Hill Ruling Could Cost Pampa Schools $50,000

Texas Attorney General John Hill's ruling Thursday that school districts do not have the authority to impose fees for certain courses could cost the Pampa Independent School District $50,000, according to Dr. Dan Long, superintendent.

"It could be greater — probably will be greater when we do an audit with a fine-toothed comb," Long said today.

Fees included in the attorney general's ruling include those for driver education, laboratories, vocational and physical education training and fees for extracurricular activities such as band uniforms, athletic lockers and towels and club memberships.

"Over the years we've built in a number of fees and we haven't really developed the total amount of these fees," Long said. "We've never had a reason for counting them."

Pampa's superintendent said it probably will be "about a week before we get a letter from Austin and I would imagine we will have to hear another decision from the attorney general on some of the fine points of the ruling — such as, is it to be retroactive? Will we have to refund money we've already collected? It will probably be a month or so before school districts can really get details on this."

Some of the expenses that may have to be absorbed by Pampa's schools include such things as caps and gowns for high school graduation — $2,850; Club dues — $3,296; fees for labs, art supplies, etc. — $4,800.

The current policy of the school concerning trips for the band and choir requires students to purchase their own meals. Long said that practice may not be included in the ruling and may not have to be abandoned, but it isn't yet clear.

Band students currently provide their own shoes and gloves. If the school was required to buy them, it would tack an additional $2,200 onto the budget.

"The difficult thing is that we really don't know where we are until we get the details, but it appears there is a serious financial problem developing for us and for every school district."

Long said that the legislature has "authorized us to charge fees for summer school. If we offer drivers education only in the summer, we may get to continue the fee and continue to offer the course."

Texas Education Commissioner M.L. Brockette says an attorney general's ruling prohibiting fees for certain courses will force many school districts to reshuffle their budget priorities.

"It looks like a conflict with the concept of free public education," Brockette said of the fees. "Some students have to pay and that raises the question because some of them flat don't have the money."

Brockette, however, said the ruling will impose a hardship on the school districts because most of them already have adopted their budgets for the school year.

"Those that selected the option of not reducing their programs that have fees attached to them will have to examine their budgets in a priority way," Brockette said.

Fees approved by the legislature are not affected by the ruling, the education commissioner said.

"I'm unable to tell at this point what the overall impact is," Brockette said.

The education commissioner said the State Board of Education will try to estimate the costs for financing the fee programs and hopefully develop funding options.

"There's nothing immediate we can do other than make as quick an analysis as we can and get the information out to the school districts," Brockette said. "We'll start our surveying of the schools to see what the overall impact is."

Brockette said he asked Hill for a legal opinion on the issue at the request of the Central Texas branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Billy R. Reagan said Attorney General John Hill's ruling Thursday would hurt the nation's sixth largest school district financially, but Reagan said the district planned no legal action to oppose it.

"We have reached a time when free public schools are not a reality," Reagan said. "Philosophically, there is merit to this concern of the public overpaying school fees."

However, Pasadena school superintendent Dr. C. Lee Meyer said the ruling would cost the suburban district $1 million and the district challenge it in court.

"This money will have to come from somewhere, such as local taxpayers," Meyer said. "The state is not going to pay for it."

Reagan said his district would receive about $800,000 in fees from students this year, including $400,000 for class workbooks, $245,000 for driver education and $100,000 for field trips. He said if the district must pay the fees, it will come from a $5 million surplus.

Lanus Wright, superintendent for administration and support services, said he hopes the district will not be forced to pay for band uniforms and extra curricular transportation.

"It is frightening to think of that drastic a change," Wright said.

House Committee Okays US Observers for Sinai

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House International Relations Committee unanimously voted today to send 200 American observers to the Sinai Desert to watch over the recent Arab-Israeli agreement. The resolution will go to the full House for a vote next week.

Secretary of State Henry A.

Kissinger, working to break the administration deadlock with Congress over secret agreements for U.S. aid to Israel and Egypt, was scheduled to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee later.

The House committee voted 24-0 to a resolution to send the U.S. civilian technicians into the Mideast to monitor the interim Sinai accord between Egypt and Israel.

The resolution calls for removal of the technicians "in the event of an outbreak of hostilities" between Egypt and Israel. It would give Congress the authority to order their removal if the technicians become unnecessary or if their safety is jeopardized.

The House resolution is expected to be forwarded to the full House early next week for a final vote by week's end.

The resolution specifically states approval is granted only for the use of American technicians and "does not signify approval of the Congress of any other agreement, understanding, or commitment by the executive branch."

President Ford had asked Congress to approve the monitors by today, but the controversy over side agreements between the United States and the two Mideast countries has delayed that approval.

Kissinger's appearance before the Senate committee was his third in two days.

Pampa Post Office Wants To Hear Gripes

By TEx DEWEES

Got a gripe about your Pampa postal service?

Postmaster J.D. Williams says he and his staff are working hard to give good service and if something is wrong with their efforts, he would like to know about it.

Williams says the Pampa office handles around 350,000 pieces of mail every day — that's more than one million pieces of mail a month handled locally.

With that big a mail flow to be serviced by 12 city carriers, one rural carrier, three Star route carriers, 13 clerks and two supervisors, he says occasional mistakes are likely to happen.

Postmaster Williams says sometimes the mistakes are the fault of the postal service and sometimes not.

So, with that in mind, Williams says the local post office, along with other post offices across the nation, is trying to improve service by asking postal patrons who have a mail problem to let the postmaster know about them.

In that connection, starting this week, patrons with complaints can contact their local postmaster by using the pre-paid Customer Service Card available on the counter in the Pampa post office or from the letter carrier who delivers your mail.

The complaint card you fill out is compiled in duplicate. One copy goes to Postmaster Williams and the other to Postal Service headquarters in Washington.

"I hope Pampa postal customers who have complaints will use the card," Williams said. "They are available from any letter carrier or can be picked up in the post office lobby."

People who feel their problems have not been handled properly also are asked to contact the postmaster personally.

Williams said many people wonder about the post office deficit.

He said the Pampa office has taken in $135,000 during the first three months of the current fiscal year which ended Sept. 30 — and during the same period has spent $174,000.

The reason the expense is around $40,000 greater than the revenue at the local office, Williams said, is because Pampa delivers five times as much mail as it generates or originates in the local office.

"Delivery is what takes so much more money," Williams said.

The postmaster said the Pampa post office maintains a fleet of 19 vehicles. He added that fuel and maintenance for them is obtained locally.

There are approximately 9,800 local city delivery points, he stated, and more than 1,000 are businesses. The Pampa office has nearly 500 rural delivery points.

In connection with the campaign to get Pampa postal patrons to use the pre-paid consumer service cards, Williams said in addition to hearing about problems, he also welcomes suggestions — and any other comments.

"We want you to come to us with your problems," he said. "The whole point of this service is to bring the problems and gripes out into the open where we can attempt to resolve them."

The postmaster said he and members of his staff are ready to discuss any problems including lack of courtesy, irregularities in deliveries or collections, collection box convenience and post office hours.

Williams said the Consumer Service Program was tested earlier this year in Illinois, Massachusetts, Arizona and Rhode Island. Postal customers in the test, he stated, found the cards easy to complete and most complaints were resolved to the customer's satisfaction.

"Help us give better service in Pampa by letting us hear from you," Williams said.

Air Control Official Visits Packerland Plant

By THOM MARSHALL

John Warner, director of the regional office of the Texas Air Control Board in Lubbock, visited Packerland Packing Co. of Texas Inc. Thursday and told The News today, "We're going to get them to change up a few air flows in the plant and get them to add some chemicals to their settling ponds."

The TACB director said that he will wait "about a week to see if this will eliminate or substantially reduce the odors."

Packerland has been issued several citations by the TACB for operating without a required air scrubber system in the rendering portion of the plant and for violation of a nuisance order.

While in Pampa Warner visited with "various city health officials" and with Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, he said.

Warner said that he wants to "see if we can eliminate this odor without closing the plant down."

He did say, however, that if it appears necessary to issue a temporary restraining order, he would "recommend it to the Austin TACB headquarters. Our legal counsel would take this information and go before a judge who would have to accept the information before he would issue the temporary restraining order."

Packerland has taken steps to correct the odor problem. An air scrubber system has been ordered and currently is under construction. It is expected to be in Pampa on about Nov. 11 and reportedly will be installed within two or three weeks of that date.

Warner said that while in Pampa he "spot checked three or four citizens out in their yards and not too many are aware that equipment has been ordered."

The News reported on Aug. 28 that Howard Frankenthal, Packerland general manager, had ordered an air scrubber system "for the purpose of odor abatement."

A story in Tuesday edition of The News also reported that Packerland has ordered the necessary equipment which reportedly is costing the firm more than $70,000.

University of Texas-Austin President Lorene Rogers says the school is innocent of sex discrimination charges which could cost it more than $20 million annually in government contracts.

The charges, filed Thursday by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, claimed art history faculty member Janet Rollins Berry had been denied promotion and pay equal to that of male faculty members.

"We could not see that sex discrimination had anything to do with her lack of promotion," said Mrs. Rogers, who headed the 1971 UT committee named to investigate Ms. Berry's initial complaint.

"We were one of the first universities in the nation to have an approved affirmative action program."

Mrs. Rogers said the Texas attorney general's office would respond to the allegation by today's deadline and said no further statements would be issued.

before an administrative judge it could automatically lose the government awards

Three Arrested Here

Three persons were arrested Thursday afternoon after Buddy Roland, owner of the 101 Club, reported that he was fired at while standing in the doorway as a brown vehicle with three men took off.

No one was hit, the report read. The vehicle was stopped six miles east of Pampa on U.S. 60 by two officers of the Texas Highway Patrol, including Sgt. David Womack.

One of the three was a juvenile who was released to his parents.

Ronald Alvin Conn, 24, of Perryton was charged with driving while intoxicated and with carrying a prohibitive weapon. He was released today on a $2,000 bond set by Justice of Peace Ed Anderson.

Darrell Albert Berry, 29, of Canadian was in the Gray County jail this morning on charges of aggravated assault with a firearm. His bond was set at $2,500 by Judge Anderson.

Challenges of 'doublepeak'

There was one of those good news-bad news stories the other day. The good news was that a national sample of high school students showed a 2 per cent increase in basic reading skills during the last three years. The bad news was that a group of brainy 17-year-olds had trouble reading and understanding insurance policies, application forms for membership in a book club and traffic tickets.

We're glad to hear that reading skills are improving, although the report seems to go counter to what we've heard lately. And it would seem that reading for pleasure by young people has fallen off in the age of television.

But it is the bad news part of the story that adults should address, especially educators, bureaucrats and other perpetrators of linguistic sins that baffle 17-year-olds. In the "other" category we are quick to include persons who write for newspapers.

Not that the practice of using a long word where a short word will do is new. In his essay "Politics and the English Language," George Orwell told 30 years ago what a technocrat can do to the language with a translation from a biblical passage. The original, from Ecclesiastes:

"I returned and saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favour to men of skill: but time and chance happeneth to them all."

Orwell's view of how a technocrat would write it:

"Objective consideration of contemporary phenomena compels the conclusion that success or failure in competitive activities exhibits no tendency to be commensurate with innate capacity, but that a considerable element of the unpredictable must invariably be taken into account."

Such gobbledygook would be laughable if it was not all too typical of breakdowns in communication existing in our society today. Long, multi-syllable words, passive voice, use of unfamiliar words add up to what the National Council of Teachers of English calls Doublepeak.

There are real dangers in such clouded writing. There is abdication of responsibility involved when a person writes "It was noted" instead of "I noted." It is a pallid neutrality that apparently stems from a scientific desire to be meticulously objective.

"The major danger here," writes education authority Rexford Brown, "is that people who use language conventions that relieve them of responsibility for their words and actions will tend increasingly not to assume that responsibility."

The English teachers' organization warns that mangling the language is a conscious or unconscious desire to attack understanding, stifle thinking, in short refuse to communicate. All of which leads to psychologist Rollo May's somber thesis that when we cannot talk any longer, we fight.

We are quoting several authorities today, and we would conclude by quoting one of the best on the subject of good writing: Fowler's "The King's English." He urges writers "to be direct, simple, brief, vigorous and lucid," and offers these vocabulary rules:

- "Prefer the familiar word to the far-fetched.
- "Prefer the concrete word to the abstract.
- "Prefer the single word to the circumlocution.
- "Prefer the short word to the long.
- "Prefer the Saxon word to the Romance."

If more people followed these rules we would go far toward staving off the 1984 world of Doublepeak.

FACELESS INFORMANT 'Sore Throat' Buffeting AMA

By CLARK MOLLENHOFF WASHINGTON, D.C. — The methodical caution with which an informant nicknamed "Sore Throat" has been buffeting the American Medical Association (AMA) could be a model for effective newspaper informants.

The soft-voiced man who has made various parts of his documentation available to a dozen Washington newsmen says that he has material that is even more explosive. The material, in connection with possible anti-trust law violations, will be distributed to selected newsmen.

Unlike the Watergate informant identified as "Deep Throat," the mysterious "Sore Throat" has furnished in-depth documentation for his allegations on questionable lobbying tactics that have resulted in Postal Service and Internal Revenue Service investigations.

The AMA has not successfully challenged the authenticity of copies of correspondence that were purported to be from the files of the AMA and the American Medical Political Action Committee (AMPAC). In fact, an AMA representative verified the authenticity of the correspondence after first challenging them when the Scripps-Howard newspapers printed the first stories from "Sore Throat."

"Sore Throat" contacts reporters by telephone, and only reporters he trusts. No reporters have seen him during the two months he has been dropping envelopes of AMA documents.

and he said that he has no intention of disclosing his identity because he does not believe it is important.

Besides reporters, "Sore Throat" has also delivered documents to Ralph Nader and John Moss (D-Cal.) for the House Commerce Oversight Subcommittee.

Moss and subcommittee staffers have been impressed by the documents supplied and the ability of the mysterious informant to obtain other documentation from AMA files on request.

Moss subcommittee investigators are convinced of the authenticity of the documents delivered to them because of the lack of effective challenge by the MAM to this material that has produced dozens of news stories. But Chairman Moss will not make a decision on the investigative course to follow until there has been a direct authentication of the documents that seems to support civil anti-trust actions and criminal charges against some AMA officials.

The only thing known about "Sore Throat" is his own brief explanation that he is a doctor who was on the AMA staff for about ten years and "went along with AMA policies" but later became disillusioned.

"Sore Throat" says he was among the 70 employees fired last spring in a cutback order by Dr. James Sammons, the new AMA executive vice-president, but any description he has given might be misinformation deliberately designed to veil his true identity.

While some reporters have resented dealing with a faceless informant, professional investigators and experienced reporters are willing to forego face-to-face meetings for the greater responsibility of supportive documents — something "Deep Throat" never delivered to Washington Post reporters Robert Woodward and Carl Bernstein in the Watergate probe. "Deep Throat" told the two reporters few facts and only vaguely verified the details of information they had obtained from other sources of questionable reliability.

To guard his identity, "Sore Throat" has delivered his documentation in a variety of ways, including the mail, delivery by several different messengers who do not identify themselves and through "drops" with instructions as to where the documents will be found.

"Sore Throat" has stimulated a series of stories dealing with the AMA's questionable contributions to AMPAC, its efforts to assure that doctors who shared the AMA's conservative political philosophy were appointed to federal advisory panels, and embarrassing lobbying links with drug companies to kill legislation designed to provide less expensive medicines.

"Sore Throat's" documents have stimulated activity by congressmen to determine if the political contributions violate laws barring political activity by corporations.

The Internal Revenue Service has intensified an investigation of whether the AMA's activities are grounds for barring it from tax-exempt status, which could cost the AMA more than $10 million, and could result in it losing the lower, second-class mailing privileges for the Journal of the American Medical Association.

At the first activities of "Sore Throat" were considered a laughing matter at the AMA. But within a few weeks "Sore Throat" had given the AMA such a headache that it arranged for private investigators to try to identify the smuggler with lie detector tests. The failure of that mission was demonstrated in the last weeks when "Sore Throat" delivered specific documents requested by congressional investigators.

"Sore Throat" says he is interested only in "reform" of AMA policies, but it is apparent that he is also getting some enjoyment out of the games he is playing with investigators seeking his identity.

Wishing on a Star

Some of the big names in science have signed a statement debunking astrology, a branch of human lore that has been debunked with great regularity for centuries. This time around, the 186 scientists and the American Humanist Association are saying that astrology is contributing to "irrationalism and obscurantism" in human affairs to such a degree that something ought to be done about it.

History suggests that belief in sorcery or horoscopes or other pseudo-sciences has brought the world less grief than effort by non-believers to suppress such heresies. What should we do with our astrologers? Burn them at the stake? If some people want to plot their lives according to the stars, that's their privilege.

'Academic Bankruptcy' In Colleges Questioned

By MAX RAFFERTY

Q — "Just heard a rumor that there is such a thing as 'academic bankruptcy' in the universities today and is in practice at Indiana University. I can well visualize financial bankruptcy due to many unforeseen causes and a new start made with success. But mental bankruptcy?" — H.H.N., Indianapolis, Ind.

A — Yes, there is such a thing as academic bankruptcy, and it's not at all a bad idea. I don't know how it is applied in Indiana, but at the university where I work it goes this way: If you receive failing or very low grades during a single quarter and can demonstrate that this was related to illness, accident or a traumatic personal experience such as death in the family or divorce, you may apply for and receive academic bankruptcy. The application simply erases that particular quarter from your university record, and you are thus free to retake the subjects and to receive new grades.

Footnote: you can only go down this road once. No repeat performances.

Q — "My husband and I have been married 40 years. We feel that it has been a good marriage. Since we were married, he has had no other relationships with any other woman (yes, I am very sure!) nor have I had any with any other man.

Our two daughters, unfortunately, are divorced. I blame their 'education.' It might have happened anyway, but we sent them to a religiously backed college in the belief that they would maintain the values we had. According to the professors, about the worst 'sin' one could commit would be to conform. A laugh could be obtained by mentioning that one's grandmother thought it wrong to use lipstick. So why conform to the beliefs of one's forebears? What is the matter with living together without the benefit of marriage? Just because others have believed it was 'wrong,' why should we? And on and on.

Our two daughters, though very well educated (with doctor's degrees), are very lonely. Please, for their sake, keep my name and address confidential. In a small town, everyone knows who has two daughters with doctors' degrees!" — Anonymous By Request.

A — Your letter illustrates perfectly the vast harm which wise-guy professors can do to their students by holding up to ridicule all standards of morality and simple decency. It illustrates something else, too: the reason so many people these days are taking an increasingly dim view of college professors generally.

Q — "Thanks for expressing your views on education. There is much good and much not-so-good 'that with which I do not agree, perhaps' in the educational systems of today. One thing I know — there are wonderful, unique, interested students in our schools, at the small college where I am an administrator, and in other schools as well. If they are taught by wonderful, unique and interested instructors, the resulting 'system' is greater than the whole of its parts.

"Perhaps — just perhaps — with the plethora of teachers these days, only the dedicated and capable ones will be hired and retained!" — J.M., Lebanon, Ill.

A — I certainly hope you're right. My own feeling is that we have just as many brilliant and dedicated teachers as we had 50 or 60 years ago. The trouble is that — due to mass compulsory education and the Niagara of college enrollments during the Sixties — we've also had to hire people as teachers who in former days would have been pretty good salesmen, plumbers and secretaries, but who are about as capable as teachers as I would be as an astronaut.

School administrators today — thanks to the teacher surplus you mention — have an absolutely marvelous opportunity to sharply improve the caliber and quality of teaching. Now if we can only get them to do it!

Daughter Lured into May-Dec. Romance

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow who is trying to pave the road smoothly for my 19-year-old daughter. She is very pretty, and I have never had any trouble with her until now. It seems that she has a crush on a tall, handsome, 44-year-old salesman who drinks rather heavily, lives an hour's drive from here and has stood her up on five dates already.

He always had an excuse the day after, but never let her know while she sat all dressed up waiting for him. I feel that he is wrong for her, but I can't seem to get that idea through her head. She could date others, closer to her age, who live nearer to her, but she waits faithfully for this long-distance Romeo. Can you help me?

PUZZLED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Seldom does a 19-year-old girl listen to her mother in such matters. If it hasn't occurred to your daughter that this man is married—it should.

If she's wise, she'll find out more about him. He sounds like a bad apple, but don't knock him. It will only cause her to come to his defense.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing a Dear Abby letter, but I want to speak out in defense of PIANC LESSON HATER, to whom you said, "I've had thousands of people tell me they were sorry they quit piano, but not one ever said he was glad he quit."

Well, now you can retract that statement, Abby. My mother was a piano teacher, and she made me practice an hour every day from the time I was 8 until I was 15. (I'm a boy.) I never was very good at piano, and I hated it. I finally talked her into letting me quit to take guitar lessons.

I worked at every odd job I could get to buy a guitar and pay for my own lessons—that's how much I wanted to learn. And nobody had to force me to practice, either. I suppose I should thank my mom for having exposed me to music in the first place, but music should be "fun"—not drudgery. And when a kid gets to a certain age, I think he should be allowed to select his own instrument and his own kind of music. What do you think?

HATED PIANO—LOVES GUITAR

DEAR HATED: I agree, there comes a time when parents should allow their children to pursue their own interests and develop their own talents, but few 8 year olds are ready for that.

DEAR ABBY: My husband refuses to do anything for himself. He refuses to clean up after himself or hang up his clothes. Asking him to do anything around the yard is like talking to a stone wall. He won't even put gas in the car. I have to balance the checkbook for both of us and even shine his shoes.

If I complain, he tells me that's what he got married for—so he wouldn't have to do any of these things for himself.

D. IN RIVERSIDE

DEAR D.: How spoiled is he? If this has been going on for years, he may be beyond repair. If this is a new wrinkle, iron it out with counseling. Both of you.

Politics something else

The potential return on the American investment in space is explored in a study released recently by a team of National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists.

The group proposed that the United States move toward setting up a colony in the moon's orbit, where as many as 10,000 pioneers could engage in industrial and agricultural activities, set up stores and schools and complete the "basic step in expanding habitation of the universe."

"No fundamental scientific obstacles" were envisioned to creation of the one-mile diameter, wheel-shaped station, estimated to carry a price tag of about $100 billion.

But a nation immersed in Bicentennial fascination with history might be wary of the political implications. There is no indication that the planners have considered such grave issues as taxation and colonial representation in Congress.

Caution must be exercised to minimize the changes of a "lunar tea party" or other rebellious acts against a government 240,000 miles away.

Unemployment Declines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rethiring of 100,000 laid-off factory workers and the reopening of schools dropped the unemployment rate in September to 8.3 per cent, its lowest level in seven months, the Labor Department reported today.

The jobless rate in August was 8.4 per cent in August, the same as July but well below the 9.2 per cent in May which was the worst unemployment statistic this year.

Young people returning to high schools and colleges caused the unemployment rate among teen-agers to drop 1.8 per cent to 19.3, a significant factor in the slight overall decrease in the jobless rate.

Total unemployment in September totaled 7.8 million workers, unchanged from August when rounded off. Total employment also was unchanged at 85.4 million. But gains of 100,000 jobs reduced unemployment slightly, resulting in the small monthly decline.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics takes two surveys for determining the jobless rate. One is a survey of households, the other of employer payrolls. The surveys merged in September after showing discrepancies in recent months.

As measured by the household survey, which had been the more optimistic in July and August, the jobless rate was unchanged. But nonfarm payrolls "increased by about 100,000 in September, nearly all of it in the bellwether manufacturing industries," BLS said.

Nonfarm employment totaled 77.2 million in September. BLS said there were 100,000 new jobs in durable goods, manufacturing of electrical equipment, primary metals, machinery and furniture. In nondurable goods, there were job gains of 80,000 in production of clothing, textiles and food processing.

In other economic developments in the nation's capital: — The Labor Department said higher prices for food, fuels and metals boosted wholesale prices by 0.6 per cent in September. For the past three months combined, prices increased at a compounded annual rate of 11.1 per cent for wholesale buyers. This rate, if passed along to the retail level, would return the nation to the double-digit inflation of 1974.

Prince Sihanouk Travels to UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state, traveled to New York today to join the world's diplomatic stars and also-rans at the U.N. General Assembly.

The prince, arriving in New York this afternoon, followed a flamboyant, two-day appearance by Field Marshal Idi Amin, Uganda's colorful and unpredictable president.

Sihanouk, who recently ended five years of exile to face Cambodia's new Communist strongman, has led his country on and off since 1941 — first as king and later as chief of state.

Amin denounced Israel, Britain and the United States Thursday but wound up his visit with protestations of love for all — even neighboring Tanzania, a country he threatened to invade last summer.

The Ugandan leader hosted a buffet for U.N. diplomats, but U.S. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan and British Ambassador Ivor Richard boycotted the reception because of attacks against their countries.

Wearing a colorful field marshal's uniform with parachute wings won during training in Israel, Amin said the Jewish state chains its pilots into U.S.-built Phantom jets for raids against Arab lands.

"I saw it myself," he told a news conference Thursday. "They were locked in. Palestinians are being murdered and slaughtered every day, bombed by the Phantoms."

Amin, who called for Israel's "extinction" the day before, said New York City was in financial trouble "because the money of innocent Americans is being used to buy arms for Israel to murder the Arab people."

A day after criticizing America's racial policies, Amin thanked President Ford for giving him Secret Service protection. "I love him very much," he said. "He is looking after me and I thank him very much."

He put aside his recent confrontation with Tanzania by saying "the people of Tanzania are our brothers and sisters and we love living with them."

Giving Blood

Employees of Marie Foundations, 800 E. Kingsmill, turned out in record numbers this morning to donate blood when the Coffee Memorial Blood Center facilities set up here. They expected about 35 donors, but about 70 lined up, according to Dale Greenhouse, manager. Anita James, an employee of Marie Foundations for the past eight months, was among the first donors.

Patty-SLA Link Tightens

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Justice Department, in its first such move in the tangled case of Patricia Hearst, has validated reports describing her kidnap, conversion to a radical philosophy, and 19-month "underground" life.

Robert Stevenson, a spokesman for the Justice Department, told reporters Thursday he believed the account detailed in Rolling Stone magazine was "essentially accurate" although he said he could not confirm it "line by line."

Stevenson also reluctantly confirmed reports in The San Francisco Chronicle Thursday saying authorities had established a link between Miss Hearst and a Sacramento robbery of a Crocker bank in which a mother of four children was murdered.

Federal authorities said the link could bring death penalty charges against her.

Rolling Stone earlier this week reported Miss Hearst turned down an offer to go home. The offer, according to the magazine, came from radical sports activist Jack Scott. She said, "I want to go where my friends are going."

The "friends" were her former captors, SLA members William and Emily Harris, and the destination was a Pennsylvania farmhouse where the fugitives hid during the summer of 1974, according to Rolling Stone.

The magazine also said Scott's wife, Micki, rented the farmhouse for $1,000 a month. Stevenson declined to answer reporters' questions on whether Scott himself would face criminal charges.

Stevenson also confirmed reports in the Oakland Tribune that said FBI agents had confiscated William Harris' "memoirs" in the Mission District house where he and his wife were arrested Sept. 18.

Grandma Says She Wouldn't Know Arsenic If She Saw It

FLORENCE, S.C. (UPI) — Mrs. Elmer Conyers, a 53-year-old grandmother accused of killing two husbands with arsenic in their coffee, testified Thursday that "I wouldn't know arsenic if I saw it."

The defense rested its case after Mrs. Conyers' denial she ever poisoned anyone or ever bought arsenic and the case was to go to the jury today.

Mrs. Conyers also testified she knew nothing about the $13,000 insurance on her two husbands, or about $8,000 worth of property owned by her husbands or relatives. She testified that both her husbands were alcoholics, and that her mission in life was to help others.

She is being tried only for the death of her second husband, 37-year-old Milton Reece Conyers, who she said would "drink anything he could get his hands on," including rubbing alcohol and ammonia.

Mrs. Conyers has been charged with killing Willie Graham Stone, 52, her first husband, in 1967, and giving nonfatal doses of arsenic to three other relatives.

She said she refused an autopsy on Conyers because "I didn't want him cut up. I didn't want him to be burned, and it would have cost more money which I didn't have."

The doctor who signed the death certificate, Dr. L.C. Floyd, testified he has recommended an autopsy because he considered the death "highly suspicious."

Also testifying Thursday was John Isgett, a farmer living near the Conyers' home. He said that many of the pesticides that were once used in the area contained arsenic, and said it was possible that a well used by the Conyers had contained arsenic through the drainage of pesticides. However, he said under cross examination that he had no way of knowing if the water from the well was dangerous, and said he did not know of anyone who had ever become ill from drinking the water.

Hightower Tells Passage Of Beef Research Act

Congressman Jack Hightower Thursday announced final passage of the Beef Research and Information Act by the House of Representatives.

The bill, HR 7656, passed by a margin of 40 votes — 229 to 189.

"I am delighted with this action by the House," the Congressman said. "In approving the bill by such a substantial margin, the House has firmly endorsed and commended the beef industry's desire and intent to help itself."

Hightower said the bill will enable cattlemen to conduct a referendum on whether a two-thirds majority favors a uniform collection to establish a fund for research, consumer and producer information, and market development.

The program is voluntary allowing any producer to get his assessment refunded upon request.

The Congressman said there had been intense lobbying against the bill by organized consumer groups, prompting the House leadership to postpone final consideration three times.

Representative Fred Richmond (D-N.Y.) offered an amendment that would have mandated that 50 per cent of the 98-member beef board must be made up of consumers. His amendment was soundly defeated by voice vote.

"Beef industry leaders believe the program must have extensive input from consumers, but they believe and the House concurs that those who finance the program should control it," Hightower said.

The congressman said the program will cost the government nothing.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will conduct the referendum. As originally proposed, producers would reimburse the department for all administrative expenses if the referendum passed.

An amendment was approved by the House that provides for the posting of surety bonds prior to the referendum sufficient to pay the cost of the referendum should the referendum fail.

"In passing this bill today we took a positive step toward enacting legislation that will be of benefit to all Americans at no cost to the taxpayers. It is seldom that we are given such an opportunity. I was pleased to be a co-sponsor of the bill," Hightower said.

Gunmen in London Release Hostages

LONDON (UPI) — Three gunmen released six hostages from the basement of an Italian restaurant today, but the ringleader shot himself rather than surrender at the end of the five-day siege.

The six Italian captives filed out of the Spaghetti House restaurant shortly after 4 a.m., looking tired and drawn but apparently in good condition. Two of the gunmen followed about 20 minutes later and surrendered to police.

A shot then rang out from the cellar prison. Police rushed in and found Franklyn Davis, the gang's leader, with a self-inflicted stomach wound. Soetland Yard said he was not seriously injured.

The drama began Sunday when the gunmen — Nigerian-born Davis and West Indians

Wesley Dick and Tony Munroe — botched a robbery attempt at the restaurant and herded eight employees into a cramped basement storeroom.

Two of the captives were released early this week.

The gunmen claimed to represent a black liberation movement and demanded a plane to fly them to the West Indies. But police said they were common criminals and refused to make any deals.

Deputy Police Commissioner Colin Woods said authorities had less than an hour's warning that the siege would end. He gave no details on the talks that led to the release of the hostages.

"These matters are now for the court to decide," he said. "But I'm delighted that it is all over."

Kansas City Firemen Strike

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Firemen went on strike today, walking picket lines in a demand for pay equal to police wages. The city used public works employees to fight fires.

"I won't gild the lily. It's a minimum operation," Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr. said of the emergency fire-fighting procedures. "I feel a major incident would require my appealing to the firemen."

Sixteen public works employees were called to do the work of the striking members of the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 42, which represents all but a few of the city's 875 firemen.

The union issued a statement urging citizens to fill containers with water to put out fires, keep children under close watch, be careful with combustible materials and "PRAY!"

The first fire alarm reported after the strike deadline was at an abandoned house and policemen who arrived at the scene first tried to put it out with hand extinguishers and then were instructed to let it burn.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond authorized the Missouri National Guard to send troops in to protect public property, but they were instructed not to fight fires.

"We're not trained to do it, we're not equipped to do it, we don't feel that that's our responsibility," said Guard Adjutant Gen. Charles M. Kieffer in Jefferson City.

Kieffer said he sent in about 75 guardsmen who teamed with policemen in protecting fire stations. Wheeler said the guardsmen might ride with the public works crews to protect them. In addition, members of the Air National Guard trained in airport fire fighting manned the crash station at the Kansas City International Airport so the airport could stay open.

The strikers ignored a judge's restraining order issued late Thursday.

Congress Partially Lifts Arms Embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has agreed to partially lift the arms embargo against Turkey, apparently swayed by President Ford's urging that the ban worsened rather than improved the Cyprus problem.

The House voted 237-176 Thursday for a Senate-passed measure that would release $185 million in arms purchased by Turkey before the Feb. 5, 1975 embargo went into effect.

Only Senate agreement to a House amendment calling for Ford to "discuss" with Turkey the problem of optimum coming into the United States was needed to send the measure to the White House.

Church Charges Returns Used Against Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, charged today the federal government has used confidential tax returns as "instruments of harassment" against American citizens.

Church, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, unleashed an attack against use of tax records by federal agencies investigating groups and personalities ranging from the American Library Association and the University of North Carolina to individual congressmen, newsmen, actors and rock singers.

"Tax return confidentiality has eroded to the point where our federal government has turned these supposedly private documents into instruments of harassment used against citizens for political reasons," Church said in a statement opening hearings into the operations of the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander acknowledged to the Senate committee that the IRS in the past had overstepped its investigative bounds. But, Alexander said, he was working for more than two years to abolish those abuses.

On the other side of Capitol Hill, the House Select Committee on Intelligence was holding a closed session as it continued its investigation on how well U.S. intelligence functioned in predicting events during the Cyprus crisis of last year.

Church said the panel, which is investigating the U.S. intelligence gathering community, is examining closely "ways in which other intelligence services have made use of the IRS as a lending library of tax information."

"This great storehouse of data on American citizens has proved to be irresistably tantalizing to other federal agencies, particularly the FBI."

He called attention to an IRS branch called the "Special Services Staff," which has the task of investigating political activists.

"One wonders how an agency designed to collect revenue got into the business of defining and investigating political protesters," he said. "There was some 8,000 individuals and 3,000 organizations on the SSS list."

He said the list included such organizations as The American Civil Liberties Union, the American Library Association, the Conservative Book Club, the Ford Foundation, Head Start program, the NAACP and the University of North Carolina.

He asked Alexander how columnist Joseph Alsop, writer Jimmy Breslin, soul singer James Brown, Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling, Sens. Charles Goodell and Ernest Gruening and others could appear on this list.

Alexander said he only found out about the SSS organization the day after he was sworn into office in May, 1973, but not of its full functions.

"I do share your concern. I have tried and continue to try to do something about it," the tax chief said.

On Wednesday, the CIA admitted to the House panel that its "analytical performance fell quite short of the mark" in predicting the Cyprus invasion.

CIA assessments and committee affidavits from witnesses showed that:

— The agency failed to predict the coup engineered by Greek junta leader Gen. Demetrios Ioannidis, which overthrew Cypriot President Makarios although Ioannidis was said to have confided his plans to CIA agents in Athens who were personal friends.

— The CIA Athens agents did not report anything to John Tasca, then U.S. Ambassador to Greece, and he said he was also left completely in the dark about Greco-Turkish negotiations being carried out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and high department officials.

— The CIA did predict the July 20 Turkish invasion of Cyprus five days in advance but said the State Department "took little if any preventive action and claims it did not get the message."

— Ambassador Tasca urgently suggested the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean be put between the Turkey and Cyprus "to show the flag" and possibly prevent the Turkish invasion, but his message to Washington was ignored.

On the other side of Congress, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence was meeting in open session with Donald C. Alexander, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, as the chief witness.

He Stopped Kidney Machine

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (UPI) — Chuck McCracken, who took himself off the kidney machine that kept him alive, waited almost three months to "die in dignity." But in the end death came unexpectedly.

McCracken, of San Bernardino, Calif., died Wednesday night at Loma Linda Community Hospital, 11 weeks and four days after he took himself off the artificial kidney machine. He was 37.

Blind and partially paralyzed from a kidney ailment and diabetes, McCracken said the dialysis treatments he needed were "sheer agony" and he wished "to die in dignity."

He had been ill for 24 years and even if he continued the treatments, doctors had warned him he would probably die in about a year.

"I don't believe a person should commit suicide," he said, but he believed God gave him the right to choose death in his own time over life dragged out by a machine.

"To be kept alive by doctors is not quite humane."

He was in and out of the hospital as his health slowly failed. He was readmitted Tuesday "so his family would not have to live with memories of his death in their home," a friend said.

All along he had expected to die of uremic poisoning, a lingering death preceded by slipping into a deepening coma. He expected to feel the approach of death—"twitching of nerves, drowsiness, nausea, a comatose state and then sleep," he once predicted.

Kelley Says Wire Taps Fight Organized Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said Thursday court-approved wire-taps have become one of the most effective tools for fighting organized crime.

Kelley urged 400 state attorneys general, police chiefs and business leaders at a national organized crime conference to seek similar state authority if their legislatures have not already acted.

Congress authorized wiretaps in the 1968 Safe Streets Act and Kelly said it "has proved to be one of our most effective tools for penetrating the hard protective shell that surrounds racketeering operations."

He said half the states have passed similar enabling legislation and added, "I cannot urge too strongly that other states follow suit."

"Their citizens are being denied the benefits and the protections of a highly valuable investigative tool—one that has been tested in and approved by the courts, one that has a well-established record of producing positive results."

For three days conference participants will discuss gambling, narcotics, gangland infiltration of legitimate business, corruption of public officials and other phases of organized crime activity.

"DON'T PANIC" by Ruth Winter Drawing by Roy Doty.

Family Emergencies: How To Cope With Emotions

(This was excerpted from "Don't Panic: What To Do and What Not To Do in All Kinds of Family Emergencies" by Ruth Winter. Published by Western Publishing Co., Inc. Copyright (c) 1975 by Ruth Winter. Reprinted by permission of publisher.) Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

By RUTH WINTER

Everyone has experienced that breath-catching, heart-pounding, indecisive feeling known as "panic" when confronted with an emergency. You can't think clearly, and you aren't certain what to do first.

This experience is so common because we rarely expect an emergency—a situation which requires immediate action. We live as if such things happen to other people, not to us. Yet we are all frequently confronted with emergencies.

While you are urged to act quickly, remember it is rarely necessary to react instantaneously. Even when someone has stopped breathing, you have several minutes before permanent damage occurs. Take a deep breath yourself, gather your thoughts and then begin the proper procedure. It is better to do nothing than to do something that may make matters worse.

emergency situation. Such crises can be as major as a death in the family or as relatively minor as being locked out of the house.

As with physical emergencies, knowing what to do before, during and afterward can help prevent panic. Emergency action should be taken when a person appears to be on the verge of doing himself bodily harm or endangering the lives of others.

SUICIDE THREAT: Suicide is ranked as the tenth leading cause of death in the United States. In the 15- to 19-year age group it is ranked third, and it is the second most common cause of death on college campuses.

A suicide threat should always be taken seriously. There is a common misconception that a person who threatens to commit suicide never does. Doctors say that quite the contrary is true.

A person who is considering suicide always has mixed feelings, according to medical experts. He wishes to live at the same time he wishes to die.

Doctors agree that the most dangerous period may be when a depressed patient or a person who has threatened suicide suddenly becomes cheerful, even though nothing has apparently changed to warrant it. It may mean he has finally made up his mind to take his life.

If you suspect a potential suicide, contact your personal physician or a suicide-prevention center. If no such center is listed under "suicide" in your phone book, call the local mental health center, your local chapter of the National Mental Health Assn., the nearest state mental hospital or the local police to ask where you may obtain help.

DANGEROUS BEHAVIOR: A person subject to dangerous behavior, although often portrayed in books, TV programs and movies, is relatively rare. You must handle such a patient calmly and firmly without confusion or threats. If danger is imminent, do not hesitate to call the police.

In general, it is always better to treat a patient with respect, no matter how bizarre or abusive he becomes. Try to divert his attention from what is bothering him. Do not argue with him, and do not physically restrain him unless he is about to do harm to himself or others.

Another family crisis which may not be so dramatic but which can be emotionally devastating is the loss of employment.

LOSING A JOB: When you are supporting or helping to support a family, losing a job can be a shattering experience. Instead of giving way to panic or depression, get busy and begin looking for work immediately.

If a resume of your job experience is required, prepare one. Place your name, address and telephone number at the top left-hand corner of the page. Start with the most recent employment and work backward to your educational background.

Look for job possibilities in the classified advertisements of your local newspaper. Contact your state employment agency, which will try to find employment for you free of charge. If you belong to a professional association or union, contact its headquarters for possible job offers.

You may want to place a classified ad in daily and weekly newspapers or in a trade paper in your field stating your qualifications and type of position you are seeking.

To help you find a job locally or in another area of the country, you may contact one of the 8,600 employment agencies that function throughout the country. Not all employment agencies are honorable. Some overcharge, promise jobs they don't have and waste your time and money.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: For several years, I was a volunteer in a hospital emergency room, and sometimes an unconscious person was brought in with no pertinent information in purse or billfold. As you know, the staff in any emergency room cannot do anything until those forms are signed by the patient, or until a relative is contacted by phone. Since then, I keep a card in my billfold, with my driver's license on the back. On it, I've listed my blood type and any drugs I'm allergic to, plus my doctor's name and phone number. Also, names and phone numbers of a couple of relatives to be contacted and my accident insurance company and policy number. I just hope it will never be needed. Volunteer So do!! But it's good advice to all the rest of us. Bless you for helping others

...Days When Millinery Profession Prospered

By ANNA BURCHELL Pampa News Staff The beret—the turban—the britain—they are all symbolic of the days when millinery was a prospering profession. A Pampa woman who sold millinery for many years in Texas hopes to see hats in style again soon. But, Ruth Smith of 300 Browning, who saw wigs take the place of hats, has her doubts. "To me a woman is not well dressed without a hat," she said. "I realize hair is more important, but in the cities I understand hats are coming back."

department where Mrs. Smith worked, wigs took their place. "And wigs, like hats, should be chosen according to the facial shape and coloring—a right style for everyone," she believes. Mrs. Smith has seen a lot of changes in style. "But I can't predict what the future brings or whether hats will return." Hats were like dresses. "Many of my customers who adored hats bought lots of them," she reminisced. As for herself, she no longer owns a hat. "I moved to California when I had the most hats," she said and they somehow got away from her. A native of Cass County, Tex., Mrs. Smith married at the age of 18. She has one daughter, Nancy Harber of Lubbock, and two grandsons. Asked how she felt about the young people today, she replied: "They are good kids, but they are so different from us... a generation gap they call it."

NM Offers Christmas For Five-digit Shopper

DALLAS (UPI) — Last year the Neiman Marcus Christmas catalog offered his and her hoverbugs for the discerning Texas millionaire shopping for just the right five figure gift. This year's stocking stuffer suggestion is a Utah dinosaur safari — at a bargain rate of $29.95. In previous years the store has dangled before the wealthy shopper such trinkets as his and her 2,000 year old mummy cases, matching camels, matching submarines and in 1974 the $3,640 economy-size hovercraft. Twenty of jet-air cushioned land and sea vehicles were sold in January alone, the store reports.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

But "for the hunter to keep: a bronze cast of the monster's skull and the satisfaction of a contribution toward posterity." Only one ailosaurus and one bronze skull per couple is allowed for the $29.95 and "regretfully, no dogs allowed on the dig." For those who don't want to hunt dinosaurs the 1975 catalog offers more than 100 pages of gifts from the $6,000 Bicentennial Volume One of an historic art-literature portfolio of originals entitled "Your Huddled Masses" to the $17 keg of branded peaches. Other suggestions include the 24K gold paper clips ($12.50 for 50) and the leather-covered hardwood executive yo-yo ($15 including gift initials).

Although bridge bidding has become quite scientific during the past decade, owing to the introduction and development of the various artificial "one club" systems, guesswork and wishful thinking still play a predominant role in the bidding of many deals. Such was the case in the deal that follows. It was played in a team-of-four match at the 1975 Summer National Championships. East-West vulnerable. North deals.

The his and her special this year is a "very real paleontological safari into the wilds of east central Utah." Included is the guarantee the hunter and his mate will unearth the skeletal remains of an ailosaurus, a flesh-eating dinosaur of old staked out by researchers from the University of Utah.

Some of the listings in between: A ballpoint pen with a built-in calculator ($80); the Gravy Train, a silver-plated electric train that carries dining condiments around the dinner table on an oval track ($8,000); a sterling silver oral thermometer case, ($25 plain, $28 monogrammed); and a box of 12 Texas grapefruit with serrated knife from France ($9.50).

'Wayward' Wife Must Pay Child Support

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Oklahoma husbands have won their second court victory this week with a ruling by the State Court of Appeals that a "wayward" wife may be forced to pay child support to her ex-husband. The appeals court made its ruling Tuesday in the case of Erelene Marie Maytabby. The State Supreme Court, ruling in a separate case Monday, declared unconstitutional a law which gave the wife all of a couple's property in a divorce case. Mrs. Maytabby, who has since remarried, appealed an Oklahoma county district court opinion ordering her to pay $75 per month child support to her former husband, William Dudley Maytabby. Appeals Judge Paul Brightmire ruled against the wife. "Where a woman after 20 years of marriage breaches her marital contract by transferring her affections to another man, may the court require the was not sufficient evidence to justify the award. Brightmire noted the husband had assumed the responsibility of keeping up the home and caring for the children. "On the other hand," he continued, "appellant (the wife) earning about $400 a month gross, has apparently been enjoying free room and board since leaving appellee and now that she is remarried this advantage should continue for awhile."

Opening lead: Four of ♣. Sitting South was Ron Smith, of St. Louis. When his partner jumped to three diamonds over West's one-heart bid, South assumed that his partner had a solid six- or seven-card suit. And, of course, North figured to have high-card strength outside of the diamond suit, since South, West would now have surely shifted to a club, and East couldn't be prevented from winning a trick with the club king, thus defeating South's contract. South, of course, could never enter his own hand to cash either his two high spades or the king of hearts. Hope High School, Hope, Ark., enlisted the aid of student advisors to set up a sidewalk cafe decorated by students and serving Type A sack lunches.

The Church Looks At Family Again

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Editor

Some five years ago, in its Christmas cover story, Time magazine announced to the world that the American family was in a deep crisis.

The changing life-styles so dominant in the late 1960s — communal living, increased divorce, birth control and abortion, mobility and the changing role of women — seemed to be knocking the supports out from under the traditional American nuclear family.

While the disaster that many social analysts were predicting a half a decade ago hasn't yet come to pass, many church leaders are still deeply concerned and believe the family, as a primary social unit, is still in crisis.

The Roman Catholic Church, for example, has chosen the family as topic for its fourth regional hearing on its bi-centennial theme of "Liberty and Justice for All."

The hearings, set for Atlanta, this weekend, will involve both Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and Bishop James S. Rausch, general secretary of the bishops' conference and its action arm, the United States Catholic Conference, underlining the importance attached to the topic.

A wide range of Protestants, with Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., as their honorary chairman, have called for a "Continental Congress on the Family" to meet in St. Louis this fall.

"Our most basic institution, the family, is in serious trouble," said J. Allan Petersen, executive director of the group putting the congress together. "As our nation approaches its bicentennial year, fresh insights and new cooperative efforts to strengthen the family are needed." The congress is a part of a two year program aimed at making 1976 "the year of the family."

Congress planners anticipate some 3,000 delegates will show up in St. Louis for the Oct. 13-17 meeting.

They will include a fair number of experts on the subject — family counselors, psychologists, sociologists, educators, religious leaders, businessmen and government officials.

The planners hope the congress will be a practical one, developing strategies which help individuals and churches deal with the changing pattern of family life.

In addition to dealing with such issues as the shifting roles of men and women, sexual mores, divorce and remarriage, the planners also say they want to "awaken Christian family needs of minorities, singles and the aged."

"Participants will also clarify the biblical principles for marriage and family life and will relate these to current spiritual and social problems," according to the organizers.

"I am concerned over the deterioration, in these tumultuous times," said Hatfield, "of what should be the basis of all our daily lives — the family."

"History has proven that no nation can remain strong without a solid family structure. Now is the time to revitalize the importance of the family as a viable unit in today's society."

BEACHED... and forgotten!

This old forgotten boat is almost buried in the reeds. Can this boat in any way be compared to our talents? What of these talents that God has given us? Have they been beached, forgotten, buried?

Heaven expects us to help in this matter of creating a better world where brother helps brother by using to the fullest extent the talents He has bestowed upon us. God always provokes and prods mankind to do good works, and accomplish great things. And He says that if we dedicate ourselves to this matter He will help. But the decision to use our talents and develop them is our choice.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pampa's Economy Prospers

PHS Visits Canyon in Non-District Tilt

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Pampa coach John Welborn is hoping his players don't approach Canyon with a light attitude since the Eagles "are probably as good an 0-3-1 team as you could hope to play."

The teams meet at 7:30 p.m. today in Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium near Canyon.

Pampa will be after its second straight 4-0 record in non-conference play. The Harvesters whipped Canyon 33-0 a year ago for their fourth consecutive win of the season. Canyon, meanwhile, is looking for its first win of the season, having tied Borger and lost to Lubbock, Monterey, Amarillo, Caprock and Hereford.

Canyon coach Deane Wright tends to agree with Welborn—the Eagles are not as poor as the record would seem to indicate. "Monterey beat us 21-0 and they had 37 yards rushing," Wright said. "There's only been one touchdown scored against us rushing and we're a triple-A school playing all four A-schools."

"I think we probably played our best against Caprock (the Longhorns won 3-0).

We had an opportunity to score and didn't. Our defense was superb against Caprock."

The touchdown scored by rushing happened in the Hereford game. The Whitefaces won 7-6, as the Eagles came within a hair, electing to try for two points after a late-game touchdown. Hereford stopped the attempt and held on for the win.

Offensively, Canyon has been most unimpressive, although Wright feels improvement has been made.

"Our offense has gotten better each week. We can tell it in practice. We're executing better, running better. If it has improved this week, we might stay within a touchdown or two of you (Harvesters).

"If we could stay within a couple touchdowns of you, it might be a moral victory."

Pampa, open last week, hasn't taken Canyon lightly in workouts the past two weeks, says Welborn.

"They're probably as good an 0-3-1 team as you could hope to play. Defense is probably the strongest suit," Welborn said.

"They're extremely tough against the run. We've had real good practices all week. Everybody has had good practices."

Pampa must stop Canyon's Wishbone offense, which the Harvesters ran last season. Welborn says his team's experience in running and defending the Wishbone could be an advantage.

"I think we've faced ourselves in it enough."

Wright is impressed with Pampa, which he calls "the best team we've played."

He added, "Pampa is a real disciplined team. They do things like you're supposed to do it... They run with the football, very seldom throw it. You gotta stop their running."

"I'm particularly impressed with the defense. You take (Pat) Bailey (noseguard), (Bruce) Ferris (tackle) and (Dub) Taylor (tackle) in the middle and back them up with (Frank) Stowers and (Frankie) Lemons, you've got a great defense."

Canyon's top players include defensive tackle Bob Lee (250), defensive end Kenny Basinger and end Lyndon Brazile.

Pampa's only change in the starting lineup will be David Caldwell at halfback. He will fill in for Mike Glover, who has a muscle pull and should see limited action.

Groom Bops Pampa 21-6

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

GROOM—The only way Coach Don Sessom was ever going to find out how capable his team's depth really is was for a rash of injuries to occur. And nobody likes to test his depth that way.

Sessom had no choice except to go trust his bench, Thursday but the Groom coach found out he can win impressively with young players as the state No. 2 Tigers of District 1-B whipped Pampa's junior Varsity 21-6 Thursday night here.

The win leaves Groom with a 5-0 mark and sets up next week's clash against powerful Boys Ranch. Pampa, 1-3 for the season, visits Amarillo Palo Duro's JV Oct. 16 as district play begins.

Before the game Thursday it looked like the heavily-favored Tigers had met their demise because of hard luck. All-state fullback candidate Chris Britten sustained a thigh injury in practice Wednesday and was not able to play. Halfback John Kirzan's foot, damaged last week against Wheeler, did not heal by Thursday, while Thomas Reed, the other starting halfback, had not recovered completely from an injury to his face.

Sophomore Kent Reed and freshman Phillip Britten started at the halfback positions, while Bibob Bivens, normally the starting quarterback, was moved to fullback. Junior Nathan Wieberg started at quarterback.

Still, the Tigers rolled up 286 yards on the ground and downed Pampa for the second consecutive year. Last year, Groom won 28-0.

It took a one-yard quarterback sneak by Mike Lancaster with 12 seconds left in the game to avert a second consecutive shutout in the series. That play capped a seven-play, 56-yard drive. Pampa's only sustained march of the game, and trimmed Groom's lead to 21-6.

In the drive, Lancaster passed 16 yards to Neal Lee and 23 yards to Gary Dumas. Lancaster ran 11 yards on the play between the two passes, as the three plays gave Pampa possession on the Groom four.

The Tigers scored two points with 5:36 left in the first quarter when Mike Koetting blocked a Doug Wallin punt for a safety. The 2-0 advantage did not change until 5:43 in the third period.

Bivens, who moved to quarterback while tackle Art Brown filled the fullback slot, scored on an 11-yard run to give Groom an 8-0 lead. Chris Skaggs blocked Bivens' conversion attempt.

Phillip Britten rambled 50 yards down the right sideline to up Groom's advantage to 14-0 with 7:30 left in the game. Steve Hancock blocked the extra-point attempt.

Bivens recovered a fumble on Pampa's 19 with 2:53 left, and two plays later, burst six yards around right end for Groom's final touchdown. He kicked the extra point for a 21-0 margin.

Bivens' powerful running might have been the difference in the game as he gained 71 yards on 16 carries. It usually took more than one Shocker defender to bring him down, and, on a nine-yard run in the second quarter, the Groom quarterback broke six tackles.

Groom's defensive charge, led by Koetting, Mike Britten, Richard Weller, Brown and Jay Witt, caused Pampa to lose six fumbles and kept the Shockers out of Tiger territory for most of the evening.

Pampa first crossed the 50 with five minutes left in the first half but the Tigers held, forcing a 46-yard Wallin punt.

Skaggs recovered a fumble to give Pampa possession on Groom's 41. The Shockers moved to the 17 four plays later but lost the ball on fourth down when Weller tackled Lancaster, attempting to pass, for an 11-yard loss. Britten added four carries for 62 yards for the Tigers, while Thomas and Kent Reed added 32 and 24 yards, respectively.

Shocker halfback Levi Bailey led all rushers with 21 carries for 79 yards. Pampa managed 141 yards on the ground.

Bivens completed one of three passes for eight yards. Lancaster was three of six for 46 yards.

Don Sessom was pleasantly surprised by the performances of his non-regulars but not as surprised as he was by the fact Chris Britten and Krizan were going to miss the game.

"I had no idea those two are gonna have to miss," Sessom said immediately after the win.

"Nathan executed real well at quarterback. Bibbo has been playing for four years—he knows our system as well as anybody and we can play him anywhere."

"We played good defense. Pampa is a good football team."

Shocker coach Curtis Dwyer was not displeased by his team's performance. "I thought we played pretty good. We had a couple of breakdowns but they made their own breaks, defensively speaking."

"Groom has a good football team. They have quickness and they're big."

Simpson-Led Bills To Tackle Denver

United Press International
The big matchup in the National Football League this weekend was supposed to have been between O.J. Simpson and Otis Armstrong—the game's most productive runners over the past two years.

Instead, it will be Simpson and an unheralded fourth round draft choice who will collide for honors.

Simpson's Buffalo Bills will host rookie Rick Upchurch and the Denver Broncos Sunday.

Borger Wallops PJH

Borger capitalized on a blocked punt and fumble recovery to come from behind and grab a 20-7 win over visiting Pampa in freshman football action Thursday.

In other games Thursday, Pampa's eighth Red crushed Hereford LaPlata 34-12 at Pampa Junior High's field, while the eighth Blue lost 14-6 to Perryton at Shocker Field.

Borger fell behind 7-0 in the first quarter when Steve Duke scored on a run and Louis Cox booted the extra point.

Borger came back on a 50-yard pass in the second quarter and went ahead in the period after blocking a punt to take over on a Pampa's 14. Six plays later, Borger scored.

The hosts' final TD came after a fumble recovery on the Pampa seven. It took Borger five plays to score.

Pampa is 0-3 for the season. The eighth Red scored when Mark Jennings felled a fumble in the end zone. Joe Jeffers passed to Jim Agan, Doug Kennedy went over on a run, Keith Stone ran and Kennedy ran.

The eighth Blue's only score came on a pass from Doug Smith to Loyd Remy.

The Red and Blue are 3-1 and 0-3, respectively.

SMU Hosts No. 12 WVU

United Press International
Now that Texas, Texas A&M and Baylor have captured their share of national attention, the Southern Methodist Mustangs will attempt to grab a little of their own.

SMU, which for the past few seasons has been a mystery team that can play super on occasions and be bowled over on others, will host unbeaten and 12th-ranked West Virginia Saturday while the conference's top three teams will be favorites to stay unbeaten.

Mustang coach Dave Smith says West Virginia reminds him of the Ohio State club he saw last year.

"The main reason I say that is because of their physical size and the way they come off the ball on offense," Smith said. "And Artie Owens (the Mountaineers' top running back) may not have received as much publicity as Archie Griffin has at Ohio State, but I think he has the same qualities."

SMU, coming off an upset win over Houston last week, will be making its first appearance at home against West Virginia.

Around the rest of the league the sixth-ranked Texas Aggies (3-0) will make a trip to Kansas State while seventh-ranked Texas (3-0) will warm up for its meeting with Oklahoma by entertaining Utah State.

Baylor (1-0-2), No. 15 in the nation, will journey to South Carolina and Texas Tech will visit rugged Oklahoma State.

Finally, the Arkansas Razorbacks will host TCU in a conference contest in which the Hogs are an overwhelming favorite to extend the Horned Frogs' losing streak to 14 games. Arkansas has whipped TCU the past 16 years.

SMU will be a touchdown underdog to West Virginia, but the Mustangs were given a lift last week by the play of quarterback Chuck Benefield, a senior who played in his first college game at that position.

"You know it's easy for some people to find excuses through their college career," said Smith.

"But it is rewarding to me that so many players on our team, including Chuck Benefield, have maintained and redoubled their efforts because they have strong character."

Pampa's Lewis Sparks Victory

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Howie Lewis caught three passes for 111 yards, including a 58-yard touchdown to spark the Texas Tech Picadors to a 23-12 win over the Arkansas Shoats in a junior varsity game Thursday night.

The Picadors scored 17 points in the first half on a 32-yard field goal by Bill Bigham, Mike Farst's 58-yard pass to Lewis and Richard Sims five-yard run.

Picadors reserve quarterback Mickey Elam scored the final Tech touchdown on a one-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Arkansas scored all of its points in the second half. Roland Sales scored on a 10-yard run, Kenny McCullough kicked a 20-yard field goal and the Shoats trapped Farst in his own end zone to add a safety.

The win was the 17th straight for the Picadors during the past three seasons.

Sophomores Win

Pampa's sophomore football team whipped visiting Dumas Thursday.

The sophomores are 2-0-2 for the season.

Far Reaching Changes Predicted for Banking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interest on your checking account — and a checking account wherever you want, in your bank, savings and loan association or credit union at work — is the promise of a bill approved Thursday by the Senate Banking Committee. The measure would bring about the most far-reaching changes in the banking world since 1933, when the government, shaken by bank failures, moved to limit how much banks could compete.

One step was to limit how much interest banks and savings and loans could pay passbook savers. The ceiling now is 5 per cent in banks, 5.25 per cent in savings and loans associations. The ceilings would vanish by 1981 under the bill's provisions.

Consequently, to attract depositors, banks and other institutions could offer higher interest rates both on passbook accounts and certificates of deposit.

And money in checking accounts, which now earns money for the bank but not the account holder, would be able to draw interest.

Under the provisions: — Starting Jan. 1, 1977, or a year later if the Federal Reserve chooses, savings and loan associations, mutual banks and credit unions could offer checking accounts which will probably pay interest rates of 2 or 3 per cent.

Commercial and mutual banks and savings and loans will be free to offer negotiable order of withdrawal accounts which, similar to interest-paying checking accounts, only Massachusetts and New Hampshire offer such accounts now, and these generally pay 5 per cent interest.

Plane Flies into Gladys

ABOARD NOAA 41C OVER THE ATLANTIC (UPI) — Its wings flapping like a giant bird, the four-engine C130 turboprop dipped and bumped its way through flashes of lightning toward the eye of Hurricane Gladys, but eight weather scientists did not seem apprehensive.

"This storm is a classic," Dr. Robert C. Sheets said enthusiastically over his intercom. "What a beauty... it looks like it came right out of a textbook."

The plane made it through Gladys' 140-mile-an-hour winds into the 15-mile eye of the hurricane. Immediately, dozens of instruments examined and dissected the storm and recorded the data on two banks of computers.

Sheets and seven other National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientists who make up Project Storm-fury then began monitoring banks of temperature probes, ice particle counters and radar screens, and instruments that can even "fingerprint" the nucleus of a raindrop.

The plane slammed into a blanket of ice and was tossed violently. A cup of coffee carelessly left on a table was lifted six feet into the air and crashed onto the steel floor. Red lights were everywhere on the instrument panel. "The damn gyro's gone loopy," pilot Bob Sanquist said.

By the time the plane — stripped of its nose paint by the ice — landed in Miami, the hurricane center was calling Gladys the western Atlantic's most intense hurricane in 15 years. None of the 19 crewmen aboard NOAA 41C doubted it.

Even though Project Storm-fury was designed to aid hurricane forecasters, its main job was to study the storm and determine if it was suitable for seeding.

Few Ineligibles Found With Texas Food Stamps

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa News

WASHINGTON — The number of Texas families receiving food stamps who shouldn't be is pretty small — in fact, significantly lower than the national average, according to a recent report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

About eight per cent of the state's households involved in the program during the second half of 1974 did not satisfy income and other financial eligibility criteria, the USDA said. Nationally, 17.3 per cent of the recipient families surveyed were ineligible to receive the assistance.

The vast majority of errors were administrative and did not involve fraud on the part of the applicants.

"I think they (Texas officials) are doing a good job," observed Priscilla Shaw, a USDA official, in explaining why the state was below the national average.

"I was down there last year," continued Shaw, chief of the USDA's Food Stamp Division's Quality Control and Evaluation Branch. "They have some pretty conscientious people down there."

The USDA quality control study, which surveyed 1,232 households in Texas, found that participation by ineligible families accounted for 8.2 per cent of total food stamp dollars issued in the state during the six-month period. This also was below the national average by about nine percentage points.

The report noted that "the complexity of the food stamp program gives rise to a wide variety in the kinds of errors that occur." In Texas' case, Shaw said about half of the errors could be attributed to the state and local agencies administering the program, while about the same amount were due to mistakes on the part of applicants.

She added, however, that the USDA did not analyze the prevalence of criminal fraud in the program. Still, the known rate during fiscal year 1974 was less than one per cent, she said.

During the period covered by the report, nationwide participation in the food stamp program grew by three million to a total of 17 million recipients.

Updated USDA figures show that in May, 1.2 million Texans were receiving food stamps, an increase of 92,000 over May, 1974.

The USDA survey considered only non-welfare food stamp recipients which nationwide amount to 50 to 55 per cent of the total number of people in the program, Shaw said.

The group was entertained on Thursday evening with a cocktail party at the Coronado Inn hosted by E.L. Green Jr. and W.L. Loving, both retired officials of the Cabot Corporation and former directors of the company. Dinner for the visiting directors and personnel from the Machinery, Engineering, and Carbon Black Divisions located in the Pampa area was held at Jim's Steak House.

The board of directors left Pampa the morning of Sept. 26 for four Cabot facilities located in the Charleston, W. Va. area.

Skipper's Charges Reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has reduced the punishment against the skipper who hired an exotic dancer to perform topless aboard his nuclear submarine.

Adm. J. L. Holloway III, chief of naval operations, ruled Thursday that Cmdr. Connelly D. Stevenson can be considered for command again. He rescinded a fine of two weeks' pay and confined punishment to a disciplinary letter.

For the time being, Stevenson will remain in the desk job in Norfolk, Va., to which he was assigned after the incident. But Holloway said Thursday's decision does not "preclude consideration of Stevenson for future assignment to command."

The Admiral said a decision by Stevenson's superiors to remove him from command "for cause" was too stiff.

As a reward to his crew for extra work, Stevenson permitted Cat Futch to perform topless on the sub's superstructure as it sailed out of Port Canaveral, Fla., July 10.

Crew and officers had become enamored of the go-go dancer at the Cork Club in Cocoa Beach.

"I know quite a bit about the Navy," she said after the incident came to light, "and I never saw such a smiling bunch of men go out to sea. It really boosted morale and it didn't hurt them — or me."

He said the skipper also failed to exercise "the extraordinary judgment expected of an officer in command of a nuclear powered submarine" and violated the regulation "which requires prior approval to have a female civilian visitor on board a submarine while under way."

F.W. Woolworth Company

F.W. Woolworth Co. at 200 N. Cuyler offers this city the same merchandise carried by Woolworth stores in larger cities.

Odessa Ledbetter, manager, said the firm moved into its present location in 1957 — but came to Pampa in the middle 40s.

The store now has 10 employees and is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday except on Thursday's when it remains open until 8 p.m.

"We have upgraded our merchandise," said Ms. Ledbetter. "We now handle a good line of soft line and undergarments."

School supplies, the pet department and plants are also very popular, she added.

Some local buying is done, but most is by merchandise men from regional offices. The prices are competitive, she explained.

As for business, Mrs. Ledbetter says it 1975 will be one of the best years ever.

"And we have had some real good ones in the past," she said.

It's a Dog's Life

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — Fawn, a 4-year-old German Shepherd from St. Petersburg, Fla., who flung herself in the path of a rattlesnake to save a 3-year-old child, Wednesday was named Ken-L Ration's Dog Hero of the Year.

The dog was honored at the 22nd annual Dog Hero ceremonies sponsored by Quaker Oats through its Ken-L Ration dog food division. Her owners, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schlesinger, received a $1,000 savings bond, a year's supply of dog food and a gold-plated leash and collar for their pet.

Fawn was credited with saving young Russ Schlesinger from a diamondback rattler last February in the back yard of the Schlesinger home. The dog came charging out of the house, pushed the child out of the way and took the strike of the rattler with her head.

Russ's grandfather shot the snake and rushed Fawn to a dog hospital, where she eventually recovered.

Wholesale Prices Reported Up Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by sharp increases for food, fuels and metals, wholesale prices rose 0.6 per cent in September, the Labor Department said today.

For the past three months combined, prices have increased at a compounded annual rate of 11.1 per cent for bulk purchasers. These wholesale costs eventually show up in prices consumers pay for goods and services.

Although the seasonally adjusted increase in September was less than the rises of 0.8 per cent in August and 1.2 per cent in July, it was still the third highest for 1975. The September increase worked out to a 7.2 per cent annual increase.

The Wholesale Price Index in September stood at 177.7 from a base of 100 in 1967. That meant wholesale buyers paid $177.70 for goods that would have cost $100 eight years ago.

Wholesale costs for food jumped 4.3 per cent, led by higher prices for vegetables, beef, hogs and milk, the department said.

But even more ominous than food prices, which fluctuate widely and pass quickly through the economic system, was the sixth consecutive month of steady upward costs all along the production line— from minerals dug from the earth to finished products ready for delivery to consumers.

The sharp increase in the WPI during the past three months indicate that inflationary pressures on consumers may intensify in the months ahead. Prices rising at a double-digit rate—more than 10 per cent a year, which is a rarity for peacetime—were a primary cause of recession that ended last spring.

Labor said fuels, metals and other materials that make up industrial commodities increased 0.7 per cent as a group for the biggest jump in 11 months.

Oil, natural gas, coal, electricity and other fuels for operating machinery and plants rose 1.6 per cent, Labor said. Led by aluminum price increases, metals rose 0.8 per cent.

The Commerce Department reported Wednesday that prices that do not show up in the wholesale index are rising.

For instance, median rents on new apartments opened last winter rose 8.7 per cent to $212 from the same period in 1974.

Apartment rents have been climbing because of high interest rates, short supplies of available urban land and the government's withdrawal from subsidizing construction rental units for people with low and moderate incomes.

But the rate of apartment construction is slowing, which will mean even higher prices as competition for available space increases.

The increases reflected 5 per cent gains for single family homes and 7 per cent for hospitals. The rises reflected inflation, not more construction.

Oil Exec Reveals Nixon Donations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Armand Hammer, the wealthy petroleum company executive and patron of the arts, admits he tried to hide the source of $54,000 he contributed to Richard Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Hammer, who gave $100,000 to the campaign, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court Wednesday to falsely claiming $54,000 of that amount was donated by other persons.

The Occidental Petroleum Corp. board chairman at one point balked at entering the plea when Chief Judge William B. Jones suggested it might result in a prison sentence.

His attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, said there was a "cloud of ambiguity on whether a jail term can be imposed" for violations of the 1972 Federal Election Campaign Act. Former Montana Gov. Tim Babcock, Hammer's alleged go-between in making the contributions, is appealing a four-month term he received.

But the judge told Hammer, "This court could—I'm not saying I would—sentence you to a maximum of three years in jail and a $3,000 fine."

Jones repeatedly asked if Hammer understood that.

After a 30-minute recess, Hammer gave affirmative nods to a series of questions, and his plea was accepted.

A criminal information filed by Special Watergate Prosecutor Henry Ruth charged Babcock, a former executive of the subsidiary Occidental International, passed the $54,000 to Nixon campaign finance chairman Maurice Stans. Babcock later joined Hammer in fabricating a cover-up story about the source of the funds, the prosecutor said.

"The false story fell apart in June, 1974, when Babcock, who had been served with a grand jury subpoena, decided to testify truthfully," said Ruth. Babcock pleaded guilty Dec. 10, 1974 to a charge he aided Hammer.
