Japan To Meet Kidnappers Demands

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Japan announced it would meet the demands of the Japanese Red Army terrorist group which shot its way into the U.S. Embassy here today, seized 40 to 50 hostages including five Americans and threatened to kill them.

The dreaded terrorist group demanded the release of seven Red Army men jailed for their parts in massacres, hijackings and other violent acts in Asia, Europe and the Middle East. They also asked for a Japan Air Line DC8 to fly them to refuge in a country of their choice—probably the Middle East.

Hikomori Kawashima, deputy chief cabinet secretary, told a news conference in Tokyo that "priority must be given to the protection of lives... and (the government) is ready to accept the demand." The Red Army already had killed a Malaysian policeman and wounded another in seizing the embassy. The Swedish Foreign Minister in Stockholm earlier had sent a message to Japan urging it to take "any steps that can be made" to save the lives of the hostages.

Japanese government officials said Japan Air Lines has been asked to ready a DC8 jetliner at Tokyo International Airport to depart for Kuala Lumpur.

The officials at the special headquarters set up at the prime minister's office said the Japanese ambassador to Malaysia was in contact with terrorists to confirm their demands.

The officials said the Malaysian government has been informed of Japan's intention to follow Kuala Lumpur's judgment with regard to the terrorists' demand.

JAL said it has set up an "emergency bureau" at its operation center at the airport to coordinate with the government in dealing with the situation.

The Japanese government set up a special office in Tokyo to deal with the incident and accused the extremists of carrying out the attack to undermine the talks beginning in Washington Tuesday between President Ford and Japanese Premier Takeo Miki.

The Red Army group, which has carried out such acts of violence as the Lod massacre that killed 26 persons at the Tel Aviv international airport in 1972, demanded the release of seven members of their group and a Japanese Air Line DC8 plane to fly them to safety.

The terrorists threatened to begin shooting their hostages by 5:20 p.m. (5:50 a.m. EDT) unless the Japanese government accepted their demands. Japanese officials were in telephone contact with the terrorists and the deadline passed without the feared mass execution.

The terrorists did fire two shots into the street below to emphasize their determination, hitting near a firetruck and scattering a dozen reporters and photographers standing nearby. They had wounded two Malaysian guards, one fatally, when they shot their way into the 12-story building earlier and hit another policeman when they fired out the windows later.

The terrorists were holding U.S. consular official Robert Stebbins and four other unidentified Americans, the Swedish Charge d'Affaires Fredrik Bergenstrahle, Bergenstrahle's secretary, four Australians, a Japanese and a number of Malaysians.

Firemen were moving spotlights and other fire-fighting equipment to the ground floor of the embassy building then the shots were fired, and it was believed that activity provoked the shooting. Police ringed the building and crowds of curious were held back several hundred yards.

Shortly after the latest shooting incident Malaysian Communications Minister V. Manickavasagam arrived at the scene. He told newsmen he had come to negotiate with the terrorists on behalf of the Malaysian government. He was escorted inside by police.

Arriving behind Manickavasagam were three more truckloads of police reinforcements. Newsmen at the scene estimated that some 400 riot police were now in the vicinity.

In Tokyo Deputy Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda said the government would take U.S. intentions into full account in dealing with the terrorist attack.

Fukuda told a news conference that Prime Minister Miki, now in Washington for talks with Ford, was seriously concerned over the incident. Ford was flying back to Washington tonight for the meeting.

NHK, the Japan Broadcasting Corp., said the People's Front for Liberation of Palestine, a radical Palestinian guerrilla organization, relayed the Red Army's demands in a telephone call to the NHK office in Damascus, Syria, today.

NHK said the Red Army refused to negotiate with the Japanese government before it agrees to provide aircraft for their safe conduct out of Kuala Lumpur with seven comrades now jailed in Japan.

The Sky Is Falling

Mrs. Irene Dodd, a worker at the Gray County Planned Parenthood Clinic at 615 E. Elbert, said she felt like Chicken Little ("The sky is falling.") Wednesday when the ceiling at the Planned Parenthood office fell in. The doll she holds fell from the attic.

Meet Cancelled; Ceiling Fell In

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

The planned parenthood clinic set for next Thursday has been cancelled because the ceiling fell in at the Planned Parenthood office at 615 E. Elbert.

Mrs. Irene Dodd, one of the workers in charge of the office said that Wednesday, after "we'd just had clinic and we were working on the end of month reports, it just all fell in."

Mrs. Dodd was struck by something and rendered unconscious "for awhile." She had no concussion or broken bones, she said, just "a knot and a couple of abrasions." But she spent two days in the hospital and still is under medication for headaches.

She coughs, too. And Georgia Kelley, the other full-time worker at the office coughs. They say it's from breathing the dust and insulation that filled the air when the ceiling fell.

The insulation in the attic, the plaster board, the light fixture, a lot of dust, and an old doll all came crashing down.

"The ceiling all looked okay before," Mrs. Kelley said. "There weren't any cracks or anything. It just fell in all at once. There wasn't any warning noise or anything. We couldn't tell if a tornado went by or what."

The Planned Parenthood Clinic is located in an older house that had been remodelled for the office.

"We now have a trailer at the same address, next to the office," Mrs. Dodd said. "Patients are asked to come by the trailer—there is no telephone service yet."

She said that notice will be given when the clinic meetings can be resumed.

"We're waiting for word from the district office in Amarillo as to our next step," Mrs. Dodd said.

FBI Takes Control Of Hoffa Probe

DETROIT (UPI) — The FBI today moved in to take control of the investigation into the disappearance of former Teamsters President James Hoffa. Extortion demands received during the weekend turned it into a federal case.

Authorities declined to disclose the nature of the demands, and there was no official indication Hoffa was still alive and being held for ransom.

Hoffa has been missing since Wednesday, when he was last seen outside a restaurant where he had told his family he was meeting three men for lunch.

The extortion demands gave federal agents the violation of federal law they needed to actively enter the case. The FBI took over from a two-man local detective bureau.

FBI director Clarence Kelley issued a statement in Washington Sunday saying "extortion communications have been received in connection with the disappearance of Hoffa and accordingly the FBI is assuming jurisdiction."

One FBI source said two notes had been received, one by the family and one by a Hoffa associate, both saying: "You saw what happened to him. You're next."

But Hoffa's daughter, Mrs. Barbara Crancer, said the demands Kelley referred to "did not involve members of the family."

Mrs. Crancer had appealed to Kelley for FBI help Friday.

"We certainly appreciate everything the local police have done," she said. "But now you need the federal government."

Rumors abounded as to the reasons for Hoffa's disappearance. At the center of most of them was Hoffa's bid to regain union power — an attempt that has been marked with scattered violence in Hoffa's old springboard to international power, Local 299.

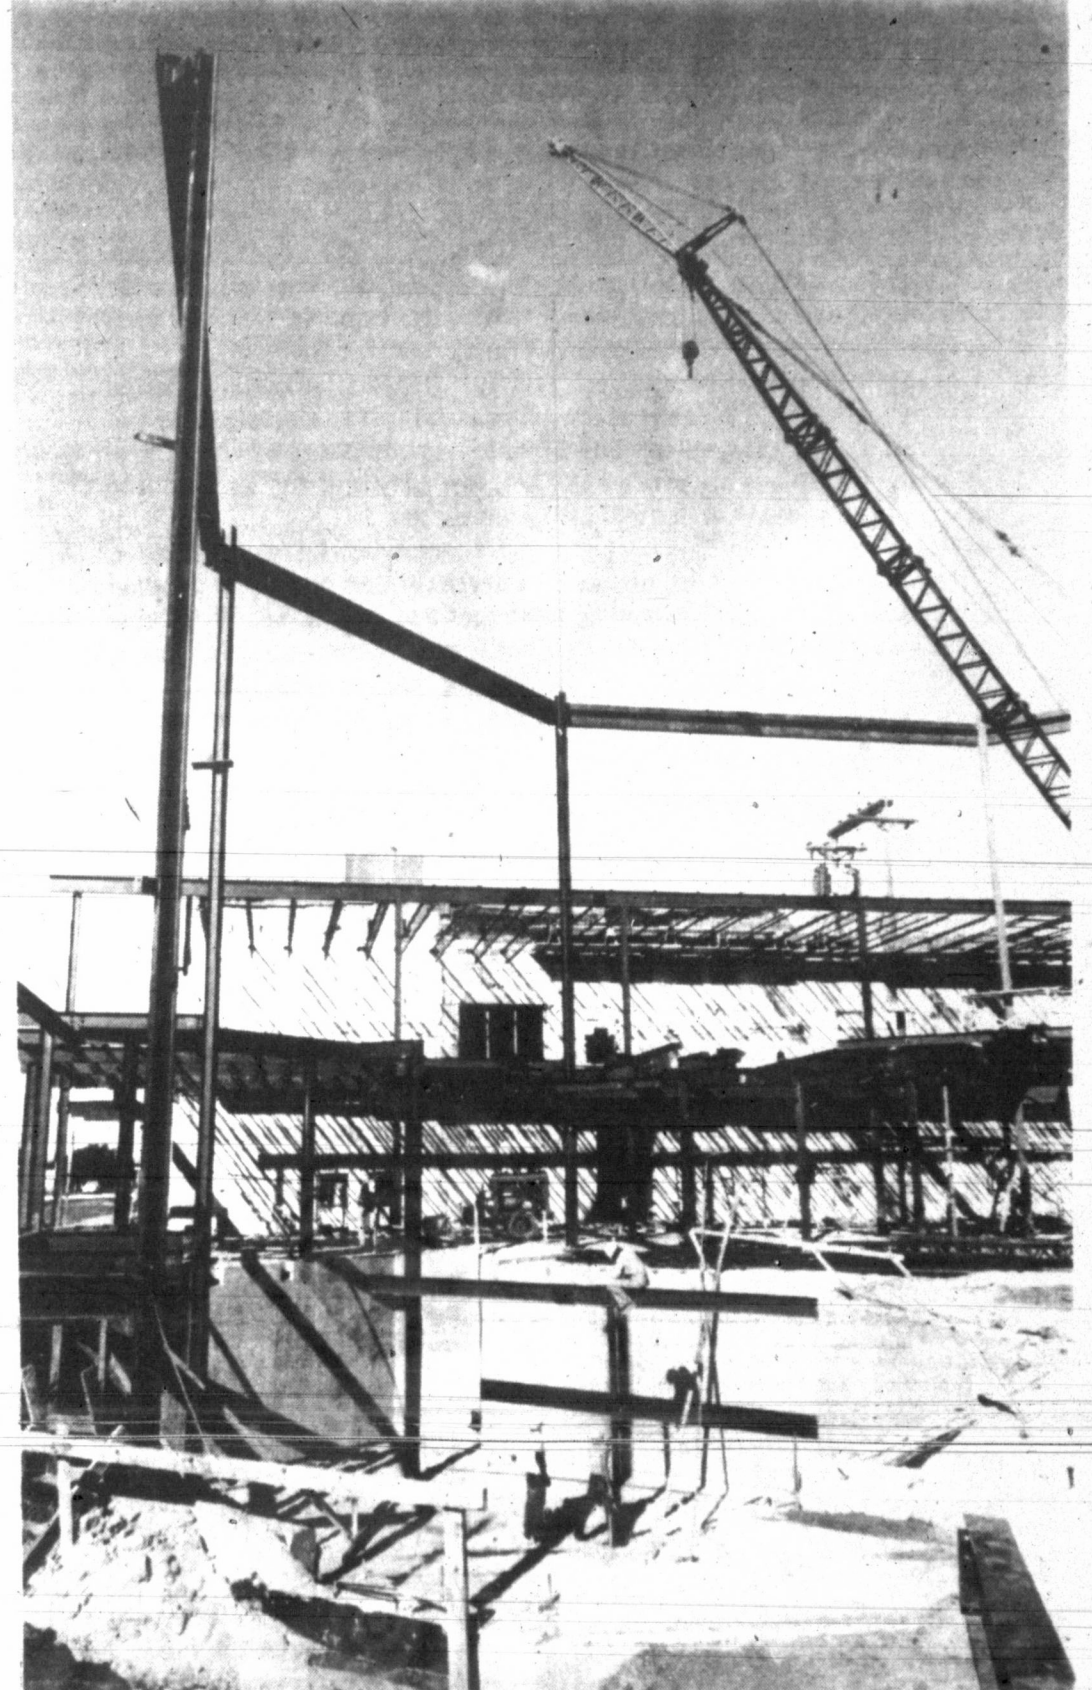

Hoffa was last seen Wednesday afternoon standing outside a fashionable Bloomfield Township restaurant where he told his wife and others he was to meet three men for lunch.

On his way to the restaurant he stopped at an airport limousine service in Pontiac in which he had a financial interest and told two employees who he was going to meet.

The employees at first were unable to recall the names. One was induced to remember by a psychiatrist-hypnotist brought in by the Hoffa family.

The names he recalled were Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone, reputed Detroit Mafia kingpin; Leonard Schultz, a Detroit labor consultant; and Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano, a one-time prison confidante of Hoffa and former East Coast Teamsters boss.

Giacalone and Schultz both denied they were to meet Hoffa. New Jersey police said they interviewed Provenzano Sunday at the request of Michigan authorities, but declined comment on the results.

Going to Rise Again

Construction which began in January is progressing at the First Baptist Church of Pampa at Kingsmill and West. A January 23, 1973, fire prompted the new $1.5 million facility. "We hope to be in the new building by this coming Easter," said George Warren, minister of education at the church. The construction is being handled by Ramey Construction of Amarillo. Mahan Led Bronc Ride; Rodeo Attendance Up

By PAMPA NEWS STAFF

The crowd at the Top O' Texas Rodeo Saturday was "just about double what it was a year ago," said Dr. Kenneth Roysse, president of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association.

He termed the entire four-day run a success.

"As far as I know," he said, "everyone liked the announcer, they liked the acts, they liked the stock and they liked the fast pace of the rodeos."

Attendance at the rodeo dances also was reported up over last year. Dr. Roysse said that about 800 attended the Saturday night dance, compared to about 600 a year ago.

"We're going to have a little money left in the bank for next year," Dr. Roysse said.

The Pony Express Race held nightly during the rodeo between the Leather and Lace Riding Club and the directors of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association ended in a tie with two wins each for the teams. Plans are to hold the races again during the 1976 rodeo performances.

Performers in the rodeo events were competing for $3,465 plus entry fees.

Saturday's Results

Bareback Bronc — Steve Patterson, 51; Karl Kenner, 60.

Call Roping — Dave Eastlake, 12.3; Mike Pettigrew, 12.3; Johnny Edmondson, 11.5; Ken Rockenbaugh, 10.7; Kim Gripp, 18.5; Jim Reeves, 13.6; Steve Holey, 10.6; Gordon Taylor, 23.5.

Saddle Bronc Riding — Mark McCloy, 63; Ben Rogers, 59.

Steer Wrestling — Mike Pettigrew, 11.7; C.A. Lauer, 9.5; Bob Denny, 19.4; Marty Varner, 21.1; Jim Richardson, 5.8; Ben Rose, 6.1.

Girls Barrel Racing — Linda Rockenbaugh, 16.5; Mary Spurgeon, 16.9; Betty Bentley, 16.8; Kay Greenhouse, 22.5; Leslie McLain, 16.6; Marion Pool, 17.0; Jody Freeman, 17.3; Lisa Burrell, 16.6.

Bull Riding — Taos Cribbs, 66; Tom Stout, 61; Vern Smith, 67; Wayne Hall, 63.

Final Standings

After two rides, Larry Mahan, six time world champion, all around cowboy, led the bareback bronc division of the rodeo with 133 points. First go winner was Gary Tucker of Carlsbad N.M. who had a 60. Mahan led the second go with a 66.

Gary Ledford of Comanche, Tex. was the event leader in calf roping with a 20.0.

Paul Mitchell of Dallas scored 135 points in the saddle bronc category to lead that division after two rides. He was the second go winner with a 60 time. First go winner was Kirby Warner of Brighton, Colo. with a 68.

Matt Mills of Texola, Okla. was the first go winner in the steer wrestling division and Jim Richardson was the second go and C.A. Lauer was the third go winner.

In the girls barrel racing competition, Rene Sutherland of Gate, Okla. as the first go winner and Gail Petska of Tecumseh, Okla. and Synda Dudley of Perryton were the second and third go winners, respectively.

Tied with 127 points each, Rick Jones of Wayne, Okla. and Marvin Schulte of Nazareth were the event leaders in the bull riding section. First go winner was Randy Magers of Comanche and second go winner was Schulte.

Roysse said that planning already is underway for the Top O' Texas Rodeo Celebration for 1976.

E.O. Wedgeworth, secretary of the rodeo association and manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said that the city's celebration next year "will be bigger than ever."

Weather

Fair skies and mild temperatures is the forecast for today through Tuesday. Temperatures will range from the upper-80s to the low 90s, dropping to the 60s tonight.

Rare Session Convenes

By ANDREW A. YEMMA
UPI Capitol Reporter

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — The Texas House of Representatives today gathered in a rare session to consider the impeachment of District Judge O.P. Carrillo, a key figure in the corruption-ridden Duval County political system.

Speaker Bill Clayton officially convened the House at 10 a.m. and said the session could be concluded "within a few hours" if the representatives act diligently. Others, however, have predicted it could last several days.

In an opening address, Clayton defended the session against charges by some representatives that the session is a waste of tax money. He quickly overruled several points of order seeking to stop the session on technicalities in House rules.

"We must meet our responsibility as set out in the Constitution and the law of this state," Clayton said.

"With the same type of determination and dedication shown in the 64th regular session (which adjourned June 2), I am sure that the House will dispense with its responsibility and can be adjourned within a few hours."

Carrillo, a small, 50-year-old jurist, is accused of using his position to remove political enemies from office and replacing them with his allies and of stealing Duval County funds and services.

The impeachment session is the third in the last century and the first since 1931. Only one elected official—Gov. James E. "Pa" Ferguson in 1917—has been impeached, convicted and removed from office under the present Texas Constitution.

Each representative was given a 90-page report of the impeachment committee to study prior to the session. Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, the chairman, assigned committee members to explain each of the impeachment articles and the evidence to back them up.

Moreno has estimated the impeachment proceedings, including a Senate trial, could cost the state $1 million, while the Judicial Qualifications Commission could dispose of the case within the limits of its $60,000 a year budget.

Rep. Terry Canales, D-Premont, who represents Duval County and is a political foe of Carrillo, convinced the House to intervene in the political war which engulfed the South Texas county this year. Carrillo and his family have been openly battling the family of deposed County Judge Archer Parr for control of the commissioners court, the Benavides School Board and the water district board.

Parr, nephew of the late George P. "Duke of Duval" Parr, is in jail in San Antonio facing a prison term for conviction on perjury charges. Carrillo is under indictment on federal income tax evasion charges and faces trial in September.

At Canales' behest, House Speaker Bill Clayton appointed a special 11-member committee which began hearings in May and voted July 16 to recommend impeachment of Carrillo on 11 specific articles. The committee called dozens of witnesses in 21 days of public hearings and compiled over 3,500 pages of transcribed testimony and 160 separate exhibits of evidence for the House.

Jobs, profits and taxes

The answer to unemployment, of course, is jobs.

And a healthy business community provides jobs.

That is the rationale behind the intent of President Ford and his advisers to ask Congress for a cut in corporate income taxes, as outlined by Treasury Secretary William Simon to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Congress, despite an influx of new members elected last year during a national "anti-Establishment" mood, is receptive if not enthusiastic. The lawmakers are well aware that unless business regains its health, more and more of their constituents will be out of work.

As conceded by Simon, however, convincing the American people that business tax cuts are in their own best interest will require "an enormous educational job." Dismayed over reports of massive oil company profits and caught up in a wave of consumerism, the public generally is unsympathetic to corporate woes.

But inflation has made the profit picture illusory. Uncertainty has made business officials cautious and investors wary.

Investment funds and profits

— the stuff upon which expansion plans are built — fall far short of the trillions of dollars estimated as necessary to reach a national goal of 16 million new jobs over the next decade.

Reduced corporate taxes would boost corporate profits and entice more corporate investors.

Capital is the force that creates new factories, plant additions and demand for new machines and facilities.

But the capitalistic United States now trails most other nations in percentage of dollar production invested for growth and expansion.

Government shares the blame. A series of deficits in the federal budget has forced heavy federal borrowing, depriving business of lending sources and boosting interest rates. The private spending that can be translated into jobs has been stifled.

Government can take corrective measures with a constructive approach to business-tax reform and by adopting new spending habits. The ultimate message to be conveyed to the recently skeptical public is that living standards can rise only to the extent that business grows and prospers.

The IRS and us

The Internal Revenue Service has admitted that it has conducted a program to collect and computerize undercover information on the sex lives and drinking habits of citizens.

The most notorious example was "Operation Leprechaun," conducted in the Miami area because it was believed Miami was a watering hole for racketeers as well as a spawning ground for local corruption.

If we had a list of those selected taxpayers upon whom the Internal Revenue Service spied, we might recognize the names of some disreputable characters.

But that is not the point. If we allow shady characters to be deprived of their privacy without a warrant, soon every upstanding citizen will be subject to the same kind of government snooping.

The IRS is an agency of vast power. It can legally pry into the most personal and private corners. It can pore over bank records and demand proof of every relationship. It can back up its power with knowledge stored in banks of computers. Its scrutiny of the citizen can be inexorable.

It is necessary to have an IRS but it is necessary to keep it on a tight leash.

The ultimate abuse — as we know from the Watergate tapes — is to use the apparatus of tax collection for political purposes.

Then anyone who dares to oppose government policies stands in danger of IRS surveillance and harassment. The paid informers and the computer banks stand at the service of partisan politicians.

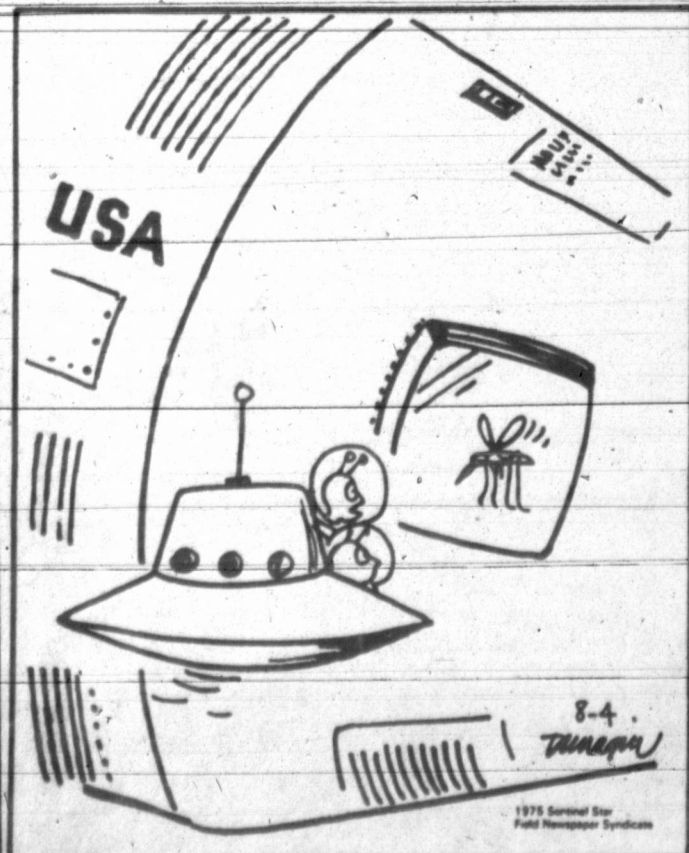

America's admirable system of self-assessed income taxation then becomes a system of tyranny.

That it happened once is enough. The IRS must be pulled up sharply and told to keep its computers out of capers such as "Operation Leprechaun."

Greek legend tells that Amphion played the flute so finely that an assortment of stones danced into walls and houses of their own accord, forming Thebes.

THE NEW DESPOTISM Another Threat To Freedom

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
The use of massive governmental power to compel equality of condition is one of the most disturbing aspects of our era. Unless Americans awake to the threat inherent in income redistribution schemes, freedom in the United States may be destroyed.

A timely warning of this threat was voiced recently by Dr. Robert A. Nisbet, Albert Schweitzer Professor of the Humanities at Columbia University. Addressing a convocation at Rockford College in Illinois, Dr. Nisbet pointed out that there is an effort under way in the United States to undertake a massive and revolutionary redistribution not only of income and property, but also of position and learning.

For example, the federal government clearly attempts direct income redistribution with tax laws. So-called Affirmative Action programs recolor and language group, rather than qualifications. A further example is the food stamp program which creates a privileged class of recipients who obtain groceries at the expense of self-reliant citizens. This is a conscious process.

Dr. Nisbet quoted Prof. Christopher Jencks of Harvard who wrote: "We need to establish the idea that the federal government is responsible not only for the total amount of national income but for its distribution." Dr. Jencks added that in order to achieve the measure of equality he desires "we will have to establish political control over the economic institutions that shape our society." This is what other societies call socialism.

Prof. Nisbet warns that this new equality can only be achieved by making Big Government bigger. He told his audience at Rockford: "The effort to legislate, to mandate a moral value upon a large and variegated population is an effort that has to proceed, as history makes clear, through ever greater infusions and extensions of power."

In other words, the new equality can only be achieved by curbing or eliminating liberty. As Dr. Nisbet pointed out, "Bureaucracy by its nature prizes uniformity."

For Big Government to insist on equality behind equality before the law, which all Americans approve, must involve an assault on vital differentiating liberty. Total equality is impossible in a truly free society, for people are unequal in their abilities and energy. If government takes everything from the able and energetic and transfers it to the unqualified and the indolent, liberty is destroyed. Moreover, a great injustice has been committed.

Thus the theorists of income redistribution, favor an unjust society, a society in which men and women do not get their due. Indeed, for this reason, a socialist society is an inherently unjust society in which freedom cannot exist.

Dr. Nisbet makes a strong case for liberty vs. the new equality of redistribution. The average American, the man in the street, can readily understand his message and the morality behind it. When property owners get their tax bills, they understand that they are the victims of tax thievery. The new equality, which is the rationale for federal handout programs, is, in fact, the new despotism.

Washington Window Most American People Think Government Lies

By IRA R. ALLEN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public opinion surveys show about two-thirds of the American people think their government lies to them pretty consistently.

So it should come as no surprise that someone in Congress has introduced legislation to make one of mankind's oldest vices, lying, illegal. Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., chairman of the liberal Americans for Democratic Action, got 49 other members of the House, most of them liberals along with a few moderate Democrats and Republicans, to cosponsor his measure.

It would provide a five-year prison term and $10,000 fine for a public official, appointed or elected, convicted of publicly lying.

"Honesty has become a one-way street," said Fraser, in announcing his novel approach to truth-in-government. "Under current law, it is a crime for a private citizen to lie to a government official, but not for a government official to lie to the people."

A Fraser aide said the congressman did not introduce the bill just to make a point — he is serious about it. But Fraser's approach, if truly serious, is fraught with problems.

First of all, there are already crimes for officials' lying. They are called perjury and libel, depending on the circumstances. But to apply criminal sanctions to the white lies that are so much a part of politics and the malicious lies that some see as necessary to maintain power seems a blatant violation of the First Amendment.

Second, how would such a law be enforced? Who would decide to prosecute, and who is the Solomon who could decide what is a lie and what is not, especially in politics. You might wind up with every potential presidential candidate in jail for the oft-repeated line, "I haven't decided whether to run. I'm just testing the waters" while his campaign committee is lining up support.

Enforcement — even selective enforcement — would cause a backlog that could boggy the judicial system beyond even current stagnation of justice.

Third, lying is part of the game of politics and government and perhaps should be at least as far as personal or partisan politics go: just like the 24 major league baseball managers who affirm every spring, "This is the year we'll win the pennant."

The daily statements from 535 lawmakers are usually taken with more salt than can be found in Siberia anyway. Having everyone tell the truth under penalty of law could just confuse the situation. If people expect their leaders to lie, why should they believe the truth?

Fourth, and perhaps least important, government lying provides the social and professional livelihood of thousands of honest, hard-working Washingtonians, namely those who go to cocktail parties and work for news media. Both kinds of people thrive on lies; receiving them, sorting them out and determining who is telling the truth.

If there are sanctions to be taken against official lying outside of perjury and libel, there is quite an effective court in which to handle the matter. The best judges of honesty in government are the people who with the flip of a voting machine lever can send the violators up the river to years of obscurity.

The Whole View and Nothing Butt

DEAR ABBY: Every year, our section of four neighborhood homes is subjected to a disgraceful display of an uncovered rear end of a 68-year-old woman who plants her pansies in this position. She wears a very short dress and bends from the waist instead of stooping or crouching. I once told her how comfortable slacks are, and she laughed into a tirade about how unfeminine they were. Her garden is in full view of our patio, and we can't entertain or sit out there because this woman ruins the view. Would you please comment? Sign this, "SEEN IT ALL"

DEAR SEEN: The direct approach is usually the best one. Why not tell your neighbor frankly that if she doesn't like slacks, she should wear a longer dress while gardening.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a 55-year-old wealthy president of his own company. During our 22 years of marriage, he has felt the need to consult periodically with psychiatrists.

I have never even met any of his shrinks and many times wasn't even aware that he had been seeing one until after his therapy was completed.

My husband is highly motivated but can't do anything in moderation. This applies to golf, taking medicine, exercising and everything else he gets involved in.

Now he says he has a new shrink who has advised him to forget his wife and two teenage children, and to "do his own thing."

I'd like to know what in the hell this doctor thinks my husband has been doing for the last 22 years without any interference from me.

Your advice would be greatly appreciated.

MARYLAND

DEAR MARYLAND: I seriously doubt that any psychiatrist worth his salt would advise a patient to "forget his wife and family and to do his own thing."

Ask your husband to ask his psychiatrist to set up a series of three-way sessions between husband, wife and doctor to discuss where matters stand. It might even turn out that there is no psychiatrist!

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with Della for nearly a year. We have a lot in common, and I've even considered marrying her, but there is a problem.

Whenever we get into an argument (usually about politics), she gets very angry and she bites me! Della has bitten me on the cheek and also on the hand. When she bites, she actually draws blood!

Does she need help?

ONCE BITTEN

DEAR ONCE: Yes! And if you don't get help (medical) after having been bitten by a human, the effects can be serious. (A human bite can be more dangerous than that of an animal.) Della's obvious inability to curb her temper is symptomatic of a deeper emotional problem.

Soviet Grain Buy May Hike Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Undersecretary of Agriculture John Schnitker foresees a 10 per cent increase in food prices in 1976 if the Russians are sold as much U.S. grain as they are believed to want.

So far, the Soviets have purchased 9.8 million tons of wheat, corn and barley. They are widely expected to purchase another four or five million tons because of a severe Russian drought.

Schnitker, who served in the Johnson administration, says before the Russians started buying he had calculated that food prices next year would increase only 5 per cent. If they buy another five million tons — or if drought in the U.S. corn belt persists for the next 10 days — food prices would rise by 10 per cent next year, he said.

He testified Friday at a Senate permanent investigations subcommittee hearing. His view puts him at odds with Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, who predicts only "minimal" food price inflation arising from the new grain sale.

Sen. Robert Dole, from wheat-growing Kansas, says rumor, oversimplification and error about the sale's impact dropped the selling price of wheat by 30 cents a bushel in 48 hours "and the value of the drop in Kansas alone has declined $125 million."

Schnitker urged the government to discourage any further sales until mid-September or October when the size of the U.S. harvest will be better known. He said the Aug. 11 crop report is not a sufficient monitor.

On July 7, 1975, Parliament passed an act for the naturalization of Jews.

14 Students Visit Pampa

Fourteen high school students are camping across the nation to earn school credit. The group will be in Pampa Saturday on their experimental class called "Traveling Through America."

The Pampa High School Key Club is helping the group and hopes to show them local farms, ranches and other attractions.

The group, from Lake Penton High School, Fenton, Mich., chose Pampa for its study because of the size, local key club representatives said.

They are trying to meet local people to compare life styles and get acquainted, they added.

Baby Boom

Meredith Horton, four months old, is unaware that she is one of 224 babies born this year at Highland General Hospital. The birth rate is apparently increasing in Gray County. Meredith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Benny Horton III of 1917 N. Zimmers.

Births Increase Here

By ANNA BURCHELL, Pampa News Staff
Births are increasing in Gray County — for the first time in 10 years.

During the first five months of 1975, Gray County's birth rate was up by eight basketball teams. The total was 175 compared with 135 at the same time in 1974. During the first six months of 1975, Highland General Hospital recorded 224 births as compared with 335 during 12 months of 1974.

The largest number of live births for Texas in one year was recorded in 1957 — a total of 249,567 new babies. Last year, there were 221,900 births recorded in this state.

The number of births in Gray County has been declining fast over the past 10 years — a drop from 900 annually to slightly more than 300 last year.

Two more first graders are expected to enroll in Pampa schools in August than in January — moving first graders from 337 to 339.

"It looks like we are beginning to hold our own," Dr. Dan Long, superintendent of schools, remarked.

Texas Commissioner of Health Dr. J.D. Peavy said maintaining records of current births for this state is a mammoth task. One thousand registration officials are required to collect the birth and death records alone, he said.

However, those records provide valuable information for state use.

The data, he said, is transferred from records to magnetic tapes and a computer converts them into tabulations.

"This information enables statisticians to read and interpret the very pulse of the state's health," he said.

The Census Bureau in Washington says American women are having fewer children than at any time in the nation's history. However, the bureau predicts that United States population will continue to grow for a few more generations.

The bureau put the 1974 birthrate at 14.9 per cent per 1,000 persons — the same as the previous year and the lowest level ever.

Texas Economy Turns Upward

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Statistics are beginning to show a midsummer turnaround in the economic picture of Texas and the nation, says Bryan Adair, research associate with the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"Stock prices, long recognized as a leading indicator, have been rising for several months. Housing stocks, which saw a through late last summer, have experienced a rebound, many individual stocks having more than doubled during the last nine months," Adair said.

He said lumber orders for Southern pine have also increased, indicating an upturn in construction activity.

"These figures still fall short of the 1971-73 order volume, but the change in demand during the spring of 1975 indicates that the consuming industries are already involved in a relative upswing, mild as the upswing may be," Adair said.

Building permits issued in Texas during June were up 16 per cent from May, but still below the level of the same month last year. Values of both residential and nonresidential construction gained in June, but the most significant gain was a 25 per cent increase in nonresidential building permits. Permits for additions, alterations and repairs in June were up 42 per cent over June of 1974, and were also up for the first half of 1975.

"It is apparent that many users of both residential and nonresidential buildings have decided to upgrade their present premises rather than to purchase new quarters," Adair said.

He said this indicates many consumers will not be in the market for new buildings until 1977 or later.

"On the other hand, the trend indicates that positive decisions are being made with respect to building projects, decisions that are necessary before a dynamic revival can occur in the industry."

Adair predicted the single-family housing industry, depressed in Texas for more than two years, should experience a strong revival by early next year.

Malaria, a disease thought to be under control a few years ago, has been making a violent comeback, especially in India, according to the Health Insurance Institute.

Farm Prices Haven't Caught Up with Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet grain orders have boosted some farm prices in recent weeks, but government surveys show that those prices still haven't caught up with the past year's advances in farmers' bills for things like gasoline, fertilizer, machinery, pesticides and shoes for the kids.

A monthly Agriculture Department report last week showed that the average of all farm commodity prices rose 3 per cent in the month ending July 15, partly because Russian demand boosted prices for wheat, soybeans and corn, but also because the smallest pork supply in a decade sent hog prices up sharply again.

Overall, the farm price average was 6 per cent above a year earlier. But a companion index of farm production costs showed no change from June to July, but a companion sub-index of farm family living expenses rose 1 per cent for the month.

Breakdowns of the cost index show that the farmers who were averaging 6 per cent more than a year earlier for their crops and livestock were paying 8 per cent more for motor supplies including gasoline, 3 per cent more for livestock feed, 20 per cent more for motor vehicles including tractors, and 26 per cent more for farm machinery.

Other increases included 10 per cent for building materials, 72 per cent for fertilizer, 12 per cent for general farm supplies including pesticides, and 6 per cent for seed.

The only major farm production materials group showing a decline was an index of feeder livestock which farmers buy from ranchers to fatten into grain-fed beef. Prices for these animals were 5 per cent below a year earlier — a cut in production costs for some producers which was offset by a cut in earnings for ranchers who raise the feeder animals.

The Agriculture Department's overall index of farm costs rose 0.5 per cent from mid-June to mid-July to reach the 11 per cent above a year ago level. A sub-index of farm production costs showed no change from June to July, but a companion sub-index of farm family living expenses rose 1 per cent for the month.

Inside the family living index, breakdowns showed farmers in mid-July were paying 11 per cent more than a year earlier for the food and tobacco they buy in retail stores. They were also paying 11 per cent more for household furnishings and 10 per cent more for clothing and textiles, including shoes.

Agriculture surveys of farmer spending on gasoline showed growers paying a national average of 57.9 cents a gallon for fuel bought at filling stations compared with 52.1 cents in April. For gas bought in bulk from tank trucks, farmers were paying 52.4 cents a gallon in mid-July compared with 46 cents in April.

The survey showed the lowest bulk gas price in the nation were in Texas where farmers reported an average price of 45.4 cents in mid-July, and in Louisiana and Oklahoma where prices were 50.2 and 50.3 cents.

Kalka Family Has Reunion

The Kalka family met for its second reunion July 20 in Thompson Park, Amarillo; 90 descendants of the Charles Kalka family attended.

Mrs. Sam Mazurek, John Kalka, Amarillo, and Eddie Kalka, White Deer are three of the four remaining children.

Other local folks attending included: from White Deer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Warminski, Doug and Alan, Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Haidul, John Kotara III, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Haiduk, Bradley and Jeffrey, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Wyatt, Isabel Urbanczyk, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Urbanczyk, Alvin Kalka and David, Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Kotara; from Panhandle, Mrs. Mina Kalka and Johnie, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Labus and Lynette, Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Haiduk, Ronnie and Pam, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kalka, Toni, Karen, Kevin and Nechole; from Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kotara, Kemberly, Steve, Mark and Brain, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Braddock, Kerry, Kevin and Lisa.

Groom Schools Meet

The Groom Independent School will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the superintendent's office to set the tax rate and adopt the official budget for the coming year.

The tax rate is scheduled to be $1.36 per $100 valuation with $1.13 for local maintenance and 23 cents for debt service.

Other items for consideration include bids on mil. oil, gas filters, flats and other needs for the 1975-76 school year.

— Bus driver applicants
— Set the price of meals and milk
— Consideration of a contract with Thomas Y. Pickett Co., industrial appraisal.
— Appoint a deputy tax assessor collector.
— Sign a contract with the coach.

Contracts Let For Highways In Panhandle

Contracts totaling more than $1.7 million for road constructions in Hemphill, Wheeler and Oldham counties, has been awarded to two Amarillo firms by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

Ivan Dement Inc. was awarded a $456,543 to build Farm to Market Road 3303 in Hemphill and Wheeler counties. Low bidder at $1,267,927 for work on U.S. 385 in Oldham County was Cooper and Woodruff Inc.

James A. "Jiggs" Ullom, resident, engineer at Canadian, will supervise the FM 3303 project. Now a graded dirt county road, it will be paved from where it intersects FM 277 in Hemphill County, south a distance of 6.2 miles to where it intersects FM 1046.

The road serves considerable oil and natural gas related activities in Hemphill and Wheeler Counties. The project will take about eight months to complete.

U.S. 385, currently a two lane roadway, will be widened and strengthened from 12.7 miles north of Vega northward 4.6 miles. Completion date is scheduled late in 1976.

Reunion Planners

The Pampa Army Air Field Reunion Association has set the third annual reunion for Saturday in M.K. Brown Auditorium. About 100 reservations from over the nation have come in. Open house is set for 7 p.m. Friday in the Coronado Inn for early arrivals. Making plans for the get-together are Fred W. Brook, left, a former flight instructor now serving as association president; Mrs. Eddie Marx, former host engineer secretary; and Quenton Nolte, who was chief clerk at the cadet training center. The air base closed 30 years ago.

Ford Demands Mideast Peace

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Ford said today he hopes for world peace would be dashed by a Middle East stalemate, and called for moderation and flexibility by Arab and Jew to help achieve a settlement.

On the last day of a 10-day visit of summitry and friendship in Europe, Ford met for nearly two hours with Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, then issued his Mideast statement.

Shrugging off any weariness from his grueling capital-hopping trip, Ford shortly after dawn went jogging through sloping gardens overlooking the Danube and took a dip in a chilly pool at the presidential palace.

Tito consistently has been critical of Israel and in a speech at a state dinner Sunday night called for Israeli withdrawal from Arab territories. He startled reporters by saying after today's meeting that Yugoslav and U.S. views on the Middle East "are quite identical."

Tito's statement evidently caused consternation in Ford's party, and White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen quickly sought to dispel any notion the President had adopted Tito's hard-line stand toward Israel.

"There is no change" in the U.S. position on the Middle East, Nessen said. "The United States is encouraged that President Tito, as a leader of the nonaligned world, does have an apparent positive attitude toward our views."

Nessen said Ford simply restated the U.S. public position that stalemate in the Middle East increases the likelihood of war. He said Ford also raised the possibility of reopening the Geneva Middle East conference if current attempts at a step-by-step settlement between Arabs and Israelis fail.

Tito said the talks took place in a very cordial and constructive spirit.

He said both men found their bilateral relations good, "but we agreed they could be better, and we will expand them."

Tito said the leaders agreed the international economic situation was very serious.

After hearing from Ford and Kissinger about the attitude the United States will take on the international economic situation a special session of the United Nations, he said, "I think we are hopeful the action will be successful at the special session."

Tito said Ford's visit "has been a very successful one, and has enabled us to get to know one another better."

Before meeting Tito, Ford met for breakfast with Premier Dzemal Bijedic, then planted a "tree of peace" in a Belgrade park.

Betty Ford, obviously fatigued from the rigors of the difficult but often festive 10 days in Europe, canceled part of Sunday's activities in Romania. But she appeared to perk up a bit Sunday night, engaging Tito in lively conversation at a state dinner given by the 83-year-old Yugoslav leader.

Today she was spending time with Tito's wife, Jovanka Broz.

Despite the essentially working character of the Yugoslav visit, Ford's schedule gave him an opportunity between talks for a brief walk through the city center. He also was to plant a "tree of friendship" and receive a golden plaque of the city.

U.S. officials said Ford wanted to press Tito to use his leading position in the non-aligned movement to play a moderating role in the split between Third World and developed nations.

"We have been distressed by the intransigence and irresponsibility reflected in some of the discussions of vital issues at the United Nations forum," Ford said in a dinner toast Sunday.

The officials said Ford wants Tito to use his influence to moderate pressure from pro-Arab nations that have drafted a motion to expel Israel from the U.N. this fall.

Tito said in Helsinki last week Yugoslavia, despite its pro-

Arab stance, would not support such a resolution.

In his toast, however, Tito repeated his frequent calls for Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory.

"Israel ... should withdraw from Arab territories as soon as possible and accept the legitimacy of the national rights of the Palestinian people, including the right to establish an independent state of their own," Tito said.

U.S. officials said that with NATO's crumbling military position in two Balkan nations to the south of Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey, Ford wanted to reassure Tito of America's support for Yugoslavia's militarily independent position outside the Warsaw Pact.

Police Report Vandalism, Theft

Pampa Police Department officers found 15 cars in the 1200 and 1300 blocks of Garland and Starkweather Sunday night with lights on.

Juvenile boys had turned the lights and emergency blinkers on in all unlocked cars in the area, according to the report.

Other incidents reported to police over the past 48 hours included vandalism, theft, prowlers and mischief.

One case of theft where two boys took tapes, players and an antenna from a pickup has been cleared, Police Chief Richard Mills said today.

The theft report was made by Byron Thomas of Allison who said he and a friend caught two boys taking the items. They escaped on foot — leaving a vehicle, he said.

Chief Mills said Lt. J.J. Ryzman traced the two from the automobile license.

Personal recognition bonds were set.

Prowlers were reported by a number of residences, and officers kept close checks on the homes.

A local residence was entered at 519 N. Frost where the owner found furniture turned upside down in the living room, the bed torn up and curtains pulled down.

Pampa Youth Breaks Leg In Accident

A Pampa youth, Kenneth Wayne Meaker, 16, of 941 S. Farley was in satisfactory condition this morning at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo where he is being treated for two broken legs.

The youth was injured Sunday night in a motorcycle-automobile accident in the 700 block of North Hobart.

He and Debra Lee Hall, 15, of 403 N. Ward were treated at Highland General Hospital in Pampa. She was released and he was transferred to the Amarillo hospital.

Skydiver Takes Chuteless Dive

DALLAS (UPI) — A skydiver whose experimental parachute collapsed 60 feet above the runway at a suburban airport died of his injuries last weekend at Parkland Hospital.

The victim was Donald Prince, 24, of Dallas. The accident occurred at 1 p.m. Saturday and he died nine hours later.

Tony Wilcox of the Dallas County medical examiner's office said Prince jumped from a plane at 7,000 and floated normally under the experimental parachute until near the ground. At 60 feet, he made a sharp turn to avoid some power lines and the chute collapsed.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, looking grim as he walked to a car after the meeting, was asked by reporters about Tito's statement.

"Our views are well known," he said. "We have not changed. He was perhaps understanding our policy better."

Kissinger, during the European summit in Helsinki last week, emphasized that the United States would take prompt, decisive action should there be an effort in September to oust Israel from the United Nations.

The meeting with Tito was the final official round of talks Ford's 10-day tour of Europe. He was flying back to Washington shortly after noon EDT.

Ford said he and Tito discussed economic and military relationships between their two countries, and he promised both matters would get "my very personal attention because of their significance."

Yugoslavia has expressed interest in a resumption of U.S. arms cut off in the early 1960s when Yugoslavia patched up old quarrels with Moscow.

CIA Director Wants Budgets Kept Secret

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA Director William Colby, in his 40th appearance before a congressional committee this year, urged keeping U.S. intelligence budgets secret.

He told the House Select Committee on Intelligence "public revelation of fiscal information would inevitably hurt our intelligence effort."

Colby's testimony, the first of two days' worth this week, was released in advance of the hearing. He was to appear again Wednesday.

The Senate committee investigating U.S. intelligence activities scheduled a closed hearing today to continue its investigation into alleged CIA plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

Colby appeared with "conceptual rather than specific" charts showing how much U.S. intelligence information is made public compared to that gathered by the Soviet Union and "how much must be spent by each nation to learn what it must know about the other."

He said the Soviets devote a larger portion of their intelligence budget to "tactical coverage of the possible use and disposition of our weapons systems," while the United States spends the larger part of its budget "to be able to determine the subjects of their applied research, the characteristics of the weapons systems being developed and their production and deployment rates."

A "large amount" of such U.S. information is readily available to the Russians through technical journals, congressional debate and news reports, he said.

Without large and secret expenditures, Colby said, "We could face the surprise with which the world received the news of the first Sputnik. We would have large areas of uncertainty about Soviet forces (and) most of all, we would be unable to negotiate, agree upon and monitor limits on such systems such as SALT to bring about a more stable world."

He said he welcomes sharing budgetary information with the appropriate congressional oversight subcommittees. "I have and I exercise a responsibility to volunteer to them matters of possible interest."

But publishing even generalized annual spending totals, Colby argued, could let foreign agents deduce secret information.

"I do not believe that there is any constitutional or legal requirement that our budget be publicly revealed. Doing so would inevitably hurt our intelligence product," he said.

"We have lost intelligence opportunities through exposure already. I believe it is my job under the (CIA's governing) statute to prevent this."

On July 17, 1956, the Babington Plot to murder Queen Elizabeth I was revealed and Mary, Queen of Scots was implicated.

Shortage of Lids Affects Merchants

Although the government and Goodwill Industries of America, Inc. have announced a plan to ease the nationwide shortage of canning jar lids, the so-called lid shortage has not yet affected local merchants.

B. D. Crippen, manager of Gibson's, says he has plenty of jars, but he just can't get any lids.

"And to my knowledge, I don't have any coming in the near future," Crippen said. "The factories are working every day to try to meet the demand, but they can't."

Furr's Family Center is having the same problem, according to store manager, Harold Butler.

"Yes, we do have a shortage, Butler answered. "The manufacturers can't get them and as a result, we're unable to get them."

He has no idea when they will get any either.

"We're part of a grocery company and under our system, each store gets so many on an allocation basis," he said. "And they're just aren't enough to send out of all the stores."

The main reason for this recent summer upsurge in the demand for canning jar lids is due to the fact that more and more people are gardening and then canning their food, and some are hoarding.

"More people are canning who have never done it before," Crippen said. "Also people have heard there is a shortage, so they've started hoarding the lids. The same thing happened with the sugar shortage."

Butler believes the rising food costs sent the public to doing their own gardening and canning. He says canning supplies started selling faster two years ago.

"Two years ago, more people got into canning and gardening because of the rising prices," he said. "Last year, we couldn't get canning jars and this year, we can't get canning lids."

"I've never had this type of problem in all the years I've been in the grocery business," he added.

Under Goodwin's arrangement, the Minneapolis office will serve as a temporary distribution point for 2.2 million lids. They will be sold by mail order in nine - dozen lots on a first come - first serve basis for $4 plus $1 for postage and handling.

An unprecedented demand for lids has dried up supplies in many parts of the country even though manufacturers are working three shifts seven days a week to try to catch up.

Lids can only be used once, but canning jars, which are not as high in demand, can be recycled.

Goodwill is buying the lids at the normal wholesale price of 19 to 25 cents a dozen from three manufacturers - Ball Corp., Muncie, Ind.; Bernardin, Inc., Evansville, Ind.; and Owens - Illinois, Toledo, Ohio. Several other manufacturers were asked to participate in the program by the Commerce Department, were refused.

The organization will package the lids in individual mailing cartons of nine - dozen, or 108 lids, since the average canner is estimated to use 100 lids a season.

Shortage of Lids

Due to more gardeners, canners and hoarders, canning jar lids have been difficult to obtain, both by the consumer and the store owners. Local merchants can't seem to get the popular items, but Goodwill Industries of Minneapolis is trying to alleviate the problem with a plan for a mail order canning lids business. Miss Suzanne Fritzemeyer ...Schedules Concert

Miss Fritzemeyer Plans Summer Piano Recital

Four students of Miss Suzanne Fritzemeyer, 17 and a senior at White Deer High School, will perform recital numbers at a summer concert Aug. 9 in Tarpley's Recital Hall. The program will begin at 4 p.m.

Miss Fritzemeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fritzemeyer of Skellytown, has been teaching piano for two years and playing for eight. She is a student of Jerry Whitten of Pampa. Rita Kramer will play "Air" and "The Tiresome Woodpecker" while Marvin Kramer will perform "The Popcorn Man" and "The Pet Shop." Ronda Brown will play "Are You Sleeping?" and "Evening Song" as J'Hon Marlar plays "Duelin' Banjo" and "Home on the Range."

Miss Fritzemeyer will play "Prelude in c Major" by herself then will join Whitten, her instructor, in a concerto by Hayden. This is her last recital.

At Wit's End

I wish to heavens Emily Post would spell out what "come casual" to a party means. Casual in my dictionary reads, "A thing that is accidental. Not planned or sought."

When I go to a party casual, that's exactly what I am... an unplanned, unsought accident. My husband's idea of "casual" is going to bed without a necktie.

If he would back me up in whatever style I chose, it wouldn't be so bad. But it never fails. We never match. I emerge from the closet where I am dressing and look at him for the first time.

"What are you doing?" I shout. "You look like the groom on top of a wedding cake."

"What are you supposed to be?" he grimaces. "Hansel or Gretel?"

"Look," I said. "The hostess made a big point of telling me to come super casual."

"That doesn't mean wearing a gym suit with a whistle around your neck."

"This is not a gym suit. Why don't you at least take off your tie."

"I'll take off my tie if you wear a skirt."

"I got it. You change to a sport shirt and I'll put on slacks."

"I've got a better idea. You wear a dress and I'll wear a sport coat."

I retire to the closet again and come out a few minutes later in a sleeveless basic black and heels.

In the meantime, he has changed to a pair of baggy pants and a sweatshirt.

"She said 'casual,' not destitute," I said.

"Then why are you dressed up in a dining-room hostess? I am going back and change."

After several trips to the closet, I finally decide on my original outfit and he goes back to his original selection.

At the party it becomes obvious that no one knew what "casual" meant. All of the women are formally attired as are all the men.

As I pass by a group, I hear my depper husband explain. I just picked Erma up at the gym and she didn't have time to change."

Boy, is he going to get a "casual" punch in the mouth on the way home.

Stole Man Steals Show

NEW YORK (UPI)—Donald Brooks steals the fashion spotlight for fall with the stole.

In all of the trends emerging from the fall and winter collections, ranging from rugged, wrap-up wear to the chinese influence, designer Brooks is one designer who does not wander all over the lot.

He sets his theme with long, fringed or tasseled stoles wrapping daytime suits, coats and dresses, and carries the motif right on through evening with a fabulous white marabout stole draping a long formal whose skirt is white marabout, the bodice a sleek black jersey.

Note of the Brooks stoles is modest in scale. They are a foot and more in width and, even wrapped around the throat, a couple of times, still reach well below the tops of leather boots he shows for day.

Some of the stoles measured nine feet in length.

Brooks' hemlines also cover the boot tops, which means the designer likes a midcalf length for the coming season.

Brooks was one of the New York fashion world's most influential designers who for the past week have been showing their collections to the nation's store buyers. More shows are on tap this week, and what the buyers order will begin to show in the stores by late August and early September.

Brooks even paired stoles with jumpers. Typical was a gray flannel jumper with slim top, gathered skirt and long sleeved blouse and long side in paisley print. A gray flannel coat, with slim cardigan lines, and snaps instead of buttons closing the front, was shown over an eggshell wool dress. Finishing touch: the eggshell, wool stole.

Then there were wide-legged evening pants with stoles.

His other showstopper for evening had a floor length skirt made of tiers of turkey feathers dyed black and tipped with white. Its bodice was sleek black jersey—and of course, the long stole of the feathers.

Another leading designer, Oscar de la Renta, packed his opening with celebrities along with buyers. Actress Dina Merrill and Mrs. Henry Kissinger showed up to see de la Renta's "something for everybody" collection.

Members present were Mrs. Marie Boyd, Erma Boyd, Jimmie Clifton, Clyde Gray, Francis Ellington, Charley Catlin, Anna Hutchison, Agnes Morgan, C.D. Malone, Tony Smith, Hatti Wright, Earl Williams and special guest, Elaine Houston.

Smith New President

Mrs. Rosilee Smith was installed as president of the Bluebonnet Home Demonstration Club recently in the home of Mrs. J.W. Dart.

Mrs. Elaine Houston, county extension agent, installed Mrs. Smith and other new officers. She used a shoe for the message of foundation.

The other new officers are Mrs. Earl Williams, vice president; Mrs. Charley Catlin, secretary treasurer; and Mrs. Marie Boyd, council delegate. A birthday luncheon was held for Mrs. Erma Boyd and Mrs. C.D. Malone. Special guest for the meeting was Mrs. Dale Brown, Lubbock; Mrs. Ray Chant, San Antonio; Mrs. Roy Lee and Miss Sharon Lee of Pampa.

Members present were Mrs. Marie Boyd, Erma Boyd, Jimmie Clifton, Clyde Gray, Francis Ellington, Charley Catlin, Anna Hutchison, Agnes Morgan, C.D. Malone, Tony Smith, Hatti Wright, Earl Williams and special guest, Elaine Houston.

Maxine Sullivan Still Going Strong

NEW YORK (UPI)—She was a national institution before many of you were born. She became one partly because of her recording of a Scottish ballad that sold millions and nearly four decades later still is selling.

She remembers receiving $25 for her first performance. Today, among collectors of jazz, a single copy of the record sells for many times more.

She is singer Maxine Sullivan. The song, "Loch Lomond." The f a m o u s arrangement by Claude Thornhill.

Today, at 64, the peppy singer, with a career still going strong, talks about that record and others, what's happened to jazz, where rock fits into the musical picture, and a community recreational center she has just opened in New York's Bronx.

Miss Sullivan, 4-foot-11 and 90 pounds of voice box, has turned a residence she owned in a deteriorated section of the borough into "The House That Jazz Built," to honor her late husband, jazz pianist Cliff Jackson.

The center is run by a voluntary, nonprofit foundation and trust to perpetuate jazz. Miss Sullivan said it would be a mini-museum, library, and research center. It will hold classes featuring leading professionals as teachers, and extend cultural and recreational aspects of the music to all ages in the community.

"I joined the National Association of Retired Persons early," she said. "Else I wouldn't be doing what I am today. The name of the game with me is motion."

"We have to think positively. If you don't have something going for you, you'll read the headlines and go crazy."

The singer believes jazz is back full strength and she gives Scott Joplin a lot of credit for the new interest.

"I don't like to knock any music," she said, "but rock went to kiddie music. But kiddies grow up. Even the rock musicians want to hear a little more. If you stay with music you have to learn more than two notes on a guitar, or else you end up driving a cab. Some rock musicians faded out. Others I see coming back with new music."

Miss Sullivan, born in Homestead, Pa., was singing in a Pittsburgh club when Gladys Mosier, Ina Ray Hutton's band pianist, discovered her. Miss Mosier introduced her to Thornhill, pianist and orchestra leader. His arrangement of her "Loch Lomond," released in 1938, vaulted her to fame.

The song has been in her repertoire ever since and is included in many of her albums including the 1969 "Close as Pages in a Book" (Monmouth Evergreen) with the Bob Wilber combo.

Her latest album is "Sullivan, Shakespeare and Hyman" (Monmouth Evergreen) with Dick Hyman's music. There are such titles as "Take, Oh Take Those Lips Away" and "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind."

On Sept. 29, she leaves for a one-month tour of Britain and Scandinavia, her second European tour with the "World's Greatest Jazz Band."

For a while in the late '50s and early '60s, Miss Sullivan quit singing to be with her family and devote her free time to community work, particularly in education.

The cost of medical care in the United States has more than doubled in the past 10 years and is still rising.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks: We had many wonderful letters in answer to our question, "What is a good schedule for cleaning an apartment?"

Many of you wrote us with advice on how to "think" about housecleaning. Others gave us their general philosophy that helps them run their own households.

Some of you dears sat down and actually wrote us your schedules for running your homes. It seemed that the ladies who have a day-to-day schedule are for the most part full-time homemakers.

There were a lot of letters from those of you who had no set schedule, but rather a loose routine.

I think all of us can learn from the many different thoughts, and contrasting systems.

Today, I will give you the overall theme, or philosophies about housecleaning that our readers shared with us.

Keep an eye open, and later I will print actual schedules that some of our readers use, and the responses from those who don't use a schedule, but how they organize their cleaning.

I consider this one of the greatest thoughts, which one honeypot wrote:

"Don't buy work. (Isn't that terrific? — H.) Whenever possible, buy curtains, drapes, bed and table linen, also clothing which can be drip dried, or be placed in the dryer, rather than ironed."

"This saves your time and energy."

Another woman said, "Don't procrastinate about cleaning. You waste time just doing that which could be spent other places."

Mrs. P.A.S. says, "House work is my enemy; I attack it immediately with energy and subdue it. I always win this little war."

Chris wrote with this advice to establish priorities: "Someone entering your home won't know that your oven is dirty, or the floor unmooped, but they will notice a messy living room."

When there is more than one person living in a house or apartment, work should be shared.

All family members use the bathroom, livingroom and kitchen. It stands to reason that the maintenance of these should not be left to Mom.

Always leave the bathroom clean and towels hung flat, not wadded up on the floor. It only takes a few seconds and it makes all the difference in the world.

to have everyone share in taking care of the home than it is to wait on family members hand and foot all by yourself.

"Children easily learn to share in helping keep the house clean. There is always some small or easy chore that can be given them. They can put the silver away, or set the table."

The main thing that most of our readers had in common was the age-old saying, "Don't put it down, put it away." This means everything from clothes when you get undressed, to packages brought in the door.

Mona Moore had a great philosophy, "DO IT NOW."

"If you see a spot, clean it NOW. Something out of place, pick it up and put it away. Keep this up and 'NOW' will become a habit."

Teach your family to pick up after themselves. One reader said she taught her family real quick, by placing a box on the back porch, and anything that was left out and not in its place went into her "No-No" box.

She reported that it only took her husband a few trips to the "No-No" box, (which she labeled it), to learn to put up his shaving gear, because that is where it went!

She also learned to put her nail polish away! He had put it in the No-No box, too.

When it comes to laundry, most of you had a set day.

"One dear gal said she used this rule in her house: "Nothing gets washed that is not in the hamper." She claimed that it only took running out of clean underwear once for her family to catch on.

Another wrote, "Before going to bed, straighten the livingroom and tidy up the dishes in the kitchen, empty the ashtrays, and put the newspapers and magazines in the proper place."

"It only takes a few minutes, but seeing a neat apartment or house in the morning gives you a good start on the day."

My final note today is for you. Take some time off from housekeeping, and spend it on yourself.

If you were actually a paid housekeeper, you would have a day off. True?

So take some time off and spend it with your family, friends, or helping someone else.

A floor can wait, but your child or spouse needs love and your attention now. Tomorrow may be too late...

Three Altusans sponsored a party Thursday for 64 of Pampa's senior citizens at Lovett Memorial Library. They were Mrs. Lora Dunn, chairman; and Mrs. Olive Hills and Mrs. Louise Sewell.

The past matron's gavel club of the O.E.S. were hostesses and serving coffee, cake and sandwiches were Mrs. Brownie Voyles, Ruth Ayers, Ethel Stillwell, Emily Gray and Nell Rankin.

Door prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lillie Reynolds and Herman Armstrong. Mrs. Genia Noland, Dave Kendrick and Roy Holder are all home from the Hospital. Holder attended the party.

Mrs. Bennie Corey was a visitor. Mrs. W.D. Oakes of Dallas is spending the week with her mother, Mrs. J. Evans.

At the party, several displays of handiwork were presented. Mrs. Pearl Braihly brought two hooked rugs and Mrs. Gladys Edmonson brought an afghan. Mrs. Jessie Rance brought several embroidered doll faces. Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Mosely celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary July 23 and their daughter took them to lunch.

Mrs. Bulah Walling visited her daughter—in-law in Parkland Hospital in Dallas this week.

Roy Holder's son-in-law is in the hospital in Sayre, Okla. following a heart attack and Mrs. Holder's son is convalescing at home after a stay in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo.

Mrs. Verna Schroeder and son, Carl, and daughter, Mrs. Clark Vencell, attended the Westway Reunion at Hereford Sunday. Mrs. Schroeder's nephew, Vernon Carter of Casper Wyo. visited her last week. Clyde Gray's nephew, Clyde L. Gray, is visiting relatives in Pampa.

Jemine Willeford and family, natives of Pampa but now stationed in Hawaii with the Marines, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herman and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Bertha Powell visited her son, Bob and grandson, Billy in Perryton Sunday.

Mrs. Dee Ann Parsons and children of Albuquerque, N.M. visited her grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Stovall who accompanied them to Winslow, Ark., to see Mrs. Stovall's two sisters for several days. They then went to Fort Worth to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cleffer for a week.

Mrs. Elma Bailey spent a week with her son, Robert Baiely of Brownsfield.

Karpin on Bridge

By Fred Karpin

Most bridge players are opposed to deceptive bidding ("psychic bidding") on the second assumption that such bidding, which is designed to deceive the opposition, more frequently deceives one's partner. And if the opponents purchase the contract, misdefense usually takes place.

But everybody agrees that deception in play is mandatory if the best results are to be obtained. A good example of "necessary" deceptive play can be observed in today's deal, which arose in a rubber bridge game.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Five of ♣.

East played the ten of hearts on the opening lead, and South won the trick with his ace. With only the spade suit serving as a potential source for the creation of the two needed tricks, South set his sights on this suit. At trick two he laid down the ace of spades.

Had East followed suit with his lowest spade, the nine - spot, declarer would probably have brought home four spade tricks. If the nine were a part of the doubleton-K-9, it would do South no good to lead his remaining spade and insert dummy's eight. In this (presumed) set-up, west would have started with the J-x-x-x; and dummy's queen would be the only additional spade winner that would be created.

Had the nine been played by East, declarer would probably have realized that his only chance of bringing home the suit would be to indulge in the wishful thinking that East had been dealt the doubleton J-9.

And, after leading his remaining spade to trick three, he would put up dummy's queen, hoping to fell the jack. With the jack falling, it would now become a rousing matter to give up the ten to West's king, and bring home four spade tricks.

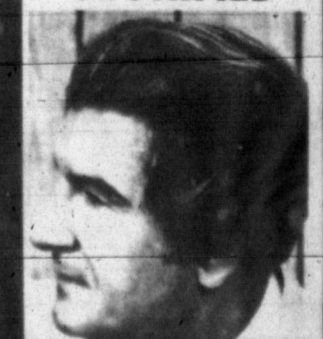

But, East, on South's lead of the spade ace at trick two, deceptively dropped the jack.

Now it appeared that East might have started with the doubleton K-J-9, at trick three, South led his five of spades, and inserted dummy's eight when West played low.

As is evident, East won the trick with his nine. At conclusion of play, all declarer had made were the seven tricks with which he had started. Defensive deception had paid a dividend.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5.
Your birthday today: You are your own best friend and worst enemy this year as you get down to serious business. Any personal conflict or reservation about what you are doing surfaces and must be straightened out. Try to work in private as much as possible. Today's natives experience long-term restlessness that is hampered by family ties, have intense beliefs and are gifted in the arts.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: The adage "slow but sure" holds true. You're able to diminish or completely free yourself from an old obligation. Your concern over another's welfare is unwarranted, and there's little you can do, anyway.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Go ahead with existing plans, but try to adapt to prevailing conditions. Do the work that requires the most concentration on details and get done early.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Expenses run slightly higher than you've allowed for in your budget. A smile and a thank you cost nothing but may tip many delicate balances in your favor.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Review your situation and ignore the problems you have created for yourself.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Concentrate on your work. If you're diligent, you'll stop worrying and cheer up by tonight.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Avoid trying to do too much in too short a time. Inspiration comes to you while you finish new plans and get rid of leftover items. A good health program works wonders.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Friends are helpful if you don't ask for a great deal. Your plans are further along than you realize. Keep on Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: If you'd stay busy, the work that looks difficult will turn out to be simple. Concentrate on details and leave the big decisions for later.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Long-persisting conditions that stand in your way come up for reconsideration. You have excellent insight into how to cope with the overall situation.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Let bygones be bygones and write off past losses. They can't be recouped by drastic or speculative moves. Make a money-saving suggestion.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Delays shouldn't discourage you; some processes just take more time than you'd like. Continue doing what you can. Sound progress is possible.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: From a slow start the pace picks up. Everyday matters become serious or, at least, must be taken seriously. Opportunities now at hand will disappear soon.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Sort out your own ideas about long-term plans. Associates who have a great deal on their minds are aloof. Be patient with them.

Weekend News Summary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI says it maintained a list of Americans who in the event of a national emergency could have been jailed immediately. A bureau spokesman said Sunday the list was legal under terms of the McCarran subversive activities control act, but that it was destroyed when the act was repealed in 1971. The New York Times, citing two unidentified sources, said the list, known as the "Security Index" contained as many as 15,000 names at its peak. The list, the spokesman said, contained the names of individuals "who by their actions or statements advocated the overthrow of our government or would pose a threat of espionage or sabotage in the event of a national emergency." OFF MEDICATION HONOLULU (UPI) — The three Apollo astronauts have been taken off the antiinflammation drug they began taking July 25, the day after they inhaled toxic gases during reentry from Earth orbit after their link-up with a Russian spacecraft. Doctors reported Sunday that Tom Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald Slayton no longer must take the medicine Prednisone. THAI ASKS MEETING BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Foreign Minister Chatchai Choonhavan says he is willing to meet Khmer Rouge leader Khieu Sampan in either Bangkok or Phnom Penh to establish official contact with the new Communist government of Cambodia.

"Our contact will concentrate mostly on humanitarian purposes," Chatchai told reporters Sunday. He said Thailand had attempted to contact the new Cambodian government "in every way, direct or indirect through the United Nations. I am willing to meet him (Khieu Sampan) in Phnom Penh or Bangkok." SAHARA BATTLES EL AAIUN, Spanish Sahara (UPI) — Moroccan raiders attacked two desert outposts in the wastelands of the northern Sahara but were repelled by Spanish defenders, the Spanish army command reported. It said one Spanish paratrooper and two Moroccan soldiers were killed in the fighting at the outpost of Hausa Sunday morning. One child was wounded. The national news agency Cifra said the Moroccans, using rockets and mortars, also attacked the outpost of Tha but gave no details. Spanish and Moroccan troops have skirmished in the past Pampa, Texas 69th Year NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Abe Beame asked a $200,000-a-year insurance executive to head a new managerial team to draw up guidelines for eliminating waste in the city budget, a mayoral spokesman said Sunday. Beame's choice to help save city money was Richard R.

PAMPA DAILY NEWS 9 Monday, August 4, 1975 Shinn, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. "We can confirm the mayor has asked Mr. Shinn to serve in this capacity," the spokesman said. "He's interested but he's thinking about it over the weekend." Should he accept, Shinn would direct efforts to draw up guidelines to overhaul city management policies, put the city's muddled books in order and introduce new productivity programs.

Class of '44 Reunites

65 Classmates Meet for Reunion

Sixty-five members of the Pampa High School Class of '44, their spouses and former teachers celebrated their 31st class reunion recently with students coming from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Louisiana, California, Massachusetts, Washington, New York and various points of Texas.

Registration and a coffee opened the reunion in the Pampa High School Library. Members and guests toured the school, then met at noon at Furr's cafeteria.

A bus tour of Pampa and the industrial area included a stop by Hobart Street Park for cold drinks and donuts.

The banquet, with 119 persons attending, was held in the Starlight room of the Coronado Inn. Invocation was by the Rev. Reginald Bridges. Charlie Boyles, encee, gave honorable mention to Mrs. Gerald Alexander, Mrs. Myrel McCracken and Mrs. Myrel Looper, wives of best students, for being the best cooks; and to Helen Crowley King, for having changed the least.

Corasages were presented to Julia Dawkins, Ruth Barrett and Margie Moore for their work on the reunion.

Vivian Lafferty Jones presented planters with ivy to the one traveling the longest distance - David O'Brien of Danvers, Mass.

The most children award went to Faye Morehead Benton with six children. The most grandchildren award was a tie between Audrey Short Doss and Bill Lam with six each. The newest baby award went to Rev. Bridges who has a 4-year-old daughter.

Dinner music and a program of songs were presented by Mrs. Donald Walberg and her daughters, Duni and Zini.

A sad note was the sudden death two days before the reunion of Francine Stockton Duggan, a member of the Class of '44.

Class members agreed to have a 35th year reunion in 1979 with the same committee.

Members of the class of '44 who attended the reunion were:

Row 1 - Lillian Snow Rosenfeld, Sarah Giddins McKee, Frances Crocker Hamilton, Joyce Taylor Roberts, Mildred Fulkerson Wilkie, Barbara Crossman Carothers, Margie Brummett Moore, Mary Ward Francis, Helen Crowley King, Gladene Farmer Hartzog, Lucy Turner Kennedy, Margaret Eckerd Washington, Vivian Lafferty Jones, Gladys Romero Miller, Faye Morehead Benton, Phyllis Perkins Griffin, Julia Bell Dawkins.

Row 2: J.C. Hopkins, Jerry Kerbow, J.D. Williams, Hubert Lam, Velma Davis Hampton, Thelma Davis Kyle, Pat Lively White, Oscar Brothers, Dorthea Keller Goodwin, Norma Allison Robbins, Dora Taylor Reeves, Ruth Matheny Barrett, Louise Almond Hogan, Clairece deCordova Kimbro, Charlie Boyles, Pat Hollingshead Hopkins, Myrel McCracken, Allene McKinney Shillings, Mary Brown Cash, Betty Frasier Epperson, Aileen Vaughn Morris, Erlene Shorwell Larson, Jim McCracken, Audrey Short Doss, Jerry Alexander, Archie Maness, La Neta Beezley Hoyle, Louise Baxter Pollock, Clark Gilbert.

Guests: Miss Roy Riley, Miss Lorraine Bruce, Miss Madge Rusk, Mrs. Yvonne Stroup, Mr. and Mrs. Hody Willis, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Scott, B.G. Gordon, Aubrey L. Steel, Mrs. E.L. Norman and Mrs. R.H. Sanford.

Vice Squad Writes to 'Dear John'

BOSTON (UPI) — "Wanna go outside?" said Jackie, looking through the tired eyes of a junky

Kills Student

EL CAMPO, Tex. (UPI) — Henry L. Garcia, has been charged with the shotgun murder of William F. Hughes, a University of Houston graduate student killed while returning with his son from a Mexican vacation.

Witnesses told police Garcia apparently became angry because of an earlier traffic incident which he thought Hughes had provoked.

from a stool in a saloon on LaGrange Street.

And I asked her discreetly: "How much will it cost me?" Jackie, her pupils drug-dilated, set her price.

With the afternoon temperature locked at 100 degrees in Boston's bawdy "Combat Zone" neighborhood, the last place to be with a prostitute was "outside" of the air conditioned saloon — out there where Police Commissioner Robert diGrazia's vice squad could take my picture and demand my name and tell me to be in court as a material witness to soliciting.

"You have been seen in a high-crime area in the company of known prostitutes and criminals," the letter reads. "If you persist in these activities, you will be summoned to police headquarters for questioning."

Official police department statements to the contrary, the program is, in effect, legal blackmail to rid the "Combat Zone" of customers — and therefore, the police reason, ridding the tawdry area in downtown Boston of prostitutes.

The Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts said diGrazia's campaign is illegal — "a gross invasion of an individual's right to privacy, a serious violation of his Fourth Amendment protection of personal security."

Furthermore, said Harvey Silverplate, CLUM's counsel, it appears the police department's action violates a person's right of free association.

Steve Dunleavy, diGrazia's public relations man, disagrees. "It's legal. Absolutely. No doubt about it."

"The point is, someone who would receive one of these letters was a witness to a crime," he said. The crime is soliciting for prostitution.

Joan Tuttle, a legislative lobbyist for the Civil Liberties Union, said the police department's desire to rid the area of muggers and overly aggressive prostitutes is no justification for infringing individual rights.

But the police department does not appear concerned about soliciting in saloons or over the telephone.

"Street prostitution is related to street crime," Dunleavy said. "I'll say it's related to street crime," said Jackie, who works out of the tavern on LaGrange Street.

Before determining that I am not going to pay her for her usual services and that I am not going to pay for an interview, Jackie said street life in the Combat Zone on the edge of the theater district is getting rough.

Street hookers in gangs of a half-dozen women have taken to rolling prospective clients.

"It's giving the area a bad name," she said.

Butz Is Ticked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says he is "ticked off" at charges that food prices will increase because of the new sales of grain to the Soviet Union.

Using a 39-cent loaf of bread as a stage prop, Butz said Sunday the cost of food will rise no more than 2 per cent the rest of this year because of farm prices and that any greater increase would be for non-farm reasons, such as manufacturing, distributing and retailing.

Butz appeared on CBS "face the Nation" and said most of the grain price increase resulting from the Soviet sale "is behind us" because the trading was long expected.

He pulled the bread, bearing a "Safeway" label, from beneath his desk, unwrapped it and explained that only about one-sixth of the loaf's cost came from wheat. Butz said the loaf contained 18 slices.

He took three slices and said "that's what the farmer put into that loaf of bread."

Still pointing occasionally to the bread, Butz said, "I get ticked off a bit right now with everybody jumping on this sale to the Russians, saying this is going to cause inflation."

SINAIA, Romania, (UPI) — Henry Kissinger sat in the castle in the land of Dracula and said "no" to President Ford.

The President had invited the secretary of state to join him in attending Romanian Orthodox services at the Sinaia monastery in the Carpathian Alps of southern Transylvania.

"I'm beyond salvation," said Kissinger.

Here, where the legendary Count Dracula indulged his bloodthirst on mountain maidens, a day of talks between Ford and Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu included some moments outside the pomp and circumstances of protocol.

Ford spotted the red plush and throne bed sleeping chamber in Pelisor Castle, weekend hideaway of the late King Carol and his good friend Magd Lepescu.

"Look. The royal bedchamber," said the President with a grin. Kissinger promptly asked with a smile if Ford would please appoint him envoy to Romania so he could savor the joys of Pelisor. Ford did not grant the boon.

Ceausescu tut-tutted Kissinger's mock admiration for royal living. The Romanian Communist leader said monarchical sympathies would give Kissinger trouble with the American press. The secretary shook his head.

"I control it," Kissinger said. "My father keeps track of all newsmen who write critically of me and tears their clippings out of his scrapbook. None of them wants to lose their place in history."

Among the jokes in Ford's party about being in the land of Dracula: 1) The President has a new Secret Service bodyguard, a man armed with a wooden spike. 2) The Secret Servicemen were being issued silver bullets. 3) Dracula stood no chance anyway because of the division of Romanian troops clustered in the underbrush of the woods around Sinaia. The last was commonly held to be no joke.

At lunch Kissinger found himself seated next to a learned Romanian lady. "Tell me, all

Jet Crash Kills 188 in Morocco

AGADIR, Morocco (UPI) — The chartered Boeing 707 jetliner carrying immigrant Moroccan workers was only two minutes from touchdown when the pilot, on his first flight to Agadir, apparently became lost in a dense fog.

Moments later the plane slammed into a remote mountainside, exploded and burned, killing all 188 persons aboard.

The impact broke the four-engine jet into pieces and ignited a forest fire that raged over ten acres.

Officials said the crash Sunday was the fourth worst disaster in aviation history.

The plane, owned by the Jordan airline Alia and chartered to Royal Air Maroc, left Paris before dawn for the three-hour flight to Agadir. All but four of the passengers were Moroccan workers returning home for the August vacation period.

The jet disappeared from Agadir airport control tower radar screens two minutes before the scheduled landing time. A control tower official reported a normal conversation with the pilot with no hints of trouble moments before the crash.

about Dracula," said the secretary of state.

"Who is Dracula?" she replied.

But Betty Ford was a fatigued First Lady when she arrived in Belgrade Sunday — so tired that she canceled part of her day's activities earlier in Bucharest, Romania, to rest.

But she perked up Sunday night, joining Yugoslav President Tito in lively conversation at a state dinner given by the 83-year-old Yugoslav leader.

It was the second time on her 10-day European trip with the President, which ends today, that Mrs. Ford has been sidelined with fatigue. The same thing happened to her in Warsaw last week.

This time she wasn't alone. After five countries in nine days, other members of the presidential party drooped, too.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger passed up a visit to a Romanian monastery with President Ford Sunday, saying he was "beyond salvation" and needed rest.

Baby Drowns In Bathtub

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — An 11-month-old girl accidentally drowned Sunday in a bathtub where her mother and put her and her twin sister to cool off, police reported.

Prince George's County police said Deanna Jean DeFoe, of Hyattsville, was dead on arrival at Leland Memorial Hospital in Riverdale, Md. Her sister, Dawn Marie, was listed in good condition at Children's Hospital in Washington.

The mother put the girls in the bathtub and set the water to flow at a trickle, police said. But a facecloth covered the drain, causing the tub to fill up.

Vogue Cleaners

"Like any little business, this one has been good to us," said Fred Malone. "It has made us a living and I guess you really can't ask for more than that."

The Malones opened Vogue Cleaners in 1942. "I grew up in the business," Malone explained. He added that although it might be the only business he knew how to operate he was quite satisfied with his work and the people that he works with.

The location of the cleaners moved in 1960 to its present location at 1542 N. Hobart, to add to a drive up window and to expand the store.

Along with Vogue Cleaners complete clothes service the business also employs Sarah Martinez to head their custom draperies department.

Malone explained that the dry cleaning process uses a petroleum based cleaning fluid which prevents the clothes from wrinkling as they do in water.

In addition to Malone and his wife Mabel, he employs two other ladies to assist in the cleaning department. According to Malone they all like to meet the public and they all enjoy their work.

Dear Consumer Learn To Complain Effectively

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Do you have a complaint about an unsatisfactory product? Knowing how to complain effectively is usually half the battle.

Often consumers undercut their chances of having problems resolved because they take complaints to the wrong place or because they use a negative approach.

- Here are my suggestions for getting satisfaction when you have a justified complaint that is not a legal problem.
- First, write a letter to the retailer. He is the one who is most likely to find the source of the problem and resolve it. Always write, rather than telephoning, and keep a copy of the letter. It will help you in the future if you must pursue the matter further.
 - In your letter, include all the facts about the product. Give the model number, size, color, date and place purchased and tell whether you paid for it with cash, check or charge plate—all relevant information. Include a factual statement of the problem, written as clearly and unemotionally as possible.
 - If the retailer is unable to help you, write to the manufacturer, giving the same information. Enclose a copy of your letter to the retailer.
 - If you find that you are being referred to different people, with no one accepting responsibility, go to your local consumer affairs office or to the Better Business Bureau (BBB).

Staff members in your local consumer office — if your city or county has one — have procedures for dealing with retailers in your community; and the office itself has the authority needed to get results on your complaint.

BBBs also work with local retailers to resolve consumers' complaints. Some local BBBs offer arbitration hearings in which both sides agree to abide by the arbitrator's final decision.

The threat of arbitration is having a good effect on retailers' cooperation. In Dallas, for example, the percentage of satisfactorily resolved complaints increased from 35 percent in 1973 to 63 percent in 1974 after the arbitration program was established.

• If all else fails, write to me. Be sure to describe all the steps you have taken, on the local level, to resolve your problem; enclose copies of your correspondence with retailers and others. I will do my best to help. Send your letter to Office of Consumer Affairs, Health, Education and Welfare Department, Washington, D.C. 20201.
