County Leaders Move To Join Regional Panel

By RAY BAXTER
Members of the Gray County commissioners court voted four to one to join the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC).
In presenting the proposition, Gray County Judge Don Cain said he did so with great reluctance and only because the county is between a material rock and a fiscal hard place.
Judge Cain cited the upcoming move of city, county and state law enforcement agencies to new radio frequencies plus installation of equipment for almost instantaneous computerized information from Austin. Sheriff Rufe Jordan had estimated the cost at $12,000 to replace the county radio equipment now 15 years old.
Sheriff Jordan had been assured of 75 per cent aid in that cost through PRPC channels.
The state health and penal departments have served notice on the county that the jail must be upgraded almost immediately. New facilities required include juvenile, women's and padded cells. The estimated cost here is at least $50,000. Again, 75 per cent of this outlay has been pledged through PRPC channels.
The judge summed up that financial aid to be gained (money the county does not have to spend) is just a few dollars short of $50,000. Dues in the regional organization would cost the county four cents per capita per year on $1,077.84. He noted it would take many years to save enough just putting this aside against needed expenditures.
Don Hinton, commissioner precinct 2, voted against the measure. Hinton passed out a prepared statement prior to the discussion. It read:
"The Panhandle Regional Planning Commission as I see it is another claw of the federal government—like HEW, Urban Renewal and the like, all failures—a burden on the taxpayer, another rosy welfare program.

"This deal" will cost Gray County between $10-thousand and $15-thousand per year to participate. The judge has pointed out that the court house and jail will need approximately $30,000 in remodeling in the next several years. By not joining PRPC and setting aside this money we can do this ourselves and stand on our own feet and not on a government crutch.
"It has been talked that, possibly by October, 1972, all counties will be required to join all regional commissions. If you are forced to join, how much government do you have left?"
"I further feel the people of Gray County that I represent feel the same as I do about lower taxes overall with less waste and honest, business-type government."
Commissioner James McCracken, absent due to a death in his family, instructed the judge to enter his affirmative vote in the minutes.
In other business, McCracken instructed a "no" vote to the resolution to redistrict Gray County. A motion was made to enter into a technical redistricting that would leave precincts as they are geographically. Each commissioner or candidate would be required to live within the precinct where he held or sought office. Every voter in Gray County would vote "at large" on every commissioner. This would take effect Jan. 1, 1973.
County redistricting is very much "up in the air" with cases in both the lower courts and before the supreme court to be decided. These decisions should come before the effective date to allow change or amendment as needed.
Other court business was of a routine nature. The panel adjourned until June 1.

Nixon Trip To Moscow 'Still On'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cordial 50-minute meeting between President Nixon and two high-ranking Soviet officials on trade matters indicates Nixon's Moscow summit meeting will take place as planned May 22.
After Thursday's White House meeting, the Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev was asked by a reporter whether Nixon's trip to Moscow was "still on."
"We never had any doubts about it," the Soviet official said through an interpreter. He added, "I don't know why you asked this question. Have you any doubts?"
Patolichev and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, both members of the Communist Party's central committee, came to the White House for what was described there as a "courtesy call."
Patolichev has been in this country since May 7 and press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon wanted to receive him as a courtesy and to reciprocate similar courtesies accorded two U.S. officials who visited Moscow recently to discuss trade relations.
Ziegler would not comment on the discussion.
As for the trip to the Soviet Union, 10 days from now, Ziegler reiterated: "We are proceeding with plans."

3,000 Persons Fleeing New Braunfels Homes

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (AP) — A cloudburst striking New Braunfels and the hills around it sent a wall of water sweeping through portions of the two early today. Five persons were known drowned and 20 to 25 unaccounted for.
Police Chief Royce Couch said 3,000 persons fled their homes, with 1,000 taking refuge in the National Guard Armory.
The floodwater began to recede about dawn.
New Braunfels sits in a valley formed by the Comal and Guadalupe rivers which converge in the city of nearly 20,000.
The main business section is 40 to 50 feet above the normal level of the rivers and suffered no damage.
The area flooded is made up largely of residences and unoccupied land with some small industries.
Sheriff Water Fellers said the floodwaters came in very quickly.
"It was fast," he said. "We had one area up here I know that had 10 inches of rain in one and a half hours."
The sheriff said of the flood, "I would say it was a wall of water and rising at the same time."
He could give no immediate figures on the number of homes washed away or damaged.
A man about 30 who refused to identify himself told how he, his wife, 2-year-old daughter, sister and two dogs got out.
"All of a sudden, water started pouring through the air conditioner. We didn't know what to expect."
A neighbor came by and said the water was coming up and said, "You'd better get out." When we opened the door to let him in, about two feet of water came in."
The man, dressed in T-shirt, worn windbreaker, blue jeans and tennis shoes, said he and his family and dogs tried to walk to higher ground but didn't get very far because of the swift current.
"We got two houses down and found a car that was washed against a house. We climbed on the car for awhile, then as the water rose, we got on the roof of the house. Then the water started falling and we could walk out."
The family arrived at the National Guard Armory on a fire truck. The baby was put to sleep on a blanket on the concrete floor of the armory.
At one time, each river was 150 to 200 feet wide while normally each is 25-30 feet across.
Some houses were completely covered with water. A highway bridge on the Guadalupe on Farm Road 306 leading out of town collapsed.
Sheriff Fellers said "a bunch of hippie kids" resided on the Guadalupe but he said he felt they were aroused by the rain and moved to higher ground.
The Bob Coker family of four, plus what Mrs. Coker called "three hysterical dogs," arrived at the armory about 5:30 a.m. by high-wheeled National Guard truck.
A Coker son, about 14, said the family was on the front lawn when a helicopter tried to rescue them. But the craft could not land because of the soft, water-logged soil.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Caddell and their eight children, and a neighboring family of six spent the night in the rain on top of the hydroelectric plant six miles outside of town after fleeing their homes.
Both rivers were brown with silt today and filled with debris. Forde of the water was shown where a chain-link fence was bent at a 45-degree angle.
Many highways leading into New Braunfels were closed for a time by the high water. Interstate 35, the main highway between Austin and San Antonio, was shut for several hours.
Some residents of Seguin, 16 miles southeast, and in San Marcos, about 25 miles northeast, fled their homes.
In San Marcos, water rose six and a half feet over the San Marcos River bridge near the downtown section and about 60 occupants were moved from the first floor of an apartment house. Others were removed from a trailer park.
Flash flood or severe thunderstorm warnings were posted for Central and Southeast Texas.
Thunderstorm activity was reported also in North Central and Northeast Texas while considerable cloudiness lingered in West Texas.

Panel Votes To Apply For Funds

In an extraordinary session held by unanimous consent, members of the Pampa school board voted to make application for funds for additional kindergarten classes next year.
A breakfast "talk" session was called after the administration received word Thursday that some $15,000 was available under the headstart program. Mrs. Marjorie Gaut and Jerry Cronister outlined the offer and what it would entail.
Since there was a deadline that would fall before the regular board meeting Monday night, Bob Carmichael asked for and received the unanimous consent. There was one dissenting vote to the motion to make application for the funds.
This money will provide two kindergarten rooms of 20 students each with a teacher and an aide for each room. There will be $400 available for equipment for each room. The students enrolled in this program will count toward ADA.
The program would involve (Above the current kindergarten curriculum) added nutritional and medical benefits which will be paid out of the $15,000. There must also be a parent involvement coupled to the program.
The only cost to the local schools system will be the $500 increment for each teacher or $1,000 total.
If instituted, this program would bring to nine instead of seven the number of kindergarten units planned for the forthcoming school year.

Clean-Up Drive To Be In Ward 3 Area Monday

Residents of Ward 3 today were urged to get ready for city rubbish collection trucks which move into their area Monday.
The annual spring cleanup campaign was winding up in Ward 3 today.
The Ward 3 area to be covered next week includes all territory east of S. Cuyler and Barnes and south of E. Foster.
R.B. Cooke, public works director, asked residents to place rubbish near trash cans in the alley for pick up by sanitation department crews.
Cooke said today 63 loads had been hauled away in Ward 2 up until Thursday night.

Thunderstorms continued to strike the area yesterday and bring more moisture to the farmer and ranchers but with less violence than the past few days.
Pampa residents saw a brilliant lightning display accompanying a storm that dropped about 31 inch on the already-soaked ground. The rain started about 3:30 p.m. and continued for over two hours, falling lightly most of the time.
Total rainfall for Pampa to date now stands at 2.65 inches, with 1.77 inches falling in May.
Other sections of the Panhandle reported overcast skies with mist or light rain and some hail. In the Amarillo and Plainview area heavy rains and some hail fell, but no damage was reported.
White Deer, Miami and Canadian each received about half an inch, with Canadian reporting pea-size hail. Clarendon and Claude each reported about .30 inch.
A heavy thunderstorm drenched Wheeler with 1.45 inches during a storm hitting about 5 p.m. McLean recorded about an inch from its afternoon shower, with many creeks in the area almost overflowing their banks.
The rains are expected to greatly aid many farmers although some have lost dryland wheat crops to hail damage and too much rain washing out the land. Officials have not yet placed a monetary value on the damage.
The local political pot continues to boil with both parties meeting in convention at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon.
Republicans will convene in the county courtroom according to Dr. Julian Key, newly elected Gray County chairman for the GOP.
With the Republican presidential nomination virtually a certainty for Richard Nixon, business at hand will deal chiefly with strengthening the party locally for greater strength in the gubernatorial run-off and in the general elections when Texas Republicans hope to retain their men in Washington and put one in the governor's chair at Austin.
Gray County Democratic Chairman Harold Comer will chair "the party's county convention in the district courtroom."
Presidential timber will provide much of the fuel for the meeting. Since Texas does not have a presidential primary as many of the states do, pledging of delegates starts literally at the grass routes.

Reds Hit An Loc From All Sides Again Despite Heaviest B52 Raids

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops and tanks smashed into An Loc again today despite saturation bombing by 70 U.S. B52s that rained more than 1,700 tons of explosives on the devastated provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon. It was the war's heaviest concentration of B52s.
The U.S. Command reported one American adviser killed, a second wounded and two small Air Force spotter planes shot down in action around An Loc and Chon Thanh, a district capital 15 miles to the south. Two of the four crewmen aboard the planes were missing.
The North Vietnamese appeared determined to turn An Loc into another Quang Tri, the northernmost provincial capital that fell May 1 after similar heavy assaults.

An Loc, under siege since April 7, is 85 per cent destroyed, but its capture by the North Vietnamese would be another blow to prestige of the Saigon and President Nixon's Vietnamization program.
The North Vietnamese hit An Loc with the heaviest artillery bombardment of the war Thursday, firing more than 7,000 rounds and following up with tank and infantry attacks.
The North Vietnamese resumed their heavy shelling and ground assaults from all sides shortly before 9 a.m. today. At least five tanks smashed into the northern end of the town, and enemy infantrymen fought their way into the western sector.
Government forces were reported to have retaken one block in the northeastern part of town.
Field reports indicate the situation was confusing, with the defense lines rapidly changing.

Fighting also erupted closer to Saigon.
The South Vietnamese command claimed 93 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in two clashes just south of the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway 25 to 35 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital. Eleven South Vietnamese were reported killed and nine wounded.
Saigon's curfew was advanced an hour, to 10 p.m., and bars, night clubs and race tracks were ordered shut.
On the far northern front, below the demilitarized zone, U.S. officers told Associated Press correspondent Lynn C. Newland that the North Vietnamese were using Quang Tri city as a major supply base for their operations in the region.
U.S. Navy ships shelled Quang Tri for the first time, and officers said an ammunition dump and a fuel depot were the targets.

New fighting was reported seven miles southwest of Hue, near Fire Base Birmingham.
The commissioner of the Canadian delegation to the International Control Commission, David Jackson, reported today that much of Hanoi's civilian population has been moved into the countryside and some government offices have shut down because of the threat of U.S. air attacks on the North Vietnamese capital.
"A major evacuation of residents has taken place," Jackson reported. "No hard figures are available, but the city is not as busy as usual. What little industry there is has been affected. The greater the fear, the more complete the measures."
The Canadian delegation to the ICC has a four-man office in Hanoi, and Jackson visits there periodically. He said civilians have been leaving Hanoi since the North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam began March 30, apparently in anticipation that the United States would renew its air attack on the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

The U.S. Command has reported that American fighterbombers attacked military targets in the Hanoi area three times since April 16.
The North Vietnamese government charged that residential districts of the city itself were attacked and there were many civilian casualties.
Jackson said he and his men have seen no evidence of American air attack on the central part of Hanoi, but he added that the Canadians don't move about much.
Nhan Dan, the official North Vietnamese newspaper, claimed today that American bombers had knocked out or seriously weakened flood control dikes in many areas of the country's four southern provinces, from about 85 miles south of Hanoi down to the demilitarized zone.

Dorothy says I aroused a "horse's nest" at Findlay, Ohio. For brainstrusters and bureaucrats hate "horse sense." They have seldom been productive workers but live off the oppressed taxpayers and even try to entrench themselves in continual office.

CASE T-577: Dorothy M., aged 34, says one of my recent cases stirred up some violent protests in Findlay, Ohio. It dealt with the simple dry cell doorbell buzzer device to waken the bed-wetting child.

With a couple of squares of ordinary screen wire placed under the child's hips, and two narrow strips beneath his legs, the mild electric shock wakens the child when the first drops of urine filter down between those two squares.

This simple shock wakens him, much as the alarm clock arouses his sleepy dad in the morning.

"Dr. Crane's plan," protested an irate woman, typical of the sentimental Social service case workers, "is a parody of muddled thinking and outmoded ideas.

"Except where enuresis is caused by physical malfunction, it is nearly always connected with emotional disturbance.

Then she suggests that such youngsters should be sent to psychiatrists!

And affects the typical horror of the bureaucratic fraternity at any simple home remedy that would save $25 psychiatric fees and eliminate the need for more welfare workers!

Actually, the essence of all medical and psychological science is plain, old-fashioned "horse sense."

A&M Installs 'Heart Station'

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M University's College of Veterinary Medicine has completed installation of a "heart station" — one of a small number in the nation.

Dean A. A. Price expects the facility to become the Southwest's major cardiovascular referral center for animals.

The new facility is designed for diagnosis and treatment of heart and blood vessel (cardiovascular) diseases.

Included in the equipment is a television video tape recorder, which has live viewing and instant replay—similar to sports replay capabilities.

Other sophisticated equipment is a heart-lung by-pass machine, a rapid cassette changer which will take conventional X-rays, at one-half second intervals and a radioisotope scanning unit, used to perform radiocardiography and other procedures using radioactive isotopes.

A fluoroscope, one of the main components of the station, serves additional functions at the college.

In a religious concept, the yew tree symbolizes sorrow, death and resurrection.

Senate Unit Asked To Hike Funds For Migrant Health

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has requested the Senate Appropriations Committee to increase by 25 per cent funds for programs of health care for migrant workers.

Sen. Bentsen was joined in the request by several Senate colleagues who signed the Bentsen letter.

The letter noted that farm workers suffer from a tuberculosis rate 17 times greater than the national average and a disproportionately high incidence of high blood pressure, diabetes, urinary tract infections, anemia, gall bladder and intestinal disorders and rickets.

The migrant worker who follows the crops rarely receives adequate health care.

Bentsen said, "He is frequently ineligible for local programs of public assistance. He works in relatively isolated areas which do not have adequate facilities or programs.

"He is generally unaware of the relatively few special programs which are directed at him. He may suffer from malnutrition, which leaves him vulnerable to a wide range of serious illnesses."

Texas, Bentsen noted, is estimated to have some 200,000 migrant workers. At the present time the per capita health expenditures per worker is less than $9 compared to $250 on a national average.

"The figures," Bentsen said, "indicate that the government has placed a low priority for migrant health."

Bentsen said he was particularly concerned about recent decisions of the Public Health Service to phase out all hospitalization coverage for migrant workers under the Migrant Health Act.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Alvin T. Adams Jr. of Groves has been named training specialist for pipefitting and plumbing apprentice schools throughout Texas.

The program is coordinated through the Engineering Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

Comedy (?) of Vietnam

We'll have to admit that the funniest show on the road today is the Vietnam War starring Richard Nixon, Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnam "peace negotiator" and assorted candidates.

The chorus of supporting actors include the anti-war demonstrators around the world.

Take Tho's show-stopper as he steps from the plane in Paris: "I'm happy to return. The way of negotiation is the best to peacefully solve the Vietnamese problem."

Not to be upstaged, Nixon counters at a Texas Barbecue: "It is just nonsense to say the Vietnam war is the cause of social unrest."

And how about his straight-faced: "American air and sea power are preventing a Communist takeover of South Vietnam." This he utters as South Vietnam's northern provincial capital of Quang Tri falls to the North Vietnam invaders and two towns in Cambodia also fall in a flanking maneuver.

Background music for the play is provided by anti-war demonstrators featuring soloists from the U.S. Senate.

And what makes good comedy, as any student of the stage can tell you, is to mix it with tragedy.

While the "stars" recite their lines with noble gesture and serious, solemn expression, they in truth are concerned only with what political hay can be made from their public stand.

So now, in the final act of Vietnam, the words continue without conviction while the bombs fall and guns blaze and people die.

They're still working on the finale.

However, the script finally reads, this is bound to be the longest running comedy in history. So why aren't you laughing?

Peacenik Sincerity

What value human life? Had our society become so oblivious to its Christian pillars and so permissive that young people—apparently having had no parental supervision on the value of human life—are now mocking their fellow man's suffering and seemingly looking towards seeing a human death for the sake of "excitement"?

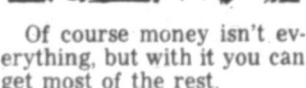

An incident at a high school recently, which is becoming more the rule rather than the exception, would make a person wonder if the young people who demonstrate for an end to Vietnam are sincere.

The cry for the end of the war for so-called humanitarian reasons, the carnage afflicted on our fighting men and the soldiers and citizens of both North and South Vietnam.

Yet at home they cry to see someone maimed or killed.

A watched pot often causes one to go on a diet.

The boss says he's very proud of the job we've been doing for years, and hopes someday we'll finish it and get on to something else.

Of course money isn't everything, but with it you can get most of the rest.

Fellow next door says he's going to get his frau a watch for her birthday.

It Seems Our Good Living Palls

By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA)—The eminent historian, Dr. Daniel J. Boorstin of the Smithsonian Institution, has an idea why Americans these days are making so much of their discontents and frustrations.

He thinks they don't have enough rich living experience to set off against the things that trouble them.

How can this be? In this incredibly "democratized" society, more Americans than ever before can travel the nation and the world, watch or engage in sports and recreation, listen to music of all kinds, see drama in many forms, observe many events of history first-hand or through television, at close second-hand.

Isn't all this enough to take a man's mind off his troubles? Boorstin says no. While it obviously can be and is argued that the democratizing of virtually everything is a good end, he sees on gravely dispiriting consequence.

He calls it the diluting or thinning out of experience. Too much of a good thing, gained too easily, is a bore.

Good music heard in warm, friendly settings, at concerts and other public gatherings, on ritualistic occasions, has the stamp of richness about it. But when it pours forth in an unbroken flood from department stores, restaurants, building elevators, airplanes and even street corners, it becomes a gray fog of sound dulling to the senses.

The wonders of travel to places of beauty and strangeness fade if they are seen too often, and in the inescapable company of too many others who find it easy today to make the same journeys. Can the stark grandeur of Yosemite be enjoyed fully as a mere backdrop to a colossal traffic jam?

Under the relentless glare of television's light, the wit of the most inventive comedians falters and the graces of the most stylish actors take on a look of contrivance. The dogged manufacture of "fun" and "dramatic excitement" often ends up producing neither.

Man's going to the moon is a monumental accomplishment, a triumph of human genius, always a perilous plunge into cold, hostile blackness. Yet, after five showings on television, the great diluter, it has no more effect on many Americans than a jaunt to the store for hair spray.

There is just too much laid out before us. And the net of that, says the perceptive Dr. Boorstin, is the thinning out of good living and the consequent magnifying of our discontents. Specialness and rarity and true individuality are gone from much of what we do and our goal is said to be heightened opportunity for everyone to be himself. But we are learning that the process which brings that opportunity somehow steals the richness from our choices.

Young workers smothered by the tedium of the factory assembly line seek escape, to enjoy life more. Fine. But doing what? Getting into a traffic line at Yosemite?

School age rebels turn from the watered down pleasures of established society. To do what? To join often in herds on muddy hillsides to listen to scratchy, monstrous sounds called "rock." Muzak does it better in the elevators. The noise and the crowds on the hillsides are big, but the living there is thin.

In this time of liberation, we are told, the search is for "identity." But with so many searchers looking in so many places for so much, and with the clever marketers of "experience" in close pursuit, the quest dilutes living and buries identity.

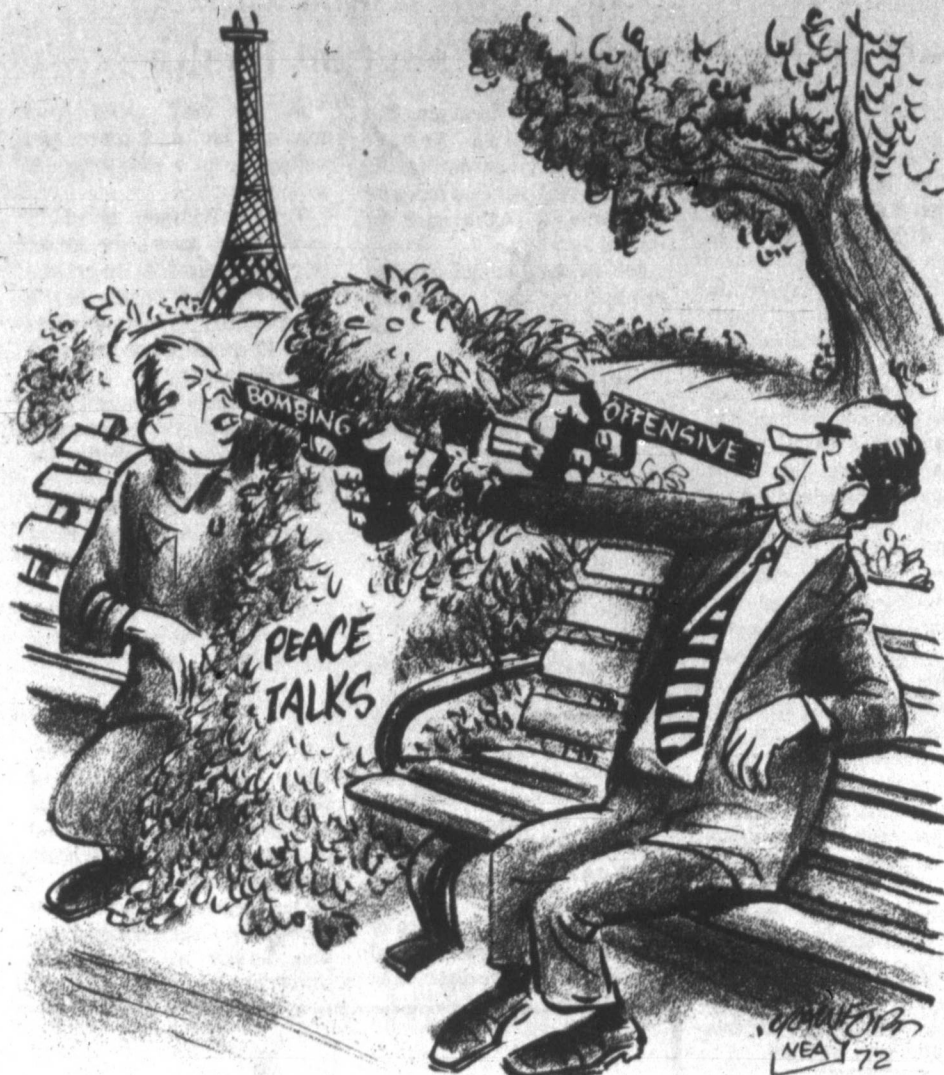

We need, instead, the boldness of real individuality, rooted in inner resource, inventive in rewarding and sustaining the self, resistant to the cries that identity lies with the crowd. Crowds pass on, and leave the streets empty.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The largest aircraft in wingspan—320 feet—ever built was the eight-engined 200-ton Hughes Hercules flying boat which was flown once in 1947 by Howard Hughes. The World Almanac recalls. It provided innovations in design, construction and control systems which were valuable in building the current generation of giant commercial and military aircraft.

To The Graduates Of 1972

(Part I)

Things I wish I had known when I went out to face the cold, cruel world 37 years ago (or as my daughter calls it, "in the olden days"):

That sheepskin does not mean you're educated. It means that you should now have enough appreciation of education to make you want to become educated. Your intellectual horizon should now have been raised so as to whet your appetite for knowledge, which you now should know where and how to get.

A successful farmer today must know far more than merely how-to farm. He needs to be part scientist, salesman, student, buyer, bookkeeper, tax expert, internationalist, politician, philosopher, historian, veterinarian and weather expert. And, a keen sense of humor helps.

The time has come when, if you have not already done so,

H. L. Hunt Writes

Before the United States had any bureaus interceding into production of goods, the citizens of the U.S. built up a system which produced more quantities and qualities of goods than the rest of the world combined. Today we find ourselves outstripped in many fields, especially by former enemies Japan and West Germany. Once upon a time any goods from Japan were suspect as being cheap and flimsy, while German precision items were excessively expensive.

Now the purchaser is likely to find Japanese goods as precision-made and durable, or more so, than either U.S. or German goods, while German precision items may cost less than poorer quality U.S. goods. The Japanese and Germans have been following the tried and true profit-motive system of producing more and better goods as economically as possible. They have by this means taken away leadership in specialty from specialty from more socialist countries like Britain, France, Sweden, Italy, etc.

The consumers of the world have profited most from this competition. Where once the consumers of the U.S. were the only ones with a wealth of choice between competitive goods which were always being improved, after World War II the consumers of many nations began to enjoy affluence. Forced competition should get most of the credit.

It seems that the more "protection" the consumer gets, the sorer and more expensive the goods he buys become. In a free market, consumers will get fooled on occasion, but will have bigger and growing supplies of improved goods at less cost. We had better start competing again.

you must make your own bargain with life.

Neither your parents nor your government can do it for you. You can do and be almost anything you want to do and be badly enough to make the necessary all-out effort and sacrifice. Try to decide now what you most want from life. And remember, those who merely chase "happiness" never catch up with it. Life has its sunshine and its shadows, its peaks and its valleys.

This is still virtually the only country in the world where anybody who's got what it takes and gives what it takes, can rise from the bottom to the top. Most great deeds are mainly mixtures of courage and sweat. There are few born geniuses.

Your albatross could well be too much opportunity, instead of too little; too much, too easy. Opportunity can make and break. Money and luxurious living are false gods. For hardship builds character, like forging builds steel.

It's Up To You

You can't get to the Promised Land without going through the wilderness. Our republic was built on individual freedom, individual opportunity, and individual responsibility. Wonder what Abraham Lincoln would have done, if he'd had the opportunity you have?

Lincoln as a boy, read books by the light of an open fire and had only about three years of formal schooling. No struggle, no Lincoln; no wilderness, no Moses; no cross, no Christ; no adversity, no victory.

The above was written twelve years ago. It seems just as appropriate now, maybe more so. More next week. Copyright 1972, The American Way Features

VIEWPOINT

JESSE HELMS

Repressive?

One of the presidential candidates was saying on television recently that America is plagued today with an epidemic of insincerity. There is something to be said for his contention, of course. But the real problem, we sometimes think, lies with citizens who are sincere — but sincerely wrong.

Moreover, there seems to be a growing number of people — particularly in public office — who claim to "know" things which simply are not so. An abundance of examples come immediately to mind — for instance, the politicians and professors who used to lecture us about economics, saying that the federal debt didn't matter, and that federal spending and federal debt were the vehicles we could ride to national prosperity.

Well, we know better than that, now that it's too late. Similarly, we were told that forced integration would give dignity and equality to minority groups, and that education would be improved as a result. The country is now seeing the bitter fruits of that political experimentation.

Our foreign aid giveaway program and the United Nations — we were told — would together bring peace and liberty to the world. But look at the results!

Small wonder that the people are confused and frustrated. The snake-oil dispensed by the political "liberals" for more than a generation has proved to be a demonstrable fraud. Yet, there are more and more people who continue to embrace the leftwing propaganda, and whose passions and hostilities are inflamed because they have been denied the Utopian perfection guaranteed them by political theorists in the classroom and along the campaign trail.

We noted the other day some comments by a talented black college basketball player in our state. This young man sincerely believes the misinformation swirling around him. He is, as we say, sincerely wrong — which, if anything, makes it worse. He believes the inflammatory, false cries he has heard from agitators that America is a "repressive" nation; he apparently believes that some of the country's best-advertised and most callous criminals are innocent. He believes that 98 percent of the American people live in bondage — that, as he put it, two percent of the people own 98 percent of the wealth.

It is simply not so. Neither he nor the professor who locked such misinformation in his mind could possibly document such a declaration, because — we repeat — it simply is not so.

Not long ago, an Atlanta television station presented a program which included inflammatory statements by a black student leader enrolled at a university in Georgia. At one point, the young man declared: "Our black brothers are being killed every day in Atlanta," the inference being that whites are doing the killing — and, therefore, that it was time for blacks to rise up in violent retaliation.

Fortunately, a responsible black citizen of the city decided to check up, to see if the student's claim was true. He discovered that the student was 100% wrong in his implications. The records showed that during the first eight months of 1971, 110 blacks had indeed been killed in Atlanta — but 109 of them were killed by other blacks! During the same period, 33 whites had been killed, 14 of them by blacks.

The point, of course, is that much of the country's upheaval and frustration could be resolved if enough citizens would check behind some of the phony exhortations to which they are being constantly subjected. Sensible citizens who stop to think will quickly realize that America's gambit with socialism isn't working, and can't possibly work in the future. They will realize that our society, for all its defects, is not a "repressive" society — and that deliberate criminals are not worthy of sympathy, let alone martyrdom. Blacks and whites alike, if they pause long enough to think it through, will understand that the provocation of racial hostility harms not only the nation's future, but the future of every individual citizen as well.

Being sincerely wrong is no virtue. In fact, in the long run, it could prove even more destructive than the work of those who by intent and design seek to overthrow and destroy the republic. The nation needs to be on guard against both. — The American Way Features

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—Terry can use that collection of pretty colored stones in many ways. Use plaster of paris and water mixed to a thick consistency or some good glue and cover cheap costume jewelry, then apply the stones as desired. Cigar boxes can also be covered with "glued" stones to make nice jewelry boxes. Old lamp bases bottles, candlestick milds and all sorts of things might be so covered.—EVELYN

DEAR POLLY—I have made beautiful pictures or plaques to hand on the wall by making designs according to a drawn pattern and then gluing on the stones, sometimes alone or combined with gray driftwood, shells and sand. Terry will find that a collection of stones of one color is perfect to hide the needlepoint holder used for a flower arrangement.—MRS. R. L. M.

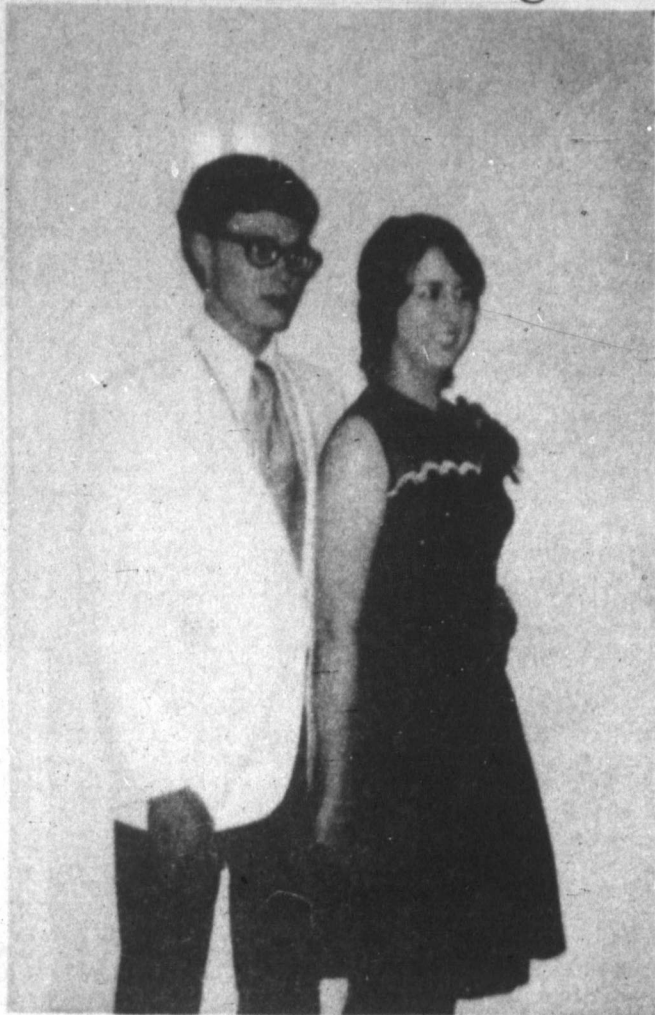

DEAR GIRLS—Being one of those people who cannot walk along a beach without always looking down for pretty stones or shells, as the case may be. I have found some stones that were so beautiful when wet but are more or less colorless when dry but they look well when filling about three-fourths of a brandy sniffer and covered with just enough water to bring out the colors. The water should be changed often.—POLLY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—My sliding glass doors have sweated on the inside and now have terrible-looking streaks. I would like to know if there is any way to clear up these doors other than buying new ones. Can this condensation be prevented in the future?—MRS. J. G. C.

DEAR POLLY—My shoulders used to ache and I could not reach the spot to rub on liniment, so I made a pad of bandage gauze which I taped on a long narrow strip of wood (it came off a cloth calendar). Now I dip this pad into the liniment which is poured into a paper cup and rub it on my shoulders with ease.—MRS. B.K.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the appalling number of unsafe toys for children that are on the market. My experience has been that sales and managerial personnel are almost always unconcerned when approached on this subject. When I found sharp points on a baby rattle and complained the sales person just put it right back on the shelf. Everyone should select toys and games with care and shop only in stores where the sales personnel are willing to help us make wise purchases.—ELIZABETH

"Most Popular Musicals" Is Culture Club Program

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met in the home of Mrs. G.L. Cardduck, 2000 Williston, with Mrs. E. W. Hogan as co-hostess. During the social hour members were entertained with selections from various familiar musicals.

The president, Mrs. L. J. Zachry, conducted the business meeting, and Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer introduced the speaker, Mrs. J.M. Stallings.

Mrs. Stallings began her program on the "World's most popular musicals" with a quote from Carlyle who said, "Music is said to be the speech of angels; in fact nothing among the utterances allowed to man, is felt to be so Divine. It brings us near to the Infinite; we look for moments across the cloudy elements into the eternal light, when song leads and inspires us."

Mrs. Stallings explained the first musical comedy is generally considered to be an English work, John Gay's "The Beggars' Opera," written in 1728, but musicals are the unique contribution of the United States to world theater.

"The Black Crook," presented in 1866, has often been called the first American musical comedy, she said. It was a five and one-half hour extravaganza costing $50,000 that became the thing to see, even if respectable women had to wear heavy veils to conceal their identity. It ran 474 performances.

In 1897, "The Brook," by Nate Salsbury was the first American musical comedy to attempt some kind of intergration between plot and musical routines. Mrs. Stallings pointed out the principal characters, the five Salsbury Troubadours, appear as members of a theatrical troupe who go on a boat trip for a picnic. During the picnic, everything goes wrong; a basket supposed to contain watermelons actually yields theatrical costumes. The performers accept the situation gracefully, don the costumes, and perform songs, dances, and speciality numbers.

Salsbury, who toured with "The Brook" for many years, took it to London where it became the first American musical production given in the British Isles, she explained.

She discussed other musicals performed before the turn of the century, such as "Humpty Dumpty," "Evangeline," "Adonis," "The Little Tycoon," "A Trip to Chinatown," and "El Capitan."

One of the most successful of these was John Phillip Sousa's comic opera, "El Capitan." Out of this came one of Sousa's most famous marches, also entitled El Capitan.

Mrs. Stallings told of the first edition of the revue that became an institution on Broadway, "The Ziegfeld Follies," which appeared in 1907. In 1909, Sophie Tucker came for the first time to the Follies, and Fanny Brice made her debut with the Follies in 1910.

Ziegfeld died in 1932. Since his death there have been four editions of the Follies. The 1943 Follies had the longest run of any, 553 performances.

She discussed other musicals, notably "Lil' Abner," "The Music Man," "Flower Drum Song," and "Gypsy."

Mrs. Stallings told the women a major new musical, "Gone With the Wind," will open in London on May 3. It is directed by an American, Joe Layton, who is also responsible for the choreography. The city of Atlanta is burned down nightly on the biggest stage in London's West End, she said.

The speaker discussed the works of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Rodgers said, "The public taste is enormously Catholic and in its choice of entertainment it is precise and knowing. The public is not only willing but anxious to go along

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

SATURDAY, MAY 13

Your birthday today: Much of what comes now is pioneering, away from previous material-welfare considerations. Emotional experiences brighten many memorable episodes. Today's natives have a hidden streak of wry humor; more visible are their characteristics of courage and political skills.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Those who know you well collaborate with little confusion. Others are fairly baffled unless you deal with them directly and with all details spelled out clearly.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Concern over material resources and their management is likely to be justified; with early diligent attention you come out well ahead.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Friends may upset your plans, particularly if they relate to business. Given time and patience, harmony returns.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Your opinions include wishful thinking as you reach out to help and comfort those less fortunate. Evening has a definite change of pace and mood.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You may find the help you asked for in forms you find inconvenient. Remember that nearly all around you have similar goals.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Family needs tend to crowd out some career effort for the moment. Find a balance and do something for both sides of the situation.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: It's just as well you don't hear some of the opposition comment today, as it needs no answer. Expect a bright and open moment of triumph.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Complete and careful explanation may persuade your way—if you are really sure of what you want.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Group welfare takes precedence over the wishes of any single individual. Join and get your share of all that comes from people working together.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Look back over the very recent past, make sure no minor error remains to create later confusion. Expert advice is favored.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Those who help most are those who know little or nothing of what has been happening, thus are more objective. Keep away from speculative ventures.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Family and social context form a web about you and there's a good path thru it that helps all, eventually. Patience now, while slow change works.

Dear Abby

Sources of 'experience' need not be divulged

By Abigail Van Buren
(c. 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: How much should a girl tell a fellow about her past? I have been dating a very wonderful man for the past five months and he is getting serious, talking about marriage, etc.

He knows I am not lily white, but he doesn't know how many and who, and he would be shocked and disappointed if he knew. I am 24, and I have thought I was in love about ten times in my life.

I am not too proud of my conduct, but I've grown up a lot since then and I'm really not a tramp; I've just had a lot of experience for my age.

What is your advice?

LIBRA

DEAR LIBRA: I see no reason to provide anyone with the names and numbers of all the players. Let sleeping dogs lie.

DEAR ABBY: We are loyal Abby fans and have patiently gone through the problems of smokers, non-smokers, knitters, non-knitters, swingers, non-swingers, and so on. Now, we are asking you to please give us a short listen.

This is on behalf of all METER MAIDS who would like to answer nationwide, a few questions we are asked every day by at least a dozen people.

1. No. We do not have a "quota" of tickets that we have to meet every day.

2. No. We do not work on commission. [I wish we did.]

And while we are writing to you, Abby, will you please tell the public that we don't appreciate those cute little "oink" noises some people make behind our backs. Ours is a job just like anybody else's.

MISUNDERSTOOD METER MAIDS

DEAR Ms. M. M.: Will do. But every meter maid I've ever seen looked well able to defend herself.

DEAR ABBY: I saw a letter in your column not long ago which reminded me of my own situation. My in-laws are also continually giving us financial help, and to tell you the truth, I despise going over there anymore. It's gotten to the point where there is just no hope for us to ever pay them back but they keep on giving.

Maybe I am too independent, but I feel that once you are married you are on your own. My husband doesn't see anything wrong with accepting a lot of things we can't afford. This situation has caused a lot of quarrels between us.

The more people give you, the more obligated you feel to that person, and you really don't want to see much of a person you feel obligated to.

I wish parents would leave their young married kids alone. I'm sure too much giving has caused many a marriage to split up. It certainly is working on ours.

YOUNG WIFE

DEAR WIFE: From the mouths of babes... many well-intentioned and generous parents don't realize how heavy is the burden of gratitude.

DEAR ABBY: I play the trumpet in the high school band. I also play with a brass band for dances.

The other day I saw an article in the local newspaper which stated that trumpets and brass instruments cause heart trouble. What I want to know is, do I have anything to worry about?

HOT LIPS

DEAR LIPS: Not if you have a healthy heart to start with.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Shoe Fashions European Style

LONDON (AP) — Europe's most fashionable feet are up in the air — on strapped, stacked soles and haughtily high heels.

Girls love them. Men hate them. Stores sell them by the hundreds.

"They come in and they go right out," grinned a shop manager in London's Kings Road. "Girls even like to wear them in the rain, open toes and all."

The new fashions, reminiscent of the late '30s and early '40s, have caught on clean across the Continent.

Only Rome has refused to swallow the tall story.

Parisienne are pacing the boulevards in five-inch heels, rolled-up blue jeans and multistrapped socks. Londoners are walking tall on platform shoes and bright wedge heels.

Dutch girls, however, prefer the clog to the heel, wearing them with jeans, apron dresses and skating rink minis. The slimmest heels are at least an inch; the thickest five or six.

But not everyone likes them. "Outrageous," said a young man on Paris' Left Bank. "But perhaps funny as a fashion fad."

And in London, the escort of a tall blonde model complained: "We used to see eye to eye. Now I look her straight in the chin."

Girls agree that heelsmanship presents a number of other problems.

A Swedish secretary found her four-inch shoes comfortable, but said they were impossible to walk in. She described her efforts as a "strutting kind of stumble."

Another problem is price — high by European standards.

In Paris, the new styles start at $23. In London, the average cost is almost $16.

"And that," said one Chelsea girl, "is a lot of money for a lot of heel and a little shoe."

Plump pitted prunes in wine, stuff each with a little cranberry-orange relish. Serve on salad greens with cottage cheese for a luncheon salad when "the girls" are being entertained.

Friday is sometimes called "hangman's day" because it once was the day for the execution of criminals.

T-Shirt Move, Fashion Coup

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Elevating the T-shirt from basic, active sportswear gear to that of the status quo is a great fashion coup. Time was when an American T-shirt was nothing more than a plain, simple cotton knit top.

Years before Americans could ever buy anything sophisticated in that category in the United States, French and Italian designers were styling cotton knit tops in all sorts of super ways. And practically everyone who traveled to Europe returned home with a few. If and when they tried to replace them here, discouragement set in immediately.

Then suddenly somebody lowered the boom—or perhaps lifted it. Whatever happened, all kinds of T-shirts became de rigueur for Americans no matter what age. Designers started turning their attention to novelty styling and detailing. They worked in a multitude of prints and new textures for solid color cotton knits. Store buyers learned that the way to entice customers to buy T-shirts in droves was to select a reasonable amount of styles and then go all out as far as number of colors per style. And now people in all income brackets are responding and snapping up T-shirts in substantial quantities. Some even collect them.

The new Sweater Bee by Banff Collection is into cotton knit tops in a big way. Printed tops are what's happening right now, especially since solid khaki chino, natural linenlike fabrics and navy duck are among the fabrics that are most popular for skirts and pants.

Then, what with sportswear suits, shirt jackets and smock jackets high on the fashion roster printed cotton T's will fit right in—acting as the necessary catalysts.

And, of course, the T is the perfect mate for jeans.

Many of the new T-shirts in this collection look as though they have been printed twice or overprinted. Others purposely imitate the underwear look. And some are shirt styled.

Today, for sheer Americana, T-shirts can take their place alongside apple pie, hot dogs, hamburgers and jeans.

Doesn't it happen to every woman? Suddenly on a warm spring day a little before noon she sees her reflection in a smoky toaster and she knows. She's not going to get the Playboy seal of approval.

She's ready to call Washington and ask to be declared a human disaster area.

She's learned how to cope with perspiration problems and she no longer has to worry about acne. Not enough.

Perhaps someone has convinced her that one extra eclair at dessert and her husband will turn to his secretary for solace.

It could be she's seen just one too many articles on how she'll be an obsolete homemaker if she doesn't invest in at least two beanbag chairs for the living room.

It might have been other women at the bridge table yesterday who have convinced her she's a failed female. The could just bang down the ace and king of trumps. This would bring home the slam some one-third of the time. A slightly better line, play one high trump and then go to dummy for a finesse. This would work against a singleton queen in either the East or West hand or against two or three to the queen in the East hand. This play had almost a 40 per cent chance of success.

The best play would be to take a trump finesse and enter dummy for a second finesse. This was almost a 50 per cent chance.

The March Hare opened the ace of hearts and shifted to a low club. Alice won in dummy and went through the thinking process mentioned above.

BIBLE PRESENTED—Kenneth N. Taylor (left), translator of the "Living Bible," presents the one millionth copy of the paraphrased edition with special inscription to Col. James B. Irwin in the Mission Control Room at Houston where Irwin was capsule communicator for the Apollo 16 flight. The other 42 astronauts also received copies of the newly published contemporary language Bible.

Paraphrased 'Living Bible' Presented To NASA Spacemen

The entire complement of 43 astronauts stationed at NASA in Houston have been presented personalized, autographed copies of the recently published "Living Bible."

Translator of "The Living Bible," Kenneth N. Taylor, was invited to the Base to make the presentations by Apollo XV Lunar Module pilot, Colonel James B. Irwin. Colonel Irwin was the moonman who during his lunar explorations in August of last year, carried his Bible with him to read while on the moon.

Taylor, the 54-year-old theologian who spent the last 16 years of his life translating (he calls it paraphrasing) the entire Bible into a contemporary, readable style, spent a day at the Astronaut Office Building in conversation with various astronauts as he made individual presentations of "The Living Bible." Taylor explained to several astronauts who asked, that he did his paraphrase of "The Living Bible" on a "thought-for-thought" basis, rather than on a "word-for-word" basis like other Bibles have been prepared. Taylor explains that the paraphrase style flows better, conveys the meaning clearer, and eliminates Greek and Hebrew grammar styles which are difficult for Americans to read.

Sales figures seem to bear Taylor out, as 1.3 million copies of "The Living Bible" have been sold since the book hit the market in September of last year. Another 1.5 million copies have been sold in England, the home of the popular King James translation.

Irwin became impressed with "The Living Bible" after being introduced to the Book by his minister, Dr. Bill Rittenhouse, pastor of Nassau Bay Baptist Church, located just off the NASA Base.

It was appropriate that Irwin instigate the Bible presentations, as he is a sincere and dedicated student of the Bible, in fact, he is so dedicated to Christianity and the Scriptures that he has just accepted the Chairmanship of National Bible Week, an annual, national event which is observed each November. Irwin succeeds former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, who headed National Bible Week last year.

Swiss Named To Board Of Main Boston Church

Announcement was made by the Christian Science board of directors that Otto Bertschi, C.S.B., Zurich, Switzerland, will succeed Clayton Bion Craig, C.S.B., Boston, who retired from that board April 30 after more than 23 years of service.

Bertschi will be the first from overseas to become a director of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Among the progressive steps associated with Craig's vision and leadership are the planning and development of the Christian Science Center in Boston and the extension of the copyright of the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Earlier while serving as committee on publication for Ohio, Craig was credited with bringing about legal recognition in that state of the healing practice of Christian Science. He has traveled widely both as a Christian Science lecturer and as a director of The Mother Church.

Bertschi has served the Christian Science movement in a number of capacities including Christian Science lecturer, teacher, and committee on publication.

A native of Zurich, Bertschi is a graduate of the Winterthur Institute of Technology. He worked four years as an electrical engineer in the United States before returning to Switzerland to take a position with the Society of Swiss Machine Manufacturers.

His entire family became interested in Christian Science through a remarkable healing in his infancy. He father was one of the early workers in the Christian Science movement in Zurich. Bertschi joined The Mother Church in 1932 and received primary class instruction in 1936. He has been in the public practice of Christian Science for many years.

He became an authorized teacher of Christian Science in 1962. He served as Committee on Publication for German-speaking Switzerland from 1957 until becoming a member of the Christian Science board of Lecturers in 1963.

He has traveled extensively in the United States as well as in Europe, Asia, Africa, and other parts of the world.

Sister Has Hobby That 'Helps'

MEQUON, Wis. (AP) — Amateur radio operators who pick up Mequon, for the first time are sometimes surprised when they reach a ham operator who calls herself Sister Mary. She is an 80-year-old nun.

Sister Mary Lumena Kieffer became interested in radio 16 years ago, she informed the National Enquirer, when boys she was teaching in a high school math class persuaded her to try it as a hobby.

Her hobby has helped others. "A doctor near here had to arrange an eye transplant with some people in Hollywood, Fla. I connected them so that he could give instructions on getting the proper materials to the airport. I also regularly connect people from far away — Mexico and South America — with relatives living near here," says Sister Mary.

Mother, Home To Be Featured

In keeping with Mother's Day and Christian home emphases, Dr. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor, First Baptist Church has chosen "Home-Parents-Children" for his 11 a.m. sermon subject and "A Good Seed Bed" for his 7 p.m. topic.

Larry Sherwood, minister of music, has announced the following music for Sunday's services: "Jesus, Thou Joy of Loving Hearts" (By Bass) sung by the sanctuary choir and a solo sung by Miss Elena Donald, soprano at morning worship. Miss Eloise Lane has chosen "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind" (By Thompson) for the morning offertory and "Heavenly Light" (By Schubert) for the evening offertory.

The men's chorus will occupy the choir loft for evening services and sing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" by Converse. Larry Sherwood will sing a solo to complete the special music.

Morning worship is broadcast on radio station KPND television on channel 13. Evening worship is televised only.

Kindergarten graduation service is set for Wednesday evening at 6:15 in the sanctuary. Mrs. Ronnie Rice and Mrs. Tommy Burns are the teachers. They report that 29 children will receive diplomas.

The pastor will be in charge of the Prayer Meeting hour which follows the graduation service.

Responsibility Still Alive

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — "The world come of age may not be religious, but it is still conscientious," writes the Rev. Dr. Eric Mount Jr., associate professor of religion at Centre College, Danville, Ky.

In a new book, "Conscience and Responsibility," (John Knox Press), he adds: "We may be living in the midst of a value vacuum in a time of revolution that makes all authorities suspect, but there still seems to be an assumption about human responsibility which is very much alive."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

Pampa Church of Christ

Rev. Bernard
It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom and hundred and twenty princes, which should be over the whole kingdom, and over these three presidents, of whom Daniel was first; that the princes might give account unto them.

Out of jealousy, these presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Daniel. They persuaded the King to establish a decree, that whosoever should ask a petition of any man or God for thirty days, except King Darius, should be cast into the lions den.

Knowing that this decree had been signed, Daniel kneeled in the window of his home three times daily, and prayed unto God, and gave thanks unto God.

For this reason Daniel was thrown into the den of lions, but God spared his life because of the faith Daniel had in Him, and because innocence was found in Daniel, yet his faith was tried.

We read nothing of Daniel being afraid of the lions, neither do we read of any doubt that Daniel had in the power of God to deliver him from the lions den. Daniel had faith in God. Daniel had the type faith that we today must have to be pleasing in the sight of God.

In Hebrews 11:6 we read, "But without faith it is impossible to please Him, for he that cometh to God must believe that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him."

The first portion of this Scripture is taught today, wholeheartedly, but we fail to understand what is meant by those that, diligently seek Him. The world today fails to diligently seek after God. They seek in many ways but not diligently. Many times we are found to be weak in faith.

There are many tests of faith recorded in the Bible, if the world would just look to these, and search out the deep teachings found here we might understand more perfectly, what it is to have faith in God. We might understand more perfectly the power of God and the love that He has had for mankind from the foundation of the world. Can we imagine the people of today crossing the Red Sea, while the waters were parted or even the Jordan River, or marching around the Walls of Jericho, as the children of Israel did, in obedience to Gods will. Does mankind today have the faith that Abraham had as he placed his son, Isaac upon the Alter of Crucifixion, yet Abraham had been commanded by the Lord God to place his son upon this alter, and he was obedient unto the wishes of God.

With a heavy heart Abraham placed his son Isaac upon the alter. With a heavy heart Abraham placed his son Isaac upon the alter, with bound hands and feet, that he might offer him unto God in sacrifice. Because of his faith and obedience God spared Isaac, and provided a lamb, that Abraham might offer in place of his son Isaac.

Can we imagine standing before Pharaoh as did Moses, when Moses himself felt that he was too old and too weak to stand before this powerful man, yet he was shown the strength and the power of God, through obedience to Gods will.

We read of Jesus walking on the waters to come unto His disciples which were in a ship, in the midst of the seas. When they saw him and knew who He was, Peter said, Lord, if it be Thou, bid me come unto Thee on the waters, and Jesus said, come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, He walked on the walked on the waters. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, Saying Lord, save me. Is this not the type of faith that we today have, that of fear and doubt. Rather than that of love and assurance in the love of God and the truthfulness of his promise. As being the Rewarder of them that diligently seek Him.

In James 1:5-7 we read, "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him. But let him ask in Faith, nothing wavering, for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed. For let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord."

Let us have faith and not doubt, but let us have this faith through wisdom and not ignorance of Gods will.

Crampton, Marti Share Colonial Golf Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — It was something like a scene from out of the past, a bad dream of sorts.

"I know you all thought it was headed for Crampton's lake," quipped Bruce Crampton. "Let's all get together and make it official and put a plaque up there."

"I tell everyone in Australia that I'm the only Australian who has a lake in Texas named after him."

Crampton flirted with his lake on the final hole Thursday but salvaged a par and captured a share of the first-round lead in the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

The 36-year-old Aussie stripped four shots from par 70 and stepped with Texan Fred Marti into a one-stroke lead over a quartet of challengers at 67.

Crampton, one of the hottest items on the tour this year, blew a victory here 10 years ago on the 18th hole, collected double bogeys on the third and fourth rounds with approach shots into the lake beside the green.

The water hazard since has been named "Crampton's Lake."

His second shot at 18 Thursday was off target, but caught a trap on the crest of the lake. He blasted to within four feet and dropped the par putt.

Marti, winless in nine years on the tour, said he had "one of the best rounds I've ever played" as he spliced a 31-35-66 with six birdies and two bogeys.

"Anytime you shoot under 70 on this course you're doing well," the rangy, drawing Texan said. "I just played safe today. If you play bad here there is no telling what you'll shoot."

The former University of Houston ace from Baytown, Tex., and his Australian colleague were a shot ahead of Bert Greene, Dave Stockton, Len Thompson and Deane Beaman.

Six players in the field of 102 were locked at 68, including Phil Rodgers, Bob Lunn, Billy Maxwell, Jerry McGee, Dave Marr and Bobby Mitchell. One stroke back were John Miller, Charles Coody, Lee Elder, Miller Barber and Jerry Heard.

Thompson, a rookie, hit the unique shot of the day, putting his approach shot at the sixth green into the slacks pocket of a television newsman.

"I couldn't believe the ball went into his pocket," he said. "I don't know how it got there... I had to call for a ruling... I told him I'd play it, but I was afraid I'd break my club on the bone in his leg."

Willie Mays Goes To New York Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — "It pleases me," said Willie Mays. "That people still want me."

With those modest words Thursday, the baseball great began a "new career" at age 41 with the New York Mets.

The San Francisco wonder player, acquired in a much-publicized deal, responded with enthusiasm at the idea of playing in New York.

"I love baseball and I love this town," said the second best home run hitter in history. "I'm not looking forward to playing—I'm not looking forward to embarrassing myself. I'm glad the Mets didn't worry about how old I was."

For awhile, it looked as if the Mets weren't going to get the great center fielder at all. News of the prospective deal broke last week, but it was reportedly cooled when the Giants' asked too much.

Interested in one of the Mets' starting pitchers, the Giants settled Thursday for minor league right-hander Charlie Williams and an undisclosed amount of cash. The deal was quickly closed Thursday morning after Mays was personally brought in on the talks.

"We wanted to make sure that Willie would be happy in New York," said M. Donald Grant, chairman of the Mets' board of directors.

Other than the sentimental reason of returning to the city where he started his playing career with the old New York Giants in 1951, Mays will be made happy in other ways, Grant pointed out.

"As soon as Willie decides that he doesn't want to play anymore," said Grant, "he has a three-year contract from that day on with the Mets' organization. He'll probably be a coach, but he could do other things."

New York Manager Yogi Berra acknowledged that Mays had lost some steam out of his throwing arm, but still could play centerfield with the best because "he knows all the hitters in this league. He knows where to play them."

"I'm sure he'll help our team. Maybe some of his knowledge will rub off on the other 24 guys."

Boston Bruins Win Stanley Cup Playoff

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Bruins carted the Stanley Cup home for the second time in three years today with Bobby Orr & Co. the toast of Boston once again after bitter defeat in 1971.

Eliminated in the opening round of defense of the National Hockey League's most coveted prize, the Bruins made amends by regaining the Stanley Cup with a 3-0 victory over the New York Rangers Thursday night in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series.

The burly Bruins were a tense, determined group as they invaded New York for the final game of the season in New York. They left the champagne at home: chilled but unopened after bowing 3-2 in the fifth game Tuesday night in Boston.

Instead of the bubbly stuff, they celebrated with beer and soft drinks in a jammed dressing room. However, they knew the champagne, and the winner's prize of $15,000 per player, was waiting.

Goalie Gerry Cheevers was tremendous in the shutout. Wayne Cashman, an unheralded but tough wing, scored two goals. The Bruins forechecked and backchecked. But everyone talked of Orr, the 24-year-old super star who did everything while playing with a bad left knee in the series.

"You want to know what turned this game around?" asked Ranger captain Vic Hadfield. "The same thing that turned the whole thing around—Bobby Orr. The two clubs were even in faceoffs, even in power plays, even in penalty killing, even in everything—except they had Orr."

"That Orr, he's fantastic, just terrific," said New York's Brad Park, the NHL's No. 2 defenseman who engaged his Boston rival in a fight in the fourth game.

Then he drew a misconduct penalty for a few words directed at Referee Art Skov and sat out 10 minutes. He returned just in time to help the Bruins when the Rangers had a two-man advantage in the second period.

Baseball Roundup

Associated Press Sports Writer

No sooner do the New York Mets get Willie Mays than Willie is the star of the show at Shea Stadium... Willie Crawford, that is.

The Los Angeles outfielder lashed a double, triple and his fifth home run to spark the Dodgers to a 6-4 victory in the after-dark portion of a day-night doubleheader after the Mets took the opener 2-1.

Elsewhere on a lighter-than-usual major league schedule, the Mays-less San Francisco Giants trimmed Montreal 6-2, Philadelphia edged San Diego 6-5 in 12 innings, St. Louis nipped Houston 4-3, Texas downed Baltimore 3-1 and Boston whipped California 8-1.

Willie—Mays, that is—arrived at Shea during the first game as Tom Seaver, with ninth-inning relief from Danny Frisella and backed by Ed Kranepool's home run, was turning back the Dodgers.

Willie—Crawford, that is—was already at the park and in the process of an 0-for-4 afternoon.

Things got better at night, Willie—Davis, that is—got the Dodgers started with a fourth-inning homer off Jim McAndrew, his fifth of the year, and Crawford slammed his fifth one out later.

Tommy John protected the lead until the seventh, when the Dodgers pushed across four more runs to offset a late New York rally.

The Giants battered Steve Renko and Tom Walker for six runs on 10 hits in the first three innings and trounced the Expos behind Ron Bryant.

Alan Gallagher singled to start a three-run outburst in the second inning and a two-run uprising in the third. Bryant stroked an RBI double in addition to winning his first game.

Greg Luzinski's single with two out in the 12th enabled the Phillies to defeat the Padres and climb within one-half game of the Mets in the National League East. Luzinski also belted a run-scoring triple in the fifth and scored on one of Don Money's four hits. Nate Colbert and John Jeter homered for San Diego.

Jerry Reuss, traded from St. Louis to Houston on opening day, was leading his former teammates 3-1 entering the ninth inning when the Cardinals erupted for three runs to pull out the victory.

Ted Simmons and Donn

Clendenon opened with singles and both runners scored when Reuss fielded Ted Sizemore's bunt and heaved the ball past first. Sizemore wound up at third and scored the winning run on a single by ex-Astro Marty Martinez.

Texas scored two runs off Jim Palmer before a man was retired in the first inning and held on to beat the Orioles behind the combined four-hit pitching of Bill Gogolewski and three relievers.

Paul Blair homered in the eighth for the Baltimore run.

Boston's Ray Culp continued his mastery of California, beating the Angels for the sixth time in a row since coming to the American League. Tommy Harper drove in three runs with a single and triple and Reggie Smith knocked in a pair with his first home run of the season and a groundout.

Pacers, Nets Meet Tonight

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The Indiana Pacers have a business meeting with the New York Nets tonight—the third game of the American Basketball Association championship playoff series.

"They took the home court advantage away from us," the Pacers' Roger Brown said after the Nets had tied the best-of-seven series 1-1 by winning the second of two games in Indianapolis.

"We could have been in such good shape. Now we really have to get down to business," Brown said.

Guard John Roche and center Billy Paulitz of the Nets were expected to be ready for tonight's game although they both had to leave Thursday's practice early because of intestinal flu.

Tom Washington also was expected to be available tonight. Washington, a Nets' defensive stalwart, was injured in the first game and sat out the second because of an eye infection.

Foreman KO's Paez

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Unbeaten heavyweight contender George Foreman scored the 33rd knockout of his professional career—and one of the quickest—Thursday night by stopping Argentine veteran Migue Paez at 2:39 in the second round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

Foreman, weighing 217 pounds, trapped the 32-year-old South American in a corner and pounded him with combinations of punches throughout the second period.

Girl's Track Set Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The first state track and field meet for girls will be held Saturday in Memorial Stadium. The meet was set up by a vote last year of member high schools in the University Interscholastic League.

Champions will be decided in Class A, which corresponds to Classes AAAA, AAA and AA—or the larger schools—in boys' track and Class B, which corresponds to boys' Class A and B schools.

Field events start at 10 a.m. and track events at 2 p.m.

The best performance in each of the 14 events will be a state record since it is the first state meet. The Texas girls can aim for 10 national records, all of them set in 1966-69.

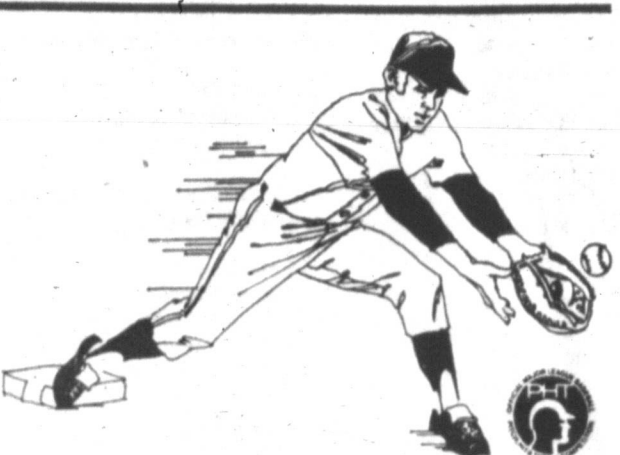

At the meet, the girls will substitute the triple jump for the pole vault and run the 80-yard hurdles, 60-yard dash and 800-yard relay instead of the 120-yard hurdles, 300-yard hurdles and mile.

Rated high among the Class A entries are Comanche, West Columbia, Waco Midway, Waco Robinson and Port Lavaca. Contenders for the B title include Baird, Garden City, Gruver, New Deal, Perrin and Thrall.

The top individual entry in B is Kathy Jones of Baird, who has the best triple jump, high jump, long jump and 60-yard dash. In A, Susie Snider of Waco Robinson has the best high jump, shot put and discus throw.

Vicky Lin Cotham of Lefors is entered in the B discus.

Baseball Tips

6-Playing First Base

(Sixth of 10 Parts.)

Hold your glove out toward the thrower before he releases the ball to give him a good target. Stretch out to the ball to cut down the time it takes to reach the glove.

Wait until you see what direction the throw will be going before you touch the bag with your foot. (Quickly feel with both feet to be sure you know exactly where the bag is before you throw.) If the throw goes to your right, then touch the base with your left foot. If the throw comes to your left, touch the base with your right foot. If the throw is right at you, touch the base with the foot opposite your glove hand. This takes practice, but it allows maximum stretch and gives you the best position to field balls thrown in the dirt.

If you can afford it, use a first baseman's glove. It will be somewhat more difficult to field with, but it will be a great advantage in receiving and holding onto hard throws from the infielders.

BATTIN' AROUND

Criticism Of Two Services

By C. R. BATTEN

This observer has noticed a rash of publicity lately that is highly critical of two fields of private endeavor, and seems to have originated primarily from government sources.

Just before April 15, criticism of those who prepare income tax reports for a fee reached a peak. It is interesting that at the same time the Internal Revenue Service was saying that any fifth grader could prepare an income tax return, it is so simple. Yet, when identical information was given to several tax consultants, each came up with a different amount of tax due.

Such a result is more a reflection on the tax system and on the form, that the tax takers have devised than on the independent tax counsellors. Increasing numbers of individuals are forced to seek help each year, though they can ill afford the additional expense. No wonder tax counselling is such a growing business.

The other field that has been receiving a critical press lately is that of private guard services and protection. Private protection agencies have become one of the fastest growing businesses in the nation, simply because many businessmen have realized that police departments cannot provide protection. The best police can do is to retaliate after a crime has been committed. Private protection agencies are finding ways of preventing the crime before it is committed.

It may be a coincidence that the two kinds of services that obviously fill a public need should be under attack simultaneously. But both have one thing in common.

Both are competing in areas that authoritarians believe should be handled by government alone. The Internal Revenue Service wants to help people their income tax returns. Police departments at various levels of government believe that protection is their field. All they need, they say, is more money and more manpower in order to do the job.

The criticisms are those that one could level against any field of endeavor, or against the government agencies themselves: poor business practices, poor training of employees, dishonesty, and more. The accusers forget that if a private firm fails to overcome those problems, it is not long in business; but the same problems in a government agency go on forever at great cost to those it is sworn to protect.

Out of the rash of publicity, we can expect legislation to be introduced in Congress to set up Federal licensing requirements for both income tax consultants and private protection agencies. Such requirements may seem innocuous at first, and will not be opposed by those most affected because, after all, the requirements are only good business practices, they are not unreasonable; and besides, we are already doing that.

More and more restrictions will be imposed, both by law and by administrative decree in the regulations published by the government agencies appointed to enforce the law. Eventually, both the income tax consultants and the private protection organizations will be little more than another branch of big government.

Both groups will still be in business, but they will be so highly regulated that they will be largely ineffective for their clients. Who will be the losers? The consumer who needs their services and is willing to pay for them. The individual who values his freedom, yet sees ever-increasing power centralized in government.

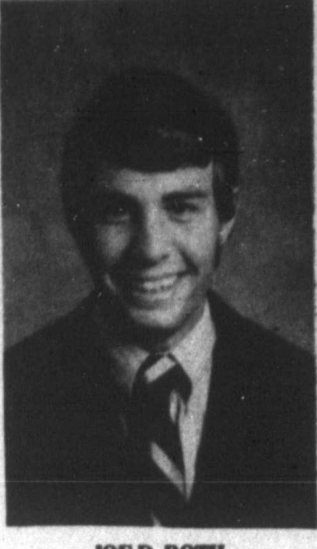

A far-out prediction? No—for government jealously guards its authority and its power over people.

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's new student body president is a Corsicana law student who feels being a woman had nothing to do with her election.

"If there was ever any advantage to being a woman, this is the year," says JoAnn Harris. "But I really didn't worry about whether a woman would win."

Miss Harris garnered 71.5 percent of the 1,400 votes cast in the race, becoming the first woman named student body president in SMU's 57-year history.

She feels "a great deal more can be accomplished by working through the system. I don't wave red flags. That has been the failing of a lot of student governments."
