Multibillion-dollar error uncovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversy over an alleged multibillion-dollar error in a vital statistical indicator of economic strength is stirring the U.S. Census Bureau.

The error, alleged to have been covered up for nearly four years, conceivably could have led to faulty government and business decisions by badly understating the backlog of unfilled orders at the nation's factories.

As a consequence of believing orders were weaker than they really were, manufacturers may have cut production and hastened the descent into the recession of late 1973 and 1974.

If correct, the allegations by a bureau statistician would suggest the economy was stronger than the statistics showed both before and through the recession and that the strength of the current recovery may be overstated.

A high Census Bureau official conceded there were errors, but he said they were not of the magnitude or the consequences claimed and said no coverup existed. On the contrary, the official said, revisions are under way and corrected statistics will be released before the end of the year.

John Kendrick, Commerce Department chief economist, promised a statement on the allegations shortly.

The controversy was set off by John Bullock, a survey statistician (economist). He said in an interview that his repeated requests, through channels, for a public warning about the so-called M-3 series, which measures the backlog, were ignored.

Bullock, 29, said the figures were understated by perhaps 50 per cent or more. He claims that errors have obscured the recovery's degree of dependence on a backlog of already existing orders.

The errors, Bullock said, are the consequence of a systematic bias resulting from faulty estimates and statistical adjustments, that have accumulated at a 4 to 5 per cent rate over 14 years. He said he uncovered the defect in 1972.

Rather than being an actual count based on reports from manufacturers, the unfilled orders series is an estimate based on replies from a percentage of the nation's manufacturers.

It is in this statistical procedure, Bullock maintains, that there has been a "slippage."

Over the years, he said, the standards of these estimates have not been maintained, until now "you cannot compare the series to itself." That is, the current series cannot be intelligently matched against earlier estimates, he said.

Asked about the allegations of earlier estimates, he said:

Asked about the allegations of statistical errors, a spokesman for the House Subcommittee on Census and Population, Donald Terry, said flatly "Bullock is right. There is a gross understatement."

Terry said "Regardless of the basis of the allegations, they are substantial and should have been checked out. It poses the question: Why not four years ago?"

Bullock said repeated requests that his findings be examined led only to frustration until this spring when, he said, an examination revealed them to be essentially correct.

Nevertheless, he said, his efforts to have a public warning issued were denied.

despite complaints to Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson and Vincent Barabba, then chief of the Census Bureau, and assurances from Kendrick that revisions would be made later.

Shirley Kalleck, the bureau's associate director for census fields, disputes Bullock's claims that he was ignored. She said the bureau consulted with the American Economic Association and the American Statistical Association and that the National Bureau of Economic Research was now under contract to correct the figures.

"There are some errors in the level of unfilled orders," she said, "but nothing of the magnitude that Mr. Bullock is talking about. He's been talking about this for four years."

She said Bullock has "many, many problems with the bureau" and that before this, he was complaining about another survey.

Miss Kalleck said that while the level of unfilled orders is in error, the month-to-month changes are basically reliable. Bullock claims the monthly changes also are misleading.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Col., chairman of the House subcommittee on census and population, said she was considering public hearings to determine who is to blame and what the economic consequences are.

Terry said he had discussed Bullock's claims with two statisticians "of considerable repute." After they indicated Bullock might be correct, Terry said, he contacted Barabba. Barabba replied, according to Terry, that Bullock "may have something" and said the bureau was checking into the claims.

Ali quits

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali said today he is quitting fighting to devote himself to spreading the Moslem faith throughout the world.

"As of now," Ali told a crowd of reporters and photographers, "I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith."

Ali, 34, said his decision to end his boxing career came at the urging of Wallace Muhammad, leader of the Black Muslim community in the United States, who also is in Turkey at the invitation of the pro-Moslem National Salvation party.

Ali, who successfully defended his title Tuesday night in New York against Ken Norton, made his comments at a news conference in the Istanbul governor's office.

"Mark my words and play what I say right now fully," Ali said. "At the urging of my leader Wallace, I declare that I am quitting fighting as of now and from now on I will join in the struggle for the Islamic cause."

On Wednesday, the day after Ali's close and controversial decision over Norton, the champion said he would give some thought to retiring. But he also said he would like to fight the winner of a Norton-George Foreman fight.

End of the trail

Pampa, the first city in Texas to have a hike and bike trail for pedestrians and cyclists, now has a total of two and three-quarters miles of trail stretching from Zimmers St. on the west to Evergreen St. on the east. Shown here as they finished black-topping a gap fill-in between Yeager and Kentucky Sts. Thursday are Bill Jack, at the wheel, and Bill Vansickle, employee of the G.W. James Mat rials Co., Pampa. The addition to the trail, started in 1968, covers eight-tenths of a mile. The entire project was built at a cost of $17,392 contributed by the Gray Pampa Foundation.

Tax roll up $10 million

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The Gray County Commissioners Court this morning approved the 1976 tax roll at $111,625,780 — almost $10 million above the 1975 figure.

Judge Don Cain attributed much of the increase to the oil and gas industry.

He added that 1,817 persons have declared homestead exemptions which were reduced two cents on the $100 valuation this year — from 16 cents to 14 cents.

This includes those over 65 years of age, disabled veterans and military spouses, he said.

The tax rate is now $1.25 per $100 valuation with the exception of 95 cents on "ordinary homesteads." The assessment rate is 23 per cent of the market value.

In other business, the county approved a request by Metropolitan Ambulance Service for an increase in rates — from $1,400 to $1,600 monthly plus an increase in day and night calls. Day calls increased from $35 to $40 and night calls from $40 to $45. The change is retroactive to Sept. 15.

Judge Cain said this is the first raise. Metropolitan has been given since the firm took over the ambulance service five years ago.

The court approved land rights certification for five McClellan Creek watershed sites. Perry Grubley, Gray County District Conservationist, recommended the approval. The court also agreed to regrade about one-fourth of a mile on the Pursley road in connection with McClellan Creek project.

The road is located in Commissioner Ted Simmons McLean precinct.

A $1,000 bond for Venora Anderson Cole, who was appointed justice of peace for Precinct 2. Place II following the death of her father, the late E. L. Anderson, was approved.

Margaret McPhillips position as election judge for Precinct 12 was vacated when she became a candidate for the justice of peace post now held by Mrs. Cole. The new election judge is Myrtle Leigh with Aline Keel as assistant.

The justice of peace position now has three candidates for the post. They include Mrs. Cole, Mrs. McPhillips and Peg Baker.

The election will be Nov. 2.

Following a brief executive session, the court approved salary grade changes for 13 employees at McLean and Highland General hospitals.

Judge Cain said no department head changes were submitted to the court.

The next commissioners court session will be at 10 a.m. Oct. 12 in the county courtroom.

Mail registration possible 'til Sunday

According to a spokesman in the Associated Press office at Dallas, the latest word from Texas Secretary of State Mark White's office in Austin is that voter registration may be accomplished by mail if the proper form is postmarked before 11:59 p.m. Sunday and provided it is received on Monday by the local county tax assessor-collector or a deputy registrar.

Mrs. Julian Key at Republican headquarters said that mail in Pampa is marked simply "A.M." or "P.M." and for an envelope to be marked "P.M." on Sunday, it must be mailed at the Pampa Post Office before 6 p.m.

Today was the final opportunity for voters to register in person in Gray

County Courthouse for the Nov. 2 election.

Persons who did not register and who would like to vote in the Nov. 2 election may obtain forms for mail registration from either the Republican headquarters at 205 E. Kingsmill, or the Democratic headquarters in the lobby of the old Pampa Hotel.

Persons who will have lived in the county for 30 days prior to the Nov. 2 election and persons who will be 18 years old by that date may register.

Registrants are not required to declare party affiliation.

Texas who are properly registered will have a blue voter certificate which is necessary at the polls.

Persons with questions about voter registration may call White's office, toll-free at 1-800-252-9602.

CIA considered hiring Oswald

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contrary to sworn testimony, the CIA once considered using presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald as a source of intelligence information about the Soviet Union, according to a newly released CIA document.

In sworn testimony before the Warren Commission, Richard Helms, then a branch chief and later the CIA's director, said the agency never had "or even contemplated" any contacts with Oswald.

The newly released document, written by an unidentified CIA officer three days after President John F. Kennedy was killed in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, says that "we showed intelligence interest" in Oswald and "discussed" the laying on of interviews.

The memo was among hundreds of pages of documents from the CIA's file on Lee Harvey Oswald. The material was released to The Associated Press Thursday under the Freedom of Information Act.

A second document reveals that former CIA Director Allen Dulles, while serving as a member of the Warren Commission, privately counseled CIA officials on the best way to answer questions from the commission about allegations that Oswald was a CIA agent.

Dulles "thought language which made it clear that Lee Harvey Oswald was never an employee or agent of CIA would suffice," an unidentified CIA officer wrote Helms in April 1964.

"I agree with him that a carefully phrased denial of the charges of involvement with Oswald seemed most appropriate," the unidentified officer added.

When he appeared before the commission in May 1964, Helms, then head of the agency's clandestine services, testified under oath that "there is no material in the Central Intelligence Agency, either in the records or in the mind of any of the individuals that there was any contact had or even contemplated with" Oswald.

The Nov. 25, 1963, memo explains that the agency's interest in Oswald was a potential intelligence source was due to his "unusual behavior in the U.S.S.R." to which he had defected in 1959.

Arthell Gibson, 'Patience of Job'

Gibson got hooked on jewelry making

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Four years ago rain caused Arthell Gibson to cancel a fishing trip and since that time he has made about 250 rings, dozens of bracelets, four intricate squash blossom necklaces, buckles, slides for bolo ties, and other assorted jewelry items.

When it started raining and Gibson decided he wouldn't go fishing, "Joe Keel Jr. out here that runs Keel's Rock Shop, talked me into going to the gem and mineral show and I just shouldn't have. I went hog wild," Gibson joked.

Had he gone fishing instead he likely wouldn't have been hooked, but he obviously enjoys plying his talents at the new-found craft. And Mrs. Gibson likes her hubby's hobby too, and so do the daughters, granddaughters, mothers, nieces and others who now own samples of Gibson's art.

Gibson is treasurer of the Canadian River Gem and Mineral Society. Mrs. Gibson is president, which is interesting because she doesn't work with gems and minerals and silver the way Gibson does. But she does have an interest in the items he turns out.

"I wear them and I enjoy them and I brag," she said.

One item in her collection is a squash blossom necklace which took Gibson about 100 hours to complete. She said she was wearing it once at the Villa Inn at Amarillo and a man from New Mexico attempted to buy it from around her neck for $2,000.

She said that Gibson has "the patience of Job," and much patience is required when polishing tiny stones for settings. She said she has seen her husband use a grinding stone on such small bits of turquoise that some skin gets ground away too and he has to stop grinding periodically to wipe the oozing blood from his finger so he can again see his work.

"I can't stand to watch him do it," Mrs. Gibson said. "It makes me want to climb the wall."

Gibson's workshop contains several pieces of equipment representing a healthy financial investment but he said he accumulated the tools over the past four years. His first pieces were fashioned using a file and an inexpensive propane torch.

"The Indians didn't have a lot of equipment when they first started working silver and turquoise," Gibson said. Most of his work also is in silver and turquoise.

He said that an initial investment of $200 will outfit a beginner in the hobby with some useful basic equipment. But he added that lack of funds shouldn't deter someone from working with whatever is available at the start and adding to the workshop and the supplies cabinet as interest grows and capital allows.

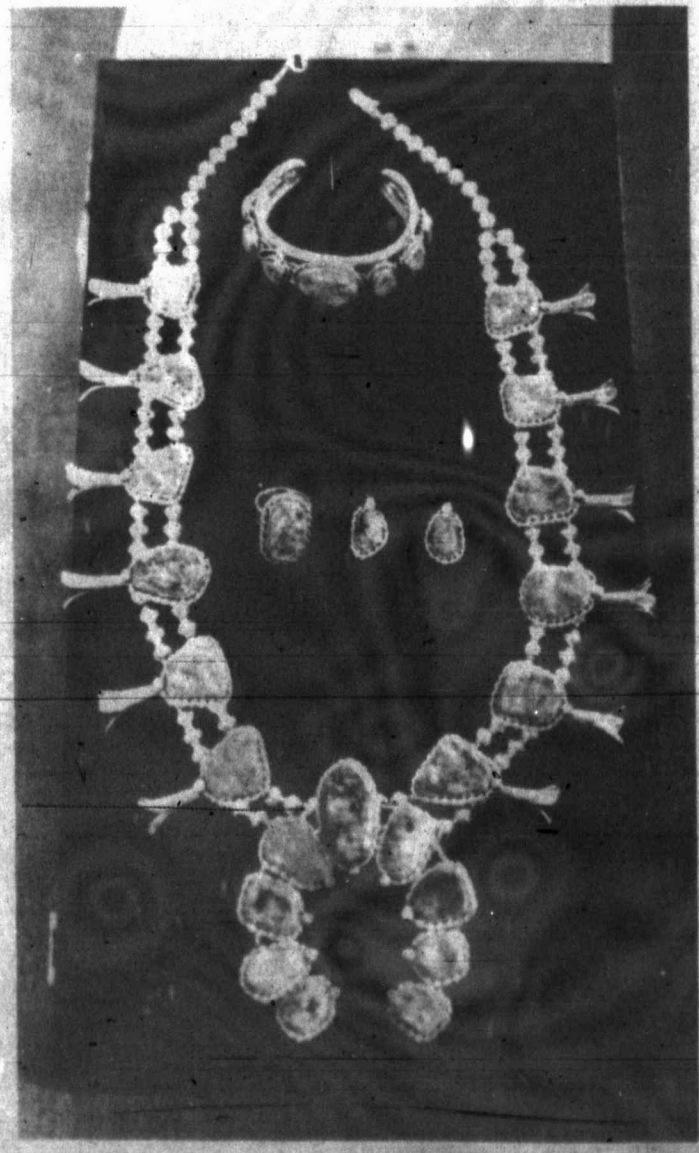

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gibson are looking forward to the annual gem and mineral show sponsored by their club. It is set for Saturday and Sunday at M.K. Brown Auditorium and will include such attractions as arrowhead chipping demonstrations by Ranger Ed Day of the Parks and Wildlife Service at Alibates National Monument, faceted demonstrations by Orle Greene of Borger, a pottery throwing demonstration by Peggy Northcutt of Clovis, N.M., and silversmithing exhibits by Gibson and Robert Ryan of Borger.

"We like to think we have the nicest show in the Panhandle," Mrs. Gibson said. "Our shows are so diversified, not just jewelry."

The Canadian River Gem and Mineral Society has about 50 members from Pampa, Borger, Lefors, Perryton and other area communities.

Mineral show tickets at $1 each will be available at the door. Hours of the show will be from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Show chairman is Doug Reeves of Lefors.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Covington Commandment.

Judge finds coercion won't go

The four Fresno, Cal., Bee newsmen finally were released from jail. The open-ended sentence designed to coerce them into revealing a news source was abandoned after the judge decided that his coercion was not and would not work.

The judge sentenced the four to a five-day jail term. But since they had already been in jail fifteen days, they were released. We have nothing but admiration for these four newsmen. They will now go down in history as protectors of our freedom in holding fast to a press ethic which has and will always help in the continuing fight for the people's right to know.

Their case and their determination will also help establish legal precedent for thwarting future attempts by government agents to dragoon newsmen and thus deprive newsmen of their best method to keep the people aware of what their public servants are doing. Remarks by the assistant county counsel are most revealing. In representing the judge he noted that appellate decisions agree with the Superior Court ruling that there is no constitutional right to keep sources secret.

But this minion of the law did not mention that there is also no constitutional right for a judge to deprive a person of his freedom and jail him on a contempt charge. There is also no federal legislative right given a judge for this action. As far as we can determine this "right" was assumed by judges from precedent out of the British Common Law jumping the revolution where the unbridled cord of British rule was cut.

Daniel Schorr of CBS news has just recently challenged Congress on contempt for this same sort of "offense." It appears now that he has also won out as he said that the power of Congress does not extend to muzzling the news media's efforts to get material or to punish reporters who don't cooperate in tracing leaders of information. "In some forty years of practicing journalism, I have never yielded to a demand for the disclosure of a source that I had promised to protect," Schorr said. "I cannot do so now."

"For a journalist, the most crucial kind of confidence is the identity of a source of information. To betray a confidential source would mean to dry up many future sources for many future reporters."

The reporter and the news organization would be the immediate losers. The ultimate losers would be the American people and their free institutions. Again to Daniel Schorr of CBS: to William Patterson and Joe Rosato, reporters, to George Gruner, managing editor, and James Bort, city editor, all of the Fresno Bee: we extend our thanks and gratitude for their efforts in behalf of all newsmen. Freedom loving Americans owe these men a great deal.

Anti-Zoning Grows As Indiana Voters Balk

In a referendum held in early May the voters in Pulaski County, Indiana (pop. 12,000), soundly rejected the adoption of a county zoning ordinance by a margin of 3,859 to 689, or about 85 per cent. Except for the town of Winamac, the county seat (pop. 2,400), the county is not zoned, and this was the first effort to zone it, and apparently the first county-wide referendum held in Indiana on the issue.

A month earlier, the Board of Supervisors of Adams County (pop. 71,000) in neighboring Illinois, put to rest by a vote of 22 to 5, a proposed zoning ordinance. Adams County had adopted zoning in September, 1958, but repealed the ordinance four months later after residents strongly protested. No further endeavors had been made to zone the county until the vote in 1976. It is reported that one half of Illinois counties still have not yielded to this regulation.

These results from both counties should not be surprising to those who follow zoning election. In the last several years, a small number of public elections on zoning were held in largely rural counties and each one suffered substantial defeat. The largest margin was in Newton County, Mo. (pop. 33,000) where the vote in May 1975 was 6,081 to 176, or 34 to 1 against.

Through the years, about 55 to 60 per cent of the votes held on zoning coming to my attention have ended up with the ordinance losing. Far fewer cities than counties have held referendums or straw votes on the matter, but even in these urban areas, the votes of which I am aware, have usually defeated zoning. Cities that have voted on the question include Houston, Baytown, Beaumont and Wichita Falls, Texas. I recently learned that the capital of Maine, Augusta (pop. 22,000), has held four votes on zoning, and the voters balloted substantially against, on each. Accordingly, Augusta has no zoning.

At least one conclusion is warranted from this information. Zoning cannot be considered an accepted good; it is clearly a controversial form of land use control, unacceptable to large numbers of people. Included in this group, it might be added, are a small group of professional planners who believe in non-planning or non-zoning as the wisest form of planning. Most of them belong to an organization called the Association for Rational Environmental Alternatives (AREA), headquartered in non-zoned Houston. They close the circle on the propensity of planners to favor virtually every conceivable form of planning.

Knowing how controversial zoning is, I find it disturbing to read opinions by justices of the U.S. and state Supreme Courts containing observations extolling it. Judges should be sufficiently informed to understand it has many opponents, and on that basis alone should avoid partisanship. They should attempt to confront zoning with a neutral attitude or possibly a highly skeptical one, considering that it operates to stifle rights protected in the U.S. Constitution.

It seems consequently inappropriate for a judge to observe that zoning when used to preserve the character of specific areas of a city is perhaps "the most essential function performed by local government, for it is one of the primary means by which we protect that sometimes difficult to define concept of quality of life."

This is a position on a political or social issue which is well within the province of those in government who make the laws, but not of those who have to weigh or balance those laws against the Constitution.

The author of the quoted portion is U.S. Supreme Court Justice Marshall, and is contained in his dissenting opinion in a case decided in 1974. Justice Powell repeated it approvingly in a recent case.

Admittedly both justices have shown doubts about zoning practices in dissents they prepared to opinions upholding zoning ordinances. Apparently for some reason they must feel this language does not indicate prejudice. Nevertheless, with at least two out of the Supreme Court's nine members setting forth views as quoted, the outlook does not appear very bright for attorneys seeking to curtail appreciably the operation of zoning.

Judges, like others, have biases, but unlike most of us, they are obligated to restrain them. The following observation by California Judge Leonard Friedman, suggests moreover, that prejudices favoring state controls are not consistent with the judicial function:

"The Constitution is not a set of neutral pronouncements. It is structure of law implicit with values: moral values, civic values, social values. It takes sides — usually the side of the individual, guarding his security, his dignity, his claims to equal and fair treatment, against the ponderous demands of the collective state. There is nothing neutral in the assertion of freedom of the press, in the guarantee against self-incrimination, in the guarantee of due process of law and equal protection of the laws."

Letter to editor

Editor:

A newspaper should be free to inquire as to what is taking place and to publish its findings, and to express the opinions of its editors and publishers. This has the beneficial effect of discouraging irregularities by public officials, and is certainly worthy of commendation and respect.

Publishers should, however, recognize the evident fact that this freedom which they have carries, a degree of responsibility. It is irresponsible, in my opinion, to engage in a practice sometimes referred to as "nit-picking," and I believe this was the case in a recent comment in the News regarding the City of Pampa picking up the tab for the expenses of the wives of the city commissioners making trips to attend meetings with the commissioners attend in connection with their official duties.

The commissioners are paid next to nothing for the services, and it can be and is a very real sacrifice for them to take the time from their businesses which is necessary to handle the business of the city. If they were being paid a salary commensurate with the value of their services there might be room for complaint, but as it is, it's picaresque to try to make it appear to be some kind of taxpayer "rip-off."

Another thing which occasionally crops up in editorial comment is hinting that some momentous malfeasance is about to be disclosed. Nothing concrete, just a hint that the lid may be about to be blown off and the rug pulled out from under some board or commission. My feeling about this is that if you have anything to say, then say it! And if you haven't anything to say, then skip it!

I have mentioned the sacrifices which our officials make in serving on various boards and commissions with very little or no pay, and I doubt that very many of our people realize what a sacrifice it can become. This has been very forcefully and painfully brought to my attention in recent times, and I can assure you from personal observation that there are non-paying positions which, in view of the time consumed and the fact that there is absolutely no future in them, should carry a salary of $20,000.00 per year, and would be a losing proposition at that!

IT'S NOT SIMPLE

Guiding young people to jobs

The underemployment of the overeducated was the subject of a speech made by O.L. Dunn, senior vice president of corporate development for General Electric. Dunn said, "No doubt a few educators and businessmen will insist there are simple answers to the complex challenge of guiding young people to qualify for jobs."

Their theory is that all you have to do is pass a law and set some arbitrary quotas. This ignores the fact that Washington has passed thousands of laws and through billions of dollars at other problems, usually with disappointing results.

"It is my opinion, the real solution to the problem of 'overeducated' must start basically down at the grass roots with a more precise understanding of the social and economic factors that influence the final result."

Since few young people stay with their first job, Dunn does not favor career education per se, but does state that is more college students gained a competence in the English language and basic mathematics they would be in more demand.

To this observation we add a hearty amen. It is disconcerting, to say the least, to hire a college graduate only to find that he really can't spell, does not know how to use a dictionary and has no skill in plain arithmetic.

These are basic adaptability skills that along with good work habits can lead to many careers. It is no longer true that a college degree is the only key needed to launch a career. Well-grounded basics can give any youngster the plateau from which he can extend needed education to most any field.

An understanding of the private enterprise system would be most helpful in attaining advancement for any young person. Sad to say, is the fact that our school system does not seem to recognize the basics of the system that has achieved the highest level of living for the individual. It is the envy of the world but is constantly downgraded by most of those who teach our youth.

How many teachers know that profit is the fuel that drives the job-producing engine? Or do they advance the idea that profit is a dirty word? According to Dunn, "Despite what some liberals and some teachers may say, a business can do only three things with the profit it earns: pay taxes, pay investors for the use of their money, and reinvest in the form of new plants and services which people buy, thus creating more jobs. Take away the profits and you take away the jobs."

Dunn finished his speech by saying, "what if a greater portion of this country's talented young people could be directed toward building a better, more energy sufficient America. As someone once said, 'it boggles the mind.'"

O.L. Dunn is right on target and we can only add, "may his tribe increase."

Chewing less hazardous

New hope for people who want to kick the cigarette habit is reported from England. Doctors at the Addiction Research Institute at London's Maudsley Hospital have been testing "nicotine gum" to help wean people off the weed.

Since nicotine is apparently the source of the stimulus smokers get from tobacco, by chewing the gum they can satisfy their craving without the hazards of tar and carbon monoxide.

Nicotine even in gum form is still a poison, however, and the gum is intended only as a temporary substitute for tobacco to tide smokers over their withdrawal problems. The experiment has been quite successful, says the institute. About 40 per cent of the smokers who have used the gum have remained nonsmokers for at least a year.

The time required for the earth to orbit the sun—that is, the length of an earth year—increases by about .04 seconds each century.

Prayer calms panic

By Robert Schuller
Practice prayer in the face of potential panic by using possibility thinking! You can!

He had been a missionary for many years in India. More than once he had encountered the giant python in his visits to the villages. "But I'll never forget the night it happened," he said. "It was my custom to kneel at my bed at night for prayer. That's when I suddenly felt the curling and crawling body of the python encircling my body. This Bible verse came into my mind, 'In quietness and confidence shall be your strength. I never moved a muscle. I remained as still as if I were the trunk of a tree until I felt him slither off into the rafters of the hut. Had I tensed up, recoiled, moved, or reacted, that giant python would instinctively have constricted and crushed me to death.'"

You, too, can survive and succeed with the calm controlling power that comes through prayer.

Remember the wonderful works that he has done, his miracles, and the judgments he uttered. — Psalm 105:5.

"What are the qualities that make for success? Judgment, industry, health, and the greatest of these is judgment." — Lord Beaverbrook, British statesman.

The word "hangnail" comes from the Old English, "hang," meaning pain.

Oil rig crewman denies untying rope

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Thomas Loftin, a crewman who escaped a sinking offshore oil drilling platform in a "survival capsule" with 19 other men, has denied untying the last line to a tugboat trying to rescue them.

He said at a Coast Guard hearing Wednesday, however, that he did unfasten a larger two-inch line from the capsule because it was holding the capsule too close to the side of the tug, causing them to hit together.

The saucer-shaped capsule overturned moments later last April 15 in the Gulf of Mexico during a storm off the Texas coast, drowning 13 of those aboard.

Loftin, from Woodville, Miss., was described as a crucial witness by Coast Guard officials.

He had been unable to testify previously because of injuries suffered when he was gaffed during the rescue.

The makers of the survival capsule testified last month that the unit was not meant to be towed, and blamed the tow line for capsizing it. But crewmen on the tug said the tow line had been released before the capsule flipped.

"The line (we had thrown to the tug) was definitely attached to the tug when I reentered the capsule for the last time," Loftin said. "It was taut and out of the water. Ten seconds later we capsized."

Other witnesses testified earlier that Loftin released the lines holding the capsule top to the boat," Loftin said.

Loftin said the rope he tossed off was a thicker one which the tug had thrown to the capsule. That rope had been holding the capsule up close to the tug, causing it to thrash against the tug's sides.

"I told the people on the tug they'd have to get us to shallower and calmer water before we could get from the capsule onto the boat," Loftin said. "They gave me slack and I threw the loop from the larger rope into the Gulf... and they gave me the okay sign."

He said that when he climbed back into the hatch of the capsule, the smaller line was attached and he assumed it would be used to tow them to a safer spot.

"It happened so fast," Loftin said. "It seemed like we just tilted over. We sort of swerved, and water — I don't know where it came from — it filled up just instantly. We were in the capsule a while — perhaps 45 minutes — and it was hot with diesel fumes real bad."

The capsule, it would rock back and forth. My head would go under water for what seemed like a minute. Then it lunged to one side and I could feel the pressure of the others right on me. I knew I was drowning. The next thing I remember was that they were trying to get me on the side of the tug and were rescuing me."

Loftin was pulled aboard the tug with a hook, and suffered back and lung injuries.

The $20 million rig Ocean Express was being towed from one drilling site to another when the storm hit.

Owners and other experts said they believed an underwater portion of the platform hit bottom and the heavy seas pushed it over.

Memoir report 'false'

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has not yet written the section of his memoirs dealing with the Watergate scandal and therefore a published report that he will maintain that he is innocent of any wrongdoing in the affair is "false," a spokesman for Nixon says. In its Wednesday edition, The New York Times quoted knowledgeable publishing sources in Europe and the United States as saying that Nixon would depict Watergate as a partisan battle, with himself as the victim of enemies out to bring him down. But Franklin Gannon, director of research for Nixon's memoirs, said in a statement released in San Clemente, Calif.: "The story is false because (former) President Nixon has not yet written the section of his book dealing with Watergate. Only Richard Nixon knows what he is going to say about Watergate." The Times had no immediate comment on Gannon's statement, but it had said in its story that its source saw 164 pages of manuscript dealing with Water-

Police official's death suicide

DETROIT (AP) — The suicide of a top police official who feared his career would be ruined by accounts linking him to alleged department involvement with narcotics has rocked the already troubled Detroit police force.

The suicide Wednesday of Deputy Chief Reginald Harvel, a 21-year veteran of the force, is the latest in a series of upheavals in the police department. On Tuesday the city's police chief was fired and replaced by the first black man to hold the post.

Recently, a federal grand jury has been investigating alleged police involvement in narcotics traffic.

Harvel, 47, was found dead in his Detroit home after his wife and son heard two gunshots from an upstairs bathroom where Harvel went to shave about 5:25 Wednesday morning. His .38-caliber police revolver was found a few feet away from his body.

"There's absolutely no doubt that it was suicide," Dr. Werner Spitz, Wayne County medical examiner, said today. Spitz said Harvel fired the shots as he crouched over the bathroom sink. The first bullet went through his rib cage and out of his body and the second bullet went into Harvel's heart and killed him, Spitz said.

Less than two days before he died, Harvel accused then-Police Chief Philip Tannian of trying to smear him because Harvel was a friend with the police department's former second in command, Frank A. Blount, one of the targets of the narcotics investigation. Tannian and Blount, who also lost his job in a recent departmental shake-up, were bitter rivals.

"I spent 21½ years on the force as a professional policeman and then a story comes out, putting doubt on everything I've done," Harvel told a Detroit Free Press reporter less than two days before his death in an interview published today. "I think it's part of an attempt by... (Tannian) to get me and everyone else connected with Blount."

On Sept. 20, Tannian accompanied federal agents who raided Blount's home to seize records in connection with the narcotics probe. Blount went on indefinite educational leave two days after the raid on his home. He has denied any wrongdoing.

On Tuesday, Tannian was fired by Mayor Coleman Young for not telling the mayor about the narcotics investigation. Tannian knew about it months ago, but did not tell the mayor. Local officials said Young had planned to get rid of Tannian and Blount to promote a smoother-running department, even before the mayor and the public knew of the probe.

Tannian was replaced by William Hart, the first black police chief in the city's history. Commander James Bannon, who is white, was named to fill the department's No. 2 position.

MODEL MAGIC

NEW HARMONY, Ind. (AP) — This historic small town, founded in 1814 as an "idealist community," and now revitalized as an important Midwestern cultural center, has added some magic moments for visitors to its historic restoration district.

An 1823 brick house, carefully restored on the outside, contains a circular, electronic scale-model of the town of New Harmony, exactly as it existed in 1824, complete to virtually the last tree and grapevine. As visitors watch, narration, Harmonist music and lighting effects tell the story of the town, while the model revolves, showing an entire day — in miniature — of the Harmonist community.

New Harmony was among the first towns in America with a free public library, kindergarten, co-ed public schools and chartered women's club.

Bus laws explained

"This school year, as in the past, the School Bus Loading Laws confuse many drivers," said Maj. C.W. Bell, regional commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The Uniform Vehicle Code in Texas requires the driver of a vehicle, meeting or overtaking from either direction a school bus displaying red flashing warning lights that is in the process of loading or unloading passengers, shall stop until the school bus starts moving, the red lights are no longer flashing, or the bus driver directs motorists to proceed.

"Freeways and divided highways add to the drivers' confusion," Maj. Bell added. "If a bus is on an access road, only the traffic on the access road must stop. However, if the bus is on a divided highway and pedestrian traffic does not normally cross the median or barrier then only the traffic on the portion of the roadway occupied by the bus must stop.

"It is most important that drivers observe the School Bus Loading Laws for the protection of our school children."

Filibuster threatens 94th

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As the 94th Congress works to wind up its work, the Senate is facing the threat of a filibuster that could kill legislation extending the deadline for auto makers to meet tough exhaust standards.

Sen. Jake Garn's pledge to talk all night and into next week to prevent a vote on the bill could delay final congressional adjournment. Both the House and Senate hoped to conclude business today and adjourn for the year to allow time for some political campaigning.

Garn, a Utah Republican, wants to kill legislation that would give a one-year delay, until the 1979 model year, for auto makers to reduce carbon emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons. Prohibitions against "significant deterioration" of air quality in relatively smog-free areas of the country are also included.

Garn claimed the auto industry needs a longer postponement and that the other provision would impede economic growth.

The bill is the product of a House-Senate compromise following two years of congressional hearings. The House may take up the proposal today if it clears the Senate.

The Senate is also to consider a doubling of the unemployment tax on employers and extending jobless benefits to all state and local government workers. The House must also vote on the bill.

The House plans to debate and vote on a grain standards bill designed to halt the abuses of the federal grain inspection program uncovered in recent investigations.

The House may also consider a resolution offered by Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., seeking the expulsion of Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., because of Hinshaw's bribery conviction.

On Thursday, Congress overrode President Ford's veto of a $56.5-billion appropriations bill and passed an extension of the revenue-sharing program that Ford has promised to sign.

The appropriations money is for the departments of labor and health, education and welfare. Ford had objected because the proposal was $4 billion more than he had requested for the agencies.

The final version, which Congress enacted with the override votes, contains a limitation on the use of federal money for abortions except where the life of the woman is endangered.

The $25.5-billion revenue-

sharing compromise would return federal tax money to states, counties and local government units through 1980. Ford had linked passage of this bill with his action on two jobs bills. One would provide $3.7 billion in public works jobs and the other would extend 260,000 public service jobs in state and local governments.

The President announced that he would sign both bills after the revenue-sharing measure passed.

He also said he would accept a second version of legislation authorizing $3.3 billion for construction at military bases and other military facilities. He vetoed an earlier version because it contained provisions that would have delayed for a year any actions to close or realign major military installations. Congress took these other actions Thursday.

LAW ENFORCEMENT
The House and Senate passed and sent to the President a three-year, $2.5-billion extension of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the program designed to help state and local governments fight crime. Some $15 million a year would be set aside for community anticrime programs.

This bill also limits an FBI director's service to a single 10-year term.

COPYRIGHT
Congress approved a substantial revision of U.S. copyright law, the first such revision since 1909. The measure, which now goes to President Ford for action, gives authors and composers copyright protection for their lifetimes plus 50 years. The current maximum term of a copyright is 56 years. Sponsors said the updating was necessary because of technological developments like radio and television, computer storage and copying machines.

ENERGY
The House agreed to a bill giving Congress veto power over the presidential decision on where to build a pipeline for transporting Alaska natural gas to the lower 48 states. The Senate must act on the bill before it can go to the President.

It gave the Federal Power Commission until May 1, 1977, to study pipeline routes and make recommendations to the President. Public comment would be accepted until July 1, when the council on Environmental Quality would be required to hold public hearings before submitting its own recommendation and report to the President.

CENSUS
The Senate authorized a population count every five years beginning in 1980. The bill, which now goes to the House, provides for a mid-decade census every 10 years to go along with the regular decennial census.

PUBLIC LANDS
Final legislative approval was given to a limited resumption of clear-cutting in national forests. Both the House and Senate acted on the bill repealing an 1897 law that has been interpreted as a ban on clear-cutting. Entire stands of forests are leveled in the clear-cutting process instead of felling trees selectively.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Hurricane Liza, churning in the Gulf of California, drove clouds all the way inland to extreme West Texas today.
Skies stayed clear across the rest of the state. The weather was mild as light winds fanned all sections.
Forecasters looked for the moisture-laden clouds to bring scattered showers and thunderstorms in the West Texas mountains. Otherwise little change was in prospect.
Early morning temperatures ranged from 67 degrees at Galveston on the coast down to 51 at Wink in the west. A 91 at Presidio in the Big Bend country was the top mark in the state Thursday.

National weather

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms rumbled early today over the mid-Atlantic coast while showers extended inland into the central Appalachians.
Scattered rains moistened extreme southern New England. Heavy thunderstorms washed southern Florida.
Thunderstorms set off flash flood watches over parts of northern and southeastern California.
Hurricane Liza, in the Gulf of California about 400 miles south of Nogales, Ariz., continued to move northward at about 20 miles per hour. Winds gusts as high as 150 m.p.h.
In the Atlantic, Hurricane Gloria was about 575 miles east-northeast of Bermuda, and was no threat to land.
Temperatures early today varied from 31 degrees at Houlton, Maine, to 89 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Tortillas can be illegal

DALLAS (AP) — It's not that eating tortilla chips is illegal, a pizza parlor manager explained to his client, but eating them in the wrong place at the wrong time can be illegal.
Mrs. J. E. Ellis learned this truth the hard way. She was put in jail for eating her Mexican delight in a pizza parlor, where she didn't buy the chips.
She testified in court Thursday that her husband and three children "were dying for pizza" one night last August while she was on a Mexican food binge. So she said she compromised.
"I got my Mexican dinner to go and kept my family company in the pizza parlor," she testified.
Mrs. Ellis said she had no intention of eating her Mexican dinner in the pizza restaurant, but decided to compromise again and settle for a few tortillas.
"I took a tortilla chip out of the box and started munching on it."
The manager informed her that bringing outside food into the restaurant is illegal, and told her she had to leave.
"I told him I'd put away the tortilla chips, but I didn't want to leave until my family had finished their pizzas," she said.
When the manager repeated himself, Mrs. Ellis said she pointed to people at the next table who had brought an ice cream and cake and were openly eating it. She asked why they weren't asked to leave.
About five minutes later the police arrived, took Mrs. Ellis to jail and booked her for criminal trespassing.
Corporation Court Judge Francis Goodwin dismissed the case.

WILLFUL WINE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sherry is among the oldest of wines.
According to Rand McNally's "Entertaining With Wine," all sherries, which are made by a continuous blending of old and new wines, century after century, fall into two basic categories: the light, dry fino and the darker, robust oloroso.
The vintner can't plan which type he will make — the wine decides and develops for itself.
The wine maker, according to the book, must simply watch, wait and accept.

Halfway house director accused of heroin sales

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The director of a Corpus Christi halfway house for reform school children made three separate sales of heroin to a federal undercover agent, the agent has testified.

The last purchase was for 26 1/2 pounds, worth $10 million on the street, Frank Balazs testified Thursday.

Balazs, of the Drug Enforcement Administration, told U.S. Magistrate Phil Sanders the purchases were made in Austin from June through August.

Mrs. Mendoza has been acclaimed for her rehabilitation work, including a 1973 award from the downtown Sertoma Club in Fort Worth for "Service to Mankind."

Sanders held a joint bail review hearing and preliminary hearing for Mrs. Mendoza and her brother in law, Oscar Mendoza. The hearing was recessed until 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Sanders said, "I think there is probable cause to bind the accused over to the grand jury," but I can't rule on that now and still be able to rule on the bail."

Balazs said he met Mrs. Mendoza on Aug. 4, bought two ounces of heroin from her on Aug. 5 for $3,250, bought one kilo (2.2 pounds) from her on Aug. 18 for $25,000, and bought 12 kilos (26 1/2 pounds) from her on Sept. 28 for $320,000.

After being cut and recut several times, each gram of the cut heroin would be worth $10 to $25 on the street, he said. There are 457 grams to a pound, and each pound of heroin would become several pounds with recuttings.

Balazs testified he "flushed" $230,000 in front of Mrs. Mendoza at a motel shortly before she delivered the 26 1/2 pounds in a gold vinyl zippered suitcase that she took out of the trunk of her Lincoln Continental Mark IV. He never gave her the money, he said, but her delivery of the drug constituted a sale under law.

Mrs. Mendoza told him she and her husband owned land in Mexico, including two mountaintops of marijuana and a cave with a heroin laboratory, he said. They were negotiating for land on the Yucatan Peninsula where they would build an airstrip to be used by their contact in Colombia, he said.

She also told him she passed border checkpoints without inspection because of her Texas Correctional (Institution) window sticker, he said.

Mrs. Mendoza's husband, Arturo, and Eldridge Sneed are held in Corpus Christi on charges of conspiracy to distribute heroin. Mrs. Mendoza faces that same charge. Oscar is charged with possession of heroin.

Cain dismisses assault charge

Gray County Judge Don Cain heard pleas from nine persons on 10 charges Thursday and he dismissed a charge against one person in Gray County Court.

William Richard Robinson, 22, of 856 E. Locust, entered a guilty plea to possession of marijuana under two ounces. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Jerry Wayne Horton, 20, of 1101 S. Finley, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 60 days jail and 180 days probation after he entered a no contest plea to possession of marijuana under two ounces.

Also charged with possession of marijuana under two ounces was Ronald J. Dunn, 32, of 416 W. Crawford. He entered a guilty plea and was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail and 180 days probation.

A no contest plea to driving while license suspended was entered by Roy Lee Williams, 43, of 519 Oklahoma. He was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 72 hours in jail.

Marvin M. Finney Jr., 27, of Lefors entered guilty pleas to charges of driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days jail and six months probation.

Ernest Mathis Jr., 33, of 112 W. Albert entered a no contest plea to theft $200. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days jail and six months probation.
Assault to cause bodily injury charges against Lois Jowers of Pampa were dismissed.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Carter, family was company guest

WOODBINE, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter and members of his family spent several days as guests of a major Georgia company at a rustic forest resort while he was governor of the state, company records show.

Jack Murdock, general manager of the facility, said Carter was invited to Cabin Bluff to discuss with a company official his plan for merging the state Forestry Commission with the Georgia Department of Natural Resources.

Federal jury deliberates 3 accused of jail raid

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — A federal court jury deliberated today the fate of three men charged in a raid on the Piedras Negras, Mexico, jail last March in which 14 Americans were freed.

Jurors heard closing arguments and the judge's charge late Thursday in the case of William McCoy Hill, Sterling B. Davis Sr. and Billy Jack Blackwell, charged with conspiracy to export illegal firearms.

Earlier in the day, one of the liberated Americans testified that the man who masterminded the raid, Donald Fielden, 28, later threatened to kill some of the former prisoners unless they paid him thousands of dollars.

Kari Jorgenson, 23, of Georgetown, Colo., said Fielden telephoned her after the March 11 raid at the Piedras Negras jail across the border from Eagle Pass, Tex.

He demanded that she pay $5,000 for her freedom and arrange for three friends each to pay the same amount for a total of $20,000, she testified.

"He said he (Fielden) would come to Colorado and bag us up and take us back to Mexico," said Miss Jorgenson.

Fielden, a burly ex-Marine who testified he organized and led the raid while paid by Davis to free Davis' son, is the state's chief witness. He has testified that Hill and Blackwell accompanied him on the raid, for which he was paid $5,000 by Davis.

He pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of conspiracy to export an illegal firearm.

Miss Jorgenson, testifying for the defense, said she feared for her life after Fielden threatened to kidnap her. She said neither she nor her friends paid. Jeffrey Garafola of Alexandria, Va., another of the released prisoners, testified that Fielden called him also about money.

But Garafola said he explained that he was in trouble with the law in Virginia, where he was on probation, and could not come up with a "large sum of money."

He said Fielden called again later and asked him to get in touch with Miss Jorgenson and the other ex-prisoners in Colorado.

"He called and told me he was about ready to go to Colorado, bag them up, put them in the trunk of his car, take them to the border and dump them in the river," Garafola related. Fielden told Garafola nothing could stop him and that if he did not get his money, he would "get them when I get out" of prison.

"I am going to kill them," Garafola quoted Fielden as saying.

Garafola said that before the jail raid the American prisoners were working on a "pot" to reward anyone who broke them out of the jail. Each prisoner had promised to put about $3,000 into the pot.

Sterling Blake Davis Jr., son of the man who allegedly financed the raid, testified he thought Fielden "had lost all his marbles" when he first met him during Fielden's initial visit to him at the jail about a month before the raid.

The Coast Guard says boat hooks are not required equipment, but they are valuable when mooring or when needed to retrieve pets, preservers and people "over the side."

Levi handed over information which led to Ford probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and other top Justice Department officials handed the Watergate special prosecutor the information that started his investigation into President Ford's congressional campaign finances, a department official says.

The Justice Department's involvement began when an unidentified informant told the FBI about alleged campaign spending irregularities in Ford's former congressional district in Grand Rapids, Mich., the official said Thursday.

The FBI referred the informant's allegation to Levi, a member of Ford's Cabinet. After Levi conferred with Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley and other top Justice Department officials, the decision was made to send the matter to Watergate Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff.

The department official said Tyler sent Ruff a memo in July describing the informant's allegation because Ruff is responsible for investigating any charges of campaign financing irregularities.

In the last two weeks, investigators under Ruff have been examining financial records of Republican campaign organizations in Kent County, Mich., and Grand Rapids. Published reports say the investigators are seeking to determine whether any contributions to the GOP organization were illegally diverted to Ford's personal use.

Ford told reporters Thursday that he had never diverted any campaign funds and he said he was confident that Ruff's probe would come to that conclusion. Asked if he thought the investigation was politically motivated, the President said he "would not under any circumstances question the motivation or the timing" and he said he had "full confidence" in Ruff.

Ford also said he had instructed his staff to refrain from asking Ruff what the investigation was all about because Ford said he thought any such approach could be "misconstrued."

Ford's views apparently conflict with those of Sen. Bob Dole, Ford's vice-presidential running mate, and other Republicans who have suggested Ruff's probe is politically motivated because it surfaced so close to the Nov. 2 election.

Planes to land here

Approximately 175 persons and 60 airplanes already are registered for the 1976 All-

Texas Air Tour's overnight stop in Pampa Saturday, Oct. 9, according to Marvin Bridwell, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee.

Pampa will be the final stop on the 8-day tour which will start from Temple on the morning of Oct. 2 and set down in 32 towns covering all sections of Texas during the week that follows.

The planes will arrive at Perry Lefors Airfield at 4:40 p.m. and the tour group will be guests at a reception and awards banquet at 6:45 p.m. in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

Air tourists from all sections of the United States will make the 28th annual tour, according to Bridwell. They will be welcomed by Mayor R.D. Wilkerson.

The public is invited to the reception and banquet and reservations may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office.

Following the overnight stop here, tour members will leave at 6 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 10, to return to their homes.

Democratic headquarters set for old Pampa Hotel

Democratic Headquarters will open Saturday in the lobby of the old Pampa Hotel, according to Ruth Osborne, immediate past 31st district committeewoman.

The headquarters will be operated daily until the Nov. 2 election by the Top O' Texas Democratic Club, J.L. Holmes, president. Rex McAnelly, county Democratic chairman, said that he and the precinct chairpersons will work with the TOT Club in operating the headquarters.

Mrs. Osborne said that campaign literature and buttons will be available at the headquarters.

Grocery bills are up again

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer
Higher prices for a variety of items boosted grocery bills during September, but the rate of increase in supermarket costs so far this year remains relatively low, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed the marketbasket bill increased last month at the checklist store in nine cities, with an average boost of 3.5 per cent. Several of the increases, however, were because items on special at the start of September were no longer on sale a month later.

The marketbasket bill decreased in September at the checklist store in four cities, down an average of 1.5 per cent. Overall, the marketbasket bill rose 2 per cent last month.

During August, in contrast, the marketbasket bill decreased at the checklist store in 11 cities and rose in only two, with an over-all drop for the month of 2 per cent.

Comparing prices at the start of October with those at the beginning of the year, the AP survey found an over-all increase of a little more than 1 1/2 per cent in the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores. The government has predicted that food prices alone will rise 3 to 4 per cent this year, less than half the rate of increase last year.

To some degree, the increases in the latest survey reflected seasonal factors. Milk, for example, went up in price in nine cities and was unchanged in four. The increases generally were only a penny or two.

Sugar prices continued their decline, dropping at the checklist store in eight cities during September. The price of a five-pound sack of granulated sugar also dropped in eight cities during August.

The trend may be reversed shortly, however.

President Ford has increased the tariff on imported sugar from 62 1/2 cents per 100 pounds to $1.87 1/2 per 100 pounds. About 45 per cent of the sugar consumed in the United States is imported and producers said the increased tariff would boost retail prices by about a penny a pound.

Meat prices, which had been declining recently, started rising again in several cities. The price of a pound of center-cut pork chops, for example, increased during September at the checklist store in seven cities, according to the AP survey.

Carter, family was company guest

WOODBINE, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter and members of his family spent several days as guests of a major Georgia company at a rustic forest resort while he was governor of the state, company records show.

Jack Murdock, general manager of the facility, said Carter was invited to Cabin Bluff to discuss with a company official his plan for merging the state Forestry Commission with the Georgia Department of Natural Resources.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26 and the mother of two boys, ages 3 and 5. My mother, a widow, lives about an hour's drive from me, but I refuse to visit her again because of the condition of her house.

She NEVER washes her kitchen and bathroom floors! The toilet doesn't work, and the stench is unbearable. She has so many cats running around you can't count them, and you can smell their urine even before you open her front door. (She burns candles to mask the odor.)

I don't claim to be a perfect housekeeper, but I can't tolerate filth and germs. I'm so afraid my children will pick up something there. My oldest son refused to sit on her toilet. I cleaned up the place a year ago but she hasn't done a thing to it since. The last time we were there she wanted to give us dinner, but we lied and said we just ate. My husband won't even have a glass of water there!

Abby, I've done all I can. I feel guilty not visiting her, but I just can't stand the way she lives. Am I wrong?

ONLY DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes! Your mother must be sick to live with the conditions you describe. Please pack her up immediately and take her to a doctor for a thorough physical and mental examination. She should not be living alone!

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell your ex-mother-in-law who insists that you are still part of her "family" that you don't want to be?

I hate to come right out and insult the woman, but I may have to. I have been divorced from her daughter for three years and am now married to another woman, but whenever my former mother-in-law sees me, she calls me "Son." She keeps trying to be friendly with my present wife, telling her that she is also now part of her family.

This irritates me to no end, Abby. There is no religious reason for her ignoring my divorce since she is an atheist.

BOTHERED IN NEW MEXICO

DEAR BOTHERED: If she wants to consider you and your wife part of her "family," let her. YOU know better, but nothing will be gained by insulting her or making an issue of it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old attractive divorcee who has been going with this 59-year-old widower for the last two years. He has five grown children and I have four. My youngest is 18, and she recently got her own apartment.

I really love this man, but he says he will never marry me. He has money and he's very generous. We've taken several nice trips together, and he is fun to be with. But I have the feeling his children don't care much for me.

Sometimes I think maybe I should be looking out for my future and spending my time with men who might marry me. Do you think I go with him for another year I might be able to break him down?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UN: Thank your lucky stars he was honest enough to tell you he's not marriage material. Look for a man who is.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I recently had my gall bladder removed and at the time of the operation they also took a liver biopsy. They told me that I had a fatty liver and that I should avoid all alcohol. I don't drink anyway. The doctor didn't put me on any special diet or anything and only said to avoid stress.

I couldn't work for four months and at the end of that period I went back in the hospital for another liver biopsy. It showed no change in the condition, but my doctor allowed me to go back to work. I just had to avoid smelling certain solvents and chemicals (which I don't work with anyway).

My question is, what causes a fatty liver and what can be done about it? I'm sure there's something I can do to reverse it. Since I don't know what I did wrong to get it, I don't know if I'm continuing to make it worse unwittingly.

DEAR READER: — Deposition of fat in the liver can occur in any number of conditions that damage the liver. Use of alcohol is only one example. Starvation can do it because the mobilization of fat stores for energy overloads the liver with fat. It also happens in untreated severe diabetes and after inflammation of the liver. The fatty liver is sometimes replaced then by abnormal architecture of the regenerated liver and scarring, resulting in the condition we call cirrhosis of the liver.

My guess is that the fatty liver is secondary to the disease you had of the gall bladder. There isn't much you can do about it. I may not progress to anything more serious for you. I would suggest though that you take an all purpose vitamin tablet every day and that you make sure your diet contains at least seven ounces of lean red meat each day. Why? Because the meat contains choline, a substance that helps prevent deposition of fat in the liver. It will not harm you and may be very helpful. To give you more information on the liver, how it works and what fatty liver and cirrhosis means I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-8, Living With Your Liver. Others who want more information on this subject can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB: — I am annoyed with people blaming my sensitivity to cold weather — San Francisco wind or drafts — on poor blood. I give to the blood bank every three months and am in good health, never get cold hands and feet. What is the medical reason for this? I'm 52 years old, 5 feet 11 and weigh 113 pounds. I have thin arms and legs. I am easily chilled, especially around the neck, arms and back.

DEAR READER: — The sensation of chilliness is dependent upon nerve fibers in the skin and this does not necessarily mean a person's body is cold. It may mean that the body is trying to conserve heat and has shut down the flow of blood to the skin but that has nothing to do with poor circulation.

My guess is that you chill easily because you have no internal thermal underwear. What do I mean? I mean no fat pad. Fat tissue insulates the body and holds body heat in. That is why fat people don't tolerate hot weather well. Be thankful you are thin as you will stay healthier longer. Just put your insulation on the outside as clothing. You can take that off or put it on when you need to, which your friends with weight problems cannot do — so rejoice and count your blessings.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY: — My Pet Peeve is with those inconsiderate smokers who go to a restaurant and only order coffee. Then they sit there drinking coffee and smoking one cigarette after another, not caring about those who are trying to eat a meal, while gasping from the smell of cigarette fumes. — HELEN.

DEAR POLLY: — To get out that last drop of toothpaste in a tube, put the cap on lightly, lay the tube on a hard surface such as a board or table and press or roll the tube with your rolling pin. Roll from the bottom of the tube toward the top. Then roll up the pressed tube. — ALICE.

DEAR POLLY: — When your pillowcases wear thin and start to have holes in them, be lazy. Simply fold them in half along the closed side, cut a small hole in the middle, slip over the hook on a clothes hanger and have dandy clothes covers. They are much nicer than plastic ones and are easily washed. — KATHLEEN.

Don Cooper financed wanderlust by logging

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

Don Cooper started logging in his native Montana at age 13 and in the years that followed used his lumberjack skills to support his wanderlust.

Cooper was in Pampa Tuesday to speak at the section's first Knife and Fork Club meeting in the Coronado Inn.

He said he became interested in timber possibilities in the South Pacific during World War II and after the war he returned to Mindanao in the Philippines to cut mahogany.

In the years that followed, Cooper logged in Central and South America and in the wilderness areas of Alaska.

"I logged on some of the last river drives," Cooper said, adding that he was a lumberjack in Alaska off and on for 20 years.

He called Alaska the "last true wilderness." Although the government has set aside wilderness areas in the continental United States, he said these are wildernesses only because people are kept from settling them. Alaska, he said, is a wilderness because "people haven't got there yet."

"I think in time Alaska will be settled," Cooper said. "As the population grows, people will need somewhere to go."

He predicted that the state will be settled "in another five generations" as technology develops new methods to combat the cold.

Cooper said he keeps his presentations in a light vein. "There's so much grim news all the time anyway," Cooper said. "I feel people are anxious to laugh. I like the Knife and Fork Clubs because they are not out to solve the problems of the world, but they want to be informed. "People are sick and tired of the pompous hero," Cooper said, describing that person as one "who dives deeper and comes up drier."

But when the topic turns to the logging companies and conservation, Cooper reveals his serious side.

The logging industry, he said, has a "very bad" record on conservation.

"On public lands and in national forests," Cooper said, "less than seven per cent of the trees are replanted. On private timber holdings, it's another story."

He said the procedure on federal lands is the clear cut. "It's terribly efficient, but it's deadly to the future of the forest. It's a dead land when they clean cut."

"They (the logging companies) deny this, but I've seen too much of it."

Many loggers, he added, have a genuine love of the land and are concerned by the clear cut policy.

In the past, Cooper added, timber companies practiced "selective logging" — taking only the mature trees and leaving the young trees to insure perpetual yield.

"When they went to clear cut, that's when I started to get out," Cooper said. He has not been active in logging for the past five years.

"Alaska," he said, "is our last big stand of timber and last year 87 per cent of the timber taken in Alaska went to Japan. It takes 150 years for a tree to reach maturity in Alaska."

Decrying the clear cut, Cooper said, "The logging companies won't treat their own land like that."

Cooper said that an audience will turn off if a speaker tries to preach to them, but he said "if you get them listening for a punch line, you can plant an idea in their minds."

He started his second career of public appearances almost by accident.

Some Hollywood film industry people were stormbound in Alaska and he showed them some film he had been shooting. That screening led to an offer to appear on a local Los Angeles television show and the requests for bookings started to come in.

Now he makes about 230 speeches each year and he shows a film at some of his appearances. His Pampa address did not include a film.

He returns to Alaska often to update his film footage and he now lives with his wife and two sons in the house where he was born in Montana.

He said he was in his 40s before he married and he called his years — 18 months and five years — old — "the greatest adventure I've ever had."

Cooper said he likes to tell his audiences that from his mother he inherited "a love of nature and a great wanderlust." From his father, he said, he got sinus trouble and an "oddball sense of humor."

And that unlikely combination is what made his career as a logger and part-time gold prospector and commercial fisherman possible.

"My wanderlust kept getting me in trouble which my oddball sense of humor enabled me to handle."

Carson tiring of role after 14 years on air

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)

Johnny Carson likes his job, but is beginning to think like a U.S. president halfway through his second term.

The star, host and catalyst of "The Tonight Show" says that in two or three years he just might switch to hosting periodic network specials — not because he's tired of what he's doing, but for a change of pace if the ratings start to drop.

There's no sign of that happening, although the 50-year-old Carson celebrates the 14th anniversary of his comedy-variety talk show Friday. No matter what competitors throw up against NBC, Carson doesn't drop from No. 1 in the Nielsen ratings for more than a night or two. About 15.2 million people watch the 90-minute show on an average night, says a network spokesman.

As a result, Carson's annual salary of more than $1 million is the highest paid to a TV entertainer, NBC says, although some folks earn more on an hourly basis. He has more than 12 weeks of vacation a year, most of it spent appearing in nightclubs and on stage. He works about six hours a day, four days a week, for NBC. A guest host handles Monday night's program, and the ratings dip that night.

"We're going to start our 15th year and the show is still popular. It's high on the ratings. I still have fun with it," Carson said in an interview. "But obviously you can't do this forever."

The star has a stock answer for how long he'll continue. "Basically the audience tells you when to quit."

Then he takes a drag on one of the unfiltered cigarettes he chain smokes.

"I don't know how long I'll do it, but I think if I saw the show start to go downhill or start running second or third or something, then I'll get up and say, 'Hey, maybe this is the time to step out.'"

"I'd probably do maybe six specials a year, or something like that. I'd get into where you didn't appear that often and could spend a little more time putting a show together."

"But I really don't know what the specials would entail. I mean if that's two years off or three years off or whenever it might be, you'd have to see what's on television and what's working and what isn't working."

Two years?

"Possibly. I don't like to say that because NBC might get skittish if I say I'm going to do it two years and that's it. I haven't set any date or anything like that."

The network says Carson's contract runs two more years.

For the anniversary special Carson will have an additional 30 minutes for reruns of favorite past shows. They'll feature Jack Webb, Dom DeLuise, Bart Reynolds, Ed Ames and others who have appeared on "Tonight" over the years, interspersed with a bird caller's contest, a demonstration of dominoes falling into intricate patterns, and a spoof of a television editorial rebuttal.

Carson plans "a monologue and a little piece of material live" — but no live guests.

"We tried that once on the 10th anniversary and it really didn't work. We had a lot of people come in and sit around and give those phony congratulations which never come off very well."

But Carson is concerned with what the viewer won't see. He shakes his head and stares at a multi-page memo. "It just kills me," says Carson.

The problem sounds like a show biz version of missing Watergate tapes. A network spokesman, Joe Bleeden, says almost none of the tapes from the early years and not many more from later years were saved. It's only been during the last year or so, Carson says, that each program has been saved in its entirety.

The tapes are gone, "because nobody gave it much thought," says Bleeden.

"I think it was kind of shortsighted on NBC's part," Carson says. "We don't have the first show we did. We don't have Barbra Streisand's first appearance (before she was a star). We don't have Bill Cosby's first appearance. We don't have Flip Wilson's..."

Also missing are the tape of an appearance by the late Judy Garland, and a tape of Richard Nixon, then a New York lawyer and former vice president.

Topical humor, not controversy, is Carson's stock in trade.

He wins beautifully

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson gave Wallace M. Harkey a $1,000 check Thursday as winner of her annual contest to pick the state highway maintenance supervisor who does the best job of highway beautification.

Harkey is responsible for about 200 miles of roadway in Presidio County and has been maintenance foreman since 1971.

Runner-up award in ceremonies held at the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park went to Morris Harrison, supervisor in Leon County.

U.S. Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman was present for the ceremony. Former state Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd of Odessa was master of ceremonies.

Anne Hobbs Purdy's spirit still strong after 50 years as pioneer

By KATHLEEN BEASLEY
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)

Anne Hobbs Purdy rode into Alaska on a pack train nearly a half-century ago, at 19 a teacher anxious for some pioneering.

Alaska today, she says, is overdeveloped — "commercialized and exploited to the nth degree" — but she won't move. "I don't want to. This coming summer I will have seen there 50 years — I'm part of Alaska."

Mrs. Purdy is the coauthor of a biographical novel, "Tisha: The Story of a Young Teacher in the Alaska Wilderness." It's the product of 11 years of collaboration with author Robert Sprecht and details Mrs. Purdy's life in the old mining community that is still home.

Mrs. Purdy lives in Chicken, a near-town close to the Canadian border, about 200 miles east of Fairbanks.

There are 10 or 12 permanent residents. Where we live there are no conveniences — we have to haul water because it's permafrost and you can't sink a well. We burn wood because there's no electricity. There's no industry, so children move away when they grow up."

She arrived in Chicken from Oregon a cheechako — a greenhorn with no knowledge of the difficulties of the wild.

At first, she recalls, she was respected and befriended as the new teacher — with capital T. "Teachers," she says, "are looked up to there. They are one of the most important people in the community, birthing, burying and marrying the residents."

But that soon changed.

When I showed I cared for a half-breed man, they weren't about to take that. Some even wanted to take my teaching credential away."

It wasn't just her love for half-Eskimo Fred Purdy, the man she would marry 10 years later. She also took in two orphaned Indian children and soon had them in class with white children. Her ideas never were accepted by other pioneers, but in the ensuing years she adopted eight more abandoned children. It was her neighbors' contempt, too, that delayed her marriage to Fred Purdy.

Thinking about that promise (to marry) now, I almost have to smile. Trying to keep it was like making a trip by dog sled in a snowstorm: You know where you want to go, but you can't be sure how long it's going to take or where you'll wind up along the way."

Purdy died 10 years ago.

"He combined the best of both races — the gaiety and laughter of the Eskimos and the good judgment of the whites. I had something that few people have — he was utterly devoted to me and I loved him completely."

She lives today with Lynn, one of her adopted daughters. Her children have all grown and gone their ways — the youngest is a geologist in Alaska at the age of 22.

Soviet citizens spout off in letters

EDITOR'S NOTE — Soviet citizens write letters to the editors of their controlled press, but one newspaper seeks letters from people with ideas on how to improve everyday living. Here's a sample of what they wrote about.

By SETH MYDANS
MOSCOW (AP) — "If I were director, I would put a special garage for baby carriages in every apartment building," a man in Leningrad wrote to the editor of the Soviet newspaper Literary Gazette.

"I would demand that the police enforce the laws against profanity," a Moscow lawyer wrote.
 "I would decree that every school give dancing lessons as well as singing lessons," said a letter from a woman from Chelyabinsk.

In the last two years, 3,000 Soviet citizens have given a glimpse of their daily concerns in letters to a regular column in the Literary Gazette called "If I were the Director."
 The letters, as selected by the newspaper's editors, include a variety of suggestions about everyday conveniences, but few thoughts about the larger questions that confront the Soviet Union, such as housing problems, harvest shortfalls and shortages of consumer goods.

 These questions are not generally the subjects of public discussion in a nation where almost every detail of daily life is controlled by the government.

And under an economy not guided by market considerations, consumer demands, like the following, often are not resolved as they can be in the West:
 "I would open special clothing stores for very tall people."
 "I would sell special knives for peeling potatoes, carrots and fruit."
 "I would keep stores open during lunch hours so people could shop during their time off."
 "I would take a high-level government decree to implement the suggestion: 'I would only allow building superintendents to come to work after 7 a.m. so people could get a little sleep."

 Some of the letters suggest innovations that are already taken for granted in some Western countries:
 "I would put parking lots at all airports. Many car owners — and their numbers are increasing — could start off on a business trip by driving to the airport."
 "I would install radios in the seats of aircraft so people could listen to music during the flight."
 "I would print health warnings on cigarette packages."
 Other letters have a universal appeal, and could have been written by dreamers in almost any country:
 "I would have separate cars on trains for people with noisy children."
 "I would require markets to round off the prices of their items, to speed up the checkout lines."
 Intrigued by the response to its "Director" column, the Literary Gazette editors recently surveyed 500 of their letter writers. They found that the people with the most ideas for improving Soviet life are middle-aged men with good educations, living in the European cities of the Soviet Union.

Traffic ticket 'ridiculous'

MIA MI (AP) — Earl Petinsky is crippled by polio and restricted to driving at speeds of 12 miles per hour or less in his specially equipped three-wheeler. But now he's got a ticket for driving too slow.
 "The officer was nice to me. He was just doing his job," said Petinsky. "And I'm just trying to get by."
 His employer, however, was not as gracious, and described the traffic summons as "ridiculous."
 "People like Earl ought to be rewarded. He is trying to be self-sufficient. It's fantastic to see this much gumption. What's he supposed to do, lock himself in the bedroom and never go out?" says Earl Stuart of Fox Enterprises.
 To get to his job at Fox Enterprises, Petinsky must travel part of the way on busy streets, and police say he got the ticket in July for driving too slow on one of those streets.

 He was scheduled to appear in traffic court today to answer the traffic summons.
 Petinsky, 28, paralyzed from the waist down since the age of 2, says he can't drive a car at normal speeds because of his reaction time.
 He used to travel the 2½ miles from his home to his job as a telephone answering machine salesman in a battery-powered wheelchair. But last January he was struck by a car. He was hospitalized for three weeks and his chair was demolished.
 His parents bought him his current vehicle, a three-wheeler similar to a golf cart. It has a gasoline engine and is equipped with lights, license plates and hand controls.
 Petinsky, a graduate of Miami-Dade Community College, also acquired a driver's license, which restricts him to the 12 m.p.h. maximum speed. A governor is fitted to the vehicle to keep its speed down.

 "This individual has already been involved in one accident," a Miami police sergeant said. "The officer who gave him that ticket is an outstanding gentleman. He does not write garbage tickets. On the street, our function is safety."

 But handicapped activists say they see the ticket as an example of laws which they charge deny the afflicted their basic rights.
 "What are we supposed to do, sit on our duffs and draw welfare?" said Stephen Groff, a polio victim who has known Petinsky for 16 years and is executive vice president of an automotive chemicals firm. "Bicycles use the roads, don't they? If Earl Petinsky gets a ticket, then the laws need changing."

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Betty Newling Bloomingdale, wife of a member of the Bloomingdale department store family, was fined $5,000 for showing a customs inspector a $500 invoice for several thousand dollars worth of designer clothing.
 U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence T. Lydick, who imposed the sentence Tuesday, told her that she "deserved the contempt of society which has served you so well." He also placed her on one year's probation.

Mrs. Bloomingdale said she was "truly sorry" for presenting a customs inspector an invoice for $518.65 for two Christian Dior dresses valued at $3,880. She had pleaded guilty to a charge of concealing an invoice.
 Her husband, Alfred S. Bloomingdale, is a former president of Diner's Club, the credit card firm, and a member of the department store family.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Susan Ford, 19, served President and Mrs. Ford a dinner she cooked herself of steak, corn on the cob, spinach salad and turnovers with ice cream.
 "I brought a sandwich along," the President quipped as he arrived Tuesday at the apartment of Miss Ford and her three roommates.
 "The Fords and Susan's roommates posed outside for photographers before dining."

TORONTO (AP) — Marshall McLuhan, media analyst and director of the Centre for Culture and Technology at the University of Toronto, says it is unlikely either Gerald Ford or Jimmy Carter will come out swinging in their second televised debate.
 He said Tuesday that because of images both U.S. presidential candidates are trying to project the Oct. 6 debate should be similar to the first.

 "The temptation will be for them to come out swinging," he said. "But it'll ruin them if they do. You can't do that on television."
 McLuhan said the first debate, last Thursday, was "lousy television." He objected to the set's design and reporters who questioned the candidates. He suggested an informal setting with less authoritative questioning, therefore making the candidates appear less inept.

DENVER (AP) — Singer John Denver has contributed $25,000 to a campaign backing a constitutional amendment that would restrict development of nuclear facilities in Colorado.
 Denver, donor to similar proposals in at least two other states, also will give a benefit concert Oct. 13, with proceeds going to Coloradans for Safe Power, the group backing the proposal.

COLLIERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jerry Lee Lewis accidentally shot a member of his band while the two were playing with a .357 magnum pistol, authorities say.
 Norman "Butch" Owens, 31, was listed in critical condition Tuesday night at St. Joseph Hospital.
 The bass player, who has been with Lewis' band for three years, was wounded in the upper right chest about 1:35 p.m. Tuesday at Lewis' home here, said Herbert Goforth, Collier-ville chief of police.

New truck routes may bypass smaller towns

By BILL HOLLYER
Pampa's Washington Bureau
 WASHINGTON — Legislation is now in a House transportation subcommittee that would overthrow existing rules governing truck routes between cities and allow drivers to choose routes they find more profitable and convenient. Presently, the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) draws all trucking routes, monitors drivers' compliance, and follows up on complaints from dissatisfied customers. Officials at the American Trucking Association, a Washington based trade association, say that this attempt to deregulate the industries' routes will eliminate truck service from many small towns. Moreover, a study released recently by the Department of Transportation (DOT) says that residents of small towns are satisfied with the service they're getting from the private trucking industry. Researchers found, when questioning residents of small communities around the country, that "truck service was expressed as being acceptable," and that while "not perfect and somewhat expensive, was held generally dependable and satisfactory." Proponents of the legislation say it will let drivers pick their routes and have full trucks coming and going and will allow more truck companies into the market. Currently, says John W. Snow, Administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, "over 25 per cent of ICC (Interstate Commerce Commission) regulated vehicles are travelling empty" when they return from a run. Opponents say that the new rules will isolate small towns because, in some cases, they will be out of the way for a driver hauling between two large cities. Researchers identified "small towns" as non-suburban communities with fewer than 50,000 people, and say that about 30 per cent of people in the U.S. live in such communities. FISH OR CUT BAIT — The General Accounting Office (GAO) has recommended to government officials that the food additive saccharin be removed from grocery shelves if safety questions cannot immediately be resolved. According to Congress' watch dog agency, the artificial sweetener has never been found to be completely safe after researchers first raised the health issue in 1970. At that time, mice injected with saccharin showed a significant incidence of bladder cancer, but the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) failed to order regulations on saccharin use. Now, after it was asked by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to investigate the delay, GAO says the FDA should conclude its study of saccharin and either order a regulation or order a complete ban of the additive. Saccharin is an artificial sweetener used in place of sugar to limit calorie intake. Researchers say that it is 350 times sweeter than sugar and must be combined with other substances before it is added to food. According to the report, approximately 5 million pounds of saccharin were used in food in 1974, with the bulk, 74 per cent, in diet soft drinks. Recently, however, saccharin has been used for non-food products such as mouth wash, cosmetics, tobacco, and medical supplies. A replacement for saccharin is in the making. It's called aspartame, and like saccharin is an artificial sweetener. As of June 30, 1976, FDA officials had not ruled on its safety. Until they do, dieters must continue to drink saccharin flavored soft drinks — or switch to water. PETITION DENIED — The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) denied a recent petition by a Colorado public health veterinarian asking for a ban on imported animal hair products contaminated by anthrax, a disease found in animals such as cattle, sheep, goats, horses and swine. Anthrax can be transmitted to humans who handle the hair, hide, or carcass of an infected animal. The Commission turned down the request after determining that no "unreasonable risk" to the public was associated with imported animal hair products. Statistics from the Center for Disease Control indicate that only two or three people contract anthrax in the United States every year. In boating, good house-keeping is even more important afloat than ashore. Cleanliness reduces the hazard of fire.

DPS reports 23 August accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 23 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of August according to Sergeant James W. Powell area Highway Patrol supervisor. These crashes resulted in no persons killed and seven persons injured. The rural traffic accident summary for Gray county during the first eight months of 1976 shows a total of 114 accidents resulting in one person killed and 63 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for August shows a total of 566 accidents resulting in 16 persons killed and 319 injured, as compared to August 1975, with 596 accidents resulting in 16 persons killed and 292 persons injured. The 16 traffic deaths in August occurred in the following counties: three each in Parker, Hansford; two each in Donley, Motley; one each in Deaf Smith, Foard, Lubbock, Lynn, Montague, Palo Pinto.

Economic pause could mean new expansion just around the corner

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
 NEW YORK (AP) — We are now examining the economic pause, wondering if it is the exhaustion of a tired old cycle or the pacing of a young and vigorous expansion that will soon reassert itself. We don't know. What we are certain of is that economic activity has slowed, and not just in scattered areas or in particular industries. The manifestations are found broadly, in sales and stocks and consumer attitudes, to name a few areas. The index of leading economic indicators ceased advancing in August for the first decline in 18 months. Durable goods orders fell in August for the second month in a row. There are layoffs in steel. Should we therefore bury hopes of a continued advance? By no means. To do so would be to produce the consequence we hope to avoid. There is still lots of hope, and even some bullishness. In their public statements, businessmen continue to be optimistic. As expected, the salesmen on Wall Street are convinced the economy is merely resting itself for a gigantic leap. And the econometric model makers assure us their numerical reconstructions of the economy produce a very positive answer. While their efforts are understandable, their impact has been small. Fabian Linden, consumer director of The Conference Board, put it as well as it can be put: "We appear to be in the middle of an awesome yawn," he said. "Our measures of consumer sentiment and buying plans are going nowhere," he added, and "none of the economic indicators are telling us with conviction where the economy might be heading." Linden's comment was made before the latest report on leading indicators, which showed a drop of 1.5 per cent in August, but they still might hold. One month doesn't make a quarter. It takes at least three months of declines to establish a downturn, said John Kendrick, chief economist of the Commerce Department. "If there are further drops in the index for September and October, the economy is in trouble." Kendrick expressed some optimism that components that make up the index might be improving this month, but the mere fact that they dipped, even, if only briefly, suggests some weakness. The coincidence with the pause of the political conventions and the presidential and congressional races hardly can be ignored, suggesting possibly that the uncertain future of political economics might be playing a role. In a consumer society, of which the United States is the leading example, the role of individual attitudes toward spending, and the role of leadership, are paramount economic considerations.

Carter attacks Middle East move

Promote foreign policy stands

By DAVE RILEY Associated Press Writer Their debate on foreign policy is less than a week away...

Meanwhile, Ford continued his strategy of remaining at home in Washington where he was meeting foreign ministers...

formant and that the FBI referred the matter to Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler. It was Tyler who sent the matter in July to Watergate special prosecutor Charles Ruff.

There's been no constant search to correct the deprivation of human rights... there's been no openness because there's a lot to be concealed.

Mondale did not specify what shelters he was discussing, but in the past he has said they include such things as tax allowances for oil companies and deferrals that postpone taxes on overseas income.

First swine flu shots to be given today

By DEAN LOKKEN Associated Press Writer

America "rolled up its sleeves" today for the first swine flu shots, the largest immunization program in the nation's history.

pected by week's end. However, William Schatz of the state Department of Health and Social Services predicted that much of the vaccine would arrive too late to do any good.

agreed to relieve the four vaccine manufacturers and states of insurance liability for the mass immunization.

DETROIT (AP) — Commander James Bannan, a police officer in charge of Detroit Police's 2nd precinct, recently received a doctorate in philosophy from Wayne State University.

His doctoral dissertation was entitled, "Assault Upon Police Officers."

Bannan, 47, thus has become the only man in the Detroit Police Department with a doctorate.

In his 26-year police career, he has won 38 citations including a Distinguished Medal of Valor and two Medals of Honor, the highest recognition in the Detroit Police Department.

First Baptist Women plan luncheon meet

The Baptist Women of the First Baptist Church will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday for a covered dish luncheon in the church's Fellowship Hall.

A general meeting and royal service program will follow the luncheon.

The Jessie McKinney Current Missions Group will meet at Furr's Cafeteria at 5:45 p.m. Thursday.

OBEDIENCE TO GOD

Man's eternal welfare depends on the proper attitude and understanding of this subject. On one occasion when the rulers of the Jews threatened the apostles with punishment for teaching in the name of Jesus, the apostles replied, "We ought to obey God rather than men." (Acts 5:29).

It would have been easier and much more pleasant for the apostles to have obeyed the Sanhedrin. But there is no substitute for obedience to the will of God. Jesus said, "Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven" (Matt. 7:21). Emotions, prejudice and empty profession often keep people from learning the truth. They think they are doing the will of God when they are not.

Jesus spoke of some people who wanted to make religion spectacular. "Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? And in thy name have cast out devils? And in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you; depart from me ye that work iniquity" (Matt. 7:22). They may be sincere and really think they have done all these things. But their desire is not to please God, rather they make a big show of religion. However, Jesus said of them, "I never knew you." He also asked, "Why call ye me, Lord, Lord and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6:46)

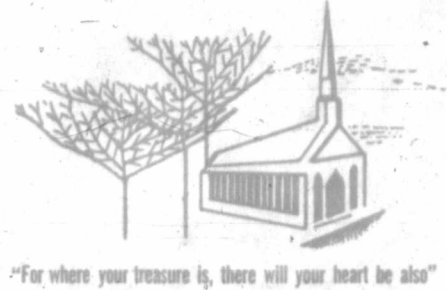

For one to think he is right does not make him right, not anymore than one can make himself rich by thinking he is rich. "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" (Proverbs 16:25). Cain thought he was right, but he was wrong. (Gen. 4:6-7). Nadab and Abihu were undoubtedly sincere in their disobedience; but they did not escape the consequences. (Lev. 10:1-2) "Small sins" do not look bad to a lot of people. But if a Jew gathered a few sticks and built a fire on the Sabbath day he was stoned to death. He had violated only one of the ten commandments, but the result would have been no worse if he had violated all of them.

What is YOUR attitude toward the law of God and obedience to it? Think carefully. It will determine your eternal destiny!

It may be looking at a picture magazine, or riding toys, or for parents it may even be sharing knowledge of the day's events that bring joy.

God's people have a desire to share with you in the greatest joy, that of worshipping together in God's House. ATTEND CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Newcomer to challenge Groom tonight

GROOM — A couple of newcomer coaches to District 1-B will be on the sidelines tonight when Groom hosts Wheeler, also a newcomer to the district, in an all-important football confrontation.

Kickoff is at 8 p.m. in Tiger Stadium.

Russell Roberts of Groom and Wheeler's Preston Smith are in their first years at the helm and both have piloted their teams to three-game winning streaks in the first part of the season.

Groom, last year's state runner-up in Class B under Coach Don Sessom, is 3-1, having lost its opener, 13-12, to Claude then whipping Miami, Textine and McLean. Wheeler is 3-0, with shutout wins over Shamrock and Pollett and a 35-10 victory over tough Lefors a week ago.

Wheeler was reclassified from District 2-A to the smaller-class district this year because of the University Interscholastic League's state-wide realignment.

The Mustangs are led by tailbacks Marvin Grimes, a sophomore, and Don Brown, a quarterback last year. Grimes has gained 348 yards on 64 carries, while Brown, who missed last week's game on offense with an illness, has 278 yards on 51 attempts.

Fullback Dell Ford had his best game of the season last week in Wheeler's 35-10 win over Lefors with 128 yards on 17 carries.

Tackle Jim Verden, a 6-3, 235-pounder, and guard Tim Patterson, 195, anchor both Wheeler lines. Verden will meet Groom tackle Jay Witt head-to-head both ways tonight. Witt, 6-2 and 240, had his best game of the season last week in a 51-0 win over McLean, according to Roberts.

Witt will be making holes tonight for fullback Christ Britten, an all-stater on offense and at linebacker a year ago, and Thomas Reed, a tailback with breakaway speed.

Britten, who was out last week with a shoulder injury, has rushed for 292 yards on 57 carries.

Wingback John Krizan's best effort in a game was last week when he gained 83 yards. Krizan, like Britten and Reed, racked up more than 1,000 yards last season. He has been used sparingly as a rusher this season.

"It's not his fault that he's not getting many yards. We're just not running him much. John's a real fine blocker and a lot of Chris's yards are because of John's blocking.

"We thought because of our inexperienced offensive line, we had to use our slotback blocking."

Groom's line, which averaged about 225 yards per man a year ago, was a question mark at the start of this season but seems to have gotten stronger in every game. It is smaller overall this year, with the average weight being 175 pounds.

"They (the Tigers) may be better than last year," Smith said. "I don't think there's anybody else in this district that can beat them."

"Britten's probably the best football player in this district."

About Brown, Roberts said, "He's a very talented young man. He's got the ability to do a lot of things. He's big and strong."

Battle of the heavies

Wheeler's Jim Verden, who is 6-4 and weighs 235 pounds, and Groom's Jay Witt, 6-2 and 240, will meet head-to-head tonight at Groom as their teams square off in an all-important District 1-B encounter. Both teams are unbeaten in conference warfare and both are ranked high in the state by the Harris Rating System — Groom is fifth and Wheeler is 11th. Verden and Witt are among the area's best linemen.

Ohio State remembers UCLA

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

At Ohio State, UCLA is a dirty four-letter word.

Whenever the subject of last season's Rose Bowl game comes up, Buckeye disciples everywhere venge themselves.

The Bruins cost Woody Hayes' team a national championship by beating Ohio State 23-10 in the memorable Jan. 1 bowl game at Pasadena. Now it's replay time in Columbus.

"We'll be very, very positive in what we do," says Hayes about Saturday's meeting with the fourth-ranked Bruins at Ohio Stadium. "We've got to go to the field not making these mistakes we've been making."

Hayes is not only acutely aware of the return bout with UCLA's spoilers, but also of the specter of losing two straight games at home. That hasn't happened to Ohio State since 1971.

The Buckeyes, who lost to Missouri 22-21 last week, haven't been the confident bruisers of past seasons. They've made mistakes uncharacteristic of Hayes' teams — piling up almost twice as many penalties as the opposition during their 2-1 start.

"Some have been earned, some unearned," says Hayes. "It could show a lack of experience more than anything else."

UCLA, although 3-0 on the season and ranked higher than No. 8 Ohio State, will play the role of underdog in this rematch of intersectional powers. And UCLA Coach Terry Donahue doesn't wonder why, considering the intimidation of Ohio Stadium.

"We don't really know how good we are," says Donahue, whose team owns victories over Arizona, Arizona State and the Air Force.

Michigan, the nation's top-ranked team, doesn't figure to have as much trouble with its opposition at Ann Arbor, the Big Ten Wolverines face Wake Forest, an Atlantic Coast Conference team of far less stature.

However, the role of prohibitive favorite has Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler coached. Exercising an old coaching prerogative of pessimism, Schembechler cautions: "Wake Forest is the kind of team that can be a lot of trouble for us."

Another top game Saturday will be No. 6 Georgia against No. 10 Alabama, a battle of Southeastern Conference powers. An overflow crowd of 50,000 is expected at Athens, Ga., for the game between unbeaten Georgia and once-beaten Alabama.

Elsewhere among the Top 10,

No. 2 Pitt plays Duke; No. 3 Oklahoma faces Iowa State; Miami, Fla., visits No. 5 Nebraska; Villanova tackles No. 7 Maryland and No. 9 Kansas hosts Wisconsin.

In other games, it's No. 11 Louisiana State at Florida; No. 14 North Carolina at No. 12 Missouri; No. 15 Boston College at Navy; Auburn at No. 16 Mississippi; No. 18 Notre Dame at Michigan State and No. 20 Penn State at Kentucky.

Rookie Altgelt, Armstrong deadlocked for Sahara lead

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Stan Altgelt made a fond appraisal of the new putter that staked him to a share of the first round lead in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

"It's a goofy-looking thing," he said, "but it gets the job done."

It certainly got the job done Thursday. Altgelt, a 27-year-old tour rookie used the red-and-white striped "Demon" putter — which features a ridge on the face that imparts a forward roll to the ball — in competition for the first time. He one-putted 10 times on the way to a seven-under-par 64 that enabled him to tie the Wally Armstrong for the top spot.

"I got it going early and I managed to make some putts," said Altgelt, the first man off the tee.

"I really wasn't very motivated when I was practicing this morning," said Armstrong, who already has assured himself of a spot in the top 60 money-winners and an exemption for next year.

"I told that to my sponsor. He said, 'Well, there's $27,000 worth of motivation out there

(the first place prize). That got me to thinking a little."

With that in mind, Armstrong, a non-winner in four years on the tour, played his first nine holes in six-under-par 29 and then birdied his final hole for a piece of the lead.

The term "hot corner" was used to describe third base in an 1889 game in Cincinnati.

USL forfeits grid victories

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Use of an ineligible player has cost the University of Southwestern Louisiana the forfeit of its two football victories and barred the Ragin' Cajuns from competing for the Southland Conference championship.

A USL spokesman said Thursday the school unintentionally misinterpreted student transfer rules in allowing punter Ken Mathews to play.

Mathews transferred from Tampa, which dropped football to Valencia (Fla.) Junior College, which has no football program. He then transferred to USL.

National Collegiate Athletic

Association rules say a student athlete transferring from a four-year college to a junior college and then to another four-year college must be a junior college graduate in order to be eligible for football. Mathews did not graduate from Valencia.

The penalty was imposed by the conference executive committee.

"Our reading of the rule was different from the conference office," said Coach Augie Tammarillo.

Tammarillo said he told the team about the ruling and "the initial reaction was basically good. We will know for sure Saturday night against Louisiana Tech."

Tascosa, AHS head field in Pampa tourney

Defending champion Amarillo Tascosa and 3-AAAA favorite Amarillo lead head a field of seven teams in the Pampa Invitational Girls Golf Tournament today at the Pampa Country Club.

Play in the tournament, which opens area girls golf play, began at 9 a.m. today.

Tascosa has won the tournament the past two seasons. Amarillo High is the defending district champion.

"Amarillo High followed by Tascosa will be strong in the tourney," Pampa Coach Tommy Lindsey said. "We'll try to be competitive. They (the Harvesters) had a little anxiety today (Thursday)."

"For most of them, it's their first tournament. They have a few butterflies but that's a good sign. It indicates they care about what they're doing."

Only one Pampa player has experience — junior Rene

Wright. Other players on the Harvester team are junior Sandy Britton and sophomore Jo Ellen Jones, Terri Edwards, Beth Hill and Lisa Parker.

Parker and Hill competed in the junior tour program at the Pampa Country Club, while their teammates have little competitive experience.

"We'll be real inexperienced," Lindsey said. "I thought we'd have some more players but two of them moved away."

Teresa McCabe and Karen Weigel, both juniors and on the varsity last year, moved to Canadian and Pennsylvania, respectively, leaving Lindsey with his smallest team in three years.

Leading the way is Doug

PHS linksters begin season

HEREFORD — Pampa, which won here two years ago and finished third last fall, opens its boys high school golf season today in the 13-team Hereford Invitational Tournament.

Teams entered include Pampa, Amarillo High, Amarillo Tascosa, Amarillo Palo Duro, Amarillo Caprock, Borger, New Mexico Military Institute, Lubbock Monterey, Lubbock High, Lubbock Coronado, Plainview and host Hereford.

Amarillo High, District 3-AAAA champion last season and favored to repeat in the spring when conference play begins, is a strong choice to win this tournament.

Tascosa, which returns three starters off last year's team, may also contend for the title. And Pampa? "We're inexperienced," Harvester Coach Deck Woldt said.

"We could have a good team. We'll be looking for five players for district here in these fall tournaments."

Leading the way is Doug

McFtridge, the only senior on the team. The four other players in Hereford today are juniors Scott Barrett, Pampa's only returning letterman, Dusty Hudson, Grant Johnson and Scott Nichols.

Nichols edged Doug Eubanks, a junior, for the fifth spot during 72 holes of qualifying competition, which has been going on since the start of school.

McFtridge had the top average — 80 — after the qualifying rounds. Barrett averaged 81 and Hudson 82.

"You can't shoot 80's and be strong in district," Woldt said. Pampa was third in 3-AAAA last year.

"We have a chance to be a surprise this year. In the first 10 players we have, they've all played through the junior high golf program. I think we could have a good golf season but a lot of things are going to have to happen."

Pampa had four seniors, including District 3-AAAA medalist Wiley McIntire, on last year's team.

"Doug will have a lot of pressure on him. He'll be our only senior. We had senior leadership last year," Woldt said.

Others on the Harvester team include junior Danny Williams and sophomores Chad Darsey, Ed Sackett, John Noncaster, Stan Tinny, Johnny Regan, Damon Harvey, Bud Kent and Brian Sargent.

Big gainer

Pampa sophomore fullback Julian Clark breaks loose for a long gainer in his team's 26-21 win over the Dumas junior varsity Thursday night in Harvester Stadium.

Pampa 3rd in offense

Pampa, open this week, is third in total offense and fourth in defense in District 3-AAAA statistics.

Pampa has rushed for 769 yards and passed for 177 for a 946 total and 236.5 average. The Harvesters have won their last three games for a 3-1 record.

Defensively, Pampa has allowed 615 yards on the ground, second worst in 3-AAAA, and 240 in the air for an 855 total, and 213.7 average. Only 35 yards separate the second, third and fourth place teams defensively.

Amarillo Caprock has allowed 210.5 yards and Amarillo High 212.5. Amarillo Tascosa is first in defense with a 176.0 average.

Tascosa also is the district's worst offensive team, averaging 192 yards.

Leading rusher in the district is Palo Duro fullback Mike Stumbo with 76 carries for 412 yards (5.4 average). Pampa's David Caldwell and Ricky Moore rank third and fourth, respectively.

Palo Duro's Bill McElduff has been 3-AAAA's most accurate passer with 10 completions in 20 attempts for 227 yards and three touchdowns. Amarillo High's Brett Jordan is second with 187 yards, followed by Mike Lancaster of Pampa with 168.

Pampa freshmen teams whip visiting Borger

Doug Smith and Billy Willingham scored on touchdown runs of five and 30 yards, respectively, as the Pampa Junior High freshmen A-team clipped previously undefeated Borger, 14-6, Thursday at the PJH field.

Smith scored in the first period, and Willingham in the third. A pass to Keenan Henderson gave Pampa two extra points after the second TD. Borger also scored in the third quarter.

"The defense was superb," Pampa Coach Bob Young said. "In the freshmen B-team game at the junior high field, Steve Milligan scored on a one-yard run in the first period, and Steve Glover tallied on a five-yard sweep in the final quarter, as Pampa won, 12-0, over Borger."

Jeff McDougall caught a 30-yard pass from Kenny Waller to set up the first touchdown.

The Pampa eighth-grade red team edged host Hereford LaPlata, 12-8. Danny Wren ran 70 yards for a third-quarter score, while Sam Edwards passed to Steve McDougall for 10 yards and a TD in the last period.

Borger scored its eight points in the first period.

"Each defensive player played excellent. Standouts were Arthur Williams, Tam Bailey and Chris Reeves," said Bert Vandiver, Pampa coach.

Perryton edged the Pampa blue team, 8-6, at Shocker Field. Pampa scored in the first quarter on a touchdown by Mark Qualls. Perryton came back with a TD and conversion in the second quarter.

Rod Walker recovered two fumbles to lead Pampa defensively.

Pampa sophomores tip stubborn Dumas, 26-21

Richard Wuest around right end, Dumas came back in the third quarter to lead 8-6.

Kerry Adair scored on a four-yard run in the third quarter as Pampa regained the lead. Dougherty threw to Fitzer for two extra points and a 14-8 advantage.

The go-ahead touchdown was set up by a 20-yard tipped pass reception by Roger Paulson. The Pampa sophomores are 1-2 for the season.

KC could clinch today

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals hope to clinch the American League West pennant tonight without the help of the California Angels, but Manager Whitey Herzog will take it anyway he can get it.

"We just want it," says Herzog, "the sooner the better."

After weeks of apprehension, the Royals can finally win the West title by beating Minnesota tonight. And even if they lose to the Twins, they can still win the divisional championship if the Angels defeat the Oakland A's later in the evening.

"I'd like to see Frank Tanana go to Oakland and beat the A's," says Herzog, who has been chased down to the wire by Charles O. Finley's gallant team.

Herzog has nominated Doug Bird to pitch against Minnesota's Dave Goltz in the game at Royals Stadium. However, Herzog is still undecided about a starter for Saturday. He leans toward Dennis Leonard in the event that Kansas City is still in a pennant race.

"But, I'm not certain. I've got some decisions to make on pitching," says Herzog, hopefully lining up his staff rotation for the American League playoffs.

off against the Eastern champion New York Yankees next week.

Herzog's players, after several weeks of holding off a fiery homestretch charge by the A's, at last seem to be breathing easier. A victory over Oakland-Wednesday night gave the Royals a comfortable 3 1/2-game lead and reduced their "magic number" to one.

Harvesters walk by Hereford, 15-0, 15-11

Pampa whipped Hereford, 15-0, 15-11, in a girls volleyball non-conference match Thursday night in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Harvesters, 15-1 for the season, substituted freely in the second match which accounted for the closer score.

"We looked pretty good," Pampa Coach Lynn Wolfe said. "Nobody's really put us to the test so far. These other teams aren't spiking it to us. We can't tell what we're going to do defensively in district."

Amarillo High, a District 3-AAAA opponent, has been the only team to beat Pampa this fall. The Harvesters open district play Thursday at Amarillo Caprock.

In the junior varsity match against Hereford, Pampa won, 15-2, 15-3. The Shockers are 6-0 for the year. Pampa travels to Dumas in the final non-conference match Tuesday.

Bills host Kansas City, and OJ's yards-hungry

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

O.J. Simpson has rushed for 105 yards. That's not unusual. But it's taken him three games to get them. That's unusual.

The super-runner of the Buffalo Bills, who made the 100-yard game a commonplace occurrence the past few seasons, has been anything but super this year.

And he figures it's time he get his act together. The curtain-raiser may come Sunday against the visiting Kansas City Chiefs.

"I may not be as sharp as I want for extemporaneous running, making cutbacks and improvising once I get out there. But I think I'm in shape now," says Simpson, who sat out the entire preseason, on the verge of retirement, then rejoined the Bills on the eve of the season's start when owner Ralph Wilson Jr. came through with a bundle of money.

In Sunday's other games it's Washington at Chicago, Dallas at Seattle, Houston at New Orleans, Oakland at New England, Philadelphia at Atlanta, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Tampa Bay at Baltimore, Detroit at Green Bay, the New York Giants at St. Louis, Los Angeles at Miami, San Diego at Denver and the New York Jets at San Francisco. Monday night's game is Pittsburgh at Minnesota.

The Bills are one-touchdown favorites to beat the Chiefs, even though Kansas City has won six of the last seven games against Buffalo. The last time they met, however, it was a big day in a big season for Simpson. He sashayed through the Kansas City defense for 157 yards enroute to his 2,003-yard season and the Bills won 23-14.

Kansas City has won nothing this season. "We've just got to keep building, keep fighting an keep struggling," says Coach Paul Wiggin.

The Redskins were struggling last Monday night, playing nearly five inconsistent periods against Philadelphia before beating the Eagles 20-17 in sudden-death overtime. Despite this, Chicago Coach Jack Pape says his Bears, slim four-point underdogs, have an exceptionally tough game ahead of them.

"They're undefeated," Pape said. "The Redskins look like a sure thing — with their schedule and everything — to make the playoffs. We're 2-1 at Miami, San Diego at Denver and Washington will be the first winning team we've faced."

The Cowboys are overwhelming favorites against the winless expansion Seahawks. The utility of the situation is not lost on Seattle Coach Jack Patera. "We have as much chance to beat Dallas as we had against the other three teams," he said with a wry smile.

New Orleans Coach Hank Stram figures a little coordination at the Superdome may help his Saints upset Houston. He'll have them dressed in their white road uniforms for the home game instead of their usual black and gold.

They've won once this season, last week on the road — in white — against Kansas City.

Jack Klugman 'Quincy' star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Klugman, the untidy half of "The Odd Couple," now is on NBC's Sunday Mystery Movie. He plays "Quincy," a hard-charging city medical examiner who does autopsies and solves crime.

He has a nifty debut Sunday in an opus that starts with him wooing his sweetie (Lyette Metley) on his drydocked boat. The woo wanes right at sundown when Dr. Quincy is called to study the strangulation murder of a pretty City Hall secretary at a nearby beach.

The call causes a lively 90 minutes of good humor, two more slayings and a discovery that City Hall is missing $3 million or so.

Now, Quincy, employed by the Los Angeles coroner's office, is no mere body inspector. He can detect murder most foul in the most innocent-looking subdural hematoma or myocardial infarction.

He plays detective to prove his murder theories when cops don't believe him. This playing makes the cops mad, particularly his chief disbeliever, Lt. Frank Monahan (Garry Walberg).

In the case of the late secretary, there is no doubt she was strangled to death. Even Quincy agrees to that.

Monahan has no doubt who did it when a young thug is caught three miles from the murder scene — having been shot resisting arrest — with the handbag of the departed. But Quincy thinks the wounded thug is innocent. Why? Because the thug has small hands.

See Quincy, while unsuccessfully trying to lift the murderer's fingerprints from the victim's neck with new techniques, has noticed the marks on said neck were made by someone with large hands.

This fails to impress the lieutenant, possible because the show has at least an hour more to go. So Quincy goes into detective mode. He visits City Hall to trace the dead girl's background and then:

— Probes the hanging "suicide" of a weak-willed city finance man.

— Suspects a City Hall conspiracy against him as foat.

— Flies to Mexico with his lady to check an earlier possible murder of an earlier City Hall secretary (and almost gets himself and his lady killed when a baddie pushes their car over a cliff).

— Comes back to find a harbor commissioner the victim of an "accidental" drowning while scuba diving.

Fans of hard-nosed realism won't find such in this show, only a brisk pace, interesting characters and a nice tongue-in-cheek approach akin to that of "The Rockford Files."

Congress compromises on clean air standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate conferees Wednesday night agreed on a compromise clean air bill that would delay auto exhaust standards on two pollutants for one year.

The agreement came near midnight as both sides fought for several days on whether to loosen or tighten emission standards for cars.

House conferees had hoped for more relaxed regulations, but the Senate held out for, and won, more stringent regulations than the auto industry wanted.

The bill must now go back to the full membership of both chambers for a final vote. Trouble could still await it as opponents may try to kill it before the scheduled congressional adjournment Friday night.

Under the proposal, 1978-model cars would remain at the level of 1977 auto emission standards: 1.5 grams per mile for hydrocarbons and 15 grams per mile for carbon monoxide.

Beginning in model year 1979, hydrocarbons would have to go down to the statutory standards of 41 grams per mile and carbon monoxide down to 3.4 grams per mile.

Hawaii, the 50th state, is a chain of 122 islands near the center of the North Pacific Ocean about 2,400 miles from San Francisco.

Third World wants Henry to be firm

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African and other Third World diplomats have counseled U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to be firm and cautious in negotiations with white leaders of South Africa and Rhodesia.

Commenting on Kissinger's policy address Thursday before the General Assembly, Foreign Minister Frederick R. Willis of Guyana said he sees "potential" in the secretary's subtle diplomacy to southern Africa.

"When dealing with an intransigent tyrant the use of the sword has often induced a climate of favorable negotiations," he added.

Nigerian Foreign Minister J.N. Garba said his government has no confidence in any dialogue with Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa. "Any bargaining with South Africa is suspect," he said.

Both Willis and Garba made their statements in the Security Council-debate on Namibia, the South African-controlled territory also called South-West Africa.

Kissinger said in his speech that Namibia appears headed for independence "within a fixed, short time" and that a commitment exists for an immediate black majority government in Rhodesia.

Declaring that the region is "an acid test of the world's hope for peace and justice," he said diplomatic failure to peacefully transfer to black majority rule could make southern Africa "a vicious battleground with consequences for every part of the world."

In remarks clearly aimed at the Soviet Union, Kissinger said outside powers "fueling the flames of war and racial hatred" could "doom opportunities that might never return."

But Sam Nujoma, leader of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), took issue with Kissinger. Nujoma said if anyone is inciting racial hatred in the region "it has to be blamed on Vorster."

SWAPO, the main black nationalist group in the territory, has been designated "the authentic representative" of the Namibian people by the United Nations, but South Africa has refused to allow it to take part in independence talks.

Kissinger also expressed U.S. support for a West German proposal to confront terrorism and, in the economic area, offered increased aid and other remedial measures for nations facing severe debt burdens. He said that the United States would propose guidelines for debt renegotiations for "acute cases" and systematic examination of remedial measures, including increased aid, for countries facing longer term problems.

About Nov. 25, 1872, the Nova Scotian ship Mary Celeste was found abandoned at sea with no trace of the 10 persons who were aboard when it sailed.

Toot 'n' Totum Snack Bar

Junior McCain took over operation of the snack bar at Toot 'n' Totum at 500 Duncan two weeks ago. He said the store had operated the snack bar for about four months before he was hired. The manager said trade at the snack bar has tripled since he took over its operation. "I have my own special barbecue recipe," McCain said. McCain, who has been employed by Toot 'n' Totum for three months, has worked as a chef in several restaurants in Missouri. Before he accepted a job with Toot 'n' Totum, he worked three years for Pampa Cable TV. McCain said that while the snack bar has booths where customers can eat their food there, the largest part of his business is take-out orders. The snack bar is the only one operated by Toot 'n' Totum in Pampa and it offers a variety of sandwiches, ice cream and barbecued foods, including chicken, ribs, beef sandwiches, hamburgers, hot dogs, corn dogs and burritos. McCain said the snack bar is open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. He lives in Pampa with his wife and five children.

Mexico trying to slash spending

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Luis Echeverria is trying to slash spending by Mexico's mammoth bureaucracy after a sharp devaluation of the Mexican peso this month boosted inflation.

Echeverria ordered a job freeze this week for Mexico's 1 million federal employees. Vacancies will only be filled after special approval from the Treasury Department.

He banned spending beyond allocated budget items, as well as all travel abroad by government officials. The order also said any budget appropriations not spent within specified deadlines will be automatically canceled.

Echeverria brought a sharp devaluation of the Mexican peso Sept. 1 by unpegging it from the U.S. dollar, to which it had been tied for 22 years.

As a result, the Mexican currency lost 60 per cent of its value, falling from 12.50 to 19.90 pesos for $1 almost overnight.

Government experts say the measure will revitalize Mexico's stagnating economy by spurring exports and production and making Mexican goods and services cheaper for buyers with foreign currency.

However, the devaluation also made imported items more expensive, setting off nationwide price markups and boosting the cost-of-living.

Organized labor had threatened paralyzing strikes if wages were not raised to make up for the loss in purchasing power of workers' pay.

In an effort to restabilize the economy, Echeverria last week set 16 to 23 per cent guidelines for wage increases in private industry, and said the government will permit only a 10 per cent raise in prices on a long list of essential goods and services. The list of government price-controlled items was expanded from 34 to 117, including such services as funeral services and medication and such goods as baby carriages, cement and bricks.

The government also authorized a 20 per cent increase in hotel rates and a 15 per cent raise in restaurant prices — which still kept them between three and four times cheaper than before devaluation. Tourism is Mexico's No. 1 dollar earner.

A government spokesman said most of the economies ordered by Echeverria this week will go to finance 21 to 23 per cent salary increases for government employees and members of the armed forces. Administrative staffs at state universities will get a similar raise.

Most union leaders and management representatives complained about Echeverria's wage-price guidelines, but most appeared to accept them. The federal labor mediation board reported only 500 strikes in the country, the majority of them in small backshop industries.

The board said it had on file 22,000 major strike threats the day preceding the announcement of Echeverria's guidelines.

Harvard study backs swine flu shot plan

By DANIEL Q. HANEY Associated Press Writer BOSTON (AP) — A Harvard study — undertaken in the belief that not enough planning went into the decision to sponsor swine flu inoculations — concludes that the government was right.

The study released today by Harvard's Medical School says that without widespread immunizations there would be a one in 10 chance of an epidemic that could kill more than 50,000 people this winter and infect more than 56 million.

It says that such an epidemic would cost the nation $6 billion in hospital bills and lost working time, and that the government program is therefore a good financial investment.

The study was begun last spring after President Ford announced in March that "every man, woman and child" would be vaccinated against the threatening disease.

The Harvard doctors said there had not been enough analysis to determine whether such a dramatic health care venture was worthwhile.

"The reason we did it was to look at the decision-making process and to show that the decision could have been analyzed while it was being made," Dr. Stephen C. Schoenbaum, who directed the study, said in an interview.

Despite the lack of analysis, the doctors said, the government made the right decision — as long as enough people get the shots and the vaccine does not cost too much to make and administer.

To estimate the likelihood and severity of an epidemic, the Harvard doctors polled 15 disease experts. And to find out how much the outbreak would cost, they added up the value of the working time that would be lost when people were sick or died and the cost of medical care. Then they compared this with the cost of making and giving the drug.

"The kind of program that has been decided on makes economic sense," said Schoenbaum.

The federal immunization program is scheduled to begin next month. The government plans to vaccinate people 18 and older and has allocated $135 million.

Botulism may be culprit in duck deaths

AUSTIN (AP) — A food poisoning that affects only birds has caused a die-off of about 1,000 ducks in Farmer and Castro counties, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said today.

Another 600 birds in nearby Hockley County are suspected of having contacted Type "C" avian botulism, although reports are not confirmed, the department said.

Max Traweek, assistant waterfowl program leader, stressed that "this type of botulism does not affect man or mammals. It is confined to birds, primarily those feeding in the shallow edges of warm water ponds."
