

Individuals have lost purchasing power as inflation has pushed them into higher tax brackets and businesses have been taxed on amounts which were not real profits but rather represented costs of recovering the real value of their capital used in production. — William Felner, Wall Street Journal

Genesis House—a Home When a Home Is Needed

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A 17-year-old girl desperately needed a place to live.

The Rev. Marty Hager, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pampa, called Lois Still.

"Do you realize that I live in a 24-foot travel trailer?" she asked.

"That's better than the drunk tank at city jail."

Mrs. Still accepted the challenge. The girl had encountered problems with law officers since she was 13 years old.

Four hours later, Rev. Hager found a second girl whose parents had abandoned her. She had a long history of drug abuse. He took her to Mrs. Still "for temporary safekeeping."

This was the beginning of Genesis House, 321 Starkweather. The day was June 6, 1971.

The travel trailer was entirely too small for three persons, she said, so she took her own checkbook and found a one-bedroom upstairs apartment. In less than two weeks she had five girls in her care.

Genesis House today is one of 10 agencies included in United Way allocations. The Genesis House allocated for this year is $11,532. It is known as the first home of its kind in Texas. Ninety girls have lived within its walls.

Some referrals have been made from the Suicide Prevention - Crisis Intervention hotline. Mrs. Still will never forget the girl who had been on a "speed" run for three years when she pounded on the door screaming for help.

As the referrals increased and the need for such a facility was apparent, the First Presbyterian Church of Pampa agreed to "underwrite the finances" for one year, beginning in August 1971.

The home was moved to a three-bedroom house on Faulkner.

In January 1972 Genesis House became a community project and the board of directors purchased the five-bedroom home at 321 N. Starkweather — the present home.

Twelve months later the home was licensed by the state and Mrs. Still qualified for a state administrator's license.

Genesis has facilities for seven emotionally abandoned girls.

Ages usually range from 13 to 21.

Carol Simmons, assistant administrator, said it a great reward to see the girls "grow up," become emotionally stable, and find happiness.

Most of the young women consider Genesis House their home and they return to tell their stories — many are married and have children of their own.

The girls are cared for in an atmosphere as close to that of a family home as possible.

"It is a Christian home and the girl and her houseparent, Imogene Miller, gather round the dining table each evening for dinner.

As Mrs. Simons told the story of Genesis House, a teenager ran through the immaculately clean home crying. "She cut my hair too short."

A friend of Mrs. Simons had cut her hair. The staff and another girl ran to offer help.

"Oh, it is cute," responded the other girl. Mrs. Miller suggested she shampoo her hair, and then see how it looked.

"You'll like it," she said.

Tears quickly changed to smiles and the girl hurried off.

Genesis House for Boys is scheduled to open Nov. 1 in the original Holy Souls Rectory, donated by St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church. The rectory is being renovated and officials hold a waiting list of boys. House parents will be Clay and Mable Crossland.

Basically, the goals of Genesis House are designed to teach its residents to cope with day to day situations.

The results are not always known immediately — but those who work find each day rewarding.

Volunteers are needed now to work on the remodeling of the home for boys.

The Genesis House board of directors is headed by W.A. Morgan, chairman. Other officers include Emmett Saltzman, vice chairman, Don Losher, treasurer, and Helen Hall, secretary.

Other members of the board are Nadine Arney, Elvis Duck, Jean Urbanczyk, Shirley Boddy, Reid Echols, Jerry Wilson, Dorothy Neslage and Buc Pershall.

Moore Was FBI Informant

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A former FBI informant turned radical, checked by the Secret Service as a potential assassin only 24 hours earlier, fired a shot at President Ford Monday. A quick-thinking ex-Marine grabbed her gun hand and the chief executive escaped unharmed.

Police plunged into the crowd outside the St. Francis Hotel and arrested Sara Jane Moore, 45, who was dressed in men's clothes. It was the second attempt on Ford's life in California in 17 days.

Miss Moore later told Secret Service agents during an interrogation session she would have killed Ford "if I had my 44 with me." The reference was to a gun police took from her Sunday when she was picked up on an illegal weapons charge but was released because the pistol wasn't loaded.

"I would have caught him," she said and demonstrated the manner in which she took aim from about 35 feet, placing her left hand on her right wrist.

The weapon used Monday was a .38-caliber revolver, wrested from Miss Moore by ex-Marine Oliver Sipple, 33, a policeman and a Secret Service agent.

Sipple, disabled by shell fragments in Vietnam, said he was standing in the crowd outside the hotel when he saw the chrome revolver.

"I saw it pointed out there and I grabbed for it. I grabbed for the arm to pull it down. I lunged and grabbed the woman's arm and the gun went off."

Patrolman Timothy Hettrich joined the battle and grabbed the cylinder of the gun so she couldn't fire another round.

"I turned the gun towards her thumb," he said. "I twisted it towards her body."

Then a Secret Service agent grabbed the weapon and Miss Moore was led away.

At no time during the interrogation that followed did the suspect indicate why she wanted to kill Ford.

The single shot exploded from across the street as Ford stepped from the hotel to a waiting limousine.

The startled President buckled as two Secret Service agents shoved him to the sidewalk beside the car.

"Let's get him in," an agent shouted, and yanked open the door.

The agents pushed Ford into the car and tumbled atop him, pushing his head below the window.

"Let's get out of here," the agent screamed, and the car leaped from the curb toward the airport.

The bullet ricocheted among the crowd of 3,000 persons outside the hotel and hit a cab driver in the groin, injuring him slightly.

Miss Moore was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff on a charge of attempting to kill the President. Bail was set at $500,000.

U.S. Attorney James Brown asked Woodruff for permission to send Miss Moore to the federal medical facility in Springfield, Mo., for a psychiatric evaluation.

Further arguments on the motion were scheduled today during a bail reduction hearing.

It was the second attempt in 17 days on the President's life. In Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, 26, a member of the Charles Manson sex-and-drug cult, allegedly pointed a pistol at Ford, but she was subdued by a Secret Service agent. The gun did not go off.

The gray-haired Miss Moore was picked up by police on an illegal handgun charge Sunday. They could not hold her because the gun was not loaded — even though there were 13 bullets in her purse and 100 in her car.

Secret Service agents at the time questioned Miss Moore but — according to an official Secret Service statement — "We assessed that she was not of sufficient protective interest to warrant surveillance during the President's visit."

The shooting occurred at 3:30 p.m. Ford was whisked away to the San Francisco airport.

arriving at Air Force One 17 minutes later.

Arriving at the White House later, the President said the incident would not deter him from taking his presidency to the people.

"If we cannot have that opportunity of talking with one another, something has gone wrong in our society," he said.

"Under no circumstance will I, and I hope no others, capitulate to those that want to undercut what's all good in America."

Betty Ford, who was in Monterey, Calif., at the time of the attack, did not learn of it until she arrived at the airport to accompany her husband.

"Thank God she was a poor shot," she said.

Police said Miss Moore had bought the pistol earlier in the day. They said they were investigating to determine the seller. Browning told newsmen he did not believe Miss Moore had any accomplices.

The FBI said that Miss Moore was a paid informant from June 1974 to June 1975 and that she was terminated "due to her public disclosures that she had been furnishing information to the FBI."

Sources said she had a 9-year-old son, Frederick.

At her arraignment the magistrate asked if she had funds to hire an attorney.

"I don't know. I don't know," she said.

Policeman Tim Hettrich was at the hotel and gave this account:

"I was five or seven feet away from the suspect. I looked to my left and saw her raise her arm holding the gun, and I saw her fire a round. Then I saw Sipple's hand reach out and push her hand down. I grabbed the cylinder of the gun, took it away."

Commission Approves Rate Hikes, New Budget

By TEX DEWEESSE
Pampa News Staff

Pampa city commissioners made final today a 10 per cent increase in salary for all city employees, hiked city utility rates effective Oct. 1, adopted the city budget for fiscal 1975-76 and upped the city tax rate from $1.90 to $1.95.

The salary increase will affect approximately 200 city workers and will become real when they receive their first semi-monthly paychecks in October.

Ordinances finalizing the city budget of $3,031,954 for the fiscal year and the $1.95 tax rate to balance it were unanimously approved and second and final reading.

City Manager Mack Wofford explained $1.18 of the tax per $100 assessed property valuation is for operating expenses and 77 cents for payment on general obligation bonds.

The 1975-76 budget is $294,000, or 10.7 per cent higher than the current year's budget. The higher budget, Wofford said, is taken up with salary increases, additional benefits under the Municipal Retirement System, increased energy costs and the climbing prices of all equipment, supplies and materials used by the city. No new services were added and no additional workers hired.

Utility rates for city services, which will be felt in first billings in October, will include a 20-cent increase in the minimum water rate from $4.30 to $4.50 a month for the first 3,000 gallons of water, an 80-cent per month increase in sanitary sewer costs from $2 to $2.80, and the biggest increase — setting the residential garbage and trash collection fee at $4.20 a month, up $1.20 from the current $3 monthly fee.

Commercial rates for sanitation and sewer services will be increased approximately 25 per cent.

In other business, Commissioners granted permission to the Gray County Bicentennial Committee and the High School Tru-Teens Club to paint city fire hydrants in the image of characters of 200 years ago in connection with Pampa's Bicentennial observance.

Mrs. Fred Thompson, county bicentennial chairman, and Erin O'Connor of the Tru-Teens, appeared and explained their plans for the project.

Following a public hearing on a proposed zoning change from retail to commercial on N. Hobart between Francis and Cook streets, commissioners instructed the city attorney to prepare the necessary legislation.

Changes in a contract with Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Lubbock consultant engineers on the city's sewage treatment plant project, were approved to have the engineering firm make their records available to the Environmental Protection Agency under terms of the federal aid construction grant for the plant.

Six bids for the leasing of 90 acres of city land adjacent to the waste water treatment plant were opened and referred to the city staff for study and a report at the next regular council meeting.

Oct. 14 was set as the date to receive bids for repairing and repainting the city water tower in the North Crest sub-division.

Oct. 24 at 1:30 p.m. was set as the date to receive bids for the construction of Pampa's new waste water treatment plant.

Commissioners approved a classification and compensation plan for city employees during fiscal 1975-76 as set forth under the new city budget.

Transfer of the Pampa taxicab franchise from Tommie Nichols to Roy Walls was approved.

Walls, a former Pampa who has been operating a taxicab service in Lawton, Okla., for the past 10 years, has set up his cab headquarters at 938 E. Frederic.

Man Admits Killing Desegregation Planner

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — The man accused of the shooting death last Friday of an Ohio State University desegregation expert has admitted shooting at 25 to 30 black persons during a four-year period, killing two, according to an affidavit filed by police.

Neal Bradley Long, 48, also has admitted shooting Charles A. Glatt, Dayton's school desegregation planner, last Friday, the affidavit said.

The U.S. attorney's office said evidence linking Long to the Glatt murder was to be presented to a federal grand jury today.

Officials said they would ask the court to send Long to a Springfield, Mo., federal medical facility for a 90-day psychiatric examination to determine if he was sane at the time of the shootings and if he is competent to stand trial.

The affidavit reporting the alleged four-year span of killings was filed in municipal court as part of a police request for a warrant to search Long's apartment home following the Glatt murder, the Dayton Journal Herald reported today.

Police said Long told detectives details of two shootings at particular locations in Dayton. Officers said two men were killed at those spots within 15 minutes last July 15 by a man firing a shotgun from an auto.

At least four other persons have been killed and 12 persons wounded in sniper attacks in the city during the past four years, according to police.

Dayton Municipal Court Judge Jack D. Duncan issued a search warrant for a search of Long's apartment Friday night. According to an inventory list filed with the court, police recovered a 12-gauge shotgun, a .22-caliber pistol, and a quantity of ammunition.

Glatt was killed while working on school desegregation plans for city schools in his federal building office.

Long, a service station worker who was discharged from the Dayton Mental Health clinic in June, 1968, was quoted as having said "God is making me do this" before firing six shots at Glatt from point blank range.

Dr. Robert Moronel, clinical director at the health clinic, said Long was discharged after being treated for a "split from reality."

Moronel said Long believed he was "hearing the voice of God" as far back as 1963.

Kennedy Backs Brothers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says he believes "to a moral certainty" that neither of his brothers — President John F. Kennedy or Sen. Robert F. Kennedy — ever tolerated a policy of assassination of foreign leaders.

Kennedy made the statement to reporters after testifying Monday before the Senate Intelligence Committee.

The committee today turns its attention to the gathering of intelligence on domestic dissidents by the Nixon administration. It called former White House aide Thomas Charles Huston, who wrote a 1970 White House memorandum urging a policy of illegal entries to get such intelligence. The memo was published in 1974 during the Watergate investigations.

Kennedy told the committee he also was satisfied with the Warren Commission's finding that Lee Harvey Oswald killed President Kennedy acting alone.

Chili Aficionados Fight for Texas

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas chili aficionados are proud of their state's reputation for the fiery concoction. Right now, their tempers are as hot as their beloved red peppers because of an attempt to move the World Series for Chili Cooks from West Texas to a California ghost town.

Texans claim the Ninth Annual World Cookoff will be held Nov. 1 in the southwest Texas ghost town of Terlingua.

But during the weekend, C.V. Wood of Los Angeles announced the world series would be held at a California ghost town. Wood in past years has entered the Terlingua competition, usually bringing some complicated promotional gimmick with him, and last year he was chief judge.

Frank X. Tolbert of Dallas, director and cofounder of the chili cookoff, was incensed at Wood's announcement. "The canon that the Ninth Annual World Series for Chili Cooks has been moved from Terlingua, Tex., to the California desert is a lie started by a bunch of soreheads who had rather tell a lie on credit than tell the truth for cash," Tolbert said.

Alegani Jani Schofield of Stonewall, Tex., last year's world champion, said the Californians tried to lure her to the West Coast tournament, but failed.

"I will be at Terlingua on Nov. 1 to defend my title," she said. Tolbert said legal action might be taken if Wood persists in his promotion of the California tournament.

The cooks were preparing for the cookoff during the weekend, with the state of Texas and the Air Force selecting entrants in contests at San Marcos and San Angelo, Tex.

In San Marcos, 40,000 persons watched Encarnacion "Chon" Davila of Poteet beat 135 cooks for first place with chili brewed from his mother's ingredients.

"My grandmother called it 'no le hace' makes no difference chili, for it will come out well for anyone who follows the recipe carefully," he said.

Airman Steve Williams of Fulton, N.Y., and his helper, Airman George Slavick of Goodfellow Air Force Base, won the Air Force competition.

Hurricane Roars into Florida

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Hurricane Eloise roared ashore on the Florida coast between Fort Walton Beach and Panama City today with crushing tides and 130

m.p.h. winds, unroofing buildings, bringing down trees and power poles and creating several tornadoes.

More than 100,000 persons fled inland to escape the fury of the storm which earlier claimed 42 lives in a rampage that carried it across Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and eastern Cuba.

A Point Clear, Ala., man was electrocuted trying to get his boat into a metal shed in advance of the storm, but there were no other immediate reports of deaths or injuries as Eloise made its landfall.

By 10 a.m. EDT the storm had moved across the coast and was speeding inland in Alabama at about 20 m.p.h. At that hour, the National Hurricane Center in Miami reported the storm was centered at 31° 0 north, 82.2 west, or about 45 miles southwest of Dothan, Ala.

Eloise continued to generate 100 m.p.h. sustained winds as it moved into Alabama, but forecasters said it would rapidly lose its punch as it moved over land.

Flood warnings were issued for parts of Alabama, Florida and Georgia and forecasters warned that 5 to 10 inches of rain would fall in some areas.

"Eloise is a very dangerous hurricane," the hurricane center warned, noting that on a scale of one-to-five, Eloise was a category three storm.

Around 100,000 persons had evacuated Gulf coast residences from Louisiana to Florida in advance of the hurricane Monday, and another 10,000 persons left Panama City beaches this morning.

Canadian Woman, Employer Differ on Roughneck Job

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A 24-year-old Canadian woman said today she hired out as a roughneck on a drilling rig, but was relieved of her duties after two days due to lack of facilities including a separate "dog house" (dressing room) and rest room.

Marlene Williams, 24, said she is requesting severance pay to obtain enough money to return to California.

Paul King, owner of King Drilling Co., said he was out of town at the time she was hired. However, he said he was told that she quit "because it was too dirty and too hard for her."

"I ain't gonna go along with severance pay. She hired out, but she quit," he emphasized.

Ms. Williams said she came to Canadian a short time ago to get married.

"Things didn't work out, so I'm stuck with no money — broke!"

She explained that one of the company men told her that it would cost $500 to build required facilities for a woman to work.

"And they let me go," she added. She said she was earning $4 per hour and with overtime, was scheduled to earn $300 weekly — the most money she had ever earned for her work.

"I want to try to keep the job," she said.

"I'm not a woman's libber. I'm a firm believer in male chauvinism — the man can pay for everything. I need to make a living."

Ms. Williams said she is five feet four inches tall and weighs 135 pounds with brown hair and brown eyes. And, "I'm Italian," she said. "They are old fashioned out on the rig," she commented. "They don't think a woman should get dirty."

She said one man told her if she were his wife he would kick her and send her home.

"I took his place," she said.

Asked if she had sought help from any government agency, Ms. Williams said she had not because she wanted to give the company an opportunity to make up its mind what it would do in regard to severance pay.

She explained that she had asked about unemployment benefits, but was told it would take two or three weeks before she could receive a check.

"I can't wait," she said. "I'm broke."

PROBLEMS, SOLUTIONS ARE LOCAL

U.S. can't save cities

There is much poetic justice in the fact that New York City officials had to borrow $100 million from a union's pension fund to avoid defaulting on its debts recently. Not the least of the reasons that New York is in such dire financial straits is because of its generous pension plans — which consume some 14 per cent of its revenues.

Equally poetic is the growing concern of the city's leading union officials that there is no way out for the "Big Apple" except to cut back on jobs and salaries and the collective bargaining process which now is being diluted among the city, the Municipal Assistance Corporation and the state. The militancy of the labor unions in insisting on unrealistic pay is the prime cause of New York's troubles.

That is about all of the satisfaction that anyone outside of New York can express about that floundering city's affairs. The handwriting is on the wall for New York City. The resolution of each crisis brings a larger crisis because the nation's largest city has done little more than pay lip service to its basic problems of municipal extravagance, financed by robbing Peter to pay Paul. Until it does face reality, New York will continue to be the problem of all citizens in the United States of America. Each of us already may be touched to one degree or another by the problems of New York whether we are aware of it or not.

The purchasers of securities are apprehensive, individual, corporate and institutional. The Federal Reserve Board, which controls the banks in which we have our savings is planning to divert some of its resources to assist New York banks if the city defaults on its obligations. The interest costs of bonds sold by cities to pay for streets, parks and other facilities has risen substantially. Public confidence in government has eroded another notch. Even international financiers are worrying that if the U.S. government becomes involved in New York's problems the result will be more federal deficit spending and uncontrollable inflation.

Regrettable as it is, the cruelest thing that Washington could say to New York's pleas for aid would be yes. That would only prolong the agony and increase its intensity.

Irish violence irrational

More than 50 innocent people left dead or wounded in the explosion of a bomb in the busy lobby of the Hilton Hotel in London have joined the enormous list of victims of the strife in Northern Ireland. How many of these outrages are the British people — and the Irish themselves — going to tolerate?

The recent wave of bombings in England is obviously aimed at forcing the British government to drop its efforts to work out a political compromise for governing the Ulster provinces. Police believe a break-away faction of the Irish Republican Army is responsible. No matter what group is planting these bombs, the final responsibility must lie with the IRA and other extremist organizations whose assassination and terrorism is perpetuating the idea that violence and more violence is going to produce justice for Protestants and Catholics in Northern Ireland.

Our best contribution

President Ford and Treasury Secretary William Simon have "respectfully" rejected a plea from delegates to the meeting of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank that the United States help spend the world out of recession.

Simon noted that "too many of our current domestic troubles are rooted in such excesses in the past," cognizant, no doubt, of a U.S. debt hovering at the $500 billion mark and a budget deficit upwards of $60 billion.

And Mr. Ford insisted, correctly, that "a sound, healthy and growing U.S. economy is the best lasting contribution this nation can make to other nations."

Indications that the American economic recovery is progressing satisfactorily already are seared by the stubborn embers of inflation.

A vigorous policy encouraged by sound, stable domestic economic growth should be the U.S. solution to global money problems.

"His first words were: 'Stick 'em up!'..."

FREEDOM THREAT

On the Pathway to Serfdom

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
Should a building trades union with a grievance against a single sub-contractor be permitted to shut down an entire construction project involving perhaps dozens of sub-contractors?

That's a question thoughtful citizens should consider, for it is before the U.S. Senate in the form of the "common situs" picketing bill. If they feel that such a procedure would be an abuse of union power, they have an opportunity to help prevent it by expressing their view to their Senators.

At present, the law does not allow unions to blockade entire building sites by setting up picket lines that no union member would dare cross. The right to work of unaffected contractors and sub-contractors and their employees is protected. But that protection will be stripped away if the union bosses have their way this week.

The common situs picketing bill would legalize an extension of coercive picketing in order to drive non-union workers off their jobs. Basically, the aim of the common situs bill is to destroy independent contractors, and deny work to men who don't choose to join a union.

This power grab on the part of the unions is a serious threat to freedom in America. The arrogant position of the unions is that they own jobs in industry. They demand that no one be hired who hasn't paid tribute to a union or received the blessing of union chieftains.

The existing situation already is a terrible one insofar as freedom is concerned.

The National Right To Work Committee recently pointed out that "the czars of the building trades unions can make compulsory unionism contracts without the permission of even one employee. This legalized conspiracy against workers is called a pre-hire agreement. There isn't even the pretense of an election."

If the common situs bill is passed by the Senate and signed by the President, freedom will have received a severe setback in our country. Hoodlum elements will have received a green light to dominate the construction industry. The building trades unions already are a haven for mobsters and industrial terrorists who use violence against non-union employers and workers.

Passage of the common situs bill would enable the mobsters to hold up independent contractors throughout the nation.

Tragically the American public doesn't seem to realize the extent to which violence is employed against independent, non-union contractors and workers. The public doesn't recognize that the threat of hoodlum tyranny is growing, and that the power of this tyranny is exercised politically.

Americans must deepen their awareness of all manner of threats to freedom. The common situs bill is the immediate threat, but beyond it is the omnibus construction industry bargaining bill, drafted by Secretary of Labor Junop in closed-door consultation with officials of building unions.

This bill resembles Mussolini's Corporate State legislation. It would establish a federal committee to oversee industry-wide, national contract negotiations between unions and contractor organizations. In addition, the omnibus bill would provide authority for binding arbitration on both sides.

This type of legislation is a throw back to the centralizing codes of the National Recovery Administration of 1933 which the U.S. Supreme Court declared unconstitutional. Forced arbitration and guidelines with penalties attached, are incompatible with a free society. The citizens of this country must realize that their treasured liberties can be destroyed in a step by step manner. The establishment of new government authority over industry, which would allow unions to operate virtually as states within a state, is a giant step on the road to serfdom for all Americans.

Ms. Jane Marshall: You are so clever! Has it occurred to you and your paper that McLean is in Gray County? Pampa may treat us like we are not in Gray but the county seems glad to take the county taxes each year — as well as our few paltry votes. The Pampa merchants seem eager to take McLean dollars from the daily shoppers who make the short trip to trade in your town.

Why couldn't you have said "Pampa could sell them (McLean) one (a hospital)?" That would have been more accurate.

BATTIN' AROUND
Farm Profit Necessary
To Keep Up Investment

By C.R. BATTEN
"If we don't want less food and more hunger, we had better find a way of stopping government bureaucrats like Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board from interfering with the producers' ability to market their products," said the Colorado Farm Bureau in a released statement. Burns had told a congressional committee that the sale of wheat to Russia would cause sizeable increases in food prices here at home.

The Farm Bureau has good reason to criticize Burns for his "short sighted, uninformed and incomplete statement." But it got a bit tangled up in its own explanation of why prices rise. "Food costs have been forced up more by unreasonable labor union demands and excessive margins by food handlers and chain stores, rather than the price of farm products," the farmers explained.

Farmers, who have no control of the prices they receive for their products, should know that even in the supermarket, the prices paid for goods are set by the buyer. If the quality, size and everything except price of two loaves of bread on the market shelf are the same, the housewife will pick up the one with the lower price tag.

If this were not true, then the supermarket owners would certainly raise prices in order to gain a wide margin of profit for themselves. For the last time I noticed, the chain stores were earning only 1 per cent or so profit. I don't believe the Farm Bureau would say that is excessive.

If demand increases and supply remains constant, prices will rise. This well known law of economics applies to individual commodities in the market place, and explains why some prices increase, others fall, and others remain stable.

But the Farm Bureau should know, and Burns certainly knows that there is another cause of rising prices, which applies to all products and services all across the economic spectrum. It is called inflation. Since today's raising prices are affecting the entire economy, inflation is the major culprit.

Inflation is an increase in the supply of money in relation to the goods and services that are produced. Who controls the money supply? The Federal Reserve Bank controls the money supply. It is governed by the Federal Reserve Board, and Arthur F. Burns is chairman.

So, the Farm Bureau should have said, in order to hit its target, that Arthur Burns — one of the persons most responsible for inflation and rising costs of food in these United States — was attempting to hide his own responsibility for the rising food costs by blaming them on the export of wheat to Russia.

The Farm Bureau got back on the track again when it explained that "Low profitability, more than feed grain costs has reduced the numbers of finished hogs and finished cattle and thereby has increased meat prices. Increased capital in the agricultural plant is the only way to get an abundant supply of nutritious, reasonably priced food. It does no good to interfere with the free market system."

If we city folks are to bring home a full food basket from the market, there must be investment in land and farm equipment, breeding and feeder stock, and in all the other factors that go into food production. The investments must come from savings. The savings must come from profits.

It is as simple as that — no profits, no savings, no investments, no increased production, and fewer goods reach the market. Then prices will rise because of shortages, in addition to the rises caused by the inflationary activities of Mr. Burns and his team of legal plunderers.

For continued low food prices, we must allow the farmer to profit so he can re-invest some of those profits in future production. The more markets for farm products, the more opportunity to sell them, the more opportunity to profit, the more savings, the more investment, the more food is produced, the more markets can be served, and the better off the American consumer becomes.

Abby Scored for Ann Landers' Slip

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column where someone said gentlemen used to prefer blondes, but today it seems that gentlemen prefer brunettes. And you said, "No, I think most gentlemen still prefer blondes, brunettes and redheads."

Abby, I am greatly disappointed in you. Don't you realize that you have a lot of black readers who don't happen to be blondes, redheads or brunettes?

LOLLIE IN TULSA

DEAR LOLLIE: The letter to which you refer appeared in Ann Landers' column, not mine.

And Lollie, dear, please don't be too hard on my twin sister because I have seen black women with beautiful red and even blonde hair. Of course, it's not their natural color, but then, neither is mine.

DEAR ABBY: I hear so much criticism of young couples who live together first and then have lovely church weddings. I hope you'll be fair and let an opposing point of view be heard.

After living together for five years, Bill and I were married last June. We had 65 guests at a lovely church wedding, followed by a garden reception in the back yard of our home. (We paid for everything ourselves.)

We both wore white to symbolize the purity of our first and only marriage. We waited for five years to be sure that what God had joined together no man could tear asunder. Standing on that altar in the presence of God, our families and friends was a spiritual experience we shall cherish all our lives as the ultimate commitment.

Everyone present said it was the most meaningful and beautiful wedding they had ever attended.

Some would say that Bill and I had lived in "sin." We think it's a greater sin for married couples to live together in a loveless union, while committing adultery with others.

HAPPILY WED

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that I am sure is shared by thousands. In fact, I have been on both sides recently. In the case of overnight guests, who should make the first suggestion that they retire for the night? The host or the other couple?

A MATTER OF ETIQUETTE

DEAR MATTER: It's more a matter of common sense than etiquette. Whether you are the host or the guest, when you're ready to retire, simply say, "Let's call it a night, shall we?"

Church Files To Free Hospitalized Woman

GREAT BEND, Kan. (UPI) — The Unification Church has filed suit to try to free a 23-year-old woman whose parents committed her to a hospital in an attempt to get her away from the religious sect.

Attorney James Lawing, hired by the church to represent Pam Fanshier, Monday filed for a court order to free the follower of all religions into one.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fanshier of Great Bend, won a court order committing their daughter to the Central Kansas Medical Center until an Oct. 1 sanity hearing before Barton County Probate Judge William Laughlin. Laughlin ordered the hospital to report on Miss Fanshier's mental condition.

Lawing said if she is declared mentally ill, the court could order her treatment or placement in a general or psychiatric hospital.

"Pam's parents obviously gave the judge a lot of false information in order to get her committed," Stephen Sell, state director of the Unification Church, said. "It's a civil rights case. We would support anyone who has his civil rights violated."

The hospital commitment is the latest in a series of attempts by the Fanshiers to break their daughters ties with the Unification Church.

Douglas County Legal Aid Society attorney Phil Miller of Lawrence, who once represented Miss Fanshier, said the Fanshiers allegedly abducted their daughter in mid-August from a Lawrence, Kan., restaurant. She told Miller she was driven to Akron, Ohio, where her parents and others tried to convince her she was a Satan worshiper and didn't know what she was doing.

Miller said Miss Fanshier alleges she was then taken to a wooded area in New Jersey for further rehabilitation or deprogramming. The woman said she escaped and went to the Unification Church center in New York City.

Miller said she was taken from his office by her parents and law officers acting under a court order. She was delivered to the hospital and committed pending the court hearing.

'New Constitution Would Save Money'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The proposed state constitution will save Texans money and provide the basis for efficient government, a government studies expert says.

John E. Bebout, former director of the University of Houston Institute for Urban Studies, said some opponents of the constitution have a special interest in its defeat.

"It is designed to enable Texans to obtain the government they need at the least cost," Bebout said Monday of the constitution which will be considered in a special Nov. 4 election.

"Taxpayers can anticipate a much fairer and less burdensome administration of the property tax, while everyone will have constitutional protection against sales taxes on food and medicines," Bebout said.

Bebout has worked with constitutional commissions or conventions in 20 states.

Robert W. Calvert, the former state supreme court chief justice who heads a group backing the proposed constitution, said the Nov. 4 vote may be close.

Kite Glider Kills Priest

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest was killed in a 210 foot drop of his gliding kite, in which he had just set the world kite gliding record, authorities reported today.

The Rev. Greg Hennen, 37, was killed instantly Saturday when the kite from which he was suspended plummeted downward and hit a highway, 300 miles from Sydney.

He had glided for two hours-15 minutes, bettering the world overland endurance record by more than 45 minutes.

Wheat Growers Call Ford Doublecrosser

DENVER (UPI) — The president of the National Association of Wheat Growers says farmers have lost confidence in Ford administration promises because of a "double-cross" in the sale of grain to the Soviet Union.

Don Woodward of Pendleton, Ore., told a NAWG leadership meeting Monday the administration had urged farmers to plant record wheat crops and then denied access to world-wide markets.

"Wheat producers have been double-crossed after being encouraged by the administration to plant fence-to-fence," Woodward said.

"The President promised farmers unrestricted access to world markets, but record crops have been met with government sales restrictions and curtailment of foreign demand," he said. "Because of that, wheat growers have lost all confidence in this administration's promises."

Woodward said his group would meet with top administration officials to demand the moratorium on grain sales to Russia and Eastern Europe be lifted and that the Department of Agriculture be involved in future trade talks concerning agriculture.

Moose Lodge Ceremony

Formal ceremonies at the Loyal Order of Moose, Pampa Lodge 1385, Sunday afternoon honored Robert R. Jacobs as one of 37 pilgrims in the Texas Moose Association.

Twenty-two new candidates for District No. 1 were enrolled in activities by a degree staff including H.M. Howard, state president, E.D. Bobbitt, M.E. Smith and Steve Leinen, all of Amarillo; Al Harvey of Borger and B.W. Lard of Pampa.

Hugh Brinkley, a pilgrim, directed the robing ceremonies.

William L. Noblitt of Pampa was in charge of local arrangements.

Jacobs, an employe of Halliburton Co. in Pampa, became a member of the Pampa Lodge in 1959. He became Legion of Moose in 1963, and officially became a pilgrim in 1975.

Four of the 37 pilgrims in Texas are members of the Pampa Lodge.

The Moose Auxiliary assisted with the programs.

The pilgrim's tab and robe were carried by Billy Wanyne Perdue, 3 1/2 year-old son of Mrs. Barbara Perdue of Pampa and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Noblitt of Pampa, and Mark Courtney, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Courtney of Pampa.

Jacobs introduced his special guests for ceremony who were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jacobs of Wichita, Kan., and Evelyne Terry of Pampa.

An estimated 150 persons attended the ceremonies which are followed by a barbecue.

Local organizations and projects the Pampa Lodge has assisted during its 25 1/2 years of operations include Little League baseball and football local teams, safety programs for elementary students, financial aid for the Pampa Harvester Band to attend festivities in other cities, Christmas packages for servicemen, Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for needy Pampa families, the annual firemen's ball, donations to the annual Jerry Lewis telethon for Muscular Dystrophy, Pampa Senior Citizens who are served each year by Women of the Moose, assistance of Lefors Tornado victims, Webloe and Cub Scout packs, Little League baseball and football banquets.

Other projects include the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Annual Red Stocking Revue, honors to the Pampa High School Harvester Football team and bowling teams and contributions to the Shrines of the Moose Order, Mooseheart, the child city, and Moosehaven, a home for senior citizens.

Ford Still Will Mingle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said today he will still meet the public — and risk another assassination attempt — because he will not cover or capitulate to those few Americans who take the law into their own hands.

"I don't think anyone in the presidency must cover in the face of a small number of people — out of 24 million Americans — who take the law into their own hands," said Ford.

"The American people expect a dialogue between them and their President... and if we can't have that opportunity of talking with one another, seeing one another, shaking hands with one another, something has gone wrong with our society."

The President stood before the grandfather clock in the diplomatic reception room of the White House, holding his wife and facing the reporters.

"Obviously," he said, "Betty and I are delighted to be back here very safely."

It was about 3:30 p.m. California time. Ford had finished four days of politics and speechmaking plus some golf. Last on the schedule was an interview with local television reporters. To one question, he said he opposed registration of guns, but favored control of cheap "Saturday night specials" and long and certain prison sentences for those who use guns in a crime.

"It seems to me that that approach is far, far better than the approach of some people who recommend that gun owners should be registered and that handguns and long guns ought to be registered," he said.

He went down a private elevator, greeted a small group of well-wishers inside the St. Francis Hotel, then went outside toward the waiting black limousine.

"Hi," the President called. "How are you..." He waved above the limousine.

It was almost still.

A single gunshot cracked, slightly to Ford's right.

Almost instantly, White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld and Secret Service agents Ron Pontius and Jack Merchant jammed Ford toward the sidewalk and into the car.

The limousine barreled away. Rumsfeld, Pontius and Merchant kept Ford on the floor of the limousine until the car was out of the area, speeding toward San Francisco International Airport.

Rumsfeld remembered Ford had asked that his wife be informed, but there wasn't time.

Immediately after Ford got to the airport, Mrs. Ford arrived from Monterey. She learned about the attempt in the cabin of Air Force One. "Mrs. Ford received the information calmly," said presidential spokesman Ron Nessen.

Ford arrived at Andrews Air Force Base just before midnight, and boarded a helicopter for the White House.

Paper Demands UT Resignation

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The student newspaper at the University of Texas has demanded the resignation of Dr. Lorene Rogers as school president.

A student group Monday called off a boycott of classes in protest of the regents appointment of Dr. Rogers, 61. It said it had 14,000 signatures on petitions demanding her resignation.

The Daily Texan said in a front page editorial Monday the regents rejected the six nominations of a faculty-student group to select Mrs. Rogers. It said the qualifications of the home economist were not at issue but the manner in which she was selected.

"Such an injustice, such a deliberate act of power mongering, can not go unnoticed or unpunished," the paper said. "However, the only way to right the wrong done the university, since the regents chose Rogers, is to have Rogers resign."

Students Helping Academic Freedom at Texas said it called off a class boycott.

"People did have to get back to classes, that's evident," SHAFT steering committee member Mark Yznaga said.

"The people will go to classes and that'll free them to take time to go to our rallies. I think it's a good strategic move."

"We're changing tactics and I think we're going to be more effective in the future."

Yznaga said an organization of student teaching assistants demanded Mrs. Rogers resign.

Users May Benefit In Narcotics Plants

DALLAS (UPI) — District Attorney Henry Wade says he's sure some guilty drug users will benefit from a review of narcotics cases prompted by reports police may have planted evidence to make an arrest or help win a conviction.

But Wade said Monday it would be worth dismissing the cases to ensure that no suspect was prosecuted because of manufactured evidence.

Wade said his office is reviewing stacks of drug possession cases because of the reports that several officers possibly placed drugs on suspects or mixed narcotics with legal substances found in arrests. He appointed two top assistants to review an investigative report of the police narcotics division.

"Once they have done that, they will go through all of our cases here and dismiss the cases that they feel ought to be dismissed," Wade said.

"We undoubtedly will dismiss some cases where the persons are guilty. But we would rather do that than leave some doubt in the minds of some that they are being tried on incorrect evidence."

Police Chief Donald Byrd disciplined four officers, one resigned and many officers in the narcotics division requested transfers because of the internal investigation and allegations of rigged cases.

Byrd said officer F. T. Young purchased a substance he thought was narcotics and discovered it was legal. He said Young mixed heroin with the substance to help strengthen his case. Byrd suspended Young without pay for 30 days.

"There has been evidence of 'salting drugs,'" Wade said. "One officer admitted mixing the heroin to make his case appear stronger. All of those cases have been dismissed, according to (assistant chief Bob) Pope."

"We plan to dismiss every case in which Young and another officer are the necessary witnesses. We are in the process of trying to find out how many cases are involved. It might be 10 and it might be 50."

"Also, in a narcotics case where a person claims he did not sell the drugs, we will give him a polygraph test and if that verifies what he says, we will dismiss those charges."

Boston Teachers Cripple Busing

By United Press International
Ninety per cent of Boston's teachers went on strike Monday, crippling a court-ordered busing program to desegregate the nation's oldest school system.

Salaries were the main issue in the strike.

The walkout against the 84,000-student school system brought to nearly a half million the number of children affected by teachers' strikes in 10 states.

The busing issue weakened the resolve of some strikers. About 300 black teachers and aides voted Monday night to return to work, saying they agreed with the reasons for the strike but didn't want to further jeopardize the education of black children.

School doors stayed open, but only 17.7 per cent of the students, 15,346, showed up Monday — the worst attendance since busing began last September.

In Wilmington, Del., over 200 striking teachers were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and blocking entrances to the Wilmington Public Building. The teachers have been on strike against the 14,200-student district since Sept. 3.

The largest strike in the nation was in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where Broward County Circuit Court Judge James Minnet Monday warned 4,300 striking teachers they would each be fined $25 a day plus court costs for each day their strike keeps 140,000 students out of the classrooms.

Students returned to classrooms in half a dozen cities and an agreement was reached Monday night ending a strike affecting 14,600 students in Schenectady, N.Y. Other walkouts, however, affected 35,400 New York school students.

Egypt Signs Peace Pact

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Egypt signed the final document of the new Middle East peace pact today. Israel refused to do more than initial the protocol until assured of an American presence in the Sinai Desert.

A U.N. spokesman said Egypt signed the protocol at dawn, leaving Israel's signing as the only step left in negotiations initiated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger last March. Israel would only initial the document implementing the accord, refusing to sign until the U.S. Congress approves a provision to send up to 200 American volunteers to the Sinai Desert.

A U.N. spokesman said Israeli and Egyptian military negotiators agreed Monday night on the final details implementing the military disengagement accord.

The military working group completed its task on Sept. 23nd when full agreement was reached on all items on its agenda," the spokesman said.

The agreement came at the end of 15 hours of nonstop talks between Israeli and Egyptian military groups in Geneva's lakeside Palais des Nations conference hall.

Maj. Gen. Herzl Shafir, a member of the Israeli delegation, carried a sheaf of papers early this morning from the ornate, frescoed conference room at the end of the long round of talks.

"We need four or five hours to get them printed," he told waiting reporters.

The Israeli government agreed Sunday to initial the protocol but refused to sign the document until the U.S. Congress approves a provision to send American volunteers to the Sinai Desert.

The interim peace accord, worked out by Kissinger during his 10th Middle East peace mission, provides for sending up to 200 American civilians to the Sinai to run a string of electronic surveillance stations.

The agreement, signed Sept. 4 in Geneva, provided for the implementation negotiations to wind up Sunday night with the protocol signed the next day.

The peace accord calls for substantial Israeli withdrawals in the Sinai, the expansion of the U.N. buffer zone and the deployment of American technicians between the opposing armies.

The Israelis would abandon the strategic Gidi and Mitla mountain passes as well as the Abu Rudeis oil fields.

Bell Audits Show Improprieties

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. says audits of its operations have uncovered "certain improprieties" in Texas but revealed no illegal payments of corporate funds for political purposes in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas or Oklahoma.

Zane E. Barnes, company president, said Monday the audits were conducted under the supervision of Arthur Young & Co., certified public accountants.

"As I have said many times in recent months, Southwestern Bell does not make illegal political contributions," Barnes said.

"Our audits in Texas uncovered certain improprieties involving an insignificant amount of company money for political purposes, mostly the purchase of tickets for dinners. Restitution by employees has been made."

He said the company regularly conducts audits to check its operation and these audits had uncovered "irregularities in Texas that prompted us to conduct a further investigation of all of our five states."

Barnes noted that investigators, for the Texas Senate subcommittee on consumer affairs reported "that no illegal activities were discovered."

Barnes' statements were in response to a letter to him from John D. deButts, board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which owns Southwestern Bell.

In his letter to Barnes, deButts reported the result of audits of the 23 telephone companies in the Bell System. He said the audits disclosed no evidence of "indirectly applied corporate funds for political purposes" in 21 of the 23 subsidiaries.

DeButts declined to comment on the results of audits of either Southwestern Bell or Southern Bell, the other two subsidiaries, because government investigations of specific allegations against those companies have not been completed.

Board Gives Local Agents Insurance

The Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees voted in an early morning meeting to keep the Pampa Insurance Placement Association for the school workmen's compensation insurance.

The association is composed of about 10 local insurance agents in Pampa and has been handling school insurance for nearly 20 years, according to Lee Fraser, board member.

The estimated cost to the school district will be $18,700 for the year. The insurance covers all school employes.

The school board met at 7 a.m. at Carver Center, 321 W. Albert. The other bidder for the insurance was the Texas Association of School Boards.

Police Confiscated Gun from Moore Earlier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sara Jane Moore was caught by police with a gun in her purse 24 hours before she was seized in an apparent attempt to shoot President Ford.

San Francisco officers police officers confiscated the .44-caliber revolver, gave her a "citation" and let her go.

Sunday night she was questioned by the Secret Service as a "risk" to the President and sent on her way.

Around 3:30 p.m. Monday, a .38-caliber revolver was knocked from her hand outside the St. Francis Hotel. She was charged with the attempted murder of the President of the United States.

Mrs. Moore, 45, a billowy matron, has a 9-year-old son, Frederick. She has flitted around the edges of the radical groups in the San Francisco area for the past few years, although activists were suspicious because she was said to have been an informer for the FBI.

A bookkeeper by training, she was one of the first to volunteer when the $2 million "ransom" program, "People in Need," was set up.

A Ludlow Kramer, coordinator of the project, said she came in on the second day, said she had worked in a number of volunteer projects and "God had sent her to help."

"When she was fired, she was very vocal about it and ranted and raved around the office for about an hour or so," Kramer said.

At her arraignment in federal court Monday night she looked like a middle-aged little lady who might live next door.

She was held on $500,000 bail and ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination.

Charles Anderson was one of the two police officers who picked her up Sunday afternoon.

"We went to the area and staked ourselves out," Anderson said. "The car showed up and James Balovich and I moved up on the vehicle in separate cars. Officer Balovich confronted her... and asked her, 'Do you have a gun in the purse?'"

Anderson said she admitted she did and turned it over. There were also shells in the purse.

"We brought her to the station. We didn't book her because you can't book on that according to our state laws. It's a citation offense. It's a felony if you carry brass knuckles, a billy club, a blackjack, dagger or ice pick — but a gun is a misdemeanor."

Crucial Common Denominator

United Press International
Sara Moore was a child of the Depression years — far removed from the flower-child, hippie cult that nurtured Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme in the 60s.

Their life stories bear little resemblance, except for a crucial common denominator — both are charged with trying to kill the President of the United States.

— Sara Moore, 45, also known as Sara Jane Aalberg, was seized Monday in the attempted shooting of President Ford as he left a San Francisco hotel.

— Eighteen days ago, Miss Fromme, 26, was arrested for pointing a gun at the President as he walked through a crowd in Sacramento, Calif.

Miss Moore, the mother of a 9-year-old child, was born May 20, 1930. She is well known in San Francisco radical circles and was a volunteer worker for the "People in Need" food giveaway program in the 1974 attempt to "ransom" Patty Hearst from her kidnappers.

A Ludlow Kramer, coordinator of the PIN program, said she walked in on the second day of the program, and told him "God had sent her to help."

"She wanted to stay on and run things but we didn't think she was good enough," he said.

Her background, and a tip, led San Francisco police to question her Sunday as a possible threat to the President during his visit. But she was released.

Officers had been told she was carrying a gun.

They confronted her and asked if she had a gun in her purse. She said she did, and handed over a .44-caliber revolver.

One of the arresting officers said she could not be booked under state law for carrying the weapon.

"It's a citation offense," he said. "It's a felony if you carry brass knuckles, a billy club, a blackjack, dagger or ice pick — but a gun is a misdemeanor.

"After citing her, she left. Then I heard that somebody shot at the President and I said, 'I wonder if that's the broad we arrested yesterday?'"

A Secret Service spokesman said the agency also questioned her Sunday, and also let her go.

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme was also known to California authorities, and likewise not considered important enough to detain during a Presidential visit.

She is tiny and red-haired with an impishly childish face, a long police record and a consuming devotion to her role as keeper of the faith of the murderous Charles Manson "family."

Thanks to you it works... FOR ALL OF US.

Hunt Sons Arranged For Employe Wiretaps

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Two sons of the late oil billionaire H.L. Hunt arranged for wiretaps on telephones of Hunt Oil Co. employes to try to prove to their father some of his aides were embezzling up to $30,000 a day, three private investigators testified Monday.

The president of a Houston detective agency said his firm did the wiretapping for W. Herbert and Nelson Bunker Hunt, but also recorded some of the conversations with the Hunt brothers detailing the eavesdropping arrangements.

W.J. Everett, head of the Clyde Wilson and Associates detective agency, testified during the first day of the prosecution's case in the federal wiretap trial of the two Hunt brothers.

Everett, and two other Houston private detectives, Patrick W. McCann and Jon Kelly, were convicted of placing the wiretaps on the telephones of the six Hunt employes.

Everett said his firm was contacted by Herbert Hunt in November, 1969.

"When he first called he identified himself by some common name — like Smith or Jones," said Everett. "He said his company in Dallas had a problem and he needed help."

Everett said Hunt later identified himself and asked Everett to fly to Dallas the next day for a meeting.

Everett said during the Dallas meeting Hunt asked him to tap the telephones of six aides of his father. Everett said he was told the men were stealing as much as $30,000 a day from the Hunt Oil Co., but that H.L. Hunt would not believe it without the recorded telephone conversations as proof.

McCann identified a taped telephone conversation as one he had recorded when Herbert Hunt approved the wiretap plan. "We need to get going as quick as possible," Hunt said on the tape.

The detectives testified after the conversations from the original wiretaps were given to the Hunts they were contacted again in early January and asked to continue eavesdropping on the telephones of three former Hunt employes.

"We were running a little scared then," said Kelly. "We knew what we were doing was against the law."

Following the three private investigators, the government plans to call six more witnesses — three with the Dallas telephone company, two law enforcement officers on hand immediately following the original arrest of Kelly which uncovered the wiretap, and the wife of a close H. L. Hunt associate whose phone was bugged.

Smalltown Girl In Big League Earnings

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you watch television, you can hardly miss her. She comes on the tube as a coed, housewife, young mother, sophisticated model. She is Miss, Ms. or Mrs. America.

Doing commercials, she sells everything from soap to cosmetics to fashion to travel.

Judith Baldwin, of Clovis, N.M., is one of the top money-makers in television commercials. She has "about 15" commercials running currently. And at $5,000 to $10,000 per initial filming of a commercial, plus the residuals on reruns, the smalltown girl is in the big league in earnings.

Success has not gone to her pretty blonde head. When I asked her how others with similar ambition might make it, she gave considerable thought before she answered.

"That's a hard one," she said. "A lot just comes on people's response to you."

"I would say, watch television commercials, know what you look like, honestly. Know what clothes look like, learn whether you can identify with those doing commercials. Look at yourself, see what you like and don't like about you.

"If you feel you've just got to do it, call an agent. Get work of any kind before the camera. Copy the commercials on videotape and play them back. Record your voice and play back. You can't have an accent."

"You have to have an agent. And there are classes around on how to do television commercials. I would say, try to start in your own hometown. A lot of commercials are done locally."

Miss Baldwin started her acting-television career by entering a beauty pageant, the Miss U.S.A., at the urging of friends, New Mexico State Sen. Otis Echols and his wife, Pat. She was runnerup in the contest in the late 1960s.

Friends always have played an important part in her push forward. She was studying at the University of Denver when friends put her in touch with Maxine Anderson, teaching in Colorado Springs the how-to of television commercials.

"I would drive to Colorado Springs for a class each week."

she recalled, "and then go home and study for finals."

She interrupted her college career to try the show business route in Los Angeles. Suddenly, as a runnerup in the pageant, she was in demand.

While in Hollywood, she studied acting, took voice lessons "to get rid of my New Mexico twang", and had bit roles in television series such as "Bewitched" and "Bracken's World."

"Basically, the lessons helped give me incentive and confidence," she said in an interview. "But I felt I'd better finish my education. She reenrolled at the University of Denver and was graduated with a bachelor's degree in fine arts."

In her mind all along, she said, was the idea of working in New York. Three years ago, she arrived in the Big Town, and the model agency of Wilhelmina (Wilhelmina is a former model) took her in and she has not stopped work since. She has, however, switched to the Abrams-Rubaloff Agency, which specializes in television contracts.

Her ability to change her looks — so that those who watch television commercials don't recognize the same face in a number of ads — is one of her major assets. A natural beauty helps obviously.

Miss Baldwin is five feet seven and one-half inches tall, weighs about 125 pounds (and jogs and does calisthenics daily to keep in shape), doesn't smoke or drink, and has a face nearly perfect in bone structure.

She can put her hair up in a bun at the back, put on glasses, and you wouldn't recognize the same girl you've seen in a slinky white evening gown, the ultimate of glamour. Without makeup, she looks like a teen, although she's 29. With hair pulled back in ponytail, "I look like a housewife." With it loose and falling around her face, she's the coed, the "all American girl."

And beneath it all may be the key — she has brains, is a thoughtful young woman who lost her parents in an automobile accident when she was 16 and was reared by her maternal grandparents.

"The one most important thing is to be yourself," said Judith Baldwin. "I believe in self-control of my mind. People get so strung out these days."

Civic Club

Hosts Recent Salad Supper

The Lefors Art & Civic Club began their 1975-76 year recently with a salad supper held at the Methodist Church in Lefors.

Following the supper, a skit was performed by members explaining about federation, club projects and reporting. Mrs. Joe Watson president, reported on the Lefors Art & Civic Club calendars and told persons interested should call 835-2754.

Mrs. Roy Alerson, yearbook chairman, discussed programs for the coming year.

The next club meeting, Oct. 6, will be in the home of Mrs. Bud Cumberland.

Entertainment was presented by Wanetta Hill and the Spirit of '76.

Sheets Offer a Lot Of Decorating Value

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We recently bought an old home that has an enclosed porch along one side. The windows extend up from about chair height on three sides. The old wood floor needs covering and we need to paint. I want to make this a gay and cheery room. We are financially strapped because we've already spent too much on the house so our budget is definitely a consideration. I have bought three old chairs, a sofa and a table in wicker and want to use them on the porch. They are all badly in need of repainting because they are different colors and the paint has rubbed off in places. Please give me some ideas on how to create this room. — R.T.

A. If you can afford it, I would put down plush spring green shag carpeting. Carefully clean and sand all your furniture and enamel it in the same spring green. Cover the cushions for your wicker pieces with cotton and polyester sheeting. You probably could find a gay print with a dazzling floral of spring green, hot pink, blue cornflower and maybe even lavender. You will get a great amount of fabric for your money and the designs of sheets today are almost unlimited. If you wanted curtains in the room you could do some simple cafe curtains in the sheeting for the lower portion of the window and leave the upper portion open to the sun and sky. Or if you need privacy and considerable sun control, try laminating the sheet fabric onto window shades. White walls should give your room a fresh look — especially good if white is the background of your fabric.

Two budget ideas: If carpeting is too costly, you might put down straw matting that comes in squares and can be sewn together. Also in using sheets for upholstery and curtain fabric, you can save by going to shops selling irregular and sometimes make great savings. However, be certain to examine the, seconds carefully so the flaw will not be a problem to you.

Q. Our guest bedroom has a deep green carpeting, a red wool bedspread and deep green shutters at the windows. I have just found a chintz fabric that will tie the room together. It has the forest green background with red fruit, birds and butterflies and touches of pale apricot and pale gold. Please suggest how I might use the fabric for small touches and also what color I should paint the existing white walls. — P.I.R.

A. Why don't you do the walls in the palest gold and this will give a nice warm glow to the room. Use the print on lampshades, a circular table cover, pillows for the bed, a chair seat if you have a chair in the room and even for covering a slim lined Parson's table if that would be handy.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a tip from a widower who had to start cooking for himself after losing a companion of 44 years.

I love breaded pork chops and finally figured out a way to have both sides nice and crisp, and practically greaseless.

I place the breading mixture on a sheet of wax paper, then press the chops into it firmly until no more will adhere. Do both sides this way.

Now, place a wire cake rack in a baking pan and bake away. The grease will be in the bottom of the pan, and both sides will be delightfully brown and crisp.

To facilitate cleaning of the pan, place a piece of aluminum foil in the bottom of the pan.

Gentleman Lew

Your way of cooking pork chops is making my mouth water, Gentleman Lew!

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I thought you might be interested in this little story:

Last year, my Campfire girls made a dunk bag of nylon net (two thicknesses of the net about 15x20, sewed with a drawstring in the top).

These are used when we go camping to put our dishes in after we have washed them. We can hold the bag by the string and dunk the clean dishes in the rinse water while it is still too hot to put our hands in. Then we hang the whole thing on a tree to dry... no wiping.

Planning another camp-out and trying to get them to check their personal equipment, I asked if they still had their dunk bags.

One little girl's comment was, "No, my mother made a 'Heloise' out of mine."

Dear Heloise:

For a long time, I would only take a shower in my own bathroom. But when I went away to school or had to travel and shower in motels, I had to solve the problem of shower heads that spray everywhere — else.

Now, I usually take two washclothes to the shower, one to wrap around the shower head and one to wash with.

If you overlap the washcloth it stays on the showerhead better.

Dear Heloise:

Could you or someone of your readers tell me how to dry green peppers, onions, etc.?

I freeze some, but I'd like to know how to dry them so they would resemble commercial ones.

I would like to be able to crumble the peppers, onions, etc. and put them in jars. Thanks.

Mrs. D. Etling

So would I — especially onions, as a lot of them are grown in my part of the country and are very reasonable when in season.

If any of you sweet gals, or guys, know how to do this, would you take a minute and jot it down on a piece of paper, and send it our way (in care of your paper). We would be ever so grateful.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 24

Your birthday today:

Your work this year initiates long cycles of future progress. You must try to bring yourself forward and can't afford to neglect any phase of personal development. Make spiritual values an important element in decisions. Relationships go in unplanned directions and prove themselves in changing situations. Today's natives are forthright and their intentions are above question.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Ask for endorsement and some sort of subsidy for your ventures from people who count in your specialized field. Entertain for business reasons.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Keep the routines going while you work out ways of improving them. If you think you have earned recognition, present your credentials. Property deals are favored.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Give personal attention to financial details. Bring in advisers, but don't leave the decisions to them. A surge of energy helps you cope with unfamiliar activity.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Talks-bridge gaps in your program and heal rifts between you and others. You find backing in unlikely places. New information is available on old matters.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Restlessness pulls you away from your usual routes onto paths you seldom travel. A successful project can be put together with little effort. Celebration is in order tonight.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Look over your possessions. Find a new use for anything that has outlived its purpose or find a new home for it. Work well done yields an extra reward.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

Without any doubt, the most important trick in the play of the cards is trick one. But there are days when, on any given deal, trick two becomes primary in importance. Such was the case in today's deal, which arose in the Spingold Knockout Team-of-Four Championships, held during the 1975 Summer National Championships in Miami Beach. Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT 'Dbl. Pass Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Sitting West and East, respectively, were Dick Katz and Larry Cohen, two members of the team captained by Dr. Jorge Rosenkranz, of Mexico City. After winning the opening lead with his king of clubs, Katz thought for a few moments — and then led the six of spades. South now thought much longer, and finally decided that West, for his original double, rated to have the ace of spades. So she put up dummy's king. It was a wrong decision, for East had the ace. East returned his remaining club, and West rattled off five more club tricks.

South, called upon to make three discards on West's club leads, tossed away two hearts and the seven of diamonds. After running his clubs, West led a diamond to South's king. South then played a spade. West's queen winning, after which West exited with another diamond to South's ace. Later West won a trick with his heart king, and declarer suffered a three-trick set, for a loss of 500 points.

When the deal was replayed with Dr. Rosenkranz sitting South and Roger Bates in the East seat, South opened the bidding with one club, which West overcalled with one notrump. After North had passed, East bid two spades, which became the final contract.

After opening the diamond ace, Dr. Rosenkranz made the deceptive lead of the seven of diamonds. East now had to guess whether to play dummy's queen (hoping South had the king) or dummy's ten (hoping South had the jack). He guessed wrong by playing the ten. North won with the jack, and returned a diamond to South's king. In time, the defenders made the ace of hearts and two trump tricks, and declarer incurred a one-trick set.

Beck: Rangers Would Have Gone for 2

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Don Beck already had it planned. Perryton was going to fake the kick. Perry Allred would take the snap and throw a screen pass to one of the backs, who would score and give the Rangers a 22-21 victory.

Only thing is, Perryton never got the opportunity to try out the play. Pampa stopped halfback Brad Beck once and quarterback Russ Reagan twice, all from inside the one-yard line, to hold on for a thrilling 21-14 win over the upset-minded Rangers Friday night in Harvester Stadium.

If Perryton had scored to pull within a point, Beck would have ordered his team to go for the two-point conversion — and the win.

"We'd have definitely gone for two," Beck said, "without any hesitation. In fact, we already had it called. We thought we were gonna score. We were gonna run a screen pass — I think it would've had a good chance. They (Harvesters) didn't know if we were gonna go for one or two points. We probably would have faked the kick." Allred, the holder, is a fine passer, according to the Ranger coach. And since the screen is a high-percentage pass and usually good for a few yards, Beck is right — it had an excellent chance of success.

Pampa's defense would have been alert for the fake, said Harvester coach John Welborn.

"I think we'd have alerted our kids to watch for the fake kick," Welborn said. "A coach (Beck) won't usually talk about winning and play the tie."

Welborn agreed the screen might have worked. "I think if everybody rushes, you would have a good chance of completing it. I'd say it would be a pretty good play."

All three dive plays were awfully close. So close, in fact, that there was an air of tenseness and uncertainty filling Harvester Stadium — affecting the fans, the coaches, the players.

The outcome was in doubt for a moment after Reagan's final desperation attempt, until the officials peeled players from the heap and signaled that Pampa had held.

"We felt like we were over twice," Beck said. "We felt like we were over on the dive with the halfback and we felt like we were over on the quarterback sneak the second time. Evidently we were not.

"We'll think about that game for a long time. I replayed it about 15 times that night."

Neither Beck nor Welborn were able to sleep that night.

"I had a pretty hard time winding down," Welborn said. "It's a great game for the fans but pretty tough on the coaches."

A 22-yard pass interference call on defensive back Tony Stafford gave Perryton first down on the five. On the first play from there, Reagan passed four yards to Beck, who was knocked out of bounds. Then came the three plays where the Pampa defense caused followers to remember last year's exceptional defensive unit, which allowed an average of 5.1 points per contest, best among 3-AAAA teams.

The interference call was more controversial than the Perryton's touchdown efforts. Stafford was penalized after trying to pick off a tipped pass. The question was whether or not Stafford touched the Perryton receiver before or after the tip.

"I thought he called after Stafford tipped the ball. If it's called after the tipped ball, it shouldn't have been called. It occurred almost simultaneously," Welborn said.

"We got ourselves in trouble with the bad punt. We considered giving them a safety, then punt it to them to give us better field position. But a touchdown would beat us then."

Phil George's punt with 59 seconds left in the game went only 12 yards because of a dropped snap and a hard rush by Gayland Irwin and Tracy Gibson. That gave Perryton the ball on the Pampa 27 with 52 seconds left. Reagan completed two passes prior to the interference call.

Pampa, in earning its third win of the season without a loss, battled back from a 14-3 halftime deficit with touchdowns by quarterback Garland McPherson on a one-yard plunge and halfback Ricky Moore on a 17-yard jaunt. McPherson's score came at 4:01 in the third quarter, while Moore's happened with 1:34 left in the period.

McPherson's short run finalized a 15-play, 79-yard drive, which consumed the first eight minutes of the second half. That drive was, as far as Beck is concerned, the turning point in the game.

"The thing that hurt us was the third quarter when they made the long drive and scored," Beck said. "That really was the turnaround."

Welborn agreed. "I was really proud of our players for coming back in the second half. If we hadn't scored on that drive, it probably would have fired them up and demoralized us. If we're gonna win it, we probably would have had to score on that immediate series."

The third quarter TD's gave Pampa a 15-14 advantage. Halfback Mike Glover scored on a 10-yard run after he took a pitch from McPherson, who had already gone 14 yards, on the first play of the fourth quarter.

McPherson was Pampa's key to the win, said Beck, who compared the senior quarterback to Chuck Quarles, the Harvester quarterback in two prior seasons.

"I'd say they are very much alike — both of them are extremely fine football players. They're comparable. With the exception of some missed tackles on McPherson, we were well pleased. He is extremely strong for his size (155).

"Pampa has a fine football team. They just did a great job on us. Time was in their favor. When you have only 17 seconds left and you have to get two plays off, it's pretty tough.

"After the game, I told the players they didn't get beat — time ran out on them."

Welborn, also, was pleased with his team's performance for the most part. "I think all of our backs did a good job and our receivers blocked real well. The interior line did a pretty good job. Defensively, I think everybody played well. I don't think one person stood out above the rest. We made a few mistakes."

McPherson was the game's leading rusher with 27 carries for 130 yards. "We hadn't planned on running him quite that much," Welborn said. "When they had the middle stacked, we were bringing our outside people down to the middle, blocking the man that had the quarterback."

The game, said Welborn, was beneficial overall. "I think it really helped our confidence and our morale."

Pampa, with an open date Friday, visits Canyon Oct. 3.

Bucs Win East

United Press International

The Pittsburgh Pirates think the decisive factor in their National League Eastern Division title victory was their pitching. That's right, that much-maligned pitching which was supposed to be their Achilles heel. What's more, Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies tends to agree.

"We have more pitching depth than in other years," said Al Oliver Monday night after the Pirates clinched their fifth title in six years with an 11-3 victory over the Phillies. "After everyone downgraded our staff, pitching, I think, won it for us in the end."

Ozark agreed with Oliver that pitching could be decisive for the Pirates against the Cincinnati Reds in the NL playoffs.

"Pitching could give the Pirates the edge," said Ozark, "although Cincinnati has the edge in defense and speed."

"Give the Phillies credit — they have a great team," said Willie Stargell who was on base five times and drove in two runs in the title-clincher. "But when the Pirates put it all together, we're something else. We weren't about to fold no matter how gloomy it was for us back in August when we lost all those games on the road."

Richie Zisk and Dave Parker each knocked in four runs and Stargell scored four as the Pirates hammered Tom Underwood and six successors for 15 hits. The Pirates took a 4-0 lead with three runs in the fourth and clinched the game with a five-run burst in the eighth.

Bruce Kison went five innings to raise his record to 12-11 for the Pirates while the loss was Underwood's 13th against 14 wins.

Montreal defeated St. Louis 8-5 after a 6-4 loss in 12 innings. Houston beat Cincinnati 5-1 and San Diego topped Los Angeles 6-5 in 11 innings in other NL games. In the American League, it was Boston 6 New York 4, Cleveland 7 Milwaukee 6, Kansas City 2 Texas 1, Minnesota 2 Oakland 1 and California 3 Chicago 0 in 16 innings.

Cardinals 6-5, Expos 4-8 St. Louis won the opener, with Al Hrabosky picking up his 13th win, when Ted Simmons hit a two-run homer in the 12th. Woody Fryman was the loser. Jim Cox drove in three runs and Larry Bittner also had three hits to lead Montreal's 11-hit attack in the second game.

Astros 5, Reds 1 Cesar Cedeno hit a three-run homer and Cliff Johnson a two-run homer to account for all Houston's runs. Joe Niekro went eight innings to win his sixth game for the Astros while 15-game winner Jack Billingham took his 10th loss for the Reds.

Padres 6, Dodgers 5 Hector Torres homered off Dave Sells leading off the 11th inning to give San Diego its victory over Los Angeles. It was the fifth homer for Torres, who entered the game as a pinch-runner in the ninth.

Perryton quarterback Russ Reagan (11) signals "touchdown", although a little prematurely, as his halfback, Brad Beck (not in sight), fights to cross the goal line. Beck was stacked up by Frank Stowers (45) and Pat Bailey (55), among others. Two plays later, Pampa won the contest 21-14 Friday night in Harvester Stadium. (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

Bounce Dolphins Raiders Snap 1st-Game Skid

MIAMI (UPI) — Every summer it seems the Oakland Raiders will win the Super Bowl and every fall, the Raiders lose their regular season opener, rally to win the AFC Western Division and lose in the playoffs.

But Monday night, the Raiders finally broke a string of five opening-game losses by beating the Miami Dolphins 31-21 and the Raiders hope this means there will be some changes when playoff times comes around too.

"It was a good game for us because we've been snakebit in our openers," said Raider Coach John Madden. "I'm glad we got off to a good start."

The big play of the night came on the kickoff after Miami held closed to 24-14 in the fourth quarter on a one-yard burst by Norm Bulaich.

Harold Hart, a 206-pound second-year back from Texas Southern, took the kickoff two yards deep in the end zone and seemed ready to down it.

Then he sprinted straight up the middle of a split Miami special team, veered to the left and raced the 102 yards untouched.

Oakland's other hero was Pete Banaszak, a 10-year veteran from the University of Miami. Replacing Marv Hubbard, injured early in the game, Banaszak led Raider rushers with 74 yards on 19 carries and his two touchdown dives in the first half gave Oakland most of its 17-7 halftime lead.

He went over the top from two and one yards out at the end of Raider drives.

"We saw films of when Miami played Minnesota and the defensive line takes a low charge," he said. "If you know that, then you just run to daylight, wherever you find it."

"It's good that we have our running game back because we have a helluva line. We should be able to run, and it was good we did it in our opener against a fine team," said quarterback Ken Stabler.

Miami Coach Don Shula blamed a lack of consistency, including a breakdown in kickoff coverage on Hart's return, for the loss.

"We played poorly at times both offensively and defensively," Shula said. "And then when we had an opportunity to catch them, we had a breakdown in kickoff coverage."

Boston Ups Lead over Orioles To 4

United Press International

The Boston Red Sox, fighting to win the American League's East Division pennant, lost one of their prize young rookies, Jim Rice, for the remainder of a season Sunday because of a broken hand. But the other half of that dynamic rookie duo, Fred Lynn, is doing his best to see that the Red Sox stay atop the AL East during the final week of the season. Lynn, the AL's second leading hitter, rapped out three hits, including a record-setting 49th double, scored twice and drove in a pair of runs Monday night to spark the Red Sox to a 6-4 triumph over the New York Yankees.

The victory boosted Boston's lead to four games over the idle Baltimore Orioles and reduced their magic number to four for clinching the division title.

His double broke the record for most two-base hits by a rookie in one season.

"Setting records is okay," said Lynn, "but they're things you think of after the season and you get recognition. Winning makes it much more pleasant."

Denny Doyle, Rick Wise and Deron Johnson also contributed heavily to the Red Sox victory. Doyle had three singles and drove in three runs, Wise won his 19th game with seven innings of five-hit pitching and Johnson, obtained Sunday to give some right-handed power in Rice's absence, had three singles, scored once and drove in a run.

Thurman Munson had a two-run homer for the Yankees and reached the 100 RBI plateau for the first time in his career.

In other AL games, Minnesota topped Oakland 2-1, Kansas City nipped Texas 2-1, Cleveland edged Milwaukee 7-6 and California blanked Chicago 3-0 in 16 innings.

In National League action, Pittsburgh routed Philadelphia 11-3 to clinch the East Division title. Houston beat Cincinnati 5-1, San Diego edged Los Angeles 6-5 in 11 innings and St. Louis defeated Montreal 6-4 then lost 8-5.

Twins 2, A's 1 Eddie Bane kept Oakland from clinching a fifth straight AL West Division title by pitching Minnesota to victory. Bane scattered seven hits in eight innings to gain his second win in three decisions since being recalled from the minors. Ken Holtzman allowed only three hits in a route-going performance for the A's.

Royals 2, Rangers 1 Tony Solaita doubled home the tying run and Cookie Rojas delivered the winner with a sacrifice fly as Kansas City rallied for two runs in the eighth inning to defeat Texas.

Indians, 7, Brewers 6 Oscar Gamble's two-run pinch single with one out in the ninth inning gave Cleveland a victory over Milwaukee. Charlie Spikes and George Hendrick each homered for the Indians while George Scott hit a pair of homers for the Brewers, boosting his total to 33.

Oklahoma Whips Pitt To Retain 1st Ranking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oklahoma's Sooners were on probation last year and thus ineligible for ranking by UPI.

This year Barry Switzer's forces seem determined to make up for lost time — just ask Tony Dorsett.

Dorsett, Pittsburgh's outstanding sophomore running back, is bidding for All-America honors and, before Saturday's game at Oklahoma, said he had "confidence ... only good things can come from the clash" with the Sooners and their All-America running back, Joe Washington.

Dorsett finished with 17 yards in 12 carries as Oklahoma thrashed then-15th ranked Pittsburgh 46-10 to easily keep its No. 1 spot in the UPI coaches rankings. The Sooners, who have outscored their first two opponents 106-17 and now own the nation's longest major college winning streak with 22 in a row, pulled 35 of a possible 42 first place votes for 408 points and have been first in the ratings of the first two weeks.

Ohio State, unbeaten in its battle with Eastern power Penn State, 17-9, held second place, with six first place votes and 377 points. The Buckeye defense has performed brilliantly, not allowing a touchdown, but these two top teams won't meet unless Ohio State fails to go to the Rose Bowl for the fourth straight year.

Southern California, last year's champions, moved up one notch to third. The Trojans powered their way past Pac-8 rival Oregon State Friday night, 24-7, behind another 200-plus yards effort from junior running back Ricky Bell and received the remaining No. 1 vote and 333 points.

Michigan, third last week, tied Stanford 19-19 on a late Cardinal field goal, the Wolverines' first non-win in six years to someone other than Ohio State. "A tie is as good as a loss," Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler moaned after the game, but his Wolverines are still in the top 10 — although they've dropped seven notches to 10th.

Nebraska, on the strength of its 45-0 pasting of Indiana, climbed two notches to fourth; all four top teams were mentioned on every coach's ballot. Missouri remained fifth, coming back from a 20-0 deficit at Illinois to win 30-20.

Texas — a 28-10 winner over Washington — and Texas A & M, whose offense roared backed with a 39-8 win over LSU, moved into sixth and seventh, respectively.

Notre Dame edged up one place to eighth with its 17-0 victory over Purdue and UCLA, with its 34-28 squeaker over Tennessee, climbed four places into ninth to complete the top 10.

'Horns Set for Opener

By United Press International Darrell Royal says revenge will not be a factor when Texas and Texas Tech meet Saturday night. Instead, he says, the thing that will turn both teams on is the fact that it is the opening game of the Southwest Conference race.

"They (Tech) have got added enthusiasm with a new coaching staff, but there's enough enthusiasm (among Longhorns) in that it's the conference opener," Royal said. "We don't have to think about last year."

It was last year that Tech stunned the Longhorns in Lubbock, 26-3, on three touchdown throws by quarterback Tommy Duniven. That loss, combined with the surprise win by Baylor over Texas, deprived the Longhorns of their seventh straight Southwest Conference title.

And while the Longhorns and Raiders are fighting it out for the early conference lead, the Rice Owls and LSU Tigers will be meeting in the "letdown bowl" at Shreveport. Both teams are coming off disappointing losses, Rice's 9-6 loss to Vanderbilt and the Tigers' 38-8 embarrassment against Texas A&M.

"We certainly have an opportunity to win the LSU game," said Rice coach Al Conover. "But we are going to play a wounded tiger. I don't know how to react to that."

"We are not injured. Aside from some bruised pride and hurt feelings, we are in pretty good shape."

Royal was concerned most about Duniven and Tech noseguard Ecomet Burley.

"Of course, Duniven, they feel, is about as talented a quarterback as they've had in a long time," Royal said. "He really ripped us last year throwing."

"Barley plays right over the center and our centers have not had a challenge put on them like that yet."

Houston coach Bill Yeoman was pleased with his team's work Monday in preparation for the Cougars game against SMU this weekend.

"We needed that open date last week," said Yeoman. "It gave our wounded a chance to heal. The enthusiasm was good in Monday's practice."

Wesson will not miss the game Saturday, but has been slowed by a bruised thigh the past week.

The Texas Aggies, 2-0 including an impressive win over LSU, started getting ready for Illinois and the Baylor Bears began their preparations for Michigan.

Texas Christian University head coach Jim Shofner said he found the answer to one of his problems in last Saturday's loss to Arizona State.

Punting had been a matter of grave concern as first-line man Bill Bishop had been thwarted with an ankle injury and backup Dicky Powers proved inconsistent.

Shofner said Monday quarterback Lee Cook, who averaged 35.6 yards on eight kicks against ASU Saturday night, would handle the punting chores as the Horned Frogs try the University of Nebraska Saturday afternoon.

Boosters Meet Today

The Harvester Booster Club will meet at 7 p.m. today in the high school cafeteria.

The game film of Pampa's 21-14 win over Perryton will be shown.

Pampa, open this week, next plays Canyon at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 3 in Eagle Stadium. The junior varsity Shokers visit Perryton Thursday, while the Pampa sophomores host Liberal, Kan.

Roommate Must Testify

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal judge Monday ordered the former roommate of Patricia Elizabeth Swinton to testify in her bombing conspiracy trial or face a possible jail sentence.

At a pretrial hearing, U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack granted immunity to John David Hughey, 28, and warned him "the court may summarily order you into confinement" should he refuse to testify.

Hughey was charged in the original 1969 indictment with Mrs. Swinton, a divorcee, which alleged that they and three other anti-Vietnam War militants conspired to bomb eight locations in New York City. The bombings resulted in injuries to 21 persons.

Hughey pleaded guilty to one count in the indictment and served two years in jail.

His lawyer, Marvin Stollar, maintained that Hughey and Mrs. Swinton "lived together in a loving, trusting relationship for 2½ years." The lawyer said Hughey should be excused from testifying under privileged communications rights normally accorded husbands and wives.

"Their's was a marriage in all respects except the ceremony," Stollar said.

However, the judge denied the motion, ruling "New York is not a common-law state."

In his brief appearance on the stand, Hughey said, "I don't want to answer any questions and testify."

After the brief hearing, jury selection began and Pollack warned prospective jurors they would be sequestered for the duration of the trial which he said would last for about a week.

A later hearing was scheduled to determine whether Jane Alpert, who also pleaded guilty in the case, would be allowed to testify.

Mrs. Swinton was a fugitive for more than five years until her capture last spring in rural Vermont.

Mrs. Swinton, 34, was also charged with attempted sabotage for allegedly trying to blow up three Army trucks parked outside an armory.

H.M. Howard

Moose Leader Recovers, Talks after Throat Cancer

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

In November 1967, H.M. Howard tried to holler at a friend while quail hunting in Gray County.

Suddenly he was hoarse...and the words were faint.

"I didn't have a cold and I had never had a pain. My throat wasn't sore, but I promised myself I would see the doctor the next day," he said Sunday in Pampa.

He is slate president of the Texas Association of the Moose and was her for the enrollment of new candidates for the Loyal Order of Moose, Pampa Lodge 1385, and for the pilgrim robing of Robert R. Jacobs.

His family doctor told the Amarillo man he would refer him to a specialist. "In my own mind I knew I was in trouble even before the biopsy," he explained. The diagnosis cancer of the throat with three to five months to live.

"I have too much living to do. How long will it take to get that (cancer) out?" Howard asked the specialist.

His voice box and vocal cords were removed on Dec. 5, 1967 at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. At that time he was city dispatcher with Red Ball Motor Freight and "had to talk to make a living."

Physicians again predicted he might be able to say a few words within six months.

"There's no way to keep my mouth shut for six months," Howard said.

And he didn't.

Within five months he presented a public address.

"I was not going to allow something like this to prevent me from working in the Moose," he said. "I had been active in this organization since 1949."

Howard, now 58, attributes his recovery to will power.

In explaining the process of talking he said: "It is merely a process of coordination... just swallow air, burp the air back and say the words."

Today, Howard works with other laryngectomies in an effort to help them accept their predicament.

He remembers his own feeling at the age of 50 when the doctor told him his life would probably end within five months.

"That cancer will choke you to death by that time," physicians said.

Today, he advises other: "Accept it, and don't ever think you are handicapped."

He looks back on that November day eight years ago when intuition told him it was cancer after he tried to holler while on Charlie Webb's ranch just outside of Pampa. He is thankful he can return here for whatever occasion he may be needed, he said.

"This (the surgery) was harder for my wife than for me," he said. "But thanks to her understanding I made it."

Washington Watch

Cold Weather Means Higher Coffee Prices

By JOSEPH NOCERA
Pampa News Staff
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Due to particularly bad weather in Brazil last month, coffee could go up to as much as 50 cents a cup by 1976.

July is the middle of winter in Brazil, and while the weather usually gets chilly, this year temperatures dropped into the 20's. The result was devastating.

Every plantation in Panara, Brazil's principal coffee state, was seriously affected. In San Paulo, the number two coffee region, 60 per cent of the plantations were damaged by the frost and cold weather.

Brazil is the principal supplier of coffee to the U.S.

It is the coffee bush itself and not the beans that have been damaged by the cold spell. Thus, while this year's harvest has been excellent and coffee is at the moment plentiful, the crop for the next three to four years in Brazil is expected to be dismal.

For American consumers, this means a substantial rise in the price of coffee in not too distant future. "Coffee dealers are raising prices in anticipation of what may happen in the future as a result of the Brazilian frost," says one Brazilian coffee dealer.

Plantation owners look at the frost as a blessing in disguise. They have wanted to raise their prices for some time but were unable to due to an oversupply of coffee. Now, it appears, they will get their wish.

The current recession is having a severe impact on the employment of women, minorities and youths, a joint House - Senate economic subcommittee recently concluded after two days of hearings on the subject.

The subcommittee cited June statistics which showed that the unemployment rate was 8.1 per cent for adult women; 13.7 per cent for blacks; 19.2 per cent for youths; and 33.2 per cent for black youths.

William Lucy, President of the Coalition of Black Trade Unionists, told the subcommittee: "This is not an equal opportunity recession. Minorities, women, youths, and blue-collar workers are bearing a significantly disproportionate share of the economic loss and deprivation and psychological damage which unemployment brings."

Dr. Barbara R. Bergman, an economics professor at the University of Maryland, said "These groups are not small or marginal. Women, blacks and other minorities and up to 46 per cent of the labor force." She added that even those in these categories who are working receive only 60 per cent of what the average white, male worker earns.

Proposed legislation requiring restaurants to carry devices to save people from choking on food is causing "concern" in the restaurant industry, according to Nation's Restaurant News, a trade journal.

Restaurant owners fear that such laws "could subject them to virtually open-ended legal liability in the event of a choking death on their premises," the paper reports.

There have been attempts to pass such laws in several states, and more attempts are expected this year. The question of liability has been the chief reason no "anti-choking" laws have been passed thus far.

Restaurants fear that under an anti-choking law, if a patron dies despite attempts to help, and establishment could be just as liable to a suit as if there were negligence.

What ever happened to convertibles?

Once they were a status symbol. Now you hardly see them anymore. "And you'll be seeing them even less now that Buick, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile and Pontiac have decided to stop making them, beginning with their 1976 models.

Cadillac is now the only American company still producing convertibles.

After reaching a peak in popularity in 1963, the convertible has gone steadily downhill with the introduction of air conditioning, stringent safety standards and increasing car thefts.

Stiff necks may have had something to do with it, too.

Extra Beds Hike Medical Cost

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is a surplus of hospital beds in United States cities that must be eliminated if the cost of medical care is to be brought down, according to a Blue Cross-Blue Shield executive.

"The existence of surplus beds inflates the cost of medical care," said Dr. Peter Rogatz, a senior vice president of Blue Cross-Blue Shield in New York. "It costs almost as much to maintain an empty bed in a hospital as an occupied bed."

Worse than that, he said, is the fact that, since Medicare, Medicaid and other hospitalization and medical insurance plans will pay the bills, surplus beds offer a constant temptation to hypochondriacs to use them and to physicians to put people in them who really should be treated as ambulatory patients. "The existence of surplus hospital beds also can contribute to the performance of unnecessary surgery," he said.

Rogatz was commenting on the rise of the Ambulatory Surgical Facility in the United States in the past five years.

Starting in Phoenix, the ASF movement has spread until there are several score across the country. They are equipped for the performance of tonsillectomies and more than 100 other simpler operations formerly done entirely in hospitals, but the costs are much lower — typically about $175 for removing a youngster's tonsils as against perhaps $475 for the same operation in a hospital.

The rapid growth of the ASF is causing much concern in the hospital industry. Some hospital administrators say, by skimming off the low-risk, no-overhead surgical business of the hospitals, these facilities are cutting hospital revenue and increasing the cost of the more complex operations.

"The solution," Rogatz told United Press International, "is to eliminate the surplus hospital beds simultaneously with the creation of ASF's. It won't do to open a lot of ASF's in a hurry and put off eliminating the surplus hospital beds. That just means society will then be paying for duplicate facilities," he said.

"Some people in the health world probably think I am against the ASF," he said, "but that's not true. They definitely are a move in the right direction to control and cut the cost of the delivery of medical care but their indiscriminate spread without eliminating surplus hospital beds would defeat that goal."

Rogatz said it is difficult to convince the public there is a surplus of hospital beds because occasionally there are temporary shortages in even large communities. He insisted, however, that from the economic view there is a definite and costly surplus of hospital beds in the big cities and even some of the smaller cities.

"The temporary bed shortages, ironically, often are caused by a wave of patients whose troubles could just as well be treated at home or on an ambulatory basis," he said, "so the gradual substitution of ASF's and other ambulatory treatment facilities for excess hospital beds appears to make sense."

That "ASF's" can save the public a lot of money is clearly indicated by the experience of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York. It estimates it has saved in five years more than $1 million on claims payments for operations and treatments in ASF's as compared with what they would have been if the patients had been hospitalized.

Public Defender Argues Against Mercy Killing

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — A public defender for Karen Ann Quinlan said Monday the woman, in a coma for five months, should not be allowed to die because she has shown signs of life through blinking her eyes, rolling her tongue and moving her mouth.

Daniel R. Coburn, who was appointed to represent the woman's interests after her parents asked permission to remove a life-sustaining respirator, drafted his arguments for presentation at a Superior Court hearing that could lead to a new legal definition of death.

Coburn, in his court brief, said he opposes the wishes of the woman's parents because there is "substantial doubt" in his mind that the woman's brain has ceased to function, a factor that could be used in deciding whether she is legally dead.

"Without debating the moral, theological or practical considerations in such an application, it is absolutely certain in my mind that such a request is, in effect, asking this court to authorize a mercy killing," Coburn said.

Assured by physicians that there "is no hope for Karen's recovery," Joseph Quinlan and his wife Julia have asked their daughter be allowed to die "naturally" and "with dignity."

The Quinlans — Roman Catholics with two teen-age children of their own — said Karen has suffered irreparable brain damage, so her heartbeat and occasional brain waves are maintained only by the respirator, which has cost her family between $100,000 and $200,000.

Karen is a "vegetable," Mrs. Quinlan said.

The couple asked the judge to declare their daughter mentally incompetent and to appoint Quinlan as her legal guardian so they can authorize the "discontinuation of all extraordinary means sustaining vital processes."

On the other side, the prosecutor said the request could constitute homicide. Others interested in the outcome of the court action were Gov. Brendan T. Byrne, Attorney General William F. Hyland, the New Jersey Medical Society and the state Bar Association.

60 To Be Arraigned In October

Sixty arraignments in criminal cases beginning Sept. 30 and extending through Oct. 29, are scheduled in Gray County.

Judge Don Cain will call the docket in both criminal and civil cases at 10 a.m. on Oct. 28 to set cases for jury trials, beginning on Nov. 10.

All motions in cases set for jury trial will be heard by the court at 10 a.m. on Nov. 3.

Bank Sets Open House In Canadian

Open house at the First National Bank in Canadian will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday when interested persons may see the remodeled and expanded facilities.

Established more than 75 years ago, the bank has been located at Second and Main in Canadian for the past 50 years.

The recent work on the building has resulted in twice as much floor space for the institution, accomplished by taking in the adjoining building.

All local residents have been invited to the open house and special invitations have been mailed to many area people. Several hundred persons are expected to tour the expanded bank.

Each will receive the Electronic Table Tennis Game.

All the winners will receive their prizes by mail.

Roundup Set To Help Crippled Kids

Each fall for the past 15 years ranchers and stockmen have been cutting out of a calf, a pen of calves or livestock of any kind and earmarking them for the Annual Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children. Hundreds of cattle are rounded up and hauled by volunteers to Abilene to be sold at auction to raise funds to enable the West Texas Rehabilitation Center to extend a helping hand to handicapped children and adults from throughout the Southwest.

Last year almost 4,000 individuals were served by this private, non-profit treatment and diagnostic facility which is largely dependent upon the contributions of friends.

To date about 100 head of cattle have been pledged for the Monday Cattle Sale in Abilene. It is hoped that this number will quadruple by sale time.

Trailers now are picking up donated cattle in deep South Texas. Between now and sale time trucks and trailers will be in almost every section of the state.

Anyone wishing to donate livestock should contact the West Texas Rehabilitation Center as quickly as possible and arrangements will be made for pick up of the animals. The center's number is 915-692-1633. Last year $150,000 was raised.

H. C. Eubanks Tool Rental

H. C. Eubanks

H.C. Eubanks got tired of loaning his tools and not getting them back. So he started a tool rental business 15 years ago.

Now he'll gladly rent items ranging from hammers to air compressors, from ditch diggers to yard equipment. And he doesn't have much trouble getting the rented equipment back, either.

Eubanks has been at 1320 S. Barns since his business began. Business has been especially good this year, he said, adding that it always slows down a little when school starts.

Most of his business comes from industries, contractors and companies such as electric people. But can provide tools for the home do-it-yourselfer, too, he said.

Panda's Popularity Expands Chinese Wildlife May Benefit

The comic, lovable giant panda is not only a symbol of improved relations between the U.S. and the People's Republic of China, but has become so popular in its native land that all Chinese wildlife may benefit, according to International Wildlife magazine.

"Perhaps the real significance of the panda craze will turn out to be its role in raising the value of all threatened wildlife in China," writes roving editor Norman Myers in a special report on mainland China's wildlife in the National Wildlife Federation publication.

In the first in-depth look at the status of Chinese wildlife since the lifting of the "Bamboo Curtain," Myers observes that a "conservation ethic has indeed permeated the nation of 800 million people — a new environmental consciousness in some ways almost as revolutionary as the People's Republic itself."

Until the late 1960s, the staggering demands of the burgeoning Chinese population led to the destruction of millions of acres of wildlife habitat, as forests were cleared for croplands, firewood and building materials.

Then, in a dramatic reversal, the Peking government embarked on a program of conservation and began systematically planning a network of wildlife reserves, Myers reports.

As a result, the Chinese have declared protected status for at least 32 species and subspecies of animals, including the panda, and are revising their threatened wildlife list to include other creatures.

The remaining several hundred giant pandas are found in a bamboo and forest area encircling the mountains of central China at elevations from 7,000 to 13,000 feet. The principal panda reserve, the Wang-Lang Reserve in the Min Shan Mountains of Szechwan Province, covers almost 80 square miles. The animals are rarely seen, due to the inaccessible terrain, and pose no threat to humans or livestock.

Among the other animals who stand to benefit from the new Chinese attitude toward wildlife are the nine threatened species or subspecies of deer found in China. Extensive habitat loss and overkilling already have led to the extinction of Hende's and Swinhoe's sika deer, but hunting now is forbidden and specific sanctuaries have been set aside for the deer.

At one time, the Chinese sought out the deer for their antlers — which allegedly possessed aphrodisiac powers — but the Communist government has succeeded in debunking this myth among the younger Chinese.

Other grazing animals, such as the kiang (Asiatic wild ass), kulan (Mongolian wild ass) and Przewalski's horse have suffered from drastic habitat loss and now are found only in Mongolia and western China.

The beautiful big cats of China — tigers and leopards — once faced extinction as the government undertook a program to eliminate the predatory creatures in order to protect domestic livestock. But the new Chinese environmental awareness has established protected status for the tiger and the rare clouded and snow leopards.

In his travels, Myers discovered that Hong Kong fur dealers still are receiving leopard skins from China, which suggests that the Chinese are cropping leopards in regions where they are common. However, he found no significant trade in tiger, snow leopard or clouded leopard skins from China, an indication that these animals indeed are being protected by the Chinese government.

Admitting that information about mammals in China is hard to obtain, Myers said that the status of birds in China is hard to obtain. Myers said that the status of birds in China is "even more obscure."

"I had expected, however, to see a variety of bird species, since they usually are visible in towns and in the countryside even when mammals are not. But wherever I went I saw fewer birds than in any country I've visited," he reported.

In assessing the future of wildlife in China, the author cites the "rate of human development" as the main factor in determining the fate of Chinese wildlife.

One hopeful sign is the fact that the Chinese have accomplished a near miracle in reducing their population growth rate to 1.5 per cent, the lowest of any developing nation. Instead of encouraging development in the western regions of the country, the government has stressed an increase in the yield of available agricultural lands to forestall the need to convert more wildlife habitat to croplands.

When Myers asked a member of the Revolutionary Committee if the new environmentalism would slow the country's economic growth, he received the following reply:

"Even though our country is still poor, we don't make economic advancement our overriding goal."

Tech Enrolled

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech University has set another enrollment record.

Final registration figures for the fall 1975 semester, released by the Office of the Registrar Thursday, showed an enrollment of 22,580, an increase of approximately 3 per cent, or 653, over the fall 1974 figure of 21,927, according to D.N. Peterson, registrar.
