

Mondale joins list of Demo choices

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter conferred today with Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota, the latest of a half-dozen possible running mates expected to make the pilgrimage to Plains.

Mondale and his wife arrived early today at the Americus airport near Plains.

"I'm very pleased to be invited to meet and talk with the next president of the United States in Plains," Mondale said. Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, greeted Mondale and his wife, Joan, outside their home before the meeting started.

Sen. John Glenn of Ohio was scheduled to arrive later in the day for an interview.

Carter, who is virtually certain of winning the Democratic presidential nomination, said Wednesday that the number of possible vice-presidential candidates he planned to interview might go to six or more. He said previously that he would talk to at least five.

The first interview was with Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine earlier this week. The former Georgia governor said he probably would meet with Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey. He is expected to talk with Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington.

Carter was believed to have scheduled those meetings for early next week in New York City where the Democratic National Convention starts Monday.

Also mentioned as possibilities were Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho. Carter denied press reports that he had scratched Church from his list.

Carter talked with reporters Wednesday night as he flew back to Georgia after a short stop at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for a $1,000-a-head fund-raising reception.

Carter also celebrated his 30th wedding anniversary.

At the dinner Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, were presented with an anniversary plate. As champagne and cake were circulated on the plane, Carter said his wife and children "are all very nervous about the general election. They are kind of worried about it, and I am, too."

"I don't intend to lose it this late after we've come so far, and I think the concern is something constantly on my mind," he said.

Carter stood on an airplane seat, with his wife's arm clasped around his waist.

"We're trying to prevent a realization of that concern by a very careful, very methodical, very thorough analysis and planning, polling and organization, trying to put together every possible capability for a victory in November. I think I'll win," he said.

Carter's vice presidential drama continued Wednesday with the candidate's announcement that Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, is being considered as a potential running mate.

He denied press reports that Sen. Frank Church of Idaho had been eliminated from vice presidential contention and that he didn't get along with Church.

"I've never been with Sen. Church more than seven or eight minutes in my life," Carter told reporters. But those minutes "were very pleasant and I enjoyed them," he said.

After the visits by Glenn and Mondale, other potential contenders — as yet unnamed — are expected to be interviewed by Carter in New York before and during the Democratic National Convention, which begins Monday. Carter plans to fly to New York Saturday.

Cadet makes cheating claims

By HENRY GOTTLIEB
Associated Press Writer
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A West Point cadet who says the U.S. Military Academy enforces its honor code inconsistently has alleged in federal court here that cadets sold stolen military equipment, cheated on exams and impersonated government officials.

Those cadets, he claims, were never punished for honor code violations — and therefore he shouldn't be either.

The allegations were included Wednesday in affidavits said to have been sworn to by about 20 of the 148 cadets awaiting hearings on charges of violating the academy's honor code.

Th individuals who signed the affidavits were not named.

The documents were submitted in federal court to support a suit by one of the cadets under suspicion, Kenneth Harms, 20, of Emerson, N.J. The case is before U.S. District Court Judge Vincent P. Biunno.

Harms has asked Biunno to block a scheduled July 16 military hearing for himself and several others on charges that they cheated on a take-home exam in electrical engineering last March.

His claim is that unfair and inconsistent enforcement of the honor code makes its enforcement in his case a violation of his rights.

The affidavits which he introduced were originally submitted to the judge advocate general of the Army by military lawyers for the 148. All names on the affidavits — the names of those making them and the names of the cadets discussed in them — were deleted before the affidavits reached the judge advocate general's office.

The case, scheduled to be heard Monday, is in the New Jersey District because Harms lives there.

Here are some of the allegations included in the affidavit: — A cadet found Army equipment on the back of a truck, stole it and sent it home.

— A cadet stole an ash tray from a bar and another sold Army parachutes to civilians.

— A cadet, who wanted to make it easier to cash checks, used another cadet's official cadet card to impersonate a government official while on leave in June 1974.

— A cadet bragged of walking out of the academy's tailor shop without paying for clothing.

Most of the allegations were about cheating on academy examinations. The cadet honor code makes an academy student who fails to report wrongdoing by others subject to expulsion. In all cases, more than one cadet was said to be aware of each incident.

Viking Mars landing delayed second time

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Concern about the slopes and bumps of Mars' rugged surface has once again forced delay of the Viking 1 landing, this time until July 20 at the earliest.

Originally set for July 4 and rescheduled for July 17, the touchdown of Viking's life-seeking robot lander was put off again Wednesday night after Viking officials received bad news about the target area.

That information was the result of radar observations made over the weekend by a giant radio telescope at Arecibo, P.R.

The radar study indicated that the July 17 landing site — known as the Northwest site — could well be strewn with boulders and slopes that could turn the landing into a disaster.

The roughness detected by the radar hadn't been seen in photos taken by Viking from its orbit about 1,000 miles above the surface.

But the radar also found an area to the west that appears to be much smoother. It is a region about 200 miles west of the Northwest site in an area that has not been photographed by Viking's cameras.

Viking officials planned to have the spacecraft fire a rocket burst today to send it toward the uncharted region to begin taking pictures. If the area seems as flat and smooth in the photos as it appeared in the radar study, said Project Manager Jim Martin, a landing could be made there July 20.

On the other hand, he said, if the cameras show it to be more dangerous, Viking could return to the Northwest site for a landing July 22.

The original July 4 landing site, selected long before the launch of Viking last August, had to be discarded when Viking's photographers revealed a much rougher, more knobby surface than had been expected.

Fitzsimmons under subpoena to testify

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons is testifying under subpoena before a government task force probing the finances of the union's huge Central States Pension Fund.

Fitzsimmons, a trustee of the $1.4-billion pension fund, underwent more than four hours of questioning Wednesday at the Labor Department. He was to return today.

The head of the nation's largest union was subpoenaed to appear after he refused to give a sworn deposition voluntarily. Neither he, his three lawyers accompanying him, nor the government investigators, would discuss the interrogation.

"No comment," said one attorney, refusing to even identify himself to reporters.

Fitzsimmons was the first to be questioned of six trustees of the union's Central States fund. The six were subpoenaed in a joint Labor-Justice Department investigation.

Included among the others, all of whom were to be questioned in the next several days, is William Presser of Cleveland, a Teamsters vice president who has been convicted in the past 15 years of illegally accepting payments to the union from employers, obstructing justice and illegally destroying union records.

Government investigators have reportedly uncovered cases of prohibited transactions by the fund, millions of dollars in delinquent loans and evidence of illegal kickbacks and finder's fees.

The pension fund covers more than 400,000 Teamsters in the Midwest, South and Southeast.

Girls join West Point's 'long gray line' training

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Now the work begins, women alongside men.

Today at the U.S. Military Academy, for the first time in its 174 years, women undergo with men, side by side, the rigorous two months of cadet basic training.

The women are members of the Class of 1980, and they want to be the Army officers of tomorrow.

A total of 119 of them entered the military institution Wednesday in a record class of 1,480.

The cadets rise at 5:30 a.m., starting the day with 45 minutes of physical training. When their day ends at 10 p.m., there won't be a single minute that isn't consumed by training, eating, practicing or preparing for the next day.

During cadet basic training, known here as "beast barracks," all plebes will go through rifle qualification, marches, tactical bivouacs, bayonet practice, land navigation, running, conditioning drills, organized athletics, drills and inspections and more.

"Perhaps as they go through the physical training, there may be more pressure on the average woman cadet than on the male cadet," said Lt. Gen. Sidney B. Berry, the academy's superintendent.

"But you even things out. It seems to me that there is enough pressure of high standards and short deadlines and rigid schedules and moving into the military environment — there's enough pressure on every cadet to go around in a pretty equal amount."

The superintendent concedes he originally opposed women at West Point because he considered only combat situations. After Congress ordered women admitted to the service academies — the Air Force completed last year and the Navy on Tuesday — he changed his mind.

Hospital walkout puts executives to work

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of one hospital pushed a mop and the vice president of another stacked trays after 37,000 nonmedical employees struck 33 private hospitals in the New York metropolitan area.

The walkout Wednesday morning followed a demand by nurse's aides, technicians and housekeeping staff for a cost-of-living increase and the hospitals' refusal to grant it. Hospital officials say there is no money to raise salaries because of a freeze last April on Medicaid and Blue Cross reimbursements.

With the strike on, effective surgery was curtailed, outpatient clinics were closed and ambulance service became irregular. A few incidents of vandalism were reported, and unruly pickets outside one hospital blocked traffic.

City health officials said the walkout directly affected about 20,000 patients.

The struck nonprofit private hospitals continued to function, and the city declared a health emergency, assuring a flow of supplies across picket lines and clearing the way for garbage removal.

"This strike should never have occurred," said Leon Davis, president of District 1199 of the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees. "We have been and are still willing to settle this thing in a civilized and peaceful manner, through binding arbitration if necessary."

But William J. Abelow, executive director of the League of Voluntary Hospitals, rejected the call for arbitration, saying the only solution is a contract that incurs no additional costs.

The union wants a cost-of-living increase of up to 8 per cent that was recommended last month by a federal fact-finding board. Abelow said the union's demand would boost the yearly operating deficit for the 33 hos-

Christians advancing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Christians claimed today that their forces counterattacking in northern Lebanon had pushed into Moslem territory and were advancing toward Tripoli.

"Our counterattacking forces have overrun all leftist-held villages in the northern region of Green Khoura. We turned it into a Red Khoura," said the Christian Phalange party's radio station.

"Hundreds of combatants have been killed in the savage fighting and dozens of buildings are up in flames in many retaken villages and liberated towns."

The broadcast claimed Christian forces were at the gates of Enfe, a Moslem coastal town on the approach to Moslem-held Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city.

The Moslems' joint leftist Lebanese-Palestinian command denied the claims and said the towns were changing hands frequently in the fierce fighting.

"We would have finished this thing off in two days except for the Syrian intervention to help the right-wing Fascists," said a leftist spokesman.

He said Syrian tanks were shelling the northern and southern edges of Tripoli, 60 miles north of Beirut, in an attempt to prevent Moslem reinforcements from reaching the front lines to the south.

He also charged that Syrian troops and tanks attacked the Moslem town of Halba, north of Tripoli, to prevent tribal warriors from rushing south.

The leftist forces invaded the 800-square-mile Christian enclave between Tripoli and Beirut from the north Monday in an attempt to force the Christians to abandon their attack on the Palestinians' Tal Zaatar refugee camp on the southeast side of Beirut.

The new front in the north had no effect on the two-week-old siege of Tal Zaatar. An eyewitness said about 60 per cent of the 74-acre camp has been devastated by artillery and that Christian gunners were still pounding the decreasing circle of Palestinian resistance in the camp.

Beirut Radio announced that Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat was going to Moscow after two meetings in the past 48 hours with the Soviet ambassador to Lebanon, Alexander Soldatov. The announcement, coupled with the visit of Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam to the Soviet capital Monday and Tuesday, aroused speculation that the Kremlin was trying to stop the fighting between its Syrian and Palestinian allies.

Queen's pace hectic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II faced a hectic day that includes a variety of diplomatic duties, lunch at the Capitol and a reception and dinner at her country's Embassy.

The queen and Prince Philip were to spend most of the day meeting American dignitaries. The royal couple was to dine with congressmen at a Capitol luncheon, to view the Magna Carta on loan from England at the Rotunda and to see British artworks on display in Washington.

In addition, the queen was scheduled to greet her Embassy personnel and to accept a key to the federal city.

It was the third day of a week-long visit in honor of the United States' 200th birthday and was to be highlighted by a major social event — a reception and dinner for President and Mrs. Ford at the British Embassy.

The Fords hosted a state banquet Wednesday night, the most glamorous and the largest they have given in the White House.

Mrs. Ford had said she wanted the party to be special because, among the world's queens, she considered Elizabeth to be "The Queen." The white-tie dinner under a white canopy in the White House rose garden was a major effort to impress the visiting monarch.

The 224 guests included some of the United States' wealthiest and most influential businessmen and the top officials of the government. Also in attendance were former First Lady Lady Bird Johnson, the 92-year-old Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, and entertainment and sports personalities.

After dining on Maine lobster and saddle of veal, the President and the queen exchanged toasts and clinked champagne glasses.

"In our third century, I know the United Kingdom will be on our side and the United States will be on your side," Ford told the queen. He said the continuing relationship between the two countries was "a reassuring symbol of our determination to continue the defense of freedom."

The queen wore a diamond tiara, necklace, earrings and bracelet with the blue sash of the British Order of the Garter on her striking yellow dress.

In her return toast, she noted that the times are uncertain. But, she said, "one thing is certain and that is the strength and permanence of Anglo-American friendship. May it long continue to flourish for the sake of both our countries and for the greater good of mankind."

The royal couple stayed at the party until 12:40 a.m., leaving after entertainment that included comedian Bob Hope and dancing in the state dining room. The Fords remained another hour.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

The new Jesse Jackson

There once was a time when Jesse Jackson might have led a march, tossed a molotov cocktail, spent days in jail in protest against what he considered to be a civil wrong. But he's changed. He once thought that black is beautiful, and perhaps still does. But he would add: black is also dutiful.

Jesse Jackson has been active in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Coordinating Council Community Organization and other black activists groups. His activism has taken a new turn, however. Instead of addressing the whites out there, he has turned around and is directing his oratory to members of his own race.

Listen: "I visited a high school in Los Angeles recently where the students were walking down the halls with their eyes red from the marijuana, minds empty and foggy. No self-respect, no bounds. And the debate was not whether they should smoke it, but where! And the principal of this school, a woman, was telling me that her students were wonderful! I told her that her children weren't wonderful.

I said they were little gangsters. They were rolling dice, pushing pills and dope. I told that principal that her students weren't wonderful, but that they could be. We've got to change them! Our challenge is to make flowers bloom in the desert!" So Jesse Jackson, the black minister from South Carolina who went north, has a new goal: to cultivate a generation of young black men and women dedicated to black excellence, to moral authority.

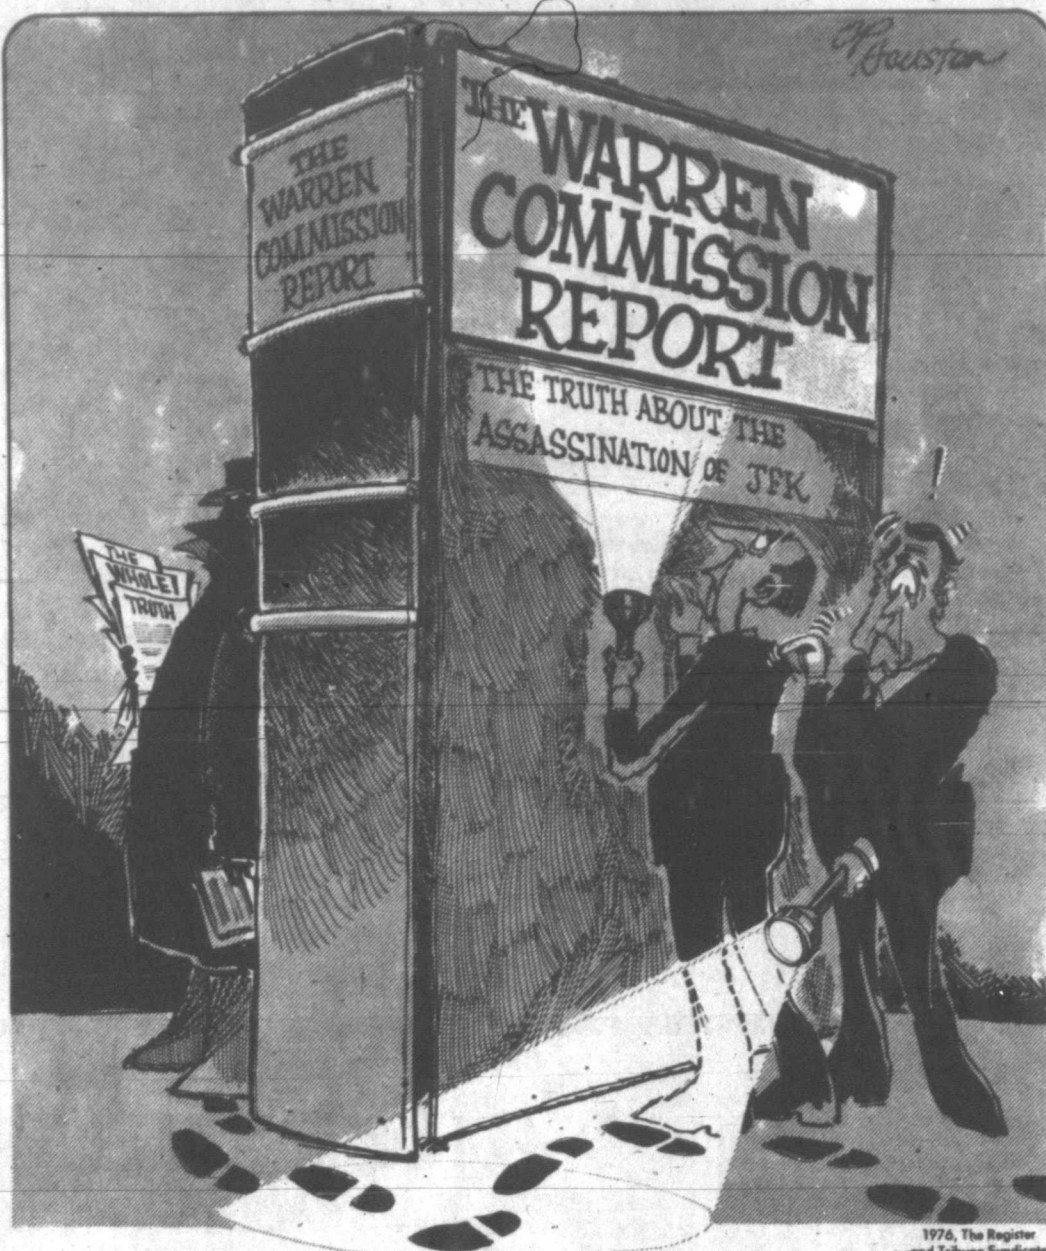

He is telling young blacks everywhere he speaks that it is time to stop getting drunk, getting high and getting pregnant. He tells the boys that they should stop studying Superfly and start studying Shakespeare. Girls should start studying books instead of their bosoms. And they must realize that "sex and violence is not the best definition of what a man and woman ought to be about. The death of ethics is the sabotage of excellence," he said in an article in the May 8 edition of The National Observer.

Said the Observer: "Excellence. That is what Jesse Jackson is about. Black academic, economic, political, athletic, artistic, and especially moral excellence. Black excellence in all its manifestations and permutations. It's not enough to be young, gifted and black. Jackson tells young audiences, if you don't face up to it, you renege on all the hard-won promises of the civil rights struggles of the '60s."

Jackson asks: "What does it matter if the doors of opportunity swing open and we are too drunk to stagger through? What does it matter if we're given an airplane and try to fly on soul rather than on science? What does it matter if we can get into the university and the university does not get into us?"

Jackson says there can be little learning without discipline. "Prayer is an element of public education that Jackson wants to see restored, and sex education is an element he wants to see deleted," the National Observer wrote. "Or at least changed drastically because there is no emphasis on responsibility."

That's Jesse Jackson, 1976 model.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Bicentennial visitors shun D.C.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON, July 8 — Despite several years of grandiose planning, elaborate organizing and far-flung publicizing, the Bicentennial is turning out to be a dismaying dud in the nation's capital.

There are plenty of ceremonies, festivals, exhibits, entertainment and other inviting events, but the anticipated millions of visitors are lacking. — Instead of the astronomical 35 to 60 million projected, latest authoritative estimates indicate a more likely total of 17.5 million. While 15 per cent more than in 1975, that would still be far less than the hoped-for record-breaking multitudes.

There is no dearth of hotel, motel and other housing facilities. Anyone who wants to come need have no concern on that score. But travel and tour agents are dolefully moaning low over floods of cancellations, and just plain scarcity of business.

Washington officials and businessmen profess to be baffled and confounded by this seeming wariness to come to the capital. They have a variety of consoling explanations — the District's, notorious high-humidity summer heat, dread of huge crowds and shortage of accommodations, reports of unfinished facilities, notably the Visitors' Center near the Capitol, etc.

A Real Problem Carefully never mentioned is a factor but unquestionably is exerting much negative weight.

Baldly and bluntly — it's crime. The nation's capital is a crime and violence-ravaged city, and sadly has that reputation throughout the country.

Not only are people fearful of coming here, they are being publicly warned to stay away. Recent striking instance of this was the angry outburst of Washington Cathedral Canon Jeffrey Cave "to the citizenry of the world not to visit Washington for the Bicentennial celebration because the capital is a human slaughterhouse of violent crime." He delivered this extraordinary declamation from his pulpit following the brutal robbery-murder in front of her home of an 85-year-old woman by two 16-year-old youths who, when tracked down by police, were released without bond by a judge on the ground "the detention facility is not a fit place for these boys."

And only a few days ago, in the ultra-liberal Washington Post was a five-column banner headline "Violent Crimes by Juveniles Rising," with the following highlights: "Every day they're there — an increasing number of juveniles, usually 15 years or younger, on trial for violent crime, including rising numbers of murders and armed robberies ... Homicide cases jumped by two-thirds in 1975, armed robbery cases exactly doubled in number; and more and more juveniles went on trial for mugging, robbery and aggravated assault."

Nan Huhn, assistant chief of the juvenile division of the U.S. Attorney's office is quoted: "The violent criminal element is constantly getting younger and the crimes they commit more horrible and less understandable. Juveniles charged with serious and violent crimes frequently have long records of contact with the law."

In And Out Definitely playing a sinister role in this appalling situation is the "revolving door" practice of D.C. judges in dealing with criminals.

Several weeks ago a judge dismissed the indictment of a defendant charged with murder on the ground she was "denied her constitutional right to a speedy trial."

And the same

During the past few months a highly-placed Federal Government official has been speaking out with surprising clarity and boldness about the real nature and cause of America's economic problems. Again and again, Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon is bluntly telling audiences that despite the current economic recovery, continuing of Washington's deficit spending policies will produce another shocking rise in prices, and further contraction of our economy.

He also makes it plain that economic ignorance, wide-spread hostility toward private enterprise, and the unwise conduct of both government and business will destroy both free enterprise and political freedom — unless corrective actions are taken.

Inasmuch as Bill Simon is a highly visible member of the President's Cabinet, he has been remarkably courageous in asserting that "government cannot accomplish everything it is attempting to do" and "cannot identify, solve and pay for all our problems" but actually "lies at the core of many of our problems."

In his outspoken diagnosis, Mr. Simon observes that government spending and deficits, its bureaucracy and regulation are hurting our prosperity. He points out, for example, that government is already borrowing four out of every five dollars in the long-term capital markets and that this has kept business from obtaining the funds it needs to underpin the recovery.

The Secretary says America has drifted much further than ever toward a centralized economy, and that we must start padding hard to restore a more competitive and open society, or resign ourselves to becoming a country "in which the large decisions about our economic

Killjoys in flight

(Wall Street Journal) The latest campaign of the Naderites is an attempt to deny pilots the solace of nicotine. The Federal Aviation Agency has been petitioned by a coalition of "public interest" lawyers to prohibit smoking by flight crews, not only in the cockpit but for eight hours before take-off. This is a trivial but characteristic example of the mentality involved.

The proposed regulation purports to further public safety on the basis of alleged evidence to the effect that smoking affects the blood and therefore the proficiency of pilots. Just as Nader failed to contrast the safety of the Corvair with that of other compact cars, his acolytes have made no effort to compare the safety records of smoking and non-smoking pilots, nor have they considered the possible effects of long abstinence on pilots' nerves.

Given their cavalier indifference to practical problems of enforcement, perhaps it is needless to note that Nader's young lawyers

NATION'S PRESS

The true Spirit of '76

By JACK LACEY
The Freeman
What has happened to the man who braved uncertainty, went out on his own, and through native wit, devotion and duty, and singleness of purpose, somehow created business and industrial activity where none existed before?

Where is the heroic figure of American folklore who was akin, perhaps, to Davy Crockett and other truly indigenous epic types — stalwart independents who hewed forests, climbed over the tops of mountains, built new communities, rose from nothing to something, and did all the things American heroes must have done to build a great nation?

He was the enterprising man. Like him or not, he is still fascinating to Americans. The reasons are not hard to find. For one thing, the great fortunes in America were built through entrepreneurial activity. America's social structure is a product of the milling efforts of thousands who came to these shores seeking their fortunes and hoping Lady Luck would beam on them. Those upon whom she smiled became great figures of power and in many cases established family dynasties persisting through many generations.

But there is considerably more than this behind the allure of the entrepreneur. His values and activities have become a part of the character of America and intimately related to our ideas of personal freedom, success, and above all, individualism. He related to our ideas of personal freedom, success, and above all, individualism. He represented the rags to riches theme in its purest sense, for he rose on his own by building a solid structure beneath him, not by social climbing. He got there by what he knew, not by who he knew. His resources were all inside, not outside.

The story of this man is a drama in which the protagonist challenged and established order and forged ahead toward the glowing light called "success" using only native wit, ability, and hard work — with perhaps a bit of luck and Calvinistic fate thrown in for good measure. He was successful because he stuck to the simple and obvious American virtues. He built a better mousetrap or provided a better service and he did these things in the best way he knew.

Today there is a connotation of manipulation, greed and avarice, and grasping acquisitiveness associated with doing business for a profit. We are taught that while it is true the entrepreneurial hero built railroads, canals, communities, industries, and great systems of trade there is also the implication that in the process he befouled nature, sullied valleys, denuded forests, muddied and contaminated the rivers and streams, scarred Mother Earth, and generally ravished the natural order of things. We are told Nature and God's creatures, including ordinary folk, all suffered at the hands of those who sought to impose their will on the natural order.

No one speaks on behalf of the enterprising man. No one says he was more constructive than destructive. No one tells us it is more important to seek opportunity than to languish in security. No one reminds us that each performance of the enterprising man ... each new business ... is a renewal of the democratic notion that all men are born equal and that the value of the individual to society does not depend upon family or social class. No longer are we told that America is the only place on earth where a man, through his own efforts, can go out and achieve the status of success.

The deeper traditions of our society, its history, myths and many of its heroic figures are falling into oblivion, buried beneath a plethora of politics that seeks to control, rule, regulate and restrict.

The symbolism expressed in the American image of the enterprising man is a profound reflection on our national history and character. We are a people who for nearly twelve generations went through the recurrent process of imposing man's will and men-conceived structures on a wilderness of primeval forests, rugged mountains, mighty rivers, unending plains, and waterless deserts. Though this resurgent effort at the moving edge of the frontier has long since ended, the spirit and the imagery must live on if free enterprise is to survive. It is the spirit of freedom that is truly the spirit of '76.

Bare Bones — Some 6.6 families — nearly 12 per cent of all households in the United States — earned less than $5,000 in 1975, according to The Conference Board. Predominant in this low-income bracket are the oldest and youngest U.S. families and those headed by women. About 31 per cent of all family heads in this income class are 65 and over, and close to 15 per cent are under 25. In addition, some 40 per cent of these families are headed by women and include children. The average income per person for these households: $1,000 a year.

Marshal's trial continues

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Testimony was to resume today in the murder trial of Frank Hayes, former Castroville city marshal accused in the 1975 slaying of a man alleged to be in his custody.

Hayes is charged with the shotgun death of Richard Morales, 29.

Defense attorneys began their argument Wednesday after the state rested its case. Hayes' attorneys called 30 character witnesses, along with other witnesses. There was speculation Hayes might take the stand during today's proceedings.

Judge dismisses indictment

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed charges of misapplying bank funds against two former officials of the Franklin Bank of Houston.

U.S. District Court Judge John V. Singleton Jr. dismissed the 12-count indictment against James Robert Lyne Jr., 41, and John B. Hooper, 34, Wednesday, less than a week before they were to be tried on the charges.

Lyne and Hooper were indicted March 15 on charges of misapplying $190,000 of Franklin Bank funds and $33,529 of Northeast Bank of Houston funds and conspiracy to misapply funds of an Orange, Tex. bank from 1970 to 1972.

LONGER LIVING
NEW YORK (AP) — Work with enzymes and enzyme-related drugs now being tested could add years to lives as well as slow down the physical and emotional effects of aging, according to "Future Fact," (Simon & Schuster) by Stephen Rosen.

Physicians, medical researchers and enzyme scientists, working on new ways to improve the health of the aged, indicate that it is realistic to expect the advent of pills which may "prolong mental and physical vigor — as well as life itself — beyond age 100," according to Rosen.

The state rested its case after calling Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Sanchez. Sanchez testified that Morales died instantly from a close-range shotgun blast under his left arm.

Willie Botallo testified for the defense that he told Hayes the day of the shooting Morales was in possession of stolen goods. "The reason I told Mr. Hayes was that he said if I didn't say those things were stolen, he'd put me in jail," Botallo said.

Morales' body was found in a shallow grave on an East Texas farm by a Texas Ranger.

A firearms expert, Ronald Richardson, testified that Morales was killed by close-range blast from a shotgun. He said under cross-examination by the defense the shotgun allegedly used in the slaying does not have a hair trigger and would be difficult to fire accidentally.

that the weapon could have discharged accidentally.

A Texas Department of Public Safety chemist, Janice Hodgkins, said she identified blood found in Hayes' car as human blood. She said she could not match soil on shovels and hoes belonging to Hayes to the dirt at Morales' grave site.

A D.P.S. fingerprint expert said he could not lift fingerprints from the shovels and hoes.

Alibates tour hours change

On a trial basis, late afternoon tours will be conducted by the National Park Service at Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument.

The new tours, designed for a cooler and less windy time of day, will begin at 6 p.m. from the contact station in Bates Canyon, Lake Meredith Recreation Area. The late afternoon tours will be conducted only on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays, starting July 9.

Earlier tours are set for 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The park service suggests visitors wear hiking boots, bring a canteen of water and perhaps wear a head covering. Tours include a walk up a fairly steep trail to the monument area and are approximately two hours long.

Nine more Dutch heart patients tested in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Nine Dutch heart patients began tests today prior to planned corrective heart surgery at the Texas Heart Institute in the Texas Medical Center.

The nine were the second group of Dutch patients flown here under a program which could mean at least 300 patients from Holland in the next year.

The nine arrived Wednesday as the first seven Dutch patients who underwent heart surgery June 25 at the institute were discharged. A spokesman at the institute said the first seven were expected to return to their homeland in a few days.

The patients are being flown here through arrangements by the Dutch Heart Patients Association. A spokesman for the association said inadequate facilities and overcrowded hospitals in Holland has forced patients to wait months for surgery.

If surgery is determined, the nine probably will be operated on Friday by teams headed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley, chief of cardiovascular surgery at the institute.

The latest group includes a five year old boy and eight men ranging in age from 36 to 60.

DENTISTS
FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Cathleen Kowalski, 24, of Danbury, Conn., recently became the second member of her family to be graduated from the University of Connecticut School of Dental Medicine.

Her older brother, Chester, took his dental degree from the school in 1974.

A younger brother, Kenneth, is due to graduate from the dental school in 1978.

Iran will be the host for the 15th World Scout Jamboree in 1979, an event which was first held in England in 1920.

AIM trial hears FBI head

By VIRGINIA TYSON
Associated Press Writer
CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley has defended the policies of federal authorities toward American Indians at Pine Ridge, S.D., a year ago by saying that reservation is "more dangerous perhaps to FBI agents" than other parts of the country.

Kelley, under a threat of contempt charges, testified Wednesday at the murder trial of two American Indian Movement members.

Defense attorney William Kunstler tried to show that an atmosphere of violence prevailed at the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. He said that should be the trial's basic issue.

Kunstler heads a seven-member team defending two Oregon men, Robert Robideau and Darrelle Butler. They are charged with murder in the shooting deaths of FBI agents Jack Coler and Ronald Williams, both of the Los Angeles area, on June 24, 1975.

Kelley testified that about 150 FBI agents, backed by helicopters and armed with battlefield equipment, arrived at the reservation shortly after the shootings.

The deaths of the agents, Kunstler said, was a "tragic confrontation, not murder."

"Is life on the reservation more dangerous than in other parts of the country?" Kunstler asked Kelley.

"More dangerous perhaps to FBI agents," Kelley replied.

"There have been two agents slain there."

Kelley told a U.S. District Court jury here that the American Indian Movement was not targeted by the FBI as an "un-American or subversive" group. He said that it had "many fine people" with fine goals.

But, in later testimony, Kelley said AIM was mentioned in a weekly FBI publication, "Domestic Terrorist Digest."

Kelley testified after he was ordered to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for failing to appear Tuesday in response to a subpoena.

The contempt issue did not come up in the courtroom Wednesday. Kelley returned to Washington later in the day.

Also subpoenaed for the defense were Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y. Kunstler said Church and Pike are away from Washington and have not been served with their subpoenas.

sentative went to take food to his mother on Sunday evening, after the Israeli raid, she was not there.

He appealed to Ugandan President Idi Amin to send his mother home.

"On behalf of her children and grandchildren we beg you to release Dora Bloch and send her back to her family," Hartuv said in a cable to Amin. "I believe your promise given to us in Entebbe not to harm innocent people. Please send Dora Bloch back to us."

Hartuv, a 48-year-old economist, said the Arab doctor provided by Amin on Friday ordered his mother taken to Muga general hospital in an ambulance.

"I asked the hijackers if I could go with her but the German girl (one of the hijackers) said it was not possible," Hartuv said.

Later Friday another of the terrorists, who said he lived in South America and spoke English and Spanish, told Hartuv that the hospital had decided not to treat his mother until Saturday.

"I knew the university hospital was a good one," said Hartuv in a telephone interview.

Raid missed hostage

os rescued more than 100 hostages from pro-Palestinian hijackers in Uganda is missing, her son said today.

Dora Bloch and her son, Ilan Hartuv, were among the passengers of the Air France jet hijacked 11 days ago. Mrs. Bloch, who holds both Israeli and British citizenship, was taken to a Kampala hospital last Friday when a piece of food stuck in her throat. Israelis raided the airport Saturday night and rescued the other hostages, including her son.

Hartuv said British Embassy officials in Tel Aviv told his family that when their representative went to take food to his mother on Sunday evening, after the Israeli raid, she was not there.

He appealed to Ugandan President Idi Amin to send his mother home.

"On behalf of her children and grandchildren we beg you to release Dora Bloch and send her back to her family," Hartuv said in a cable to Amin. "I believe your promise given to us in Entebbe not to harm innocent people. Please send Dora Bloch back to us."

Ford, libbers clash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal ban on school-sponsored mother-daughter and father-son events irritated President Ford so much that he ordered it rescinded. But a women's group says such functions perpetuate sexual stereotypes and should be eliminated.

Ford ordered a study to determine if single-sex social events violate federal sex discrimination laws, as alleged by the civil rights office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Wednesday that Ford was irritated when he read of the ruling banning single-sex school events.

The HEW ruling was in response to an inquiry from the Scottsdale, Ariz., public schools, which sponsor father-son banquets and mother-daughter teas. Scottsdale officials wanted to know whether the events violated the laws prohibiting sex discrimination in public schools.

Officially, the ruling issued last week was suspended pending research by lawyers to determine whether Title IX of the Civil Rights Act is violated by such events.

Nessen said that if it is found that the law is being violated, Ford would immediately send legislation to Congress to change the law.

The National Organization for Women took opposition to Ford's stand.

"We are watching Title IX being nickled and dimed to death," charged Lynda Weston, a NOW staff member.

Dividing the sexes for school-sponsored fashion shows, softball games, banquets and breakfasts is a tradition in many communities.

"What happens is you get the girls together with the moms and you have teas and awards for sewing and fashion shows. You get the boys and dads together and you have community leaders come in and give rousing speeches," the NOW official said.

Other opponents argue such affairs are unfair to children with only one parent.

Ford phoned HEW Secretary David Mathews and "expressed displeasure at the ruling," said Nessen. "The President advised the secretary that he cannot believe that it was the intent of Congress to prohibit mother-daughter or father-son events at schools."

Nancy Low, spokeswoman for the civil rights office, said that after a five-month study the office determined that such events were prohibited by the antidiscrimination law.

"Arbitrary separation of the sexes is not permitted," she said.

Mathews, disclosing that HEW planned no enforcement action regarding the events during its review, said the department "will advise any school wishing to have such events to proceed."

Girl in hospital for blood disorder

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department medical specialist says a 3-year-old American girl removed from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow has been hospitalized in the United States for treatment of a "bizarre" blood disorder.

The girl was one of two children brought out two weeks ago at the direction of doctors investigating possible health effects of microwave radiation being beamed at the Embassy by the Soviets. The second child, also a 3-year-old, has since returned to the Soviet capital.

Dr. Herbert Pollack, a radiation medicine specialist, said Wednesday that doctors were trying to diagnose the cause of the blood disorder found in the hospitalized child.

"It's one of the most unusual, bizarre things I've seen in my 50 years of medicine," said Pollack, a professor emeritus of medicine at George Washington University.

He admitted that the cause of either blood problem had not yet been fully pinpointed, but he insisted that "neither situation was due to radiation—that is, absolute, straightforward, above-board fact."

He refused to name either child or to detail the symptoms of their illnesses.

Meanwhile, a State Department spokesman said that although the strength of the Soviet microwaves aimed at the Embassy has been "greatly reduced," U.S. officials remain concerned that the Soviets have not completely stopped the radiation bombardment.

"Frankly, we regret that the Soviets have failed to turn off the transmissions completely, thereby, in our judgment, demonstrating a lack of concern for the living and working conditions of our people in Moscow," spokesman Robert Funseth told reporters Wednesday.

The purpose of the Soviet radiation remains unclear. Most speculation has focused on possible use of the microwave beams to foil U.S. electronic eavesdropping equipment mounted on the Embassy's roof.

Funseth also disclosed that the State Department's medical division has signed a contract with Johns Hopkins University "to provide us with a detailed evaluation and a broad biostatistical survey" of the medical histories of U.S. personnel assigned to Moscow.

Police report

Pampa Police Department officers are investigating a case of suspected arson which occurred Wednesday night. Neighbors discovered a vehicle parked on Rose Street with flames coming from the gas tank.

Officers said someone had removed the cap and stuffed a red grease rag in the neck of tank, and set fire to it.

Damage was light, according to the report.

A case of simple assault was reported at 2122 Alcock.

Theft reports include a missing air conditioner from the Community Day Care Center, a 10 speed bicycle from 423 N. Somerville, a tool box from 429 N. Wells, a stolen van from 301 E. Francis, and a Citizens Band radio from 1001 N. Sumner.

An attempted burglary was reported at 513 Lowry where a garage door was kicked open.

FDIC aids bank depositors
ing depositors, possibly as soon as Friday morning.

Wednesday's decision followed a day-long hearing in which attorneys for bank owner Enrique Salinas of Eagle Pass tried to work out a plan to keep the bank operating.

Citizens State was shut down by State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart June 28.

Salinas' attorney, Arthur Mitchell of Austin, notified the court Wednesday night he will appeal the action to the 4th Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio.

FDIC regional counsel Charles Pickett said he did not think the appeal would delay his agency's payments to depositors.

"Some 5,000 area residents are due payments up to the $40,000 ceiling, Pickett said.

Depositors with more money must wait until assets are liquidated and surpluses distributed.

The bank closing followed a two-week examination by state and federal examiners, who reported finding as much as $3.3 million in uncollectable loans. Examiners also reported finding books out of balance by as much as $550,000.

Those and other discrepancies sparked investigations by the FBI, Texas attorney general's office and other law enforcement officials.

After the June 28 closing, Salinas won a shot-lived temporary restraining order from Judge Kazen, briefly reopening the bank.

A squad of assistant attorneys general rushed to Laredo and convinced the judge to nullify his order.

Church plans Friday film screening
"The Rapture," a new color film that deals with Bible prophecy and the return of Christ, will be shown at the Bethel Assembly of God in Pampa at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The film, officials said, adds a new dimension to the ministry of David Wilkerson, who pioneered a gospel ministry that is now world-wide in scope.

He also authored "The Cross and the Switchblade."

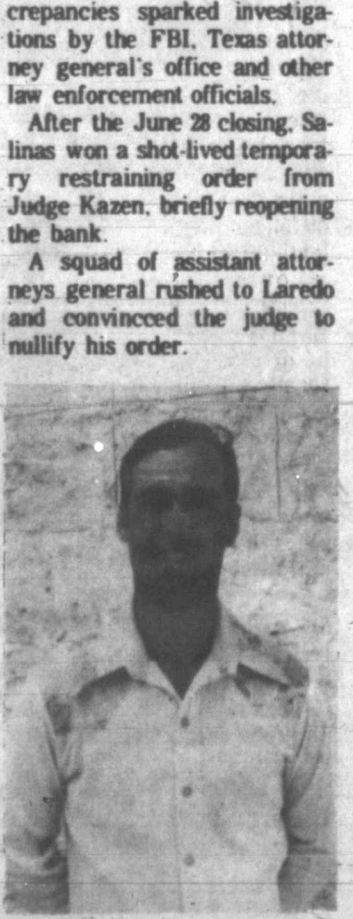

The Rev. Paul DeWolfe, pastor, said the public is invited to attend the special service. Those who need transportation may call 669-3675 or 669-7212.

Former Pampan to tell how he kicked drugs
The use of drugs and the problems of rehabilitation will be discussed at the Saturday meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Association.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Senior Citizens Center.

Speaker will be Michael Heiskell, formerly of Pampa and now of Oklahoma City.

The public is invited, officials said.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know you'll think I'm crazy, but here goes:
I am a 20-year-old college student who has a very strong desire to be babied.

It all started about six years ago when my older sister began telling me how I used to laugh and thrash happily around while my mother diapered me. Now I derive great pleasure out of just thinking of having a woman powder and diaper me. My desire to experience it again has become so strong that I have actually pinned a diaper on myself and wet myself.

I hope some day to marry a nice woman who will go along with this harmless little game of "playing baby," and agree to powder and diaper me.

I'm normal in every other way and have made the Dean's list, so I'm not crazy. Is there anything wrong with wanting to be a baby again? Please advise me, Abby, and try not to laugh.

WANTS TO BE BABIED IN GA.

DEAR WANTS: I am not laughing. Your strong desire to regress to your baby days and have a woman focus her attention on your genital area could indicate a serious emotional problem requiring expert help—perhaps psychoanalysis.

You can search the world for a woman who will "baby" you and change your diapers, and if you find her, have her see a psychiatrist, too. A marriage of emotional children is a real bumper. Get help.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents were divorced after 30 years of a very bad marriage.

My father-in-law was in business for himself and had an affair with his secretary, who was about my age. After the divorce, my father-in-law married this young secretary.

How do we introduce his new wife? Since we're about the same age, I can't very well call her my "stepmother."

Also, what should my children call her? They now call her by her first name.

PANAMA CITY, FLA.

DEAR PAN: I think you should introduce her as "my father-in-law's new wife." And your children should continue to call her by her first name.

DEAR ABBY: I have a great deal of respect for that man who sniffs his food before he eats it. (His lady friend found it a "disgusting" habit.)

I've never known a dog to trust his eyes when it comes to food. He trusts his nose, however, and he's absolutely right.

If human beings would take a good whiff of what they are about to eat, there would be a lot less food consumed and fewer bellyaches.

NOSEY AT MEALTIME

DEAR NOSEY: "Sniffing" food indicates that there are doubts about its edibility, which is no compliment to the host. So if sniffing is in order, it should be done subtly.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have had my gall bladder removed but have had terrible gas pains ever since. I try to do the things the doctors advocate—eat less at a time, eat slowly without gulping, etc. but I still have a lot of trouble. My doctor says don't eat roughage. I have curtailed it but need a certain amount so that I don't get constipated.

I wonder if the same diet that helps when your gall bladder is not at peak function would work for me? I am getting to the point where my social life is curtailed because of this. Could you give me any pointers which could help me?

DEAR READER—Gas pains may not be from gall bladder problems at all. Almost everyone has gas but with normal digestive functions most people are totally unaware of it. The pain usually comes from the gas being trapped in the colon and associated spasm or squeezing action of the colon. When the gas is under pressure, where the colon bends, it stretches or distends the colon and causes pain. If the spasm in the colon relaxes, the gas is no longer trapped and the distention and pain disappear.

Your comment about "roughage" makes me think you have an underlying colon problem, specifically a spastic colon. These types of complaints are often there before a person has a gall bladder operation and may even be confused with symptoms of gall bladder disease. When that is the case they will still be there after surgery.

Symptoms may follow surgery because of the interrupted normal pattern of living. And symptoms may follow an illness that has affected the bowels, such as infectious gastroenteritis (food poisoning).

Most everyone swallows air. You can't prevent it and swallow food and water. Some people do develop a nervous habit of swallowing lots of air and may not be aware of it. Air trapped in the stomach then causes burping and an immediate sense of fullness when you eat.

Other people form gas, often because they lack enzymes normally in the intestines. That results in undigested food which ferments. A loss of tolerance to milk, because of loss of enzymes and inability to digest the double sugar lactose can also cause this problem. I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8 Controlling Gaseousness, to give you a more complete understanding about the problem of gas. Others who have gas problems and want to know what they can do about it can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You can check to see if you are swallowing too much air by holding an eraser between your teeth. That will make swallowing more difficult and will alert you to the problem. It is a good way to help break the habit.

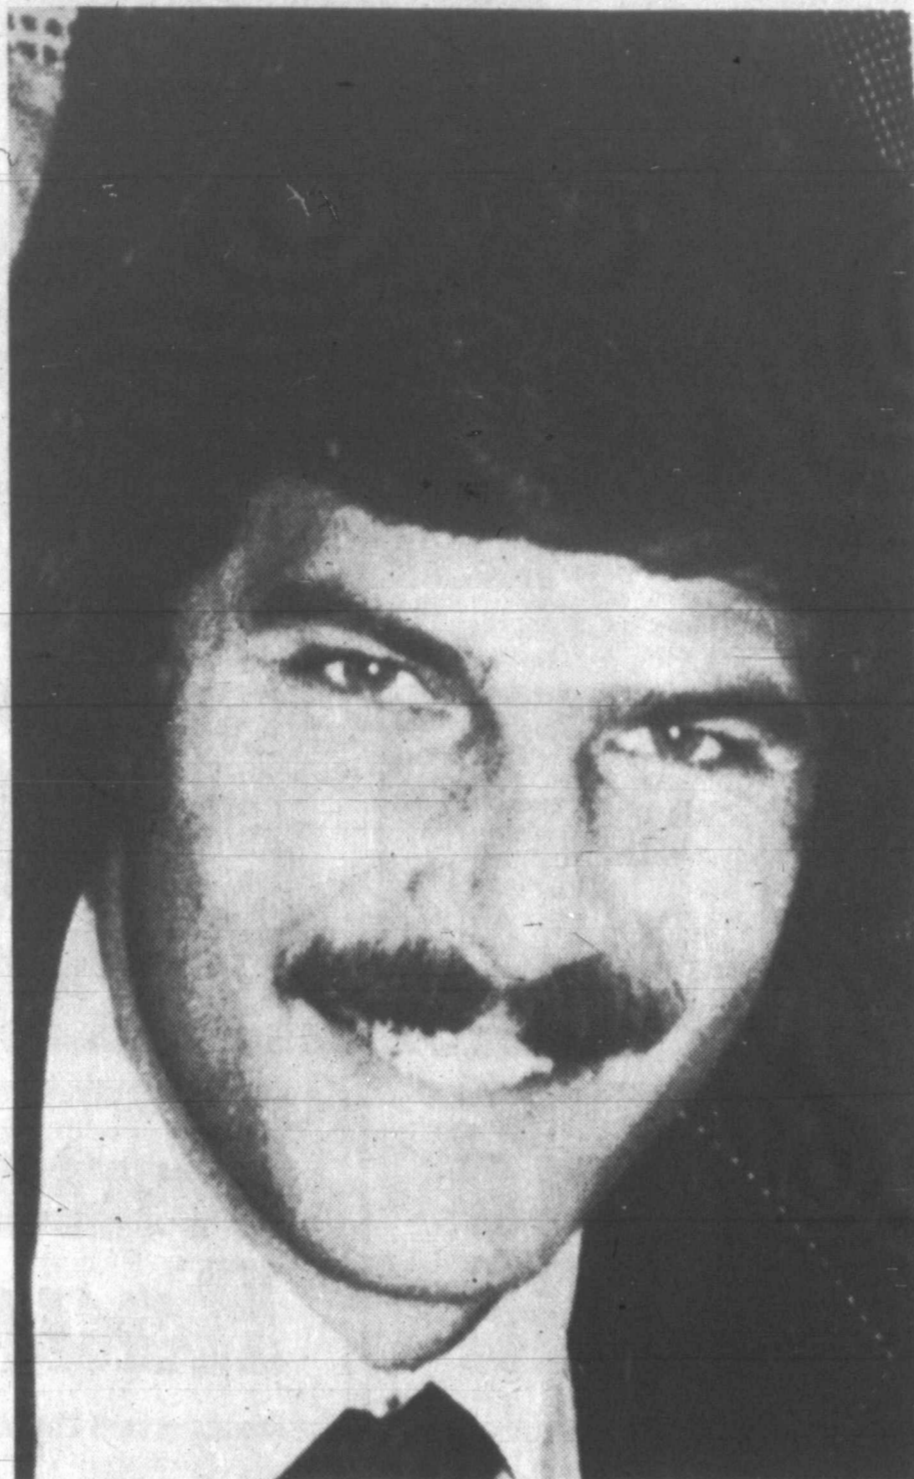

Also I think you should eliminate all milk and all milk products (including milk chocolate bars and milk used in cooking) to see if that is your real problem. It may be a temporary problem in view of your recent operation. You might limit your fat intake in deference to your recent gall bladder surgery. And I am very skeptical that cutting down on bulk, such as bran in cereals will help at all. I suspect you do need that "softage" for normal colon function which may improve your condition.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is that the waistbands to pantyhose are so small, even on the queen size ones. This makes one's tummy pop right out and it is most uncomfortable to be squeezed into a tiny waistband. Also, I wonder why manufacturers sew the waist elastic onto slacks. In order to lengthen the elastic that is usually too tight, one has to rip off the entire waistband. Leave that elastic loose, please.—ELLEN.

DEAR READERS and DELORES—As usual our readers have come up with some different ways to solve a problem. Gene wrote that she has three long haired dogs. She finds rubbing a damp sponge over a surface, in one direction only, will roll the dog hair up into a ball that is very easy to pick up with the vacuum or even the hand. Genevieve uses a brush hair roller for removing dog hairs. Isabell, a beauty shop owner, says a puff ball of nylon net is used in her shop to remove hairs from customer's clothing. It seems to work on everything, so she suggests trying it on the dog hairs on Delores' blanket. Thanks to all of you and the many others who sent in answers.—POLLY.

MARK SPITZ had it all in 1972... fame, the promise of fortune, and then... "I never knew how far down someone could drop, especially after being so high." It's a very different MARK SPITZ who returns to the scene of his Olympic triumphs this summer.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

Next to the oarsman on a slave ship whose captain wanted to water ski, the most maligned persons on the face of this earth is the teenager who has just landed his first full-time job.

No one suffers more and is appreciated less. Many of these "slaves" have heard stories of men who got up each morning, were fully clothed by 7:00 and on the job by 8:30, but they discarded these as venomous rumors—the kind circulated in Berlin in the 1940s.

My son considers himself a "human sacrifice" on the altar of the Church of the Establishment. He was 15 before we could use the word "employment" in front of him. The word broke his face out and he preferred we spell it. The way he explained it to us on the eve of his marriage to a paycheck. "This is an exercise in group persecution, isn't it? All of you have run the course and now before I come of age, I have to prove that I can hack the 9-5 number. Is that it? Okay, you win. If I have to prove that I'm mature, I'll get the dumb full-time J-O-B...jjjj...jjooo...joob!"

Maybe a lot of you know my son—or at least have heard of him.

He's the only employed person who has to work all day and then come home and feed himself.

He's the only dedicated teenager in North America to work when the "gang" went tubing down the river one Wednesday afternoon.

He's the first person to ever have half of his paycheck withheld for some service which he has never requested (federal income tax, hospitalization, Social Security, etc.). As he stated, "Someone is going to hear about this!"

He stands alone as the only worker who is dominated by a senile boss (age 35) who engages in office brutality by insisting he arrive on time in the mornings, and after lunch.

He's the only full-time worker in the country who has not gained the respect of family and friends for his contribution to labor.

Last Saturday, I tapped him on the shoulder. "Hey, George Meany, out of the sack. It's the crack of noon."

My son rolled over. "I do not believe this is happening to a working person," he said. "All week long, I work five days a week, eight hours a day, and what do I get for it?"

"You get all your meals served like a sultan, your bedroom cleaned, your clothes washed and ironed and a full-time old family retainer—me!"

Something tells me I'll have the first kid to retire three years before he has anything to retire from.

Mechanical heart removed

HOUSTON (AP)—A mechanical heart pumping device that had kept a 44-year-old woman alive for six days was removed Tuesday by surgeons at Texas Heart Institute and she remained in critical condition.

The patient, whose identity was kept secret by institute officials, remained in the intensive care unit Tuesday night.

She is at least the fifth person to have an abdominal left ventricular assist device (LVAD) implanted at the institute since last November.

Although the LVAD was removed, the woman's own heart still was being aided by an intra-aortic balloon assist pump, a hospital official said.

The woman underwent a triple coronary artery bypass operation last Wednesday, but when her surgeons had difficulty getting her own heart functioning the LVAD was implanted.

Requests for information about the patient or previous LVAD implants here have been referred to Dr. Peter Frommer, associate director of the cardiology program of the National Heart and Lung Institute.

At the time human use of the abdominal-LVAD was announced by Frommer last Octo-

The shine wore off Mark Spitz's medals

By Ira Berkow

MONTREAL — The sunlight coming through the hotel window seemed to strike too harshly on Mark Spitz's tanned face, smooth except for the trace of boy-like blemishes on his right cheek and the black mustache that allows him at age 26 to look older than a teenager.

He was in Montreal in preparation for the 1976 Olympics in which he will be a color commentator for swimming for ABC television.

Spitz sat now in a green chair and wore a blue-and-gold-striped rubber jersey and blue jeans. His bare feet were propped up on a footstool. His toes appear more bulbous than most, his feet and ankles are thick, too.

He is about 5 feet 9 inches tall and his legs are not particularly long but he has the unusual ability to flex his lower legs slightly forward at the knees, permitting him to kick six to 12 inches deeper in the water than his swimming opponents. It was an advantage that helped him at the 1972 Munich Olympic Games win an unprecedented seven gold medals.

His triumphs — before the marvel of a world-wide television audience — made him nearly instantly one of the most famous people on the face of the earth.

On the morning following his seventh gold-medal victory Spitz was escorted to a press conference to discuss, he thought, his swimming. When he got there, he found "pandemonium." He learned for the first time that terrorists had invaded the quarters of Israeli Olympians.

"I was hit with a barrage of questions about it," said Spitz. "I didn't know what to say. I was shocked, stunned, you name it. The press wanted my words because, first, I was Jewish, and second they thought I was some kind of spokesman for the athletes."

"My swimming coaches were there. They kept saying to the press, 'That's an unfair question. Mark's no authority,' and so on and so on."

"Some people thought I was hushed up. I wasn't hushed up. And I wasn't hard-hearted. I didn't know what to say, except that I thought it was a terrible, terrible thing. Then I was taken out of there and returned to my room."

"Nine secret service men were waiting for me there."

Mrs. Owens to be chairman for campaign

The 1976 chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation campaign is Mrs. Tommy Owens of Skellytown.

Little more than a decade ago the Foundation was working to keep Cystic Fibrosis youngsters alive long enough to start to school. Now we are trying to help some of these same patients who have grown to young adulthood, enter college and find jobs. Mrs. Owens said.

The 1976 campaign will begin with a door-to-door march in September.

"This has never been told before, but I was asked to leave Munich. The International Olympic Committee, The German Munich police and the United States State Department all asked me to leave. They thought it was dangerous for me to stay. I was told to pack my things immediately."

"Well, the television was on and, for the first time, I saw one of those white-hooded guys on the balcony. The newscasters were told to say I was on a boat to the United States, while I sat and watched in my room in Munich. Frankly, I was scared to hell. I was taken to England, and then to the United States."

"What was I to do? What was I to say? But I am certain of one thing. It was the beginning of the end for me."

Mark blinked several times as the sun hit him. But it wasn't the sun that made him blink. It is a nervous habit, as his slight stammer when beginning some sentences.

"I had wanted so much to bask in my wins," he continued. "I had worked my tail off for 14 years for this moment. I had set a goal four years ago to win at least one individual gold medal, after I won only a individual silver one in Mexico City in the '68 Olympics."

"Oh, man. I wanted to walk to the track, walk around the Olympic Village, and have people come over to me, congratulate me — I felt like a cat who wants to lick the milk all over my chops. And then the tragedy struck."

"I prepared myself carefully for the four years leading up to 1972. There was never any way I could have prepared myself for what happened in the next four years."

"There was nothing left for me to do in athletics. I mean, should I strive for eight gold medals in '76? That was ludicrous. I actually nailed myself to the wall as a swimming competitor."

"When I returned home, I was treated as something special. I had tremendous opportunities to make a lot of money. Well, I know that athletes have taken advantage of this — Joe Namath cut off his mustache on TV for $10,000, for example. Swimmers never had such a chance, though. Now I did. I endorsed products. I was asked to do TV variety shows, got book offers, business deals — well, I got an agent, and I tried to get the best of it."

"But my biggest mistake was that I became practically a recluse after the Olympics. I didn't know how to handle all this criticism. I didn't know how to handle the press.

"I'd been swimming since I was 10 — when I set my first world record — but I never until now spent much time talking about myself to the press. Every interview seemed to be like I was on a psychiatrist's couch. I began to listen to myself talk. And I hated it. It all seemed so meaningless. Over and over again, what I thought, what I felt — I became sick of myself. I never knew how far down someone could drop, especially after being up so high."

Apparently, Spitz had never been challenged like this, where he was expected to explain views, theories, opinions on matters from politics to advertising integrity that he had rarely ever considered before. He had always been told how to train, when to go to bed, what to eat. Now, he was in a new and frightening and, worst of all, a seemingly alien environment.

"It took a few years to realize that, gee whiz, what do I care if I don't meet the expectations of people I don't even know. Maybe I began to grow up. I began to realize that not all interviewers hated me before they talked to me. I stopped always trying to defend myself. I opened up a little. I began to be happier with myself."

"I began to become more accessible. Then one late afternoon a few months ago I was on a radio talk show in Miami. A woman called and really ripped into me. It was unbelievable. She said I was a rotten Jew, a rotten American, a rotten representative of the Olympics because she said I had fled Munich."

"The engineers finally shut her off. The host on the show began to apologize profusely to me. I hadn't said a word. Then a call came in from a man who said he had just driven off the road to telephone. He said, 'I want you to know how much I disagreed with that woman. What did she expect you to do, grab a bayonet and single-handedly fight the Arabs?'"

"Then another call supporting me. And another. Pretty soon the place was lighting up like a battlefield with people coming to my defense. I felt like crying. It was fantastic. It was the most remarkable thing that ever happened to me in my life."

AIM trial hears FBI head

By VIRGINIA TYSON
Associated Press Writer
CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley has defended the policies of federal authorities toward American Indians at Pine Ridge, S.D., a year ago by saying that reservation is "more dangerous perhaps to FBI agents" than other parts of the country.

Kelley, under a threat of contempt charges, testified Wednesday at the murder trial of two American Indian Movement members.

Defense attorney William Kunstler tried to show that an atmosphere of violence prevailed at the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. He said that should be the trial's basic issue.

Kunstler heads a seven-member team defending two Oregon men, Robert Robideau and Darrell Butler. They are charged with murder in the shooting deaths of FBI agents Jack Coler and Ronald Williams, both of the Los Angeles area, on June 24, 1975.

Kelley testified that about 150 FBI agents, backed by helicopters and armed with battlefield equipment, arrived at the reservation shortly after the shootings.

The deaths of the agents, Kunstler said, was a "tragic confrontation, not murder."

"Is life on the reservation more dangerous than in other parts of the country?" Kunstler asked Kelley.

"More dangerous perhaps to FBI agents," Kelley replied.

"There have been two agents slain there."

Kelley told a U.S. District Court jury here that the American Indian Movement was not targeted by the FBI as an "un-American or subversive" group. He said that it had "many fine people" with fine goals.

But, in later testimony, Kelley said AIM was mentioned in a weekly FBI publication, "Domestic Terrorist Digest."

Kelley testified after he was ordered to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for failing to appear Tuesday in response to a subpoena.

The contempt issue did not come up in the courtroom Wednesday. Kelley returned to Washington later in the day.

Also subpoenaed for the defense were Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y. Kunstler said Church and Pike are away from Washington and have not been served with their subpoenas.

But, in later testimony, Kelley said AIM was mentioned in a weekly FBI publication, "Domestic Terrorist Digest."

Raid missed hostage

os rescued more than 100 hostages from pro-Palestinian hijackers in Uganda is missing, her son said today.

Dora Bloch and her son, Ilan Hartuv, were among the passengers of the Air France jet hijacked 11 days ago. Mrs. Bloch, who holds both Israeli and British citizenship, was taken to a Kampala hospital last Friday when a piece of fog stuck in her throat. Israelis raided the airport Saturday night and rescued the other hostages, including her son.

Hartuv said British Embassy officials in Tel Aviv told his family that when their repre-sative went to take food to his mother on Sunday evening, after the Israeli raid, she was not there.

He appealed to Ugandan President Idi Amin to send his mother home.

"On behalf of her children and grandchildren we beg you to release Dora Bloch and send her back to her family," Hartuv said in a cable to Amin. "I believe your promise given to us in Entebbe not to harm innocent people. Please send Dora Bloch back to us."

Hartuv, a 48-year-old economist, said the Arab doctor provided by Amin on Friday ordered his mother taken to Mulago general hospital in an ambulance.

"I asked the hijackers if I could go with her but the German girl (one of the hijackers) said it was not possible," Hartuv said.

Later Friday another of the terrorists, who said he lived in South America and spoke English and Spanish, told Hartuv that the hospital had decided not to treat his mother until Saturday.

"I knew the university hospital was a good one," said Hartuv in a telephone interview.

Ford, libbers clash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal ban on school-sponsored mother-daughter and father-son events irritated President Ford so much that he ordered it rescinded. But a women's group says such functions perpetuate sexual stereotypes and should be eliminated.

Ford ordered a study to determine if single-sex social events violate federal sex discrimination laws, as alleged by the civil rights office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Wednesday that Ford was irritated when he read of the ruling banning single-sex school events.

The HEW ruling was in response to an inquiry from the Scottsdale, Ariz., public schools, which sponsor father-son banquets and mother-daughter teas. Scottsdale officials wanted to know whether the events violated the laws prohibiting sex discrimination in public schools.

Officially, the ruling issued last week was suspended pending research by lawyers to determine whether Title IX of the Civil Rights Act is violated by such events.

Nessen said that if it is found that the law is being violated, Ford would immediately send legislation to Congress to change the law.

The National Organization for Women took opposition to Ford's stand.

"We are watching Title IX being nickled and dimed to death," charged Lynda Weston, a NOW staff member.

Dividing the sexes for school-sponsored fashion shows, softball games, banquets and breakfasts is a tradition in many communities.

"What happens is you get the girls together with the moms and you have teas and awards for sewing and fashion shows. You get the boys and dads together and you have community leaders come in and give rousing speeches," the NOW official said.

Other opponents argue such affairs are unfair to children with only one parent.

Ford phoned HEW Secretary David Mathews and "expressed displeasure at the ruling," said Nessen. "The President advised the secretary that he cannot believe that it was the intent of Congress to prohibit mother-daughter or father-son events at schools."

Nancy Low, spokeswoman for the civil rights office, said that after a five-month study the office determined that such events were prohibited by the antidiscrimination law.

"Arbitrary separation of the sexes is not permitted," she said.

Mathews, disclosing that HEW planned no enforcement action regarding the events during its review, said the department "will advise any school wishing to have such events to proceed."

He appealed to Ugandan President Idi Amin to send his mother home.

Girl in hospital for blood disorder

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department medical specialist says a 3-year-old American girl removed from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow has been hospitalized in the United States for treatment of a "bizarre" blood disorder.

The girl was one of two children brought out two weeks ago at the direction of doctors investigating possible health effects of microwave radiation being beamed at the Embassy by the Soviets. The second child, also a 3-year-old, has since returned to the Soviet capital.

Dr. Herbert Pollack, a radiation medicine specialist, said Wednesday that doctors were trying to diagnose the cause of the blood disorder found in the hospitalized child.

"It's one of the most unusual, bizarre things I've seen in my 50 years of medicine," said Pollack, a professor emeritus of medicine at George Washington University.

He admitted that the cause of either blood problem had not yet been fully pinpointed, but he insisted that "neither situation was due to radiation — that is absolute, straight-forward, above-board fact."

He refused to name either child or to detail the symptoms of their illnesses.

Meanwhile, a State Department spokesman said that although the strength of the Soviet microwaves aimed at the Embassy has been "greatly reduced," U.S. officials remain concerned that the Soviets have not completely stopped the radiation bombardment.

"Frankly, we regret that the Soviets have failed to turn off the transmissions completely, thereby, in our judgment, demonstrating a lack of concern for the living and working conditions of our people in Moscow," spokesman Robert Funseth told reporters Wednesday.

The purpose of the Soviet radiation remains unclear.

Most speculation has focused on possible use of the microwave beams to foil U.S. electronic eavesdropping equipment mounted on the Embassy's roof.

Funseth also disclosed that the State Department's medical division has signed a contract with Johns Hopkins University "to provide us with a detailed evaluation and a broad biostatistical survey" of the medical histories of U.S. personnel assigned to Moscow.

Police report

Pampa Police Department officers are investigating a case of suspected arson which occurred Wednesday night. Neighbors discovered a vehicle parked on Rose Street with flames coming from the gas tank.

Officers said someone had removed the cap and stuffed a red grease rag in the neck of tank, and set fire to it.

Damage was light, according to the report.

A case of simple assault was reported at 2122 Alcock.

Theft reports include a missing air conditioner from the Community Day Care Center, a 10 speed bicycle from 423 N. Somerville, a tool box from 429 N. Wells, a stolen van from 301 E. Francis, and a Citizens Band radio from 1001 N. Sumner.

An attempted burglary was reported at 513 Lowry where a garage door was kicked open.

FDIC aids bank depositors

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — State Dist. Court Judge E. James Kazen cleared the way Wednesday for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to begin paying depositors in the Citizens State Bank of Carrizo Springs.

Kazen allowed the closure of the bank and dissolved restraints on the state banking commissioner to allow bank assets to be liquidated. That action allows FDIC to begin paying depositors, possibly as soon as Friday morning.

Wednesday's decision followed a day-long hearing in which attorneys for bank owner Enrique Salinas of Eagle Pass tried to work out a plan to keep the bank operating.

Citizens State was shut down by State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart June 28.

Salinas' attorney, Arthur Mitchell of Austin, notified the court Wednesday night he will appeal the action to the 4th Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio.

FDIC regional counsel Charles Pickett said he did not think the appeal would delay his agency's payments to depositors.

Church plans Friday film screening

"The Rapture," a new color film that deals with Bible prophecy and the return of Christ, will be shown at the Bethel Assembly of God in Pampa at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The film, officials said, adds a new dimension to the ministry of David Wilkerson, who pioneered a gospel ministry that is now world-wide in scope.

He also authored "The Cross and the Switchblade."

The Rev. Paul DeWolfe, pastor, said the public is invited to attend the special service. Those who need transportation may call 669-3675 or 669-7212.

Sheriff looks into burglary

The Gray County Sheriff's office is investigating a burglary at Koch's Service Station on the Amarillo Highway, which occurred late Tuesday.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said two men stopped, and while the service attendant was busy, about $50 was taken from an unlocked safe.

Commission agenda set

A heavy, time-consuming agenda is expected for Tuesday's regular meeting of the Pampa City Commission. City Manager Mack Wofford said today.

One of the top items will include action of Pampa Cable TV's request for a revised franchise to comply with Federal Communications Commission rules and regulations.

Reports and recommendations on more than a score of abandoned buildings that have been on public hearing lists for repair or removal also will be heard.

Wofford stated owners of the abandoned buildings have been given a Monday, July 12, deadline to answer by letter or appear in person to set a definite time schedule for repair or removal of the structures.

The city manager indicated discussion of the abandoned buildings would take up much of the commissioners' time at the Tuesday meeting.

Former Pampan to tell how he kicked drugs

The use of drugs and the problems of rehabilitation will be discussed at the Saturday meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Association.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Senior Citizens Center.

Speaker will be Michael Heiskell, formerly of Pampa and now of Oklahoma City.

The public is invited, officials said.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know you'll think I'm crazy, but here goes:
I am a 20-year-old college student who has a very strong desire to be babied.

It all started about six years ago when my older sister began telling me how I used to laugh and thrash happily around while my mother diapered me. Now I derive great pleasure out of just thinking of having a woman powder and diaper me. My desire to experience it again has become so strong that I have actually pinned a diaper on myself and wet myself!

I hope some day to marry a nice woman who will go along with this harmless little game of "playing baby," and agree to powder and diaper me.

I'm normal in every other way and have made the Dean's list, so I'm not crazy. Is there anything wrong with wanting to be a baby again? Please advise me, Abby, and try not to laugh.

WANTS TO BE BABIED IN GA.

DEAR WANTS: I am not laughing. Your strong desire to regress to your baby days and have a woman focus her attention on your genital area could indicate a serious emotional problem requiring expert help—perhaps psychoanalysis.

You can search the world for a woman who will "baby" you and change your diapers, and if you find her, have her see a psychiatrist, too. A marriage of emotional children is a real bumper. Get help.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents were divorced after 30 years of a very bad marriage.

My father-in-law was in business for himself and had an affair with his secretary, who was about my age. After the divorce, my father-in-law married this young secretary.

How do we introduce his new wife? Since we're about the same age, I can't very well call her my "stepmother."

Also, what should my children call her? They now call her by her first name.

PANAMA CITY, FLA.

DEAR PAN: I think you should introduce her as "my father-in-law's new wife." And your children should continue to call her by her first name.

DEAR ABBY: I have a great deal of respect for that man who sniffs his food before he eats it. (His lady friend found it a "disgusting" habit.)

I've never known a dog to trust his eyes when it comes to food. He trusts his nose, however, and he's absolutely right.

If human beings would take a good whiff of what they are about to eat, there would be a lot less food consumed and fewer bellyaches.

NOSEY AT MEALTIME

DEAR NOSEY: "Sniffing" food indicates that there are doubts about its edibility, which is no compliment to the host. So if sniffing is in order, it should be done subtly.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had my gall bladder removed but have had terrible gas pains ever since. I try to do the things the doctors advocate — eat less at a time, eat slowly without gulping, etc. but I still have a lot of trouble. My doctor says don't eat roughage. I have curtailed it but need a certain amount so that I don't get constipated. I wonder if the same diet that helps when your gall bladder is not at peak function would work for me? I am getting to the point where my social life is curtailed because of this. Could you give me any pointers which could help me?

DEAR READER — Gas pains may not be from gall bladder problems at all. Almost everyone has gas but with normal digestive functions most people are totally unaware of it. The pain usually comes from the gas being trapped in the colon and associated spasm or squeezing action of the colon. When the gas is under pressure, it stretches or distends the colon and causes pain. If the spasm in the colon relaxes, the gas is no longer trapped and the distention and pain disappear.

Your comment about "roughage" makes me think you have an underlying colon problem, specifically a spastic colon. These types of complaints are often there before a person has a gall bladder operation and may even be confused with symptoms of gall bladder disease. When that is the case they will still be there after surgery. Symptoms may follow surgery because of the interrupted normal pattern of living. And symptoms may follow an illness that has affected the bowels, such as infectious gastroenteritis (food poisoning).

Most everyone swallows air. You can't prevent it and swallow food and water. Some people do develop a nervous habit of swallowing lots of air and may not be aware of it. Air trapped in the stomach then causes burping and an immediate sense of fullness when you eat.

Other people form gas, often because they lack enzymes normally in the intestines. That results in undigested food which ferments. A loss of tolerance to milk, because of loss of enzymes and inability to digest the double sugar lactose can also cause this problem. I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8 Controlling Gaseousness, to give you a more complete understanding about the problem of gas. Others who have gas problems and want to know what they can do about it can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You can check to see if you are swallowing too much air by holding an eraser between your teeth. That will make swallowing more difficult and will alert you to the problem. It is a good way to help break the habit.

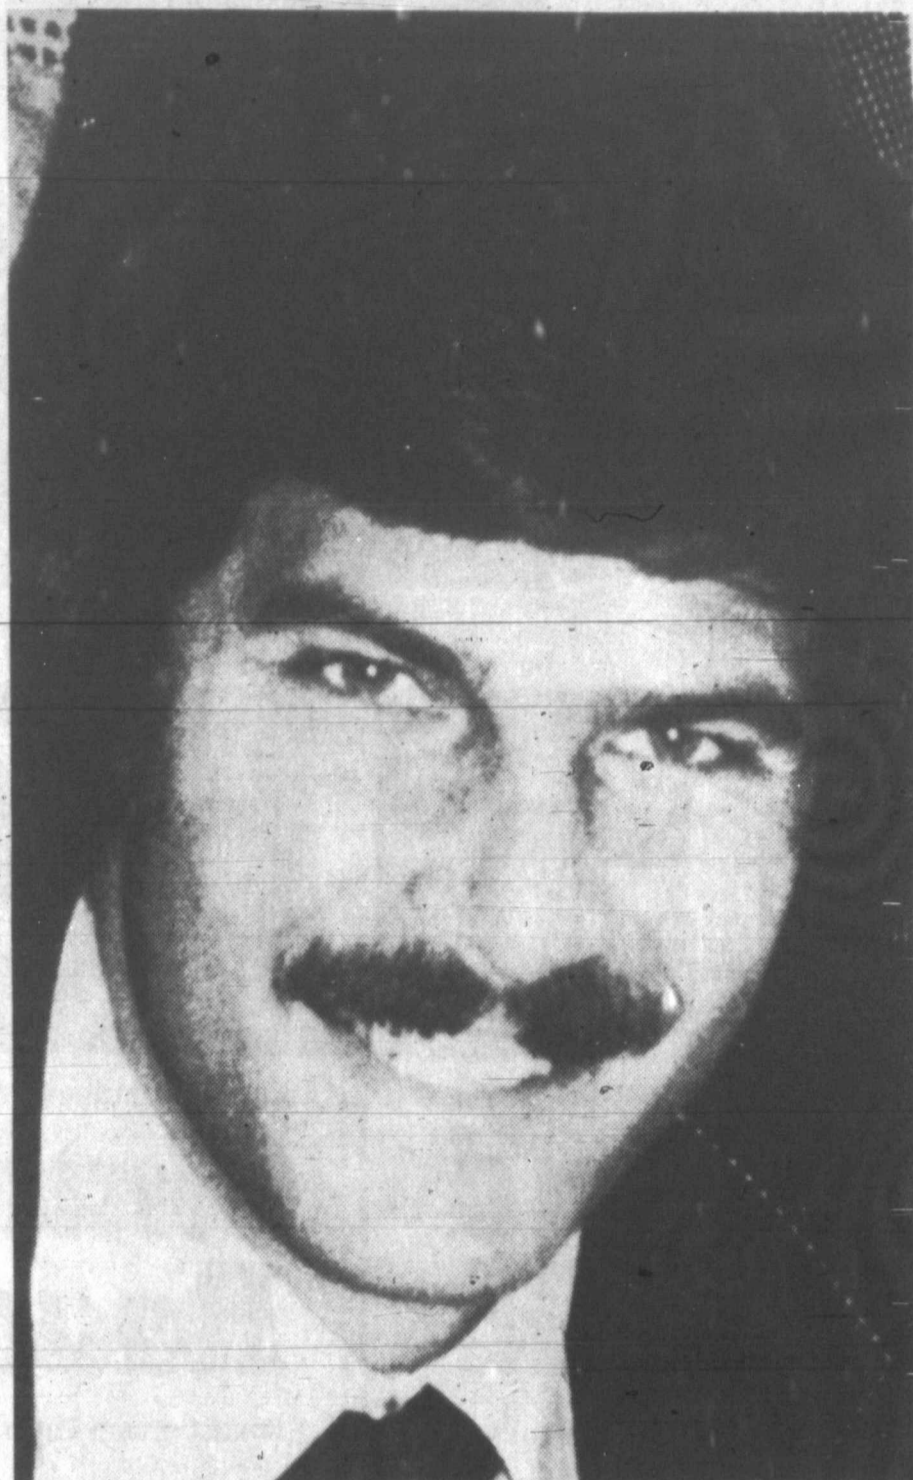

Also I think you should eliminate all milk and all milk products (including milk chocolate bars and milk used in cooking) to see if that is your real problem. It may be a temporary problem in view of your recent operation. You might limit your fat intake in deference to your recent gall bladder surgery. And I am very skeptical that cutting down on bulk, such as bran in cereals will help at all. I suspect you do need that "softage" for normal colon function which may improve your condition.

Most everyone swallows air. You can't prevent it and

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that the waistbands to pantyhose are so small, even on the queen size ones. This makes one's tummy pop right out and it is most uncomfortable to be squeezed into a tiny waistband. Also, I wonder why manufacturers sew the waist elastic onto slacks. In order to lengthen the elastic that is usually too tight, one has to rip off the entire waistband. Leave that elastic loose, please. —ELLEN.

DEAR READERS and DELORES — As usual our readers have come up with some different ways to solve a problem. Gene wrote that she has three long haired dogs. She finds rubbing a damp sponge over a surface, in one direction only, will roll the dog hair up into a ball that is very easy to pick up with the vacuum or even the hand. Genevieve uses a brush hair roller for removing dog hairs. Isabell, a beauty shop owner, says a puff ball of nylon net is used in her shop to remove hairs from customer's clothing. It seems to work on everything, so she suggests trying it on the dog hairs on Delores' blanket. Thanks to all of you and the many others who sent in answers. —POLLY.

MARK SPITZ had it all in 1972... fame, the promise of fortune, and then... "I never knew how far down someone could drop, especially after being so high." It's a very different MARK SPITZ who returns to the scene of his Olympic triumphs this summer.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

Next to the oarsman on a slave ship whose captain wanted to water ski, the most maligned person on the face of this earth is the teenager who has just landed his first full-time job.

No one suffers more and is appreciated less. Many of these "slaves" have heard stories of men who got up each morning, were fully clothed by 7:00 and on the job by 8:30, but they discarded these as venomous rumors — the kind circulated in Berlin in the 1940s.

My son considers himself a "human sacrifice" on the altar of the Church of the Establishment. He was 15 before we could use the word "employment" in front of him. The word broke his face out and he preferred we spell it. The way he explained it to us on the eve of his marriage to a paycheck. "This is an exercise in group persecution, isn't it? All of you have run the course and now before I come of age, I have to prove that I can hack the 9-5 number, is that it? Okay, you win. If I have to prove that I'm mature, I'll get the dumb full-time J-Q-B... jiji... jjoou... job!"

Maybe a lot of you know my son — or at least have heard of him.

He's the only employed person who has to work all day and then come home and feed himself.

Mechanical heart removed

HOUSTON (AP) — A mechanical heart pumping device that had kept a 44-year-old woman alive for six days, was removed Tuesday by surgeons at Texas Heart Institute and she remained in critical condition.

The patient, whose identity was kept secret by institute officials, remained in the intensive care unit Tuesday night.

She is at least the fifth person to have an abdominal left ventricular assist device (LVAD) implanted at the institute since last November.

Although the LVAD was removed, the woman's own heart still was being aided by an intra-aortic balloon assist pump, a hospital official said.

The woman underwent a triple coronary artery bypass operation last Wednesday, but when her surgeons had difficulty getting her own heart functioning the LVAD was implanted.

Requests for information about the patient or previous LVAD implants here have been referred to Dr. Peter Frommer, associate director of the cardiology program of the National Heart and Lung Institute.

At the time human use of the abdominal LVAD was announced by Frommer last October, he said the mechanical device would be used only in last-ditch efforts where patients could not be weaned from the heart-lung machine.

The United Nations charter was signed in the San Francisco Opera House, June 26, 1945.

My son rolled over. "I do not believe this is happening to a working person," he said. "All week long, I work five days a week, eight hours a day, and what do I get for it?"

"You get all your meals served like a sultan, your bedroom cleaned, your clothes washed and ironed and a full-time old lady retained — me!"

Something tells me I'll have the first kid to retire three years before he has anything to retire from.

The shine wore off Mark Spitz's medals

By Ira Berkow

MONTREAL — The sunlight coming through the hotel window seemed to strike too harshly on Mark Spitz's tanned face, smooth except for the trace of boy-like blemishes on his right cheek and the black mustache that allows him at age 26 to look older than a teenager.

He was in Montreal in preparation for the 1976 Olympics in which he will be a color commentator for swimming for ABC television.

Spitz sat now in a green chair and wore a blue-and-gold-striped rubber jersey and blue jeans. His bare feet were propped up on a footstool. His toes appear more bulbous than most, his feet and ankles are thick, too.

He is about 5 feet 9 inches tall and his legs are not particularly long but he has the unusual ability to flex his lower legs slightly forward at the knees, permitting him to kick six to 12 inches deeper in the water than his swimming opponents. It was an advantage that helped him at the 1972 Munich Olympic Games win an unprecedented seven gold medals.

His triumphs — before the marvel of a world-wide television audience — made him nearly instantly one of the most famous people on the face of the earth.

On the morning following his seventh gold-medal victory Spitz was escorted to a press conference to discuss, he thought, his swimming. When he got there, he found "pandemonium." He learned for the first time that terrorists had invaded the quarters of Israeli Olympians.

"I was hit with a barrage of questions about it," said Spitz. "I didn't know what to say. I was shocked, stunned, you name it. The press wanted my words because, first, I was Jewish, and second they thought I was some kind of spokesman for the athletes."

"My swimming coaches were there. They kept saying to the press, 'That's an unfair question, Mark's no authority,' and so on and so on."

"Some people thought I was hushed up. I wasn't hushed up. And I wasn't hard-hearted. I didn't know what to say, except that I thought it was a terrible, terrible thing. Then I was taken out of there and returned to my room."

"Nine secret service men were waiting for me there."

Mrs. Owens to be chairman for campaign

The 1976 chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation campaign is Mrs. Tommy Owens of Skellytown.

"Little more than a decade ago the Foundation was working to keep Cystic Fibrosis youngsters alive long enough to start to school. Now we are trying to help some of these same patients who have grown to young adulthood, enter college and find jobs," Mrs. Owens said.

The 1976 campaign will begin with a door-to-door march in September.

"This has never been told before, but I was asked to leave Munich. The International Olympic Committee, The German Munich police and the United States State Department all asked me to leave. They thought it was dangerous for me to stay. I was told to pack my things immediately."

"Well, the television was on and, for the first time, I saw one of those white-hooded guys on the balcony. The newscasters were told to say I was on a boat to the United States, while I sat and watched in my room in Munich. Frankly, I was scared to hell. I was taken to England, and then to the United States."

"What was I to do? What was I to say? But I am certain of one thing. It was the beginning of the end for me."

Mark blinked several times as the sun hit him. But it wasn't the sun that made him blink. It is a nervous habit, as his slight stammer when beginning some sentences.

"I had wanted so much to bask in my wins," he continued. "I had worked my tail off for 14 years for this moment. I had set a goal four years ago to win at least one individual gold medal, after I won only a individual silver one in Mexico City in the '68 Olympics."

"Oh, man. I wanted to walk to the track, walk around the Olympic Village, and have people come over to me, congratulate me — I felt like a cat who wants to lick the milk all over my chops. And then the tragedy struck."

"I prepared myself carefully for the four years leading up to 1972. There was never any way I could have prepared myself for what happened in the next four years."

"There was nothing left for me to do in athletics. I mean, should I strive for eight gold medals in '76? That was ludicrous. I actually nailed myself to the wall as a swimming competitor."

"When I returned home, I was treated as something special. I had tremendous opportunities to make a lot of money. Well, I know that athletes have taken advantage of this — Joe Namath cut off his mustache on TV for $10,000, for example. Swimmers never had such a chance, though. Now I did. I endorsed products, I was asked to do TV variety shows, got book offers, business deals — well, I got an agent, and I tried to get the best of it."

"But my biggest mistake was that I became practically a recluse after the Olympics. I didn't know how to handle all this criticism. I didn't know how to handle the press.

"I'd been swimming since I was 10 — when I set my first world record — but I never until now spent much time talking about myself to the press. Every interview seemed to be like I was on a psychiatrist's couch. I began to listen to myself talk. And I hated it. It all seemed so meaningless. Over and over again, what I thought, what I felt — I became sick of myself. I never knew how far down someone could drop, especially after being up so high."

Apparently, Spitz had never been challenged like this, where he was expected to explain views, theories, opinions on matters from politics to advertising integrity that he had rarely ever considered before. He had always been told how to train, when to go to bed, what to eat. Now, he was in a new and frightening and, worst of all, a seemingly alien environment.

"It took a few years to realize that, gee whiz, what do I care if I don't meet the expectations of people I don't even know. Maybe I began to grow up. I began to realize that not all interviewers hated me before they talked to me. I stopped always trying to defend myself. I opened up a little. I began to be happier with myself."

"I began to become more accessible. Then one late afternoon a few months ago I was on a radio talk show in Miami. A woman called and really ripped into me. It was unbelievable. She said I was a rotten Jew, a rotten American, a rotten representative of the Olympics because she said I had fled Munich."

"The engineers finally shut her off. The host on the show began to apologize profusely to me. I hadn't said a word. Then a call came in from a man who said he had just driven off the road to telephone. He said, 'I want you to know how much I disagree with that woman. What did she expect you to do, grab a bayonet and single-handedly fight the Arabs?'"

"Then another call supporting me. And another. Pretty soon the place was lighting up like a battlefield with people coming to my defense. I felt like crying. It was fantastic. It was the most remarkable thing that ever happened to me in my life."

Artificial cigarettes?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Scientists say they have developed an artificially flavored cigarette that is far lower in harmful ingredients than anything now on the market.

Using a technique employed to make chemically flavored foods, researchers said they came up with a cigarette that tastes good but is relatively harmless.

Arthur D. Little, Inc., a private research firm, is producing the artificial cigarette flavors under a $183,000 contract with the National Cancer Foundation.

In their study, the researchers said they are adding the flavors to a low-hazard — but low-tasting — cigarette that already has been produced for the federal government.

Before the flavors were added to those cigarettes they were the ultimate reduced health hazard," said the project's director, John Angeline. "They were so bad nobody would smoke them."

So far, researchers have shown that it is possible to make an artificially flavored cigarette that actually tastes like a cigarette, Angeline said.

They have isolated several chemicals that resemble the various tastes that go into cigarette flavors, he said. And they have combined them — in relatively unsophisticated fashion — to produce some sample cigarettes.

"We're at the point now where you'd describe them as being cigarettes," Angeline said in an interview. "They may be lousy, but that's a long way from where we started."

The next step is to combine and recombine the chemicals until they produce something that tastes like unadulterated cigarette smoke, he said.

Angeline said he expects the finished product to taste better than the low tar and nicotine cigarettes now available on the market.

The chemicals used in the flavoring are all listed by the government as safe to eat, said Angeline. But he said tests will be required to make sure they also are harmless to inhale.

Work on refining the taste should be finished by next fall, he said.

We Hold These Truths...
A Chronicle of America

'Nothing Else':

George Washington: "A reconciliation with Great Britain is impracticable, and would be in the highest degree detrimental to the true interest of America; when I first took the command of the army, I abhorred the idea of independence; but I am now fully convinced that nothing else will save us."

Discount air fares stalled

By GEOFFREY O'GARA
Pampa News
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The friendly skies we've been flying the past few years are clouding up for consumers, but it's not the fair weather that's changing: it's the fares.

Fares have risen almost every month this year, and the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) is considering another boost in July. More important to summer vacationers, excursion flight discounts have dropped from 20-35 percent to 15-25 percent. The CAB is insisting that airlines honor their previous commitments to passengers who signed up for higher discounts before the recent change.

But every silver lining has its cloud. Passengers who signed up early enough for the old discount rates will get a discount on the present fares, which are higher than they were when they first signed up. And thirty percent of $200, we all know, is more than thirty percent of $175.

Soon we may all be talking about the days when we could afford to take airborne vacations, just the way our parents talk about nickel movies in the Thirties.

For some of us there would be no Fourth of July without fireworks, but for others, particularly those who've had children maimed or injured by holiday explosives, a quiet Fourth would quiet their fears.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has set out to limit the size of firecrackers and restrict the use of skyrocket and other large fireworks. After four years of studies and hearings, the FDA chose in March to limit firecrackers to the relatively small size of 50 milligrams.

Oddly enough, however, the decision will not go into effect until December 6, 1976, leaving what promises to be the biggest Fourth of the century — the Bicentennial — undampened by federal interference. Perhaps they preferred the rockets' red glare to the red glare of angry citizens on Independence Day.

It used to be that when you thought of doling up your car, you went in for shag carpet, mag wheels, or maybe air conditioning. But with car theft on the rise (up almost 200 percent since 1960), a car owner is likely to go looking at lock devices when he decides to spend some money on his Edsel.

Nearly a million cars a year are stolen, with a value around a billion dollars. From this statistic has sprung a minor industry of inventions, some outlandish, some very simple, to thwart the would-be thief.

Pre-1968 cars, according to the FBI, are more susceptible to thievery because they have an "open-switch" ignition, with connection wires exposed behind the dashboard, easy to hot-wire.

Among the variety of thief-thwarting implements are "Unistop," which locks the steering wheel to the brake, and a mercury switch alarm which will set the horn screaming if anyone so much as leans on the fender.

Uganda president's image has cracks

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Diplomats say President Idi Amin aided the hijackers of the Air France jetliner from the beginning — and the Israeli raid freeing the hostages demonstrated that his claims of military invincibility were a myth.

"Now Amin is naked, there are cracks in his image," said one Westerner. "There have already been several attempts to overthrow him. Now those Ugandans who feel that way are going to take an even closer look at things.

"The next few months could be crucial for Amin."

Quoting reports from the hostages and from other eyewitnesses in Uganda, the diplomats give these details of Amin's cooperation with the Palestinian and West German terrorists who brought the French airliner and more than 250 hostages to Entebbe on June 28.

Only four terrorists were aboard the plane when it was hijacked. Three or four others were waiting for the plane when it landed in Uganda.

For 24 hours after the arrival at Entebbe Airport, the hijackers disappeared, presumably to sleep, Ugandan soldiers guarded the hostages.

The Ugandans supplied machine guns and grenades to the hijackers. The terrorists also used walkie-talkies of the same model as those used by the Ugandan army.

The hijackers occasionally gave orders to Ugandan soldiers, and the Ugandans carried them out.

"Ugandan cooperation was total," one diplomat said. "We can't say what was going on in Amin's mind, but all his o-called negotiations to get the terrorists to release 148 of the hostages — they looked like pure theater."

The diplomats said Israel did not consult the Kenyan government officially prior to the commando raid last Saturday night. Other sources said President Jomo Kenyatta learned of the raid for the first time Sunday morning, after it was over.

But other reliable sources said lower-level Kenyan officially apparently turned a blind eye to preparations in Kenya for the raid. They said a small number of Israeli agents arrived in Nairobi during the week after the hijacking, and local officials must have noticed them.

South Korea was invaded by North Korean troops in 1950 and President Truman ordered U.S. troops into the area.

Press gets court's nod

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Supreme Court set aside a lower court gag order Wednesday, clearing the way for newspaper and broadcast reports of two narcotics trials.

Three justices of the Supreme Court, in an emergency session, ruled that prior restraint in the case was not warranted.

Criminal District Judge Frank Marullo forbade newsmen earlier Wednesday to report anything about the case of Mitchell Schwartz until a jury was selected for the separate trial of codefendant Edward Downey.

Schwartz and Downey are charged with possession with intent to distribute $60,000 worth of drugs allegedly stolen from drug stores.

After newsmen refused to promise to obey the order, Marullo expanded it to prohibit even any reports of his gag order.

But the New Orleans States-Item defied the order and ran a front page story in an afternoon edition.

After a jury was selected for the Schwartz trial, Marullo amended his orders to forbid most reports of the Downey case up to separate trial, and to limit reporting of the Schwartz trial, including no mention of Downey's name.

Marullo said unrestricted news coverage "would affect and prevent the selection of an impartial jury."

"I'm not going to let the communications industry keep me from giving anybody a fair trial," said the judge.

"If the news media prints what I have ordered them not to print, let them see what will happen."

The Times-Picayune Publishing Corp., which publishes both the afternoon States-Item and the morning Times-Picayune, appealed to the Supreme Court, which struck down Marullo's order.

The U.S. Supreme Court, acting in a Nebraska case, ruled last week that a judge may not order the press to withhold publication of information about criminal cases, even if the judge believes it necessary for a fair trial.

Demo convention: real circus airs

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Democrats are doing their darndest not to make a circus out of their convention next week, but the smell of Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey lingers on.

Literally.

Their nominee will await his introduction as "the next President of the United States" in a concrete block locker room used normally by sweaty basketball players.

And the delegates themselves will be sitting on an ice rink.

These circumstances are dictated by the Democrats' choice of New York as their convention city. New York, Big Apple though it is, lacks the convention centers of a San Francisco, Miami Beach or Chicago. No Cow Palace here.

Instead there is Madison Square Garden, a nice compact little place that seats a shade more than 20,000 people at best, isn't on Madison Square, and surely is no garden.

Turning the hall into an arena for a political convention was the job of a firm headed by Raymond R. Hertler, who says he's voted Democratic sometimes.

With $14 million to spend, Hertler and his staff designed the convention hall down to the last camera stand and then coordinated the efforts of 80 to 90 firms that had something to do with building the thing.

"We anticipated a real rat race," he said. "But no, it was real calm. No major setbacks. No major labor problems. We worried about those big unknowns. But we were able to accomplish what you see here without substantial overtime."

By then, the place looked about 90 per cent ready. The podium lacked only the convention emblem, a thorough vacuuming, and the mums that will grace it when the delegates begin filing in for the 8 p.m. EDT opening Monday.

The transformation began June 1, a day after the circus left the garden. Out came 2,000 fixed seats on one side. In went benches for reporters covering the convention.

The huge exhibition space at the back of the hall, where the circus lions, tigers and horses had been quartered became office and equipment space for the television networks and other news organizations.

The unmistakable scent remained.

est Service is violating the Organic National Forestry Act of 1897 "in that they are selling timber other than dead, mature timber or large trees and they are also calling for clear cuts."

The organization said the Forest Service is allowing clear cuts of forest land without having filed an environmental impact statement and is selling timber by creek banks, thus increasing erosion. It added that small trees are being cut in violation of regulations.

Fritz said the organization is not against all timber cutting, but wants a return to selective cutting as was done until recent years.

Raven District Manager Kelley Siegler said the civil action could affect timber sales in Texas if there is a favorable ruling.

The Sam Houston National Forest is in East Texas, adjacent to both Lake Livingston and Lake Conroe north of Houston.

Tree sales disputed in suit

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — A conservation group has alleged in a suit against the U.S. Forest Service that the agency is selling live, immature timber and small trees in the Raven district of the Sam Houston National Forest.

The suit, which also names Secretary of Agriculture Earl Buttz as a principal defendant, seeks to stop the selective and clear cutting of timber in the district.

The action was filed by Dallas attorney Edward C. Fritz, chairman of the Texas Committee on Natural Resources, who said his organization is seeking to enjoin the Forest Service from proceeding further with sales on clear cutting and selective cutting of timber.

The suit alleges that the For-

Bogus DPS cop sought

SONORA, Tex. (AP) — Beware if you are driving near here and a highway patrolman pulls you over, says you have been drinking and demands cash on the spot.

That's what has been happening to drivers on Texas 55 in Southwest Texas, and the real police are getting a little "Smoked up" about it.

Texas Department of Public Safety officers were searching late Wednesday for a 25-year-old man who dresses in DPS gear, carries a gun, drives a black-over-white car that has red lights on top, exempt Texas tags and magnetic state of Texas signs on the doors.

The bogus officer came to the attention of the DPS last week when two motorists told police that the man had used a citizens band radio to urge drivers to "come on—the coast is clear."

The phony officer then stopped the motorists, told them they were speeding and had been drinking and demanded $50. When the drivers refused to pay the fine, they said the man got into his "patrol car" and left.

Cotton making comeback

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Cotton has returned as king of crops in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The crop is large and the price is good.

Grain sorghum replaced cotton last year in many of the irrigated fields of the Valley because cotton prices dropped to a level where it became a break-even crop even with ideal weather conditions. It was the first year in decades that more grain than cotton was planted in the valley.

In less than a year, the demand and price of cotton almost doubled, according to grower Jack Funk of Harlingen. The outlook for this year's crop is "real good, if we can get these rains out of here," Funk said.

Although the current price of cotton is about 85 cents per pound, compared with about 45 cents per pound a year ago, many Valley farmers will not receive the full price.

Most of the cotton grown in the Valley is sold ahead of time on a contract basis, whereby a cotton buyer agrees to purchase all the cotton grown by a farmer at a set price. Through the contracting system, the farmer can be certain of the price he will receive, regardless of market fluctuations. If he is willing to gamble, he can wait. But he also faces the prospect that prices could drop below the contract rate.

Most of the cotton contracted this year was for 55-57 cents per pound and there is no comparison figure for 1975 since last year's crop was so small there was no contracting for it.

The future looks good, Funk said, noting that many farmers are already selling their 1977 crop at a contract price of 65-66 cents per pound.

BIRTH RATE

NEW YORK (AP) — The Institute of Life Insurance says the birth rate in the United States in 1974 was at the lowest level ever recorded.

It says final statistics recently released by the Health Resources Administration show the 1974 rate of 14.9 births per 1,000 population was identical to that in 1973, the lowest on record.

Although there has been some sporadic harvesting of cotton, the main harvest will get underway July 20 and last for about 30 days, Funk said.

In addition to the doubling of prices, this year's crop is more than double in acreage over the 1975 crop. In Hidalgo County, County Agent Dan Galvan said farmers planted about 80,000 acres of cotton this year, compared with only about 22,000 acres in 1975.

In Camrion County, growers planted 104,582 acres of cotton this year, compared with only 47,278 acres a year ago.

"We think the future for cotton in the Valley is good. There'll be a lot more grown next year because of the high contract prices," grower Funk said.

Smoked fish find place on outdoor grill

By ELAINE HOUSTON
County Extension Agent

Smoking fish is a new method of fish cookery for the outside grill.

Start by having the fish ready, thaw if frozen.

Mix 1 gallon cold water and 1 cup salt — stir until dissolved. Marinate fish in brine; 30 minutes for pan-dressed thin fillets or small fish, 45 minutes for 3/4 to inch thick fillets or steaks, 1 hour for thicker fish.

Soak 1 pound hickory or other hardwood chips in 2 quarts of water. Now you are ready to start the fire.

Keep the heat low, low, low! Use electric, gas or charcoal grill with a hood or cover. If charcoal, use fewer briquets than with average broiling fire. When coals are red, spread evenly over bottom of cooker. They should be sparse. Cover ceramic or charcoal with one-third of the wet chips. Wet chips produce smoke and lower the temperature. If available, use oven thermometer with charcoal grill. With gas or electric grill, adjust for desired temperature.

Now the fun begins — now you are ready to start smoking the fish. Drain and dry fish.

Measure a generous 1/4 cup cooking oil and keep the pastry brush handy. Grease the grill well. Place the fish on grill, skin side down. Baste the fish well at the beginning and frequently during cooking. Do not let the fish dry out. Keep the coals covered with plenty of well-soaked chips.

Smoke for one to two hours depending on size of fish portion. Excellent smoked fish can be produced on electric, gas or charcoal grills. Very low temperatures, 150-175 degrees F. are not absolutely essential in smoke fish cookery. Good results may be accomplished by using higher temperatures up to 300 degrees F. Fish takes on a smoky flavor quickly, reducing cooking time.

Cooking time may vary with weather, intensity of heat, amount of moisture in chips, type of grill and distance of fish from heat.

Smoked fish with wild Rice-Mushroom Stuffing
1 (3 to 4-lb.) dressed snapper, or other large fish, fresh or frozen
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 slices precooked bacon
1/4 cup thinly sliced green onion and tops

wild rice-mushroom stuffing

Thaw frozen fish. Clean, wash, and dry fish. Sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper. Stuff fish loosely. Close opening with small skewers or toothpicks.

Place precooked bacon on top of fish and sprinkle with sliced onions. Place fish on well-greased grill inside smoke oven. Cook in a slow oven, 200 degrees F., for approximately 1 hour and 30 minutes or until fish is done and flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove skewers. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: 6 pan-dressed fish could be used instead of the snapper. The cooking time would be approximately 1 hour.

Wild Rice-Mushroom Stuffing
1 (4-oz.) package wild rice
4 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 (2 1/2 oz.) jar sliced mushrooms
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cook wild rice according to directions on package. Sauté vegetables in margarine or cooking oil until vegetables are tender. Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Makes approximately 2 1/2 cups stuffing.

Smoked Herbed Pan-Dressed Fish
6 small pan-dressed fish, fresh or frozen
1 (8-oz.) bottle Italian salad dressing
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups finely-crushed herb-seasoned stuffing mix
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 cup chopped parsley

Thaw frozen fish. Clean, wash, and dry fish. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Pour Italian dressing over fish and let stand 30 minutes. Remove fish from brine and dry. Combine beer, mustard, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, liquid hot pepper sauce, 1/4 cup sesame seeds, toasted 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, paprika.

Tipsey Dixie Catfish
6 (1/2 lb. ea.) skinned, pan-dressed catfish or other small fish, fresh or frozen
1 gallon water
1 cup salt

actively boiling water. Makes six pints.

Chow-Chow Relish
1 peck or 12 1/2 pounds green tomatoes
8 large onions
10 sweet green peppers
3 tablespoons salt
6 small hot peppers, chopped
2 teaspoons turmeric
4 cups vinegar
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons salt
4 tablespoons dry mustard
3 tablespoons celery seed
2 tablespoons mustard seed
Chop tomatoes, onions and sweet green peppers, and sprinkle with salt. Let stand four to six hours in cool place. Drain well; add hot peppers, vinegar, sugar, salt and spices tied in thin cloth bag. Boil 15 minutes. Remove spice bag. Pack into hot jars. Close. Process in boiling water bath 15 minutes. Begin counting time as soon as water returns to boiling.

Dilled Okra
3 pounds uncut and washed young okra pods
celery leaves
6 small hot red peppers cloves of garlic
1/2 cup salt
large heads of dill and stems or 1/2 teaspoons dill seed per pint
1 quart water
1 pint white vinegar
Pack okra into hot pint jars with a few celery leaves, pod of pepper, clove of garlic and head of dill or dill seed in each jar. Make brine of water, vinegar and salt; heat to boiling. Pour over okra. Close jars. Process in boiling water bath 20 minutes. Start to count processing time as soon as hot jars are placed in

1/2 cup beer
1/2 cup prepared mustard
2 cloves finely minced garlic
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon liquid hot pepper sauce
1/2 cup sesame seeds, toasted
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Paprika

Thaw frozen fish. Clean and wash fish. Add salt to water and stir until dissolved. Pour brine over fish and let stand for 30 minutes. Remove fish from brine and dry. Combine beer, mustard, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, liquid hot pepper sauce, 1/4 cup sesame seeds and parsley. Dip fish in mustard mixture and sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup sesame seeds and paprika. Place on well-greased grill inside smoke oven. Cook in a very slow oven, 250 degrees F., for one hour or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve with hushpuppies. Makes 6 servings.

Sauerkraut dish-stretcher

Sauerkraut helps stretch dishes and goes well with poultry and meats other than frankfurters.

CHICKEN AND KRAUT SKILLET
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, sliced
1 cup green pepper strips
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (8 ounces) tomato paste
2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 cups drained sauerkraut (about 16 ounces)
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon crushed oregano
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

3 cups cooked rice

In large skillet, melt butter over low heat. Add onion and green pepper and cook 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients except rice; mix well. Cover and cook 20 minutes. Serve chicken and kraut sauce over rice. Makes 4 servings.

1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
8 frankfurters
8 frankfurter buns, split and toasted

In bowl, combine undrained kraut, caraway seed, French dressing and salt; mix well. Chill. Cut 10 deep slits in each frankfurter without cutting all the way through. In skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add frankfurters and cook until browned on all sides. Arrange kraut mixture on bottoms of buns. Top with frankfurters and tops of buns. Makes 8 servings.

ROUND DOGS WITH CARAWAY KRAUT
2 cups undrained sauerkraut (about 16 ounces)
1 teaspoon caraway seed
3 tablespoons bottled French dressing

Simple steps improve pickling

COLLEGE STATION — Summer means pickling — and following a few important steps ensures a good quality product. Mrs. Sally Coble, a foods and nutrition specialist advises.

She is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Get ready — with the right equipment:
"Select standard canning jars and canning closures. Check the jars to be sure they're free of nicks, chips or cracks. Jars and closures should be thoroughly clean."

"For heating pickling liquids, use unchipped enamelware, stainless steel, aluminum or glass utensils. Utensils made of copper, brass, galvanized or iron materials should not be used since the pickling liquid may react with the metal," she explained.

Handy small utensils for food preparation include measuring spoons and cups, sharp knives, tongs, colander and woden cutting board.

A long-handled wooden spoon, cheesecloth for spice bags, rubber spatula, jar lifter and a glass measuring cup are needed for the cooking and filling procedures.

A water bath canner is necessary for processing the pickles.

Get set — with the right ingredients:
Produce:
"Select top-quality produce, free from blemishes, uniform in size and slightly underripe. Remove the blossoms and pickle within 24 hours."

Salt:
"Use coarse salt, sometimes called dairy or pickling salt. Iodized salt may cause pickles to darken."

Water:
"Soft water is recommended."
Sugar:
"Brown or white granulated sugar may be used."

Spices:
"Use fresh spices for best flavor. Whole spices, tied in a cheesecloth bag, are preferred."

Remove spice bag from pickling liquid before filling jars.
Vinegar:
"Use a high-grade cider or white distilled vinegar of four to six per cent acidity (40 to 60 grains)."

Go — with a favorite recipe from a reliable source.

For some tasty pickle recipes, write for B-188 Pickles and Relishes, available from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for 26 cents. Following are a few recipes from this publication you may want to try.

Bread and Butter Pickles
25 large cucumbers
12 medium white onions
1/2 cup salt
1 quart vinegar
2 tablespoons white mustard seed

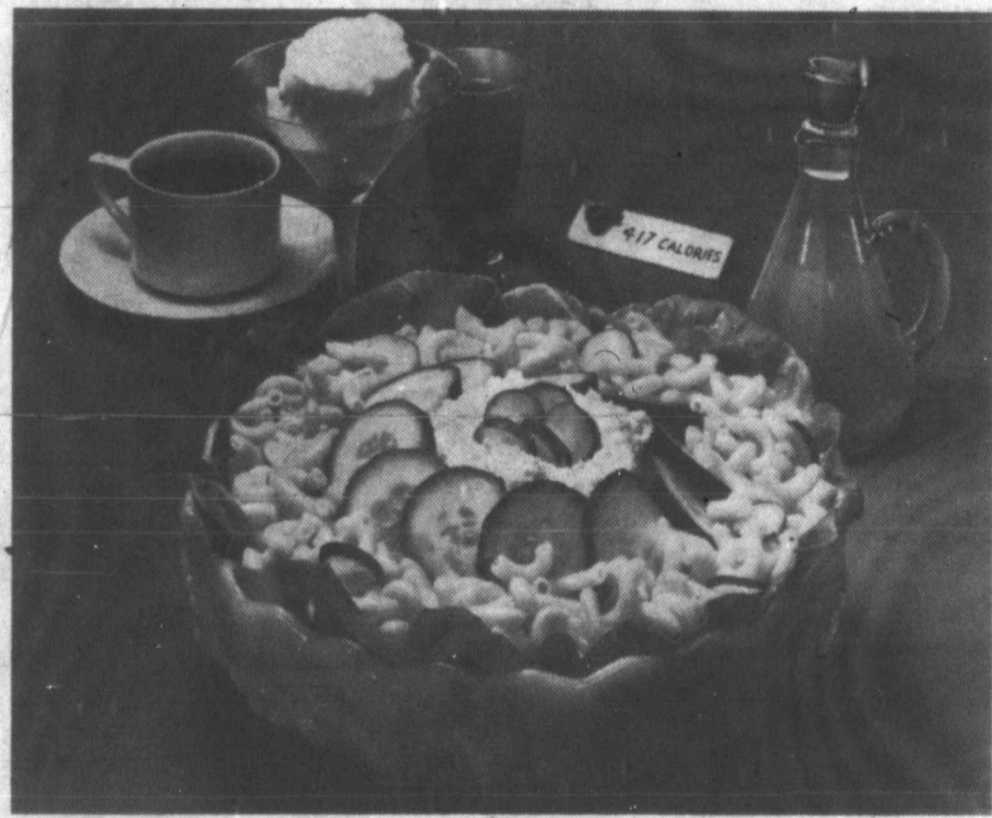

2 tablespoons celery seed
2 tablespoons turmeric
2 cups sugar
Soak unpeeled cucumbers in water overnight. Slice cucumbers and onions and place in pan and sprinkle with salt. Let stand one hour and rinse. Add vinegar, sugar, mustard seed, celery seed and turmeric powder. Bring to a boil. Pack pickles in boiling water bath five minutes. Start to count processing as soon as water returns to boiling.

Dilled Okra
3 pounds uncut and washed young okra pods
celery leaves
6 small hot red peppers
cloves of garlic
1/2 cup salt
large heads of dill and stems or 1/2 teaspoons dill seed per pint
1 quart water
1 pint white vinegar
Pack okra into hot pint jars with a few celery leaves, pod of pepper, clove of garlic and head of dill or dill seed in each jar. Make brine of water, vinegar and salt; heat to boiling. Pour over okra. Close jars. Process in boiling water bath 20 minutes. Start to count processing time as soon as hot jars are placed in actively boiling water. Makes six pints.

Chow-Chow Relish
1 peck or 12 1/2 pounds green tomatoes
8 large onions
10 sweet green peppers
3 tablespoons salt
6 small hot peppers, chopped
2 teaspoons turmeric
4 cups vinegar
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons salt
4 tablespoons dry mustard
3 tablespoons celery seed
2 tablespoons mustard seed
Chop tomatoes, onions and sweet green peppers, and sprinkle with salt. Let stand four to six hours in cool place. Drain well; add hot peppers, vinegar, sugar, salt and spices tied in thin cloth bag. Boil 15 minutes. Remove spice bag. Pack into hot jars. Close. Process in boiling water bath 15 minutes. Begin counting time as soon as water returns to boiling.

Fresh ginger root may be kept for a long time if it is frozen or put in a jar, covered with sherry and refrigerated.

MACARONI allowed on many diets in salad and used with poultry.

Macaroni new diet food

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Those on a diet often are surprised to find macaroni remains as an acceptable food. That doesn't mean you can eat it morning, noon and night without damaging your weight-loss goal.

MACARONI GARDEN SALAD
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
3 cups creamed cottage cheese
1 cucumber, thinly sliced
8 radishes, thinly sliced
1 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons low calorie Italian salad dressing
1 medium head Boston lettuce

Gradually add macaroni and salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse in cold water; drain again.

Combine remaining ingredients except lettuce; toss with macaroni. Chill. Serve salad in lettuce-lined bowl. Makes 4 servings, about 290 calories per serving.

TURKEY NOODLE TOSS
1 can (1 pound) cut green beans, undrained
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, undrained
Water

1 1/2 cups skim milk
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon each: pepper, marjoram leaves

2 cups diced cooked turkey
8 ounces medium egg noodles (about 4 cups)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water

Drain beans and mushrooms, reserving liquids; set vegetables aside. Add enough water to reserved liquid to measure one and one-half cups. Combine with milk and set aside. Sauté celery and onion in butter about 3 minutes. Quickly stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk mixture. 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and marjoram. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils 1 minute. Add beans, mushrooms, and turkey; heat to serving temperature.

Meanwhile, gradually add noodles and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil.

Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Toss with turkey mixture. Makes 4 servings, about 500 calories per serving.

Senate nixes OSHA for small farms

By ANN COOPER
Pampa's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — The Senate recently adopted an amendment that would exempt some small farms from regulation by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). The Senate language, included in an amendment to a labor appropriations bill, differs from a small farm exemption the House added to the same bill earlier. The House amendment, offered by Rep. Joe Skubitz, R-Kansas would exempt all farm operations with 10 or fewer employees from OSHA regulation.

The Senate language, adopted 90-1, would only exempt farms with a daily average of five or fewer workers, not counting members of the immediate family. Also, a farm that employed more than 12 people on a single day would not be exempt from regulation.

Differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill will have to be worked out in a conference to be held when Congress returns from its recess for the Democratic convention. But adoption of the two amendments assures that when House and Senate conferees work out a final appropriations bill, at least some small farms will no longer have to answer to OSHA.

Proponents of the small farm exemption argued that many OSHA regulations do little more than harass small business operation. The favorite example used in the often laugh-filled House and Senate debates was a proposed regulation that would require placing toilet facilities within a five-minute walk of all farm workers.

The Labor Department opposed the amendments, arguing the OSHA was set up to improve the safety and health of all workers in the country, not just those working for large employers.

Grain inspection legislation slowed

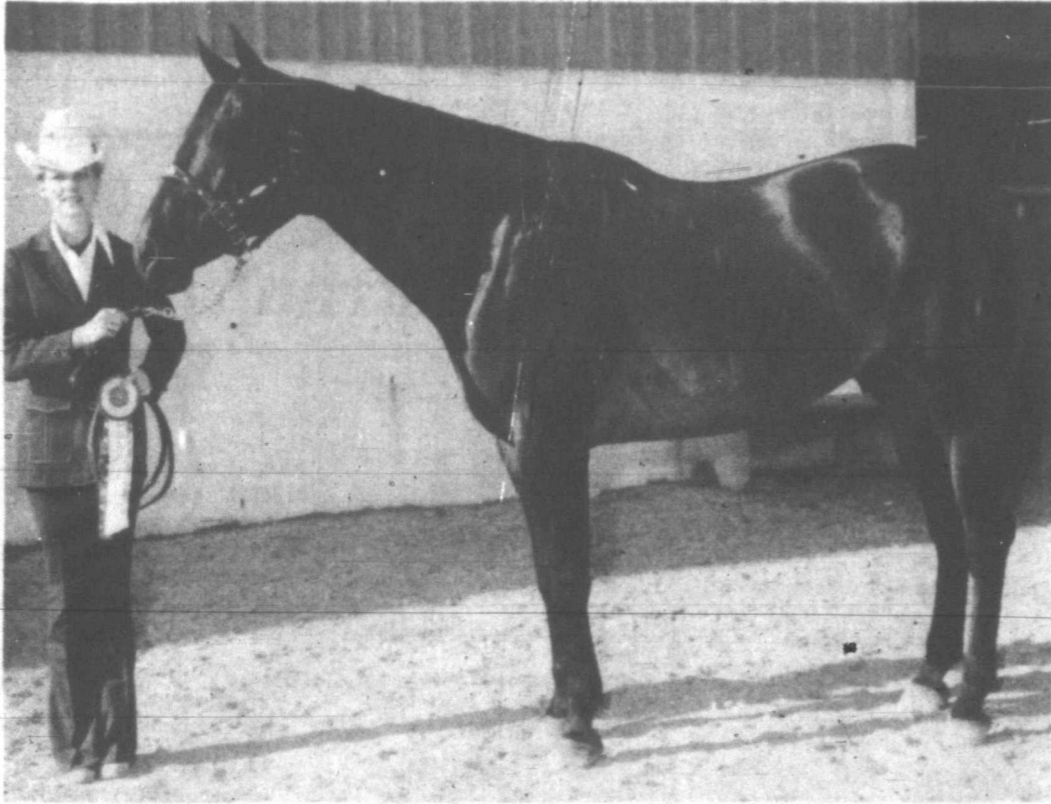

WASHINGTON — The struggle to end an impasse on federal grain inspection legislation won't be until after Congress comes back from its recess for the Democratic convention. And even then, there's no assurance that the magic formula needed for a breakthrough will be found.

Some effort was made to get House and Senate conferees on the bill together to discuss compromises July 1. But lack of time and lack of any consensus on a compromise killed the plans.

It's been several weeks since the conferees sat down together to discuss how to settle their differing opinions on how much federal involvement to allow in grain inspection. In response to scandals involving misgrading and shortweighing by private inspectors at Gulf ports, the Senate passed legislation that would federalize inspection at ports and major inland grain elevators. But the House agreed on legislation that would allow inspection by qualified state agencies at export points and major inland terminals.

House conferees rejected a Senate compromise presented informally two weeks ago, but they've been unable to settle on a counter offer for the Senate. A compromise offered last week by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., apparently didn't draw enough enthusiasm to warrant a meeting in the last-minute legislative rush before adjournment.

During the congressional recess, staff aides on the House and Senate Agricultural Committees will continue trying to find a satisfactory middle ground to end what one staffer says has become a war of nerves.

High point pair

Jeep's Micco, owned and shown by Sue Smith of Pampa, was the high-point entry from Gray County during the recent District 1 4-H Horse Show in Amarillo. The horse placed second in halter in the registered senior gelding class and took home a ninth place in western pleasure. Smith received eight points in the district competition and was selected second alternate to compete in the State 4-H Horse Show later this month in Amarillo.

Tax procedures rewritten for farmers and ranchers

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock said recently that his office has rewritten sales tax procedures on agricultural exemptions to make them as easy to ready as a mail-order catalog.

Inflation has squeezed the farmer and rancher tighter than a bale of wet hay," Bullock said. "Our new procedures are clear enough for them to be able to take advantage of the sales tax exemptions to which they are entitled."

The new procedures will be effective about July 15, he said.

The comptroller said the procedures clarify the fact that the following items are exempt from the sales tax: expendable supplies such as hand tools, baling wire, binders twine, hardware, tires and lubricants for farm machinery; fences, pens, gates, cattle guards and chutes; and structures that can be considered a piece of equipment, such as automated laying houses and farrowing houses. However, most farm buildings, such as barns, garages, warehouses and family dwellings, are taxable.

Exemptions for farm machinery and equipment and storage facilities will be clearcut, Bullock said, as well as the general exemption for all medications and tonics given to farm animals. In addition, he noted, the term "farm or ranch" has been clearly for the first time.

CORONADO CENTER

Argument rages over brucellosis

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Norman Moser — a Northeast Texas cattleman, banker and chairman of the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) — believes the federal government has not done enough to eradicate brucellosis, a nagging disease that infects both cattle and humans.

So does J.K. Webb, a former dairy and now an official with the nationwide Associated Milk Producers Inc., a cooperative based in San Antonio. But that's where their agreement stops. The pair, both veterans in one of the state's most prosperous industries, strongly disagree on what exactly should be done. Brucellosis, known as contagious abortion or Bang's disease, will affect as many as 6,000 herds of cattle in Texas this year according to one federal government study. The report put the number of infected herds in Texas for Fiscal Year 1975 at 6,151, or about 38 per cent of the total known brucellosis cases nationally.

But state figures day that of 166,800 herds in Texas only about 3,000 will be affected. T.A. Kincaid, a member of the TAHC told a congressional committee in late June that 79 per cent of the over 3,000 herds infected in Texas are located in the eastern half of the state. During the House Agriculture committee hearings, chaired by Rep. Eligio de la Garza, D-Mission, Webb and Moser expressed differing views on what steps the federal government should take to eradicate the disease.

Webb, representing dairy farmers, maintained that brucellosis would be drastically reduced if young calves were vaccinated with a substance called Strain 19 or one of several other vaccines now under study. He also said ranch owners should assume more responsibility for managing herds, which often roam freely through the Texas countryside.

But cattlemen say it would be too expensive to vaccinate all calves because it's too hard to locate them. Mosely, speaking for the cattlemen, said it is more important to vaccinate adult cattle. He also argued that it is both financially and practically impossible to control the movements of their herds for periodic tests.

The dairy farmers are pushing for periodic testing of cattle, such as every 30 days. In opposing this, the cattlemen say the rough terrain and the prevalence of brahman cattle (more unruly than dairy cattle) make this concept unworkable.

Nationally, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has reduced its push for vaccination and has relied instead on a "test and slaughter" method of killing cattle found with the disease. In 1964, more than 7 million calves were vaccinated, but that figure fell below four million last year.

However USDA officials recently told the House panel that they are looking for a better vaccination than Strain 19, which is about 6 per cent effective.

Manufacturing industries in the 1890's employed nonunion workers for an average of 62 hours a week at a wage of 14-15 cents an hour while their contemporaries in the postal service worked 48 hours per week and earned 37 cents an hour.

Russians make big soybean purchase

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought another 700,000 metric tons of soybeans worth an estimated $175 million from this year's U.S. crop, the Agriculture Department says.

The sale was announced Tuesday, four days after a previous Russian purchase of 800,000 tons of soybeans for an estimated $200 million for delivery in 1976-77.

In a related development, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday the Soviet Union's grain prospects appear greatly improved over last year's drought-shriveled harvest of 139.9 million metric tons, the smallest in a decade.

Russia's grain harvest this year should be close to the 190 million metric tons that the USDA tentatively forecast June 22, a USDA official said.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds. Three U.S. crop experts have just returned from an 18-day tour of seven Soviet grain-producing districts, and the USDA plans to issue a new analysis on Soviet grain Friday.

The Soviet grain crop planted last fall suffered major damage during the winter, but there are indications the surviving acreage has recovered well in some key areas. The balance of Soviet grain comes from crops planted in the spring.

Last year's short crop forced the Soviet Union to buy foreign grain, including 16.5 million tons of wheat and corn from last year's U.S. harvest.

The Soviets also have purchased about 2.2 million tons of American wheat and corn for delivery after Oct. 1. They are expected to order more later in the season.

Soybean prices have jumped in recent months because of rising domestic and export de-

Pitches Pampa by Borger

Joe Jeffers pitched Pampa to a 13-4 win over Borger in the loser's bracket of the Babe Ruth district tournament Wednesday at Optimist. Borger's Danny Ollis leads away from Steve Stout at first base. Borger was eliminated from the double-elimination tournament with the loss.

Pampa ruins Borger hopes

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor
Pampa jumped out to a 6-0 lead after two innings then rode the nine-strikeout pitching of Joe Jeffers to a 13-4 win over Borger in the Babe Ruth district tournament Wednesday night at Optimist Park.
In Wednesday's final game, Dumas stopped the Panhandle Okies, 10-1, to remain the only unbeaten team in the tournament and qualify for Saturday's finals, which start at 6:30 p.m.
Pampa meets Randall County (a 12-6 winner over Top O Texas) at 8 p.m. today, with the loser being eliminated from the tournament. Both teams have lost once in the contest. Borger suffered its second loss.

Randall County eliminated Top O Texas, 12-6, Wednesday. The winner of today's only game meets the once-beaten Panhandle Okies at 8 p.m. Friday for the right to face Dumas. Whoever wins Friday will have to beat Dumas twice Saturday to claim the championship and qualify for the state tournament July 19-24 at Seminole.

Jeffers gave up eight hits and four walks but came up with nine strikeouts, mostly at critical times in the contest against Borger. Borger scored two runs on four hits in the third and added single runs in the fifth and sixth.
Jeffers stranded runners at second and third in both the second, third and fifth innings.
Pampa jumped out to a 11-0 lead in the bottom of the first as Greg Koch drove in Jim Jeffrey with a single. The host all-star team scored five times on four hits, including a two-run scoring single by Doug Baird in the second, for a 6-0 lead.

Pampa added four runs — three unearned — in the third for a 10-2 margin. The hosts added on one run in the fourth and two in the fifth.
Jeffrey scored three runs in the contest, while Baird knocked in three. Jeffers and John Davis each batted in two runs.
Dumas collected 14 hits off the Panhandle Okies in the nine-run win in the late game. Winning pitcher was Lonnie Estep, who gave up only five hits.

Randall County (Canyon) pitcher Eddie Clement gave up only six hits — all in the third inning when Top O Texas scored five of its six runs — to pick up the win. Canyon scored four in the first inning and never trailed in the contest.
Danny Roberts, who tossed a three-hitter in beating Eastern Panhandle, 20-4, Tuesday, is Canyon's probable starting pitcher tonight against Pampa.

Americans trail

Heated words, weather highlight British Open

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — In a British heatwave you can't sleep, you can't keep cool, you can't get ice — gad sir, you can't even keep greens properly.

So has run the lament of some of the world's top golfers after surveying the parched straw-colored fairways and burned greens on the Royal Birkdale course, where the 105th British Open is being played.

A trio of American stars — Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Tom Weiskopf — sparked the controversy about whether the Birkdale greens were in as good a shape as they should be for this type of tournament. Hale Irwin did not comment.

Nicklaus struggled home with a 74, Weiskopf a 73 and Miller a 72 in Wednesday's opening round. Irwin also had a 74. All still were well within range of surprise leaders Norio Suzuki of Japan, Severiano Ballesteros of Spain and Christy O'Connor Jr. of Ireland, each in at 69.

But the American group felt they deserved a better fate were it not for the greens.

"I thought I putted pretty well, but you never could tell what the ball was going to do," said Nicklaus. "Every green was a different pace, and that really was the problem. I hit some good putts and then they caught a bit of dry stuff and the ball would run past the hole or off the green."
Weiskopf, perhaps, was the most critical.

"I have not asked why the greens are like this — I am not an expert on greens," he said. "I just play tournaments. But I just don't agree with the excuses, because of what I have experienced in other countries."

In national tournaments, where the temperatures are as high or higher, and where the greens are superb, it seems that there is a lack of knowledge how to deal with them here in the present conditions. Weiskopf continued.

It was most frustrating to play — when did all the 69s take place? In the morning when the greens were in better condition.

Douglas Pate, the head groundskeeper, felt there was little more that could be done than what already had been done — watering the grass all night as soon as play ends each day.

Nicklaus, Miller and Weiskopf were to get an earlier crack at the greens on the second round as the order of play was changed.

Taiwan situation may wreck China's chances

MONTREAL (AP) — The dispute over Taiwan's Olympic athletes may harm Communist China's prospects of getting back into the Games, Olympic leaders say.

Texts of letters released by the International Olympic Committee show it was Peking which sparked the situation that threatens to undermine the Montreal Games.

Peking made a direct request to the Canadian government that Taiwan's athletes be shut out of Canada.

It was the latest move in China's long and tortuous campaign to win acceptance in the Olympics and to squeeze out Taiwan.

The Canadian government bowed to Peking's demands in part. It said Taiwan's athletes would be allowed into Canada only if they dropped the name "Republic of China" — the name by which the Taiwan Olympic Committee is recognized by the IOC. The tangled problem of the two Chinas has been one of the IOC's biggest headaches for more than 20 years.

LA decisions slumping Phils

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Manager Danny Ozark believes his Philadelphia Phillies are not tense — they're overrelaxed.
"I don't know what you call it," said Ozark. "I'm not talking about the entire team, but some guys are just over-relaxed. We're just not making the defensive plays we did in the past."
The Phils, leading the National League East Division by eight games, suffered their fourth straight defeat Wednesday, dropping a 6-5 verdict to the Los Angeles Dodgers.
"There's no excuse," said second baseman Dave Cash, the unofficial captain of the Phils. "We've just not been playing good baseball."
In other NL games Wednesday, the Chicago Cubs blanked San Diego 10-0, the New York Mets blasted Houston 12-4, Pittsburgh toppled Atlanta 9-7.

Cincinnati edged Montreal 4-3 and San Francisco nipped St. Louis 3-2.
Philadelphia built a 5-2 lead after five innings, largely on Garry Maddox' two doubles and four runs batted in. But Ron Cey led off the Dodgers' sixth with a home run and in the seventh Los Angeles scored three runs, the winning tally coming home on Mike Schmidt's second two-base error of the game.

Pirates 9, Braves 7
Manny Sanguen's first homer of the season helped power Pittsburgh past Atlanta, whose late-inning explosion fell short.
Frank Taveras and Rennie Stennett each batted in a pair of runs for the Pirates, while Jim Wynn had three hits for the Braves, including his 11th homer of the season.
Cubs 10, Padres 0
The Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, which entered the game with the worst earned run average in baseball, hurled its third straight shutout, ran its scoreless streak to 29 innings and haven't given up an earned run in 35 innings.

While Rich Reuschel, 8-6, limited the Padres to just four hits while walking one and striking out four, Manny Trillo's threehome homer highlighted a five-run third inning explosion for Chicago.

Giants 3, Cardinals 2
Darrell Evans' leadoff homer in the top of the ninth carried San Francisco to its victory over St. Louis. The victory went to Gary Lavelle, 4-4, who relieved John Montefusco when the Giants starter developed a blister on his right middle finger.
Montefusco, who has been named to the NL All-Star team, said he ripped open the same finger June 26.
The San Francisco righthander has failed to gain a victory in his last five starts.

Mets 12, Astros 4
New York battered four Houston pitchers for 20 hits, including a double and single by John Milner, to post its 11th victory in 14 games. The Mets wrapped up the contest early with two runs in the first and four in the second.
Jerry Koosman, 9-6, scattered 10 Houston hits over the first eight innings before Ken Sanders nailed down the victory by working the ninth.

Reds 4, Expos 3
Cincinnati rallied for three runs in the ninth to topple Montreal and complete a sweep of their three-game series.
Joe Morgan and Dan Driessen led off the ninth with singles and Cesar Geronimo tied the game with a triple to right center. Mike Lum's sacrifice fly scored Geronimo with the winning run.

On NL squad 5 Reds acquire starting spots

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Morgan, baseball's top vote getter, joined four of his fellow teammates from the Cincinnati Reds in gaining starting berths on the National League's All-Star team, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced today.

Morgan, the powerful but pint-sized second baseman, will share the NL's infield starting assignment with two teammates, third baseman Pete Rose and shortstop Dave Concepcion. Catcher Johnny Bench and outfielder George Foster also will represent Cincinnati on the NL's starting team.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles beat Cincinnati's Tony Perez in the first base balloting to prevent the world champion Reds from hogging the entire NL infield for the 47th midsummer classic, scheduled for Tuesday night at Philadelphia.

The power-laden outfield for the National League includes Foster, Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia and Dave Kingman of the New York Mets.
Fans cast a record 8,370,145 ballots this year, surpassing last year's total of 7,357,811.

Morgan, the NL Most Valuable Player in 1975, led both leagues in total votes, piling up 3,079,811. Morgan, an All-Star starter for the fifth year in the row, far outdistanced second baseman Dave Cash of Philadelphia, who had 2,194,627 votes. Morgan is batting .333 with 14 home runs and 60 runs batted in.

Bench was named the NL catcher for the eighth straight year. He is batting .234 — lowest on the squad, with nine homers and 44 RBI.

Rose made the All-Star squad as a third baseman for the first time in his career.
Rose, now a 10-time All-Star selection after beating Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt by a 2,391,650-1,939,641 count, previously represented the NL at second base, left field and right field. Rose is batting .334 with six home runs and 38 RBI.

Concepcion, who made his first All-Star team last year, survived the closest battle, with a 2,130,721-1,941,092 spread over Philadelphia's Larry Bowa. Concepcion's six homers matches Rose for the lowest total among NL starters. He is batting .270 with 33 RBI.

Garvey, who was named the outstanding player in the NL's 63 victory last year, is batting .301 with seven homers and 44 RBI.

Luzinski, with a .310 batting average, 12 homers and 54 RBI, led the NL outfielders in the balloting with 1,946,379 votes, beating out first-time starter Foster, who leads the majors in RBI with 69. Foster, who has hit 17 homers while batting .334, amassed 1,482,945 votes.

Kingman, the major league home run leader with 27, finished with 1,415,050 votes in making the team for the first time.
Bench was named the NL catcher for the eighth straight year. He is batting .234 — lowest on the squad, with nine homers and 44 RBI.

Yanks, Royals win 1-run tilts

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Think you've got troubles, pal? Spare a drop of sympathy for snakebit Andy Hassler and Bert Blyleven.
Hassler made his debut for Kansas City and was sailing along with a three-hit 1-0 shutout against the New York Yankees Wednesday night when shortstop Fred Patek and left fielder Hal McRae let a pop fly drop for a two-base error with one out in the eighth inning.
Mickey Rivers singled home the unearned run, depriving Hassler of the victory, which would have been his first since April 29, 1975. In the interim, he lost a mere 17 in a row for the California Angels, just two shy of the American League record. The Royals won the game 2-1 but the victory went to reliever Mark Littell and Hassler's unenviable streak is still intact.

On June 21, Blyleven was the Texas starter and the Rangers were shut out for nine innings. On June 26 the same thing happened. Both times, however, Blyleven emerged a 1-0 victor in 10 innings.

But on July 2, the Rangers were again blanked for nine innings and this time Blyleven was nicked for a run and dropped a 1-0 heart-breaker. Wednesday night, they finally got him a run in regulation time against Detroit, but it came in the bottom of the ninth. Too late. Two Tiger runs in the top of the eighth made him a 2-1 loser.

Elsewhere, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-3 in 10 innings, the California Angels blanked the Cleveland Indians 2-0, the Oakland A's downed the Baltimore Orioles 5-3 and the Minnesota Twins trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 8-2.

Frank White opened the Royals' ninth with a single off Catfish Hunter. One out later he stole second and continued to third when the throw got away from a rookie shortstop Mickey Klutts.
Making his major league debut, Amos Otis followed with a sacrifice fly. Hal McRae homered in the eighth for Kansas City's first run.

Tigers 2, Rangers 1
Pinch hitter Dan Meyer singled to open the Tigers' eighth in a scoreless game and Ron LeFlore's sacrifice bunt was bootied by first baseman Mike Hargrove. Blyleven then hit Tom Verzyer and Ben Oglivie to force one run across before Rusty Staub's sacrifice fly drove in what proved to be the winner.

"He can't go through his whole career with this happening to him," moaned Texas manager Frank Lucchesi. "He just can't. We didn't even threaten for a while and this was against Dave Lemanczyk, with a five-something ERA."

White Sox 6, Red Sox 3
Jim Essian drove in the tiebreaking run with a two-out single in the 10th inning and Bucky Dent followed with a two-run single. Chicago starter Bart Johnson earned his fourth consecutive victory by pitching the first nine innings although Boston tied the score with two out in the ninth on Dwight Evans' run-scoring single.

Angels 2, Indians 0
Sore-armed Nolan Ryan blanked Cleveland on five hits for his 26th career shutout and struck out 10 while Bobby Bonds took care of the offense with a homer and run-scoring double.

A's 5, Orioles 3
Sal Bando drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly while ex-Oriole Paul Mitchell gained the victory with relief help from Rollie Fingers in the seventh. The A's broke a 1-1 tie with three runs in the fifth inning on consecutive singles by Bert Campaneris, Don Baylor, Joe Rudi, Bando and Gene Tenace.

Twins 8, Brewers 2
Mike Cuybage's first home run of the season, a grand slam, capped a five-run eighth inning that broke open a tight game. Bill Singer was the winner, with help from Bill Campbell in the eighth.

Carew outs Yaz at 1st base

NEW YORK (AP) — In the battle between longtime AllStars Rod Carew and Carl Yastrzemski, someone had to give. It was Yastrzemski.

Carew, a fixture at second base for the American League All-Star team the past nine years, had kept second baseman Bobby Grich of Baltimore on the also-ran list.

Now he's doing the same thing to Yastrzemski, another nine-time All-Star veteran.
Carew, the AL's top hitter the past four years, moved from second base to first base this year, and when the All-Star results were announced Wednesday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office, Boston's Yastrzemski was off the team.

Carew, of Minnesota, who now has made the AL's starting team each year he has been in the major leagues, collected 1,770,998 votes. Yastrzemski received 1,403,357 votes.

Catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees joined Carew as the only All-Star repeater on the AL's starting team, which will face the National League All-Stars Tuesday night at Philadelphia. The AL has lost 12 of the last 13 midseason games, including last year's 6-3 decision.

Munson beat out another Boston player, Carlton Fisk, in a close battle of previous All-Star performers. Munson is the All-Star catcher for the second year in a row. Munson and shortstop Toby Harrah of the Texas Rangers lead the AL starters in home runs, each with eight.

The rest of the starters are first-time electees, including outfielder Fred Lynn of Boston, the AL's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year in 1975.

The remainder of the team includes third baseman George Brett of Kansas City, Grich, Harrah, and Detroit outfielders Ron LeFlore and Rusty Staub.

Grich, in his sixth major league season, beat out Yankees second baseman Willie Randolph, the first rookie ever listed on the All-Star ballot. Grich, who is batting .282 — the lowest of the AL starters — received 2,043,904 votes to 1,582,156 for Randolph.

Brett, leading the league with a .356 average, was an easy winner at third base, polling 1,873,481 votes to 1,315,602 for Don Money of Milwaukee.

The balloting at shortstop was much closer, with Harrah beating out Mark Belanger of Baltimore, 1,481,346 to 1,233,755.

Lynn, who is batting .313 with five homers and 31 runs batted in, topped the AL balloting, receiving 2,953,664 votes.
LeFlore, who had a 30-game hitting streak earlier in the year, was second in the outfield balloting with 1,911,335 votes. He also ranks second in hitting on the team, with a .332 average.

Staub, a five-time National League All-Star selection, made the AL squad in his first season in the league. He had 1,573,703 votes and was followed in the balloting by Mickey Rivers of the Yankees, 1,432,412, and Amos Otis of Kansas City, 1,431,688.

Boston's Darrell Johnson, AL manager, will name his reserves on Friday.

Snyder paid off for NBC

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In December 1974, NBC brought an anchorman-interviewer Tom Snyder to the East Coast to anchor the low-rated 6 p.m. local news show of NBC-owned WNBC here and do his 1 a.m. "Tomorrow" shows here.

Snyder had been anchoring an evening news show on NBC-owned KNBC in Burbank, Calif., since 1970, and began "Tomorrow" there in October 1973. He came here with a new contract reportedly paying him $175,000 annually.

So has the move paid off for NBC both on a national basis and in Fun City, the nation's largest and richest television market?

"There isn't any question about it — he's doubled the ratings," says Joe Bartleme, head of news operations at NBC's five owned and operated stations. He referred to Snyder's work at WNBC here.

For Robert T. Howard, head of the NBC Television network, the "Tomorrow" answer is yes, not so much in terms of ratings — the show has no network competition in its hour — as in terms of national advertising for NBC and local revenue for local stations.

When the one-hour, Tuesday-through-Friday "Tomorrow" interview show began, it carried few commercials, which pay for the show, and a lot of public service announcements, which bring in no revenue.

"We expected it to go the first year in the red, but now it's profitable," said Howard, declining to say how profitable. "You've also got to realize that at the start local stations had a hard time selling it."

By that, he meant time sold to local sponsors, a problem NBC also had nationally.

He said now about 90 percent of the available commercial time on the show has been sold, "business is good" for the 167 stations now airing the program, and national sponsors have bought about 80 percent of the available "Tomorrow" time from next October through December.

Before Snyder, 40, signed on to anchor the 6 p.m. segment of WNBC's two-hour local news show here, the station's ratings in that hour had been a poor third against competing news shows on WGBS and WABC.

According to an A. C. Nielsen spokesman, the three network-owned stations in this market of more than 6.3 million homes with TV sets were virtually tied in ratings last month for their 6 p.m. local news shows.

Howard said the two main reasons the flamboyant Snyder was brought to New York were (a) to replace Jim Hartz, then shifting from the local anchor job to "Today," and (b) to build up production in New York at NBC's Fun City studios, from where "Tomorrow" now originates.

Another factor in the "Tomorrow" shift, Howard said, was that the citizens Snyder interviews on the show usually are in the category of news, not Hollywood entertainment, and live here and in Washington, D.C.

Critics, supporters continue Gandhi debate

By PAUL CHUTJOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — When Prime Minister Indira Gandhi proclaimed a national emergency on June 26, 1975, her supporters hailed the action as a courageous and long overdue push for "a peaceful revolution."

But her critics condemned the imposition of news censorship, the jailing of thousands of political opponents and the suspension of most civil rights as the unjustified subversion of democratic ideals and the beginning of one-person rule.

Now India has lived with the emergency for a year, and Mrs. Gandhi's supporters and critics both claim their original assessments have proved correct.

"This nation is on the move," proclaim the prime minister's supporters, and as evidence they point to an improved economy, good food supplies at lower prices and renewed ties with India's old foes, Pakistan and China.

"But democracy is dead," her critics restate, citing as proof the indefinite postponement of elections, curbs on the judiciary, permanent news censorship and the central government's takeover of the only two states that were run by daily elected opposition parties.

What both sides agree is that this nation of 610 million people, with an estimated 60 percent unable to read and 45 percent barely able to subsist, has been put through a year of fundamental, permanent, and in large measure, popular, change.

They also agree that the 59-year-old daughter of the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is entering her second decade as government leader with little viable political opposition and virtually unfettered power.

Mrs. Gandhi said in an interview on the anniversary of the emergency she is not ready to lift any of the restrictions.

By all accounts, there has indeed been significant economic progress during the past year.

A food grain harvest exceeding last year's record 114 million tons is being predicted. Food prices remain lower than a year ago and a crackdown on black marketeering has reduced hoarding and shortages.

International economists say industrial production is up almost five per cent, in part due to a ban on strikes. Foreign exchange reserves are also up, in part due to anti-smuggling measures.

A campaign against tax evasion has pumped more capital into the national treasury. Economists also say cuts in income and excise taxes, combined with streamlined licensing and investment procedures, have stimulated business.

A "discipline" campaign has improved bureaucratic performance and helped quiet the universities.

Mrs. Gandhi's supporters say another gain of the past year has been the progress of the government campaign to curb the birth rate and stop the population from growing each year by 13 million, a number equivalent to the entire population of Australia.

According to the government, new incentives and penalties have inspired Indians in record numbers to accept sterilization operations.

All of which, the government claims, justifies the steps which the prime minister took to end what she charged were growing abuses of political, individual and press freedoms.

In the view of Mrs. Gandhi's critics, however, the gains of the year of emergency are welcome but do not justify the government's means.

"Assuming that all the achievements claimed are true and valid, the basic question we have to ask ourselves is whether all the repressive measures are required to achieve the supposed results," opposition member of Parliament Krishna Kant told his colleagues in January.

"We adopted a democratic constitution and decided to have a free and open society to reach national goals through democratic processes," he said.

Mrs. Gandhi's critics claim the main goal of Mrs. Gandhi's actions is to keep her in power.

"Everybody seems to have forgotten that two weeks before she proclaimed the emergency Mrs. Gandhi was convicted of corrupt electioneering practices," one critic complains.

Since the emergency, news censorship has been made into law beyond judicial review and a code of ethics has been imposed defining what Indian journalists may write.
