Palestinian Guerrillas Overrun Lines

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Several thousand Palestinian guerrillas pushed out of an encircled refugee camp today, overran Christian lines in furios fighting and seized a strategic two-mile arc of territory in eastern Beirut. Initial police estimates put early casualties in the battle at 15 dead and about 35 wounded, raising the toll in nine months of Christian-Moslem warfare to nearly 8,100 dead and 17,250 wounded.

Backed by intense rocket, mortar, machine gun and anti-aircraft fire, Palestinian and Moslem forces pushed north and west across eastern Beirut from the Tal Zaatar refugee camp in a ferocious drive to break the back of a five-day-old Christian blockade of food and supplies to the encircled camp.

The Palestinians pushed about a half-mile north along a road through Christian territory to link Tal Zaatar with the Moslem district of Nabbeh near the sea. A Palestinian spokesman said they also pushed about a half-mile westward but not enough however to open the road for supplies to pass through the predominantly Christian-held eastern sector of the city.

A spokesman for the Christian Phalangist party militia confirmed the Palestinian advances. He said "a fierce battle is under way to regain the lost territory."

Moslem leftists began gearing for fullscale civil war when the Christian rightists refused Tuesday to lift their blockade of the refugee camp. Police sources said Lebanese internal security forces joined Christian militia in attempting to repel the attack and that losses were "heavy."

"All the problems of a big school make both teaching and learning hard."

Twenty-eight-year-old Trent Jones believes that. And he believes it so much that he traded a prestigious teaching job for a one-room, one-man school in Terlingua, Tex.

Here a kid can relax, put his feet up on his desk if he wants to and not worry about anything but learning. "Jones explained."

He's organized, he has to be to teach everything in the whole school to his 21 students. But he also believes that a good teacher doesn't forget what it was like when he was in school.

So his students can snack in class. "You can't learn if you're hungry and a little peanut butter on a math paper never hurt anyone."

And he gives all A's on his students' report cards. Sometimes he has to give a student the same test three or four times until all the answers are right. But, he believes, the student has learned and has earned the grade.

He recently was nominated for Outstanding Elementary Teacher in the country.

Pampa has a new probation officer, Donald Snell. Donald Snell has a parakeet with a problem. At least it is a problem as far as Snell is concerned.

The parakeet is lost. Snell recently moved into a new apartment with his parakeet. But the landlady said her no-pets rule applied to parakeets, too.

So Snell decided to take his parakeet to his office in the county courthouse. But on the steps of the courthouse, Snell dropped the cage and the parakeet escaped.

The parakeet's name is Sam, but Snell admits that he probably won't answer to the name since he's only had it for a few days.

This notice was noticed in a weekly newspaper in rural Kansas.

According to the director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, this year's celebration is mostly grassroots — a "do-it-yourself" type formula for each community — a real back to the community movement instead of big government participation.

For one thing, that seems to make it mean more. It's more at the heart of what America is supposed to be all about.

And it's happening in Pampa. Plans are cooking for a community show — down on the Fourth of July.

What an example Bethlehem Steel Corp. executives is setting. The new year brought a cut in salary for executives and supervisors making more than $25,000 a year. Some of the reductions are up to six per cent.

The reduction were caused by lower company earnings.

Three interesting tourists passed through Amarillo, according to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

One was a window washer from New York City who said he'd like to move to Texas. He liked the weather and the buildings aren't so tall, he said.

The washer admitted that he drank a lot. "But not on the job I drink off the job. Then I go to the job," he told the tourist bureau supervisor.

Two others were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Duck. Mrs. Duck said her husband had had the name a lot longer than the cartoon character and that being Mrs. Donald Duck was fun until 3 a.m. when someone called to see if Huey, Dewey and Louey were home.

They pushed north one mile to the Moslem suburb of Nabaah, driving a corridor through Christian territory to bring back supplies of food for the camp's 6,000 residents and the 30,000 Moslems who live in districts immediately around it.

They pushed west also about one mile to the outskirts of the Christian bastion of Sin El Fil, and a spokesman said they expected to overrun it before the day is out.

As the fighting intensified it spilled over into the adjacent Christian and Moslem areas of Phonogram, the European division of Philips records, police said.

Police sources indicated they would not agree to the youthful kidnapers' offer to swap the two suspects for Hazan.

A police spokesman said officers had formally identified the two men, arrested when they attempted to pick up the $35 million ransom Tuesday night.

In an earlier telephone call to Phonogram, the gunmen vowed to keep Hazan captive despite a new government ban on ransom payments in France.

The kidnapers also said their 53-year-old hostage was in good health but badly needed drugs for stomach cramps.

Police investigators, meanwhile, questioned two of the alleged kidnapers arrested Tuesday night after they whispered the password "Francis" to plainclothes detectives carrying the ransom in historic Bastille Square.

They both have confessed to belonging to the gang of kidnapers, but claim they don't know where Hazan is being held, police said.

Both the arrested men are 25 years old but did not identify them.

Police said they were reasonably certain the government's decision to henceforth prevent all ransom payments will lead to Hazan's release.

"We are optimistic the ban will not endanger Hazan's life," a police spokesman said.

Hazan has been missing since six blue-jeaned gunmen forced him out of a New Year's eve business meeting.

The government said its headline "no deals" attitude was necessary to nip what looked like a wave of Italy-style abductions in France.

Six long-haired youths brandishing pistols and sub-machineguns stormed a New Year's Eve board meeting at which Hazan was presiding, shoved the executive into a wicker suitcase and fled in a waiting car.

Each day since, the kidnapers telephoned instructions for the ransom payment but never kept their rendezvous until Tuesday night when it was arranged for the foot of the Bastille monument.

They agreed on the password "Francis."

Everything went according to plan, but the two men carrying the ransom sack were detectives and not executives from Hazan's company.

Hazan's wife and brother rushed to police headquarters early this morning and said they deplored the tough new government tactics and feared for his life.

But the government remained firm.

Abductors Offer Trade

PARIS (UPI) — The abductors of record tycoon Louis Hazan offered today to trade their hostage for the release of two fellow kidnapers captured earlier by police.

Shortly after the offer was made, police said they had arrested a third member of the blue-jeaned kidnaping gang.

The offer was made in a telephone call to Hazan's firm caused slight delays in public transportation in Chicago early today.

A heavy snow warning was in effect for northeastern Kansas and winter storm watches were posted for Southern Illinois, central and southern Indiana and western Kentucky.

Travelers' advisories were in effect in the Texas panhandle and portions of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky, northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Kentucky. Snow dusted the Rockies.

Bitter cold settled over the Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley, and the mercury was expected to bottom out at 40 below in northwestern Minnesota early today.

Temperatures dipped to 20 below zero and lower in the eastern Dakotas. Sub-zero cold spread as far south as northeastern Colorado, northwestern Kansas and southern Iowa.

Freezing rain glazed roads in portions of Missouri and rain, sometimes mixed with snow, fell in portions of Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio.

Near-blizzard snows swept the northern Midwest Tuesday.

Cold Weather Plagues Pampa

Temperatures dropped to an official one degree this morning — the coldest of the current winter season, according to Laurence Smith, principal assistant at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Amarillo.

The lowest on record for this date was in 1912 with a low of minus six degrees.

"We can expect temperatures in the morning to be near zero," Smith said.

In Pampa this morning, residents dug into the closets for warmer clothing. Cars refused to start, and service station attendants were busy.

Snow, often kicked into swirling clouds by gusty winds, stretched from northern Oklahoma and eastern Kansas through northern Illinois and into portions of Michigan.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour swept the one-to-three inch snow cover across portions of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Eric Garnett, 8, of Coronado Village No. 4 was in serious condition this morning in Northwest Texas Hospital as a result of a car — pedestrian accident shortly before 4 p.m. Tuesday in the 500 block of North Wells.

The vehicle was driven by Belinda Kay Watkins, 18, of 705 N. Wells.

Lt. Preston Bailey of the Pampa Police Department said this morning that records show the driver did everything possible to stop.

The boy apparently walked in front of the oncoming car, police said.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thomas of Pampa and the son of Mrs. Murray Garnett.

He is a second grade student at Horace Mann School and a very fine boy," said Sam Begert, school principal.

Senate Sets Probe Of Angola Involvement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, said today his African affairs subcommittee will summon three top administration officials later this month so Congress and the public can learn about American involvement in Angola.

Clark said there are "many unanswered questions" about covert U.S. activities in the Angolan civil war.

"We'd like to know the truth, we'd like to know the answers and we think the people of the country have a right to hear the administration's explanation," he said.

Clark, who was interviewed on the NBC Today Show, said Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and CIA Director William E. Colby would be called before the subcommittee for public hearings beginning Jan. 19, the same day Congress returns from its month-long recess.

Clark said the questioning of Kissinger, Rumsfeld and Colby is necessary to put the administration's position on Angola on the public record.

"We know that we've been involved in that war covertly in terms of supplying money or material now for almost exactly a year and yet no one from the administration has ever been before the Congress publicly, we have nothing on the record about our involvement," he said.

He said the United States ought to watch very carefully the activities of the Soviet ships. But, he added, "there have been some 28 Soviet ships which have landed in Angola in the past. It's not something new."

At a news conference Tuesday, Clark, who heads the Senate subcommittee on African affairs, urged both South Africa and the United States to withdraw troops and support for the two other warring factions.

"For us to stay with South Africa will be a disaster," Clark said. "Our best policy is to get out and to call for others to get out."

Clark said it would be "most helpful" if South Africa would pull out first.

"One of the most difficult things," he said, "is that we seem on the same side. It makes it difficult for the African block and forces them to support the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

Clark predicted that once the United States and South Africa leave Angola, acceptance of Soviet and Cuban assistance will wither away and the United States will be in a stronger diplomatic position to press for an end to all foreign interference.

White House sources said Tuesday there has been some movement but no breakthrough in President Ford's attempt to persuade the Soviet Union to end its interference.

Unemployment Lowest in Panhandle

By ANNA BURCHELL, Pampa News Staff

The Panhandle area has the lowest unemployment rate in Texas. Henry Rothell, administrator of the Texas Employment Commission, said this morning from his Austin office.

He estimated the insured unemployment here to be below 1 per cent, with total unemployment between 2.5 and 3.5 per cent.

The state average is 6 per cent, he explained.

In an interview this morning Rothell discussed briefly the proposed federal increase in unemployment benefits which would have brought the maximum weekly payments from $63 to $108 in Texas.

The proposal was defeated in December in the Ways and Means Committee in Washington with Al Ullman of Oregon breaking the tie vote of 17 to 17.

However, the proposal is scheduled to come up again early this year Rothell said.

But any change enacted would not become effective before 1977, he explained.

The federal government's proposal would bring all the states under a regulation to pay unemployment benefits of two thirds of the insured weekly wage up to a specified amount.

The maximum of $63 weekly in Texas is among the lowest in the nation. It has been $63 weekly for about six years, Rothell said.

The proposed regulations would compel employers who now pay unemployment insurance employee wages up to $4,200 annually. The proposed increase would have required employers to pay insurance on up to $8,000 — a 90 per cent increase, Rothell explained.

In other news from the Texas Employment Commission today, Federal Supplemental Benefits (FSB) created by Congress to assist unemployment benefit claimants who have exhausted their regular benefits, came to an end in Texas Jan. 3.

"This is not to be confused with the Texas Employment Commission's regular unemployment benefits program, which remains unchanged," Rothell said.

Under federal statute, the FSB program became inoperative after Jan. 3, 1976 in any state whose rate of insured unemployment is less than 5 per cent. The insured unemployment rate in Texas for November was 1.7 per cent.

Claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before Jan. 3, 1976 can continue to draw these benefits on claims dated through April 10, 1976.

Bill Ragsdale, Manager of the Pampa TEC office, estimated that about 50 persons filed here for FSB Payments.

Henry Rothell

While paying out record-breaking amounts of unemployment insurance benefits in the past fiscal year, the TEC still managed to find jobs for more than 400,000 unemployed Texans, Rothell said.

Ragsdale said the local office employees placed about 2,000 unemployed persons on local payrolls.

The jobless benefits paid from the Texas Unemployment Compensation Fund in the year ending last August amounted to $167,347,622, the Commission said in its recent annual report.

Not included in that total was $65,755,538 in federally-funded unemployment benefits paid because of prolonged unemployment resulting from adverse economic conditions.

Ragsdale said the local office has some job listings, but added that outdoor activity is slow due to the weather. He expects it to increase in March.

February is always slow, he said.

Rothell said at the end of the fiscal year, more Texas employers were covered by the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act than ever before — 207,631, up 5,783 from the previous fiscal year.

These employers paid $15.6 billion dollars in taxable wages to workers in the year ending June 30, 1975.

In spite of national economic problems, the Texas labor force registered a 3.2 per cent gain from August 1974 reaching an estimated 5,367,900 workers.

'None of the Above'

Seymour ("Sy") Leon, of the California-based "League of Non-Voters," is probably chuckling in his beard these days. His efforts to give disenfranchised voters a meaningful option on the ballot may be paying off faster than even he had hoped.

Pointing out that there are far more non-voters than there are voters nowadays, Leon suggests that this is due in great part to the fact that more and more people just can't stomach any of the choices offered on ballots lately and are really "voting their principles" by staying away from the polls in droves. These "disenfranchised voters" should be given a real choice, Leon argues with a twinkle in his eye, and this could be done by adding a "none of the above" block to election ballots.

Well, believe it or not, Nevada has actually passed just such a law, according to a recent item in the Wall Street Journal. Henceforth, instead of voting for the lesser of two or more evils, voters of that state can now register a vote of no confidence in any of the candidates listed on a ballot in state and federal elections by simply checking a space that reads "none of the above."

Of course, someone will still be elected, the Journal quipped, but if "none of the above" votes outnumber those received by a winning candidate, the election and "mandate" of the winner might well be subjected to serious legal tests.

In any event, addition of the Leon innovation to the ballot ought to offer a more accurate indication of how taxpayers are really thinking than ballots have offered in the past.

Stranger on Your Back

According to an article in Nation's Business, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, this country is fast approaching the day when half the adult population will be working to support the other half. Marx' dictum, "from each according to his ability, to plus and in spades!"

As the article went on to explain and document, this sorry state of affairs has come about, for the most part, from the runaway growth of federal spending programs known collectively as "transfer payments" or "income sharing" — money that is taken in taxes from those who earned it and given to those who did not.

As a means of showing how the costs of major such programs have escalated over the years, with every indication that they will continue to grow until the economy collapses from the sheer weight, the magazine published the following comparison:

Fiscal 1964-1965	Fiscal 1975-76
Social Security retirement: $44 billion	$65.5 billion
Unemployment compensation: $2.3 billion	$18.0 billion
Medicare: $16.3 billion	$3.6 billion
Veteran's benefits: $3.6 billion	$15.6 billion
Civil Service pensions: $480 million	$10.0 billion
Welfare (cash) payments: $10.6 billion	$7.8 billion
Welfare (medical care): $7.8 billion	$1.6 billion
Social Security disability: $1.6 billion	$1.6 billion

When the wife of a productively employed worker pays the family food bill at the check-out counter, approximately half of what she pays will be the food bill of another average-sized family. Consequently, when she and her family sit down to the evening meal, that "other" family's presence, although unseen, will be felt.

When the productively employed worker makes the monthly payment on his home or writes out a check for the monthly rent, he will also be making a like payment for his unseen counterpart who is not productively employed.

Likewise when the employed worker purchases an automobile, actually he will be paying for two, one of which he will get, the other he won't.

And so on, in essence, with every purchase and payment made.

Ain't Got No Grammar

English teachers worry too much about grammar — about "how" a student says something rather than "what" he says — delegates to the recent annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English in San Diego were told.

For instance, when a boy says, "I don't have no pencil (or job)," is incorrect, of course. An English teacher give him a lecture on double negatives? No, said council executive director Robert Hogan. The teacher should give him a pencil.

Then later, when he tells the local unemployment office, "I don't have no job," they will also hand him a pencil to list his qualifications.

"I don't have no pencil (or job)" is incorrect, of course. Many of the products of our high schools would say, "I ain't got no pencil (or job)."

Rights Are; They Cannot Be Created

By CLARENCE B. CARSON (The Freeman)

If government can create rights, it can withhold and destroy rights. The practical consequence of this fact is that if rights are derived from governments, there are no rights.

Governmental favors may masquerade as rights. They may even assume a semblance of constitutionality. But such favors are instruments of power; they are arbitrary "rights" granted under the circumstances, subject to recall and change.

When rights are arbitrarily created, there are no rights, only privileges.

The extent to which we have accepted the belief that children have a right to education, that farmers have a right to a parity of income, that all have a right to the latest medicine, and so on, is the measure of the extent to which we have yielded up our natural rights.

Sen. George McGovern says that he is still an advocate of busing and that he will challenge anyone who is a busing foe.

He will not go wanting for lack of activity. He even said that if the contenders for his party's presidential nomination don't agree with his thesis, he just might run for president again.

That's all the Democrats need — another round with McGovern. He got kicked in the last election by about as large a defeat as a man can stand and still be classed as having run. The voters didn't rush to the polls to support his ideas then and there is no evidence they have changed their minds since.

The concept of forced busing to achieve racial balance in schools was wrong when it was first instituted and it is wrong now. Children should never have to spend hours each day on a bus, taken from their neighborhood schools and plopped down in far-away classrooms. That's not the way racial balance should be achieved and it is not being achieved that way. Recent surveys verify the fact that busing is, indeed, working in reverse, causing resegregation as whites flee and cities for the suburbs and blacks remain in the core area.

There are limits to what people will accept from government. Busing crosses the line.

THE UGLY SIDE

HOOVER AND KING Look At Other Side of Story

By WILLIAM RUSHER

The posthumous attack on J. Edgar Hoover has centered on his supposed persecution of Martin Luther King, Jr. A carbon copy of an anonymous letter to King, arguably urging him to commit suicide, has turned up in the files of William Sullivan, a former Assistant Director of the FBI (and no friend of Hoover, who failed to anoint him as his own successor). Sullivan says he knows nothing about the letter, so — on "no evidence whatever, as far as I can tell — everybody has leaped to the conclusion that Hoover wrote it. When you're put to beat a dog, apparently, just about any stick will do.

Exactly why Hoover detested King so much (and Hoover certainly never made any secret of that fact) has, however, received curiously little attention. The general assumption seems to be that Hoover was, in addition to everything else, a racist bigot who just naturally detested black leaders. The fact that the Bureau under Hoover's direction brilliantly infiltrated the Ku Klux Klan is discreetly overlooked in aid of this brazen lie.

But what about Martin Luther King, Jr.? The man is dead now, and one hesitates to tamper with his memory. Whatever his sins, his eloquence on behalf of the cause of black Americans, and his subsequent assassination, have virtually apotheosized him. There are scores of Martin Luther King, Jr. High Schools and Auditoriums and Boulevards all over America, and the anniversary of his assassination is widely observed as a day of mourning.

But it was with King the man, not King the canonized memory, that Hoover had to concern himself; and it is therefore necessary to pay a certain attention to the facts. And one of the key facts is that King was amazingly indifferent to the presence of a dedicated Communist in the high command of his Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Late in 1962 the St. Louis "Globe-Democrat" reported that the Southeastern Director of the SCLC was one Hunter Pitts O'Dell. What made this fact of more than casual interest was the further fact (which by then had been on the public record for six and a half years) that O'Dell was a long-time Communist Party activist.

I happened to have come across O'Dell's spoor in 1956, during an investigation by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee (of which I was then Associate Counsel) into a white-collar cell of the Communist party in New Orleans. Its members included such well-placed enthusiasts as the former National Legislative

Lowering Attendance Age Target of Critic

By MAX RAFFERTY

Q — "Maybe you're right about lowering the age for compulsory school attendance to eliminate a lot of the juvenile garbage that schoolteachers have to contend with. But aren't you going to have to rewrite some of the child labor laws and regulations, both state and federal?"

A — "The minute you make it legal for an employer to hire youngsters of tender years during school hours, you'll have all the bleeding hearts on your neck for letting poor little children be exploited by money-hungry employers when they ought to be in school learning how to spell — something they don't teach in school now, anyway." — M.J.S., Boca Raton, Fla.

A — "So we'll rewrite the child labor laws. Hasn't the Supreme Court been rewriting the Constitution for the past 25 years?"

Seriously, I didn't necessarily advocate throwing the "garbage" on the job market. I just want to get it out of the regular schools. How about "alternative schools," trade schools, or even — pardon the expression — reform schools?"

Q — "Our new Size 4 school superintendent wears Size 12 shoes and has relegated some brilliant people to doing nothing in the broom closet, apparently due to his own ineptness and personal dislikes. You would not believe how vindictive he is nor how low the morale is among our educators."

"In our 'Man Bites Dog' department, one of our elementary principals, with a doctor's degree, no less, not only slaps around the children but knocked a teacher around a bit, and was only suspended for a week. His record has been one of violence but tenure holds him like a horsely stuck on flypaper. Many teachers now feel that they may become the target of their own principal's first in a fit of anger."

"Any suggestions?" — Tongue — Tied in Tennessee. (c) 1975

Chattanooga, Tenn.

A — Try these:

1 — I've been a teacher a long time. If anyone had ever hit me, I'd have hauled him into criminal court and charged him with assault and battery. Then I'd have sued him for his shirt in civil court. Why don't you punching bags try it?

2 — File a complaint with your state credentials committee, alleging violence as evidence of inability to retain the teaching and administrative credentials and asking that prompt action be taken to revoke them.

3 — Remember that tenure protects a teacher but not an administrator. Your principal can use tenure to hang on to his job teaching but not his principalship. If he's still a principal after all the roughneck stuff, it's because somebody — your superintendent or your school board — wants to keep him.

Q — "Your column recently dealt with a report which proves that blacks have not bettered their education by attending schools with whites. Quite frankly, we would like to see a report indicating how much the whites' education has been decreased by being forced to attend schools with blacks." — D.T., Birmingham, Ala.

A — Sorry. The data available indicate that busing has had only microscopic effects — subject matter — wise — on children of either race. Black children's achievement has increased infinitesimally; white achievement has decreased the same amount.

This backs up what some of us have been saying from the very beginning of forced busing: The race and color of a child's classmates have nothing whatever to do with whether he learns or not. If a fraction of the money now being spent on this mass transportation mania were to be spent upgrading and improving black schools, the results would be immediate, considerable and — above all — measurable.

Naval Wife Let Her 'Warrior' Run Free

Naval Wife Let Her 'Warrior' Run Free

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from the wife of a military man. (She went snooping through his things while he was away and discovered love letters from three different women.)

I have been a naval wife since age 19, and I've never questioned my husband about possible extramarital affairs. In fact I've said, "Don't tell me. I don't want to know." I'll never know why some women punish themselves by trying to find out things that they know will hurt them.

From where I have sat, women on shore did not behave any better than men on shore leave. I should know. I was 80 last week.

I welcomed my "warrior" home with open arms every time he could get home. There was never a doubt in my mind about where I stood with him. He loved me, and he let me know it.

I cannot understand these holier-than-thou wives. If a woman loves a man, that's that, and if there were other women in his life, what would she gain by knowing?

My warrior died two months ago, and I miss him terribly. I was lucky. He was the one I loved. And I loved him enough to let him go free. Whatever he did away from me was HIS business.

ADMIRAL'S WIFE

DEAR DIVIDED: Since gift-giving is voluntary, your husband had the "right" to give his daughter a gift (publicly or privately), and you had the right to withhold one.

DEAR DIVIDED: Since gift-giving is voluntary, your husband had the "right" to give his daughter a gift (publicly or privately), and you had the right to withhold one.

DEAR ABBY: A woman asked if it was proper to complain to the driver about his reckless driving while she was in the car.

Here's how I handled that situation while riding with my brother, who was going much too fast down a narrow, winding mountain road:

In a very pleasant voice, I said, "Brother, I just want you to know that if we have an accident and I get killed while you are driving, I am leaving all my children for you to raise."

At the time I was a widow with 10 minor children whom my brother and his wife loved dearly, but his wife quickly said, "Slow down, dear."

MRS. S.

A FAMILY DIVIDED

DEAR ABBY: I have three daughters. The two oldest are in their 30's and are respectably married. But the youngest, who is 23, has been shacking up with her boyfriend for nearly a year.

At Christmastime I sent presents to the two oldest ones and their husbands, but I purposely did not send anything to the daughter who is shacking up because I wanted her to know that I disapprove of the way she is living.

I later found out that my husband slipped this shacking-up daughter a check for Christmas! This really burned me up.

Do you think my husband had the right to do this behind my back? And didn't I have the right to give her anything?

First in Series Customers Pay Bell's Battles

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Texas customers are paying the legal fees for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to fight a $29 million slander and libel suit filed against the utility by a fired executive and the family of Bell's former top Texas officer.

Regardless of the outcome of the suit, corporate funds will be used to pay Bell attorneys and telephone customers, money will be used to pay any judgment or out of court settlement in favor of the plaintiffs.

That is what happened last August 14 when Bell paid $325,000 to settle a $3 million antitrust suit filed by the defunct San Antonio Telephone Co.

"Any amounts paid out in a lawsuit or claim, whether by compromise or by judgment, is a cost of doing business and as such, is charged as an operating expense under proper account procedures. That is true of any business," said C.L. Todd, vice president and general manager of Southwestern Bell in San Antonio.

The $29 million suit, which prompted federal and state investigation into alleged illegal political contributions, wire tapping and questionable rate practices, could go to trial in February, according to the attorney who filed it.

Pat Maloney, who has promised his evidence against the huge utility will be "dynamite" once it gets to trial, said a pretrial hearing in federal court could occur this month, barring any further delays.

The suit was filed in November, 1974, in state district court and its allegations prompted investigations by federal grand juries in Houston and San Antonio, the Securities Exchange Commission and the consumer affairs subcommittee of the Texas Legislature. Investigations in other states also have begun.

Trial of the suit originally was scheduled to begin last July, but Bell attorneys managed a series of delays and eventually succeeded in having it switched to federal court.

More Phones

DALLAS (UPI) — The number of telephones operated by Southwestern Bell in Texas has increased 29 per cent since 1970 while Bell's statewide construction expenditures grew by 77 per cent.

Bell had 5,075,745 telephones in Texas in 1970 compared to 6,550,825 in 1975, an increase of 1,475,080 telephones.

Bell's gross construction budget for Texas in 1970 was $417,219,000. In 1975 Bell's statewide construction budget totaled an estimated $740,300,000.

Bell has spent $3.3 billion on construction in Texas in the past six years and plans to spend an additional $834,600,000 for a 1976-76 total of $4.1 billion.

Light Bill May Hike

Inflation will again hit the City of Pampa if City Commission approval is given to a request of Southwestern Public Service Co. for a 13 per cent rate increase in the cost of municipal street lighting effective April 1.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the request has not yet received any action from city commissioners.

He said it is being studied by city officials and probably will

Lefors Board Sets Meeting On Thursday

The Lefors Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet in regular session at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Items on the agenda include discussion of the high school band going to a music festival in Carlsbad, N.M., and a report on the financial situation of the band.

The contracts of the superintendent and tax collector will be up for renewal. The principals' contracts will be discussed in February and teachers' contracts in March.

The board will discuss approval of a new policy for free and reduced-price lunches.

The suicide of I.O. Gravitt, 51-year-old top Bell executive in Texas who commanded an $80,000 salary, in Dallas on Oct. 17, 1974, and the firing of James Ashley, 46, Bell's commercial manager in San Antonio, two weeks later, prompted the suit.

The handsome, silver-haired Gravitt, who was in charge of 38,000 workers and six million telephones in Texas, left a note before his death saying, "Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system." He also left documents which Maloney used in drawing his far-reaching allegations against the utility.

Gravitt's survivors joined Ashley in filing the suit charging Bell wrongfully fired Ashley and hounded Gravitt to death with an investigation by its security forces. Ashley contended he and Gravitt, longtime friends, were harassed and falsely accused by Bell investigators because they opposed political slush funds, kickbacks and other such alleged practices by Bell.

Bell spokesmen repeatedly denied the charges and last April 14 filed a counter suit charging Ashley and Gravitt with defrauding the telephone company. The suit asked $19,738 from Gravitt's widow and alleged Ashley "knowingly and intentionally submitted false vouchers for reimbursement of business expenses not actually incurred."

Bell said its investigation turned up "isolated instances of poor judgment and improper conduct" with minimal loss to ratepayers and accused Ashley of embarking on "a campaign of revenge" because he was fired from his $55,000-a-year job.

"My guess would be February," Maloney said when asked when the case might go to trial before U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears. "It's been a long, circuitous route."

Neither Maloney nor Bell attorney Hubert Green talk of an out-of-court settlement of the huge suit.

"None that I've heard about," said Green when questioned on possible settlement of the action.

"I don't have the remotest idea, seriously," Maloney said.

"In federal courts you don't really get down to discussing that settlement until you have a pretrial. He Spears hasn't given us that kind of hearing yet."

Maloney said evidence he presents in court will depend on the judge's rulings.

Initial allegations and depositions indicate he will delve into side issues of alleged sexual promiscuity by "super high-livers" on expense accounts and use of corporate funds for football tickets, hunting trips, booze and supplying babysitters for an executive's grandchildren.

come before commissioners for official consideration within the next couple of months.

Wofford said the SWPS proposal would cost the city approximately $7,300 a year more.

Currently Pampa pays $48,900 a year for street lighting and the new agreement, if approved, would boost it to $56,208 annually, according to Wofford.

The city manager said Pampa has 1,302 street lights. The new agreement with the utility would boost the average cost per light from $3.75 to $4.32 a month.

The present 10-year contract with SWPS was signed in 1966 and expires April 1 this year. The request for the new agreement also covers a ten-year period until 1986.

Oklahoma Man Pleads Guilty

Frank Edward McKean, 39, of Crawford, Okla. was fined $200 and court costs after he pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated.

County Judge Don Cain also granted a six-month probation term.

Court costs are $53, and probation fees are $10 monthly.

Starts Thursday 10:00 am — Open Thursday till 8:00 pm.

Irrigation Pumps Need Special Gas Priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cutting natural gas off from irrigation pumps could reduce water supplies in farming areas that once made up the Dust Bowl, Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., contended Tuesday.

In prepared testimony submitted to the Federal Power Commission, Bellmon urged a special priority for irrigation.

somewhat the priority given agriculture.

When natural gas supplies run short, suppliers can interrupt service to their customers only on a priority system that leaves residences, for example, the last to be curtailed. The least important uses are curtailed first.

Cities Service proposed a plan giving top priority to residences and commercial users of less than 1 million cubic feet of gas a month. Category 2 would be commercial users of 1-3 million cubic feet monthly, industrial users of less than 3 million cubic feet, and others. Category 3 would be larger commercial, industrial feedstock, and process requirements. The firm suggested other priorities, but those were the most discussed in the hearing Tuesday.

Bellmon, who once was governor of Oklahoma, said part of his state used to be in the Dust Bowl, an area transformed by agriculture helped largely by irrigation.

"Any policy which causes an interruption of natural gas to irrigation farmers is, for all practical purposes, going to bring an end to irrigation in the High Plains area of Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas and Nebraska," he said.

Bellmon said alternate fuels are more expensive than natural gas, and gas is safer and can be transported more easily.

Kissinger-Allon Talks Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in an effort to overcome strains in U.S.-Israeli relations, is assuring Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon today the United States is not warming up to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Allon and Kissinger were opening a first round of reconciliation and strategy talks at the State Department prior to the Jan. 12 opening of the U.N. Security Council debate on the Middle East — which Israel refuses to attend.

On Allon's arrival Tuesday, he and Kissinger sought to create an impression Israel and the United States will achieve a common position despite recent strains over the PLO.

In greeting Allon, Kissinger said, "We are going to have detailed discussions before the U.N. Security Council meeting next week. I know they will be conducted in a very friendly atmosphere and we will achieve a common position." Allon similarly was upbeat: "It is well known my weakness is optimism, guarded optimism. If Mr. Kissinger thinks this is possible, I am becoming even more optimistic."

But State Department officials conceded the search for a settlement is passing from the relatively easy stage of the first disengagement accords to difficult and possibly intractable problems.

A major obstacle, the officials said, is the Palestinians who lost their homes when Israel was created in 1948.

The Israeli government has been disturbed by the U.S. refusal to veto the Arab proposal for the Middle East debate at the U.N. and congressional testimony by Harold Saunders, an assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs, which seemed to signal a changing U.S. attitude toward the PLO.

Saunders said the PLO, which has vowed to destroy Israel by terror and other means, has a moderate wing and that the Palestinians have legitimate grievances which must be dealt with.

L.A. Strike Gains Strength

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The growing strength of a doctor's strike has ended almost all elective surgery in the nation's second largest city.

Although public health officials continued to cope with the burden short of the emergency level, the impact of the strike by private physicians protesting the cost of malpractice insurance steadily increased as the walkout went into its seventh day.

The closure of doctor's offices and drastic cutbacks in staff at private hospitals threw a mounting patient load onto public hospitals.

"Things have just gone bananas," said Dr. Marshall Rockwell, medical director of the public Santa Monica Hospital Center, where the emergency room patient load had almost doubled.

The Hospital Council of Southern California said the strike effects had spread to 91 of the county's 234 private hospitals, representing an increase of 20 hospitals over the previous day.

County health authorities told the Board of Supervisors Tuesday that with 3,455 patients in county hospitals — an increase of 306 since the strike began New Year's Day — there were only 315 beds left.

Administrators soon will have to discharge the less seriously ill to make room for incoming patients with graver illnesses, said health services director Liston Witherill.

He said all elective surgery — operations that can be postponed without endangering the patient — had been canceled at all public hospitals. Private hospitals already had eliminated most elective surgery because of the strike.

Surgery loads were down 50 per cent in one sample of private hospitals and decreased by up to 80 per cent in the San Fernando Valley, a populous suburban area where the strikers were particularly strong.

The county medical association set up a 24-hour "hot line" Tuesday night to aid citizens in finding doctors. Health officials maintained a radio network to advise ambulance drivers which hospitals had specialists on duty.

In Sacramento, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., after talking with medical groups for months, said Tuesday that "after hours and hours of negotiations, no answer has emerged. We are not at a conclusion."

Brown appeared to be standing firm on his demand — rejected by the doctors — linking compulsory medical service for the poor in return for state aid to hold down the price of malpractice insurance premiums, which rose 327 per cent as of Jan. 1.

British Troops Move into Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A battalion of 600 British troops moved into "bandit country" today to try and halt a spiral of murder that erupted into the worst massacre in six years of sectarian violence in Northern Ireland.

The soldiers, part of an emergency battalion on standby for international duty, reinforced hundreds of extra troops sent into the troubled border area of South Armagh after the slaying of 10 Protestant textile workers Monday.

A spokesman for the South Armagh Republican Action Force, a renegade offshoot of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, claimed responsibility for the killings.

He told a Belfast newspaper Tuesday the Protestants were murdered in retaliation for the slaying of five Roman Catholics in the area Sunday. The same group also claimed responsibility for slaying three Protestants last week.

The British government, fearing reprisal attacks by Protestant guerrilla squads, decided to send in the extra troops at an emergency meeting Tuesday. The new battalion doubles

British troop strength in South Armagh and boosts the total in Northern Ireland to 15,300, the highest level in 18 months.

The South Armagh area is known as "bandit country" because of the treacherous terrain that has long been a stronghold of the IRA.

A security spokesman said the troops will patrol the narrow lanes of the hilly, wooded countryside and harass movement of gunmen and weapons with spot vehicle checks and searches.

The increased army strength was also designed to reassure the local residents, many of whom have fled their isolated farmhouses for the comparative safety of towns and villages.

The massacre was the worst such incident in six years of Catholic-Protestant violence that has claimed more than 1,000 lives.

FBI May Quit Search

DETROIT (UPI) — A federal source says "logistical problems" may force the FBI to abandon its search in a New Jersey dump for the body of former Teamsters Union president James Hoffa.

A U.S. magistrate in Newark, N.J., has given the FBI three extensions on a search warrant to dig in Moscato's Dump in Jersey City. But a federal source in Detroit said Tuesday it is not likely the warrant will be executed.

County's Corruption Leads to Testimony

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Cleofus Gonzales says he decided to report alleged law violations by South Texas District Judge O.P. Carrillo because he wanted to clean up the corruption in Duval County politics.

But the chief defense attorney at Carrillo's impeachment trial contends Gonzales is waging a political vendetta against Carrillo because the two took opposite sides in a 1974 Duval County political feud between factions headed by Carrillo and the late "Duke of Duval," George Parr.

"This man will go anywhere, anytime to destroy his political opponent, who just happens to be my client," defense attorney Arthur Mitchell told the Senate impeachment session Tuesday. Gonzales, a chief witness in the impeachment case against Carrillo, told senators he helped channel $1,000 a month in county funds to Carrillo and his brother for rental of nonexistent equipment, and said the judge conspired to use county welfare funds to buy groceries for his family.

Carrillo was impeached by the House and temporarily suspended from office on Aug. 4. Since that time, he has been convicted and sentenced to five years in prison on federal tax charges. The Judicial Qualifications Commission is also attempting to remove him from office, and a State Bar Grievance Committee has filed suit to revoke his law license.

Gonzales said Tuesday approximately $1,000 a month was channeled through Benavides Hardware and Implement Co., allegedly for rental of equipment, and eventually went to a store owned by the Carrillo brothers. The Carrillos could not legally do business with the county because both were elected officials.

A commercial treaty between Argentina and Paraguay grants the latter country port facilities in Buenos Aires.

She is survived by the widower, James W. Crow, of Austin; two daughters and one son, all of Austin; and one sister, Mrs. Elaine Waters of Pampa.

Cultist Bail Reduced

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Bail for Charles Manson cultist Sandra Good has been reduced to $20,000 and a second woman has been freed pending their trial on charges of sending death threats to corporate and government officials.

U.S. District Court Judge Philip Wilkins reduced the bail from $50,000 Tuesday for Miss Good, a former roommate of would-be presidential assassin Lynette Fromme. There was no indication whether Miss Good could meet the bond.

The judge refused to dismiss bail but allowed the reduction because he said he felt $50,000 was excessive.

Wilkins said Miss Good, 31-year-old member of convicted mass murderer Manson's "family," had jumped bail in an earlier case.

"There is a possibility that Miss Good, who is so firmly dedicated, might leave the community to be near Mr. Manson or Miss Fromme and therefore fail to appear for the trial," Wilkins said.

The judge ordered that another defendant, Susan Murphy, 33, a Manson cult associate and admitted alcoholic, freed on a $15,000 personal bond.

Several hours later, Miss Murphy, who has said she is not a follower of Manson but believes he is "sincere," was released from Sacramento County Jail.

Miss Good and Miss Murphy were accused of conspiring to mail 171 letters threatening violence against executives unless they "save the environment."

Life, CIA Worked Together in Cuba

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A raiding party supported by the CIA and financed by Life magazine was shuttled to Cuba in 1963 in an attempt to prove the island still contained hidden Russian missiles, City Magazine reported today.

In a copyrighted article, writers Warren Hinckle and William Turner said William Pawley, former ambassador to Brazil and Peru, piloted the yacht for the luckless expedition.

Led by Eddie Bayo, a Cuban exile who defected to the CIA, a group of commandos landed off the southeast coast of Cuba June 8, 1963, never to be heard from again, the article said.

The writers said the mission was carried out without the knowledge of President John Kennedy. Its purpose, they said, was to return to the United States with two Russian missile technicians who reportedly wanted to defect but needed help in escaping.

Hinckle, editor of City Magazine and former editor of Ramparts, said he and William Turner, a former FBI agent, substantiated the accuracy of the expedition during a two-year investigation of the CIA's secret war against Cuba during the 1960s.

Pawley and Billings, said Hinckle, admitted the event occurred but refused to disclose details.

No cash was provided by the CIA, but Life magazine put up $15,000 for the expedition and in return was to publish exclusive pictures of the defecting Russian technicians and their stories, the authors said.

The article said Pawley, Life Magazine executive Richard Billings, Mafioso figure John Martino, the regular crew and several CIA agents were aboard the yacht, Flying Tiger II.

The yacht was named after the volunteer aviators whom Pawley helped organize in China with Claire Chennault in 1940, the story said.

It said the yacht later rendezvoused with the commandos in a small maze of islands off the north coast of Nantanzas Province, a maneuver which called for the help of a disguised CIA raiding boat in the area.

The writers said their information was obtained from former CIA contract employees and soldiers of fortune who knew the men in the raiding party.

Raza Unida Party Plans Political Push

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Raza Unida failed in its 1974 bid to elect candidates to the state legislature, but a change of strategy is in the works for the 1976 election year.

Raza Unida promises to go after local elective offices in five predominantly Mexican American South Texas Counties.

Raza Unida campaigns on issues such as public ownership of mineral wealth, free public transportation, expanded bilingual education and more welfare benefits.

The executive committee of the party meets in Pearsall Jan. 17-18 to determine specific counties and cities in which Raza Unida will make its biggest push in this spring's county, city, school board and other local elections.

Already dominating politics in Zavala County and making headway in La Salle County, the city of Robstown in Nueces County is Raza Unida's next big target.

The party hopes to make Robstown "the next Crystal City" — Zavala County stronghold of Raza Unida — in elections this spring for city council, school board and utilities board where it already holds several positions.

Guadalupe Youngblood of Robstown, state Raza Unida chairman, and Ramsey Muniz, who ran twice for governor on the fledgling party's ticket, both have concentrated efforts in Robstown since 1974. Raza Unida organized a boycott of a chain of small food markets operated by a rival Unity Party city commissioner which resulted in all five stores being closed.

Muniz, a 33-year-old former Baylor University football linebacker, is now an attorney at Corpus Christi but also practices in Robstown.

Muniz told UPI he doubts he will ever run for political office again. In his first race, he polled 214,118 votes in 1972 but in 1974 garnered only 88,958 votes and 17 other candidates for state level offices met similar defeats.

"I'm really trying to devote all my time to organizing and to have different slates throughout the cities," said Muniz. "We're well equipped to run the campaigns."

Muniz said possibly the only state representative race his party will enter will be in a newly created district of Nueces County, including Robstown, comprised of 92 per cent Mexican-Americans.

"We might be looking at our first hope of a state representative," he said. "We're studying a candidate right now. I'd say we should have a very fruitful year in 1976, especially in politics. I see a hell of an awareness all around and this thing about Raza Unida being militant has really died down. It's much easier for us now."

Jose Angel Rodriguez, editor of San Antonio's "Chicano Times" and Bexar County Raza Unida Chairman, said five "target counties" discussed so far by the executive committee are Zavala, LaSalle, Nueces, Frio and Hidalgo.

However, Youngblood said the committee also would consider fielding local candidates for the first time in West Texas, at Pecos, which was a center of farmworkers organizing during melon center last year. "There's a lot of activity around Pecos," he said.

"Our main interest is winning local elections and it always has been, because that's where we can produce. We're sticking to that."

Rodriguez also intimated some Raza Unida members, keeping their party affiliation secret, might seek offices in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Enrollment Set For Adult Classes

Spring enrollment in Pampa's Adult Basic Education classes will be 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at Baker Elementary School, 300 E. Tuke, according to Floyd Sackett, Baker principal.

Late enrollments will be accepted in the school office during school hours through Friday, Jan. 16. Classes will meet 7 - 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning Jan. 20. The spring session lasts through April 8.

Courses in reading, English, arithmetic, science, history and English as a second language are offered at no cost to any person, 17 years or older, who lacks requirements for a high school diploma. Sackett said that during the three years Adult Basic Education has been offered to Pampa residents, 130 persons have received certificates of equivalency or high school diplomas.

For additional information on the program, call Floyd Sackett at 669-2792.

Three reporters disagreed with the restrictions. Their names were stricken from the authorized coverage list. The remaining seven met with attorneys and refused to attend the proceedings in fear of jeopardizing an appeal of Stuart's order.

The reporters said they might place voluntary restrictions on themselves but would not go along with prior restraint from the court.

The judge denied the jury selection is a part of the trial that must be open to news media.

He said the trial "commences when a jury is impaneled to try the case and that all reporting prior to that event... is pretrial publicity."

He says that once the jury is selected the trial will be open to the public and news media.

The battle between Stuart and reporters began in October, when he ruled the media could not disclose evidence or testimony presented at a preliminary hearing for Simants.

Blakley Called LBJ Devious, Arrogant

DALLAS (UPI) — Former Sen. William Blakley, D-Tex., in an interview given months before his death Monday, called former President Lyndon Johnson devious and arrogant and blamed a former Texas governor for an electoral defeat.

Blakley, twice appointed to the Senate but never elected, died Monday at the age of 77. Despite a weakening physical condition, he had asked to be returned home from the hospital for the holidays.

Funeral services were scheduled for today at Restland Memorial Chapel with burial to be in Restland Memorial Park.

"Johnson would say something nice to your face and when you left the room he would remark, 'That crazy s.o.b.'," Blakley said. "I could talk much easier to John Kennedy."

Blakley gave the interview seven months before his death on the condition the information would not be published while he was alive.

His first Senate term began in 1957 when he replaced Price Daniel, who ran successfully for governor. Blakley was appointed again in 1960 to replace Johnson when LBJ was elected vice president. In 1961 Blakley ran against Republican John G. Tower and lost.

He said former Texas Governor Allan Shivers tried to keep him from running against Tower and when he failed he tried to undermine Blakley's support.

"I lost to Tower because of Shivers," he said.

He said Johnson showed arrogance by being sworn in as a Senator before being sworn in as Vice President.

Following his 1961 defeat, he and his wife gave $100 million to a foundation named for Thomas

E. Braniff, a close friend and founder of Braniff International. The Blakley-Braniff foundation gave millions to public hospitals, colleges and other foundations.

Despite the interruptions of the Senate terms, Blakley generally managed to maintain a private life while administering his ranching, oil and business holdings. He was a self-taught lawyer and certified public accountant.

In early December he was hospitalized because of a weakening physical condition but asked to be returned home for the holidays. He is survived by his widow, Villa D. Blakely of Dallas and two sisters.

The Canadian province of Newfoundland has a population of approximately 540,000 — less than four people per square mile.

Sun Oil Offers Reward

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — An oil company and its employees have offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the safe return of a missing refinery mechanic who fled a nursing home last month under the delusion he was reliving World War II and being chased by Nazis soldiers.

Alfred C. Sherman, 54, worked for Sun Oil Co. for more than 30 years, a spokesman for the company said Tuesday. Sherman had been scheduled to return to work from a prolonged sick leave when he suffered a stroke in late September which placed him in the nursing home.

"The refinery employees today took up a collection of $500 to establish a reward fund. Sun Oil matched that with another $500," the spokesman said. "The $1,000 reward is to be paid to the first person giving Sheriff Dave Faulkner's office information leading to the safe return of Mr. Sherman to his family within 90 days of this date.

Sherman left the refinery in May 1975 on sick leave and was due to return to work around October 1; the spokesman said: but was continued on sick leave after suffering a stroke a few days before he was to return. Sherman's son, Allen Sherman, said his father was suffering flashbacks to World War II. He said later he thought the delusions probably lasted about a week.

Numerous search parties have failed to locate Sherman since he walked away from a nursing home in Jenks, Okla., Dec. 22, clad only in light clothing and house slippers. The last major search was called off last Saturday.

If the Shoe Fits...

By Gary Gattis

How do you achieve a good shoe fit? A good fitting shoe on a child or adult takes in many factors. One of the first factors for consideration is shoe length. Most parents are concerned whether there is enough toe room for growth. One of the most popular methods used is the rule of thumb measurement. Those using this method claim that if there is a thumb's width between the end of the large toe to the tip of the shoe, the shoe has adequate growing room. This method is really not too adequate for fitting shoes. After all not everyone has the same size thumb.

Others claim that you should have a half inch toe room. While this may be a little better guide, there is still just one best way to make sure of adequate toe room in a shoe. The following method is the one we use in our store for accurate fitting. That is, the use of the ball of the foot each measure. The ball of the foot is the widest part of a normal foot and this should fit into the exact widest part of the shoe. Usually if the two coincide you have the start of a good fit with adequate growing room.

Restaurants Offer Low Calorie Foods

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — Restaurants that specialize in low calorie foods are every dieter's dream. Two establishments in the Torrance area make it reality.

Carol and Gene Schrier say a guest could have a cheese cake breakfast, Bavarian stuffed cabbage for lunch, barbecued knockwurst for dinner, and chocolate sundaes after both lunch and dinner for a total of fewer than 800 calories. Adding lasagna for a late night snack would still total under 1,000 calories.

The Schriers prepare these low-calorie foods for the Camelot-Diet Scene in Torrance and the Slender Spoon in Long Beach.

Mrs. Schrier is the chef. Her husband says she has developed an uncanny talent for mixing ingredients that taste good because she herself is always on a diet.

Schrier, who is five-feet-8 and 150 pounds, was 180. Mrs. Schrier is 5-foot-2 and has taken off some weight, but she still has a problem that comes from tasting all the food she prepares for restaurant guests.

The Schriers' pastries are made with ground bread instead of flour, and nonfat dry milk instead of milk and cream. Flash frozen fruit is used instead of prepared fruit mixes for pies. Artificial sweeteners substitute for sugar, and diet margarine for butter.

Meat dishes are made with veal, which is much lower in fat than beef, and all vegetables are fresh. But the secret, Schrier said, is knowing how to mix the spices.

"There are 20 different kinds of chili powder," he said. "It's a matter of picking the right one. If you can taste the chili, then it really doesn't go with the other things." He said the pastries are light but good tasting because of the right balance of flavoring extracts.

"Pastries are mostly nonfat milk. Chiffon pie is powdered milk, artificial sugar, different extracts, and that's it."

"In dealing with extracts you have to be more of a chemist than anything else. They are very critical balances."

Chiffon pie at the two restaurants contains only 40 calories per serving.

The Schriers' menus follow one national weight-control plan and are approved by another. They are planning a line of their fruit pies for supermarket sale.

A steak house they owned earlier had both a diet menu and a normal menu. When they moved, they decided to cater to the constant dieter.

"Finally we have a place where people can eat all these things without feeling guilty," Schrier said. "That's the most important thing to a dieter, to eat without feeling guilty."

"There are many diet foods available in supermarkets, but they taste so bad, he" said. "People decide they would rather tolerate being heavy than have to eat that stuff the rest of their lives."

"The idea is to make the food taste good," he said.

Here is the Schrier's recipe for a popular dinner entree, veal ball stew.

Combine 1 cup of tomato juice with one and a half cups of water, one and one half teaspoons of beef bouillon granules, 1 medium zucchini, half a green pepper, 1 cup of chopped carrots, one-fourth cup of chopped onions, one-fourth teaspoon of allspice and one-half teaspoon each of salt and ground pepper. Place over low heat until vegetables are tender but crisp.

While vegetables cook, mix three-fourths teaspoon of cinnamon, and artificial sweetener equal to 4 teaspoons of sugar with 1 pound of lean ground veal. Shape into balls about one and a half inches in diameter. Bake 10 minutes in a preheated 400 degree oven. For serving, pour vegetables mixture over meatballs.

Schrier said the calorie content might not be exact, because he scaled down the restaurant recipe to serve four persons. At the Slender Spoon, a 12-ounce serving, which includes four ounces of meat, plus vegetables and sauce, would total about 200 calories.

Fink To Celebrate Bicentennial

FINK, Tex. (UPI) — This tiny community which each summer presents the world with National Fink Week is trying to outdo itself this year in honor of the nation's bicentennial.

Mayor Patricia Albright, proprietor of the North Texas town's only gas station and general store, says Fink, population 9, is planning a Bicentennial Olympics.

The affair will be held during the usual Fink Week, June 20-26, and will be based on events recorded in the Guinness Book of World Records.

"Anyone who wants to take a crack at breaking a Guinness world record is welcome to compete," says Mayor Albright, who expects most of the competition to come from the "Stunts and Miscellaneous Endeavors" section of the book.

"I see no reason why we couldn't have competitors in such events as baby carriage pushing, brick carrying, clapping, frisbee throwing, hoop rolling, house of cards building, rocking, see-sawing, shoe shining, skipping and many others," she says.

Since the Fink Olympics is scheduled for National Fink Week, Albright said any Olympic contestants with the legal name of Fink who seek to break records, should get extra awards — perhaps double what goes to the Smiths, Joneses and Browns, she suggested.

"We're in a financial bind," she smiled. "We'd like to get some Bicentennial funds to help us build a permanent-type covered platform area where our Fink jinks could be held. Not just for this year, but from now on," she said.

She said a series of planning sessions will be held in January and February to complete details.

With several clothing manufacturers in the area, the mayor would like to have Fink Olympic T-shirts, caps, decals and other souvenirs made available.

In past years, National Fink Day has been the key attraction, bringing in 300 and 400 times the total Fink population. Now, with a weeklong Fink Olympics inn the offing, the mayor said she expects the visitor total to run into thousands.

"Fink should qualify for one new Guinness World Record," she said. "It will be the site of the most assaults on Guinness world records. And who knows, we might even break one or two."

The mayor herself has been practicing standing on one foot in hopes of breaking that record of more than five hours.

Surviving Child To Live with Dad

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UPI) — Teresa Seymour, 11, who survived a plane crash that took the lives of her mother, stepfather and half sister, will live with her father, a disabled veteran, in El Paso, Tex.

Circuit Court Judge Ted Abram Monday gave the state of Oregon a 48 hour extension of its custody of the Texas girl so that arrangements could be made to transport her to El Paso, where her father, Paul Seymour, lives. The child's parents had been divorced eight years ago and Seymour had been paying for child support for Teresa.

Officials of the Oregon Children's Service Division said the Air Force will arrange transportation for Teresa and relatives of her mother from Texas or from California will accompany her. It was expected she would be sent to Texas by Wednesday.

Judge Abram said any further custody issues regarding Teresa, who ended up spending Christmas in a hospital here after her father and relatives of her stepfather and mother sought to gain custody, would have to be resolved by Texas courts.

Bill Winn, a local spokesman for the CSD, said Oregon is relinquishing any custody claim to the girl. He said CSD officials saw "no reason why the natural father should not assume custody."

Teresa was present at the closed session custody hearing in Abram's chambers, but the judge asked reporters to make no attempt to interview the little girl. She smiled and appeared to be in good spirits as she left the court.

Killed in the Dec. 21 plane crash near the Oregon-California border 25 miles south of Klamath Falls were Air Force Sgt. Robert Condiff Jr., 37, El Paso; his wife, Frances, 47, and her daughter, Frances Foster, 14. Teresa survived 22 hours at the snow-covered mountain crash site, clutching her tiny puppy, Baby, throughout the ordeal, with the dog's warmth helping her to survive.

Teresa suffered fractures of both legs and an elbow in the crash. She had casts on her legs when she left last week in custody of a stepuncle and aunt, Ray Maze, Malin, Ore., to attend funerals in Yakima, Wash., for her mother, stepfather and half sister, and was still in the casts for Monday's hearing.

Industry Group Elects Same Officers

All current officers of the Pampa Industrial Foundation were re-elected at the first 1976 meeting of the board of directors Tuesday morning in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Officers who will serve through 1976 are: Kay Fancher, president; Harold Barrett, vice president; E.L. Green Jr., vice president; Fred Neslage, vice president; Aubrey Steele, treasurer; Floyd Watson, treasurer; E.O. Wedgeworth, executive vice president and secretary; William Chambliss, auditor, and Don Lane, legal counsel.

Several other routine matters were considered at the regular January meeting, according to Wedgeworth.

The vote for re-election of the nine officers was unanimous.

ENDANGERED SPECIES JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri has seven plants on the national endangered species list, according to the state Department of Conservation. Another 17 plants are listed as threatened. The state also has a rare and endangered species list, including wildlife and plant life.

Food for Thought Do Appetite Pills Work?

By DR. JEAN MAYER
Professor of Nutrition,
Harvard University

Q. I am one of those perennial dieters who never seem to be able to follow a diet long enough to see any real results. Yesterday, I was in a health food store and saw some tablets advertised "to reduce the desire for food." The ingredients included sucrose, saccharin, sodiumcarbamethylcellulose, and other substances. The directions said to take one tablet 15 minutes before a meal. Can you tell me whether these might help?

A. The "active ingredient," if there is one, in pills such as you describe is a chemical called sodiumcarbamethylcellulose, or CMC. CMC is a perfectly safe additive that has found wide usage in the food industry for many years. It does everything from stabilizing the foam in beer to retaining the moisture and increasing the volume of bread dough.

Because it is indigestible, produces no calories, and has the ability to bind water, CMC has long been used in diet preparations such as the one you describe to give a feeling of fullness and stave off hunger pangs. Studies of its effectiveness as an aid in weight-reducing programs have shown, however, that it produces only negligible results. It has little effect in promoting weight loss, and in those individuals who have been helped, the effect is transient.

This is not to say that fiber (including cellulose) is unimportant. Actually, natural sources of cellulose, such as raw carrots, celery and salads should be an important part of every dieter's menus. Including these virtually calorie-free, chewy foods (especially if you can learn to enjoy eating them with calorie-free dressings made mostly from vinegar of lemon juice) allows time for you to develop a satisfied feeling. And, of course, the portion of the fiber that is indigestible provides something we all need for normal bowel regulation.

Q. As a consumer I am constantly concerned about the cleanliness and safety of meat products such as hamburger, cold cuts and frankfurters. Can you tell me whether this concern is warranted?

A. A few months ago, the Center for Disease Control published an analysis of reported outbreaks of food-borne illness that occurred between 1966 and 1973. During that period, nearly 2,500 cases of food related illnesses were reported. (I should point out, incidentally, that many more cases occur but are never reported). In three out of four of these outbreaks, the food involved was identified. And only a handful of cases was hamburger, cold cuts or frankfurters proven to be the culprit (which hardly warrants their somewhat notorious reputations).

About half of these few incidents involved ground beef, followed by frankfurters, with only six incidents linked to cold cuts.

In investigating just how the ground meat had been mishandled, investigators found improper storage or improper handling temperature to be the most common problem. Others included inadequate cooking, contaminated equipment or working surfaces, and the poor personal hygiene of the food handler.

How can you avoid problems in your own home? In order to be perfectly safe, you should use fresh ground meat as soon as possible after purchase. It should be kept in the refrigerator until it is ready for use, handled on clean surfaces, and cooked thoroughly. Frozen ground beef should always be thawed in the refrigerator.

Q. After reading that too much salt contributes to hypertension, I have cut way down on my salt intake. Now I'm worried that I may not be getting enough iodine. Is this a realistic concern?

A. No. In the first place, the amount of iodine you need on a daily basis is minute and would be supplied by a half-teaspoon of iodized salt.

Second, while it is true that iodized salt is an important and dependable source of iodine, there are other sources, too. The most notable of these are, of course, salt water fish and shellfish. But recent evidence indicates that iodine is being supplied by other foods, too.

One main reason is that more iodine is getting into the diets of domestic animals who are being given feeds with mineral supplements that include iodine. Animals nowadays also use iodized salt licks. As a result, the iodine content of the meat, eggs, and dairy products from these animals is higher than in the past.

Additional iodine may come from bread made with iodine-containing dough conditioners. Finally, vegetables and fruits grown in areas where the soil is rich in iodine can provide still another source.

It is important to remember, however, that over half of the salt in the American diet comes from processed foods. And unfortunately, most of the salt used in these foods is not iodized. Therefore, in the interest of keeping your salt intake at a minimum and making sure the salt you do use is iodized, it is a good idea to choose processed foods quite carefully, eliminating those that are very salty.

The New Christy Minstrels in Pampa

Minstrels Taken to Cleaners Use City's Necessities

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

If the sub-freezing temperatures don't keep them roombound with paperbacks and needlepoint, the New Christy Minstrels, who performed before an almost capacity audience Tuesday night at M.K. Brown Auditorium, will be running around Pampa today.

The group is scheduled to perform in Borger tonight, so they planned to spend most of the day in Pampa, visiting the post office, dry cleaners, laundromat, etc.

"They use time like this to take care of the necessities of life," said Jim Seeman, company manager or, as he described his job, "star keeper."

Tuesday's performance was the fourth night into a 98-day tour by bus for the singers. They are on a six-nights-a-week performing schedule and rehearse about three times a week, Seeman said.

The musicians now performing with the Minstrels range in age from 20 to 26 years, Seeman said. There are eight of them, five men and three women. Vocally the breakdown is a base, three base baritones, a tenor, two sopranos and an alto, the manager said.

"When I first joined the group," Seeman commented, "there was a tenor, three high baritones and three sopranos."

He pointed out that even though the singers change and the range of voices differs from year to year, "the sound is basically a Christy Sound and it stays that way."

Seeman said that an average stay with the group for a performer would be about a year and a half or two years but one has been a Minstrel for six years and "some can't take the travel for more than six months."

He described a young singer's stint with the Minstrels as "a great learning experience," and pointed out several successful performers who are former members of the group — the most famous being John Denver.

Performers with the group are employees of the New Christy Minstrels, Inc. and they are salaried with the amount "based upon experience, responsibilities as far as the group is concerned and how long they have been with the group," the star keeper commented.

While the sound may stay basically Christy, the show changes as the individual talents and contributions change.

For example, there currently is an Englishman in the group, Mike Ball, who performs an arrangement of "The William Tell Overture" by slapping the sides of his face to create the necessary variety of hollow sounding thumps.

"We're doing a few things that are a little bit insane," Seeman said.

In addition to his rather individual talent in connection with the face-slapping music, Ball has a strong and pleasant voice — perhaps the strongest of the group. He is a likely candidate for joining other distinguished Minstrel alumni and making a successful entertaining career on his own.

Rick Araiza is a graduate of San Diego State University with a degree in psychology, anthropology and sociology; but he apparently found plenty of time to practice the guitar, banjo, bass, mandolin and most everything else with strings.

Araiza's displays Tuesday in "Dueling Banjos" and "Foggy Mountain Breakdown" were crowd pleasing examples of his talent.

Seeman, the eight Minstrels and their driver will leave Texas briefly after the Borger performance but will return to the Lone Star State to play in Garland following a stop in Laverne, Okla.

Sheriff Reports on '75

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Theft, burglary, traffic in marijuana and the issuance of bad checks are the four crimes that confront Gray County Sheriff's officers today.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan estimates that county merchants lose between $15,000 and $20,000 annually in bad checks.

During 1975 there were three armed robberies in Gray County, but Sheriff Jordan can recall only two bank robberies here in almost 50 years.

He was 13 years of age when the Gray County State Bank was robbed on March 27, 1927. A bank at Alanreed was robbed in 1931.

For the past 25 years it has been Jordan's responsibility to see that no other banks were robbed — or, if they had been, to help apprehend the robbers as quickly as possible.

Law enforcement within the boundary lines of Gray County comes under the jurisdiction of Sheriff Jordan — McLean, Lefors and Alanreed and all the ranch, oil and gas properties.

Jordan noted an increase in crime nationwide — it is up 160 to 170 per cent during the past 15 years.

"We are living at the conclusion of a fast century... conveyance, travel and operation of business," the sheriff said. "Our people are busy — consequently we find the younger set has access to more money than ever."

Violators commit crimes because they want money, the sheriff explained.

In discussing the younger generation, the sheriff says most Gray County parents are concerned about their children.

"I remember when you had to be about 40 years of age to qualify for any kind of job," the sheriff reminisced. "Yet about six years ago a young 25-year-old scientist sat at a desk in Houston and put the first three men on the moon."

Looking into crime problems of the future, the sheriff estimated 220 million persons in American today. "And the population is continuing to grow and crime grows with it," he said.

Sheriff Jordan said citizens should become involved.

"Let's find our place in the jury box when so summoned. Let's attend county and town hall meetings. Citizen participation is most important in crime prevention. Law enforcement officers must depend on citizens for help."

Although crime is on the increase, the sheriff believes Gray County has been spared much of the hard crime which confronts larger cities — and many of comparable size to this area.

"There hasn't been a safe robbery here in 5 1/2 years," he said.

Those who remember Gray County during its boom days from 1926 - 1928 can see a difference in the community today.

"It is no longer a boom town," the sheriff said, "it is a community of stable people."

The sheriff and his staff are working long hours to keep the Gray County crime rates as low as possible, he said.

In speaking of check laws today, the sheriff said there was a time when a $50 bad check was a felony offense.

"Today, anything under $200 is a misdemeanor — and the case is tried in county court," he said.

As for automobile theft, Gray County isn't exempt, the sheriff regrets.

"We have some automobile thefts — perhaps 50 to 60 a year," he estimated.

'Pappy' May Be Back

HOUSTON (UPI) — B.G. "Pappy" Bond, a portly 22-year police veteran with a reputation for extreme honesty, has been nominated to assume control of a police department clouded by federal indictments and internal strife for a year and a half.

Bond, 50, presently a captain, was nominated Tuesday for the chief's job in the South's largest city by Mayor Fred Hofheinz but it will be two weeks before he is confirmed. None of the seven councilmen said they opposed Bond.

"There's no buggers in his closet, that's for sure," said one veteran officer.

Bond is expected to shake up the alignment of several sensitive divisions such as narcotics and vice. As present head of criminal intelligence, he already has made numerous changes in that division.

"He's going to change a few things around here so we can get back to the business of law enforcement," another officer said.

Bond will replace Carrol M. Lynn who resigned as chief last summer because of a controversy over his handling of an internal investigation into illegal police wiretapping. R.J. Clark has been acting chief since.

As chief, Bond is expected to push for legalized wiretapping in Texas, following the guidelines of the federal statute which allows federal agents to gain a court order to wiretap. Bond's proposal, reportedly supported by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, would allow local police to seek such orders from state district courts.

A year ago, a federal grand jury indicted eight narcotics officers on charges ranging from illegal wiretapping to possession and sale of narcotics. Two pleaded guilty to wiretap charges and were sentenced to three years in prison and the others are awaiting trial.

In December, nine present and former criminal intelligence officers and a retired police lieutenant from that division were indicted by another grand jury on charges of illegal wiretapping.

Indians Collect 4-A Scalps

The Hereford Invitational Basketball Tournament program contained a writeup on Morton, one of the teams entered in the eight-team affair.

A statement in the program by Morton Coach Ted Whillock read, "We had a good enough team to win the state championship last year, and all the starters are back."

That probably didn't phase too many of the Hereford fans the night of the finals, which pitted their own Whiteface team against the Morton Indians. (After all, Morton is a Class AA team — the very fact that the Indians were in the finals was probably an accident.)

The fans — and the Hereford basketball team — quickly found out it was no accident. Morton rolled to a 57-41 win and the tournament championship.

"They have an outstanding team," said Hereford Coach Barry Arwine, who tried to relay that fact to his player prior to the game.

"They've got a tremendous amount of ability. Everyone of them. They are good athletes. They've got to be rated with any three-A or four-A team in our area simply because they've beat so many of them."

What? Barry, are you saying Hereford isn't the only AAAA team Morton has beaten?

Against AAAA competition, Morton is 4-4 this season. Against AAA schools, the Indians are 11-0. They have played no other teams which gives them a gaudy 15-4 record against some class competition.

El Paso Andress has beaten Morton twice in three games. Wichita Falls Hirschi and Lubbock Monterey are the only other teams to knock off the Indians.

The loss to Hirschi (55-46) came the night after Morton edged Wichita Falls High (62-61), the team which dumped Pampa in the first round of the Midwestern University Invitational Basketball Tournament at Wichita Falls. Arwine didn't say Hereford could have beaten Morton but he feels his team didn't play too well against the AA power.

"We did a fair job on them defensively. We just couldn't score — their press hurt us early in the game."

"They keep it real simple with a 2-2-1 zone press, then drop back into a 2-3 zone! That's all in the game."

Paul Sims

their gonna do, but they're gonna do that awfully well."

Whillock agrees that one key to Morton's success in basketball over the years (in his 16 seasons, he has won district three times, has been to the state tournament three and has one state title to his credit — in 1972) is the team's simplicity.

"We run a simple offense and a simple press. We've run it from the seventh-grade all the way through. By the time they get to high school they know exactly how the press works and how the offense works."

Another key is Mike Williams, in Class AA. Maybe the best in any class.

Williams, a 6-3 senior with a vertically leap of 31 inches, is averaging 24.5 points and 13.2 rebounds. When you think of his 250 rebounds in comparison to the rest of his teammates, it's mind-boggling — the next closest is 77 rebounds by 6-2 junior Troy Patton.

"It (the rebound statistics) looks funny but we don't let anybody else get one. He just gets every one of them that comes off — he takes them away from our kids and their kids, too," Whillock said.

He's fast, quick as lightning, got super hands and can jump."

Last season, it looked like Morton was unstoppable in its quest for the District 3-AAA title. Then Williams broke his arm in the first quarter of the district game against Dimmitt, and the Indians lost. The following week, they lost to Friona and, in the process, lost the district championship.

Morton finished with a 28-4 record.

"We had about 22 out of our 30 (actually 32) games last year that we won by 30 or 40 points. We didn't play an four-A team last year. We never had to set up and run the offense, so it made us weak at it," Whillock said.

"We just never had anyone to pressure us real good until we got to Friona and Dimmitt."

All five starters returned off that team to play this season. Besides Williams and Patton, the regulars are 6-0 junior Lloyd Joyce, the second leading scorer on the team with a 10.6 average, 6-4 senior Fouec Grisby and 5-11 senior Kenneth Standmire.

This year's non-district schedule should help Morton. Because of it, the Indians are overwhelming favorites to win the 3-AAA title, in spite of Dimmitt's 20-0 record against mostly lower-classification schools.

Morton opens district play Jan. 16 — at Dimmitt. The Indians will guard against the type of letdown which spelled their demise last season.

"I'm not quite as cocky as I was last year," Whillock said. "It's bad to get a feeling like you're gonna go, and then to have it all burst in your face."

Houston Loop Opener Ends in 45-Point Rout

By MIKE RABUN
UPI Sports Writer

It has taken Houston a very long time to begin playing basketball in the Southwest Conference. Surely the Cougars they must be having second thoughts about whether it was worth the wait.

In their first SWC game ever Tuesday night the Houston Cougars were beaten worse than they have ever been before. The Arkansas Razorbacks crushed Houston, 92-47, and then immediately began worrying about the trip they must make to Houston next Monday night.

Marvin Delph broke open the game with 14 first half points and Darryl Sausberry led an assault on the backboards that allowed Arkansas to outrebound the taller Cougars by the incredible margin of 46-19.

"I don't think we can play better than that," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton, who told Houston coach Guy Lewis before the game that Houston was lucky to be playing in Fayetteville while the student body was still gone on holiday vacation.

"Everything went right for us. And once you break a ball game open anything can happen. I don't want to say Houston let down, but you have a tendency to play not as well as you might if you know you can't get back in the game."

"Guy Lewis is a great coach and a great person and he is from one of the great basketball schools in the country. But I'll bet Guy has never been in a situation like this. I've never been beaten like that and I'm not sure I could live through it."

Houston has been a member of the Southwest Conference since 1971, but this is the first year for the Cougars to compete for the basketball title.

Houston brought an 8-1 record into the game, its only previous loss coming to sixth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas.

"We have to go down and play them next Monday night and I'm sure Guy will have his team well prepared. I'm sure they will have a real warm reception for us."

While Arkansas was mauling Houston, Baylor pulled off a mild upset over Texas in Austin, 72-70, in a game that ended with a small brawl and Texas Tech blasted Rice in Houston, 102-62.

It was the second conference win without a loss for Baylor and put them in the early SWC lead. Rice lost its second league game while the rest of the schools in action Tuesday night were opening their conference schedule.

No games are set for tonight in the league, but Arkansas will host SMU (0-1) Thursday night before a full round of action Saturday that includes the Razorbacks trip to Houston.

"Houston did not play up to its potential," said Arkansas senior guard Marvin Terry. "We have to go down there and play them next week, but now they know what we have. They will have to beat us."

In the Houston-Baylor game, the Bears led by four points when a Longhorn player committed a foul trying to steal the ball with four seconds remaining. A fistfight ensued, after which Baylor guard Billy Carlisle was ejected from the game.

Texas' Dan Krueger was awarded two foul shots after the fight and he hit them both to bring the Longhorns to within two points at 72-70. The Longhorns could not get the ball back for a chance at the game tying shot.

Pampa Noses By LM 46-44

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Brian Bailey and Forrest Taylor gave Pampa a six-point lead in the final 30 seconds when each hit a pair of free throws to ice a 46-44 Harvester win over the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen Thursday before more than 1,700 fans in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The win gives Pampa a 14-3 record, while Monterey is 10-8.

In preliminary games in Harvester Fieldhouse, Monterey won both the junior varsity contest 68-58 and sophomore clash 58-45. Pampa's JV is now 12-3 and the sophomores are 6-5.

Pampa led by six, 36-30, at the end of the third period. Three times in the last quarter the Harvesters upped their advantage to eight.

The final time, at 2:59 in the fourth quarter, came when Jewell Landers' assist pass found Donnie Hughes under the basket. Hughes scored on an easy layup.

Monterey rallied to score on a 12-foot jump shot by 6-5 Scott Gardner. Pampa then gave up the ball after a walking violation. Gardner was fouled by Pampa's Richard Lane, his fifth of the game, and the Monterey post hit a pair of free throws at 1:44 to cut Pampa's lead to 42-38.

Bailey made two free throws with 30 seconds left in the game to make it 44-48. A tip-in by Monterey's Larry Eggenberger with 22 seconds left was followed by a pair of free shots by Taylor with 16 seconds remaining.

Monterey's Scott Lowery scored on a short jumper at :07 to cut the lead to four points again, 46-42. After a Pampa time out, the Harvesters tried to throw the ball in bounds but turned it over on a five-second violation.

A layup by Jody Overbeck with three seconds left brought the Plainsmen to within two points. Monterey tried to take a time out, but the clock ran down.

A tense five-minute dispute between Monterey Coach Joe Michalka, who claimed his team should have been awarded a time out, Pampa Coach Robert McPherson, official Sturdy Wanamaker and the timekeeper ensued.

Wanamaker declared the game over. The fourth period wasn't the only close quarter. The lead changed hands three times in the first period and eight in the second, with Pampa taking a 26-24 halftime lead.

Monterey led for nearly the first seven minutes of the game before Donnie Hughes scored on a layup to give Pampa a 9-8 advantage.

The Harvesters led 13-10 at the end of the first quarter. Hughes scored on a jump shot, was fouled, then hit a free throw to give Pampa a 26-24 lead with nine seconds left in the half.

Gardner led Monterey in the first half with 14 points and 12 rebounds. Hughes scored 11 to lead Pampa in the first two periods.

One key to Pampa's win in the second half was the fact that Gardner was stopped, scoring only six points and getting four rebounds, and Hughes was not. Hughes scored eight points and finished the game with 19 points and 13 rebounds.

"Donnie came through," McPherson said. "That's the best he's played since the Liberal ball game (Dec. 12). He came back to old form tonight."

"They all did a fine job. Monterey ran a slowed-down offense — they were very, very patient on offense. That's the best I've ever seen a Monterey team play defense — they did a super job on defense."

"Our kids really did a great job. We did a good job on defense in the second half. We tried to double-team Gardner in the second half."

"I thought we executed real well, attacked their defense and ran our offense."

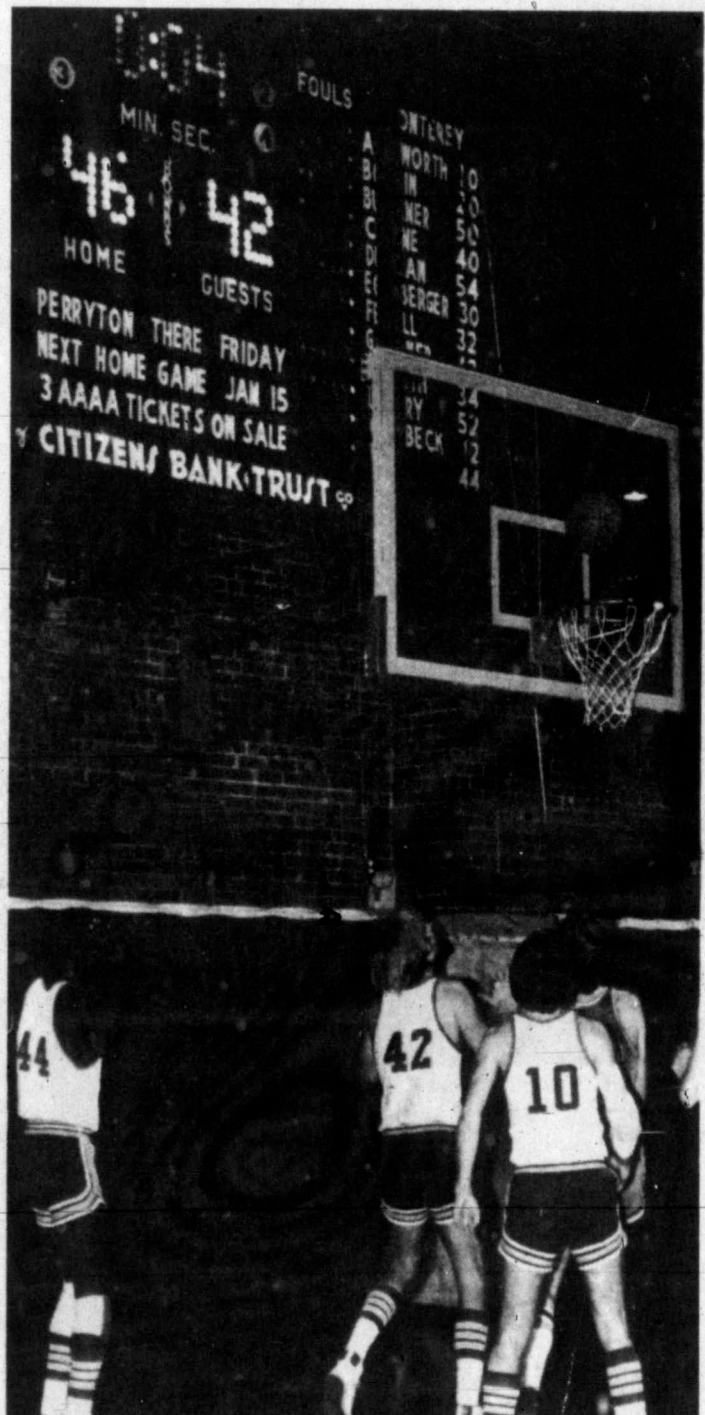

McPherson was not entirely pleased with his team's shooting.

"The shots we normally hit just didn't go down — we missed a bunch but we got that little streak in the third quarter where we blew the ball game open."

Pampa scored the final six points of the third period to take a 36-30 lead into the last eight minutes.

Brian Bailey followed Hughes for Pampa with nine points. Behind Gardner (20 points) for Monterey were Overbeck, Lowery and Mike Buckner with six each.

Pampa outrebounded Monterey 40-35. Jewell Landers followed Hughes with 11 rebounds.

Canadian Girls Top Gruver in Loop Tilt

GRUVER — Canadian's girls basketball team outscored surprising Gruver 18-8 in the third period and held on for a 66-56 win over the host Greyhounds Tuesday night in a District 1-A encounter.

Canadian, 16-2 for the season and 2-1 in district play, led 17-13 at the end of the first period and 34-30 at halftime.

Tresea Williams led Canadian with 47 points, while Lucy Smith scored 34 for Gruver.

In the boys contest, David Bergin scored 16 points to lead Gruver to a 66-57 win over Canadian, now 0-2 in district play.

Both Canadian teams host Sanford-Fritch Friday.

Game-Ending Controversy

Lubbock Monterey's Jody Overbeck (under basket) scored on a layup with three seconds left to cut Pampa's lead to 46-44. The plainsmen, immediately after the shot, called time out, but it was not awarded to them by the officials. The clock ran out, Monterey Coach Joe Michalka stormed over the bench to argue with the timekeeper and official Sturdy Wanamaker, while Pampa Coach Robert McPherson exclaimed, "It's over. We won!" Pampa is now 14-3 for the season and travels to Perryton Friday. Monterey is 10-8. Monterey and Pampa are considered strong contenders for their respective district crowns.

Roomies White, Martin To Clash

DALLAS (UPI) — Super Bowl X will give Pittsburgh's Dwight White an opportunity which not many teachers get — a chance to find out first hand what his pupil has learned.

Dallas defensive end Harvey Martin once was White's roommate at East Texas State, and Martin said Tuesday White taught him more about football than any coach or player ever did.

"Dwight, he's the guy who got me off on the right foot," said Martin, 25. "I didn't know anybody. I had only played football one year in high school. He was my roommate, two years ahead of me."

"He was like a model for me. I could watch and learn from him — everything he did. I was his biggest fan. I was a Dwight White freak."

Martin, known to cowboy fans as the "Smiling Assassin," said he never considered professional football until his junior year at East Texas. And then, when he was drafted, he says it was White who told him how to get along in the pros.

"I didn't think about playing pro ball until I was a junior and made all-conference," Martin said. "I was watching TV and it dawned on me that I would be eligible for the pro draft the next year. That was the first time I ever started thinking about playing pro football."

"Then when I was drafted, Dwight started showing me techniques, he and Joe Greene (Pittsburgh defensive tackle who lives in Duncanville, a Dallas suburb). They started helping me and telling me what I should expect. It was a big brother thing. A lot of guys are not that lucky."

But in his three years with Dallas, Martin has seldom had the opportunity to see White in action because they play on the same day of the week but usually in different places.

"I don't see that I have anything to prove with Dwight," Martin said of their Super Bowl match in Miami. "We have two different styles but we both get the job done."

"The Steelers have a super defense. They already have a mental edge because we beat them in preseason and its up to us to overcome this. I'm definitely not counting us out."

We'll be the underdogs, but that's the fun in the game."

Martin said after the Cowboys win over the Rams Saturday which put Dallas into the Super Bowl, he was so happy he immediately called his friend. But he says shop talk was left out of the conversation.

"He was happy and I was happy, too," Martin said. "We're two buddies happy for each other. We didn't even talk about the game."

Steelman: GOP Loyalist With Environmental Streak

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa News
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Alan Steelman, the likely Republican opponent of Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen in next year's Senate race, is regarded as a strong environmentalist who usually votes the Republican Party line on most major issues.

The 33-year-old Dallas congressman, who announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate earlier this month, has been a leader in developing strip mine and land planning legislation.

Steelman has also actively endorsed legislation calling for more financial disclosure by members of Congress and top Executive Branch officials. Consistent with that, the Dallas congressman has voluntarily disclosed his 1974 income tax return and a breakdown of his personal assets and liabilities.

In 1974, Steelman's total income was $62,529, which included his $42,500 congressional salary and income from investments. He listed his personal worth at $134,584.

"If I have to describe myself," he said recently, "it would be as a fiscal conservative who feels that at the same time we can deal with basic human problems."

The Dallas Republican, who is entering his fourth year in Congress, admits he has been somewhat frustrated in the mammoth 435-member House. He believes that in the smaller Senate he will have more impact on legislation.

"I feel my ability to do something about this or that is limited," Steelman explained. "The legislative duties — the substantive side of the job — becomes inherently secondary to the process of two-year (House) servitude." Steelman plans to kick off his senatorial campaign in Austin Jan. 5. From there, he will make a campaign swing through the State. However, his plans may have to be cut short, or aborted, if Congress resumes work next month, earlier than planned.

One of the younger members of Congress, Steelman generally regarded as likeable and bright by Congressional staffers who work with him. Besides his positions on the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and the Committee on Government Operations, Steelman is vice chairman of the Environmental Study Conference (ESC), a 160-member bipartisan group which deals with environmental and conservation issues.

"He's a helluva guy," Jim Rathiesberger, staff director of ESC, says loyally. "He's very good at establishing policy and getting things done."

Steelman scores a 73 per cent rating from the League of Conservation Voters, an environmental group. "That is damn good for a representative from Texas," said one source who has worked with Steelman.

"As far as I see it," the source continued, "on environmental issues and on conservation issues, he is pretty good. On other things, he's basically a conservative Republican from Texas."

Although business oriented, Steelman angered the Dallas establishment three years ago in leading a successful fight against the proposed canalization of the Trinity River. Business interests enthusiastically embraced the idea, hoping to make Dallas a sea port.

But he often supports business interests. In 1974, he received a $2,500 campaign contribution from the real estate industry's political arm, and then voted this year against closing a real estate tax shelter.

Steelman also supported President Ford on the recent veto of the tax bill. He voted against common situs picketing legislation, which would expand the right of labor to picket construction sites. He has generally supported moves to deregulate the price on oil and natural gas.

"Steelman is in what I call the Dallas orbit," said one Texas congressman, a moderate liberal. "He's all in an orbit by himself."

"When this boy talks," the veteran congressman added, "you never know where he is. But he is a party man, when the issues are drawn. He'll vote along the party line."

Steelman disagrees. He points to his work in support of the strip mine legislation, which was vetoed by Ford this year. He also circulated a "Dear Colleague" letter attempting to drum up Republican support for a veto override and charged that the Ford Administration's "arguments are lacking in soundness and thoroughness of research."

He further points out that he has voted to override presidential vetoes on school lunch and aid to education bills.

"I don't think loyalty to the party is an important consideration when largely the work is issue oriented," he maintains.

Steelman added that he supports Ford for the Presidency and is a member of The President Ford Committee in Texas. However, he says he does not expect to have the President campaign for him in his Senate race.

Biggest Problem-Fund Raising

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Rep. Alan W. Steelman, R-Tex., says fund raising will be one of the biggest problems in his race for the U.S. Senate.

"We've raised, I recall, $42,000 and obviously I'm a long way from the amount I need in the primary," said Steelman, 33. "We're going to launch an aggressive fund raising campaign."

Steelman officially announced his candidacy Monday and joined Louis Leman, an oil businessman from Crosby, in the race for the GOP nomination for the seat held by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex.

Bentsen, also a presidential candidate, faces Dr. Philip Gramm, a Texas A&M University economics professor, in the Democratic primary.

Steelman, whose district covers most of the eastern part of Dallas County, earlier endorsed President Ford's bid for reelection. But he said Ronald Reagan's GOP presidential primary campaign will help strengthen the two-party system.

"It (expanded primary) will give all candidates a larger share of the electorate to which to carry their campaigns," Steelman said. "I think it is in the best interest of the Republican Party of Texas."

The two-term congressman said his campaign will be more difficult because Texas already has one Republican senator —

John Tower. However, he said 77 per cent of Texans responding to a recent poll said they did not care about party affiliations — they wanted good representation.

Steelman's campaign platform includes beefing up national defense, restoring the economy, boosting public confidence in government, preserving natural resources and the environment and removing power from the bureaucracy.

He said fiscal waste — public, private and personal — must be eliminated because it threatens natural resources and financial

December Car Sales Shot Up

DETROIT (UPI) — Mid-December new car sales shot up 30 per cent over the disastrous period in 1974 but the U.S. auto industry still turned in its worst sales performance in 13 years.

Detroit's automotive executives said they were heartened by the strong showing which made the Dec. 11-20 period the best of the year on an annualized basis.

American Motors was up 43 per cent, Ford up 42 per cent, Chrysler up 41 per cent and General Motors up 21 per cent. The same period in 1974 was the industry's worst since 1960.

Sales reports for the Dec. 11-20 period were issued Monday. Figures have been on the plus side in each of the eight reporting periods since the 1976-model cars were introduced in October.

"With sales for eight consecutive 10-day reporting periods above a year ago, there can no longer be any doubt about the recovery of our business," said William Benton, a Ford Motor Co. vice president.

The year 1975 goes in the record books as the lowest sales for any year with the exception of 1970 when a 67-day strike against General Motors crippled sales. On the production side, the automakers say they produced 6.7 million cars, lowest for any non-strike year since 1961.

A & W Drive-In

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Haesle and their four children came to Pampa 11 years ago from Waushau, Wis., and purchased a A & W franchise here.

"The favorable weather conditions brought us to this part of the country," Haesle said. "We are happy to be a part of Pampa's growing economy," he said.

The A & W Drive In, complete with famous draft root beer and the burger family menu, is located at 1216 Alcock.

Haesle says he has a long list of goals yet to meet in his business.

"We feel that Pampa is comparable with any community in the United States in its friendliness and hospitality," he added.

Being an A & W Drive - In, he said he specializes in root beer — "made of pur herbs and healthful ingredients."

As for the burger family, he said the drive in offers the Papa Burger, the Super Papa Burger and King Burger, the Mama Burger and the baby burger.

The Haesle family purchased the drive in on Jan. 9, 1965 and renovated the premises.

He says the challenges are many, and he will continue to offer the best service possible.

CURTAINMENT COLLEGE STATION, Tex.
(UPI) — Nitrogen fertilizer production in the United States will be reduced about four per cent during the winter because of curtailments of natural gas deliveries to ammonia plants, a Texas marketing specialist says.

Dr. Russell McDonald of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said the 1975 curtailment is almost double that of 1974. Biggest cutbacks in ammonia production will be in the Corn Belt where almost 180,000 tons of nitrogen will be lost due to curtailments in natural gas deliveries to fertilizer plants.

MARRIAGES DECLINE
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri recorded 5,097 marriages in August, compared with 6,574 during the same month in 1974. The Center for Health Statistics said the figure reflected a continuing decline in the Missouri marriage rate. Dissolutions, however, continued to increase, with 2,244 in August compared with 1,764 in August, 1974.

Disney World Salute

An original "pioneer" drives his team of horses down Main Street, U.S.A. in the Walt Disney World salute to America. The bicentennial celebration, "America on Parade," is staged daily at Walt Disney World and Disneyland. The parade includes 50 floats and 150 characters in a larger - than - life observance of America's 200th birthday.

Skiers Swim in Avalanche

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Cross-country skiers, who suddenly discover themselves trapped by tons of snow roaring down a mountainside, might be able to save their lives by resorting to a simple breast-stroke.

"Most people don't realize it, but it's possible sometimes to swim with an avalanche as it goes downhill," said meteorologist Knox Williams.

"It's something like body surfing," he said. "People who have actually done it describe it that way. If you are being carried down head first, you can resort to the breast stroke. If it's feet first, you can act like you're treading water."

The best advice, however, Williams said, is to avoid dangerous areas where avalanches are likely to occur.

Williams, a member of the U.S. Forest Service Avalanche

Warning Center, said snow avalanches have caused 147 deaths in the United States during the last 25 years.

That is an average of six deaths per year. In the past five years, however, the annual death rate has doubled to about 12, and nearly three-fourths of all avalanche victims were recreationists.

The greatest number of deaths in the past quarter century occurred in the 1974-75 season when 22 people were killed, including eight in Colorado. The state of Washington reported six victims, including five in a mountain climbing accident at Mt. St. Helens, while three died in Alaska and two in Wyoming.

"We think the reason for the growing number of deaths is that a larger number of people are taking up skiing and other winter sports," Williams said.

"The growth of such activities — and that includes mountain climbing and snowshoeing — has been phenomenal."

"And as more people go out, they get into steeper and more difficult terrain than ever before," he said. "And that's when they start getting into trouble."

Williams said it is important that people recognize the telltale avalanche signs.

These include the sighting of other fresh avalanches, a groaning sound after a persons skis across an area or cracks in the snow. Persons who discover themselves in an avalanche situation should retrace their steps Williams said.

"Many people don't realize that a short slope could avalanche and kill them," he said. "Most avalanches that kill people are small - ones. And usually the person triggers the avalanche that kills him."

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

Curse His Virtues:

Lord North, the British Prime Minister: "I cannot join in lamenting the death [at Quebec] of American General Richard Montgomery as a public loss. He was brave, he was able, he was humane, he was generous; but still he was only a brave, able, humane, and generous rebel. Curse on his virtues, they've undone his country."

CBers Give Clues

JOURDANTON, Tex. (UPI) — Two Rio Grande Valley men, who accidentally gave away a marijuana trafficking operation by warning of "smokies" on their citizen band radios, were in Atascosa County Jail today awaiting arraignment.

Assistant Police Chief David Bradshaw aid and another Jourdanton officer became suspicious while monitoring their CB's along Texas 16 Monday night.

As an automobile approached, Bradshaw said, someone broadcast, "Look out. Look out. There's smoke."

The officers stopped the car and warned the driver to get a headlight repaired and when he took off again, Bradshaw said the officers heard an "all clear" broadcast.

Later the officers stopped the auto again and corraed a second car they said was carrying nearly 500 pounds of marijuana.

Student Stabs Another in Play

ALTON, Ill. (UPI) — An honor student playing a drug pusher in a high school skit missed a board taped to another student's chest and plunged a knife into the boy's heart.

Ned Neilsson, 16, was reported in critical condition today.

Blaine Bonyng, principal of Alton High School, said Neilsson and four other honor students were filming a skit Saturday at Rocky Fork Park for extra credit in their creative media English class.

Bonyng said the skit was based on a teen-ager's efforts to resist a drug pusher. Bonyng said the students' instructor, who was not present during the filming, was unaware of the contents of the skit and did not know a knife would be used.

Neilsson was lying on the ground with an inch-thick, foot-wide board placed over his chest to blunt the knife that the pusher was to plunge into his chest. Bonyng said the student playing the pusher missed the board and stabbed Neilsson in the heart.

Sheriff's Deputy Pete Baetz said the student felt he had missed and asked Neilsson if he was all right.

"Neilsson replied that he thought he was okay but he didn't feel too good," Baetz said. "He stood up, took three steps and fell to the ground. Others observed the blood flowing from his chest and called an ambulance."

"I don't know why they didn't use a rubber knife," Bonyng said. "We're all pretty upset over it."

The film of the real-life stabbing was confiscated by Madison County sheriff's deputies. Authorities said no charges were planned because the stabbing was accidental.

"Why do we save at Security Federal?"

"Higher earnings with insured safety... and we can get our money when we want it."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, JANUARY 8

Your birthday today: Consistency is your objective this year as you build on past experience toward a richer future. Enterprises begun now must be carefully organized if they are to last and will almost certainly swerve away from present goals by midyear. Relationships thrive but take up more of your time at erratic intervals than is convenient. Today's natives pursue life, have changing moods, seek creative vocations.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: There's no reason to do anything beyond your normal range of action. Whatever you touch should be handled in grand style. Sentimental journeys are happy.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Pull scattered work together into a coherent program, but don't expect help from associates. A fact or object you've been searching for appears from nowhere.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: The enthusiasm you bring to today's experiences turns the tide. Once over lightly will do for lesser routines. Make introductions and organize a cheerful evening.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Keep a close eye on your money. With encouraging news at hand, concentrate on your career and business enterprises. Travel early without making side trips en route.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Emotional aspects surface now. Self-improvement and creative experiments are favored. Partnership ties are subject to tension. Be generous with those who deserve it.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Impulsive moves to perfect the last details of familiar, productive routines upset general progress. Take the time to let things happen in natural sequence.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Long-term ventures come closer to reality. You haven't so much actual work to accomplish now, but that's no reason to dawdle. Finish on schedule. Romance blossoms.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your persuasive powers are strong. In current negotiations, turn past events into beneficial angles. Everyone has a serious side; recognize it in those you love.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Cultivate potential sources of added income. Contact with unfamiliar people and travel in strange places provide interesting circumstances. Proceed with care.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your faith grows as you learn more about yourself and others. Your favorite charity will thank you for items that have outlived their use in your household.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Don't let past problems enter into present decision-making; take the situation as it stands now. Settle early on a simple plan or itinerary and stick with it.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Everyone makes his opinion known. Outsiders are critical. Focus on income-producing jobs. Put on a good show; somebody important is watching.
