

Fighting Grass Fires

An estimated 400 acres of grassland was burned Wednesday near Hoover in Gray County as a result of fires set by sparks from a passing train. Three trucks and seven firemen from the Pampa Fire Department spent from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. fighting the blaze. Reports show the grass was burned on the John Spearman property near Hoover and on the George Ingram and neighboring properties, west of Hoover. (Pampa News photos by Michal Thompson)

State Pays for TV Employees

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Senate payrolls were padded by more than $15,000 during three years to pay salaries of at least four employees of an Austin television station, UPI has learned. Three of the four told UPI Senate Secretary Charles A. Schnabel referred them to KLRN-TV for jobs, but said they had no idea they were listed as Senate employees during the times they worked for the public television station.

The fourth employee, Ann Caroline Leifeste of Houston, refused to talk to reporters. "This is something that should not be publicized," she said. "It's before the grand jury." Miss Leifeste and Anna Belle Krister II of Amarillo have been subpoenaed to appear Monday before the Travis County Grand Jury investigating Schnabel and irregularities in Senate payrolls dating back five years. Another one-time KLRN worker, Arlene Mead of Dallas, also is scheduled to talk to the grand jury Monday, according to her father, District Judge John J. Mead Jr. of Dallas.

Bill Arhos, KLRN program director, declined comment but acknowledged he had been subpoenaed by the grand jury. Other station executives were not immediately available. The grand jury last week indicted Schnabel on charges of theft and official misconduct for payroll padding and working a state employe at his farm. Following the indictments Attorney General John L. Hill announced plans to join District Attorney Robert O. Smith in the Schnabel investigation and form a task force on the case with Smith's investigators, his assistants and representatives from the offices of Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby and State Auditor George McNeil.

Daniel Y. Kruger, 29, of San Antonio told UPI he has not been contacted by task force investigators and was not aware he was listed as a Senate employe before the reporter called. Kruger said he went to Schnabel in 1970 inquiring about a summer job at the Senate while he attended law school at the University of Texas. "He said he didn't have any jobs around there but KLRN had people on the state payroll occasionally," Kruger said. Kruger said Schnabel sent him to see two KLRN officials who gave him a parttime job as a production assistant and he never saw the Senate secretary again. Miss Krister, 24, said Schnabel also sent her to KLRN when she inquired about a Senate job in 1971. She was sent from the station back to Schnabel about a year later to pick up one of her paychecks. Schnabel told her she had to go with him to see a man in the basement about her check.

"I didn't know what to say. Mr. Schnabel told me to watch him and he would tell me what to say," Miss Krister said. Schnabel told her afterwards the man was an auditor, she said. She became suspicious at one time about why she received a state check for working at KLRN, but was told the station was public television and received a number of different types of grants and that her pay came from one. "In January of 1973 I was called into my boss' office and she said, 'I'm sorry but I've been informed we're not getting the money for your salary any more,'" Miss Krister told UPI. She subsequently became an actual employe of KLRN at about half her prior salary and was paid by the station until she quit in June, 1974. Mead said his daughter worked for the Senate during a legislative session around 1972. "When it was over with Schnabel sent her to the station," the judge said. Mead said he and his daughter, now 22 and in school in Alexandria, La., had no idea there was any question about her work at the station before an investigator for the Austin district attorney called Monday. The judge said his daughter worked at the station about six months and was paid $400 to $450 a month. Senate payroll records for 1971 list Kruger as a member of the Senate Secretary's staff with a salary of $305 a month for January through July. Kruger said he was paid a similar salary during the preceding five to seven months of 1970. Miss Krister said she received $372 a month from September, 1971, until the state checks stopped in January, 1973. She even received checks for two months during 1971 when her department at the station closed down and she was on vacation. She was surprised, she said and asked why, but was told her salary was prorated for a full year like that of a teacher. Senate payroll records show Miss Leifeste receiving salaries ranging from $50 to $200 a month from September, 1970, continuously through May, 1972. Her total salary over the three period was $3,840 according to Senate records. Schnabel's attorney, Roy Q. Minton, refused to talk about the case to reporters.

South Africa Prepares To Pull Out of Angola

WASHINGTON (UPI) — South Africa has informed the Ford administration that it is prepared to pull its troops out of Angola in the next 48 hours, according to authoritative administration sources. The administration had hoped for such a development, which it feels may put the Organization for African Unity in a stronger position to bring pressure for Cuba and the Soviet Union to withdraw their forces from Angola. The OAU meets next week in Ethiopia.

The 1,200 South African forces have been helping an anti-Soviet faction in the Angolan civil war. Publicly, the State Department would say only that it had not been informed of the South African decision, leaving open the possibility that the word went to the White House.

Meantime, the extent of U.S. involvement in Angola was still being debated.

The White House has stated that no American pilots are flying missions to support anti-Soviet factions in Angola and that the United States is not involved in recruiting anyone for such missions.

This further narrowed the range of possible U.S. involvement in the three-way struggle for control of the mineral-rich nation on the southwest coast of Africa. Just about all that remains is what President Ford called a "legitimate covert" operation — providing money and, perhaps indirectly, weapons. The White House has said no American troops or advisers are in Angola or any of the neighboring countries involved in the fighting.

That the United States is participating behind the scenes has been acknowledged by the administration. Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, chairman of a subcommittee on Africa, and Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Intelligence Committee. They will not be much more specific.

Each time something pops up which indicates something more, it is denied. "What's left? The 'legitimate covert operation,' which sources said is run by the CIA."

The Pentagon wants military sales allocations for Zaire, whose president is related to the leader of one Angolan faction, increased from $3 million to $19 million for 1976. Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements has testified the increased money for Zaire might "indirectly support one or the other" factions.

However, Department of Defense spokesman William Greener said on Tuesday, "There is a legal prohibition against third-party transfers of foreign military sales and military assistance material without the consent of the U.S. government. In the case of Angola, we have made no such authorization."

Patients Stack Up In Hospital Hallways

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Angry interns and residents charge that patients are stacking up in hallways at the city's biggest public hospital because of the doctor's strike. Hospital and health officials say it's not that bad yet, but soon could be.

Hospitals have started discharging patients to make room for more serious cases. Even some emergency rooms shut down and thousands of hospital workers have been laid off.

The strike affected 94 of the 234 private hospitals in the county, the second largest metropolitan area in the nation. An undetermined number of the region's 12,000 doctors have suspended or restricted their private practices, throwing a mounting burden on public hospitals.

The forecast calls for fair skies and warmer temperatures with highs on Friday in the upper 40s and the lows tonight near 20.

Patients unable to find doctors flocked to crowded public hospital emergency rooms, where many had to wait from three to eight hours to see a physician.

County health officials said the center still had reserve beds for 300 more patients. "We are so busy now we have patients lying in the hallways," a spokesman for the association said. "Those extra beds are upstairs or on the roof. They can be brought down and physically hold patients but we can't really care for them — they might as well be at home."

Interest Rate Lowers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, today lowered its prime interest rate to 7 per cent from 7 1/4 per cent in response to the easier monetary policy of the Federal Reserve.

Chase's reduction in the key interest rate followed by a day a similar move by Cleveland Trust Co., a major Ohio bank.

It was expected that First National City Bank, the nation's second largest bank and a trendsetter on interest rates, also would reduce its prime by a quarter of a point to 7 per cent Friday.

The trend toward lower interest rates has produced a strong four-day rally on the stock market. It could go as low as 6 1/2 per cent, analysts said.

The prime is the lowest interest charged by commercial banks for loans to their most creditworthy corporate customers. It is a widely followed indicator of the ability and willingness of banks to make loans.

One possibility not addressed so far is that the United States might give Zaire weapons to replace those which Zaire sent to Angola. For example, Zaire now has three of the same kind of planes, C130s, seen by Tunney's source. It is seeking three more, according to Pentagon sources.

The involvement has been justified as a counterweight to the Soviet Union, which has contributed weapons and a few advisers, and Cuba, which has sent thousands of troops to help the Marxist faction.

Pentagon sources said that a Soviet personnel landing craft, normally stationed at Conakry, Guinea, was off the Angolan coast Wednesday night and that a "Kotlin" class guided missile destroyer, usually stationed in the Mediterranean, was off the coast of Gabon.

US-Indians in 1790

Secret Treaty Found

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tucked among the civil cases of the Louisiana Supreme Court's 1825 term, historians have found a rare 1790 document signed by George Washington and Thomas Jefferson that defines the secret terms of the first treaty the United States signed with an Indian tribe.

Although faded, the two signatures are clearly visible at the bottom of the yellowed and rotted parchment on which the 1790 Treaty of New York was written. The treaty defines the secret peace terms between the United States and the Creek Indians.

"It's probably one of the two original copies of the secret articles of the treaty, the first treaty negotiated by the federal government with an Indian tribe," said Dr. Thomas D. Watson, a historian and researcher from McNeese State University in Lake Charles, La.

Watson verified the authenticity of the document Wednesday. Dr. Bill Coker of the University of West Florida found the treaty last August while doing research for a book.

The treaty, which Watson believes was the copy retained by Alexander McGillivray, chief of the Creek nation, was filed with the court in 1825 after McGillivray's death in a dispute over his estate.

"It bears the great seal of the United States," Watson said. "It bears the signature of President Washington, Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson and Secretary of War Henry Knox, and the signature also of Alexander McGillivray." The signatures are dated Aug. 13, 1790.

Watson said one other copy of the secret articles probably exists in the Library of Congress, the National Archives or in the papers of Washington, Jefferson or Knox.

He said other portions of the document were not secret and are not as rare as the secret articles.

"It's in salvagable condition," Watson said. "Some of the margin where it was folded has been torn away. But it's still quite legible."

"The great seal of the United States is highly discernable. The seal of Alexander McGillivray is hard to make out, however, because the wax has come off. It's missing about one foot by 15 inches in the lower right hand corner, but I don't think any of the treaty is lost."

"I assume McGillivray needed a piece of paper on which to write something and this section was blank so he used it."

A court spokesman said the document would remain in the court vault for the present but may be displayed publicly in the future.

Payroll Check Factory Uncovered

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — FBI agents and police from Michigan to New York are looking for the head of a "check factory" accused of bilking hundreds of businesses of millions in payrolls.

Investigators believe the man who has the answers is James Robert Redican, president and founder of Computer Payroll & Accounting Services.

Until last week he lived near Holland, Mich., in a luxurious ranch-style home. The FBI and others would like to know where he went since he shut down business last week. Until about two weeks ago, all seemed well between Redican's firm and the 600 west Michigan businesses it served.

Then, one by one, clients began calling to complain about holiday paychecks bouncing.

Redican, 42, a short, stocky man who wore narrow ties with his dark hair combed back in duck-tail style, assured them it was a computer error and the checks were covered.

Last Friday afternoon, without warning, he fired the 50 employes at the "check factory" — as employes called it — and locked the home office doors.

Since then, hundreds of businesses in Grand Rapids, Lansing, Kalamazoo, Muskegon and other west Michigan cities have reported checks for their entire weekly payrolls returned for insufficient funds.

Redican's was one of several firms that charged a fee to make out computerized payrolls and keep records for small businesses but unlike most firms he required payrolls to pass through his account.

Besides allegedly making off with the payroll money, investigators said Redican may have failed to make weekly income tax and Social Security payments for his client firms.

Hotel Stockholders To Consider Sale

By TEX DEWESSE
Pampa News Staff
Stockholders of the Community Hotel Co. of Pampa were notified by mail today of a special meeting at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20, to consider and take action on the sale of the Coronado Inn.

A proposal recently was approved by the board of directors to sell all of the real and personal property of the corporation to Jack Jones and his wife, Doris Jones of Clinton, Okla., for $850,000.

Complete dissolution and liquidation of the company and sale of the hotel and all its assets was decided unanimously by the board last Dec. 17.

Sale of the property now is subject to ratification and approval by the company's 1,237 stockholders.

The sale plan will be presented to stockholders at the Jan. 20 meeting in the Starlight Room of the hotel.

The resolution adopted Dec. 17 states "it is deemed advisable, in the judgment of the board of directors of the Community Hotel Co. of Pampa and most for the benefit of the corporation that it should be completely liquidated and dissolved."

Notice to the stockholders today fixes next Saturday, Jan.

10, (ten days prior to the meeting) as the record date for the determination of stockholders entitled to vote at the meeting and accordingly only stockholders of record at the close of business on that date will be entitled to vote at the meeting.

Voting proxies were included in the notice authorizing each stockholder unable to attend to appoint a person to represent him or her in voting.

If sale of all properties and assets of the company is not consummated before the end of the 12-month period beginning on date of adoption of the sale plan, the notice to stockholders states the board of directors may abandon the plan and all action contemplated by it. And upon such abandonment the plan shall become void.

The plan of complete liquidation and dissolution will be the first item of business at the Jan. 20 meeting, according to George W. Scott, president of the hotel company.

If shareholders adopt and approve the plan, the hotel and all its properties and assets of every description then will be considered for sale to the Oklahoma couple at the designated price of $850,000.

Be Thankful That Congress Looks Ahead

One thing you can say about members of the United States that they are constantly looking ahead.

Ahead to Thanksgiving
Ahead to Christmas
Ahead to New Year's
Ahead to Lincoln's birthday
To Easter. To the Fourth of July. Glorious summer, Veteran's Day and all the rest.

These are vacation days for congressmen. They must get tired mighty fast in Washington for they have to come back home early in order to recuperate.

The vacations and recesses enjoyed by the Congress if laid end to end ought to be enough for some of the members to retire on. In February, there was an 11-day recess for Lincoln's birthday. There were 17 days off for Easter, 13 days for Memorial Day, 10 days for the Fourth of July.

In August and September, there was no session for 34 days (time out for summer). Then, Veteran Day's traditional observance, to be followed by 10 days at Thanksgiving and then Christmas.

If Congress can get things so fouled up taking as many days off as it does, imagine the shape we'd be in if they went at it full time.

D. C. Metro Boondoggle

Those who have visited or lived in the nation's capital during the past decade have noticed the streets, particularly where Pennsylvania and Independence Avenues conjoin, have been in one way or other torn up "for improvements."

In most cities a torn-up street stays that way for a month or so — which is inconceivable enough. But in Babylon — on Potomac the people have been resigned to the impediment to their comings and goings for the better part of a decade; and it appears it will be so unto perpetuity.

The boondoggle is called the D.C. Metro System, which is designed to shuttle people rapidly through the bureaucracy (which, come to think of it is probably the best way to see it). The thing is not completed, and won't be completed until the tax siphons get maximum contracts and maximum dollars out of it.

In 1971, the National Taxpayers Union predicted the Metro would cost about three billion dollars more than its proponents calculated.

"Well, we were wrong," the NTU reports in Dollars and Sense. "As of this writing, the D.C. metro system has already spent almost four billion dollars over its original estimates. And it's not even near completion. It will take at least two billion more to finish the job."

Or not to finish the job.

Overriding Arithmetic

The headlines are saying that somewhere around the first of this year Americans' pocketbooks will shrink — This because President Ford vetoed the tax reduction bill. The headlines are both premature and probably accurate. Whichever depends on Congress' ability, admittedly weak, to do some urgent arithmetic and act accordingly.

It is astonishing to think that elected politicians really can be so ignorant as to vote a tax cut but not a corresponding budget cut. They can be. If there is no economic logic, there is at least political logic: a tax cut would ingratiate congressmen with the increasingly burdened taxpayers, no question. But a spending cut would weaken congressmen's links to the bureaucracy and welfare constituencies, an unthinkable political position.

Congress really did try to have it both ways, thereby telegraphing to schoolchildren that arithmetic doesn't need to apply if, mustering an antagonistic legislature, you don't want it to apply. No wonder twelfth graders can't do their sums; using political logic you can bend two and two into five.

Look, the national government is steaming to bankruptcy, a cataclysm to make New York's difficulties look like a sybarite's fancy. If New York gave us a lesson at all, it is that one cannot spend what one does not have. President Ford may deserve some guilt for spending, too, but he was accurate in insisting on arithmetic.

The tax bite that shows up in our paychecks within the next weeks does not have to happen. And it is hardly President Ford's fault that he cannot keep the vacationing congressmen around long enough to pass a sane, arithmetically sound tax reduction — spending reduction bill.

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

"DETENTE IS WORKING WELL. WE EAT ALL THE WHEAT THEY SELL US, AND THEY SWALLOW ALL THE STORIES WE TELL THEM."

The Threats To American Productivity

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
While the era of the hippie and the flower children is behind us, many people in Western countries remain hostile to the idea of economic growth.

Prof. E.J. Mishan of the London School of Economics, writing in the Contemporary Review, points out that such hostile elements "seek to persuade the public to abandon altogether the pursuit of economic growth in favor of a steady-state or no-growth economy, within which there are to be institutions for the explicit and prolonged consideration of ways of reducing material output while enhancing the enjoyment of life."

The anti-growth people are mistaken, of course, in believing that the quality of life can be enhanced by a reduction in material output. No doubt there are some material things modern man can do without. But there are many, many necessities which we can enjoy only in a modern industrial state.

Quality medical care would be impossible in an anti-industrial, no-growth society. Adequate housing and efficient transportation are basic to a comfortable, safe and enlightened way of life. The alternative to an industrial society, which stresses productivity, is a dark, dirty, diseased and ignorant society.

The contemporary societies which are in trouble are those which have neglected industrial productivity. New Society Magazine commented recently that "Britain has acquired the social service infrastructure of a post-industrial society at the expense of remodeling and improving its industrial base, which has been starved of investment and drained of manpower."

The United States neglects industrial productivity at its peril.

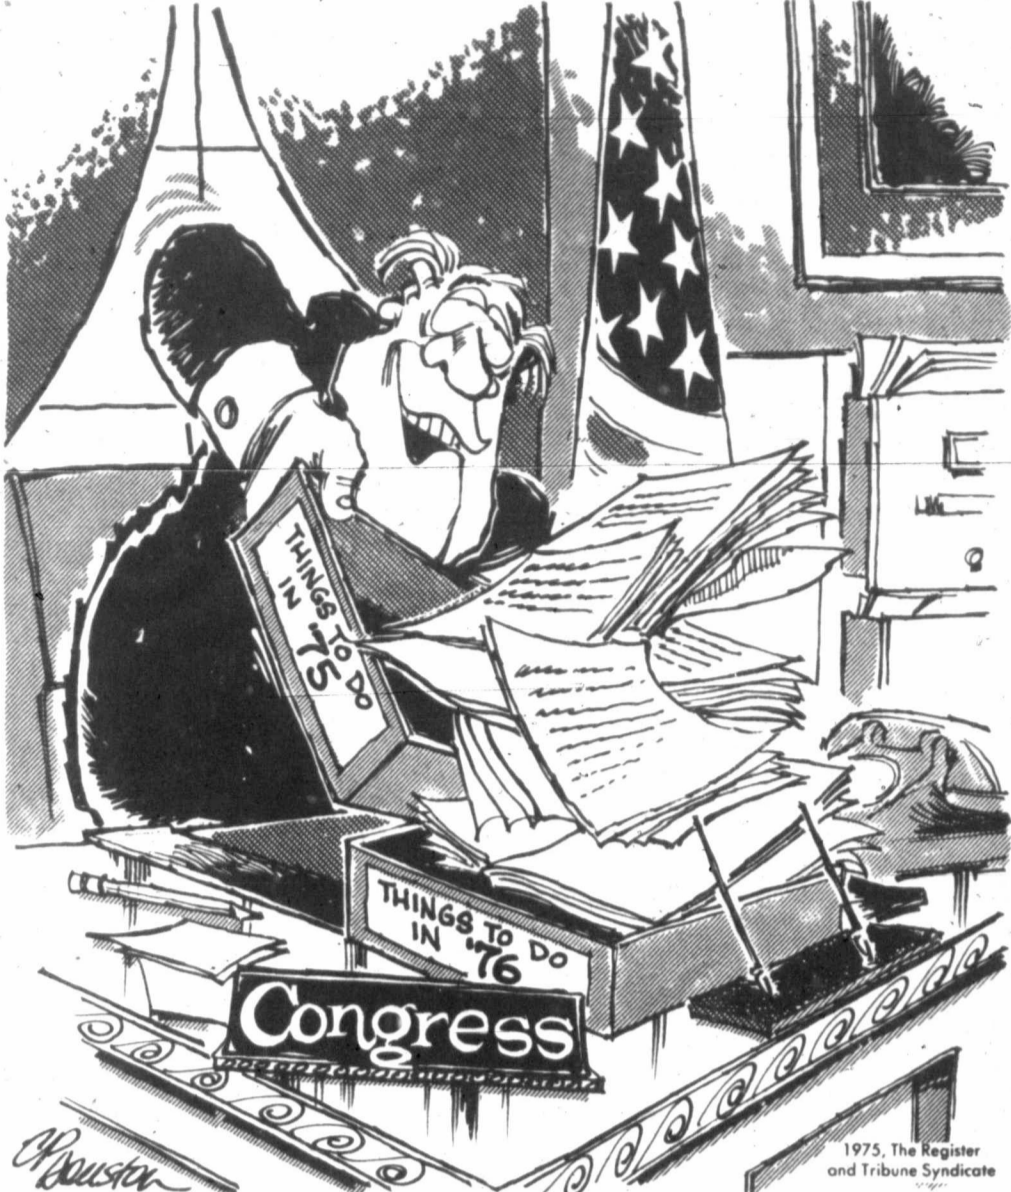

A Worley Brown, president of Rock City Packaging Co., addressing a seminar on productivity sponsored by the Georgia Business and Industry Assn., warned that "Our capital needs for the next 10 years exceed the investment that is currently available. The shortfall has been estimated at $400 million every single day."

Mr. Brown noted that "America today ranks fifth in the percentage of economic output that is devoted to new assets of production. While the USA puts 16 per cent of its gross national product in capital investment, Canada, West Germany, France and Japan invest 17, 26, 28 and 36 per cent respectively."

"In other words, the anti-growth movement is having its way in America to a considerable degree. While the United States has not adopted a steady state economic policy, its failure to provide for adequate capital formation is having the same effect as an expressed policy.

Where is the money going that should be applied to capital formation? It is going into what New Society Magazine described as a "social service infrastructure," that is, into the federal and state bureaucracies, the regulatory agencies which retard productivity, and a maze of welfare programs. The high cost of non-productive government is curbing economic growth in the United States.

Much effort is needed to improve individual and corporate productivity in America. But achievement of substantial, national productivity goals will be impossible unless the public insists on dismantling the bureaucracies and unless spending on food stamps and similar welfare measures is curtailed.

"That's what I love about government service: there's always so much to be done."

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

No Fun In 'I Told You So'

By WILLIAM RUSHER
One of the grim little satisfactions I had been counting on, when it finally became apparent to everyone that the economics of liberalism just don't work, was the pleasure of saying, "I told you so." And yet, as matters are turning out, I am going to get precious few jollies from the discomfiture of the liberals.

"I told you so" will never be a universally popular expression, because the person to whom it is addressed always has good reason to wish it had never been uttered. In that sense it is right up there with "you've got cancer." But, in terms of sheer satisfaction to the user, it is almost in a class by itself. To see a mistake being made; to warn, in plenty of time, that it is a mistake; to have one's warning disregarded or even laughed at; to watch the predicted misfortune occur exactly as you had said it would — and then to put a maraschino "I told you so" on top of that sundae of mishap: to do that may not be a terribly uplifting experience, but we would be less than human if we didn't regard it as an immensely gratifying one.

And the liberals were such set ups! They combined, in classic proportions, the smug righteousness of the self-consciously "compassionate" and the amiable ignorance of the economically illiterate. The world was (and will probably always be) full of suffering. The desirability of using government funds to alleviate as much of that suffering as possible seemed to liberals almost self-evident.

(Never mind that it involved some dubious assumptions about the intentions and abilities of governments, as well as about the precise relationship between money and suffering. The fact that government has no true wealth of its own, but only what it takes, by one means or another, from producing sectors of the economy, was not only not a serious obstacle but a positive advantage, since it resulted in a certain amount of salutary redistributionism.)

If some conservative presumed to object to the annual reenactment of this secular passion play, on the grounds that it couldn't possibly last and would wind up hurting most the very people it was designed to help, he was simply laughed at. As John Maynard Keynes quipped when Winston Churchill warned against the long-run consequences of economic interventionism, "Mr. Churchill forgets that in the long-run we are all dead" — which must surely rank as one of the stupidest remarks of a vintage century. Yet liberals were still chuckling over it as late as mid-1975.

Well, they've stopped chuckling. The bankruptcy of the New York City, let alone the plainly forthcoming collapse of various other states and municipalities under their own staggering burdens of public debt, has convinced many life-long liberals that there really is a bottom to the government barrel, and that not even the Tooth Fairy is going to come to the rescue.

Isn't it time, then, for us conservatives to exercise our prerogative and let fly with a loud "I told you so"? Yes, but it isn't going to be much of a consolation.

The trouble, you see, is that most of us — certainly I — had always pictured conservatives as standing, so to speak, on the bank of the Niagara River just above the Falls watching the liberals disport themselves recklessly in a boat. "Watch out!" we yelled. "Careful, or you'll go over the Falls!" But who can tell a liberal anything? Slowly, inexorably, the boat would drift nearer the abyss. Too late the liberals would at last see the danger; and just before they disappeared over the edge we would shout, "I told you so!"

The trouble, however, is with the metaphor. That boat isn't simply the S.S. Liberalism; it's the S.S. United States. And we conservatives aren't standing on the banks, watching it drift toward disaster — we're in it, along with the liberals. Their ruin will be ours too — and America's. So what's the use of, or the fun in, "I told you so"? As we go over the edge, they'll probably hand us the tiller at last and say, "Okay — YOU steer!"

A Peek Into Madsen's Crystal Ball

By MADSEN PIRIE
R.C. Holles Fellow
Hillsdale (Mich.) College

As the mists begin to clear from 1976, Madsen's crystal ball reveals once more the shadows of things which might be, rather than the shadows of things which must be. These, then, are the events as they could happen, month by month, to make up the year of our two hundredth birthday.

January: In the New Hampshire primary Wallace gains 30 per cent of the vote. None of the other 43 Democratic candidates manages more than 5 per cent. The movie "Lustful Thighs" (X-rated) opens in New York and is hailed by the East Coast press as "a moving masterpiece of modern literature."

February: The nomination of a new Secretary for the Environment fails in the Senate following disclosure by Jack Anderson that the candidate once sat in the same football crowd as ex-President Nixon. American scientist announces cure for cancer: network television news fails to cover the story, however, devoting their space instead to sensational announcement by popular female entertainer that "she loves her dog more than she loves men."

March: A whale is grounded on the Potomac shore at the nation's capitol. Ralph Nader declares the whale was killed by "man's relentless use of his living space as an open sewer." Whale reported still alive. Armed insurrection in New Mexico: reports say 5,000 Cuban troops and 20,000 Soviet advisers are involved. Senate passes law to prevent involvement of U.S. troops. Senator Bayh says New Mexico could easily become "another Vietnam."

April: New Mexican rebels capture Arizona. Secretary Kissinger declares that this could threaten detente. Senate committee investigates reports that CIA might be fighting the Soviet-backed rebels. America declared "bully of the world" by UN General Assembly resolution. Potomac whale now major tourist attraction. Whale-Liberation Movement started by group of New York lawyers.

May: Mass murderer slays 15 with sword in North Dakota. Senator Kennedy calls for gun control as "the only way to stop this senseless slaughter." Communists capture Nevada. Rep. Bella Abzug denounces U.S. military interference in the internal affairs of New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada.

June: House introduces Whale Protection Agency Bill, with initial budget of $2 billion and staff of 20,000. Democrats reportedly using computer to select profile of ideal candidate to appeal to various minorities. Computer suggests one-legged, short-sighted, hunchback female dwarf.

July: Democrats nominate Hubert Humphrey. U.S. Viking rocket lands on Mars. First television pictures show request for U.S. aid.

August: Potomac whale shot dead by deranged woman who announces that she wished to draw attention to the fact that Presidents of the United States are now an endangered species. New movie "Claws," about man-eating eagles, opens in New York. Hailed as "a moving masterpiece of modern literature."

September: Supreme Court quashes conviction of North Dakota mass murderer because police did not say "please" when they asked him to surrender his sword. Soviet-backed rebel force wiped out by last man by anti-busing demonstration in Utah. Leading liberal announces U.S. national day of shame to atone for "this disgraceful act."

October: Congress fixes price of gasoline at 5 cents a gallon. All gasoline sold out within three days. Committee appointed to investigate oil profiteering. OPEC nations quadruple oil prices.

November: Conservative landslide in Presidential election. TV news networks fail to carry the story, each presenting instead a six-hour special on "the true meaning of Watergate." Supreme Court rules against "family hour" on TV, declaring that producers and writers have a constitutional right to pervert and corrupt 24 hours a day.

December: Sensational best-seller on book — stands with the collected sayings which John Kennedy might have uttered had he lived to be seventy. Earthquake in Washington D.C. destroys all federal bureaucracies. No one notices.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Bird Lover Scores Abby For Cruelty to Mynas

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "move that cursing myna bird to the garage, basement or some other isolated place so people won't be offended by its vulgarity" was strictly for the birds.

If a bird is isolated for a long period of time, it will become listless and unhappy. Birds need the sound of a human voice or the company of other birds to keep them happy and healthy.

Also, myna birds are tropical birds, and as such, they are highly susceptible to pneumonia and should be kept warm and out of drafts. (I lost two canaries in one week by foolishly placing them in a drafty kitchen.)

Please, Abby, in the name of humanity, print this!

BIRD LOVER

DEAR BIRD LOVER: All right. Here's your letter. Now, all you folks out there, please keep your birds warm!

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I are now 21 and 19. We are married now, but when we were young (12 and 10) we were both sexually molested by our brother-in-law on numerous occasions. We were never very close to our mother, and we had no father, so we had nobody to turn to. We were naive and very frightened, so we just kept it to ourselves.

The problem is not ours now because what has happened is in the past, but this brother-in-law is now the father of two adopted daughters, ages 4 and 6, and we are afraid that he might molest them.

How do we go about telling our sister that her husband is abnormal? Is it too late for us to do anything now to prevent him from molesting his children?

BEEN THROUGH IT

DEAR BEEN: Try to establish a close relationship with the two little girls so that they will tell you if their father takes any indecent liberties with them. I don't recommend your telling your sister or anyone else. Bringing up the past now could create an ugly situation needlessly, but do keep your eyes open!

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 40 years to a lovely, compassionate, gentle woman. She's about as near to perfection as a wife can be. But she has developed a habit in recent years that has begun to irritate me no end.

If a woman acquaintance dies, my wife develops instant "compassion" for the widower, and it's, "Let's invite poor Jim over for dinner, or bridge, or for the evening."

Whenever we have a party, she says, "Don't you think we should invite poor John? He must be so lonely."

She is the only one among our many friends who has this type of interest and compassion.

Abby, I have had it. How do I put a stop to it without appearing to be a jealous husband?

UPSET IN URBANA

DEAR UPSET: Look at it this way: Should YOU ever find yourself alone, wouldn't you want to be shown the same compassion and interest?

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

The first U.S. Mint was established in Philadelphia, then the nation's capital, by the Act of April 2, 1792, providing for gold, silver, and copper coins. George Washington was an enthusiastic supporter of the U.S. Mint. He reputedly contributed his tableware to be melted down for the "half-dimes" that were the mint's first coins. The World Almanac notes.

Some people believe that if you sleep with your closet door open, it's bad luck!

Black Dragons Fight in Angola

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A group of Vietnam Army veterans known as the Black Dragons has enlisted several hundred ex-GIs to fight for U.S.-backed factions in the Angolan civil war, according to the Hartford Times.

Charles Joyner, 31, of Cromwell, Conn., who said he is a member of the Washington-based group, said in a story published Wednesday 387 former servicemen, both blacks and whites, have already signed up to leave for Angola in June.

"We hope to gather together an army of about 2,500 veterans," he said. The group currently has members in 27 U.S. cities and towns, he said.

Joyner told the Times he knows forming a private army in the United States with plans to fight in a foreign country is illegal. He said group members will leave the country as private citizens and will not be trained on American soil.

He said the Black Dragons force will be a "swift, highly mobile guerrilla group" which will fight on the side of the coalition formed by the National Front for the Liberation of Angola and the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

He said the average soldier will receive about $1,200 a month. He refused to name the organization providing funds for salaries, arms, supplies, travel and equipment.

"We were hired by Africans and will fight for the unity of the African continent," he said. "We have absolutely no connection with the CIA, CORE or any Communist groups."

"We are enlisting whites as well as blacks with the ratio right now of about 85 per cent black to 15 per cent white."

He said the Black Dragons want to join the fight because they think their "future lies with Africa."

Files for Constable

John Thomas, a retired Air Force sergeant with 15 years military and air police service, has filed as a candidate for constable Precinct II — a post now held by Bob Watson. Thomas resigned from the Pampa Police Department last July after 10 years service with the department, including eight years as a lieutenant. As a certified law enforcement officer, he holds certification with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education. He has two years at Frank Phillips College toward an associate degree in law enforcement. He is also a member of the Air Force non-commissioned officers association, and the Fraternal Order of the Moose. He and his wife live at 800 N. Somerville. He has one son, who is married and lives in California. He also has two grandchildren. He is presently employed by the Pampa Independent School District as a custodian at Horace Mann Elementary School.

Boy's Condition Still Serious

A second grade student at Horace Mann School remained in serious condition this morning as a result of a car-pedestrian accident Tuesday afternoon in the 500 block of North Wells.

Eric Garnett, 8, is in the intensive care unit at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thomas of Pampa and the son of Mrs. Murry Garnett.

Nixon Can't Have Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon is not entitled to immediate possession of his presidential papers because they must be preserved for historic purposes and Nixon might be tempted to tamper with them to hide possible misconduct in office, a three-judge federal court has ruled.

Nixon was advised of the ruling shortly after it was handed down Wednesday. His lawyers refused to quote Nixon's reaction, but said "it was printable. He was disappointed as is anyone when they lose a court case."

Nixon told them to take an immediate appeal to the Supreme Court.

In Wednesday's ruling, the court, recognizing "sensitivity to constitutional protections," barred the General Services Administration, which has custody of the Nixon items, from transferring or making public any documents or tapes until Nixon can appeal.

It also gave Nixon and his agents access to the documents and tapes for copying for use in the memoirs he is writing.

Nixon had challenged the 1974 law denying him custody of 42 million pages and over 800 tapes on grounds Congress infringed presidential privilege and the law violated Nixon's personal rights to privacy and free speech.

But the court, Judge Carl McGowan writing the opinion, dismissed the suit and held the law is constitutional.

He noted that GSA has not yet issued regulations or rulings about which papers and tapes are of public historical value and which are purely private, belonging solely to Nixon.

McGowan said any former president might be tempted to tamper with his papers so that his actions would be "viewed with favor" by future historians.

Referring to the Watergate disclosures and a subsequent bill of impeachment passed by the House, McGowan said "that risk might rationally be thought by Congress to be considerably magnified by reference to the circumstances surrounding Mr. Nixon's departure from office."

Gas Fire Kills Three

MOORELAND, Okla. (UPI) — Authorities believe a heater being used by workers at a natural gas compressor station Wednesday caused a flash fire which killed three men and injured four others.

Woodward Fire Department Lt. Roger Martin said officials think the heater set fire to leaking gas.

The four workers who were burned were in fair to good condition at Oklahoma City, Enid and Tulsa hospitals.

Killed were Russell Warren, 22, of Seiling, Okla.; Benny Contreras, 34, and Marcus M. Pando, 19, who were from Mexico, but were living near May.

Injured were Ezekial Sanchez, 27, and Gabriel Vega, 17, of Mexico; Carl Noble, 57, and Mike Schaefer, 17, both of Seiling.

Noble, Schaefer and Vega were taken to the Baptist Medical Center burn unit in Oklahoma City and Vega was transferred to a Tulsa hospital late Wednesday. Sanchez was taken to an Enid hospital.

A Baptist hospital nursing supervisor said Wednesday night Vega, Noble and Schaefer were in fair condition. Sanchez was reported in good condition. An Army helicopter was to transfer the men, but high winds prevented the helicopter from reaching the area.

"They were installing new equipment down in a ditch," Woodward County Sheriff A. C. Gaston said. "I think it was more of a flash fire than an explosion. I didn't see any twisted metal. These bodies were intact, except for being burned."

"It was real cold out here, about zero, and the chill factor was about 30 below," he said. "They had a heater down in the hole with them."

Highway patrol trooper Bill Hensley said the ditch was six to eight feet deep.

The National Weather Service reported a chill factor of about 40 below zero in the area in the far northwest Oklahoma area. The station was isolated from any residential areas.

The western Oklahoma compressor station consists of a group of compressors, large engines and pipes in an open area, the sheriff said.

The men worked for Trend Construction Corp. of Oklahoma City which was handling construction of the Michigan-Wisconsin Co.'s Cedardale compressor station southeast of Mooreland in Woodward County.

A natural gas line and compressor stations run by Michigan-Wisconsin go through western Oklahoma from Texas to Kansas. The pipeline company is a subsidiary of American Natural Gas Co. in Detroit.

'Bubbly' Liquid Precedes Fire

ELKHART, Ind. (UPI) — Employees of an aerosol can factory saw a "red and bubbly" liquid coming out a drain shortly before a series of explosions and a fire injured three dozen persons and caused an estimated $1 million in damages.

Firemen said one person was missing in the blaze Wednesday at the Accra Pak Co., in a huge industrial park on the city's southeast side.

Fire Chief Roger Kindy said the search for Gail Parnell, a 23-year-old assembly line worker, would resume today. The search was halted late Wednesday by darkness and temperatures in the low teens.

An owner of the company said he believed custodian Gerald Shoemaker also was missing but firemen were unable to confirm Shoemaker had been at the plant.

Officials said 17 persons were hospitalized, seven with severe burns. Nineteen others, mostly police and firemen, reported to hospitals for treatment of minor injuries, smoke inhalation or safety checks by doctors concerned about possible effects of toxic gases in the air during the firefighting operation. All but 11 of the victims were released by Wednesday night.

The most seriously injured were transferred to a burn unit at a hospital in Fort Wayne, south of this city near the Indiana-Michigan border.

Most of the 80 workers had been in the lunchroom when the explosions rocked the plant and triggered the blaze that could be seen 15 miles away at South Bend, Ind.

"We had just gotten off lunch and they had told us to go back to the break room after we found some kind of liquid coming up through the drain," said Mrs. Susan Rowe, 23, who was treated for minor injuries and released from the hospital. "It was red and bubbly."

"There's a door on the break room and we could see the fire go right by us," said Mrs. Rowe, who has worked on the plant's assembly line for a year.

The 75,000-square foot plant, which produces 800 different products for about 125 clients — from hair spray to window cleaner and all using fluorocarbon propellants — was declared a total loss with only parts of the front walls standing.

A fire official said that if the workers hadn't been in the "break" room, "God knows how many would have been killed."

Cattlemen Fight Fed

DIMMITT, Tex. (UPI) — Texas cattlemen are trying to prevent the federal government from forcing the state to comply with U.S. Department of Agriculture brucellosis regulations.

The cattlemen present their case in federal court today. Representatives of the Texas Animal Health Commission, the defendants in the suit, said they would also appear.

The suit was filed last week by cattlemen attempting to force the TAHC to comply with USDA brucellosis regulations. Since the suit was filed, however, the TAHC has voted to adopt the federal guidelines.

In another legal battle over the quarantine, the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers

Association of Fort Worth has filed suit in Austin district court for an injunction against the TAHC.

That suit alleges the USDA cannot legally quarantine Texas livestock because it did not file an environmental impact statement.

Judge Jack Roberts of Austin has deferred a ruling pending completion of the Dimmitt hearing.

Wants Traffic Ticket Trial Changed to Federal Court

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A Dallas man, who is testing the constitutionality of the Gray County Courts by contesting an alleged speeding violation issued in 1975, has asked County Judge Don Cain for a change of venue.

H.C. Willis, 45, has requested that the case be moved to federal court on grounds that the 55-mile an hour speed limit is a federal law.

"It is instead a federal law, having been imposed upon the state under duress from the federal government," Willis said in his petition to remove the case from Gray County court.

"Willis is representing himself in the trial."

"The people of Texas, including the defendant, voted in the 70 mile per hour speed limit. The people have never voted to repeal the law nor did they have any voice in determining the present so-called speed limit," he added.

Willis contends the present speed limit of 55 miles per hour violates Article I Section 1 of the Texas Constitution and is "and is not enforceable by the state."

A Texas Highway Patrolman issued the ticket on Feb. 27, 1975 stating that Willis was driving 72 miles per hour. Willis pleaded innocent, and Justice of Peace E.L. Anderson assessed a $250 fine. Willis called for a jury trial in justice court and the jury assessed a $50 fine.

He then posted a $100 surety bond and appealed to county court.

Willis challenged the constitutionality of the courts in accepting "anything but gold and silver coin as tender in payment of debts." He also contended the 55 mile per hour speed law is unconstitutional.

"The reason is a hoax — an energy crisis, which doesn't exist," he said.

"We are in a dilemma. We have to continue allowing the government to violate the law or go into court and force compliance," he said while in Pampa on Sept. 2.

When Willis' case went to trial in Gray County Court on Nov. 10, the judge declared a mistrial on grounds that John Warner, county attorney, mentioned Willis' previous conviction in justice of peace court before the jury.

The case is set for trial again next week.

Willis said in his request to move the case to federal court that the prosecutor (Warner) has "repeatedly violated defendants right to due process by violating state laws in the process of prosecuting defendant."

Willis said that Warner "angrily informed defendant of his intention to continue such violations even though defendant has informed him, in writing, of his rights to due process."

In his statement of the case included in his request for a change of venue, Willis said Warner became angry when the mistrial was declared "and angrily informed him his intentions to force defendant to adhere to the same rigid rules that apply to professional attorneys."

Willis added that Warner "angrily informed defendant of his intention to arbitrarily handle defendants mistrial and has refused to set a specific time for trial, thus forcing the defendant to possibly spend unnecessary time off from work while awaiting trial, a clear violation of defendants right to due process."

In conclusion Willis said the prosecutor violated the law, causing a mistrial, "thus his vindictive attitude and proposed action has the effect of punishing defendant for prosecutors crime, a clear case of cruel and unusual punishment."

Willis added that he believes that he will have a greater chance of having his right to due process protected in federal court.

Copies of his petition for a change of venue were sent to Texas Attorney General John Hill and Warner. It was filed with County Clerk Wanda Carter.

Jobs Not Welfare

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Civil rights leader Charles Evers Wednesday called for an end to welfare and the creation of programs to put people in jobs in a hearing before Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex.

Bentsen was in Mississippi to take testimony on Mississippi's economic development programs for the Joint Economic Committee and to campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Bentsen was the only member of the committee to attend the hearing.

"I hate welfare," said Evers, the mayor of Fayette, Miss. "It makes my people look bad."

McGrath Sues State On Brain Operation

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Tom McGrath Jr. spent nearly 35 years in a mental institution where his treatment included a frontal lobotomy.

McGrath, 50, was freed two years ago by a court order, but he says his long years of confinement have made him unemployable. He lives on Social Security benefits.

He has filed a $1.6 million suit against the state charging his constitutional rights were violated by wrongful confinement and the brain operation was performed without his consent.

McGrath suffered a head injury as a small child and because of his erratic behavior his parents committed him to a mental institution when he was 14.

He underwent the brain surgery in 1947 and remained confined until 1974, when he sued to get his release.

McGrath's suit says he was not provided a "meaningful education" during his confinement and is therefore functionally incapable of holding a job.

One of McGrath's six sisters, Della McGrath, said the family had not been consulted about the suit and did not view it favorably.

She said her brother "doesn't know the value of a dollar or the value of a dime. That's the main thing now. He has no judgment whatsoever" regarding finances.

McGrath's lawyer, James Burke, disagreed, saying the Social Security Administration ruled two months ago that he was capable of managing his own Social Security payments. Before the ruling, his Social Security checks had been going to the family, Burke said.

"He does suffer from the effects of institutionalization," Burke said of his client. "He is unemployable, has a lack of ambition and has the feeling that things will be taken care of for him.

Military Honors

Lt. Col. Harold E. Cobb, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ewing Cobb of 1124 Mary Ellen, received a meritorious service award from the U.S. Air Force when he retired recently. Cobb, a 1943 graduate of Pampa High School, has been stationed at McClelland Air Force Base in Sacramento, Calif., for the past 6½ years. Presenting the award is Cobb's commanding officer, Col. Grubaugh.

Kidnaped Executive Safe

PARIS (UPI) — In the best detective tradition, police tracing a phone number found scribbled in a suspect's pants cuff pried open a kitchen cabinet in a deserted country house and found kidnaped executive Louis Hazan — chained and gagged but safe.

"It was the biggest surprise of my life," the haggard looking Hazan said of his dramatic rescue Wednesday night. He had been squashed in the closet since six young, longhaired gunmen dragged him from a New Year's Eve board meeting.

Police arrested the alleged mastermind of the kidnaping only hours after freeing Hazan. They identified him as Bruno Brunini, 35, an invalid on crutches who owned an office cleaning firm in the same building as Hazan's Phonogram recording company.

Officials had steadfastly refused to allow payment of the $3.5 million ransom demanded by the kidnapers and newspapers hailed the outcome as a resounding victory for the new headline policy.

Police said five of the 11-member kidnap gang had been arrested, including two picked up at the Place de la Bastille by officers pretending to drop off the ransom.

Hazan's rescue could have come from the pages of a detective novel.

An officer at Paris police headquarters noticed a phone number on the inside trouser cuff of a suspect arrested in a Paris suburb Wednesday morning.

Telephone officials traced it to a rundown house near Tremblay-les-Villages, 70 miles southwest of Paris. Detectives sped to the scene and scaled a high wall surrounding the house to approach it from the rear.

As they gently pushed open an unlocked door, "We heard the sound of two persons running away," one detective said.

The agents searched the eight-room house and at first thought they had reached a dead end. Then they noticed the kitchen closet and pried open the door. Out tumbled Hazan — chained, gagged and with a scarf over his eyes.

He was "shaken up but in good health," the detectives said.

The tall, slender Hazan, dressed in a black velvet vest and scotch plaid scarf, was rushed to police headquarters where he rejoined his wife.

At a meeting with reporters later at his apartment, the 53-year-old executive said his kidnapers had treated him "adequately."

Polls Say Ford Slipping

By United Press International
Separate public opinion polls today indicate Ronald Reagan is looking good to the public in the early stages of his campaign, while President Ford's popularity slipped during the past month.

Reagan opened his bid this week for the New Hampshire primary vote in his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination. Today he took up a warmer climate, moving into North Carolina, another state with an early primary.

President Ford kept to the White House, brushing up budget plans and his speech on the State of the Union, due at mid-month.

A Harris survey of 1,475 adults nationwide showed Reagan winning acceptance on several fronts, 51 to 20 per cent identifying the former California governor favorably with reducing the government in business, 45 to 25 per cent on paring the bureaucracy, and 44 to 25 per cent on a forceful stance with the Soviet Union.

But in response to another question about inspiring the country to greatness, Reagan was rated less favorably, on the low side of a 33 to 31 per cent response.

In a Gallup study made the weekend after President Ford returned from China, he won approval for his job performance from 39 per cent of those surveyed, up 2 per cent from his worst poll but down 7 per cent from early December. Another 46 per cent disapproved of the way Ford handled his job and 15 per cent declared they were undecided.

Ford Wednesday visited his Washington campaign headquarters to thank the workers for the job they had been doing. He praised the committee for "integrity" and "teamwork."

While Reagan has been explaining to New Hampshire voters his intent to cut the cost of the federal government by $90 billion, Ford was drafting a budget that aides say will be below $395 billion and will certainly "bring screams of protest from various special interest groups."

The Democratic Party candidates for the presidential nomination also talked of broad government programs.

In Boston, Sargent Shriver said he had a plan to cut unemployment — now 8.3 per cent — to under 5 per cent by mid-1978, and reduce inflation — now 8.1 per cent — to 6.3 per cent by then. Shriver did not put a price tag on his package.

Fiercest Battle Hits In Lebanon Civil War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christians and Palestinians fought their fiercest battle in ten months of civil war today, unleashing a blaze of mortar and machinegun fire that reduced hospitals to rubble in see-saw combat around a besieged refugee camp.

Intense fighting raged in eastern Beirut for the second straight day as thousands of Palestinian guerrillas fought to widen the wedge of strategic territory seized in a drive against the six-day Christian blockade of the Palestinian refugee camp at Tal Zaatar.

The Christians poured in reinforcements to drive them back.

"This is it, we're finally coming down to the crunch of the whole war," a Christian street fighter said.

Police put early casualties at 25 dead and 50 injured, raising the toll since civil war erupted in April to more than 8,100 dead and 17,300 wounded.

With guns and shell fire blazing, a Palestinian-Moslem force of about 5,000 smashed out of Tal Zaatar before dawn Wednesday and pushed north and west of the camp in a mile-wide arc.

Christian forces counterattacked, pushing back the Palestinians to Tal Zaatar's outskirts.

But the Palestinians struck with a second offensive early today recapturing most of their original gains, a Christian spokesman said.

"A very fierce battle" was still underway around Tal Zaatar early today, he said.

Two hospitals, alternately seized by both sides, were shelled to the ground as the battle see-sawed between the

Railroad Vandalism Told

Vandalism to a Santa Fe Railroad box has been reported to the Pampa Police Department for the second consecutive night — Tuesday and Wednesday.

Bob Thrasher reported Tuesday night that someone pruned the seal off a box car on the siding east of Starkweather St., and scattered the contents of approximately 50 bags of Breeder Cubes inside, and outside the box car. Damage was estimated at $75.

Wednesday night vandals hit the siding on Tyng St. Thrasher said between 300 and 500 bags of open fields surrounding Tal Zaatar and the shop-lined streets of Sin El Fil.

Palestinians and Moslems refused to consider a truce until the Christians unconditionally lifted their blockade of food and supplies to Tal Zaatar's 6,000 residents and the 30,000 Moslems in surrounding shantytowns.

In Kuwait, Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said Syria would not hesitate to send troops into Lebanon to block the partition of Lebanon.

cattle cube feed had been split open with a sharp instrument and scattered on the ground.

In other incident reports today, Mark Polk of 2332 Comanche reported that while his vehicle was at Pampa High School 24 tapes were stolen from it. He estimated the values at $125.

A theft report earlier this week revealed that Dr. M.C. Overton of 2700 Duncan said while he was in surgery at Highland General Hospital, he left his billfold in his pants pocket in the doctors' lounge. After surgery his billfold was missing, he reported to police.

Teresa Finds Home

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — The father of an 11-year-old girl who spent 22 hours with the bodies of her dead mother, stepfather and stepister, says his primary concern is whether she will ever mentally recover.

"She's not ready for school yet," said Paul Seymour, who lost custody of his daughter, Teresa, in a 1967 divorce. "She needs to calm down and have a quiet existence."

"We are going to keep a close track on her psychiatric condition," he said Wednesday.

The child's family was killed Dec. 21 in the crash of their plane into a snow-covered Oregon mountain. She and her dog, "Baby," were the only survivors of the crash and huddled in the wreckage for 22 hours before rescuers found the plane.

Doctors say the dog's warmth probably kept Teresa from freezing to death.

Killed in the crash were Teresa's mother, Frances Conduff, 47; her stepfather, Robert Conduff Jr., 37; and a stepister, Frances Foster, 14.

Teresa returned to her natural father this week, spending her first day playing with "Baby" and Seymour's dog.

"She giggled last night watching the dogs play," he said. "Besides her puppy, I have a dog named Boots. Teresa giggled up a storm last night when they rolled around on the floor."

Her father said the child was in good spirits most of the day but conceded there would be a lengthy period of adjustment.

He said the only evidence of the crash now remaining were the casts on her legs and her conversations about the hours she spent alone with the bodies.

"She does want to talk about it," Seymour said. "You can tell she's badly hurt, but she tries not to show it."

"She wanted to show me pictures of the plane crash last night, but she couldn't find them. I think someone took them away from her."

"She told us the condition of her mother after the crash. She cried and said her mother was cut to pieces."

Pro-Western Leader Says War Will Be Escalated

SILVA PORTO, Angola (UPI) — A leader of one pro-Western faction in Angola says the country's devastating civil war will dramatically escalate unless a weekend meeting of African states helps work out a solution.

Jonas Savimbi, president of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, said Wednesday he hoped the Organization of African Unity peace summit in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, could find a solution to the war.

He said fighting in the past year had killed more than 150,000 people.

"We are hopeful that the conference will not only call for the withdrawal of the Russians, Cubans and South Africans, but go further, and demand a government of national unity," he said.

If the meeting fails to work out a solution, Savimbi said, "The war will become more complicated and escalate inevitably and considerably."

The bearded leader said in that event, "We will look for the very best men from everywhere to help us with sophisticated weapons."

He said he would not ask the United States for troops or mercenaries because of the American sensitivity toward "foreign adventures" after Vietnam.

The Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola this week scored its biggest triumph when it took the northern city of Uige and the nearby airbase of Negage from the National Front for the Liberation of Angola.

The National Front is allied with the National Union.

Military officials with the joint pro-Western forces in the south said the Popular Movement — armed by the Soviet Union and backed by some 7,500 Cuban troops — would use its latest military success to seek support at the OAU meeting for its claim of de facto control over Angola.

A Marxist delegation, headed by Popular Movement Foreign Minister Jose Eduardo, left for Addis Ababa Wednesday.

Eduardo said he believed "The OAU summit... will give total support" to the Marxists.

Low-calorie Foods Need Not Be Boring

By JANE P. MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Diet!
The New Year brings out more promises of diets than swim suit season and class reunions.

But exactly how to diet and what to eat on that diet remains one of the most controversial diet around.

A nutrition professor once told me, "It's not what you eat, it's how much you eat that makes the difference." In other words, you can get fat on carrot sticks if you eat enough of them, and you can get skinny on chocolate cake if you eat only small enough amounts.

What you eat, when you eat, and how much you eat are the three determining factors in body weight.

But alas, the problem with a diet — whether a good one of a poor one nutritionally — is the inability of the dieter to stick with it. Celery and baked fish can become mighty unappetizing after a week.

Low-calorie foods need not to be bland or monotonous though. Try a menu of Shrimp - Rice Rockefeller, a salad of 2 lettuce leaves and a half a tomato with buttermilk - herb dressing, and a slice of canned juice - packed pineapple for dessert.

Shrimp - Rice Rockefeller has 285 calories per serving.

Shrimp - Rice Rockefeller

1 cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
12 ounces peeled, deveined raw shrimp, cut in half lengthwise

1 can (10-3/4 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup grated Swiss cheese
1/4 cup sherry
3 cups cooked rice
1 can (8 oz.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and drained
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute onions in butter until tender but not brown. Add shrimp and continue cooking until slightly pink, about 2 minutes. Stir in soup, Swiss cheese, and sherry, heat until soup is warm. Add rice, water chestnuts, spinach, lemon juice, and 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Season to taste.

Turn into a greased shallow 2-quart casserole. Sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake, uncovered at 350 degrees for 25 minutes, or until hot and bubbly.

Buttermilk - Herb Dressing

1 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon dillweed salt and pepper

Combine all ingredients in a jar and shake until well blended. Chill for several hours.

This dressing can be stored, tightly covered, in the refrigerator for a week. There are about 7 calories in each tablespoon of the dressing. If you are shy of sea food, try pork chops stuffed with apples, celery and mushrooms. Just be sure you get lean chops. With them serve a light tossed salad dressed and a low calorie dessert. Bananas Melba.

1/2 cup water

4 medium apples, pared and sliced across into rings
2 cups thinly sliced celery ground sage

2 tablespoons green onions
Heat and season a large heavy skillet by rubbing with the edges of several pork chops. Brown six chops at a time, sprinkling each with salt, pepper and paprika.

Place all chops in skillet and add water. Cover with tight fitting lid and braise over low heat for 30 minutes.

Remove from heat and place apple rings, mushrooms and celery in layers on six chops. Sprinkle with ground sage and green onions.

Top each with remaining pork chop. Cover and continue cooking over low heat for 20 minutes or until celery is tender.

French Salad Dressing
1 tablespoon cornstarch
one-third cup water
1/2 cup tomato juice

1 tablespoon vegetable oil

1 clove garlic, peeled and minced
1/2 teaspoon salad herbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup wine vinegar

Mix cornstarch and water together in a cup until smooth. Place tomato juice, oil, herbs, and seasonings in a small sauce pan and bring mixture to a boil.

Stir in cornstarch mixture and boil 1/2 minute. Remove from heat and stir in vinegar.

Store in refrigerator in covered jar.

The following recipe makes 4 servings of about 100 calories each.

Bananas Melba

1 10-ounce package frozen raspberries, thawed and drained
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon brandy if desired
2 peaches halved, or 4 canned

peach halves, drained
2 diced bananas

In a blender puree drained raspberries. Strain to remove seeds and stir in sugar and brandy. Chill.

Place a peach half in each of four dessert dishes. Mound bananas on center of each. Top with chilled raspberry sauce.

New Milnot.
So rich it whips without chilling.

Wine Quality Depends On Proper Storage

By TOM GABLE
Copley News Service

You read a lot about the proper storage of wine, but can mishandling really alter its flavor and longevity?

The answer is yes. A recent tasting of three bottles of the same wine, with each given different handling, showed that the worse you treat a wine, the worse it will treat your tastebuds.

The reason is that wine is a living, organic thing. If it is allowed to slowly develop in the bottle until it matures and is unbothered by rapid changes in temperature or harsh vibrations, the wine will reward your care and patience.

Our test involved three bottles of Chateau Montelena 1972 Chardonnay, which cost $6.50 a bottle. It was made from grapes grown in the northern end of the Napa Valley in California. All three bottles came from the same case and the same retailer to cut down chances that the wine may have been aged in different casks, since there can be slight variations from cask to cask.

The first bottle was kept in a temperature-controlled cellar at a constant 58 degrees. The second bottle was kept in an interior closet in a home, where the temperature varied about 6 degrees Fahrenheit to a high of 72. The last bottle was left in the back seat of a car for two weeks, where it was exposed to temperatures ranging from 65 to 90 degrees and assorted vibrations from more than 400 miles of travel.

The three wines were tasted blind by a regular panel of 16 from the San Diego Grapevine, a California regional wine-evaluation newsletter. The wine managers, writers, enologists and retailers on the panel were almost unanimous in singling out the bottle that had been in the car as being "significantly different" from the other two bottles. The differences between the home-stored and cellar bottle were not as significant.

"Agitated, with an off-nose (aroma and bouquet)" was the prevalent description of the bottle from the car, which averaged almost two points lower on the 20-point Davis scale than the home-stored bottle. The car-bottle also seemed more tart to the taste.

DUCKWALL'S ANNIVERSARY

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, JANUARY 9
Your birthday today: As you readjust to meet a more demanding environment, all kinds of people confront you. It is important to remember that you are not the target. The main reason you're on the spot is to learn a great deal and perform services that few others can. Relationships are sensitive and in need of your best intentions. Today's natives are candid, self-reliant, often choose hazardous careers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Leave the big deals alone and get the practical chores done amid rumors. Be patient with those who try to rush matters. You can learn from past events.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Attend to minor difficulties. Do no more than you must in winding up the workweek. Take an extra break for meditation. Keep your own counsel.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Let well-enough alone as meddling friends and strangers offer irresponsible suggestions. You learn much by listening and gain little by speculative moves.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Let this be a slow day. Fill any spare time with troubleshooting and correct recent errors. Don't permit social amenities to drift into firm commitments. Avoid any important changes.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Sit back and watch how the other person performs. Dodge people who try to advise or criticize you. Make a mental list of existing problems. You'll know how to approach them tomorrow.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Be practical today. If you have the wisdom to stay cool and accept associates' virtues and faults, you attract cooperation. Make work areas functional.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Youngsters get into rather odd predicaments. Encourage constructive attitudes by your good example. Be cheerful and let incidents run their course.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Take initiative but use it mainly to get routines done. Make business calls or visits. Secrets from the past are now open to the quiet observer.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Lay aside problem-solving and decision-making, and concentrate on improving your public image. Don't make promises or take anything for granted as you interview people.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Close out losing ventures or unproductive habits. Spend your time cleaning house rather than making mature policy decisions. Be gentle to loved ones.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Save yourself a headache by not starting anything new. Use your intellect to solve an old problem. Cover jobs others normally do so you know what is involved.

Oil Breakup Costly

HOUSTON (UPI)—An Exxon oil company official says proposals to break up large oil firms in a time of energy need could cost the nation more than $14 billion per year.

Exxon USA senior vice president W.T. Slick Jr. said Tuesday the proposals were an attack against vertical integration and diversification, and were also an attack against size.

"They are an attack on business size and success, the very characteristics that will be essential to meeting the major energy and economic challenges that face this country," Slick said. "Like all short-sighted legislation, oil industry dis-memberment would harm the very individual it proposes to protect—the consumer.

"Exxon estimates that the additional recurring costs to the consumer resulting from oil industry dismemberment would total over $14 billion annually."

Speaking at a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, Slick said such legislation would force management to sharply curtail energy investments and give first priority to devising a dismemberment plan to conform to the law. He said that would take years.

He said the process would decrease domestic energy production by about 2.5 million barrels of oil equivalent per day by 1980.

"And by 1985, it would have decreased domestic production by 4 million barrels of oil equivalent per day," he said.

The result, he said, would be greater dependence on foreign oil—and an increasing flow abroad of U.S. dollars, all at the expense of domestic control growth, jobs and energy self-sufficiency.

Mexico's tourist income was off 8.5 per cent in the 1974-75 season, according to Jorge M. Couttoleno, director of the national hotel association.

Senate Probes Bell Monopoly

By FRANK E. GRIFFIS
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas telephone customers who have no choice but to pay rates demanded by a monopoly are financing the opulent lifestyles of Southwestern Bell executives, according to Senate investigators.

Staff members of the Senate subcommittee on consumer affairs have requested a full audit of the utility's accounts. The staff report also asked the new Texas Public Utility Commission to define proper expenses by a public utility and enforce the definitions.

But any utility commission action against Bell must wait until Sept. 1 when the commission is at last empowered to audit Bell accounts. Until the legislature brought the commission into being last year, Texas had no public body overseeing utilities. It was the only state in the nation without one.

The staff investigated accusations against Bell for almost a year and recently issued copies of a report on its findings to the four subcommittee members and Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby.

"I'm really kind of restrained from saying anything until we get a response back from the committee members and the lieutenant governor," said Mike Thomasson, head of the investigating team.

"We have recommended the public utilities commission take some action, but whether the recommendation will be voted out of the committee remains to be seen," Thomasson said.

Thomasson would not say whether his investigation proved accusations against Bell were factual, but the report recommends action be taken — specifically an audit of Bell's accounts.

"It's surprising, but as they say, where there's smoke there may not be a real fire, but there's something generating,"

Thomasson said.

"I think basically the anonymity of the company, at least in the eyes of the average consumer who can only communicate with it via telephone, has aggravated the public's image that company has gotten."

Utility Commissioner Alan R. Erwin said he has not seen a copy of the subcommittee staff's report but he understands the direction it takes and is prepared to review the recommendations.

"We have the authority to do anything we want with their (Bell's) books, I'm not saying we're going to, though," he said.

Presently the commission is trying to establish a set of procedural rules to guide its meetings before it investigates accusations and complaints against utilities.

In July, the investigators said records showed Bell officials used "outrageously high" expense accounts supported by customer rates in attempts to influence politicians and news media executives.

Corporate funds also are used extensively for executives' entertainment — golf outings, daily country club lunches and dinner — and personal moving expenses, the investigators said.

In an unprecedented ruling, the Texas Supreme Court upheld a decision by District Judge Tom Blackwell of Austin preventing Southwestern Bell from increasing intrastate long distance rates.

Blackwell said he hoped his ruling would not be misinterpreted because it was simply on a rate increase and "has nothing to do with the prestige of the telephone company, which is the best in the world."

However, Blackwell, citing contradictory figures and hodge-podge records, placed Bell in the position of having to prove the need for its rate increase proposal which it failed to do before the State Supreme Court.

The ruling was on a suit filed by Attorney General John Hill on behalf of Texas consumers who, prior to the creation of the utilities commission, had no recourse to intrastate charges by the phone company.

"Bell officials wine and dine politicians, civic leaders and journalists at the rate payers' expense, and to such an extent they have access to power far beyond the capacity of the average citizen to make his side of the story heard," Thomasson said.

"The salaries of important Bell executives are augmented by lavish and largely unsupervised expense accounts which often amount to thousands of dollars a year for a single individual.

"The abuse of this expense account privilege by Bell executives violated the major tenets of financial prudence and self-restraint."

The investigators detailed the expense accounts, revealing dozens of expenses charged to Bell including daily and sometimes twice daily executive lunches and dinners at country clubs, thousands of dollars for golf fees, large bar accounts and frequent travel expenses.

One executive charged the company $9,000 in moving expenses from St. Louis to Dallas, another was reimbursed $1,000 for a move from one section of Dallas to another and a third let the company pay for travel and kennel expenses for his dog.

"We are pleased that no one said we have done anything illegal," said Bell Texas Vice President Charles Marshall. "We have not. We are dismayed that blanket charges that we misuse expense accounts were made. These charges are misleading and unfair."

Teaching Kids to Read

TV Revives Cliff-Hanger

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The Vanishing Shadow," a science fiction cliff-hanger of a serial that disappeared after its movie-house run in 1934, has materialized on television to help teach kids to read.

"The plot is absolutely baroque — I couldn't begin to describe it to you," said Ray Hubbard, vice president for programming of the Post-Newsweek Stations, which is developing the new educational program called "The Reading Show," and executive producer of the show.

To the destroying ray guns, vanishing ray machine and other exotica of the original, add ventriloquist narrator Ernie Field and his dummy, Cockroach, along with updating, stop action and a robot who has been taught to dance rock 'n' roll through stop-and-start film technology, and you have some idea what "The Reading Show" is like.

This week the show began a three-week test in the Hartford, Conn., area, receiving an enthusiastic reception in its first days from teachers, youngsters and parents — as well as picking up five new communities who want to take part in the experiment originally scheduled for eight to 10 of the communities within the broadcasting range of Post-Newsweek's WFSB-TV.

The idea for "The Reading Show" began with two teachers in the Philadelphia, Pa., school system, Michael McAndrew and Dr. Bernard Solomon, who wanted to motivate youngsters who couldn't read to learn.

Hubbard relates that Dr. Solomon told him, "You could leave a $15 book on the floor in a school corridor and two weeks later it would still be there, because books were the one thing the kids wouldn't steal."

The two educators transcribed television scripts of shows popular with young audiences — "I Love Lucy," for instance — and worked out a teaching program based on the scripts and replaying the episodes from cassettes on classroom monitors.

"When the kids started stealing the scripts from the teachers' desks, they knew they had something," Hubbard said.

The results indicated a definite improvement in reading levels, but the system required expensive classroom equipment.

The Post-Newsweek stations, which include Washington, D.C. and Miami and Jacksonville, Fla., as well as Hartford, became interested in trying to find a way that local commercial television stations and school systems could work together to improve reading skills.

What they ended up with was the 12-chapter serial, "The Vanishing Shadow", starring Orslo Stevens, which youngsters could watch at home with their read-along scripts, then work on in connected classroom projects.

In the first test, Hubbard said, "The Vanishing Shadow" was seen each evening by approximately 17,000 sixth and seventh graders in the Jacksonville public schools from April 14 through May 1, 1975, coordinated with in-class work.

Dr. George Mason, chairman of the reading department of the University of Georgia's School of Education, was asked to evaluate the program and concluded the three-week test resulted in "real and significant increase in vocabulary test scores" and that students were "better prepared for the lessons based upon 'The Vanishing Shadow' than they usually were."

Pet Health Only A Shot Away

By Tex DeWeese
Pampa News Staff

If you want to protect your pet cat from distemper, rhinitis and feline leukemia — the solution is a single vaccination shot that covers all three.

Dr. Kenneth Roysse, veterinarian, reports that between 2,000 and 3,000 cats have died in Pampa from the feline diseases within the past several weeks.

The current wave of distemper has let up temporarily, Dr. Roysse explained, but unless precautions are taken another outbreak can be expected when new crops of kittens arrive.

It happens about three times a year, according to the veterinarian, and kittens five to six weeks old are most susceptible.

Distemper is not contagious to humans or dogs, he stated, and an unusual quirk is found in the fact that about one out every litter of four or five kittens is immune and survives.

One of the things pointed out by the veterinarian is that if distemper did not claim their lives, the city would be overrun with the surplus stray cat population.

Another veterinarian, Dr. M.W. Horne, concurred with Dr. Roysse that cat distemper was on the wane, but said there has been an upsurge in dog distemper especially in the Lefors area.

Cat distemper and dog distemper, he stated, are unrelated, and are treated with separate vaccines. These vaccines also are entirely different from vaccine used to combat rabies.

Dog distemper also is not contagious to humans or cats. It is contagious, Dr. Horne said, to wild animals such as coyotes.

To sum it all up, the veterinarians say persons who love their pet cats and dogs can insure their lives with a shot of anti-distemper vaccine.

Experts Trace Pet Rocks' Family Tree

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — An offer to advise on the genealogy of "pet rocks" has created a flood of requests to the Oregon State Department of Geology and Mineral Industries.

"It was wild around here Monday," said Deputy State Geologist Ralph S. Mason.

A news story saying the state agency would construct a "family tree" report on a pet rock for a $1 fee went out during the weekend.

For the buck, an owner of the newest of fads gets a certificate checking off the genetic background, shape, texture and color of the "pet rock," plus a 41-page pamphlet describing various rocks and minerals found in the state.

The genetic information indicates whether the rock is igneous, sedimentary or metamorphic.

"We're serious with pet rock owners, but not so serious as to take the fun out of the whole thing," said Mason.

For example, under the category of "appraisal and comments," the geological assessment can range from, "You have a very nice rock," to "You got took."

A commercial "pet rock" — a common Mexican pebble — is distributed by Rock Bottom Enterprises of Palo Alto, Calif., and sells for $4 in novelty and gift stores. One million were reported sold in the three months prior to Christmas.

New Logo A Costly Letter

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — NBC Television spent "just under $1 million" for that "N" logo it has been using since the first of the year. The Nebraska Educational Television Network spent "just under $100" for the same thing — last June.

The question is, who owns it? Lawyers have been summoned to help find the answer.

NETV program manager Ron Hull, referring to the NBC logo, said Tuesday, "We're having a blast and we think David won."

But the official word from NBC is that the winner — or even the start of the battle — hasn't been decided and corporate attorneys are studying the matter.

The NETV logo was developed by staff art director William Korbus. It was adopted on a 13-12 vote by NETV officials.

NBC had its "N" developed by Lippincott and Margulies Inc., a New York marketing, communications and design consulting firm specializing in remodeling corporate images. NBC wanted something brand new for its 50th birthday and the Bicentennial.

"We thought we came up with something really neat for Nebraska," Hull said.

But so did NBC when it decided to use the same thing to replace its long familiar peacock.

One difference was the price tag — the slightly less than $1 million spent by NBC versus the slightly less than $100 spent by NETV.

Hull said he has had only one formal contact with NBC officials, who asked if NETV could not somehow alter — ever so slightly — its "N."

"I told them I didn't really think we'd be willing to do that at this point," Hull said.

Hull also said, but not to NBC, "We like our logo and we want to keep it."

NETV has been using the logo since June, but Monday night it had its first national exposure on the Public Broadcasting System as the eyeopener on a series

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK

If there is anything I admire in this world, it's people with "style."

Like the guy I read about last week who broke out of prison, secured a horse at the gate, and galloped down the road to freedom like a country gentleman.

That's "style."

Some of us go through life with the labels hanging out of our dresses, and our stomachs rumbling like a volcano during benediction. Our fresh chickens leak through the bottom of our grocery bags. Our curlers make creases in our faces that only surgery can erase, and on the first day we wear white shoes, we get an unseasonal snowfall.

I have a friend with "style." Her name is Wheezie. Wheezie has a snout full of style and confidence. When she sees a line, she goes to the head of it. Whenever she drives to the supermarket, she aims for a space right outside the door (and gets it).

One day as I slid into the car next to Wheezie, she said, "Your belt is caught in the door and is flapping on the outside."

I opened the door and reeled it in. Suddenly I became resentful. "Wheezie, do you know what it is like to go through life with your panythose on backward?"

"What are you talking about?" she asked.

"I'm talking about you. You never perspire. You never bite into a ham sandwich and get a clump of fat. You always have the right change for the restroom. You never rush up to a familiar face at the airport and say, 'Hi there. Nice to see you again,' and realize it's the man who cleaned your septic tank. You always realize you have a drink in your hand before you shake hands. You always unplug your iron when you go on vacation. You remember the names and ages of your kids."

Oh, come on . . . she said.

"Shut up, Wheezie!" I snapped. "I've got to get this out of my system. Do you remember when we went to a luncheon and I had to introduce a speaker? I got two celery seeds stuck in my front teeth that looked like cavities."

"I suppose so," she shrugged.

"Do you know what I think? I think if you escaped from prison, you'd con someone out of a horse at the gate and ride too, instead of crawling along the ditches."

"Don't be ridiculous, darling," she laughed. "I'd call a cab."

produced in Nebraska called "Anyone for Tennyson."

The program manager said he was planning to meet with NETV's attorneys in Washington Wednesday and that he was going armed with detailed information on the logo and its development.

The preliminary verdict, he said, is that "we have a very good claim."

Hints from Heloise

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Are you one of those people who send lots of postcards when on vacation? I decided my own hometown has lots of interest so I've started buying local postcards. It doesn't take long to write one, especially when I don't have the time to write a letter. This way I drop short notes more often and my friends get to see some of the "high spots" of where we live. Just thought some of your readers might like this idea. Older people especially enjoy getting mail more often. Mrs. Ned C. Presho

Dear Heloise: I never thought about that! I have lived in many places of interest and never thought to send local postcards when writing short notes! What a smart and clever idea! Heloise

Dear Heloise: I make sweet pickles and dill pickles. After we have eaten a jar of the sweet pickles I save the sweet pickle vinegar. Then I pour the vinegar off a jar of dill pickles and add the sweet pickle vinegar. We then have sweet dills which are umm-um good! Mrs. N.H. Packard

Dear Heloise: Whenever grating carrots, potatoes, lemon rind, etc. that may stick on the grater, just flick the food from the grater into the bowl with a pastry brush! Rita Halley

Dear Heloise: Steveless, low-cut dresses and evening gowns have those tape loops sewn inside the shoulder seam so the dresses don't fall off the hanger, right? Well, when wearing the gown I don't want those tapes sticking out so I attached a tiny safety pin at the end of each loop. When I put the gown on, I pin the loop to the lining of the dress and then I have no fear of the unstightly tapes poking out. Mrs. Ann Swedish

Dear Heloise: I just had to write you about something my 12-year-old son discovered. He was painting with oil paint on a velvet paint-by-number kit. When he finished he tried rinsing his brush with water and it wouldn't work. He found his sister's nail polish remover. The brush not only came clean but so soft and new looking immediately. Just wish a few times and brush out on a sheet of paper and presto, clean everytime. Now he keeps a capful of nail polish remover handy when he paints to clean his brush after he changes colors. Mrs. Billie Roman

THIS COLUMN is written for you, the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Pampa's Economy Prospers

It Sims To Me...

Sturdy Playing Sheriff Role

For such a close game, it was rather dull.

Pampa led for most of the second half, and it could be sensed that when Lubbock Monterey pulled close, Pampa was not going to let the visiting Plainsmen rally and take the lead. It was almost like watching a television western knowing that the good guy — the one with the white hat — wouldn't die in the end.

Only in this western, a touch of drama ends the show. Our hero is forced into a gunfight against a never-miss desperado. Still, the outcome is never in doubt — the guy in the white hat rides off into the sunset after his glorious victory.

Enough of heroes and white hats and back to the basketball game. Pampa led 46-42 very late in the game, then gave up the basketball because the Harvesters couldn't throw it in bounds within the five-second limit. Monterey's Jody Overbeck drove in — uncontested — for a layup with three seconds left in the game, and Monterey called for a time out.

An official blew his whistle to call time out, only the timekeeper didn't notice. The clock ran out, Pampa was ahead, Monterey Coach Joe Michalka was steaming and the official walked over to the scorer's table.

"Has the buzzer sounded to end the game," Wanamaker asked the timekeeper.

Since it had, the game was over. Michalka was still steaming, threatening never to bring his team back to Pampa, while Harvester Coach Robert McPherson walked off into the sunset... er, locker room.

Although Wanamaker's decision didn't set well with Michalka, there could have been no other course of action to take, according to the red-headed official who has had his share of controversies over the years.

"When I asked him the buzzer had sounded to end the game, he said, 'yes.' That would make the game official. The rules say if you don't have specific information about how much was on the clock, you don't have authority to put time back," Wanamaker said.

"I did not hear the buzzer sound to end the game. So, when we called time out, I went over to the scorer's table."

His game-ending decision did fare well, naturally, with the Pampa fans. But, those same fans occasionally booed him during the game.

Boos are part of officiating, a part which Wanamaker doesn't mind. Sometimes, he enjoys it.

"On the floor, nothing perturbs me that the fans do. After you work awhile, it's amusing some of the things you hear from crowds," said

Wanamaker officiated the NCAA tournament's first-round game between Notre Dame and Kansas at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Okla., last year.

"I don't get nervous but you can sure feel the pressure. The big crowds make the game."

"The most vocal crowd anywhere in the world is at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. The fans sit right on floor level and they grab your pants when you go by and call you names."

"Once at Albuquerque, I got drenched with cokes and water. I had to go under the ramp at halftime and the fans sat over the ramp."

He added, "I've been shoved before but I've never been slugged. Most of the places have adequate police protection. By conference (Valley) rules, we always walk out of the gym. You don't wanna leave the impression you're trying to get away because you did a bad job."

The more people at games, the more Wanamaker enjoys it.

"The college games are more fun because the crowds are larger. But it's like working a college game when you go to Pampa and Berger," said Wanamaker, who didn't get his nickname Sturdy because of his never-changing stern expression ("My nickname is Sturdevant," he says).

Wanamaker's decision Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse was similar to one he made a few years ago in the Amarillo High gymnasium where Berger took a one-point victory on a last-second shot.

Neither Wanamaker nor his counterpart signalled that the basket was good, so the crowd emptied onto the floor thinking Amarillo had won. Wanamaker made his way to the timer and asked him if he knew about the basket.

"He said nobody made the ruling. I said that the basket's good. I happened to see the clock when the shot was taken and there were two seconds to play — so the basket was good."

"It really was not my position as the umpire to make this ruling — it would have been the trail official's. I was the lead official at the time and I was under the basket."

"In this case, I had specific knowledge about the play."

"When I counted the basket for Berger, you can imagine what happened. It was a situation where you have a small gym and a big crowd. It was very difficult to communicate with anybody."

Wanamaker added, in the tone of a sheriff in our TV western, "You've got to have enough courage to do what you think is right."

It's Over, Coach

Referee Sturdy Wanamaker tells Lubbock Monterey Coach Joe Michalka that the game is over and Pampa wins 46-44. Michalka is upset because he asked for a time out with three seconds left on the clock and it was not given to him. Wanamaker said that since no specific information about the amount of time was available, there was nothing that could be done. See It Sims To Me.

Yes, Virginia, WF Is Beatable

By TOM WHITFIELD
UPI Sports Writer

Wake Forest, which just completed a meteoric rise to the national top 10, may be out just as fast.

The seventh-ranked Deacons, who upset North Carolina and North Carolina State last weekend, saw their bubble burst Wednesday night when stunned by unranked Virginia 63-58.

Coach Carl Tacy, whose Deacons are now 10-1, admitted the situation was favorable for the Cavaliers, surprising 1½-point favorites.

"The circumstances leading up to this game were certainly not in our favor," he said. "But it's not going to be the end of the world for us. We feel we have a good club and that it is going to be a successful year."

Cavalier Coach Terry Holland, whose club is 1-1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference and 7-2 overall, said he thought Virginia's defense decided the game.

"We tried to play pressure defense on the ball and tried to keep (Deacon guard Skip) Brown outside," he said. "I think you'll see the rebounding statistics were good, that means the shooting statistics were poor," Holland said.

The Deacons shot just 39 per cent compared to 45 per cent for Virginia.

Deacon forward Rod Griffin hit just 4-of-16 shots while Brown, who led Wake with 20 points, hit 9-of-20. Wally Walker led the Cavaliers with 22 points and keyed a second rally that saw Virginia rebound from an 11-point deficit.

Wake still led 54-47 with 5:26 left but managed only four more points the rest of the game.

The Cavaliers tied the score with 3:16 remaining when Walker sank a technical foul shot. Tacy drew the technical for protesting a ball handling violation called against Brown.

With the score tied at 56, Cavalier guard Billy Langloh was fouled at midcourt by Jerry Schellenberg. He sank two free throws with 56 seconds left to put Virginia on top for good.

Walker scored inside with 34 seconds left and Dave Koesters and Langloh turned the Deacons' desperation into enough points to secure the win, their seventh straight over Wake at University Hall.

Wake faces second ranked Maryland at Greensboro, N.C. Saturday while Virginia hosts eighth-ranked North Carolina.

Maryland survived a valiant comeback by George Washington and a 19-point second half performance by John Holloran to win its 11th straight game 82-72.

In other major college basketball games, North Carolina beat Clemson 83-64, Detroit edged St. Bonaventure 83-81 in overtime and Tulane defeated Duke 92-82.

White Deer Hosts Cage Tournament

WHITE DEER — Sixteen area teams, eight boys' and eight girls', begin competition in the White Deer Invitational Basketball Tournament today in Buck Fieldhouse.

Pairings for today's first-round games are:

Phillips girls vs. White Deer JV at 9:30 a.m., Phillips boys vs. White Deer JV at 11 a.m., Allison girls vs. Adrian at 12:30 p.m., Allison boys vs. Adrian at 2 p.m., Groom girls vs. Channing at 3:30, Groom boys vs. Channing at 5, Lefors girls vs. White Deer at 7, Lefors boys vs. White Deer at 8:30.

Phillips' girls, led by high scoring forward Jill Rankin, are solid favorites to win the championship, while the boys' title will likely be between White Deer, Adrian and Phillips.

White Deer's host boys are 8-8 for the season after a 70-59 loss to Stratford Monday and a 49-46 win over Stinnett Tuesday.

Eddie Milton led the Bucks against Stinnett with 12 points, while Bobby Tollison scored 20 in the Monday game.

The White Deer girls are 6-10.

Monterey Defense

Pampa's Brian Bailey tries to dribble around Lubbock Monterey's Jeff Griffith. Monterey held Pampa to only 46 points (Bailey scored eight) but lost a two-point decision Tuesday. The Harvesters, 14-3 for the season, will play Perryton at 7:45 p.m. Friday in the Rangers' gymnasium. Season tickets for district home games went on sale today at the high school business office.

Defense To Be Key For Super Bowl Win

DALLAS (UPI) — No one has kept exact records but if Tom Landry said it once he has said it plenty.

"Super Bowls are won by teams with great defensive clubs."

And it is the Dallas Cowboy defensive unit which has suddenly become a terror and who will make its third Super Bowl appearance Sunday after next against the defending champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

In two playoff games the Dallas defense has allowed only one drive of any length for a touchdown and surrendered a scant 166 yards a game. The Minnesota Vikings and Los Angeles Rams — who have Chuck Foreman and Lawrence McCutcheon to carry the ball — gained a paltry rushing average of 68.5 yards a game.

"It all comes back to defense," Landry said again this week. "The teams that make the playoffs are the teams that play defense best. Perhaps St. Louis was the one exception this year, and I think St. Louis will have to put together quite a bit of offense to get into the Super Bowl."

"Defensively we are better now than at any time during the season."

The Cowboys' defensive aims will be a combination of those they had for the Vikings and Rams.

Dallas must try to contain Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw just as they contained Minnesota signal caller Fran Tarkenton and they must try to shut down the running of Franco Harris just as the key to the Rams' contest was reducing the effectiveness of McCutcheon.

Cowboys special assistant Ermal Allen, who watches hours of film each week to pass on to coaches every tendency of an opponent, is a great admirer of Steeler back Franco Harris.

"This team doesn't do anything fancy," said Allen. "What they think is fancy is to give the ball to Harris and let him run all over the field with it."

The Cowboys are seven-point underdogs.

Arkansas To Face SMU

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — The Arkansas Razorbacks, who demolished Houston Tuesday in their Southwest Conference opener, face Southern Methodist tonight and Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton recognizes the problem there.

"They're (SMU) catching us at a good time," Sutton said Wednesday of the Mustangs. "There's no way we can get back to the same emotional peak we were in."

Also, he said, SMU is a fine basketball team.

"Ira Terrell is a franchise," Sutton said. "He can do the job almost by himself. It'll be an awfully tough game for us."

Although the SMU game was only a day away, talk Wednesday was about the jolting entrance the Cougars were given into the SWC Tuesday night by the "Smiling Snake, Dr. D. and the Bird."

Better known as Razorbacks Sidney Moncrief, Marvin Delph and Robert Birden, they combined with center Darryll Saulsberry and forward Charles Terry to give Houston its worst licking ever. 92-47.

Moncrief, a 6-4 freshman, displayed his slippery moves. Delph, also 6-4, prescribed 14 first-half points to cure the Cougar zone defense and Birden kept the tempo going in the second half. All five of the starters scored in double figures.

The victory pushed Arkansas into an 8-1 record, the Razorbacks' best start in more than 10 years.

Sutton said he thought a combination of things went into the lopsided victory over Houston.

"I think Houston probably had a little bit of a letdown after the victory over San Francisco, who was ranked in the top 20," he said, "and they very well could have overlooked us a little bit. We're not that impressive (in size) when you just look at us."

However, Sutton said his team was well-prepared and "spent quite a bit of time preparing for Houston. We went out and had a great shooting night and our defense was very sound."

Miller To Defend Title

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — In the more than 40-year history of the PGA Tour only seven players have won the same tournament three years in a row and only one — Walter Hagen — turned the trick four times.

Now, 28-year-old Johnny Miller, who is $52.841 short of becoming the Tour's youngest millionaire, begins defense of his title in the $200,000 Tucson Open — first event of the new golfing year — on the threshold of becoming the eighth player to win the same tournament three consecutive years.

Last year Miller started the season by winning the Phoenix and Tucson Opens on successive weeks — the second time he had done that. Naturally, he's out to make it three in a row starting this year in the Tucson, which has a top prize of $40,000 and is the first of 10 straight events which will be televised by the various networks.

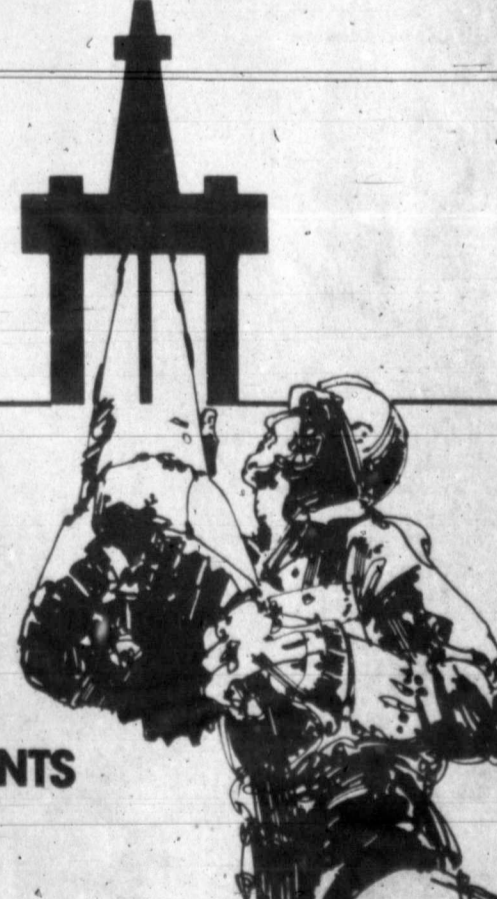

"They have tightened things up here a bit this year," said Miller of the 7,200 yard Tucson

National Golf Course, the longest on the Tour and the one with the biggest greens, "but the way I am playing I expect to win. That doesn't mean I will. Only that I feel I can."

Tucson National, like all desert courses, is long and flat and those big greens are inviting targets. Last year Miller closed with an 11 under par 61 to win with a 21 under 263. That was after he took the Phoenix with a 24 under 260 score.

Miller, though, has his work cut out for him here this year because 49 of last year's top 60 money winners, including British open champ Tom Watson, U.S. Open champ Lou Graham and such big winners as Tom Weiskopf, Gene Littler, Al Geiberger, John Mahaffey and Lee Trevino are in the field.

The only notable absentees are Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player. Nicklaus will debut at the Crosby in two weeks while Player probably won't debut until the Heritage Classic on March 25 or the Greater Greensboro Open the following week. The Masters follows on April 8.

Arrests Increase in Pampa

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Arrests, traffic citations and accidents within the City of Pampa increased from 26 to 36 per cent in each category in 1975 over the numbers recorded during the same period of the previous year.

The year-end activity report was released Wednesday showing 26 per cent more arrests, a 37 per cent increase in traffic citations, and 36 per cent more accidents.

Patrolmen drove 212,926 miles during 1975 - 18 per cent more than in 1974.

The report shows that parking citations decreased 40 per cent.

Police Chief Richard Mills estimated that the department answered 12,410 calls during 1975, although call sheet records were not kept during the first three months. During the past nine months, 9,775 calls were recorded.

The department has 22 commissioned law enforcement officers who issued 4,242 traffic tickets in 1975. During the past nine months 580 warning tickets were issued.

Traffic control officers issued 3,090 tickets for overtime parking in the downtown area.

Jail arrests numbered 1,436. Mills said this figure includes only arrests by Pampa police officers.

Officers investigated 933 accidents.

Chief Mills said his 32 member staff is producing as much or more work as any employee in the city or nation.

The year-end crime report is expected to be released within the next few days, but the chief expects an increase in many crime areas.

"We are arresting and charging more persons than ever before," he said.

On Oct. 1, records showed 41 burglaries where burglars had entered through unlocked doors. Twenty-three were reported in 1974.

Mills said there is no way that 22 officers can personally protect 25,000 persons.

Emphasizing the need for citizen participation in the protection of personal property, the chief said officers are making every effort to keep the crime level as low as possible.

Mills has called attention to the fact that Pampa is the 54th largest city in Texas - with the same type problems that larger cities have.

Three months ago Pampa was below average in automobile theft.

"Our problem is burglary of items left in cars," he said.

Citizen band radio theft was frequently reported last year.

However as a new year begins, the chief says his staff will remain dedicated to keeping this city as safe as possible.

Simple Maneuver

Burglars in a large number of local cases enter through unlocked doors - both automobile and homes. To lock an automobile door is as simple as pushing a button, according to Police Chief Richard Mills. Residents must take every precaution to safeguard his property, the chief added.

Senate OKs Transcript Use in Carrillo Trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - The Senate has decided to shorten the impeachment trial of District Judge O.P. Carrillo by allowing transcripts of a previous hearing to be used in its proceedings.

The Senate reversed an earlier decision Wednesday and voted to use transcripts from hearings held by the Judicial Qualifications Commission, which has been considering Carrillo's removal from office.

Carrillo attorney Arthur Mitchell said using the transcripts could shorten the trial by several weeks, and that their use would aid Carrillo's defense.

"It helps to the extent that we are assured of a full presentation of the evidence presented before the Judicial Qualifications Commission," Mitchell said. "Obviously we felt that evidence showed the judge was innocent of any wrongdoing or we wouldn't have suggested its use."

State attorneys said they would review the 29 volumes of records for the rest of the week and be prepared to enter them as evidence Monday when the Senate reconvenes the impeachment trial.

The 10 articles of impeachment charge Carrillo used county welfare funds to buy his groceries, channeled county paychecks to friends, and used county funds and equipment to help operate his ranch.

Carrillo also has been convicted on federal tax charges involving some of the same allegations and is involved in a suit by the State Bar Association to revoke his law license.

Senate officials said they expected the trial to run a minimum of six weeks but now say with the use of the JQC records it could be shortened to two weeks.

"If the six-week estimate was correct, we could save four weeks by this," said Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston. "It will save us a week of just 'uhs' and 'ahs.'"

In making the initial offer of the transcripts, Mitchell contended testimony in the impeachment - from more than 50 witnesses - would essentially duplicate the testimony before the judicial panel.

Carrillo waived the secrecy of the JQC transcript, and told senators he would not base any appeal on the Senate's use of the transcripts.

Lo-Vaca Cuts City Gas Supply

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) - Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., for the first time in nearly a year, has cut back natural gas supplies used to fire electric generators in San Antonio and other cities of South and Central Texas.

Lo-Vaca officials said although they received permission recently from the Texas Railroad Commission to sell surplus gas out of state on a spot basis, the current cold weather has caused a gas shortage.

The cutbacks started at 3 p.m. Wednesday and forced San Antonio's City Public Service to burn 2,000 to 2,500 barrels of fuel oil daily to make up the difference in producing electricity.

Don Newquist, Lo-Vaca vice president in Houston, said other curtailments would occur this winter for the third year when extreme cold temperatures persist. He said the cutbacks would not affect home heating needs or electrical power to homes, hospitals or schools.

Lo-Vaca to retain spot purchases since the increased demand throughout Texas on other companies due to extreme weather has necessitated their withdrawal of spot sales, Newquist said.

San Antonio is suing Lo-Vaca and its parent, Coastal States Gas Co., for more than $200 million for alleged breach of a long-term contract guaranteeing uninterrupted gas deliveries to the city.

Utility customers in San Antonio are assessed for the fuel oil used to produce electricity during gas curtailments and higher prices of natural gas under a Texas Railroad Commission directive.

Newquist said although Lo-Vaca received permission from the Railroad Commission in November to make spot sales to out-of-state companies, no gas has been sold outside Texas so far.

"To this date, Lo-Vaca hasn't entered into or made any spot sales to any customers," Newquist said. "If we had any such agreements, we would, of course, have withdrawn that gas for use by our Texas customers to avoid any curtailments."

Houston Law Unconstitutional

HOUSTON (UPI) - Four years ago police arrested Larry Harris because a department radio dispatcher told a patrolman the man was suspected of being involved in a robbery.

U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals Wednesday said the action violated the man's rights and declared unconstitutional a city ordinance allowing police to arrest without a warrant persons suspected of criminal acts even though the officer did not see the crime committed.

Harris was never charged in the incident. He filed suit claiming officer A.J. Hrucek forced his way into the Harris residence and threatened and cursed the man and his mother.

Hrucek's attorney acknowledged the ordinance was known to be in conflict with the Texas laws of criminal procedure.

Deputy Chief Leroy Mouser said the ordinance was seldom used in arrests because of restraints on police against making false arrests and violating suspects' civil rights.

"This (ruling) puts the handcuffs on us a little tighter, and it practically rules out any preventive policing," Mouser said.

The ordinance says "any police officer of the city shall have the power and is hereby authorized to arrest without an arrest warrant any person who violates any ordinance of the city in the presence of or in view of the arresting officer."

"Any police officer may also arrest without a warrant any person whom such officer has probable cause to believe has recently committed a violation of any such ordinance."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Shelley Winters stars with Roman Polanski in "The Tenant."

"The whole thing is at the beck and call of what mother nature is doing," Newquist said.

He said Lo-Vaca delivered 1.8 billion cubic feet less than its customers Wednesday, 300 million cubic feet less than on Tuesday. He said the company has a long-term gas supply of 1.4 billion cubic feet a day and has had to make spot purchases from other intrastate gas companies this week ranging from 250 million to 700 million cubic feet a day.

"The curtailment announced was in part due to the inability of

Blood Test Developed For Detecting Cancer

CLEVELAND (UPI) - An associate professor of chemistry at Case Western Reserve University says he has developed a complex blood test that appears to have an 88 per cent success rate in detecting cancer.

However, Dr. Arnold E. Powell cautioned Wednesday the test is far from being used routinely to look for cancer.

"We would like to see more data," said Powell, also an immunologist at University Hospitals. "The consequences of being wrong on this are so serious, especially if you are going to say this in public."

Powell said. "It may even be possible to diagnose the disease before the lump is detected."

The blood tests, lasting a full day and costing about $90, involve exposing a patient's lymphocytes, or infection-fighting cells, to various cancer tumor extracts. If the patient has a particular type of cancer and the extract for that type is exposed to the lymphocytes, the lymphocytes change and their tendency to stick to glass surfaces diminishes, according to Powell, who is conducting a three-year study financed by Rainbow Babies' and Children's Hospital's Tumor Center in Cleveland, the National Cancer Institute and the Ford Foundation.

Woman Thought Dead Apparently Just Cold

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) - A 27-year-old woman found unconscious in her locked car, her body temperature almost 30 degrees below normal, was "about as close to death as you can get." In fact, police thought she was dead.

Officer Blaine Davis driving home in blustery 9 degree weather Wednesday morning when he found a small car parked on Interstate 44. Inside he could see a woman lying on the seat apparently dead, eyes and mouth open.

He called detectives who conducted a brief investigation and had the car - with the woman inside - towed to the police garage for a more thorough examination. It was there, when the "body" was being transferred to a hearse, that Investigator J.L.R. Brown noticed a faint pulse in Miss Clark's neck, and she was rushed to Hillcrest Medical Center.

"She was about as close to death as you can get and probably come back," said one of the physicians treating her. The doctor, who asked to remain anonymous, said Miss Clark was suffering from hypothermia with a body temperature of 70 degrees.

"That's about as cold as a body can get and still survive," he said.

Miss Clark, a veterinarian, was listed in critical condition late Wednesday, but the doctor was optimistic.

"She's responding now to verbal and painful stimuli," he said. "She is still on a respirator and she's beginning to breathe."

"I really think she is going to make it," he said.

The physician said the hypothermia might have saved Miss Clark.

"All of the body functions slow down," he said. "Actually, it is a kind of life-saving device."

Babies Burn In Blaze In Mobil Home

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) - A young mother, who rushed out of her mobile home Wednesday to call the fire department, was unable to re-enter her burning home and save her two children.

Janice Phillips, 25, was taking a bath when she discovered the blaze. She ran to a neighbor's house to seek help.

"I can't get back in and get my babies. My babies are in there," a neighbor said Mrs. Phillips screamed after running from her home.

Her 4-year-old son Bryan and two year old daughter Christina were trapped in the mobile home and killed. Mrs. Phillips was treated for minor burns. Their mobile home was destroyed.

Mrs. Phillips' neighbor called the city fire department and wrapped the woman in a blanket. By the time firemen arrived flames were shooting 20 feet into the air. The bodies of the children were found in the middle of the 40-foot home.

A city fire truck was en route to the scene when it learned the mobile home was just outside Wichita's southern limits. It turned back and a truck from a county fire station only a block from the home was sent to fight the blaze.

Mrs. Nisbet Getting Names For Reagan

Mrs. Scott Nisbet of 1206 N. Russell will be in charge of obtaining signatures in favor of former California Governor Ronald Reagan's name being placed on the ballot for Texas primaries this spring.

The announcement was made this morning by Joe Curtis of Pampa, Reagan's regional chairman.

Those interested in signing a petition on Reagan's behalf may call Mrs. Nisbet, Curtis said.

Reagan is seeking the Republican presidential nomination in 1976.

IT'S A BOY

Demos Set Training Session in Amarillo

A team of experienced instructors from around the state will be in Amarillo Saturday to train new Democratic workers for the party. Andy Shuval, a coordinator of the third Democratic participation workshop said today.

"The response among Democrats has been very encouraging," added Ruth Osborne of Pampa, co-coordinator and state Democratic committeewoman.

Calvin Guest, Democratic State chairman, said it is a part of a plan to open the party to all people.

The Saturday meeting, scheduled at Caprock High School in Amarillo, will begin with registration at 9:15 a.m. The program will start at 10 a.m.

It concludes at 4:30 p.m. There is no registration fee. Lunch will be served for $2.50 per person.

Bonnie's Bridal and Flowers

Theda Wallin and Bonnie Darnell

Bonnie Darnell, owner and manager of Bonnie's Bridal and Flower Shop, employs two part-time assistants in the business she founded in July 1973.

The shop at 111 W. Francis does all types of general florist work, but specializes in wedding arrangements.

Mrs. Darnell said her shop is the only one in Pampa to offer a wedding package which includes catering and floral needs for the occasion. The catering option is most popular, Mrs. Darnell said, because of the large number of working mothers and because a wedding package can be arranged to fit any budget.

During December 1975, business at Bonnie's Bridal and Flower Shop averaged three weddings per week.

Business is not restricted to the immediate area and clients in Perryton, Groom, McLean, Shamrock, Canadian and other surrounding towns are common.

Bonnie's Bridal and Flower Shop also offers fiber flowers made of shaved wood. Mrs. Darnell said these blossoms appear quite real - to sight, touch and smell. Orders for fiber flowers have come from as far away as Wyoming.

THREE VILLAGES MONACO (UPI) — Monaco is made up of three villages, Monaco-Ville, the old settlement on the summit of a rocky headland; La Condamine, the business district and port; and Monte Carlo (Mount Charles), with casinos and hotels. A new quarter of Fontvieille has light industry.

OFFSHORE OIL AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — More than 18,000 oil and gas wells have been drilled in U.S. offshore waters, including 15,200 in the Gulf of Mexico. The Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Co. says only four significant oil spills have occurred from offshore exploration, and none resulted in permanent damage to the environment.

The gas company said only about three per cent of the outer continental shelf has been opened by government for leasing.

ANCIENT PALACE MONACO (UPI) — The Palace of Monaco, a major tourist attraction, dates back to 1215 but has been renovated through the centuries. The most recent addition is the west wing where Prince Rainier and his family have their private quarters.

CARIB TOUR NEW YORK (UPI) — The 30-member National Black Theatre of Harlem returned in December from a successful tour of Guyana and Trinidad, where it presented its "Soljourney into Truth." This work, which company director Barbara Ann Teer calls a Ritualistic Revival, combines drama, song, dance, music and audience participation.
