Grundy Morrison

The Last of the Last Panhandle Cattle Drives

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Sometimes the grass really is greener on the other side of the fence — especially when there's none at all on this side.

Grundy Morrison was in a spot. He had more than 2,000 head of cattle on his ranch 27 miles north and a little west of Pampa that he had to find some way to feed. Droughts and dust had done in most of all of the pasture in the Panhandle, so Morrison did the only thing he knew to do: he started driving his herd north.

That was 40 years ago. And while the grass looked greener on the other side of the fence, it was a long way to the fence.

"If a fence was there it was covered up in dust and dirt," Morrison said.

Back in 1935 it had been some time since the last big cattle drive, so Morrison's undertaking got quite a bit of publicity. A picture of him heading out with his cattle and crew ran on the front page of the paper over in Amarillo.

But publicity wasn't what Morrison needed. Money was. He didn't have any way to pay the 13 cowboys, cook, and hoodlum man who made up his crew.

"The hoodlum man looked after the beds and groceries and water," Morrison said. "John Andrews was my hoodlum man. And Hanev Robertson — that's Jack Robertson's daddy — was cook."

As Morrison recalled the trail recently he smiled frequently and his eyes sparkled a good deal. He made it sound like fun.

"It does now. It wasn't then," he said. The outfit made only 8 or 10 miles a day, so they had been gone several days of hard work and several nights of worrying for Morrison when part of his problems were solved, "over there north of Dalhart. Some guy come up from Fort Worth."

He was a representative of the Regional Agriculture Credit Corporation, Morrison recalled.

"He said, 'I heard you wanted to make a loan. I said, 'You got any idea how much I owe?'"

"He said, 'I got a pretty good idea.' 'I said everybody from here to Washington.' At that point they still were two or three days out of Clayton, N.M.," Morrison said, and when they made it to Clayton, there was some money waiting for him in the bank. He was able to pay his men the $30 a month they were working for.

And he could pay the fellow from Dalhart the $10 a day he'd promised him for driving his car ahead of the cattle and finding good water holes between Dalhart and Clayton.

"It's a pretty big job to water 2,000 head of cattle," Morrison said. "We'd cut them into three bunches to get them all watered. One reason we hired that Dalhart boy was because we heard some of the water holes were poison."

That size of herd covers a big area.

"We had cattle scattered out for a mile," Morrison said. "Up about 12 miles from Stratford old Luke Bailey didn't come in from riding drag. A couple of cowboys went back and found him lying in the sand. His esophagus was busted. I had one of them ride into Stratford after a doctor and they took him on to the Dalhart hospital. I believe he had to stay there for six weeks."

There was another bit of bad luck that occurred "over north of Sunray," Morrison said.

"We were driving them past a farmhouse with a little garden out beside it. Wasn't much in the garden but three cucumber vines. There was an old Maytag washing machine setting on the porch and we were about two-thirds past the place when the woman came out on the porch and started that poppin' Maytag. Well, that done it and those cattle took off. They run over that little garden and those three cucumber vines."

Morrison said that the fellow who was riding drag caught the wrath of the woman who had raised the vines. But he managed to placate her by telling her that "the boss" would come back and pay her for them. He asked her how much the plants were worth.

"She told him she wanted $5 for each cucumber vine. I never went back there. I didn't have $5 to pay her."

Food on the trail wasn't great in variety, but it was plentiful.

"We took more tomatoes than anything," Morrison said.

He said one of those tired, dusty, thirsty cowboys could come up to the wagon and open a can of tomatoes and eat them with extreme speed.

For meat, they killed about five beeves on the road.

He said the outfit was on the trail for 45 days and he had to change his destination along the way because, "I had a place leased, but I got about half way there and the guy backed out on me."

So, he found another place, "west and south of Clayton, around Maxwell" and stayed there until the pastures on his ranch improved enough to support cattle again — about six years.

"I left with 2062 head and when I came back I shipped back 300 cows," Morrison said.

He also added some land to the ranch his father bought in 1915 by buying 21,640 acres from the Tex-Mex Cattle Co. The original Morrison place consisted of 14,191 acres, so the combined territories cover 56 sections — a lot of fence to ride.

"Yes it is," Morrison said. "And it don't always get ridden."

Ford Pledges Open Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said today the U.S. economic recovery is "well underway," and the upturn will permit the administration to help poorer, underdeveloped nations overcome their own recessionary problems.

Speaking to the opening session of the International Monetary Fund week-long meeting, Ford pledged that the United States—in an effort to help brighten gloomy economic situations in other nations—would "allow open trade and remove trade barriers that now exist."

"Our capital market will be kept open," he said. "The production of U.S. goods in short supply will be increased, exports will increase."

"We recognize our responsibility to help those less fortunate," Ford said, adding that Treasury Secretary William Simon later today will reveal some specific programs designed to help other nations break their economic stagnation.

Ford said many countries are in the "uncomfortable and unavoidable circumstance" of having to delay their economic recoveries until the larger, richer countries—such as the United States, West Germany and Japan—can get their economies back on track.

"Durable growth will not be easy" in those poorer nations, Ford warned.

The U.S. economy is in the midst of a rebound from two years of severe recession and inflation, he said.

"In the United States, recovery is well underway," Ford declared. "Each week brings additional evidence of renewed economic health."

That economic recovery is "in world interest," the President told finance ministers of 127 non-Communist nations.

"A strong economy is the best contribution this nation can make to other nations. No other contribution will help as much."

Ford said there were complaints some countries were benefiting at the expense of their poorer neighbors, and called for cooperation to close the economic gap between rich and poor.

"We must all recognize that the problems of equity and fairness can best be resolved... in a world economy characterized by economic expansion," the President said.

"We must consult together. We must pull together. The United States stands ready to work with all nations to strengthen... mechanisms to allow each of us to pursue domestic economic harmony."

But Ford said the United States cannot solve all the world's economic problems. He said poor nations also must make as much of a contribution as they can to help themselves.

German Finance Minister Hans Apel endorsed a cooperative attitude after the United States had acted to end divisive disputes over gold and voting strength in the IMF.

"International solidarity will lead to progress," Apel said, while a relapse into "nationalistic thinking will get us nowhere."

Apel said it was ridiculous that many nations had widespread unemployment at a time when consumers everywhere needed greater production of goods. He urged moderation in price increases to prevent another round of inflation that could damage the economic recovery.

IMF chairman Gurnersindo Rodriguez of Venezuela gave the five-day meeting open Monday with a declaration that "winds of change are blowing" away world economic domination by the United States and other industrial countries.

Rodriguez mentioned recommendations to dilute U.S. voting strength by one-fifth and to sell $4 billion in gold to aid poor Asian, African and Latin American countries.

Coupled with the proposals was a recommendation to double the voting power of Venezuela and the other 12 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

All the proposals must be approved by the IMF and Congress, since the United States has veto power, before they become effective, probably next year.

Even after the proposed dilution of voting strength, the United States would have 20 per cent of all IMF votes — enough for a veto. OPEC's quota would rise to 10 per cent.

The agreements on gold and quotas were reached Sunday in a 10-hour negotiating session by the IMF's interim committee, a group of 20 finance ministers representing a spectrum of the member nations.

The gold decision sent prices plummeting on the London and Zurich gold markets Monday. Gold fell $4.25 in London and $4.87 in Zurich to close at $155.25 an ounce on both markets.

The Great Trail Drive of '35

This picture of Grundy Morrison's cattle and crew was taken as they started driving toward greener pastures, away from the drought-plagued Texas Panhandle of 1935. There were more than 2,000 head of cattle, 13 men, and they spent 45 days on the trail. Sound like fun? "It does now. It wasn't then," Morrison said.

Hike Seen in Car Insurance

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texans can expect to have to pay more for automobile insurance because of increasing accidents and rising repair bills, according to an insurance industry spokesman.

F. Darby Hammond, president of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, said Monday insurance companies needed to raise auto rates.

"Inflation combined with an upward turn in auto accident frequency is already signalling what may be the worst year in history for auto insurers," he said.

Hammond said auto insurance companies recorded underwriting losses of more than $250 million in 1974, and said statistics from the first quarter of 1975 indicate year end losses will be even higher.

"Auto insurance rates no doubt will have to be increased substantially when the State Board of Insurance calls for insurance company experience and holds hearings on the matter," Hammond said.

The board has tentatively scheduled its rate hearings for Oct. 1.

Hammond blamed an increase in the number of accidents and higher repair costs for the rise in claims.

DPS statistics show traffic accidents are up 21 per cent over this time in 1974, he said, and 307 more persons have been killed in traffic accidents in Texas this year.

"Aside from the terrible toll of lives traffic accidents have claimed, the economic jogs runs into the billions. The economic loss in 1974, was an astronomical $1,095,000,000," Hammond said.

Dr. W.P. Beck Appointed County Health Officer

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Dr. W.P. Beck was appointed Gray County health officer today to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Joseph Gates.

The appointment was made by the Gray County Commissioner's Court.

"As far as I know Dr. Beck is the first woman health officer ever appointed here," Judge Don Cain said following unanimous approval by members of the court.

The new officer is scheduled to assume duties immediately. The term will expire Dec. 31.

Dr. Gates, a Pampa physician for the 21 years and who had served almost that long as county health officer, left last week to assume duties as a staff physician at the Denton State School for mentally retarded.

The court also approved participation in the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission Emergency Medical Services proposal.

The total cost for purchase of equipment is $4,000, and 75 per cent will be paid by the PRPC. The remaining $1,000 will be paid equally by the county, city and Metropolitan Ambulance Service.

Gray County's share is $362.67. The purpose of the project is to upgrade the emergency service.

Judge Cain was appointed to represent the county on the emergency medical services committee of the PRPC.

Commissioner Ted Simmons will be Gray County's representative to the highway funding seminar Sept. 11 in Amarillo. The governor's office of traffic safety is sponsoring the event at the Texas Highway Department Office.

Commissioners authorized bids for addition to the livestock pavilion returnable by Oct. 1.

Discussion of plans was led by Clyde Carruth of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce agricultural committee, and Gene Barber of Merriman and Barber Consulting Engineers.

The project is to be paid from revenue sharing funds.

Carruth also was authorized the purchase 1,500 feet of angleiron to be paid from the county's general fund.

Judge Cain told the court that Gray County may come under the Voting Rights Act Amendment of 1975 — Public Law 93-74.

If so, he said the county clerk, Wanda Carter, will be required to order bilingual voting materials.

The determining factor will be whether or not 5 per cent of the county's voting population is of a language minority.

The court's next meeting is set for 10 a.m. Sept. 12.

Tickets Sell Fast For Harvey Talk

Tickets for the 50th anniversary meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Oct. 30 in M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium are selling fast, according to E.O. Wedgworth executive vice president.

Wedgworth said the first chamber office allotment of tickets were sold on the first day. He added that more tickets were made available in the office in the Hughes Building and will be on sale there until the 1,500-seat capacity of the auditorium is sold out.

Paul Harvey, nationally known columnist and radio news commentator, will be the speaker at the annual meeting which also will mark the takeover of chamber activities by new officers and directors for fiscal 1975-76.

Wedgworth urged persons wishing to attend the meeting to get their tickets as soon as possible.

"It looks like we will have an unusually early sellout," Wedgworth said.

Tickets are available at $5 each from chamber directors and at the chamber office.

Chamber officials said ballots for the election of seven new directors from a list of 14 nominees will be mailed out Sept. 8. The election will be canvassed on Sept. 16.

Following announcement of the election results, directors will elect new officers for the coming year. Installation of officers and directors will be Oct. 16 in Coronado Inn.

Strikers Plentiful

By United Press International
Perhaps it was an appropriate way to finish off Labor Day — to honor the workers of America.

— Firemen were on strike in Berkeley, Calif., and Pine Bluff, Ark.

— Flight attendants had shut down National Airlines.

— Coal miners were in their fourth week of a crippling walkout.

— Teachers in the nation's three largest cities, New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, were threatening to stay off the job.

— Dockworkers in Louisiana were refusing to load grain on ships bound for Russia.

— Striking drivers had halted bus service in Louisville, Ky.

Union officials in Berkeley predicted its week-old strike could turn into an extended walkout. "Negotiations have completely broken down," said

Jack Rinne, president of Fire Fighters Association Local 1227. "We're gearing for a long strike."

Firemen walked off the job in Pine Bluff, Ark., Aug. 13. The strikers were fired, and Gov. David W. Pryor mobilized 30 National Guardsmen to staff the fire stations. The state AFL-CIO held a rally Monday in support of the firemen, and its president, J. Bill Becker, called on Pryor to help settle the strike.

About 1,200 flight attendants grounded National Airlines Monday with its second major strike in less than 10 months. But contract talks resumed a few hours later in Washington, the union announced.

In Charleston, W. Va., the United Mine Workers international union was hit with a $500,000 fine for contempt of court today for failing to end a four-week strike triggered by the firing of a union member. But sympathy strikers in Pennsylvania returned to work today and there were reports of miners returning to work in Illinois and Virginia. The West Virginia strikers have demanded union funds to "feed our brothers" and threatened to "come and get it" if UMW President Arnold Miller "don't send it to us."

A wildcat strike by 274 union bus drivers halted bus service in Louisville for 12 hours Monday. The strike started at midnight after rejection of a tentative new contract offer. A spokesman said the walkout was not as disruptive, with a curtailed Labor Day schedule, as it would have been on an ordinary work day. Negotiations were continuing.

Hawaii was faced with a statewide dock strike at midnight Friday if contract talks between the Longshoremen and the stevedoring industry do not reach settlement.

In Reserve, La., about 10 miles up the Mississippi River from New Orleans, eight dockworkers walked off the job Sunday night after loading wheat bound for Russia. A Longshoremen's spokesman said the men had been working as a result of a misunderstanding and would not return. The New Orleans Steamship Association asked a federal court last Friday to order the dockworkers to stay on the job. The court declined.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Taking Credit

According to a news item, desperately needs. Common Cause and the Tax Reform Research Group (the latter a Ralph Nader-formed outfit) are taking credit for the repeal of the oil depletion allowance (with respect to large oil companies) and a reduction in the allowance (in the case of smaller firms).

It is important to understand just what the two anti-business groups are taking credit for; for, contrary to what enemies of the allowance claim, the allowance was not a government subsidy given the oil companies at other taxpayers' expense.

In simple terms, the allowances permitted the oil companies to retain more of their earnings as a means of offsetting some of their losses suffered as the result of drilling "dry holes." In other words, the allowance permitted the oil companies to keep more of what was already theirs in the first place, rather than paying it to the government in larger tax payments.

This, in turn, gave the oil firms more working capital for research, exploration and the production of more oil and natural gas, both of which the economy of this country

Now that the allowance has been discontinued for the large firms and greatly reduced for the smaller companies, this capital is no longer available to them, being paid, instead, to the government in increased tax payment.

So, in reality, what the two anti-business groups are claiming credit for is the fact that the government bureaucracies will now have more plundered funds to poop off in wasteful boondoggles, while oil firms, their working capital confiscated, will have to reduce production of the oil and gas we need to run our automobiles, heat our homes and businesses and power our job-creating factories.

Those benefiting from the depletion allowance elimination and reduction are the bureaucrats, who will now have more tax money to spend, and, of course, the OPEC oil cartel, which can now sell us more oil at monopoly prices.

We wonder if Common Cause and Nader's Tax Reform Research Group will be so quick to take credit for their capital-destroying lobbying when the next energy crunch hits?

'Funny Money' Stamps

Food stamps emphasize the "apparently inevitability" of the way government programs grow from a small beginning, intended to solve a "temporary" problem, to monumental proportions with no discernible end, according to a study of social welfare programs conducted by The Institute for Socioeconomic Studies, a foundation headquartered in White Plains, N.Y.

Costing $33 million in 1965, the (food stamp) program soared to $6 billion in fiscal 1975, the Institute reports, "and projections for 1976 run up to $10 billion."

What was intended to relieve patches of severe malnutrition in such places as Appalachia and the Mississippi Delta, the foundation study revealed, is now being "merchandized" by the Food Stamps "out-reach" program as aid for families with incomes of up to $16,000 a year.

As with all such schemes designed to plunder some for the benefit of others, the "success" of the food stamp rip-off has spawned any number of additional stamp schemes with the same objective, the foundation went on to add. Proposals are pending for clothing stamps, energy stamps, transportation stamps, fuel stamps, and gasoline stamps. "The possibilities are endless."

The rub is that each new (inflationary) script program would generate vast amounts of paperwork, expensive bureaucracy and complicated certification procedures. The question before the nation, the foundation asked, hastening to answer in the negative, "is whether there is any way out of the welfare mess through spinning off still more welfare programs?"

Instead, pointed out the foundation president Leonard M. Greene, many authorities advocate "cashing-out" existing programs and replacing them with an "income maintenance" program which would provide a "subsistence income."

In response to which, may we suggest that such "authorities" have neglected their homework on the history of such "replacements." Almost, invariably, instead of getting rid of the old schemes, the new scheme has simply been added on to all the rest.

The solution to the welfare mess that is destroying this country, both morally and economically, is to get government out of "welfare" entirely, not changing the names of the schemes in a bureaucratic game of musical chairs.

Some people believe that eating a dragon's heart will bestow upon one considerable courage. Of course it takes considerable courage to eat a dragon's heart in the first place!

RULES CHANGED

How Reagan Plans to Win White House

By Lee Edwards

President Ford and his self-confident campaign team are in for a rude awakening: Ronald Reagan will begin a serious drive for the GOP nomination next month whose momentum could carry into the White House in 1977.

Tragic Case Of Angola

No one believed that independence would come easy for the Portuguese colony of Angola. However, the task of forming a government for that neophyte nation is going to be all the harder if rival political factions continue to get military support from outside.

The Soviet Union is supplying weapons to one of them, the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola. The rival National Front for the Liberation of Angola has the support of neighboring Zaire and with it a pipeline for weapons from Communist China. A third movement, the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, is pressing its supporters in Zambia for military aid.

Whether one of these organizations is better suited than another for providing self-government to Angola is hard to say. There is little chance of finding out so long as outsiders are willing to keep the pot boiling with smuggled weapons. While the Portuguese high commissioner has resumed administration of the colony, he appears to be fighting a fire that is out of control, and the government in Lisbon is so preoccupied with its own survival that the problem in Angola may seem remote.

A transitional government formed last January was supposed to steer Angola toward independence by the designated date of Nov. 11. The country has now lapsed into tribal warfare fed by outside interests buying influence with guns. Those are the worst conditions for the birth of a nation.

Congressmen want still another consumer agency

Though some 33 federal agencies and departments already operate more than 1,000 consumer-related programs, some members of Congress believe consumers' interests still are not sufficiently protected.

So, rather than improving the existing structure, they are supporting a bill to create still another agency, the Agency for Consumer Protection. — CNS.

Snob originally meant a low-born dolt.

Government costs race uphill fastest

Of all the prices that have been driven up by inflation, the cost of government has climbed the most rapidly.

The Congressional Joint Economic Committee reports that while food rose 12 per cent and transportation 14 per cent, income taxes by a middle income family rose 26.5 per cent. — CNS.

Here is the scenario:

(1) Reagan will campaign conspicuously for Republican Louis Wyman in New Hampshire's special senatorial election, which will be held on Sept. 16. New Hampshire just happens to buy the site of the nation's first primary in March, 1976.

(2) Shortly after New Hampshire's special election, and hopefully a Wyman victory, that state's Regan committee will be announced. Gov. Meldrim Thompson, Republican incumbent and a staunch conservative, is expected to serve as chairman.

(3) William Loeb, the outspoken "conservative" publisher of the Manchester Union Leader, New Hampshire's largest and most influential newspaper, will begin a barrage of editorials for Regan and against Ford.

Between them, Thompson and Loeb should be able to deliver a minimum base of 40 per cent of the vote in next March's Republican primary.

(4) Reagan will announce his formal candidacy for the presidency, perhaps in October and probably no later than November. He will then have about three months in which to convince the Republican voters of New Hampshire and Florida, whose primary falls one week later than New Hampshire's, that he will make a better president than Jerry Ford.

It is not true that Regan is starting so late that Ford has already has the nomination locked up. The rules have changed significantly since 1972. There will be no brokered convention by well-placed pots in 1976.

In past years, 70-75 per cent of the delegates were selected at state and local conventions. The primaries were dramatic and exciting and satisfied the news media's insatiable appetite for the reportable and filmable event. But they determined less than one-third of the delegates.

However, in 1976, thanks to the Democrat's demand for reform, 70-75 per cent of the delegates will be elected in primaries, by the people, out in the open. There will be more than 30 primaries next year, and Ronald Regan will challenge Jerry Ford in most of them.

Which has to be disquieting for Mr. Ford, who is not exactly Mr. Chairman. Regan, in contrast, is the finest most dynamic campaigner in America today. He is particularly effective on television which he plans to use extensively — if the money is available.

And it will be. Returns from the initial fund-raising mailings are so heavy the Citizens for Regan Committee cannot keep abreast of them.

What will Regan talk about? How will he draw the line between himself and Ford? John Sears, executive vice chairman of the citizens committee, suggested a basic theme at recent conservative meetings in Washington, D.C., and Chicago which this writer attended.

"The middle has no home."

Sears declared in Washington. It has been ignored by politicians appealing to myriad minority groups. As a consequence, the middle, that is, the majority, has become increasingly frustrated and even angry. We had better respond to them, warned Sears, or they might seek answers outside the normal system.

In Chicago, Sears, who was a top aide in Richard Nixon's successful nomination campaign in 1968, asserted that "we will talk to the people about what's really on their minds," like schools and taxes. He said that in the last three presidential races — 1964, 1968, and 1972 — the people voted against rather than for something.

"The winners," he declared, "did not have to say what they would do in office." Regan will spell out what he intends to do as president and give voice to the middle who now feel no one is listening to them.

"Our dream," said Sears to more than 500 young conservatives at Young American's for Freedom's biennial convention, "is a president not only with beliefs like ours but with the will to change the direction of this country so that America will once again be a great power."

It is this very thing — the combination of belief and will — which Jerry Ford does not possess or apparently understand and which if implemented properly could make Regan our next president.

Too late? Pshaw. The bell for the first round hasn't even rung.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

America a Melting Pot? Reader Says: 'Hooley!'

By MAX RAFFERTY
Q — "America a melting pot? Pure hooley. In a melting pot, the dross settles on the bottom, and the lighter the precious metal to be separated the closer to the top it appears. When the desired metal is separated, the rest is just thrown away. That's a caste system, insofar as people are concerned."

"America is really a stew pot — a good old stew that has lots of wonderful ingredients fully cooked for a long time. Every group, culture and color should enhance the stew. You can season it if you want to but in my America I want the seasoning to be understanding, appreciation of the differences which make all of us unique, tolerance for differences we haven't taken the trouble to find out about and love for each other even when we are kept by ignorance from understanding other groups."

"What I abhor is what I see being done to us by do-gooders and self-proclaimed tin gods. Heaven help us if we let these people make our country a grinding mill. To sum up, the melting pot is the American dream which no one has really analyzed — the stew pot is the reality — but the grinding mill is what we seem to be headed for."

— D.B.M. Fulton, N.Y.

A — It's been said that "the mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding fine." I suppose the grinding of the tin gods you mention would turn out an infinite number of identical tin cans.

Q — "You have stirred up a hornet's nest in the Quincy, Ill., school district (with your criticism of its failure to release achievement test scores because 'parents couldn't understand them'). More power to you!"

"I glory in your position and your spunk and am behind you 1,000 per cent. Over the 15 years I have been a teacher, I have increasingly sickened over the educational 'pap' which is forced upon the unsuspecting public by the fuzzy-thinking educators of today. Another nauseating habit I see is the back scratching among the educators on all subjects pertaining to 'innovation education." — W.L.W., Payson, Ill.

A — Two comments:
(a) Any pompous refusal by educators to release group achievement test scores should be prima facie cause for distrust, regardless of the reason given, and
(b) 99 per cent of all "educational innovations" are either silly, extravagant, unnecessary or all three.

Q — "I can tell you are not fully informed of Quincy, Ill., situation. It's not just the parents who can't get the test results; the teachers can't either!"

"All students are given the 'attitude' tests, and those results are available. But Quincy teachers are told that only certain 'segments' of the students have been given the 'attitude' tests, and these are not available."

"While I was glad to finally see someone of national prominence take note of our school and not just give glowing reports, I would like you to understand that the vast majority of Quincy teachers are not egomaniacs who believe parents are too ignorant to see test results, but that we are frightened of administrators who give autocratic pronouncements like the one you quoted on your column."

"Although I would like to sign this letter I will not. Too many people on our school system have had job problems because of speaking out." — A Secondary Teacher in District 172, Quincy, Ill.

A — Anonymous letters tear me up. I get a lot, and the vast majority are from folks who are just plain scared to sign their names. In a supposedly free country, this is simply unacceptable. When I let myself get that timorous about anything, I hope I'll be summoned forth to the Great Classroom in the sky.

Reader Strikes Gold In Public Library

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I live in Salisbury, Mass., and I use the Newbury public library quite often. I recently checked out an old book and brought it home to read. When I started to read it, I got the shock of my life. There, in the second chapter, was an old $5,000 bill! It's good. I have already checked it out.

What do I do? Keep it, or take it back to the library and find out if someone has reported it lost or misplaced. I really want to do the right thing. Of course I would like to keep it, but not if it belongs to somebody else.

Please advise me.

FINDERS KEEPERS

DEAR FINDERS: Take the $5,000 bill back to the library and ask them to try to find the owner. If they are unable to locate him (or her), the money is yours. (And check with a lawyer before you do anything.)

DEAR ABBY: I have heard many mothers say, "I have to tell my child three or four times to do something, but if his daddy tells him just once, he jumps."

I think I know why this is true: In most families, when the mother asks the father to do something, he just sits there as if she hadn't spoken. But when the father says to Mother, "Send my suit to the cleaners," or "Mail this letter," the mother does it right away.

Before long, the child notices that Dad's voice gets a response, but Mom's goes unheeded, so he accepts that as normal and follows the procedure.

Any comment?

D.L.

DEAR D.L.: I think the practice of ignoring Mother and jumping when Father speaks probably became standard operating procedure after the child tested both parents and discovered that when Mother is ignored, nothing happens. But when Father is ignored, all you-know-what breaks loose.

DEAR ABBY: How does a happily married 35-year-old woman handle flirtations initiated by a married man in the presence of both spouses?
I find myself very much embarrassed, and needless to say, his wife and my husband are not exactly overjoyed.
How can such a man be put in his place in a nice but firm manner? We run into this couple fairly often, and I am dreading the next encounter.

FLUSTERED

DEAR FLUSTERED: When next you meet, give Casanova an impersonal hello, then promptly launch into small talk with his wife. Keep it a two-way conversation until you depart. No man can "flirt" without a partner.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Julie May Host TV Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower is working with Warner Bros. Television on the format for her own television program, which likely will end up with the daughter of the former president hosting a daytime talk show.

"We're really in the early stages," said Edward Bleier, vice president in charge of sales and programming and head of Warner's New York office. "Julie and I aren't zeroed in on what it will be like or how it will be distributed — network, syndication or whatever. We're not even sure yet whether the show will emanate from, although probably it will be either New York or Washington."

"Essentially, it is going to be a discussion-talk-interview program, which is certainly what she's best at. I'm incredibly impressed with her talents but I doubt if singing and dancing are among them."

Bleier first became intrigued with the idea of working out a Julie Nixon Eisenhower show last fall, when Mrs. Eisenhower substituted for Barbara Walters on NBC's "Not For Women Only."

The topic under discussion at the time was "Public People, Private Lives," with Mrs. Eisenhower acting as ringmaster for celebrity guests ranging from Sen. Barry Goldwater to opera star Roberta Peters.

"I was very favorably impressed with what she did the first time out," Bleier said, "although I thought the subject was too easy."

Mrs. Eisenhower and the people over at ABC's AM America morning show did some talking several months ago, but nothing ever came of it.

Bleier and Mrs. Eisenhower got down to business on their project about two months ago, he said, and added:

"She's composed, intelligent and curious about people and things. I think that's the most important quality. She has genuine eye contact with people and sincere interest in what you do and how you do it. That's her essential quality and that's what we're trying to build around."

At this stage, at least, Bleier isn't thinking in terms of bucking the early morning news pros or the late night sophisticated talk types. He's thinking daytime, and he believes it is daytime audiences who will prove most responsive to Mrs. Eisenhower.

He made the point that some personalities, such as Dinah Shore, are specially appealing to daytime viewers, that they somehow blend in better with the viewers' background and values.

"I ran ABC daytime for a number of years," Bleier said, "and if there's one thing you learn early in the game, it's that the daytime audience is a lot different from, say, the Johnny Carson audience."

"First of all, it's women who watch television during the day. But that doesn't mean you're talking about all women, or about women in general. Daytime television doesn't draw all women any more than Ms magazine represents all women."

"Those who watch during the day for the most part are housewives with family and children."

Asked whether Mrs. Eisenhower's father, former President Nixon, would be involved in any way with the proposed show, Bleier said, "Absolutely not."

"I think the sympathies and the feeling of the country will be with Julie," Bleier said. "And I'm a Democrat."

House Closing

Gerald D. Laughlin, left, who was high bidder on the Pampa High School Vocational Building Trades House at 1900 Lea Street with a bid of $35,320, signed the final papers on the deal recently at Panhandle Savings and Loan. Claude Robertson, building trades instructor, represented the high school and Floyd White, a sophomore at Pampa High, and Bruce Reeves, a senior, watch the final step of building and marketing a house. Robertson said work soon will begin on another of the student-built homes.

Hurricane Dumps Rains To Flood South Texas

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The remnants of Hurricane Caroline doused parts of South Texas with more than a foot of rain, causing flooding which chased hundreds of persons from their homes.

"Water in some streets is three feet deep and it's 12 to 14 inches around the houses," Willacy County Sheriff Oscar Corraera said Monday night.

He said 20 to 30 families had been evacuated to a National Guard Armory school buildings in the city 30 miles from Mexico. Corraera said many other inhabitants in the town of 8,000 persons had fled their homes for frrier parts of town.

"In the northwest and southwest parts of town 80 per cent of the houses have got water all the way around them and 140 to 150 homes have got water in them," he said. "It's rained I'd say 12 inches since Sunday and if it rains again I expect we're going to have some problems. We haven't seen the peak of it yet."

"It doesn't look like it's going down. If anything, in places it is rising a little bit."

Civil Defense Director Felix Longoria said the Red Cross set up emergency centers in the city. He said the flooding was not caused by overflow — just heavy rain.

"We had a lot of rain all at one time," Longoria said. "It started raining at 2 Sunday and it rained all day and all night. It's just a lot of water that has to go somewhere. We've still got a lot of homes that are underwater."

Caroline was downgraded from a tropical storm to a tropical depression Monday. But the National Weather Service said the low pressure area, located over Mexico about 100 miles west of Brownsville, was drifting slowly northward and would cause more rain today in South Texas.

The predictions of more rainfall posed a threat of additional flooding for the already soggy Rio Grande Valley.

A flash flood watch was in effect for the Valley south of a line from Corpus Christi to Laredo.

Outside of Raymondville, other areas of the Rio Grande Valley reported few problems. The Red Cross did set up contingency shelters in Cameron County where floodwaters edged into some homes.

"All we got is a helluva bunch of rain, no wind, oh, no more than 25 miles an hour, but mostly rain," said Wiley Mahurin, owner of a Port Isabel marina. We haven't seen the sun since Friday. We ain't took in $10 in three days."

Tokyo Lad Kills Self

TOKYO (UPI) — A 17-year-old boy committed suicide on the first day of his senior year of high school Monday because he did not have $19 in interest money to pay a loan shark.

Masahiro Miyao hanged himself in the bathroom of his family's home in Osaka, 300 miles west of Tokyo.

Police said the boy borrowed $214 last spring from a neighborhood money lender. He used the money as a down payment to a sales syndicate for car wax, and auto parts and accessories, which he planned to sell door-to-door during the summer. His business was not successful, and he could not raise enough money to pay the 35.6 per cent interest.

Portuguese Commander Rebuked

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — President Francisco da Costa Gomes reprimanded dissenting air force commander Gen. Alberto Morais da Silva today and ordered him to explain why he called publicly for the removal of the Communist-backed armed forces commander in chief, Vasco Gonçalves.

A communique from Costa Gomes' office said a statement by Morais da Silva Monday demanding Gonçalves' removal "is likely to create difficulties in carrying out decisions already taken."

The communique was signed by Costa Gomes in his former capacity as armed forces commander-in-chief, a job he handed to Gonçalves Friday but technically still holds because Gonçalves has not yet been sworn in.

Morais da Silva Monday

publicly criticized Gonçalves' appointment to the job and warned against "a dictatorship of 20 per cent over the remaining 80 per cent."

The air force commander met with his supporters today at an air base 20 miles from Lisbon, while a fellow dissident, army chief Gen. Carlos Fabiao, called his supporters into session at the Tancos army base 85 miles north of Lisbon.

Their campaign to oust Gonçalves has overshadowed efforts by left-wing Prime Minister Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo to form a new cabinet.

Azevedo replaced Gonçalves as prime minister last Friday.

Fabiao met with representatives of his units this morning in Tancos, an army base town 85 miles north of Lisbon. A similar air force conference was scheduled for this afternoon in Sintra near the capital.

Military officials said both meetings were aimed at selecting new delegations to the 240-man Armed Forces Assembly, which sets the broad outlines of government policy.

The pro-Communist faction has dominated the delegations of both the army and air force in previous meetings, but they were notably absent at the army conference today.

If the moderates gain control of the 120-man army and 60-man air force delegations, it would give them an overwhelming majority in the assembly.

The navy, which also has a 60-man delegation, has backed Gonçalves.

In other developments, a crowd in Sao Pedro do Sul in the northeastern Viscu district dragged a suspected arsonist from a bus and beat him to death while his wife and the other passengers watched.

Police said the crowd believed Amadeu Lourenco, 40, had started one of the many forest fires that have recently devastated large tracts of pine forests and caused several deaths.

In Lisbon, Angolan refugees occupied the state-owned Bank of Angola, demanding the government reimburse them for money left behind in government-owned banks in the war-torn west African colony.

The refugees — many without jobs or shelter — also used six stolen buses to block Lisbon's only bridge across the Tagus River, creating a huge rush hour traffic jam in the center of the city.

The growing military opposition to Gonçalves was heightened Monday when Morais da Silva accused him of trying to set up a Communist dictatorship against the will of the majority of Portugal's population.

Maj. Melo Antunes, ousted as foreign minister because of his opposition to Gonçalves, canvassed barracks across the country in recent weeks and reported most military men in favor of a Western-style democracy in Portugal.

Dallas Police Concealed Oswald Threat to JFK

HOUSTON (UPI) — The FBI convinced Dallas police to cover up a report of a conversation indicating the FBI was aware Lee Harvey Oswald could be a threat to President John F. Kennedy, according to the Houston Chronicle.

The Chronicle said Monday Dallas police kept silent about the conversation for at least five months and then Police Chief J.E. Curry reported the incident to the Warren Commission.

The commission did not fully look into the report when it was received in May of 1964, according to the Chronicle.

A copy of Curry's letter to the Warren Commission was printed in the Chronicle.

Curry wrote: "On that date (Nov. 22), before newsmen, I stated that I had received information that the FBI knew of Oswald's presence in Dallas and that the Dallas Police Department had no information on Oswald in its files. This statement was based on the report of Lieutenant (Jack) Revill."

Three hours after Kennedy was killed, Revill said he ran into FBI agent James Hosty in the basement of the Dallas City Hall. Hosty told him the FBI knew that Oswald could be a threat to the president, Revill said in a statement he eventually repeated to the Warren Commission.

Contacted by the Chronicle, Revill stood by his statement. "It (the meeting) happened, Revill said. 'I know it happened, and Hosty knows it happened.'"

Revill said he returned to the police department with Hosty's information and wrote it down for Chief Curry, who then told newsmen that the FBI knew of Oswald's presence in Dallas.

In the registered letter to Warren, Curry wrote: "Within a few minutes of my statement to the press, I received a telephone call from Mr. Gordon Shanklin, Special Agent in charge of the Dallas Office of the FBI, in which Mr. Shanklin stated that the Bureau was extremely desirous that I retract my statement to the press. I then appeared before the press again and retracted my statement."

Curry also told Revill to keep silent about the information, according to Curry's letter to Warren.

Curry, when contacted by the Chronicle, said: "There's no doubt in my mind that his agent told my agent (Revill) what he did."

If the FBI had told him about Oswald, Curry said, "I'd have had somebody sitting on him."

Hosty currently is an FBI agent based in Kansas City.

"I'm still with the bureau," he told the Chronicle. "I like my job; I can't say anything about anything."

Shanklin, now an attorney in Dallas, denied asking Curry to suppress the embarrassing information.

The Chronicle said a copy of the Revill statement and other statements indicating a five-month coverup of his statement are on record in the Texas State Archives in Austin, Tex., as part of an assassination investigation made by the Texas Court of Inquiry.

Man Fined for Fleeing

A Pampa man was fined $152.50 this morning for evading and fleeing a police officer.

Gomesindo Delossantos, 23, appeared before Pampa Municipal Court Judge Don Lane was imposed the fine.

The incident stems from an automobile accident in the 900 block of Mary Ellen when the subjects involved became unhappy.

Other incidents reported to the Pampa Police Department Monday included theft, criminal mischief and burglary.

One resident said several figurines, valued at $20 each, were removed from her yard.

A two-way radio was stolen from a Cities Service Gas Co. vehicle.

One resident reported that his home was entered, and $140 and personal papers were taken.

Vandals cut the top of an automobile and dented the metal. Damage was estimated at $100.

Three persons were arrested for disorderly conduct as a result of a report from a local bar.

Two cases of beer were taken from a delivery truck.

Schlesinger Finds Troops Good in Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger says he has found U.S. forces in South Korea in good shape, combat ready and prepared to respond to an attack from North Korea with "massive conventional firepower."

He also estimated South Korea military needs at $400 million in arms and credits during the next two years to restore the balance with North Korea's military might.

Most Striking Miners Return

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Most striking Pennsylvania and Kentucky miners returned to work today, but in West Virginia, hotbed of a wildcat walkout that had idled 60,000 miners, there was no end in sight despite a $500,000 federal fine.

Nearly all mines in western Pennsylvania and eastern Kentucky were reported operating today. But pickets continued to close West Virginia mines, which employ about 40,000 men.

Today marked the start of the fourth week of the protest over local grievances and the miners' demand to have a "right to strike" clause inserted in the 1974 contract. Both union and coal industry officials have rejected the demand.

The back-to-work movement by about 10,000 Pennsylvania miners followed a vote by United Mine Workers union locals. Industry and union officials said the turnout was nearly normal at the big operations in Pennsylvania's Washington, Greene and Fayette counties.

There were also reports of miners returning to work in Illinois and Virginia.

But UMW sources in West Virginia, where the walkout began Aug. 11, said local unions in southern West Virginia voted near unanimously during the weekend to keep the strike alive. More than 40,000 West Virginia miners were involved in the strike.

President Rodriguez imposed a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. and ordered the arrests of all the members of the so-called Civic Junta, a coalition of moderate political parties that supported the attempted coup d'etat in an effort to restore civilian rule to Ecuador.

Political sources said that among those picked up were Pablo Davalo Dillon, of the Social Christian party, and Guillermo Cabrera, Carlos Cornejo Orbes, Fausto Cordobes Chiriboga, and Jose Joaquin Silva of the Christian Democrats.

It was the bloodiest Latin American revolt since the Chilean armed forces overthrew the late President Salvador Allende in 1973.

The president fled to an army base at Riobamba, 110 miles to the south, and called on loyalist troops in Ecuador to join him in retaking the palace.

Student Stages Phony Abduction

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (UPI) — A 17-year old student admitted to police today he staged a phony abduction because he wanted the publicity to aid in his race for a high school class officer.

Roger Keith Allen, 17, had telephoned his girlfriend's mother and his parents in Amarillo, Tex. Monday night to report he had been abducted from an Amarillo drive-in grocery and forced at gunpoint to drive to New Mexico.

He told his girlfriend's mother he was calling from a motel in San Jon, N.M., where his abductor held a gun on him.

Police put out a two-state bulletin for Allen's car and he was picked up a few hours later in Tucumcari, 112 miles from Amarillo.

"It was a hoax," said police officer Russell Brazier.

"He was running for class president in his high school and he wanted to get a little publicity. I guess kids now will try anything."

Brazier said Allen was alone in the car when he was stopped and at first claimed his abductor had jumped from the vehicle outside Tucumcari. But after continued questioning, Allen told police he had staged the abduction. Brazier said.

Fire in Gas Storage Kills Young Woman

HERNANDO, Miss. (UPI) — A young woman was killed and eight other persons were injured today in a series of explosions and fires at a gasoline storage facility in this North Mississippi town.

The body of Ruby White, 17, was found in the charred rubble of a small frame house across the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks from the Chevron Oil Co. facility where seven storage tanks exploded.

The house and a vacant one next door burned after flaming gasoline flowed under the railroad tracks and into the homes. Three adults and five children in the house were rushed to the City of Memphis Hospital, 20 miles north of here.

The adults and four of the children were admitted to the hospital in satisfactory condition. The fifth child, an infant, was not injured.

The victim's body was found four hours after the initial explosion at 3:15 a.m. The body

Ecuador Crushes 100 Coup

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — President Guillermo Rodriguez Lara imposed a curfew today and ordered mass arrests of civilian politicians who supported a bloody abortive coup that was crushed by loyal commanders.

COUNTLESS WOMEN take in a little sewing to supplement the family income, and that's where it usually ends. Hanae Mori's story is gloriously different.

In Films
Twenty-five years ago she opened a tiny dressmaker's shop in Tokyo. She might still be there, altering, stitching, making dresses, had not Japan's film colony discovered her. She began to design for the industry, creating costumes for more than 1,000 films.

Encouraged, she opened her first shop on Tokyo's Ginza. It was the start of a multi-million dollar business. A legend in her homeland, the petite designer is well-known throughout Europe and the United States for western fashions in traditional Japanese fabrics that are Oriental in line and inspiration.

Success Secret

A large measure of her success is due to her refusal to use mass production techniques. The kimono fabrics featured in her haute couture collections are always especially woven for her and feature her own patterns and colorations.

Top American stores carry her sportswear boutique line of tops, sweaters, skirts, pants, scarves and knit hats. They're very much today, a happy blending of East meets West in styling.

With everyone looking forward to the orient for design inspiration this year, Madame Mori has the inside track. The Orient has always been her source of inspiration and success.

A DRAMATIC interpretation of the Japanese kimono in black and white print by Hanae Mori is worn with a head-hugging cap and muffler.

Dinner-Theater
Set for Wednesday

Most Americans, regardless of their politics, will acknowledge that Abraham Lincoln and Harry Truman were two of the funniest men ever to live in the White House. Calvin Coolidge, on the other hand, usually takes the prize as the most somber of our Presidents.

In the bicentennial comedy, "Heroes and Hard Cases," however, even Coolidge is given his rightful place among those who have contributed to the American sense of humor. There was the time, for instance, when a man approached President Coolidge and begged, "You've just got to talk to me, Mr. President. Some friends bet me I couldn't get you to say more than two words."

Without cracking a smile, the President replied, "You lose." "Heroes and Hard Cases," presented Wednesday by the Pampa Fine Arts Association is more than a catalogue of famous wits. It is a complete bicentennial celebration, with Uncle Sam himself as the master of ceremonies.

Along with the original music, the play features sketches, quotes, toasts and roasts and little-known historical facts about the great and the small, the winners, losers, and rip-off artists that made this nation what it is today. Appearing in the production are the Alpha-Omega Players, a national touring company from Rockport, Tex.

The humor is gentle, not satirical, and the play has been designed to give the Republic a lift, by giving it a laugh. Curtain time for "Heroes and Hard Cases" is 8 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. at the M. K. Brown Auditorium.

Ticket information is available by phoning 665-8732 or 669-2805. Seating will be limited.

Crotch Problem Solved

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

Have you seen Mickey and Minnie? Mary Kelly of Indiana, Pa., is looking for a pattern to make this mousey duo from cotton leftovers.
Hang on, Mary, we haven't failed to find a pattern yet!

+ + +

Dear Betty:

I have a problem with my pants and shorts — no matter what I try. Even though I buy good quality pants with lots of room, it seems that they shrink and become too tight in the crotch. I've tried rearranging the zipper and all that, but just came up with a mess.

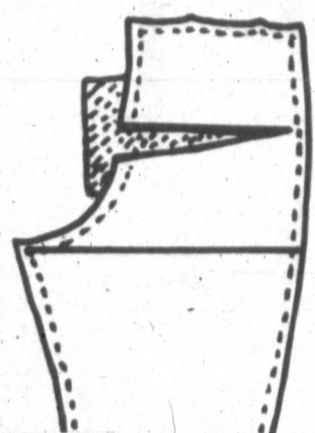

Desperate and Confused —

Dear Des:

You need more rise. Or you have a longer crotch depth than the pattern.

To add rise (sitting room) slit the back pattern section from center back across TO the side seamline following the alteration line. Separate the pattern the necessary amount, back opening with tissue paper, and tape in place. Because you have not changed the side seam, you will not need to make any change in the front pattern. It may take a little experimenting with a muslin basic to determine the exact amount of alteration.

For crotch depth: Tie a heavy cord around your waist. Sit on a firm chair. Place a ruler or yardstick (NOT a tape measure) beside your body and note the distance between waist and chair. This is your crotch depth. On your pattern, draw a horizontal line across the widest part of the crotch. Measure down from the waistline to the crotch line. This is the pattern's crotch depth.

For a good fit, your measurement — plus 1/4 inch to 1 inch for ease — should equal the pattern measurement.

To lengthen crotch depth, cut the pattern in two along the upper alteration line, separate the pieces the necessary amount; tape to tissue paper. Be very careful to keep the pattern aligned properly. This must be done to both back and front sections. To shorten crotch depth, just overlap instead of separate.

+ + +

Do you have any suggestions for how to keep furniture throws in place? They are always a mess!

Gladys Kile, Columbia Falls, Mont.

Have you tried the "twist pins" that are available at sewing counters? They have "corkscrew" pins and upholstery heads. Might be worth a try. Other than that? Make slippers, I guess.

QUICK STITCH: The eight-page interfacing leaflet is only 10 cents (to cover cost of handling) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. It helps a lot, honest.

The French Riviera

ST. TROPEZ, France (UPI) — Like converts to a new religion, French and foreign vacationers on the Riviera are spreading the word about the "monokini."

The topless vogue, which hit the beaches of St. Tropez a few years ago, is being followed all along the French Riviera from Menton on the Italian border to the naval port of Toulon.

At St. Tropez, the home of Brigitte Bardot, you can see everything under the sun.

They come in all shapes and sizes, all shades of tan and all stages of anatomical development. From grandmothers to teenyboppers, women are dropping their tops in increasing numbers.

And for those who prefer the total look, the beach of Pampebonne on the other side of the Peninsula of St. Tropez, has an area set aside for devotees of what has been dubbed the "zerokini." The term usually refers to birthdaysuit bathers outside of special nudist camps.

Here a woman with a bikini top is the one who attracts attention, one St. Tropez resident said.

Well, not quite. At St. Tropez, the count of women with and without tops probably runs at about fifty-fifty.

In other French Riviera resorts, the topless percentage is currently less, but growing by leaps and bounds as authorities become increasingly tolerant.

It was bound to happen in a country where 76 per cent of people approve of topless bathing and 47 per cent of husbands say they have no objections if their wives go topless on public beaches. "Today bare breasts don't shock anyone any more," said one beachgoer at St. Raphael. "Only a few middle-aged fathers seem to pay attention sometimes."

"We will close our eyes to the manner, at least in the figurative sense," Pierre Merli, the mayor of Antibes-Juan-les-Pins, said recently after the town council decided to relax application of its public decency statutes.

"Instructions will be given to the police not to intervene."

Jacques Medecin, the deputy mayor of Nice, called for a more official tolerance of bare-breasted bathing last year. And now a few monokinis can be seen on the rocky beaches of that city inhabited by numerous retired Frenchmen and frequented by waves of staid, elderly Britons.

In Cannes, the scene of topless bathing by publicity seeking starlets during past film festivals, there still is a municipal ordinance against the practice though the mood now is laissez faire.

For police to intervene recently, a girl had to run up to display her attributes 20 yards from a national police station. She did it on a bet.

Not everybody is happy with the topless scene.

One elderly St. Tropezian, a resident for 50 years, said he thought most of the town's 6,000 inhabitants were against the fashion.

"We aren't happy about it," he told a visitor while walking his dog on a hillside path overlooking Brigitte Bardot's Villa "La Madrague." "There are children on those beaches, you know. A lot of townspeople won't go to the beaches any more."

And then there are the Corsicans, who have reacted violently to the topless and nude swimming at the beaches. Several village mayors have even gone so far as to lead anti-nudist commandos in splashing nudist bathers with paint, wood-stain and mercurochrome.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that nylon net is a wonderful garden helper?

Last year I wanted to put a mini-garden in an area my dog considered his.

I priced fencing and it was $1.10 a foot, so I decided to try nylon net which was much, much cheaper.

I split it in half and stapled it to some stakes and left enough at the bottom to be weighted down with stones.

The opening was fastened with bread twisters so I could get in and out.

It worked so well but I don't think I would have tried it if I hadn't read all the uses you and others have found for this versatile material.

A Backyard Gardener

You are so right about it being a very useful material.

I am assuming that your dog is rather small. Even though nylon net is wonderful to use, I don't think it would stop a German shepherd.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

Declarer was now absolutely convinced that East possessed the jack of trumps, for why else would West overruff with the king when he could have overruffed with the jack? So, after winning West's diamond return with the board's ace, he cashed dummy's ace of spades. He then led the seven of spades, and finessed against East's "known" jack. Declarer was a most amazed man when West captured this trick with the jack. So declarer incurred a one-trick set.

Young Harrison Nails Down To T Victory

By PAUL SIMS
Oklahoma State freshman Britt Harrison fired a 12-under-par 272 total to pass slumping Junior Salinas of West Texas State for the 38th championship of the Top O' Texas Invitational Golf Tournament Monday at the Pampa Country Club.

Harrison shot 68 and 70 in the two 18-hole rounds Monday to finish two strokes ahead of surprising Allen Carmichael of Texas Tech and three in front of Salinas. Salinas shot 63 in the opening round Saturday to take a four-stroke lead, saw that lead diminish to one shot in the second round and settled for third place.

"I don't know how to describe my playing," the downtrodden Salinas said. "I guess erratic. I had more opportunities for birdies today... plenty of chances. I just blew it."

Salinas, a Borger native who is West Texas State's No. 1 player, shot two 71's in the final rounds. After the first 18 holes, Harrison led Salinas by two strokes. The Buffalo golfer pulled to within one on the final 18 when he managed a birdie four on No. 14, while Harrison took a par.

Salinas dropped to two behind on No. 16; a par three, when he drove to the left of the hole and took a bogey. Carmichael moved to within two strokes of the leader on No. 17, as he banded in a 20-foot birdie putt on the par four.

Harrison encountered problems on the final holes, a par five, knocking his second shot short and to the left of the green. Salinas put his shot behind the green. However, Salinas missed an opportunity to pickup at least a stroke when his chip shot failed to hit the green.

"I got in trouble on the last hole," Harrison said, "but when Junior's third shot was short I was pretty sure I would win it."

"I played better in the other rounds but the pressure (Monday) was more intense. I still missed a few putts. I drove the ball bad—I missed more fairways than I hit."

In spots, though, Harrison was sharp. For example, on the par-four 15th hole his drive landed just 20 feet from the pin. He missed the putt and settled for a birdie. Salinas also birdied the hole to remain two strokes behind.

"I hit the ball real well—I just couldn't get putts to drop," Salinas said. "The last hole just killed me."

Salinas added, "It was one of the best matches I've ever seen—neck and neck all the way."

Carmichael, unlike Salinas, was pleased with his play.

"My mental game was the best part of it. I hit several bad shots but I didn't let them worry me. I never was sure how far back I was—I found out, teeing off the last hole. I had just about given up catching Britt."

Carmichael, prior to Monday's 36 holes was four shots behind Salinas.

Ken Bailey and Bunky Preston, both of Amarillo, Steve Long of Texas and an Australia native, tied for fourth at 277. They were followed by Rod Nuckols of Wichita, Kan., at 279, John Zettl of Amarillo at 280, Lynn Blevins of the University of Oklahoma at 281 and John Farquhar of Lubbock at 282.

David Parker of Pampa, who shot 67 in the first round to trail by just four strokes finished at 283 (one-under), tied for 10th place with defending champion Dick Weston of Amarillo.

Others in the championship flight were Ron Jumper of Odessa at 285, Max Hickey of Pampa at 289, Eddie Duenkel of Pampa at 289, Bob Enger of Oklahoma at 291 and Steve Hyde of Amarillo at 291.

Dick Maxey of Pampa won the first flight championship with a 215 total, which included a 69 in both the first and third rounds. First flight entrants played three rounds.

Maxey won over J. Foster Elder of Pampa and Clint Ferguson of Lampasas, Tex., by two strokes. Jerry Larson of Pampa and Ladd Larson of Tulsa, Okla., tied for fourth at 219.

Winners—runners-up and consolation winner (respectively) in flights two through 11 were:

Second Flight—A.L. Leonard, Pampa, 71; Garry Barker, Pampa, 75; Ralph Kertman, Lubbock, 75.

Third Flight—Glenn White, Amarillo, 72; Jack Gander, Pampa, 73; Slippy Warren, Austin, 88.

Fourth Flight—Rodney DeFever, Pampa, 84; J.C. Ward, Memphis, 77; Jim Triplehorn, Pampa, 85.

Fifth Flight—Ron Ward, Dumas, 75; Irvin Williams, 78; Monte Hamilton, 75.

Sixth Flight—Floyd Sackett, Pampa, 79; Jerry Hamilton, Pampa, 79; Don Whittaker, Amarillo, 86.

Seventh Flight—Joe Watkins, Pampa, 75; Warren Hardin, Pampa, 81; Larry Stephens, 77.

Eighth Flight—Don Stoneback, Pampa, 78; Larry Fritz, Amarillo, 84; Bush Jordan, 81.

Ninth Flight—Richard Norwood, Pampa, 82; Ted Everhart, Pampa, 88; Tom Lester, 83.

Tenth Flight—Rick Foster, Pampa, 88; Howard Buckingham, Pampa, 87; Danny Strawn, Pampa, 88.

11th Flight—Jack Osborne, Pampa, 91; Bob Johnson, Pampa, 92; John Fields, Pampa, 96.

Boston Lead Dwindling

United Press International
The signs are ominous for the Boston Red Sox, but the club remains convinced that the future will be much brighter this season than it was a year ago.

Last Aug. 30 and Sept. 1 the Red Sox lost successive games and began a slide that saw them blow a five-game lead in the final month and lose the American League's Eastern Division title to the Baltimore Orioles.

Monday night the first phase of that collapse was repeated as the Red Sox lost to the New York Yankees 4-2 for their third successive defeat and watched their lead over Baltimore dwindle to 5½ games.

Will the rest of the Red Sox' season be a repeat performance of 1974? Members of both the Red Sox and the Yankees think not.

"We'll bounce back. I'm not worried," said rookie Fred Lynn, a main reason why baseball men feel Boston is not likely to fold again. "I know we're the better ballclub. We're too good and have too much depth. Last year you could feel it on the bench that the club was going to lose. This year it's not that way. I never played on a loser until I turned pro. This year is going to be different."

The Red Sox, however, didn't look anything like championship material Monday night as they fielded rather shoddily and let the Yankees take advantage of their mistakes. Plays that in past weeks had been routine outs for Red Sox defenders turned into base hits or errors and allowed New York to build an early lead.

Third baseman Dick McAuliffe misjudged Walt Williams' popup in the second inning which led to two runs as Rick Dempsey, Rick Badt and Fred Stanley all followed with singles. New York scored a third-inning run on a single by Thurman Munson and a double by Dempsey off the glove of centerfielder Lynn, and the Yanks added another tinged run in the sixth on a runscoring single by Sandy Alomar that left fielder Jim Rice got his glove on but couldn't hold.

In other AL action, Oakland topped California 6-3. Detroit edged Milwaukee 5-4. Minnesota beat Texas 5-4 and Kansas City defeated Chicago 3-1 after losing the opener of a doubleheader 10-8. A scheduled doubleheader, Cleveland at Baltimore, was rained out.

New York blanked Pittsburgh 3-0. St. Louis whipped Chicago 6-3. Montreal defeated Philadelphia 6-5. Houston beat Atlanta 5-3. Los Angeles edged San Francisco 3-1 and San Diego ripped Cincinnati 2-1 in National League games.

A's 6, Angels 3
Vida Blue pitched a four-hitter to notch his 18th victory and Reggie Jackson and Billy Williams walloped two-run homers to spark Oakland's triumph over California. Blue gave up a two-run homer to Lee Stanton in the first, then didn't allow another hit until the eighth. Jackson's homer was his 30th, tops in the AL.

Bugs Alive Gallops To Futurity Roses

RUIDOSO DOWNS: N.M. (UPI) — Jockey Jerry Burgess knew midway through the stretch Bugs Alive in 75 would be the winner of the world's richest horse race.

"We got away clean and half way through I knew it was shame on the rest of the field," Burgess said. "I hit him at the start because of the kind of money we were running for, but he ran his heart for me all the way."

The quarterhorse with the catchy name and blazing speed ran away to an easy one length victory Monday in the 17th running of the All American Futurity.

Owned by Ralph Shebester of Wynnewood, Okla., Bugs Alive in 75 burned from the start in the 440-yard dash and had plenty of daylight on runnersup Chick Called Sue and Rocket's Magic at the wire.

"You bet we'll be back next year. We might even try to change his name to Bugs Alive in 76," said winning trainer J.B. Montgomery.

Bugs Alive covered the distance down the richest stretch to victory in 21.98 seconds and returned $40,400 and 3.00. Chick Called Sue paid 3.80 and 3.00 and Rocket's Magic paid 3.00 to show.

The victory, the 10th in 13 races for the colt, was worth $330,000 and boosted his earnings to $512,106, making him the fourth leading money winner of all time among quarter horses.

Bugs Alive broke first from the No. 6 post position. Chick Called Sue, who had upset Bugs Alive in last month's $300,000 Rainbow Futurity, stumbled and nearly went down while breaking alongside the winner. But the filly recovered well and put on a closing rush in the middle of the track to take the second place purse of $138,000.

Pre-race favorite and top qualifier Rocket's Magic, owned by Louisiana businessman Bill Thomas, was simply outrun by the top two. Thomas, who operates a small fish market in New Iberia, picked up $64,000.

The rest of the field, in order of finish, included Go Fantasia,

Mr. Breakthru, Bobby's Angel, He Flies, Billy Billy Bayou, and Watch A Native. The 10th qualifier, Chick's Deck, was scratched from the starting field after suffering a knee injury in the trials but still took home $27,000 in last place money.

For Shebester and Burgess, the victory marked the end of a long wait for a spot in quarter horse racing history.

Shebester's two previous futurity entries, Top Bug in 1968 and Chicory Moon in 1972, ran third and fourth.

"We went after it twice before, and just came out second best," Shebester said. "I just had that feeling that this was going to be it."

Burgess, who says patience is his fortitude, scored his first win in six tries.

"The feeling that comes with hitting that finish line first is indescribable," said Burgess, who gave up the idea of becoming a veterinarian to ride horses.

"I've worked years and years for this dream and it's finally come true."

Ku Klux Klan To Back Presidential Candidate

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (UPI) — The National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan now has to support political candidates behind the scenes, a Klan leader says — but by 1980 office seekers will come "begging the Klan for an endorsement."

The Klan did not make its preferences for 1976 known publicly at its convention during the Labor Day weekend. But leaders said privately the Klan is supporting Alabama Gov. George Wallace, with some sentiment for former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, for president.

Imperial Klaliff James Lumpkin, a Thomaston, Ga., textile worker, said a Klan endorsement would hurt a potential office-holder this year. He said there are nearly 80,000 Klan sympathizers in Georgia alone.

But he said the hooded order's endorsement hurt former Gov. Lester Maddox in his unsuccessful bid for the governorship last year.

"In a few years the Klan will be so powerful we'll have candidates begging the Klan for an endorsement," Lumpkin said as he packed his robes into the back seat of a dusty automobile following a Saturday night crossburning at the foot of Stone Mountain.

"I think we'll support Gov. Wallace, but we can't say yet," he said. "He's not a racist. He's a fairly level-headed guy."

The group's annual convention, in a suburban cow pasture, had been marred by violence as angry Klansmen punched, shoved, kicked, cursed and spat upon two blacks and five young whites seeking entrance to the press area.

A few stones hit the intruders and their car. There were no injuries.

"Now hold your tempers and act like Klansmen," shouted Imperial Wizard James Venable, head of the Klan and owner of the cow pasture, to the 500 klansmen. "These niggers were sent here to provoke you into doing something to discredit the Klan."

Dr. Robert Pritchard of Baldwinsville, N.Y., said he and the other members of the Syracuse, N.Y.-based Pan American Association came to the rally to "study the resurgence of hate groups in America." Pritchard, who is black, carried press credentials from the Afro-American News Group in Baltimore.

"I had no illusions about what would happen, and I was not only interested as a newsman but as a man who loves his country enough to want to see its true face," said Pritchard. "I've been a student of the Klan for many years."

"Many of the Klansmen were very courteous," he said. "The Klan leadership cannot control its mob members although Mr. Venable sincerely tried."

Klan Goals Remain Same

ATLANTA (UPI) — Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton says members of the Ku Klux Klan now wear business suits, not robes, to conventions. Robes and cross burnings are mainly ceremonial.

Cappy Dick Tells Winners

Winners of Pirate Coin Replicas offered as the local prizes in Cappy's Dick's pirate puzzle contest published in the comic section Sunday, August 10, are: Brent Hill, 10, 2112 N. Lynn St.; Nancy Martin, 11, 945 Terry Rd.; Delinda Bigham, 10, 1012 Terry Rd.; Donna Madonia, 9, 2100 Hamilton St.; Alvin Murgai, 6, 425 N. Surger; Melinda Hogan, 11, 1937 N. Sumner; and Betty Sanders, 10, 701 S. Ballard.

Winners of the national grand prizes in the same contest are Cheryl Adams, 12, Albany, N.Y.; Susan Skriba, 14, Palos Heights, Ill.; Jennifer Tucker, 11, Dallas, Tex.; Lisa Rosenblum, 11, Coral Springs, Fla.; Janet Erdman, 14, Oshkosh, Wis.; Kurt Heiss, 14, Arcadia, Calif.; and Bill Vance, 12, Rockford, Ill. Each will receive the Electronic Table Tennis Game.

All the winners will receive their prizes by mail.

Imperial Wizard James R. Venable contends the Klan is not much different from any other secret society, such as the Masons or the Knights of Columbus.

Klan leaders all insist they are working through the establishment for goals they think are

7 Officers Get Death

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Seven high ranking army officers have been sentenced to death for trying to overthrow President Mobutu Sese Seko last June.

Seven other officers were acquitted while the other 27 of the 41 persons accused in the plot were given prison terms of up to 20 years by the Military Council of State, which had been deliberating the case since Aug. 20.

The government revealed the abortive plot in June and accused the United States, and in particular the Central Intelligence Agency, of being behind it. U.S. Ambassador Deane R. Hinton was ordered to leave the country.

The United States denied any part in such a coup attempt and no Americans were arrested in connection with it.

needed to keep America great. They even have a candidate for president, Dale Reusch of Ohio.

But Ku Klux Klan literature is as strident as ever. The campaign against blacks, Jews and Catholics has not changed.

For example, a book by Venable, last updated in 1974, states: "One drop of Negro blood in a white man's veins does not create another white man. It creates a Negro, forever kinking the hair, flattening the nose and thickening the lips. Also, it forever dulls the intellect."

The book says that while the Klan is not anti-Catholic, "It pities all Catholics in their foreign papal enslavement and prays that they may be free of it."

Lumping some of the enemies of the Klan in one sentence, Venable said, "We now know that the greatest group of salesmen we have for our cause are the Kennedys, the Martin Luther Kings, the Jake Javitses, the Goldwaters, and all the swine rabbits of Jewism."

The Klan originally was founded in 1865 in Tennessee. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, a Confederate Army veteran, was the grand wizard and as the organization spread to other states the state leaders, known as Grand Dragons, usually were men who had been prominent Confederate Army officers.

The purpose of the Klan in those days was to control former black slaves and to offer protection against white carpetbaggers trying to exploit the South during the days of reconstruction. It eventually was disbanded by Forrest.

The Klan was revived in 1915 at Stone Mountain, Ga., with a rally on property then owned by the Venable family. The original Klan had the respect of many in the South but the revived Klan and its offshoots have been condemned in all parts of the country.

During the 1920s it was connected with lynchings and whippings of blacks. Sometimes Jews and Catholics were targets.

It is estimated as many as four million Americans belonged to the Klan in both the South and the North during its high-water mark in the 1920s.

Venable says there now are 42 separate and distinct organizations known as the Klan in the United States. The two largest are his group, the National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and the United Klans of America headed by Shelton in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Holiday Death Toll

Although no highway deaths were recorded in Pampa during the Labor Day Holiday, a United Press International survey showed 26 persons died in Texas traffic accidents during the period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday and ending midnight Monday. Fifty-one persons were killed last year. The same survey showed that more than 360 persons died in traffic accidents nationally.

The worst single disaster of the holiday was in Alaska where a plane crashed into a bluff on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea, killing 10 of the 33 persons aboard. Pampa police Sgt. Charles Morris records one of the local fenderbenders.

NY City Debt Climbs

By MELLAYTNER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey has submitted a complex new plan to raise $2 billion to try to bail New York City out of its financial crisis. He says the program must be adopted within nine days if the city is not to default.

Carey said he would call the state legislature into special session this week to consider parts of his proposal.

The city, which has an accumulated budget deficit of $3.3 billion, must meet a $100 million payroll due Friday and is $886 million in debt overall for September.

Mayor Abraham Beame met into the night with top aides Monday to draft new budget-cutting proposals for the next three years.

A spokesman for Beame said, "The approach is careful because the Mayor wants to reassure the public that in carrying out drastic economies, we are not going to place the health, safety and welfare of the public in jeopardy."

Under Carey's new package, the state would advance $750 million to the city with the hope that an extra $1.25 billion could be raised through use of city and state pension funds, the state insurance fund and prepayment of real estate taxes.

Carey told a news conference Monday his program must be adopted by Sept. 11 if the city is not to default.

"The alternative to this proposal, absent any other development, is the default of New York City. Legislation is also being drafted to meet that dire contingency," the governor said.

Carey said the default legislation would provide "an orderly handling of state responsibility" because the "federal statute on this is not only obscure but unworkable in the first instance."

The special session is necessary to pass bills authorizing commitment of pension funds for the purchase of city paper, a move which state Comptroller Arthur Levitt has resisted.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: The line dividing your and others' property is sharply defined, but the distinction in responsibility is by no means clear. Be thankful you know the status quo.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Meet people on their grounds with charm, poise, and grace. New acquaintances develop rapidly into more lasting ties. Romance finds exciting and optimistic moods.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A personal touch, even slight, registers in your effort to improve private and business matters. Associates help you please your public. Give them a fair share of the credit.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Since you're so gung-ho to begin an adventurous project, make a mental note of friends and fellow workers who do well and might help. Romance has its appeal.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Any new start now has a long and potentially constructive future. Offer advice only to those who request it, confining it to the specific subject. Don't upset any apple carts.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: An old mystery is unveiled and a little more understanding is achieved. Reach out for communication and a meeting of the minds with those of similar interests. Distant news is good.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Don't rush anything. Pay attention to health and its maintenance as you put in sound work. The main job is yet to come, but needs preparation to clear the way.

Marie Foundations

Marie Foundations at 800 E. Kingsmill is a national distribution center with operations in both Pampa and McLean.

An estimated 12,000 garments are manufactured daily in Pampa where the warehouse boasts 1.2 million garments ready for shipment to every Sears Roebuck and Co. store in the nation.

Form - O - Uth, the parent company of Marie Foundations and Calmar Manufacturing Co., began in the late 1930's.

Marie Foundations was located at McLean in 1957. Three years later the McLean facility doubled in size, and in 1964 a decision was made to locate in Pampa.

As in McLean, Marie Foundations officials found the Pampa community cooperative and three expansions have been made since opening location here.

An estimated 400 employees at both Gray County with an annual payroll in excess of $2 million.

Plans are now underway to hire 130 additional employees with 100 to work in Pampa and 30 in McLean.

However, Dale Greenhouse, general manager, is concerned as whether that many will be available here since unemployment in this area is very low.

MOVIE GROWTH
NEW YORK (UPI) — The movie business is in a boom period, and so are stock market issues of the firms that produce flicks, says Standard & Poor's Industry Surveys. The Standard & Poor index of motion picture stocks through the first four months of this year was up 110 per cent from the level at the end of 1974, a year in which gross movie box office receipts soared almost 25 per cent.

DOUBLE DUTY
AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — Kidney transplant patients have few periodical problems, the Texas Department of Health reports. Health officials said the same drug used to suppress immune responses in transplant patients also suppresses inflammations in their mouths.

EXHIBITION
COLCHESTER, England (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth I, the last Tudor monarch, often visited the county of Essex. Throughout this summer, visitors to Ingestones Hall, a Tudor manor 27 miles northeast of London, can see an exhibition depicting Elizabeth Essex through prints, maps and documents.

Storing of Records

By United Press International
ON A ROLLER COASTER
BRISTOL, Conn. (UPI) — Noel Aube, 21, of Meriden, ended three days of straight roller coasting Sunday night and claimed a new world record of 2,001 circuits.

Aube, of Meriden, began his roller coasting on the Wildcat at Lake Compounce Amusement Park Thursday night, determined to surpass the 1,250 trips recorded several days earlier at Coney Island.

During his feat, word came in of another record from Ohio so Aube decided to wipe away all questions of distance and shot for 1,776 circuits.

The Navy veteran hit that mark Sunday morning, then decided to go on to 1,976 to celebrate the nation's bicentennial, and finally called it quits at 2,001 Sunday night.

ON ROLLER SKATES
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — For encores, Canadian skater Clint Shaw is considering the Great Wall of China.

"It's the greatest sensation I've ever felt," Shaw insisted as he claimed the world's record for marathon roller skating.

Shaw, 34, spent the entire 179 hours — save one-five minute break each hour — circling a roller skating rink in the Reseda area.

He started the marathon August 23rd and ended Saturday night, shattering the old Guinness World Book of Records mark of 147 hours set in 1935 by Walter Miller in Boise, Idaho, and besting by one hour the new record set last March by two skaters in Montgomery, Ala.

IN THE PARKS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There will be a record number of visitors to national parks this year, according to Park Service estimates.

Park Service director Gary Everhardt said Saturday the Expert Claims Churchill Was Real Boozer

LONDON (UPI) — If Prime Minister Winston Churchill had been a teetotaler, World War II might have ended earlier, according to Dr. Julius Merry, an alcoholism expert.

In a brief address to the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Guildford Saturday, Merry said, "Churchill was a two-bottle-a-day man and the war might have ended earlier if he had not been."

Merry, director of the alcoholic unit at the West Park Hospital at Epsom, refused to elaborate on the statement.

Lord Shinwell, former Labor member of Parliament who saw a lot of Churchill from the opposition benches, said of the doctor's statement, "I consider these remarks not only irrelevant: but irrelevant. It is gross exaggeration."

Red Cross Still Works at Lefors

Betty Moody of the disaster division of the American Red Cross was in Pampa this week to hear last minute needs from Lefors.

Libby Shotwell, executive secretary in the Pampa office of the American Red Cross, Gray County Chapter, said the organization is proud of its work in the Lefors tornado area.

"The United Fund is planning its annual drive and is now seeking workers. Those who can help are urged to call the United Fund or the Red Cross office."

Maजूता Hill, registered nurse and Red Cross instructor, will teach a mother-baby course figure would be about 240 million, 23 million more than the 217 million who visited the parks the year before.

There have been sharp increases in use of many well-known national parks in recent months, he said, as well as at areas which have been designated bicentennial sites.

Public use of the Grand Canyon National Park increased 61 per cent in the first seven months of this year compared to 1974, he said. Attendance at Minute Man National Historical Park near Boston is up 90 per cent.

Everhardt suggested that prospective visitors write in advance to the park they wish to visit or to park service offices for information or a listing of "lesser-known areas of the park system which are still relatively free of the impact of heavy public use."

IN THE SCHOOLS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There will be a record number of students entering their senior year in high school this week, the Office of Education says. But it also says elementary school enrollments are falling.

Education Commissioner Terrell H. Bell said the cost of educating 58.9 million students from kindergarten through post-graduate work will total $119 billion in the coming academic year, up $11 billion from last year.

The high school graduating class of '76 will be a record 3.1 million students, up slightly from 1975 and the largest class in history, Bell said. Total enrollment in grades 9 through 12 is expected to increase 1 per cent to 15.6 million.

College and university enrollment will increase 3 per cent, by 300,000 students, to 9.3 million.

Despite the increases resulting from high birth rates in the late 1950s and early 1960s, total education enrollment will drop .25 per cent, Bell said. The trend in recent years toward smaller families is reflected in a 2 per cent drop in elementary school enrollment, the fourth such decline in a row.

Nevertheless, 34 million youngsters will trudge to kindergarten through the eighth grade this year.

ON THE ROOFTOP
HAWTHORNE, Calif. (UPI) — They drink a lot of beer at Tom's Playhouse.

In fact, they drank at least 1,000-pounds of cans worth in the past year.

That's how much the 24,000 empty beer cans tossed on top of the store front bar by customers weighed when they were collected by a Coors Beer recycling team.

"Other bars save their cans," a company spokesman said, "but not on the roof."

Bar owner Tom McKee said three of his best customers started throwing their cans on top of the roof a couple of years ago and other customers joined in.

He said the 24,000 cans picked up for recycling represent one year's worth of drinking.
