Economic index falls first time in August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government index designed to anticipate future economic trends fell during August for the first time since the current recovery began, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators fell 1.5 per cent in August, due primarily to a higher layoff rate in manufacturing and reduced business spending.

The drop is the first since February, 1975, and the largest since the 3.4 per cent decline a month before that.

A decline in the index is generally a signal of slower growth in the economy. The initial report is subject to substantial revision, so that the initial figures are not necessarily solid. Most economists consider a three-month drop or increase in the index to be necessary before they consider a change in direction for the economy is indicated.

But the index drop does come after three consecutive months of a rising unemployment rate despite growing employment and in the midst of what administration economists consider a lull in economic growth.

Administration economists have been contending that the lull is only temporary.

The August decline follows a five-tenths of 1 per cent advance in July and leaves the index, which is at 108 per cent of its 1967 average, precisely where it was in May.

The leading indicator index is composed of a dozen individual economic statistics selected for their position in the forefront of economic trends. Of the 11 statistics available in time for computation in the August index, eight pointed downward.

The layoff rate in manufacturing jumped to 1.5 per cent in August after registering a 1.1 per cent rate in July. The volume of contracts and orders for factories and facilities slipped 12.5 per cent after marking a 1.8 per cent advance the previous month.

Other factors contributing to the August decline were a shorter average work week for factory workers, a slower growth in assets held by consumers and business, a slower formation of new businesses, lower stock prices, a smaller amount of money in circulation after adjustment for inflation and a smaller volume of new orders received by manufacturers of consumer products and their suppliers.

Upward influences in the index were higher prices for key wholesale materials.

McCarthy may be on Texas ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texans who don't like the choice of President Gerald Ford or Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter apparently will have a third name to consider on the presidential ballot — former U.S. Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell made the announcement Monday that Texas Secretary of State Mark White place McCarthy's name on the ballot in Texas as an independent candidate for president.

McCarthy had asked Powell Friday to stay an order of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, which had upheld a three-judge federal court panel at Austin in denying him a place on the Texas ballot this year.

Both the Texas panel and the 5th circuit had agreed with the former Minnesota senator's challenge of an Texas election code provision that forbids independent candidates for president. But the jurists said there was not enough time to get on the ballot by petition this year.

Powell said Monday he conferred with other justices and obtained agreement by a majority of them to grant McCarthy's application for the stay order. Powell said he will make his reasoning. Fort Worth lawyer Don Gladden, who has represented McCarthy in his efforts to get on the ballot in Texas, said the decision renews his faith in the American justice system.

The ruling thrills me to death, I am elated," Gladden said. "It is pleasing that the issue can be, and has been, settled in less than one month. We have gone to the U.S. Supreme Court twice and to the 5th Circuit Court once in a matter of about three weeks. I think that is a perfect example of the American legal system at its finest."

Garbage may be useful

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Before you throw those egg shells, coffee grounds and orange peels in the trash can, stop and think about this.

The House of Representatives is willing to spend $282.5 million for a national effort to find something useful that can be made from garbage like that.

The House has passed a bill that would supply the money for research aimed at finding ways to use wastes that now burden most municipal governments. The bill now needs Senate approval.

Most Americans haven't given much thought to trash, except to notice if it hasn't been picked up. And the garbage man has just been some guy who runs over your trash can twice a week.

Still, a very few people already have found a variety of highly useful, although not always esthetic, uses for their garbage.

For instance, in Richmond, Va., houses were made from recycled trash several years ago, but potential homebuyers were somewhat wary about living in something made of compressed things somebody else had thrown away. And newspapers not long ago told of a man who built a house out of his collection of beer bottles.

Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., who managed the garbage bill in the House, said one goal would be finding ways to use garbage as a source of fuel after proper processing and treatment.

Consider this: The Federal Energy Administration said Monday the nation's dependence on foreign oil is still increasing, with imports in the first six months of the year up by 16.7 per cent.

Some energy experts say Americans produce in garbage each year a potential energy source equivalent to 290 million barrels of low sulphur fuel oil or 5 per cent of current domestic oil consumption. And they say total municipal refuse collection could generate 6 per cent of the nation's total annual electric production.

But with $282.5 million at stake there should be lots of other classy suggestions about what to do with all those empty milk cartons, gum wrappers and cigarette butts that litter the homestead.

For instance — How about a new automobile made from gnawed chicken bones that runs on gas made from carrot tops, potato eyes and radish roots.

—Or fake eyelashes made from all that spinach you have to scrape off the kids' plates.

—Maybe cement made from coffee grounds, stale bread crumbs and fruit pits. America could have an interstate highway system that smells like a prune Danish.

—Or how about wearing the latest in double-knit suits woven from last night's spaghetti dinner.

Cars, clothes, highways and eyelashes made from garbage would be cheap, but they also would have some obvious drawbacks — a certain air about them, you might say.

City passes utility rate hike

By TEX DEWESE
Pampa News Staff

City commissioners conducted more than $3 million worth of city business in 30 minutes today and put the final touches on four pieces of legislation that will yield nearly $100,000 in increased fees for municipal utility services.

It was one of the shortest meetings of the city council in the last couple of years, made possible by waived final readings of budget and tax rate ordinances plus four ordinances hiking rates six per cent on water, sanitary sewer, trash and garbage collection for both residential and commercial customers.

Pampa's operating budget for fiscal 1976-77, totaling $3,236,000, was adopted and will become effective Friday. It is a 6.9 per cent increase, or $207,000 more than the $3,031,000 budget for the current year ending Friday.

An ordinance setting the tax rate at $1.95 per $100 of assessed property valuation also was given final approval. The tax rate is the same as the current year. Of that $1.95 rate, 77 cents goes for retirement of bonds.

Hikes in the three city utility rates amount to 7 per cent in all categories except the $4.50 minimum charge for the first 3,000 gallons of water used.

Prior to opening of the council meeting a public hearing was conducted on the proposed removal of 11 abandoned buildings.

When no one appeared to protest the action, commissioners voted to authorize the tearing down of dilapidated structures at 729 Banks, 1622 Alcock, 868 S. Faulkner, 1108 W. Wilks, 945 S. Wilcox, 807 Scott, 1000 and 837 Denver, 829 Gordon and 909 and 815 Campbell.

Approval was given to the Dorchester Gas Producing Co., Skellytown, for renewal of a one-year option extending its water service contract with the city.

An ordinance recognizing licenses from other cities permitting electricians to perform electrical work in Pampa was approved on final reading.

The city's compensation plan, now in operation for its third year, was re-adopted for the new fiscal year.

Proposed salary changes, including the 6 per cent blanket increase for city employees, was given unanimous approval.

Jack Anderson sues Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newspaper columnist Jack Anderson, claiming he once was almost the target of a Watergate murder plot, is seeking $22 million in damages from former President Richard M. Nixon and 19 subordinates.

Anderson filed suit Monday, accusing Nixon and his aides of conducting a five-year campaign to destroy Anderson's credibility and take away his First Amendment rights as a newsman.

Lawyers for Anderson said the suit is unique because they said that never before has a reporter sought damages in federal court on grounds that his First Amendment rights had been violated.

The civil suit, filed in U.S. District Court, cites 17 separate allegations of harassment, investigation or surveillance by the CIA or the White House investigative unit known as the Plumbers.

It said the campaign included a tentative plan by Watergate figures G. Gordon Liddy and A. Howard Hunt to murder Anderson with an exotic poison. It also claimed that CIA agents followed the columnist, his wife and children seven days a week for several months in 1972.

At a news conference, Anderson said any proceeds from the suit would go for the benefit of other reporters' First Amendment rights.

Of the alleged campaign against him, Anderson said, "This is probably the first time in the history of the United States there has been such a concentrated effort to destroy a single newsman."

Most of the allegations contained in the suit had been previously reported. Anderson released documents which he said demonstrated the direct role of the CIA in attempting to keep track of his activities.

The suit said Nixon senior aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman assigned high priority to ferreting out Anderson's news sources and destroying his credibility.

Others named as defendants include Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, former CIA director Richard Helms, former White House aide Charles W. Colson, former FBI Director L. Patrick Gray and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Besides the $22 million, Anderson also seeks damages for each day his telephone was illegally wiretapped, as the suit alleges.

The suit, cosponsored by the Fund for Constitutional Government, also asks that the government be enjoined from carrying on a similar campaign in the future.

Lefors bites back

The Lefors school yard may not be going to the dogs but the dogs are going to the school.

Mayor L.R. Cain today declared that any dogs found on the school grounds beginning today would be caught and destroyed.

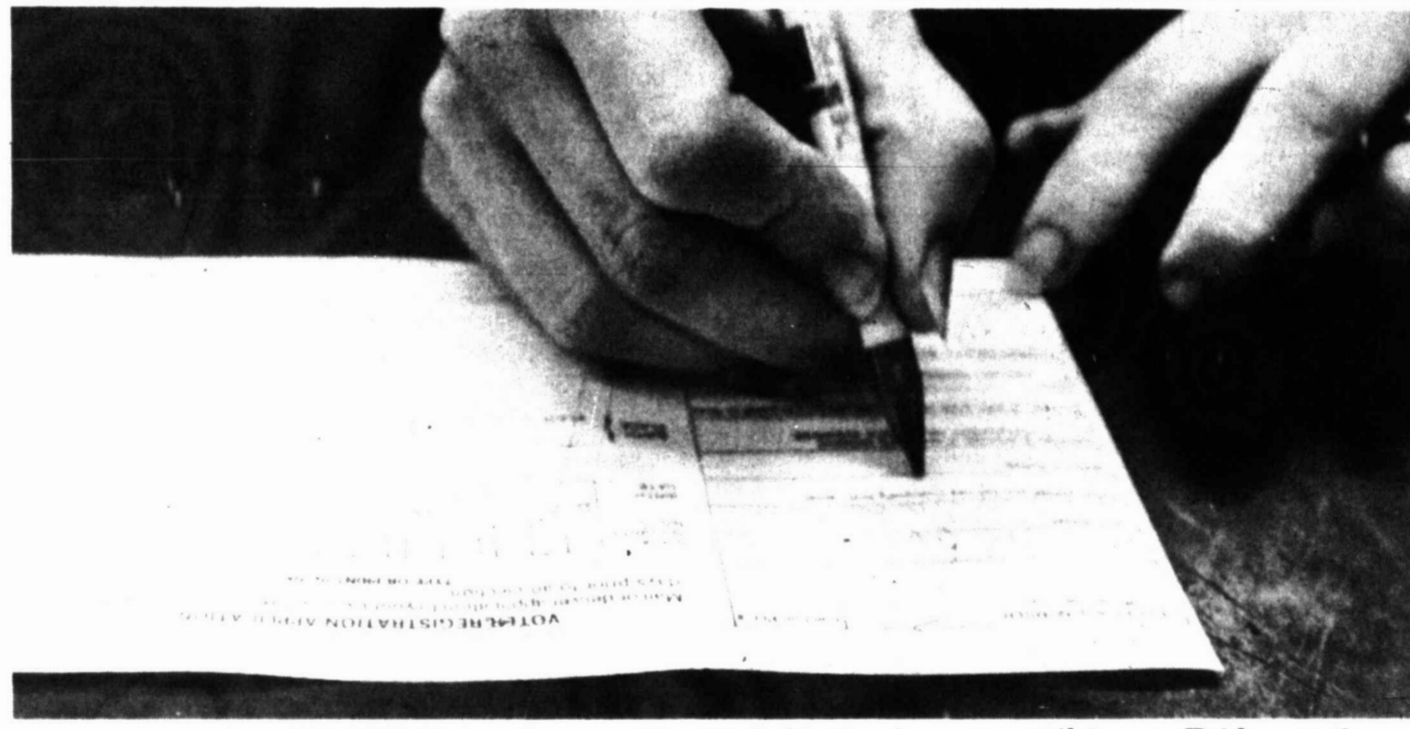

"They are creating a nuisance and danger to the kids and teachers," Yvonne Pittman, city secretary, reported. "We don't want to destroy pets but we cannot have our students hurt."

She said she thought two students have been nipped.

The declaration was requested by the school, Mrs. Pittman said. Since Lefors has no dog pound, school officials and the Lefors constable will be in charge of getting rid of the animals.

Lefors has a leash law.

Voter registration for the November presidential election is open until 5 p.m. Friday at the tax office in the Gray County Court House. (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

Voter deadline Friday

Persons who wish to vote in the Nov. 2 election have until Friday to register, according to Jack Back, Gray County tax collector and assessor.

"If forms are properly filled out they can be mailed in," Back said, "but we have been getting some in that are not properly filled out and we don't have time to contact those who mailed them."

Voter registration may be accomplished and forms acquired at the county tax office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays with the exception of the noon hour when county offices are closed.

To qualify for voting in the upcoming election, one must be 18 years of age and must have lived in Gray County for 30 days prior to Nov. 2.

Wanda Carter, county clerk, said that persons who will become 18 years of age or who will have lived in the county for 30 days after Friday's deadline for registering but before Nov. 2 may register.

"They simply mark the effective date on the registration certificate," Mrs. Carter said. "When registering, voters are not required to declare party affiliation.

Mrs. Carter said that a change in laws "in the last couple of years" allows prisoners in the county jail to register and vote if they have not been convicted of a felony.

"They simply need to send in a request by the sheriff or by mail," she said. "But they don't get out of jail to go vote, they must vote absentee."

Sunny, warmer weather moves back into the area today and Wednesday after the mercury dropped to 37 degrees Monday night. High today will be 62 degrees and low tonight is forecast at 40 degrees. High Wednesday will be 72 degrees.

"Democracy in the United States will last until those in power learn that they can perpetuate themselves through taxation."

Ford plans parade of foreign dignitaries

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to do some scene-setting for his second televised debate with Jimmy Carter, by conferring at the White House with a procession of visiting foreign ministers.

Ford's next debate with Carter, in San Francisco on Oct. 6, will deal exclusively with foreign policy and national security issues. Between now and then, the White House will march a variety of foreign dignitaries into the Oval Office to show Ford dealing with world affairs.

Hans-Dietrich Genscher, foreign minister of West Germany, was to start the parade to the Oval Office today.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Italy and other unspecified nations would follow Genscher.

To help underscore his claim of on-the-job experience, Ford met with Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress at the White House today to discuss efforts to promote racial peace in southern Africa.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who returned from Africa last week after spearheading the attempted negotiations, briefed the lawmakers and, at a subsequent meeting, the full Cabinet.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said Kissinger "as a whole, gave an optimistic report on the progress being made. The plan is still in the making — in the negotiations."

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., described the secretary as "cautiously optimistic" but added that Kissinger had mentioned there were risks.

Ford also took the occasion to promise the congressional leaders that he will let them know by Wednesday whether he will veto a $3.5 billion appropriations bill to finance a public works job program.

The President vetoed a similar measure previously, and the leadership had asked him to take action on the new bill in time for an over-ride vote before Congress adjourns, possibly this weekend.

Nessen said the foreign ministers who will confer with Ford will be in the United States in connection with the annual session of the United Nations General Assembly. Presidents traditionally hold meetings of this sort each autumn.

During his San Francisco encounter with Carter, Ford intends to claim that he is experienced in global diplomacy and has conducted a successful foreign policy, whereas his Democratic opponent never has dealt with representatives of foreign nations in any official capacity other than as governor of Georgia.

It has been Ford's strategy to alternate avowedly political activities, such as his campaign swing through the Deep South over the weekend, with attention-getting events that serve to show him dealing with the nation's business as the incumbent president.

Ford returned Monday night from three days campaigning in Carter's native South, visiting Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

Now he plans to stay in the White House until Oct. 4, when he leaves for an extensive Western tour that includes the San Francisco debate.

thom marshall's Forum and against 'em

Many department stores require, as a condition of employment, that employees take periodic polygraph tests to assure employers that losses from such shenanigans as shoplifting by the workers are kept minimal.

Since there is so much more money involved in administering the $3.6 million annual budget for Gray County's two hospitals, it would seem much more likely that a practical periodic air-clearing process like a lie-detector test or a dose of truth serum would be required.

And if it is a good idea for the administrator, it would be a good idea for the hospital board members too, headed by Fred Neslage, president. And for all other elected or appointed officials.

Wouldn't it be something if such a practice of insuring honesty in government were to originate right here in Pampa and voters and taxpayers all over the country learned of it. Talk about cleaning up the mess that government at all levels has become.

If a prescription for truth serum or a session in the polygraph seat had been part of the periodic Presidential physical, the entire nation likely would have been spared much of the expense, suspense, and heartache that went along with the long, drawn-out Watergate muddle.

Don't be writing to your Congressman about it. Not yet, anyway. It wouldn't be fair for us to ask them to start telling the truth on a national level until we demand it of our local public officials.

Of course the argument to be expected from such office holders would be that to submit to such tests would be a violation of one or another of their legally guaranteed rights. Probably, it would have been pretty shortsighted of the lawmakers — uh, lawmakers — not to have protected their right to fib just as soon as they learned of the developments of truth serum and polygraph tests.

I wonder if they have any sodium pentothol out in Highland General Hospital's apothecary supply room. If so, or if they could lay in a batch of it, couldn't that clear up a bunch of the current confusion out there. Depending, of course, upon who all took shots of the stuff and who was on hand to do the quizzing.

It could provide a solution to the dispute over the fitness of the administrator to continue his reign of the county hospitals. I'm not saying that anyone in particular actually is story telling. My goodness and heavens to Betsy. Truth serum and polygraph tests would let us know who is telling the truth as well as who isn't.

I certainly hope that no reader of this infers that I am indicating I believe a possibility might exist that he would ever utter anything but the truth — especially where something like a hospital is concerned.

On the other hand, if the shoe fits...

Slipstick slides out

You might call it the "Case of the Vanishing Slide Rule," but there is no mystery to what has happened to the instrument that once was as necessary to mathematicians and engineers as a knowledge of formulas and theorems.

The ubiquitous electronic calculator has cut sales of slide rules to 20 per cent of what they were 10 years ago. The electronic variety, many of which are called "slide rule calculators," are not only simpler to use but are frequently faster, more accurate and cheaper than the old-fashioned slipstick.

Some manufacturers of slide rules have stopped making them entirely. Others are hanging on only by virtue of the fact that some schools still teach their students to use slide rules, and there remains a market for simple rules costing under $2.

But they quit teaching usage in the schools, says one executive, who says goodbye to the whole business.

If you have a slide rule, though, don't throw it away. Like so many other things that have succumbed to the march of progress, it will probably be a collector's item some day.

Scandalous, indeed

Scandal continues to plague the federally financed "war on poverty." The New York Daily News reported last week that a Brooklyn civic leader became head of a $2.5-million anti-poverty program while awaiting trial as a heroin pusher and continued drawing his $19,950-a year salary even after he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to prison. The convicted pusher, Robert J. Storey, remained on the poverty payroll until nine days before he was sent off to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

Your Birthday

Sept. 29, 1976

This year you may become involved in an enterprise you previously felt was beyond your scope. It isn't. There's a good chance of success.

Water Consumption
A total of 3,170 billion gallons of water — about eight times the average daily flow of the Mississippi River — is funneled daily through the nation's water pipes, turbines and irrigation systems to meet the needs of homes, factories, farms and power plants.

Equally stunning is that these figures are considerably higher than in 1974 — when "delinquent accounts" numbered 413,523 and totaled $697,005,000.

Beyond bare statistics the IRS report throws no light on this soaring pyramid of unpaid tax cases. Agency officials hold they are barred from doing that by law prohibiting disclosures.

Questioning did elicit the information that these accounts "range from a few dollars to a few million, although the latter are rare."

Two significant points are stressed by Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., member of the Ways and Means oversight subcommittee that studied this alarming problem:

(1) The probably principal cause for the steady increase in number and size of delinquent tax accounts; (2) what he termed "enormous rise in the size of individual delinquencies."

Minority Rule

FOR PRESIDENT Libertarians offer alternative

By WILLIAM RUSHER

NEW YORK — Back in the 1930s, '40s, and '50s, liberals who couldn't stomach whatever candidates the two major parties had endorsed for president often considered it chic to cast their vote for the perennial Socialist party candidate, Norman Thomas.

This gesture did not necessarily imply any sympathy for the tenets of socialism (though such sympathy wasn't unheard of in liberal circles), but was rather to be understood as the equivalent of voting for "None of the above."

It is one measure of how far our national mood has swung that the likeliest recipient of such protest votes this fall is not the candidate of the Socialist party, whoever he may be, but Roger Lea MacBride, the presidential nominee of the Libertarian party.

The Socialists, of course, still doggedly favor government ownership of the major means of production and distribution. MacBride and his fellow Libertarian zealots, on the other hand, are much closer to the current national temper; they want government off of everybody's back, and they carry the point to dryly logical extremes.

In its natural state, libertarianism is one of those rare earths which, mixed with other ingredients (notably Burkean traditionalism), comprise the basis ore of philosophical conservatism. Much ink and paper are devoted every year to arguments over the ideal mix, with most conservatives favoring a generous dollop of both libertarianism and traditionalism; tradition and law, for experience has shown these to be necessary, but otherwise as much freedom as possible.

At the extremes are Brent Bozell and his late publication "Triumph," for whom the basic purpose of government is quite simply to enforce the decrees of the Christian God, and the Libertarian party whose purpose is to get government out of the individual's hair once and for all.

The latter proposal turns out, on closer inspection, to have all sorts of subdivisional applications, one or more of which will fetch just about everybody. The crabbed old reactionary, huddled arthritically in his club chair, will be overjoyed to learn that the Libertarian party is all for laissez-faire: it would abolish the Federal Reserve System, define the dollars as simply the value of a given weight of gold, abolish "confiscatory taxes," and replace all government regulation of business with the "invisible hand" of the free market. The old fellow may be just a mite unsettled, though, when he learns that his grandchildren are equally attracted by the Libertarian party's stout call for the legalization of marijuana (and the apparently all other drugs, including heroin), the repeal of all laws against sexual acts between consenting persons, and the total abolition of the CIA.

By now you may have begun to suspect that what the Libertarian party is really embarked on is basically a pedagogical exercise — and you would be right. In a society all but crippled by the costly, incompetent intrusions of Big Government into almost every area of our lives, it is eminently worth while to have somebody saying — loudly, and as a concrete part of the political process — that this nonsense has got to stop.

At the same time, realism imposes serious limitations on how much pure libertarianism anybody can sniff with safety. Most people would oppose — and in my opinion rightly oppose — the unrestricted sale of heroin, for example. In a world that contains the Soviet Union, there is surely a good deal to be said for at least the intelligence-gathering function of the CIA. And, powerful as this country is, we are certainly better off for having husky allies under the NATO Treaty (which the Libertarian party would abrogate).

Cranky and particularistic as they may be, however, I am glad that MacBride and his Libertarians are going to be on the ballot in 30 or 40 states this November. Plenty of Americans see precious little reason to vote for either Ford or Carter — let alone Maddox or Anderson, or that leftover sour grape from 1968, Eugene McCarthy. If such people cannot bear to leave the presidential line blank, they at least needn't vote this year for the shade of Norman Thomas. Instead of casting their ballot for more and bigger government, they can vote for MacBride and practically no government at all.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Banking Committee chairman, is prodding the IRS for an analysis of the disturbing increase in uncollected accounts — but so far without results.

He has written a sharp letter on this and it remains to be seen what happens.

The Wisconsin legislator, who in addition to being chairman of the Banking Committee is also a ranking member of the even more powerful Appropriations Committee and the Joint Economic Committee, has a long record as a tough investigator. If he decides to really go after the IRS, it's headed for rough going — particularly in this election year.

Washington has unknown strongman

WASHINGTON (NEA) — He's an extraordinary man. A radical. His private denunciations of government operations and the failure of the bureaucracy to bring the public into policy formulation make Jimmy Carter's campaign statements look pale by comparison.

Almost an unknown. But certainly one of the most influential men in Washington. Closer to President Ford's ear than Secretary of State Henry Kissinger or Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld. Perhaps closer, in fact, than any member of the cabinet.

I speak of James T. Lynn, Director of the White House Office of Management and the Budget.

His strength is as the strength of 10 because Mr. Ford is convinced Lynn is about the only man in government who is in a position to be objective. Everyone else, high and low, is, in some measure selling a program or defending one. In theory, at least, Lynn's OMB has no axe to grind. Mr. Ford is convinced this is true in fact as well as theory.

So he puts his trust in this man more completely than any previous President relied on his budget chief. Which by any standard is an awesome amount of power in one set of brains. Especially for a man quite definite in his views with little tendency to equivocate. He's known to look askance of those who hedge every answer or argument with "...on the other hand, maybe..."

Lynn knows about town for his jokes about himself and his influence. "If I ever get itchy feet, and think I'm able to walk on water," he says, "come out and watch me drown."

And he's known too, both today and in his old role as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, as noted at the beginning of this column, for his irreverence toward the bureaucracy and its processes.

Example: Lynn would like to see Mr. Ford require that all executive departments hold public hearings nationwide on every piece of major legislation they conjure up, then revise the proposals, radically if necessary on the basis of these hearings, before sending the lot up to Congress. This is the only sure way, he believes, that the parochial views of the Washington establishment can be modified, major bugs ironed out and reasonable bills written.

This attitude is a major change from the Lynn of seven years ago, who figuratively held his nose at public hearing.

As everyone knows who has been faced with many executive decisions, rulings on laws and interpretations of laws, and directives based on laws — as written by the bureaucracy — are frequently more as reaching than the wording of the laws themselves. Lynn would have hearings on these too, when such decisions promised to have major effects.

But that's not all. If he can manage, Lynn wants to require all department and independent agency heads to come up regularly with a short list of their top-priority measurable objectives, and the time frame in which they're convinced each could and should be accomplished — with stress on the word "measurable." He's not talking about generalities such as "to improve the quality of education" or "to increase efficiency" — common in the top ranks of the bureaucracy. These are hopes, he says, or ideals, not objectives. He wants things that can be measured.

This listing of priorities would, Lynn believes provide a frame work which could be used to weed out lesser programs, enable the government to concentrate on the most effective.

Lynn also is quietly — or maybe not so quietly — attempting to sell a policy called barnacle removal, under which an old program — one say five, 10 or 15 years or so of age — would be stripped down to essentials, looked at to see if the same objectives could be achieved in less costly, more effective ways.

Capitol comedy

Carter is practicing to speak more slowly. He's been studying films of speeches by Cal Coolidge.

Ford's speech lessons are beginning to pay off. Now his caddy understands which club to give him.

Unemployment will be the big issue in the campaign. And that's just in the White House.

Kissing expects Rhodesia will accept black majority rule. More of them than whites will be arrested.

Ford denies that he's against public jobs. He's held one for 28 years and has applied for more.

The Pentagon will need $10 billion extra for next year. It forgot to include coffee breaks.

When ground for the presidential TV debates were set each candidate was allowed one applause sign.

Most people would prefer that the news reporters were the debaters and Ford and Carter asked the questions.

Reagan thinks he'll have more time to make speeches for Ford after the election.

Rebuke the beasts that dwell among the reeds, the herd of bulls with the calves of the peoples. Trample under foot those who lust after tribute; scatter the peoples who delight in war. — Psalm 68:30.

"As never before, the essence of war is fire, famine, and pestilence. They contribute to its outbreak; they are among its weapons; they become its consequences." — Dwight D. Eisenhower, 34th U.S. President.

Dr. Silas Hong

Dr. Hong smuggles Bibles into China

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Dr. Silas Hong, a native of China who now lives in Los Angeles, was in Pampa recently soliciting support for his smuggling operation.

Dr. Hong is a leader in a large organization involved in getting Bibles into Communist countries.

"We distribute the Bibles through couriers and border workers," Hong said. "We try not to use the word 'smuggling' because of the connotation."

In 1971, the interdenominational organization, Underground Evangelism, began crossing the borders of China with loads of Bibles. Hong's special interest lies in this project.

"I left China in 1949 under the hot pursuit of the Communists," Hong said.

He was about 10 years old at the time and his father had been an officer in Nationalist government, he said.

In explaining his current work, Hong said, "I'm concerned with the spiritual satisfaction of my own people."

He does not agree with the Chinese government's claims of improved living standards and social conditions since the Cultural Revolution in that country.

"I saw a recent film of the living conditions in Shanghai," he said. "From what I saw there have not been that many changes since I was there... The average Chinese lives worse."

He said that he recently saw one report which said that the average Chinese eats meat only four times a year.

"Everything is so strictly controlled that the people have no time or energy to better themselves. They are supposed to better the government."

Hong, who said he spends more than half of his time on the road, spoke Wednesday evening at the Lamar Full Gospel Assembly.

In an interview Thursday with the News, Hong said that he doesn't expect any "drastic changes" in China's near future due to the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung. "However, I do see changes in their techniques in carrying out Maoism," he added.

Hong said that recently the Chinese government has been allowing people to read Bibles in their homes and has allowed some sizeable shipments of them to cross the borders for distribution in the country.

Speaking of other Chinese matters, Hong expressed doubt about the accuracy of casualty figures released by the Chinese government following the recent earthquakes.

He called the report of 100,000 casualties "far from realistic" and said that "according to experts in America the earthquakes could have easily reached 1,000,000 in casualties."

He said that the Communist government is using earthquake stories "trying to promote the spirit of Mao." He said one article spoke highly of a man who "ignored his own dying children's cries to save the life of an officer."

Hong said he is "presently speaking with a Christian group hoping for some relief work for China, but the government is not allowing that."

He'll enjoy demolition

McKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — Retired McKinney carpenter W.M. Jeter will enjoy demolishing his neighbor's sagging tarpaper shanty — almost as much as he enjoyed building her a new, two-bedroom frame house.

Jeter, who'll be 71 Sunday, is looking forward to helping his 73-year-old neighbor, Julia McDade, move into the new home this week from her tattered, dirt-floor hovel. The new house lacks only a few finishing touches.

Jeter built the house himself — without charging her a penny.

Saturday, the two entertained about 200 of their friends and neighbors at a housewarming in the new structure that included a simple christening ceremony by the pastor at Mrs. McDade's church.

"I'm real happy with the way it turned out," said the lively carpenter of 35 years. "God just stuck with me."

"Now all I have left to do is tear that old house down," he added. "That was part of the deal I made with the city council, but I'm gonna enjoy it."

The city will provide a bulldozer to level the shack.

The sixth-grade dropout had carried on a one-man lobbying campaign with city officials to obtain permission to build Mrs. McDade a new house.

He once appeared before the McKinney City Council — carrying rough blueprints penciled on the back of an old board.

"I'll be glad to see that old shack go," said the diminutive Mrs. McDade, who'll have carpet and indoor plumbing for the first time. "My new house sure is grand. Mr. Jeter is some neighbor."

Jeter estimated that the new house is worth about $20,000.

Jeter said he decided to build the home for his widowed neighbor last winter after he got tired of seeing Mrs. McDade tottering on an old ladder in the chilling rain, trying to plug gaping holes in her shack's roof.

Scare cuts into aerosol sales

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Scientists say more time is needed to determine the degree of danger posed by fluorocarbons in aerosols, but some consumers, legislators and manufacturers already have decided they'd rather switch than study.

Production of fluorocarbons has decreased. Sales of aerosols are down — partly because of the controversy and partly because of the recession. Two states have passed laws regulating fluorocarbons in spray cans. And a government official has recommended that consumers stop using aerosols and switch to spray pumps or roll-ons instead.

A long-awaited report by the National Academy of Sciences was released earlier this month. The group concluded that "selective regulation of fluorocarbon uses and releases is almost certain to be necessary at some time." It also said, however, that "neither the needed time nor the needed severity can be reasonably specified today."

The academy recommended further study — for a maximum of two years — before regulatory action is taken. Meanwhile, it said, aerosols that do contain fluorocarbons as propellants should be clearly labeled as such so that consumers can decide whether to use the items.

Over half of the fluorocarbons produced in the United States are used as propellants, primarily in personal grooming products such as deodorant and hair spray. The arguments have centered on these fluorocarbons — rather than the ones used as refrigerants and in manufacturing — because they are the ones that are released into the atmosphere immediately.

Scientists have said that fluorocarbons weaken the layer of ozone that surrounds the earth and is a primary shield against ultraviolet radiation which causes skin cancer.

The question still to be answered is how severely and how rapidly the ozone is being depleted.

The Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association said 1975 sales of aerosols were about 10 to 15 per cent lower than a year earlier, although Gus Fromuth, associate director of the group, said part of the drop was due to the recession. "People were not buying discretionary products," he said.

Some manufacturers of grooming products have been pushing other finger-driven pump sprays and roll-ons as cheaper, nonaerosol alternatives. The market research firm of Towne-Oller said a study showed that nonaerosols had a 23.5 per cent share of the women's hair spray market in dollar terms in the last quarter of 1975.

House urges 'back to basics'

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House Public Education Committee said Monday the 1977 legislature should put a stop to "social promotions" of school children who fail their basic subjects.

But Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said this sometimes would punish children for their teachers' failure to teach competently.

The recommendation originated with San Antonio Rep. Al Brown's subcommittee on goals.

Brown's group proposed a "back to basics" program of reading, writing and arithmetic in grades 1-5, with a child required to show competence in them before being promoted each year.

"We just want to be sure Johnny can read," Brown said.

"The whole focus of the goals proposal is aimed at punishing the child... Isn't there something in here about whether a teacher is unduly socially promoting?" Mrs. Delco said.

Brown said teachers who testified before his subcommittee said they "socially promoted" pupils under pressure from principals and parents "who raised hell" over the prospect of holding their children back.

The committee refused to accept with Mrs. Delco's recommendation of a $250,000 pilot program in nine school districts to keep pregnant teen-agers in school and develop a curriculum in child care.

She said three state agencies are involved in programs for unwed mothers, and their efforts should be coordinated.

Several committee members said they didn't see the problem and one suggested that unwed teen-age mothers should in some way be punished.

Mrs. Delco won an 8-4 vote to allow her subcommittee on special populations to continue monitoring the impact of busing on extracurricular activities. She said 28 school districts are now under busing orders from federal court.

An estimated 40,000 died in a Chilean earthquake on Jan. 24, 1939.

Board wants budget cut

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Insurance Board did the unusual Monday and said its budget should be cut next year.

It said it could manage nicely with a 2 per cent reduction and still give its employees a 6.8 per cent increase.

Board chairman Joe Christie told examiners for the Legislative Budget Board and the governor's office the agency needs $13 million in fiscal 1978 and $13.14 million the following year. This year's appropriation is $13.24 million.

Christie said the board has followed through on recommendations of a management consulting firm and was able to reduce the number of employees by 13 per cent.

And that happened despite a large number of new laws passed in 1975 that required greater efforts by the agency, he said. These included minimum standards for health insurance policies, regulation of medical malpractice insurance, prepaid legal service coverage and the Health Maintenance Organization Act.

Christie said the legislature will need to provide more money if it adds any new programs next year.

"We don't have that fat in this budget, and the difference between us and the other agencies is we can prove it," he said.

The board's accomplishments under the existing budget include creation of a centralized file on consumer complaints. Christie said, adding that it is a "good early warning procedure."

"By seeing a company suddenly the subject of a number of complaints tells us that it might be in trouble since the first thing a company does when it is in financial difficulty is stop paying its claims," he said.

Ford, Carter both return home

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
Both Jimmy Carter and President Ford are back at their home bases, with Ford resuming the role of White House incumbent and Carter re-evaluating campaign strategy.

The break in campaigning for Carter had long been planned for some time. Aides had long said the Democratic presidential nominee was planning to take some time off near the end of September to decide how he could best spend his time for the remainder of the campaign.

foreign policy and national security, and Ford's plans call for holding numerous meetings with the foreign leaders to portray him as working on world affairs.

Africa. Ford returned Monday night from three days of campaigning in the South, where he toured Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

But Carter campaign director Hamilton Jordan leaped on the Ford speech immediately. "That is a strange promise from a man who has been president for more than 700 days already. But perhaps it is a necessary one, since the record of that 700 days shows serious neglect of the crime problem," Jordan said.

Acts may anger Arabia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is concerned that two proposals in Congress may antagonize Saudi Arabia, an American ally in the Middle East and the largest foreign supplier of oil to the United States.

actions could lead to an increase in the world price of oil because the Saudis "have been holding the line" against an oil price hike within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the oil cartel.

Meanwhile, the State Department and the Saudi Arabian embassy here denied a report Sunday by the Middle East News Agency that Saudi Arabia had warned American officials there would be a new oil embargo if Congress enacts legislation aimed at weakening the Arab boycott.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Vicious thunderstorms boiled from Texas' midsection to the coast today while upper reaches of the state shivered in the chilliest weather of the new fall season.
Official observers forecast light frost tonight in the Texas Panhandle—the first since last winter.
A cold front churning up the nasty weather pushed as far south by early morning as a line linking Lufkin, San Antonio and Del Rio. It was proceeding toward the Gulf of Mexico at a speed of 20 miles per hour.
Briefly heavy rains and frequent hail marked the progress of the turbulence, which kept National Weather Service observers busy through the night issuing severe thunderstorm warnings for one county after another.
In Central Texas near Waco, hail the size of golf balls pounded down and 1.30 inches of rain fell within an hour. Radar spotted downpours at rates up to 2 inches per hour in many areas.

There were scattered showers and less menacing thunderstorms nearly everywhere else in the state except in the Panhandle, where rains stopped by Monday evening, and a couple of spots with clear skies this morning—El Paso in far West Texas and Alice in deep South Texas.
Temperatures dropped near dawn to 38 degrees at Perryton and 40 at Amarillo in the Panhandle. Downstate, where it was still warm and humid, the reading at the same hour in the island resort of Galveston was 80.
Forecasts called for rainfall to continue in Southeast Texas into tonight.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can animals count? I used to see horses in the circus obey their trainers by picking up their feet and putting them down according to the number the trainer called out. My father said there was some kind of trick to it. But listen to this. We raised a female mink on our farm last year and she had a litter of five. Every day at feeding time this mother mink would make five little patties from her scoop of ground meat, then call her offspring to eat. She never made six, and she never made four. Always five. So wouldn't you say she could count?

TERRI

DEAR TERRI: I would say that your mother mink could indeed count. But not all animals are as smart as the mink. What other female owns a mink coat as long as she lives?

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "Pat") is a musician, and he works evenings. We have a small child; but occasionally I like to see Pat work, so I get a sitter, and Pat's Uncle Joe and Aunt Mae take me. (They're about the age of my parents.)

One night Uncle Joe and his wife took me to hear Pat, and when they brought me home, Uncle Joe walked me to the door. It was quite dark, so he grabbed me and kissed me hard on the lips, and then he pinched my behind. I was so shocked I dropped my key!

The next day as soon as Pat left for work, Uncle Joe came over to see me. I didn't like the look in his eye, so I picked up the baby and went into the bathroom with her and locked the door behind me.

He kept calling to me to open the door, but I wouldn't do it. Finally he left.

Abby, I don't know whether to tell my husband or not. I don't want to put a strain on their relationship, but I really am afraid Uncle Joe will make a habit of coming over, and he frightens me.

BIG PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Tell Uncle Joe if he comes over again while Pat is gone, you will tell Pat EVERYTHING. Then follow through.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is all the time bringing home nuts, candy and gooey pastry even though he knows how hard I'm trying to lose weight.

He's lucky. He can eat anything and not gain an ounce. If I just LOOK at a piece of candy, I gain a pound.

My husband has made dirty cracks about how fat I am, so why does he tempt me with all that fattening stuff? He knows I don't have any willpower.

NO HELP FROM HUBBY

DEAR NO HELP: He tempts you because: (1) Consciously or unconsciously he wants you to be fat. (2) He's unkind and inconsiderate. (3) He enjoys sweets and figures that your lack of willpower is your problem, not his.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am interested in bodybuilding so I have two questions. I have found that from the time you eat until the time food has passed through the small intestine, then into the bloodstream takes seven hours. Would that be a good time to work out to get better results when the food gets to the bloodstream?

I have calculated that to gain weight actually one pound of protein takes about seven gallons of milk. I've planned on doing this weekly, but I've heard the body would reject the milk in such great quantity. Is this so and would it be a good idea?

DEAR READER: You might go to your nearest YMCA or if you are in school to your physical education teacher and ask about a good program for you. Your ideas are far from the facts of the situation.

Food enters the bloodstream after it has been broken down by digestion. Most of the absorption takes place in the first part of the small intestine. Some foods are absorbed right away after leaving the stomach and entering the intestine, not seven hours later. For example, if a person drinks sugar water on an empty stomach the blood sugar (glucose) will rise usually within 30 minutes and certainly within one hour.

The importance of eating in relation to physical activity is the need for nourishment and it should be planned so that you are not stuffed with excessive bulk, otherwise it is not too important. The stores of carbohydrates already in the muscle fibers are what you need for much of your workout.

You certainly don't need seven gallons of milk for each pound of muscle. Perhaps you think you need a pound of protein for each pound of muscle. That is not the case. About 75 per cent of the lean muscle is water. Only 100 grams (3.5 ounces) of the pound of muscle is actually protein. A good diet with sufficient calories and 100 grams of good quality protein is usually adequate for muscle building.

Too much milk may affect a person with a limited ability to tolerate lactose, the double sugar in milk. To give you a better background on weight training and principles involved, to try to keep you out of trouble, I am sending you The Health Letter number 54, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR POLLY: My Pointer is for popcorn lovers. After your corn is all popped and buttered, but before it cools, add grated Parmesan cheese or some of those new salad crispy bits for a different flavor. — BARBARA H.

DEAR POLLY: My Pet Peeve is with the elastic in men's shorts. The elastic in my husband's shorts is all stretched out as wide as the fabric, while the material itself is as good as new. I always wash them in warm, not hot, water and either dry them on the line or just tumble them in a warm dryer. — MARGARET.

DEAR POLLY: My letter is for Rose who objects to circulars and so on being left hanging on her door. I used to distribute these. All you need to do is call the distributing company and ask that they skip you.

Here's a tip for those of you who own one of those new coffee makers so often advertised on TV. If you have problems with them dripping water when not in use, you should place a paper towel inside the filter cup. Even though it gets wet your counter top stays dry. — MRS. E.L.

DEAR POLLY: When cutting corn off the cob to freeze, can or just cook, stand an ear-end in the center of the tube of an angel food cake pan. It will hold the ear while you cut the corn off and the kernels will fall into the pan. — CHARLOTTE.

DEAR POLLY: When icing a sheet cake, I first cut it into the desired size pieces and then ice. The icing slides down in the cuts thus icing each individual piece on the sides. Good when going on a picnic. — MRS. J.M.K.

DEAR POLLY: Seven minute icing seldom fails but once mine was soft and sticky and no amount of beating seemed to help. Not wanting to discard it, I started adding powdered sugar, a tablespoon at a time, and then beat it well after each addition. I soon had the icing the desired consistency for spreading.

He pedals good health

HOUSTON (AP) — B. M. "Pop" Shirar says anyone who rides a bicycle "won't have any trouble with his health."

Shirar, 82, claims he has lost only 30 working days to illness since 1912.

Shirar credits his long years of biking and his willingness to follow a strict fitness program for keeping him lean and lively for so long.

In fact, he's in such good health he's scheduled to lead an upcoming cyclethon over a three-mile course through Houston's Memorial Park to raise funds for the American Heart Association.

Shirar, who opened one of Houston's first bicycle businesses in 1912, says he will have no problem getting in shape for the cyclethon's early morning start.

"I open my shop at 6:30 A.M. every day so I can get ready for the day's business and ride a bike around the block about 15 times before the traffic gets heavy," he said. "But my doctor insists that I leave at 3:30 P.M. to get my rest."

Shirar said his wife, who's 76, has a home bicycle exerciser she uses every day.

"Doctors are advocating bike riding more now, inside or outside," he said. "They send patients to me with prescriptions for bikes."

"Jogging is hard on you from here up," he said, passing his hand across his waist. "That impact of your foot shakes you up inside. But with a plain bike, you can get exercise anywhere you go."

Shirar said an area college student paralyzed below the waists uses a two-seater tandem bike with her brother to get needed exercise.

"An invalid can use straps to hold his feet on the pedals," Shirar said. "The other person does the work, but the handicapped person also gets the exercise."

He feels riders who are more than 60 years old should avoid the more sporty 10-speed bikes with the turned-down handlebars.

"These are built for racing," he said, "so that when you grip the handlebars, your head is down and you have to look up to see. If they want a 10-speed they should get one that has the handlebars turned up."

He said a person who hasn't ridden in 20 years or so should take it easy at first. Start by riding around the block the first day and steadily increase the distance each day for 10 days.

"Your seat will be sore at first but after 10 days, you'll be in good shape," he said.

Konis art classes

Amarillo artist Ben Konis will have a painting workshop in Pampa Nov. 8 through 12. The classes, which will run from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. for the five days, are limited to 15 participants. Konis, who is known for his Southwestern Indian paintings, will give instructions in oil and pastel. For information, call 669-6744.

Government paid parent not school

Educational vouchers flopped

EDITOR'S NOTE — It was assumed that parents would use the voucher program to send their children to the school of their choice. And it was assumed that teachers would compete to attract students. Neither assumption worked out.

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — These are bad days at Alum Rock.

Classes are starting in the city's poorest school district, and the federal government — in residence for four years to test the controversial concept of vouchers in education — is pulling out its millions of dollars and going home.

"Basically dead would be a good way to characterize voucher," says David Mandel, program officer for the National Institute of Education. The institute funded the program at the Alum Rock Union School District, serving 15,000 mostly Mexican-American students.

The experiment here, the only attempt by the federal government to test the voucher idea, was heralded at first as a dramatic new tactic to save deteriorating public education.

In a voucher system, the government pays the parents instead of the schools. Parents, given a voucher for the amount of money it takes to educate a child, can spend it in any school they choose. The idea is that schools will improve by trying to attract more voucher dollars.

The demise of the nearly $8-million program in Alum Rock has left teachers, administrators, parents and funders with mixed feelings about the effort to bring free market economics to public education.

What it brought instead, nearly everyone agrees, were some innovations in teaching, some new ways to run a school district, a little more parent interest in the schools, and a lot of paperwork.

As envisioned by economist Milton Friedman and others, a voucher program would allow parents to spend their educational IOUs in a public school, a private school or a parochial school — each of them charging tuition" equaling the voucher.

Under a national voucher program, state and municipal taxes, now the principal sources of revenue for America's public schools, would be used to redeem vouchers at public, private and parochial schools. This tax money now goes directly to public school districts.

Eliot Levinson, a Rand Corp. researcher studying the experiment, said the idea was to "give the power to the consumers and let the great holy free market loose and it will get rid of the incompetents in the public schools."

But in Alum Rock, teachers weren't excited about competing with private and parochial schools. The district and federal officials agreed instead to offer parents alternatives within the public schools themselves.

As many as 54 "mini-schools" sprang up offering different styles of teaching. They were formed by groups of four or five teachers who wanted to work together. Three or four mini-schools were located in each of the 14 school buildings where the experiment was conducted. (The district's 14 other schools weren't included in the program.) Each mini-school had a separate budget determined by the number of children enrolled with vouchers.

Federal sponsors of the experiment wanted no limits on mini-school enrollment, so that popular ones would grow and unpopular ones would die. But teachers insisted on enrollment limits so that all the mini-schools could survive. In addition, there was a policy of "squatters' rights," a guarantee no child would be bumped from his neighborhood school.

There were mini-schools that stressed individual learning, basic skills, creative arts and cultural diversity, to name a few.

"It wasn't much of a real test of a voucher system," admitted Richard Reyes, in charge of evaluating the project for the district. "It was a very sophisticated example of multiple-option education."

Many of these schools remain in a system the district now calls alternative education. Parents still have the option to send their children to any mini-school in the district.

During the voucher experiment, an effort was made to make the parents aware of the choices available. The district sent out elaborate brochures to explain differences among mini-schools.

The name is very familiar but the face is less so these days. John F. Kennedy Jr., who hasn't been as popular with photographers as sister Caroline in recent years, will be 16 on Nov. 25.

Westerns may bite the dust

EDITOR'S NOTE — "You can't go on shooting people on the screen without drawing adverse reaction from the audience," says a producer trying to explain why western movies no longer make money.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lo the poor western — is it headed for the last roundup? Or will it rise from the campfire ashes and regain its place as a unique American art form?

There can be no doubt the movie western has fallen on bad times. Two major productions now in release have failed and another was withdrawn this summer after disappointing results.

In Variety's list of the money-making films of 1975, nary a western placed in the top 45. Losers included "Bite the Bullet," with Gene Hackman and

Candice Bergen; the John Wayne and Katherine Hepburn "Rooster Cogburn," and "The Master Gunfighter," from the organization that made "Billy Jack."

No western has achieved blockbuster status since "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" in 1969.

Consider this season's wreckage: His fans hoped that in "Buffalo Bill and the Indians," Robert Altman would do for western history what he did for army life in "MASH" and country music in "Nashville." But the finished product prompted heated arguments between the director and producer Dino DeLaurentis and got Altman fired as director of "Ragtime."

Despite Paul Newman, "Buffalo Bill" was scalped at the box-office.

"The Missouri Breaks" held the high promise of an acting duel between Marion Brando and Jack Nicholson under the astute direction of Arthur Penn ("Bonnie and Clyde" and "Little Big Man"). United Artists spent $3 million on pre-release publicity. Rentals are expected to be $12 million, but "Missouri Breaks" cost $8.6 million to make, including about $2.5 million in stars' salaries. Result: a deficit. Because of the distribution and normal advertising, a movie's revenue must double its pre-release cost to show a profit.

"It's not hard to see why those two films failed," observes Charlton Heston. "Negative films on any subject will always fail. The audience wants to see something positive."

Heston himself has been caught in the western slump. His 20th Century-Fox film, "The Last Hard Men," was withdrawn from distribution during the summer. Said the actor: "Results of a Texas release were disappointing. Then for some inexplicable reason it was opened in New York City without paid advertising. Understandably the showing was not impressive. Now Fox is mulling the proper way to present the film."

Other disappointments: "Breakheart Pass," with Charles Bronson; "The Great Scout and Cathouse Thursday," with Lee Marvin; "The Dutchess and the Dirtwater Fox," with George Segal and Goldie Hawn. The only western to make money in today's market has been Clint Eastwood's "The Outlaw, Josey Wales."

The downward trend has prompted the western's critics to launch attacks. "The western is in trouble," wrote John Simon, the acerbic reviewer of New York Magazine. "Hailed by various Bicentennial hacks as the great American myth or great American art form, it could prove to be the great American embarrassment."

The western has been basic to the American film ever since "The Great Train Robbery" electrified audiences in 1903. Broncho Billy Anderson and William S. Hart established the code of the West in their silent films, and the pattern was followed in such epics as "The Covered Wagon" and "The Iron Horse."

Hollywood turned out program westerns by the hundreds in the 1930s, making heroes of Tom Mix, Buck Jones, Tim McCoy, Ken Maynard, William Boyd and Gene Autry. With one astonishing achievement, "Stagecoach" in 1939, John Ford achieved respectability for the western.

Over the years it has waxed with milestone films like "High Noon," "Shane," "Red River," "Broken Arrow," and waned with over-ambitious epics, a glut of TV westerns and violent foreign imitations ("spaghetti westerns").

"Westerns have been having a rough time for two reasons," says Mike Frankovich, a producer of westerns. "One is the hangover from saturation on TV, years and years of the home screen crowded with cowboys. Two is the spaghetti western, which saturated the theater market with lots of action and laughs and a heavy load of violence."

"You can't go on killing people on the screen without drawing adverse reaction from the audience. Americans are too concerned about their own personal safety; they don't want to see unlimited mayhem in movies."

Clint Eastwood comments: "I've had good luck with westerns... (But) we'll never see a return of the massive program of westerns that we grew up on... What you need to make a good one is imagination."

Labor Day, celebrated the first Monday in September to honor the workers of the country, dates back to 1882.

Two killed near Dallas

McKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — Gunfire killed two men about 5 miles east of the Dallas suburb of Plano and officers are holding two suspects, Collin County Sheriff Jerry Burton said Sunday night.

He said the shootings in a plowed field late Saturday night apparently stemmed from an argument among the four.

ACU give Hightower high conservative mark

WASHINGTON — In a pre-election report, the American Conservative Union (ACU) has given Rep. Jack Hightower a 90 per cent rating based on 16 votes through the first half of this year.

The Vernon democrat, who represents the Panhandle, voted the conservative line consistently, bucking ACU's position only twice.

Hightower, who faces former Rep. Robert Price of Pampa in the Nov. 2 general election, voted against the conservative lobby's position when he opposed a spring House resolution for a balanced budget and supported reconstituting the Federal Election Commission, the federal agency which oversees elections.

In accumulating his high ACU rating, Hightower voted against such things as continuing price controls on natural gas, extending the Federal Energy Administration and deferring development of the controversial B-1 bomber.

He also favored ACU positions to activate the dormant internal security functions of the House Committee on Internal Security, to trim the federal budget, and to prohibit federal funds to be used for abortions.

In the Senate, Sen. John Tower, R-Wichita Falls, scored a 72 per cent in the ACU survey. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Houston, received a 47 per cent rating.

Bentsen's senatorial opponent, Rep. Alan Steelman, R-Dallas, was one of 30 House and Senate members to receive a 100 per cent rating.

BY BILL CHOYKE
Pampa's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Here are some items of interest to Texans from the nation's capital.

A REAL TIGER — Rep. Olin Teague, who his colleagues call "Tiger," recently showed that last summer's stroke has not reduced his growl.

The College Station Democrat, chairman of the House Science and Technology Committee, is continuing to push his pet project — synthetic fuels — over the desires of some of the most influential members of the House.

Teague recently wrote House Speaker Carl Albert complaining that the Rules Committee, the panel which must clear most major legislation, was refusing to give him a hearing on the bill, which is strongly opposed by some liberals and environmentalists.

So Teague, telling Albert that the Rules Committee action was "an absolute insult to my committee," threatened to use available parliamentary means to tie up congressional business until the Oct. 2 scheduled adjournment.

Apparently prodded by Albert, the Rules Committee recanted and heard Teague Sept. 8. However, a final vote on whether to send the legislation to the floor was postponed until Sept. 15.

The bill would provide several billion dollars of federal loan guarantees to firms for the development of synthetic fuels from oil shale and coal. It's essentially a scaled-down version of legislation that failed last year.

MARITAL BLISS — Roll Call, a gossip weekly newspaper circulated around Capitol Hill, has Rep. Alan Steelman's camp seething and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's supporters smirking.

Last month the newspaper, quoting a Fort Worth Star-Telegram report, said that there're rumors that Steelman, who hopes to unseat Bentsen, and his wife Carolyn are heading for a divorce.

"Reportedly the only thing holding the couple together is the pending Texas Senate race," the newspaper said.

Not true, say the Steelmans. The Fort Worth piece merely mentioned a Texas politico seeking national office, and apparently somebody at Roll Call thought that that person was Steelman. Several weeks later, the unnamed Texan turned out to be Rep. Robert Eckhardt, D-Houston, whose wife Nadine wants to call it quits after 14 years. Sources close to Eckhardt note that the divorce comes as no surprise.

"The only thing surprising," said one Eckhardt aide, "is that they stayed together that long."

FORGOTTEN ANNIVERSARY — Aug. 6 passed without much ado, but at least one national group of state officials have not forgotten.

for those that don't recall that date, Aug. 6, 1975, was the day when President Ford signed the extension of the Voting Rights Act bringing Texas under its provisions for the first time.

Besides extending the original 1965 act, the measure expanded the legislation to cover language minorities.

While much of the hullabaloo regarding the act has subsided, the National Association of Secretaries of State has continued its criticism.

Two weeks before the one-year anniversary of the act's extension, the group approved a resolution condemning the waste of materials and manpower required to prepare bilingual ballots and election materials under the provisions approved by Congress last year.

The organization, representing the offices of Secretary of State in all 50 states, maintains that bilingual ballots should only be distributed in cases where more than 5 per cent of the total population use only a second language other than English. The current law calls for broader distribution of such materials.

NEW TASK — Sen. John Tower, the state's senior Republican officeholder, has been appointed to a new federal commission which will help mold U.S. transportation and energy policies for the next two decades.

The Wichita falls lawmaker was recently tapped by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to be one of six senators on the 19-member National Transportation Study Commission. The panel is to make a thorough study of America's transportation needs for the remainder of the century.

The commission's report is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 31, 1978.

WASHINGTON — Here are some items of interest to Texans from the nation's capital.

WINDING DOWN: Rep. Jack Brooks says it would be a useless exercise of time and energy. An aide to Rep. Charles Wilson says not much is happening.

Brooks was talking about his bill to establish an agency for Consumer Protection in the federal government. The staffer for Wilson was characterizing the Lufkin Democrat's recent office activity. For both, the end of the congressional session — scheduled for Oct. 3 — means a winding down of activity.

Chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, Brooks is a principal sponsor of the consumer bill endorsed by most consumer advocates. Although the House and Senate both approved versions of the legislation this session, Brooks and Senate leaders decided against trying to enact the legislation over President Ford's promised veto.

Still, the Beaumont Democrat should have somewhat of a hectic finish as the House and Senate struggle over a final revenue sharing package, drafted by his committee. The Senate bill, passed recently extends the revenue sharing program two years longer than the House version, among other differences.

Wilson, meanwhile, exemplified what most congressmen are facing these days.

Harvesters living up to billing

It's taken four weeks, but Pampa has finally put together the kind of performance expected of teams picked to win a championship.

The Harvesters displayed a balanced scoring attack, a virtually unstoppable running game, good passing and a pursuing defense to rout Berger, 28-8, in a game expected to be much closer.

Borger whipped Hereford, the team which beat Pampa in the season opener, the week before, and just about everyone expected a dogfight. But the 'Dogs didn't—fight, that is. The Harvesters didn't let them.

"We played good defense, moved the ball on offense and pretty well controlled the football most of the night. Borger's not bad. For some reason, they didn't follow the same game plan they had followed in other games," Pampa Coach John Welborn said.

"They usually run a lot of leads and run to daylight. When they didn't have early success, they started with counters, traps, sweeps and throwing the ball, probably some things they don't do as well as try to run right at people."

Pampa's touchdowns came on a one-yard run by Ricky Moore, a 79-yard romp by Dean Smith, a 79-yard punt return by Steve Hancock and a nine-yard pass from Mike Lancaster to David Green.

For Smith, Hancock and Green, it was the first time to score this year.

Smith's run probably came as a surprise to Pampa coaches. He burst up the middle, broke a couple of tackles and sprinted his way to the end zone.

"I think we're going to have to start using all of our backs to give us more balance. People have been ganging up on us too much," Welborn said.

"I think we always knew Smith had good speed and was a good ball carrier. We just hadn't used him much. He showed a lot of desire to get in the end zone."

Smith carried one other time in the game. He got a yard.

David Caldwell gained 100 yards—the first time a Pampa player has reached that mark in and the protection wasn't real good."

Defensively, "it was a good team effort," Welborn said, sounding like a typical coach.

"I think our defensive ends did a good job and certainly our down people did. Our linebackers were in on a lot of tackles."

Left linebacker Pat Bailey, having to take up some slack since his right-side counterpart, Frank Stowers, was out with an illness, was in on 20 tackles, eight unassisted.

Randy Ford, who replaced Stowers, was in on 12 tackles. "Randy played a good game. It doesn't hurt to have an abundance of good linebackers."

End Chris Skaggs had his finest hour, with five unassisted tackles and four assists, Curtis Haynes, also on end, was in on 11 tackles, as was alternate linebacker Kent Romines.

Paul Sims

a game—on 15 carries. The big fullback broke tackle after tackle in his bulldozing, twisting runs up the middle.

"He's continued to get better every week and show lot more agility. He's always been a hard runner. Now he's starting to run with more ball-carrier savvy."

"The line did just a super job keeping people blocked."

Alston retires from baseball

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After 23 consecutive one-year contracts to manage the Dodgers, Walter Alston has stepped down, saying, "There comes a time when you need to take a little rest."

The 64-year-old Alston, known as the "Quiet Man" from Dartmouth, Ohio, made his decision Monday. After a round of golf, he told Los Angeles Dodgers management and it was announced at a late afternoon news conference during which Alston said he would remain with the National League club in a front office capacity.

"Baseball has been good to me," he said. "But there comes a time when you get enough of everything. This has been quite a day. It's the first time I ever got three birdies playing golf in one day and I'm retiring."

Thus ends one of baseball's greatest chapters, one which started in 1954 in Brooklyn at the end of Jackie Robinson's career, continued to the team's first world title in 1955, through the opening of the West to baseball in the late 1950s and then through the years of glory with Sandy Koufax and a succession of teams that rarely scored yet won championships.

No successor was named immediately, but Walter O'Malley, chairman of the Board of the Dodgers, said his son Peter, General Manager Al Campanis and Alston would sit down soon and decide on who will become the next Dodgers' field boss.

"What do they say? The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat? I've had my share of those," said Alston. "Announcing it now gives Peter a chance to find someone else."

Peter O'Malley serves as club president.

Almost to a man, the Dodgers' players said it was a sad day.

"I'm disappointed," said Don

Sutton. "I've played for the man for 11 years and he's been honest every minute of it. There are so many opportunities to be up and down in this game, but he's stayed on an even keel, and that imparts consistency to the ball club."

"He set the standards for all other managers to match," said first baseman Steve Garvey, the NL's most valuable player in 1974. Alston's last pennant year.

Alston won four World Series titles and seven pennants for the Dodgers and only two men in the history of the game have managed one club longer—Connie Mack, 50 years with the Philadelphia Athletics and John McGraw, 31 with the New York Giants.

The Dodgers, despite massive attendance no matter how they did on the field, finished 20 games behind Cincinnati in 1975 and were 10 games behind the Reds when Alston made his announcement.

"It's a shame 30 guys didn't bust their backs for him this season," said catcher Steve Yeager. Alston took a lot of the blame for the team's poor showing in 1975 and 1976.

Walter O'Malley, who hired the then-unknown Alston to the newspaper cries of "Who?", later said Alston would manage until the day he decided to retire.

Monday that day came.

Redskins outlast Eagles in overtime

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mark Moseley's 29-yard field goal with 12:49 gone in sudden-death overtime carried the unbeaten Washington Redskins to a 20-17 National Football League victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Monday night.

The Redskins' winning points were set up when safety Eddie Brown intercepted a Mike Boryla pass and returned it eight yards to the Philadelphia 22-yard line.

Calvin Hill, one of Redskin Coach George Allen's rich free agents, ripped 12 yards for a first down at the Eagles' 10 and, one play later, barreled six yards more to the four.

A holding penalty set the Redskins back to the 14, and the Redskins, despite massive attendance no matter how they did on the field, finished 20 games behind Cincinnati in 1975 and were 10 games behind the Reds when Alston made his announcement.

"It's a shame 30 guys didn't bust their backs for him this season," said catcher Steve Yeager. Alston took a lot of the blame for the team's poor showing in 1975 and 1976.

Ali battles Norton

NEW YORK (AP)—"This is the end of my career," says Muhammad Ali, who puts the heavyweight championship on the line against Ken Norton tonight.

"I don't want to lose it," Ali didn't mean that this will be his last fight but that he was getting down that road toward retirement. The champion is 34.

And he is the 8-5 favorite to keep that road open by beating Norton in their third meeting—each won a split 12-round decision in 1973 with Norton breaking Ali's jaw in the first fight.

"You must remember that those first two fights weren't for the title," said Ali, who retained the championship by knocking out George Foreman Oct. 30, 1974, seven months after Norton was stopped in two rounds by Foreman in a bid for the title.

The weigh-in was scheduled for noon today at a hotel overlooking Central Park. Ali was expected to scale about 221 pounds and Norton 215. Each is 6-foot-3 and has an 80-inch reach.

The fight was scheduled to start in Yankee Stadium at 10:30 p.m. EDT, with a the closed-circuit telecast to open at 9:30 p.m., with a 10-round heavyweight bout between Ernie Shavers and Henry Clark.

Wednesday night was the rain date.

A crowd of about 40,000, the promoters' estimate, was expected for the first fight at the famed ballpark since Ingemar Johansson knocked Floyd Patterson down seven times and stopped him in the third round to win the heavyweight title June 26, 1959. The worldwide-television audience could reach 500 million—it will be seen on closed circuit at 300 locations in the United States and Canada and on a live and delayed basis in 57 other countries.

Prices at Yankee Stadium ranged from $200 down to $25, with $20 the average price of a closed-circuit television ticket.

Ali is guaranteed a record $6 million plus $100,000 expenses and will get 50 per cent of all income over $9 million. A victory would set him up for a rematch with Foreman where his purse reportedly could hit $10 million. Norton is guaranteed $5 million plus $100,000 expenses and five per cent of all income from the start.

"It shall not go over five," said the 34-year-old Ali, who is three years older than Norton.

"I will make him quit," said Norton.

"I beat myself when I get beat," said Ali.

"I made you a success and I'm gonna destroy you," the champion said he will tell Norton when they get into the ring.

The fight, promoted by Madison Square Garden, Inc., and Top Rank, Inc., apparently will smash the all-time live gate record of $2,658,660 paid by a crowd of 104,943 for the second Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey fight at Soldier Field Chicago Sept. 22, 1927.

Pittsburgh moves to No. 2 position

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Tony Dorsett remembers leaner years when the University of Pittsburgh football team would get especially aroused to meet a highly ranked foe.

"Now the shoe is on the other foot," Dorsett said Monday after Pitt jumped from third to second behind Michigan in The Associated Press college football poll.

"A few years ago, Pitt had no ranking and no respect," added Dorsett, who has 4,540 career yards rushing going into Saturday's game at Duke.

"I remember how it was always easy to get mentally fired up when we played teams like Notre Dame, Southern Cal and Oklahoma."

"Now other teams feel the same way about us. Beating Pitt can make their season, and they all come after us. Our being No. 2 will just make them try harder."

Dorsett is a senior at nearby Hopewell High School in 1972 when Pitt labored through a 1-10 season.

Italy bumps Australia

ROME (AP)—John Newcombe is the former hero and present nemesis of the Australian Davis Cup tennis team.

The 32-year-old Newcombe, whose past is filled with triumphs, lost all three matches he played as Australia was eliminated from this year's competition.

Italy beat Australia 3-2 at the Foro Italico Sports Center, with Adriano Panatta scoring the decisive victory Monday, and qualified for the Davis Cup final against Chile Dec. 12-19.

The Italian Tennis Federation immediately squelched all talk of a possible boycott by Italy against Chile, saying only an unlikely intervention by the government could stop the team from playing. The Chileans reached the finals after the Soviet Union refused to play them in protest against the right-wing regime of Augusto Pinochet in Chile.

On Sunday, Alexander outlasted Barazzutti 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 4-6, 6-2 and the 3 1/2-hour match probably cost Australia the match.

Newcombe played extremely well against Panatta for 2 1/2 hours in the decisive match, but it was called off due to darkness with the score 7-5, 6-8, 2-2. The Australian having taken the first set.

On Monday, Newcombe had lost his magic touch and Panatta went on to win the last two sets 6-4, 6-2.

Australian team captain Neale Fraser said, however, that should he head the Davis Cup team next year he would call on Newcombe again.

Dodgers capture emotional win

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

"I wanted to pitch a no-hitter for him," said Don Sutton. "I've played for the guy 11 years and he has been honest with me every minute of it."

Sutton, like most of his teammates on the Los Angeles Dodgers, was deeply moved by the announcement Monday that Walter Alston was retiring after 23 years as manager of the team. For him, beating the Houston Astros Monday night was especially important.

And he showed his feelings for his long-time mentor by turning in a brilliant four-hit shutout, pitching the Dodgers to a 2-0 victory over the Astros.

"He's the only guy I've ever known more stubborn than I am," Sutton said. "I guess that's what I've needed all these years. I respond to an honest relationship rather than a lot of patting on the back. He tells it to me up front and sticks to it. If he has told me something, I found it to be true.

"The best way to describe him is that he's an honest man. I'm glad to have won this one."

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, the New York Mets pounded the Montreal Expos 10-3, the Philadelphia Phillies routed the St. Louis Cardinals 9-1 and the San Diego Padres beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-3.

Sutton, 21-9, struck out three and walked two in posting his fourth shutout of the season and the 44th of his career, most among active National League pitchers. He allowed just one runner past second base. It was his ninth consecutive victory and 14th in his last 15 decisions, and it was an emotional one.

Bill Russell singled home Steve Garvey in the seventh inning to break a scoreless duel between Sutton and Houston's Dan Larson, 5-8. The Dodgers added a second run in the eighth inning when Dave Lopes walked, stole second—his second stolen base of the game and 61st of the season—and came home on Bill Buckner's single.

Mets 10, Expos 3

John Milner drove in six runs for the Mets with a pair of homers, a two-run shot in the third inning and his third grand slam of the season in the sixth. Milner now has 15 homers and 78 runs batted in this season, the latter a career high.

Coors PRESS-TAB

AMERICA'S FINE LIGHT BEER

"Press-Tab" adds a new dimension to the convenience and anti-litter benefits of the all aluminum recyclable can.

"PRESS-TAB"—completely eliminates ring-pull litter, as Press-Tab consists of a single tab that remains attached to the lid after opening. The can remains one complete recyclable unit.

Coors introduces Press-Tab as a voluntary corporate alternative to anti-ring-pull legislation now existing in some states, and which possibly could be introduced on a national level.

- 1 Press as illustrated to break seal and release pressure.*
- 2 Break the remaining seal by pressing opposite side of opening.
- 3 Gently depress Tab. Can now ready for use.

*Please hold can near the top.

Estrogens must carry warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sex hormones that an estimated five million American women take to relieve the symptoms of menopause must carry stronger health warnings, the Food and Drug Administration says.

The FDA, in an order issued Monday, said new labels directed at physicians prescribing estrogen must be printed and distributed within the next 60 days.

But the FDA said it wants to hear from the public before it orders other new labels that would explain estrogen risks in plain language for women who take the hormones.

Estrogens for women too old to bear children "are valuable drugs. They are needed when the symptoms of the 'change of life' become severe. The FDA's purpose is to keep these drugs on the market but to reduce overuse and misuse," Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt said in a statement.

"Because these drugs can cause harm as well as good and because they are different from many other drugs in that they are given to otherwise healthy women undergoing the natural process of menopause," he said, "the FDA believes it essential that women be informed and that they decide for themselves if the risks are worth the benefits."

The proposed warnings for users of estrogen note that it is estimated that more than half of all women undergoing menopause experience only mild symptoms or none at all from "the change of life" and therefore should not take the hormone.

Schmidt had told a Senate subcommittee last Jan. 21 that labeling changes were imminent. In early March, the agency summarized the changes in a drug bulletin sent to 700,000 doctors and other health professionals.

But surrounding it is a tall wire mesh fence, designed to make sure that the forgers, air pirates, drug smugglers and bank robbers don't leave the relaxed surroundings before their graduation date.

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons on Monday assigned the newspaper heiress to the two-year-old Federal Youth Correction Center at Pleasanton to serve her seven-year bank robbery sentence. She becomes eligible for parole in 16 months.

Patty's plush prison has three main rules

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer
PLEASANTON, Calif. (AP) — At first glance, Patricia Hearst's new home seems to be a modern college campus, with casually dressed young men and women lounging on patios, sunbathing on lawns or reading on dormitory steps.

But surrounding it is a tall wire mesh fence, designed to make sure that the forgers, air pirates, drug smugglers and bank robbers don't leave the relaxed surroundings before their graduation date.

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons on Monday assigned the newspaper heiress to the two-year-old Federal Youth Correction Center at Pleasanton to serve her seven-year bank robbery sentence. She becomes eligible for parole in 16 months.

robbery trial.

Another witness was Miss Hearst's former fiancé, Steven Weed, who was with her at the time of the kidnaping.

Prison officials here say Miss Hearst will be treated just like the other residents of the 10-acre "campus," as the staff calls the prison.

The progressive facility is designed to be as close to the outside world as possible, mainly so prisoners can readjust smoothly to society when released.

The former University of California coed can wear street clothes.

In her spare time, she will have access to the dorm recreational facilities — television, shuffleboard and billiards.

"She will get a job assignment," Meko says. "It might be, for example, in the kitchen, as a clerk in the business office, in the mechanical services as a plumber or electrician, depending on her interests and our needs."

"If she wanted, she could take college courses here to continue her education or correspondence courses."

And she will be free to socialize with the 100 men and 135 women residents between the ages of 18 and 26, listening to the juke box in the recreation center, playing tennis on covered outdoor courts, attending weekend dances and picnics.

She can do almost anything she wishes as long as she doesn't break the three cardinal prison rules: no drugs, no sex and no escape.

Seven enter guilty pleas

Seven defendants entered guilty pleas and four entered pleas of no contest in Gray County Court Monday.

Each of the 11 men was fined and given jail terms and ten were given probation by Gray County Judge Don Cain.

Michael James McGrath, 22, of Big Spring, pled guilty to driving while intoxicated. He was fined $200 plus costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation.

Riley Simmons, 59, of Mangum, Okla., entered a guilty plea to driving while intoxicated. He was fined $200 plus costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation.

Joseph William Donsey, 37, of Amarillo was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation following his guilty plea to driving while intoxicated.

A Miami man, Lawton Elvin Hoffer, 43, also entered a guilty plea to charges of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation.

John Allen Schember, 24, of Michigan, pled guilty to driving while intoxicated and he was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation.

Timothy Lynn Pettiett, 19, of 307 N. Gray, and David Scott Putman, 19, of 608 1/2 N. Gray, entered guilty pleas to charges that they made a false report to a police officer. Each was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail and six months probation.

Demetrio Martinez, 41, of 417 Ward, was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail after he pled no contest to driving while intoxicated.

A no contest plea to driving while intoxicated by Buford Vendall Treadwell, 43, of 2233 N. Dwight, resulted in a $200 fine and costs and a sentence of 30 days in jail and six months probation.

Jack C. Williams will address the Pampa Business and Professional Womens Club on his hobby — the metric system. Williams, an area soil scientist, is also a member of the U.S. Metric Association. The meeting, which begins at the Senior Citizens Center at 500 W. Francis at 7:30 p.m. today, is open to the public.

HS play ends tonight

Tonight is the final performance of "Anybody Out There?" by the drama students of Pampa High.

The two-act comedy by John Patrick, author of "Tea House of the August Moon" and other plays, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The cast includes Diana Willis as Anita Wrenn; Bobby Burns as an officer; Bill Wilson as Bill McSwain; Keith Mackey as a man; Melinda Edmison as the announcer; Kristi Ledbetter as a stranger; and Shelly Sheppard as Gloria.

Others involved in the production include Rochelle Lacy, director; Ann Kadango, assistant director; Jana Norwood, make up and publicity; Susan Uzman, lighting; Tony Scoggin, technical consultant; and Cecilia Casey, Keith Mackey, Gail Wilkins, Sandy Brihon, Mary Whitney and Jenny Fletcher, all serving as crew heads.

US gun smugglers trade across Rio Grande river

By MILLER H. BONNER JR.
Associated Press Writer
BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Politics, profit and American store owners who "choose to look the other way" spawns the high-caliber gun smuggling operations along the Rio Grande, says Asst. U.S. Attorney Charles Lewis.

Guns are bought legally in the United States, says Lewis, and transported illegally into Mexico where buyers are eager to do business in either dollars or drugs.

"There is a pure profit motive, of course," he said Monday. "Dealers on both sides of the border make money and the political climate in Mexico, especially during an election year, give smugglers a big market."

"The left-wing guerrillas in the mountains want the guns to battle the Mexican army and the wealthy, conservative landowners want the guns to guard their homes and lives."

Lewis believes the problem starts with the licensed American gun salesman.

"If you sold guns and the same person came into your store every week and bought two or three M-1 rifles, wouldn't you get a little suspicious?" asks Lewis.

"We haven't been able to get to the primary source of the smuggled guns—that's the licensed gun dealer. They choose to remain ignorant about the buyers in their store."

Although officials are hesitant to estimate the amount of gun running along the Rio Grande, two recent cases give an insight as to the quantity and quality of the firearms.

"We ran two separate surveys involving hundreds of ammunition dealers along the border," said Lewis. "Both surveys showed the number one dealer was the Villa Verde Store in Brownsville."

"But you look in the Yellow Pages under 'ammunition,'" Lewis said as he flipped through the phone book, "and you don't find the store listed. You look under guns and you don't find it."

"Yet this store was selling a million rounds of ammunition a month and 90 to 95 per cent of it was going to Mexico. You know if somebody was buying that much ammunition, they have more than a few guns."

The co-owners of the store, Ignacio Reyes and David Dominguez, were found guilty of falsifying Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms reports. The pair was fined $3,000 and given three-year probation sentences.

"They were falsifying the names and addresses of Mexican purchasers," said Lewis. "So when U.S. officials reported the purchases to the Mexican government, the correct buyer could not be traced."

"That case involved only one store," said Lewis. "When you consider the hundreds of stores along the border, then there must be one hell of a lot of guns in Mexico."

"Another case in McAllen involved the confiscation of about 100 guns, he continued. "Most of them were .22, .38 and 30-caliber semi-automatics which could be converted to fully automatic in about 15 minutes by someone who knew what he was doing."

Lewis said the types of guns popular with the Mexican buyers are the AR-15, the M-1 and M-1 Enforcer.

"The AR-15 was developed for use in Vietnam," said Lewis. "It uses small bullets that have a tremendous impact yet it can be fired for hours. It has no kick."

"The M-1 used to be the standard U.S. Army weapon and the M-1 Enforcer is a small gun with a pistol handle yet the rest of the weapon looks like a rifle. It's about 15 inches long. It's an assault weapon."

"I can't think of any other use for that gun other than to kill human beings."

Charged with murder

PERRYTON — A theft suspect has been charged with capital murder in connection with the stabbing death of a 23-year-old woman here last week.

Charles Ray Gregor, 19, of Perryton, was arraigned Monday before Justice of the Peace Harold Hulsey who denied bond in the case.

The body of Laura Lou Buck was found in her trailer home

Wednesday morning. She had been stabbed twice in the chest.

Gregor was arrested Thursday on theft charges stemming from the removal of a pistol from the Buck mobile home and was being held on a $1,000 bond on that charge.

Law enforcement officials theorize that while Gregor was burglarizing the Buck trailer, Mrs. Buck surprised him and he killed her.

some of these involve situations where possibly friends in trouble were doing each other a few favors; others involve possible collusion in improper deals, where banks had common ownership. These situations seem to indicate that bank managers were being asked by their owners to do things that no prudent banker would normally do," Gonzalez said.

He said investigators have talked with officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which pays off depositors when a bank fails. He said the problem also may involve the U.S. Comptroller of Currency and the Federal Reserve.

"This investigation is going to be difficult. It is like dealing with a spider web," Gonzalez said. "We touch one strand, and all of a sudden the whole complex starts shaking."

Chicken sold for $3,600 for children

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A chicken sold for $3,600 and a 35-pound pig for $750 as farmers and ranchers reached deep in their pockets to aid a handicapped children's center.

A record-setting $107,602 was collected Monday at the 17th annual Cattleman's Round Up for Crippled Children. This was just $352 more than the previous record set last year, but cattle prices were higher and nine more animals were sold then.

Gonzales hopes to probe Texas' many bank failures

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez says he hopes congressional hearings can be held in San Antonio later this year to determine "why we have so many bank failures in Texas."

Gonzalez, D-Tex., said the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee, at his request, has assigned two investigators to "examine a number of questionable circumstances in Texas banks."

The investigators also may check into certain transactions involving banks in Oklahoma and Louisiana," Gonzalez said in a newsletter to his San Antonio constituents.

"One thing I believe has been happening in these bank failures is what you might call stealing banks," Gonzalez said. "The people I am after are engaged in stealing banks. They buy up control of one bank, usually on money borrowed from another bank; then they go in and make a lot of loans to themselves and their friends."

"It was this kind of deal exactly that drove the Carrizo Springs Bank into the ground. This was also the kind of deal that led to the closing of Sharpstown State Bank (in Houston) a few years ago. It may be evident in the two other banks that failed in Texas this year, too," he said.

The First State Bank of Carrizo Springs was closed by the state banking commissioner after an examination earlier this year. State banking examiners wrote off as bad more than $1 million in loans to the bank's chief owner, his family and business associates.

"There are certain questions about other loans and deals;

EBEY ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — Farmer Brown's fields are filled with thousands of tiny mushrooms — and with hundreds of trespassers who think they'll get psychedelic highs by eating them.

Murphy Brown estimates that 500 or more young persons, ignoring the "Keep Out" signs posted on his fences, have trampled his fields the past month in search of "Psilocybe pelliculosa" mushrooms, a variety that thrives in late summer.

"I talked to 40 or 50 of them," Brown said. "There were 28 cars last Sunday and they had a bus at the other place. You make 'em mad (and) they can do a lot of damage."

Fans of the mushroom say it causes a reaction similar to that of LSD, including a temporary loss of awareness of time and space.
