United States Returns Okinawa To Japan Today

TOKYO (AP) — The United States returned Okinawa to Japan today and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said the transfer opened a new era of full partnership between the two countries that fought the last great battle of World War II on the island.

Ending 27 years of American occupation, the 73 islands and one million inhabitants of Okinawa and the Ryukyus archipelago reverted to Japanese rule at one minute after midnight to the din of sirens, whistles and horns in the area.

Poll-Watching System Set Up By G.O.P.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying they fear Democrats could steal the next presidential election, key Republican strategists are setting up an intricate poll-watching system to prevent it.

"It is a matter of public knowledge that there have been voting irregularities," said Murray Chotiner, the veteran Nixon campaigner who will head the project. "The people who fool with elections know who they are."

Democrats also are planning to provide poll-watchers across the nation on Nov. 7, but a party spokesman said they have no program to watch the GOP operation.

Chotiner would not specify which areas he considers suspect, but other Republican sources say the party is concentrating on areas in a dozen states, including Cook County, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., and East St. Louis, Ill., New Jersey, Indiana, Kentucky, Texas and New Mexico.

All these are places where the Democratic Party organization is strong and Republicans have traditionally complained of hanky-panky with the vote count.

The apparent spur for this one is the memory of the 1960 presidential race in which Richard Nixon was barely defeated by John F. Kennedy, and Republicans screamed of fraud in Illinois and Texas.

Had Nixon carried those two states, he would have won. The poll-watchers will be instructed to check registration lists prior to election day to insure that everyone listed is a real and living person. Voting machines will be checked before polls open. Chotiner and John B. Sayre of the Republican National Committee said in separate interviews.

Sayre said another anticipated problem is the bought vote. "In East St. Louis you could watch people buying votes for a dollar or a pint of whisky," he said.

Chotiner, who has been on Nixon's campaign team since the President's first House race in 1946, is running the ballot-security program for the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

POW Wives, President Hold Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three wives of men missing or captured in Southeast Asia emerged from a meeting with President Nixon today and said the chief executive told them North Vietnamese harbors "would stay mined until prisoners are released."

Mrs. Phyllis E. Galanti, whose Navy lieutenant-commander husband has been held prisoner in North Vietnam since 1966, said Nixon told the three-member delegation that "at last we may have some leverage to get the men home."

Another wife, Mrs. Sybil E. Stockdale, said Nixon told them "you can be assured we will continue on the same course until men are released and the missing accounted for."

The President also said that the mines sown in North Vietnamese harbors to choke off the flow of Hanoi's war supplies would remain until prisoners are freed, Mrs. Stockdale said.

The third woman representing the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, Mrs. Joseph P. Dunn, said they left their 45-minute meeting with Nixon and presidential adviser Henry Kissinger reassured that everything possible was being done on the POW-MIA question.

Mrs. Dunn, whose Navy lieutenant husband has been missing in China since 1968, said the prisoner issue was discussed when Nixon was in China in February and "I am sure he will discuss it" during his Moscow summit scheduled to begin in one week.

Meany Raps Nixon Policy On Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany today criticized economic policies which make workers' jobs "little more than pawns manipulated by corporate and governmental money managers."

Meany told the Democratic Platform Committee in presenting the AFL-CIO's "program for America."

"The only policy that makes any sense is one that increases employment, rather than unemployment," he continued in a statement which will also be presented to Republican platform writers.

If jobs are not forthcoming in the private sector, he said, "then the government must assume the obligation of being the employer of last resort."

Meany said the government should assume the obligation of being the employer of last resort.

South Vietnam Retakes Its Fire Base Bastogne

Reds Hit Area Close To Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces reoccupied Fire Base Bastogne 12 miles west of Hue today after 36 hours of fierce fighting and B52 saturation strikes, field reports said.

The base fell to the North Vietnamese April 28. The counterattack that retook it was the second on the northern front in three days by South Vietnamese forces who in six weeks of setbacks had retreated 30 miles below the demilitarized zone and given up the provincial Capital of Quang Tri City.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the northern front that South Vietnamese infantrymen were only a stone's throw from another important fire base called Checkmate on a hill overlooking Bastogne.

In the central highlands, North Vietnamese forces made fresh probes during the night of the defenses of Kontum City, and sources said they believed them to be preliminary to an all-out assault.

On the southern front, enemy forces cut the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway 25 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital, and heavy fighting was reported near Trang Bang, a district town.

North Vietnamese gunners rained 2,500 artillery, rocket and mortar shells on An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, continuing a 6 1/2-week old siege, and light ground fighting was reported. The North Vietnamese were reported still holding sections of the northern part of the city.

The South Vietnamese command said the drive to Fire Base Bastogne was part of a plan to enlarge defense lines around Hue.

The drive to Bastogne and Checkmate was made by 2,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen. Helicopters took some of them to the ridge lines. Others advanced on foot behind a shield of artillery and strikes by U.S. B52 bombers and fighter-bombers.

Congress Asked To OK Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers asked Congress again today to approve the administration's $3.56-billion request for foreign assistance during the 1973 fiscal year.

In a prepared statement for a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, the secretary said the funds are needed to help the United States as it seeks a "more constructive relationship with our adversaries and to encourage allies to assume more responsibility."

Describing the American aid role as moving away from the preponderant position it once played, Rogers said the American foreign assistance program nevertheless does not mean we have "abdicated our international obligations and commitments."

The military aid portion of the foreign assistance program totals $2.15 billion, including $844 million for security-supporting assistance and $1.31 billion for military assistance, military sales and administrative costs.

The rest of the request, $1.41 billion, would go for development and humanitarian assistance, including $43 million for narcotics control and $30 million for contingency situations.

Of the $844 million in security-supporting assistance, about 85 per cent is earmarked for East Asia: $585 million for South Vietnam, $75 million for Cambodia, $49.8 million for Laos, $25.6 million for Thailand and $8.4 million for regional assistance.

VALUATION TOO HIGH?—Pampa's Board of Equalization went into session at City Hall today to hear complaints of property owners who feel their property valuations for 1972 tax roll assessments are too high. Shown here are board members, left to right, Jimmy McCune, R. M. Samples and R. A. Baker as they listened to testimony of a city taxpayer. After hearing both sides the board members reach a decision on the merits of each case. Up until noon today approximately a dozen persons appeared before the board.

30% Of State Demo Delegates Uncommitted, Says AP Survey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No single faction will be in the majority when the 1972 Texas state Democratic convention meets in San Antonio June 13.

Results of district and county conventions Saturday gave a preview of the upcoming battle on the state level as Texas Democrats pick a delegation to the National convention in Miami later this summer.

The state convention will have everything—four opposing factions, contested delegations and a new and complex set of rules on how to select the Miami delegation.

An Associated Press survey, accounting for more than half of the state convention delegate strength, reveals that a coalition of conservative Democrats and some liberals who want an "uncommitted" delegation will make up more than 30 per cent of the state convention delegates.

Supporters of Alabama Gov. George Wallace have about 28 per cent and those of Sen. George McGovern about 21 per cent.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who carried Texas as the Democratic presidential candidate in 1968, has about 13 per cent support.

He told his supporters to vote for the "uninstructed" delegation. But some of them insisted on voting for him directly.

The new system—which is designed to reflect the presidential preferences of the party members—replaces the old "winner take all" system which had dominated the Democratic Party in Texas for years.

A delegation of Smith County Democrats named during a rump county convention Saturday is expected to raise the old question of "party loyalty" at the state convention. The rump convention was formed after the regular Smith County convention turned down a resolution that would pledge the delegates to support the Democratic presidential nominee regardless of who he might be.

The Republicans also held their county and district conventions; but on the whole they were quiet affairs, devoted to praise of President Nixon and pleas for party unity.

British Troops Establish Ceasefire Line In Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — British paratroopers pushed through a crossfire of bullets early today to establish a truce line between battling Protestants and Roman Catholics in Belfast.

Nine persons were killed in the weekend of violence, including a 13-year-old girl.

It was Northern Ireland's most violent weekend in three and a half months, since British paratroopers killed 13 demonstrators on "Bloody Sunday" Jan. 30 in Londonderry. At least 327 persons now have died in nearly three years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland.

The army said quiet prevailed early today on the battlefield of bullet-scarred buildings between the Ballymurphy district, one of the toughest Catholic enclaves in the city, and the Protestant Springmartin housing development.

"But there is still a lot of tension in the air," one British officer said. "It won't take much to touch things off again."

The pub was jammed with soccer fans watching an international match on television, and 53 persons, including some children playing outside, were wounded.

Snipers hidden along the grassy edge of the Springmartin estate opened fire on the crowd which raced to the blast scene. Guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army raced to strongpoints in Ballymurphy and sent back a hail of fire into the squat apartment houses overlooking the Catholic zone.

The shooting spread along a mile-long perimeter, and troops moved up to try to restore peace. They came under fire from both sides.

Troops ringed the city to keep out reinforcements for the fighters, but sporadic fire crackled throughout Saturday night and raged up again into Sunday's full-scale battle between the two religious groups.

Body Of Bonanza's Blocker Will Be Brought Back For Burial In Texas

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dan Blocker, whose portrayal of the gentle, hulking Hoss Cartwright on the "Bonanza" television series made him one of America's best known actors, will be buried in the small Texas town where he grew up.

Blocker died Saturday of two blood clots in the lung. He was 43.

A family spokesman said Blocker developed an infection after undergoing gall bladder surgery May 1. He died a few hours after being readmitted to a hospital.

Tentative plans call for the 300-pound, 6-foot-4-inch actor to be buried beside his father this week in O'Donnell, Tex.

Blocker's bulk and West Texas drawl disguised his being a millionaire and former school teacher. But his friends said the broad humor and tenderness he displayed before 400 million viewers in 80 countries for 13 years as a son of Ben Cartwright on the Ponderosa Ranch were characteristic of the man.

Julian Goodman, president of NBC, which televises the Western series, recalled that Blocker was "a man of great energy, but he was a gentleman who refused to allow his sons to own a gun or go hunting—until the animals learn to shoot back."

Blocker once said the amount of money he made ($30,000 for each "Bonanza" episode) was "absolutely immoral." And of devoting most of his career to one part he once remarked, "Let's face it, I sold out. For money."

After college in Texas, Blocker served as an Army first sergeant ("I was in combat in Korea for four weeks before they sent me GI boots my size"—14 1/2), taught in New Mexico and then began work on

Farm Exports' Dollar Value Sets Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although dock strikes reduced the quantity of some shipments, the dollar value of U.S. farm exports soared to a record-high rate during the first nine months of the current fiscal year, the Agriculture Department said today.

If further dock tie-ups can be averted, the total for the fiscal year ending June 30 could be near or more than the record $7.8 billion for farm exports in 1970-71, officials say.

The value of shipments from last July 1 through March was $5.97 billion, up 1 per cent from the record pace a year earlier, the foreign Agricultural Service said.

A spokesman said the April sales totaled about $700 million, up from $634 million during the month last year.

"The over-all gain stemmed from increases in cotton, tobacco, soybeans, soybean meal, dairy products, cattle hides, fruits, nuts and vegetables," the report said.

Declines in value were reported for grains, flaxseed, soybean oil, alfalfa meal and lard. Higher prices per unit of measure accounted for the over-all value increase.

By groups of commodities, Rahe's report included the following values of exports during the July-March period:

Livestock and animal products $743 million, up 10 per cent from a year earlier; grain and grain products $1,827,000,000 down 14 per cent; oilseed and oilseed products $1,673,000,000 up 8 per cent; and other items, including cotton, tobacco and fruit $1,724,000,000 up 12 per cent.

He moved his family to Switzerland last year hoping to avoid the recognition that made it impossible for him to take his wife to a restaurant or his sons to a ball game.

Blocker was married for 20 years to his 5-foot-3-inch college sweetheart, Dolphia, who was with him when he died. They had twin daughters and two sons.

Prosecution In Trial Of Angela Will Close Its Case This Week

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The prosecution in the murder-kidnap-conspiracy trial of Angela Davis says it will close its case this week.

What has the state proven in its efforts to link the black militant communist to an Aug. 7, 1970 Marin County courthouse invasion which brought death to four men?

Here is a summary of the prosecution's key evidence—both physical evidence and evidence by testimony—as it was presented to jurors during 25 days of testimony. The physical evidence includes:

—Four guns and receipts for them signed by Angela Davis. The weapons—a pistol, two rifles and a Spanish-made shotgun—were found inside the yellow van in which four were killed at Marin. Testimony showed that Miss Davis bought the shotgun, used to shoot a judge at Marin, less than 48 hours before the shootings. Witnesses said she was gun shopping with a youth resembling Jonathan Jackson, 17, later killed in the violence.

—Paperback books on revolution found in the death van inside Jonathan Jackson's briefcase containing ammunition. The books' front pages were signed "Angela Y. Davis."

—Three love letters written by Angela to convict author George Jackson imprisoned at San Quentin. The letters professed undying love for Jackson, whose brother was Jonathan.

In them, the Davis woman declared, "We must learn to rejoice when pigs' blood is spilled." The state claims they prove that, driven by passion, she planned the Marin invasion to take hostages and exchange them for George.

—Checks written by Miss Davis, a former UCLA teacher, several weeks before the shootings. Bank tellers said she was accompanied by Jonathan Jackson, and the state says their constant companionship points to conspiracy.

—A slip of paper found in Jonathan Jackson's wallet bearing the number of a telephone booth in San Francisco International Airport. The state says Jonathan planned to call Miss Davis there as part of the plan which would have ended with a flight out of the airport.

—A plane ticket receipt and check written by Miss Davis for an Aug. 7, 1970 flight from San Francisco about three hours after the invasion had resulted in murder.

—Photos of Miss Davis during some three months that she was a fugitive—her appearance drastically altered by poked-straight hair instead of her usual Afro. The state says the flight and disguise point to consciousness of guilt.

Evidence by testimony has included: —Witnesses who thought they heard kidnapers at Marin de-

Borger Man Nabbed Here For Fight

Calvin Carrol Carpenter, 29, who identified himself as a deputy sheriff from Borger, was arrested Sunday morning for disorderly conduct after the operator of a local club filed the complaint against him.

On routine patrol around midnight officers observed a fight at the club and investigated. A woman was prostrate on the floor and, according to their report, Carpenter stood by her with fist doubled as though he would hit another woman nearby.

The operator of the place told officers Carpenter had struck several females during the course of the evening and had tried to pick a fight with the band leader. The complaint was signed and the arrest made.

Husband's happiness is worth some aggravation

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Since my husband retired nearly a year ago, he has started one project after another; but he hasn't finished any of them.

First, he thought it would be nice if we had a vegetable garden, so he dug up the backyard and bought all kinds of seeds; however, he never got around to planting anything. [You can imagine what our backyard looks like!]

Then he decided we needed a patio, so he bought a truck-load of sand and a load of bricks. It's been three months, and the bricks and sand are still piled on our back porch, and he hasn't started to "build" anything yet.

Now he is gathering equipment for a woodwork shop in our basement! Abby, he is such a dear man who has really earned his retirement, but all he does is read "How To" books and whistle as he takes off for the hardware store to do some more shopping.

I hate to nag him, but what can I do? GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Look at it this way: you have a cow pasture for a backyard, a pile of bricks and sand on your back porch, and a collection of woodwork equipment in your basement. But you have a husband who is alive, retired, and happy as a lark. If the unfinished projects annoy you, either quietly hire to have them finished, or whistle as you walk around them.

DEAR ABBY: I hope LOW-SLUNG IN BROOKLYN got a lift from your letter telling her that plastic surgeons can actually lift a person's behind. I know I did.

And while we are in that general area, I wonder if your readers know that there are false fannies on the market for women who are flat in back? I should know; I've been wearing one for years.

If you use my letter please don't use my real name. MRS. X

DEAR MRS. X: How about "SITTING PRETTY?" Or "MRS. BUTTINSKY?" [Sorry, but you really backed into that one.]

DEAR ABBY: Even 2,000 horticulturists can be wrong if they tell you that begonias can be grown only in moist, tropical climates.

We grow huge, lovely begonias in Anchorage, Alaska. And I mean out of doors in the summer. Because of our long day-light hours and the absence of intense heat, our begonias are probably the most beautiful grown anywhere in the world. MRS. L. A. IN ANCHORAGE

DEAR MRS. L. A.: Many others who read me in the Anchorage Times wrote to tell about their gorgeous begonias. But more surprising was a letter from Dorothy Pearson advising me that HER begonias were blooming profusely in hot, dry Concordia, Kansas!

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, MAY 16
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: An interesting year of healthy progress in mixed, changing conditions, sudden opportunities and occasional setbacks. Emotional expression is uneven. Today's natives are often successful, endowed with patience, thrift, and are willing to keep working despite superficial hindrances.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: If your good humor will last, you'll have something to be proud of. Try to do a little better than most people in the stress of the day.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Expect mixed schedules, complications requiring an extra move. Give everybody time to turn around before trying to rush matters.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: The bright idea may be little more than whim—think twice before acting. Financial moves require checking.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: It's an uphill day, in which you see more of your mate's needs, meet resistance. Pay attention to the doings of younger people.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Make some definite operation plans early and stay with them. You can keep watch on only so many details at the same time, so split up the job.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Caution with strange people and new circumstances pays. No pretence on your part will work, so play it straight.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: The complex becomes easier to resolve if you try to clear up simple questions close at hand, expecting no great help from anywhere.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: If you get anything serious settled today, you're good. If you keep your sense of humor. Even better, see the day as a circus.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Follow up yesterday's actions with skepticism. Taking too many people into your confidence comes very easily—a bit more discreet.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Show both patience and persistence as you go thru a logical sequence of plans and transactions today. Seek diversion.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: It is easy to tell others what to do; what needs improvement is your way of doing anything. Just a little thought brings returns.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Rely on your own resources; avoid scattering money. Some tough spot in your work yields to sustained effort now.

Officers Installed

Mrs. C. L. Farmer, PTA city council president, installed the new officers of the Lamar Parent-Teacher Association.

Installed were Mrs. Marvin Skinner, Mrs. Robert Walker, president; Mrs. Larry Ray, vice president; Mrs. Robert Benyshek, secretary; Mrs. Jim Cunningham, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Walker, parliamentarian; Mrs. Wayne Jones, city council representative; Mrs. Tom Dunn, outgoing president, led the meeting. Mrs. Robert Craig, who reported on the spring conference, held in Pampa, announced the unit's scrapbook won the sweepstake award.

Appreciation awards and gifts were presented to Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. Sue Higdon and Principal Joe Page.

Several square dances were performed during the program, presented by fourth-grade students, directed by Mrs. Sue Higdon.

When experts fall flat on their faces they usually do a super job of it. South was an expert who loved to play the dummy so he insisted on playing four spades in spite of his partner's bids of two and three no-trump.

He was very unhappy when East won the first trick with the queen of diamonds and shifted to the king of clubs. He was even more unhappy when West dropped the nine spot since it looked as if he was echoing with a doubleton. East continued with the ace and jack and West showed up with a third.

Now South was ready to try to make his contract. The ordinary player would surely make it. He would lead a spade to dummy's king and return the nine with every intention of finessing. This would bring the contract home since East held the queen.

Expert South went down. He knew that East had shown up with 14 high card points in the minor suits. He also held exactly seven cards in the minors which left him six in the majors. They would be divided 4-2 or 3-3 since if East held five cards in either he would have opened in it. He also assumed that East would have opened one no-trump with a balanced 16 high card points, so South played his ace of trumps and continued by leading the jack and finessing.

Why hadn't East opened one no-trump? He had not seen his queen of spades!

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Edie Adams has waived alimony in winning a divorce from her husband of 7 1/2 years, photographer Martin Mills.

The 41-year-old actress told a brief Superior Court hearing Wednesday that she and Mills had agreed to divide $200,000 in property and Mills agreed to child support payments of $200 a month for their 3-year-old son Joshua.

Miss Adams also has a daughter, Mia Susan, by her first marriage to the late comedian Ernie Kovacs. She also has custody of Kovacs' two daughters by a previous marriage, Bette and Kippie.

Skellytown (Special)—The W. M. U. of the First Baptist Church met in the Fellowship Hall for a royal service program and covered dish luncheon. It was a joint session with the newly-organized Baptist Young Women.

The meeting opened with the reading of the prayer calendar by Mrs. Bill Price. Mrs. J. C. Jarvis gave a special prayer.

The lesson on Foreign Missions and extension of the church was taught by Mrs. Irvin Brown assisted by Mmes. John Kenney, J. C. Jarvis, Ethel Mae Thurmond, Bill Thompson, and Clarence Kaiser.

Attending were Mmes. Bill Houghton, Bill Thompson, Don Easley, J. C. Jarvis, Ethel Mae Thurmond, John Kenney, Bill Price, M. L. Mills, Milton Thompson, Clarence Kaiser, and Iryin Brown, Roy Paul Thurmond, Troyce May, Jimmy Weatherly, Jimmy Fox and Jimmy Davis.

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I went to visit a nephew who lives in another city. While there, I attended church with him. When the collection plate was passed, my nephew took a five-dollar bill from his wallet, placed it on the collection plate, then took two one dollar bills from the collection plate and placed them in his wallet! I was shocked.

Abby, I had never seen anyone "make change" from a collection plate before. Is this proper? SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Why not? Far better to put in five and take out two than to put in nothing because he had only a fiver, which may have been beyond his budget.

Cadillac '72

It's a great time to buy the great car.

If you've ever considered owning a Cadillac, or even if you haven't, there are some especially good reasons for considering it right now.

For one, consider what Cadillac can mean to your vacation plans. It affords a degree of comfort, spaciousness and elegance that can help turn long, tedious trips into truly pleasurable ones.

Consider, too, the variety of Cadillac models currently offered. From the beautiful Coupe DeVille shown above to the elegant Eldorado Coupe and Convertible, there are nine great cars. And right now, your authorized Cadillac dealer can probably supply just the model you want just the way you want it.

Perhaps the most decisive reason, though, for buying a Cadillac now is the most practical one—the move to Cadillac ownership is especially easy at this time. Because of this, and because Cadillac's resale value is traditionally the highest in the land, buying a Cadillac now is an especially attractive investment.

So visit your authorized dealer soon. It's a great time for it.

Ben Barnes Says Stock Scandal A Major Reason For His Defeat

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes lifted a sympathy letter from a stack on his desk and thought about his first political defeat—a major Texas political leader one day, and a small town businessman the next.

He expected to move into the governor's mansion. Instead, it will be a three-bedroom apartment across from the high school in Brownwood, population 17,368.

The name of the apartment complex?

"Camelot," said Barnes, blushing. "I named it myself after the mythical kingdom of King Arthur, a place of knights and ladies, brave deeds and gentle life style.

But you didn't expect to be using it so soon?

Silently shaking his head, Barnes glanced again at the letter—one of 100 he has been receiving every day since his defeat in the Democratic primary race for governor May 6.

Barnes finished third, far behind Dolph Briscoe and Rep. Frances Farenthold, who will meet in a runoff June 3.

"I am sure this was the worst year that you could have run," the letter said, "as it seemed to be 'clean out year' even for the innocent... I think one of Texas' brightest stars has been dimmed. I am sorry."

It was signed, "Bob," of Cason's Flowers and Gifts, Corsicana.

Beaumont lawyer Woodson Dryden wrote, "I hope, somehow, that you are able to remain in politics and surely we can all rectify the tragedy of last week."

"Your image has not been tarnished," wrote Houston advertising man Barry Silverman. "In any other year, that image would have paid off in the greatest landslide in Texas history. That landslide is still there waiting to be harvested by you. I hope it will be 1974."

Former Gov. John Connally, now U. S. Treasury Secretary, called his condolences. "He told me it was probably the best thing that ever happened to me. He was genuinely sorry that I got beat, but he said I could get out and do the things I haven't had time for," Barnes said.

The lieutenant governor said he had not heard from former president Lyndon Johnson, who two years ago touted Barnes as a future president.

"I can't visualize when I might run again," Barnes said.

At 34, there appears to be no rush, but a friend and supporter noted that where in the past Barnes could pick any race, he must now choose carefully. The theory is that one defeat is not a death knell, two probably would be.

A possibility, the supporter suggested, would be a race for Congress if Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., should quit. Burleson, 66, has been a congressman since 1951.

"I've had several generous job offers, but I'm going back to Brownwood" to work with Herman Bennett, a contractor once described by Barnes as "like a wealthy uncle" interested "in the welfare of my family and me."

"I'll be busy in business, but I don't think it will keep me from being interested in problems such as constitutional revision, legislative reform, annual sessions and a cabinet system of government," he said.

"I've had lots of invitations to speak, but I'll trim my schedule from what it has been."

Was the Sharpstown stock scandal the sole reason your defeat?

"Maybe not the sole reason, but a major one. My workers kept telling me, 'you're a good candidate and we know it but it's hard to convince the people,'" Barnes related.

Barnes was never directly connected with the scandal, which resulted in the conviction of Speaker Gus Mutscher. But his name was mentioned constantly during the lengthy investigation and he had worried since it broke in January 1971 about the reaction of those who just have a casual interest in politics.

Did you have a premonition of your defeat?

"I felt we were losing momentum in the closing weeks," Barnes said. "I felt Farenthold coming."

What about the polls that showed you were certain to get in the runoff?

"The undecided vote was decided. They just weren't telling the pollsters. Their only inclination was whether to vote for Briscoe or Farenthold," he said.

"It was a tough time, a highly unusual political year. Friend and foe will agree with that," Barnes added. "Since I was in office—and the people were upset, wanted instant solutions and were looking for someone to take it out on—I would have had to have been the best candidate ever to win."

Barnes declined to endorse anyone in the governor's or lieutenant governor's runoffs, but an aide mentioned that he thought 75 per cent of Briscoe's leading vote of over 950,000 was "Negative—votes against the people in office."

Barnes, who said he was over $100,000 in debt from the governor's race, considers the election sort of a fluke and does not think his unpopularity will carry over.

EPA Refuses To Delay Enforcement Of Rules On Auto Emission For '75

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has refused to delay enforcement of the government-ordered regulations on auto emission standards for 1975 model year cars. But auto makers have indicated the fight is far from over.

EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus Friday turned down requests by the auto industry for a one-year extension of the requirements of the 1970 Clean Air Amendments.

The amendments require a 90 per cent reduction of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions for 1975 model year cars, compared with the 1970 emission levels. However, Ruckelshaus is permitted to grant a one-year suspension if the auto industry is unable to develop the necessary technology for compliance.

Ruckelshaus said he was unconvinced the five auto companies could not meet the standards, despite their testimony in 2,000 pages of application and 13 days of public hearings.

The EPA decision was immediately criticized as impractical by the auto industry.

Gerald C. Meyers, an American Motors vice president, said,

"We stand on what we told the EPA about our position that the technology does not exist. There is not time to develop it for 1975 model production...."

Ford, General Motors and Chrysler agreed, GM said. "Not even a single experimental car of any manufacturer has been able to pass the 1975 certification tests in accordance with EPA procedure."

Several environmentalists expressed concern over concessions that Ruckelshaus said would be allowed.

Instead of requiring that each automobile off the assembly line meet the individual standards, he said the law would permit averaging of test results to meet the standards.

Ruckelshaus said he also would permit one change of the chemical catalysts used by the antipollution device chosen by auto makers as their first line of defense against pollution.

BAHJ—BO Reid, a spokesman for four environmental groups, said permitting a catalyst change instead of requiring a single chemical charge to last the full 50,000 miles of warranty would put the burden of maintenance on the car owners.

Trans-Alaska Oil Project Facing Opposition

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon administration gave the go-ahead this past week for construction of the controversial Trans-Alaska oil pipeline. But environmental groups vowed to continue their fight against the project.

In another development, President Nixon raised the quotas on oil imports from the Middle East, Latin America and Canada by 15 per cent or 230,000 barrels a day.

Meanwhile, the House of Representatives approved a two-step increase in the minimum wage to $2 an hour, rejecting a proposal to make the jump immediately and to extend coverage to 5.8 million additional workers. The bill was sent to the Senate, where legislation raising the minimum wage to $2.20 an hour and expanding coverage awaited final action in the Labor Committee.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton announced Thursday that he planned to authorize construction of the Alaskan pipeline project, which had been stalled for the past two years by a court decision won by environment groups.

An attorney for these groups said Morton's action would be challenged in the courts.

Alyeska Pipeline Co., formed by a consortium of seven oil firms, applied for the permit to construct the pipeline, 48 inches in diameter, across federal land to carry hot oil from the Prudhoe Bay field on Alaska's North Slope to a tanker port on its southern coast. From there the oil would be transported by tanker to the U.S. West Coast and perhaps other destinations.

The House vote on the minimum wage was a victory for the administration. The Democratic leadership had made an immediate $2 minimum and extension of coverage to government employees and household domestics a key part of its legislative program.

Also in Washington this past week, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said President Nixon might ask Congress to enact a tax reform bill that could include a value-added tax sometime this year. He emphasized that he was not speaking for the President, and that he doubted a reform measure could pass in the current election year.

In other developments: —The Commerce Department reported that retail store sales slipped 1.5 per cent from March to April. Preliminary figures put last month's sales at a seasonally adjusted $35.58 billion. This represented a $36.4 billion drop from March.

—General Motors announced it was recalling 350,000 Vegas to correct a possible throttle-sticking problem. It was the second time in recent weeks that GM announced a major safety recall involving the Chevrolet subcompact.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.
Mike pleasantly surprised his great grandmother! His thoughtful act brightened the rest of the day for her. Such good emotions need to be stimulated in children. For "emotional calisthenics" help prevent divorce, feuds and even war in later life!

CASE T-579: Mike Crowder aged 3, knocked on the back door of a local florist shop.

It is operated by his great grandmother, Nellie, and her daughter.

When Nellie went to the door, Mike excitedly exclaimed:

"Great grandmother, I have a surprise for you. I brought you a flower."

Then he held up a single dandelion, somewhat wilted.

"I picked it just for you, Mike proudly added.

And Nellie thanked him gratefully, as they put the dandelion into a vase with some water to revive it.

"Dr. Crane," Nellie later informed me, "I had been feeling a bit low that morning."

"For the weather was gloomy, too."

"But Mike's dandelion perked me up and changed my whole outlook, for everything seemed more beautiful thereafter."

"And though we had a refrigerator full of roses, carnations and other gorgeous flowers typical of a florist shop, Mike's dandelion was the most beautiful flower of all!"

You readers can readily appreciate why, for Mike's flower was an evidence of his personal love!

Mothers thus relish a handmade Valentine from their kiddies more than the most expensive printed greeting.

But Mike illustrates another vital law of psychology, for a few days later he telephoned his great grandmother.

"I hurt," he plaintively informed her.
"Where do you hurt?" Nellie anxiously inquired.

There was a pause and she wondered what had happened.

Then Mike's mother answered, saying that Mike had placed the receiver on the scratch which he had received on his wrist.

For Mike apparently thought Nellie could see his hurt wrist via the telephone system.

Indeed, our modern electrical engineers suggest it may not be very far in the future before we can see each other while conversing over the phone!

Mike's generous act regarding the dandelion shows that human children can be thoughtful of adults and bestow favors on them.

Did you ever see a puppy or kitten or lamb or calf or colt demonstrate similar thoughtfulness for its mother?

No: the usual attitude of infrahuman offspring is to receive, not give.

The mother animal may instinctively fend for her young and even catch mice or other game (as cats do) to bring back to their kittens.

But such apparent unselfishness is a one-way street, except in the human species.

Even then, this laudable attitude needs to be nurtured and nourished or children can become as selfish as Silas Marner and Scrooge when they reach adulthood.

So help your kiddies exercise their good emotions!

For such emotional calisthenics in childhood will produce less divorces, feuds and even war when those youngsters grow up!

Churches are the chief teachers of unselfishness, so by all means take your kiddies to Sunday School every week.

TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Summer programming plans, like just about everything else in television, are a little late this year.

For the past few weeks, all three national networks have been reporting in glowing detail their expectations for programming next September, and one network has even announced shows for the Christmas holidays.

However, NBC only this week got around to revealing that Bobby Darrin will replace Dean Martin's Show reruns with a variety show for about six weeks during the latter part of the summer.

CBS this week decided to cut out reruns of its mid-season replacement, "Me and the Chimp," the end of this month and fill the time period until September with repeats—third time around, actually—of "My World and Welcome to it." This series, based on James Thurber's drawings and sense of humor, was originally run and rerun on NBC.

Summer time is, of course, traditionally rerun time in television, but in recent seasons summer has become as long as winter. Most series turned out no more than 22 or 24 new episodes, and some were cut back to 18. Now it appears there are fewer than usual summer programs, fewer newcomers given exposure.

The answer to the questions of why all this is happening is an old one: economics. It has been a rough year financially for television, which lost not only its cigarette advertisers but also revenues from three and one-half hours of prime evening time weekly.

The Federal Communications Commission ordered the time returned to local stations in the 50 top markets, but the edict affected most stations of the nation.

Television programs are increasing expensive to produce. Almost any hour-long program costs at least $200,000, and most half hour shows have budgets of around $100,000.

Summer, it seems, is the time to recoup, or at least try to.

There was a time, however, when competition was so fierce that a program or a series originally shown on one network would never be seen on another. No more, as CBS's acquisition of "My World and Welcome to it" indicates.

There are other evidences of the pinch. NBC has already started showing reruns of elderly "Bonanza" episodes on Tuesday nights under the title of "Ponderosa," and, at the same time, is showing reruns of more recent "Bonanza" episodes the program's familiar Sunday night spot.

NEW YORK (AP) — Having lived with turbulence for many years, the stock market has learned to discount crises, threats, forecasts and sometimes, it is claimed, common sense and logic.

At the moment, events that in the 1950s would have led to a market crisis are being filed in the "neutral" folder. Most of the better known analysts remain optimistic, even though they have to dig to find the supports.

Here is some of that supporting evidence:
Spear & Staff, Inc. finds hope in the price-earnings ratios of the blue chip companies, mainly as represented in the Dow Jones industrial average.

In the past decade or more, S&S observes, the P-E ratio, or the number of times per share earnings at which an investor is willing to buy, has ranged from a high of 18 to a low of about 12.5.

The P-E ratio recently, based on current prices, was only 15.9, the lowest earnings multiple in over 15 months. "But the stock market lives in the future. The outlook, based on estimates of future earnings, is much more attractive."

It foresees corporate earnings gains of 14.7 per cent over 1971, which would mean that the P-E ratio would be only 12.5 or 13 by the end of the year if market prices remain right where they are now.

Hornblower & Weeks-Hemp-hill, Noyes, a brokerage house, believes the outlook for the market is "constructive" because of a strong underpinning of reasons, among them:

—Gross National Product is rising, even if inflation is wringing out of the figures.

Some Women Want To Be FBI Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two women who filed suit against the late J. Edgar Hoover believe many women will take advantage of the bureau's new policy and try to become FBI agents.

Sandra Rothenberg Nemer and Cynthia Gitt, two lawyers, say they will resubmit applications to become agents as soon as they can.

"I would say hundreds, if not thousands, will do the same," said Ms. Nemer, a 29-year-old Denver poverty lawyer married to a physician. "I'm glad the FBI will now follow the federal law."

Ms. Cynthia Gitt, a 25-year-old attorney for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, also said there would be many women applying to become FBI agents.

"After we filed our suit last summer, I received several letters from women who were denied the opportunity," she said. L. Patrick Gray III, acting FBI director, announced Friday that the FBI was changing its male-only policy and would seek female applicants for the first time in history.

Hoover vehemently opposed hiring women for the crime investigating jobs because he said the work was too dangerous.

Ms. Nemer and Gitt said they were never permitted to apply to become special agents because the FBI refused to send them application forms. In answer to their queries, they said, they received letters saying the work was too dangerous.

The American Civil Liberties Union, representing the two women, filed suit in U.S. District Court last June seeking to have Hoover's male-only policy declared unconstitutional.

Gray said in his announcement that existing requirements for the special agent position will remain unchanged, including the intensive 14-week training course.

It also contains a physical fitness program, requires the special agent applicant to become proficient in defensive tactics, and be at least 5 feet 7 inches tall.

Applicants also must be graduates of law school or accounting majors in college who have had one year of experience in their profession, although in recent years there have been exceptions.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Sayed Z. El-Sayed of Texas A&M University has been appointed to the National Academy of Science Committee on Polar Research. The oceanographer is a veteran of numerous polar cruises and has an Antarctic glacier named in his honor.

American Scientists Say They Have New Way Of Controlling Mosquitoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say they have scored what could be a major breakthrough in the control of disease-bearing mosquitoes without the use of DDT or other chemical pesticides.

Agriculture Department scientists, who directed the research, say the use of tiny parasitic worms which bore holes in mosquito larvae "holds particular promise" for controlling the insects.

The tiny worms, called nematodes, are being field-tested by the U.S. Public Health Service in El Salvador and by the World Health Organization in Taiwan and Thailand. A key to the experiment was the development of a low-cost method of mass producing a species of nematodes, Reesimermis nielsenii, which attack only mosquitoes.

The procedures are described in the May issue of "Agricultural Research," a magazine published by USDA.

At present, DDT is the cheapest and favorite pesticide for controlling mosquitoes in malaria areas of the world. Malathion, a potent but less persistent chemical, also is used.

Laboratory tests over a two-year period have shown the worms infect 13 of 19 known kinds of mosquitoes in Louisiana and have a 100 per cent kill record among insects they infect, USDA scientists say.

Although mosquitoes are the natural and only known hosts for the r. nielsenii nematode, the worms usually kill only while the mosquitoes are in the "wiggler" or larvae stage of development.

The larvae develop from eggs and, if they survive, turn into adult mosquitoes which then carry many diseases, including sleeping sickness or encephalitis as well as malaria.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see others to see its blessing.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Crossroads Report

Dear Editor: Judges these days are finding more and more things that are Unconstitutional such as capital punishment, property tax financed schools, hiring people by ability instead of color and sex, etc.

It seems that our master minds - as opposed to 80-plus percent of the plain minds in the U.S. - don't believe that any youngster can get a Quality Education without being transported away off from wherever he lives.

I see where the Commission on Population Growth reports in favor of strict controls to keep the country from getting overrun with people.

Constitution vs. Charter

Which is the supreme law of the land, the U.S. Constitution or the United Nations charter?

You can expect to have a court decision on the point in the near future. The issue is Rhodesian chrome.

On Jan. 1, 1972, a new regulation (Section 503 of the 1971 Military Procurement Authorization Act), went into effect.

prevent use of that ore that already had arrived. Union Carbide and Foote Mineral Co were named defendants along with government officials.

Thus we have a combination of the U.N.-supremacy issue and the race issue in a single package. The case is scheduled to come before U.S. District Judge Spottswood Robinson.

Back To The Senate

We were rather sorry when Edmund S. Muskie decided to quit the primary trail.

That means he'll be free to go back to the Senate and look for more things to do us.

But at least it is one less voice in the nausea-producing chatter from the supermen who think they can run the country.

Muskie has been feeding at the public trough for 25 years, and he's only 58. His political career began in 1947 as a member of the Maine House of Representatives.

Muskie is a U.S. Senator because 76,048 more people marked his name on a piece of paper than his rival.

In all the state of Maine there are only 393,639 registered voters. In the High Plains of Texas there were about that many registered voters at the last count.

Not one or all combined could control Muskie as a U.S. Senator, but Muskie can certainly affect us here on the High Plains.

Still believe in the ballot box power?

23,906, a margin of only 76,048. Thus it would seem proper to say that those who should know him best are not so inclined to offer him their support.

If group rating of voting records mean anything to you, here's how Muskie stacks up: Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) give him a 91. COPE gives him 100 and Americans for Constitutional Action give him a 10.

On key issues in the past Muskie voted against the ABM, the SST, the appointment of Judge Carswell, No-Knock voluntary army. He voted for cuts in military spending, 18-year-old vote, busing, cuts in oil depletion allowance, limiting farm subsidies and cuts in penalty for marijuana.

But what is important for taxpayers to think about is that here's a man who just might have made it to the White House because he had a lot of exposure using the U.S. Senate seat as a forum.

Parochial: End Runs Around The Constitution

A small-size issue in this campaign year but one capable of arousing outsize emotions is that of state or federal aid to nonpublic schools—usually dubbed "parochial" because the nation's many Catholic schools would be the chief beneficiaries.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who has at least one position on every issue, favors tax credits for parents of parochial and private school children out of concern "that the American traditions of cultural and educational pluralism are endangered by the financial crisis facing nonpublic education."

A presidential panel has recommended such a system and President Nixon has indicated his support.

But even if this were not an election year, "parochial" would be a hot topic simply by virtue of a string of adverse court decisions.

In New York, for example, a federal court has barred that state from making payments to parochial schools under a 1971 aid law pending a test of its constitutionality.

A federal court in Ohio recently struck down a program that would have paid $90 to parochial school parents, and

Your Health

Dear Dr. Lamb—What is pericarditis? What germ is it caused by? What are the possible results if a person has this disease and was allergic to the germ, staph or whatever and had no treatment except for tranquilizers?

Dear Reader—The pericardium is the sac that surrounds the heart. The sac itself looks like a large plastic bag. It is really a double-layered sac with one layer of what looks like clear plastic lying directly on the surface of the heart and then extending outward to form the large external bag to encase the whole heart.

Inflammation of the sac around the heart can be caused by many things. An individual with pneumonia can have an extension of the infection to involve the sac around the heart. It can also be caused by chemical reactions. Advanced uremia can cause chemical irritation of the pericardium and uremic pericarditis. It can also be caused by an extension of cancer and it can follow a myocardial infarction (heart attack).

If you read my column often, you will know that I have previously explained that the ending "itis" used in medicine means inflammation and all the word pericarditis means inflammation of the pericardium. The problem can be caused by a wide variety of germs, including tuberculosis.

Many cases of pericarditis are caused by virus infections and are called viral pericarditis. This is probably the most common form. Like most other virus diseases, there are not many things you can do to treat the problem except provide medicine to give symptomatic relief to the patient at the time. This might well include aspirin to control fever, medicines for relief of pain and tranquilizers.

Occasionally a person does have recurrent chest pains after such an episode, because the arteries to the heart muscle pass directly underneath the sac that is attached to the surface of the heart and scarring and fibrosis from pericarditis can put pressure on the arteries and diminish the blood flow to the heart muscle. This can result in angina or chest pain associated with insufficient blood supply to the heart muscle.

Inside Washington

Jackson Warns: Better Not Leave It To George By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern's unexpected emergence as Democratic frontrunner is causing widespread tremors of shock and alarm among party leaders and stalwarts.

The jarring possibility is dawning on them that they may find themselves encumbered with a Presidential standard bearer who is an out-and-out ultra-leftist.

Deeply concerned Democratic officials and authorities throughout the country are discovering on close scrutiny that McGovern, instead of being the "new populist," as his propagandists are busily portraying him, is actually, in the words of Sen. Henry Jackson, the champion and spearhead of the "new extremism."

And to leave no doubt of exactly what he means by that scathing characterization, the veteran Washington state Senator adds: "McGovern has become the spokesman of some of the most dangerous and destructive currents in American politics. The stark reality is that the extremism of the left is gaining ominous ground in the Democratic party. The main vehicle for this suicidal drift is the candidacy of McGovern."

Although he has adopted the extremist rhetoric and position of the discredited campus radicals, polls show that most Americans are unaware of how far he has gone. I am convinced McGovern means what he says. That's the trouble. Because if this drift continues, the Democratic party will pay dearly in November."

This is unusually harsh talk for a liberal of Jackson's impeccable and long-standing record—32 years in Congress, steadfast labor supporter, intimate of President Kennedy, his hand-picked choice for Democratic National Chairman. Whatever else Jackson may be charged with, he is not "an old guard" or "red baiter."

So in bluntly branding McGovern as a dangerous radical and extremist, Jackson is not only publicly giving voice to his own profound concern but that of a wide spectrum of other equally disturbed Democratic leaders.

Highly significant, McGovern has so far carefully ignored these public blasts and growing backstage alarm at his extremism.

The South Dakotan and his inner advisers (all long-time Kennedys) have discussed this potentially explosive development a number of times—with widely divided counsel.

Some have urged a head-on and defiant denunciation. Others have advised saying nothing—pointing out that the great mass of voters are unaware of the castigations, and most of the press is saying and doing nothing about them.

Remarkably, McGovern's lieutenant, "Why stir up the animals? If our opposition can't do it, why should we help them by calling attention to what they are howling about?"

In the face of this divided opinion, McGovern's marking time. But revealingly indicative that the bare-knuckled hammering of Sen. Jackson and others is getting under McGovern's skin.

is the backstage pussyfooting and denying that his close henchmen are engaging in. For example: Pierre Salinger, press secretary of President Kennedy, now a paid member of McGovern's campaign staff, is telephoning newsmen explaining and temporizing his boss's stand on school busing, legalization of marijuana and abortions. As Salinger melliflously expounds it, McGovern doesn't mean exactly what he might be understood to mean.

Maybe so. But Sen Jackson is calling the turn on McGovern flatly and directly and hasn't been denied as yet. One reason is—the South Dakotan can't deny it. The record is refutable.

That explains his tight-lipped silence in the face of the scaldingly provocative denunciations. Currently, he has only two courses: admit the potentially torpedoing accusations, or attempt to mumble and finagle them as Salinger is trying to do behind-the-scenes.

But if McGovern should get the nomination, he would then be able to back-and-fill and hem-and-haw all over the place with little fear of being challenged within Democratic ranks because of the danger that would disastrously boomerang against state and local Democratic candidates. Throughout the country they would be under urgent compulsion to hold their peace because disunity could be ruinous for all of them.

At least that is the likely strategy to be expected of McGovern. It's largely self-evident. But so also is the record of extremism and radicalism he is expounding: what Sen. Jackson tersely labels "The McGovern Doctrine," that would be a disaster for the American people."

Following are key tenets of this ultra-leftist doctrine: —Busing school children solely to achieve racial balance. —$40-plus billion a year to be taken from taxpayers earning more than $8,000 and giving it to those making less than that. Also those making more than $50,000 a year to be required to pay 75 per cent of the amount above that in taxes.

—Guaranteed annual income of $4,000 for family of four. —Slash the defense budget by $39 billion—approximately 45 per cent—at a time when Russia is greatly expanding its worldwide naval and air strength. Also cut the nation's armed forces by around 45 per cent—from 2.5 million to 1.7 million. To this end, McGovern would reduce U.S. troops in Europe by one-half, and virtually entirely in the Far East. To all intents, he would junk the NATO alliance, and drastically modify U.S. ties with and in support of Israel. —Grant full amnesty to draft-dodgers, deserters and defectors. —"Reliberalize" the U.S. Supreme and other Federal courts. —Radically "reorganize" and "overhaul" the FBI, which McGovern has repeatedly attacked in extremist terms. Illustration: Condemnation of the late director J. Edgar Hoover as a "menace to citizens." —Establish what in effect would be a distinct form of socialized medicine.

There is much talk these days about Quality Education, as if it is an item that can be bought by or bestowed upon people the same as Quality Groceries. And in some respects this is right, although the price you pay doesn't always relate to the quality of the teachers you get, nor the price of a schoolhouse to what goes on within it.

Some folks have been advocating a work-or-starve rule for able-bodied welfareers, but my able-brained neighbor says this might not be a wise policy. He claims that some citizens are physically sound but mentally disabled and it would cost more to have them on a job, fouling up the works, than to support them in non-destructive idleness. In fact, he thinks society would operate smoother if numerous folks now working would quit; such as some federal judges and other over-employed politicians.

Chiropractors are experts at back talk. If you ask our opinion, don't blame us if you're bored stiff. The local beanery has just a bout everything on the menu, and we wish they'd get some clean ones.
