Chevette Gets Best Mileage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new Chevrolet Chevette—at 33 miles per gallon—gets the best overall gas mileage of any 1976 model American car, the Environmental Protection Agency announced today.

The small Chevrolet tied with two Japanese imports—the Datsun B210 and the Subaru—for top honors. It was the first time an American car appeared in the top five since EPA began testing for fuel economy.

EPA Administrator Russell

Train said overall 76 model cars will average 17.6 miles per gallon, compared to an industry average of 15.6 for 1975 models and 13.9 in 1974.

The 1976 cars indicate that the automakers have gone more than halfway since 1974 in achieving the President's goal of a 40 per cent fuel economy improvement by 1980. Train said.

The 33 mile per gallon figure for the Chevette. Datsun and Subaru models is an average of city and highway tests.

In the highway tests, the Datsun B210 came out on top at 41 miles per gallon compared to 40 mpg for a Renault and 39 mpg for the Chevette and Subaru.

The worst miles per gallon figure by an American car was recorded by a Plymouth Gran Fury stationwagon which averaged 12 mpg—11 in the city and 15 on the highway.

Ford Unveils Energy Plan

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — President Ford today unveiled a multibillion-dollar plan aimed at making the nation's energy supply self-sufficient.

Central to the proposal is the creation of a new quasipublic agency to spur energy research and development.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford would not spell out all the details of the plan, which he said would need congressional approval and create complex legal issues in its financing.

The name for the proposed agency reportedly is the "Energy Research Financing Corporation," but Nessen said the President is not happy with the title "ERFCO." Vice President Nelson Rockefeller is among those who originally proposed creation of the agency, Nessen noted.

Ford, who spent the night at the Monterey oceanside estate of the U.S. Ambassador to Belgium, Leonard K. Firestone, made the plan public in an address prepared for a labor gathering in San Francisco.

The President arrives in San Francisco at 9:50 a.m. PDT (12:50 p.m. EDT) for a round of public appearances and interviews before he heads back to Washington late tonight.

Ford made two major speech appearances Sunday — first in dedicating a new law school at Stanford University, where he faced a polite but unenthusiastic audience, and later at Disneyland, where he was given a rousing welcome at a banquet of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The creation of an agency to float loans to private industry for energy research has been under consideration at the White House for several weeks. The ultimate goal is to make the United States independent of foreign energy sources.

Ford's energy advisers and the Domestic Council have scrutinized the plan carefully. It reportedly may involve an outlay of as much as $100 billion, with the private sector footing the major costs.

During the President's brief trip to Anaheim, Calif., Sunday night, he told the gathering of insurance executives at the Disneyland Convention Hall he was concerned about those who couldn't find work in America.

"There is no acceptable rate of unemployment as far as I'm concerned as long as there is one American who wants a job and cannot find one," Ford said.

He also said the economy was picking up speed and defended his use of the veto against legislation which he considers to incur excessive spending.

Fed Denies Holding Nixon Responsible for Tape Gap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government today denied it was holding Richard M. Nixon responsible for an unexplained 18½ minute gap in a White House tape used as evidence in the Watergate investigations.

Herbert J. Miller, Nixon's attorney, told a three-judge federal court panel that Nixon has repeatedly denied in sworn testimony to Watergate investigators he had anything to do with the gap in the tape recording.

Miller challenged Justice

Department attorneys to show that his (Nixon's) personal responsibility was denied under oath.

Erwin Goldbloom, a deputy assistant attorney general, responded by denying the government had accused Nixon of responsibility.

The attorneys were referring to a government brief justifying action by Congress to take out of Nixon's control 42 million pages of White House papers and 888 reels of tapes so they could be preserved for history and, in part, made public.

The three judges were hearing arguments for the first time on the merits of Nixon's claim that the congressional action to take control of the material was unconstitutional.

The final decision may lie with the Supreme Court, to which the losing side may appeal directly from the three-judge court.

There was a reasonable perception by Congress that during the time the papers were in the custody of Mr. Nixon there were unexplained gaps and distortions and refusal to make them available for congressional investigation," Goldbloom said.

But Miller claimed the action amounted to wholesale rummaging that has been held unconstitutional as a general warrant.

In addition to lawyers for the Justice Department and for the former president, others represent historians, journalists and others who have entered the case as interested parties.

A government victory would give the public access to many of the tapes and recordings. If Nixon regains custody, the materials could remain private for years and some might never be made public.

After Nixon resigned from the presidency last year, Congress passed a bill giving the government control over the Nixon material and the right to decide what portions to make public. The act said one guideline for the letter was "the need to provide the public with the full truth... of the abuses of power popularly identified under the general term 'Watergate'."

Kissinger Proposes New Peace Formulas

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger proposed new American initiatives today towards peace in the Middle East and Korea.

In a major speech to the United Nations General Assembly, Kissinger suggested that one next step in the Middle East could be an "informal multilateral meeting" to decide where to go after the fulfillment of the interim accord he has negotiated between Israel and Egypt.

American officials said Kissinger already had broached the idea to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and that Russia—but not the Palestine Liberation Organization—would be included in the informal talks if all states concerned agree.

On Korea, Kissinger proposed a four-power conference of the United States, China, South Korea and North Korea to discuss how to preserve the 1953 armistice agreement which ended the Korean War and also the possibility of a further agreement, Kissinger said.

"At such a meeting, we would also be prepared to explore other measures to reduce tension on the Korean peninsula, including the possibility of a larger conference to negotiate a more fundamental arrangement."

Kissinger made one other major proposal—the establishment of regional nuclear fuel centers throughout the world to halt the proliferation of nuclear plants that could be used to process fuel for nuclear weapons.

On the Middle East, Kissinger's speech concentrated on the road ahead—how to "sustain the momentum of negotiations"—after the latest Egyptian-Israeli accord and suggested three possibilities.

"We have made clear that we are prepared to make a serious effort to encourage negotiations between Syria and Israel."

Consultations in the coming weeks on the possibility of reconvening the Geneva peace conference of which the United States and the Soviet Union are cochairmen.

"We are prepared also to explore possibilities for perhaps a more informal multilateral meeting to assess conditions and discuss the future."

Kissinger led speakers at the opening of a three-week session featuring a king, an emperor, a prince as well as an assortment of presidents and foreign ministers.

Delegates from several developing nations expressed hope Kissinger would deliver a conciliatory speech, soft-pedaling attacks on the international oil cartel.

The diplomats said conciliatory remarks by Kissinger would likely lead to similar comments by delegates from the developing "third world" nations at the assembly's 30th annual session.

The secretary of state conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Sunday night about the Middle East conflict and the strategic arms limitation talks.

Kissinger said the two diplomats "clarified each other's views" on "two or three major problems" during the two and a half hours of talks at the Soviet Union's U.N. mission.

Many of the delegates from developing states expressed satisfaction with America's call for spending billions of dollars to bridge the gap between rich and poor nations.

The "third world" diplomats, who had been sharply critical of the United States in last year's session, voted in favor of incorporating many of the American proposals in the final economic package.

The 141-nation assembly opened its 30th session last Tuesday and spent the first week laying the administrative groundwork for the debate.

His father is chairman of the city's planning and zoning commission. His mother is active in the Amarillo Human Relations Commission and other civic and political work.

'They are unburdened... it's my reward'

Parker Marks 45th Year in Law

By ANNA BURCHELL

"A person is growing older when he begins to appreciate his own father," Bruce Parker said.

Bruce Parker, 74-year-old attorney who today marks his 45th year of practicing law here, put Pampa on the map in 1957 when he set curfews in an effort to curb juvenile delinquency in the city.

He was county judge then and Pampa was recording 8 to 10 burglaries a week.

"The kids loaded up and went to the parks and had fights all night," Parker said. "They laughed at the police and said they couldn't put them in jail."

So the judge laid down a curfew of midnights weekdays and 1 a.m. on weekends.

"Don't call me. Put 'em in jail and I'll talk with you the next day," Parker instructed police.

Burglaries dropped 90 per cent, he said.

News of his curfew ruling spread all over the nation and people voiced opinions supporting the judge and his stand on juvenile delinquency.

"If it works in Pampa it might well be tried in lots of other places," said an editorial in the Oakland Tribune in California.

Commentators from far and near called and asked Judge Parker to say something "just anything."

Parker will observe his 45 years of law practice here during a quiet dinner party Monday with members of his family.

"I like dealing with people and I have that in the practice of law," he said, explaining that he has no plans to retire.

"When someone comes in burdened and I can give them truth and they are unburdened, it is my reward. I would never retire... this is my life," he emphasized.

Parker said he chose Pampa for his law practice because of the oil boom. He put out his first shingle in the Rose Building where J.C. Penney is now located on Cuyler Street.

Parker was born in a half dug out in Logan, Okla., he left there at the age of six months in "swaddling clothes."

His wife, the former Miss Wilsie Blakney of Alanreed, was assistant Gray County district clerk when she and Parker met.

They were married in 1947 while he was Gray County attorney.

When he assumed duties as county attorney hot checks were a big problem.

"They had never been taken care of and the merchants were hollering," he said.

After investigating into the check problem, the work load became so heavy he had to hire another clerk.

Parker served as Gray County attorney from 1944 to 1950. He was county judge from 1950 to 1959.

Since Parker began practice the whole attitude of the courts has changed, he said.

During a trial here people used to sit in the aisles in an overcrowded courtroom.

"Trial was a big thing," he said. "It was a 4th of July thing with all the speeches, but courtroom practice is not what it used to be... no one pays any attention any more."

Parker enjoys his office work, but he has his hobbies. He writes poetry and collects "bits of wisdom."

"I have a book almost ready... Bits of Wisdom."

About his poetry, "Somebody said I waste my time," he said.

Among the bits of wisdom to be included in his book are:

"No matter who said it if it's truth, that's what's important."

"Silence may be golden, but it would also be yellow."

"A woman smart enough to ask a man for advice is seldom stupid enough to take it."

One of his bits of wisdom for people today is "Don't worry about the youth."

"They've floundered every generation from the Roman Empire up. Youth problems are nothing new — it's the new things that come along like marijuana today," he said.

The Oakland Tribune in an editorial on the Parker curfew, reads:

"Pampa, Texas is west of Pecos. Judge Parker has laid down the precept of get tough with toughs of all ages. He has clamped a rigid curfew for Pampa... opened the door to public when juvenile cases are heard and given permission to papers to print the names, and ordered police to toss teen agers into the tank without waiting for a court order from him."

Judge Parker was moved to issue his orders when there was one outburst too many among Pampa's delinquents. A gang warfare broke out at 3:30 in the morning and when the police showed up they were greeted by knives, knucks and bottles and taunts of "You can't do anything with us. Put us in jail or anything." And up to the next day when Judge Parker laid down the law they couldn't.

"The Pampa experiment should be watched and its results weighed," said the editorial writer.

Ruth Millet, a well known columnist, wrote:

"Other communities might do well to ask for the same brand of toughness in handling their own juvenile offenders."

Closer home, the Amarillo Daily News said a survey conducted in 1956 indicated that most Pampa youths are average youngsters who spend their spare time at sports, movie going, club work and other activities classified as strictly normal.

"It is the actions of a minority of teenagers which provokes Judge Parker to such strong measures."

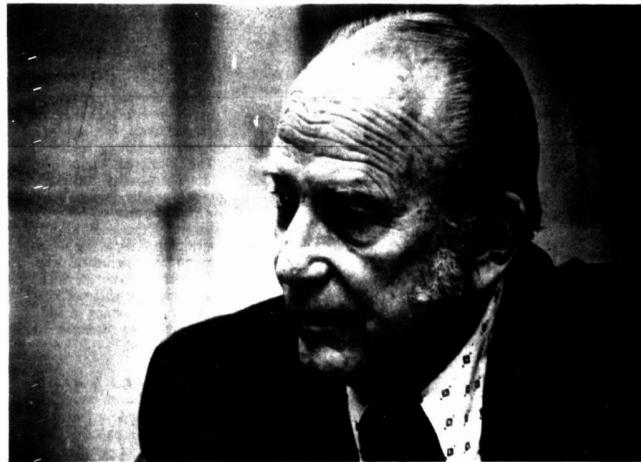

But if the Parker experiment works in Gray County, we feel sure it will be tried elsewhere," said the writer.

On Feb. 22, 1957, Thomas Thompson of the Amarillo Globe Times wrote in a column datelined Dallas:

"County Judge Bruce Parker of Pampa is receiving statewide attention from the press on his stand on juvenile delinquency."

"People in Dallas and Austin are discussing the merits and demerits of the curfew plan, and I have heard a lot of favorable comment on his plan to refuse renewal of beer licenses to pool halls and domino parlors that permit teen agers on the premises."

The Parkers have three daughters, Phyllis Williams of Oakland, Calif., Pam Ryzman of Pampa, and Debbie Harris of Lubbock.

Planning the Future

Stanley Modic, editor of Industry Week, suggests the proper course for Americans is to begin looking for ways to solve problems of diminishing natural resources rather than simply close up shop.

We think he has the right idea. Writing in the August 25 issue of his magazine, Modic remembered that in 1938 it was forecast that iron ore bodies in the Lake Superior District would be exhausted in the early 1970s and chances of discovering big new ore bodies were nil.

That grim news was recalled recently by Dr. Raymond L. Smith, president Michigan Technological University at the dedication of upper Michigan's Tilden mine.

Wrote Modic:

"Those forecasters of yesteryear apparently didn't consider the role technology would play in meeting the challenge. The existence of the Tilden ore body, and others like it, were known when the forecast was made. However, they were pretty much discounted because no economically feasible process was available to tap low-iron content ore bodies.

"The industry, however, was not inclined to believe statements that it was digging its grave. Pelletizing was perfected. The development

Pump Price Breakdown

If the oil companies — which explore for oil, find oil, pump it out of the earth, transport and refine it and, finally, make it available for your use in the form of gasoline — are making "windfall profits" as their critics claim, then, by any objective test, the federal and state governments — whose only contribution to the process is a negative one — have a veritable bonanza.

For the federal and state governments take six times as much from the pump price of a gallon of gasoline as the oil companies which do most of the work.

We all know that gasoline is high these days, but how many really know where the money they pay for a gallon of gasoline at the pump goes? Not many, one can be sure; if, in the truth, were widely known, the American people would be cheering the oil industry on, instead of condemning it on the basis of false information.

Toward this end, the American Petroleum Institute has provided a distributive breakdown of the pump price of

- a gallon of gasoline which is highly illuminating. Using the July average pump price of 58.7 cents a gallon, API breaks it down this way:
 - Cost of crude oil: 34.5 cents
 - Transportation and storage: 6 cents
 - Refining: 2.5 cents
 - Marketing: 2 cents
 - Service Station costs and profit: 10.7 cents
 - Excise taxes (federal & state): 12 cents
 - Oil company profits: 2 cents
 - TOTAL: 68.7 cents
- While the figures are averages and will vary slightly from company to company and place to place, API advised, they are accurate for the oil industry as a whole. And an average profit of two cents a gallon, the trade association pointed out, "isn't much of a windfall. The federal and state governments take in six times that much in excise taxes."
- If gasoline is too high, and we agree that it is, then the place to begin chopping off from that price is pretty obvious it would seem.

RIGHTS AND WRONGS

What To Do About Junk Mail?

By WILLIAM RUSHER

Are you one of those people who is vastly annoyed by the mailman's delivery of large quantities of unsolicited "junk mail"? If so, you apparently have lots of company: there is legislation now before Congress to provide that you shall have the right to avoid all such mail deliveries by filing a simple request with your local postmaster. At first glance that sounds reasonable enough; but I confess to having my doubts.

The direct-mail industry is a big one in this country. It provides over a million jobs, and pays its share of taxes. There are frequent charges that such mail which usually is sent at third-class rates (and hence, unlike first class at least theoretically, is delivered only when the post office gets around to it), is priced below its cost, and thus constitutes a form of subsidy to the businesses that use it. On the other hand there are those who suspect that the direct-mail business actually turns a neat profit for our laggard and inefficient postal service. Whatever the truth of the matter, I would agree that any subsidy is inexcusable; the real issue is whether there ought to be a legal right not to receive such mail.

Superficially there seems much to be said for that proposition. Many people enjoy and benefit from receiving such mail, with its often attractive brochures and toothsome offers. But others undeniably resent these unwanted attentions, and they are not made any happier by the reflection that some known entrepreneur is renting their name and address to still other strangers at a profit.

If you have ever bought a car, or mailed a warranty card to an appliance manufacturer, or subscribed to a magazine, or contributed to a political campaign, or so much as taken two deep breaths in a row, your name and address are probably on some list that is commercially available at anywhere from $10 to $50 per thousand names per shot. This is the source of all those book offers and pleas from unfamiliar charities that clog your mailbox.

But I honestly cannot bring myself to believe that any hitherto unrecognized "civil right" is being violated by his practice, at least in its ordinary, nonmalignant forms. (Obscene mail, or even door-to-door salesmen, raise different questions with, very probably, different answers.)

After all, if we receive a letter

Too Much, Too Soon

Ratification of the 26th Amendment lowering the voting age to 18 triggered new laws in some states extending other privileges and responsibilities of adulthood to 18 year olds.

Among the states was Massachusetts, which lowered its legal drinking age from 21 to 18 in 1972.

Now Massachusetts is backtracking. Alarmed at a sharp increase in auto accidents involving drinking teen-agers, the Bay State house of representatives has voted to raise the drinking age to 19.

The National Council on Alcoholism also reports a growing problem of alcoholism among young people in America. Experience may be showing that some legislators jumped to conclusions when they assumed it was safe or wise to abandon the tradition of fixing 21 years for "coming of age," especially when it comes to handling alcohol.

JAPAN'S MUTSU

Nuclear vessel needs a home

By SUMI OKUMA
Kyodo —
Copley News Service

TOKYO — With the deadline promised for naming a new home port now four months gone, pressure on the Japanese government to locate a new berth for the problem-plagued, nuclear-powered merchant Mutsu is mounting.

The latest proposed port is Sasebo, already an American naval base, located 38 miles north of Nagasaki, the second Japanese city atomic bombed by Americans in the closing days of World War II.

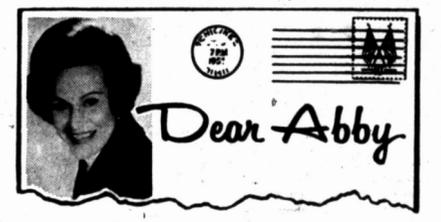

Sasebo's mayor, Ichizo Tsuji, indicated privately that he was "inclined to agree" to government proposals to repair the Mutsu in Sasebo and thereafter make it the ship's permanent base.

Tsuji declined to make a public statement on the question, however, because of upcoming local elections and "to avoid hurting the feelings of the people of Nagasaki," who have just marked the 30th anniversary of their city's atomic bombing.

Whatever the mayor's opinions may be, a poll taken by a national daily newspaper indicates that a majority of Sasebo citizens oppose construction of either a home port or repair facilities in their city.

According to the survey, 40.2 per cent of those questioned oppose construction of a home port, while 42.3 per cent oppose even construction of repair facilities.

Reflecting the credibility gap existing between Prime Minister Takeo Miki's government and the Japanese public is the unwillingness of Sasebo residents to trust gov-

More on Flat Teen Who Needs Uplift

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This is for FLAT, the 14-year-old girl with the 30AA bra — and for all the other women, young and old, who wish they were bigger.

I've been there. When I was 14, I was tall and skinny, and wore a 32AA.

Now I'm 23 and wear a 38D. Believe me, there are better things to wish for.

It's hard to find clothes that fit or blouses that button without gapping. Finding a bathing suit to conceal my top-heaviness is next to impossible. I can't wear sweaters or t-shirts without being stared or whistled at, and I've even been subjected to obscene remarks from strangers.

So let that 14-year-old to pray that she stays small. It's a lot easier to cope with.

PULCHRITUDINOUS IN PASADENA

DEAR "PULK": Now let's hear it from a male in Oregon:

DEAR ABBY: About your reply to FLAT — the 14-year-old girl who is worried because "all the dudes go for the built-up chicks."

You advised her to forget about those phony creams and gimmicks to enlarge her bust. You get an A on that.

You advised her to be "patient." You get a C on that because many women in their 20s, 30s and 40s are still waiting patiently for that great "miracle" to happen — which seldom does.

You advised her to wear a padded bra so she would "at least look better in clothes." On that, Dear Abby, you get an F! The poor girl has already swallowed too much cultural nonsense about a female's worth being directly related to her chest measurement.

Abby, no intelligent man gives a hoot about the size of a woman's breasts. It's the person they're attached to that counts.

OREGON MALE

DEAR MALE: I'll take the A and C, but please be fair and mark that F up to a D.

I agree, we should accept the bodies God gave us, but most insecure adolescents need a little bolstering (and upholstery) until they attain that enviable state of total maturity.

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with your advice. However, your response to the poor, flat-chested 14-year-old girl ("get a padded bra") was a crock of polyfoam!

A-OK

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from FLAT, I felt I should reply.

One of my best friends is 14, and she's also flat, but she's the most popular girl with the boys at the parties we have. She may be flat, but she has a wonderful personality, and people just love to be around her. She's very kind and never puts anybody down and is the kind of person who makes friends right away with girls and boys, too.

Sure, there are a lot of boys who just want a girl for her body, but who needs a guy like that?

I'm 14, 5-foot-8, 119 lbs. and don't have much of a bust either, but it doesn't bother me a bit because the right kind of boy won't care.

Unemployment May Be Primary Issue Study Says Electric Bills Too High

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Claiming Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen typifies the problem of the Democratic party, Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., has urged liberal state party leaders to make unemployment the issue in the 1976 presidential race.

"The fact of the matter is that working people and poor people don't even feel they are connected to politics — that's why they're not voting," Conyers told Texas Democrats, an organization of liberal progressive party members.

The group met to discuss and formulate strategy for next year's presidential preference primary in Texas. Texas Democrats leaders said the meeting mainly was to organize opposition to presidential candidates Bentsen and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

"He (Bentsen) typifies what the problem is," Conyers said. "He's a wealthy, slick, conservative candidate. He's out of it."

Conyers said liberals should reorder their national priorities to include full employment for those who want to work, tax reform, economic planning, public control of public resources and more participatory politics.

Conyers said he soon would announce the name of a black presidential candidate "to continue the emergence of black politics in presidential races."

"Eighty-five to 90 per cent of the black people vote Democratic and that means if we don't produce a candidate then something's wrong with us," he said. "I have a name in mind, and it's not my own, but it will be announced shortly."

A black candidate would keep the other presidential hopefuls honest, Conyers said, because other blacks would look closely at their campaign platforms.

"The black community is not an open political hunting ground for every candidate that comes around," he said. "We're just not putting our feet out in presidential politics and we're getting our heads screwed on right in evaluating this thing."

Conyers said Republican leaders place the profits of corporations above the needs of the people. He called President Ford's economic program "a hedge-podge of insensitive policies that ignore the common man's plight."

"More and more citizens are unwilling to have their future determined by those who spread democratic illusions while destroying their legitimate expectations for social and economic security."

He said Democrats must be more sensitive to the new mood of the people.

"The old liberalism will not do — Democrats must stand up and take progressive positions to redress our national problems."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American consumers are paying nearly $1 billion a year more in electric bills than they should be because of tax loopholes enjoyed by the nation's 150 largest, privately owned power companies, a study charged this weekend.

The situation exists, the report said, because the utility companies are able to charge their customers for millions of dollars in income tax which they don't really pay the federal government due to accounting methods and tax breaks.

Of the 150 companies studied, 122 charged their customers more taxes than they actually paid, the report said, and 57 of the utilities paid no federal taxes during 1974.

The report was issued by the Environmental Action Foundation after a 12-month investigation by its Utility Project, a group formed in 1972 to study the utility industry.

It said the law allows utilities to pass on to their customers, in the form of higher rates, the cost of income taxes due the federal government. But investment tax credits and depreciation break s allow the companies to defer actually paying the taxes until later years, and in fact the taxes are really "phantoms," the report said.

"In 1974, these same 150 power companies charged their customers for $1.4 billion in federal income taxes. This is $936 million more than they actually paid to the government," the study said. "Much of this sum was passed on to utility stockholders in the form of extra profits, a transition which falls outside the normal rate-making process."

The report said Congress earlier this year increased the investment tax credit for utilities and further liberalized the law in such a way that virtually all of the nation's electric utilities will be exempt from federal income tax as long as the change is in effect. "This enlarged loophole will probably result in the federal government's refunding of most of the more than $2 billion in income taxes paid by utilities since 1972," the study claimed.

Cancels Gas For Refugees

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — The Arkansas Oklahoma Gas Corp. Friday cancelled its contract to deliver natural gas to the country's largest Vietnamese refugee camp and the company president said there may be problems if the camp is kept open after December.

President William Walker said the company will continue to supply gas to the camp at Ft. Chaffee, even though the contract has been cancelled, but some industrial customers may suffer.

Walker said if Chaffee closes by the middle of December, as camp officials expect, there probably will be no problems. However, unless the company gets new transmission lines, some of its industrial customers may face gas curtailments this winter, he said.

As far as the Army's concerned, the 20-year-old contract is still in force.

The entire matter has been referred to Army officials at Ft. Sill, Okla., said Col. George Cross, Chaffee post commander. Chaffee is a satellite post of Ft. Sill.

Walker said he wrote Army officials in August notifying them he planned to cancel the contract.

Hightower Supports Anti-EPA Legislation

U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, was one of three Texans on the House Agriculture Committee supporting the compromised version of a highly controversial bill which would, for the first time, curb the independence of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to regulate pesticides.

Although the bill differs from its original version, which would have given the Secretary of Agriculture veto power over the EPA decisions, certain provisions remain in the proposed legislation which could trigger a House floor fight later this month.

That was the word received from Washington by The Pampa News later Friday afternoon.

The key provision in the proposed legislation supported by Congressman Hightower of the 13th Congressional District, requires that the EPA obtain and publish views of both the Secretary of Agriculture and a newly formed scientific panel before banning or regulating pesticides. Presently the EPA can act without consulting an outside federal department. Bill Choyke of Pampa News's Washington bureau reports that while the bill is considered anti-EPA, the most vocal opposition has surprisingly come from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Although the department has not prepared its position paper on the total package, a Washington spokesman said he believed USDA will strongly oppose a provision calling for lot by lot federal inspection of all imported meat and other products to insure pesticides are not in excess of established U.S. tolerance levels.

"It has long term ramifications," said Jack Lindley, a legislative officer for USDA. "It's viewed as an effort to reduce food imports and considered a non-Tariff trade barrier."

Lindley suggested that if inspectors had to check every perishable item — instead of the current policy of spot checks — a food item would take longer to enter the U.S. In many cases they would tend to reduce the amount of imports. But he added, "There is a long road before this bill becomes law."

Besides Hightower, other Texans on the committee supporting the bill are Reps. W.R. Poage, D-Waco, and Eligio de la Garza, D-Mission.

Former chairman and critic of the EPA, Rep. Poage called the bill a "good compromise" and said the regulation forcing the EPA to consult others will prevent "arbitrary and capricious" actions by the federal agency.

Ford Ends Oil Tariff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has halted part of his controversial oil import tariff and may eliminate all of it before the month ends, but not before petroleum firms pay $500 million in back fees some oilmen hoped to avoid.

The President hopes to prevent potential winter heating oil shortages, give consumers who rely on imported fuel oil a rapid price break, ease the impact of possible domestic oil price hikes and deny the oil industry a huge windfall profit.

Ford's orders and plans were announced Sunday by Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, whose agency oversees the tariff system. Zarb said they would be presented today to a U.S. Appeals Court that earlier ruled the tariff illegal.

Ford is dropping immediately his bitterly opposed 60-cent-per-barrel tariff on foreign petroleum products such as fuel oil, Zarb said, with the cutoff retroactive to Sept. 1.

Some importers have delayed ordering winter fuel stocks, waiting to see if the fee would be eliminated, Zarb said. Those ordering fuel while the fee was in effect would be at a competitive disadvantage with those who waited until it was lifted.

Failure to resolve that matter now, Zarb said, "might result in inadequate heating oil stocks to last through an unusually cold winter."

He said elimination of the levy on refined products also will rapidly cut by about 1.5 cents per gallon the costs of imported fuel oil for consumers in New England, Florida and parts of California.

Ford will decide by Sept. 30 whether to order a similar tariff cutoff, also retroactive to the first of the month, for the 22-per-barrel levy imposed on the 5.6 million barrels of crude oil the United States imports each day, Zarb said.

He said the President probably will end the $2 tariff if it appears he and Congress cannot break their stalemate over reimposition of domestic oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee is quickly turning its attention to reports the CIA monitored conversations Lee Harvey Oswald had with Soviet and Cuban diplomats two months before John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

A committee source said Sunday "the committee is carefully studying these reports" to the effect that the Central Intelligence Agency monitored Oswald's contacts with the embassies of the two Communist countries in Mexico City.

The subject could come up today during the committee's private session with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the slain president's brother.

Initially, it was announced that the purpose of Kennedy's appearance was in connection with the committee's investigation of alleged plots against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and others during the Kennedy administration.

The committee spokesman declined to comment on the published reports of the CIA monitoring, aside from saying the panel was studying them.

According to a report in The New York Times, the CIA informed the FBI on Oct. 10, 1963, that it had monitored the Oswald conversations with the Cuban and Soviet embassies.

There was no evidence the FBI pursued the tips despite the

MS Drive Begins Today

A month-long educational campaign to alert area residents to the serious dimensions of multiple sclerosis, a chronic disease of the central nervous system, will be launched today by the Gray County Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Georgia Mack, chairman of the campaign in this area, said the program is designed to make the general public more aware of MS and will continue through the entire month of September. Society chapters throughout the country are participating in this nation-wide educational effort.

Mrs. Mack said thousands of Americans suffer with MS creating an estimated $2 billion annual economic loss to the nation. The disease, which most often strikes those in 20- to 40 age group, is known as the mysterious crippler of young adults.

She added that while scores of scientists, mostly Society research grantees, have uncovered new and encouraging clues in their laboratories, the cause, prevention and effective treatment of MS remain elusive.

Since its inception in 1946, the Society has allocated nearly $24 million for MS research and millions more for patient services.

In addition to providing MS patients and the medical and scientific communities with services such as referral to community resources, physical therapy and rehabilitation, employment counseling, aids to daily living, and professional education, the NMSS chapters contribute funds to support a variety of MS clinics and clinical programs such as the Amarillo loan closet.

Anyone wishing further information about MS or the society should write or call Mrs. Mack 700 E. 16th St., at 665-2216.

fact it was investigating Oswald for pro-Castro activities, the report said.

Some experts have speculated that Oswald may have felt he was furthering a Cuban interest in assassinating President Kennedy, although the Warren Commission concluded that he acted alone.

Committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, had announced last week that open hearings would begin today on a plan to set up a domestic spying system, operating out of the White House, while Richard M. Nixon was president.

The committee said that phase of the investigation now is scheduled Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The first scheduled witness Tuesday is Thomas Charles Huston, whose proposal came to be known as the "Huston plan."

According to testimony before the Senate Watergate committee, the spying plan was never carried out because of objections by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Israel Still Won't Sign

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Egyptian and Israeli negotiators failed early today to finish negotiations on military protocols implementing their interim peace agreement in the Sinai.

United Nations officials said the talks would resume later today.

The delegates worked 13 hours in an all-night session, but failed to complete the protocol within the original two-week deadline.

U.N. Emergency Force commander Gen. Ensi Siliassu, chairing the negotiations, said earlier he hoped to have the protocol signed today.

A completed and signed protocol would permit implementation of the interim accord negotiated signed Sept. 4.

The Israeli government announced Sunday in Jerusalem it would only initial the protocol at this stage, withholding its signature until Congress approves sending American volunteers to Sinai under the terms of the accord.

The latest meeting between the two negotiating teams began at 5 p.m. Sunday and continued until 5:40 a.m. this morning.

A U.N. communique announced the meeting had closed without completion of the protocol, and said that "other meetings will take place during the day."

Sources close to the talks said problems discussed during the all-night session included: — The number of Egyptian police allowed along the eastern shore of the Gulf of Suez in southern Sinai.

— The status of Bedouin tribesmen in the northern buffer zone controlled by U.N. forces.

— Whether Egyptian and

Israeli personnel will be permitted to carry sidearms in certain areas.

The sources said the Egyptian negotiators accepted Israel's decision to withhold full signing of the agreement until the Congress approves the deployment of American technicians in the Mitla and Gidi passes. In return, the sources said, the Egyptians hoped for Israeli concessions.

The Israeli cabinet, in a statement issued Sunday at the end of a day-long meeting in Jerusalem, said Sunday the protocol would just be initiated "for the purpose of identifying the full agreed draft."

The Israeli cabinet, in a statement issued at the end of a day-long meeting in Jerusalem, said Sunday the protocol would just be initiated "for the purpose of identifying the full agreed draft."

The Israeli government said a provision for sending up to 200 American volunteers to the Sinai Desert to monitor the pact "is an integral part of the agreement."

Muns predicted Canadian over Wheeler, Groom over McLean, Phillips over Stinnett, Oklahoma State over Arkansas, Texas A&M over LSU, Texas over Washington and Arizona State over TCU.

He missed Berger over Hereford by picking the latter. Denny Keith of Lefors was second with seven correct guesses. He picked Pampa over Perryton 21-10 in the tiebreaker, while the actual score was 21-14.

Carl Baumgardner of 1805 Hamilton also guessed seven winners correctly and said Pampa would win 16-12. He was third. Keith and Baumgardner won $10 and $5, respectively.

Be A Plant Manager at Home

No longer a passing fancy, green and flowering plants have become a way of life in America and the Society of American Florists has named October "Green Plant Month."

According to the Society, the mania for house plants is flourishing as housewives, bachelors, school children, senior citizens, shut-ins — in short, everyone — willingly become the guardians of a wide assortment of greenery. If you have not already succumbed to their beguiling charms, October, when the selection is plentiful, is the perfect time to adopt a plant or two.

With an almost endless source of information available on how to care for indoor plants, anyone can readily become a "plant manager" at home. A pleasant surprise is in store for you when you visit your local nursery or florist and discover the array of fascinating new varieties, ranging from azaleas to zebra plants, anxiously awaiting a loving home environment. Innovative window greenhouses, lighting devices and other aids are designed to make your indoor gardening efforts simple, fun and rewarding. Chances are excellent you'll not be able to resist the temptation to become an interior landscape artist.

Decorators have long recognized the importance of flowers and plants in designing rooms which are a notch or two out of the ordinary and a glance at popular women's magazines reveals their consistent and widespread use on editorial pages dealing with food, fashions and home decor. Imagine how dull those same beautiful settings would be minus the benefit of green plants and the vibrant hues of fresh flowers which make them come alive.

If you're a novice in the field, for starters consider a graceful palm residing in a handsome jardiniere to lend an air of tropical sophistication to a corner of your living room and a prolific spider plant nestled in an interesting macramé "hammock" suspended from your dining room ceiling. The possibilities are infinite, but here's a word of caution: It has been happily reported that "greenplantomania" is infectious and can spread throughout your home and neighborhood.

Designer Pierre Cardin has introduced his first collection of children's and infants' wear in the United States. It ranges from layette ensembles to separates, sportswear, dressy fashions, outerwear and eye wear for boys and girls.

Flowering Plants

Become a "plant manager" during Green Plant Month and enliven your entire home environment with the beauty of green and flowering plants.

Couple Educate For Family Life

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Some of their friends joked when Florence and Richard Kerckhoff of Purdue University took sabbatical leaves together.

"If you were really dedicated to your profession, wouldn't you take separate sabbaticals?" they asked.

The Kerckhoffs, who are members of the Department of Child Development and Family Life of Purdue's School of Home Economics, find working together as natural as breakfasting together.

Florence Kerckhoff's special ty is early child development; her husband's, family sociology. They agree that their interests mesh where families are rearing children.

Mrs. Kerckhoff conducts classes in child development and education for parenthood or potential nursery school teachers. Her husband teaches family life education and does research on the family.

Both study the effects of children on marriage, and marriage on children.

The Kerckhoffs say marriage and children should not be viewed as two separate aspects of life, but as distinctly related and interdependent.

Kerckhoff, a professor, praises college students for starting the entire marriage education movement, but feels that students on the whole still do not appreciate the problems in raising children.

"They continue to separate children from marriage," he says, adding that many simply haven't yet recognized the strain that children put on marriages. Nor have they realized the impact that parents have on their children, he added.

As director of the child development and family life laboratories at Purdue, Mrs. Kerckhoff has long promoted the idea that children need appropriate responses from adults to grow up well. More recently recommendations urge that all society learn these responses through a process called parent education.

"We've been called a society of childhaters because we don't know how to respond to children. People tend to think that it's only parents and teachers who have any responsibility toward children," she says.

Mrs. Kerckhoff believes an even greater responsibility lies with those who make decisions affecting children.

"What about the heads of television networks? Don't they owe children an even greater degree of responsibility?"

Kerckhoff sees a reluctance in our society to pay attention to anything in the middle.

"We seem to cater only to the very rich, the very poor, the very young or the very old."

Mrs. Kerckhoff agrees: "The emphasis is on preschool or adolescence, but from there we jump to old age."

Kerckhoff says those who are average are literally left to fend for themselves. He refers specifically to the "middle-aged, middleclass, middlebrow, middle-income Midwesterner ... who belongs to the category that lies squeezed between the Pepsi generation and the Geritol gang."

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:

Here is a human, heart-warming letter we recently received in our mail, and I think it should rightly be shared with all you understanding readers.

"I figure it's 'food for thought' in any existing or latent language and though he is directing his remarks primarily as to what a child might do, I think we all might listen and learn."

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

This is to the woman in your column whose 4-year-old son wanted to know how to play with "nothing."

All persons are endowed with an imagination, but it must be provoked, urged, encouraged, and allowed to grow, once the individuality has started to express itself.

Explosive expressions of anger and fear on the part of the parent tend to make the creative child either withdraw into himself, or rebel against what he considers to be an injustice — depending upon his temperament.

Criminals sitting in prison are the end result of many persons' attempts at rebellion.

A Helpful Guide to Funeral Planning

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I'm not saying there are subversives in this country. And I'm not saying there are alien forces at work to destroy the Free World.

I am merely suggesting that when it takes a woman so long to get a pound of bacon out of its plastic container that the price has gone up 57 cents, then the packaging industry must be viewed with suspicion.

I personally would like to have firsthand the resume on the man who invented the plastic bubble packaging principle; that is, putting pens, cold tablets, safety pins and pocket combs under an airtight piece of impregnable plastic.

Chances are you would find the inventor is a ballet dancer from Leningrad who defected to the United States when they played Warren, Ohio. He immediately gave up his career on stage and invented this wonderful means of packaging with no possible way to gain access to the product.

It's only an educated guess, but the one-liners, "Tear around dotted line" and "Push thumb on tab to open," were probably invented by a student activist who turned from activism to advertising and humor. His two "biggies" are the spice can where you whirl around the holes to a spot that reads, "Press here" (It doesn't say with what!) and an invitation to surgery on the canned ham can that reads, "Insert key and turn."

I would like to meet face to face the man who designed the new child-proof caps. (Any fool knows Americans do not need a child-proof cap. If you have something you don't want within the reach of children, you just put it in a garbage bag, set it on the counter and yell, "Someone empty this!")

It's probably only a rumor, but someone said that the woman who designed the package containing rolls of gift-wrapping paper has been under surveillance by our government for years. It's too late. The damage has been done.

The other night after tearing off the end with my teeth, I used scissors to cut open the cellophane cylinder. The cellophane clung to my arms like magnets. Once free of the cellophane, I tried to take the tape off the gift-wrapping paper only to have it tear off half the design with it.

The originator of the most sinister plot to weaken the American system, however, still remains a secret... the man who hides the door handles in cars. It was rumored a CIA agent knew his identity, but by the time he tried to get out of his car by flipping on his windshield wipers, turning on the radio, heater and cigar lighter, flicking his directional signals, rolling up the electric windows, and moving his seat forward, the poor devil lost control.

Miss Becky Darlene Sanders, bride-elect of Robert Andrew Dietz, was honored with a recent bridal shower hosted by Mrs. Kenneth Ward in Central Baptist Church.

A dinner honoring the couple was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dixon at the Robinson home in Borger.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lindon Sanders, 1305 W. Crawford, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dietz, Borger.

appetizing, nutritious foods on busy days; Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist, says.

Older children can help by placing frozen casseroles in the oven when the get home from school — and dinner will be ready when parents come in from work.

Miss Springer is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"For freezing main dish meals, prepare the food in the usual way, and cook it until almost done.

"Remember to season lightly — because spices such as pepper and cloves become strong in flavor during freezing. Then, just before serving, add more seasonings if they are desired," she said.

To freeze, cook food quickly and wrap it in moisture-vapor-proof material such as freezer paper or heavy aluminum foil, the specialist said.

"In baking combination main dishes for freezing, use pans lined with aluminum foil — allowing extra wrap that will fold over the top later.

"After baking — because hot food must be cooled quickly for freezing purposes, let it stand at room temperature 30 minutes. Then complete the wrap immediately, label, and freeze at 0 degrees F. or below."

Cooling this food quickly stops the cooking, retards bacteria growth — and helps retain food color, flavor and texture, Miss Springer explained.

"Later when ready to heat the food, remove wrappings from the package and place food in the oven in the original pan. Bake until heated throughout."

Of course, homemakers can save even more time if they cook enough for several meals, the specialist noted.

Her recipe for lasagna serves 24 and is excellent for freezing.

LASAGNA

2 1/2 pounds ground lean beef
1 cup chopped onion
3/4 teaspoon garlic powder
4 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon red pepper, crushed

1 tablespoon parsley flakes
3 tablespoons parsley flakes
3 cans, 6 ounces each, tomato paste

3 cans, 8 ounces each, tomato sauce
2 1/2 cups hot water
3 pounds cottage cheese, cream style

18 (about 1 pound uncooked) lasagna noodles, cooked
3 cups or 12 ounces process Cheddar cheese, shredded
3/4 cups or 12 ounces process Cheddar

Line 8- by 8- inch baking pans with heat-resistant freezer wrap. Allow enough extra wrap to fold over top. Use one pan for each six servings or one-fourth of the recipe. Do not line pans for freezing to be served without freezing.

Crumble beef: cook until lightly browned. Stir in onion. Cook until onion is tender. Drain off fat. Stir in seasonings, tomato paste, tomato sauce and water. Simmer for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. In each pan, spread a layer of meat mixture. Add a layer each of noodles, meat mixture, cottage cheese, process cheese and Parmesan cheese. Repeat layers until all ingredients are used.

To Serve Without Freezing: Preheat oven to 400 degrees F (hot). Bake 30 minutes or until sauce bubbles at edges.

To Freeze: Fold and seal wrapping. Label and freeze immediately.

Teachers Strike Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston teachers went on strike today against the nation's oldest public school system. Only a handful of the city's 84,000 students attended classes as the school system faced its second crisis this month.

Most of the city's 4,900 teachers refused to enter classes and instead set up picket lines around all 262 schools.

The strike seriously disrupted the start of the third week of a court ordered plan to integrate public schools by busing.

The strike was called after 11th-hour weekend negotiations to get a new contract bogged down.

Despite the strike, officials said schools would be open throughout the city.

But less than an hour after school bells rang, all children who had arrived for classes at South Boston High School, the adjacent L Street Annex and Dorchester High walked out. At racially troubled Charlestown High, a few students but no teachers entered.

The few classes meeting throughout the city were staffed by nonstriking teachers, substitutes, and administrators.

Strikes by teachers and other public employees are illegal in Massachusetts and are punishable by jail terms for violators and fines for the union.

The main issue was salaries for teachers and aides. The school committee offered a 6 per cent pay raise. The union was seeking 9 per cent. Salaries in Boston range between $9,772 and $16,765 a year.

Other chief issues were the union's demand for a job security clause in case of layoffs because of a decreased student enrollment and the school committee's demand for unpaid extra time from teachers.

Boston police beefed up security and said teachers would be subject to regulations concerning large gatherings and picketing. The regulations were instituted two weeks ago, when classes resumed under the second phase of a court-ordered busing desegregation program.

Union President Henry Robinson said the teachers would obey the rules, which forbid picketing within 100 yards of any school.

The strike against the 84,000-student Boston school system will "create great confusion in the schools," School Committee Chairman John McDonough said. "Frankly, I don't know where it will lead."

McDonough said schools would open with substitute teachers and maybe some regular teachers.

"Hopefully, many dedicated teachers will show up," McDonough said. "We are urging parents to send their children to school."

What the committee called its "final offer" was rejected at about 2:20 a.m. by Boston Teachers Union negotiators. The round-the-clock negotiations broke off at that time.

The union voted Sunday night to strike because of failure to agree with the committee on a new contract to replace one which expired earlier this month.

Both sides said the main point of disagreement was a proposal by the committee that instructors work three extra hours a month without pay.

Strikes were settled in the San Jose, Calif., area, in Colonie, N.Y., and in Waukegan, Ill., but other strikes idled some 503,600 students.

Pennsylvania, Florida and Massachusetts were hardest hit. Massachusetts strikes, including the Boston walkout, affected 102,000 students.

Strikes in 20 Pennsylvania districts affected nearly 113,000 students. Teachers in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defied a court order to return to work and continued a strike to press for salary increases. The strike affects 140,000 students.

Representatives of the striking teachers told the Broward County School Board to come to the bargaining table "with a box full of money" if they wanted to end the strike.

Other walkouts affected 14,000 students in California, 22,300 in Rhode Island, 38,100 in New York, 14,200 in Delaware, 15,000 in Washington state.

Teachers in Englewood, N.J., reached an agreement and returned to classes today but strikes in two other school districts in the state affected 19,000 students.

Patty May Be Witness

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, described by her mother as "more in touch with reality," may take the witness stand Tuesday to assure a federal judge she won't skip town if granted bail.

Defense attorneys for the 21-year-old daughter of millionaire newspaper executive Randolph Hearst said Sunday night there was "nothing definitely decided," but it was possible she would testify.

If so, it would be the first public statement from Miss Hearst since June 7, 1974, when her tape-recorded voice proclaimed love for Willie Wolfe, one of six Symbionese Liberation Army terrorists killed in a shootout a few days earlier with Los Angeles police.

Miss Hearst, who was wanted on 22 felony warrants, including bank robbery and flight to avoid prosecution, must explain to U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, why, among other things, she signed "urban guerilla" as her occupation when she was booked into jail.

Carter denied her release on bail last week, saying he had to be convinced Miss Hearst was not a "flight risk." The FBI sought Miss Hearst for 19 months, first as a kidnap victim and later as a "soldier" in the terrorist group that abducted her.

Her mother, Catherine, after a visit with her daughter at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City Sunday, said there was a noticeable change in Miss Hearst's appearance since her arrest Thursday.

"She seems more in touch with reality," said Mrs. Hearst. "The first time we saw her she was not herself. She seemed to be spaced out up here (motioning to her head.)"

"Today she wasn't smoking and she was much better. She's getting better every day. But she's still not the same girl she was before she was kidnaped."

Jack Anderson Plot Reported by Newspaper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson said he knew he was an "irritant" during the Watergate period but he had no reason to believe that Nixon administration leaders would order up his death.

Anderson said he knew that Nixon's chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, instructed the Justice Department to investigate him to look for "some crime that they could attack me with." Anderson said he knew a "raid" on his office had been discussed "but I have absolutely no reason to believe that Haldeman would order my assassination."

The wealthiest member of the Second Continental Congress which adopted the Declaration of Independence was its presiding officer, John Hancock.

Hunt, a retired CIA agent, pleaded guilty in 1973 to participation in the Watergate break-in and currently is serving a prison term. Hunt's lawyer said there would be no comment on the report.

Vets Day—Nov. 11

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — Veterans Day will return to Nov. 11 on the calendar of federal holidays, effective in 1978.

It was shifted in 1968 to the fourth Monday in October, when Congress decided to increase the number of three-day holiday weekends. But public protest followed, and some state legislatures decided not to change their laws to conform with the change.

President Ford signed legislation Sunday restoring observation of Veterans Day to the original date.

...It has become apparent that the commemoration of this day on Nov. 11 is a matter of historic and patriotic significance to a great number of our citizens," he said in a statement.

Ford said a change back to the Nov. 11 date "will help preserve in the hearts and lives of all Americans the spirit of patriotism, the love of country and the willingness to serve and sacrifice for the common good symbolized by this very special day."

The holiday, first known as Armistice Day, has been celebrated since the end of World War I to mark the 1918 ceasefire between Germany and allied nations.

All Governments Might Cry for 'Uncle Sugar'

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the federal government bails New York city out of its fiscal crisis, a Tampa, Fla., official fears a precedent would be set for every government, big and small, to cry for help from "Uncle Sugar."

In Rhode Island, state Treasurer Raymond H. Hawksley disagrees. "I think the federal government has got to come in and save the states and the rest of the country," Hawksley said.

New York Mayor Abraham D. Beame and a host of other city and state leaders have spent countless hours in Washington during the last few months, pleading for federal aid that would help the nation's largest city avoid default on its bonds.

Treasury Secretary William Simon, speaking for President Ford, has consistently refused to provide any help. Simon says, in fact, default by New York would be preferable to a bailout.

Beame has contended — and state and local officials across the nation agree — that New York's financial troubles are already costing taxpayer's everywhere millions of dollars. There is a "skitterishness" in the bond market, they say, that is driving up interest rates on state and municipal bonds.

In Connecticut, a Sept. 3 bond sale cost the taxpayers $1.7 million more in interest than a similar sale in June.

"The potentially catastrophic fiscal problems that plague New York City and New York State have made the money market apprehensive," said Connecticut State Treasurer Henry E. Parker.

"We're going to pay higher rates in the market as long as the market is apprehensive and unsettled about New York's fiscal plight."

A UPI survey showed that while state and local officials across the nation were deeply concerned about the effects of a threatened default by New York, there is sharp division among state and local officials over whether the federal government can or should step in.

"Who will buy our bonds if the federal government rewards New York's ineptness with a guarantee for their debt?" asked Oregon state Treasurer

James Redden.

Redden says Oregon paid one-eighth per cent more interest on its last Veterans bond sale "because of the psychological impact on the bond market caused by the New York City fiasco. This could be a continuing cost inflicted on Oregonians in spite of our own willingness to tighten our belt. The problems of New York City are not over yet and the rest of us could still get hurt."

John Laughlin, acting comptroller of Tampa, said New York's situation "has made me a little twitchy."

"I would hate to have a precedent set where a government, big or small, could holler and Uncle Sugar would bail 'em out," he said.

Lopez Dies

MIAMI (UPI) — Funeral services will be held Tuesday for orchestra leader Vincent Lopez, a giant on the big band scene of the 1920s, '30s and '40s. He died Saturday at age 80.

Lopez had been a Florida resident for more than 19 years but he continued to operate a dance band in New York as well as one in Miami until his death.

Fromme Gets Psychiatric Examination

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, accused of attempting to kill President Ford, returns to court Tuesday to learn what effect a weekend psychiatric examination will have on a request to act as her own attorney.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride orders today to learn what effect a weekend psychiatric examination will have on a request to act as her own attorney.

U.S. Die. Miss Fromme bristled during her court appearance Friday when MacBride ordered the psychiatric examination to determine if she is competent.

"Your honor, I refuse to speak with a psychiatrist without a witness present or without a tape recording," she said. "I can't depend on one man when my life is at stake."

The judge granted the unusual request to have the interview taped.

Miss Fromme was charged with pointing a loaded .45 caliber automatic pistol at Ford Sept. 5 as he shook hands with well-wishers on the grounds of the state capitol.

She is held in an isolation cell at the county jail in lieu of $350,000 bail.

Over 125 million persons in the United States held drivers licenses in 1974 — 68 million men and 57 million women.

Pokes Crush Rams

By UPI
Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys certainly has a funny vocabulary. To him, rebuilding means going out and knocking off a club with Super Bowl credentials.

Landry's Cowboys did just that Sunday, engineering the biggest upset of the National Football League's opening day with an 18-7 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams.

All through the summer, Landry has been telling people this is a rebuilding year for the Cowboys. After all, hadn't Calvin Hill defected to the World Football League and hadn't Walt Garrison, his partner in the backfield, retired? Wasn't Bob Lilly, one of the greatest defensive linemen in NFL history, retired, along with All Pro safety Cornell Green and center Dave Manders? And wasn't guard John Niland traded away to make room for a rookie?

"I can't remember the Cowboys ever playing a better game," said linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, a 13-year veteran. "I think we were a great ball club out there. We played with enthusiasm. That's what I like about this club. We've got a young club full of enthusiasm. And that includes me because I think young."

"They just whipped our rears," said Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox. "They did nothing in the secondary to confuse our passing game. They were just the better team—particularly on defense."

The Cowboys held James Harris to only one completion in 10 attempts and sub Ron Jaworski put together the only scoring drive. Fritsch hit on field goals of 25, 39, 19 and 31 yards and Doug Dennison plunged a yard for Dallas' only TD.

In other opening day action, Pittsburgh blasted San Diego 37-0, Buffalo crushed the New York Jets 42-14, Minnesota downed San Francisco 27-17, Denver shaded Kansas City 37-3, Washington smashed New Orleans 41-3, Detroit tripped Green Bay 30-16, Cincinnati dumped Cleveland 24-

17. St. Louis edged Atlanta 23-20, Baltimore bombed Chicago 35-7, the New York Giants stopped Philadelphia 23-14 and Houston beat New England 7-0. Oakland is at Miami tonight.

Steelers 37, Chargers 0
Terry Bradshaw threw a 40-yard TD pass to Frank Lewis and a 38-yarder to John Stallworth and Roy Gereia added three field goals as Pittsburgh opened defense of its NFL title by routing San Diego. The Steeler defense didn't permit San Diego inside the Pittsburgh 41 and the offense scored the first four times it had the ball.

Bills 42, Jets 14
O.J. Simpson ran for 173 yards to score two touchdowns and set up three more as Buffalo rolled over New York. Simpson scored on runs of two and five yards and would have broken his own NFL game rushing record of 250 yards if runs of 31 and 49 yards were not called back. Joe Ferguson threw two TD passes for the Bills and Joe Namath had two for the Jets but was intercepted four times.

Vikings 27, 49ers 17
Fran Tarkenton threw a 10-yard TD pass to Brent McClanahan and Chuck Foreman plunged a yard for another score in the final quarter to lead Minnesota past San Francisco. The Vikings led just 13-10 before breaking open the game with the two TDs. Norm Snead had a 22-yard TD pass to Gene Washington for the 49ers.

Broncos 37, Chiefs 33
Charley Johnson's 11-yard TD pass to Billy Van Heusen with 1:49 left lifted Denver over Kansas City. Johnson earlier teamed with rookie Rick Upchurch on a 99-yard TD pass and threw a 39-yarder to Jack Dolbin. Mike Livingston had two TD passes and Jan Stenerud kicked four field goals for the Chiefs.

Redskins 41, Saints 3
Bill Kilmer completed 14-of-16 passes for 199 yards and four touchdowns as Washington manhandled New Orleans.

Kilmer threw TD passes of 11 and five yards to Charley Taylor, 27 to Ralph Nelson and 14 to Jerry Smith.

Lions 30, Packers 16
Detroit blocked three punts, two by Levi Johnson, and turned them into touchdowns to defeat Green Bay. Johnson recovered one blocked punt in the end zone for a TD and Larry Ball raced 34 yards with another for a score. John Brockington ran for two Packer TDs.

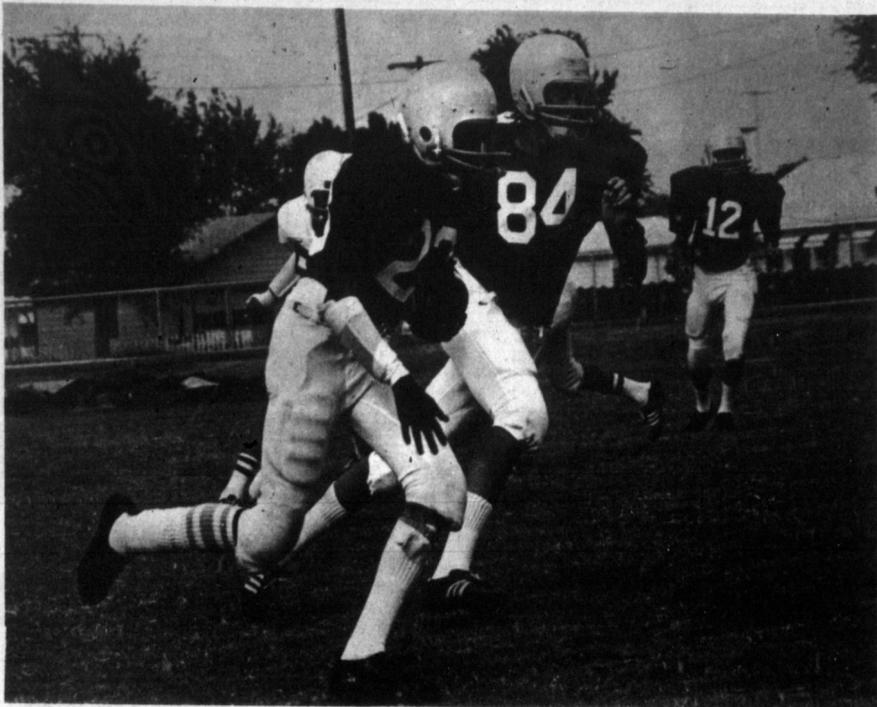

Bengals 24, Browns 17
Ken Anderson threw a 16-yard TD pass to Isaac Curtis and Boobie Clark and Lenell Elliott ran for scores as Cincinnati left Cleveland. The Bengals got a big scare when the Browns came back from a 24-3 deficit with two TDs in the third period but held on to win.

Cardinals 23, Falcons 20
Jim Bakken's 25-yard field goal as time ran out lifted St. Louis over Atlanta. Bakken earlier connected on kicks of 22 and 39 yards. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the No. 1 pick in the college draft, ran a yard for one Falcon score and hit 8-of-16 passes for 81 yards.

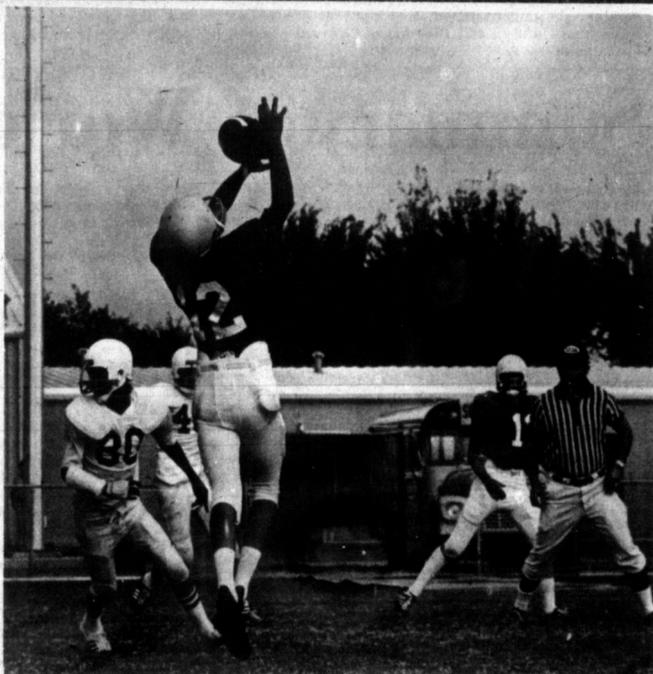

Colts 35, Bears 7
Bert Jones flipped a pair of short TD passes and Don McCauley ran for two more scores as Baltimore crushed Chicago. Jones passed for 177 yards and ran for 41 more. Bobby Douglass ran a yard for the Bears' lone score.

Giants 23, Eagles 13
Ron Johnson scored twice from in close and Craig Morton threw a 50-yard TD pass to Ray Rhodes to lift New York over Philadelphia. Mike Boryla and Roman Gabriel each threw a TD pass for the Eagles, who blocked three Giant kicks.

Oilers 7, Patriots 0
Safety Willie Germany ran 48 yards with a fumble in the first period for the game's only TD as Houston beat New England. Heavy rain then kept both offenses bogged down the rest of the game.

Americans Snare Ryder Cup

LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI)—The outcome of the Ryder Cup came as no surprise to United States team captain Arnold Palmer.

"The only thing different was a few points one way or the other," said Palmer of the 21-11 victory Sunday over the British-Irish team at Laurel Valley Golf Club. "Both teams enjoyed it (the matches) but certainly it's no fun when you get wiped out before the final 18 holes."

The United States won the Ryder Cup as expected Sunday, but the day had its triumphs for the British and Brian Barnes in particular.

A 5-3 edge in the morning singles gave the Americans a big 17½ to 6½ edge, but the British-Irish team recouped some glory in the afternoon, winning 4½ to 3½.

Barnes, a strapping pipe-smoking Scotsman, defeated Jack Nicklaus 4 and 2 in the morning and again in the afternoon, 2 and 1.

Another double winner for the British was Peter Oosterhuis, who defeated Johnny Miller 2-up and J. C. Snead 3 and 2. Oosterhuis remained unbeaten in Ryder Cup singles play with five victories and one tie.

Bob Murphy was the only American to win two matches. He defeated Tony Jacklin and Maurice Bembridge by scores of 2 and 1.

Hale Irwin led the U.S. charge with a total of 3 points, getting half of them Sunday in a standoff with Tommy Horton and a 2 and 1 decision over John O'Leary.

Two other afternoon matches ended 2 and 1, Britain's Tommy Horton beating Lou Graham and teammate Norman Wood outlasting a tired Lee Trevino.

Ray Floyd nipped Jacklin 1-up and Al Geiberger and Bernard Gallacher tied as Geiberger won the last two holes in the other afternoon matches.

Trevino tied with Gallacher. Gene Littler won over Brian Huggert 4 and 2; Bill Casper beat Eamonn Darcy 3 and 2 and Tom Weiskopf with Guy Hunt 5 and 3 in the other morning matches.

Attention centered on Barnes and Nicklaus after the American team cinched the cup victory.

"He played badly, I was just lucky," said Barnes after the morning round.

Boosters To Meet

The Harvester Booster Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the high school cafeteria. The 21-14 win over Perryton will be discussed.

Head coach John Welborn will show the game film.

Red Sox To Win Title Without Rice

UPI Sports Writer
The Boston Red Sox are facing up today to a cruel twist of fate: they'll have to clinch the American League's Eastern Division title without the services of Jim Rice, one of their two sensational rookies.

Rice, who along with fellow-rookie Fred Lynn has powered the Red Sox all season, suffered a fracture of the fourth metacarpal bone in his left hand when struck by a pitch by Detroit's Vern Ruhle in the second inning of Sunday's 6-5 victory over the Tigers, and will be lost for the last seven games of the season as well as the playoffs and World Series.

"There is no question of his being out," said Dr. Clarence M. Livingood after examining the injury. "That hand will be useless for weeks."

Actually, the Red Sox are in a commanding mathematical position with a 3 1/2 game lead over the Baltimore Orioles with seven games left to play. But the Orioles have been coming on like gangbusters, just as they did when they won the 1974 division title, and putting intense pressure on the Red Sox.

Despite the enormous contributions of Lynn and Rice, however, the Red Sox haven't been a "two-man team"—and Sunday came back from a 5-4 deficit going into the top of the ninth to beat the Tigers. The Orioles kept pace by defeating the Milwaukee Brewers 3-0 behind Mike Torrez' two-hitter.

That left the Red Sox' magic number for clinching the title at five—meaning any combination of Boston wins and Baltimore losses totaling five will clinch the title for Boston.

The Kansas City Royals beat the Oakland A's 2-1, the California Angels downed the Minnesota Twins 5-2, the Texas Rangers topped the Chicago White Sox 8-2, and the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 11-5 after a 32 loss in other AL games.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 5 St. Louis 3, Philadelphia 4 New York 2, Cincinnati 3 Atlanta 0, San Francisco 2 San Diego 1, Houston 4 Los Angeles 1, and Montreal 5 Chicago 4.

Denny Doyle's two-run double with one out in the ninth gave the Red Sox their victory Sunday after the Tigers enjoyed two leads. Dick Drago, who has pitched strongly in relief during the stretch drive, was hammered for five hits and two runs in three innings but picked up his second win.

Torrez became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career while walking two and striking out four. Batterymate Elrod Hendricks drove in two runs with singles in the second and eighth innings. Torrez, 20-8, yielded singles to Bill Sharp in the third and Darrell Porter in the fifth.

Royals 2 A's 1
George Brett extended his hitting streak to 12 games with a double that drove in the winning run for the Royals in the sixth inning. The A's now lead the AL West by seven games with each team having seven games left to play. Dennis Leonard pitched a seven-hitter for 8 2/3 innings for his 14th win while Dick Bosman was the loser.

Angels 5 Twins 2

Lee Stanton had three singles and a double and drove in three runs to help the Angels' Ed Figueroa win his 10th game. Figueroa went six innings with Tom Brewer finishing up while Dave Goltz suffered his 14th loss for the Twins.

Rangers 8 White Sox 2
Jeff Burroughs, Dave Nelson, Mike Hargrove and Jim Fregosi hit homers as Gaylor Perry evened his record at 17-17 for the Rangers. Perry had a shutout until the ninth when the White Sox scored their runs. Wilbur Wood suffered his 20th loss against 15 wins and tied a club record for losing 20 games in each of two seasons.

Philadelphia Running Out of Time

By United Press International
The Philadelphia Phillies find themselves running out of one of man's most precious commodities—time.

The Phillies managed to hold on to their faint hope of winning the National League East title for at least another day with a 4-2 victory Sunday over the New York Mets. But despite the victory, Philadelphia moved one step closer to elimination as the frontrunning Pittsburgh Pirates scored a 5-3 victory over the St.

Louis Cardinals. The victory reduced the Pirates' magic number to two as both clubs head into the final week of the season.

Philadelphia, winner of nine of its last 13 contests, invades Pittsburgh tonight for a final showdown but only a miracle can save the Phillies from another "wait until next year" campaign. Philadelphia trails Pittsburgh by six games with only seven games left to play. The Pirates, meanwhile are anxious awaiting the arrival of their cross-state rivals. Not exactly with open arms, but more likely with the same hostile batters that have been used to batter opposition pitching all season long.

"It's appropriate we clinch the title Monday night when we play the Phillies," said Pirate outfielder Al Oliver. "That's the team that has been chasing us most of the season."

Dick Allen's two-run double keyed a three-run fourth inning that helped the Phillies to victory. Allen's double off Met loser Jon Matlack, 16-12, followed singles by Larry Bowa and Greg Luzinski. After Allen was thrown out at the plate on Jerry Martin's single, Mike Anderson doubled in the final run of the inning.

In other games San Francisco edged San Diego 2-1, Cincinnati blanked Atlanta 3-0, Houston whipped Los Angeles 4-1, and Montreal nipped Chicago 5-4.

In the American League Boston topped Detroit 6-5, Baltimore blanked Milwaukee 3-0, Texas ripped Chicago 8-2, Kansas City edged Oakland 2-1, Cleveland beat New York 3-2 before losing 11-5 and California defeated Minnesota 5-2.

Pirates 5, Cards 3
Oliver's run-scoring single capped a four-run eighth inning that gave Pittsburgh, winner of the NL East crown four of the past five seasons, its victory over St. Louis. The Pirates trailed 3-1 in the eighth when Manny Sanguillen singled, pinch-hitter Bob Robertson walked and Willie Randolph, batting for winning pitcher Jerry Reuss, drilled an RBI

Two Hospital Deaths May Have Been Murder

By Mrs. Wilber Beck
Julie Kysar was honored by her mother, Mrs. Dewey Kysar, and aunts, Mrs. Earl Williams and Mrs. George Martin, on her fifth birthday in Mrs. William's home in Wheeler, Sunday with a birthday dinner. Celebrating with Julie were her brothers, Shan and Jason, Dewey Kysar, Mr. and Mrs. Jap Bailey, Mrs. Bert Kysar, Earl Williams, George Martin and Larica and Lance Tracy.
Mrs. Mary Ruth (W.W.) Morris was honored by her friends Saturday evening in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church with a salad supper. Mrs. Morris retired from the post office in Mobeetie on Aug. 1. Twenty-three years ago she began working as a part time clerk when the late R.J. Tyson was postmaster and was appointed to the office of post mistress in 1967 at the death of Mr. Tyson. Mrs. Morris received several beautiful gifts, one of which was a money tree. Lester Leonard was master of ceremonies for the affair.

When Al Schutzenhofer took his 3-year-old grandson to a local hospital for treatment of a small head gash last October, he thought there was nothing to worry about.
But Brian Schutzenhofer died shortly after he was injected with what appeared to be a local anesthetic.
Three Illinois law enforcement agencies now are investigating the possibility that Brian and 21-year-old James D. Watson, who died under similarly mysterious circumstances, may have been murdered.
Although officials at Marion Memorial Hospital in this Southern Illinois town became suspicious of the two deaths several weeks after they occurred, they conducted a private investigation for several months before turning the matter over to Williamson County State's Attorney Robert Howerton in February.
It wasn't until last Friday that Howerton told the Schutzenhofers and the Watsons the deaths might be homicides. "They were not informed earlier because of the possibility of filing a civil law suit," Howerton said. "I felt I could best protect the criminal case, which is my first duty, by proceeding as I did."

"It was one of the hardest decisions I've ever had to make," he said, "but now there are suspects in the case."
Howerton and the FBI agree there is no connection between the Marion deaths and those of patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor, Mich.
Brian Schutzenhofer was listening to a ballgame with his grandfather in a truck last October when he leaned against the door and fell out, cutting his head on the gravel.
Schutzenhofer and his daughter, Karen, took Brian to the emergency room at Marion Memorial, where he was given a local anesthetic prior to treatment of the 1 1/2-inch gash.
"It stopped his breathing immediately," Schutzenhofer said. "They gave him two or three shots thinking it was local anesthetic, but as it turned out it was adulterated with a muscle relaxant, and with that large a dose it meant certain death for a 3-year-old."

Watson entered the emergency room the same month with leg cuts sustained in an auto accident. But then he suffered two heart attacks, was transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis and died two weeks later.

Hurricane Eloise Shifts Toward US

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tropical storm Eloise's sudden shift toward the United States prompted authorities along the Gulf Coast to accelerate emergency preparations for possible storm duty.
The National Hurricane Center in Miami warned late Sunday Eloise was picking up speed and power and hurricane warnings may be posted today.
The storm was located about 400 miles south of New Orleans late Sunday, near latitude 24 north, longitude 89.2 west. The storm was on a north-northwest course at 12 m.p.h.
The New Orleans Levee board, which builds and maintains the flood protection system encircling New Orleans, moved into a second stage alert Sunday.
Emergency equipment was unpacked and inspected, amphibious vehicles were readied and floodwall openings were cleared of debris which could obstruct the installation of steel gates.

The Texas Emergency Operating Center in Austin said it was still too early to begin emergency procedures.
"If the weather service notifies us that it's going to hit the Texas coast, then we can activate the emergency operating center," said Bill Banks, a center official.
"It really depends on the winds," he said. "We generally have 12 hours notice, sometimes 24."
Oil company officials also charted the storm's progress and strength as it aimed toward the busy offshore oil and gas fields off the Gulf Coast.
"I believe it's going to pose a problem for all of us," said a spokesman for Shell Oil Co., the largest operator in the Gulf offshore region. "But we have made no attempts as of now to move personnel or equipment or to shut down equipment in the Gulf."

Police Pot Purloined
CODY, Wyo. (UPI) — Police Chief Al Vanderpool isn't happy about thieves swiping two three-foot-tall marijuana plants from his department, but he grudgingly said Saturday he respected their strategy.
"A pretty clever caper," the chief said. "It showed ingenuity."
Thieves pried open a window to get at the plants, which were used for drug workshop demonstrations. Officers reporting for work the next morning found the plants cut off at the base.
"They used diversionary tactics," Vanderpool said Saturday. "Someone came in and asked the night dispatcher to use the telephone, while an accomplice took the plants off the window sill."

The thieves weren't getting any bargain though. Vanderpool said the wilted plants were going to be thrown out anyway.
"One of the deputies sprayed them with insecticide the other day and just about killed them," he said. "They were a little on the sick side and not very good anymore for demonstration purposes. I don't know about smokin."
"We suspect everyone who walked into the office last week grinning from ear to ear asking what happened to our pot plants," the chief said.

SHRIVER JOINS RACE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — R. Sargent Shriver became the latest Democrat to announce his candidacy for the party nomination, saying he will "claim the legacy" of his late brother-in-law, John F. Kennedy.
Shriver, the original director of the Peace Corps, said Saturday the nation is looking for a leader to provide "honest and truthful leadership that summoned the best in us, as we remember John Kennedy once did. His legacy awaits the leader who can claim it. I intend to claim that legacy."
Shriver told a crowd of about 800 he has the support of all his in-laws, except Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who has promised to remain neutral in the scramble for the nomination. Shriver is married to Kennedy's sister Eunice.
CLEANING LABELS HIT

Summary of World News

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over-cautious cleaning instructions on garment labels are causing Americans to spend unnecessary money on dry-cleaning, according to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.
Calling for a Federal Trade Commission investigation of the practice, Magnuson said it is common for manufacturers to label clothing "dry clean only" when a less expensive method will suffice.
EGYPT'S VIEW
CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptian Premier Marmouh Salem said Sunday the Soviet Union should recognize Egypt's independence in its dealings with world powers.
"We are determined to maintain our neutrality and freedom of will as well as our friendship with the Soviet Union within these limits," he told trade union leaders.
Salem said the interim peace agreement between Egypt and Israel was a defeat for the Jewish state, and said Egypt is still at war with Israel.

FORD NO 'PUSHOVER'

Churchbound Auto In Fatal Accident
TUCUMCARI, N.M. (UPI) — A car loaded with church members on their way to a workshop swerved across a highway centerline and crashed headon into an oncoming auto Sunday, killing six persons and injuring three others.
State police said the vehicles had to be pulled apart by a wrecker following the crash, which occurred during a light rain on a two-lane stretch of U.S. 66 about five miles east of Tucumcari. There were no skid marks to indicate either driver had time to react before the accident.
Two men and two women in the eastbound auto carrying the church group were killed as were an elderly couple identified as Russell E. White, 64, and wife Evelyn Marie, 61, of Urbana, Ill., in the other auto.
The four who died in the first car were Deonne B. Gibbs, 22, of Aberdeen, S.D.; Genji Sato, age unknown, Santa Fe, N.M.;

Christi Corriz, 26, also of Santa Fe, and James Michael Welsh, 19, Houston.
The survivors were the White's son, Larry, 23, also of Urbana, and two men in the other car—William Bolton, 23, Boulder, Colorado, the driver, and Alec H. Stroll, 24, of Bethel, Ohio. They were all in serious condition at Trigg Memorial Hospital.
At Boulder, Colo., the assistant director of the Unification Center, Church said Bolton, Welsh, Stroll and Miss Gibbs were "serving in a missionary capacity" with the nondenominational religious group. The church official, Kathy Rettig, said the four had left Boulder Saturday and picked up Sato and Miss Corriz at a similar church center in Santa Fe. They were en route to Noble, Okla., for a church workshop at the time of the accident, the woman said.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, SEPT. 23
Your birthday today: The autumnal equinox comes at 11:55 a.m. EDT. Those born earlier have the Sun in Virgo; those born later, in Libra. For all of today's natives, this year has a deja vu quality, the feeling of working ahead of yourself yet being able to review your progress. This results in far better productivity than usual. Both Virgoans and Librans are good at classifying natural phenomena.
Aries [March 21-April 19]: You'll be doing well if you just unsnarled yesterday's tangles. It's a bit premature to launch major enterprises. Reveal your true feelings this evening.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Clear out half-finished projects before you jump into new ventures. Conventional procedures in the handling of money are the most effective.
Gemini [May 21-June 20]: There's no reward in trying to rewrite history. Calm down long enough to focus your attention on benefits you have received. Get your plans set up for the future.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You have little personal initiative and no need for social contact. Put in a successful day improving yourself and your position. Add to savings.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Once over lightly is sufficient for your current promotional effort. Don't force issues or make drastic changes. If an error or discrepancy shows up, investigate it.
Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Today you are released from pressures and are free to develop work along sensible lines. Get it right the first time. Avoid extremes and self-indulgence.
Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Associates hinder progress. Questions about trivia indicate much unspoken resistance. Stick to basic decisions while adjusting temporary details.
Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Accept comment in the spirit in which it's offered. Revise your approaches to allow for all viewpoints. Joint finances are up for accounting.
Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You have a minimum of interference in your job. Take advantage of passing, coincidental circumstances. You have to turn most of the wheels; do so without complaining.
Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Fill in details of important plans. Enterprises designed to meet changing conditions must be set in motion this week or put off for several weeks. Spring decisions tomorrow.
Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Valuable agreements come about almost casually but won't last long. Work on home repairs, but don't buy new fixtures or appliances. Unexpected news sets off a debate.
Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Some of your work has crucial aspects; concentrate on them. You can get cooperation by posing the proper questions and offering suitable answers.
