Briscoe Against New Constitution

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he is against adoption of the proposed Texas constitution because he thinks it will lead to increased state spending and new taxes.

"It is my personal view that the current constitution under which Texas has grown and prospered for a century is preferable to the proposed new constitution," Briscoe said Tuesday at his first news conference in two months.

Accordingly, I believe it is in the best interest of Texas that all eight propositions on the ballot be rejected.

There is no question in my mind that some parts of these propositions could lead to improvements in state and local government, but unfortunately, they are linked to other changes that would lead to higher spending on government.

Legislators spent $5 million and took two years to write the proposed constitution, which will be presented to voters in a special election Nov. 4.

Speaker Bill Clayton was unhappy with Briscoe's opposition. "I was appalled at the governor's opposition to the new constitution," Clayton said. He and several other officials favoring the charter had met with Briscoe Monday, but Clayton said the governor gave them no advance warning he would denounce the revision.

Clayton also disputed Briscoe's contention the new constitution would mean increased state spending.

A former chief justice of the State Supreme Court, Robert W. Calvert, said it was ridiculous for Briscoe to argue the new constitution would prompt lengthy court battles and wrangling over interpretation.

"It is illogical to assume and erroneous to suggest that the proposed document could inspire as many opinion requests and court challenges as the verbose and almost incomprehensible 1876 constitution," Calvert said.

"In my opinion, as one who was privileged to serve as chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court for 12 years, the new constitution will be vastly simpler and much less costly to construe and interpret."

Calvert, head of a citizens group pushing the new charter, said the revision could eliminate the need for many costly and time-consuming court cases.

Clayton, Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby, Attorney General John Hill and most other top state officials have endorsed the proposed charter.

Briscoe said the 1876 constitution provided close guidelines on government power.

"I believe it is still the mood and the feeling of the people of this state to exercise these restraints," the governor said. "It is certainly part of my own philosophy of government."

"I am opposed to the removal of too many of the checks and balances the people themselves have had on our state and local government."

"I am opposed to removing the last restraint on welfare spending."

"In my opinion, this proposed new document would be subject to endless court tests and interpretations, thereby creating confusion and chaos in state government in the years ahead."

Briscoe also spoke out against provisions of the new charter requiring annual sessions of the legislature, and said such sessions would be counterproductive.

Applause to the Pampa Fine Arts Association, Pampa Garden Club, Bicentennial Committee and Home Demonstration Council for making the ninth Top O' Texas Arts and Crafts Festival last weekend a success. Many hard working people made it possible.

Co-chairmen Peggy Palmitier and Robin Gantz reported that artists sold around $8,000 worth of their work and that more than 15,000 people attended the festival.

In a report on the Pampa school district's business operations, consultants found many things wrong and many things right in the system.

The consultants, among five general recommendations, reported this:

"An examination of the salary schedule for non-certified employees shows that each category (custodian, laborer, bus driver) is paid the same regardless of experience and performance."

"Most organizations, particularly in today's labor market," the report continued, "making some kind of salary distinction between beginners and experienced employees."

The report recommended that the employees be paid according to their experience and that they be recognized if they perform at a level above normal expectations.

According to the salaries recently adopted by the school board, the range is from $2.40 an hour for some employees to $4.37 an hour for supervisors.

Dr. Dan F. Long, superintendent of schools, then reported that the district had difficulty getting employees and that the turnover rate was high.

One citizen asked in a letter to The News, "Why is it, in an area such as Pampa, where most working people make from $6,000 to $12,000 a year or more, must public employees such as city and school work for a pittance? The recent increase in pay means only that we may borrow less for a while until inflation wipes us out again."

Long expressed the urgency of keeping non-certified employees pay close to that in equivalent jobs in the community. "We pay more to those who haul our garbage than those who haul our school children," he said.

He emphasized that support people in the schools come in contact with students, too. They influence students in perhaps a more subtle way than teachers.

Who do you remember most about from your elementary school days? Probably a janitor or a bus driver is on the list.

Pampa does care about its students. The proof is in the existing school system and its scholarship, trades, training and music programs.

The county has just increased mileage reimbursement from 14 cents a mile to 16 cents a mile and the 2 cent hike will be effective Jan. 1.

"With the increased cost of gas, I think we should," reasoned Judge Don Cain at the county commissioners meeting Oct. 1.

The same proposition was thrown up to the district school board which after much research and contemplation, decided to up the rate from 10 cents a mile to 14 cents a mile for employees, using their car on school business.

Trustees decided that the 14-cent rate was more in keeping with industry although the school officials had requested a 16-cent rate.

Thieves Take Jewelry From Downtown Store

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Several diamonds were taken from Kennedy Jewelry, 121 Cuyler, Tuesday in what officers reveal as the biggest jewelry theft in Pampa during the past six months.

However other theft reports today included a $120 and a bank bag, $20 from a stamped envelope, a gun and a car.

Police Chief Richard Mills warned residents to take every precaution in protecting their own property. Each of the cases reported today is under investigation by the police department.

The Kennedy jewelry loss was listed at $1,875. Russell Kennedy, owner, said someone took a small tray lined with felt containing several diamonds from one karat up.

The missing items include a 1 1/2 karat diamond, a one karat diamond, a cocktail ring with two clusters and an opal surrounded by small diamonds.

Chief Mills said the cabinets were unlocked and apparently "someone rushed in, took the jewelry and walked out."

In other reports this morning Kevin Francis of 308 W. Foster said a group came into his store, one requested a suit.

The others spread out and when they left he found a bank bag containing $120 in cash missing. The bag was found behind Texas Furniture.

An incident of a check taken from an envelope placed in a mail box for the postman was reported.

Mrs. C. T. Rowell of 1321 Terrace said she placed a stamped envelope on her mail box for the postman to pick up and left for work.

When she returned her neighbor informed her that he found the envelope in a bush in his yard. She added that when she examined the mail, the letter was still there, but the $20 check was missing.

In another theft report, Dennis Kuempel of 1811 Christine said he returned from a hunting trip and left his 20 gauge shot gun in the back seat of his vehicle parked at 508 W. Wilks. He described the gun as a Colt automatic shotgun.

One resident reported his 66 model Cadillac missing. Departing from their reports, a woman reported a prowler. Upon investigation police found that someone had pounded the woman's door with a hammer.

White House sources said a list of $30 billion worth of reductions in the potential fiscal 1977 budget was laid before President Ford's cabinet last week.

The President wanted every department and major agency head to comment on the list — agreeing, suggesting additional cuts or giving reasons why some of the potential cuts should not be made.

It was brought out by one board member that Ed Lehnick, athletic director, makes purchases for the athletic department of the school without going through James Trusty, assistant superintendent, who is responsible for most purchasing for the school.

"I'd give it to him in a New York second," Lehnick answered.

Members of the board emphasized time and again that they were not questioning "anybody's integrity."

"It's just that we need to be very, very careful and we need to exercise proper controls," Simmons said.

In speaking of items listed in the paid voucher section of the report, Simmons expressed concern.

"If we complain, it's like closing the gate after the horse is already out," he said. "When I look through this thing and see $7,000 and $5,000

Congress Wants More Spending, Ford Less

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says federal spending will grow by $3 billion — or slightly more than 14 per cent — in the next fiscal year if the nature of federal spending is permitted to take its course.

In seeking congressional assent to a $395 billion limit in the fiscal 1977 budget, President Ford is asking for a growth rate of only half that much — a little under 7 per cent.

The $28 billion "saved" would be returned to taxpayers in the form of a permanent tax cut of $21 billion for individuals and $7 billion for business.

By contrast, federal outlays grew by more than 20 per cent between fiscal 1974 and fiscal 1975 and are growing by over 14 per cent between fiscal 1975 and the current fiscal year.

To achieve a cut as sharp as Ford proposes, administration budget officials acknowledge, Congress would have to rewrite legislation which entitles people to some benefits as a matter of law. Among them are Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps, housing subsidies, welfare aid for dependent children, the aged, blind and disabled, Social Security, railroad retirement, and veterans' benefits.

White House sources said a list of $30 billion worth of reductions in the potential fiscal 1977 budget was laid before President Ford's cabinet last week.

Simmons concern was directed at items that had been paid prior to board approval.

Trusty said that the records of all bids requested and received in school purchasing matters are open at all times to school board members and they would be welcomed to sit in on any bid opening sessions.

He added that it often requires several hours of study to determine which bid is best.

Dr. Dan F. Long, superintendent, said, "We will furnish you anything you need. We operate above board."

R. S. Anderson again emphasized that "We don't question anybody's honesty. It's just that the public — and it's human nature — is suspicious."

At one point in the meeting Simmons said, "We need to be made aware," in reference to school expenses. "It's a little embarrassing when a member of the community calls and says we spent so much for an item and I have to say I don't know anything about it."

Bill Arrington, vice president, chaired the meeting. Curt Beck, president, was not present.

Harold Comer and Dr. Robert L. Lyle left the lengthy meeting before discussion was complete and a vote was taken to approve the due bills and invoices, however, the four remaining trustees voted unanimously for approval.

Warner said a private reprimand would be swept under the rug and no one would have ever known.

"I'm unethical. I don't think it should be swept under the rug, and if I'm not going to stand for anyone to blacken my name," Warner told the Pampa News earlier.

Warner was represented by Ross Buzzard, a Pampa attorney. The bar association's attorney was Howard Saunders of Amarillo.

Judge Grainger McElhany presided over the case, and instructed each to submit briefs within a reasonable time.

The reprimand stems from Warner's alleged handling of the probate of the will of William R. Bowen, deceased.

Records show Warner probated the will as a muniment of title — which is a procedure one can follow in a case where there are no debts owing, according to a local attorney.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan will be the speaker at dedication ceremonies for Lefors' new $95,000 City Hall and Civic Center at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The 106 by 36 ft. one-story masonry structure will replace the town's old City Hall destroyed in the March 27 tornado. Gene Barber of the Merriman and Barber engineering firm, Pampa, said the flat-roof building will have offices for city officials, a civic center assembly room, kitchen and restrooms. It was financed by federal disaster relief money and insurance. The new building, Barber stated, was built on the same foundation from which the old City Hall was swept away when the tornado hit Lefors. Thursday night's program will open with ribbon-cutting ceremonies by Mayor J.J. Archer. Following Sheriff Jordan's dedication speech he will present the keys to Archer. There will be a musical program and refreshments will be served. Mayor Archer said today the public is invited to the ceremony.

ENERGY NEEDS DEMAND IT

Man must use the atom

For the last 30 years an event in the New Mexico desert has been commemorated as "the birth of the atomic age." On July 16, 1945, the test of the first atomic bomb climaxed the secret Manhattan Project and hastened the end of World War II.

An event as spectacular as that makes a convenient reference point in history, but it is the wrong one to mark the unlocking of the tremendous power latent in the nucleus of an atom.

The atomic age actually began on Dec. 2, 1942, and the circumstances are relevant to a problem Americans face today. The event did not occur in a remote desert because there was no reason for such isolation. It happened in the middle of a metropolitan city — Chicago.

A team of physicists headed by Enrico Fermi built the world's first nuclear reactor in a room under the grandstand at the University of Chicago's Stagg Field. The scientists who had gathered around to see if it would work, thus proving the theory of nuclear fission, were more tense with expectation than with fear. They were dealing with a new source of energy, not with a bomb. The release of energy in their crude atomic pile was gradual and under their control.

The bomb came later, and it was a regrettable circumstance of history that nuclear fission had to see its first application in the form of a weapon. This left the popular imagination with the vision of a mushroom cloud as the symbol of a new era when other symbols would have been just as pertinent — a radioisotope being used to treat a cancer patient, for instance, or an electric generator getting steam from a nuclear reactor.

The energy crisis which has come over the horizon in the 1970s is demanding that we come to terms with what the atomic age really means. The coming exhaustion of available fossil fuels has left the world no choice but to accelerate conversion to nuclear sources for much of its energy.

From the beginning scientists and engineers working with nuclear energy have had the greatest respect for the dangers inherent in the release of radioactivity. The need for fail-safe design of nuclear reactors and the utmost caution in handling radioactive materials has accounted for the relatively long period in making atomic power commercially practical. However, the more recent delays in getting nuclear plants built and operating have resulted less from safety and environmental problems, all of which are manageable, than from an imperfect public understanding of those problems.

One need is to keep our symbols and our history straight. It was the age of nuclear weapons that began in 1945, and the mushroom cloud is a symbol of the terror such weapons have brought to the art of warfare. Those weapons are only one product of an age that began earlier in a cautious, deliberate and wholly undestructive experiment in Chicago that unlocked a technology now capable of delivering tremendous benefits to mankind.

Get on with it

The investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency is dragging on, delayed by politics, and damaging the agency.

It is a legitimate inquiry. There was a need for Congress to follow up on the incomplete Rockefeller commission report. The record of the CIA must be opened to a searching examination. Failures and abuses must be exposed. The role of the CIA should be reconsidered. The methods of oversight over the agency should be strengthened.

But a modern nation needs the kind of information provided by an intelligence agency. A superpower like the United States stands in special need of such information. Our great power must be exercised with expert knowledge of foreign affairs.

If the CIA is not to survive, some other civilian agency like it would have to be created to counterbalance the military intelligence agencies.

President Ford should look for ways to expedite the congressional inquiry by cooperating with the investigators. He and Henry Kissinger should not seek out excuses to withhold necessary documents.

The Congress must resist the temptation to sensationalize and politicize the inquiry. It should pursue it vigorously and decisively. It should not dilly-dally and it should not play politics. Let's wind this thing up.

Editor There has been so much anti-Halloween publicity in the papers lately I love Halloween and anxiously await it each year to see the little ones come hesitantly to the door in their scary costumes.

In years past — I always fried and served hot homemade donuts. Since all the bad publicity for the last 3 or 4 years — I've purchased bagged candy. My problem: if I fixed caramelized or candied apples or donuts — would the parents get their children eat them — or would they be thrown away. I don't want to cheat the children but I do like to do something extra.

Is there anyway the paper could find out for me how parents with small children feel about this?

THE SPIRIT OF '76

Battin' Around

The Necessity for Security

By C.R. BATTEN

Economics, as defined by one commentator, is the science of making scarce materials go round. It is the system we use to allocate limited resources in a world of unlimited demand.

Understanding this is a first step in understanding why scarcity is a necessary condition in a complex society for it creates the incentives by which shortages are overcome — provided individuals within the society are allowed to respond to the scarcity in a constructive manner.

It was scarcity that inspired the invention of the first spear and the snare by which the primitive hunter killed or caught wild animals for food and clothing. It was scarcity that inspired the discovery that stirring the soil with sticks, and planting seeds would eventually provide food for the first agriculturists. It was scarcity that provided the incentive for every major step toward greater improvement in the condition of mankind.

If all the resources used by mankind were plentiful, there would have been no need for man to invent agricultural tools, and to continue to improve them, or to invent better ways of building homes, or to develop elaborate irrigation and transportation systems, or to seek better ways of conserving the resources he uses. Since man's wants are insatiable, there will always be scarcity.

As society and its economy grew in complexity, a monetary system was developed, and with it, a system of pricing.

Pricing is the key to allocating scarce goods and resources to the markets where they are most needed. In the free market, when a good becomes more scarce, or when its demand increases, its price will rise. A rise in the price of pork, for example, is a signal to potential producers that there is an unmet need for pork. The expectation of profit for those who feed and market hogs is increased. So more farmers go into the hog feeding business and more pork flows into the markets where it is most needed.

When the larger volume of pork reaches the market, its price tends to fall, signaling to the producers that the scarcity of pork in that particular market is being reduced. If they don't heed the pricing signals, and too much pork reaches the market, the price falls further. Producers reduce the number of hogs in feedlots, and perhaps go into some other kind of food production.

The market and pricing systems are the most efficient man has yet discovered for preventing shortages by allocating scarce resources to those areas and markets where they are most needed. This is the reason I am more concerned about the inclination of Congress to retain price controls on domestic oil than I am about the mid-East oil cartel's recent increase in the price of oil its members export.

Price controls on domestic energy supplies destroys the incentive to produce more oil from existing domestic sources, to explore for more, and to develop alternative forms of energy. Instead of encouraging the conservation of energy resources, it causes greater consumption of those resources, especially for the less needed uses.

The sure result of present governmental policies will be shortages and rationing — the most inefficient method of allocating resources. A free market price of oil would encourage the search for new petroleum reserves and the development of new forms of energy, which in turn could make it impossible for the oil cartel to survive, by reducing the demand for mid-East oil.

But, Congress and the president are playing right into the hands of the oil cartel, and making it easier for it to enforce its artificially high prices for oil, simply by maintaining price controls on energy resources here at home.

Paradoxical as it may seem, as one economist has put it: "The cure for high prices is high prices."

Upstream

The Racket Packet

By MADSEN PIRIE

R.C. Holles Fellow Hillsdale (Mich.) College

I saw on television recently that the company which makes tennis rackets for Arthur Ashe is doing good business. It seems that Ashe not only endorses their product, he uses it. Business began to boom for the company when Arthur Ashe used one of their rackets to defeat Jim Connors for the men's singles title at Wimbledon this year. Sales and profits have soared since then, with the company selling as many of the rackets every month as they expected to sell in a year.

Now this is good news. With the ghost of recession still haunting our economy, it is pleasant indeed to hear of at least one firm whose business is shooting ahead. No doubt they are already diverting production away from poorer-selling rackets, and into the manufacture of the Ashe rackets I suppose, too, that they will be taking on and training more workers so that they can meet the huge demand.

Wait a moment, though. Is this not a case of those "windfall profits" we are always hearing about? I thought that those people on Capitol Hill had told us that when businesses made suddenly increased profits, this was supposed to be a bad thing. If the company which produces the tennis rackets made an eight percent profit last year, and if that goes up to a twenty percent profit this year, thanks to Arthur Ashe's victory, this means a hundred and fifty percent increase in profit.

I thought we had been told that this was "raping" the American consumer, "holding the public to ransom," and so forth. Why is Congress so inactive in the face of this great social evil? Why have they not passed a law to ration these scarce rackets fairly, and to fix the price as a guard against "excess profiteering?"

It could be that our legislators are beginning to learn an important lesson, or it could be that the company concerned is so small that there are no votes to be gained by thrashing them. I hope for the first reason, but suspect the second might be more accurate. I hope it is the first reason because I am very partial towards profits myself, and would welcome a sign that those in power were coming to share my views.

I like profits for every ordinary reason. When corporations are making profits, they are keeping workers in jobs, and supplying the public with needed goods and services. Furthermore, the money they make enables them to invest in new plant and equipment to step up production; and this brings economies of scale, enabling more to be sold at a lower price. I also like high profits because they act as a magnet to other enterprising people, encouraging them to set up in the competition at the same line of business. This also serves to increase the supply and bring the price down. Finally, of course, good profits mean good dividends on stock; and that means more money to be spent on other goods, or to be invested in American business.

In view of all of these benefits brought by good profits, the question naturally arises: Why are so many people in power opposed to them? Could it be that they are playing to the lowest common political denominator, hoping to whip up envy and resentment against a success that helps us all? It could very well be. This is one dispute in which we must all choose sides: count me with the profits. Good luck to the tennis racket company, and may their profits be an all-time record. Keep those rackets rolling, boys. You are doing us all a favor.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me settle an argument. A few nights ago, I was out with the same gal I always date. We're pretty close. She's very independent about a lot of things, such as opening doors for herself and things like that. Well, I learned to live with that until the following incident occurred:

We stopped at a garage to have something fixed on my car, and because she's a pretty good-looking girl, the mechanic began flirting with her. To start with, this annoyed both of us. When his talk became offensive, I spoke up and straightened him out.

Afterwards, my girl became upset with me, saying it was HER place to straighten the mechanic out if she thought he was out of line.

Granted, if she were alone, it would have been her place. But since she was with me, I thought it was MY place.

What do you think? CHIVALRY LIVES

DEAR CHIV: Most women would be angry with a date who failed to straighten out a presumptuous stranger, but maybe your gal enjoyed it.

In any case, now that you know she prefers to fight her own battles, either give her that privilege or find a less militantly independent girl.

DEAR ABBY: Even though I am only 13, I have made up my mind to do something I think is very important. Before reading your column I never even gave it a serious thought, but now I would like to donate my kidneys and eyes to someone else after I die.

Juveniles need kidneys, too, and cannot use adult ones, so in case I die before I become an adult, I'd like to leave whatever organs are still usable to some child who needs them.

Abby, I am not planning on dying soon, so please don't feel sorry for me. LAURA MYERS, GARDEN CITY, CALIF.

DEAR LAURA: To become donors, minors need the consent of their parents or guardians. And, Laura, please tell your parents for me that they have a beautiful daughter!

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you 10 years ago, but I didn't take your advice. My problem was that after 33 years of marriage, I found out that my husband was having an affair with a young woman who worked for him.

I told you that although I still loved him, I wanted to end our marriage. You told me that I should bide my time, that as long as I still loved him I should try to forgive and forget, and that I should keep my marriage together, which is what he wanted to do.

My pride was so hurt that I divorced him, anyway. He married the young woman, but soon afterwards, he started calling me, telling me that he had made a terrible mistake. He said he still loved me, could never forgive himself for what he had done and wanted to come "home."

My pride still wouldn't let me take him back. Well, he died a year ago. He left a little something to his second wife, but the bulk of his estate he left to me. He was a rich man, and now I am a rich woman, but that doesn't matter. I guess he really did love me. I wish I had taken your advice, Abby.

Speaking on Work

The Knife and Fork Club hosted its first dinner of the season Tuesday night at Coronado Inn. Guest speaker, Thad M. Sandstorm, vice president in charge of broadcasting for Stauffer Publications in Topeka, Kan., spoke on "The Work Syndrome". Sandstorm asserted the importance of individual effort and the need to dignify the right to work. E.E. Shelhamer, president of Knife and Fork, welcomed 36 new members to the dinner club. The next dinner is scheduled for Nov. 13.

Dangerous Intersections Cited

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff
The locations of the five most dangerous intersections within the city, determined by the numbers of traffic accidents recorded during recent months, were released today.

Pampa Police Chief Richard Mills also revealed plans to step up law enforcement in those areas in an effort to reduce traffic accidents.

Twenty accidents were recorded during a special study period at Cuyler and Kingsmill, Cuyler and Francis, Cuyler and Foster, Hobart and Decatur and Hobart and Kentucky.

The stepped-up law enforcement will begin about Nov. 1 under provisions of a $17,012.29 grant from the Governor's Commission on Traffic Safety.

Purpose of the grant, announced Oct. 8, is to reduce the accident rate and to remove intoxicated drivers from city streets.

Two major problems confronting the Pampa Police Department are a high accident rate and a large number of DWIs, the chief said.

Under the new program, officials hope to reduce accidents by 20 per cent and increase arrest of those driving while intoxicated.

The chief said, in identifying the intersections where the greatest number of accidents have occurred, that without the grant the department's workload would not allow emphasis on those areas without endangering coverage in other parts of the city.

Pampa is the smallest city in the state to receive the grant which provides 100 per cent funding. Under its provisions, the city will be reimbursed for use of the patrol cars and for every pencil and scratch pad.

Off duty officers, working overtime, will provide the extra patrol under the Selective

Traffic Enforcement Program, "STEP."

The damage in the five locations named has been extensive, however so far no injuries have been reported.

The specific violations cited in the accident reports include red light illegal turns and failure to yield right of way.

The chief said most of the accidents are occurring in the downtown area. Under STEP officers will work overtime from 7 to 9 a.m. 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m.

"Officers will be especially looking for the offense," the chief explained. "We are attempting to eliminate the violations that cause the accidents."

However, he added that emphasized enforcement in those areas may cause the accident rate to climb elsewhere in the city.

To offset that problem all accidents will be processed through a computer in city hall. Each month the department will receive a list of the 10 most hazardous locations where the most accidents have occurred and STEP enforcement will move to those areas. The names of the five mid-block locations which have attracted the most accidents will be released within a few days.

Cabot Machinery Ups UF Donations

Employees of the Cabot Machinery Division increased their contributions to the United Fund by 23 per cent over 1974, according to Vic Raymond, vice president and general manager.

The total contribution of $11,180 will be matched by a company commitment to actually represent $22,360.

"We are extremely proud of the percentage of improvement in employee giving this year," Raymond said, "particularly when we consider the 58 per cent improvement in employee giving in 1974. We feel the United Fund Campaign is one of the most worthwhile activities that the Division can participate in."

Unquestionably the employees of the Machinery Division can take a great deal of pride in Pampa and area communities. The ever increasing by our employees truly reflects this pride.

Captains in the United Fund Campaign at Cabot include the following:

DETROIT (UPI) — With the auto industry's first report of the 1976-model year showing a 13 per cent sales jump for the best month-opening period in nearly two years, Chrysler Corp. today predicted new car sales would top 10 million in the coming year.

Despite the optimism, Chrysler was the only one of the "Big Four" automakers that didn't share in the industry's Oct. 1-10 upturn reported Tuesday. Imports, which have been grabbing one of every five sales so far this year, are reported monthly.

GM's sales improved 17 per cent over a year ago. Ford was up 16 per cent and American Motors jumped 25 per cent over strike-affected levels of a year ago. Chrysler, which doesn't formally introduce its '76s until Thursday, said its sales fell 14 per cent.

SWCD Meets To Review Conservation

The Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District Board was to meet today to review for approval the conservation plans on A.C. Harris and Craig Morris.

Also to be discussed was the status of McClellan Creek and Red Deer Creek Watersheds and the securing of easements on these watershed sites.

The members of the board also were to sign district agreement sheets in conservation plans on cooperators' agreements that were lost in the tornado or were never signed.

Milton Carpenter and Curtis Schaffer were to report on the state meeting of Soil and Water Conservation Districts at Fort Worth.

first 10 days of October were the best for any month-opening period since November of 1973 and the best year-to-year gain since early September of last year.

The four companies sold 243,642 cars in early October, up 12.7 per cent from 216,110 a year ago and almost equal to the same period in 1973 just before the start of the Arab oil embargo that triggered the two-year sales slump.

The formal introduction of the new models by three of the four U.S. companies was credited with much of the gain — a sharp contrast with the 75s a year ago. Those cars, with price hikes averaging $500, sat unsold in dealer lots and a worsening slump accelerated until it reached bottom this past winter.

R.D. McLaughlin, Chrysler's vice president for sales, told a national press preview for the firm's new models that consumer intentions to buy new cars are at the highest point in two years. The Chrysler estimate was in line with those of its larger competitors — General Motors predicting sales well over the 10 million mark.

U.S. and foreign automakers sold a record 11.4 million cars in 1973, but slipped to 8.85 million during the energy crisis of 1974 and will drop even further this year during the recession to about 8.6 million cars.

Helped Get Relative Of Congressman Fed Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Civil Service Commission Chairman Robert E. Hampton helped get a congressman's relative a government job, UPI has learned.

However, Hampton says he did not intend that the relative be given any special treatment. Hampton and the two other commissioners have been accused in sworn testimony of seeking special treatment for certain applicants for federal jobs in violation of the merit system the commission was set up to enforce.

That allegation was made by Charles L. Ryan, a special assistant in the CSC Bureau of Recruiting and Examining, in a deposition given last month and released on Capitol Hill Tuesday. Ryan also said federal agencies sometimes were asked to rewrite job descriptions in order to fit the qualifications of some applicants.

The deposition was taken by lawyers for James Hardgrove, a General Services Administration official accused by the commission of violating the merit system.

Ryan said in his sworn statement that special treatment also was given to job applicants recommended by the White House and members of Congress but that he had ranked requests from commissioners "a little higher."

"I work for them," he explained. UPI learned that Hampton was involved in a request by former Rep. Robert D. Price, R-Tex., that a job be created for a relative of the congressman. Reminding Hampton that he had talked about the job with PHARR, Tex. (UPI) — Some independent truckers are discussing boycotting the multimillion dollar fruit and vegetable crop in the Lower Rio Grande Valley unless they receive a rate increase. But other truckers aren't so sure that would be a good idea.

"A bunch just trying to shut this Valley down for rates, they're crazy," said Millard Holden, president of the established Independent Produce Haulers of America.

Kenneth Hurst, a leader of the truckers discussing a boycott, said his group would meet tonight.

"After the meeting we'll set a date for the shutdown, if there has to be a shutdown," said Hurst.

Truckers May Boycott Crops In Valley Because of Rates

Hurst said he had signatures from 500 owner-operators, 200 of them living in the Valley, backing his efforts to increase rates. He said the organization would seek a pact with Valley shippers and brokers and if that did not produce higher rates, the boycott would be called.

Fritch Man Pleads Guilty

David Lee Rice, 18, of Fritch pleaded guilty in 31st District Court here to charges of acquiring a controlled substance by fraud.

Judge Grainger McIlhany granted a five year probation sentence and fined Rice $1,000.

Rice was arrested Feb. 18 by Lt. J.J. Ryzman of the Pampa Police Department after a forged prescription at Heard and Jones Drug here was passed.

The judge in assessing the fine said it must be paid in $50 monthly installments in addition to $10 monthly probation fees.

In other action Tuesday in district court, the judge set motions to revoke probations in four cases for Nov. 6.

District Attorney Guy Hardin said all four are on probation for driving while intoxicated.

Dublin Kidnapers Threaten Herrema

DUBLIN (UPI) — A new mediator said today he had been in touch again with kidnapers of Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema. A Dublin newspaper reported that the gang threatened to cut off Herrema's foot as proof he was still alive.

"I have had a new contact," said Dublin trade union leader Philip Flynn, chosen by the kidnapers to act as go-between with Irish authorities.

Flynn would not say what the communication with the kidnap gang was. He and his officials refused to release a tape recorded message from Herrema pleading for his life and asking the Irish government to grant the kidnapers' demands.

The newspaper the Irish Independent said it had heard the recording and quoted Herrema as begging police not to demand further evidence he was alive.

"They have threatened to cut off my foot and send it to the police if they insist on further proof that I am alive," the newspaper quoted Herrema as saying. "My abductors say they will not give the Irish government the satisfaction of getting me back alive unless the demands are met."

The Dublin government has rejected demands for the release of three Irish Republican Army prisoners in exchange for Herrema, kidnaped in Limerick on Oct. 3.

Flynn said his "personal belief" was that Herrema would be killed if the demands were not met. "Then there will be another kidnaping."

Flynn told reporters that Herrema had asked the government to comply with the abductors' demands for the release of three IRA prisoners.

But Ireland's minister of justice, Patrick Cooney, said, "There can be no deals. We cannot yield to blackmail."

Bank Honored

R. Kenneth Jennings, left, of the Small Business Administration in Lubbock, presented a citation to Floyd Watson, president of the First National Bank in Pampa, Tuesday for "special recognition and appreciation for excellence in public service during the Lefors community disaster declaration." Bank facilities were available to tornado victims, and the SBA was able to use the bank for five months at no cost to the government.

Chicano Accuses FBI of Tortures

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — A Chicano activist says the CIA and FBI are behind the alleged torture of two persons in Mexico who have been linked to smuggling and armed rebellion in Monterrey.

Mario Cantu says he has asked Mexican President Luis Echeverria and the U.S. State Department to investigate the reported tortures, and also denied any connection with a group known as the International Terrorist Alliance.

"Ramon Raul Chacon and Salvador Abundiz Guzman were tortured while imprisoned in Mexico," Cantu said. "In the near future we will present proof of this allegation by someone who personally visited Chacon in jail."

Cantu, Chacon and Abundiz were arrested last week in an article in the Monterrey newspaper El Norte as active in illegal arms traffic. Cantu said the CIA and FBI were behind the arrests, hoping to discredit the chicano and farmworkers movements in Texas and California.

Brezhnev Warns US Views Still Different

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev has warned the West that detente doesn't mean an end to the Kremlin's ideological war against capitalism.

"Relaxation of international tension by no means eliminates the struggle of ideas," Brezhnev said Tuesday night during a dinner for visiting French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

But Brezhnev said he believes detente is vital to East and West. He said he's hopeful for progress toward a relaxation of military tensions around the world.

"Reduction of military confrontation in Europe, limitation of armaments, and disarmament are such a sphere of international affairs where good will and initiative of the states are now particularly necessary," he said.

Brezhnev greeted Giscard d'Estaing with a hug and handshake at Moscow airport Tuesday morning at the start of four days of political and economic talks with Soviet leaders.

The French president was the first major Western chief of state to visit Moscow since last summer's Helsinki summit recognized the Soviet land claims of World War II and urged a freer flow of people between East and West.

At the Kremlin dinner ending the first day of talks, Giscard d'Estaing expressed hope for increased economic cooperation between France and the Soviet Union.

Brezhnev's speech was generally conciliatory despite his reaffirmation of an "ideological war" between Communism and capitalism.

The Soviet leader renewed his call for an international treaty banning development of new weapons of mass destruction.

The two leaders spoke cordially about the development of Franco-Soviet relations. There was no indication of any disagreements in their talks.

Ex-Marine Gives Up After Holding Hostages

KINGS BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — An ex-Marine suspected of robbing a bank and killing a policeman held three persons hostage but was talked into surrendering by a federal agent who served with him in Vietnam, ending a nine-hour siege.

Ken Meller, 34, was held without bail for investigation of kidnaping and assault with a deadly weapon.

Sheriff's inspector Mel McDougal negotiated with Meller throughout the ordeal Tuesday at a Lake Tahoe resort beach club and described the atmosphere in the building as "very casual."

He said Bob Berry, 24, the last hostage released, watched the baseball World Series while the talks proceeded.

McDougal was asked if he was afraid Meller might kill him.

"Yes, when he had the rifle pointed at me. But he said he didn't want to kill anyone."

Meller agreed to surrender after talking to federal firearms agent Larry Clendinen, who served with him in Vietnam. The agent was flown from San Diego at Meller's request.

The suspect released beach club manager Dennis Wahn, 27, and Pat Malley, a plumber, earlier in the afternoon.

Placer County Sheriff William Scott described Meller as an electronic technician who served two tours of duty in Vietnam with the Marines before receiving an honorable discharge in 1969. He said Meller was from "the East" and had come to northern California "a few weeks ago."

Scott said Meller rambled on in his discussions with McDougal about a broken love affair, his life in the Marines, and his family background.

Striking Inmates Not Reprimanded

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — No reprisals will be taken against the 125 inmates who staged a seven-hour sit-down strike at the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing, Corrections Secretary Robert Raines said Wednesday.

Raines said he has promised to discuss a list of demands with inmates sometime next week, but he added at least two items will not be negotiated.

"Persons coming into the security area for any length of time will continue to be fingerprinted," Raines said. "And inmates will not be permitted to cell with anyone they choose."

"I feel confident, however, the demonstration will not be renewed," Raines said. "If they do renew the demonstration before hand, the negotiations are off."

The secretary said activities and guard shifts were scheduled to return to normal today. The protest started late Monday in the prison exercise area. Some inmates had armed themselves with baseball bats and a few iron pipes and refused to return to their cells protesting prison conditions.

Throughout the entire sit-down strike, inmates remained peaceful, penitentiary Director Raymond E. Maynard said.

"There was no violence or any appreciable destruction to any state property," Raines said there will be no reprisals against the demonstrators because the strike was conducted in a peaceful manner.

"No one was hurt," Raines said. "The only thing that happened was some people lost some sleep. No one overreacted on either side."

Raines said he thinks some of the inmate demands are valid.

"I think some of their legitimate gripes are some of the same things Gov. (Robert) Bennett has pointed out on his tours of the institutions, like inadequate programs," Raines said. "But most of these things take time and money. It's something that can't be done overnight."

The inmates issued two lists explaining reasons behind the protest. Raines said he would discuss complaints of inadequate vocational training programs, alleged harassment from administrative officials and the recent closing of the fine arts department at the prison which include closing the Indian and Spanish cultural programs.

Other complaints include visiting room inadequacies, ill-prepared food, inadequate telephone privileges, hospital facilities and inmate activities.

George Scott Elected Head Of Hotel Co.

George W. Scott was re-elected president of the Community Hotel Co. at a luncheon meeting of the board of directors Tuesday in Coronado Inn.

Other officers elected were: E. L. Green Jr., vice president; Floyd Imel and Floyd Watson, treasurers; E.O. Wedgeworth, secretary; Don Lane, assistant secretary and counsel, and Frank Culbertson, director at large.

Directors voted to meet quarterly with monthly meetings to be held by executive board members.

Phone Company Charges Charges Were Incorrect

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials contend a six-month Missouri Public Service Commission investigation shows allegations of illegal corporate political contributions are false.

But the five-member commission, which concluded its public hearings Tuesday, will study final reports from its staff, intervenors and the telephone company before issuing findings and rulings on the case.

"We can terminate these proceedings right now—that is there was no use of corporate funds for political contributions," Bell's chief attorney, Jack C. Lorenz, told commission Chairman A. Robert Pierce.

Lorenz contended a 500-page deposition, in which the commission's staff interrogated Bell's Assistant Vice President for Public Affairs H.D. "Doc" Ames, contains no proof corporate funds were ever used for political contributions in Missouri.

The commission's general counsel, Leland Curtis, introduced Ames' deposition before moving to close the record of the case. Ames' sworn testimony is considered crucial to the case because Bell officials testified he handled political contributions for the company.

Copies of the deposition were to be released today.

Questioned by the commission staff, Ames said he had collected contributions to political candidates from Bell employees for a number of years, but said the donations were personal and voluntary.

Liz, Richard Remarried In Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton have been remarried in a remote African village, Radio South Africa reported today.

The couple was married for the second time in the village of Kasane, a border town in Northern Botswana on Friday, the radio said.

The ceremony was performed by Ambrose Masalela, district commissioner of the town where the borders of Zambia, Botswana, South West Africa and Rhodesia meet come together on the Zambezi river.

The couple has been staying at the Chobe Game park in Botswana.

The radio said Miss Taylor wore a green dress with lace frills and guinea fowl feathers for the occasion. Burton was dressed in a red shirt and white trousers.

The couple was divorced 14 months ago after 10 years of marriage. Miss Taylor has been married six times and is Burton's second wife.

A spokesman for the film stars would not confirm the wedding.

Botswana's central registry office had not yet received copies of the marriage certificate, a spokesman at the office said. "But that doesn't mean the wedding didn't take place. Kasane is very far away," he said.

If the Shoe Fits -
By Gary Gattis

Will foot health be improved by talking about it?

In a way, yes. I would not say that mere talk has reduced the death rate caused by tuberculosis, but I do believe that the educational program of the Tuberculosis Association has saved many lives by uprooting the old custom of labeling tuberculars "Consumptives" and shutting them up to die.

Talk will not cure cancer either but discussing early signs of the disease will lead to many early diagnoses and cures.

I believe that this decade will be known in health education history as the most productive in foot health thinking in three hundred years because modern young parents are studying the subject and discussing why they read. Bunions, hammer toes, corns, callouses and even a large percentage of weak-feet are rooted in ignorance which cannot withstand the light of intelligent discussion.

The U.S. Department of Justice recent regulations controlling security and privacy of criminal history information will be felt in Pampa as in cities across the state and nation.
Announcement was made today of a forthcoming meeting to discuss the new law in which local law enforcement agencies, judges, probation officers and county and district attorneys are asked to attend.

Pampa Police Chief Richard Mills said that agency has complied with all major requirements of the law which stems from the Privacy Act of 1974.

"But we are operating in a cloud with no specific guidelines as for Texas police agencies," the chief explained.

The question is how far can law enforcement agencies go in releasing information.

"We know we can release it to other law enforcement agencies, but what about a non law enforcement government agency handling investigation?" the chief said.

He explained that employers often request information in regard to a potential employee.

"We need to know what type background and if the employee will be stable and dependable," they say.

"I don't blame the employer, but the law says we can't release the information," the chief said.

"And I wish I had a dollar for every daddy who wants the police department to check on his daughter's boyfriend."

Creditors, Mills said, also request specific information on occasions.

Ralph W. Collins of the statistical analysis center, Department of Public Safety in Austin announced a meeting in this area today in a teletype message.

The chief said the police department will continue to abide by the law.

Occasionally those who request information or who have in the past obtained certain services fail to understand the crack down, the chief said.

We Hold These Truths...
A Chronicle of America

October 18, 1775:

Having been held prisoner in Falmouth (now Portland), Maine, for several hours in May, British Captain Henry Mowat — with the eight-gun Canceau and the six-gun Halifax — returns for revenge. On the 16th he gives the townspeople two hours to evacuate so that he might "execute a just punishment"; later, he postpones the bombardment. On the 18th the townspeople refuse to hand over the cannon, arms, ammunition, and hostages that he demands. So he opens fire. The cannonade lasts most of the day. When it is over, no American lives have been lost — most of the inhabitants having left on the 16th. But 417 buildings have been destroyed (including 139 dwellings); 11 vessels have been burned, and four captured. When General Washington hears of the incident, he deprecates the "savagery" as but the latest British "example of despotic barbarity."

Study De-emphasizes Fed Marijuana Efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is studying a White House task force report recommending de-emphasis of marijuana in federal efforts against drug abuse.

It may be made public this week, says a White House spokesman, who denied an allegation the report was withheld so far because of the admission last week by the President's son, Jack, that he has smoked pot.

The report of the White House Domestic Council Drug Review Task Force said drug abuse costs the nation up to $17 billion a year and may be an insoluble problem.

It said instead of aiming at marijuana, federal law enforcement and treatment efforts should be directed more toward such drugs as heroin, amphetamines and mixed barbiturates, which "pose a greater risk to the individual and to society."

The report was reviewed last week by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, and a source close to the government's antidrug efforts said release of the report was held up in part because of Jack Ford's revelation that he used marijuana.

But the spokesman said Monday "that's just wrong." He said the report probably would be released this week and has been making its way normally through channels.

Crystal City May Lose Gas

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. says it will cut off the natural gas supply to Crystal City, Tex., Nov. 7 unless the defiant South Texas city pays a $185.00 bill and accepts the current rate.

William E. Greehey, president of the fuel supplier, said he regrets the decision but he said the company must collect its bills.

"We do not want to terminate service to Crystal City, but the interests of our other customers, who are paying the legally established rate, leaves us no alternative," Greehey said Monday.

Crystal City officials said the rate was unfair and it would fight the action in court. The Texas Railroad Commission set the rate and the 38th District Court in Zavala County issued a declaratory judgment for Lo-Vaca. It ruled the city must "make current its arrearages for gas previously supplied to the city and to agree to pay Lo-Vaca the interim rate for future deliveries of natural gas."

The city approved an ordinance six months ago that it pay no more than the natural gas rate set in a contract with Lo-Vaca. The city has paid a base rate of 36 cents per million cubic feet of natural gas. It refuses to pay a cost pass-through by Lo-Vaca of $1.79 and the $185,000 debt accrued in the last six months.

Dahlia Club Sets Arts, Antique Show

SPEARMAN — The Dahlia Flower Club will sponsor its sixth annual show of arts, crafts and antiques Nov. 1-2.

The show and a silver tea will be in Hunsford Library from 1 to 5 p.m. on each of the two days.

Proceeds will go to the library. Artists, craftsmen, antique and other collectors are invited to show their work.

Rules for the show include observance of all rules of the library, and the library will receive 20 per cent of all sales.

Each exhibitor will provide his or her bridge table and set up the exhibit.

Each table must be covered with white paper furnished by the Dahlia Flower Club. All exhibits must be in place by 11 a.m. Saturday and are to be removed by 6 p.m. Nov. 2.

Fireman's Ball Is Scheduled For November

The 10th annual Fireman's Ball, sponsored by the Pampa Fire Department, is scheduled, Nov. 21 at the Moose Lodge. Tickets are $1.50 each and proceeds will be used to purchase toys for needy children.

Those who wish to donate or attend may contact any fireman. Tickets are now on sale.

Fair Names Quilt Champs

Delisa McGill, 2½ years old, draws Mrs. Mildred Prince's name from the hamper. Her helper is Billie Osborne. Mrs. Prince, a former Pampa resident, received the painting "Myma's Bridge" by Amarillo artist Stefan Kramer. The contest was sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association at the Top O' Texas Arts and Crafts Festival Saturday and Sunday in M.K. Brown Auditorium. Mrs. Prince is a former student of Kramer's.

In conjunction, the Gray County Bicentennial Committee and County Home Demonstration Council sponsored a quilt fair which recorded almost 1,500 attendees in Coronado Inn. Thirty-two women entered 88 quilts which were displayed. Council members hosted the event in bicentennial costumes. Quilt winners and categories were: creativity and design - $100 to Mrs. Luther Welborn of Lefors, honorable mention to Mrs. J.S. Skelly, Marguriete Nash and Francis Hall; bicentennial motif - $75 to Mrs. E.A. Baldwin of Pampa, honorable mentions to Mrs. Jean McCarley, Mrs. Luther Welborn and Mrs. S.W. Whiteley; quilting skills - $50 to Mrs. Curtis Smith, Perryton, honorable mention to Mrs. Marguriete Nash, Mollie Fresby and Mary Crutcher. Family heirloom or old quilt - $50 to Mrs. Jan Ragsdale, Pampa, honorable mention to Mrs. Marilyn Butler, Mrs. Earl Williams and Mrs. Hattie Harmon. Honorable mention prizes were Gray County bicentennial coins.

Mrs. Grady Grant with Jean McCarley's winning quilt.

Mrs. G.B. Hogan, president of the Progressive Home Demonstration Club, with a prize winning sunflower quilt.

Aching Feet Hospitalize Record Belly

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — World belly dancing co-champion Pamela Ness is undaunted by a short hospital stay and ready to defend her title against all comers.

Miss Ness, 22, left for Las Vegas and Los Angeles with her promoter Monday for negotiations to appear on several national television shows and Las Vegas stage shows.

She spent a day under observation in a hospital because she suffered aching feet and fainting spells after the record-setting performance Oct. 3-4 in suburban Overland Park, Kan. Miss Ness and Nichole English, 21, danced without a break for 27 hours, 37½ minutes.

Nobody Chides Champion Chili Chomper

NEW IBERIA, La. (UPI) — Juan "Hot Tamale" Sanchez gulped down an ultrahot Chili Bolero without flinching to retain his title as the world's hot pepper eating king.

Sanchez, 47, of Lafayette, La., outlasted a youthful competitor and several veteran opponents during the weekend in the seventh International Hot Pepper Eating Contest.

Ex-Patient Excavates

DALLAS (UPI) — Forty-seven years ago M. L. Gregory entered the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children for treatment of diphtheria, a disease which crippled him for 11 years.

Today Gregory is back at the hospital, not as a patient, but at the head of a successful earth-moving business hired to excavate the basement.

Gregory Excavating outbid nine other companies for the job at a new site for the hospital, which brought him from almost total paralysis to full health. The hospital operates with donations, providing treatment to patients free of charge.

Although Gregory still walks with a limp from the disease, he is often at the hospital construction site.

"When you spend 11 years in one place, you have a soft spot for it," Gregory said. "That place has got to be one of the greatest in the world. I really wanted to get the job. I would have been hard to beat on that bid because I was determined to get the job."

But Gregory, 53, said he is not excavating the basement for the $50 million building totally out of kindness. He concedes the profit motive had much to do with it. He obtained the excavation contract with a bid of $250,000.

"It's a rotten competitive business and I couldn't afford to give a low bid just to give a low bid. It would sound good if I said I was the low bidder because of what the hospital has done for me. But I'm doing it mainly to get a profit," he said.

Doctors at the hospital at one time doubted Gregory would live.

"God knows how I ever recovered. When I went in there, I didn't even have control of my eyelids," he said. "I had about 12 operations at the hospital and the disease settled in my right leg. I get around real well, but my right leg is about an inch and a half shorter than my left one, causing a limp."

Despite the handicap, Gregory has chosen a physically active lifestyle.

He earned the nickname "Speedy", which friends still call him, competing in midget car races for four years beginning in 1942.

Gregory purchased a tractor and a four-yard dump truck, hired a man to work with him and began digging and hauling dirt 21 years ago.

Today Gregory, and one of his two sons, Mike, operate the largest dirt hauling company in Dallas and one of the largest excavating companies in Texas.

"I started out with one truck like all poor folks," he said.

"I've been hearing rags to riches stories all my life. I like dirtwork and it's good money."

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here's a tip for subscribers to book and record clubs.

In a notebook, keep a record of the date you ordered, the price and the name of the article you ordered.

When the article comes, put the date received and the check number that you paid with.

This may sound like a little extra work, but I belong to two book clubs and it helps keep things straight for me.

If there are any questions, I have all the information right there instead of second guessing.

E. Becker

This is the top-seller hint of the month for me!

I belong to a record club and never have known how many more I need to buy or exactly what I have bought. I am going to start a notebook right now and be just a little bit more organized.

A little bit more than nothing is a step in the right direction, right?

Heloise II

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:

I got too old too soon — before I learned half as much as I read in your column.

Ethel B.

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint that I would like to add to your column about shoelaces.

In lacing up the shoes, put the laces through the top holes and lace down to the bottom.

My little boy doesn't have any trouble in keeping his shoes tied now that he does it this way. He even started a fad at school and now all the children wear their laces "upside down."

Mrs. B.E. Jordan

I have done this for years on my desert boots and tennis shoes.

It does seem to help. I think that it must be because there is less pressure on the bottom of the foot.

People do look at me a little funny but...

Heloise II

THIS COLUMN is written for you the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem, write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Memo to: Cleanser Manufacturers
From: A housewife who married too young (age 42)

Re: Putting fun in my housework.

Sirs: It has not escaped my attention that during the past few years manufacturers of cleaning products have taken a new tack — the Competitive Gametime approach to house cleaning.

This has pitted housewives with stopped-up drains against those who triumph over hair and grease. (I have to tell you see-through plumbing upsets my stomach.)

Women in laundromats who use a weak bleach are made to suffer public humiliation when their laundry does not pass the "clean smell" test.

And some homemakers run a foot race to see who can get the most dust on their mop in 15 seconds.

Now there is a new entry on the shelves called the Clean Oven Game, which sounds about as much fun as a three-day cruise on the SS Tidy Bowl.

Using buttons as markers, I am instructed to throw the dice and advance or go back as directed. If my present oven has fumes, I go back three spaces. If I can't open the safety cap, I go back four spaces. If I choose a cleanser that is safe for children or pets, advance four spaces, and if I forget my rubber gloves, let me guess, I won't have enough fingers left to pick up my buttons.

I don't know how to tell you this, but I am generally not in a festive, fun-seeking mood when faced with an oven to clean. I called my girlfriend, Mayva, and asked her if she wanted to come over and play the oven-cleaning game with me.

Mayva has never been known to mince words. She said it sounded like fun and after that we could choose up sides and wax the driveway.

I know in my heart that housework is fun, but somehow I just can't seem to get into the spirit of it.

For years, I've had my own housecleaning game. If I can get the kids to throw the covers up over their beds, I advance to the bathroom. If the light is burnt out, I keep the dice and move up to the kitchen. If it is littered with kids' stuff, I have to go back to the bedrooms, but if I land on my car keys, I collect Mayva, pass go and keep going.

Northrop May Have Violated Law

By Peter Gruenstein
Pampa News
Washington Bureau Chief

involving the firm's president — in billing the government for millions of dollars in apparently improper expenses, an internal Department of Defense auditors' report recommends. The matters the Defense Contract Auditing Agency report says should be referred to an investigative agency would, in most cases, raise questions of criminal fraud. Among the areas for investigation DCAA cities are the following:

— "The president of Northrop signed a declaration on two occasions in support of consultant costs claimed which were incomplete and misleading. Northrop used these funds for illegal political contributions and the amounts have impact on government contracts."

— Northrop president and board chairman Thomas V. Jones and one other Northrop official pleaded guilty on May 1, 1974 to making $150,000 in illegal political contributions to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign. While it is not clear what payments the DCAA report, dated Aug. 6, 1975, are referring to, it is evident that they are citing donations not previously investigated.

— Northrop made cash payments to a consultant, "allegedly misrepresented the expenditures," and charged the costs to the government.

Referring to a previous report by the private auditing firm of Ernst & Ernst (E&E), the Defense Department auditors note that Northrop made cash payments to a Mr. M.E. Childs of $60,000 from 1971-73. According to another internal Northrop report, only $32,000 was actually paid to Childs. The balance was charged to "consulting" fees but actually went to pay for the firm's goose and duck hunting facilities in Easton, Md., and miscellaneous "entertainment and hospitality" expenses, the DCAA report said.

When Northrop billed the government for the $60,000, the "payments were improperly described in the expense report as: professional trade material, professional trade publications, and sundry services purchased. Northrop explained to E & E that Childs was a retired USAF (Air Force) Colonel on medical disability and if he accepted additional compensation, he might jeopardize the status," the auditors said.

— "Corporate officials admit they made donations to attend political dinners in Washington, D.C. using company funds," the DCAA audit report states, adding that the government was billed for the political contributions. In at least several instances, they appear to have been misleadingly billed to the government.

— "Company aircraft were used to transport several federal and state officials without reimbursement to Northrop."

The News' Washington bureau reported in May that Northrop had arranged numerous flights for members of Congress and other top government officials including Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and former California governor Ronald Reagan. In some cases, it flew senators to vacation spots free of charge. At least some of these costs may also have been billed to the government in a misleading fashion, the DCAA report suggests.

— The E & E report alleges that Northrop paid $15,000 to an Indonesian agent during 1972 to make a gift to an Indonesian politician. "This item has impact on Government contracts."

— Northrop reportedly made a $600,000 cash deposit to a Swiss bank account to be used for payments to undisclosed individuals.

— In general, Northrop's extensive use of consultants was questioned by the DOD audit report. Over a four-year period, $40 million was paid to various consultants, as reported by The News' Washington bureau. In many cases, according to DOD auditors, adequate documentation was missing, destroyed, apparently inaccurate or incomplete.

The DCAA audit report stresses that, in using only normal auditing techniques, it could not definitively determine the truth of many assertions made by Northrop. "In our opinion, the development of all factual data pertaining to illegal political contributions and other improper transactions requires use of investigative techniques other than audit procedures," the auditors said.

The Aug. 6 report, in recommending that "this matter be referred to an appropriate investigative agency before final settlement," pointedly noted that on Jan. 10, 1975, "We recommended that you (Air Force Contract Management Division) request an appropriate government investigative agency to review certain disclosures which appear to violate public laws. On 31 January, 1975, the Air Force System Command Staff Judge Advocate advised that an independent investigation at that time would be premature and that a governmental investigative agency would require a completed DCAA audit report beforehand."

Pentagon sources have charged that the Pentagon has attempted to "cover up" the DCAA report.

The Joint Committee on Defense Production, chaired by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., is presently investigating the Northrop - Pentagon relationship.

Feds Offer Money To Desegregate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than $3 million in federal aid is now available for school districts forced to desegregate under court orders handed down after the original deadline for aid applications.

The Ford administration Monday specifically asked certain school districts to apply for $3,250,000 in emergency aid.

Many of the districts are in the North and West and have to desegregate by busing. But money from the emergency allocation probably will not be available for busing.

Recipients of Emergency School Aid Act grants in recent years have not been allowed to use any of the money for new or increased busing, said Herman Goldberg of the U.S. Office of Education.

The funds may be used for such desegregation-related activities as teacher training, bilingual education and curriculum changes.

A number of school districts were involved in litigation in the federal courts at the time ESAA grants were being processed last spring," HEW Secretary David Mathews said in a statement.

"Some of these cases will be resolved and desegregation plans ordered before the next funding cycle. These districts will need financial assistance."

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said its new offer would permit school districts which adopted court-ordered desegregation plans too late to apply for the $216 million available during the fiscal year ended June 30 to compete for funds for use during the current school year.

HEW specifically invited applications from Corpus Christi and Dallas, Tex.; Dayton, Ohio; Detroit; Gadsden, Ala.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Jefferson County (Louisville) Ky.; and Omaha, Neb.

Officials who chose those districts could not be reached to explain their choice.

Broadway Musicals Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Great White Way looked like the Broadway of song and legend for the first time in nearly a month Monday night with the return of Broadway musicals shut down by a musicians' strike.

Box offices reported a brisk business — both in sales and ticket exchanges — as curtains went up on "A Chorus Line," "Pippin," "Shenandoah," and "Chicago," four of the dozen shows shut by the 25-day walkout.

Four other productions — "Candide," "Raisin," "The Wiz," and "Grease" — were to reopen tonight and "The Magic Show" was slated to return Wednesday.

"The first night back is very special and we're all anxious to do it again," said Allen Herman, a drummer in "A Chorus Line."

Tickets also were on sale for two new productions, Scott Joplin's "Treemonisha," scheduled to debut Wednesday, and "Boccaccio," which will go back into preview this week. The "Paul Anka Show" was canceled.

"It's going to be rough for a while because we lost our continuity," said Louis Appel, treasurer of the Alvin Theatre, where "Shenandoah" was playing. "But all things considered, we're doing pretty well."

Gerald Schoenfeld, chief negotiator for the League of New York Theaters and Producers, said, "There is a tremendous financial burden that has been imposed on them. A large number have refunded the totality of their advance sale and the effect is that they are reopening cold in New York." The loss to producers was estimated at $3.5 million.

The reopenings followed agreement by the league and Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians Saturday night on a three-year pact.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16
Your birthday today: Your year has its fair share of adventure, surprise and passing crisis. Even the duller routine work yields unexpected rewards. Relationships become significant, and are beneficial channels for self-expression. Material gain is not as important as adjustment is. Today's natives accumulate practical resources.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Secret deals have something wrong with them or are about to become public scandals; you can't win by getting involved. People close to you annoy you. Keep your temper.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Acquaintances are gung ho for diversions until it's clear that your money isn't available. You've enough work without taking on special assignments. Be conservative.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Minor errors become worse if not taken care of at once. Impatience only upsets your working situation. Avoid personal comments. Leave new enterprises for next week.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: If you can avert legal moves and demands, fine, and if you can endure increased sensitivity, all the better. Take care of your health at this time.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your rash mood yields results other than those you wanted. Delay speculation while a second opinion is pending. Be sensitive to those you cherish.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Clear the decks of past and present matters before bringing in new items. Investigate future ventures, but don't make any plans or commitments now.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: The unexpected is today's norm, so take it in stride. Stick to schedules as long as you can. Use electrical or mechanical things with care. Let experts attend to repairs.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Be conventional in your approach to group projects or family customs. Highly charged emotions lead into overstatements if you lack self-discipline.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Think about what you are saying! See if you can get through the day without stirring up trouble. Family ties are more important than ever but get in the way of business.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Be ready to improvise since nothing is going to come out as planned or advertised. Make social moves or pursue romance in the later hours.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Personalities distract you, but try to pay attention to details, figures and measurements. It's all right to be a perfectionist, but don't let tedious chores force you into overtime.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: It's not the best time to argue your case now. Just be yourself for the moment and leave everything as is, including your home scene and its arrangements.

An opportunity for your son.

Newspaper route management teaches him to deal with people

A BOY with a newspaper route earns money that can help him get the things he wants. Even a college education.

More than that, he learns life's important lessons.

One of these is on how to deal with people.

Meeting his customers on his route, collecting and servicing, he gains this valuable business competence. It will help him throughout his life. Many former newspaperboys, notable successes among them, have told us as much.

Your newspaperboy also applies the arithmetic he learns in the classroom in a practical way by making change and handling bills...thus he becomes a better student. He learns, too, the value of promptness and of good manners.

In fact, you'll find that a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life...while building a bank account of his own.

Should your son be inclined to put himself that step ahead, have him get in touch with us. There may be a route available to him in your neighborhood. And along with it...the opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

District Warfare Begins

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Defending champion Amarillo Palo Duro, Pampa and pre-season favorite Amarillo Caprock appear for the second consecutive season, to be District 3-AAAA's top teams going into conference warfare, which starts Friday.

Amarillo High visits Borger, while Pampa and Caprock meet in Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium in Friday games. Saturday afternoon, Palo and Tascosa tangle in Dick Bivins.

Palo Duro, unbeaten but twice tied in its last 18 games, earned a 4-0 record in non-conference games, while Pampa and Caprock went 4-1. The Harvesters lost their final game, falling 14-0 to Lubbock Monterey, while the Caprock Longhorns lost their first game, bowing 6-3 to Odessa Ector.

Canyon tied Palo Duro 20-20 in those team's final non-district contest.

Several facts should make this season's district race at least an interesting affair — Caprock appears to have the most momentum, having won four straight. Palo Duro is unbeaten. Pampa has lost only once. Borger (2-2-1) and Amarillo (2-3) have shown steady improvement.

And Tascosa? The Rebels may be the only weak link.

"It's gonna be rough going and a long year," Rebel coach James "Jocko" Harris said. "We think it's got to be better next year."

Tascosa has beaten only Lubbock Coronado 7-6. The Rebels are ranked last among 3-AAAA teams in both total offense and defense.

"We are expecting this. We're just short on depth and experience. They just keep getting tougher — we've got Palo Duro, Pampa, then Caprock, all in a row."

"We certainly better be emotionally ready. One of our big problems is not only playing the opponent, but playing ourselves. We turned it over five to nine times a game. Against Coronado we turned it over once and we won."

Tascosa isn't without talent, though. Halfback Neil Packard, given an inch, can run a mile. He's rushed 73 times for 251 yards and two touchdowns for a 3.4

average to lead all Rebel ball carriers. However, Packard, like most of his teammates, is small, playing in a backfield that averages 159 pounds and behind a line that averages 171.

"This is the smallest team I've coached outside of Class B," Harris said.

Tascosa opens district play against Palo Duro Saturday afternoon in Dick Bivins Stadium. Don coach Doug James isn't taking Tascosa lightly.

"I really don't rate them as a weaker team," James said. "They're gaining a little momentum every week and it's a crosstown rivalry people get up for."

Palo Duro, with all-state noseguard Wesley Roberts, all-everything linebacker candidate Tom Weser and two explosive running backs, may be close to the caliber of last season's state quarterfinalist.

The backs are Robert Silivent, the district's leading rusher with 98 carries for 733 yards (7.4 average) and eight touchdowns, and Greg Towner, who has rushed 48 times for 382 yards for a 7.9 average. The latter figure is tops among 3-AAAA ball carriers.

James, in spite of PD's talent, expects a close race. "Everybody is a little stronger than they were last year. Borger has come up with a pretty tough outfit and Amarillo High is doing the same thing with a new coach (Larry Dippell). Coach Welborn (Pampa) does a solid job all the time. Caprock is salty."

Palo Duro is heavily favored to knock off Tascosa, while the other two district openers are considered tossups. Caprock and Pampa meet in Dick Bivins. Amarillo travels to Borger.

Ray Basinger's Longhorns statistically own the district's No. 2 offense (296 yards per game) and No. 3 defense (214.8), while Pampa ranks third offensively (272.8) second defensively (207.0).

"I think it's gonna be one heckuva ball game," Basinger predicted. "If Pampa wins the first one, that puts them in the driver's seat...for a while, anyway."

"Pampa looks just as strong on defense or stronger on defense than they were last year."

"We started out slow but we've picked up a little momentum."

The game will feature two solid running attacks.

Pampa halfbacks Ricky Moore and Mike Glover have gained 567 and 236 yards, respectively, on the ground, while quarterback Garland McPherson has gained 302. Caprock halfbacks Chuck Velasquez has 536 yards and seven touchdowns; quarterback Bobby Stewart 311 yards and six TD's; fullback David Skelton 287 yards.

The Amarillo High-Borger contest, on the other hand, likely will be on aerial display. Amarillo's Tim Rutchie is the district's No. 2 passer with 18 completions in 44 attempts for 266 yards and three touchdowns. His Borger counterpart, Brett Lang, has completed 20 of 50 passes for 263 yards and one TD.

Borger coach Jim Breckenridge expects Friday's game to be the start of something good for his Bulldogs.

"I think the best part of our season will be the next five weeks ahead of us," the Bulldogs' first-year mentor from Odessa Permian said. "We've gotten better since we started the season and we're getting better as the weeks go by."

"Any time your building a new program, it's gonna take some time to do it because the kids need to have time to become familiar with terminology and technique. Once they get that down, it's a matter of polishing and improvement."

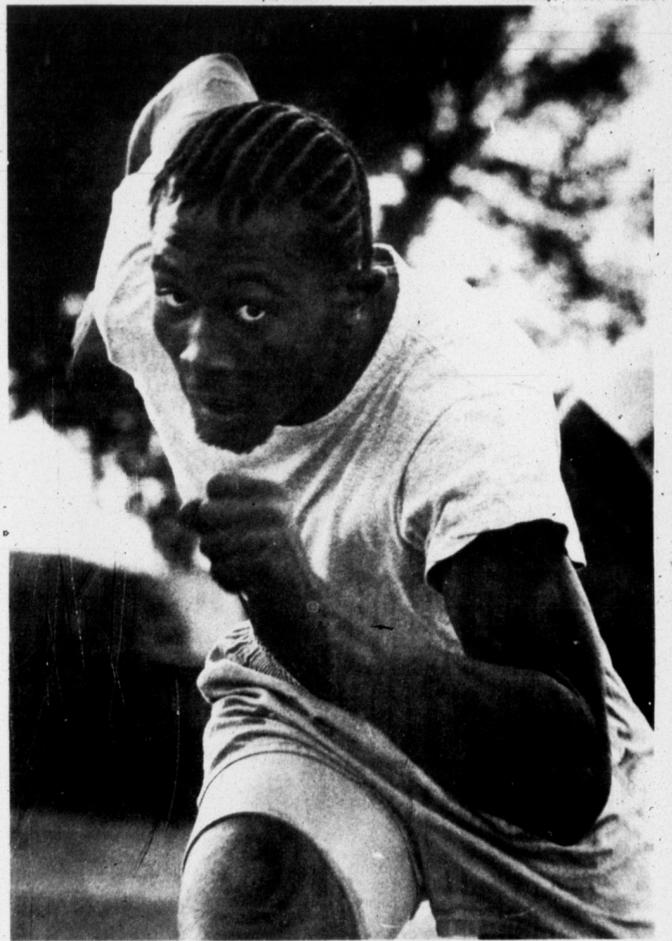

"I'm just real pleased with everything our kids have done."

Does he expect Borger to contend? "I really feel like it's gonna be any one of five teams. Not any one team has established an overwhelming favorite role."

Dippell isn't as sure as Breckenridge that Amarillo will be a contender. "It looks to me like it's a three-team district. You can never count Palo Duro out; they have so much momentum going. Caprock has to be considered strong. Pampa has a lot of balance in their offense."

"We feel like we may have a chance to be competitive. Being truthful, though, we don't know if we're gonna respond. We have to play consistent and not make some of the mistakes we've been making."

Concerning Friday's opponent, the former Hereford coach said. "They are a very tough, physical football team. They've gotten better week after week."

Transfer Halfback

Senior Mike Glover transferred from Borger prior to the season but has fit into Pampa's game plan seemingly well, having gained 236 yards on 44 carries this season (see Harvester statistics, elsewhere on this page). Glover and Pampa teammates open district play against Amarillo Caprock at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Dick Bivins Stadium.

Reds Tipple Boston, Lead 2-1

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds hold a one-game edge in a World Series steeped in controversy today — and all over a routine bunt.

Although beaten 6-5 in the third game by Joe Morgan's single in the 10th inning, the man who most made the Boston Red Sox see red Tuesday night was the umpire, Larry Barnett.

The play was a dribbler of a bunt by Reds' pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister to sacrifice teammate Cesar Geronimo from first to second.

A collision between Armbrister and catcher Carlton Fisk led to Fisk's being charged with an error trying to nail Geronimo at second and both Reds runners ending up safe. An intentional walk to Pete Rose loaded the bases and Morgan's game-winning single over Fred Lynn's head in center field all became secondary to the enraged Red Sox.

"It's a damn joke to lose a ballgame that way," Fisk fumed in the steam-up Red Sox clubhouse. "I don't know what the damn rule is, all I know is that he (Armbrister) ran into me. If that's not interference, then I don't know what is."

"I ruled it was simply a collision," said Barnett, a 30-year old eight-year American League umpire making his first World Series appearance. "It is interference only when the batter intentionally gets in the way of the fielder."

The Red Sox immediately appealed the play to first base umpire Dick Stello but the result was the same.

Prior to the 10th inning, home runs had been the story of the game.

Fisk's homer gave the Red Sox a 1-0 lead in the second but in the fourth Tony Perez walked and apparently unnerved Red Sox starter Rick Wise by stealing his second base of the year. Johnny Bench then drilled a 400-foot homer into the left-center field bleachers.

The six homers in the game tied a World Series record.

Controversy Ends Series Tilt

CINCINNATI (UPI) — "No," declared Ed Armbrister. "There was no way I was trying to block him."

The Cincinnati pinch-hitter said he didn't think he interfered with Boston catcher Carlton Fisk in a controversial play that helped the Reds win Tuesday night's extra-inning World Series game.

Tied 5-5, Armbrister was trying to bunt Cesar Geronimo to second base, but his bunt just trickled in front of the plate and Fisk tried to scramble out to grab the ball for a play at second.

But the quick-moving Fisk collided with the slow-moving Armbrister and Fisk's off-balance throw to second went into center field, allowing Geronimo to take third.

Volleyers Whip Dons

AMARILLO — Pampa squared its district girls volleyball record at 1-1 with a 15-12, 16-14 win over host Amarillo Palo Duro Tuesday.

In the junior varsity game, Palo Duro whipped Pampa (6-4 record) 15-5, 15-8.

The Harvesters won their 12th game against six losses behind Pam Edgar's defense and Wanza Jernigan's spiking.

according to Coach Lynn Wolfe.

"The rest of them just played the court real well. We had more offense which helped us that we haven't had before," Mrs. Wolfe said.

Pampa hosts Amarillo Tascosa, 1-1, Thursday. The junior varsity match will start at 6:30 p.m.; the varsities will meet 20 minutes after the conclusion of the first match.

Supreme Court Wrapup

Strikes Down Obscene Call Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today let stand a ruling which struck down a state law against obscene phone calls.

The justices also agreed to rule on whether voters can determine what limits they want to set, through zoning, on commercial and residential growth.

In the telephone call case, the Court affirmed the 4th U.S. Circuit Court's ruling that Virginia's law in this regard is too broad and could infringe on free speech rights.

Virginia argued that its law against such calls was similar to those in 49 other states and that those laws would also be threatened unless the Supreme Court acted.

The appeal involving zoning changes in Eastlake, Ohio, is the first case the Court has agreed to hear involving controversial methods aimed at limiting community growth — keeping new arrivals out.

Cases raising similar "land use" issues are on appeal from San Jose and Santa Clara, Calif. The Court did not rule on whether to grant review in those cases.

A third California case from Petaluma, Calif. has drawn national attention and also may be appealed to the Supreme Court.

In its second week of the new term, the Court also agreed to decide whether the Federal Power Commission must take into account a utility's history of unfair employment practices when fixing rates and granting licenses.

In other actions, the Court: — Rejected an attempt by the FPC to deregulate winter prices of natural gas in a manner which critics claim gives gas producers windfall profits.

— Let stand a $151,000 libel judgment against TV Guide. It was the fourth libel case the justices have declined to review in two weeks.

— Refused to review a lower court ruling which upheld a District of Columbia law against indecent sexual proposals used mainly to prosecute homosexuals.

— Agreed to hear cases from Chicago and North Carolina involving a city's right to fire police officers without a hearing.

— Agreed to re-examine standards for making warrantless arrests and searches of a suspect in his home?

Forest Officials May Sue for Fire

EAGLE, Colo. (UPI) — Forest Service officials are trying to gather evidence for a suit against the persons responsible for a forest fire which caused more than $7 million damage in the White River National Forest.

Forest Service spokesman Gary Severson said federal law provided that persons found responsible for causing forest fires could be sued for the costs of fighting the fires, in this case about $600,000. The blaze, brought under control Tuesday afternoon, burned an estimated $6,712,000 worth of aspen, spruce and pine.

"We feel we have a pretty good handle on the responsible persons," Severson said. "We will be taking it to court if we think we can make a case out of it."

The fire burned 4,438 acres of timber since it broke out in an elk hunters' camp Saturday afternoon.

"The fire is under control but it is not completely out yet," Severson said. "Fire crews will remain on the scene until the fire is extinguished, but many of the firefighters were sent home this morning."

The fire, centered in an area 16 miles northwest of Eagle, was the worst on national forest land in Colorado since records began in 1889, Severson said. About 475 professional firefighters, nine bulldozers and several aircraft were used to battle the blaze.

High winds gusting to 50 miles per hour hampered early efforts to extinguish the blaze, but Severson said calm winds, high humidity and cool temperatures led to control of the fire. Snow fell on some of the fire area Monday night but officials said the moisture did little to halt the spread of the blaze.

Bulldozers were used to dig 13 miles of fire lines around the blaze.

Music Teachers Plan Recital

The Pampa Music Teachers Association met Tuesday at Tarpley Music Store and made plans for a joint teacher-student recital in March with a bicentennial theme.

A program on Maurice Ravel, the French impressionistic composer, was presented by Viola Dow, Myrna Orr and Jana Hogan.

Mrs. Dow and Jana Hogan performed a two piano arrangement of Ravel's Pavane.

Others attending the meeting included Lois Fagan, Atha Wilks, Jennifer Scoggin, Donna Bradford, Jamey Henderson, JoAnn Starbuck, Brenda Milligan and Bill Haley.

Four Wheelers Complete Trip On Oil Lease

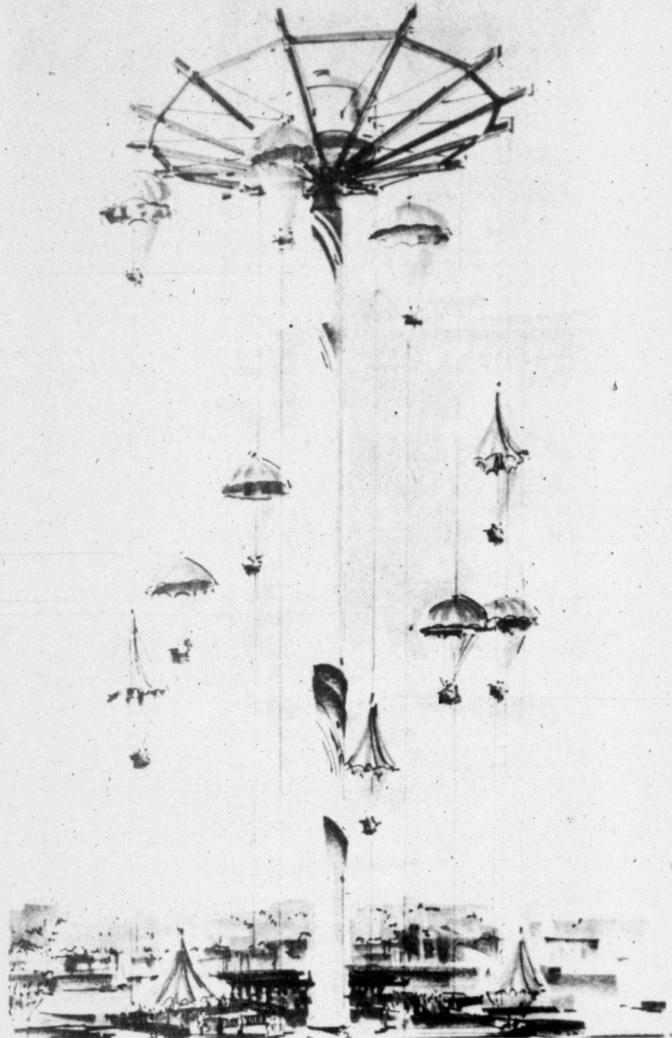

The Canadian Four Wheeler Drive Club held its regular monthly outing recently at the Sun Oil Lease.

Winners in the obstacle course were Gene Gates and James Lewis, four-cylinder, Johnny Mack, six-cylinder, Gerald Rasco and J.D. Peters, eight-cylinder, and Carol Hermanski in the powder puff.

Winners in the water race were Roy and Carol Hermanski, first place. John Mack and Joe Mihm, second place.

The next meeting of the club will include a foliage tour on Oct. 19.

Meeting place will be the Hobart Street Park at 1 p.m.

Ride on the Chutes

A 1.5 million dollar, 200-foot-tall parachute drop will be built at Six Flags Over Texas for the theme park's 1976 season. With twelve parachutes, equipped with chairs carrying two or three persons per chute, the ride can accommodate up to 1,200 passengers an hour. The chutes will rise 175 feet into the air; free fall for more than 30 feet and then settle gently to the ground.

Hearst Psychiatrists To Deliver Results

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Results of three psychiatric examinations of Patricia Hearst, whom defense attorneys have described as "spaced out," should be in the mail to a federal court judge today.

However, the psychiatric records of the 21-year-old newspaper heiress are to remain sealed by court order to all but the prosecution and defense attorneys directly involved in the case.

A motion to change the availability of the examinations was made Tuesday by U.S. Attorney James L. Browning.

Browning wanted federal Judge Oliver Carter to agree to a revised motion with the wording: "Copies of said psychiatric reports shall be furnished to counsel for plaintiff and defendant and may be furnished by them to their agents."

The words "to their agents," Browning said, could conceivably include FBI agents working on the case.

Judge Carter Tuesday ordered Browning's motion put over indefinitely, an action which effectively let stand a previous order sealing the transcripts to all but the defense and prosecution.

It was disclosed earlier Tuesday that a visitor to the cell of Miss Hearst had secretly tape recorded conversations without knowledge of officials.

The friend's father is president of the bank which Miss Hearst is accused of robbing last year with other members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, a group which abducted her from a Berkeley apartment in Feb. 4, 1974.

The incident happened when Patricia Tobin visited Miss Hearst in the San Mateo county jail shortly after Patty's arrest Sept. 18.

Industry Challenges FPC

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal appeals court has rejected an oil industry challenge to the Federal Power Commission's new uniform nationwide natural gas pricing system. The ruling was issued Tuesday by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in a consolidated suit filed by some of the nation's largest oil firms. Shell, Exxon, Amoco, Phillips Petroleum and Texaco were among the companies seeking to force the FPC to return to its former system of regional price controls.

The FPC switched from the regional system to the nationwide price ceiling for gas discovered after Jan. 2, 1973. The companies then filed suit, contending the commission acted too abruptly.

The firms said since the regulations carried the force of law they should have been approved through a legislative process of hearings and adversary proceedings.

"We cannot say that as a matter of law the FPC was prohibited from adopting the procedures it did, or was required to conduct a full, oral hearing," the court said.

"Congress has chosen the FPC to be its surrogate for the setting of natural gas price regulations, and our view of the agency's work must take into account the attendant difficulties..."

However, the court said the FPC orders could have been stronger than they were, and "would be inadequate but for our 'kid glove' treatment."

"Perhaps one reason the commission has continued to flounder in the sea of area regulation is its failure to assess the consequences of its various policies," the court said. "For over 14 years the commission has been experimenting in area rate regulation and yet it still supports many of the essential elements of its new nation rate order with little more than (assumptions)."

Much of the 23-page court decision dealt with technical aspects of the oil industry, including questions on lease acquisition costs, venting and discounted cash flow. The court rejected the companies' argument on each point.

Smith To Talk To Institute

James E. Smith, assistant director of field operations for the Texas Railroad Commission in Austin, will speak at the monthly meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute Thursday night in the Pampa Country Club.

The meeting will open with a 6:30 p.m. social hour and a buffet dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

John Rogers, chairman of the local API chapter, said Smith will discuss results of a recent hearing on State Rule 36 concerning H2S as it pertains to oil field operations.

Hirohito Ends Visit

TOKYO (UPI) — Emperor Hirohito returned home today from an historic two-week visit to the United States and thanked President Ford and the American people for their warm hospitality.

Hirohito, who appeared fatigued from a tightly-scheduled visit, said at Tokyo International Airport he was "deeply moved" by sincere efforts of the American people for the prosperity of their own country and the world.

Hirohito, 74, walked down the ramp slowly but steadily, followed by Empress Nagako, 72, amid shouts of "Banzai" — long life — by flag-waving Japanese.

The imperial couple were greeted by their sons and daughters, including Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko, members of the imperial family and other officials and diplomats.

The royal couple received a 21-gun salute before departure. Hawaii Gov. George Ariyoshi, America's only governor of Japanese descent, presented Hirohito with a flaming orange lei and his wife a bouquet of red anthuriums before they walked up the steps to their plane.

Hirohito, 74, flew here from the island of Hawaii, where he had spent Sunday in his suit in the Mauna Kea Hotel, resting from his busy tour of the United States. He looked rested and invigorated when he entered his limousine for the ride to the Ke-Ahole Airport in Kona for the 168-mile flight to Hickam.

His limousine slowed the last mile to Ke-Ahole so the island's citizens could get a glimpse of him. For security reasons residents were discouraged from greeting his plane on its touchdown Saturday night.

A spokesman for the Emperor said he developed the symptoms of the cold Sunday, forcing him to cancel a walk along the beach and a botanical tour.

Hirohito's visit, which began Sept. 30 in Williamsburg, Va., included a dinner with President Ford, a trip to the Woods Hole, Mass., Oceanographic Center, visits to farms in the Midwest and a ride over the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco.

Hirohito became ill after a full day of activity Saturday in Honolulu.

Constitution Debate Continues

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Opponents of the proposed Texas constitution say it will license the legislature to meet indefinitely and drain the treasury with wasteful spending proposals. Proponents say the state's 100-year-old constitution has wasted billions of tax dollars and should be abolished. The proposed constitution will be considered in a special Nov.

election. Robert W. Calvert, a former Texas Supreme Court chief justice and head of a citizens group backing the charter, said Monday it is vital for efficient state government.

"The 1876 constitution has contributed greatly to big government, increased bureaucracy, greater government spending and higher taxes,"

Calvert said. Calvert said the current constitution has led to 220 amendments in the past 99 years adopted at a cost of $22 million.

"The experts estimate that at least 125 more amendments to the old constitution, at an additional cost to taxpayers of at least $125 million, not counting inflation — will be necessary by the end of the century," Calvert said.

But opponents, including University of Texas regent Edward A. Clark, said the new document is vague and could produce a full-time, free spending legislature.

"It could meet all year the way Congress does and probably would produce equally disastrous results for the taxpayers," said Clark. "What this ridiculous excuse for a constitution would do is authorize the legislature to not only set its own salaries but to meet anywhere, anytime it wanted to for as long as it wanted to — chewing up taxes faster than (Comptroller) Bob Bullock could collect them."

Calvert said the current constitution has contributed to an increase of more than $5 billion annually in state spending in the last 20 years.

"The opponents of the new constitution, which embodies dramatic changes which can lead to greater economy and efficiency in government at every level in Texas, have falsely charged that it may create additional expenses, while ignoring the indisputable fact that the 1876 constitution has cost the taxpayers of Texas billions of unnecessary dollars," Calvert said.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said the document's judiciary article would create a logjam by combining the supreme court and the court of criminal appeals.

"The State Bar has long worked for specialization, so why should we undermine everything they've done," Bullock said. "This would be like going to a federal system where the United States Supreme Court hears only a handful of cases."

Bullock said some backers of the judiciary article ignored the logjam in the court system by saying criminal prosecution would be speeded up by creating new circuit courts at the district level.

"This is elementary — the more courts, the faster the process," he said. "But that's what's wrong now — we have created more and more district courts without any regard for leveling out the case loads."

UFO Followers in Park

FOX LAKE, Ill. (UPI) — Between 50 and 70 persons believed to be possible followers of a mysterious couple promising a UFO trip to another planet camped for almost a week in a state park about 45 miles northwest of Chicago last week, park officials said today.

State Forest Ranger Mick Egan recalled the visitors appeared to have money problems. "But otherwise they were clean and neat and very well behaved," he said.

Egan said the first two arrived at Chain O'Lakes state park on Oct. 1 or 2. Several more arrived Oct. 4, he said. They held a meeting on Oct. 6.

JFK Death To Be Explored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The role of the FBI in the investigation of the assassination of John F. Kennedy in Dallas will be explored in hearings opening Monday in a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said Monday FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley will appear before his subcommittee which oversees the investigatory agency.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., has also announced intentions to study the FBI role in the investigation of the Dallas murder through her House Government Operations subcommittee.

and left on Oct. 7.

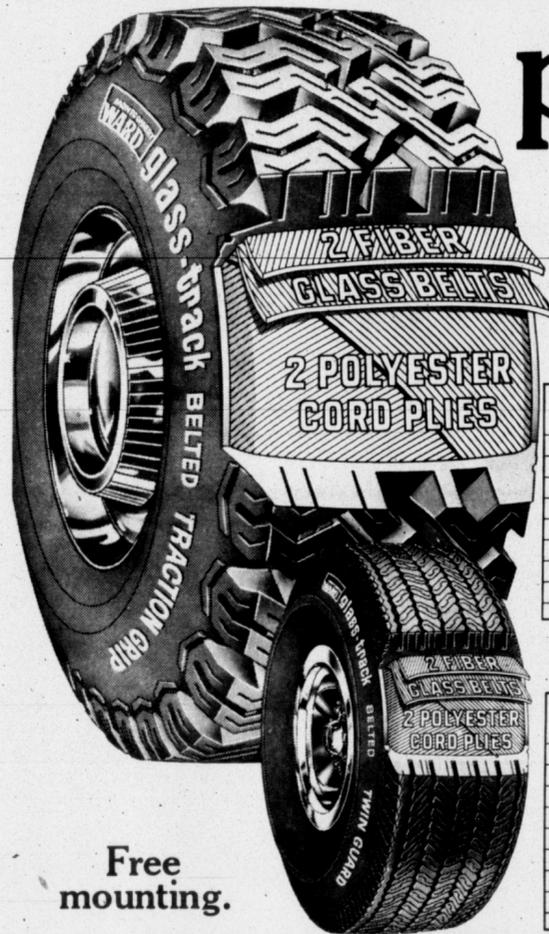

"A small problem arose," Egan said. "All of these people wanted to camp in the cheapest area and we didn't have enough room there to accommodate them."

"Some of those arriving on Oct. 4 couldn't raise a dollar. They borrowed a nickel from the gateman to make it.
