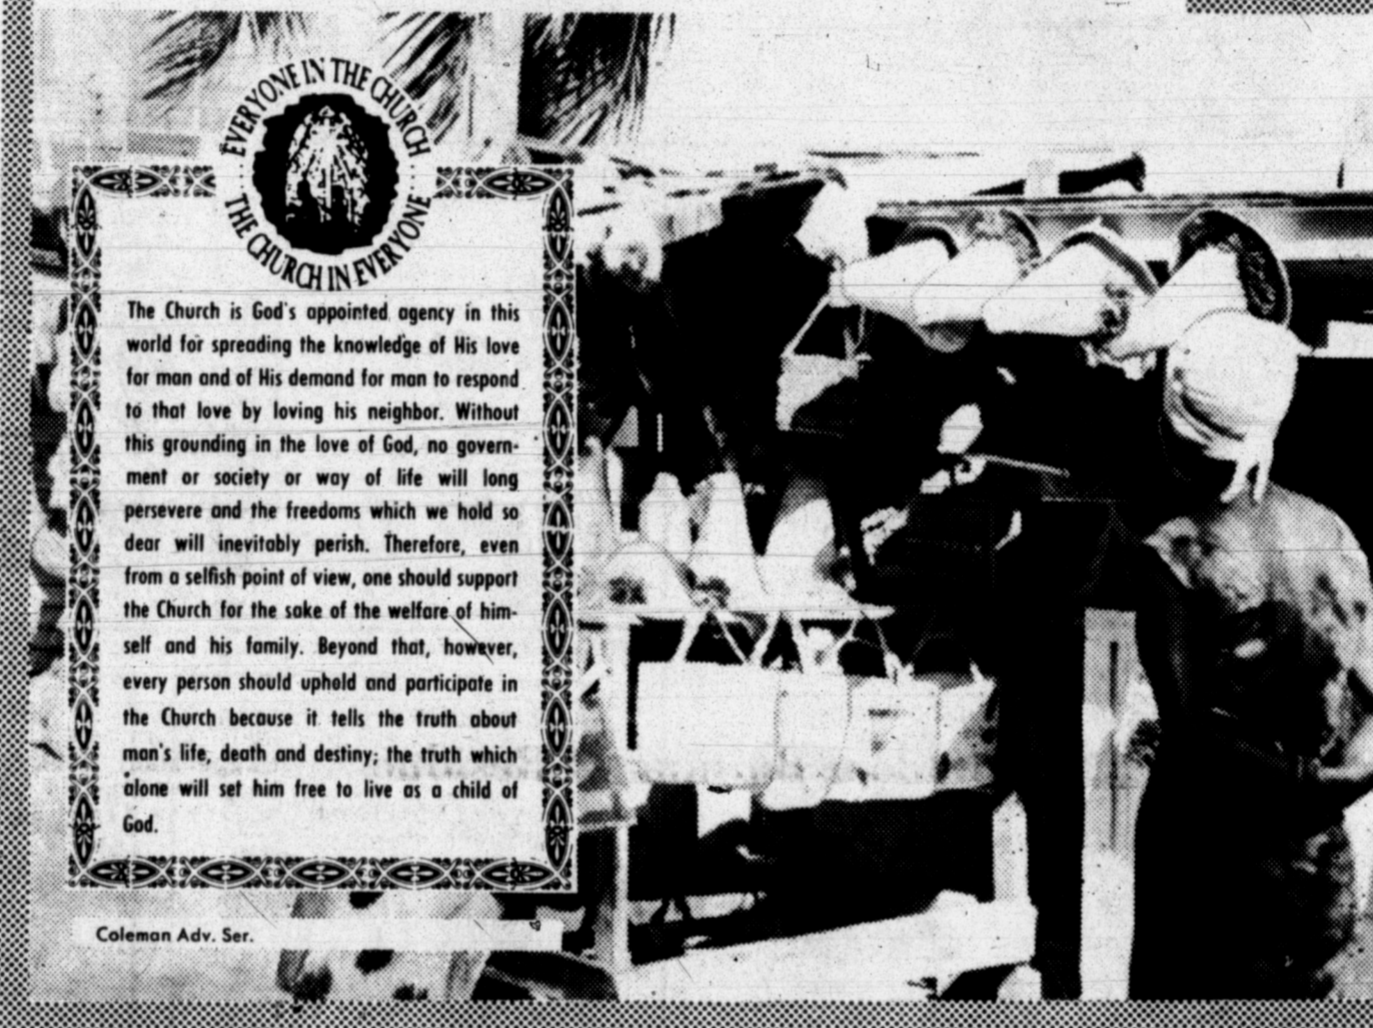

A HAT WOULD BE SO MUCH COOLER!

She must go to the native market for her physical needs. The straw hat would be so much better than the old scarf tied and knotted about her head. Sweet, cool air could come through that straw and that would feel so wonderful in this heat!

Where does she go for her spiritual needs? Is there a church on the island? Does she know that she will be told about a great God there who will help her, guide her, and refresh her?

How fortunate we are in this country that there is a church in every community. Spiritual help, refreshment of soul, fellowship and love awaits all who enter her doors. We invite you to attend Church this week.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

All-Stars To Meet Favorites

Leon Peeler, manager of the Pampa Babe Ruth all stars says his team won't be making the trek to the district tournament at Elkhart, Kan., next week with the idea they're going to breeze past everybody.

Particularly since they must play Borger in the first round at 4 p.m. Monday, Borger is an overwhelming favorite, say district coaches, to win the tournament.

"We're going up there knowing we'll have to play good ball to win," said Peeler, whose Ideal Food Store team won the Pampa Babe Ruth championship with a 12-2 record. "I don't think our kids will be up for the first ball game and especially Borger."

"You always like to beat the toughest opposition first."

Pampa won the tournament quite handily a year ago. Borger coach Ralph Grimmer hopes his team will have an equally easy time this season.

"I'm real pleased with the team," Grimmer said. "It's one of the better teams Borger's had in several years. We had quite a few of these boys on the all-star team last year. It's an extremely big team."

The words reflect Grimmer's confidence and Peeler hopes that it is overconfidence.

"I feel like we've been looking good enough," the ideal coach said. "If we get pretty good pitching and hitting and play pretty good defense, we can stay close. I think we have a chance."

Pampa did those three things last week in a 13-6 win over the Spoilers, who were comprised mostly of 14-year-old all-stars and a few 15's who weren't chosen for the all-star team.

The all-stars (Peeler's, that is) collected several hits (no official record of the game was kept), including triples by Gary Free, Richard Wuest and Randy Edmondson. Solid defense and pitching kept the surprisingly tough Spoilers from upsetting the all-stars.

The Spoilers led 2-1 early in the game and the outcome was in doubt until the eighth inning, when the all-stars took a 10-3 advantage.

"I thought we played pretty good," Peeler said. "I thought they did, too, especially when the left-hander (Ricky Marsh) was on the mound."

Marsh of the 14-year-old all-stars went the first four innings and left the game with the score tied 3-3.

Tim Reddell was the sharpest of the all-star pitchers, striking out the side on the fifth and sixth innings. Also pitching were Gary Dumas, Gary Free, Kevin Muns and Mark Coufal. Zach Adcock is the sixth all-star pitcher and could see action in the district tourney.

Dumas and Dale Ferris are battling for the starting catcher spot. Either Dumas or Larry Craig will start first base.

Second baseman is Danny Williams, a late addition to the all-star team. "He's a real good defensive player. He's hiding down second base and he hits the ball in practice," Peeler said.

Shortstop is Joe Jeffers, one of the three 14-year-olds on the team. The others are Bobby Taylor, who will likely start at third, and leftfielder Richard Wuest.

James Schaub is the top utility player for the all-stars and may see playing time at one of the infield positions.

Armando Soto and Randy Edmondson will probably start in centerfield and right, respectively.

Borger infielders will likely be Doug Sahli at first, George Bell at second, Jim Ollis at third, Bo Darden at short and Jeff Yarbrough behind the plate. Probable starting pitcher against Pampa is Rathan Cotton, who was 6-2 during the regular season and hurled Huber to the Borger Babe Ruth championship.

Other pitchers for Grimmer's all-stars are Johnny Plumbley, Tommy Watson, Sahli, Ollis and Greg Fleming.

Fleming and Darden are the only 14's on the team. Last year, the bulk of Borger's lineup was 14-year-olds.

Thus, this year's crop of 15's will have experience in its favor. The older players, two years ago, won the district 13-year-old tournament.

"I think we've got excellent hitting and pitching. We've got some real big boys in the team—Plumbley and Watson, Cotton, Jim Ollis and Johnny Cantrell," Grimmer said.

Grimmer's Huber team tied with Popular Supply for the National League championship in the Borger league and edged Popular 12-10 in a playoff. Huber then trimmed American League champion Jaydee 1-0 for the league championship.

The Pampa league is not divided. Ideal finished one game ahead of Ford's Body Shop (10-3) in the standings.

Babe Ruth All-Stars

Pampa's Babe Ruth all-stars who will be in tournament play this week at Elkhart, Kan., are (sitting from left) Zach Adcock, Danny Williams, Bobby Taylor, Gary Free, Dale Ferris, (kneeling) James Schaub, Joe Jeffers, Armando Soto, Tim Reddell, (standing) Richard Wuest, Gary Dumas, Mark Coufal, Randy Edmondson, Larry Craig and manager Leon Peeler. Will Allen Love Story Last?

By BILL WEURDING
Copley News Service

PHILADELPHIA — Perhaps it's only the imagination of an outsider looking in but there still seems to be a touch of doubt in the air here.

Nobody admits to it, of

Twins 5, Texas 4

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Eric Soderholm singled home Rod Carew in the eighth inning Saturday to give the Minnesota Twins a 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers, winner 7-6, for a run in the second when Mike Hargrove singled, advanced on a walk, and scored on Mike Cabbage's single. Ray Howell homered in the third to give the Rangers a 2-0 lead.

Tribe 12, Sox 2

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Buddy Bell drove in six runs with a pair of home runs — including his second major league grand slam — and a double Saturday afternoon and George Hendrick smacked his 15th homer to power the Cleveland Indians to a 12-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Bucs 5, Cubs 4

CHICAGO (UPI) — Richie Zisk belted two homers and the Pittsburgh Pirates survived a four-run ninth inning threat Saturday to score a 5-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Jim Rooker, now 6-4, gained the victory despite running into trouble after going into the ninth inning working on a three-hit shutout.

Orioles 5, Yanks 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee May's two-run single capped a three-run seventh inning Saturday to rally the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-2 victory over New York, handing the Yankees their seventh consecutive defeat.

Mark Belanger and Ken Singleton opened the inning with singles off starter and loser Rudy May, now 7-5. Roy White then took a home run away from Bobby Grich, catching his drive towards the leftfield bullpen, but Belanger took third on the play.

Tigers 3, Brew 2

DETROIT (UPI) — Rookie Tom Veryzer singled up the middle to drive in two runs with two out in the fourth inning and Vern Ruhle made it stand up with a six-hitter Saturday for a 3-2 Detroit Tiger win over the Milwaukee Brewers.

In the fourth, Dan Meyer walked, Willie Horton singled and Bill Freehan walked to load the bases with nobody out. Loser Jim Colborn, 3-7, struck out Jack Pierce before Leon Roberts lifted a sacrifice fly to score one run.

course, because there is too much at stake. Dick Allen is that valuable a baseball player when he's in the right frame of mind.

So practically every day you read positive stories about the Philadelphia Phillies' $225,000 gamble from many of the same writers Allen used to ignore and despise.

And you hear nothing but praise about the "new" Allen from his teammates, some of whom were victims of his bitterness and discontent during the late '60s.

Meanwhile, the man who used to receive unbelievable abuse from the fans presently is drawing the biggest ovations, though his batting average is hardly deserving.

Clearly, it all adds up to one of the greatest turnabouts in baseball history if it lasts. But that's the intriguing part. That's the real issue. Will it last?

Allen suggested it would when he came out of retirement a few weeks ago, assuring everyone that his turbulent past was behind him. He said all the right things at a news conference, claiming to be more grown-up, wiser and very eager to get back into baseball and help the Phillies win.

Yet, one still has to wonder if Allen can ever really find prolonged happiness in baseball in light of all that has happened to him during his career.

The incident which apparently led to all his woes came about in 1965 when he and Phillies' teammate

Frank Thomas had a memorable run-in around the batting cage.

Reportedly, Thomas started it by getting under Allen's thin skin once too often with a couple of verbal barbs. Allen retaliated with his fists and then Thomas countered with his bat.

"The next day Thomas was released," recalled public relations assistant Chris Wheeler, "and things were never quite the same for Allen after that."

"Part of the problem was Thomas had had a fine year in 1964 and had become a very popular player around here."

"And, because Thomas was white and Richie black, a racial thing was made out of it, too."

As logical as Mauch's decision was, however, it did little to enhance Allen's popularity in the years to follow and his attitude began to reflect the strain.

Soon Allen withdrew from his teammates, the media, the fans and even his managers and developed his well-known image as a gifted but moody athlete nobody could handle.

Pampa 14's To Host Babe Ruth Tournament

The Top O' Texas Babe Ruth League has announced it will play in the Pampa Optimist Club 14-year-old Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament July 21-26 at Optimist Park.

That gives the Pampa tourney a seven-team field, which includes the host Pampa 14-year-old all-star team.

Teams entered besides Pampa and the Top O' Texas League are Pampa's 13-year-old all-star team, Borger, the High Plains League and two Amarillo teams.

Teams comprising the Top O' Texas League are Perryton, Follett, Booker and Darruzzett.

Optimists Starting League For Girls

Girls between the ages of 15 and 18 will register for an Optimist Club softball league Tuesday through Thursday at the club building.

The league will probably be comprised of between four and six teams.

The High Plains League consists of White Deer, Skellytown, Groom, Panhandle and Claude.

Pampa and one Amarillo team are co-favorites to win the tournament, which is the first of its kind sponsored by the Pampa Optimist Club.

The Amarillo team is made up of all-stars from two YMCA teams. One of the teams finished 16-0 for the regular "Y" season, while the other was 14-2.

Pampa's 14-year-old all-stars are managed by Paul Sims. Coaches are A.C. Thompson, Bill Hoover and Chuck Hall.

The Pampa all-stars are Jeff Copeland, Buddy Brown, Tracy

Munro, Julian Clark, Kerry Adair, Kevin Hall Rich Dougherty, Bret Moore, Greg Koch, Mark Nichols, Tim Quarles, Ricky Marsh, Jim Jefferey, Doug Baird, Steve Stout and Jimmy Hammer.

The Pampa team is scheduled to play Borger twice this week. Times have not been announced.

The Pampa 13-year-old team, playing basically the same lineup in each game, Saturday captured the championship of the district 13-year-old tournament at Perryton.

Manager is Darrell Woods; coaches are Emmett Wallar and Ivan Stone.

Gold Bug Bids On Federal Bar

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John Faigle has had a love affair with gold since the 1940s when he bought 2,000 shares in a Philippine gold mining company.

"They told me I was nuts. I bought at three-eighths or some damned thing. I sat on it for a few years, sold it and made a nice gain."

Faigle is now 72 but the gold fever lives on. Several weeks ago, he decided to bid for one 250 ounce bar in Monday's government bullion sale.

Later, the general Services Administration telephoned his Rehoboth Beach, Del., vacation home to say he was a winner.

The official selling price was $165.05 per ounce. That means Faigle has to come up with $41,262.50.

"I had the spare money and I thought it was as good a place to put it as anywhere else," Faigle said in a telephone interview.

Faigle, a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, now owns and operates a 23-acre industrial park near Beltsville, Md. He does not claim to be a commodity trading expert and knew he was in fast company in the gold auction.

The "big boys" as he calls them included international banks and commodity traders. Swiss Bank Corp. of Zurich, for example bought 140,000 ounces, more than one-quarter of the entire 500,000-ounce offering, for which it paid $23.1 million.

But Faigle wanted his gold so he took an unusual tack. He submitted a bid in the name of his wife Elizabeth, at the apparently absurdly high price of $182 an ounce. It was the highest offer of any of the 758 bids received.

But under terms of the sale, the Treasury set a cutoff price, and all successful bidders paid that amount, even though their original offer was higher.

"I knew the government was going to establish a base price and I figured that some of the big boys would be in on that basis," he said.

The bids were counted Monday night and by the next morning, Faigle was anxious. "I took my bicycle and rode no-handed down the boardwalk and bought the newspaper. The first thing I saw was that the sale was oversubscribed."

"I rode home and told my wife: 'Elizabeth, you put in the high bid.'"

Faigle calls himself a conservative investor—"I don't believe in mortgages"—but he is realistic about his gold.

"I look at it like a stock. It could go up or down."

His gold bar weighs 17 pounds and is 7 inches long and four inches wide. Faigle said he probably would take personal delivery next month at the Federal-Reserve Board's assay office and transfer the bar to his safe deposit box.

Asked if he was worried about security, Faigle chuckled. "When I pick it up, I won't be alone," he said.

BIG THREE
NEW YORK (UPI)—Count Basie, Ella Fitzgerald and Frank Sinatra will combine their talents in a spectacular at the Uris Theater Sept. 8-20. The engagement will not be extended because each artist has commitments to fulfill immediately after the two-week run.

Anderson's Western Wear

Dorothy Hollis and Christy Oxley

"The nicest people in the world shop here," Mrs. Flossie Anderson believes. "We have had customers from as far away as Peru and Canada."

Before opening Anderson's Western Wear 18 years ago, the Andersons were in the leather business. "We had a big shoe repair store and we wanted to add something to it. We couldn't think of anything nicer than western wear," she said.

"Eighteen years ago we were introduced to people as the western store with the carpet on the floor, now everyone has it," she said. "We have always enjoyed a good business with nice clients!"

The store is at 123 E. Kingsmill. "I've had people tell me that they had been in our store and missed seeing me, and that makes me feel good," Mrs. Anderson said.

Mrs. Anderson believes that it is the people that make the business and people that make her enjoy it.

Pampa is a good place to live, and the people are the best part about it," she said.

According to Mrs. Anderson the Top of Texas Rodeo always brings them more business. "I can't see how that will be possible this year," she said. "Our business has been up every month this year. I don't see how it can go up any higher."

"This building had been vacant for 15 years when I bought it," Marlin Gee reported. "We did a lot of work on it to get it to where it is today." The building, built in 1929, according to Gee was a dance hall for a number of years. Thompson's Hardware also occupied the building.

Gee had been a carpet contractor since 1957. He began laying floors for R.J. Hughs. In March 1974 he decided to open Fashion Floors, 321 W. Kingsmill. Gee felt that things balanced out when he opened the store. "I have longer hours but I don't work as hard during an hour."

Gee has lived in Pampa for 33 years and believes he has probably laid floors longer than any one else in Pampa.

"I like Pampa because I know everybody," he said.

According to Gee, people like to redecorate one room at a time, usually beginning with the living room or den. Once they have seen the change, "They usually come back for another room."

Gee explained that the most popular shag at the moment is the sculptured shag. "It has that luxury look with less trouble than a long shag does," he said.

He went on to say that much of the carpet now a days has nylon and other synthetic fibers in it.

Fashion Floors sells an average of 2,000 yards of carpet a month. "We are the largest retail carpet store in Pampa," said Gee. "Our business has been good ever since we moved in and it is still good."
