Fire Destroys Greenhouse At Top of Texas Growers

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

In a matter of minutes Monday afternoon Ron Rogers' 8,000 square foot hydroponic greenhouse was reduced to smoldering ashes and a charred skeleton. His wife was reduced to tears, and Rogers was saying he'd had enough.

"I'm not going to build it back again," said Rogers, owner of Top of Texas Growers Inc. "I've had it with that one. After going through freeze outs, a tornado, now a fire, after a while you get your stomach full."

The greenhouse, located about 6 miles west of Pampa on the Borger Highway, was a total loss.

The Pampa Fire Department received the call at 1:32 p.m. and responded with four units — two boosters, a pumper, and the emergency station wagon. Nine firemen were on the scene fighting the fire.

Dark smoke from the burning fiberglass-like covering of the greenhouse was blown by gusty winds across the highway. Highway patrolmen and officers from the Gray County Sheriff's office helped control the flow of traffic.

Glenn McConnell, a farmer who lives in the area and a former owner of the greenhouse was the first to report the fire. He also requested an ambulance, which was dispatched, because an employee of Top of Texas Growers was thought to be in the burning greenhouse. He was later discovered unharmed in one of the undamaged greenhouses located behind the burning one.

Firemen said that the fire apparently started from a small grass fire at the back of the building.

In addition to the greenhouse, a small frame building that served as an office for gasoline sales was destroyed.

A farm-type truck with a large tank full of gasoline in the bed — "at least 500 gallons," a fireman said — was parked in front of the burning structure. It was covered with smoke and about to be engulfed by flames when Capt. Charles Davis of the Pampa Fire Department entered the vehicle and drove it to safety.

Firemen's efforts were hampered by the winds and "all the power was on when we first got here and we couldn't do anything until it was shut off," Capt. Davis said.

"It was going pretty good when McConnell saw it," a fireman said today, "and it was really going when we got there. The roof was all off."

A little later he commented, "You win some, you lose some; some you get burned out."

Rogers bought the business in 1969 from McConnell. A tornado hit it in May of 1974 and damaged it heavily.

Rogers said that he had no insurance to help cover the tornado loss, but he said, as he turned the burning, that "this time I had insurance."

Ben Lick, an employee at Top of Texas Growers, said he was working in the greenhouses in back.

"I didn't know anything about this," he said, looking at the fire. "I kept hearing a crackling sound, but when I finally looked out, it was two-thirds gone."

Firemen were on the scene until about 5:30 p.m.

Rogers did not estimate the dollar loss due to the fire while he still was watching his building being consumed and he could not be reached early today for a comment.

However, no tomato plants were included in the loss because "we were just getting ready for another crop," he said.

The undamaged facilities at Top of Texas Growers house tomato plants grown in soil. The burned structure was the only facility that used hydroponics.

'Patty Being Brainwashed'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's parents and lawyers are trying to brainwash her into becoming "a loyal upper class woman," says her Symbionese Liberation Army companions.

William and Emily Harris also said Monday they will be pained and disillusioned if she abandons them.

The Harrises said the Hearst fortune has been thrown behind a defense strategy that pits Miss Hearst against them, portraying her not as their staunch revolutionary comrade but as the victim of SLA brainwashing and terror.

"The two of us are the sacrifice who will have to struggle against the pain and disillusionment that comes from seeing a truly beautiful woman apparently manipulated to the point where the Hearst lawyers are denying her strength and commitment," complained Mrs. Harris in a tape-recorded message distributed by her lawyer.

The Harrises held trial on 18 charges while Miss Hearst undergoes psychiatric examination in San Francisco, lost a court attempt Monday to present with their attorneys at a grand jury hearing against them.

Regarding Miss Hearst, Mrs. Harris said the newspaper heiress' defense strategy is "a sexist plot that presents her as a fragile female not responsible for her own actions," Mrs. Harris said.

Since our capture the Hearst empire has once again put into motion all the power and influence that blood money can buy," she said.

Calling Miss Hearst by her SLA name, she lashed out at "the attempt to brainwash Tania into becoming a loyal upper class woman or at the very least to label her as insane."

In an affidavit requesting that she be allowed to go home on bail while awaiting trial, Miss Hearst was presented as saying that she was drugged and driven close to insanity by the terror of her kidnap ordeal, and could remember little of her actions or life as a fugitive.

Weapons, bomb components, documents, cash and a green scarf found in two Symbionese Liberation Army "safe houses" may link Patricia Hearst and three other members of the small terrorist group with a bank robbery killing and several San Francisco Bay area bombings.

This was disclosed Monday when the FBI filed in U.S. District Court an inventory of the items agents found in the two houses after they arrested Miss Hearst, Wendy Yoshimura, William Harris and his wife, Emily, on Sept. 18 in San Francisco. The inventory was returned with the FBI's search warrant.

In a related development, attorneys for Miss Hearst, made a formal request in court for her transfer from the San Mateo County Jail to the McAuley Neuropsychiatric Institute at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco. The motion said confinement in the jail was "dangerous and hazardous to her health."

Found in the Harrises' house were several guns, three pipe bombs and the components for bombs as well as library books on explosives.

On April 21, a Crocker Bank branch in Carmichael, Calif., a suburb of Sacramento, was robbed and a woman shot and killed. The robbers got $18,000.

Tax Cut Being Debated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is expected to decide this weekend whether to recommend an extension of this year's personal income tax cut through 1976. Congress is likely to follow his advice — if he opts for an extension.

An extension will be invisible to the average taxpayer, but his paycheck would shrink if taxes were permitted to rise after Jan. 1 to their old levels.

For the nation, the decision has important implications about inflation, unemployment, economic growth.

When Congress passed a $25 billion tax cut in March, the largest in history, the purpose was to stimulate the economy to shake off the deepest recession since the 1930s.

Satisfied that the recession is ending even faster than they had hoped, but worried about a stubborn rate of inflation, most presidential advisers will probably urge Ford to ask Congress to let the "temporary" tax cut expire.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon fears that an extended tax cut will add billions to the amount the government must borrow, driving interest rates up, hindering business borrowing, adding pressure on prices and thwarting a weak housing industry.

Nonetheless, Congress is almost certain to vote to extend at least personal income tax cuts. To refuse is, in effect, to vote to raise taxes. Most economists say the recovery is too fragile to absorb a drop in the ability of consumers to spend money.

The 10 per cent oil price rise announced over the weekend by foreign producers also has the effect of soaking up buying power. The four-fold increase in foreign oil prices in 1973 and sharply rising food prices, caused partly by the Soviet grain sale, were responsible for the cut in purchasing power which brought on the recession.

Now the same two elements — rising energy prices, rising food prices — are coalescing again, and Congress may turn to the same solution, reduced taxes, to restore buying power.

Anyway — 1976 is an election year, a poor time politically to let taxes go up.

City To Inaugurate New Budget Wednesday

By TEX DEWESE
Pampa News Staff

The City of Pampa drew to the close of its 1974-75 fiscal year today, and on Wednesday will begin operating under the $3,031,954 budget for fiscal 1975-76.

The budget carries with it a flat 10 per cent salary increase for the city's nearly 200 employees.

It also has supporting legislation to increase municipal utility rates and hikes the city tax rate from $1.90 per $100 assessed property valuation to $1.95.

The new budget is $294,000 or 10.7 per cent higher than the budget of $2,737,900 for the year ending today.

The new utility rates, effective tomorrow and to be reflected on first October billings will include a 20-cent increase in the minimum water rate from $4.30 to $4.50 a month for the first 3,000 gallons, and 80-cent per month increase for sanitary sewer costs from $2 to $2.80 and the residential garbage and trash collection fee up $1.20 a month from $3 to $4.20.

The $1.95 tax rate, up from $1.90, is reflected in tax statements already mailed to real and personal property owners. The 1975 tax bill is currently due and will become delinquent after next Jan. 30.

City officials explain that budget increases for the new fiscal year are due to the salary increases, additional benefits under the Municipal Retirement System, increased energy costs and the inflated cost of equipment, supplies and materials used by the city.

City Manager Mack Wofford has pointed out that the budget does not contain any new services or provide for any additional city employees.

Now the same two elements — rising energy prices, rising food prices — are coalescing again, and Congress may turn to the same solution, reduced taxes, to restore buying power.

Anyway — 1976 is an election year, a poor time politically to let taxes go up.

Futile Fight

Firemen could do little more than prevent the fire from spreading to nearby gasoline pumps and surrounding grasslands Monday when Top of Texas Growers Inc.

Order May Stop Packerland

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

A temporary restraining order soon may be issued to Packerland Packing Co. of Texas Inc., forcing them to stop operating the rendering plant located behind the main building of the packing plant on Highway 60 just east of Pampa.

John Warner, director of the regional office of the Texas Air Control Board in Lubbock, said Monday afternoon that he is coming to Pampa on Wednesday or Thursday "to look at the problem and talk to some country and city health officials."

Gerald Hudson, a TACB director from Lubbock, was in Pampa on Wednesday and Thursday investigating the Packerland odor situation. As a result of Hudson's findings, Warner said that five citations on Packerland would be "sent out this week." Three of the citations concern the rendering plant's operating without an air scrubber and the other two are for violation of a nuisance clause.

"We don't have any equipment to measure the extent of the odor and determine whether or not the odor is in compliance with a specific state regulation," Warner explained. "There is not a state regulation on allowable levels of odors since we cannot measure it. The only thing our regulation speaks to is the word 'nuisance'."

Rule 5 of the general rules of the Texas Air Control Board, the nuisance clause, states that "no person shall discharge from any source whatsoever one or more air contaminants or combinations thereof, in such concentration and of such duration as are, or may tend to be, injurious to or adversely affect human health or welfare, animal life, vegetation or property, or as to interfere with the normal use and enjoyment of animal life, vegetation or property."

Warner said that rule is "the only thing in odor cases we have to work on. If we go out and try to build a case on what our noses tell us, it doesn't carry a lot of weight unless we've got a lot of complaints from people with the same opinion."

The citations being issued this week are not the first ones received by Packerland for operating without the required air scrubber equipment that is designed to clean the air of odors given off in the rendering plant. Warner cited Packerland for the same violation when he was in Pampa in August to investigate the situation.

The two citations issued for the violation of the nuisance odor are the first to be directed to the plant for that violation, Warner said.

"Technically," Warner said, "there is a violation for every day of operation. Any day we go by there and see that rendering plant operating we can issue a citation."

While he is in Pampa this week, Warner said he will "emphasize to Mr. Frankenthal (Howard Frankenthal, manager of Packerland) that there is a direct need for him to immediately control his odor problem."

The TACB official said "We want to work to try to settle the problem. But citizens want relief and if it is the only way it can be provided, a temporary restraining order can be issued."

Warner indicated that he will make a decision on whether or not to issue a temporary restraining order while in Pampa Wednesday or Thursday and if it is decided the order is needed, he said he "will call back to the compliance department in Austin and inform them that TRO is needed. I very much want to alleviate the problem for the citizens of Pampa," he said.

Warner said that the order can be issued from Austin without a public hearing on the matter first being held.

"More than likely a public hearing wouldn't help in this case," he said. "You have to give 30 days notice before holding a public hearing, then information gained at a public hearing would be turned over to the Texas Air Control Board (a nine-member board appointed by the governor). They only meet once a month, and depending on how the public hearing hit, it might be another month. If there's really a problem, there's two months, possibly, before the Texas Air Control Board would act on it."

On Aug. 28 Frankenthal told The News that an air scrubber system "for the purpose of odor abatement" had been ordered, was being manufactured, and would be ready for installation in November.

He also said that if he is required to cease operations of the rendering facility it will "economically require us to shut down our complete operation, putting approximately 200 employees out of work."

The air scrubber system under construction for Packerland reportedly is costing the firm more than $70,000.

Packerland currently is buying 700 head of cattle daily, Frankenthal said, many are purchased from the immediate Pampa area and others are brought to Pampa from up to 350 miles away.

R. D. Wilkerson, mayor of Pampa, said today that "while the City of Pampa has no jurisdiction at all over this plant, we are certainly interested in its operation and success, not only because of its economic impact on the business community and the agribusiness of the area, but also on the importance of its 200-plus employees who live in our community. We think Packerland has done a great job of recovery from their fire in a very short time and their corporate responsibility to their employees during this period has been great. We most certainly need an industry of this type to maintain a diversified position in Pampa's industrial complex."

Kay Fancher, president of the Pampa Industrial Foundation, said "I think it would be a real travesty to shut them down. They've been, I think, good citizens. They are a vital economic factor in the community and they are just now getting back to a normal work flow after what I would consider a remarkable recovery from that fire in mid-April. They are still in the process of rebuilding. They kept all their regular employees on the payroll since the fire occurred."

Mrs. Vincent Simon, manager of Pampa Office Supply, said that if Packerland is closed, "it would hurt Pampa a great deal. We need Packerland for the economy of Pampa. There is an odor problem, right, but we've had odors from Celanese and we've lived with it. Celanese took care of theirs and Packerland should be given time to take care of their problem."

Red Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said, "I would certainly hope that something could be worked out that would enable them to continue operations because of what it means to the economy of the area. We understand that they have plans under way, with equipment ordered, to correct the situation. I would encourage people to be patient because of what it means to the economy."

Remove the Roadblocks

Scientists and technologists have always found solutions to America's energy problems and, if they are given the necessary freedom of action, they will do it again, according to the noted historian, Dr. Paul H. Giddens.

Writing in "Petroleum Today," the president emeritus of Hamline University traced a series of energy "crises" from the whole oil shortage of the 1840's and 1850's to the present time.

In the early 1850's, Giddens reminds us, the American whaling fleet alone numbered more than 700 vessels. Sperm oil sold for between $2.00 and $2.50 a gallon, and it was expected to go as high as $5.00 a gallon because the supply was dwindling and America was entering the Industrial Revolution with its needs for all kinds of energy-using machinery.

American ingenuity, given free play in the market place, led to the development of oils pressed from the seed of a member of the cabbage family, to a variety of fuels derived from turpentine, to lard oil, and to the manufacture of coal oil, better known today as kerosene.

Then came August 27, 1859 — the day on which Edwin L. Drake completed drilling the nation's first oil well at Titusville, Pa. Within a short period of time, Dr. Giddens writes, "thousands of men rushed to Pennsylvania's Oil Creek to drill for oil."

Another serious oil shortage began to develop in the early 1900's. Despite the gigantic "spindletop" discovery near Beaumont, Texas, the growth in oil demand seemed to be far outstripping the industry's ability to find the produce oil.

Planning Without Plan

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is predicted to take a new educationist cast under its new secretary, former University of Alabama president David Mathews, has announced it is awarding $10 million grants "in support of 81 career education projects."

Here are the grantees, six of them, paid for with tax money:

- Improvement of existing kindergarten through high school career education programs ($5,802,756 — 45 projects)
- Developing career education in particular settings such as the senior high school, community college, and institutions of higher education ($918,691 — seven projects)
- Benefiting special segments of the population, such as the handicapped, gifted and talented, minorities, low income, and female youth ($1,045,364 — 12 projects)
- Training and restraining personnel conducting career education programs ($750,298 — four projects)
- Informing educators and the public of career education methods, activities and evaluation results ($1,173,708 — 12 projects)
- As required by law, conducting a survey and assessment of career education

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

Sorry, No Bailout for N.Y. City

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. (Ind-Va.) has performed an immensely valuable public service by alerting the American people to the danger of a federal bailout of New York City, which is tottering on the verge of bankruptcy. He has done this in an open letter to President Ford, appealing to him to stand firm against bailing out the spendthrift metropolis.

The taxpayers of the nation should not be made to pay for the irresponsibility of New York City politicians and its equally irresponsible unions and pressure groups. If the federal government attempts a rescue operation for New York, it will have to do the same for every other financially troubled community in the nation. A dangerous precedent will be set. As Sen. Byrd said in his letter, "It will be a bottomless pit."

New York City can put its house in order if its people have the will. The State of New York, under recently enacted legislation, can insist on meaningful fiscal reform, providing Gov. Carey of New York has the determination to effect reform in the city. No reason exists for the federal government to step into the situation when municipal and state authorities have yet to do what is necessary to restore the city's credit.

New York City is a horrible example of welfareism, union power politics, and pressure group agitation — all resulting in gross overspending and appalling public debt.

Consider the situation, as reported by Sen. Byrd.

The city government engaged in deceptive bookkeeping. Deficit spending began a decade ago under the Wagner administration. Between 1965 and 1969, the number of persons on welfare jumped from 500,000 to one million.

Year after year, despite a decline in business, the city added public employees. New York City now has 51 employees for every 1,000 inhabitants. In most other large cities, the ratio is 35 per 1,000.

New York City employees' earnings increased 129 per cent in the 1960s. For the comparable period, the increase in the private sector was only 85 per cent.

The cost of the pensions of city employees is a scandal. For example, Sen. Byrd cited the case of a $13,000 a year municipal bus driver who retired on a $15,000 annual pension. Pensions cost $17 million when Mayor John V. Lindsay took office in 1965. By 1980, they are expected to cost $1.7 billion.

Though the city's financial problems have been front page news for months, the city continues to maintain a tuition-free university system.

It is no wonder, therefore, that the cost of government in New York City has tripled in 11 years. The city owes $8 billion in long-term debt and about $4 billion in short-term debt. Sen. Byrd reports that the short-term debt is "about 30 per cent of all short-term debt incurred by all states, cities, counties and local authorities in this nation."

New York, then, is the champion profligate municipal spender of all time. Even as New Yorkers appealed to the federal government for help, the city's school teachers went on strike for additional benefits. Such is the temper of the metropolis.

Sen. Byrd rightly opposes a federal bailout of this type of community and city government. He asks: "How could a federal bailout, which would include the speculators and big banks and others who have invested in New York City bonds at a remarkably high and tax-free yield, be justified to this country's hardworking wage earners?"

Obviously, it couldn't be justified. As Sen. Byrd told President Ford, it is extremely unlikely that the American taxpayer would tolerate the use of his hard-earned tax dollars to guarantee tax-exempt income for New York City investors.

in the United States ($308,604 — one project).

Hasn't anyone notified HEW that, post-Baby Boom, there is a full-on decline in enrollments in schools at all levels? That right now the country is going through a painful glut of trained, certified teachers? That government bureaus should not try to embark on long-range projects without reference to market trends?

Somebody isn't planning.

JUSTICE DOUGLAS His Condition Still Unchanged

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 — Justice William O. Douglas is pathetically exemplifying that old saying — "The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak."

Physically and mentally the 76-year-old radical is unfit to return to the Supreme Court when its next term opens Oct. 6. The indisputable evidence is there is no change in the severe paralysis he sustained in a stroke last Dec. 31.

Douglas remains as impaired and immobile as when stricken nine months ago.

Months of specialized physiotherapy, including 15 weeks at the noted New York Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine, produced no discernible improvement. Similarly, his two-month stay at his isolated vacation home at Goose Prairie, Wash., in the Cascade Mountains, has not helped — as he hopefully expected.

In fact, he looks weaker and older than when he left the Institute against the advice of doctors.

His paralyzed left arm and leg are still useless. The arm hangs limp, and has to be moved by him or someone else. The hand is equally ineffectual. Also he is still dependent on a wheelchair to get around, to stand and shuffle a few paces Douglas needs support.

While at Goose Prairie, on a few motor trips he made.

Douglas had to be lifted in and out of a car by his son.

That was Douglas's only venturing from his cottage.

Definitely there was nothing remotely resembling "mountain climbing" — as he propagandistically boasted to newsmen as he was wheeled out of the Institute in July.

To The Bitter End
Only reason the stroke-crippled radical jurist is inflexibly bent on resuming his court seat is long-seething personal and ideological enmity toward President Ford.

To intimidate, Douglas makes no bones of that.

Commenting on a published analysis of the Court's record last term (stressing that Douglas's absence had importantly reduced the tribunal's output), he snapped, "That's bunk. They're just trying to push me off. But I'm staying whether they like it or not. I am not going to let Ford appoint my successor."

For a man in Douglas's direly incapacitated condition, that will take some doing.

President Ford's term does not expire for another 16 months — January 1977. Whether Douglas, drastically enfeebled and paralyzed, can hold on physically that long is a very big question.

At this age and in his condition, there is absolutely no likelihood of his regaining mobility and health.

EDUCATION Readers Show Concern Over English Decline

By MAX RAFFERTY

Q — "I have just read your column on the drop in literacy as reflected in the new 'easy' college texts. I wish that that clear, forceful message could be drilled into every teacher in the land."

"But there is another curricular problem I would like to see a blast on: the English grammar that no longer exists. My wife and I are appalled at the bad grammar used by public people of all classes — even Ph. D.s. A teacher friend of mine told me: 'We don't teach grammar any more.'"

"Don't you think that one of the main causes of this situation is the dropping of Latin from the high school curriculum? I learned as much English grammar studying Latin as I did in English classes." — C.A.L., Tulsa, Okla.

A — No question about it. It's impossible to master Latin without acquiring a superior knowledge of English grammar.

Q — "I am a retired English teacher. It is my strong feeling that we need to get back to fundamentals — to the 3Rs, if you will. It is very discouraging to find so many young people in our colleges who are illiterate. They have been taught by 'educators,' not by scholars."

"One young man told me he didn't need competence in English; he intended to be a 'business man' and he would have a 'secretary' to do his spelling for him. He agreed with me 'holehardly,' however, that English should be taught to those who intended to teach or be experts in 'litature.'"

"When will we ever rid ourselves of these 'educators' and get some teachers back into our classrooms?" — L.E., Lansing, Tenn.

A — When local school boards start requiring a minimum passing grade in standardized English and reading tests as a prerequisite for high school graduate, and when our colleges and universities start doing the same thing as a requirement for freshman admission.

Q — "Regarding the law on availability of school records to parents, I disagree with your conclusion of its immediate effect on school record keeping.

"Because of this law (the Buckley bill), the teachers in the school where I work are now more careful and aware about what they put down, true. We are careful not to make judgmental statements; instead, we simply record behavior and performance. We do not say, 'Mary is immature and has emotional problems,' but rather, 'Mary cries every day.' We do not say, 'Jack is retarded,' but we do record how he performs on a given day."

A — Yes, and this is precisely what I was afraid would happen in the wake of this jackass law. You see, as a lifelong teacher, I positively need to know the "judgements" of my fellow teachers as to what's wrong with Junior, just as I would want to know the conclusions and judgments of my fellow physicians if I were a medical doctor. If I called them in for consultation and all they said about my patient was, 'He has a chronic fever of 101' or 'His blood pressure is 190 over 85,' I would be upset, to put it mildly. What I would want is their considered judgment as to what is wrong with my patient. And confound it! That's what I want as a teacher, too. This is why we spend years becoming members of a learned profession — so that our "judgments" will be worth sharing with our colleagues.

When I consult Mary's cumulative record folder, I already know she cries every day. What I want are professional suggestions on what causes the crying — a description of what my predecessors have done for Mary in the past which has been either helpful or harmful.

I repeat what I've said before: When your congressman and senator come around looking for your vote next year, tell them to get this particular monkey off our backs.

DEAR ABBY: Why are people ashamed to admit that they watch television?

I have friends who say, "I NEVER watch television, but I just happened to catch 'All In The Family' last Monday evening, and..."

That kind of snobbery irks me to no end. What's with these phonies, anyway?

DEAR ENJOYS: Most people would like to appear to be more intellectual than they really are, and since they regard watching TV as something less than an intellectual pursuit, they're reluctant to admit that they're constant viewers.

It's the same kind of insecurity that causes people to say they read the book when they only saw the movie.

DEAR ABBY: With all the important problems you get, mine will probably sound like nothing, but I sure need some advice.

I am married to a stubborn, hot-tempered man who has a terrible foot odor. His feet perspire, and he won't change his shoes and socks or bathe his feet when he comes home. He leaves his shoes on right up until it's time to go to bed, then he takes them off and leaves them in the bedroom. This smells up the whole bedroom like you wouldn't believe. It sure repels me from any romantic ideas I might have.

I have bought him foot deodorant and anti-fungicide sprays, which he used a few times reluctantly, but it didn't help much.

I can't sleep anywhere else because I have a bad back and have to sleep on an extra firm mattress that is in the bedroom we share. What do I do now?

ASPHYXIATED IN SAN CARLOS

DEAR AS: Move the extra firm mattress to another room and pleasant dreams.

DEAR ABBY: I am a clergyman, and as such, I perform many marriage ceremonies.

My pet peeve is the well-meaning shutterbug who insists on flashing his camera during the wedding service.

One such photographer actually kept crawling around on the altar, adjusting the bride's veil and the groom's coat. He even asked me to please "lean in" a little more toward the couple. And all this while I was performing the ceremony!

Please put something in your column to discourage this type of thing.

DISTRACTED PASTOR

DEAR DISTRACTED: Seems to me that a pastor performing a marriage is, or should be, in command. He should lay down conditions for photography, and if the client couple dislikes the conditions, let 'em hunt up another pastor.

Thailand Still Serving As US Listening Post

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The Thai government has ordered the last American combat troops out of this Southeast Asian nation by March, but is expected to let the United States keep on monitoring Soviet and Chinese communications.

Thailand decided to bend with the wind and go along with North Vietnamese demands for the ouster of all U.S. warplanes and combat troops left from the Indochina war.

But well-informed Thai and American sources say the United States will keep on operating secret communications stations that can pick up radio and telephone transmissions made thousands of miles away in China and the Soviet Union.

One of the stations is the 1,200-man U.S. Army installation at Ramasun in northeast Thailand near the Laotian border.

Ramasun, 300 miles from Bangkok, has become increasingly important as a listening post since the United States ended eavesdropping operations in the Philippines.

"Thailand is now the only place we have between Taiwan and Turkey that handles these jobs — and Turkey has just about shut down since the dispute over U.S. military aid," one informed American source said.

Another post expected to remain is an Air Force radar station at Ko Kha in northern Thailand. It is used to monitor the movements of Soviet as well as U.S. space satellites.

Informed sources said Thai officials want installations such as Ramasun and Ko Kha to stay because they believe the outposts will benefit Thailand as well as the United States.

Officials will not discuss the work of Ramasun except to say that "electronic research projects are undertaken in support of various elements of the U.S. government."

It is known, however, that the outpost listens in on military and civilian communications from the Soviet Union and China. The transmissions are recorded and processed through computers.

Air Force, Navy and Army personnel work at the base. The staff is also believed to include employees of the National Security Agency, the secret government agency that deals with code-breaking and electronic surveillance.

Wheat Sale Braking Inflation?

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI) — A West Texas economist believes the sale of American wheat to the Soviet Union will act as a brake on world inflation, a deduction he says is derived from applying the basic tools of his trade.

"One can reach these conclusions directly from the most elementary lessons of economics," says Dr. Glenn Burress, visiting professor of economics and finance at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

The price of wheat is determined in a world market by the world-wide supply of and demand for wheat," he says. "The crop failure in Russia means there is a reduction in the world supply of wheat."

If Russia did not have the financial resources to enter the world market and buy wheat to make up for its shortages, the failure might have little impact on the world price.

"But Russia has the resources," Burress says. "She doesn't even need credit. She could pay for the wheat with gold — if necessary."

"The price would move higher if Russia were to buy wheat from other countries rather than the United States because other countries have less wheat to sell and because in other nations Russia would probably be negotiating with government officials rather than private businesses," Burress says.

Higher prices paid by the Russians for their wheat would drive up wheat prices everywhere, including the United States, and up would go inflation worldwide, he concludes.

Humphrey Wants More Money From Government For Arts

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., wants increased federal spending in support of the arts and says former President Richard Nixon supported the idea.

"That is why I would like to see artists paid for performing services which the public can feel and see and hear — which make immediate and obvious improvements in the conditions of public life."

"People everywhere have seen and felt the impact of the arts now, and they will not be satisfied with the occasional trip to the East or West Coast metropolis, or the infrequent presentation of great drama or dance on television," Humphrey said. "They want to see paintings, and to hear Beethoven in live performance."

Humphrey, speaking Monday at a symposium on the arts at the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs, said the people want enrichment through the arts. He praised Nixon, who defeated him for the presidency in 1968, for supporting an increased budget for arts endowment.

"Despite the deeply troublesome aspects of his administration, he did offer encouragement for our national arts effort," Humphrey said.

Humphrey, speaking on the 10th anniversary of the National Endowment for the Arts, said the people once would not support government support of the arts but today encourage it.

"Many of you can remember from first-hand experience — as I can — a time when the idea that public funds should be devoted to supporting the arts was regarded by a lot of people as either foolish, or outrageous, or both," he said.

"The level of public appropriations for the arts must rise to meet the awakened needs for our citizens for them."

Humphrey said until federal spending does increase, cities could hire jobless artists to support local arts development.

"Those of us who care about the arts ought to urge such programs for various practical reasons," Humphrey said. "Perhaps the most compelling of these is that the public would benefit directly from them."

Actor Kirk Douglas says not to worry about government interference in the arts, but Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., is concerned anyway.

Teen Kidnapper Charged as Adult

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Authorities want to file adult charges against one of two teen-agers suspected of the $10,000 kidnap and murder of a 5-year-old girl.

Deputy District Attorney Chuck Heim planned to ask a grand jury today to charge a 16-year-old boy as an adult in the death of Gloria Sue Pinter, 5.

"We have decided to seek to have one of the two juveniles in custody treated as an adult," Heim said Monday. "We haven't decided at this time whether the other juvenile held should be charged and, if so, in what form."

Heim said the second suspect, also 16, could not be charged as an adult unless charges of first-degree murder and kidnaping were filed against him.

Authorities also confirmed they were questioning a member of the victim's family in the case, but refused to identify the person in question.

"We have a member of the family in custody and we're questioning him," a police spokesman said. "That's about all I can say."

The victim apparently was killed Sept. 26 shortly after she disappeared from her home. A demand for $10,000 in ransom was received by the girl's mother and the two 16-year-old boys were arrested when they appeared at the Valley Hi Golf Course to pick up the money. A third suspect, 17, was also arrested, but was later released.

Authorities said the ransom apparently was to have been paid with money from a life insurance policy left by the victim's father. Pinter, a retired Army sergeant who saw action in Vietnam, died of cancer Sept. 11.

Police Capt. John J. Collins said a key to an apartment near the girl's home was found in one of the suspect's pockets when he was arrested. A search turned up the victim's body Saturday and a coroner's report said the girl had been struck on the head and apparently choked to death on her own vomit. She had not been sexually molested.

Humphrey Says US Can't Refuse Food

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says the United States cannot refuse increases in Mideast oil prices by refusing to sell food to the Arabs.

"You can't control a world (food) market," Humphrey said Monday. "It's a free market economy and the minute that you try to control a free market economy, you get into trouble."

Humphrey said the United States could sell wheat to Russia in return for their oil. But the nation will be hurt by the 2 percent increase in Arab oil and must develop its own reserves, Humphrey said.

"It (the increase) will take jobs," Humphrey said. "It's a body blow, really, a very serious matter and it'll make us make some recalculations."

"I suggest we govern ourselves under decent standards and develop our own energy resources. This country has no energy shortage."

Humphrey, in town for an arts symposium, said he is not a candidate for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

Franco Forces Counter Rebels

MADRID (UPI) — Supporters of Generalissimo Francisco Franco today mounted a campaign to counter a wave of indignation at home and abroad over the execution of five urban guerrillas. The executions brought widespread anti-Spanish demonstrations throughout Europe and South America.

Madrid Mayor Miguel Angel Garcia Lomas called on the capital's 3.5 million population to demonstrate Wednesday against a "dark attack on Spain and her sovereignty," and it was considered likely that Franco, 82, would attend personally.

Right-wingers smeared some Madrid houses with pro-Franco and anti-Communist slogans, and in Barcelona extremists firebombed the Belgian consulate and the offices of the French Air Force.

A dozen nations recalled their ambassadors in protest against the executions but the strongest protest came from Mexico which called on the United Nations to oust Spain from the organization and to mount a worldwide economic and political boycott. Spain called this demand "intolerable interference" in her domestic affairs.

A senior U.S. government official in New York said Washington does not plan any official protests. The United States is currently engaged in talks with the Spanish government over renewing agreements on the American bases in Spain.

Tens of thousands of Basques Monday paralyzed parts of northern Spain with strikes and antigovernment activities. In several cities police Monday night quelled street demonstrations against the death sentences.

In Barcelona, police scattered several hundred persons carrying banners and shouting slogans such as "no to the death penalty!" and "freedom! freedom!" In Bilbao, police detained an unknown number of antigovernment Basques trying to stage a march along the city's main avenue.

The mayor asked the people of Madrid to attend a mass rally at noon Wednesday in Plaza de Oriente, a square which has been the site of huge demonstrations in times of crisis. The rally coincides with the 39th anniversary of Franco's inauguration as Caudillo (leader) of Spain in Burgos, then the capital of the Nationalist forces in the 1936-39 Civil War.

In the latest protest against the executions, China canceled a tour by a troupe of circus artists and acrobats. China is one of three Communist countries maintaining diplomatic relations with Spain.

Protest strikes called in the Basque provinces by underground organizations fizzled today, after tens of thousands of industrial workers had stopped work Monday.

Pizza Inn Asks Court To Declare No Liability

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The Pizza Inn Inc. has tendered a $6,900 check as final payment for construction to the 31st District Court and requested to court to declare that the Inn has no liability to several defedants named in a fixed price contract suit.

The suit stems from a construction contract with Landmark Contractors Inc. dated Nov. 11, 1974, which allegedly called for completion of the Pizza Inn in Pampa within 120 days from the date of the contract. The total price was $69,000, according to the petition.

Pizza Inn alleges that Landmark was to provide reasonable evidence that all lein claimants were paid. But the Pizza company contends that before the final 10 per cent was paid it became aware that some construction claims were not paid.

The firm paid $20,700 on Dec. 15, 1974, the same amount on April 2 and April 16, according to the petition. The inn was completed on April 28, according to the petition but Landmark failed to provide evidence that all lein claims were paid.

The list of defendants in the suit includes Landmark Contractors Inc., Allison & Associates Inc., Fireplace Distributors, Vernon Brantwein, Jerry Clifton Massey, d-b-a, Jerry's J & W Carpets, Nathan Miller b-b-a, N.F. Miller Plumbing Co., Elco Glass Works

Meany Warns of Recession

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has warned the nation's union leaders that the economic policies of President Ford portend another recession —

"deeper and more serious than today's."

In an advance report to the AFL-CIO's national biennial convention Monday, Meany also attacked the policy of detente as "a fraud and a failure."

The AFL-CIO president's economic predictions coincided with a public opinion poll outlined Monday by Sen. J. Bennett Johnston at a meeting of maritime union leaders. He said the poll indicates a majority of Americans also foresee a worsening of the economy.

Meany charged administration economists have "lied, deceived, distorted and misled" the people with outmoded policies that favor big business and try to use the unemployed "in a dangerous political game."

"The idea is to pit worker against worker for available jobs," he said, adding there are some who hope high unemployment will break the traditional alliance of labor and civil rights groups over the issue of job seniority.

Johnston, who heads the Senate Democratic campaign committee, said the 52 per cent of the citizens surveyed in his committee's poll believe that the worst economic developments are still ahead of them. Thirty-six per cent disagreed, he said.

Asked whether the recession is over, he said, 60 per cent replied no and 27 per cent said yes.

Prison Director Walks Out of Reform Meeting

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — State prison director W.J. Estelle was hostile to a correctional reform group which includes ex-convicts and his walkout at their meeting was an insult, some of those attending the abortive meeting said Monday.

"I would call it quite unprofessional and an insult to the people who were there," Rep. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, said.

Charles Sullivan of Citizens United for the Rehabilitation of Errants said he expected Estelle to follow his customary procedure of speaking about 30 minutes and then accept questions from the audience.

But Estelle told the group meeting in Huntsville Sunday he would leave at the completion of his prepared speech because his family was waiting for him to attend church.

Sullivan said one man interrupted Estelle's speech to request he answer questions instead. Another man quickly asked Estelle to comment on "foul play in the Carrasco affair," the futile prison escape attempt last year of narcotics gangster Fred Gomez Carrasco in which four persons died.

"There was," Estelle said. He turned and left the room.

"Mr. Estelle only had to travel four blocks to be present at our convention," Sullivan said. "But there were many people who had to travel hundreds of miles. I think he was very hostile and that he was there to confront us."

Sullivan said Estelle seemed nervous around ex-convicts. Travis County Sheriff Raymond Frank answered the group's questions and said some were tough.

Patty Reportedly Asked To Join SLA

United Press International Rolling Stone magazine reported Monday that Patricia Hearst asked to join the Symbionese Liberation Army and after listening on radio to the Los Angeles shootout which killed most of the SLA was driven across the country by sports activist Jack Scott.

In the magazine's latest issue released today Rolling Stone correspondents Howard Kohn and David Weir quoted "informed sources" as giving "the inside story" of Miss Hearst's kidnaping and 19 month disappearance.

The magazine said Scott helped Miss Hearst and her fellow SLA members, William and Emily Harris, leave the San Francisco area when they were in their most dire circumstances by driving Miss Hearst to a Pennsylvania farm house last summer. He then drove her back to the West Coast in the fall, it said.

During the summer, sources said Miss Hearst told Scott of her kidnaping, detention and switch from wealthy socialite to radical guerrilla.

After her kidnaping on Feb. 4, 1974, the magazine said Miss Hearst was blindfolded in a stuffy closet but was not otherwise brutalized or starved. During that time Donald DeFreeze, the ex-convict leader of the SLA known as Cinque, kept harping on her family ties — "Your mommy and daddy are insects."

The magazine said Miss Hearst became disillusioned with her family and friends and feared for her life because of the possibility that law enforcement officers might break into the hideout at any time.

"By degrees her disillusionment with her parents turned into sympathy for the SLA," Rolling Stone said. "Seven weeks after she was kidnaped, Patty asked to join the SLA."

It said the other SLA members were opposed but DeFreeze wanted her as part of the gang and, as "undisputed leader of the SLA," he prevailed.

DeFreeze and five other members of the SLA died in a shootout in Los Angeles on May 17, 1974. Rolling Stone said Miss Hearst and the Harrises were on a street nearby and listened to radio accounts of the holocaust.

Harris bought a used car for $350—almost all the money the three had—and they left the area with Miss Hearst hidden under a blanket in the back seat, the magazine said.

Rolling Stone then gave the following account of the fugitives' flight:

The three drove to San Francisco but had to abandon the car because its battery died. They were turned down by a friend who told them "You can't stay here" and spent the night in a crawlspace under an old house where a party was going on.

For the next several weeks they lived in flophouses, Harris disguised as a wino and the two women as dirty faced hags. Running out of money and food, Miss Harris went to a rally in Ho Chi Minh Park in Berkeley to seek help.

There she met Kathy Soliah, currently being sought by police for her part in Miss Hearst's flight, who offered a place to stay for a short time. But just when they thought they would have to move again, a friend introduced them to Scott.

Scott, who had written a number of books about radicalizing sports, was interested in writing a book about the SLA and through contacts and waiting at a street corner for more than an hour got an address where he could meet the fugitives.

The Harrises greeted him with their SLA names—"Yolanda" and "Teko." Miss Hearst was also in the apartment and their were weapons all around.

They sought Scott's help but he said he would not unless they gave up the weapons. There was a bitter argument, Scott ended up staying the night but in the morning they agreed there would be no guns.

Scott's wife, Micki, arranged to rent the Pennsylvania farm house and Scott was to drive Miss Hearst to it from California. The Harrises were to find another way to get there through friends.

Scott and Miss Hearst, dressed in sports clothes with tennis rackets in the back rack of the car, drove across the country. Scott offered to take her anywhere she wanted—presumably meaning back to her parents—but she said she wanted "to go where my friends are going."

They registered at motels as husband and wife with Miss Hearst eating all her meals in the car or the motel room. There was tension between the two with Miss Hearst believing she saw policemen everywhere the pair went.

They eventually reached the farmhouse and Mrs. Harris arrived a short time later. But Harris was stranded in Berkeley. Scott flew back to California and in a rented car drove Harris back, the two posing as a gay couple.

The fugitives spent a restful summer at the farmhouse, reading, swimming, fishing and sunbathing. The Scotts brought Wendy Yoshimura, who was sought for a 1972 bombing in Berkeley and was later arrested with Miss Hearst, from New York to the farmhouse.

During the summer, Miss Hearst had her conversation with Scott on her abduction, her transformation to radical and her love of slain SLA member Willie Wolfe. She said Wolfe and DeFreeze were the ones that kidnaped her and her fiance Stephen Weed was wrong when it said it was two black men who took her.

There were no guns at the retreat and the Harrises conceded that the use of violence had backfired because it turned off poor people. But by the end of the summer, the bickering between the Scotts and the fugitives intensified.

Scott wanted to get back into sports and had developed a friendship with basketball star Bill Walton. But first, they wanted to disassociate themselves with the SLA members.

Through friends on the West Coast, a new team to hide the SLA members was set up in California. The fugitives began practicing disguises, including Miss Hearst wearing a pillow under her dress to make it appear she was pregnant.

Scott drove Miss Hearst back to the West Coast. At one point in Iowa, their van was stopped for speeding, but Scott, getting out of the van before the policeman could get to it, joked with the officer about football and got away undetected.

Miss Hearst was left in a motel in Las Vegas while Scott visited his parents, and then the final California contact was made. Miss Hearst returned to San Francisco Sept. 27, 1974 and that was the last Scott saw of her until she was arrested.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

The 1975 National Mixed Team - of - Four Championship was won by a team captained by Nancy Gruver, of Ellicott City, Md. Her teammates included Helen Utegaard, of Gaithersburg, Md.; Gerry Caravelli, of Des Plaines, Ill.; and Jim Linhart, of New York City.

One of the deals that aided this quartet in winning the event was the following. In it, Mrs. Utegaard came up with a simple but devastating falsecard which had the effect of steering declarer into adopting the losing line of play. Mrs. Utegaard was sitting West.

North-South vulnerable. East deals.

Opening lead: Eight of ♠.
West opened the eight of diamonds, and when East followed suit with a low diamond, South's queen won the trick. It was apparent to declarer that he had to establish his club suit with the loss of but one trick. So he promptly entered dummy via the king of hearts and led the board's five of clubs. East promptly played the deuce of clubs and South's king won the trick. On this trick Mrs. Utegaard made her deceptive falsecard: she dropped the eight of clubs!

Assuming that West's eight was an "honest" play, it could mean one of two things: either the eight was a singleton, in which case East had started with the A-J-4-2 of clubs; or the eight was a part of the doubleton J-8.

If it were the former, then it would make no difference what South led next, for East would win two club tricks with his jack and ace. But if West had been dealt the doubleton J-8, then by next playing the queen, declarer would "smother" West's jack as East won with the ace. So declarer now led the queen of clubs.

As is evident, West followed with the four as East won the trick with the ace. A diamond return now drove out South's ace, while West still retained the high jack of clubs.

Had West played the club four on the initial club lead, South's second club lead might well have been a low club, which East would have been forced to win with his ace, for the defenders' only club winner.

Hints from Heloise

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I brown leftover pieces of stale bread in the oven and dry them thoroughly. Then grind them up fine and add seasonings such as paprika, salt, pepper and seasoned salt. This I store in jars and when I want to bake chicken or pork chops, I put some of this mixture in a paper bag and shake the meat or chicken in it. Place the pieces on a pan and bake in the oven. It's better and cheaper than the prepared mixtures.
Mrs. N.H. Packard

LETTER OF LOVE

Dear Heloise:
Thank you so very much for making life easier and more enjoyable for so many. Every hint is a passport to a better and happier home. Even though many tasks are difficult and time consuming, hints are like air in the tires — sometimes it doesn't seem important but it helps get one over the bumps.
Crystal L. Thilman

Your letter made my day! It was like finding a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow. Bless you always!
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I have a hint that a lot of people might know about but if it only saves one or two people what I went through, I think it would be worth printing. I was carrying the laundry basket down to the basement, missed a step and landed in the hospital.

A friend told me she puts her clothes in a plastic bag and throws them down the steps. Less danger of falling!
Natalie Simmons

Dear Heloise:
Iron rust may be removed from clothing, tablecloths and other fabrics by sprinkling with salt, moistening with lemon juice and placing in the sun to bleach. Repeat if necessary.
Helen Hreha

Never use liquid bleach on rust spots. Rust speeds up action of bleach and may cause a hole in the fabric.
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
We recently painted a flight of wooden stairs on the outside of our house. One morning, when they were covered with dew, I went out and down the steps — the whole way on my buttocks. After three weeks of misery, I happened to think of sand. So we mixed a little sand with enough paint to go over the steps again. The sand doesn't show, sticks fast to the steps and happily, no more slipping!

Oldest Arapahoe Woman Dies

ETHELE Wyo. (UPI) — Maggie Iron the oldest member of the Arapahoe Tribe on the Wind River Reservation could recall being told of Custer's last stand.

"I remember the news of the Custer battle on the Little Big Horn," Mrs. Iron once told an interviewer. "I was 5 years old at the time."

Mrs. Iron 104 died Thursday. Her daughter Mrs. Josephine Brown said her mother always maintained the Arapahoe Tribe did not take part in the famous Custer battle.

In an interview last March Mrs. Iron said four Arapahoe braves were on a scouting mission climbed a ridge and saw the battle going on. They went down to investigate she said and found themselves in a fight.

Mrs. Brown said she thinks her mother's birthday was in March of 1871 but it could have been April. Mrs. Iron used to say she was born "when the grass was green and the first buds of spring appeared."

Mrs. Iron's husband Cromwell Iron died in 1945. She is survived by her daughter five grandchildren 11 great grandchildren and one great grandchild.

In her last years blind and unable to walk Mrs. Iron used to hold her great grandson on her lap and tell him of an older time — tales of hunting trips she heard around campfires and battles with the Utes Crows and Comanches of Oklahoma.

RECENT HISTORY

CARACAS (UPI) — Romulo Betancourt, then the freely elected president of Venezuela, was the target in 1960 of an assassination attempt allegedly financed by Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Betancourt, now the elder statesman of Venezuelan politics, suffered severe burns when a bomb exploded in a car parked along the route he was traveling.

NOW Believes Many Will Join Women's Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the National Organization for Women say they have received thousands of letters and telephone calls from people across the country who want to join a one-day women's strike Oct. 29.

The nationwide strike was announced two weeks ago by NOW members who believe it will show how much the country depends on women.

"The response in the last week has been fantastic," said Cindy Clark, a strike leader, in a telephone interview from San Jose, Calif. "We have heard from women in the military, women on Capitol Hill, nurses, business and professional women, factory workers ... and men, too." Ms. Clark said she has received about 2,000 letters and phone calls in the past week, and a number of the other strike organizers are getting a similar response.

She said the strike — which has been named "Alice doesn't ... — is for every woman — not just the feminists. We want them to show how much they do support the system — that women provide 51 per cent of the support."

She said NOW is getting many inquiries about the event from people who ordinarily might not be expected to get involved in a women's protest.

"Whenever the word 'strike' is mentioned, a lot of people say,

"Oh ... That's too militant for me, that's radical feminist." But once we tell them ... that it's simply a one-day thing to show non-support, they are interested and want more information."

Based on the theme of the movie "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore," the strike literature urges women to refuse to work Oct. 29, either inside or outside the home. It also advises women to refuse to buy anything or volunteer for anything that day.

"If they can do it without fear of losing their jobs, they should not go to work," Ms. Clark said. "If they have to work, we will have buttons and armbands for them to wear."

Governor Requests Repeal Of Oklahoma Divorce Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The legislator who wrote Oklahoma's new divorce law says he wanted nothing more than to give a woman the right to regain her maiden name after a divorce.

The law does that all right, but it goes quite a bit farther — in fact it gives a wife all of the couples' property right down to hubby's socks and pipe.

The law takes effect Wednesday and attorneys are complaining it will cause chaos if the Oklahoma Supreme Court doesn't intervene.

Gov. David Boren was asked to call a special session of the legislature to repeal the law. But Boren said he wants to wait for a legal opinion.

In starting the idea, Sen. John Young, D-Sapulpa, said he "sure as heck didn't mean to give all my cows" to his wife Clauden in the unlikely event of a divorce.

Young, a country lawyer, simply wanted a woman to have the right to regain her maiden name after a divorce. He said the intent was to make Oklahoma's divorce law in accord with the proposed Equal Rights Amendment "where everybody starts even in a divorce court."

However, Young's 250-word measure was passed without close scrutiny in the closing hours of the 1975 legislature. The give-away to the ladies was on the front page.

The first legal test came in a suit filed by Johnita Sue Caywood of Norman who is seeking all of the property of her husband, Robert Monroe Caywood Jr. State District Judge Elvin Brown declared the law unconstitutional in a pretrial hearing.

Mrs. Caywood's attorney, Robert Flagler, said the law very clearly gives a wife all and the court shouldn't read it otherwise.

"When a divorce shall be granted," the bill states, "the wife shall be restored to her maiden or former name if she so desires, and also to all the property, lands, tenements,

Washington Watch Oil Companies Back Away from Congress

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa News
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The executives of several major oil companies, concerned about image and possible anti-trust violations, may bypass a scheduled meeting with 13 congressmen from oil-producing states next month.

In an eleven-hour decision before adjourning for the August recess, the congressmen, including five Texans, hastily pieced together plans for a Sept. 4 parley here to discuss the prospects of oil decontrol and possible price rises. The solons had hoped to bring together the presidents and chairmen of the board of the eight major oil companies to talk in the "broadest terms."

However, two weeks after the invitations were sent, only two oil companies have decided to send a representative. The other are expressing fears of anti-trust violations and that the public, already viewing the oil companies with growing cynicism, would misconstrue the intent of the meeting.

Before recessing this month, Congress passed a six-month extension of domestic oil price controls. Unless President Ford, who has said he will veto the bill, has a change of heart, controls on domestic oil will expire Aug. 31.

"The probability that all price controls will be lifted from oil at the end of this month means that oil companies will be in a position to raise the price of their products as much as they want," said Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, a co-sponsor of the meeting. "What we want to discuss with them is the fact that a quick and substantial price hike would be extremely detrimental to the economy and totally self-defeating."

The oil firm representatives challenge the projections that the price of oil-based products will rise sharply if controls are lifted. They also express some skepticism regarding the meeting.

"Apart from the image problem of having the top oil companies getting together, you have to worry about anti-trust," said a spokesman for Gulf Oil Co. "When you talk about pricing, it is legal and so legal. It can be a very, very serious thing."

Representatives for Continental Oil Co. and Atlantic-Richfield Co. report that their firms will participate in the meeting. While spokesmen for the other companies — Exxon Corp., Texaco, Inc., Shell Oil Co., Getty Oil Co., Mobil Oil Co. and Gulf — said a decision has not been made, they indicated corporate officials are leaning away from participating in the parley.

"My guess is we will end up saying 'we'll meet anytime, but we can't meet as a group,'" said a Washington representative for one Houston-based oil company. "If you want us to come up and meet, fine. We'd be happy to meet alone."

The hesitant oil companies are concerned that any collective discussion of pricing policies would constitute a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, which deals with price fixing, collusion and conspiracy.

Several Washington representatives stressed their companies must consider the potential counterproductive public relations aspects of the meeting. One acknowledged that in past months the oil companies have attempted to improve their public image as the price of gasoline has steadily risen.

"It could really be a problem because things are so super-hyper paranoid," observed Bill Duke of ARCO, one of the companies which tentatively plans to participate in the meeting.

He added that if anti-trust becomes a problem, "you send your damn anti-trust lawyer to the meeting who will say 'you can't say that.'"

Joining Wilson in issuing the invitations were generally conservative Texas Reps. Omar Burlison, D-Anson, William Archer, R-Houston, Alan Steelman, R-Dallas, and James Collins, R-Dallas.

Other congressmen scheduled to participate represent California, Louisiana and Oklahoma, all oil-producing states.

Earthquakes Rock City In California

OROVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Earthquakes are becoming a way of life for residents of this rural city, just miles away from the world's biggest earth-filled dam.

Seismologists at the University of California, Berkeley, said the city was rocked by a temblor Saturday. It measured 4.75 on the open-ended Richter scale and was classified as a moderate quake.

The shaker was followed by several small aftershocks.

Oroville was rocked by a big tremor Aug. 1. There was no damage to the dam — an integral part of the vast California Water Project. There was much damage to the city. Since then there have been many quakes in this area. Seismologists said they were aftershocks.

Ohio State Succeeds Oklahoma in Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State, with a noble assist from Miami of Florida, is the number one college football team in the nation today according to the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The unbeaten Buckeyes displaced Oklahoma in the third week of balloting by the coaches after the Sooners stumbled badly against Miami in the Orange Bowl last Friday — eking out a narrow 20-17 win against the five touchdown underdog Hurricanes.

Ohio State, embarking on one of its toughest schedules in years has beaten Michigan State and Penn State with UCLA and Michigan yet to come, received 20 first place votes from the 42-coach panel to narrowly edge Oklahoma 395-382. Oklahoma received 17 first place votes — a drop of 18 from last week.

Southern California, UPI's defending national champion, remained third with 315 points including two first place votes, while Missouri and Nebraska were fourth and fifth — giving the powerful Big Eight three teams in the top five.

Southwest Conference powers Texas A&M and Texas were sixth and seventh respectively.

Ramsey Ruins Pack; Broncos Win 23-13

DENVER (UPI) — Denver Bronco quarterback Steve Ramsey had to wait a long time for his national television debut but when the chance came, he stole the show.

Ramsey, the Broncos' backup quarterback since Charley Johnson arrived from Houston in 1972, entered Denver's game with Green Bay early in the second quarter Monday night when Johnson split the index finger on his right hand.

while Notre Dame was eighth. Alabama, slowly gaining back the ground it lost with its opening-week defeat to Missouri, moved up two places to No. 9 and Penn State completed the 10.

Baylor, on the strength of a lone first place vote, moved into the No. 15 spot.

Ohio State, which boasts one of the finest offensive ground games in college football history, was awesome in rolling up a 32-7 triumph over North Carolina last Saturday and has given up only 16 points in three games against top competition. The Buckeyes blanketed Michigan State, 21-0, in their opener and followed that up with a 17-9 triumph over Penn State before whipping the Tar Heels.

The United Press International Board of Coaches top 20 college football teams with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses.

(Third Week): Team Points: 1. Ohio St. (3-0) (20) 395. 2. Oklahoma (3-0) (17) 382. 3. Southern California (3-0) (2) 315. 4. Nebraska (3-0) 244. 5. Missouri (1) (3-0) 226. 6. Texas A&M (3-0) 224. 7.

Texas (3-0) 180. 8. Notre Dame (3-0) 137. 9. Alabama (2-1) 57. 10. Penn St. (3-1) 34. 11. Oklahoma St. (3-0) 33. 12. West Virginia (3-0) 18. 13. Arizona St. (3-0) 16. 14. Michigan (1-2) 14. 15. Baylor (1-2) (1) 10. 16. Colorado (3-0) 9. 17. Arizona (2-0) 6. 18. San Diego St. (4-0) 4. 19. UCLA (2-0) 1. 20. Tennessee (2-1) 2.

Note: By agreement with the American Football Coaches, teams on probation by the NCAA are ineligible for top 20 and national championship consideration by the UPI Board of Coaches. Those teams on probation for 1975 are: Mississippi State, SMU, Long Beach State and Southwestern Louisiana.

Family That Races Together Doesn't Always Win Together

By PAUL SIMS Sports Editor Margaret McPhillips enjoys racing with the guys. She enjoys beating them even better.

No, Mrs. McPhillips isn't a woman's libber trying to make an impact in a field of men. Nor is she actually a racer. For the last two years, Mrs. McPhillips has been the only female member in the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club and Saturday she convinced the few remaining disbelievers, if there were any, in the club that a woman can have the "touch" too.

Mrs. McPhillips won both the "A" and "B" in the club's Oklahoma to Pampa race, the first time in two years she has swept two titles in the same day. It was also the first time this year she has finished first, although she has placed high several times.

What's her secret? "I just guess my birds are in better shape. I train my birds two or three times a week. I take them out 25 miles to the KOA Campground right before you turn off to go to Greenbelt (Lake)," Mrs. McPhillips said.

Her husband, R.W. McPhillips, has been racing for quite some time. Margaret claims there is no family rivalry.

"He takes credit for me winning 'cause he picks my birds for me to send to the race." The couple first became acquainted with racing pigeons, or homers, several years ago when Son Larry ordered six birds from New York. "He was about 12 years old," Mrs. McPhillips said.

"He ordered them from New York out of a pigeon magazine. He had them all through high school. He raised birds out of the six. When Larry got to college, of course he couldn't take care of his birds, so he turned 'em over to R.W."

"His dad knew as much about pigeon flying as I do now." McPhillips cared for the pigeons, became serious and joined the Top O' Texas club. His wife, disinterested at first, followed. The club approved of a woman member; in fact, she was voted in unanimously.

Even though she's winning, there seems to be no hard feelings or jealousy. Actually, Mrs. McPhillips has gained a great deal of respect, according to one member, Jim Cantrell.

"We feel that she's an individual like us. She puts in as much work as any of the men," Cantrell said.

Cantrell added he wouldn't object if his wife joined the club.

Mrs. McPhillips has not been the subject of jokes or kidding since she has been a member.

"The only one they kid is R.W.," she said, "because I'm winning more races than he is."

Golfers Not Down Yet

By PAUL SIMS Sports Editor

Pampa High tied for fifth last weekend in the tournament it won a year ago but golf coach Deck Woldt isn't too concerned yet about his team not being up to the caliber of last year's team, which was one of the most successful golf teams in Harvester history.

In fact, Woldt feels his players will gain steadily in strength and experience and be a contender by the start of district play in the latter part of February.

Pampa tied with Lubbock Monterey for fifth place in the Hereford Invitational, which opened the Harvesters' fall season.

Amarillo High won the tourney. "I wasn't too disappointed at the finish as I was the scores overall that were shot, not only by our team but by everybody down there. Outside of Amarillo High, there wasn't any other team that had four players in the 70's," Woldt said.

Amarillo High finished ahead of Hereford, Lubbock High, Lubbock Coronado, Pampa, Lubbock Monterey and nine other teams.

Woldt's players were naturally disappointed, particularly since Pampa won the tournament last season. "I would say that I'm sure they weren't satisfied. I know Wiley (McIntire) wasn't even satisfied with his 76."

Curt (Beck) could've played a lot better than his 78. Scott White shot 81 and he had an eight on a hole (par four). We just had too many double bogeys.

"If we wouldn't've made bogeys instead of double bogeys, we wouldn't've shot somewhere around 314. That would have been an easy third-place finish."

It is probable Pampa's individual scores will improve Friday in the Plainview Invitational, which the Harvesters also won last season.

"I really think they can play Plainview better," Woldt said. "It's not that it's an easier course — it's three-lined and it has similar trouble that Hereford does like out of bounds on the right and some water. We've been going there a longer time and are more familiar with it."

The field at Plainview is expected to include some of the Lubbock and Amarillo schools, Hereford, Midland High and Midland Lee and Odessa High and Odessa Permian.

Pampa has five fall tournaments, including Hereford, scheduled. The Harvesters will play in some spring tourneys prior to district play, which will consist of six rounds held on consecutive weekends.

Amarillo High and Amarillo's B-team were first and second, respectively, in 3-AAAA last spring. Pampa was third after holding the lead after the first round.

Woldt expects Pampa to be more competitive in the spring. A lack of practice over the summer for most of the team members is apparently affecting play now.

"I think it's hurting us right now in the fall program. I don't think it's gonna hurt us in the spring — by that time, everybody will have their game back," Woldt said.

McIntire was the most active during the summer, having competed on the West Texas PGA Junior Tour, where he won tournaments in Vernon and Childress. The senior is currently Pampa's No. 1 player.

"I think Wiley could be medalist this year in district," the Harvester coach said. "He's playing real good. Wiley needs some help — he needs the other players to start breaking 80. If they do that, we've got a good chance."

McIntire, Beck, White and Danny Koehler are Pampa's senior players. Juniors on the team are Hank Jordan, Kevin Kirby, Bill Browning and Mark Epperson. Sophomores are Scott Barrett, Doug Eubanks, Roy Hill, Dusty Hudson, Scott Nichols and Danny Williams.

The group of six sophomores paced Pampa Junior High's freshman team to a runner-up spot, one shot out of first in district play last spring. The team also won several tournaments.

"I think some of them are gonna be good golfers. I took one (Barrett) on the trip last week, and I think Hudson, Williams and Eubanks all show a lot of promise. Hill and Nichols haven't had as much golf."

Jordan is probably the most consistent junior.

Secret Service Arranges Ford's Trip to Chicago

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secret Service put special arrangements into action today for President Ford's trip to Chicago and Omaha, his first travel from Washington since being shot at in San Francisco eight days ago.

White House officials said security reasons kept them from detailing what new bodyguard arrangements but acknowledged the trip has no scheduled appearances by Ford in or near public crowds.

impossible — how people will act. Scientists say "it is impossible to predict those triggering factors which can arise momentarily and cause an individual to commit a crime or violent act."

decision making is judgmental, so we have nothing but straws to grasp at.

Chairman Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., said subcommittee hearings are not intended to be "accusatory" or to indicate "doubts about the integrity or dedication of Secret Service personnel."

Casey Stengel Dies of Cancer

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — Casey Stengel, the grand old man of baseball who managed the New York Yankees to ten pennants and seven World Series championships, died today at the age of 85.

Stengel died at 1:58 EDT in Glendale Community Hospital of cancer of the lymph glands of the abdomen, a hospital spokesman said.

Stengel, the 104th member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, was one of the best known personalities of the sports world, particularly for his colorful speech, dubbed "Stengelese."

Two members of the family, not further identified, were at his bedside when he died, the hospital spokesman said.

Stengel's wife of many years, Edna, was hospitalized before him for treatment of a stroke.

He was inducted into the Hall of Fame, July 25, 1966. Casey, born Charles Dillon Stengel on July 30, 1890 in Kansas City, Mo., was one of the most astute baseball minds of all time, and he presented a unique spectacle at old-timers' games—wearing on his uniform the insignias of all the major league teams he had been associated with in his historic career.

While with the Yankees, he made superb use of such Hall of Fame material as Joe Dimaggio, Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford. Stengel's teams virtually took over baseball between 1949 and 1960.

In his 12 seasons with the Yankees, he never finished lower than third.

Stengel led the team to 10 AL pennants — tying his idol and model, John McGraw — and seven World Series championships. The Yankees finished second in their other season under Stengel.

From 1949 to 1963, the dynasty routinely won five straight World Series crowns.

But it was for the "can't anybody here play this game?" Mets that Stengel saved his love.

He was fired after the 1960 season when the Yanks lost the World Series to the Pittsburgh Pirates as too old — 70.

Less than a year later, he was hired by the newly-formed New York Mets.

The hapless expansion team never got out of the cellar during Stengel's five seasons at the helm, but to the embarrassment of the Yankees, the Mets steadily outdrew their more successful AL rivals.

Kansas City Police Strike

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Mayor Jack Reardon promised public safety would be maintained today despite the city's first police strike which left a handful of highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and police supervisors trying to do the jobs of 300 officers.

Members of the Fraternal Order of Police voted late Monday to strike until contract arguments are resolved over which officers are covered by the union. Police had been striking for three days previously by calling in sick with the "blu flu."

Most of the city's 323 police officers stayed home today and vowed not to return to work until they have a written contract.

A Wyandotte County district judge issued a restraining order against the walkout minutes after the city was advised of the strike vote. But the order's only immediate effect was that strike coordinators stopped picketing at city hall while they sought a legal opinion.

Twenty highway patrolmen and 40 county sheriff's deputies were made available for patrol duty, along with a skeleton crew of officers not participating in the strike, and Reardon said.

"They will maintain public safety in Kansas City, Kan."

Leaders of the policemen's union emphasized the strike was an action by individuals not sanctioned by the FOP, whose bylaws prevent it from endorsing strikes.

"It's not a protest the FOP supports," FOP President Richard Sullivan said. "There's nothing I can do personally to stop it."

Sullivan estimated 80 per cent of the force was on strike, and a city spokesman said it was probably an accurate estimate.

The vote to strike came only a few hours after FOP leaders agreed with commissioners to halt the "blu flu" sick-in protest that started Friday night because of an impasse in contract negotiations.

The FOP is demanding a written contract covering all officers of captain rank and below. The city contends captains, lieutenants and sergeants should be excluded from the agreement as supervisory personnel.

The union is also seeking pay, raises and grievance clauses in the contract to give officers the right of due process.

Kansas Attorney General Curt Schneider and Kansas Bureau of Investigation Director William Albott met Monday to investigate shots which were fired into the mayor's office Sunday night.

already had his driver license. Perales said he told the deputy he had the right to remain silent and the officer replied: "Mexicans ain't got no rights at all."

An angry group of Mexican-Americans staged a march last Saturday at Hondo chanting, "death to Hayes," and demanding independent investigations into the deaths of Morales and Eden DeLeon, 17, of Hondo.

Critics Say Phone Rates Eliminate Competition

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Critics of Southwestern Bell's commercial rates say the telephone company keeps the rates too low to eliminate competition and forces residential customers to subsidize business users.

The new Texas Public Utilities Commission agreed Monday to consider requiring Bell to justify its commercial rates.

data on which its rates are based. The company said it was particularly interested in rates Bell proposes to charge Houston businesses for private branch exchange equipment.

Their pricing structure is a gimmick to get the business charge further to Bell," said Richard Long of Houston. Fisk vice president and general manager. Long said Bell's proposed Houston business rates for computerized PBX systems are 40 per cent lower than what American Telephone and Telegraph subsidiaries in California charge for the same equipment.

"If Bell is allowed to offer this device to the business community at a substantially lower price (than it costs) then somebody's going to have to pick up the tab and it's going to be the general ratepayer," Long said.

Texas Town Probes Police Brutality to Mexicans

CASTROVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Jose Perales says he was wrongfully arrested and beaten by a Medina County sheriff's deputy who told him "Mexicans ain't got no rights at all."

League of United Latin American Citizens, said he had four other statements alleging misconduct and brutality by Castroville's two policemen which he would turn over to the council when they are signed and notarized.

The council in this community 20 miles west of San Antonio held the hearing because it is investigating allegations of police brutality made since Police Chief Frank Hayes was charged with murdering a Mexican-American.

Claims Oswald Encouraged

DALLAS (UPI) — District Attorney Henry Wade says Lee Harvey Oswald was encouraged to shoot President John F. Kennedy. But he says a new investigation into the assassination could not prove a possible conspiracy.

Claims Oswald Encouraged

"I've always had a gut feeling, which I still have, that someone — one or more persons — encouraged Oswald to shoot the president," Wade said Monday.

Jim McBroom Motors

Based on this year's sales at Jim McBroom Motors, 807 W. Foster, you would never think the high price of gasoline has forced more people to buy small, gas-saving automobiles or change their mode of transportation to foot or bicycle.

And you might have a hard time convincing owner Jim McBroom or manager Bill M. Derr that there had ever been a fuel shortage.

"Business is just great," Derr said. "Every year it's been better — this is the best year we've ever had. We've made more net profit through August than we made in 12 months last year."

"Basically, our sales have been intermediates and luxury cars; more luxury cars than intermediates. Gas is the cheapest thing we're buying — we emphasize it."

Derr added, "We don't handle anything but the very cleanest used cars we find."

Most of McBroom Motors' business is repeat business. In fact, Derr said 90 per cent of the clientele are "repeaters."

"I've been in the business 10 years and Jim's been in it 25, and when you've been in it that long you have a chance to build up your repeat business."

McBroom Motors has been in business for 25 years, 5 1/2 at its present location. Derr has helped McBroom for the last six years.

Secret Service Arranges Ford's Trip to Chicago

Secret Service Arranges Ford's Trip to Chicago

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secret Service put special arrangements into action today for President Ford's trip to Chicago and Omaha, his first travel from Washington since being shot at in San Francisco eight days ago.

White House officials said security reasons kept them from detailing what new bodyguard arrangements but acknowledged the trip has no scheduled appearances by Ford in or near public crowds.

Casey Stengel Dies of Cancer

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — Casey Stengel, the grand old man of baseball who managed the New York Yankees to ten pennants and seven World Series championships, died today at the age of 85.

Two members of the family, not further identified, were at his bedside when he died, the hospital spokesman said.

Stengel spent 55 years in baseball, winning more pennants and World Series victories than any major league manager in history.

While with the Yankees, he made superb use of such Hall of Fame material as Joe Dimaggio, Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford. Stengel's teams virtually took over baseball between 1949 and 1960.

Stengel led the team to 10 AL pennants — tying his idol and model, John McGraw — and seven World Series championships. The Yankees finished second in their other season under Stengel.

Jim McBroom Motors

Based on this year's sales at Jim McBroom Motors, 807 W. Foster, you would never think the high price of gasoline has forced more people to buy small, gas-saving automobiles or change their mode of transportation to foot or bicycle.

And you might have a hard time convincing owner Jim McBroom or manager Bill M. Derr that there had ever been a fuel shortage.

"Business is just great," Derr said. "Every year it's been better — this is the best year we've ever had. We've made more net profit through August than we made in 12 months last year."

"Basically, our sales have been intermediates and luxury cars; more luxury cars than intermediates. Gas is the cheapest thing we're buying — we emphasize it."

Derr added, "We don't handle anything but the very cleanest used cars we find."

Most of McBroom Motors' business is repeat business. In fact, Derr said 90 per cent of the clientele are "repeaters."

"I've been in the business 10 years and Jim's been in it 25, and when you've been in it long you have a chance to build up your repeat business."

McBroom Motors has been in business for 25 years, 5 1/2 at its present location. Derr has helped McBroom for the last six years.
