'More Americans Own Guns Than Dishwashers'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More Americans own guns than smoke cigarettes, drink alcohol or own dishwashers or stereo sets, pollster Louis Harris told Congress today.

In testimony prepared for a Senate Government Operations Committee hearing on gun control, Harris said individual Americans are more armed than people in any other country in the world.

But their sentiment for stiffer gun controls has increased in the past few years, he said, and they apparently have resigned themselves to the conclusion that it is impossible to prevent the assassination of an American president or candidate for the office.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence which concluded that handgun ownership by civilians should be reduced, also was scheduled to testify.

Harris said he based his statements on a just completed survey of 1,500 adults, including gun owners and those who own none.

He said that 68 per cent of those polled believe that the easy availability of guns contributes to violence.

Among those who owned no guns, Harris said, 83 per cent favored registration of all guns, 13 per cent said no.

Gun owners also favored complete registration, but by a smaller percentage, 63-34, he said.

Those who owned only handguns favored it by a 64-33 margin.

He said that 77 per cent of all those interviewed favored registration of only handguns, 19 per cent were opposed. That compared with a 66-30 per cent ratio in 1971, he said.

Nearly half — 47 per cent — of American households surveyed reported a gun in the house. Only 41 per cent reported them in 1968 at the height of the urban riots, Harris said.

NYC Salvation Appears Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate proposal to federally guarantee a $5 billion loan to save New York City from default appeared dead today, but even opponents said a bill providing for a smaller amount of financial assistance is likely to reach the Senate floor.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the chance of congressional help is "grim" and called for changes of the law to accommodate a city bankruptcy and "avoid absolute anarchy in New York City."

At the Senate Banking Committee, Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., acknowledged that his bill is in jeopardy.

It would provide a $5 billion guarantee if banks put up another $1 billion and the state raises taxes by $420 million.

"But there's no question that there's overwhelming sentiment in the committee to do something," Proxmire said.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., an opponent of Proxmire's bill, said he was drafting his own compromise proposal providing a smaller loan guarantee but requiring "reorganization of debt" in New York City — a step usually taken in a bankruptcy proceeding.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns advised Congress Thursday to let the city go into default and to alter the bankruptcy laws so that payment of interest and principle on debts could be suspended with repayment later stretched out at lower interest rates. The city's operations would be placed under a court's supervision.

Burns' advice, delivered Thursday evening before a House banking subcommittee, damaged the city's case for a congressional rescue effort to avoid default in December.

Another blow came from Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., who suggested city officials may have been guilty of criminal misconduct in the way they kept the city's books. Buckley called for a Justice Department investigation.

Congress is not likely to vote to provide aid if a senator representing the city suggests its officials belong in jail. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., criticized his colleague.

"What I say to Sen. Buckley is, 'Okay, do anything you want about these matters, but let's have a little care about the timing so it doesn't abort any effort we're making here to get absolutely indispensable federal help,'" Javits said. Buckley said he would make his position known next week on federal help.

New York City, which owes $12.3 billion, is likely to default on its debts in December. The state could follow in the spring. The city has been unable since March to sell bonds to pay debts as they become due.

Franco Expects To Surrender

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco, 82, gravely ill after a massive heart attack Tuesday, is showing signs of improvement, an official medical bulletin said today.

The bulletin, released at 2:35 p.m. (9:35 a.m. EDT), was signed by the same 11 doctors who issued a first medical bulletin Thursday evening.

Franco suffered a relapse Thursday and he was reported so gravely ill that the cabinet drew up the necessary papers to transfer power to Franco's designated heir apparent, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon. Franco refused to sign them.

When Franco's health apparently improved this morning, the cabinet canceled a scheduled meeting. Informed government sources said any action toward transferring power to Juan Carlos would be postponed until sometime this weekend.

The latest medical bulletin said textually:

"At 2 p.m. (9 a.m. EDT) on Oct. 24 the condition of the Chief of State has improved. The signs of cardiac insufficiency which were observed yesterday were partially reduced. His vital functions are normal. The evolution of his coronary illness is following its normal course."

Government sources said Franco spent a relatively quiet night and that his condition had not worsened this morning.

Under the constitution the powers can be transferred in three ways — by Franco's death, his resignation or his incapacity.

In the latter case the constitutional procedure is that the cabinet must decide by a two-thirds majority of its 20 members that it wishes to act.

It then must inform the Council of the Realm, the highest-ranking consultative body. If two-thirds of the council's members support the cabinet's opinion, the matter is submitted to the Cortes (Parliament) for a vote. Again a two-thirds majority is needed to declare Franco's incapacity.

The council of the Regency then would act for Franco until Prince Juan Carlos can be sworn in as the new chief of state. Sources close to the government said the transfer will be carried out without delay in order to end the present state of suspense.

Franco's departure as Spain's Caudillo, "supreme leader," threatened to unleash the divisive forces that caused the bloody 1936-39 civil war that brought him to power.

There were unconfirmed reports reaching Madrid that army units were ordered confined to barracks across the country and provincial authorities were put on alert.

On hearing of the relapse, supporters marched through downtown Madrid shouting "Franco, Franco." Others gathered outside Franco's palace on the outskirts of the capital.

The medical bulletin set the stage for the speedy transfer of power to Juan Carlos, 37, and the return of the monarchy after nearly four decades of Franco's one-man rule.

Political sources said preparations for the transfer of power are nearly complete, and is expected to take place within 24 to 48 hours.

Juan Carlos visited Franco's Pardo Palace twice Thursday, joining cabinet ministers and the generalissimo's family. Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro met with Juan Carlos at the prince's Zarauela Palace during the night.

The cabinet conferred for 10 hours Thursday. If two-thirds of the ministers declare Franco unfit, a Regency Council would assume power until Juan Carlos is sworn in as king.

The three-man council is made up of the president of parliament, the senior Roman Catholic prelate and the armed forces commander.

The Cortes, Spain's parliament, and the Council of the Realm, the highest advisory body, are required to proclaim Juan Carlos chief of state within eight days of Franco's departure from power.

The sudden announcement of a setback came at the end of a day of optimistic communique that described Franco's recovery as miraculous and indicated he would preside at a cabinet meeting today.

Franco handed over power to the prince for six weeks in the summer of 1974 during a near-fatal attack of plebitis, the circulatory problem that plagued former President Richard Nixon.

Franco, who ruled Spain with an iron fist for 36 years, came to power after his Nazi-backed Nationalist forces defeated the Communist-supported Republican army in the 1930s civil war. Pressure for Franco to step down had been building up since Tuesday's heart attack.

Urges No Missile Sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., urged Congress today to kill a proposed sale of $32 million worth of Sidewinder air-to-air missiles to Kuwait, but the State Department contended the transaction was important to U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf.

"We believe that what we are doing is selective, rational and fits within a broader policy framework which supports our national interests," said Sidney Sober, acting assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs.

Both testified before a House subcommittee which is holding hearings on a proposed resolution to disapprove the sale.

Sober justified the proposed sale on these grounds:

— The transfer of 306 Sidewinder missiles to Kuwait is an integral part of a previous sale of two squadrons of A4 Skyhawks to Kuwait.

— The sale is intended to encourage the Persian Gulf states to assume responsibility for their own defense, and to equalize any Soviet Union influence.

— Refusal to sell the missiles to Kuwait would have a negative impact on U.S. efforts to promote good relations with the oil-rich state.

However, Hamilton charged the full arms package for Kuwait would eventually total $800 million in additional equipment and follow-on maintenance contracts.

He charged that the United States was contributing to a "frightening escalation of arms sales" to Persian Gulf states. He warned that the United States might be drawn into possible future military conflict between Iraq and Kuwait, who have unresolved territorial disputes.

Congress can reject an arms sale of more than $25 million by concurrent resolution of both chambers. In this case Congress must act by Thursday or allow the sale to go forward.

Jaworski Says Nixon Implied His Guilt

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon implied his guilt in the Watergate coverup when he accepted a presidential pardon, says former special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Nixon was "tremendously grateful" for President Ford's pardon, the Houston attorney said Thursday.

have endured the shame and humiliation heaped on Nixon.

"He suffered humiliation and a disgrace, a shame no other President of the United States has ever suffered," Jaworski told a news conference at the 100th annual meeting of the Connecticut Bar Association.

"It's one that I don't see how he'll ever shake off the rest of his life," he said. "Personally, I would rather be dead than have to go through what he has endured."

Jaworski said news reports about Watergate gave an "accurate account of what transpired" and that the public knows almost all there is to know about the nation's worst political scandal.

Sheriff May Be Witness

By TEX DEWFESE
Pampa News Staff

Sheriff Rufe Jordan is expected to be one of the principal witnesses at Monday morning's hearing on the application for a beer and wine permit for a night club planning to open at 2201 Perryton Pkwy.

Sheriff Jordan said he will join County Atty. John Warner in opposition to granting the permit.

"If the people and the taxpayers don't want such a business in their area," the sheriff said, "I think they need to be protected from it."

Jordan added that, if necessary, he would go to Austin to fight granting of the permit in the event a hearing eventually is scheduled before the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Mrs. Gary Mills, 2107 N. Faulkner, one of the leaders in the protest movement against locating a night spot in the area, said petitions had begun to come in and already between 400 and 500 signatures had been counted.

Mrs. Mills said only a few of the petitions in circulation have been returned and all will not be in until Saturday night. She added that petitions also were available for signatures in most of the business places in the area.

Mrs. Mills said a meeting was scheduled at her home at 2 p.m. today with County Atty. Warner.

Monday morning's hearing will be at 10 a.m. before County Judge Don Cain in the county courtroom of the Gray County Courthouse.

Application for the beer and wine permit from the Texas

Liquor Control Board was filed by Roy Underwood, employed by the city as a building inspector.

The county attorney said he would base his case in seeking denial of the permit on grounds that "the place or manner in which the applicant may conduct such business is of such nature which, based on the general welfare, health, peace, morals and safety of people on the public sense of decency, warrants a refusal of the permit."

Retires Badge

Annie Neel will retire Saturday from the Pampa Police Department after 18 years. She didn't want a retirement party because "I knew I couldn't hold back the tears." She tears came anyway when the chief surprised her with a gift from the department — the only thing she wanted — her badge and number.

Annie Neel, Her Badge Retire after 18 Years

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Saturday will be Annie Neel's last day of 18 years with the Pampa Police Department. She was 65 years old Sept. 5.

"There will be no retirement party," she ordered. "And I'll tell you something else — I don't want anything else you have."

She was referring to gifts. But the Pampa Police Department found something Annie wanted very badly — her number and her badge — so they retired both in a picturesque plaque.

"And I wouldn't take a million dollars for it," said Annie Thursday afternoon following the surprise presentation.

She had turned in both the badge and her uniforms a few days early.

"I was going to ask for my badge back," she had said.

But as she was dispatching Thursday afternoon City Manager Mack Wofford came by to express appreciation for her years of loyalty to the city.

"Annie, I still think they should have had a party and I would have baked you a cake," Wofford commented.

"It isn't too late," said Annie. "I live only two blocks away. I'll come back."

By that time, Annie said Police Chief Richard Mills with something in his hand and again she stated emphatically, "and I'll tell you something else — don't want."

As Annie discussed events of the day, tears flowed now and then.

"I didn't want a retirement party because I knew I would break down," she said.

Back at the microphone, the chief asked Annie to call the units in Annie immediately announced, "Units Outside Come In!" She wasn't on the air, but those in the outer room did not know. On the air she would have said, "Units 10-19."

"When you are two days away from retirement, you can say what you want to," the chief commented.

As for retirement, Annie says, "I hate to go home but my husband needs me." He owns and operates the A. Neel Locksmith business at 319 S. Cuyler.

Had he sold the shop, Annie said she would have stayed on.

In leaving Annie says she is sorry she can't give her 18 years experience to someone else.

Asked if she feels older now that she is 65, Annie said "age is a thing that bothers a person who is never active."

She added that she feels that she is as much or more value to the police department now as when she was hired 18 years ago.

Annie has lived and worked by the motto that "a job that's worth doing is worth doing well. I always put my best in anything I attempt to do," she said.

As for her plaque, it will hang over her television set "where I can see it all the time."

Annie says she feels very close to the police department, and it will always be a part of her.

As Annie Neel leaves the police department, every employee will long remember her optimism.

"The good far outweighs the bad," she said recently in reminiscing back to the day when she came to Pampa "with a husband just out of the hospital, a 10-year-old daughter and $80 between me and God."

The Neel's only child, Jo Ann Bush, a registered nurse who lives in New York, will soon be home with her husband for a visit. And Annie is looking forward to that.

Annie leaves the Pampa Police Department with the longest tenure of service of any woman in history here.

Fights Erupt in Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Fights between black and white students broke out today inside and outside South Boston High School.

At least 13 youths were arrested, with six — three whites and three blacks — taken from the school in handcuffs. The blacks and whites were put in separate police vans parked behind the school.

Extra police were called to prevent further violence and state police patrolled the school corridors.

Officers dispersed a group of adults who cheered when the black youths were brought out.

Earlier, seven youths were arrested when fighting broke out as students entered school.

The violence followed an incident Thursday involving clashes between whites and blacks at a South Boston High School football game. Three officers were injured trying to quell the disturbance.

Pampa Group Joins Drive Against U.N.

Again this October, as for the past three years, Pampa members and supporters of The John Birch Society plan to take advantage of increased controversy about the United Nations to gather support for their educational campaign directed against the world organization.

"People who have never questioned the United Nations before are now beginning to do so," said Burley Owen, 1121 Willow, local Birch member, "and we intend to provide some of the answers."

Owen stated he is more optimistic than ever about this year's activities "because of the growing wave of anti-U.N. sentiment that has been noticed in much of the press for the past year."

"Last December 6, when John Scali, chief American delegate to the United Nations, warned the General Assembly that support for the United Nations in Congress and among the American people was eroding, the United States mission received thousands of letters voicing criticism of the U.N. Letters came from all over the country, from all kinds of people, and ran 55 to 1 in favor of the Scali speech," he stated.

"We feel," Owen continued, "that this growing wave of discontentment developing over the U.N. is due to the way U.S. support of the United Nations has been exploited and used against our best interests. And so we're going to bring up a lot of reasons why the United States should revoke its membership in the United Nations."

The first reason cited by Owen for much of the criticism against the U.N. was "the expulsion of the Republic of China from membership, and the seating, instead, of the murderous regime of Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. Other reasons mentioned were 'the General Assembly's vote of 89 to 8 to approve of the terrorist Palestine Liberation Organization's claim to statehood, and a further UN vote of 96-17 granting the group Permanent Observer Status.'"

Owen charges that "The PLO, led by Yasser Arafat, has in recent years been responsible for cold-blooded murder at the Munich Olympic Games, slaughter of innocent children in Israel, assassinations of diplomats, kidnappings, hijackings, and terrorism—close to a matter of policy. Close observers of the UN should not be surprised," he added, "to see the glorification of the pro-Communist PLO. Just as they would not be surprised over the UN's failure to utter a single word of protest about North Vietnam's aggressive conquest and butchery of South Vietnam." Owen declared that "the UN will support any pro-Communist party or individual, and it will condemn anyone or anything that even hints at anti-Communism."

He also declared that volunteers will be "active petitioning and distributing literature containing more information on the United Nations for the rest of the month, but that special emphasis would be given to the project during the week of October 24, UN Day. He said Birchers believe that because of the UN's record, and especially because of the admission of Red China on Oct. 24, 1971, that the day should be proclaimed a "Day of Shame."

Owen said that members of The John Birch Society hope "all citizens will take advantage of our educational efforts and learn the true record of the United Nations."

Battin' Around

The Tyranny of the People

By C.R. BATTEN

The popular thing now - a days is for public participation in any decision by any level or agency of government. Public notice must be given of the question to be decided, a hearing must be held, and anyone who wishes must be given the opportunity to put in his two bits worth.

Public participation must be solicited for all kinds of decisions by legislative and regulatory bodies or governmental agencies on all subjects - ranging from general legislation to utility rates to land use plans down to a permit to install a 7 by 7 foot therapy pool in a back yard (where the pool would be visible only from the patio and the living room of the owners who wished to install it).

The idea is to receive "input" from a general cross section of the population, so that the "will of the people" can better be taken into account by those who finally make the decisions.

In Oregon, the first state to announce that visitors are welcome to "come see, but don't stay," the Land Conservation and Development Commission (LCDC) has developed goals and guidelines for land use planning. As with every other similar proposition that its work is the product of citizen participation in two series of workshops held throughout the state. All of 2700 persons participated - just one tenth of one percent of the state's population (1970 census).

Of the 2700 persons who participated in LCDC workshops, two percent were non-professional workers, compared with 24 percent of the entire population of the state; 33 percent of participants were in government-related employment, compared with 19 percent of the state population; 52 percent of the participants had a college education or more, compared with 11 percent statewide; 22 percent of participants had a high school education or less, compared with 60 percent statewide; Families of 46 percent of the participants earned more than $15,000, compared with 30 percent of all families in the state; 77 percent of the participants owned their homes; compared with 62 percent statewide.

Obviously, the 2700 people who participated in LCDC workshops do not reflect the actual composition of the Oregon population. They included a higher proportion of those in the higher income brackets, more year of schooling, home owners and government employees than the whole population of Oregon. And six times as many persons attended the Portland dog races each night as participated in all the LCDC workshops.

There is ample reason to believe that this is typical of the public participants in most such exercises by planning authorities. There is no doubt that in this nation of "majority rule," we have very small groups of persons making major decisions involving other people's property.

They have lost their respect for the owner's ability to use his own property in a way that will benefit mankind. They have assumed the power to dictate to him their own beliefs, thereby forcing him to accept the consequences, reaping the responsibility for their own actions. They have become as tyrannical as King John of England, who was forced to acknowledge traditional property rights when he signed the Magna Carta 760 years ago.

By what reasoning do those righteous dictators hold that they have the right to rule over the rest of us? By what divine powers do they assume that their enforced decisions will benefit the public?

They have no such right. By the very nature of their decisions, they cannot know what will provide the greater benefits to all the people. They should be deposed.

Repentance of Coleman Report Raises Doubt

By MAX RAFFERTY Q - "Dr. James Coleman (of the 'Coleman Report' which originally justified forced busing) surely did start something. Now it has been proven wrong, and he says down easily, a much as backing, 'It isn't my fault.'"

"I teach elementary physical education in the public schools here. The situation last year, to say the least, was difficult. I have taught 27 years, but I felt defeated, inadequate, a failure. But an even older teacher gave me a good thought. She reminded me that I had been successful in previous years, so quit blaming myself. It is the world, the attitudes of children and the lack of discipline at home which have all changed. It helped."

"Weren't you involved in public school work rather than in an 'ivory tower' job situation? You absolutely could not have the insight to write such columns by merely observing from the outside." - C.A., Kansas City, Mo.

A - Now that you ask, yes. Eight years as a high school teacher and vice-principal; three years as a high school principal; four years as an elementary school principal and district superintendent; seven years as superintendent of two combined high school and elementary school districts; eight years as California's state superintendent of schools, and five years as a university professor and dean of education. I figure I've just about served my apprenticeship and should be ready now to get some real experience.

Q - "Your column on forced busing and Coleman's Report hit the nail right on the head. I know of only one other two-legged creature that could equal the stupidity of Coleman - namely, the so-called 'great' Dr. Spock. The 'things' forced on our school system are the offspring of parents reared under the Spock theory. I seriously doubt that as many as two parents of these 'things' can spell the word 'morals,' much less know the meaning. And if the offspring 'things' haven't been told of the word, they can't have any."

"In this connection, will you write a column showing what Women's Lib is doing to the 'things'?" For instance, a young woman here was recently sentenced to life imprisonment for killing her two small sons. She said her hatred of the children's father was so great that this was the only way she knew how to hurt him." - Mrs. L.W., Birmingham, Ala.

A - Well, I don't know about calling kids "things." Children are what we adults encourage of permit them to be.

As for blaming the tragedy you mention on Women's Lib, I'm afraid this kind of child murder as revenge on hubby far antedates the Lib gals and is in fact as old as history. As evidence, I refer you to Euripides' play "Medea," in which that rather fearsome female butchers her two tots to get even with fickle spouse Jason. Approximate date of play: 450 B.C.

Q - "Referring to your piece on reading, may I say that I had the 'bejabbers' scared out of me a long time ago as to the sad state of reading... and the deterioration of language these past few years. It is readily difficult to believe that the debasement and perversion of language is merely careless. Those in control of the educational establishment - really those who have education by the throat - seem determined to accelerate the plunge to educational mediocrity."

"Symptoms of the illness about: the inability of the young to read is one; television fare which caters to popular demand is one; religion centering on man, not God, is another, and still another is the slovenly appearance of increasing numbers of citizens. Don't you agree that we are fast becoming an egalitarian, mediocre society?" - J.T.G., Morton Grove, Ill.

A - I don't think anyone is purposely plotting to make us mediocre. I do think that the random, purposeless coupling of those "symptoms" you mention, if left to go on for very long, would tend in the end to make heaven itself mediocre.

Wife Spoils Hubby with Sweet-talking Routine

DEAR ABBY: My mother used to nag my father all the time, so I made up my mind that no matter what the circumstances were, I would never nag my husband.

Well, Ted and I have been married for seven months, and if ever a wife had reasons to nag her husband, I had plenty, but I kept my mouth shut.

The biggest problem is that Ted doesn't come right home after work, and he never calls to tell me he'll be late.

Even when he comes home at 4:00 in the morning with liquor on his breath, I greet him with a smile and a sexy nightie and say, "Hi, Darling, can I fix you something to eat?"

Last Friday, he went to work and I didn't see him again until Monday evening. I was worried sick, but when he showed up, all I said was, "Gee, hon, I sure missed you."

I'm afraid he's got another girl. I can't understand him. He was so crazy about me when we first met, he made me break my engagement to another guy to marry him.

What am I doing wrong? NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: You are letting Ted get away with murder. I don't recommend nagging a man, but I do think you should cut out the phony sweet talk and substitute some PLAIN talk. Your marriage is headed for the rocks. Get some counseling!

DEAR ABBY: When kids marry and have babies, and their marriages fail, they call on Grandma to look after their children while they work, date and so forth.

All Grandma gets for raising someone else's child is the remark, "My mother spoils my child, but what can I do?" Most grandmothers, weary from having raised their own children, would appreciate a little peace and quiet in their later years, but they fall into the trap of having to raise their grandchildren, too.

Abby, please try to free the grandmothers! WEARY AND TRAPPED

DEAR W AND T: Sorry, but every grandmother who wants to be "free" will have to free herself. When she is asked to look after her grandchildren and she doesn't really WANT to, she should say so.

DEAR ABBY: I am the 49-year-old mother of an 18-year-old daughter. We were both quite a bit overweight, and I would like to tell you how we accidentally discovered how to lose a lot of weight.

We were watching a wrestling match on TV, and much to my surprise, my daughter suggested that we wrestle with each other! At first I couldn't see it, but I finally consented. We laid an old mattress down in the basement, put on our bathing suits and squared off like we had seen professional wrestlers do. My daughter found an opening, and rushed me. Next thing I knew, we both were down on the mattress rolling over and over.

The first time we wrestled, we were exhausted in 10 minutes. The next time, we wrestled a little longer. Now, we can wrestle for half an hour.

We both cut out bread, butter, potatoes and desserts, and between that and the wrestling matches nearly every day, we have trimmed down a lot. Everybody has noticed it. Suggest this to other women. It's a great way to work off excessive pounds. TRIM MOM

Slip or Confession?

In an Aug.'s supplement to one of its manuals, the IRS described its special enforcement programs as including "Cases of Interest to the Department of Justice and Other Racketeers." The Wall Street Journal, which reported the incident on the front page of its October 8 issue, called it a "Freudian slip."

Could be. With both the IRS and the Department of Justice doing things which no citizen can do without committing a crime, what shakes us up is the uncomfortable thought that the government publication may have been telling the truth.

A "Freudian slip," after all, is the inadvertent revelation of what one believes to be true.

U.N. All Trick, No Treat

In effect, that's the assessment of the United Nations rendered by Alabama's Senator James Allen. As a peace-keeping force, Allen charged, the U.N. is a costly and dangerous farce.

His indictment, along with a demand for a sweeping investigation of the international body by a special committee, has the august Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a tizzy, according to columnist Robert S. Allen ("Inside Washington," GT, October 8).

As well it might come, as it does, on the heels of U.N. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan's recent blunt warning of possible U.S. withdrawal from the organization and as the U.N. gears up for its annual "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" Halloween fund drive.

The senator's indictment and forceful demand leave no doubt that there is plenty to investigate. Singled out in the bill of particulars were these striking examples among others:

—Despite all the U.N. chatter about being a force for peace, in the first 25 years of its existence there have been 75 armed conflicts between nations.

—When the people of Hungary rose against their Soviet oppressors, the U.N. did nothing.

—Similarly, when the Communists built the Berlin wall in violation of international law and the U.N. Charter, the U.N. did nothing.

—When the people of Czechoslovakia rose against their oppressive government, eliminate lengthy, costly and frequently inequitable lawsuits.

The congressional proposals would reestablish the workers' right to sue, moving back the calendar to the turn of the century. Some estimates put the cost of the contemplated switch at $40 billion annually as compared to the current $6 billion.

Presumably there are desirable features in the legislation. The states, however, have been responsive to recommended improvements in their own systems.

The first question Congress should resolve before jumping into the workmen's compensation issue is whether federal meddling is desirable or necessary.

Wealthy Landman Went To Search for UFO Life

DURANGO, Colo. (UPI) — Friends say wealthy land developer John M. Craig had a good life here. They can't understand why he left to look for a better one on another planet.

"He didn't talk to me or his wife, he just left," said E.L. Hutchinson, Craig's partner in the Colorado Land and Cattle Co. "There was no indication at all. He just met those people and a week later he left."

"Those people" were a group of persons from Oregon who left their homes and families in search of a UFO which they believed would take them to a better life elsewhere in space, Hutchinson said. He said he believed Craig was contacted by an old friend who had joined the group and who persuaded him to leave.

"I probably was pretty close to him, but I had no idea what was happening," Hutchinson said. "There weren't any family problems, I can assure you of that. He had plenty of assets."

Hutchinson said Craig, a 41-year-old father of six, signed everything he owned over to his wife before he left July 12. He said Mrs. Craig has received two letters from her husband since his disappearance, but neither had a return address.

In the latest letter, Hutchinson quoted Craig as saying this was his last chance of reaching "the other kingdom" for at least 2,000 years.

"Jesus spoke of His journey and His teachings 2,000 years ago," Craig wrote. "All the information in the Gospel is there, even though the people teaching it did not understand since they could not comprehend the message.

"His words are completely understood now," the letter went on. "It is understood what the kingdom of heaven is all about, how to get there and at what time it is available."

Hutchinson, who described Craig as "a pretty intelligent person" with the "nicest family in town," said his former partner was not a person to jump into something without thinking.

"He really believes in this, I'm sure of that," Hutchinson said. "I'm sure he believed in what he did and what he's doing, but it's sure hard for those he left behind to understand."

British Security Tightens

LONDON (UPI) — Police tightened security for British politicians today, fearing the bomb blast that narrowly missed Caroline Kennedy may be the start of a wave of assassination attempts against members of Parliament.

Police said the remote-controlled explosion, which killed a noted cancer researcher and injured six other persons, was intended to kill Conservative Member of Parliament Hugh Fraser, whose Jaguar sedan was blown to pieces.

Fraser was saved by a fortuitous telephone call that delayed his departure from home with the Miss Kennedy.

The 17-year-old daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy was living with the Fraser family while studying art in London.

"I have no doubt the bomb was intended to kill Mr. Fraser," Scotland Yard Deputy Commissioner Ernest Bond said.

Fearing the blast marked the beginning of a new assassination campaign by the Irish Republican Army, officials stepped up security at government offices, party headquarters and other buildings used by parliamentarians.

Steel mesh was fitted over windows at both the Home Office and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to prevent bombs being tossed in from the street.

Police speculated that last week's abortive attempt to blow up Locketts restaurant, used by many members of Parliament, may have been the aborted start of a new IRA drive against politicians.

Fraser, who favors tough antiterrorist measures, has received at least four death threats believed to be from the IRA. Police said several other members of Parliament are also likely targets.

Thursday's blast killed one of Fraser's neighbors, Prof. Gordon Hamilton Fairley, a 45-year-old authority on the treatment of leukemia.

Hamilton stopped to look under Fraser's car after apparently noticing the bomb while walking his dogs. The blast hurled his body into Fraser's front yard.

Miss Kennedy was taken from Fraser's house after the blast to the London home of Lord Harlech, former British ambassador in Washington and a close friend of the Kennedy family.

One of her friends said Caroline had rejected plans by U.S. Embassy officials to take her to a secret hideout.

"She feels that a special guard is unnecessary because the British police are quite capable of taking care of her," the friend said.

None Hurt In Dorm Fire At Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — A fire in the upper floor of a Texas Tech University dormitory forced the evacuation of 400 women Thursday night.

Campus Police Chief Bill Daniels said no one was hurt in the three-alarm blaze, but 200 coeds had to find other quarters for the night. A decision was pending on when residents could return to the building.

Daniels said the fire started at about 8:30 p.m. apparently from an overloaded electrical outlet or a faulty appliance left on a bed.

Two rooms were gutted by the flames. There was smoke damage on the rest of top floor of the dorm and water damage in the floors below the two rooms.

Fourteen fire units were called to the scene along with at least 25 firemen who took 90 minutes to control the blaze in the five-year-old dormitory.

Soviet Airlifts Nomads In Mass Resettlement

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Tens of thousands of starving Somali nomads have been airlifted by Soviet aircraft to new homes in a massive resettlement program unprecedented in Africa, relief officials said today.

The fleet of blue and white Russian planes took a little over a month to move 120,000 nomads from the drought stricken areas of northern Somalia to permanent camps in the south of the country and along the coast, the officials said.

The evacuation, described by officials as the biggest undertaken on the African continent, is now completed, they said.

The nomads, who have wandered across the Horn of Africa for centuries with their herds of camels, cattle, and goats, will now become farmers and fishermen.

A few thousand will eventually be allowed to return to their traditional nomadic existence in the desert in the next few years, but Russian experts have already begun teaching the others the unfamiliar problems of deep sea fishing and raising crops.

A more modest resettlement program is underway in neighboring Ethiopia, where authorities hope to settle permanently some but not all of the 87,000 nomads in refugee camps.

This reporter recently toured the drought stricken areas where as many as 50,000 persons have died.

Hearst To Receive 'Emergency' Care

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst will receive "emergency" psychiatric treatment in jail.

An urgent request by her attorneys Thursday that the treatment be allowed immediately was approved by Federal Judge Oliver Carter.

"We view it as an emergency matter," said Al Johnson, a lawyer for the 21-year-old newspaper heiress.

Johnson said in court that Miss Hearst, jailed on armed bank robbery charges, needs quick care from a private psychiatrist and not merely the mental tests she is getting on orders from the judge.

Johnson said later the reason for his appeal was his fear that the postponement of Miss Hearst's mental competency hearing until Nov. 4 might affect her "diminished capacity" negatively.

"She needs immediate treatment," he said.

He asked that the treatment be conducted out of the jail and in a private hospital—an "appropriate medical atmosphere."

But Carter's oral order granting the defense request said she must be treated at the San Mateo County Jail, where she is a prisoner.

At the jail in Redwood City, Sheriff John McDonald said

Miss Hearst was suffering from no apparent problems and going about her daily life as usual.

Miss Hearst, captured Sept. 18 in San Francisco as a fugitive member of the Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnapped her 19 months previously, is being examined by three court-appointed psychiatrists and a psychologist.

Her hearing scheduled for two days ago was postponed because all their reports are not yet in.

After her capture, the petite heiress said in an affidavit that her kidnappers had brainwashed her and driven her to the point of insanity.

Quinlan's Condition—'To Gross to Describe'

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — The physical condition of Karen Anne Quinlan, in a coma for six months after combining drugs and alcohol, is "almost too gross to describe," a physician said Thursday.

That condition, described by Dr. Sidney Diamond, a professor of neurology at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York, is the basis for her parents' plea that she be taken off a respirator that keeps her heart beating and allowed to die "with grace and dignity."

But their plea, supported by many physicians and religious leaders, has brought about a courtroom confrontation that could provide legal precedent for terminating the life of a patient whose condition is hopeless.

Diamond testified at the request of assistant state Attorney General David S. Baime, whose office has joined Morris County Prosecutor Donald Colletter and Daniel R. Coburn, Miss Quinlan's court-appointed guardian, and attorneys for St. Claire's Hospital in Denville, N.J., in opposing the family's request.

Turning to the 21-year-old woman's adoptive parents from the witness stand, Diamond told Joseph and Julia Quinlan, "I'm sorry to have to give this description."

"I observed her first from some distance. She was lying in bed, emaciated, curled up in flexed contractions," Diamond testified. "Every joint was bent in a flexed position making one type of fetal position. It is almost too gross to describe. I could see her eyes, which were open. The eyeballs moved together. They darted in a random sort of movement."

Diamond and Dr. Fred Plum, another neurologist, testified in the fourth day of the trial, which is in recess until Monday. Both said Miss Quinlan has almost no chance of recovery, but both opposed turning off the respirator.

On Monday, Colletter plans to call several more witnesses opposing the Quinlans' request.

Plum said there was no question that Karen still has some brain activity, but he said the damage done by the coma was probably irreparable.

No Word on Kidnaped

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A total curfew in Beirut's most embattled districts today halted most activity in the capital, shattered by six weeks of fighting between Moslems and Christians.

U.S. embassy officials said they had no word on two Americans seized Wednesday in a Moslem-Palestinian stronghold of Beirut.

The government, in a desperate attempt to halt the recent outbreak of kidnappings, ordered the round-the-clock curfew in the sectors of the capital most battered by violence.

Shops were closed and streets deserted.

The Americans, Charles Gallagher, 44, of Roanoke, Va., and William Dykes, Jr., 55, of San Jose, Calif., worked in the printing center of the United States Information Agency.

A third American kidnaped Wednesday was released.

In Washington, the State Department Thursday identified the man as William Bucher Lyons and said he was released after being held 4 1/2 hours.

A report from the Egyptian Middle East News Agency said that Gallagher and Dykes were being held by commandos of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

A spokesman for the PFLP said he had no knowledge of the abduction so could not confirm or deny the report.

Clashes between Moslem and Christian militia forces have left more than 615 persons dead and 1,600 wounded in the past six weeks. Total casualties in the conflict, which first flared in April, topped 6,000.

The internal security forces, outnumbered and outgunned by the warring militia units, have been powerless to halt the shootings, killings and kidnappings.

Kidnaped Screams for Help

MONASTEREVIN, Ireland (UPI) — Kidnaped Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema, now in his fourth week of captivity, screamed for help today from the upstairs bedroom of a besieged house where his abductors are holding him at gunpoint.

"Please help me!" he shouted in a voice that carried 150 feet to where a group of reporters was standing. "Tell the police to stay away! Please, please save my life... They have a gun at my head!"

Shortly afterward, he appeared briefly at the bedroom window, partially hidden by a net curtain, but appeared to be jerked away quickly.

The sudden screams for help came within a few hours of an Irish newspaper report quoting a high ranking police officer that the kidnapers, raw-nerved after three virtually sleepless nights, had vented their frustration on their hostage by beating and kicking him.

In the brief glimpse of the 52-year-old Herrema, it was impossible to assess his physical condition, but his voice sounded strong, if a little hoarse.

The leader of the kidnap duo, Eddie Gallagher, 27, a renegade from the outlawed Irish Republican Army, made an abortive attempt Thursday to swap his hostage for the freedom of his woman accomplice. Then, police sources said, he began to talk of the penalties involved if he released Herrema.

Police said earlier the surrounded kidnapers, their nerves frayed by tension and lack of sleep, had begun bargaining their terms of surrender.

"They are beginning to figure the price to be paid," one police source said.

"You are talking about 30 years when you ask me to give myself up," Eddie Gallagher, one of the kidnapers, shouted at the police.

"Nonsense," a police officer replied. "Unless anybody gets seriously injured there is no question of 30 years."

Kids Protest Porno

NEW YORK (UPI) — The kids said the burlesque show was dirty; the burly show man said it was class entertainment. Another crusade to rid Times Square of smut had begun.

This time it was grade school children from Public School 17 on the warpath to clean up Broadway.

Armed with balloons and a sense of humor, they paraded down Broadway at noon chanting "Prostitutes must go." On the march back up Eighth Avenue, the chant changed to "Pimps must go."

"They came at the wrong time to catch pimps," said a doorman at the Royal Manhattan Hotel. "They're all sleeping."

The march was organized by managers of the Robert F. Kennedy Theatre for Children, who supplied balloons and encouragement for the kids to protest the spread of pornography in the area.

The children were particularly incensed at the presence of the "Melody Burlesk," a few doors from the R.F.K. Theatre.

However, Bob Anthony, manager of the Melody, said, "We have no pornography here, just beautiful, live girls dancing. This is real class."

Photographs of two headlines billed as Golden Judy and Marie Renee adorned the entrance to the Melody. They would not have passed muster for a Walt Disney movie.

Along their march, the kids passed such cinema attractions as "Wet Rock," "Fireworks Woman and Two Surprise Hits," "Oriental Blue," "Sweet Luts" and "Two Super-Porno Adult Hits."

They also passed "Hungry Hilda's Topless Bar."

If there had been any pimps around, 12-year-old Edward Allen, one of the youngsters participating in the march, might have missed the significance.

Young Edward carried a sign saying "Pimps, we hate you." He said he wasn't quite sure what it was a pimp did that he hated, but added cheerfully, "If they say pimps gotta go, then I guess they gotta go."

College Profs Support Revision

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas college teachers say they'll support a proposed revision of the state constitution, but the state branch of the American Civil Liberties Union says it has some reservations.

In announcements Thursday, the executive board of the Texas College Teachers Association said it would urge its 4,000 members to vote for the revision. The TCLU endorsed one of the eight proposals, rejected two others and said it would take no position on the remaining five.

The civil liberties union recommended passage of the general provisions article, saying its guarantees of public beaches and equal rights for the handicapped were needed.

But it said the judiciary article gave the state the right to appeal in certain criminal cases, which it held to be double jeopardy. Its opposition to a section on voting and elections was based on the belief it would permit the legislature to make property ownership a requirement for voting in bond elections.

A Mineral Wells legislator also criticized the proposed charter Thursday, saying it would make the lawmakers members of a ruling class.

Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, said some legislators complain about Comptroller Bob Bullock's estimates on how much the revision would cost taxpayers.

"The hit dog howls," Creighton said. "This is the same group of legislators who, in their hysteria for instant change and political power, ignored the people's expressed wishes and interests.

"The revisionists have submitted to the temptation to go too far in changing our constitution from one of restraints to one of permissiveness. The new constitution would give the legislature so much power that it would be the true ruling class of Texas."

On other issues surrounding the election, former Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert Calvert, who heads a group backing the new constitution, has asked both sides to promptly report campaign expenditures.

"It is important that the people of this state have the opportunity to see for themselves who is actively supporting and opposing the new Texas constitution with contributions," Calvert said.

He welcomed a close examination of records of contributions to the campaign for the document. "This election on the new constitution is too vital to every taxpayer's pocketbook for any of us to remain oblivious to the significance of campaign financing."

Mrs. Boren To Divorce Oklahoma Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Gov. David Boren's wife, who once commented politics places extra stress on marriage, filed for divorce Thursday under an agreement granting her $124,800 in alimony, child support and other benefits.

Janna Boren, 30, filed her petition against the nation's youngest governor in her hometown of Madill, where she is reported to have spent most of her time the past several weeks.

Zion Lutheran Features Film

Zion Lutheran Church, 1200 Duncan, will have an open house in observance of the reformation at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A festival service to celebrate the event will be at 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

The open house will feature a film, "The World of Martin Luther," followed by a question and answer period. Coffee and cookies will be served.

"Incompatibility is the sole reason for the action," the couple said in a joint statement. "We both regard this as a personal tragedy."

Boren took the blame for the couple ending their eight-year marriage.

"I accept responsibility for the failure of our marriage," he said in announcing the divorce action.

She played a major role in last year's election campaign and has appeared at scores of political gatherings since.

Morocco Sets 'Peace March'

MARRAKESH, Morocco (UPI) — King Hassan II dispatched his foreign minister to Madrid today to discuss the crisis between the two nations arising from Morocco's threat to stage a "peaceful march" by 350,000 unarmed civilians into Spanish Sahara.

After a final consultation with Hassan, Foreign Minister Ahmed Laraki flew to Madrid where he was met by Jose Solis Ruiz, Minister for the National Movement. Solis Ruiz met Hassan in Marrakesh Tuesday.

He later told reporters the two countries could reach a peaceful solution.

Hassan's decision to send his top aide to Madrid was considered an indication the king would be ready to accept a negotiated settlement. Government officials cautioned earlier this week that the scheduled march of conquest would be called off only if Madrid agreed to hand Spanish Sahara over to Morocco.

In spite of the diplomatic maneuvering — which may be hampered by the grave health condition of Generalissimo Francisco Franco — Moroccan authorities claimed they had no intention to cancel the march.

State Information Minister Ahmed Taibi Benhima said "I confirm in the most categoric manner that the march continues and will not stop before the conclusion we plan for it."

But he said Foreign Minister Ahmed Laraki was traveling to Madrid to return the visit to Morocco by a Spanish emissary earlier this week.

Benhima's statement followed reports that Spain and Morocco had reached agreement over the future of the disputed Spanish colony and that the planned march would be limited in scope.

House Stops Tax Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's tax cut spending ceiling plans never stood a chance before the House Ways and Means Committee.

In a wholly predictable series of actions Thursday, the tax-writing committee quickly rejected the Ford concept of attaching a spending ceiling to a tax cut. It then approved the Democratic concept of extending the current, already lowered tax levies at almost exactly the same level through 1976.

The two votes were identical — 21-16. All 21 majority votes were Democrats. The losing side was all 12 GOP members plus the same four Democrats: Reps. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., Omar Burleson, D-Tex., Joe Waggoner, D-La., and Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind.

The Democratic plan, proposed by committee chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., would make permanent the current increases in the standard deduction. In addition, Ullman would enact only for 1976 a special tax credit for each family of 2 per cent of the first $12,000 of taxable income — $240.

A minimum credit would be allowed of $30 for each dependent, meaning that a family of nine or more would get a larger credit than the $240 maximum. A credit is subtracted directly from taxes owed.

Ford's plan would increase the personal exemption for each taxpayer and dependent from $750 to $1,000 and would lower tax rates in addition to making changes in the standard deduction.

If the same script is followed, the Democratic Congress will approve the Ways and Means plan, Ford will veto it, and there will be a showdown late in the year when Congress tries to override the veto.

Lovett Memorial Library
The detective-story genre, or "tec", contains many series built around a charismatic, super-logical, eccentric figure who never fails to get his man. One thing such detectives, from Sherlock Holmes to Judge Dee, have never been, is normal, quiet, domestic people. Some, such as Earl Derr Biggers's Charlie Chan, have had somewhat sketchily drawn home-lives; but I personally cannot recall a detective who had the sort of real, middle-class home-life that, presumably, real-life police detectives have... except the rather mild-mannered, underpaid, henpecked, and even (Holmes have mercy!) hungry Inspector Ganesh Ghoté of the Bombay C.I.D. Inspector Ghoté's homelife, with a wife who is authentically both protective of him and a nag, is not the only realistic touch in H.R.F. Keating's series: the India through which Ghoté moves, in search of murderers, is convincing, and is based on Keating's first-hand observations of the bustling, sordid - and spiritual Hindu homeland. But all this realism does not detract from the usual excitement, swift pace, and cleverly concealed clues that are the attractions and hallmarks of the "tec". Lovett Library has of Keating's Ghoté novels, from the first in the series, Inspector Ghoté's Good Crusade, to the most recent, Inspector Ghoté Goes by Train. Philo Vance and Sam Spade, make way for the authentic detective hero of us middle-class working folks: Ganesh Ghoté!

RAPID ROUNDUP

M.M.B. WALSH. "Dolly Purdo." A series of rollicking, rip-roaring escapades, as a young, red-haired farm girl, her black servant-girl (and best friend), and a conniving, wheelchair-bound Indian set out to make their fortunes in the West of the late 1800's. "A trail of adventures... that would rival the stunts of the widest Wild West Show."
Terrence Lore SMITH. "The Devil and Webster Daniels." A contest of wits between a cruel and amoral blackmailer some say is the Devil himself, and the insouciant master of the slick heist, Webster Daniels, a man whose "special talents and unique brand of morality" fit him to battle the Devil to a hair-raising finish.
Joseph ROSENBLUM. "Consumer Complaint Guide 1975." How and where to make an effective complaint about consumer rip-offs, unreal prices, Swiss-cheese warranties, misleading ads, and other hazards of buying. Also, tips on being the sort of savvy consumer who can't be taken.
Susan and Martin TOLCHIN. "Clout: Womanpower and Politics." A report on how the women, who are 52 per cent of our population, but only 3 per cent of our elected officials, are beginning to get, and wield, real political power. Profiles of major women politicians, from Texas' Sissy Farenthold to Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut.

Make Your Own Christmas Ornaments

Recessions and depressions spur revivals in crafts because people have more time, but less money to spend on leisure activities.

Recent craft books indicate we are in for a long, busy winter, making everything from holiday ornaments and traditional pottery and jewelry to offbeat clothing, accessories and home furnishings from beverage can pop-tops.

If children's parties are on your holiday schedule, the $4.95 price on "The Potter's Primer" by Eleanor Chroman (Hawthorn) could be well-spent. The book is for adults, but directions for cookie-cutter Christmas tree ornaments are child's play that could keep little hands busy for hours.

"Cooking Crystal Craft" by Beatrice Heller (Chilton) also tells how to make decorations and useful items by fusing or molding crystals that look like large sugar granules. The author says the results are inexpensive, almost unbreakable and resemble fine stained glass. Molds include ordinary ovenproof glass and metal kitchen utensils and toy baking pans.

Now, about pop-topping: the materials are sharp-edged pull tabs from beer, juice and soft-drink cans.

"Pop-Topping! Pop-Top Terp" with Kenneth Patton (Chilton) makes the hobby sound so easy children could do it. Provided, of course, that they don't cut their fingers in the process.

Pop-top clothing may not be as easy on the wearer. Imagine how it feels to sit down in a chain mail maxicoat.

Author Terp is a native New Yorker and apparel manufacturer who conducts workshops in schools, hospitals, boys' clubs, parks and museums. He recommends recycling the metal tabs as a way of reducing litter on the grounds around ballparks and other sports arenas with beverage concessions.

In "Pirating Plants," Peter Tobey writes about one of the cheapest hobbies, propagating plants from cuttings, seeds, layering, dividing and grafting.

If unread newspapers are piling up at your house, "The Newspaper Everything Book" by Vivienne Eisner and Adelle Weiss (Dutton) may help. It contains directions for making 150 useful objects, ranging from a money belt and bedroom slippers to waste baskets, plant stands, croquet mallets and wickets, mittens and sunglasses.

Would you rather work with felt? Elyse and Mike Sommer's "A New Look at Felt" (Crown) has interesting ideas for using this nonwoven fabric for applique, needlework and sculptures.

Francis Hagerty's "Make Your Own Antiques" (Little, Brown) is eminently practical, with designs the author says can be produced by moderately skillful adults with a table saw and a few other traditional tools. Considering the cost of so-called cheap unpainted pine furniture, this could save a bundle on home furnishings.

Many activities in "Traditional English Country Crafts and How to Enjoy Them Today" by Andy Pittaway and Bernard Scofield (Pantheon) seem far better suited to the English than Americans. Unless, of course, you want to take up silkmaking, beekeeping, home dairying, "The Collector's Guide to Depression Glass" by Marian Klamkin (Hawthorn $7.95) reflects the wisdom of the squirrel complex.

Philadelphia became the early American cultural center after the capital was moved to Washington.

Book Reviews

United Press International

The Killing Gift, by Bari Wood. (Putnam, $8.95) When Jennifer List Gilbert was a baby, her nursemaids would never stay long. She grew into a lonely little girl who never knew why she had no friends, then into a woman who could not understand her isolation.

Eventually she married, and she adored her husband as only an enormously lonely person could love someone who relieved that aloneness. Then one night she and her husband came home unexpectedly early to find three men burgling their apartment.

Stavitsky doggedly continues his investigation, although he almost refuses to see what the answer must be. And when he has solved the mystery, he must decide what to do about it, where the unique woman who is Jennifer List Gilbert belongs in his life, how her wild talent fits into his obsession with evil men. Here is a first rate suspense novel with fast pace, sturdy plot and an off-beat theme that should keep many a reader glued its pages to the very end, and its special twist.

The Solar Conspiracy, by John Keyes. (Morgan and Morgan, $3.95) Keyes, previously the author of a handbook on solar energy titled Harnessing the Sun, now charges that the federal government and large corporations are conspiring to prevent the development of solar energy in hopes of peddling nuclear energy.

Producers Say Baby Food Safe

(Editors: If you carried any of the dispatches slugged "lead" involving the FDA report on lead in canned food which moved on Oct. 16-17, your attention is invited to the following)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's major producers of baby food said today they believe the lead content in their products has been reduced to safe levels.

Some company officials also believe the Food and Drug Administration's recently announced plan to give "increased priority to its regulatory program to reduce lead levels in canned food for children" will be aimed primarily at adult-type food eaten by youngsters — not at baby food.

Officials of the three major domestic baby food makers — Baker Beech-Nut Corp., H.J. Heinz Co., and Gerber Products Co. — told UPI they believe news dispatches based on the original FDA announcement last week unfairly singled out baby foods.

The FDA report, while concluding that heavy metals in foods do not pose a general hazard to the American public, said total lead intake for children who also ingest the metal from sources besides food — such as the air and water — "could present a potential problem."

Because of that, it said, it was developing a priority program aimed at "reducing still further lead concentrations in baby and infant food and (the program) also will be directed toward reducing lead levels in canned foods intended for adults but frequently eaten by children."

The FDA also said that while its tests of juices packed for infant consumption made during 1973 showed lead concentrations, the industry had since reported lead levels in such products today are about half what they were when the tests were made.

The baby food manufacturers said they felt the FDA release failed to point out the overwhelming majority of their products are packaged in jars, not cans.

"We believe it is important for the public to understand that no health hazard exists — or had existed — as a result of lead levels in canned baby juices," a Heinz spokesman said.

Queens of Seas Now in Port

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

It was not too long ago that the world's seas churned with the wakes of some of the greatest and biggest passenger liners in maritime history — virtually floating cities.

But the advent of the jet age brought drastic changes in travel habits and the ships' fate was sealed by falling bookings and soaring costs.

What happened to some of the famous old queens of the sea?

Britain's 80,000-ton-plus Queen Elizabeth was cut up for scrap, while the Queen Mary is now an amusement center in California. The 66,000-ton France, on which it was said a man could travel with his wife and mistress without fear they would meet, was pulled out of service last year and is rusting in a French port. And more recently, Italy's twin 46,000-tonners Raffaello and Michelangelo were mothballed.

But while regular transatlantic passenger services have been cut drastically — to about a half-dozen ships — cruises have been gaining steadily in popularity.

The number of American cruise passengers swelled from about 300,000 in 1969 to nearly 700,000 last year.

As a result, a whole new generation of luxury liners has been designed specifically for carrying vacationists on cruises to exotic ports in all corners of the world. There's, for example, the Home Line's Oceanic, Norwegian America's Vistafjord, Royal Viking Line's Star, Sun and Sea.

A late count shows that more than 70 U. S. and foreign flag ships (including Russian) are competing in the North American cruise market.

A new challenger this winter will be Delian Cruises' 17,000-ton Daphne, owned by Greek shipping magnate John Carras. Carras has been involved in shipping since the mid-30s when he took over the family business and built it into a worldwide fleet of tankers and cargo ships.

Carras bought a reefer from Cunard, had it stripped down to the bare steel hull and then had it rebuilt as a luxurious 490-passenger cruise ship at a cost of about $30 million. Standard cabins are a spacious 17-square-foot and the glass-walled dining room can seat all passengers at a single sitting.

"When the old transatlantic queens were done in by the jet age, everybody thought that was the end of the passenger ship," Carras said. "They were wrong. It's simply that the old queens had become obsolete — too big and too expensive to operate in terms of fuel and service."

Carras envisages the Daphne as the prototype of a fleet of cruise liners which can be operated profitably without stinting on food, accommodations and service. Refitting of the second ship, named the Danae, is currently underway, and it is expected to begin operations during the 1976-77 winter season.

Since its maiden voyage last August, the Daphne has been making a series of two-to-three week cruises through the Mediterranean, Aegean and Black Seas. The itinerary includes small ports more frequently visited by yachts than by cruise ships.

One stop is Porto Carras on the Macedonian coast of Greece where Carras is spending $100 million on the construction of a 4,500-acre resort complex. When completed, there will be two hotels, 250 villas, 26 restaurants, a marina, 18-hole golf course and an amphitheater with a seating capacity of 3,500.

The Daphne will sail across the Atlantic in December to begin (Dec. 9) a series of 12-day cruises to Mexican and Caribbean ports from New Orleans. (Rates from $645 per person.)

A new Soviet ship, the Black Sea Shipping Co.'s Odessa, will also sail from New Orleans this winter, on seven-day cruises to Mexico and Belize. (Rates from $294 per person.)

News About People

By United Press International SURGERY FOR HART
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., has undergone his third cancer-related operation in two months and doctors report there is "no evidence" the malignancy has spread.

Surgeons at Bethesda Naval Hospital removed the lymph nodes from under Hart's right arm Wednesday. A medical statement said there were no complications and that he was in "good condition."

"At the present time there is no evidence ... that he has any major organ system involvement," said Navy Capt. W.J. Fouty, chairman of the hospital's surgery department, who performed the operation.

"Therefore, we anticipate the senator will return to his normal activity and should be able to effectively complete his present term of office."

Hart, 63, has announced he will not seek re-election in 1976.

COMEDIAN HONORED

CHICAGO (UPI) — Loyola University has honored comedian Bob Newhart, a Loyola alumnus, as winner of the 1975 Sword of Loyola.

The Sword of Loyola is awarded annually to a national or international figure whose life and work exemplify the courage, dedication and service of St. Ignatius of Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus.

The Rev. James F. Maguire, Loyola's chancellor, said Newhart, a 1952 graduate of the school, was being recognized for "qualities important to our society at a time when some fear that such qualities are outdated."

"Mr. Newhart's lifestyle, understated and unpublicized, is the antithesis of the entertainer's stereotype," said Maguire. "He has given that profession a model of Christian leadership. His close and highly prized family relationships are the first priority in his life and serve to remind his public that these virtues are valuable and attainable today."

OLAV TAKES TILLER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — King Olav, Norway's "sports king," his hand on the tiller of a sailing boat, spent five hours Wednesday criss-crossing blustery San Francisco Bay, cutting around Alcatraz Island and riding the whitecaps beneath the Golden Gate Bridge.

Dressed in royal coveralls and wearing a yachtsman's cap, he skipped the six-meter yacht St. Francis VI. A spokesman following the king on his 25-day visit to the United States said it was the first time the 72-year-old monarch appeared fully relaxed.

Olav won a gold medal for yachting at the 1928 Olympics in Amsterdam and is known as "the sports king."

Parties Honor Mrs. Sawyer Before Vows

A series of showers and parties were hosted recently in honor of Mrs. Barney Earl Sawyer, the former Miss Kellie Ann Jones.

Miss Joyce Williams hosted a linen shower in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Women of the Lefors Church of Christ were hostesses for a miscellaneous shower in the church parsonage.

The bride-elect was honored with a lingerie shower with Miss Jeanie Sawyer and Miss Gayle Rowe as hostesses.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Sawyer. The dinner was held in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Carol L. Jones, 317 N. Sumner.

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat's youngest daughter, Jihan, is engaged to be married to the son of Egypt's minister of reconstruction and housing, Osman Ahmed Osman, the newspaper Al Gomhouria said today.

Bicentennial Ball

Butter churning, spinning, muzzle loading and dancing are included in the historical combinations planned for "American Reflections: A Bicentennial Ball" scheduled for Saturday evening in the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum of West Texas State University. The ball will be sponsored by the Panhandle Plains Historical Society, the West Texas State University Advisory Council for Campus Enhancement and the Randall County - Canyon Bicentennial Committee. Working with the basics, bread and butter, are Mrs. Joe Kraai, Mrs. George Loudder and Mrs. Steve Hines of Canyon.

Forum Studies Landmark

Twentieth Century Forum met in the home of Mrs. Frank W. Kelley for a program on Great American Landmarks: Williamsburg.

Mrs. Robert Williams, and Mrs. Aubrey Steele presented a costumed skit on "Public Times" in the Colonial Williamsburg of Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson and George Washington. Virginia in 1765 was three times the size of Great Britain and raised two crops: tobacco and leaders. Mrs. Steele described Restored

Williamsburg as a living community whose motto is "that the future may learn from the past."

Ventriloquist To Give Service

Children's services at the First Assembly of God Church, 500 S. Cuyler, will be conducted by Rev. Phil Appenzeller. The 7 p.m. services begin Monday, Oct. 27, and continue through Friday, Oct. 31.

Rev. Appenzeller (Uncle Phil to young congregations) uses ventriloquism, chalk drawings, music, sign language and hand puppets to present an inter-denominational service for children. He entered the children's ministry in 1962 and adopted it as a full-time traveling vocation in 1972.

Regular Sunday services at the First Assembly of God Church will be conducted by Rev. Appenzeller Oct. 26. He will substitute for Rev. R.L. Courtney.

The church bus will pick up children for the special evening services. For additional information, call the First Assembly of God Church, 665-5941.

Christian Church Sets Lay Witness Mission

The First Christian Church, 18th and Nelson Streets, will begin a study in the church. Sessions will begin at 7:30 p.m. today, Saturday and Sunday. Coffee will be served Saturday morning.

The lay witness mission, according to the church, is an experience of love, caring, and sharing. The weekend of renewal will be led by Houston coordinator Willie Smith. The group of trained lay men and women will present the sessions. They will speak and listen to church members.

The mission will "provide a demonstration in the lives of persons of what full, honest, vulnerable commitment looks like in the lives of every day people," according to Smith.

League Shows Film

Theme for the Zion Lutheran Women's Missionary League's recent meeting in Parish Hall of the church was "Faith, Hope, Love and Charity."

The Rev. Timothy Koenig, pastor, introduced Leroy Haverhal of Austin, who is with the Lutheran Social Services of Texas.

Announcement was made that a film, "The World of Martin Luther," will be shown at the church Monday. Literature about the Lutheran church will be available.

Mission Sunday is set for Nov. 2.

The new offices for the coming year were elected. They include Mrs. A.M. Stroebel, president; Mrs. Tony Vess, vice president; Mrs. Pat Walsh, secretary; Mrs. Bobby Melton, treasurer; Mrs. H.P. Heinritz, publicity chairman; and Mrs. Bruce Riehart, Christian growth.

Johnson Temple Presbyterians Sets Services To Celebrate Reformation

Johnson Temple C.O.G.I.C., 506 W. Wilks, will be the site of a five night spiritual service beginning Monday through Friday.

The Rev. Allen Johnson will speak Monday through Wednesday. Thursday's speaker will be the Rev. J.T. Wilson. The Rev. Grant from Borger will deliver the Friday sermon. Services will be at 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday marks the 458th anniversary of the beginning of the Protestant Reformation which will be celebrated Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, 525 N. Gray Street.

The sermon is entitled "Salvation - The Free Gift of God: The Call of the Reformation" and is based on the text Ephesians 2:8-9. The Rev. Norman D. Dow, Jr., Pastor will be in the Pulpit and will be assisted by Elder Charles Fuller.

Church of God Sets Revival

Revival services at the Church of God, 1123 Gwendolen, begin Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Steve Bohannon of Weatherford, Tex., will be the evangelist, according to the Rev. John B. Waller, pastor. The public is invited.

The chancel choir under the direction of Mrs. Richard Hill will present for the morning anthem "Sing to the Lord of Harvest" accompanied by Church Organist, Mrs. Carrol Goad.

Nicaragua Travels

The Rev. Ray Fairbanks, missionary to Nicaragua's Mosquito Coast, will speak Sunday at the 11 a.m. service of the Bethel Assembly of God Church, 1541 Hamilton, according to the Rev. E. Paul DeWolfe, pastor about his travels through the coastal region in Nicaragua is difficult. The Rev. Fairbanks will be accompanied by his wife and son, Douglas. The Sunday service is open to the public. For additional information or transportation, call 669-7212 or 669-3675.

An investment in Your Future ...ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

LITTLE FRIEND

Any mother can tell about a child's love for her doll, and the world of PRETEND that they live in. They confide in the doll, reprimand them, and care for them.

The church is a real and true friend. The church may be counted on in times of need, in times of trouble, and in times of sorrow. The church also wants to share in your times of joy.

"A friend loveth at all times."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pampa Seeking 2nd Win Over Rebels

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Amarillo Caprock whipped Pampa 34-22 a week ago by turning two blocked Harvester punts into touchdowns.

James Harris, Tascosa coach, says blocking punts may be the only way his team can beat Pampa when the teams meet at 7:30 p.m. today in Harvester Stadium but he isn't convinced his team can get to Pampa's punter.

"We haven't blocked one yet," Harris joked Thursday in a telephone interview with The News.

Harris went on to say that his Rebels, with a 1-5 record, haven't done much of anything this season.

"It's harder each week," he said. "When we lose, it's harder to keep the morale going. They're still giving us good effort in workouts — we're just pretty short of talent."

Pampa's 14-10 win a year ago was the first victory in Harvester history against Tascosa team.

Pampa had five breakdowns — two blocked punts, a punt which travelled only 15 yards and two fumbles — which resulted in Caprock touchdowns last week. Tascosa Saturday lost three fumbles, two of which resulted in Palo Duro touchdowns, and had three passes intercepted in a 20-0 loss.

Both teams will try to eliminate those types of mistakes in tonight's district encounter. In fact, Harris said that the Rebels have tried from the start of the season to cut down on the number of turnovers, which are one of the primary causes of one of Tascosa's poorest seasons in history.

"We'll try to eliminate them but we have tried every week. Our offense is a high-risk offense," Harris said.

The Tascosa boss was on hand for the Pampa-Caprock contest.

"You take those blocked punts away and it's an awful good ball game. And the fact

Caprock didn't make any turnovers.

Those three Pampa backs are 4.5 (speed in the 40-yard dash) and (Garland) McPherson is 4.7 or 4.8 — that's enough to give you nightmares.

"Pampa couldn't move the ball on Caprock but not anybody is moving the ball well on Caprock."

Pampa's backs are Ricky Moore, David Caldwell and Mike Glover who comprise Pampa's wishbone backfield, a formation the Harvesters have practiced for just two weeks after starting the season with the Houston Veer.

Moore, who sat out much of the game last week with a thigh injury, is the workhorse of the three, having rushed 93 times for 573 yards (6.1 average) and five touchdowns.

Caldwell carried 16 times for 71 yards in last week's loss to lead the Harvesters. As a team, Pampa gained 89 yards rushing and 124 passing (213 total).

Head coach John Welborn is hopeful that the Harvesters will be able to run better against Tascosa, a smaller team than Caprock and ranked last in the district in defense against the rush.

"I think we have to establish a ground game," Welborn said, "and hope we don't get in the position where we have to throw — more in the position where we can throw when we want to."

Tascosa's not all that small. They have a few people that have good size. Overall, they're not big and they don't seem to possess great speed, although they have fair speed.

Neil Packard is Tascosa's leading rusher this season with 77 rushes for 255 yards and two touchdowns.

Welborn warned against a mental lapse.

"I hope our seniors realize the season's not over. It's still possible for Caprock to have a loss or more than one."

Caprock and Amarillo High will meet at 2 p.m. Saturday in Amarillo. Borger visits Amarillo tonight for a district contest against Palo Duro.

IT SIMS TO ME PHS Adds Plainview To '76 Grid Schedule

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Pampa High's tentative 1976 football schedule has an unusual twist — Plainview and Pampa are slated to meet Oct. 29 in Harvester Stadium in game No. 8.

That is unusual because most teams complete non-conference play before the district schedule. Pampa will play four non-conference opponents, two district teams and then Plainview before winding up against Amarillo Palo Duro and Amarillo High.

Why the switch? According to Pampa athletic director Ed Lehnick, Canyon dropped itself from Pampa's schedule and that left an open date Oct. 1. Lehnick was unable to find an opponent to replace Canyon on that particular date. The only date another school — and that means Plainview — would be able to play is Oct. 29.

Actually, the non-conference clash may be to Pampa's advantage. The Harvesters, in the final two district games, will play Palo Duro and Amarillo, the two schools that likely will be considered the district's strongest teams. Pampa will be able to use the Plainview game as a means of improving upon weaknesses detected in the first two conference games — against Caprock and Tascosa.

Besides, Plainview and Pampa have a lot in common and those similarities probably will draw a huge crowd.

Both teams have solid programs and coaches (John Welborn at Pampa and George Kirk at Plainview) with winning records. And both are "outsiders" in their respective districts — Amarillo is the center of District 3-AAAA, while Lubbock has that role in 4-AAAA.

In its entirety, here is the Harvesters' tentative schedule: Sept. 3, at Hereford; Sept. 10, Dumas at Pampa; Sept. 17, at Perryton; Sept. 24, Borger at Pampa; Oct. 1, open; Oct. 8, at Lubbock Monterey; Oct. 15, Caprock at Pampa; Oct. 22, at Tascosa; Oct. 29, Plainview at Pampa; Nov. 5, at Palo Duro, and Nov. 12, Amarillo at Pampa.

Junior High Gridders Dump Perryton Thrice

Pampa Junior High's freshman varsity, behind the power running of Julian Clark, trimmed Perryton 13-7 Thursday at Perryton.

In other games involving Pampa Junior High teams, the freshman junior varsity belted Perryton's B-team 18-6 at Perryton and the eighth Blue bounced Perryton's eighth grade 22-14 at Pampa Junior High field.

Clark gained 116 yards in the game and opened scoring on a nine-yard run in the first quarter. That touchdown capped a 53-yard drive. David Anderson booted the extra point.

Perryton tied the game in the first quarter but fell behind in the fourth when Mike Crippen hit left guard for a three-yard score. A 40-yard pass from Rick Dougherty to Doug Skaggs was the top play in the 75-yard deciding drive.

Crippen and Dougherty added 87 and 47 yards, respectively, on the ground as Pampa rushed for 250 yards and passed for another 70.

Pampa coach Dickie Crockett singled out the defense and offensive linemen Hank Weigel, Shane Dyer, Todd Cummings, Jeff Williams, Doug Baird, Mike Smith and Henry Lafon.

Kevin Musgrave scored on a 13-yard run, Freddy Lewis on a one-yard run and linebacker Steve Smith on an interception return to spark the ninth B-team.

Theresa Walsh served five consecutive points in the opening game against Borger, while Wanza Jernigan added four serves in a row. In the second game, Jowannah Laycock served six straight points.

"Pam Edgar spiked several to the floor and Jennifer Thomas, a sophomore, hit several they couldn't get back," Pampa coach Lynn Wolfe said.

Pampa finished seventh last weekend at Borger.

In other action involving Pampa High fall sports teams, the girls cross country team travels to Hereford Saturday, the boys golf team is entered in the Borger Invitational today and the girls golf team plays in the Plainview Invitational, also today.

The scoreboard tells the story — Pampa's junior varsity lost 55-21 to Amarillo High Thursday. Shocker coach Scott Dunnham watches the game in the final period.

Yannigans Annihilate Pampa JV 55-12

If the Amarillo High B-team's performance Thursday in Harvester Stadium is any indication, the Sandie varsity is destined to be a power next season in District 3-AAAA.

Amarillo's Kent Dallas carried 10 times for 159 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead the visitors to a 55-12 romp of Pampa's junior varsity.

The win keeps Amarillo unbeaten this season with a 7-0 record. Pampa fell to 3-4 and 1-1 in district play.

Pampa jumped out to a 12-0 first-quarter lead. Mike Lancaster passed 12 yards to Dave Green at 6:01 for the first score, and Eddie Keller ran 31 yards at 5:16 for the second. Both extra-point tries failed.

Dallas rambled 48 yards to put Amarillo on the scoreboard in the first period. Barry Martin booted the extra point. With five seconds left in the quarter, Brent Jordan passed 30 yards to Sean York for a score. Martin kicked for a 14-12 advantage.

Dallas rambled 12 yards in the second quarter for a score, while Martin converted with 32 seconds left in the half. Alan Lewis broke on a long run to the goal line but fumbled. Time Cleveland fell on the ball for a touchdown. Martin kicked to give Amarillo a 28-12 lead.

Billy Ott scored on a one-yard dive at 3:29 in the third period. Martin's kick was wide.

Dallas scampered 59 yards to score with 53 seconds gone in the final quarter, while Martin covered. At 9:13, Jay Hightower returned an interception 54 yards for an Amarillo score, and Martin added a point.

Baylor-A&M Clash

The doubters of Emory Bellard's Texas A&M football team are all starting to cast knowing glances around Bufalo Bayou, the Trinity, Colorado and Brazos Rivers and skepticism abounds in the Ozark foothills.

The No. 5 (now No. 6) team in the nation hanging on for a 14-6 victory over TCU's lowly, winless Toads? Heh, heh, the skeptics cluck and wink. O'Emory's farmers are gonna get city-slicked sooner or later.

Gals To Run At Hereford

Pampa High's girls cross country teams will compete in the Hereford Invitational Meet Saturday, instead of travelling to Plainview.

The Plainview meet was cancelled, according to Pampa coach Betty Chamberlain.

Pampa will field a varsity and B-team in the Hereford meet.

Jet Involved in Bureaucratic Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon's top two officials have acknowledged an intense bureaucratic battle over the Navy's F18 jet fighter.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger has even indicated that the attention focused on accusations against Northrop Corp., a prime contractor of the F18, may be part of the behind-the-scenes struggle.

Northrop invited 151 Pentagon officials and congressmen to a lodge in Easton, Md., for goose hunting during a period ending in 1974. A Defense Contract Audit Agency study raised questions about whether the government paid for the lodge and other Northrop entertainment and lobbying expenses — if so, a violation of regulations.

Although he would not be specific, a company spokesman said Northrop answered the questions and would repay any money that DCAA determined had been improperly charged.

In a news conference Monday, Schlesinger did not condone either Northrop or the asserted Pentagon officials who accepted its hospitality. For the 35 or so who did not have "mitigating circumstances," Schlesinger said, "It is plain that this was at best a severe error of judgment in conflict with the existing rules of the Defense Department."

At the same time, Schlesinger suggested the Northrop revelations were "only the tip of the iceberg" and that investigations might uncover 7 to 8 times that number who accepted the hospitality of other corporations.

"I would not think that Northrop is unique — I hope indeed that it is unique but I would not think it were. We must recognize that at the moment we have on the Hill a bureaucratic industrial battle of the century involving the possible survival of a number of aerospace firms and all of the attention that has been focused on Northrop may not be entirely altruistic in the public interest."

Arguing for F18 money Tuesday before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements said, "The only interests served by denying the requested funds for the F18 are those... using the old rationalizations and those of the contractors who stand to lose as a result of this program."

A couple of years ago, the Defense Department began seeking a lightweight, inexpensive jet fighter for the Air Force, the Navy and U.S. allies in the 1960s. The Air Force selected the General Dynamics F16 over Northrop's F17 for the job earlier this year and said it would buy up to 650 planes in an international deal which may involve up to 2,500 aircraft.

The Navy, however, said the F16 was not suitable for aircraft carriers and selected as its fighter the F18, essentially an F17 derivative. It estimates buying over 800 for the Navy and Marines.

It's hard to talk only about the characteristics of fighter planes in the Pentagon. The officials who must deal with the contractors and congressmen end up talking about corporations instead — but off the record. A number of corporations would lose business if Northrop builds the F18. Here is what the sailors turned bureaucrats are saying privately about them.

General Dynamics. The sources say that General Dynamics, seeking to build all the planes, tried to construct a carrier version of the F18, but the Navy and Marines say it did not meet the requirements.

Grumman. The Navy seems to have an institutional bias for Grumman, which makes the sophisticated and expensive F14. The F14's cost rose to $20 million apiece this year, partly because the Navy forsook the company's business shrinking. Also, sources close to the program say the Navy feels keeping Grumman in business as another major contractor is worth the extra expense.

LTV. The selection of the F18 includes a derivative A18 for air-to-ground fighting. If the Navy buys a number of A18s, that means there will be no more purchases of LTV's A7s.

The plane struggle involves billions of dollars and thousands of jobs before even the major subcontractors such as engine makers become involved. The result is a level of bureaucratic infighting that might impress Machiavelli.

One example: The 1975 appropriations bill contained language which said that the Navy's lightweight fighter must be as much like the Air Force's plane as possible. Opponents said the Navy disregarded the law in selecting the F18. Others said the language was slipped into the final conference report by somebody from Texas, where General Dynamics and LTV are major employers.

Another: Shortly after Schlesinger made the Northrop comments, company officials and their congressional allies were pointing them out to reporters.

Architect Sue Comptroller

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Architects seeking payment of a $2,500 bill have been given permission to sue the state comptroller's office to collect — in a ruling which may help decide the power of the University of Texas regents.

The architects were hired by the regents to design a law school project which was vetoed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, but at issue is whether the regents need the governor's approval for building projects.

"It might appear that only some $2,500 is involved here, but the fact of the matter is millions are at stake," architects' attorney Thomas Phillips told the state supreme court Wednesday.

Assistant Attorney General Robert Heath argued the architects should go to the legislature, not the courts, for permission to sue the state for the debt.

"The law school addition could be built — all that is required is College Coordinating Board approval," Heath said. "What we're talking about is whether the University of Texas like the other institutions in this state is going to submit these projects to the coordinating board for approval."

Comptroller Bob Bullock has refused to pay $2,500 for preliminary plans for the $10 million project on grounds UT regents have no authority to spend money for 15 buildings projects from a new law requiring coordinating board approval of college building when the lawmakers specifically mentioned the projects in the appropriations bill.

The Supreme Court said it would hear arguments Nov. 5 on the legality of Briscoe's veto and UT regents' decision to go ahead with construction projects without approval of the coordinating board.

Phillips said the architects, Jessen Associates, Inc. of Austin, have no other way to force the state to pay for work they performed under UT regents authorization.

He said legislators intended to exempt UT's 15 construction projects from a new law requiring coordinating board approval of college building when the lawmakers specifically mentioned the projects in the appropriations bill.

The governor, Phillips said, had no power to veto the authorization for the projects because lawmakers put the okay in a rider.

To prevent UT from proceeding with its building plans, Phillips said Briscoe would have had to veto the school's total allocation or the entire appropriation bill.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25

Your birthday today: Begins an active year of uneven advancement. You mature through highly dramatic episodes that will continue to influence you for a long time. Relationships are lively and take up much energy. Today's natives have a strongly optimistic view of themselves and are willing to lend a hand to help others succeed. Many are scientists, journalists or travelers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: There's more to look after than is convenient. Do only the most urgent chores, and get friends to take care of necessary legwork. An old problem is resolved.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Your attitude is the determining factor in today's success. Be positive, optimistic and tolerant. Stick to the job and your own territory. Watch your cash.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be especially cautious in dealing with financial matters. You are in a mood to rush into agreements without sufficient preparation. Your work can be favorably presented.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You're suddenly able to sell an idea to a person who would not listen earlier. For optimum results, remain patient as you work your way through several phases of promotion.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Not everyone is in sympathy with your plans and ways of pursuing them. Count those who really can help and give them enough details. Make adjustments at home.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: In the midst of your ordinary work, you find you must make a decision on short notice and end up doing so impulsively. Tact should serve to avoid quarrels.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Don't expect anything to run by itself. It's up to you to figure out what direction to take and how to settle matters. There's no point in forcing issues beyond a certain point.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Strong feelings influence most of your actions. Stop to reflect from time to time because you won't cover this same ground again. Someone from a distance offers you a good idea.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Whatever you share today in either resources or experience is precious and deserves gentle, consistent care. Postpone or avoid additional partnerships.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: To make progress, you must keep your eye on your target. You diverge into side issues without realizing you're getting off the main track.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Unless you keep your mind on what you're doing, you can get frustrated by machines. Handle all equipment according to instructions. Celebrate a bit tonight, but be home early.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Thought and emotions don't go hand in hand; strike a balance. You spend money with very little to show for it. There's more in your favor than you think.

Ford's Campaign Won't Emulate Truman

United Press International President Ford's attacks on Congress are made with the awareness that tactic was the cornerstone of Harry S. Truman's stunning upset in 1948.

according to a story often heard in Washington these days. Not so, says White House Counselor Robert T. Hartmann. The notion is that Ford, who makes no secret of his admiration for the late Democratic chief executive, is modeling his 1976 presidential campaign on Truman's "give 'em hell" assault on "the do-nothing 80th Congress."

Thus, the reasoning goes, Ford is flaying his former colleagues on Capitol Hill — calling them a "can't-do Congress" — in hopes of winning a full term next year.

"I went along with that idea until I thought it through," Hartmann said in a recent interview, "but I found it false."

"Harry Truman's brilliant strategy in 1948 was his deciding, early on in the campaign, that he would ignore Thomas Dewey," Hartmann said.

"In order to do that, Truman had to elevate the old political tactic of identifying a foe only as 'my opponent' to grand strategy. Dewey went about the country denouncing Truman and all his works; but Truman rarely mentioned Dewey by name and ignored Dewey's verbal thunderbolts.

"In politics, of course, you have to have an identifiable enemy to denounce. Truman was ignoring Dewey so he attacked Congress," Hartmann said. "Thus, Truman made the Congress and not the name on the Republican ticket his public villain."

"Truman, of course, really wasn't all that mad at Congress. In fact, his relations with the Republicans in Congress weren't too bad."

Hartmann said Truman's strategy worked by reducing the attention paid the heavily favored Dewey. In the 1944 presidential election, Franklin

D. Roosevelt also had publicly ignored the Republican candidate — Dewey.

Hartmann said he does not believe Ford will adopt this strategy.

He said the President is berating Congress about specific issues. In addition, there is no specific Democratic candidate to ignore.

Timothy Bottoms, Keith Michel and Anthony Quayle will all play King David in "The Golden Age of Israel," a four-hour ABC-TV special.

Snow Ends Indian Summer

By United Press International
Nordie Jensen played catch with his children in the backyard of their suburban Denver home Wednesday. The temperature was a record 81 degrees. Fifteen-year-old Shaun Haskins donned light clothing and tennis shoes and set off on a hunting trip near Laramie, Wyo., to enjoy the balmy Indian summer weather there. Thursday, Nordie Jensen was having a snowball fight with his children and Shaun Jenkins was huddled under a log, shivering in a foot of snow and sub-zero temperatures.

Laramie Sheriff John Leazenby said a deputy found young Haskins, in good condition, in the Medicine Bow National Forest Thursday.

"The boy's cold because all he had on was tennis shoes, but other than that he's in good shape," Leazenby said. "He told the deputy he slept under a log last night."

A thick blanket of snow lay over the Rockies today, clogging roadways, frustrating motorists and bolstering hopes of ski resort operators and farmers.

The wintry blast marked the first snowstorm of the season to invade the Rockies' eastern slopes and erased record high temperatures of a day before.

Seven inches of snow piled up at Meeker, Colo., and six inches of snow covered Estes Park, Colo., the gateway to Rocky Mountain National Park. The storm hit Montana earlier, dumping nearly a foot of snow and causing a traffic accident that killed a 2-year-old boy.

The Wyoming Highway Patrol Thursday closed Interstate 80 between Laramie and Wawcott Junction and Wyoming 130 west of Laramie because of snow.

But agricultural officials said the snow — the first moisture since summer — was a welcome sight to farmers, who have been watching their lands turn to dust.

High winds kicked up clouds of sand in the Southwest's desert and stirred up dust and snow in northern Arizona.

The Barstow, Calif., Highway Patrol said the winds caused three traffic accidents in the desert but there were no injuries. Highway patrol officers used face masks and goggles to fight the winds and carried their guns in plastic bags to keep out the sand.

Oklahoma Police Strike

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Byron Wood, a police officer wounded three weeks ago in a shootout, struggled to a sitting position on his stretcher and dropped his badge on a table in the city manager's office.

"Here's my badge," Wood said in a firm voice accompanied by the cheers of some of the other 500 police officers who walked off their jobs Thursday in a wage dispute.

Police angered by the city council's refusal to accept an arbitration board's recommended 10 per cent pay raise abandoned their posts at the evening rush hour. They also

Coffee Stop, Fire Alarm Saves Lives

RUTLAND, Vt. (UPI) — Before starting work on his rubbish route, Ed Hayden stopped for an early morning cup of coffee at his boss's house. Because he did, he was able to sound an alarm that helped save eight lives.

Six persons died in a fire at a two-story home Thursday. Others managed to escape with aid from Hayden and his employer, Edward Twenty.

"If I hadn't just happened to come down here today," Hayden said, "nobody would have gotten out."

Hayden, 25, was the first person to spot flames and smoke just before 6 a.m. "I banged and I banged and I screamed" outside the burning house, he said.

Hayden raced across the street to Twenty's house. After summoning firemen, Twenty said he broke into the house, led two persons out, then retreated in the face of intense heat.

Police identified the dead as Cynthia Hooper, 29; her sons T.J., 2, and Ronnie, 8; nieces Theresa Carlson, 11, and Sharron Nasson, 7; and a nephew, Michael Nasson, 4.

Watercolor Society Sets Canyon Show

More than 40 of the American Watercolor Society's top paintings will be on exhibit through Nov. 9 at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

The museum is one of only 14 places where this year's AWS framed exhibition is being displayed. The showing will be concurrent with Museum Week, which opens Saturday with the Bicentennial Ball and the dedication of the T - Anchor ranch house.

It includes works by John C. Pellet, who was the artist - in residence at West Texas State University last year. Pellet joined Edmond J. Fitzgerald, AWS active honorary president, and Hardie Gramatky on the AWS jury of awards.

Every year since 1955, AWS has sent out two groups of 50 paintings on tour. All the works are for sale, and no painting is sent on tour a second year.

The exhibition will be on display in the museum's north art gallery from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and Saturday, and from 2 to 4 p.m. Sundays.

Insurance Men Attend Meeting In Florida

Four American National representatives from Pampa attended the company's combination agencies department marketing conference held recently in Miami Beach, Fla. They are D.J. Path, district manager; W.R. Tucker, staff manager; and J.W. Davis and E.R. Lee, agents.

Approximately 3,000 qualifiers and their wives from all over the United States attended the meeting, reported M.A. Polzin, CLU, an executive vice president of the insurance company.

Founded in 1905, and with more than $12 billion of life insurance in force, American National Insurance Company ranks among the largest of the more than 1,800 life insurance companies in the United States. Home office is in Galveston.

demanded the resignation of City Manager Howard McMahan and personnel director David Faulk.

Gov. David Boren ordered highway patrolmen to cover the strikers' districts. Sheriff's deputies also were placed on standby and the National Guard was alerted.

"The city is being covered in more force than we normally put out," Police Chief I.G. Purser assured the city council in an emergency meeting Thursday night.

Sgt. Russell Rigsby, police information officer, said the strike was "probably almost total, all but a handful." Of 599 officers, 584 are members of the striking Fraternal Order of Police. Officials had said there was not enough money for 10 per cent raises, and offered instead increases averaging 8.2 to 8.5 per cent including increased medical and uniform benefits.

The strikers went to city hall to drop their badges on McMahan's desk. Wood, 27, who was wounded in the side, arm and hip in a shootout three weeks ago, was carried into the office on a stretcher to add his badge to the pile.

McMahan said he was keeping all options open, including the possibility of hiring new officers. Newspapers said the city had reserved space in Saturday editions to place recruitment ads if necessary.
