

Bomb Threat For Ransom From British Liner Appears To Be Hoax

LONDON (AP) — The Queen Elizabeth 2 and her 2,350 passengers and crew members steamed on across the Atlantic toward Europe today, apparently safe despite a bomb threat demanding $350,000 ransom.

British Army bomb disposal experts parachuted to the British liner in mid-Atlantic Thursday, did not find the six bombs which an anonymous telephone caller in New York said had been planted aboard.

The bomb threat appeared to be a hoax, although the president of the Cunard Lines American subsidiary, Richard Patton, said: "The danger is not over, but lessened."

"I never really believed that there were any bombs on board," Patton added, "but we will continue to take every precaution."

The 65,000-ton pride of Britain's merchant fleet is due in Cherbourg on Saturday and in Southampton Sunday morning. Most of her 1,500 passengers are vacationing Americans.

The caller to Cunard's New York office had warned the bombs would be set off by two men on board unless the ransom was paid. He said the bombers were a terminal cancer patient and an ex-convict and both were willing to die to carry out the threat.

Cunard assembled the money in small bills and stored it at a bank near the line's office on Fifth Avenue. But a second call promised by the extortionist to give payment instructions never came.

The caller, who Cunard said spoke with an American accent, telephoned his threat Wednesday afternoon. The QE2 had left New York Monday and was halfway home.

Cunard spokesmen said they had received many false bomb threats before. But this time the caller gave technical details of the ship that aroused concern. By noon Thursday, the line and authorities on both sides of the Atlantic decided the threat must be treated seriously.

The line said the ship's watertight doors were slammed shut as soon as the bomb threat became known aboard ship. The doors seal off the watertight compartments in which the ship is divided to limit damage. Experts said it would take major bomb damage to at least two compartments to endanger the ship.

"However, with any bomb there is clearly a risk of fire," said one Ministry of Defense official.

The ministry put four bomb disposal experts and their equipment aboard a Royal Air Force transport and sent them out to parachute down to the ship. Another RAF plane went along as a mobile communication station.

As the crew began searching the huge ship and her many cabins and compartments, the QE2's 60-year-old skipper, Capt. William J. Law, announced the bomb threat to passengers over the intercom, and the vessel's powerful propellers stopped churning about 3:30 p.m. She was then about 500 miles northwest of the Azores.

"There was no panic," passenger Sterling Hixson of Bountiful, Utah, told the Salt Lake City Tribune in a ship-to-shore telephone call. "It was very quiet. Some people mentioned the Titanic."

The captain had the ship's orchestra entertaining us and announced that ransom money had been collected and would be paid.

The captain told us over the intercom that other ships in the area were maneuvering in case the bomb threat was real and not a hoax."

The RAF plane flew over shortly after 6 p.m. and parachuted the bomb experts and their equipment, and the liner lowered a launch to fish them out of the sea.

Once aboard, the bomb experts took over direction of the search.

Nixon Visits Wallace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon visited Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace today at Holy Cross Hospital and said the governor, convalescing from gun wounds, looks very alert.

"He has not been depressed by this terrible event," Nixon said of his visit to the governor's bedside. The President told reporters after the 45-minute meeting that the main topic of conversation was Nixon's upcoming trip to Russia and the health of the governor.

Wallace was gunned down late Monday at a rally in Laurel, Md. He was taken to the hospital in Silver Spring, Md., for treatment.

Nixon said he reiterated his offer to let Wallace stay at the presidential suite at nearby Walter Reed Hospital. The President said the governor told him that he might at a later time but he was eager to get back to Alabama.

The President, returning to Washington today from Camp David, the presidential mountaintop retreat in Maryland, ordered his helicopter to land at Walter Reed. He then was taken by auto to Holy Cross Hospital.

Wallace is undergoing physical therapy for his legs, at least temporarily paralyzed by a bullet that struck his spine.

The hospital reported today that Wallace had spent a good night.

President Soviet Trip Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP) — As administration sources report a U.S.-Soviet strategic-arms-control accord virtually ready for announcement, President Nixon is moving into a final round of conferences prior to departure Saturday for his Moscow summit talks.

An unusual secret session with the Soviet ambassador to the United States preceded Nixon's planned meeting today with congressional leaders and with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, just back from a Far East tour that included a Vietnam visit.

Accompanied by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin flew by helicopter in the wee hours Thursday to the secluded Camp David, Md., retreat where Nixon had been since Tuesday preparing for his talks beginning Monday with Soviet leaders. Dobrynin and Nixon conferred for about an hour on Thursday. White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in disclosing the trip after Dobrynin and Kissinger flew back to Washington.

Ziegler wouldn't divulge what was discussed, but the mountaintop conference was believed to have included the movement toward an agreement to check the missile race.

Administration sources said they anticipate a strategic arms control accord will be ready for announcement during Nixon's eight-day Soviet visit.

The President flies Saturday to Salzburg, Austria, where he will rest until Monday when he travels on to Moscow. He has scheduled brief stops in Iran and Poland en route back to the United States.

Administration sources said agreement has been reached in principle on a first-step arms-control pact.

Jeff Dunn Named Recipient Of John Philip Sousa Award

By RAY BAXTER

While everyone connected with the success of the Pampa High School band this year recognized Thursday night, highlights of the annual Awards Banquet were presentation of the John Philip Sousa award and an address by Judge Don Lane.

In the hush that fell at that point in the program, Band Director Harris Brinson announced that Jeff Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunn, 124 E. 24th St., was this year's recipient of the John Philip Sousa Award and scholarship established by the Pampa Band Boosters Club.

Jeff received a plaque and a check for the scholarship which is not confined to a musical education.

He was head drum major and participated in the all-area, all-region and stage bands.

Newt Secrest, serving as master of ceremonies due to the illness of Otto Mangold, introduced Judge Lane.

Pampa's municipal jurist challenged the young people of the band with three words that could bring success with their application to every area of life: dedication-discipline-and daring.

He summed up his address with the admonition to "be a professional, which means to be learned in whatever field you may select."

After standing recognition of the sophomore and junior members of the band, seniors paraded by the speaker's table for their desk set and band doll.

Randy Simms, band president, presented gifts to Brinson and his assistant, Darrell Garrison.

Visiting dignitaries were introduced including the officers of the band boosters club who sponsored the banquet. The Optimists Club building where the affair was staged was filled almost to capacity.

The Rev. A.E. Burns spoke the invocation and Mrs. Sue Higdon at the organ provided dinner music prior to the program.

Nixon-Connally Ticket In 1972 'Totally Unrealistic,' Says Spiro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today it is "totally unrealistic" to expect the Republican convention to accept John B. Connally as the party's 1972 vice presidential candidate.

At a White House news conference, Agnew conceded that President Nixon has yet to ask him to be his running mate again but added, "I'm quite relaxed about it."

Speculation that Connally might supplant Agnew on the ticket took on new life Tuesday when Nixon announced Connally was resigning as secretary of the Treasury and heaped lavish praise upon the Texas Democrat.

Asked to explain why the choice of Connally would be unrealistic, Agnew said, "I just don't understand how a registered Democrat in the middle of May in an election year" could change his party allegiance and expect to be nominated by the GOP three months later.

"That's not a realistic alternative," said Agnew.

He said "any political pro will tell you that."

Agnew said that, quite apart from himself, the Republican party has several promising potential candidates for vice president.

"Mr. Connally is just not it," he said.

After emerging from a 40-minute session in Nixon's Oval Office, Agnew said South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and Gen. Creighton Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, are confident the South Vietnamese "will hold."

Agnew said he conferred for two hours with Thieu and described him as "relaxed and confident."

When the North Vietnamese began their offensive before Easter, Agnew said, there were

Antiwar Group Claims Responsibility For Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bomb exploded in a restroom at the Pentagon early today, blew out two interior walls and sent tons of water from broken pipes gushing through offices and a shopping concourse.

An antiwar organization claimed responsibility for the blast.

Few workers were in the area at the time and officials said this prevented injuries.

Police aided by a dog specially trained to sniff out explosives continued an exhaustive search of the sprawling military headquarters complex even as the Pentagon's 28,000 employees showed up for work six hours later. No more bombs were found.

The fourth-floor women's washroom was demolished — fixtures were shattered, the ceiling caved in and a 2½-foot hole blasted through the floor.

Most of the damage from the blast was confined to the bathroom area.

Despite the problems, Brig. Gen. Daniel James said, "it's business as usual today." James is the deputy assistant secretary of Defense for public affairs.

The restroom is located on the Pentagon's E-ring, the outermost of five rings, in the five-sided building.

FBI agents sifted through the rubble, looking for clues and James said that until the investigation is completed they were not "prepared to say what type of explosive device" was used.

Air Force Brig. Gen. Daniel James, deputy assistant defense secretary for public affairs, said the explosion occurred at 1 a.m. in a women's restroom on the fourth floor of the Pentagon's E-ring, the outermost of five rings in the five-sided building.

The Defense Department said the scene, in a nonrestricted area, is two full city blocks away from the office of Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr. in the building that covers more than 30 acres.

Master Sgt. Jack Pickrell was one of 10 persons working in the Air Force message center 300 feet down the corridor at the time of the blast.

"You could smell the powder," he said, indicating the blast was caused by some type of explosive powder. He said dust in the corridor was so thick he had trouble finding the restroom to see if anyone was inside. No one was.

"You could actually feel the building shake," said Capt. William F. Kelly, also working in the message center. "As soon as it went off, people in the message center rushed into the hall and saw what looked like a big fog bank coming down the corridor."

At 1:05 a.m., five minutes after the blast, a caller identifying himself as "The Weatherman," told the New York Post:

"We have just bombed the office of the secretary of the Air Force in the Pentagon."

A note found in a pay-phone booth near the Post building in New York said the blast was in retaliation to U.S. bombing in Vietnam.

Similar telephone calls went to The New York Times and radio station WBCN-FM in Boston.

An organization known as the "Weather...Underground" claimed responsibility for the March 1, 1971, U.S. Capitol bombing that caused $200,000 in damages. Most of the Capitol damage was in an ornate restroom.

The Army turned a specially trained German shepherd dog loose in the Pentagon this morning to sniff out explosives.

"It's going to be business as usual this morning, but we are going to check packages," said Gen. James. The package-inspection rule was imposed shortly after the Capitol bombing but was suspended last January. An order went out last Tuesday to reinstate the rule this morning.

Officials said some sensitive computers in nearby offices may have been damaged.

Two-foot-square chunks of clay brick were strewn about the Pentagon's 10th corridor in the E-ring. The plaster-and-brick walls from the public restroom were blown into the corridor, which was flooded with an inch of water from broken pipes.

A 30-foot section of the wall in the corridor was blown into the hallway.

Nearly windows were shattered. FBI agents were dusting the wreckage for fingerprints.

Pickrell speculated the explosive may have been planted in a toilet; one of the toilets was virtually disintegrated.

In a phone booth near The New York Post printing plant, a reporter found a letter, signed by "Weatherman Underground No. 12," saying:

"Today we attacked the Pentagon, the center of the American military command. We are acting at a time when growing U.S. air and naval shelling are being carried out against the Vietnamese, while U.S. mines and warships are used to block the harbors of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, while plans for even more escalation are being made in Washington."

Demonstrators Stage Protest In White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five demonstrators who entered the White House as tourists staged a sit-down protest in the Blue Room today and were arrested.

The Secret Service said the five were admonished to leave the executive mansion and when they refused were arrested on unlawful entry charges.

The five identified themselves as members of the militant Jewish Defense League, a Secret Service spokesman said.

They offered no resistance when arrested by officers of the Executive Protection Service which guards the White House.

The Blue Room was not damaged during the incident, the spokesman said.

The demonstration came one day before President Nixon leaves for Moscow and summit talks with Soviet leaders. Jewish organizations have urged the President to take up with Soviet leaders the conditions of Soviet Jewry.

Two F4 Phantoms Down Two MIG19 Interceptors

SAIGON (AP) — Two Navy F4 Phantoms from the carrier Midway shot down two MIG19 interceptors Thursday 25 miles northeast of Hanoi, the U.S. Command announced today.

The North Vietnamese jets came up from the Kep Air Base to challenge U.S. bombers attacking the northeast railway between Hanoi and China. The Phantoms were escorting the bombers.

U.S. planes flew about 250 strikes against targets in North Vietnam Thursday and another 250 today, informed American sources said.

Pilots reported flying through heavy fire from antiaircraft missile and artillery batteries. Radio Hanoi claimed five American jets were shot down Thursday, but the U.S. Command's announcement made no mention of any losses.

North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam's central highlands attacked the outer defenses of Kontum today, but claymore mines and U.S. bombers and gunships drove them back in disarray, field reports said.

At least 41 North Vietnamese were killed, according to initial reports. There was no word of South Vietnamese losses.

The attack was launched before dawn, and the fighting ended by midmorning. First reports indicated the assault was a probe—similar to one last Sunday—rather than a drive to capture the provincial capital.

Meanwhile, North Vietnamese troops resumed their artillery and rocket attacks Thursday against An Loc, the besieged provincial capital north of Saigon.

Only mortar shells had been fired at An Loc Wednesday night, giving rise to speculation that the North Vietnamese there might be running low on artillery shells and rockets. But the bombardment picked up during the day.

Field reports said 20 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 100 were wounded, while 25 enemy were killed in scattered ground fighting.

Field reports from the northern front below the demilitarized zone said 300 North Vietnamese troops were spotted in the open Thursday about seven miles southwest of the citadel in Hue.

Chamber finance director Secrest said complete total toward the $44,000 goal had not been figured at noon but "was close."

Announcement of the high individual salesman also had not been made at noon today. Further details, Secrest said, will be announced Sunday.

HE'S A RUNNER—With Spring upon us, it's not too unusual to see birds in town. But it's still unusual to find a road runner downtown. One of the chaparral birds was first noted yesterday morning by members of the Sheriff's department, who notified the News. The staff photographer and one of the staff writers investigated and saw the bird near Pampa Junior High. A chase ensued for several blocks before the road runner eluded his pursuers. Using a telephoto lens, the photographer managed to snap the above shot of the bird on Somerville.

President Asked To Declare Five Counties Disaster Areas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith has asked for a presidential disaster declaration for five flood-damaged counties and said more needs to be done to prevent future floods. The counties are Caldwell, Comal, Guadalupe and Hays, which were flooded last week by the Guadalupe and San Marcos Rivers; and Webb, where the Rio Grande left its banks. Sixteen persons died in the Guadalupe flood at New Braunfels. Smith said preliminary estimates indicate damage of $15 million to private property and $2.5 million to public facilities. A presidential declaration permits federal assistance to repair and rebuild public property, provide temporary housing and give financial help to persons who were unemployed because of the floods.

State Will Seek To Prove Charge Against Ex-Legislator

AUSTIN (AP) — The state will try to prove Monday that former Rep. Walter Knapp traded $1,200 in House postage stamps for a truck, and the company that sold the truck traded the stamps for credit on its postage meter. Knapp, of Amarillo, is charged with theft by false pretext. If convicted, he could be sentenced to two to 10 years in prison.

There will be six prosecution witnesses in the case, Dist. Atty. Bob Smith said Thursday. One is C. T. Davis, postmaster of Amarillo, who is to "bring receipt for postage meter setting dated 5-28-70, bearing No. 23, and issued to Plains Chevrolet in the amount of $1,200," according to Smith's witness list. Knapp reportedly bought the truck on May 25, 1970, from Plains Chevrolet, the same day he withdrew $1,200 worth of postage stamps from his House contingency fund.

Other witnesses for the state are: Bill Gilliland, owner of Plains Chevrolet; Ronnie Roberts, a salesman for the firm; Charles Conley, another Gilliland employee; Charlie Langford, a post office employee in Amarillo; and Mrs. Joyce Taylor, House clerk in charge of contingency expense accounts. Mrs. Taylor is to bring with her Knapp's record of stamp withdrawal for 1970. Knapp and his lawyer appeared at a pretrial hearing Thursday, but filed no motions. The district attorney revealed his witness list after presenting four witnesses to the grand jury in two other cases involving former legislators. One of those was M. S. Taylor, who brought with her records of stamp withdrawals by former Rep. Hudson Moyer of Amarillo. The grand jury is investigating whether Moyer paid a $6,000 loan from Amarillo's First National Bank with House stamps. Moyer returned $6,000 worth of stamps to the House post office May 8 after stories of the grand jury's probe were published.

William Byron Lawrence, executive vice president of the bank, told newsmen after his appearance before the grand jury there would be "no comments."

Standard Oil Co. May Change Name

HOUSTON (AP) — The name of the world's largest oil company may be changed. J. K. Jamieson, board chairman, revealed the possibility Thursday at the annual stockholders meeting of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

"There has always been confusion with competing companies which also use the Standard name," Jamieson said. "But the subject is complex and all aspects must be weighed carefully." Jamieson elaborated during a discussion period during which about a dozen of the 1,000 attending the meeting questioned the "morality" of military contracts involving Vietnam supplies.

Jamieson traced the name change problem to the Supreme Court's 1911 "Oil Trust" dissolution order affecting 37 Jersey affiliates. "Each company was allocated an area in which it could use the word Standard," Jamieson said. Jersey's Houston-based domestic affiliate, Humble Oil & Refining Co., announced May 9 it is changing its name and that of all its products to EXXON. Because of the court rulings, Humble has been using three trade names, HUMBLE, ESSO, and ENCO. Humble officials said tests had indicated favorable customer acceptance of a single name.

Jamieson said that while the trademark program was advancing from the planning stage through the Humble tests that Jersey also began studying the desirability of a change. He said Thursday stockholders will have the final say on whether the name is changed. "We expect to have a recommendation reasonably soon," he said. "We have no intention at present of taking the name outside the United States but do not want to tie the hands of future management. We are thinking in terms of something that has flexibility and if we have to go world wide we can do so."

Jamieson drew laughter when he said ENCO is not a good name. "It did not stand up," he said. "It came from the words 'energy company' and the image of energy is not too good in some areas these days."

How to Lose a Car

DALLAS (AP) — Jody Rigby, 19, after trying for 15 minutes to get his 1964 car going, walked to a service station for help. Since the car wouldn't start, he left his keys behind. Someone more resourceful drove it away.

Young Woman Wounded in Knife Affray

Gwendolyn Marie Bingley, 18, 1153 Prairie Drive, was treated at Highland General Hospital last night for a stab wound and released. According to the police report of their investigation, Shirley Temple Wallace, 18, 1128 Varnon Drive gave a statement that she wielded the knife in a fight between the two women. She said the Gingley girl was choking her and she struck out with the knife to get loose. The wounded girl came by the station following her release at the hospital and told of a fight, too, but each of the women had a different version of the reason and the start of the altercation, according to the report. Authorities filed no charges but parents of the Bingley girl announced they intended to file a complaint against the Wallace woman.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigates Theft of Wire

Members of the Gray County Sheriff's Department are investigating the theft of metal fence posts and barbed wire from a site in the south part of the county. Taken from the Sam Whitley place southeast of Groom were 130 metal posts six and a half feet long and 20 rolls of wire belonging to the Rock Island Railroad Co. The wire was stacked on the vacant property for the purpose of fencing wheat land. Authorities believe the materials were taken some time during the night of May 14 or possibly May 15. Value of the loss was set at $800.

What U.S. Mines Are Like

These aren't like spiny WW II mines. They look more like torpedoes. Mines are laid at night. Pentagon studies indicate two dozen mines could plug a harbor channel, 200 minimum would seal off seven North Vietnam ports.

Sweeping is difficult—some of the mines, for example, can lie buried in mud until activated. Alarm-clock-type arming device not only can turn on the mine but will turn off at predetermined time in future.

Yarborough-Sanders Vote Dispute Rages On; Recount Of Ballots Likely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
U. S. Senate candidates Barefoot Sanders and Ralph Yarborough are still quibbling over the May 6 Democratic primary returns. Yarborough planned today to present a check for $918 for a recount of votes in Dallas County. Meanwhile a 1,785-vote tabulation error in favor of Sanders was discovered Thursday in Nolan County. Yarborough contends that a recheck of election results in several counties has disclosed a number of clerical errors and that he won the Democratic nomination without a runoff. Sanders holds that he and Yarborough must face each other in a June 3 runoff election.

The Democratic primary canvass show Yarborough missed an outright victory by 536 votes out of some 2 million cast. However, Nolan County Democratic chairman Ocie Hunt sent the State Democratic Executive Committee headquarters in Austin a telegram saying he had accidentally recorded Sanders' Nolan County (Sweetwater) total as 198 instead of the correct 1,983. Sanders, who ran second to Yarborough in the five-man contest, said a recount in Houston and Harris County showed him getting 1,300 more votes than originally were counted—which would force a runoff. The Nolan County error added support to Sanders' claim. Yarborough has made a second request for Dallas County officials to recheck of election results, contending he stood to gain a "substantial" number because of duplicated figures. State Democratic headquarters in Austin said it had received a telegram from Delta County (Cooper) election officials advising that Yarborough's total should have been 906 votes instead of 306, a gain of 600 if recognized by the state Democratic committee. The state Democratic Headquarters also said a telegram from Borden County (Gail) officials stated one of Yarborough's opponents received only 34 votes, instead of 314 as reported. The Publications Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet at 10 a.m. Monday to discuss publication of a new city map and street guide for Pampa. Al Bassett, committee chairman, said the meeting will be in the chamber conference room in the Hughes Bldg.

A Parent Can Separate Serious from Normal Behavior

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of many books and articles on exceptional children, Willard Abraham, Ph.D., is chairman of the Department of Special Education at Arizona State University. This is one of a series of articles written for Newspaper Enterprise Association and this newspaper.)

(Third in a Series.)

By Dr. Willard Abraham

One child has had an upset stomach for the past few mornings when it's time for school.

Another is a "head bumper," his room at night periodically punctuated with a steady thumping sound.

A third puts on a beat of a temper tantrum that almost seems to rock the house.

Are they emotionally disturbed children? Do they need special help, psychological or psychiatric?

Maybe they do, but we need more information before making a decision. It is important to recognize that many so-called emotional problems are well within the normal range. At least three factors have to be noted: How frequently does the problem turn up? How old is the youngster? Are there any specific reasons why it's happening now?

The upset stomach may be due to a new school, a new teacher, his father's being out of town, mom on an emotional tear herself, a new baby "replacing" him at home and so many others. "Head bumping" is often an early childhood habit that usually fades away with time. Temper tantrums in the early years may on occasion be the only outlet available to express frustration or to attract attention, a device some children refine and effectively use on their parents to get their way.

Understanding and removal of the reason behind the problems may actually eliminate them or at least reduce their severity. It may help to face up to them if some of the more normal emotional deviations are viewed in proper context, for what they are, as temporary, occasional discords that are part of the growing up process.

Here are a few of these normal ones—but remember 20 Car Accidents On Rural Hwys Reported In April

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 20 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of April, according to Sgt. J.L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed and nine persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first four months of 1972 shows a total of 68 accidents resulting in two persons killed and 27 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for April shows a total of 445 accidents resulting in 44 persons killed and 232 persons injured as compared to April, 1971, with 454 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 276 persons injured.

The 44 traffic deaths for the month of April, 1972, occurred in the following counties: Castro, 10; Donley and Montague, five each; Parker and Wise, four each; Archer, three; Carson, Hale and Wilbarger, two each; Gray, Floyd, Hall, Palo Pinto, Randall, Terry and Wichita, one each.

sons may all be hints of deeper difficulties needing professional attention.

• Early adolescence adjustments to physical changes, sex mores, mature girl-immature boy factors and awkwardness. Also judgmental errors and irritability.

• Sibling rivalry — how often do brothers and sisters get along well together on a regular basis, before they reach their 20s? Not very often. This rivalry is a norm in our society.

• Parent-child conflicts and rebellion against parental direction and value systems: They've always been with us, but we're just more verbal about them these days. Particularly a problem in adolescence.

• Clinging to the bottle of milk after you think he should have given it up; bed wetting — but what's normal for a baby can be a problem for an adolescent; apparent need for rocking the infant to sleep.

Any parent can add to that list almost endlessly—a child who is too clean, good and eager to please; imaginary and real fears and anxieties from being put into a high chair to facing a lion across a moat at the zoo; not giving up the "security" blanket, toy or doll. Some that on the surface seem to be more serious, like lying or stealing.

Emotional difficulties may divide themselves into three groups (1) the normal ones whose solutions can come through parental common sense and understanding of what the child is trying to achieve, removal of causes and just plain time, (2) abnormal but not critical ones that sound professional help may ease parents and their children through, (3) the red-flag critical problems that needed attention yesterday, but because it will never be any earlier than it is now, help should be sought immediately. Suicide threats, bizarre behavior, self-inflicted wounds—and erratic and irrational conversations and reactions are all flash warnings demanding quick action

Problems Facing Women Who Want To Be FBI Agent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Female G-men? FBI employees in a dozen cities can't understand why a woman would apply to be a special agent and some special agents wouldn't want their daughters to be one.

But since Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III reversed the late J. Edgar Hoover's rigid policy against hiring women for crime investigation, hundreds of women have inquired about becoming special agents, a spot check showed.

The telephone check of 12 field offices and a visit to bureau headquarters here turned up polite, cordial responses from employees asked for information about obtaining a job as female special agent.

But typical of comments was this from an agent in New York who declined to give his name:

"The job isn't for a woman. There's a lot of danger involved. She'll have the same duties as men. No pampering. Now really, would you want to see your daughter packing a .38 revolver?"

A secretary at FBI headquarters, who said she's received more than 100 queries since the men-only policy was changed, said few women meet the 5-foot-7 height requirement and so far only one has applied.

"Before the change," she said, "I thought I'd like to be an agent. It cried 'discrimination, discrimination.' But now that it's a possibility, I've changed my mind. Those jobs can be pretty rough."

A San Francisco agent said some of his colleagues fear women agents will make their work more dangerous.

"For instance," he said, "when you take someone with you on an arrest, he's the guy who may save your life. If a fellow is with a 120-pound girl, he'd have to do most of the job. Fellows aren't too enthusiastic about making an arrest with a girl with them."

In Dallas, a woman who said she's been with the FBI for 30 years said: "It isn't glamorous like they show you on TV. You're on call 24 hours a day.

You're expected to work two hours a day overtime. You have to have an unblemished record. That means none of your relatives can have been arrested.

"But I'd be happy to send you an application if you're still interested."

FBI employees stress that women agents will be granted no special privileges. At an intensive 14-week training course, they must qualify with revolver, shotgun and rifle, meet stiff pull-up, sit-up and push-up requirements and run two miles in 17 minutes.

Applicants must be graduates of law school or accounting majors in college who have had one year experience in their profession. Otherwise, they must have a college degree and three years professional working experience.

Currently, 3,000 qualified men are on the waiting list.

Mate's habit harmless; just try to muddle thru

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a fascination for mud! I think it's because when he was a little boy his mother never let him get dirty. He said she used to run after him with a damp wash cloth about 20 times a day to be sure his hands were clean.

Anyway, I didn't know anything about the way he liked to play in the mud until after I married him. He sometimes goes in the back yard and turns on the garden hose to make a lot of mud, then he gets right down in it and rolls around in it until he's covered with mud from head to toe. He gets a real satisfaction out of it, Abby. He yells for me to come and look, and he always leaves his muddy clothes in the yard for me to pick up and cart to the washer.

How can I break him of this weird habit? Otherwise, he is perfectly normal. BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Why should you? It's harmless. Your mudder is finally getting back at mother.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, and old enough to know my own mind, but my mother is driving me crazy. I went with a guy named Allen for two years, but it just didn't work out between us. He was a nice kid, but he just wasn't for me.

My mother always liked Allen, and she compares every boy I've gone with since him.

Right now I am practically engaged to Gerry, and my mother still asks me why I stopped going with a nice boy like Allen. She keeps saying things like, "Why don't you ask Allen over sometime, maybe you two can pick up where you left off."

Abby, I don't feel anything for Allen, and I'm sure he doesn't feel anything for me, but I can't seem to get that thru my mother's head!

To make matters worse, my mother calls Gerry, "Allen." Oh, brother! UP A WALL

DEAR UP: Your mother still obviously has a soft spot in her heart for Allen. In time she will get over him, just as you have. Be patient.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old male, and I am going bald fast. There is hair on my pillow, hair all over the floor, and every time I wash my hair or comb or brush it, it comes out in gobs.

My father went bald at a very early age so I am not surprised.

My problem is my parents. They say I am losing my hair because I wear it too long. They insist that it's falling out because it is heavy and it's being pulled down by its own weight, and if I cut it short [crew cut] it wouldn't fall out. This sounds idiotic to me. I figure it's just hereditary. My parents won't believe me, but they'll believe you. What's the answer, Abby? GOING BALD IN LAKEWOOD

DEAR GOING: You're right. It is hereditary. You won't have it longer. If you wear it shorter.

DEAR ABBY: I'm another man who reads your column faithfully, but never thought I'd be writing to you.

I am a dairy farmer and noticed that you said when a heifer and a bull were born twins, in slightly less than 15 per cent of the cases, the heifer was a freemartin and therefore can not reproduce.

Your definition of a freemartin was correct, but your percentage was wrong. Approximately 93 per cent of heifers born twin to a bull are freemartins.

J. A. H., TURNBRIDGE, VT.

DEAR J. A. H.: Thanks to you and the many other sharp-eyed readers who caught the error and pointed it out to me. My farm animal expert reversed the percentages on me.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69706, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, MAY 20

Your birthday today: The Sun moves today into zodiac sign Gemini at 7:00 p. m. E. D. T. In other years the time of the change differs, may be much earlier or much later. Both Taurus and Gemini born today face a challenging go-out-to-conquer year, with everything to gain by bold optimism and diligence. Emotional experience runs to sharp peaks and abrupt slumps.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Improve your home and workplace before you involve yourself in somebody else's problems. You may have to skip a personal project.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Puzzling expenses can be checked out, no point in getting upset yet. You can manage your share of family decisions fairly well.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Tangible and abstract rewards are available in current career ventures. It's up to you to share both the activity and the returns.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Your sympathy goes out to an older or less fortunate friend. Keep busy, knowing that your own welfare deserves first attention.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Competition for your time, attention, money comes abruptly. Think about what you really want to do, and waste no time getting to it. Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: It is natural for you to assume leadership in the midst of general concern. Kindness counts more than most other behavior.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Trips produce peculiar results, perhaps good financial prospects. Pace your efforts for a more productive day, longer hours of effective contact.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Consider suggestions from all sides; a stranger without your prejudices may see things more objectively. Your reaction should be delayed for second thoughts.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Prompt and diligent reactions open opportunities for you. Sort out personal activities, do one thing at a time.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Leave financial games aside. You discover that your friends are willing to help bring a coherent plan into reality.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: A stroke of luck is likely when you least expect it. It might be a positive addition or save you from some scheduled obligation.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Try to enjoy social contacts, sense and cater to needs of family for special consideration. See bickering as an expression of that need.

Polly's Pointers

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the social columns that tell us what type of paper and envelopes to use when writing letters. I wonder how many spontaneous impulses to write a letter are killed by these foolish social rules.

I admired Eleanor Roosevelt, not because of her social or political standing, but for ignoring red tape and foolish social standards. She admitted she wrote notes, letters and ideas on any scrap of paper that was usable and even the unprinted parts of holiday cards: I am sure the old and lonely, the forgotten ones in rest homes, our boys in veterans' hospitals as well as the ones overseas, would welcome a letter written even with pencil on brown wrapping paper.

I know what it is to be lonely and not find a letter in the mailbox. There have been times I would have cried with joy if a letter written on a paper towel and put in a homemade envelope had appeared there.—VIOLET

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Diane that extra bottoms can be bought for children's winter pajamas. They come in solid colors that can be choiced to go with any tops. These are obtainable through the winter catalogues of two of the best known mail-order houses. Hope this proves to be of some help to other "budget" watchers.—MRS. R.M.

Here is another hand from Culbertson's "Battle Royal." Before, he fined South the full $10 for a bad bid and with the same lady as declarer this time, he let her off with minimum fine of $2.50.

West opened the queen of diamonds. South won; entered dummy with the king of spades and led the queen of clubs for a finesse. West took in the trick with his singleton king and led the queen of hearts. Five heart tricks followed quickly and South was down two.

"Sorry," said the maestro. "You failed to make a safety play on the hand. It will cost you $2.50."

"Is that so?" she asked. "Just what did I do wrong?"

"You failed to lay down the club-ace to allow for the possibility that West held the singleton king. You were sure of your contract if East held that card."

The maestro was right about the safety play. South wanted to make three no-trump and was sure of it if East held the club-king. However, the maestro might have assessed the full $10.

Suppose East held three clubs to the king. South would get three club tricks but would not be able to get back to dummy to run the rest of the suit. Or if West held the three clubs to the king, South would get three club tricks but would not be able to get back to dummy to run the rest of the suit. Or if West held the three clubs to the king he could lead the first club finesse good and shut out the club suit in the same manner.

TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Castellano is not scheduled to become a television star until the evening of June 21. But Richard, unlike most unhatched leads to future series, was a traffic stopper in his home town before he even took off for Hollywood to make the first episode.

Castellano is in "The Godfather." He plays Clemenz, the icy killer and lieutenant of Vito Corleone, head of the Mafia family.

Short, square and not exactly cast in a heroic mold, the actor recently was minding his own business—munching thoughtfully on a bread stick and waiting for this reporter—in a mid-Manhattan restaurant, and attracting more attention than the cigarette girl. Other diners were ignoring food and companions to regard him with that speculative eye that indicated they were wondering if they dared ask for his autograph.

"Yes," said Castellano, ignoring the attention but attacking another bread stick. "The movie is making waves. Actually I really am Italian-American—Sicilian, too—but I was playing my uncle Charlie in the film. He is really Irish-Italian and he's no killer, but that was the character I had in mind."

Richard will emerge on the home screen in a very different guise when ABC's summer replacement series, "The Super," starts next month for a run that will last into early September. He plays the title role in the comedy series which replaces "The Courtship of Eddie's Father."

All this was arranged before "The Godfather" was launched like a rocket. Castellano plays the superintendent of a lower middle income apartment building—"an integrated apartment house and I'm some sort of wise man of the tenements."

While his current image is that of a very chilly murderer,

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Thomas K. Mattingly, wife of the Apollo 16 astronaut, has given birth to a 4-pound, 2-ounce boy at Galveston County Memorial Hospital.

A hospital spokesman confirmed the Saturday event Wednesday night and said the Mattinglys had asked that no public announcement be made.

Mrs. Mattingly and the child, Thomas Kenneth Mattingly III, were doing well, the spokesman said. Mattingly was command module pilot on the Apollo 16 moon-landing mission that ended April 27.

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Clifford Irving, his wife Edith and his researcher, Richard Suskind—principals in the Howard Hughes autobiography hoax—have filed suit in U.S.

People In The News

District Court demanding more than $91,000 which they said was taken as "jeopardy assessments" by the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS applied tax liens against the Irvings and Suskind last February, more than a month before they pleaded guilty to constructing a hoax in which McGraw-Hill Inc. paid out $750,000 for a bogus autobiography of Hughes, the billionaire industrialist.

Each could receive 13 years in prison and $11,000 fines. The three asked the court to dissolve the assessments on grounds that the government had failed to take "certain technical steps required by law" in collecting the money against 1971 income taxes.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Explorer Jacques Costeau, Boston Bruins hockey star Phil Esposito and the Rev. Mother Waddles, who has gained national recognition for her work with the poor in Detroit, will be included in The American Academy of Achievement's 1972 Salute to Excellence.

Academy founder Briane Blaine Reynolds announced Wednesday that the awards will be presented during a banquet at the Salt Palace July 8. The will be among 50 men and women cited for extraordinary accomplishment.

"The whole idea of the academy is to instill a greater awareness than ever before that America has unlimited opportunities for a person to do great things—and be respected for doing them," Reynolds said.

CHICAGO (AP) — Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke came to Chicago for what has become a traditional welcome for America's space travelers.

The three were greeted Wednesday at O'Hare International Airport by Mayor Richard J. Daley and his family. Then they traveled by motorcade to downtown Chicago where they were greeted by an estimated 50,000 persons.

The Apollo 16 crew was the ninth astronaut team to visit Chicago shortly after returning from a space trip.

A VICTIM of "Bluebeard" in the movie of the same name is Raquel Welch, a nun in the film, made in Budapest, Hungary. "Bluebeard" is Richard Burton.

NOT A NEW GIRL in town, but an old favorite back for her first made-in-America movie in eight years. Ava Gardner plays Lillie Langtry, English actress of the 1880s, in the upcoming "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean." The film, costarring Paul Newman, was shot on location in Arizona.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, PH. D., M. D.
Consider Lester's sexual dilemma. Subconsciously, he is really worried about the possible reduction in boudoir "cheesecake" if he marries this cultured girl. Use this case to demolish many false notions about matrimony!

CASE T-583: Lester G., aged 24, has a marriage problem. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I have a good position with an engineering firm. "And also am in love with a wonderful woman, who has the same background and interests as I. "But she is 29, so my mother thinks that age gap is too great for happiness. "As both a psychiatrist and practical psychologist, what is your opinion?"

KISSES ARE AGELESS
After you pass the age of 21, the most vital factors in making a happy marriage are compatibility and mutual interests.

At present the average American wives barely average 3 children per family! Vaccination, inoculation, pure water and packaged groceries have protected women till their average longevity now runs to 75 years! Meanwhile, the American male dies at about 68 years, so American women outlive their husbands by about 7 years.

As a result, it has been urged that young men routinely pick sweethearts who are several years their senior.

Then those wives will not spend as many years in lonely widowhood!

Besides, many young men who have earned their own money all throughout childhood and have thus gained a more mature outlook, will become irritated by the frivolous behavior of the usual girl of their own age.

For these socially and financially more competent young men prefer women of greater poise and business judgment.

Sometimes, too, a man who has been coddled too long by his own doting mamma, thus is "fixated" on an older type of woman and thus may crave a wife who is 10 to 20 years his senior.

"But, Dr. Crane," Lester asked, "what about our sexual compatibility after she passes the age of 40?"

This question reveals the very false but widespread notion of past generations to the effect that women lose their erotic interest at the menapausal age (40 to 50 years).

This is definitely not true! Both men and women retain their sexual nature as long as they live, even if they attain the age of 100!

So send for my medical booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg. Mellot, Indiana 47558 enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

President Trip To Moscow Has Three Main Objectives

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Act II of a Nixonian drama of superpower politics is about to begin. The drama started with the February presidential visit to Communist China. Now center stage will be occupied by the leaders of the two mightiest powers in history, each with the potential to blast the other into radioactive rubble.

Watching the polite smiles and correct protocol, the world will be acutely aware of the towering wall of mistrust built between the American and Soviet systems through 55 years.

Each side, approaching the talks, professes to espouse realism.

President Nixon said Feb. 9 in his State of the World message: "We do not, of course, expect the Soviet Union to give up its own interests. We do not expect to give up pursuing our own... What we do expect is recognition of the fact that the general improvement in our relationship transcends in importance the kind of narrow advantages which can be sought only by imperiling the cooperation between our two countries."

A month later Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, said in a major policy speech: "We approach the forthcoming Soviet-American talks from businesslike and realistic positions. We are fully aware of the importance of the state of Soviet-American relations for the life of the peoples of both countries as well as for the entire international situation."

But—Nixon: "We are confronted by ambiguous and contradictory trends; the continuing buildup of Soviet military power is one obvious source of concern. Soviet attitudes during the crisis in South Asia have dangerous implications."

Brezhnev: "In our foreign and defense policies we cannot ignore the fact that a buildup of arms is being continued in a number of the imperialist states. The new budget... in Washington provides for a considerable growth in military spending, especially on long-term programs of strategic armaments... Retaining restraint and high vigilance, the Soviet Union pursues a resolute anti-imperialist course."

These statements predated a new situation in Vietnam and a crisis atmosphere produced by a North Vietnamese offensive. That sense of crisis was intensified less than two weeks in advance of Nixon's scheduled departure for Moscow when he announced drastic military measures to interdict the flow of Soviet military supplies to the Hanoi regime. American planes began sowing mines in the waters off North Vietnam, a direct challenge to Soviet shipping. The United States sharply escalated the bombing of the North and announced an intention to cut rail lines and highways leading from the China border.

The Russians could hardly have been surprised. The President's special envoy, Henry Kissinger, had given them an advance hint of what was to come, and so had Nixon's words themselves. He had displayed anger at the massive Soviet support to North Vietnam and at Brezhnev's vows to continue it.

The U.S. actions put it squarely up to the Russians whether, in such perilous circumstances, they wanted the summit to go forward as planned. There would be inherent in such a meeting now a political risk to the Russians in accusations from Communists elsewhere that Moscow was abandoning a brother Communist regime. The final decision seems to have been up to Brezhnev.

He has done the talking in the summit exchange and that is significant. And he has full command of foreign policy. It was he who talked with Kissinger in mid-April.

As a lifelong Leninist, Brezhnev and his colleagues in the ruling Politburo are conditioned regarding the United States as the bastion of imperialism, and imperialism as the most dangerous foe of a Soviet system they insist upon calling socialism.

This suggests a Brezhnev realism of power, the sort of realism that, in Soviet eyes, required extermination by military force of liberalization movements in Hungary and Czechoslovakia. It is the realism behind the Moscow notion of limited sovereignty, called "Brezhnev Doctrine" in the West. As Pravda put it: "No one will ever be allowed to wrest a single link from the community of Socialist states."

Hanging on to what it holds, Moscow warns Washington not to approach the summit "from a position of strength." Brezhnev has good reason for wanting less tense relations with Washington, but not at the cost of backing away in any significant measure from policies which in the Moscow view have been paying off.

Pre-empting such terms as peace and justice, Soviet propaganda claims that Moscow pursues a "Leninist, peace-loving internationalist policy" aimed at creating favorable conditions in the world for building socialism and communism and insuring solidarity of "all fighters against imperialism."

While this attests to the persistence of suspicion, there is much Brezhnev wants to talk to Nixon about. He has said he wants to discuss strategic nuclear weapons, space research, pollution, trade, and cultural and scientific-technical exchanges. Nixon wants to talk about such things, too. The President also wants to discuss the weighty and dangerous issues involved in the Middle East and Southeast Asia.

The question is: Can they get anywhere?

On Vietnam, the Russians insist they will continue sending aid to the Communist side in the war. That is a matter of practical power politics. To withdraw aid or to pressure North Vietnam would alienate Communists around the world. Unless the Russians are willing to use their influence in Hanoi, nothing much in the way of progress can be expected on this issue.

In the Middle East, Moscow has been deeply involved for more than 15 years. While the Russians tend to move warily to prevent a perilous showdown with the United States.

Academic Weakness

Sometimes college professors don't think too good.

Back at the University of Vermont, a teacher by the name of Michael Parenti was hired in 1970 on a two-year contract. After the deal was made but before he took the post, he became involved in anti-Viet activities in Urbana, Ill., and was charged with assaulting a police officer. Upon hearing of this, Vermont citizens demanded that Parenti's contract be annulled. The faculty and administration successfully fought this off with an argument that the professor had not yet been tried, must be considered innocent until proved guilty, and that the contract could not be legally broken.

Later, while in his new job, Parenti organized a demonstration during which a flag was torn down from the office building of the local paper. He publicly and demonstratively refused to participate in the pledge of allegiance at a Rotary meeting. He threatened to attack a student physically for tearing down radical posters. In 1971 he was convicted of assault and battery in the Illinois case. He did not appeal and received a six months sentence that was suspended.

In spite of this behavior, the faculty and administration of the university unanimously recommended to retain him as a member. However, trustees voted 15 to 4 not to renew his contract. Following the termination, a more conservative group called University Centers for Rational Alternatives issued a newsletter titled "Measure" which editorialized on the case. After a long statement of the foregoing detail, "Measure" concluded that the qualifications of a faculty member as scholar and teacher can be best determined only by his peers and that trustees should follow the recommendation of the faculty and reinstate Professor Parenti to his post.

Now isn't that rational? First off, the professor's pals claim he shouldn't be fired UNTIL he is proved guilty. Then he is proved guilty and the same set of colleagues recommend he should be kept on EVEN THOUGH proved guilty. After that the conservative wing holds that the qualifications of a faculty member as scholar and teacher are best determined only by his peers. That's like saying the chickens at a chicken judging are exclusively qualified to award the blue ribbons. The fact is, judgment by peers is a judicial process. In an employment situation, a man is judged not by his peers, but by his superiors. When full-grown professors haven't found out who's boss, no wonder the kids are confused.

'Jiskay' Good Will

We had no high hopes for ping pong diplomacy, but the mail brings word of a by-product that affords some ground for optimism. That is jiskay diplomacy.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Shooting stars" are actually meteoroids which vaporize by the heat of friction when they pass through the earth's atmosphere and are seen as meteors. The World Almanac says. While most of them are consumed, a few fall to earth as fused metal or stone and are called meteorites. Meteoroids are thought to be fragments from comets or the asteroid belt.

The similarity between pitching horseshoes and tossing the jiskay (that is, jukse) is where the diplomacy comes in. The National Horseshoe Pitchers Association have sent a team of demonstrators to the National Jukse Championships in Kroonstad, Orange Free State. In a return treat, a squad of South Africans jukse experts will show how the skei is skied at the World Horseshoe Tournament in Greenville, Ohio, this August. We don't know whether the White House news creators will play this up as they did ping pong, but we expect more good will come from it.

Unions Need To Balance Wage Scale

By PAUL HARVEY
The jobs of American workers are threatened on a new front.

Eighteen per cent of all steel bought and used in the United States this year was produced overseas.

Our nation's industrial backbone is made of steel. It's that tough spine of steel that holds everything else together. Yet each recent year we have bought more and more steel from other countries. This year almost one-fifth of all of it!

That means that one out of five of America's steelworkers has been replaced by somebody overseas.

And there are parallels in many basic industries. Presently our nation is prosperous, riding high, setting production records, approaching full employment.

But with the slightest slump the hurt will be felt first and worst by Americans rendered jobless because so much of what we use is now imported.

Unions are mindful of this potential menace. The AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education is advising union members that much residual unemployment in the United States results from "foreign imports" and from American manufacturers moving manufacturing operations overseas.

And the committee acknowledges that one factor driving our manufacturers overseas is the higher costs of production in the United States.

The union publication does not acknowledge that higher stateside wages are largely responsible for those higher costs.

And they are, of course. Detroit does not prefer to turn out tin cars, but with our auto workers demanding two to ten times more pay per hour than Germans, Swedes, French and Japanese workers—Detroit cannot produce as much "care for the money" as those nations can.

The AFL-CIO committee is urging Congress to approve the Burke-Hartke bill which would build a tariff wall between those other nations and us to keep the U.S. market to ourselves.

Such a move, of course, would result in higher prices for American consumers.

Also, retaliation from other nations would be immediate: what foreign markets American firms do have would be shut off.

What big labor prefers to ignore is that American wages are out of line with the rest of the world. We must temper our demands for further increases until the rest of the world catches up.

If labor will allow that to happen, it will help restore balance between overseas prices and our own, it will keep our factories humming supplying the home front and the overseas appetite.

Union power is needed now on the new front. In the interests of the members, it must adapt itself to the changing need.

Tax Reform — Another Kind

Like motherhood and apple pie, tax reform is something it is hard to be "against." The very word, reform, implies that the one espousing it is recommending something better. Thus, when the candidates for the Presidency all shout in unison, "Tax reform!" we assume that each of them has a plan to lower taxes, make them more equitable, reduce Federal spending, and so on.

Such, of course, is not the case. The candidates are currently trying to appeal to the "forgotten American" — the average guy who is not on welfare, but who, on the other hand, doesn't have money to burn. To him — to me, to you — the candidates have "revealed" an astounding "fact": the reason we pay so many taxes is that some people, known as the "rich," the "super-rich" and the "bankers" don't pay enough.

H. L. Hunt Writes

COURAGEOUS JUDGE

A major cause of our society's current breakdown is the attitude and actions of the courts, which have taken it upon themselves to legislate through judicial decision. Therefore it is especially encouraging when a judge upholds the standards and values which made our country great and which are still held by millions of our citizens.

In a recent ruling, California Superior Court Judge L. Thaxton Hanson refused to release 3,500 reels of obscene films to their producers and distributors. Said Judge Hanson: "This country appears frozen to an accelerating treadmill of ever-increasing permissiveness all fostered under the guise of new-found and expanded constitutional rights. We are fast turning into a drug-and-sex oriented society. The catastrophic increase in burglaries and robberies by drug addicts to support their habit is well documented."

The almost incredible spread of pornography in our society is one of the most blatant and frightening examples of this "ever-increasing permissiveness." The courts have made it virtually impossible to curb it through legal action.

Quoting Charles Keating, the lone defender of decency on the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, the judge said: "Although proving cause-and-effect relationships on sociological matters is difficult, common sense tells us that it is ridiculous to imply that pornography has no effect...in a few short years the treadmill to which we seem affixed could dump this once great and proud nation into the junk heap of history..."

Now there's a campaign speech! I'll vote for the man who makes it in '72. But where, oh where, can he be? — The American Way Features

Slack is something the back of a fat woman ain't.

The solution, say the candidates, is to make them pay more, so the rest of us can pay less.

The solution is nothing of the sort. And sometimes it behooves us to look to the wisdom of the past to find solutions to the present. If you don't mind going way back to the pre-rock age of 1956, here are some succinct comments made by a former Commissioner of Internal Revenue who spoke over the Manion Forum radio program on June 10 of that year. The speaker was T. Coleman Andrews, and here are some of the things he said:

"The income tax is bad because it was conceived in class hatred, is an instrument of vengeance and plays right into the hands of the Communists. If employs the vicious Communist principle of taking from each according to his accumulation of the fruits of his labor and giving to others according to their needs, regardless of whether those needs are the result of indolence or lack of pride, self-respect, personal dignity or other attributes of men.

"The income tax is fulfilling the Marxist prophecy that the surest way to destroy a capitalist society is by 'steeply graduated' taxes on income and heavy levies upon the estates of people when they die.

"As matters now stand, if our children make the most of their capabilities and training, they will have to give most of it to the tax collector and so become slaves of the government. People cannot pull themselves up by their own boot straps any more because the tax collector gets the boots and the straps as well.

"The income tax is bad because it is oppressive to all and discriminates particularly against those people who prove themselves most adept at keeping the wheels of business turning and creating maximum employment and a high standard of living for their fellow man.

"I believe that a better way to raise revenue not only can be found but must be found because I am convinced that the present system is leading us right back to the very tyranny from which those who established this land of freedom, risked their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to forever free themselves."

Now there's a campaign speech! I'll vote for the man who makes it in '72. But where, oh where, can he be? — The American Way Features

Inside Washington

Seek Missile Speed Up To Catch Russian MIGs

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — A speed-up has been ordered on the production of an air-to-air missile capable of zeroing in and destroying Russia's highest-level combat planes—particularly the supersonic MIG-23 with a ceiling of 80,000 feet and a speed of around 2,000 miles an hour.

Top operating height of existing U.S. air-to-air missiles is 60,000 feet, ceiling of the F-4 Phantom jet—nearest combat plane this country now has to the MIG-23.

Significantly, Israel also is vigorously engaged in developing an ultra-high level air-to-air missile—with MIG-23 as the principal immediate target. Israel's best fighter-bomber is the F-4. Early this year, President Nixon authorized the sale of 48 more of these planes to Israel, which is now receiving them at the rate of four a month.

While the U.S. and Israel are urgently pressing the production of a new air-to-air missile, they are proceeding independently—although there is a common motivating cause.

This is gravely disturbing experience with the MIG-23 in the supercharged Middle East.

On four different occasions, MIG-23s based in Egypt and piloted by Russians deliberately violated Israeli airspace. The Soviets sped over the coastline near Haifa and over Israeli fortified positions deep in the Sinai Peninsula.

In every instance, Israeli Phantoms sought to intercept them—but were unable to do so because their air-to-air missiles couldn't reach them.

Flying at three times the speed of sound, the MIG-23s were too fast for the somewhat slower Phantoms. Also, the latter's missiles are unable to function in the thin atmosphere above 60,000 feet. The Soviet planes flew at 70,000 to 80,000 feet. For missiles to "look in" on them at those heights, special guidance and other equipment are necessary.

Four MIG-23s are known to be based in Egypt. So far, all are piloted by Russians. There is no indication that Egyptians are being trained in their use.

Most of Egypt's pilots are limited to flying MIG-15s and -17s. With a small number piloting MIG-21s. The Egyptian air force is notorious for its unusually high rate of losses in crashes due to faulty flying and accidents.

How It's Being Done
To speed up development of a new ultra-high level air-to-air missile, both the U.S. and Israel are using existing weapons as the basic missile.

There is an ironic aspect to that in the case of Israel. It is using SAM-2 anti-aircraft missiles captured from the Egyptians in the Sinai in the 1967 conflict.

Some 30 of these Soviet-made missiles were overrun by Israeli armored spearheads. The missiles and their mobile launchers were seized intact; abandoned by the Egyptians in their panicked rout. The SAM-2 and SAM-3 are the Russians' principal ground-to-air anti-aircraft weapons.

Hundreds of these AA missiles are positioned on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal, and around Cairo, Alexandria, the Aswan Dam and other major potential targets.

The U.S. air-to-air missile that is undergoing rush modification for use above 70,000 feet is around 14 feet in length, weighs upwards of 1,000 pounds and has a warhead of some 200 pounds of high explosives. Initial operational tests of the new missile are slated for late this year or early next.

In Western military terminology the MIG-23 is known as the Foxbat.

Addendum: The U.S. is also engaged in developing new reconnaissance satellite with greatly improved pictorial and other reporting capabilities. Purpose of the new device is to provide better and faster pictures from space than are now possible from camera-carrying satellites. As projected, the new monitors would position themselves quickly over any trouble spot and flash pictures back to centers in the U.S. in minutes—thus providing speedy information in critical situations. Currently, it takes several days to retrieve film from U.S. satellites, although a certain amount of fast information is obtained from television-type cameras and recording equipment.

Wasted Motion
A lot of time and breath is being wasted by the Senate in wrangling and fulminating over those "end the war" and other amendments to the State Department and U.S. Information Agency budget authorization bill.

As far as the House Foreign Affairs Committee is concerned, those provisions are dead.

They are going nowhere—regardless of what the Senate does about them.

That is being forcefully and bluntly argued by Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Subcommittee in charge of this legislation.

Tart-tongued and scrappy, the veteran legislator is making it emphatically clear that this budget authorization measure is going to be confined to just that intent and nothing else.

"The purpose of this bill," says Hays, "is to authorize appropriations for the State Department and USA. After thorough and due consideration, my subcommittee decided the State Department should be granted a budget of around $648 million, and the USA slightly more than $200 million. We recommend such a measure to the full Foreign Affairs Committee, and it was unanimously approved."

"This bill will be submitted to the full House, in the confident expectation it will be passed. The Senate, of course, has the right to vote any kind of measure it wants. But when we go to conference on this legislation, we are going to call the tune. From the very start, we are going to leave no doubt that this authorization bill will be confined solely to the budgets of the State Department and USA.

"As far as we are concerned, everything else will be extraneous and unacceptable. We are taking that position on the very proper and sound ground that everything else but the budgets of these two agencies is uncalled for and has no place in this bill. If the Senate conferees won't go along, that's up to them.

In view of the House Foreign Affairs Committee's long-abeit little known-record in making the Senate back down, it is a virtually certain bet that that is exactly what will happen again this time especially with Hays heading the House conferees.

Outspoken Professor To Head Presbyterians

DENVER (AP) — An outspoken law professor with a passion for extending Christian influence into controversial social issues took over today as head of the United Presbyterian Church.

"Before it's too late, we've got to get moving outside in this aching, messy world, ministering to it in Christ's name," said C. Willard Heckel, new moderator of the 3.1-million-member denomination.

Just before his election Tuesday night over three other candidates at the church's governing assembly, he had defended a hotly debated grant for the defense of black militant Angela Davis and denounced the Vietnam war as immoral and illegal.

"As a constitutional lawyer, I say our involvement in Vietnam is lawless," he said. "As a Christian I say it's immoral. As a former military man, I also say it's stupid."

Heckel, 59 and a bachelor, for 26 years has been on the Rutgers University law school faculty. He succeeds Lois Stair, of Waukesha, Wis., the first woman to have held the church's top post.

Heckel won a majority on a first ballot. In a period of questioning from the floor before the vote, the four were asked how they stood on the church grant to the defense of Miss Davis, an avowed Communist on trial in connection with a California courthouse shootout in which four persons were killed.

Heckel said he had made on the spot inquiries into the affair, questioning California blacks and church leaders and he added: "The right to a fair trial is something fundamental to justice in this country and the church has got to stand up for it."

Lutherans To Observe Confirmation

Sunday will be a special occasion at Zion Lutheran Church with the observance of the Festival of Pentecost, the birthday of the Christian Church and Confirmation.

Two young people, Becky Snell and Jimmy Willett will be received as Communicant members of Zion Lutheran Church through the Rite of Confirmation. They will also receive Holy Communion for the first time during the Worship Service.

The Rev. M.G. Herring, pastor of Zion Lutheran, will conduct the worship service at 11 and will preach a sermon on the theme, "Growing in the Faith."

Providing the special music for the service and leading the congregation in the singing of the hymns as organist will be Mrs. M.G. Herring.

The adult instruction class continues at 4:30 p.m. Sunday. The Sunday School staff meets Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The Men's Club meets Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the parsonage for a "work night" followed by a topic-and-business meeting.

The Rev. Ralph T. Palmer's message for Sunday morning will be directed to the seniors of the church.

The choir will present the Anthem accompanied by Mrs. John Gill, organist.

The youth groups will meet at 5:30 p.m. for a snack supper. Chi Rho will go to Central Park for a picnic and initiation service.

Mormon Ward Meeting Set

The Pampa ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) will hold its annual ward conference Sunday.

Members of the Stake presidency, the district leaders, will be present for the conference which begins at 10:30 a.m. at 731 Sloan.

The conference will take the place of the regular Sunday School sessions. There will be no sacrament meeting Sunday evening.

Two other candidates the Rev. James R. Carroll, an Amarillo, Tex., pastor, and Frank L. Brown, a Casper, Wyo., lawyer, had criticized the grant. It was defended by the other nominee, the Rev. James E. Jones, a black Los Angeles pastor.

The church grant last year has since been returned by a coalition of black Presbyterians after churchwide conflict broke out about it. But it has continued to be a cause of sharp tensions.

Presbyterians To Recognize Seniors Sunday

Bill Patterson will be the guest speaker at Pampa Chapel Sunday. He will also join his wife and their singing group for special music.

Some months ago the Pattersons (she is the former Vickie Atry of Pampa) joined other musicians to form a gospel singing group styled "Vickie and the Royal Heirs." They have made concert appearances in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas including an appearance at Pampa Chapel in October.

Bill and Vickie are moving to the Houston area at the close of school this Spring where they plan to engage in a fulltime gospel singing ministry with concerts throughout the nation.

The Pattersons have been serving as directors of the Apostolic Student Center at Goodwell, Okla. while attending Panhandle State College there. She will get her degree this Spring.

Pastor Edwin Waterbury extends a welcome to all to join in the worship Sunday at Pampa Chapel, 711 E. Harvester. Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. with morning worship following. Evening worship is at 6 p.m.

Local Church Marks Greatest Growth Year

Central Baptist Church is experiencing one of the finest years of growth in its history. So far this year, the church had 178 people join the Sunday School with a net gain of more than 100 new members in Sunday School enrollment.

The church has also received 120 people into the membership by baptism and 57 by the transfer of membership.

Sunday School attendance is up on an average of 65 per Sunday over one year ago.

Sunday will bring to a conclusion the church's Spring Growth Campaign. The goal for Sunday is 609 in Sunday School and 17 new Sunday School members. During the past months as many as 70 visitors have been present in one Sunday and an average of more than 40 per Sunday. The church is expecting an even larger number of visitors Sunday.

During the morning service the high school seniors of the church will be honored. Preceding the assembly in the auditorium there will be a breakfast for them in the Fellowship Hall. Pastor Bryan Halliburton will speak to the seniors using the subject "Finding God's Plan for Your Life."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

Zion Lutheran Church

PENTECOST
MELVIN G. HERRING
Pastor

It was nothing short of scandalous. The onlookers were amazed and perplexed. Indeed, to some it was quite obvious that the disciples were intoxicated (Acts 2). This was a fine way for respectable religious leaders to behave! But the disciples could not help themselves. At that first Pentecost they had just received the Holy Spirit. And when the Spirit is allowed to move freely, the results are surprising and sometimes revolutionary.

Holy Baptism was Pentecost for each of us. We received the same Spirit of God. Have we let the Spirit move freely in us? When was the last time the world was "amazed and perplexed" at the working of the Spirit in you?—or in your congregation? Have we caused any holy scandal of late?

The Spirit of God is the life of God. He is a revolutionary and disturbing force in those who give Him free rein. St. Paul exhorts us, "Quench not the Spirit!" (1 Thes. 5:19). But you must see that that is precisely what we have done. We have tried to control and contain the Spirit in order to protect our own comfort. Who was it that said, "Woe to you when all men speak well of you?" (Luke 6:26). Perhaps we have been more concerned about what people think and say than for the power of the Spirit.

The Holy Spirit is a spiritual tornado that breaks down all the barriers and excuses that keep us from obedience to God. The Spirit is radical and restless. There can be no safety or complacency where the Spirit is let loose. He upsets our pet ideas, shatters our prejudices, and makes us righteously intolerant of all wrong, injustice, sham and half-truth. Men who live by the Spirit risk being considered naive or rather odd. God, however, calls them saints.

The Spirit gives us courage to tackle the big tasks. Through a motley crew of Palestinian peasants He established the Church. The Spirit is no less potent today. The Spirit would accomplish the great acts of God through us. He moves us to a new boldness in witnessing to others. He inspires us to a truly sacrificial offering of ourselves to God. He gives us vision to see in every man a brother in Christ.

We need the Holy Spirit to operate courageously for Christ. At Pentecost the disciples were "filled with the Holy Spirit." The Spirit comes to you in the life of the Church, in sermon, song, sacraments and the study of His word. May we be open to His coming and responsive to His moving? Then will the Church again be a "holy scandal." Then will the world look at our congregations, as it looked at the Early Church, in amazement and perplexity. They will ask, "What does this mean?" (Acts 2:12), and We will answer with St. Peter, "The Spirit of God is upon us!"

Pan Am, Texas To Play Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Pan American and Texas square off today for the right to represent Dist. 6 in the NCAA college baseball World Series at Omaha, Neb., in June.

Pan American tripped Trinity 6-1 and the Longhorns outlasted the Tigers 4-3 in 14 innings Thursday night to eliminate Trinity from the tournament.

The first game of the double-header was scheduled for 1 p.m. and the nightcap at 7:30 p.m. If the two teams split, a third game will be played Saturday in the double-elimination playoffs.

Pan American scored six runs in the ninth inning to down the Tigers in a day game.

Trinity came out scrapping in the night game but two errors in the fateful 14th did in the home town team.

Texas' Amador Tijerina walked and Mike Markl advanced him to second with a sacrifice bunt. Pitcher Mike Bacsik fielded the bunt and threw wild at first. Both runners were safe. David Chalk was safe on a grounder booted by Tiger third baseman Bill Daffin. Then Bill Berryhill hit a grounder to shortstop Ken Cmekrek, who couldn't find the handle and Tijerina scored.

Both teams scored a run in the 11th as the regulation nine innings ended with the score tied 2-2.

Pan American, which represented the district in the NCAA finals last year, knocked out Trinity ace Paul Stanley in the ninth inning. The Broncs collected seven hits in the big frame.

Lupe Salinas surrendered only four hits in gaining his 12th victory of the year against one loss. The loss snapped a 22-game Trinity victory skid.

Memphis State Gets All-Sports

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis State University Tigers have won their third consecutive Missouri Valley Conference all-sports title despite a mediocre performance in the MVC spring sports championships that ended Thursday.

The spring sports competition was held at the MSU campus.

Memphis State finished third in baseball, giving the Tigers a 66 1/2 point total in the all-sports race.

Maxwell, Two Others Tied At Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Arnold Palmer lost a wristwatch, Billy Maxwell found the fairways. And a flock of the touring pros were looking for the shortest way home.

That was the situation after one day's play in the $175,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Open Golf Classic as more than half dozen players pulled out of the first round and the diminutive Maxwell, a notoriously short-but-accurate hitter, moved into a share of the lead.

Palmer, meanwhile, became so flustered when he discovered he'd lost a $1,200 wristwatch somewhere on the course that he took a triple bogey seven and had to rally to salvage a 71 and remain in contention.

The 5-foot-6 Maxwell, who hasn't won in the last decade while courses got longer and his fellow pros stronger, missed only two fairways on the long, demanding Colonial Country Club course, and posted a three-under-par 69.

He was tied at that figure with Gibby Gilbert and Hubert Green going into Friday's second round in the chase for a $35,000 first prize about three times the amount Maxwell won all season last year.

Lee Trevino, who used a victory in this tournament a year ago as a springboard to his designation as athlete of the year, rallied strongly on the tough back nine for a 70. He was tied at that figure with former Masters champion Charles Coody.

Palmer was one of 14 tied at 71. Some of the others included Doug Sanders, Deane Beman, Dave Stockton, Don January and J.C. Snead.

Jack Nicklaus, ailing from the flu, withdrew before play started on the warm, sunny, breezy day. Another seven followed suit during the course of play on the 7,195 yard, par 72 layout that has water on nine holes and deep, deep trouble off the fairways.

Nets Lose To Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Lou Carneseca was not surprised the Indiana Pacers were able to come from 20 points down to nip his New York Nets, 100-99—just disappointed.

"If you've been coaching 20 years, you learn to expect anything," Carneseca said quietly in the Nets' dressing room after the game Thursday night.

The victory gave Indiana a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven American Basketball Association championship series. The sixth game will be nationally televised from New York Saturday.

Jim Malloy Dies

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Less than a week ago, race driver Jim Malloy said, "It doesn't take guts to drive a race car at 190-plus miles per hour. It (the car) feels absolutely stable at that speed, more so than the car I had last year which I had to push to its limits just to get in the lineup."

Now, the 36-year-old veteran is dead. He died in Methodist Hospital here Thursday, five days after suffering massive injuries in a crash at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during practice for last Sunday's qualifying session.

Malloy, the father of three, never regained consciousness.

BALTIMORE, Md. — (NEA)—It was a morning for pleasure seekers. Riva Ridge basked in it. The sun was soft. The grass looked delicious. And three men, like court attendants, were washing him down after an easy workout. Riva Ridge tossed his neck in cooling delight, swished his wet tail and all but sang in the shower.

Soon, he would indulge in brunch—a goodly munching of that scrumptious grass—and then flop off to nap. Even now, a stable boy was mucking out the bay colt's nearby stall. The job was equivalent to fluffing up a prince's pillow.

Riva Ridge is growing accustomed to royal treatment, or at least to treatment suited to the stakes champion he is.

"He could be one of the best ever," said Lucien Laurin. "Maybe one of the best since Man O'War."

Hyperbole may be excusable in this case. Laurin is the trainer of Riva Ridge, Kentucky Derby winner and candidate for the Triple Crown.

"He's so nice to work with, one in a million," said Laurin, a short, gray-haired, gentle 60-year-old Canadian. Laurin has probably seen a million, too. He has been jockey and trainer from the Depression days, when he had to win a race that afternoon to buy a piece of bread that night.

"He's got a champion's disposition," said Laurin. "He don't get ruffled. Not high-strung. Nothing bothers him. The other day a horse got loose and started galloping all over the place. He came roaring by Riva Ridge. Riva Ridge just stopped and watched, calm as you please."

"Comin' up for the Derby, I was worried. I didn't know how he'd react, what with the noise of a hundred thousand people and the playin' of 'My Old Kentucky Home'."

"Well, all them other horses was jittery. Riva Ridge was cool. You know, he finished the Derby without hardly sweating. Look there. See the imprint of his girth? That means he hardly worked himself up this morning. Same imprint was there right after the Derby."

Riva Ridge stood beside a small timbered fence, which had the names of the eight former Triple Crown winners spaced out along it. One wondered if Riva Ridge's name would be on that fence next spring.

"Unless we got some real bad luck, his name will be there," said Laurin. "We've been planning to win the Triple Crown since last Nov. 13."

On that date, Riva Ridge won his fifth stakes race, the Garden State. Shortly after, he was named two-year-old of 1971.

Laurin decided to enter him in only three races prior to the Derby. Laurin didn't want to overwork Riva Ridge and hoped he might reach his peak for the Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

There has not been a Triple Crown winner since Citation in 1948. In the last 21 years, six horses have won the first two races, then faded in the Belmont.

Laurin feels that this will not happen to Riva Ridge, with the proper amount of luck.

"The last three to have a chance," said Laurin, "were Kauai King in 1966, Majestic Prince in 1969 and Canonero II last year. But none of 'em was too fit when they went into the Belmont. And maybe the Belmont's the most gruelling. It's a longer race, with wider turns than either Churchill Downs or Pimlico. And the horses ain't too used to it."

"But Belmont is Riva Ridge's home. He loves it there."

A racing writer who overheard this said later, "When Lucien says a horse is going to win, you listen."

The writer told a story about a Kentucky horse trader named John "Trader" Clark who brought a good but rather broken-down horse to Laurin some 15 years ago. "See what you can do with him," Clark told Laurin.

One year later, Laurin called Clark and said, "I'm racing him today. First time out. Bet him to win." Clark was surprised. Bet on a broken-down horse who hasn't raced in a year?

"What happened, after the race," said the racing writer, "was that Clark had to carry his money home in shopping bags."

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

32—Take More Club

Talking about Sam Snead's amazing prowess at age 60, he owes a lot of it to down-home smartness. People think Sam hopped out of a crib and started slugging, a golf ball 260 yards without having to give it a thought, but for all his natural ability he's a very canny fellow.

I have never seen Sam try to overpower a golf shot. I wish I could say the same for myself and the rest of us.

Sam is a master of the halfshot and the three-quarter shot. He always takes a little more club than he needs and concentrates on making a smooth swing, letting the club carry the workload. He says he likes his swing to feel oily.

Instead of hitting a 5-iron approach shot hard, he'll take a 4-iron and swing without forcing anything. The results are usually better with the longer club.

After all, no strokes are assessed for club selection. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Follett 15, Quail 7

Follett exploded for seven runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to beat Quail 15-7 in bi-district baseball action here yesterday afternoon.

Steve Becker, Follett's pitcher, and Joe Bob Baker went three for four at the plate for the victors. Barton had two hits in three trips to the plate to lead Quail's effort.

The game was the last of the season for the two teams, as class B competition ends at the bi-district level.

News Briefs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A dinner party for 1,800 guests, including 200 visiting Japanese industrialists, was staged in a cavern 140 feet underground north of the Missouri River. The host Wednesday night was the Great Midwest Corp., which operates a storage business in the former limestone quarry. Morgan Maxfield, president of Great Midwest, said the purpose of the party was to impress the Japanese with the significance of the 8.5 million square feet of underground storage space.

BRIDGEVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A 19-year-old youth from this community outside Pittsburgh has been bitten by a rabid cat, triggering a quarantine on all pets in the community. The county health department said it was the first time a cat was found to have rabies in the county. Medical authorities said the disease affects dogs, foxes, bats and skunks but is extremely rare in cats.

There was no estimate of the number of pets kept in Bridgeville, which has a population of 7,000. SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It may be back to the old hitching post in this ocean-side community if Police Chief Jack Henderson has his way. The reason is bikes, not horses. "I was looking at our larceny reports the other day," Henderson said, "and it suddenly dawned on me how to cut our bicycle theft rate by 85 percent. It's like an old hitching post," he said. "You could lock the bike to it so the only way you could steal it would be to break the wheel off."

WEST UNION, Ohio (AP) — An internal revenue service employe says an Adams County woman pulled a shotgun on him when he asked her questions about delinquent income taxes. Authorities disclosed Wednesday that Ruby Kitchen has been charged with threatening to shoot an IRS employe, James Stewart. The charge carries a maximum penalty of three years in jail and a $5,000 fine. Neither the woman nor IRS officials could be reached for comment.

Profile Of An Accused Skyjacker

He says, however, "I'm not as shocked as some people would be that he got involved in something. He had personal problems in his family. He was under a lot of strain. But I am surprised that he hijacked a plane."

Matthews describes McCoy as a "sensitive man, not boisterous at all — he just didn't rock many boats."

"His condition was one of frustration," he continues. "If you were to visit him in jail as I've done, you would find that he's almost overwhelmed with remorse. He is concerned about the effect of his action on the church."

"He certainly was a good member of the church in the past. I think he believes in its tenets most sincerely. I think he was unsuccessful in implementing what he believed until the frustrations built up. The church is very demanding philosophically. He was going to have to adjust his philosophy, because of his personal problems, and that was his dilemma."

In prison, Richard McCoy is upset because he is not permitted to wear the religious undergarment of the ordained Mormon.

In Provo, where Richard McCoy never made any waves as a personality, many people are upset at the overt identification of McCoy by religion. This is a tight Mormon city. They resent a California newspaper headline which blared, "Mormon Sunday School Teacher Arrested for Hijacking."

And they are embarrassed. The latest local gag passed around is that there are three kinds of Mormons now — straight Mormons, "jack" Mormons (irreligious) and "hi-jack" Mormons.

Yet there is no personal condemnation of McCoy — only chagrin and, after all these days, continued amazement.

Brent Reynolds lives around the corner from the McCoy house. He is a physical therapist at the Utah State Hospital. He is two years older than Richard McCoy.

"He's the kind of guy you feel comfortable being around," says Brent, who works in a psychiatric facility. "I was never worried about having him around. We've had him over to dinner and taken care of his kids once or twice. We got to know each other through the church."

"I couldn't believe it could be Richard when I heard the six o'clock news. He's really a level-headed guy. I feel real sorry for him because I see a man who has basically thrown his life away. I think people should know that in my mind he's a fine fellow."

Ron Gloschen is the manager of a motel on west Center street, a veteran of four years in the Air Force, married with one child and a full-time student at BYU as well. He was in one of McCoy's classes in law enforcement.

"I never thought of him as a shy person," says Ron. "He didn't socialize with his classmates, but you can knock off almost 50 per cent in being a good Latter Day Saint because he was married and not interested in knowing the girls in his class. I know he had a lot of respect for his wife."

"I think he's very level headed. He was very conservative in manner, dress and speech. I thought about inviting him to dinner because we had a lot in common. But I never did. We were both very busy."

In the months before the hijacking, Richard McCoy maintained a frenetic pace of activity.

As a student at Brigham Young University, hoping to graduate in June, he carried 20½ hours of class work, an overload for which he got special permission from his college dean and faculty advisor because he was a B-plus student.

His academic program comprised the following: Law Enforcement 301, criminal procedure and evidence; Physics 110, development of scientific thought; Political Science 330, introduction to public administration; Sociology 362, juvenile delinquency; Sociology 210, racial and minority groups; Sociology 405, social systems analysis; Political Science 311, state and local government politics.

He also took a special eight-week course to learn to ski in the beautiful mountains above Provo (Robert Redford's Sundance resort is only 20 minutes away). Weekends, whenever he could afford it, he rushed up to Sandy, close to Salt Lake City, where he belonged to a free-form sky-diving club. That is, when he wasn't flying a helicopter on National Guard duty.

It was a hectic schedule for any man, especially one with a family.

"It appears to me," says Matthews, "that all this activity he undertook was a challenge. As the pressures built up on him, he refused to let himself think about the consequences of anything he might do."

This ability to shut out an active conscience even helped him in the execution of the hijack. It was done coolly and deliberately. The stewardess of the United Airlines plane, Diane Surdam, said, "He seemed calm, methodical in everything he did. He sure knew what he was doing."

The ultimate riddle of Richard McCoy is motivation.

Why? It's still a favorite speculative question among those who knew him.

There was no pattern of irrational conduct before this April 9 caper. He had never committed a criminal act. Nowhere in Provo does one hear a critical word about his personal behavior. He was an unobtrusive young man of average height (5-8), well-mannered—quiet, sometimes aloof, often preoccupied.

He had a distinguished war record. His only obvious physical flaw was a hearing problem. He had undergone ear-drum surgery in Tokyo five years ago because of a fungus infection picked up in Vietnam.

He was devoutly dedicated to his religion and his family. He has confided that he should probably be excommunicated to divorce the church from the stigma of his act.

He was middle America personified.

He had the pressures of all people his age. Two young children, career anxieties. He collected $240 monthly under the GI bill, was paid for his National Guard duty, and his wife worked.

"I don't think he was interested in the money," says Matthews, not oblivious to the fact half a million dollars is quite a haul. McCoy never made a real attempt to stash it. What happened to the missing $30? No one knows. Maybe the bank miscounted in providing the ransom.

"I've not talked to Richard about it," says his puzzled, distraught mother, Myrtle H. McCoy, "and I have no interest in talking to him about it."

"This is not Richard McCoy." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Banks Do Their Bit for Art

By CARLTON SMITH
Do you have a thin budget and a worthy project that your group is trying to promote in an area broadly construed as "the arts"?

Untapped and probably unsuspected sources exist in most communities through a nationwide "Banker to the Arts" program that's getting banks, large and small, involved in sponsorship of local projects ranging from symphony concerts on Indian reservations to scholarships for kite-flyers.

Are you looking for ways to promote a civic project, such as a campaign to preserve historical landmarks? Talk to the officers of a local bank about an architectural exhibit tied in to the campaign.

Camera club or a school wanting maximum exposure for a photographic competition? Talk to a local bank about a lobby exhibit.

Neighborhood association scheming to turn an ugly building facade into a work of art? "Wall paintings," commissioned by a number of banks across the country, have become community cultural assets. One by Alan D'Arcangelo, in New York City, is an art work of museum quality.

Most of the projects that get support from the "Banker to the Arts" program are in the visual arts area. A Council Bluffs, Iowa, bank first lent space in its garage for a school art fair for kindergartners to 12th graders. From a beginning handful of exhibitors, it's grown to be a big annual event involving 39 public and parochial schools and some 3,000 contestants.

An Atlanta bank provided funds and manpower for a "Georgia Art Bus" that takes the work of contemporary artists into culturally impoverished rural areas. The "Downtown Toledo Art Show," exhibiting the work of area artists and high school students, is held in a bank lobby—and the same bank lent a hand to the local Confederation of Black Artists in organizing the community's first black art show.

But the program is by no means restricted to the visual arts or Art with a capital A. A Phoenix bank includes, in its broad program of arts support, live symphonic music on a Navajo reservation and other communities where live symphonies have never been seen or heard. An Emporia, Kan., bank sponsored the Citizens Chamber Orchestra. A Boston bank, besides maintaining a full-fledged art gallery, sponsors a work shop for original kite design and a scholarship for the flyer of the highest kite in the annual kite festival.

"Support for the arts" includes, also, helping local cultural organizations to establish their necessary accounting procedures and record-keeping and the assistance of bank legal staffs in establishing nonprofit status and giving tax advice.

Some 14,000 banks across the country received earlier this year "how to" kits, telling how to get involved in community projects such as the above. Behind the program are the two largest banking trade associations, the Federation of Full Service Banks and the American Bankers Association.

If you go looking for a helping hand and your own local bank officers haven't yet, tell them to write Banking Services America, P.O. Box 7776, Philadelphia, Pa. 19101.
