WASHINGTON (UPI) -Pledging to give Americans the leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy, Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp today became the eighth Democratic candidate for the party's 1976 presidential nomination.

At least two more party hopefuls are expected to enter the crowded battle for the nomination before the end of this year

Shapp, 63, said the worst problem facing the nation is "economic stagnation" and promised to fight it with increased employment based on 25 years as a business executive and two terms in the governor's chair

"It is incredible that we tolerate a condition where millions are unemployed and underemployed when there are so many unmet needs across the land." he said election brings new denunciations from office seekers indicating their concern over the increasing number of Americans who lean more and more on Uncle Sam. And the more they talk, the more they are applauded ; the more certain they are to be elected.

Socialistic Leanings

Yet, with each new echelon of representation there is a new element of people going to the postoffice for checks based on everything from medical care to food stamps to fixed prices on free - enterprise milk.

"It's all in the book," the song says, and all you have to do is open it to your page, and if per chance your page is still blank. send it back to your representative and ask him to fill it in for you.

The psychologists would tell us that it is human nature for a person to want more, to go just beyond the legal limit, for instance, with the thought that this is icing on the cake and the icing is worth the chance one takes in being caught. The speed limit was set back to 55. People seem automatically to drive at 60. When the limit was 65, those who now are driving at 60 weredriving at 70. Represent All Labor? By H.C. GORDON

Do Chiefs

It is the pretentious claim of union chieftans in this country that they speak for the interests of "Labor" as a whole. In actual fact, nothing could be further from the truth.

Barely a quarter of the American work force is unionized, and that mere fraction is made up not of semi or unskilled workers in marginal industries, but predominately of highly trained, highly - skilled workers in those industries most vital to the successful functioning of our economy

What the union leaders represent, therefore, is really a blue - collar elite which is primarily concerned with enhancing its own privileges often at the expense of other, less fortunate workers. Ironically enough, it is usually the neediest workers of all who are the most crue/ly exploited by our present system of union monopoly.

Where union monopoly exists where present law not only allows a single union to act as the sole bargaining agent for the work force of an entire industry. but compels workers to join that union simply to hold a job in that industry - injustice is the inevitable result. Blacks and other minorities are victimized by institutional racism, the unskilled are priced out of the job market by union - backed minimum wage laws, and students and other seasonal workers are ripped off because of their part - time status.

The exploitation of our young students by the union monopoly system is particularly disgraceful. Attempting to earn tuition or spending money through part - time or summer jobs. they frequently find themselves forced to hand over a substantial part of their limited wages in the form of union dues simply to be able to work at all.

USIC Research Reports The case of a sixteen - year old high school student, who was forced to join a union even though he only worked one day a week sacking groceries, is typical. In a letter to the Missouri House Labor Committee, the youth complained:

"I went to the Union Hall and told them I was only working one day a week and really couldn't afford to join the union and pay dues out of my small pay. They said if I wanted to

EDUCATION IN U.S. Sen. Buckley Defends 'Buckley Amendment'

By MAX RAFFERTY Q - *Although I have long admired your refreshing good sense on many matters relating to education, I fear I must take exception to your recent column commenting on my Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (the 'Buckley Amendment')

"While school records were open to many outside the schools, -a national survey several years ago found that nearly 90 per cent of the school districts surveyed did not allow parents (or students) to see their children's school records. When by accident, court order or a change in law, parents were able to gain access to their children's school records, they found numerous cases of factual errors, unjustified information on personal values, family life or parents' habits, and unfairly prejudicial 'anecdotal comments which could negatively color the attitude of a new teacher against a student and thereby harm a student's future chances for development and success. A number of real 'horror stories' have been uncovered in this regard. "You commented that Mama and Papa should not be looking over the teacher's shoulder to see what he thinks of Junior. But who has a more basic right to know what the teacher thinks of Junior than Junior's parents. unless it is Junior himself? Such a view smacks of a professional elitism and an anti - parent attitude that has long disturbed me and, I believe, are a major cause of the public's disenchantment with the public schools.

Under the Buckley Amendment students are able to decide whether or not letters of recommendation will be withheld from them, and writers of such letters will write them or not with knowledge of that decision. The encouragement which the Buckley Amendment lends to the already growing movement amongst professors to allow students to see such letters may result in more recommendations which are less opinionated, but also which are more thoughtful and accurate. I have enough confidence in educators in general to believe that most will be able to become open and honest with students and parents, as they are with others. After all, such honesty is essential if a teacher is to help a '

understand professional, educators. They are essentially chicken. They will not stick their necks out. And that's what's wrong with your bill.

What it asks, in reality, is that teachers write things about their employers' children which their employers (the parents) will be allowed to read. And if you really believe, Senator, that the average teacher is going to write anything at all about Junior which might provoke reprisals - verbal or financial - from Junior's parents, then you just don't know teachers, which is what I' said in paragraph two.

So what this means is that the anecdotal records for any given child will henceforth be so bland and so castrated as to be, useless. As one who has benefited immeasurably from said records during a long lifetime of helping children, I regret their passing.

It's like the practice of medicine, Senator. You wouldn't think of telling the head surgeon of the Mayo Clinic how to keep his medical records, but you're telling me how I must keep mine. In any area involving professional expertise, this doesn't work - it can't work and, as the quotations I cited in my recent column indicated, it isn't working.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been dead for six years. We had a wonderful marriage in every way. Our daughter, now 16, misses her father almost as much as I do. She and I have always had a very close and loving relationship.

About six months ago, I met Manny and we were attracted to each other immediately. He was at my home for dinner one night last week. One thing led to another, and he ended up spending the night in my bedroom.

My daughter came home from a date and saw Manny "spending the night" with me. She ran crying to her room and locked herself in. A few days later, she told me she "hated" Manny, and she's been very cool and distant to me ever since.

Did she expect me to be loyal to her father forever? Abby, I am 39 and only human. Should I break up with Manny just to make my daughter happy? ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: Admittedly, we are all only human, but when a daughter discovers her mother's feet of clay, mother usually winds up as "mud."

I doubt if breaking up with Manny will make your daughter "happy." In time, she may understand that mothers have needs, too, but your lack of discretion netted you (and Manny) some well-deserved criticism.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a retired mailman with a valuable tip for your readers; If you have something important or irreplaceable to mail, such as legal documents, pictures or film to be developed, take it to the post office and mail it INSIDE the building.

Why? Because in the summer, the inside of that corner mailbox on the street can get as hot as 140 degrees, which can foul up film. In the winter, some those mailboxes leak like sieves.

Years ago, when I was on collections, I'd bring mail in from some corner boxes that was soaking wet and stuck together-just one big glob. The ink had run on the envelopes, and some of the addresses weren't even legible. (Beware of the mailbox with the big, heavy lock hanging in front. They are the worst offenders for getting mail wet!) Another thing: Some juvenile delinquents will buy a popsicle, eat half of it and throw the rest into a mailbox, and

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Since President Ford restricted grain sales to Russia the price of soybeans has dropped $1 a bushel and the President has been told he is in trouble with farmers, according to farm state leaders.

John Currie, a soybean farmer from near Wilmot, Ark., says beans were selling for $6.20 a bushel before the administration imposed a moritorium on sales in August. The barrier to sales was extended into October and broadened to cover Poland and now soybeans are bringing only $5.20 a bushel. ## Sonny Bono—Alive and Well

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Dane Clark pulled a knife on Sonny Bono and threw him to the floor of the jet airliner as onlookers screamed in terror.

Then the director bellowed, "Cut!", and Sonny shambled out of the scene at the ramshackle Culver Studios to flop in a set-side chair.

"Ouch," he said, massaging his shoulder. "I think I'm having a spasm. We decided not to use stunt men in that little tusssle. Now I'm not so sure.'

Sonny was in the midst of starring in "Murder on Flight 502," a movie of the week and his second dramatic appearance for television. The first, an episode of "Six Million Dollar Man," will be seen Oct.

A comedian, song and dance man and ex-husband of Cher. Sonny's career has yo-yoed up and down for the past decade. Mostly up.

But he's been on a downer since his own comedyvariety show bellied up last year while Cher's show, has been a hit. Happily, Sonny has a contract with ABC to star in a situation comedy series in the fall of

And if his private life and marital problems are being vivisected by the media, he is none the worse for

There is a Peter Pan, everyouthful quality about Sonny despite his 40 years. Youngsters think of him as a contemporary. Even the director, calling him into a scene, said, "Bring in the kid."

"I can't understand the youth thing myself," said Sonny. "But it's fine with me. Maybe it's because I'm a comedian. And I've always got a grin on my face."

Sonny's grin intensified when a startlingly gorgeous Indian girl, whom he introduced as Sue Coelho - the Bombay Bombshell - undulated to his side and planted a kiss on his cheek.

Like Cher, she is tall, almost painfully slender and very cool. She's also young, about 20. She appears with Sonny in the "Six Million Dollar Man" episode.

"People still think of me and Cher as a team," Sonny said. "Personally and professionally. They haven't really separated us in their minds yet. But that's how it is with all show business teams that break up "Sooner or later the public will get it straight. It's a severance. After all, we were a team for 11 years."

Sonny speaks fondly of Cher. Her success as a single pleases him

As for himself, Sonny said, "I have no big master game plan. I'll just continue working in show business - music and television. I'm developing the situation comedy for next season.

"I'll play the underdog again. It's a great comedy character. The little guy bucking the odds is never really a loser because he's eternally optimistic.

PAMPA DAILY NEWS 5 Year Thursday, September 25, 1975

"That kind of person goes down but never for the count. They are tenacious. They don't beat you, they just wear you down.

Sonny could have been describing himself. It's as if some special providence had an arm around the little people of the world who seem to get the short end of the stick.

"In addition to the sitcom, I'm producing a twohour movie of the week for ABC. I wrote the outline for the comedy and I'll star in it.

"If I had a religion I guess it would be humor. It can save your life. A least it has mine. Humor is a sign of strength. Ever notice how Gary Cooper and Clint Eastwood always smile a little bit when things are toughest.?

Perhaps that explains Sonny's ready grin these days.

He and Cher will be on the air opposite one another Oct. 5 - Sonny on "Six Million Dollar Man" and Cher on her own show.

"It will be interesting to see the ratings," Sonny said

Nutritionist Helps Developing Countries

By JEANNE LESEM UPI Food Editor

"Kids are like leaky buckets. You keep pouring it in, and it comes right out," says nutritionist Mary Ann Anderson of the malnourished children whom she is trying to help in developing countries.

"Often it (the solution) is as simple as building a new, safe water supply so children won't develop chronic diarrhea or malnutrition from lack of food," she said in an interview. Some are malnourished because their mothers try to stretch special high-protein vegetable products with extra water to make more than the recommended number of feedings, she added.

Miss Anderson is chief nutritionist for CARE, the international aid and development agency with programs in 36 countries. It has saved millions of families, mainly by helping them to help themselves, often by raising their own food. CARE is a nonprofit, self-help agency. Its Food-for-Work program provides jobs for parents on projects related to food production: irrigation, land terracing and building dikes to prevent flooding. They are paid in food, not money. They grow about four pounds of food for each pound they are paid.

Miss Anderson said because of inflation, the families wouldn't come out as well if they bought food

Her job includes teaching basic nutrition to local women, who work with mothers to improve the diet and health of preschool children and themselves.

It's a case of "do as I do, not just as I say." She said she generally eats local food with typical seasonings in each country, many of which rely heavily on vegetable protein.

"I'm a vegetarian; I have been for about five and a half years," she said. At 27, she is a slim, pretty brunette of medium height. She has been with CARE three years

Miss Anderson, a native of Glendale, Calif., said she turned to vegetarianism while an undergraduate in nutrition at the University of Hawaii

She said her avoidance of meat is partly economic, partly at the urging of vegetarian friends and partly a result of a job as meat cutter and packer in the delicatessen section of a supermarket during college. She said she soon reached the point where she could no more eat meat than think of eating her pet cat.

She advises against pure vegetarianism, uses dairy products and eggs herself and recommends that all vegetarians include milk products, at least.

Miss Anderson said the most satisfying thing about her job comes "when you are able to see children come back to normal, and the joy in their mothers' faces when you show them how they can save their children, protect them against disease and retardation."

At a clinic in Guatemala, she was reminded of the urgent need for nutrition education.

Trying on a colorful local blouse, she found she could not pull it over her head.

"None of the women there are taller than five feet, and their heads are tiny - one very obvious sign of malnutrition and retardation early in life," she said.

Miss Anderson also speaks from experience about gardening. She grows tomatoes, cucumbers and lettuce on the roof of her fourth floor brownstone apartment in New York City. Her planters are discarded kitchen sinks.

Varietas Brunch

Mrs. J.R. Spearman, 1707 Mary Ellen, left, hosted a fall brunch Tuesday, beginning the first meeting of Varietas Study Club. Officers introduced, second from left, are Mrs. Able Wood, secretary; Mrs. Otis Nace, reporter; and Mrs. J.E. Gibson, president. Mrs. Lee Harrah, (not pictured) the only charter member of the Club, gave a history of the federation of women's clubs, nationally, statewide, and locally, stating that at the present time there are 11,000,000 club women in the world, a group large enough to exercise influence and power. She said, "Club Federation means liberty in small things, unity in large things, and charity in all things." (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

It works like the shoulder strap seat belt in the new car seats for automobiles. And because it does go over the shoulders, it prevents the child from kneeling or standing up and falling out.

Joking Teenagers? Citizen Band Hookers Proposition Truckers

Pampa, Texas

DALLAS (UPI) - Truck drivers think the seductive young voices beckoning over their Citizens Band radios belong to highway hookers. Officials think it's just a teenage tease, but Texas trucker Bob Smith says he knows of at least one voice that's no joke. Smith, who drives regularly through 18 states, says it's not uncommon to hear a female voice come on the CB receiver offering a little company to the lonely truckers. He tells about a certain lady who makes an explicit pitch on 157 near Effingham, Ill. "She'll ask if your're an 18wheeler and you say, yeah, and she'll ask if you'd like a little entertainment. She'll tell you what it'll cost ($15) and everything right over the radio

Smith said the voice invites the trucker to pull over at a freeway reststop where, he said, he has seen a car parked on many of his trips. "I never stopped myself but I must of have talked with her a dozen times," he said. The Federal Communiciations Commission has been investigating the reports of prostitutes pitches "We're not sure yet. We know in some cases they are girl juveniles just teasing the truckers," says Carl Pryon, district head of the Federal Communications Commission. "But we haven't ruled out the possibility that the monitors are trying to get hold of prostitutes, or prostitutes trying to solicite business. Pryon said the Dallas Community Radio Watch took to the highways with mobile monitors and direction finding equipment to investigate the incidents. "Three or four cars went out a couple of weekends," said Bob Hitch, head of the CRW. "We tracked the voices, and usually ended up at truck stops. "We sat and listened to the exchanges, and after a while some truck would pull in and flash his lights at a car full of young girls in the parking lot. "But in all the incidents we watched, as soon, as the truck pulled in the girls would tear the hell out of there. I mean they flat floorboarded those cars to get as far away as fast as they could."

Smith said he hears young women come on the CB air about once every two days in the course of a long haul, different voices in different states from Texas to Illinois and Ohio and Kentucky.

"Most of them don't outright solicit." he said. "They'll just say, hey, how about stopping for Pryon says the FCC isn't sure what action, if any, can be taken against the callers.

"It's not against the law to tease truckers. These girls are probably in their family cars, and their parents are licensed operators.

"If they use obscenities, the license holder can be prosecuted and have his license lifted. But if the conversation is just suggestive, and not obscene, there isn't much we can do.' But the FCC administrator said if genuine prostitutes are found soliciting over the air waves, that information would be turned over to police for prosecution

And, in that event, Pryon says there is some action the FCC could take on its own. "Well," he said. "We could

California Attacks Offshore Rule

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) - The Brown administration has attacked proposed federal regulations governing offshore oil development, saying they are inadequate to protect the economy and environment of California.

The Interior Department plans to sell leases in October for 1.6 million acres of oil lands on the outer continental shelf off the coast of Southern California. Preble Stolz, director of the Office of Planning and Research, said Tuesday in a letter to the. U.S. Geological Survey that, "our basic objection is that the regulations do not provide a exploration of the outer continental shelf and plans for its development." Preble said. He told Vincent E. McKelvey. director of the U.S. Geological Survey, that while exploration of the shelf lands is important to judge oil reserves, more controls on development are needed.

atmospheric scientist from the University of Michigan, calling for a quick ban on the use of 'nonessential'' fluorocarbons in aerosol products. He argued this would allow more time for studying the use of the gases as refrigerants.

Oregon already has enacted a ban to become effective in 1977. Similar national action has been turned down twice by federal agencies because not enough is known about the problem.

Dr. James C. Fletcher, head of the federal space agency which is leading the effort to get more data, testified he does not expect enough data until mid 1977. The heads of the National Science Foundation and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration agreed more information is needed before action is taken.

The hottest chili I have ever eaten was either on a deerhunting trip deep in the wilds of West Texas or in an apartment deep in the bowels of Colorado Springs.

Probably, it was the hunting trip dish. I was a school teacher down at Rankin at the time and the football coach and I did not arrive at the hunting camp until quite late - about 3 a.m. because we didn't leave until after the ballgame.

There was a big pot of chili simmering on a woodburning stove and it hadn't been greatly diminished by the 10 other hunters in the party. The coach and I were hungry. Really hungry It took 12 spoons of that chili before I decided I was sufficiently full. And if I hadn't been eating fast, I could have made it easy on nine spoon dips. I couldn't ask the coach how many he ate because by the time I applied enough foam to extinguish the fire and get a whisper of my voice back, the coach had gone for an extensive jog in the cold night air, hoping the resultant deep breathing would offer some relief. The others in the outing enjoyed a bid of a hooraw at our obvious reactions and then told the story: Part 1 - The math teacher

But efforts to keep beans or tomatoes out of chili have not proven nearly so argumentative as efforts to keep women out of the annual Chilympiad at San Marcos. The only female contestant in Saturday's competition was 117 - year - old Genoveva Gutuerrez.

Ms. Gutuerrez attributes her longevity to eating a "bowl of red" every day. And that fact coupled with her advanced years provided such a good publicity opportunity that contest officials revised their no - women rule to allow women entrants over 100 years of age.

Ms. Gutuerrez makes her chili with a combination of ground lean beef and some pork, garlic, cominos, special hand - ground red pepper, red chili from Mexico (chile de cascabel), salt and pepper and fresh ground tomatoes. It was not a contest winner.

Kasey Kirby of Houston is under 100 and wanted to cook her concoction in the contest and filed suit to open the competition to all women. Maybe officials will be convinced by the time next year's Chilympiad rolls around Women can enter the International Chili Cook - off at Terlingua and last year's world chili champion, in fact, was a female - Alegani Jani Schofield of Stonewall. She will defend her title when this year's contest rolls around on Nov. 1. A couple of men who have done a lot for chili deserve mention any time words on the subject are put together. H. Allen Smith, author and humorist, was one of the participants in the first International Chili Cook - off in 1967 in Telingua, a ghost town close to the Mexican border. He has written magazine articles and a book promoting chilidom. Frank X. Tolbert is another individual who has peddled many words about the famous Texa's dish "A Bowl of Red," his book published by Doubleday, has sold to an awful lot of chili lovers in the past couple of decades. Getting down to some recipes for chili, we'll start with Smith's, even though he uses some pinto beans in his mixture and was thereby the butt of much verbal abuse for going against the first article of the International Chili Society which defines "true chili" as "any kind of meat cooked with chili peppers and various other spices and ingredients, with the exception of beans." H. Allen Smith's Chili 3 pounds chuck, coarse ground 2 or 3 medium onions salt, pepper 2 or 3 tablespoons chili powder 2 cans (15-17 oz.) pinto beans Brown the chuck in an iron kettle. ("If you don't have an iron kettle you are not civilized," Smith says. "go out and get one.")

Chop the onions and bell pepper and add to the meat. Crush or mince garlic and throw into the pot. Add oregano and cumin seed, then the tomato paste. Smith says, however, if you prefer canned tomatoes or fresh ones. put them through a colander and add. Add water, salt liberally and grind in some black pepper, and add the chili powder.

Simmer for an hour and a half or longer, then add the beans, and simmer another half hour. Season if necessary with salt and peper. Let the chili set for several hours, then heat up as much as you like and place the remainder in the refrigerator. According to Smith it tastes better the second day and after a week it is simply the greatest. Because of his stand on beans, if for no other reason, Smith could never win the prize in Terlingua with his mixture. An individual who did win the

1. Trim off all fat from flank steak and dice into three eighths inch cubes

2. Trim off all fat, remove bones and dice pork chops into three - eighths inch cubes. 3. Place stewing chicken in pot and stew for two hours. Reclaim one quart of chicken broth. (Throw everything else away). (Editor's Note: That's the way Woody recorded the recipe. Personally, I'd save the fowl for some chicken salad or something.) 4. Fill a two - quart saucepan with the guartered tomatoes, celery and onions, both chopped fine, salt and pepper and cover with water. Cook for three hours, until ingredients are completely tender. Or use three 10 - ounce cans of tomato sauce. 5. Hold the five green chilies over an open fire until skins are seared. Remove skins and boil for approximately 15 minutes until tender. Remove seeds and cut chilies into approximately one - fourth inch squares. Or use one seven - ounce can of diced green chilies. 6. Put beef, pork, chicken broth, stewed tomatoes, chilies, garlic, oregano, cumin, chili powder and pepper on stove and bring to boil. Simmer for about one hour.

7. Then add onions and green peppers and simmer for three hours or until meat is beginning to break up. 8. During the last five minutes, add one pound grated Jack cheese and stir until it is completely dissolved into the chili. Then add the juice of one large lime. And salt to taste if needed Wood currently is stirring up

DENVER (UPI) - The Driver Nuggets and the New York Nets, the two glamour teams of the American Basketball Association, are making moves towards gaining admittance to the National Basketball Association in an apparent prelude towards a merger between the two professional basketball leagues.

Groom has disposed of Vega, Claude and McLean. all Class A schools, in order, as the Tigers have returned to their once - commom position of a high ranking among the state's Class B teams. The Harris Rating System rates the Tigers No. 6.

Don Sessom, Groom coach, wishes it wasn't that way. "I don't particularly like it," said Sessom, an opponent of rating systems for years.

'Our kids don't think too much about it, or don't read it, I hope. What we're trying to do is think we can play football even though we're rebuilding."

Groom isn't playing like a "rebuilding" team, having outscored its three opponents 90 - 26, including a 28 - 0 win over McLean last week.

"In workouts we've played real good with a lot of husite. We've had a lot of pride built up in these three ball games and we want to try to hang on to that pride." Sessom said.

"We're just gonna try to stay on the field with them (Wheeler Mustangs). I don't know if we can but we're gonna try.'

Groom's offensive attack is centered around an explosive backfield, which includes high - powdered fullback Chris Britten and guarterback Bimbo Bivens, and a mammoth offensive line.

That attack might be slowed some Friday. Britten and center Jay Witt (6 - 3, 258) have missed school this week with the flu and their status for the game is not known, according to Sessom.

"If we don't get Chris back, we may have to go back to the veer offense. We won't have a fullback. We've practiced it all week — we always work on it." The two probably will not start if they were unable to return to school today, added the coach.

Without Witt, the line still would have heft. Tackle Art Brown weighs 200 pounds, guard Mike Koetting weighs 190 and tackle Mike Prather is 240. Brownand Koetting are potential all - starters.

In spite of Groom's offensive power, Sessom predicts a low - scoring game. "I look for a defensive ball game. I think their defense is real good; I think ours is pretty good."

Two reasons Sessom feels Wheeler's defense, which returns eight starters off last year's unit, are tackle Jim Verden (6 - 3, 235) and middle linebacker Bill McIlhany

Quarterback Don Brown, halfback Danny Helton and end Robert Wells have been Wheeler's primary offensive sparkplugs.

"They throw the ball real good," Sessom said. "And they run right at you, too. Brown is a good quarterback and Danny Helton is a pretty good runningtailback.

"What's impressed me most is that middle linebacker, McIlhany. Verden is big and good. These other guys are not real big but they're real good."

The Mustangs fell to 1 - 1, after whipping Lefors 27 - 0 in the opener, with a 29 - 6 loss to Canadian a week ago. Wheeler, as a result, has had trouble preparing mentally for Groom but Coach Jim Robinson expected that to change Wednesday afternoon.

We're trying to get them ready. They were kind of down in the dumps Monday and Tuesday but I look for a better workout today (Wednesday)," Robinson said

"I think our open date (two weeks ago) was a big part of it. We lost momentum and everything. We didn't play well at all. Canadian made a lot of mistakes but they played good, sound football."

Wheeler mistakes were also plentiful. The Mustangs fumbled five times inside their 15 and lost four. Brown was intercepted twice.

There were few bright spots in the game, Robinson said. "We didn't have a very good game on offense. We had some holes at times but we didn't take advantage of them.

"Defensively, Don Brown, a linebacker, and Bill McIlhany did a pretty good job."

Robinson is optimistic, though. "I think the more we play, the better we'll get. They want to win. 'They'll work hard "Groom's real good. They're No. 6 in the state and they've beaten three Class A ball clubs already. The Brown kidon the line and their quarterback. Bivens, and their fullback, Britten, these are quality people.

Panhandle at Canadian

White Deer surprised Panhandle 22-0 in the area's most - lopsided upset last week as the Panthers fell to 1 - 2 for the season. Speedy halfback David Rowland may help Panhandle recover, although inexperience will make it difficult for the Panthers to realize success.

Canadian, 1 - 2, finally got its offense untracked, dumping heavily - favored Wheeler 29 - 6. Halfback Marty Carr and quarterback Roy Lee Todd pace the. offensive attack, while defensive backs Robert and Kevin Wilson are stalwarts on the other side.

Canadian has an added incentive. The game will mark the official dedication of the new Wildcat Stadium - Wildcats by 13.

Miami at Keyes, Okla.

Miami is 3 - 0 and has outscored its opponents by a 90 - 2 margin. Coach Bill Gilliland, whose Warriors are ranked first in District 2 - B, 8 - man, singles out nosequard Mark Mercer, lineback Kirk Flowers, center Stan Cowan and defensive end Mark Mercer as standouts thus far in the season but adds, "I could just keep naming them."

Keyes lost its third straight, falling to Yarbrough, Okla., 14 - 8 last week. Keyes, which normally plays with 11 men, will play eight against Miami.

Miami is on the warpath, off to one of its best starts in history — Warriors by 20.

White Deer at Lefors

The Bucks' 22 - 0 win over Panhandle was their first of the season and might spark a turnaround. Quarterback Allan Cummins led the attack last week, completing five of 10 passes for 122 yards. Halfback Steve Williams gained 48 yards, one less than Cummins, on 16 carries, as the two paced the Buck rushing attack

Lefors has yet to find success, losing its third straight (to Gruver 39 - 6), but close followers anticipate the Pirates will soon gell. A slow start last season didn't keep Lefors from having its best season ever as the Pirates advanced to the state semifinals'

A long - standing rivalry. In that kind of game, emotion usually plays as big a part as ability. White Deer's edge is in passing and defense, while Lefors. led by halfback Phil White, is a better running team. That's two good points compared to one . so - Bucks by 12.

The Marijuana War Part II

Tactics: Cat-and-mouse Game

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The United States is using pursuit planes, radar and the intuitive hunches of experienced customs agents as its chief weapons against the new airlift that marijuana smugglers have mounted across the Mexican and Gulf Coast borders

"Tactical interdiction," the Customs Bureau calls it. In an earlier period, it meant using pot-sniffing police dogs at border highway crossings, or highspeed patrol boats against illicit traffic by sea.

Now customs agents are flying a fleet of planes, scanning radar screens for suspicious blips. Sometimes they are alert enough to land right behind a smuggler's plane at a secret rendezvous field, making arrests and confiscating marijuana the moment it arrives.

"Tactical interdiction is basically a cat-and-mouse game," said Richard McGowan, the Customs Bureau information director. "It involves moving manpower around to get the best use of manpower.

"Our entire concept is that you can stop marijuana before it gets into the country, but not after it gets into the domestic pipeline."

How can a Customs plane spot a smuggler among the maze of air traffic along the Gulf coast or Mexican border?

"One thing overlooked is the maturity and success of the Customs patrol to develop resources and its own expertise," McGowan said. "Basically, that is the reason why we are getting major hits.

"We work with the South American customs people. Customs is a worldwide fraternity, an international exchange of information. You develop a body of information.

Many of the flights are tailed simply because they look suspicious.

Air controllers at Albuquerque, N. Mex., discovered earlier this year that 35 planes appeared on their radar scopes between 3:30 a.m. and 5 a.m. without filing flight plans of other advance notice.

There have been reports of planes flying in formation across the Mexican border at dawn, 500 feet above the ground.

"Usually, all you see is a blip on the screen," one official said. "You have no tail number and no idea of what the plane is doing.

The smugglers are using World War II B25 bombers, some with bomb bays left intact for air drops, as well as Lockheed Lodestars, Convairs and Lear corporate jets.

Last May, a Lockheed L18 crashed and burned near Rockwood, Tenn., killing two men aboard.

In June, a B25 pilot making a low-level drop apparently became confused and crashed near Dawsonville, Ga. Two passengers were burned almost beyond recognition. A mile away investigators found 2,000 pounds of marijuana that had missed its mark

The old bomber, built in 1943, was traced to a Texas man who had sold it for $16,000. Customs agents had been tracking it for two months and were following it on radar when it crashed.

"We knew it was there and tracked it as best we could. When it disappeared we knew something had happened," a customs official said.

Not far away at Buchanan, Ga., a DC4 landed the night of Aug. 5 on a crude, thousand-foot runway one-fifth the length that plane requires - which was freshly bulldozed out of a forest.

Agents arrested five men emerging from the woods, and seized the four-engine plane and 3,200 pounds of marijuana and hashish. Eight men were arrested later, but the pilot escaped.

"That pilot had a lot of nerve or he was pretty high on "something." said Haralson county deputy Gene Kirk.

At a small airport at Winder, Ga., an old propellerdriven Constellation carrying six tons of marijuana landed late the night of Aug. 21. Its crew of four locked up the cargo - worth upwards of an estimated $6 million - and disappeared

Federal agents confiscated the plane and destroyed its 218 neatly wrapped parcels of marijuana in an Atlanta steel company's furnace. The crew never returned to the scene, and their reason for landing at Winder is still a mystery.

Jim Dingfelder, a Miami customs spokesman, said he believes .the smuggling is carried out by individuals who drift in and out of the racket rather than large, highly organized gangs.

"As far as distribution points are concerned, I have no knowledge of any formal setup. Distribution points imply a well-organized machine, and at this point I don't think anyone can confirm that this exists,' he said

WASHINGTON - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D - Houston, has joined a growing number of lawmakers in urging that more federal staffing and dollars be directed to solar energy research.

Based on a Library of Congress study that he requested, Bentsen recently criticized the federal Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) for assigning less than two per cent of its professional staff to development of solar and geothermal energy. In releasing the report, the State's junior senator called for a "far more intensive effort" to develop engineering required to lower the costs of solar energy. Bentsen's study follows by several weeks a report compiled by the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, which said solar energy is a "promising alternative" to supplement the nation's power generating systems.

Viewed particularly for use in the southwest, solar energy is considered a non - depletable source which entails less environmental problems than othe systems. The Library of Congress study challenged by ERDA officials as being too limited, observed that of 1,651 professional staff positions at ERDA office here only 23 were assigned to solar research and six to geothernal. At the time, Pickle said the federal government should take more of a leading role in the development and use of solar

FRIDAY, SEPT. 26

Your birthday today: Begins a long campaign in your search for useful skills and realistic applications. Clear understanding of basic principles is necessary. Earning power increases at a normal rate because of advertising what you know and can do. Relationships are harmonious as long as you think constructively. Today's natives approach life with confidence, will not be turned aside once they've seen the possibilities.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Wind up serious negotiations now, or put them off for at least a month. Clear up problem areas and get set for three weeks of steady routine. Add to savings if at all possible.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Special considerations exist in financial dealings. Be alert for apparently trivial details that add up. Take strong initiative, ask for what is needed and be persistent.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Early rivalry leads to sparkling productivity in later hours. Youngsters occupy center stage. Pursue matters that would be otherwise hindered by too many people.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Think of your health and its care. Survey your home, plan changes that will increase its value and make it a safer and easier place to live in.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: As you proclaim the merits of your merchandise or line, remember that people don't know about things you take for granted. Once past morning hassles, you have it made. Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Decide on your agenda for the coming month. Finish existing projects so others can see exactly how they fit into your plans. Skip the shoptalk altogether after work.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Seek obscure information from people who have taken themselves out of the mainstream. If you aren't sure of your facts, you'll be misunderstood.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You're in your element with today's mixed influences. New factors create repercussions that complicate coming weeks. Expect slow going and temporary adversity. Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec.

21]: It's up to you to find your way through a tangle of conflicting ideas. Use common sense and avoid basic Sagittarian tendencies to throw things away on the slighest provocation.

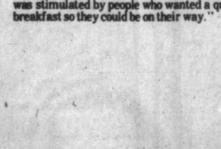

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]:Make a note of halfcompleted details. Get matters pulled together once and for all. A positive, optimistic attitude is expected of you. Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]:Taking things to an extreme comes about all too easily. It may require a friend to tell you when to stop. Inspiration is handy if you have the right perspective.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Emotional problems of loved ones pull you off-balance at work. Make decisions and set priorities. Leave the job in good shape so you won't have to retrace your steps later. -
