Henry Talks Cooperation in Peru

CARABALLEDA, Venezuela (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger flew to Peru today, taking with him a six-point program to increase economic and political cooperation between the United States and Latin America.

Kissinger's U.S. Air Force jet left Simon Bolivar International Airport for Lima at 8:35 a.m. (7:35 EST).

The secretary, flying to Peru on the second-leg of his six-nation Latin American tour, Tuesday described his talks with Venezuelan leaders as "extremely productive and helpful."

But he again criticized Cuba's military intervention in Angola, warning the United States "will not stand idly by" if Havana

Organization of American States — which Peru feels is too dominated by Washington — and even political ideology.

However, U.S.-Peruvian relations have warmed considerably over the past few years and Kissinger's one-day stay in Lima is seen as an endorsement by Washington of the concept of "ideological pluralism," which Peru successfully introduced into the reformed OAS charter and the once strongly anti-Communist Rio Treaty (Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance).

During his 36-hour stay in Venezuela, Kissinger had several lengthy private meetings with President Carlos Andres Perez.

The talks covered such bilateral matters as oil and trade as well as hemispheric and global issues.

Before returning to Washington Feb. 24, Kissinger also will visit Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica and Guatemala.

The six-point policy speech expressed U.S. willingness:

— "To take special cognizance of the distinctive requirements of the more industrialized economies of Latin America and of the region as a whole, in our efforts to build a more equitable international order."

— "To maintain direct assistance to the neediest nations of this hemisphere still oppressed by poverty and natural disaster."

— "To support Latin American regional and subregional efforts to organize for cooperation and integration."

— "To negotiate on the basis of parity and dignity our specific differences with each and every state, both bilaterally, and where appropriate, multilaterally."

— "To enforce our commitment to mutual security, and the Bolivarian idea of regional integrity against those who would seek to undermine solidarity, threaten independence, or export violence."

— "To work to modernize the inter-American system to respond to the needs of our times, to give direction to our common actions."

Gardeners, farmers and green lawn fans Tuesday were eagerly cloud watching in hopes some much-sought rain would fall in Gray County.

Then into The News office walks the local water man Felix Ryals who announced that it was raining, but it was a verda rain.

This, Felix patiently explained to us novices, meant that the rain was evaporating before it hit the ground because the air was so dry.

"You have to run the windshield wipers but your tires don't get wet," he explained.

Instantly The News's parttime farm editor, Thom Marshall, diagnosed the farmer's current problem. It wasn't that he was lacking moisture, it was just that he was planting his crops too low.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce surveyed its members on state affairs issues and reported that an overwhelming majority believe state government spending can be cut or held to a level that will not require new taxes from the next state legislature.

Other questions showed that they believe state employees should not be appointed to state advisory or policy making boards by the Governor and local schools and higher education are not doing an adequate job of teaching the benefits of the private free enterprise system over other forms of government.

"I live on Social Security and I'm trying to live without asking for help," said a gray-haired woman who came to The News office armed with her natural gas receipts for the last five months.

The stubs showed that her gas use had exactly doubled each month in the last three months, from 8 mcf to 16 mcf to 32 mcf.

"I sit in the front room with sweaters and coats on. The water froze up in the kitchen because I didn't have the heat on," she said. Her oven, she said, is broken and she keeps only the pilot light on in her heater.

"The 32 mcf cost her $44. "Oh no, I'm not going to let it get me down," she said as she left the office. "We only go around once."

It is estimated to take $5.3 million to run the Pampa school system this year. Of that amount, about $2,169,900 of that comes from local taxes on property.

Most of the remaining $3.1 million comes from taxes, too, like income tax and motor fuel tax. The state and Uncle Sam passes these funds out.

A few years ago in Amarillo, an oriental child became a naturalized citizen. As soon as the ceremony was over, she ran over to a mirror and excitedly peered at herself.

"But what about my hair and my eyes?" she asked. She thought naturalization would make her blue eyed and blonde headed like her American sisters.

The first woman appointed to the position has taken her seat on the hospital board serving the two Gray county hospitals. She's Suzie Wilkinson.

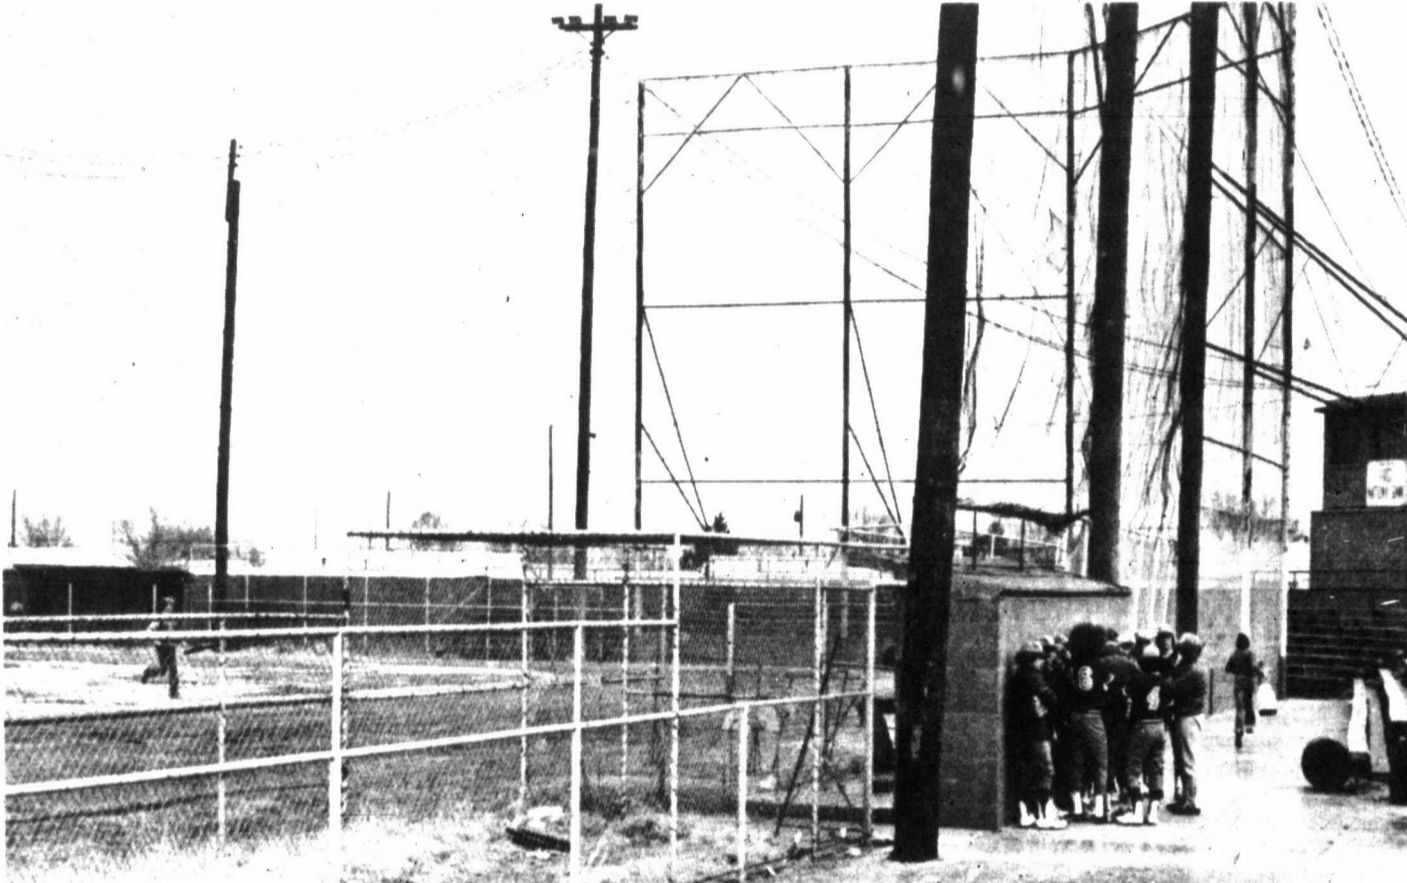

Another Pampa woman, Mrs. E.E. Shelhamer, serves on the High Plains Baptist Hospital board.

A Wellington woman has been appointed to the board of regents for West Texas State University and Louisiana has its first woman dog catcher, who won the job from a field of 12 men.

The Internal Revenue Service has assured us in a news release that if you send your taxes off for a refund in January or February, they'll send you a check in four or five weeks.

Americans paid more taxes than ever to their states last fiscal year but state officials say tax revenues failed to keep up with inflation.

In Alaska tax revenues increased almost 64 per cent.

Called on Account of Rain

Tuesday's rain was beneficial to area farmers but not a welcome sight to everybody. The Pampa High baseball team took cover from the rain behind a dugout at Optimist Park and waited for the rain to subside. It finally did, leaving behind a muddy field and 25 soaked uniforms. (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

US Cancels India Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has canceled a congressionally approved $76 million economic aid program for India for the current fiscal year due to strained relations between the two countries, a State Department spokesman said today.

In addition, the spokesman said, discussions have been postponed until September on another $75 million in aid for India in fiscal 1977, which begins next Oct. 1.

"This decision was made as a result of a general review of the currently strained U. S. Indian relationship," an official said.

The decision to scrub the current fiscal 1976 program and to defer talks on proposed 1977 aid was taken about three weeks ago, officials said.

The $75 million being withheld is for general economic aid, but officials said the move will not stop food assistance to India.

Such food help includes long-term, low-interest credits enabling India to buy more than $100 million in U.S. grain in the current fiscal year alone.

One State Department official said the economic aid cutoff was not prompted by any single incident with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government, but because of a series of incidents beginning last spring.

"This action has not been taken in the spirit of rewarding our friends and punishing our enemies," he said. "It is simply that we did not feel the program should go forward in present circumstances."

Whatever the unofficial explanations, the move indicated anger over continued private and governmental criticism of the United States, especially Mrs. Gandhi's charges last year that actions by U.S. "agents" prompted her to virtually seize personal control of India's government.

Other irritations have been her imposition of censorship of domestic and foreign news media, the expulsion of U.S. reporters who refused to submit to the censorship, the imprisonment of her critics and a general deterioration in the democratic process in India.

India is known to have been anxious to receive the $75 million already approved by congress and to negotiate a new $75 million program for fiscal 1977.

Ford Jabs at Reagan On National Television

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the first primary only a week away, President Ford played a political trump card on national television — arguing Ronald Reagan is too far to the right to get elected president.

Ford stopped short Tuesday night of predicting he would beat Reagan in New Hampshire next Tuesday or in their next major clash in Florida three weeks later but said, "I will do very well" in those races.

"I think Governor Reagan is to the right of me philosophically ... I believe that anyone to the right of me, Democrat or Republican, can't win a national election," he told a news conference.

Later, however, he said, "Fundamentally, I don't think there are any philosophical differences ... I think he is to the right of me in a pragmatic and practical way."

Ford also announced a plan to bring the nation's intelligence activities under closer supervision. He said he will ask Congress to outlaw the use of political assassination as an instrument of foreign policy and to make it illegal for government employees to leak secrets.

The President's remarks about Reagan were not volunteered, but came in response to reporters' questions about the two men's campaigns to win the Republican presidential nomination.

He asserted that his administration had gotten a "good, effective handle" on rising food prices and denounced a $6.2 billion public works bill passed by the Democratic Congress as "a hoax" and a "campaign year document."

The House, which passed the bill 321-80, is to vote Thursday on overriding Ford's veto. Backers say it will create 600,000 jobs for the unemployed.

Ford said if the veto is permitted to stand, he would support a $750 million Republican substitute measure, which would funnel jobs funds to localities with unemployment over 8 per cent.

Ford's proposed changes in monitoring intelligence activities were welcomed as a starting point for reform by Democrats and Republicans on congressional panels which revealed assassination plots against five foreign leaders and uncovered other disclosures.

But Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, expressed misgivings.

"It seems to me that the emphasis of his remarks is largely in preserving all of the secrets in the executive branch and very little on guaranteeing a lack of any further abuses," Pike said.

Ford put all intelligence operations under the management of George Bush, his newly installed director of Central Intelligence.

The President named former ambassador Robert D. Murphy, who engaged in secret diplomatic operations in World War II, to head a new oversight board intended to guard against abuses. Other members are Stephen Ailes, a former secretary of the Army and economist Leo Cherne.

Two Trains Collide

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — An express rumbled into the rear of a passenger train stalled on the tracks near Alexandria Tuesday night, killing 13 persons and injuring more than 100 others, an interior ministry spokesman said today.

The spokesman said 113 persons were injured, 64 seriously enough to require hospitalization.

Railway and police sources said darkness and failure to warn the engineer of the oncoming express about the breakdown of the first train's engine were responsible for the collision near the Mediterranean port city of Alexandria.

Dozens of ambulances ferried casualties to hospitals at the port city, Egypt's second largest, and to Beheira province, which lies to the south.

Railway sources said the engineer of the express apparently was not warned of the stalled train because of "a human error" and rammed it from the rear.

"The driver of the express was unable to see the stalled train in time because of darkness and a bend in the tracks at that point," a railway police official said.

The accident occurred shortly after 10 p.m. (3 p.m. EST) Tuesday night about 15 miles southeast of Alexandria and a few miles north of the Nile Delta textile manufacturing center of Kafr el-Dawar.

Both trains were bound for Alexandria from Cairo.

The sources said the first train left Cairo at 6 p.m. (11 a.m. EST), but its engine stalled shortly after leaving Kafr el-Dawar.

The other, a seven-car express, left Cairo an hour later, taking the same route.

The crash smashed the three rear cars of the stalled train and knocked the two front cars of the express from the track.

PRPC Hearing Slated For Court on Thursday

By TEX DEWEESE
Pampa News Staff

A pre-trial hearing on pleadings in the lawsuit filed by nearly a score of Texas Panhandle residents against the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission is on the docket Thursday in 47th District Court at Amarillo.

The suit originally filed by 16 area residents names mayors, city managers and city commissioners in six cities, along with county judges and county commissioners in eight Panhandle counties as defendants. It asks that they be restrained from supporting the PRPC with tax funds.

The suit also asks Judge Bryan Poff in 47th District Court to declare the law creating the PRPC unconstitutional.

Jack Skelly of Pampa is listed as one of the citizen's group plaintiffs.

Pampa Mayor R.D.

Wilkerson, Mack Wofford, city manager, and Joe Curtis, Leo Braswell, Linden Shepherd and Ray Thompson, city commissioners, are among the defendants along with County Judge Don Cain and Gray County's four commissioners.

None of the city or county officials has been notified to appear in court Thursday. They, as well as officials of the other cities and counties involved, will be represented by PRPC counsel in Thursday's court hearing.

The complete list of defendants in the lawsuit includes elected officials of Borger, Hereford, Spearman, Amarillo, Farwell, Canyon, Perryton and Shamrock and the counties of Potter, Randall, Farmer, Gray, Wheeler and Deaf Smith. George Louder, PRPC executive director, also is a defendant.

The plaintiff citizens charge that contributions from the cities and counties to the PRPC are "unauthorized and illegal use of money generated through state tax laws."

The plaintiffs also contend that the State of Texas has made additional contributions to PRPC of money generated by taxes and that financial support comes "solely from contributions made by various political subdivisions of government from the United States of America to the various cities and counties designated herein."

The PRPC charges cities and counties annual dues of four cents per capita. Judge Don Cain said Gray County paid dues amounting to $1,077 last year. Pampa's bill for 1976 dues is $969.04.

Special PRPC members such as school districts, hospital districts and soil and water conservation districts pay $50 annually.

Drug May Block Craving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Devices to release drugs slowly into the body to block a narcotic addict's craving for heroin will be ready for human testing within a year, the National Institute on Drug Abuse said today.

So-called narcotic antagonist drugs have themselves been tested among addicts. The leading contender is a drug called naltrexone, which is in the third of three phases of human tests.

But what has been lacking is a device to release it into the body at intervals to provide long-lasting or sustained effects. The antagonist blocks the heroin "high" and makes it pleasureless to the addict.

Research is developing ways to release the antagonists bit by bit over a period of time mechanically, chemically or by implanted discs with timed release capacity.

"As a result of these efforts to date, two or possibly three candidates are being readied for clinical trials," said Robert Willette of the institute's research division, in a report on narcotic antagonists made available today.

"It is our hope to be able to evaluate at least one of these devices in man within a year," he said.

Metadone is used in some drug treatment programs, but one problem with this synthetic narcotic is that it also is addictive.

Naltrexone in oral doses provides adequate blocking of heroin's effects for at least 48 hours, or up to 72 hours in certain individuals, the report said. But this is not long enough between doses to help addicts become dissociated from drug-taking behavior, it said.

The goal is development of a release system that allows a week, a month or even longer between dosages.

Efforts to achieve adequate antagonist release systems were launched in the early 1970s by the New York City Health Department and the institute's forerunner, the Agency on Drug Abuse Treatment, Prevention and Research.

Bush To Be CIA Czar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has made CIA Director George Bush America's intelligence czar and given him control over the money, manpower and resources used by all the nation's cloak and dagger agencies.

As chairman of the Committee on Foreign Intelligence announced by Ford Tuesday night on national television, Bush will leave day-to-day operations of the CIA to a deputy and administer all the agencies, administration officials said.

They said the various Defense Department and other intelligence agencies will run their own day-to-day operations, but Bush will control them by their purse strings.

According to the officials, Bush will carry out and manage the intelligence policy and programs ordered by the President and the National Security Council. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen suggested "coordinator" better than czar describes Bush's post.

In announcing what he called the "first major reorganization" of the U.S. intelligence network since 1947, Ford told a Tuesday night news conference: — An Oversight Board of three "distinguished citizens" will monitor all foreign intelligence operations and tell the president and the attorney general of any abuses. Ford named retired diplomat Robert D. Murphy, former Army Secretary Stephen Ailes and economist-sculptor Leo Cherne to the watchdog body.

— Ford will seek to make it a federal crime for anyone in government to leak security matters.

— He is issuing "legally binding charters" protecting U.S. citizens from actions by intelligence agencies.

— The President will support a law banning the cloak and dagger agencies from assassination attempts on foreign leaders.

surveillance against U.S. citizens in their battle against foreign spies.

Ford left much unsaid, the officials reported. His decisions also include, according to the officials:

— Wiping out the spaghetti maze of inter-agency liaison and action groups.

— Bush will monitor all agencies to make sure their work is worth the expense. For example, he might find an intelligence group is collecting information no longer needed.

The President, according to aides, wanted both to cure the abuses of the past and insure that America would never again suffer another Pearl Harbor surprise attack.

'Cuckoo's Nest' Wins Most Oscar Nominations

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won more Academy Award nominations than any other film this year, has given Jack Nicholson his fifth shot at an Oscar.

Nicholson's competition for the best actor award includes Al Pacino of "Dog Day Afternoon," a four-time nominee but, like Nicholson, never a winner.

A best actress nomination for two-time winner Glenda Jackson for her performance in "Hedda" gave her a chance to join Ingrid Bergman and Katharine Hepburn as the only three-Oscar actresses.

This is the fourth time Nicholson has been nominated for best actor, and the third time for Pacino. Each also had a nomination for best supporting actor.

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" collected nine nominations, including best movie, best director, best supporting actor and a best actress nomination for Louise Fletcher, who played the cold-blooded Nurse Ratched.

Second with seven nominations was "Barry Lyndon," Stanley Kubrick's stately study of a social climbing rogue. Others named for best film were "Dog Day Afternoon," "Nashville" and "Jaws," which has made more money than any other movie.

Facing Fletcher and Miss Jackson for the best actress Oscar are Ann-Margret for "Tommy," Isabel Adjani, "The Story of Adele H.," and Carol Kane, "Hester Street."

The other nominees for best actor were Walter Matthau for "The Sunshine Boys," Maximilian Schell, "The Man in the Glass Booth," and James Whitmore, "Give 'em Hell, Harry."

The only previous winners among the men were Matthau, who took a best supporting Oscar in 1971 for "Fortune Cookie," and Schell, named best actor in 1961 for "Judgment at Nuremberg."

"Dog Day Afternoon" won six nominations. "Funny Lady" and "Nashville" five each, and four apiece went to "Jaws."

"The Man Who Would Be King," "Shampoo" and "The Sunshine Boys."

Other nominations: Best supporting actor — George Burns, "The Sunshine Boys," Brad Dourif, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," Burgess Meredith, "Day of the Locust," Chris Sarandon, "Dog Day Afternoon," and Jack Warden, "Shampoo."

Best supporting actress — Ronee Blakely and Lily Tomlin, "Nashville," Lee Grant, "Shampoo," Brenda Vaccaro, "Once is not Enough," and Sylvia Miles, "Farewell My Lovely."

Best director — Milos Forman, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," Federico Fellini, "Amarcord," Stanley Kubrick, "Barry Lyndon," Sidney Lumet, "Dog Day Afternoon," and Robert Altman, "Nashville."

Kubrick and Fellini both were nominated for the fourth time.

The awards will be announced at the annual presentation ceremony March 29.

Arkansas Tornado Kills Two

WILMOT, Ark. (UPI) — A tornado cut through two Southeast Arkansas counties Tuesday night, killing two persons and injuring between 26 and 50.

Killed were Stella Mae Adkins, 37, of Parkdale and Eddie Anderson, 13, of Wilmot.

A spokesman for the state Office of Emergency Services said he had an unconfirmed report of a third fatality.

State Police said 26 were injured in the tornado, and the ESO spokesman said today he had reports of 50 injured but said that was not an official figure. State police said 16 of the injured were treated and released at a Lake Village hospital.

Damage was confined mostly to private property and was expected to run at least $200,000.

Lt. Gov. Joe Purcell, acting governor since Gov. David H. Pryor was out of state, and representatives of the Emergency Services Office planned a flight over the damage area.

"We will have a better idea of the damage after the flight," the ESO spokesman said. He said there was a rough estimate that 50 to 60 homes were damaged.

The National Guard Armory at Lake Village was opened to serve as a food service and housing center, authorities said.

"We think the people are being taken care of," the ESO spokesman said. "The big problem now is trying to get the thing tied together to determine whether there is a need for federal assistance."

A severe thunderstorm that may have included a tornado damaged parts of south Little Rock and the state fairgrounds late Tuesday afternoon. No one was injured. A 25-foot section of roof from an enclosure at the top of Barton Coliseum was ripped off and more roof and window damage was reported to other fair buildings.

Ashley and Chicot counties were the hardest hit areas in Southeast Arkansas. The ESO spokesman said the tornado dipped up and down for 30 miles in Chicot County.

"Our radar showed they had had thunderstorms, rain and lightning for about three hours before the tornado hit," said Little Rock National Weather Service spokesman Dee McCrary.

"In that general area we had reports of golf-ball size hail and the wind was probably between 25 to 30 miles per hour."

Authorities said at least 30 persons were injured — many of whom were hospitalized at Lake Village.

"Wilmot was the hardest hit area," said Jerry Reinhold, state police public information officer.

The state police said damage to the three cities had preliminarily been set between $200,000 and $250,000.

"It (the damage) was all on the edge of the cities. The tornado didn't hit any of them squarely," said John Giles, coordinator at the scene for the office of emergency services of Ashley County.

Reinhold said rescue efforts were hampered by communications troubles in state police lines and by failure of telephone service into much of southeast Arkansas because of fallen lines.

Later police said virtually all telephone and power lines into the southeast Arkansas area had been knocked down by the storm, making communications all but impossible.

The weather service said it was unusual for a tornado to strike so early in the year, but said the weather recently had been unusual throughout the state.

"It's been kind of strange," McCrary said. "It's just like spring has come early. For the past several days temperatures have been a lot higher than normal."

The storm was unusual too, we almost never have severe thunderstorms like this early in the year."

Analysts Say Nixon Trip Planned To Embarrass Ford

HONG KONG (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon arrives in Peking Saturday for a private visit that some diplomatic analysts say may have been timed by the Chinese to embarrass President Ford just before the New Hampshire primary.

China is believed to be preparing a lavish welcome for what some diplomats describe as Nixon's "coming out party."

The Chinese have not indicated what kind of reception the president can expect. But there was little doubt it will be much more impressive than the cool and stiffly formal greeting he received when he landed at Peking Airport four years ago.

The only official comment from China came in a brief announcement Feb. 6, saying Nixon had been invited by the Chinese government to revisit China on the fourth anniversary of his first trip.

That "historic visit" and the joint communique issued in Shanghai at its completion "have played a significant role in improving Sino-U.S. relations," the announcement said.

Some diplomatic analysts specializing in Chinese affairs question the motives behind the Chinese invitation.

They believe the Chinese issued the invitation at this time to express their displeasure with Nixon's successor, President Gerald Ford.

Although the timing of the trip — on the fourth anniversary of Nixon's first visit — is logical, there is considerable suspicion about it, particularly in Peking.

Most Peking-based sources believe the Chinese were well aware of the fact that Nixon's arrival is just before the important New Hampshire presidential primary election. They also are aware of the embarrassment, if not political damage, it could cause Ford.

China's pique is caused mainly by American efforts to promote detente with the Soviet Union. This was stated clearly when Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger visited Peking last December.

Bob Hope received an honorary Oscar in 1959 as the winner of the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian award.

Hearst Credibility Questioned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, her "credibility" questioned by the judge, says she joined the Symbionese Liberation Army two weeks before she took part in a bank robbery "so I could stay alive."

The pale, gaunt newspaper heiress insists she faked her conversion to terrorism and radical politics because her kidnapers told her she must "fight or die."

But while Miss Hearst told her story, U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter issued an order indicating he didn't believe her testimony last week that she was coerced into making confessions to the robbery for which she is on trial.

The judge said her "version of the facts, if true, would require the conclusion that her confession was involuntary." But he said a preponderance of evidence shows the admissions were voluntary.

Miss Hearst, scheduled to return to the stand today, said she didn't know if her gun was loaded and that she went into the bank with a warning she would be killed if she "messed up."

She spent the day Tuesday telling the jury of seven women and five men that two of her male captors virtually raped her in a tiny closet about a month after her kidnapping to indoctrinate her in SLA sexual customs.

The defendant, faltering and gulping for breath, said she was forced into sexual intercourse with Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze, the black ex-convict who led the SLA, and William Wolfe.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey told reporters there were other incidents of sexual assault but he did not intend to introduce them in evidence unless the prosecution brought them up.

Miss Hearst said she was kept blindfolded in closets at two hideouts for almost two months, getting out only to go to the bathroom and to take weekly baths — with a masked SLA member watching. She said she was moved from one "safe house" to the other in a garbage can.

She said DeFreeze told her the kidnapers were "thinking about giving me a decision of — well, he said, fight or die, that I would either have to stay with them and join up with them, or I'd be killed and that I better start thinking about it."

Carter's formal order explained his decision last week that the defendant "voluntarily" made recordings and statements that she took part willingly in the April 15, 1974, robbery of a Hibernia Bank in San Francisco.

"The court has determined that the defendant's version of the facts, if true, would require the conclusion that her confession is 'involuntary,'" the judge wrote.

"By a preponderance of evidence, however, the court finds that the government has carried its burden of showing that the defendant's statements — written, tape, recorded, and made orally to Tom Matthews — were voluntary."

With the jury absent, Miss Hearst testified last week she made the statements because she feared her kidnapers would kill her.

"The court's finding is simply that when the testimony of the defendant is balanced against that of the government's key witnesses on this matter, Tom Matthews and Anthony Shepard, neither of whom had any apparent motive for failing to tell the truth, it appears more likely than not that the statements in issue were voluntary," the judge said.

Shepard was the clerk at a Los Angeles sporting goods store shot up by Miss Hearst on May 16, 1974, to rescue SLA member William Harris. Matthews, a high school student, was kidnaped after that incident and spent 11 hours with Harris, his wife Emily and Miss Hearst, who told him she was a willing participant in the bank robbery.

Labor Leader To Be Tried

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — A labor leader will be tried April 5 for manslaughter in the killing of a worker during a confrontation between two rival unions.

Donald Lovett, business manager of the Southwest Louisiana Building and Construction Trades Council, is charged with manslaughter and conspiracy to damage property. Lovett's trial date was announced Monday by District Attorney Frank Salter.

Lovett will be the first of 14 men to stand trial for the Jan. 15 labor violence.

The charges grew out of an attack on members of the independent American Federation of Unions who were working on a construction project at Jupiter Chemical Co. Lovett heads a trade council composed of AFL-CIO unions which protested AFU wage scales and job assignments before the attack.

Authorities said a mob of over 100 men, made up of AFL-CIO members, attacked the AFU workers.

Members of at least two of the unions in the trades council Tuesday complained they were pressured to contribute to a defense fund for Lovett and the others defendants. They said the request for contributions carried an implied threat they would lose work if they refused.

The unions were Carpenters Local 953 and Laborers Local 207.

"Your name is put on a list along with the amount of cash you give," one member told the Lake Charles American Press. "If there's no money next to your name, it is understood you won't continue to work."

Officials of both locals denied they pressured workers to contribute.

"If a man wants to give a voluntary contribution, that's his business," said Freeman Lavergne, business agent of local 207. "But we've never told anybody to give anything, unless somebody who has no authority has told them that."

"I don't know anything of that nature going on," said Andy Anderson, assistant business agent of local 953. "If it is going on, I don't believe it would be with the approval of our union."

A 19th century New Jersey law that prohibits sexual intercourse between unmarried people is still enforced when women seek welfare payments for illegitimate children.

Cash Lost From Car

The Pampa Police Department investigated one theft, one vandalism complaint and worked one three-car accident Tuesday.

Vickie Hoover of 606 Lowry told police that she had placed $103 in the glove compartment of her car which was parked on Harvester near the Pampa High School. The car was locked. When she returned, the vehicle was still locked, but the money was missing.

The three-car accident at the intersection of Barnes and Frederic involved vehicles driven by Marvin Dale Ferris, L.G. Moss and Melvin W. Stephens, all of Pampa.

The first car, traveling north on Barnes, ran a stop light at Barnes and Frederic, according to police reports. It was struck by a second car which was traveling west on Frederic. This collision caused the first vehicle to spin around and hit a third car traveling south on Barnes.

Other police work included investigation of a warehouse break-in reported by Finis Gee of 1017 Love. Nothing had been taken from the warehouse.

Activity Hours Told

The free activity hours of the Youth Center will be reduced this week because of the 12th annual Top-O' Texas Basketball Tournament.

Regular hours for the center are 4 - 10 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; 1-5 p.m. Saturdays; 2-5 p.m. Sundays. Swimming is weekdays from 7 - 9:30 p.m., Saturdays, 1 - 4:30 p.m. and Sundays 2 - 4:30 p.m.

The Dolphin Swim Team will workout daily from 4:15 till 7:00 p.m. and persons interested in joining the AAU swim club in competitive swimming are invited to participate during these times.

Calico Capers Square Dance Club meets Saturday nights, from 8 - 11 p.m. They dance to an out-of-town caller each week in the recreation hall. The public is invited.

The winter basketball leagues for men and women have ended.

In the women's division Shoenaill Supply Co. took first with a perfect 9 - 0 mark followed by Lefors at 6 - 3, First Baptist Church 2 - 7 and M. D. Snider 1 - 8. In the men's division Holtman Trucks won with an 8 - 1 record followed by Spearman 7 - 2, Celanese 6 - 3, Pampa News 6 - 3, P. O. Texaco 5 - 4, Malcolm Hinkle 5 - 4, Dorchester Gas Co. 3 - 6, First National Bank 2 - 7, First Baptist Church 2 - 7 and Dan Carter's 66ers 1 - 8.

Sprinkle Just Not Enough

The only way one can keep happy on the farm is to keep hoping... Fred Haiduk

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The rains came — from a sprinkle to .20 inch in Gray county — and farmers were pleased, but it wasn't enough.

A total of .27 inch has been recorded in Pampa this year with .13 inch falling Tuesday. Earlier in the month a total of .14 inch was reported.

Darrell Sehorn, official observer with the U.S. Weather Service and KGRO weather, said only a trace fell in January.

He offered little hope for additional moisture in the near future.

"We'll have a few more cold fronts, but this year will go down as a mild winter," he predicted.

Charles Gatlin, who lives 25 miles east of here, said only a trace fell there.

"We need rain but we don't know how to get it."

The largest amount of moisture fell at Skellytown Tuesday night — a total of .20 inch was reported by Alvin Kalka. "It was fantastic, but not enough," he said.

Mrs. Leon Daugherty, who lives five miles north, said .10 inch fell there.

"We're happy for what we got. It smelled so good," she said.

Mrs. Curtis Schaffer who lives south of town said they received "a good sprinkle."

"We would love to have some top moisture," she added.

Fred Haiduk, who lives 18 miles southwest, said his gauge showed only .05.

"It is discouraging," he said. "But the only way one can keep happy on the farm is to keep hoping."

Paul Eakin of 14 miles southwest reported only a sprinkle.

"It is getting dry all over. We're back in the fields with the tractors running this morning," he said.

He described the shower as "a tease — just enough to make things smell good."

Charlie Jordan of Laketon reported only a sprinkle.

"And we sure could use some more moisture," he emphasized.

Joe Van Zandt, Gray County Extension Agent, commented that "the rain was good, but not enough."

Conditions throughout the county are dry, he added.

Lecturer Tells Facts About First Ladies

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

Colorado lecturer Paula Bishop revealed little-known facts about United States' Presidents and First Ladies to a capacity dinner audience at the M.K. Brown Heritage Room Tuesday evening.

Ms. Bishop was featured speaker at the February meeting of the Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club and told listeners "Tattle Tales About the First Ladies."

"If we had a woman president, she could have done as good a job as some of the men," Ms. Bishop said.

She related stories of Rachel Jackson, the First Lady who was accused of being a bigamist and of Bess Truman who was accused by the Morton Salt Company of trying to ruin an industry when it was learned her doctors had placed her on a salt-free diet.

The program highlighted only a handful of the First Ladies, beginning with Betty Ford. Ms. Bishop said the Fords signed a marriage contract before their wedding — a contract which she said is a White House first.

The contract, still honored, had only three provisions, Ms. Bishop said. First, the couple agreed not to change one another. Second stipulation was to have four children and last, decision — making power would be divided 75-25, with the 75 vote changing hands with each decision.

Ms. Bishop said Betty Ford's influence on her husband's presidency has not diminished and cited instances of Betty editing the President's speeches.

"If Richard (Nixon) had let Pat look over his notes, there might not have been so many deletions in those tapes," Ms. Bishop said.

Eleanor Roosevelt tops Ms. Bishop's list of First Ladies who made the greatest contributions to their husband's administrations.

Club members were also asked at the meeting to vote for three new directors.

Next meeting of the Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club will be April 9 in the Coronado Inn.

Soviet-backed Regime Gains

By United Press International
Britain today joined more than 60 nations in recognizing Angola's Soviet-backed regime as the legitimate government in the former Portuguese colony.

An official British announcement said "the government are satisfied, taking into account recent developments that their normal criteria for recognition have been met."

PIF Agrees To Participate In Program

Directors of the Pampa Industrial Foundation Tuesday approved participation in the "This Is West Texas" program sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The local PIF agreed to furnish WTCC with 500 Pampa industrial brochures to be included with industrial and vacation kits mailed by the regional chamber to tourists inquiring about West Texas.

PIF directors also voted to support Pampa's Community Day Care Center with a contribution of $100 a month toward operating expenses.

announcement with a call to Cuba and South Africa to withdraw their troops from the war-battered nation.

Sweden, The Netherlands, Denmark and Norway also recognized the Soviet-supported Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, bringing the total number of nations extending recognition to 63, including 38 from Africa.

John Trattner, a State Department spokesman, said the United States still considers the military situation in Angola uncertain.

"I do not think it has been established who is in charge or who controls the situation on the ground in Angola and while Cuban forces supported by Soviet arms are still fighting there, I do not think it is appropriate for that (recognition) to be considered," he said.

Pro-Western forces have retreated into the bush for a planned guerrilla campaign against the Popular Movement.

In New York, NBC reported Tuesday five American mercenaries were missing and believed killed in northern Angola in a battle with a Marxist tank force.

NBC correspondent Neal Davis said he learned of the killings from an American survivor of the battle, Dave Bufkin, who arrived in Kinshasa, Zaire Tuesday. Bufkin said he recruited the five missing mercenaries.

In Johannesburg Tuesday, South Africa warned the Cuban-led Popular Movement forces against crossing into South West Africa (Namibia).

IRA Bombs Three Stores

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Security forces fear Belfast housewives could bring "death home in a shopping bag" by inadvertently purchasing Irish Republican Army fire-bombs disguised as store merchandise.

IRA bombers blew up two Belfast department stores in a sudden daylight attack Tuesday. A third bomb exploded in a general store in Castlewells, 30 miles south of the capital. No casualties were reported in any of the incidents.

Eleven persons have died in a surge of IRA bombings, shootings and rioting in Northern Ireland, England and the Irish Republic since the death of IRA hunger striker Frank Stagg last Thursday.

Stagg's body was expected to be flown from England to Dublin today for burial, a family friend said. But police declined to confirm the arrangements or give any details of the flight.

Authorities said 15 of 31 bombing attacks in the Stagg revenge offensive have come from incendiary blasts, many believed caused by IRA women stocking store shelves with fire-bombs crammed inside the containers of ordinary purchase items.

Sadly, not only does the housewife have to worry about dodging bombs while shopping, she cannot even be sure on her return that she has not brought death home in a shopping bag, a senior army officer said.

Police issued their warning to shoppers after a man who bought a can of paint in Lisburn, eight miles from Belfast, found a one-pound incendiary bomb inside the container.

A police spokesman said the IRA two weeks ago took responsibility for planting six fire-bombs in Lisburn stores. Four of them exploded and "if there were six bombs, we have accounted for only five."

"Clearly we must be alert to the danger that someone somewhere may still have a potentially lethal tin of paint or other similar container," he said.

Police said three IRA gunmen invaded a department store in downtown Belfast Tuesday, planted a fire bomb, then yelled a warning to store patrons and employees. A few doors away they repeated the operation and escaped in a car, whole block in flames within the hour.

The contractors' leaders urged them to keep their shops closed today and to try to get other operating factories into closing as well.

Schwedock's organization and the United Better Dress Manufacturers Association, Inc. are representing the dress manufacturers, known in the business as contractors, in a dispute with two organizations representing "jobbers" — the National Dress Manufacturers Association, the Popular Price Dress Manufacturers Group and the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers Association.

Arnold Schwedock, executive director of the Popular Price Dress Contractors Association, said that "90 per cent, or 450 out of a total of 500 shops" in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut were shut down Tuesday, leaving some 30,000 ILGWU members out of work.

Democrats in Congress currently lean toward changes in the commission's procedures and there is some feeling the court would give them another 30-day extension if necessary to enact a new bill.

It is not true that the FEC would go out of business without action. It could continue to issue guidelines, but not regulations, and could publish violations. The major difference would be that its purse would snap shut — it would no longer have authority to dispense matching federal funds to money-hungry contenders.

In other developments: — Reagan let the deadline go by to register in Pennsylvania's April 27 GOP primary, leaving Ford with no opposition there.

All five Democrats in the New Hampshire race are battling to make a dent in that state's huge undecided vote there, estimated at between 40 and 60 per cent with only a week to go.

USDA Sets Standby Plan For Grain Export Inspection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials have quietly set up a standby plan to prevent a possible shutdown of grain exports through Baton Rouge, La., it was learned today.

The possibility of a crisis at Baton Rouge arose recently when the department announced a proposal designed to revoke the grain inspection license of the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission because three Commission employees were indicted on charges of issuing false inspection certificates and accepting bribes.

The commission, a state agency, is the only inspection agency licensed for the Baton Rouge port. If its license is revoked, there would be no private or state group available to perform the inspections needed to clear grain for export, and existing law forbids the Agriculture Department to do the job itself.

Agriculture sources, however, said they had developed a contingency plan to avert a shutdown of the port. If the commission's license is lifted, they said the New Orleans Board of Trade has agreed to provide inspectors for service at Baton Rouge until permanent new arrangements can be made.

Administration officials, meanwhile, are urging Congress to act on emergency legislation which would give the Agriculture Department power to step in with temporary federal inspectors in cases where it lifts the license of the only private or state inspection agency in any area.

House Agriculture Committee aides said committee chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., is studying the proposal but has not yet decided the interim inspection plan should be given priority treatment ahead of other proposals in pending general inspection reform bills.

In the Baton Rouge case, meanwhile, officials said the Agriculture Department is expected to agree to a Port Commission request to delay a final decision on the agency's license until early April when several of the indicted employees are expected to come to trial.

President Ford has proved Teddy Roosevelt's description of the White House as a "bully pulpit" — using the opportunity of free national television on all three networks to take some sharp political jabs at his challenger, Ronald Reagan.

His less privileged colleagues on the campaign trail were reaching the people the hard way — door to door in New Hampshire, whose first in the nation primary is now less than a week away, or in statements, press releases and speeches in early primary states to vastly smaller audiences than Ford's.

In Washington, members of Congress sought a way to keep the Federal Election Commission fully operational in the face of a Supreme Court deadline on some of its functions, including that of dispensing matching federal campaign funds.

Ford volunteered no political statements in his televised news conference Tuesday night. But he was not reluctant to answer fully any questions dealing with his fight to win the GOP presidential nomination for a term of his own.

The Federal Communications Commission has ruled that presidential news conferences are legitimate news events excluded from the rule requiring equal time for opposition candidates.

He announced wide-ranging proposed reforms of the U.S. intelligence agencies, but allowed questions on any subject and several reporters asked about his campaign.

Among other things, he said nobody is his right — either Democrat or Republican — could win the presidency, and he expects to "do well" in both New Hampshire and Florida.

Ford has proposed meeting the court's objections to the FEC by simply reappointing the present six members to serve through this year. But

Workers Locked Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some 30,000 members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union have been locked out of their jobs as the result of a dispute between two management groups over who will pay the increases provided in the union's new contract.

Dr. Lamb

Exercise helps varicose veins

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DIAR DR. LAMB — Would you please let me know if playing tennis, dancing or strenuous exercise can be harmful if one has varicose veins. I will be anxiously awaiting your answer, along with two of my friends who also have varicose veins.

DEAR READER — No, it will not. If you just have dilated or varicose veins over the outside of the leg and the veins deep inside your leg muscles that you can't see are all right, the exercise will actually help. As you exercise, the venous blood in the legs is milked out of the leg by a massaging action of the contracting leg muscles.

The superficial veins drain into the deeper veins and emptying the deep veins helps drain the superficial ones.

If the superficial veins are all that are involved you will not have any trouble with significant ankle swelling. When the deep veins are also involved you will have persistent swelling of the involved leg.

The best thing you can do short of surgery for removal of varicose veins is to prevent further dilation of the veins. To do this you need to avoid prolonged standing without moving, and to wear some external support hose. The external pressure helps prevent distention of the veins.

Varicose veins develop because of overdistention. The veins have valves inside them to help move the blood uphill back to the heart. When the veins are overstretched the valves no longer meet and the blood leaks downhill distending the vein and you see the varicose vein. I think it is a good idea for women to wear support hose of some type during pregnancy as the pressure on the deep veins in the pelvis contribute to overstretching and later varicose veins. This is particularly important to women who have a family history of varicose veins.

If you have swelling of your ankles with your varicose veins then go ahead and exercise but you might want to wear some support hose while doing it.

For more information on varicose veins send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 5-8. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had my thyroid partially removed and am on two grains of thyroid a day, also Hydropress and have been on it for years, one or two a day depending on my pressure. Now I have been put on a medicine that I hate, in juice or not. Not only do I dislike the taste but the cramps and gas that I get from Kaoelixer is mean.

Now I see you tell another person to drink three glasses of orange juice a day. Perhaps I may solve my problems by doing just that but what size glasses please. I have always taken six ounces for breakfast but that has been it. I'd appreciate any information that could help me get off the awful medicine.

DEAR READER — You should follow your doctor's instructions as he knows what your potassium level is. You can discuss other sources of potassium with him and he may agree to let you take three 8-ounce glasses of orange juice a day.

You can also get a lot of potassium in milk. There is almost as much potassium in a quart of milk fortified with two per cent nonfat milk solids as there is in a quart of orange juice.

you could blow caution to the winds.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) As resistance to your aims stiffens today, there's a good chance you'll start to slack off instead of pushing harder.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be careful not to create unnecessary problems for yourself. Be your own best friend, not your worst enemy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Look at your finances realistically today. This is not a day to be extravagant, or to borrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful today in anything you do in public. You could alienate allies through a lack of tact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It would be wise today to temper your grandiose ideas with a sprinkling of realism. Keep a sensible perspective.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Propositions that come to you today through associates may have some strings attached. Don't make impulsive deals.

Be alert this coming year so you can distinguish between a real opportunity and wishful thinking. If your choices are wise, results will be quite rewarding.

Coping

Praises to the put upon housewife

By Joanne Koch

No adult group in America gets more advice and less pay than the American housewife. The old advice has to do with getting organized and having a sense of humor. The new advice has to do with getting paid, doing as little as possible, quitting, or at least rising up in anger.

The old advice still crops up in the form of efficiency studies and efficiency experts. It goes: "Have a desk planning center. Keep the kitchen well organized. Get those closets cleaned! Make lists — four things you must do each day, four things you should do."

Behind all this is the suggestion that housewives now have more time on their hands. Actually a time use survey reported in Scientific America shows that today's homemaker who is not employed outside the home spends more time on family related tasks than women did in the 1920s — 55 hours a week now as opposed to 52 hours a week then. The time saved on preparing meals and cleaning up afterwards is taken up by more hours for child care, shopping and managerial tasks.

In the new advice department, ex-columnist and author Mike McGrady, who took a shot at housewifing and didn't like it, recommends neglect. "If the debris accumulates to the point where small animals can be seen living there, it should be cleaned up, preferably by someone hired for the occasion." (McGrady's kids are teens, not toddlers who have to crawl down there with the small animals!)

The more practical Letty Cottin Pogrebin in her book "Getting Yours" suggests that housewives get theirs by (a) insisting on a shared work plan. Let him relieve you for the weekend, or make breakfast every weekday while you sleep late, or assume a significant part of the menial tasks throughout the week. (b) Demand payment. Estimates of the housewife's dollar value range from the Social Security Administration's figure of $6,417 to Pogrebin's $24,000 per year which views a housewife as a social secretary, interior decorator, child care specialist, wife and cleaning woman rolled into one. She suggests housewives demand at least the $95 a week their spouses would have to pay a domestic or $50 a week or something — anything. (c) Set a retirement date — when the kids are all in school or when you reach 35. If you are planning to remain a housewife indefinitely, at least make sure, recommends Pogrebin, that half of everything is in your name. But the author clearly believes that work outside the home is where it's at.

"Self-actualization, usefulness, financial security and fun may only be as far away as your first paycheck."

Pogrebin's book is packed with advice for those on their way back to work but what does work mean for the average woman — a glamorous editorial position with the children in the hands of a loving housekeeper, or a routine job and the children home with a barely competent baby sitter?

Could it be that housewives know more than their many advisors?

Out there, one gets the money but one also knows she is completely dispensable and easily replaceable. At home one misses the paycheck but receives (or should) the long-range psychological benefit of creating a center for growth, support and communication uniquely shaped to the needs of wife, husband and children and known as a home.

It's not for everyone, and I'm all in favor of the new options. But let's give more credit and less advice to the high percentage of the female population who choose to be housewives.

Feed Store in Dallas -- 'It's All Going Away'

DALLAS (UPI) — Dr. T. ("eye, ear and throat but don't use my name") was not sure he remembered everything on his feed list. He had the special sheep pellet, yes, and the seed potatoes. But wasn't there something else?

"Ah, I almost forgot. Give me a dozen eggs," he said to the young clerk.

"Extra large or jumbo?"

"What's the difference?"

"One's bigger than the other," explained Jeff Fox, the clerk, who is "19, almost 19." "But they both cost the same."

"How much?"

"Ninety-five cents a dozen."

"Hell, give me the big ones then."

Dr. T. had been coming to the Vickery Feed Store for 20 years, about half the life of the old white frame, wooden-floored building standing as an anachronism amid new restaurants, a disco and a quarter-mile from the new headquarters of the American Heart Association.

"We're not going to have many more places like this," he said. "I've been buying sheep feed here for many years. But it's all going away. Everything's going to be covered up."

"None of the people in Dallas have any idea what Dallas is all about unless they're 90 or 100 years old. People think nothing in Dallas happened until they opened Neiman Marcus."

Feed stores were once common in the area where Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker caroused. But Dallas expanded to its geographic limits in the last 10 years, ringed by suburbs which wall its residential sprawl. The developers marched outward, their backs to the business district.

Now their backs are to the suburbs and they battle for the plots of pastureland, cheap homes or rundown businesses they skipped over enroute to building suburbia.

The boarding stables are going quickly, their owners trading the premises for cash enough to move and live elsewhere.

"We have a 500-unit apartment next to us," Dr. T. says. "It's pretty horrible. We have all these people moving into apartments. That's the trouble."

"We'll have to move someday. Everybody is getting offers."

Dr. T. has received offers for his 10 acres three miles from the Vickery Feed Store but he is holding out.

"You just say you don't want to move right now. You can't improve yourself. I like to be able to look out and see what's mine. We had a big red fox for years. Possums come right up to the windows. We still have roadrunners. It's a shame."

Jeff Fox loads the sheep feed and seed potatoes into Dr. T.'s station wagon ("I just love my station wagon") and the old man drives away.

Fox, a city boy who wears boots and a western shirt, has worked at the store for four months.

"We have a lady that comes in every week and buys 15 sacks of scratch," he says. "That's about $60. She says she feeds it to chickens but there's not that big a chicken farm around here. She's bound to be feeding it to the birds."

"That's what older retired people like to do, just sit around in the mornings and drink coffee and watch the birds and that's what keeps the business."

On a good week the feed store sells 42,000 pounds of grains milled by the Shelton brothers of McKinney, Tex., owners of the store.

"Today we took about 27,000 pounds (weekly delivery from the mill) because we had a bad week," Fox said.

Although a half-dozen of the nearby horse stables have sold out in the last year he thinks the Vickery store is doing just fine. But as for his own future...

"There's always going to be that way of life. Commuter cowboys (rural residents working in Dallas) buy feed here because it's handy."

"I'm going to quit school next summer and buy my own business, a feed store-grocery combination somewhere outside the city limits. I don't have much room to save now, it's just me and my mom, but I'm going to get a small business loan and I've got good credit. I want real bad, bad enough to get it."

It's 5:30 p.m. On the horizon looking west from the feed store door cars are edging slowly homeward bumper to bumper along the city's major expressway.

A Cadillac stops in front of the Vickery Feed Store and a bent man in his 80s steps from the car up the steps of the store and inside.

"Let me have a dollar's worth of birdseed."

Some do's and don'ts about children's shoes.

Here are some do's and don'ts when buying children's shoes. When your child begins to walk, do buy a soft flexible shoe with a leather sole. In a stiff shoe the baby cannot bend the shoe and cannot make natural use of his foot.

Empty Buildings, Lots of Memories

ALTON, Ill. (UPI) — Col. Ralph Borden Jackson lives amid a cluster of lifeless, red-brick buildings. His career as a military school headmaster is just a memory in a reality that "just doesn't seem real."

Western Military Academy, says Jackson, was a casualty of the Vietnam War.

There is "no question," he said, that the unpopularity of that conflict was the reason for the academy's enrollment dropping from more than 300 to about 150. The decline forced the closing in 1971 of Western, founded 97 years ago and headed by three generations of Jacksons.

For five years now, Jackson, 58, his wife and three children have been the only residents. Their home is in Barracks C, one of five three-story barracks on the 40-acre campus in Alton, 10 miles north of St. Louis.

The school also has a fieldhouse, chapel, administration building, drill hall, social center, parade grounds, athletic field and six tennis courts.

"It just doesn't seem real, sometimes, to come home and not see the football team practicing on the field, to know that as many as 320 cadets won't pass in review on Sunday afternoons," Jackson said.

He lives on the campus as caretaker for the property, which he owns with two brothers. His tasks are preventing vandalism, maintaining the property and hosting former students who return for sentimental visits.

"Every week or so some old graduate will come by to talk about old times," he said.

"And we're still getting mail addressed to the academy. Here's a letter that came in a few days ago from a girl in South Korea looking for a pen pal." Jackson frets over the difficulty of keeping up the sprawling campus. He works as a substitute school teacher and his children are involved in various school activities.

Still, the parade field lawn is mowed regularly. Sometimes organizations that use the tennis courts send over volunteers to cut the grass in return.

"Mostly, though, it's a family project," Jackson said. "I'm spit and polish. Even not to have the grass cut as often as possible doesn't seem right."

But there will be no reopening Western as a military school.

"There has been a lot of interest in it and it has been explored thoroughly," he said. "But the money just isn't there..."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The University of San Francisco has the only woman army officer in charge of a college ROTC program. She is Lt. Col. Jacqueline J. Kelly, a veteran of 16 years in the Army.

Giants' Status Still Unknown

By GORDON SAKAMOTO
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants were still in limbo today as the National Exhibition Co. held up transfer of the penniless team to a group of would-be owners to make a point-by-point review of the terms of the sale.

Attorney James L. Hunt held a lengthy meeting Tuesday with directors of NEC, the parent company of the Giants, and said "it might be a couple of days, maybe longer (before a sale is approved). Points that have to be renegotiated might stretch it out."

National League owners postponed a meeting, set for today in Chicago, until next Tuesday to give both sides time to iron out details of the deal.

A group headed by Bob Lurie and Bob Short has bid $8 million for the franchise, but, Hunt said, "It is much more complicated than the flat offer made in court last week. Getting the exact terms of the cash transaction is not simple. There probably will be counterproposals and counter-counter proposals."

It also was revealed Tuesday that MEI Corp., a Minneapolis-based conglomerate, is seeking one-fourth interest in the team as a partner of Short.

Hunt said that the four board members present, including owner Horace C. Stoneham, said they were prepared to stay in town until the sale is completed.

View From the Plains...

Guadalupe River Hunt Scheduled for Spring

By J.D. PEER
LUBBOCK — Keep your turkey caller handy — there is still one area that will be open for the spring gobbler hunt in Texas and it is located right in the middle of prime hunting country.

A two-day hunt is scheduled for the Kerr Wildlife Management Area for each hunter lucky enough to have his name drawn in Austin at 10 a.m. March 25 in the John H. Reagan building. The season is slated for April 24 - May 2 on the 6,493 acre area located approximately 28 miles west of Kerrville on the north fork of the Guadalupe River.

Application cards can be picked up at any P&WD office along with an instruction sheet listing the requirements such as your social security number, age, address and a fee of $5.00 to help defray the cost of conducting the hunt.

The application must be received by the P&WD by 5 p.m. March 22 and 100 hunters will be allowed to hunt two days for gobblers only. Those hunters who received a permit to hunt turkey on the Kerr area last year will be ineligible for the 1976 hunt unless more permits are available than applicants.

This is the first time in five years that a 30 county area of Central Texas will not have a spring hunt.

The results of the 1973-74 drought and dry conditions this winter have prompted the P&WD officials to cancel the regular 1976 spring gobbler-only hunt.

Good spring hatches of turkey were recorded in 1975 but the contribution of these yearlings to next fall's population is questionable.

If the present drought conditions continue into the spring and summer the outlook is gloomy for good production this year on the South Plains and in the Panhandle of Texas also.

P&WD biologists know that drought such as Texas has experienced will affect the wildlife populations for several seasons especially if the following hatches are not good.

For more information about the spring hunt on the Kerr area, contact the nearest district or regional office and pickup an application card for the hunt.

Pampa Pops Palo Duro

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Four Pampa players, led by Brian Bailey with 20 points, scored in double figures, as the Harvesters managed their biggest offensive output of the season in a 83-63 rout over Amarillo Palo Duro in a whistle-laden District 3-AAAA contest Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The win, played before a crowd of 2,000, gives Pampa a 24-5 season record and a 2-1 district mark in the second half. Palo Duro drops to 5-20 and 0-3.

Amarillo Tascosa upset Amarillo High, 64-51, and Borger outlasted Amarillo Caprock, 53-50, in other district games Tuesday. Pampa, Borger, Amarillo and Tascosa are now tied with 1-1 records in the second half. The Harvesters won the first half outright and need only a tie in the second ground to capture their second consecutive district championship.

Sixty-two turnovers and 54 fouls marred Tuesday's Pampa-Palo Duro encounter. The Dons lost the ball 34 times via turnovers, compared to 28 for the winners. Pampa committed 30 fouls, and Palo Duro fouled 24 times in the marathon, which lasted almost 1 1/2 hours.

The outcome of the game was never really in doubt, even though Palo Duro trailed by only seven, 34-27, midway through the second quarter. The Harvesters, who had led 25-14 at the end of the first quarter, pulled away from the visitors toward the end of the second period to grab a 51-32 halftime lead.

Pampa led by as many as 22 twice in the third quarter and 24 twice in the final stanza.

Three Harvesters — Jewel Landers, Winslow Ellis and Forrest Taylor — and three Dons — Jeff Varber, Wesley Roberts and Aaron Gilbreath — fouled out in the second half.

Free throws accounted for many of the points as Pampa connected on 25 of 37 shots from the charity stripe, while PD sank 23 of 40.

Bailey scored 20 points to lead all scorers. Rayford Young added 18 for the Harvesters including 11 in the first quarter on five field goals and a free throw. Richard Lane and Donnie Hughes scored 15 and 12 respectively for the winners, who topped the 80-point mark for the first time this season after averaging just 53 points per game.

Sylvester Moore led the Dons with 19 points. Cleveland Winston added 14.

Palo Duro barely won the battle of the bounds, outrebounding the hosts, 47-44, as Winston pulled down 14 caroms. Moore and Roberts each added seven for the Dons. Landers grabbed 10 for Pampa. Lane eight and Hughes seven.

Pampa substituted freely in the contest, using nine of the 10 players who suited up.

"I thought we played pretty good," Pampa Coach Robert McPherson said. "I thought we shot real well."

"We played well considering everything — it turned into a wrestling match in the second half."

Palo Duro Coach Ed Smith said, "It was pretty rough out there. Both teams fouled a lot and had a lot of turnovers. I don't think that it was a well-played game."

"I was pleased with my free-throw shooting."

Pampa won the B-team game, 74-56.

Aggies Crush Houston, 94-80

HOUSTON (UPI) — If there was a question concerning the Texas A&M Aggies ability to stay cool and act like their high scoring selves in what has become a very unusual circumstance, the verdict is in.

They can.

Oh, swalwart Aggie forward Sonny Parker felt the pressure as he carried a heavy lead in the absence of two suspended starters Tuesday night. He exploded early in the second half and slugged a University of Houston student.

But for the most part, A&M — as usual — went tough to the boards, hit a high percentage of its shots and deployed a sneaky tough defense to hand the Houston Cougars a 94-80 Southwest Conference loss. That preserved the Aggies league lead and left them only two victories away from clinching a title.

Elsewhere Tuesday night, Texas Tech stayed a half game behind the conference leading Aggies by coming from behind to catch Baylor 87-76.

At sold-out Hofheinz Pavilion, it was one regular and two subs who kept the faith in the face of Houston students waving dollar bills at coach Shelby Metcalf.

The students, trying to remind the Aggies of a recruiting scandal which broke this week, did not fluster one Aggie youngster.

"With (Karl) Godine and (Jarvis) Williams out, I knew I would have to go the whole way, so I just gotta get like the rest of the guys," said 6-8 freshman Wally Swanson, who came off the bench to score 21 points.

Forward Steve Jones, the younger brother of former Houston all-american Dwight Jones but normally a bench rider like Swanson, improved on his league scoring average (4.4) to collect 18 points.

The big man for A&M, as top scorer Parker found himself in early foul trouble, was 6-6 Barry Davis.

Dolphins Place 6th In Amarillo Affair

AMARILLO — Twenty swimmers from the Pampa Dolphin Swim Club competed at the Maverick Aquatic Club last weekend in a three day "A" and "B" AAU swim meet.

Approximately 300 swimmers from 13 teams in Texas and New Mexico took part in the three-day competition. The Dolphins finished sixth in team points. The El Paso Swim Club won the meet with second place going to the City of Midland swim team and third place to the Amarillo Aquatic Club.

For the Pampa swimmers, Richie Hill set a West Texas AAU record in the 100 breaststroke (boys age 10 and under). Tammy Glascock earned an "A" time in the 100 breaststroke (girls 13 and 14). Reid Steger earned "AA" times in the 50 free and the 200 free (boys, 10 and under), and Clay Douglass earned an "A" time in the 200 I.M. (boys 11 and 12).

Dolphin swimmers who continue to show improvement were Chris Alexander, Mark Lehnick, Lisa Raymond, Reid

Steger and Richard Steger, who all bettered their best previous individual times in most of the events entered.

The Amarillo meet was the second meet entered by the Dolphins since the Christmas vacation. Seventeen Dolphins previously attended a "B"-"C" meet in Odessa. Approximately 20 of the local swimmers will go to Amarillo for a meet on March 14 at the Amarillo Aquatic Club. In addition to the Amarillo meet the Dolphin team plans to enter an "A"-"B" meet in San Angelo and will host a meet at the Pampa Youth and Community Center in April.

The annual awards banquet is scheduled for the first week in May at which time awards will be presented to the team members for accomplishments throughout this past swim year.

By United Press International
ANGIE HONORED
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Angie Dickinson, was named "Woman of the Year" Monday by the Hollywood Radio and Television Society for the success of her television series "Police Woman."

She was only the fourth woman to be given the society's top honor, having been preceded by Mary Tyler Moore in 1973, Sandy Duncan in 1971 and Carol Burnett in 1968.

SHIRLEY SCORES

PARIS (UPI) — A nearsellout crowd boomed Monday night when actress Shirley MacLaine's show was delayed by an hour — then cheered when she popped from behind the curtain and yelled that it wasn't her fault.

Miss MacLaine, 41, fresh from wowing critics at London's Palladium, was opening a two-night stand at Paris' Convention Hall.

Her act was delayed for more than an hour by a long and heavily orchestrated series of numbers by a Greek pop singer.

After several apologies by the management over the loud-speaker, Shirley herself yelled, "I'm ready. It's not my fault."

Striding across the stage, she knocked the microphone over with a sweep of her hand, stuck out her tongue, waved and vanished behind the curtain.

The audience waved back, laughed and cheered.

PILOT DROPS IN

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Ronald Reagan's ranch has its good and bad points as a site for a crash landing, as glider pilot Stan Buller discovered.

Disadvantages: It's mountainous and somewhat secluded. Advantage: Ranches owned by presidential candidates are patrolled by the Secret Service.

Buller, 52, had been soaring for about two hours Sunday on "a beautiful day when I made a mistake." The mistake was to glide into a thick cloud and lose his bearings.

He smashed into trees on Santa Ynez Peak. Buller was not injured seriously.

Secret Service agents at the Reagan ranch, who overheard a notice on sheriff's radio frequencies about Buller's disappearance, launched a search and found him hiking about eight miles from the wreck.

TAFT GOES GUNNING

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, has urged a Justice Department investigation to find out who leaked a secret House intelligence committee report to Daniel Schorr of CBS News.

"There are already indications that Daniel Schorr, the television correspondent who has admitted to being a party in the transaction, will be cited for contempt of Congress," Taft said in a statement Monday.

"But such a move does not go far enough. We must find the original source of the document and see to it that those responsible are punished to the fullest extent of the law."

PRESIDENT HELPS

MIAMI (UPI) — National Airlines President L. B. Maytag was one of four passengers who subdued a London man, who had threatened to blow up a National jet unless he was flown to Cuba, according to an airline spokesman.

Peter Jackson, 25, was scheduled to appear before a U.S. magistrate today on a charge of threatening to bomb the jet, although no explosive device was found.

Flight Capt. Philip Wachtel, Maytag and two other passengers subdued Jackson and bound him. Maytag was aboard the flight with his wife.

but the initials were not noticed until later.

"We are assuming the letters were scratched into the sign by someone who either planted the device or knew it was to be planted," an FBI spokesman said.

The Harrises, Miss Hearst's fellow SLA fugitives, and Miss Hearst face trial in Los Angeles on 11 state charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery.

TOUCHY SUBJECT of Cuba's foreign affairs came up during Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's visit to Havana. Prime Minister Fidel Castro used the occasion for public statements denying he favored "export of revolution," a concern voiced by some Latin countries as a result of Cuban involvement in the Angolan civil war. Canada has been a leader in hemisphere detente with Cuba.

Shooting Delays Team

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Syrian peace team has delayed its departure for several days because of a series of shootings in the capital, including the slaying of two American University deans by a former student.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, who already has postponed his departure once, decided to remain "until the Lebanese crisis is resolved more clearly," according to political sources.

Although none of the incidents — including the assassination of a Turkish diplomat — was related directly to Lebanon's 10-month civil war, they added to the tension sparked Monday by the killing of a Kurdish municipal worker and a series of kidnappings.

Fighting between Christians and Moslems began subsiding four weeks ago following a Syrian-mediated cease-fire.

In the university incident, a young gunman carrying a hand grenade shot and killed Robert Najemy, the dean of students, and Raymond Ghosn, the dean of engineering, outside their campus offices in uptown Beirut Tuesday.

Najemy, 56, of Worcester, Mass., died instantly. Ghosn, 54, a Lebanese, died shortly after arrival at the university hospital.

The killer was identified by university officials as Najem Najem, a Jordanian of Palestinian origin, who was an engineering student at the university until his expulsion in 1974. He was among 103 students ousted two years ago for campus agitation.

Authorities said Najem, 23, apparently was seeking revenge for his expulsion, although a former classmate said "he didn't seem the type of guy who would get a gun and do this."

After the shootings, Najem took nine persons hostage in the administration building until authorities talked him into surrendering.

But as the Lebanese and Palestinian guerrilla authorities led him from the building, a friend of Ghosn's — identified as Joseph Jerbaka — pulled a pistol concealed in a sling and shot Najem in the shoulder.

The incident followed an attack Tuesday by gunmen on the car in which Turkish Charge d'Affaires Omar Mohammed Demiral was riding and the assassination of the Turkish Embassy's first secretary, Oktar Serit, in a pinball parlor Monday night.

always an administrative concern," he said. "We may have to look closer at procedures for segregating the known overt homosexuals and look for better procedures to identify latent homosexuals."

The Ferguson Unit houses only first offenders ages 17-21. The incidence of gonorrhea found was 12.5 per cent of the total population of the unit, far higher than national averages for the same age group. For ages 15-19 in 1974 the national incidence was about 1.2 per cent and for ages 20-24 it was 1.38 per cent.

Dr. Ralph Gray, prison system medical director, said he knew of no active cases of gonorrhea in any other TDC units, Taylor said. But, he said, there are no mass, general screening procedures in the other units.

As about 100 watched Monday, Daly City patrolman Randy Desha, a relatively svelte 220-pounder, and Nicolini went at it in the first annual Daly City Steamed Clam Eating Contest.

LEGEND FILMED
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — The legend of "La Difunta Correa" — literally, the deceased Correa woman — has been made into an Argentine film.

The legend tells of Deolinda Correa de Bustos, a young mother in western San Juan province during the 19th century who is revered by many Argentines who believe offerings to her memory bring answered prayers.

According to the legend, the woman set out on foot with a newborn baby to find her husband, who was fighting in one of the internal battles then wracking the country. She died while crossing the desert, but her baby was found alive — maintained by the milk it was still sucking from the dead woman's breast.

LIFE-STYLE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Swapping an urban for a rural life-style involves more than just changing your address.

Many modern-day pioneers find their dreams of a better way of life change to disappointment and frustration.

"That doesn't have to happen, according to the Rural Development of the U.S. Agriculture Department. Check on satisfactory employment, housing, transportation, medical services, schools, government services and local development trends.

Many prospective residents can write to mayors or chambers of commerce for information about communities in which they're interested.

COLORED FLAGPOLES
VIENNA (UPI) — Austria has started to mark its Alpine downhill runs in the major ski resorts with colored flagpoles to prevent ski tourists losing their way in bad weather, tourist officials said.

The poles will carry huge signs reflecting ultraviolet rays even through heavy fog and during snowstorms. The signs will be painted green inside and red outside indicating a skier is on the wrong side when he sees red. The poles already have been set up in some major ski resorts like Gastein, Kitzbuehel and Innsbruck, and officials said all the ski runs in the Austrian Alps will be so marked in the next three years.

Dr. Says Home Remedies Good As Prescriptions

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — A researcher at the University of Texas at San Antonio says 80 to 90 per cent of people who become ill and go to a doctor would recover just as quickly by going to their grandmothers.

Dr. Maria Luisa Urdaneta laughs about the old tale of the rich man and the poor man falling sick with the same ailment. The rich man goes to a doctor for expensive treatment and the poor man stays home and applies home remedies.

The rich man gets well in a week. The poor man gets well in seven days.

"That's a joke," Dr. Urdaneta said. "But it is a matter of fact that many home remedies are just as effective at curing some illnesses as prescription medicines."

Dr. Urdaneta teaches a class at UTSA in which her students examine the characteristics of folk medicine and ethnic ideas on illnesses and medical treatment.

"Our middle class population has gotten used to modern, scientific medical treatment, but ethnomedicine, folk medicine practices among the poor and ethnic minorities, is very much alive and utilized," she said.

Dr. Urdaneta, an assistant professor of social sciences with a Ph.D. in medical anthropology, said in her studies she has found 80 to 90 per cent of those who become ill recover "whether they go to see their doctor or to see their grandmother."

She said folk medicine continues to be practiced as a matter of accessibility because in many areas there are no health care practitioners available.

"Despite the superstition that often accompanies the application, there's a lot of relevance to folk medicine," she said. "For example, a superstitious practice among some Mexican-Americans when a child has a high fever is to rub the contents of an egg over the top of the head and to give large amounts of herbal tea."

"We know the egg has no value in reducing temperatures, but the tea helps combat dehydration. The most important thing is that the child is getting fluids that he needs and the egg does no harm."

She said in some Southern areas goiter has been treated traditionally by encouraging the afflicted person to eat large quantities of fish or salt. "Both iodized salt and the fish, if it was raised in water with a high iodine content, are beneficial," the professor said. "Iodine medications are used by physicians in treating hyperthyroidism."

Dr. Urdaneta said controlling bleeding with claypicks or spider webs is practiced by many rural black families. They also cover the chest with goose grease and a flannel cloth for colds and treat high blood pressure with doses of epsom salts.

"For some reason it works," she said. "Many folk medicine practices are not harmful and might be helpful."

She said instead of ridiculing folk medicine Americans should study it for possible use in combination with scientific medical treatment.

"Some treatments using manipulation, herbs and salves work as well as anything else. It is not necessary that every medicine be a prescription," she said.

"However, we must teach medicine men how to distinguish between an illness that they can treat with their kind of remedies and an illness that requires the attention of a physician."

Gonorrhea Plagues Texas Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Officials will try to reduce homosexuality at a Texas prison unit for young, first offenders because of a major outbreak of gonorrhea.

Officials checked all 1,600 inmates of the Texas Department of Correction's Ferguson Unit north of Huntsville and discovered 201 cases of gonorrhea.

Ron Taylor, administrative assistant to the TDC director, Tuesday said it was the first mass screening of inmates at the unit. Inmates are screened when they are first incarcerated and about 1 per cent are found to have the disease.

The new screening has disturbed officials, Taylor said. "It tells us it (homosexuality) is there, it is going on and that we must have more supervision," he said.

"Homosexuality in prison is screening disclosed no syphilis, a much more serious venereal disease than gonorrhea.

Taylor said the screening program began because of an increased number of cases reported to officials. He said there were no plans for further mass screening at any TDC units, including Ferguson.

He said one problem with homosexuality is a number of inmates who would not be homosexual outside prison perform homosexual acts while institutionalized. He said that group is the hardest to identify.

Once identified as an overt, latent or institutional homosexual, the inmate is more closely watched and steps to segregate the inmate may be taken, Taylor said.

Champ Eats 162 Clams

DALY CITY, Calif. (UPI) — For as long as anybody can remember, 250-pound Al Nicolini was considered the clam eating champ of the 57 Club. For instance, one night he devoured 102 steamed clams, three pitchers of beer, and 10 slices of french bread before going to a friend's house for dinner.

But today, there is a new champion.

As about 100 watched Monday, Daly City patrolman Randy Desha, a relatively svelte 220-pounder, and Nicolini went at it in the first annual Daly City Steamed Clam Eating Contest.

Mercenaries Return Home Without War

LONDON (UPI) — A group of Angola-bound mercenaries who never reached the war zone returned to London today complaining that the mercenary army was badly organized.

The 22 men, including an American identified only as Robert Edward Foti, were taken into custody at Kinshasa, Zaire, en route to Angola after President Mobutu Sese Seko banned mercenaries from passing through his country.

The men were sent back to London via Brussels.

Foti, in his 20s, covered his face at Heathrow airport and refused to talk to reporters. The group was driven into London in a bus.

During a Brussels stopover, several of the men complained of disorganization and non-payment of $300 per week they said had been promised.

"The blokes who put this thing together are morons," one said. "I'm heartbroken—I really am. But I'd go back in a minute, if they'd pay me."

Odessa Folks See Things Flying in Sky

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI) — At least four sightings of UFO's were reported early today in West Texas.

Two women arriving for work at an Odessa high school cafeteria reported seeing a bright light in the morning sky. Local police also reported the sightings and said they had answered several calls from residents who saw similar unidentified flying objects.

A police dispatcher in neighboring Midland, Tex., said a man reported seeing "an extremely bright light moving in a zig-zag pattern towards the Crane (Tex.) area."

An airport control tower in Midland also reported receiving reports of some sightings but could not confirm them.

Local authorities say the sightings are the first in West Texas in five or six years.

OLEN'S TUNE UP

Ed Taylor and Olen Anderson

Olen Anderson opened his business, Olen's Tune Up at 310 North Ward, on June 7, 1965.

"I was in partnership with another shop and sold out, bought new equipment and went into business for myself," he said.

Anderson said his firm specializes in tune ups and brake work.

As about its success, he replied:

"It has paid for itself and made me a living. I guess that what you call success."

Anderson, a mechanic himself, said he came to Pampa in 1952 from Hedley. He worked as an automotive mechanic for five years.

"Pampa is the best town in the world," he said.

He and his wife, Jo, enjoy living here. Anderson said his daughter's husband, Ed Taylor, now manages the shop for him.

His daughter is Juanita Taylor.

"They will eventually be the owners here," he commented.

ANTIFREEZE ADVICE

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Harold Watson, product manager for PPG Industries' Houston Chemical Co., advised motorists to change their antifreeze every year.

The old stuff might still protect the engine from freezing, but a year's driving breaks down rust and corrosion inhibitors and other coolant components, said Watson.

Watson says the best all round mixture for the coolant in your car's radiator and engine is half top-quality ethylene glycol antifreeze and half water.

SURVEILLANCE

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The oldest and newest forms of surveillance are being used to protect the Liberty Bell and other famous relics of American history from vandalism, theft and fire at Independence Park.

Watchdogs patrol the grounds at night, and an ultradomestic Honeywell security network checks every corner of 17 buildings every two seconds.

The system's ultrasonic, microwave and infrared eyes and ears report to a communications center the exact location of a fire or any intruder on the premises.

New Child Care Act To Get Second Look

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Welfare officials today promised to consider valid complaints about new rules for child care facilities, but vowed they will not overreact to criticism or lower standards to the point of allowing another Artesia Hall.

Chapman said the scandal over mistreatment of children at Artesia Hall and the roach poison death of one girl at the school near Liberty prompted a public outcry for better protection of children.

House Speaker Bill Clayton said he believes the new rules are too strict and cumbersome. "I don't think we should make public schools of private schools," Clayton said.

Clayton told a crowd of about 130 persons Monday that legislation granting the welfare department new power to regulate child care centers was not intended to put them out of business.

The City of Pampa and the Texas Highway Department have moved into the remaining precontract stage of the SH 273 improvement of S. Cuyler St.

The right-of-way involves a ten-foot strip of land on each side of the roadway which would widen the street to 65 feet from its present 45 feet.

The City will make offers in writing to property owners and a copy will go to the State Highway Department district office in Amarillo.

Wofford said the city's share of the cost is estimated at around $400,000 which includes payment for half of the right-of-way plus all storm sewer installation.

Rep Suggests Free Heroin

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The nation should consider a restricted program of free heroin distribution to hardened addicts in order to reduce drug-related crime, says Rep. James Symington, D-Mo.

Missouri secretary of state for the seat being vacated by his father, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. He said he expects to receive support from the elder Symington during the campaign.

The 49-year-old, four-term congressman has been criticized by his opponents for a statement he made last month advocating a program of free heroin distribution to addicts.

Clayton also said he favors a series of referenda in each state before Congress considers a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortions.

At Monday's session, the ABA decided against placing the organization's stamp of approval on efforts to remove criminal sanctions for prostitution.

Today, the house planned to debate legislation that would slightly relax ethical bans against any form of advertising among lawyers.

During debate over the prostitution resolution, both sides quoted the Bible and Charles Kichham Jr. of Brookline, Mass., told delegates that treating prostitution was a moral problem best left to the states.

Carole Bellows, a Chicago lawyer and a major sponsor of the proposal, termed the narrow vote a victory for equal treatment of women and decriminalization of "victimless crimes."

Upset Aunt Call Alarm On Wedding

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — The bride and groom emerged from the church to the wails of sirens. Two fire brigade cars and three ambulances roared into view from around the corner and screeched to a halt.

An alternative that might have some merit is a very tightly controlled program of providing heroin for addicts.

The initial proposal, a response to a law suit brought by Consumers Union in Virginia, would have allowed publication of standard fees in consumer directories.

The substitute proposal would allow a lawyer to advertise only his initial consultation fee in a bar directory or the yellow pages of telephone books.

The first United States gold coins were struck in 1795. The last appeared in 1933.

Police officials said only members of the patrol division would wear the vests. The demand for the bullet proof vests was made after the shooting death several months ago of a patrolman who had stopped an armed robbery suspect.

While the city council deliberated the matter for several weeks, several businesses contributed $2,000 to a fund to buy the vests.

Indications, he said, point to next Fall before all arrangements have been completed to advertise for bids and let a contract for the project.

Labor Leader Wants Probe Of Utilities

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A Texas labor leader says the legislature should investigate rising utility bills.

Two other conditions must be met to qualify for this special treatment: 1. You must have received earned income of more than $600 in each of any 10 calendar years prior to this year.

The credit may never exceed your income tax liability. It could reduce your tax liability to zero, but if the credit exceeds the tax otherwise due, you can not receive a refund of the excess.

The credit is 15 per cent. The maximum amount that could be subject to the credit is $1,524 on a separate return.

Hubbard said Lone Star, which serves much of the North Texas area, lobbied strongly against creation of the Public Utilities Commission, and said gas companies were successful in removing gas from regulation by the commission.

Both have proved where they stand when it comes to protecting the consuming public's interest. They both stand on the other side.

Lawyers Revise Advertising Code

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The American Bar Association by a voice vote today approved changes in ethical codes allowing lawyers to advertise limited information in the telephone book.

The initial proposal, a response to a law suit brought by Consumers Union in Virginia, would have allowed publication of standard fees in consumer directories.

The move to reconsider was voted down and the substitute approved on a voice vote.

Today, the house planned to debate legislation that would slightly relax ethical bans against any form of advertising among lawyers.
