

Butz resignation sought despite apology

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

Denunciation of Earl Butz' racial slur threatened to engulf the agriculture secretary Saturday as both Republicans and Democrats called for his resignation. Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter called Butz' words evidence of his insensitivity to people, an embarrassment to the Ford administration and a danger to President Ford's chances for election. Ford reprimanded Butz on Friday and the agriculture secretary apologized, saying he regrets his language. In his comment as quoted by the magazines Rolling Stone and New Times, Butz referred to blacks as "coloreds" and described in a derogatory manner what he characterized as their sexual, dress and bathroom predilections. Ford's vice presidential running mate, Bob Dole, called Butz remarks "stupid" and "ill conceived," but compared them to recently criticized statements by Carter about lust and adultery. "Whether it's Butz or Carter, it seems to me the American people deserve better," Dole said. Carter, meanwhile, said the federal government should guarantee total equality to women. Speaking to representatives of national women's groups, he said that as president he said he would seek "a comprehensive child-care program. Government hiring that would bring more women into the highest levels of Civil Service." Curbs on discrimination against women obtaining credit and insurance. Ford, at the same time, attacked Carter for favoring taxes on church property other than church buildings. Carter was quoted by Liberty, a Seventh Day Adventist magazine, as supporting such taxes. The President said he opposes such taxation. "Nothing could be worse for church-operated schools, hospitals and orphanages, many of which face constant financial struggles to make ends meet," Ford said. Sen. Peter V. Domenici, R-M.N., said of the Carter comment "we think it would do violence to the ability of our churches to supply the great kinds of social needs they are now giving to us, to our children." Carter responded that Ford was engaging in an "irresponsible, conscious, willful and disgraceful effort at misrepresentation." The Democratic nominee said there should be no taxes on any religious or philanthropic organization engaged only in not-for-profit activity. But Carter said he supports a Supreme Court decision in favor of taxes on any profits made by churches or charitable institutions. The interview which prompted the discussion, a question about church taxation, to which the magazine said Carter replied "I would favor the taxation of church properties other than the church building itself." The federal government does not collect property taxes. The levy of such taxes rests with local jurisdictions of government. Earlier, Carter responded to questions about his stays as a guest in lumber company lodges. At the same time, the investigation of campaign finances in Ford's former congressional district seemed near an end. Carter told reporters that he stayed in the lodges of two lumber companies three times as their guest while he was governor of Georgia. Carter said "it would have been better not to" have done so and promised he won't do it again. At the lumber company lodges, Carter said, there was never any discussion with lobbyists about legislation that affected them, except my effort to get the (state) forestry department included in (a) natural resources (department). Sources familiar with the investigation of campaign financing in Ford's home county said the special Watergate prosecutor will close his investigation next week and publicly clear Ford. The investigation has cast a cloud over the Ford campaign for two weeks since word of it first appeared in news stories. Carter and his running mate, Walter Mondale, had taken public notice of the probe.

A source in the FBI said that agency, too, has completed its investigation and found no basis for prosecuting anyone. The FBI source said the original allegation made by an FBI informant was found to be without substance. The agriculture secretary was summoned to the White House on Friday and was given "a severe reprimand" by Ford, who found Butz' racial comments "highly offensive," presidential aides said. Carter said Butz slurs are "a continuation of the insensitivity of Mr. Butz for people of this country." Asked whether Butz should be fired, Carter repeated his long-standing position that Butz "should never have been in office as secretary of agriculture." Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, termed Butz' comment "despicable" and said that Butz should either resign or be fired. "The decent thing for him to do is resign and if he doesn't resign," the President should remove him, Mondale said. Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, urged Ford to fire Butz, saying in a letter: "Anyone harboring such racist views should have no place in your administration." Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., the only black member of the Senate, called Butz' remarks "vulgar and offensive" and he added: "I call upon the President to ask for the secretary's resignation. No man who harbors such thoughts is fit to serve in the cabinet of the President of the United States." In other campaign developments: Time magazine released results of a late September poll which it says shows Ford and Carter running neck and neck for the presidency with 43 per cent of the vote each. The survey by Yankelovich, Skelly & White, an opinion research firm, is a sampling of 1,308 registered voters. Fourteen per cent said they were undecided. The Democratic vice presidential nominee said the government estimated its spending would be $13 billion more than it actually was in fiscal 1976.

House overrides HEW bill veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heavily Democratic 94th Congress closed up shop Saturday after spending much of its two-year life wrangling with President Ford over taxes and spending. The spending issue was dramatized shortly before Congress adjourned when Ford's veto of a $56.6 billion appropriation bill for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare Departments was easily overridden. The bill exceeded the President's budget by $4 billion. He said his veto was part of his fight against inflation, but Democratic leaders said it showed a lack of compassion for social and human needs. One provision of the bill, supported by Ford, barred use of HEW funds for abortions except when the life of the mother is endangered. Two jobs bills pushed by the Democrats escaped an eleventh-hour presidential veto. One was a $3.7-billion measure for public works construction and the other extended for another year 260,000 public services jobs in state and local governments. Ford announced he would sign these bills after Congress passed legislation extending the revenue sharing program through 1980. It provides for returning to state and local governments $25.5 billion federal tax receipts. In the final legislative crush before adjournment early Saturday, action was blocked on a clean air bill, a measure to force full disclosure of lobbying activities, and legislation to penalize U.S. firms participating in the Arab boycott of Israel. The clean air bill, running afoul of a filibuster in the Senate, would have given the auto industry only a one-year extension of the deadline for meeting tougher emission standards and have imposed new requirements for keeping clean-air areas clean. Also killed in the Senate was a House-passed bill, backed by the administration, to let private industry start producing enriched uranium for nuclear power plants. But there were a number of other bills on which Congress completed action in its final hours. One of these would extend unemployment insurance to an estimated 8.6 million additional workers — state and federal employees and certain farm and domestic workers. It also would raise the tax on employers that finances the program. Another prompted by a scandal that led to the indictment and conviction of more than 70 persons, would establish federal controls over the process of inspection grain for export. One of the major actions of Congress in the past session was the passage of a massive tax revision bill that extends through Dec. 31, 1977, individual and corporate anti-recession tax cuts amounting to about $19 billion a year. ## 20 cases of cat litter MELROSE PARK, Ill. (AP) — Hundreds of bargain-seeking shoppers streamed into a warehouse Saturday to buy food by the case in a $1 million consumer experiment. People lined up before dawn for the start of the two-day sale at the warehouse of the Jewel Food Stores. Checkers said the biggest sellers were cases of soda pop, chili, beans, salmon, tuna, macaroni and dog food. "I'm amazed at the turnout," Jewel's vice president, Ray Stone, said as the bargain hunters rambled with their carts through two blocks of marked lanes in the warehouse. They picked from 152 kinds of nonperishable goods and their purchases averaged about $100. "It's like the expressway during rush hour," said one of 25 special crowd-control guards. "There is a continuous line of people two blocks long waiting to get in. Five families camped at a side of the parking lot all night for the 6 a.m. opening. One man had 20 cases of cat litter, paying $6.80 per case and saving $1.49 on each one. "I've got six cats," he said. Another man had 50 cases of beverages at $2.80 a case, saving $1.52 per case. "We drink a lot," he said. Tom Hagerty, a grain broker, carted out 35 cases of food. "I'm saving $75. I have six kids and how long this stuff lasts depends on how hungry they are," he said. "Things aren't getting any cheaper, you know. This is an investment." Stone said Jewel had been watching the concept of warehouse-type stores grow and thought it was time to try it with food. "The savings in store handling and transportation are passed along," he said. "We've stocked 2½ times our normal on big-demand products for the sale."

Pampan dies in blast

One Pampa man was killed and another was injured in a gas well explosion south of Dumas Friday. Christopher Weddle, 23, of Pampa was killed in the blast which resulted after pressure built up in a line the men were working on. The other man, 23-year-old Virgil Wallin of Pampa, was transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo and later to Highland General Hospital where he was listed in fair condition Saturday night. Wallin's brother, Kenneth, said the injured man was in "pretty good condition with lots of cuts and bruises. He's just pretty sore." Wallin's father, Virgil Wallin Sr., 1137 Neet Road, said the family was notified of the accident about 10:55 a.m. Friday. He said the family went to the Emergency Receiving Center in Amarillo and requested that Wallin be transferred to Highland General Hospital. Wallin said his son is sedated and has not been able to talk about the accident. He added that his son knew his co-worker was killed. A spokesman for Morrison Funeral Home in Dumas said he believed Weddle had lived in Pampa "two or three months." The body was shipped to the Grant Funeral Home in Deport, Tex. The men were employees of Serco.

Two convicted in jail raid

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — Two Dallas men face possible prison terms for their participation in a commando-style raid on a Mexican jail which freed 14 American prisoners. A U.S. district court jury deliberated more than six hours Friday before convicting William McCoy Hill Jr. and Sterling Blake Davis Sr. of conspiracy in connection with the March 11 raid. A third man charged in the breakout was acquitted of all charges. The American prisoners, all held on drug related charges, fled the Piedras Negras, Mexico, jail, and fled across the Rio Grande to adjacent Eagle Pass, Tex., following the predawn raid. Hill and Davis Sr. were found guilty of conspiring to export from the United States an illegal sawed-off shotgun carried during the raid by ex-Marine Donald Fielden. Hill additionally was convicted of importing to the United States the standard 12-gauge shotgun he carried during the raid. Hill faces a maximum $10,000 fine and up to 10 years in prison. Davis faces a maximum five-year prison term and a $5,000 fine. Billy Jack Blackwell, 19, also of Dallas, was exonerated of a conspiracy charge and a charge that he helped export the sawed-off shotgun during the raid. U.S. District Court Judge

John H. Wood Jr. has delayed sentencing until later. He warned the defendants, however, to stay away from the U.S. Mexico border. Fielden, a burly 29-year-old Vietnam war veteran from Dallas, was the government's star prosecution witness in the five-day trial in this border city. He pleaded guilty earlier to conspiring to export the sawed-off shotgun and faces a possible five-year prison term and fine. Fielden testified he "masterminded" the raid after Davis Sr. offered him $5,000 to "break his son out" of the Mexican jail. Davis Jr. was one of the Americans freed in the operation. Fielden said he hired Hill to help him stage the raid, and Hill later employed Blackwell to serve as a lookout during the jail assault. He was initially paid $5,000 for his participation and later received some more money. Blackwell got $500 for his part. Fielden testified he has received more than $38,000 for the breakout, including a $25,000 advance from a movie production company and money from some of the other prisoners who were freed. Two of the ex-prisoners testified for the defense that Fielden threatened to "bag us up and take us back to Mexico" unless they paid him thousands of dollars. Mexico has asked for the extradition of Fielden, Hill and Blackwell to face charges in that country. Hill and Blackwell, testifying in their own defense, both admitted they took part in the raid but thought the operation was legal. The jury acquitted Hill and Davis each of two other charges in connection with the jail raid. Hill told reporters he thought he had received a fair trial, but still didn't think he had done anything wrong. He said he thought Davis Sr. and his wife, in seeking freedom from the Mexican jail for their son, had "done the only thing any parents would do." There was testimony during the trial that Davis Jr.'s life had been threatened in the jail and that he was sick but receiving no medical treatment.

'Free press essential for free enterprise'

By The Associated Press
Two prominent newspaper editors have told audiences in Dallas and Houston that a free press is essential for a free enterprise system and good government.

Retired New York Times Editor Turner Catledge spoke to the Salesmanship Club in Dallas Thursday while William H. Hornby, executive director of the Denver Post was addressing the Houston Downtown Rotary Club.

Catledge said he hopes the adversary role between government and the press continues.

"The watchdog function of the press is what the architects of our government had uppermost in their minds," he said.

He said he sees a "great era for the press and government" but cautioned "May the Lord forbid that relationship become cozy."

He based his prediction on what he term the good aversarial attitudes of both President Ford and presidential challenger Jimmy Carter.

"It is interesting that in our bicentennial year, we are so acutely concerned over one of our most essential freedoms...freedom of the press, without which I don't think any other freedom is safe."

"That amendment was not the granting of a right, but protection of a right already granted," said Catledge, former Washington correspondent of the Times.

Hornby said the business community and the press must see themselves as allies in the fight against "the shutting off of a free flow of ideas."

"The free media and the free business and professional systems are very much in the same boat, whether you see that boat as a flagship of the fleet or a wallowing raft."

He said a free press must see that it can survive only in within a free economic system.

Speaking as a representative of the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Hornby termed the free flow of ideas in America "the very circulatory system that supports its (business) life."

"If the free enterprise and free press systems of the country are to have an auspicious future as they have had a past, they must do more to recognize their commonality," he said.

He said both press and business face the threat of government regulation. He noted what he called "dabbling" by the Federal Communications Commission in what Americans can see and hear in broadcasts.

"Government departments — executive, legislative and judicial, far too numerous to mention constantly dabble with regulations of the free flow of information to prevent inconvenient or embarrassing news getting to your doorstep," he said.

He said businessmen see reporters as frequently inaccurate, hostile, skeptical, lacking in knowledge of the subjects they cover, unwilling to deal with common knowledge of the subjects they cover, unwilling to deal with complexity in those subjects and inclined to couch issues in "versus" terms

Reporters see businessmen as secretive, less than frank and objective in providing answers, and unwilling to consider their activities as proper subject matter for public scrutiny, he said.

"In a nutshell," Hornby said, "the businessmen often see a callous reporter who believes has little faith in the competitive enterprise system."

"And the reporter looks back at a person he thinks doesn't understand the degree to which private business also is the public's business."

Both sides are often right, he said.

Catledge, pointing to Richard Nixon's attempts to block the printing of the Pentagon Papers, "Politicians have been less than pleased with the results."

"I certainly don't contend the rights of the press are absolute — when they conflict with other rights, we must go to the courts for judgment."

Of critics who claim the media has become "too negative," the retired editor said, "Of course, news by definition is the unusual. If good news becomes the normal, then we'll be in a bad fix."

Catledge was a vice president and board member of the Times when he retired seven years ago.

Big Thompson Canyon tries to dig out from rubble

DRAKE, Colo. (AP) — "For Sale" signs and warnings to looters are nailed to the shells of houses in the Big Thompson Canyon.

The once pristine Rocky Mountain canyon, a fisherman's paradise and a vacation mecca until last July 31, now resembles a ghost town.

It was two months ago that a 12-foot wall of water cascaded down the gorge, crushing everything in its path and killing at least 139 persons, and most residents have given up and gone elsewhere.

A few still are trying to raise their lives from the rubble. They face a seemingly never-ending battle with agencies charged with doling out state and federal aid, including outright grants or low-interest loans up to $500,000.

"I got my grant, $5,000 — that's the most anybody can get," said Clarence Johnson, 75.

A putty knife and piles of heavy black mud lay beside him. He's trying to dig 18 inches of gook from his home.

"That money is really a drop in the bucket," the grey-haired retiree said. "But we can get by. I can't see why they don't give it to the people who need it. Some of these people need $25,000, $50,000."

By the end of this past week, 72 federal-state joint grants had been approved for $165,225. Another 139 were awaiting action at government offices in Denver, 70 miles away.

Officials of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration blamed the delay on the difficulties estimators have had digging into the canyon because of a washed out canyon road. State-highway officials say they could have gotten through if they really wanted to.

Another potential aid source is the Small Business Administration, which can spread a $500,000 loan out over 30 years for those who qualify.

Gene Hinkson, the SBA's disaster branch manager in Denver, said final action has been taken on fewer than half of the 175 applications accepted.

"We've approved 76 loans totaling $1.93 million," Hinkson said. He added that officials have turned down only four loan requests.

Many of the home owners wiped out by the flood also are irked by a six-month construction moratorium ordered by Larimer County on reconstruction of buildings ruined by the water.

The ban is to allow completion of a flood-plain study through the canyon.

"They have hurricanes but don't make you move off the coast," said George Morgan, a motel owner from Cedar Cove. "It wiped me out financially, but I'm going to stay right there."

All but one of the 139 recovered flood victims have been identified, but another six persons known to have been in the canyon remain on the missing list and are presumed dead.

Johnson said Drake, which before the flood was the canyon's major population center with about 200 year-round residents, will never be the same.

Carter calls for federal guarantee of equality

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (AP) — Jimmy Carter said Saturday the federal government should guarantee total equality to women and called racial slurs by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz a "disgrace" and a "severe embarrassment" to the Ford administration.

Carter also acknowledged staying in the lodges of two lumber companies three times as their guest when he was governor of Georgia. He said "it would have been better not to" have done so and promised not to do it again.

In a speech to representatives of national women's groups at 4-H headquarters in this suburb of Washington, D.C., the Democratic presidential candidate outlined a multi-point program to improve opportunity for women.

As president, he said he would: —Seek a comprehensive child-care program.

—Enforce antidiscrimination regulations.

—Insist on government hiring that would bring more women into the highest levels of Civil Service.

—Act to curb discrimination against women in obtaining credit and insurance.

At a morning news conference outside his hotel near the Pittsburgh, Pa., airport, Carter said Butz' slurs are "a continuation of the insensitivity of the (has) ... for people of this country."

Asked by reporters whether Butz should be fired, Carter repeated his long-standing position that Butz "should never have been in office as secretary of agriculture."

Butz was reprimanded by the President. Aides said Ford found his racial comments "highly offensive."

At the news conference, Carter said he twice was a guest of the Brunswick Pulp and Paper Co. at the corporation's lodge in Cabin Bluff, Ga., and once was the guest of the Union Camp Co. at its lodge in Palmetto Bluff, S.C.

Carter said one trip to Cabin Bluff was part of his official effort as governor to have the state forestry department included in a state natural resources department. "It was initiated by me, and it proved unsuccessful," he said.

He said the other two trips were for hunting and fishing.

Asked whether he thinks it good practice for officials to accept such paid vacations from companies, Carter said, "No."

School board to consider contract Monday

The Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in Carver Center to consider a five-item agenda.

The board will be asked to adopt a policy on the reproduction of pertinent documents and they will consider a workmen's compensation contract for the 1976-77 school year.

Members will hear a report about the Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards convention. Al Smith was a delegate and Buddy Epperson was an alternate delegate to the convention.

Also on the agenda is a board-administration report and approval of minutes.

Santas go to school

DALLAS (AP) — Men with the right voice, the right size, a happy face and eyes that smile might get into Cathy Cobb's Santa Claus training school, but up to two-thirds of them will drop out before earning their whiskers.

"It adds a local, positive connection," Press Secretary Francis O'Brien said.

"People want to know, 'does he know the issues that are of concern to us, even though we're a town of 10,000 in a country of 215 million?'" the press secretary said.

Dean Reynolds, a four-year veteran of such work, agrees. He says children punch Santa in the stomach and leave candy canes stuck in his beard.

"Then there's the lady with the ill-tempered must she wants to sit on your lap, and he's about ready to tear your throat out."

The training school begins Nov. 1 with classroom instructions on what to say to the tots who come by to place their toy orders. For example: what do you say to a child who tells you she just saw you at another store? Answer: "I saw you, too, and really had to hurry to beat you here."

The Santas generally earn $3 an hour and work an eight-hour day, Miss Cobb says. The average department store contract is $1,000 per Santa from Thanksgiving through Christmas Eve.

Lucky Shoopala, who said he was a member of the SWAPO central committee, said that under the agreement Moscow will provide the arms and Havana the help of Cuban troops.

A recurrent fear of South Africa and some Western diplomats in southern Africa is that Cuban forces may be turned against South-West Africa or even Rhodesia, whose white rulers are also engaged in a war with black guerrillas.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been pressing for a United Nations-sponsored constitutional conference on South-West Africa that would include SWAPO and "all authentic national forces."

Albert bids farewell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Carl Albert's term does not technically end for another three months, the veteran Oklahoma representative effectively ended his 30-year stint, the last six as speaker of the House, when the House adjourned early Saturday.

"God Bless America, God bless you all," the retiring Albert said in a farewell to his Democratic and Republican colleagues, who gave him five standing ovations.

His term officially ends Jan. 3, 1977.

Albert said only history can say whether the House during his tenure had accomplished what it set out to do.

"To my colleagues on my side of the center aisle," he continued, "for the past 14 years, first as majority leader—then as speaker, I have urged support of programs pushed for and responsible Democratic legislation."

"The United States is the brightest jewel in the treasure house of history," Albert said.

Briefings give Mondale knowledge of cities

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) —

When Sen. Walter F. Mondale arrived in New Haven the other day, he was, to the untrained eye, in command of a host of details about Connecticut, the people meeting him, and his plans for his 22-hour visit, although he had already been in four cities in two states that day.

Mayors were greeted by name, local unemployment statistics were recited, and the candidate talked to reporters about his upcoming stroll on the Yale University campus.

His seeming expertise on local politics and economics was the result of a briefing that lasted less than five minutes just after his chartered jet aircraft touched down at Tweed Airport.

Such briefings are not unique to Mondale, the Democratic vice presidential nominee. Other candidates go through them, in one form or another, before their campaign events.

They are a key element in a campaign routine, helping create the impression of a well-prepared candidate who can talk intelligently about matters of local concern.

One of the persons setting up each visit is responsible for gathering information essential to the candidate at that stop.

In New Haven, Bill Roberts was responsible.

Immediately after Mondale's airplane came to a halt, Robert was on his way up the stairs and into Mondale's office area on board.

Roberts went down a list of people the senator was about to meet. There was Mayor Frank Logue of New Haven, Mayor Tony Proto of East Haven — part of the airport lay in Proto's jurisdiction — Democratic State Chairman William O'Neil and others.

Before he could finish, the candidate asked him, "what about unemployment? What about the building trades?"

Roberts went through the New Haven schedule, filling the candidate in on details that might make him feel at ease as he went through his paces.

"What we need is a President and government to put people back to work," he said, citing the unemployment figure provided by Roberts. In Connecticut, he told a reporter at the airport, "one out of every 10 persons is unemployed."

When Mondale is in three or more states each day, with changing political climates and problems in each one, briefing sessions too far in advance can become confusing, he said.

The senator is also given a set of file cards on which briefing information is typed, a two-page political summary, and a summary of the events to be attended.

"It adds a local, positive connection," Press Secretary Francis O'Brien said.

"People want to know, 'does he know the issues that are of concern to us, even though we're a town of 10,000 in a country of 215 million?'" the press secretary said.

Cuba joins Angola sweep

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer
OKALONGO, South-West Africa (AP) — Cuban troops and

South-West African guerrillas reportedly have joined Angolan forces in an extensive military sweep through southern Angola to crush resistance by pro-Western insurgents.

Reports of the joint operation in neighboring Angola are worrying this territory's white South African rulers, who believe it foreshadows a major attack on South-West Africa from the north.

Troops of Angola's Marxist MPLA — Popular Movement — government reportedly have been joined by Cuban soldiers and guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization — SWAPO — in trying to stamp out insurgents of the Angolan National Union — UNITA.

The ultimate goal of the SWAPO forces is to win independence and black majority rule for this land they call Namibia, once a German colony.

Janie De Wet, South-West Africa territorial commissioner, says that once southern Angola is cleared of UNITA resistance, the Angolans and Cubans "intend to provide aid, protection and accommodation for SWAPO's armed attacks on South-West Africa."

South African officials say 2,000 Angolans have fled into South-West Africa over the past two weeks.

Some 400 refugees, all but 29 of them women and children, fled across the border to this South African army camp last week when their southern Angolan village of Odila was raided by MPLA troops. Village headman, Gabriel Mwatebi Haludilu said the government soldiers killed 23 villagers and burned the crops in the surrounding fields.

Because reporters are not allowed into southern Angola, it is not possible to check the story independently.

Support for UNITA, which was on the losing side in the Angolan civil war, has always been strong in southern Angola. Since the MPLA, spearheaded by 12,000 Cuban troops, took over Angola's major cities and towns in March, there have been continuing reports of UNITA resistance directed by Jonas Savimbi, bearded leader of the liberation movement.

Haludilu admitted that UNITA guerrillas had visited Odila, and he said one man killed by the raiders was a UNITA soldier.

De Wet's warning was underlined at a South African-sponsored news conference at which a man identified as a senior SWAPO deserter alleged that the movement already has an agreement with the Soviet Union, Cuba and Angola for a SWAPO invasion of South-West Africa.

Lucky Shoopala, who said he was a member of the SWAPO central committee, said that under the agreement Moscow will provide the arms and Havana the help of Cuban troops.

A recurrent fear of South Africa and some Western diplomats in southern Africa is that Cuban forces may be turned against South-West Africa or even Rhodesia, whose white rulers are also engaged in a war with black guerrillas.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been pressing for a United Nations-sponsored constitutional conference on South-West Africa that would include SWAPO and "all authentic national forces."

NEW YORK (AP) — Louise Lasser, star of the television comedy-soap opera "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," says she is seeing a psychiatrist rather than attending drug rehabilitation classes after her arrest for possession of cocaine.

In an interview taped for this morning's NBC-TV "Tomorrow" show, Miss Lasser explained that "the judge said it would, in effect, be penalizing me for my celebrity" to order her to attend the classes.

Miss Lasser, ex-wife of comedian Woody Allen, was placed in a six-month drug diversion program by Beverly Hills Municipal Court Judge Leonard Wolf last June.

She was arrested in Los Angeles in May when a shop manager complained to police that she was "making a disturbance over the shop's refusal to accept her credit card."

A routine search by police turned up a vial in the actress' purse which contained eight milligrams of cocaine.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Bing Crosby returns to Broadway Dec. 7, 45 years after he last appeared there.

He said Crosby last appeared on Broadway in 1931.

Robert Paterson, a London-based impresario who recently sponsored the crooner's 50th anniversary shows in Europe, is putting on the Broadway show.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A $2-million suit against Spiro T. Agnew and a tax-exempt foundation he heads has been filed in U.S. District Court here.

Sam Polur, a resident of Miami and a member of the New York bar, filed the suit Thursday asking for a jury trial. The suit against Agnew, who resigned as vice president in October 1973, and Education for Democracy Inc. alleges that Agnew concealed dealings with Arab countries in violation of antitrust laws.

The complaint alleges that Agnew deals with the United Arab Republic and oil cartels that imposed an oil embargo and other economic sanctions against this country.

Agnew said he would have no comment until he has read the suit.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has issued an order preventing former Beatle George Harrison from releasing a solo album through his own company rather than A&M Records.

The order stems from a suit by the company against Harrison, his manager and Dark Horse Records seeking to depict Harrison live up to an agreement to produce four solo albums on the A&M label, an A&M spokesman said Thursday.

On Wednesday, Superior Court Commissioner Clinton Rodda ordered Harrison to show cause why an injunction should not be issued and a receiver appointed to control his three companies while the matter is under litigation.

Harrison also was restrained from releasing a solo album except through A&M and also prevented from releasing through his own companies any of his own recordings made since last January 27.

Texas A&M plans 100th anniversary

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally will be the featured speaker Monday at a convocation marking the 100th anniversary of Texas A&M University.

Following the convocation at the G. Rollie White Coliseum, the Corps of Cadets will be reviewed.

The unveiling of six walnut panels carved by Prof. and Mrs. Rodney Hill to depict the university's first 100 years will follow.

The concert will end with an evening concert by the U.S. Marine Corps Band.

"Gov. Connally is the ideal person to speak at this milestone occasion for Texas A&M because he was instrumental in making resources available at a crucial period for the university, enabling it to begin or enhance many of the programs which figure prominently in its recent growth and progress," said W. Clyde Freeman, executive vice president for administration.

Other participants in the convocation include Fred McClure, student body president; Mayo Thompson of Dallas, president of the association of former students; Dr. Betty Uterberger, vice chairman of the school's academic council; Dr. Lee Smith, president of Southwest Texas State University; Harry Provenance of the state college coordinating board; Texas Secretary of State Mark White and Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex.

Dean Edwin Cooper, chairman of the convocation committee, said the public is invited. He said the band concert is the only event requiring a ticket.

Conservation could be tax break in Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate subcommittee proposed today that the state consider giving Texas tax credits if they use "energy conservation techniques" in building new homes or remodeling.

Any money lost from local property taxes through this tax credit system could be reimbursed by the state to the local government, said the Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs.

The subcommittee also said the legislature could exempt from sales taxes the sale of all energy conservation material.

To encourage energy conservation, the subcommittee also proposed that the state establish a loan to "underwrite a part of the cost differential between standard heating and cooling devices and heat pumps."

This differential ranges from approximately $300 to $600 per system, the subcommittee said.

The report said that data provided by Centennial Homes, the second largest home builder in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, indicates that a comprehensive energy efficiency package of insulation, caulking, double-paned glass, heat pumps, and other innovative design techniques could on an annual basis lower the residential utility bill by 20 per cent.

It was one of several papers distributed as the result of a study begun months ago to halt rising utility costs.

Strength now drained from mighty pound

EDITOR'S NOTE — Once the world's mightiest currency, the British pound sterling has slid in value from $5 in 1951 to a measly $1.63 now. Here is a report on what it means to Britons — and Americans.

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The plunge in the value of British money heralds a period of austerity for most Britons but is a boon for bargain-hunting American tourists with dollars to spend on tweeds, silver and cashmere sweaters.

The steady decrease in the value of the pound sterling against the dollar and major West European currencies has made Britain one of the cheapest vacation spots in Europe. For an American it means British goods — such as cars, shoes and clothing — are cheaper, and will continue to be so until prices go up, as everyone expects them to.

The pound's slide promises to make virtually everything more expensive for the British consumer — from home loans to toilet paper.

The pound — worth $5 in 1951, $4 in 1945, $2.80 in 1949 and $2.40 in March, 1975 — fell below $1.65 this week. But then it was buoyed a little by the announcement Wednesday that Britain is seeking a $3.9-billion loan from the International Monetary Fund. At the close of trading Thursday, the pound was worth a fraction above $1.66.

Politicians, businessmen and average Britons, meanwhile, were trying to assess the cost of a continuing decline of the currency, once the symbol of Britain's worldwide dominance.

But for an American it meant that the 100 pounds he bought for around $200 earlier this year now cost him only 166. Americans living in Britain and paid in dollars found the slide of the pound has meant an immediate rise in their living

Enrollment down
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Enrollment at the University of Texas at Austin has dropped 2.8 per cent below what it was a year ago, a preliminary head count indicates.

Admissions director David Hershey said the count shows a fall enrollment of 41,391 students, compared with 42,598 last September.

standards. But as with previous falls in the pound, these gains can soon be equalled out by rising prices.

The Confederation of British Industry (CBI) estimated that every time the pound drops one per cent it brings a rise of one-quarter per cent in the retail price index. A 13 per cent inflation is one cause of the pound's decline. Others include low productivity, trade deficits, government spending and unemployment.

Businessmen said that while previous declines in the pound's value made British exports more competitive abroad because they were cheaper to buy, the latest slide will mean this advantage would be outstripped by increased prices for the raw materials that go into their products.

British Petroleum, Britain's biggest oil company, said the average cost of Middle Eastern crude oil had risen by about four pounds ($6.80) a ton in the past two weeks because of sterling's slide.

Last year, Britain imported 85.8 million tons — about 63.8 per cent of its consumption. And with the present monthly average running at about 7 million tons, estimated The Times of London, the latest slump of the pound means that the oil import bill has been pushed up by about 28 million pounds, or $47.6 million, a month.

That works out to about 336 million pounds ($571.2 million) added to Britain's annual fuel bill. The increases will inevitably be passed on to the consumer in higher prices.

Since Britain imports about half its food and pays for it with foreign currency, food prices are also bound to go up.

"We are very concerned about the latest crisis," said a spokesman for Tesco, a supermarket chain. "We haven't got over the effect of the drought. Not all food is bought through the dollar, but I'm afraid increases will be inevitable."

Reg Stanley of Safeway, another supermarket chain, said that a week ago a case of 48 7½-ounce cans of imported red salmon cost 35 pounds (about $59.50) and now it costs nearly 38 pounds ($64.60).

With other imported goods the story is the same. Higher prices for imported iron ore will raise the cost of finished steel, and then of cars, washing machines and other manufactured goods using the metal. Higher prices for imported tin will add something to the cost of canned goods. More expensive timber from Canada and Scandinavia will increase the price of houses and of paper products from newsprint to toilet tissue.

The price of borrowing to buy a home is also expected to rise. There's speculation that the nation's building societies, or savings and loan associations, will raise their interest rates on mortgages to a record 11½ per cent to keep in step with corporate lending rates forced up by the government to make the pound more attractive.

About the only people deriving any comfort from the sliding pound are the thousands of tourists — most from Scandinavia and continental Europe — who are flooding into Britain in search of bargains.

"There's been a slight fall-off in American visitors, and of those that do come, more are coming on the very cheap charters and staying in boarding houses to save money," commented Edmond Swinglehurst of Thomas Cook, Britain's largest travel agency.

"What is growing enormously is traffic from Europe. They're pouring into Britain to buy clothes and just about everything else."

Goods ranging from liquor to clothing can be bought in Britain for a quarter to a third of what they would cost in Sweden, for example. Swedish travelers say food is about half the price here.

The story is much the same from other European countries. The ferry boat ride or short flight across the English Channel or North Sea is cheap enough so money saved by buying in Britain makes it all worth while.

Carswell convicted

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — G. Harrold Carswell, a one-time Supreme Court nominee who was accused of making homosexual advances to an undercover police officer, has been convicted on a charge of battery.

A charge of attempting a lewd and lascivious act was dropped. Officials said Thursday that Carswell appeared before Leon County Judge Hal McClamma the day before, pleaded no contest, was found guilty and was fined $100.

State Atty. Harry Morrison said it is standard procedure to drop a lesser offense when a defendant is convicted of a more serious charge.

Battery is a misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine. Attempting a lewd and lascivious act is a lesser misdemeanor punishable by up to two months in jail and a $500 fine.

Contacted at his Tallahassee home, Carswell, 56, would say nothing about the case.

His attorney, Murray Wadsworth of Tallahassee, said the former judge "is not well. I imagine he'll be under a physician's care for some time." Dr. Merton Edwall, a psychiatrist, is treating Carswell.

HARD WATER VS. SKIN
NEW YORK (AP) — According to the British Medical Journal, hard water may cause hands to become dry and sore. It is the mineral content of the water, particularly calcium hardness compounds, that acts as irritant. Because more soap must be used with hard water to obtain a lather, this can be a further source of irritation.

To counteract these effects, the Journal recommends installing a domestic water softening system which removes the troublesome calcium. A similar improvement can be achieved by the use of some packaged water softeners.

94th spent life wrangling with Ford

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following summation of the 94th Congress is sent with the expectation it will complete action on its legislative calendar before Sunday. The story may be topped later with final developments.

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The heavily Democratic 94th Congress has closed up shop after spending much of its two-year life wrangling with President Ford over taxes and spending.

One of its last major actions was the passage of a massive tax revision bill that extends through Dec. 31, 1977, individual and anti-recession tax cuts amounting to about $19 billion a year. Ford wanted a $28 billion cut.

Congress said the government should spend no more than $413 billion in the coming year. Ford wanted a $400 billion limit.

Ford used his veto on bills he said would add unnecessary spending and increase inflationary pressures. Congress overrode some, but failed to override the majority.

This Congress, which began in January, 1975, talked about, but took no action, on such issues as national health insurance and welfare reform.

It conducted investigations of abuses of power by the CIA and the FBI, and also a probe of a sex and payroll scandal in the House.

The tax bill makes hundreds of changes including an increase in taxes on the wealthy and corporations of about $1.6 billion the first year and a complete overhaul of gift and estate taxes.

At the windup of its first session last year, Congress had first extended the anti-recession cuts and also eliminated the oil depletion allowance for major petroleum companies and scaled it down for smaller producers.

Ford had urged a tax cut of about $28 billion with an offsetting reduction in federal spending, and has vowed, if elected, to renew his efforts in the next Congress.

His major proposal for easing the tax burden on individuals is an increase in the personal exemption from $750 a year to $1,000.

Congress balked at cutting taxes as deeply as Ford recommended, contending this would deprive the government of funds necessary to provide job opportunities and stimulate the economy.

Under its new budget procedure...

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A troop of militiamen in horse-drawn wagons pulled into town to take a replica of the Liberty Bell to Allentown, Pa., much as the real thing was spirited off in 1777 to keep the British from melting it down for bullets.

The "saving" of the bell was organized by the Lehigh County Bicentennial Committee. It was patterned after an expedition in September 1777, when a group of patriots from Lehigh County took the bell from its perch in Independence Hall tower for safekeeping during the British occupation.

The bell was hidden beneath an Allentown church altar until June 1778.

The replica, somewhat smaller than the original, was loaded onto a wagon Monday during ceremonies at Independence Hall. The trip to Allentown is expected to take five days.

dures Congress decided to permit the government to spend $50.6 billion more than it takes in during the next 12 months.

It approved a resolution putting a ceiling of $413.1 billion on federal spending, and setting a floor for government revenues of $362.5 billion.

Any legislation that would increase spending above the limit or reduce revenues below the floor would be out of order unless Congress voted to revise its budget resolution.

In his first television debate with Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential candidate, Ford said his vetoes had saved $9 billion and, if they had all been sustained, would have saved an additional $13 billion.

The 94th Congress began with the Democrats outnumbering Republicans 290 to 145 in the House and 62 to 38 in the Senate.

But despite these topheavy majorities, the Democrats were frustrated for the most part in their attempts to override Ford's vetoes.

The biggest of all the appropriations bills passed this session was a record $104.3 billion for the Defense Department, but this was $3.6 billion less than Ford requested.

A key provision of the bill held up funds for full production of the B1 bomber until after next year's presidential inauguration to let whoever takes office decide whether to go ahead with it.

Ford had advocated putting the plane into production while Carter, his Democratic rival, has indicated he favors scrapping it.

With federal spending out-running revenues, Congress this year boosted the national debt limit to a record high of $700 billion.

Senators and House members shied away in this election year from giving themselves another pay raise on top of the one they got last year.

In its first session, the 94th Congress passed legislation tying its pay and that of other top officials to the annual cost of living adjustments received by lower level federal employees.

That boosted congressional salaries to $44,600 a year from $42,500, but for this year only Congress members ruled themselves out a cost of living raise of about 4.8 per cent.

They also barred federal judges, Cabinet members and other high-ranking executive officials from receiving the pay increase.

In the same bill, however, Congress eliminated from federal civilian and military pensions an annual adjustment 1 per cent in excess of the rise in the cost of living. In place of this 1 per cent "kicker," adjustments are to be made semi-annually in line with the actual increase in living costs.

Some other measures passed in the second session would:

—Authorize an additional $1 billion in subsidies for the deficit-ridden Postal Service and bar any postal rate increases or service cutbacks until after a March 15 report from a special commission created to study postal operations.

—Establish a $160 million research program to develop an electric car as a possible alternative to the gasoline-powered automobile. (This was passed over Ford's veto.)

—Prohibit manufacturers from marketing new chemical substances until they have been tested for their effects on humans and the environment and bar further use of PCBs, an additive that has been linked to laboratory tests on animals to skin lesions, tumors, and other ailments.

—Continue for three years the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which helps state and local governments finance anti-crime programs. This bill also would limit the FBI director to a single 10-year term.

—Provide a $50,000 death benefit for dependent survivors of public safety officers killed in line of duty.

—Increase veterans' pensions by 7 per cent effective Jan. 1.

—Curtail presidential emergency powers by erasing within two years about 470 laws now on the books as a result of four separate states of emergency declared by three earlier presidents.

—Provide government protection for producers of swine flu vaccine if they are sued because of possible side effects of the vaccination.

—Require about 50 executive agencies to conduct most of their business in open session. In line with this "sunshine" policy, this Congress has opened more of its committee sessions to the public and news media than any of its predecessors.

In last year's session Congress struggled at length with energy legislation and passed a bill to extend controls on domestic oil prices through the spring of 1979, permitting them to rise gradually during this period.

It also includes provisions to establish a federal oil reserve, to encourage utilities and factories to use more coal and less oil, to require auto manufacturers to improve fuel efficiency, compel energy efficiency labeling on major home appliances, and to provide stand-by gasoline rationing authority.

Another major measure passed in the first session broadened and extended for seven years the voting rights act, which has been credited with dramatic increases in black voting in the South.

Also passed was a hotly disputed construction industry picketing bill broadening the powers of building trades unions to try to close down an entire job site.

Both the Senate and the House passed bills last year to create a Consumer Protection Agency to act as a spokesman for consumers before federal regulatory agencies.

But a Senate-House conference committee appointed to work out differences between the bills never brought out a compromise version and the legislation died this year.

Gun control, no-fault automobile insurance, regulatory reform, overhaul of the federal criminal code, decontrol of natural gas prices, and tightened control over exports of nuclear materials and technology were among other proposals on which no final action was taken.

Also not acted on was a bill to provide for appointment of either a permanent or temporary special prosecutor to handle investigations of wrongdoing by high government officials.

This so-called Watergate reform bill, which the Senate passed only to have it die in the House, would have required annual financial disclosure by Congress' members and all other top government officials.

Partly overshadowing legislative action in the second session were Senate and House investigations of abuses of power by the CIA and the FBI and sex and payroll scandals on the House.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, was toppled from his chairmanship of the House Administration Committee after Elizabeth Ray said she had put her on the payroll to be his mistress.

Hays denied this, although admitting a relationship with Miss Ray. He later resigned from the House.

He is only one of many prominent members of the present Congress who will be missing from the next one when it convenes in January.

Farmers must organize, economist says

COLLEGE STATION — "If farmers expect to influence 1977 food policy issues, it is time for them to begin planning, organizing and acting," said Dr. Ronald D. Knutson, economist in agricultural policy and marketing for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"In the matter of food policy, producers can no longer be passive. At last count there were 26 agencies involved in decisions affecting food policy," he added.

After the election, time for acting on new farm legislation will be short.

"The impact of alternative agricultural and food policies is already being analyzed, and bills will soon be drafted. Ability to influence begins with an understanding of the issues," said Knutson.

"The overriding issue is the degree of government involvement in agriculture. The Democrats favor increased government involvement on a variety of fronts while the Republicans favor a 'free market,' or less government involvement.

"In the upcoming elections, most changes in farm policy will likely occur if the Democrats win," he said. "Democrats traditionally have been more willing to involve government in agriculture and have the image of being producer oriented. But if labor and consumer activists play a major role in electing a Democratic President, traditional producer orientation may be neutralized, lost or forgotten. Food reserves, higher target prices, consolidated and subsidized disaster programs, and expanded food aid are integral parts of this program of increased government involvement."

If the Republicans are elected, producers can expect a continuation of present freer market programs, Knutson believes.

As far as specific issues are concerned, the economist listed these — grain reserves, target prices and loan rates, and acreage allotments.

Advocates of grain reserves argue that these will increase price stability, reduce risk, reduce the need to impose export embargoes, and increase consumer assurance of an adequate and dependable food supply. On the other hand, free market advocates say that reserves will distort market signals, depress farm prices, and discourage importing countries from holding reserves.

They also contend that reserves are subject to government manipulation and are costly to manage and hold.

To many producers, the level of target prices and loan rates is the major farm policy issue. Both target prices and loan rates can be used by government as a partial incentive to either stimulate or reduce production according to market needs. Currently target prices and loan rates are well below production costs. Some producers would like to see more protection from falling prices.

On acreage allotments producers currently receive target price deficiency payments or disaster payments only on allotted acres. One proposal would eliminate allotments by making all current production eligible for support loans, target price deficiency payments, and disaster payments.

Knutson indicated the possibility that the current farm program may be extended for a year to allow more time for the new Congress to develop specifics of a new program. Yet he urges all producers to study the issues and the candidates seeking election so that they can have a voice in agricultural and food policies in the years ahead.

Cool weather threat to sorghum

By JOE VANZANDT
County Extension Agent

Cool weather last week sent more than chills through farmers with late maturing sorghum. Even though most sorghum is near maturity, many farmers with sorghum that is still in milk and dough stage aren't ready for a freeze this early in the season.

Farmstead homeowners interested in applying for windbreak seedlings can contact the County Extension Office. The sooner you order, the more likely you will be of obtaining the trees you want as some species will be depleted later in the year.

The tree seedlings which cost $10 per hundred include: American Plum, Arizona Cypress, Austrian Pine, Chinese Elm, Honeylocust, Mulberry, Oriental Arborvitae, Osage Orange, Ponderosa Pine and Red Cedar. These seedlings are not to be used for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

A Brush and Range Improvement Field Day will be offered Thursday at the Pitchfork and 6666 Ranches near Guthrie. The program will be at the Pitchfork Hay Barn which is 13 miles west of Guthrie on Highway 82. If you are interested in attending this field day, call me at 669-7429 for additional details.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the inventory of hogs and pigs on Sept. 1 in the 14 states conducting quarterly hog surveys is estimated at 48.7 million head, up 17 per cent from a year earlier. Breeding hog numbers increased 13 per cent while the market hog inventory rose 18 per cent over 1975.

Despite the increase, the present hog inventory remains three per cent below the Sept. 1, 1974 level.

The June-Aug. 1976 pig crop in the 14 states totaled 18.1 million head, 21 per cent above 1975 and six per cent above 1974. There were 2.5 million sows farrowed in the 14 states during this period, up 19 per cent from the corresponding period in 1975, and two per cent above June - Aug. 1974. Average litter size was 7.31 for three months, compared with 7.19 in 1975 and 7.07 in 1974.

Producers in the 14 states intend to have 2.4 million sows farrow in Sept. - Nov., 16 per cent more than in 1975 and seven per cent more than in 1974.

Farrowing intentions reported for the Dec. 1976 - Feb. 1977 quarter total 2.2 million sows, nine per cent more than actual farrowing for the period ending Feb. 1976, and 26 per cent above the comparable period ending in Feb. 1975.

Garden cleaning time now

By LOIS BOYNTON
Month signs for October:
 1-3: Cultivate; destroy weeds.
 4-5: Plant annuals, perennials and biennials; trim to stimulate growth.
 7-8: Harvest root crops; trim to retard growth.
 9-13: Prune to retard growth; destroy weeds; cultivate.
 14-15: Put down root cuttings; plant perennials and biennials; irrigate; fertilize.
 16-19: Cultivate; destroy weeds; prune to retard growth.
 20-24: Plant new shrubs and trees; transplant; plant bulbs; prune to increase growth; fertilize.
 25-26: Destroy weeds; cultivate.
 27-28: Plant bulbs; trim to stimulate growth.
 29-31: Destroy weeds; cultivate.
 A nip in the air causes us to hurry to finish our planting. The compost pile is growing higher and higher and October is clean-up month.
 Clean up your vegetable garden and sow annual rye grass seed for a winter cover crop to turn under in early spring. This will prepare the soil for new seed in the spring.
 Clean tools thoroughly, wiping the metal parts with an oily rag before storing them for the winter. But leave hoses out where you can water several times during the winter.
 Your garden could be blooming now with perennial aster, zinnia, phlox, nicotiana, marigold, salvia, autumn crocus and many others.

the bulb on its side so it will not rot.
 Other bulbs due for planting in October are hyacinths, daffodils and other narcissi, Dutch and Spanish iris and the smaller bulbous scillas, crocuses, grape hyacinths, snowdrops, snowflakes, chionodoxas and many more.
 As you plant the bulbs, chart their location, how many were planted, color, variety, etc. Then as you plant each year, there will be no chance of color clashes or planting bulbs on top of one another.
 Remember that there is a top and bottom to a bulb, and sometimes gardeners goof and plant bulbs upside down.
 The nose or rounded part of the bulb is always the top and the flat side is the bottom. If you are having difficulty telling the top from the bottom, place the bulb in water for several hours until you can distinguish the eyes, or top, of the bulb.
 Small bulbs should be planted about twice their thickness and larger bulbs should be planted six to eight inches deep.

 Dahlias should be cut back to the ground after frost has blackened the leaves. Carefully lift the plants with a fork a few days later and store them stalk downward in a frost-free place.
 Wait about 10 days and clean the roots, cutting away any damaged or doubtful-looking material. Lay them in boxes, cover them with vermiculite and store in a frost-free place.
 Shrubs and trees should be transplanted after frost has killed the leaves. Dig a hole larger than the root spread, cut away the dead roots and soak well after planting. Do not fertilize.
 Siberian and Spuria iris can be planted now. These are beardless iris and resemble the Dutch iris. Siberians need an acid soil which can be provided by mixing one-half peat moss, one-quarter sand, one-quarter top soil and a small amount of bone meal.
 In the spring, these iris should be top-dressed with peat moss and compost. Spurias do not require the acid soil and they grow over three feet tall, making a beautiful splash of color for two or three weeks and their all grass-like foliage makes a good background for your beds all summer.

 To force hyacinth and bulbs, place three or four in a six-inch pot, covering them with moist potting soil. Dig a hole in the ground about two feet deep, covering the bottom of the hole with leaves and straw before placing the pot in it. Cover the pot with more leaves and straw.
 Glyphosate has been used on grain sorghum to reduce grain moisture. The growth characteristics of sorghum seed harvested from plants desiccated with glyphosate at various stages after physiological maturity are being studied by Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Agricultural Research Service scientists.
 Can adding zinc to a hen's diet actually improve molting performance? Scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have found that feeding 20,000 ppm (parts per million) of zinc as zinc oxide is effective for molting when added to the feed for a period of 10 days.

Bring the pot into the house late in January and the bulbs should bloom in about three weeks.
 During October, place your Christmas cactus in a dimly lighted place and do not water it. This resting period should last at least four weeks. At the end of four weeks, you should notice tiny buds on every blunt stem end. Place the plant in a window or other bright place and water as needed to encourage blooming.
 October can be a delightful time because while there is plenty to do, there is no pressure in getting it done.

Request wheat aid

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Cong. Jack Hightower Thursday sent a telegram to President Ford urging that he take favorable action on a letter he and 17 other Congressmen sent to him (Ford) three weeks ago requesting assistance for the nation's wheat producers.
 Hightower drafted the telegram and in less than two hours obtained signatures of Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen and 27 members of the House, including 19 Democrats and eight Republicans.

 The Congressman told the President that the White House Congressional Liaison Office had responded to his letter saying that his request would be called to the personal attention of the President and his agricultural policy advisors and that it would be carefully considered.

 "The time for consideration has expired," Hightower said, "and we must have an immediate remedy for the continuing drastic decline in wheat prices."

Betty, Lady Bird attend opening

HOUSTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford and Lady Bird Johnson attended dedication ceremonies here Saturday for a multimillion-dollar cancer research facility.

Mrs. Johnson told newsmen that she and Mrs. Ford were "old friends," but she does not plan to support President Ford in November. "I am a Democrat," she said. "That comes as no surprise to my friend Betty Ford. I am going to vote the Democratic ticket."

The widow of former President Lyndon B. Johnson again sidestepped questions about Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter's recently published statements that linked her husband and Richard Nixon as liars and cheats.

Asked if she and Mrs. Johnson discussed politics during Mrs. Ford's two-day visit to Texas, Mrs. Ford said they did not.

"We are old friends from 1948 and we were just renewing old friendships."

The first lady said she was "not surprised" that a recent investigation into her husband's finances during his terms as a Congressman from Michigan revealed nothing improper.

She said she was happy with former Texas Gov. John Connally's prediction that Ford would carry Texas.

"I hope he's right," she said.

Connally heads Ford's campaign in Texas.

Mrs. Ford was asked what her reaction would be if President Ford looked on a woman with lust, a reference to a recent statement from Carter in which he said he "committed adultery in his heart."

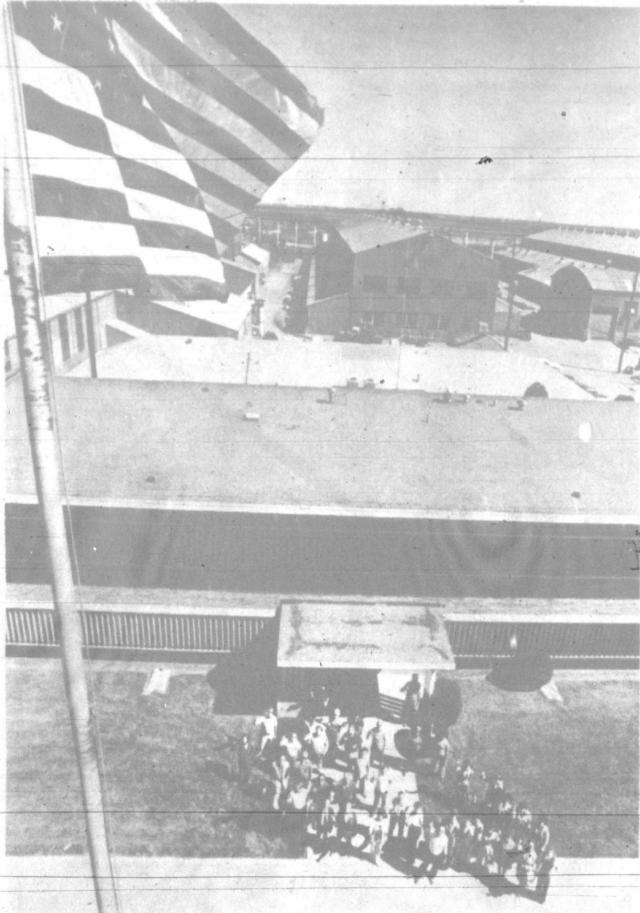

She replied, "I have always said the President enjoys looking at a pretty girl. When he stops looking, that's when I'll start worrying."

At the dedication of facilities of the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, Mrs. Ford said that part of the battle against cancer is to fight the fear that accompanies the disease. The first lady underwent a mastectomy two years ago.

She said she celebrated the second anniversary of her operation last week. "I celebrated, because I am happy, healthy and grateful for the checkup that found cancer in time. In a few weeks, I will complete chemotherapy treatments that will be another milestone for me."

She credited institutions like M.D. Anderson with saving her life. "As one of thousands of former cancer patients in the country, I know without the progress made in institutes like this one, I would not be alive."

Mrs. Ford returned to Washington immediately after the dedication ceremonies.

Cabot over the top

Cabot Machinery Division went over the top in their 1976 United Way drive with 100 per cent participation to reach a $21,000 goal, 10 per cent above their 1975 goal. Cabot employ pledges were matched by Cabot Corp., for a $42,000 contribution. Campaign director Dutch Holland said $135,090 had been collected by Thursday — 96 per cent of the $41,000 goal. He said the campaign will continue until the goal is reached.

90 per cent turnout expected in W. Germany

BONN, West Germany (AP) — More than 90 per cent of those eligible were expected to vote Sunday in West German parliamentary elections being closely watched for signs that an anti-Socialist trend is spreading through Europe.

The most recently released polls, taken two weeks ago, gave Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and his ruling Social Democratic coalition at least a 2 per cent lead.

But Helmut Kohl, candidate of the conservative Christian Democrats, said the polls failed to reflect any possible effect from the Sept. 19 Swedish elections — in which the Socialists lost for the first time in 44 years.

Kohl has been urging West Germans to "follow the Swedish example," but there are few parallels between the two countries. The level of taxes and bureaucracy is lower in Germany. And the use of atomic power — the support of which may have cost the Swedish Socialists the election — has not been mentioned here.

Campaigning on the slogan "Freedom Instead of Socialism," the Christian Democrats have said social democracy brings in a huge bureaucracy which in the long run takes away freedom. They have also tried to picture Schmidt and his Social Democrats in the same camp with Soviet bloc Communists.

West Germany has 41.6 million persons eligible to cast ballots for candidates for the 496-seat Bundestag. In the 1972 elections 91.2 per cent voted. The polls are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. — 3 a.m. to 1 p.m. EDT.

The two major West German television networks hope to have a computer projection of the winner about one hour after the polls close.

Both parties propose little change for West Germans, who are enjoying the lowest inflation and unemployment rates among major Western nations. Both rates are around 4 per cent.

The real differences between the parties have been in the styles of the chancellor candidates and their election slogans — Schmidt is "the better man" and Kohl "the man you can trust."

Although the chancellor will be elected by the Bundestag on Dec. 14, the popularity of the candidates affects the outcome of the parliamentary voting.

Eighteen parties with 3,244 candidates are in the race, but the number with a chance of winning is much smaller because a party must win 5 per cent of the vote to be represented in parliament.

This cutoff has kept out Communists and extreme right-wing groups like the National Democratic party.

Of the 2,700 candidates, 415 are women.

In the latest Stern magazine poll, the 57-year-old Schmidt, who has earned respect if not adulation for his economic policies and sharp tongue, was held by 57 per cent to be "a good chancellor." Only 45 per cent said they thought Kohl had the makings of a chancellor.

630 die in hurricane's path

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Rescue teams dug through "an enormous blanket of mud" in this Baja California city Saturday, unearthing and burning or reburying the bodies of Hurricane Liza's victims.

Officials said at least 630, and perhaps as many as 1,000 persons were killed by the hurricane, which roared across the southern Baja peninsula Friday with winds up to 130 miles an hour and then struck the Mexico coast across the Sea of Cortez.

Some 14,000 persons were reported injured or bruised and 70,000 were left homeless.

The dwindling storm, which had meandered offshore in the Pacific for three days before suddenly cutting its deadly swath across the peninsula, passed over the northern Sierra Madre Mountains Saturday and entered the United States at El Paso, Tex. It was moving northeastward through eastern New Mexico and western Texas.

La Paz, a city of 85,000, suffered the worst devastation. The storm cracked a 30-foot-high earthen dam, sending a huge wall of water and mud down on a crowded shantytown, washing away scores of thatched-roof shacks. The city's streets Saturday were littered with debris and hundreds of wrecked automobiles, many buried roof deep in mud.

Rogelio Felix, spokesman for the local governor's office, said "an enormous blanket of mud" covered the area below the dam. "It's frightening," he said. Mexican troops were digging for bodies, then burying them in mass graves or burning them to prevent epidemics.

One out of five houses in the city were destroyed, the army said.

Rescue officials appealed for food, clothing and medicine, and Mexican President Luis Echeverria, who toured the area Friday night, ordered an emergency airlift of supplies from the mainland. But continued bad weather kept many of the planes grounded.

Officials said communications were cut off to 13 smaller communities south of La Paz, the road leading to Cabo San Lucas, on the southern tip of the peninsula, was blocked. The highway that links La Paz with the border cities of Tijuana and Mexicali, 700 miles to the north, was reported badly damaged in four locations.

A dozen communities in the mainland states of Sonora and Sinaloa suffered heavy damage.

Officials reported that at least 75 boats, mostly small craft and including nine yachts owned by Americans, were either sunk or grounded by the storm. At least four fishermen were listed as missing.

Most of the stricken towns were left without drinking water and electricity and had only erratic communications. Engineers estimated it would take at least eight days to repair downed power lines in La Paz and completely restore electricity and other services.

Grain bill awaits

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grain reform bill awaiting President Ford's signature would wipe out private grain inspectors for export grain, and permit state agencies to inspect grain only in nine states.

The bill would create a new federal grain inspection agency under the Agriculture Department, with its head appointed by the president.

President Ford has said he would veto any all-federal grain inspection system. But Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., said Friday he had been told by the White House that Ford would accept the compromise bill drawn up by a joint House-Senate conference committee.

The bill was passed Friday in the closing hours of Congress after months of deadlock.

It is intended to put an end to the scandal and corruption that have surfaced in a two-year federal investigation of the industry.

Seventy-one persons have been indicted in New Orleans and 14 more in Houston and Baton Rouge, La., on charges ranging from bribery, theft, shortweighing, misgrading and conspiracy to income tax evasion.

Four large grain firms have pleaded no contest to charges of cheating customers and been fined the maximum permitted by law.

Under the law, the federal inspection agency would inspect all grain at export locations in states which did not have a state inspection agency on July 1. That includes Louisiana and Texas, where most of the corruption has been uncovered, and six other states.

But in nine states, including Mississippi and Alabama, state grain agencies may continue to operate if they are approved by the head of the new federal agency.

At interior points, grain would continue to be inspected by state or private agencies under federal supervision.

Speed limit 'hazardous'

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A Texas A&M study shows that auto drivers are most comfortable cruising at about 70 miles per hour the current speed limits could lead to "greater accident hazards."

Dr. Ron Morris of the university's Texas Transportation Institute said the purpose of the "very limited" study was to determine the driver's most comfortable speed.

The test was conducted by 18 volunteer students driving three contemporary vehicles on an isolated portion of Highway 30. The drivers, who knew nothing about the experiment, were told to drive a specified route at a comfortable speed.

"We expected the speed to increase steadily but found instead that the drivers went immediately to a constant speed in about three miles and stayed there varying about three m.p.h.," Morris said.

Morris explained the results at the 14th Annual Symposium of the SAFE Association, an organization of safety and survival equipment researchers, manufacturers and users.

He said the mean comfortable speed was about 70 m.p.h. "From this, it is reasonable to conclude that the probability that the entire population's comfortable speed is 55 m.p.h. is essentially zero," Morris said.

"If the difference between comfortable speed and legal speed is large, the driver is placed in a stressful and fatiguing situation.

"This additional stress can lead to exposure to accident hazards," Morris said. "Further, the constant throttle correction will result in poor engine performance and efficiency."

Despite downpours England still faces water shortage

LONDON (AP) — It's hard to tell a man with a soggy umbrella that he's still in the middle of a drought.

That's the problem facing British water authorities. Despite downpours that dumped twice the average September rainfall on England and Wales and sent flash floods gushing through drought-parched villages, they say the country's worst water shortage in 500 years is still a threat.

"We will need a wet winter to put reservoirs and river flows right, and a moist summer and another wet winter to replenish underground supplies," a National Water Council spokesman said Saturday.

But many Britons, apparently cheered by the return of leaden skies and sidewalk puddles, are starting to relax. The nationwide saving of 20 to 25 per cent in water consumption, achieved by a combination of voluntary and compulsory cutbacks over the summer, is starting to taper off.

The city of Plymouth on the English Channel is up from 60 per cent to 69 per cent of normal water use, the council spokesman said. In London, consumption has gone up slightly.

September's 6.2 inches of rain made it possible for authorities to turn on the water Saturday to homes in Devon County in southwest England, where residents have had to carry buckets to faucets installed along the streets.

But authorities have warned that curbs on fountains, car washes and other big water users are still in effect, along with $680 fines for violations. And the water council plans to continue September's $510,000 save-water advertising campaign for another month.

In the East Anglia region of eastern England, authorities banned nonessential uses of water Friday. The order was followed by heavy rains that flooded parts of the area.

Some Britons wonder if this ironic situation might be the doing of Sports Minister Denis Howell, who was named special drought minister in August and seems to be exercising some uncanny powers not invested in him by the government.

When Howell took up the new post Aug. 24 it had not rained in London for 35 days. He announced that withering flowers in London parks must be left to die. The announcement was followed by a three-day rain, and the flowers revived.

Since then, "Deluge Denis," as some newspapers have come to call him, has criss-crossed the country taking his little black cloud with him. Some items:

On Aug. 27 he told South Wales industry that its water supplies would have to be cut in half. Two days later an inch and a half of rain drenched Cardiff.

On Aug. 30 he planned to watch the England-West Indies cricket match in his home town of Birmingham; it was rained out.

On Aug. 31 an inch of rain heralded his arrival in Devon and Cornwall, two of the hardest-hit drought counties. On Sept. 9 he brought four days of showers to Sussex. On Sept. 24 he visited Scotland, and it hasn't stopped raining there since.

Ford will visit Lawton

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Ford will take part in a public rally in Lawton Oct. 8, then spend the night there before flying on to Dallas, campaign officials announced.

But officials were still not sure whether he would attend the Texas-Oklahoma football game in Dallas on Oct. 9.

Ford will arrive at Lawton Municipal Airport next Friday at 5 p.m., three hours earlier than was announced previously, officials said.

Rick Shelby, state Ford campaign coordinator, said Friday the President will take part in a public rally and make some brief remarks at the airport, then spend the night at the Montego Bay Motor Hotel. He will leave Lawton by plane early Saturday for Dallas.

"It is still uncertain whether he will attend the game," Shelby said. He added that he did not know whether Mrs. Ford or any other members of the Ford family will accompany the President on his trip to Lawton and Dallas.

Gambling ladies take cab from Hoboken to Las Vegas

DALLAS (AP) — Hoboken, N.J., taxicab No. 0X8-888, owner-operator Jack Keator at the wheel, picked up the two lady fares and headed west.

Boy, did he head west.

In Dallas last week on the return leg from Las Vegas, Keator and his fares stopped for a rest.

Mrs. Nesta Sgro and Mrs. Ann Drache paid Keator $2,500 plus expenses to drive them cross-country to the Nevada gambling mecca.

"We both love to gamble," Mrs. Sgro said. "We'd always flown to Las Vegas before. This time we decided to see the country."

Leaving Hoboken Sept. 9, the trio made the 3,450-mile trip to the casinos. The women said they dropped about $1,000 each and Keator lost $125 in Las Vegas and another $450 to Mrs. Sgro in a blackjack game at a Dallas motel.

Mrs. Drache took time in Nevada to visit her son, Eric, who left Hoboken with $600 four years ago. Eric was runner-up in the most recent World Series of Poker in Las Vegas and now makes his living as a gambler.

The elongated taxi trip is not taking the shortest distance between points.

From Dallas, the plan was to head through Texarkana to Vicksburg, Miss., and on to Atlanta, where Mrs. Drache has relatives. From Atlanta, they plan to meander up the Atlantic Coast back to Hoboken.

It was not known if the $2,500 included a tip.

TEXAS TALK

By Doug Howard

Taking a look over your shoulder is sometimes a good idea. It not only helps make us more secure... it adds perspective to where we are now. Looking over our shoulder at agricultural production produces similar results. Today's farmer produces over fifty percent more than his father. He does so on six percent less land. Twenty years ago each person working in farming accounted for production of enough food and fiber for sixteen others. Today each farmworker produces enough for 56 others. No other country even comes close to that kind of productivity. Russia's farmers produce enough for only six others. This quick, over-the-shoulder glance should make us feel more secure... having such a super productive agricultural environment. It should also help perspective. If we continue to encourage full farm production, the future of a hungry world should be considerably brighter.

'Belly dancing more popular than book reviews'

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

The Pampa Youth and Community Center has no plans to change its name to the Gray County Naval Academy, no matter how many women sign up for belly dancing lessons.

On Thursday there were 53 Pampa women attending their first class. Instructor Sharon Kay Morgan divided them into two groups, one meeting in the morning and one in the afternoon.

Mrs. Morgan said that belly dancing is good exercise and that is the reason most women take her courses. However, she has taught some go-go dancers in classes in other communities.

She said that the belly dance is "a native dance of the Near Eastern countries," but that "most people have a sultry image of belly dancing. The name belly dancing shouldn't even be used."

School officials in Canyon agreed with that line of thinking when they recently allowed Mrs. Morgan to use their facilities to teach her courses. But they didn't even want it called "Oriental Dancing."

Mrs. Morgan said they finally agreed to label the class "Women's Exercise."

There weren't many enrolled for the first week's class, she said, but after word got around that "Women's Exercise" was simply what the school officials called belly dancing, the class filled for the second session.

The attractive mother of three, who lives between Amarillo and Canyon, said that she has turned down some performance bookings because "I don't go anywhere and dance where I can't take my husband and children."

Mrs. Morgan said that not long ago she was teaching a class in Snyder and "several ladies came from Colorado City and wanted a demonstration in their new community center."

She explained that their previous programs were all considered quite cultural — "usually had book reviews."

When her scheduled performance was announced a letter of protest was written to the newspaper editor in Colorado City "And they even threatened a protest march."

No march came off, but 125 people showed up for Mrs. Morgan's demonstration — a far larger crowd than the book reviews had been attracting.

Following the program a lady came up to Mrs. Morgan and asked when she would next be dancing in the area because she would like to bring her son to see the exhibit.

"It is a sensuous dance," Mrs. Morgan admitted of belly dancing. "But ballet also is a sensuous dance. The main thing I want to get across to people is that it's a beautiful, graceful dance when it's done properly."

Mrs. Morgan, who has been belly dancing for three years, is in Dallas this weekend for a Southwest Oriental Dancers convention. Study sessions will be conducted by Ibrahim Farrah of New York, a Lebanese only one generation removed from the Old Country.

One thing about Ibrahim Farrah that many people find unusual — he is a male belly dancer.

Answering a questioning expression that included a raised eyebrow, Mrs. Morgan said, "If people would just quit categorizing things. He is a strong dancer. Just like a male ballet dancer it takes a lot of muscles. He wears large finger cymbals and has them specially spun so he won't crack them."

Farrah also publishes a journal on mid eastern dances, Mrs. Morgan said.

Mrs. Morgan said that belly dancing has been around longer than any other kind.

"It's the mother of all dances," she said.

And now it has come to Pampa. But don't expect to see a demonstration any time soon from a friend who might happen to be in a class.

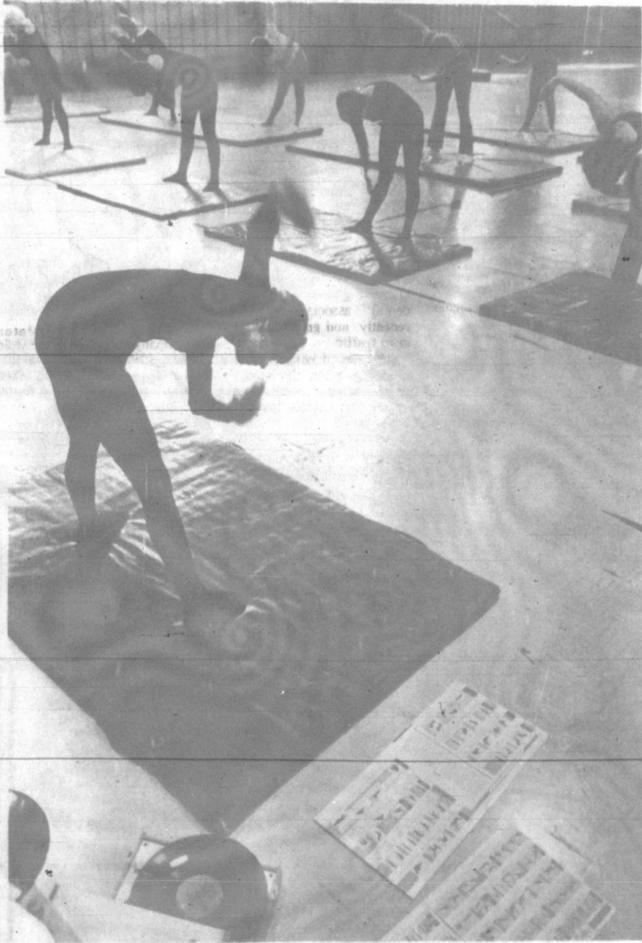

"I emphasize they have to learn how to do it right before giving demonstrations," Mrs. Morgan said. And, anyway, "most women have no intention of ever dancing for anyone. They are in it for the exercise."

"When I say 'contract,' really think about contracting those muscles."

"Bounce in the knee and not in the head."

'Stretch — two, three, four...'

'Bust builders... just give you strong fingers'

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

Sally White has been helping ladies fight flab and battle their middle age spreads for three years.

She teaches two 30-minute exercise classes a week at the Pampa Youth and Community Center, 106 W. Harvester. The classes are at 9:30 a.m. Mondays and Fridays.

"I started exercise classes under Mary Nell Phillips," White said, "and when she left Pampa she asked me to take over her classes."

She said that enrollments in the class two and three years ago averaged 20-30 women. But interest in the class has been declining.

"Last year and this year," she said, "we've really had a drop. The first day this year, only five ladies showed up."

Concerned over the lack of students, Youth Center officials brought in a belly dancing teacher for a six-week course to increase the interest in both exercise programs offered at the Center.

"My class picked up 10 people after they opened enrollment in the belly dancing," White said, adding that she enrolled in belly dancing, too.

"We exercise for 30 minutes by records," the instructor said. She uses Body Prudent and Jack LaLane albums.

"We start with warmup exercises, move into the regular exercises and then we have a cool out period where we just walk around the gym."

"I hope to work in some belly dancing," White said. "Not to the degree she (Sharon Kay Morgan, the belly dancing teacher) does it, but to the degree we can do it and do it right."

White said that her students range in age from 25-60 years old and "most of them are pretty much out of shape."

"Everybody's out of shape if they don't do anything," she said.

"They keep up with me," she said of the students. "They keep up with what I do. They don't stop."

"I hope this belly dancing really stimulates a lot of interest in getting people out here to exercise."

Asked why no exercise classes are offered in the evenings for women who work, White said, "if you could guarantee 15 people for an exercise class at night, I would be willing to exercise with them."

The possibility of a night class, she said, depends on whether the women would be interested in it and "if they would be willing to come on and keep up with it."

"Most of the time, working people have other things to do when they get home," she said.

"We do hope to get up a class in the evening for belly dancing for those who work," she added.

The exercise classes usually start after Labor Day and continue until the school year is over in the spring.

"Last year," she said, "we quit in mid-November because we had such a drop. We had two students. Then we started again in April."

White said many students find it difficult to adjust to a routine of regular exercise.

"The hardest thing is to keep coming regular," she said, "to get in the habit of coming and to enjoy it enough to want to come."

She estimated that more than half of the exercise students drop out.

Eulen Lang of 1157 Huff Rd., a student, said the hardest thing for her was doing the exercises right.

"I can do them, but I'm not using all my muscles," she said. White agreed that the exercises have to be done correctly to be beneficial.

"I have to be able to concentrate to be able to do them right," White said.

She said many women who enroll in the exercise classes are disappointed to learn they won't lose weight by exercising.

"Exercising won't make you lose weight," White said. "It just tones your muscles."

"You have to cut your calories if you want to lose weight and your muscles will weigh a lot more than your fat when you get them toned up."

"Everyone has one particular area, they want to concentrate on," she said.

She said that there are several devices to help a woman get in shape and stay that way, but she cautioned against some gimmicks which don't do all they claim.

"Those bust builders," she said, "don't help. They just give you strong fingers."

"Anything will work if you'll use it. Just getting in the floor and spot exercising is better than anything else you can do."

Community profile--Linda Kirkpatrick

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

Linda Kirkpatrick is an educated woman who teaches school "because I enjoy the maturity of high school students."

Kirkpatrick, 26 and single, moved to Pampa during the summer to assume duties as distributive education (D.E.) teacher at Pampa High School. That position became open in May when Dona Cornutt resigned after heading the D.E. program six years.

"I knew this was a very active program," Kirkpatrick said, "with a good reputation. The business community cooperates with the distributive education program."

"I think it's just a fantastic program." Kirkpatrick, an Amarillo native, took time to earn two degrees, attend law school and teach four years before she accepted the Pampa job.

She received a bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University in Canyon and a master of education degree from North Texas State University in Denton.

"I was a psychology major," she said. "I didn't major in education until I was a junior in college. I just got to thinking about it and decided to go ahead and get my certification to teach."

She was also a distributive education student in high school — a background that earned her a slot in a distributive education hall of fame.

When distributive education students become distributive education teachers, they are inducted into the D.E. Hall of Fame, she explained, adding that few D.E. students become D.E. teachers.

"We're in the minority," she said. "But the advantage is that we see things not only from the teacher's point of view, but also from a student point of view."

Kirkpatrick was a substitute teacher for two years in Amarillo on the junior high and senior high school levels. It was then, she said, that she developed the preference for working with more mature high school students.

She taught distributive education for two years in Brownfield and for one year in Cedar Hill which is near Dallas.

During her work in Brownfield she became interested in studying law and she enrolled in the University of Houston Law School for "most of a year."

She said she became acquainted with Dona Cornutt while she was working at Brownfield.

"She has been a great help to me," Kirkpatrick said, adding she thought Mrs. Cornutt may have recommended her for the job.

"The school contacted me because they knew I was interested in getting back to this part of the country," she said.

"I moved to Pampa in early July," Kirkpatrick said, "and I started work July 19. All co-op teachers work on an 11-month contract."

Kirkpatrick is the only member of her family to become a teacher — a decision she said she has not regretted.

"My goal is to uphold the tradition of the D.E. program here. There is really not a lot that has been left undone, but we might come up with some new projects during the year."

"She (Dona Cornutt) ran her program a lot like I run mine."

Kirkpatrick, who said teaching two classes of distributive education and acting as faculty advisor to the Pampa High School chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America takes "a full day every day, plus nights and weekends," said she enjoys skiing, tennis and travel in her free time.

She said she wants to stay in Pampa and she has purchased a home here.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this guy for five months, and both of my parents liked him a lot until he grew a beard. When he showed up at my house with his new beard, my parents were actually rude to him.

They said he looked like a bum or someone who was trying to overthrow the government. Abby, I think his beard looks great and told him so. It's not shaggy or neglected-looking—it's carefully cropped and really looks neat.

I was so embarrassed when my folks put this guy down, I didn't know what to say or do.

Abby, you're my parents' age, at least. How do you feel about beards?

BONNIE L.

DEAR BONNIE: If they're neat and well-cared for, I think they're great. Some of the most important men in history had beards: Moses, Jesus, Abraham Lincoln and Sigmund Freud, to name a few. And the Smith Brothers, who coughed up a fortune.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 40 years old and should know better, but it still hurts.

I'm married and have three attractive children. I have one married brother who also has a fine family. My brother lives in the same city as do our parents, and he sees them often. I live in another city, but for many years I've visited my folks once a month.

My mother has a large picture of my brother on her living room wall, and several pictures of him, his wife and all their children displayed in the same room.

My picture is hidden in a back bedroom. There isn't one picture of my three children anywhere in sight, and I've given her several.

When I shop with my mother she takes pictures of my brother out of her wallet and shows them to store clerks, saying, "Here's my son. Isn't he handsome? He's the president of the Blank Company."

It takes several days after I return home to get the ache out of my heart.

Abby, I wonder how many mothers have favorites? Is there a solution to my problem?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Although they won't admit it, most mothers (either consciously or unconsciously) have their favorites, but your mother is extremely insensitive to act out her preference so blatantly.

I suggest that you bring your hurt feelings out into the open. Perhaps it will motivate your mother and will remedy the situation. It's too bad you have to prompt her to keep her from hurting you, but it's preferable to aching forever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO V.H.: That little "gem" about "talking health" was written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. I quote: "Talk health. The dreary, never-ending tale of mortal maladies is worn and stale. You cannot charm or interest or please by harping on that minor chord—disease. So, say that you are well, and all is well with you. And God will hear your words and make them true."

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Having retired to Florida six years ago, not only do I find that my husband and I differ in tolerance of heat but many "couple" friends have this problem too. In 99 per cent of the situations it is the woman who cannot tolerate the heat. Is there any physical, medical explanation for this? I have met native Floridians who have lived here their entire lives in these situations and the woman never tolerated the heat.

Relying on air conditioning in the home was not a factor in my findings, for many women of whom I speak do not have air conditioning in their homes.

Thank you for your trouble and any information you can give me.

DEAR READER — You may be right. Women tend to have more body fat than men. This is a fundamental difference in males and females. We accept more body fat on the female as normal. This body fat characteristic provides for the curves and feminine figure. While the absence of fat in the male results in the sharply defined muscular body.

The fat pad acts as insulation. It makes it harder for the body to cool off. In a sense it is as if you already had on clothing to provide insulation.

Now this isn't all there is to it but it is a frequent factor in why some people feel hot before others do.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-6, Body Temperature and Fever to give you a more complete discussion of how the body temperature is regulated. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — My off-white painter's pants were put on the furnace to dry and were forgotten. There is a fairly large scorch mark on the back of one leg. I considered dyeing them but there seems to be no off-white or white dye to be found. If you have any suggestions I would surely appreciate hearing them. — MELINDA.

DEAR MELINDA — If the fabric fibers are burned, there really is no hope for your pants. But if it is only a stain on the fabric, place a cloth dampened with hydrogen peroxide over the stain. Then put a dry clean cloth over that and press with a warm iron. When the top pressing cloth becomes stained change to a fresh dry one and repeat until stain disappears. Rinse pants well. Another method is to use bleach — one tablespoon of bleach to a quart of water. Soak fifteen or twenty minutes and then wash and rinse thoroughly. Of course, the type bleach will depend on the type of fabric in the pants. — POLLY.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Thomas Buck of Rt. 2, was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by Becky Buck of Amarillo as maid of honor and Carla Thomas of Claremore, Okla., as bridesmaid. Flower girl was Sara Beth Brown of Pampa and Chris Steward of Pampa was ringbearer. Candle lighters were Gary Shugart and Yvonne Butler.

Attending the groom, son of Mrs. Evelyn Oliver of Leadville and the late Mr. Oliver, was Ken Quenser of Denver, Colo., as best man. Groomsman was Karl Salida of Sapulpa, Okla.

Ushers for the wedding were Mike Buck and Mike Chaney.

Vocalist was Gayle Steward and Rena Johnson played the organ. Assisting at the reception in the church's Fellowship Hall were Ginny Winchell of Amarillo, Shirley Buck of Pampa, Margaret Barnett and Susan Kepper, both of Tulsa, Okla.

The bride wore a formal silk organza over bridal taffeta gown. The dress had an empire waistline with modified neckline and mutton sleeves. Side and back fullness of the skirt formed a cathedral train and her tiered veil of imported illusion edged in Chantilly lace attached to a Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The bride graduated from Pampa High School in 1972 and attended West Texas State University. She worked at NAPA in Tulsa for the past two years.

Oliver graduated from Sapulpa High School and is employed by Climax Molybdenum Co., in Leadville.

Following a wedding trip to the Grand Canyon and Las Vegas, Nev., the couple will make their home in Leadville.

Look for an abundant supply of pork for the rest of this year. Lower pork prices are likely because of increased supplies and because of competition with beef and poultry products. This is mostly on smoked cuts — hams, picnics, and some brands of bacon.

New-crop sweet potatoes are available — but they are not good "keepers," so buy only enough to last a week or 10 days. Onions will be getting special promotion during October because the summer-crop is large and markets are weak. Beef continues to be in large supply, and production rates during October are expected to average 3-5 percent above the record level of 1975.

New Exchange List Booklet for Diabetics
We received a new booklet "Exchange Lists for Meal Planning." The booklet was prepared by Committees of the American Diabetes Association, Inc., the American Dietetic Association, in cooperation with the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism and Digestive Diseases and the National Heart and Lung Institute of the National Institutes of Health.

Based on the concerns of total caloric intake and for modifications of fat intake, these food lists now include many revisions and additions such as:

- nutrition information on labels and its use for the diabetic
- information on the effect of fiber in the diet and fiber containing foods
- nutrition information such as sodium and potassium content of foods within each list as well as additional nutritive value of foods — the different types of fat — saturated and polyunsaturated fat in different foods

Easiest Way to Clean

Aluminum Cookware
Cooking with acid foods cleans discolored aluminum pots and pans the quick, easy way. Acid foods such as tomatoes, applesauce, cranberries, rhubarb or sauerkraut work well for this. The food, of course, is edible — because a harmless iron salt (oxalate) is formed and goes into solution in the food.

Another easy method of removing mineral stains is to boil cream of tartar solution in the pan. Dissolve two tablespoons then scour lightly with a soap-filled steel wool pad. The pan will shine like new. This cream of tartar solution works on the coffee pot, too. The solution can be stored in a bottle and used over and over again.

The discoloration on the inside of aluminum utensils is caused by deposits of mineral from food and water. It has no effect on food and is perfectly harmless. Degree of discoloration depends largely upon the amount of iron, calcium and magnesium naturally present in water and is more noticeable in communities with "hard" water. Washing the pans in the dishwasher may also dull the polished finish of aluminum.

Carter-Langston wedding

Bonnie Langston of White Deer and Don Carter of Pampa were married Sept. 4 in a double ring ceremony in the United Methodist Church of White Deer. The Rev. Stan Cosby officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Langston of White Deer, was attended by Mrs. Jerry Jones of Pampa as matron of honor. Ringbearer was Kelly Jones of Pampa.

Attending the groom, son of Mrs. Virgil Eckroat of Pampa, was Jerry Jones of Pampa as best man.

Mrs. Stan Cosby was the organist and assisting at the reception in the church parlor were Mrs. Jim Long of Dimmit and Donna Maness of Amarillo.

The bride wore a formal gown of bridal satin and embroidered lace. The gown was fashioned with an empire waist, long full sleeves, and a square neckline accented with lace inserts.

The bride is a 1975 White Deer High School graduate and was employed as a diet clerk at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Carter, a 1973 Pampa High School graduate, has served in the U.S. Army. He is employed by Panhandle Industrial.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas and Ft. Worth, the couple will make their home in Pampa.

Child costs $52,000

A planned savings account will keep parents from putting the cash gifts into piggy banks, or their own bank account with a mental note to "pay baby back," said Linda McCormack specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Estimates show that it will cost approximately $52,000 to rear a child from birth through four years of a state college," she added.

Each different way of saving money has its own special characteristics. Standards to consider when choosing a plan are what parents want to achieve with baby's savings and when they plan for baby to use the money, she said.

Basic savings programs that look to a child's future are government savings bonds, insurance plans, savings accounts and certificates of deposit (savings certificates).

Government savings bonds can be purchased for varying amounts, from $18.75 to $7,500, and have fixed redemption values before and at maturity (five years).

The two types of savings bonds are Series E and Series H. These differ in cost, rate of return and the length of time held to maturity. Purchasing E bonds regularly in the child's name (designate parent as beneficiary, not co-owner) makes the interest taxable to the child. Since the child probably will not earn enough to incur income tax for several years, the interest escapes taxation if you report it as it accrues.

"To do this, at the end of the first year, file a federal income tax return in the child's name and on the return, state that the child elects to report the interest annually. Then, list the increase in the value of the bonds as his or her income. This establishes the child's 'intent' and you need file no further returns as long as the interest on the bonds plus the child's other investment income is less than $750 a year. Thus, when the child cashes the bonds, all accrued interest on the bonds will be free from federal income tax."

When the child turns two years old, if parents start buying a $25 bond each month, they will have $5,906 worth when he reaches 18 — assuming the six per cent rate remains in effect, she said.

"Insurance programs or juvenile insurance can accomplish some important long-term objectives by insuring the child early during his life. This can give a child a base on which to build his own insurance program later, or help him start his adult career with low-cost protection.

Savings accounts can be opened with a small deposit, and future deposits can be made in any amount. Withdrawals can be made any time, except with certain accounts which may require from 30 to 90 days notice. Again, shop around — to find the most favorable plan for computing interest when you make either deposits or withdrawals during the interest-earning period.

"Generally, look for a high percentage rate of interest, no penalties for withdrawals, interest calculated on the day of deposit to day of withdrawal plan, quarterly compounding and quarterly crediting. At 7 1/2 per cent interest, money doubles in slightly less than 10 years. At 5 1/2 per cent, it doubles in 13 years," she explained.

Old cars catch Kansan's fancy

By Jean Barnes

A feverish excitement builds as Larry begins talking about his collection. He is consumed by a passion for old cars.

"Larry," a contraction of his last name, Larrabee, is semi-retired, but the hobby of collecting, restoring, trading and selling is nearly a full-time occupation with him.

We drove to his modest home in a small Kansas community recently to visit with him about old cars, a field of collecting completely foreign to us.

Parked in front was a green 1938 Ford pickup. In the driveway sat a 1940 Ford coupe and through the open door of his garage we could see his current pride, a 1930 Model A Ford — the kind my grandpa used to drive, only his hadn't looked as good as this one.

All three are still in the process of restoration, although the pickup is nearly complete.

These three old cars, sometimes called "moving sculpture" are only the surface of his collection. Beneath that surface is an impressive accumulation of old auto parts, license tags and memorabilia. This collection represents hours and days and months of patient searching at swap meets, through catalogue advertisements and many improbable places.

Accompanying his nostalgic passion for old cars is a healthy respect for the "investment" potential in this field of collecting.

Larry has been collecting since 1972. That's about the time prices really started soaring. He tells the story of a Model B truck he bought at auction for $750. He traded it for a 1932 Willys Knight coupe which he subsequently sold for $1,500 un-restored. "It was really rusty," he explained. When Larry saw the car again, it had been completely restored and was offered to him for $15,000.

Inflation, greater demand and the high cost of restoration are all responsible for this kind of price spiraling, he explained. Consider that a professional restoration will cost $20 an hour; that you might have to pay as much as $100 or $150 for just one missing part. It can be costly.

The name of the restoration game is "perfection." Cars are brought to as near "show room" condition as possible. Thus, an owner could spend a year or two hunting for the right screws or authentic upholstery.

How to restore antiques

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Tag sale enthusiasts are beginning to take a long look at some of the great buys they made during the height of the summer season when such events take on the competitive glamor of bargain basement sales.

Never mind the handsome bird cage that needs a bird — what to do about the chipped pitcher, the cabinet without a key, the damaged papier mache tilt top table?

In an unusual approach to such repairs, authority George Grotz passes on many trade secrets in "The Antique Restorers Handbook." Directions are not pat for amateurs — some may need to be reread several times before proceeding — but he tells it like it is. Best of all, he tells where some of the magic mending materials may be obtained.

For example, a locked drawer in a cabinet might be reached by removing the dust boards from the back of the case and prying out the back of the drawer so the lock can be reached. That is a good professional tip which might not readily occur to the amateur restorer.

In mending papier mache — it might be the black kind that was molded during the Victorian era — he suggests white glue "which the paper will suck in" and which has correct pliability for the purpose. After the piece has been stabilized with glue, cracks can be filled in with black shellac sticks or black wax. This is a very simple solution to what might appear at first glance to be irreparable damage requiring the services of "an expert" if you are lucky enough to locate one.

As for repairing ceramics, it is for "the kind of people who like to wear close-up magnifying glasses, even a jeweler's glass and work slowly and painstakingly." It isn't to be sluffed off in a quick operation, but he tells how to do it.

For cleaning old prints, etchings and other printed matter, there are a number of techniques that might be used to remove various stains.

As a first step he suggests the discoloring might be nothing more than surface dirt. After first dusting it with a soft brush, you use an eraser made of soft, moist bread. Any cheap, spongy bread will do, he explained. It should be soggy enough for easy handling.

Knead about eight slices into a ball, making it a little moister with water if necessary, so you can get a hard roll to move across the paper. This should erase surface dirt without disturbing the print or picture. Some papers can be washed carefully in lukewarm water, but the technique needs experimentation, he cautions.

Fly specks or spots can be removed by picking them off the paper carefully with a needle and then bleaching the remaining stain with hydrogen peroxide which is applied with a fine-pointed brush. Directions for additional bleaches are given in the event that doesn't work.

Grotz gives directions for removing brown foxing (mildew) spots caused by spores which feed on paper in moist conditions, and he tells how to remove the black stains made by inks having soot or other carbons in them.

In providing directions for restoring furniture finishes, Grotz gets away from the traditional seven coats of shellac, seven sandings method. After cleaning the old finish by scrubbing the surface with a wet cloth and wiping it dry, douse it with mineral spirits with a rag to remove any wax or oil. Wipe it dry (hard) with paper towels. Repeat process twice, getting into carvings with an old toothbrush. (A crazed surface should be treated with a nailbrush used over the entire surface.) Dry the piece for five minutes before trying to reamalgamate it.

Former Ninon Celeste Marie Petit

Hills-Petit wedding

Ninon Celeste Marie Petit of Amarillo and John Rockland Hills of Aberdeen, Md., were married Aug. 28 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Amarillo. Father Michael Pintacura officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Petit of Amarillo, was attended by Mrs. Cliff Booten of Farmington, N.M., as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joey Adams of Amarillo and GERALYN Hills of Pampa.

Attending the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hills of Rt. 1, was Shaun Hills of Silsbee as best man. Groomsmen were Terry Crain of Dumas and Lex Keim of Perryton.

Dinah Withers played the guitar at the service. Assisting at the reception at the Travel Lodge were Mrs. Etienne Petit, Mrs. Teddy Actkin and Janet Shawgo.

The bride wore a formal gown with an empire waist of re-embroidered lace. The bodice had a raised neckline in back and was scooped in front. The dress, and sleeves were Georgette chiffon and the sleeves were gathered into lace cuffs. The full skirt was swept back into a chapel train. Her veil was chapel length and fell from a cap of lace and re-embroidered satin.

The bride has attended Amarillo College and West Texas State University. She is employed by Amarillo National Bank.

Hills has a bachelor of science in general industrial education from WTSU, where he was a distinguished graduate of Army ROTC and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He is currently stationed at Aberdeen, Md., as a 2nd lieutenant with the US Army. He has been assigned to an active duty post in Fulda, Germany, where the couple will live.

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer
WEST DANBY, N.Y. (AP) — The deep, hollow sound of a goat horn sent a pagan sennet through the tall trees. It was morning at Yea God.

From domed, circular huts called yurts and crude teepees and tents emerge the faithful, ready to sing their way into another day of praising the Lord.

Barefoot and bleary-eyed, they assemble in a huge domed meeting place in the middle of the commune for their morning song. They sit on musty Persian rugs, the women in their long cotton dresses; the men in dungaree overalls. They assume the yoga lotus position and sing of love for Jesus.

Yea God is a four-year-old spiritual commune of about 40 members, who practice a hand-clapping, fill-me-with-the-Spirit brand of Christianity. Neither Yea God nor any other commune can serve as an archetype for all others. Some communes have rather traditional middle-class values and living patterns. Others have a back-to-the-earth flavor. Still others are politically motivated. And some are based on religion.

But all communes have one thing in common: the people, living so closely together, must cooperate if the community is to survive.

Yea God is trying to survive on religion. Their 39-year-old leader is a tall, lanky former insurance executive who calls himself Gil.

Gil, in turn, has given everyone else on the commune names. They are Ocean, Vast and Rock; Radiant, Bumblebee and Love; Twinkle, Baby and Glory; Glow, Health and Virtue; Christian, Angel and Exquisite. They don't use their real names.

"The chipmunks eat from our hands and the chickadees land on our fingers," said Gil, rocking in an outdoor swing whose seat was once a pew in a church. "It's more important to be in a spiritual sense than to have prosperity."

It was late morning. The singing session was over and commune dwellers were off to work in the vegetable garden or to meditate in the woods. Glory, Gil's assistant, arrived with a platter of overripe melons. The Yea God members of ten eat overripe fruit because they can get it free from the highway produce truckers. "Our lifestyle is a lot cheaper than you think," said Gil, who punctuates his statements every now and then with a soft "Praise the Lord."

He said it cost less than $1,000 a year for one person to live on the commune. The vegetables and fruit they grow they consume. Donations of money,

'Our lifestyle is a lot cheaper than you think.'

'Praise the Lord.'

clothing, food and other goods from visitors and relatives also help.

"We have no restrictions here, except our guests and members must be receptive to love," Gil said in a voice barely above a whisper.

No one at Yea God shouts or speaks louder than necessary to be heard. Even the children speak in hushes.

The commune dwellers are vegetarians and, along with meat, shun sugar and chemicals in food. Gil likes to pass out his favorite snack to the children: a concoction of raisins, sunflower seeds and coconut all wrapped together.

Commune members purchased the 70 acres of farmland and woods for $150 an acre, Gil said. They pooled their resources — savings, insurance claims and gifts from parents and inheritances. All structures on the land were built by them with available material — wood, stone, tar, fabric, newspaper.

In addition to the central dome, which also has sleeping space for about 15 people on its second floor, there are about 25 tar-covered yurts and teepees and about five tents and lean-tos. There also is a bathroom and a kitchen, a church and one outhouse. There is no electricity and little heat.

And when the arctic winds blow from Canada down across the Finger Lakes, the people at Yea God get very cold.

The yurts do have small wood-burning stoves for heat, so do the large Dome, the bathroom and kitchen. But they are not enough.

"I'm leaving for California in the fall," said Radiant, a 36-year old native of Berkeley. "No way, I'm not going to spend another winter in that cold Dome squeezed in between dirty bodies."

She regrets the move, she only spiritual commune I've known where the people live in such incredible love.

"The minute I put my foot on the land I knew I was home."

The people at Yea God call each other "sweet heart" and "honey" when not using commune names. "Sweet" is a word they use to describe anything beautiful, nice or good.

It is midday. The sun is hot and the insects abound. The long skirts the women wear help protect them from bites. But the naked babies and everyone else with exposed flesh suffer. The commune dwellers practice herb medicine; they do not use insect repellants.

Twinkle is the herb expert and midwife. She has not yet had an opportunity to deliver a baby. At the moment she has a had summer cold. Herbs will not help, so she takes prescription antibiotics. She spends a quiet day in her yurt with her 24-year-old son, Baby Love, reading him "Bambi," one of the few books on the commune.

Many of the commune folk pass the day mulling about the great Dome, where they receive their mail and other messages from the outside world. Mothers stop by with infants, some being breast-fed. They swap childbearing experiences.

Tiny tots such as Baby Love romp about naked in the nearby sandpile. Some sneak into the kitchen to pilfer a peach or apple. There, Ocean stands in cutoff blue jeans and T-shirt bearing a huge vat of green beans. He will make them into a casserole for the evening meal.

Larger children explore the hidden mysteries of the quiet forest, ignoring the dangers of poison ivy and snakes. Six-year-old Sunshine slips out of her long cotton dress and jumps into the large fresh water pond.

Health and Christian and a dozen or so other adults hover over the vegetable garden, pulling weeds, picking greens and tomatoes that are ready and tending to the plants so they will produce well.

Rebe and two others eye the base construction for the commune's new two-story laundry, bathroom and child care center. They are laying pipes for plumbing.

The horn sounds again. It is time for the women to bathe. Water is heated, scrub brushes, water buckets and ladies are lined up in front of the stalls. Sunshine and other small children are put in large tubs, filled with bubbles. The children are unmindful of the nakedness of the adult women.

An hour later the horn sounds again. This time the men bathe.

Clothes are changed, and the Yea God people buzz about waiting for the trucks that will carry them to church that night. Neighboring farmers finally drive up with their pickups. The commune people hop on the back, and the trucks chug off down the dirt roads.

The church is the St. John Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church in West Van Etten. It is to be a special evening service, featuring the singing of a Christian rock group from North Carolina called The Bridge.

On the bumpy, dusty journey down the hill to the church the commune people turn their faces to the wind and start to sing hymns. Soon they are clapping and stomping in true revival fashion. They are happy.

'I find I must have peacefulness of commune and the excitement of town.'

"Jesus is live," sings 19-year-old Vast from Brazil.

"Jesus is glory," sings 20-year-old Glow from Syracuse, N.Y.

The church meeting is a community affair. Women from other parishes have brought home baked cookies and breads. The Yea God people donate popcorn and wheat bread cookies.

"People really touch you a lot and become part of your life," Glow says as she sips fruit punch. "That's what I've learned and that's what I like most about being here."

Glow said she was working in a hospital in Syracuse and finally could no longer function. "Life in the city was very harrowing," she said. "I needed the country for peace, trees, flowers and for time to gather my thoughts."

There was much singing and shouting and testifying at the church meeting. And when it was over commune folk as well as community folk smiled at each other and prayed together.

But some Yea God people are disillusioned.

"I'm leaving tomorrow for home," said 20-year-old Exquisite from Connecticut. "I want to be able to serve by doing something and not just by praying."

Others plan to leave the commune because they say they are bored.

"The ideal would be to have a part-time job in town in social work and spend two days on the commune," said 27-year-old Glow, whose real name is Jim. "I find I want to have the peacefulness of Yea God and the excitement of town."

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

Despite a study at the University of Michigan that shows married people are the happiest in U.S. society, about half of the people married last year laughed all the way to the divorce courts.

The remarriages of husbands and wives — some several times — has created some rather unique families. Not just his, hers, mine, and ours, but some real mind-bogglers.

One boy, whose divorced mother had four children and married a widower with five, all under 18, lamented, "I'll be the only boy in town with two brothers named Jimmy, a brother and a sister a month apart and two sisters 12 days apart. Everyone will think you're a rabbit!"

Bearing this in mind, there are probably some ramifications that we haven't begun to consider.

A simple invitation to a PTA meeting could be pretty interesting.

"Charles," says Miss Whitechalk, "did you take home the notice of the PTA Open House to your mother?"

"Yes, I gave it to all three of them."

"It would be nice if all three of them would show up."

"Not so nice. My dad is coming."

"I already met your sister. She's the one who meets you in the luncheon, isn't she?"

"She used to be my sister. Now she's my cousin."

"I don't understand."

"Her mother married my mother's brother which made my former mother my aunt."

"Then who is Evelyn who has your same name?"

"We're twins."

"But you're six and eight."

"Twins, but not to each other."

"Then, you're related through marriage."

"No, through divorce."

"How do you keep all of this straight?"

"I don't. What really complicates things is when I meet someone with the same last name as mine and I don't recognize them."

It will only be a matter of time before the following conversation will ensue on the playground.

"Mike! You stop that fighting this instant. You are not to punch in the face of that nice boy."

"Maybe yesterday he was a nice boy. Today, he's my brother!"

House plants susceptible

In many homes, house plants are accepted as a part of the household furnishings points out Joe VanZandt, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Indoor plants are just as susceptible to attack by disease causing organisms as those grown outdoors, one of the major problems the homeowner has with potted plants is root rot.

"Out of sight and out of mind" is an old saying that is frequently used when referring to the roots of plants. This is unfortunate because roots play a vital role in the growth and development of plants. Water and mineral nutrients enter through the roots, and the roots also anchor plants securely in the soil.

Many common house plants such as Coleus, rubber plants, Philodendrons and African violets are susceptible to root and crown rots caused by both bacteria and fungi.

Early symptoms begin with yellowing of the lower or older leaves, which may or may not result in defoliation. As the disease develops, the yellowing continues up the plant and result in death. Another leaf symptom is the wilting or browning of the leaf margins. These yellow to necrotic areas move inward between the major veins of the leaf. Upon close observation, a decay can be seen extending from the crown of the plant downward to include most of the root system. The decayed outer surface of the root system usually sluffs off when the plant is removed from the soil.

There are numerous soil organisms that cause crown and root rot of potted plants. However, most of these organisms develop only under high moisture conditions. Excessive watering usually accompanies the onset of root rot.

Control of crown and root rot is largely a matter of sanitation and proper watering. Other control measures include the use of a sterilized potting medium, a potting medium that drains well, disease-free transplants or seed, and a fungicide soil drench. Excessive watering, especially overhead watering, should be avoided.

Also, house plants may occasionally need to be reotted to prevent a "pot bound" condition that favors root rot.

When symptoms of root rot occur, remove all heavily diseased or dead plants, drench the soil with a fungicide (Captan, PCNB or Benlate), and water sparingly. Be sure to read labels and follow directions carefully. Do not reuse infested potting soil unless it has been sterilized. Remember, water plants thoroughly but only often enough to prevent wilting, cautions VanZandt.

Further information on disease control of house plants is available at the county Extension office.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed into law legislation giving the terminally ill the right to die without medical treatment — the first such law in the nation.

The Democratic governor considered the historic bill for more than a month before he signed it moments before the Thursday midnight deadline for a veto, signature or passage without his signature.

Brown, who often stages news conferences in his office when he signs precedent-setting measures, avoided making any immediate statement on bill, which opponents said was the first step toward euthanasia.

The law, effective Jan. 1, allows a doctor to shut off life-support equipment for a patient whose death is imminent if the patient signs a "living will" authorizing the action.

The bill was prompted by the widely publicized Karen Anne Quinlan case in New Jersey. She lay in a drug overdose coma for more than a year while her parents sought the right to let her die.

A court has permitted her respirator to be disconnected, but she is still alive. The bill would not affect a case such as hers.

Opponents said the measure was a step toward mercy killing of the aged, but the author.

Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, said dying persons have the right to choose.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF THE 13th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT FROM CONGRESSMAN JACK HIGHTOWER

Two years ago I was elected to Congress by an overwhelming margin against an incumbent Congressman. During the 1974 campaign I refrained from any personal attacks on my opponent.

At that time I made it a point with my volunteers and my staff that they should treat anyone who opposed me with the utmost respect. I thank all of my friends, supporters and staff for keeping the 1974 campaign on the highest level possible.

Responsiveness of government was a key issue. Our government does a poor job when it compounds our problems with red tape and burdensome regulations. Bureaucratic brush-offs of legitimate requests are very frustrating. I decided to organize my staff in such a way that people could deal at the local level with the bureaucratic maze of the federal agencies.

I promised two years ago that you would be able to call a number in the district and get an answer. When I took office I immediately established district offices in Amarillo, Vernon, and Wichita Falls—staffed by personnel who have been instructed personally to be responsive to the wishes and needs of my constituents. I am pleased that many people have told me they appreciate the work and attitude of my assistants. This is the only way I know to have a responsive Congressional office and I assure you I intend to try to improve this service constantly.

The Postal Service has been a bigger mess than ever since the Nixon Administration reorganized it. This is one reason I have chosen not to flood the mails with political propaganda such as newsletters. My alternative has been to communicate through the news media and to come home to the district at every opportunity for personal contact with constituents. All you ever heard about Washington having an artificial atmosphere is true. It has been my experience that the worst Congressmen are those who rarely come home. I am not going to let that happen to me. My policy is to talk with the people at home to see what they are thinking, and return to Washington and vote their philosophy and interests. I live in the district and commute to Washington.

As many of you know, I am being attacked, broadside, by my opponent in this 1976 campaign. His allegations and innuendos are based upon a misrepresentation of the record. I have voted in my two committees—Agriculture and Small Business—and on the floor in exactly the way I have reported to you and as I promised. My record is conservative by any measure. It is also independent of domination either by the Democratic leadership of the House or the Republican White House. I am neither an obstructionist nor a rubber stamp.

As this Congress adjourns, its overall record is mixed. This Congress has done some things it should not have done and left undone some things it should have done—such as enacting a "sunset" bill to cut down on federal bureaucracies or formulating an effective energy plan. We have been able to enact a bill to provide for prompt payment for the cattleman. We were able to pass a bill to provide for some relief on the estate tax problem which should benefit everyone who wants his or her property to remain in the family. These steps are not enough but they are movement in the right direction.

All of us feel sometimes that our views are not reflected properly in Washington. I would prefer a Congress that holds a tighter rein on spending, but I do not choose the other 434 members of the House. I work with them and try to influence them, but I cannot dictate their votes. I feel my job is to represent you—the people of the 13th District—and I pledge to do my best to represent you well.

Sincerely,

UCLA, Ohio State tie in top grid tilt

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

A tie, it has been said, is about as exciting as kissing your sister.

That, of course, depends on who your sister happens to be. If she's among college football's top-ranked teams, well, then a tie might not be so bad.

Ohio State settled for a smooth and UCLA obliged with a 10-10 deadlock Saturday in a rematch of last year's Rose Bowl matchup.

Tom Skladany's 25-yard field goal in the fourth quarter tied the score for the eighth-ranked Buckeyes and then, in the closing minutes, both teams played conservative football, assuring the tie.

When Ohio State ran seven consecutive running plays in the late stages, the capacity Columbus crowd boomed. But when the Buckeyes punted to UCLA's seven-yard line, the No. 4 Bruins weren't in a gambling mood either. They ran out the clock with three rushes.

In Saturday's only other game matching teams in the Top Ten, No. 6 Georgia shut out 10th-ranked Alabama 21-0, just about ending the Southeastern Conference title hopes of the Crimson Tide, who have captured the conference crown for six straight years. Matt Robinson passed for one touchdown and scored another as the Bulldogs won their 10th straight regular season contest and tagged Alabama with its first shutout in 70 games.

Elsewhere among the top ranked teams, No. 1 Michigan had an easy time, ripping Wake Forest 31-0 as fullback Rob Lytle scored two touchdowns and passed Tom Harmon on the school's all-time rushing list. Pitt, ranked No. 2, used five touchdown passes by Matt Cavanaugh to wallop Duke 44-31. Third-ranked Oklahoma used two late TDs to down Iowa State 24-10. No. 5 Nebraska needed a last-quarter comeback to overtake Miami, Fla. 17-9. Maryland, No. 7, defeated Villanova 20-9 and ninth-ranked Kansas whipped Wisconsin 34-24.

Second string quarterback Bill Pynes ran for one touchdown and passed for another, moving No. 19 Florida to a 28-23 victory over No. 11 Louisiana State. Missouri, No. 12, had an easy time downing No. 14 North Carolina 24-3. No. 15 Boston College defeated Navy 17-13. Auburn kayped No. 16 Mississippi 10-0. Notre Dame, ranked 18th, used two TD passes by Rick Slager to defeat

Michigan State 24-6 and Kentucky clubbed No. 20 Penn State 22-6, the third straight loss for the Nittany Lions.

No. 13 Southern California played Iowa in a night game. The Ohio State-UCLA tie ended a seven-game winning streak for the Bruins who had come from behind after State's Pete Johnson scored the game's first TD on a four-yard run.

Frank Corral kicked a 47-yard third period field goal for the visitors and UCLA then took the lead on quarterback Jeff Dankworth's one-yard plunge. But Skladany tied it with 7:21 to play and that was how it ended.

Top-ranked Michigan had an easy time against overmatched Wake Forest, as Lytle rushed for TDs of nine and 25 yards.

He gained 110 yards on 14 carries, pushing his career total to 2,187 yards. That gave him fifth place in Michigan history, ahead of Harmon's 2,134.

Duke limited Pitt's Tony Dorsett to a merely mortal 129 yards in 31 carries but couldn't shut off the air attack by the second-ranked Panthers. Two of Cavanaugh's TD pitches, a 27-yarder to Jim Corbett and a 37-yard toss to Gordon Jones, came 16 seconds apart late in the first half.

Horace Ivory raced 62 yards with just over four minutes left to play to break a tie and then Jerry Anderson returned an interception 58 yards for No. 3 Oklahoma's clinching touchdown against Iowa State.

No. 5 Nebraska trailed Miami, Fla. with less than 6 1/2 minutes left. But then Al Eveland kicked a 32-yard field goal and Vince Ferragamo threw his second TD pass of the game to bring the Cornhuskers back.

Georgia's shutout of Alabama marked the first time in 11 years that the Bulldogs, ranked sixth, have beaten the No. 10 Crimson Tide.

Maryland, No. 7, overcame some early sloppiness and a 9-8 halftime deficit to defeat Villanova.

Nolan Cromwell rushed for 123 yards and scored three touchdowns to carry No. 9 Kansas past Wisconsin.

In other games it was, North Carolina 24, Indiana 21; Purdue 42, Miami, Ohio 20; Texas A&M 14, Illinois 7; Tennessee 21, Clemson 19; Tulane 24, Vanderbilt 13; William and Mary 27, Virginia Tech 15, and West Virginia 9, Richmond 6.

Atlanta blanks Cincinnati, 3-0

By The Associated Press
Phil Niekro, Atlanta's 37-year-old knuckleball ace, pitched 8 1/3 innings of no-hit ball before Cesar Geronimo doubled in the ninth and finished with a one-hitter as the Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 Saturday.

Niekro, 17-11, struck out nine-including five in a row in the early going and Doug Flynn to end the game—and walked five. The only hit came with one out in the ninth when Geronimo stroked a line drive to left that carried just beyond the outstretched glove of diving third baseman Jerry Royster.

Atlanta took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Dale Murphy's run-scoring double and got its other two runs in the eighth when Willie Montanez unloaded his 11th home run of the season.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros whipped the San Francisco Giants 10-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 8-0, the Chicago Cubs beat the Montreal Expos 3-1 and the San Diego Padres defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1.

In American League action, the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 1-0, the Minnesota Twins edged the Kansas City Royals 3-2, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians 6-5 and 4-3 and the Oakland A's ripped the California Angels 9-8 in 14 innings.

J.R. Richard won his 20th game of the season with a four-hitter and also slammed a two-run homer as Houston blasted the Giants, Richard, 20-15, became only the second 20-game winner in the Astros' 15-year history, joining Larry Dierker, who won 20 in 1969.

Richard struck out 13, tying the most by a National League pitcher in one game this season, set by Jerry Kosman of New York. Pittsburgh's John Candelaria, 16-7, pitched a five-hitter and Dave Parker scored three runs and drove in two more with his 13th homer.

Ray Burris, 15-13, scattered eight hits and struck out five for Chicago. Tom Griffin and Butch Metzger combined on a four-hitter and Mike Ivie belted a three-run homer for San Diego.

Jim Rice's first-inning triple drove home Rick Miller with the only run of the game while Boston's Reggie Cleveland, Tom House and Jim Willoughby combined on a four-hitter against the Orioles.

Mark "the Bird" Fidrych, 19-9, fired a five-hitter and Rusty Staub knocked in two runs for the Tigers. Fidrych, 19-9, lowered his American League leading earned run average to 2.34.

Larry Hise's run-scoring single capped a three-run sixth inning that lifted the Twins over the Royal.

January leads Sahara by 1 after 3 rounds

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Don January, the slow-moving Texan who calls himself "Old Folks," made eagle three on his final hole, shot a four-under-par 67 and took a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 46-year-old January, who admits to a certain fondness for the 6,800 yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, had a three-round total of 201, 12 under par in his quest for a second title of the year.

"Oh, I'm just gonna go play my game tomorrow, try to play well," he said. "If I do, fine. If I don't, I'll just pack my bags and go to Dallas."

Michigan belts WF

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fullback Rob Lytle scored two touchdowns and passed Tom Harmon on the all-time Michigan rushing list Saturday as the top-ranked Wolverines blanked stubborn Wake Forest 31-0 in intercollegiate football.

Lytle scored on a nine-yard run in the second quarter and on a 25-yard burst in the final period as Michigan won its fourth game without a loss and dropped Wake Forest to 2-3 before a crowd of 103,281.

Lytle rushed for 110 yards in 14 carries to give the senior 2,187 for his career to move him into fifth place ahead of fabled Harmon's 2,134.

Tornadoes blow over McLean Tigers, 41-14

TEXLINE — Host Texline blasted McLean, 41-14, in a District 1-B football contest Saturday afternoon.

The Tornadoes piled up 280 total yards, 160 rushing and 120 passing, in winning their first game of the season against three losses. McLean fell to 1-3 with the loss.

Terry McBabb scored on a six-yard run, and John Bleiker booted the extra point, as the hosts took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter. McBabb ran 40 yards for a touchdown in the second period, then Bleiker dived over from the one for another score, as Texline managed a 20-0 lead at intermission.

McNabb ran two yards for a TD in the third quarter, and Bleiker kicked for a 27-0 lead. McLean scored in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run by Curtis Simpson to cut the deficit to 27-6.

Texline quarterback Richard Chapman passed to Brent Bannister for a 45-yard touchdown. Bleiker booted the extra point. McLean's Thomas Eck threw six yards to Chuck Pierce for a score, then Simpson ran over the conversion to make it 33-14.

Late in the fourth quarter, Bleiker ran back an intercepted pass 20 yards to score. Greg Caldwell ran for the conversion.

Tigers hold off Wheeler in thriller

Oklahoma State defeats NTSU

By PAUL SIMS Sports Editor
GROOM — Thomas Reed scored his second touchdown of the night with 5:28 left in the game then helped his teammates stop Wheeler on the one-yard line with time running out, as Groom won the crucial District 1-B encounter, 12-9, before 1,700 bi-partisan fans Friday here.

The heartstopping victory gave the Tigers a 4-1 season record and 4-0 district mark, while Wheeler fell to 3-1 and 2-1. Some district followers felt that Wheeler was the team with the best chance to dethrone defending district champion and state runner-up Groom this season.

Reed scored on a four-yard run off left tackle to give the Tigers their three-point advantage in the fourth period.

The Mustangs, reclassified this year from District 2-A to 1-B, traveled, following Groom's go-ahead touchdown in the final period, from their own 30 to the Tiger two-yard line.

On fourth down and two yards needed for a first and the ball on Wheeler's 40-sophomore fullback Marvin Grimes took a pitchout from quarterback Bobby Guthrie and raced 43 yards to the 17 Roger Baggerman saved an apparent touchdown with a diving tackle.

Wheeler drove to the two and, on fourth down with 11 seconds left, ran its fullback, Dell Ford up the middle. Linebackers John Krizan and Chris Britten and tackle Jay Witt stopped Ford just shy of the goal line.

Groom took over with seven seconds left and ran out the clock.

The game was close from the outset. After a scoreless first period, Reed circled left end and ran 31 yards for a touchdown on 4:46 in the second quarter. On the previous play, Nathan Weiburg completed a 41-yard bomb to Roger Baggerman to set up the score.

Britten's conversion attempt was wide.

Wheeler's Jim Verden, a 245-pound tackle and kicker, booted his first of three field goals in the game, a 28-yarder with 51 seconds left in the half.

Verden tied the game at 9:18 in the third quarter with a 40-yard shot and gave the visitors the lead with 55 seconds remaining in the quarter with a 30-yarder.

Wheeler shunned the field goal on its final drive when the Mustangs had fourth down on the nine. Going for a tie would have been senseless since Groom held a 4-3 lead in penetrations.

"Am I happy?" responded Tiger Coach Russell Roberts to a question moments after the thriller. "Does a bear live in the woods?"

Wheeler's biggest producer was the left-side pitch to Grimes, while Groom most often used the pitch to Krizan, who went off left tackle.

Groom ran that play four straight times on its second touchdown drive, which was set up when Richard Wheeler fell on a Wheeler fumble on the Mustang 27.

Everybody in the stadium, it seemed, knew what the call would be on third down, with Groom four yards away from the goal line.

"Actually, we were thinking about going the other way with Krizan. But they had Verden on that other side so we decided to try Reed again," Roberts said.

Roberts said the difference in the game was "Thomas Reed, Thomas Reed and our gang tackling."

Preston Smith was complimentary of both teams following the game.

"We played as good as we can play," Smith said. "Fumbles hurt us and they were smart—they attacked our young kids—our sophomores."

Each team lost two fumbles.

Groom visits Booker Friday for an 8 p.m. contest, while Wheeler hosts Texline at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Huskers shave Miami

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Ay Eveland booted a 24-yard field goal with 6:24 remaining in the game and Vince Ferragamo tossed his second touchdown pass minutes later to lead No. 5 Nebraska to a 17-9 come-from-behind football victory over a hard-nosed University of Miami, Fla. team Saturday.

Ferragamo's 23-yard scoring pass to Dave Shambline iced the victory for Nebraska with 3:21 left in the game.

Sooners pop tough ISU

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Horace Ivory streaked 62 yards on a draw play with 4:05 remaining and Jerry Anderson returned an interception for a touchdown in the final minutes Saturday to rally third-ranked Oklahoma to a 24-10 Big Eight Conference victory over inspired Iowa State.

Unranked Iowa State, 3-1, had contained Oklahoma's running game after a first-period touchdown march until Ivory raced away on a third-down-and-five play.

On Iowa State's next possession, Anderson picked off a pass by substitute quarterback Buddy Hardeman and raced 58 yards down the sideline to seal the Sooners' 15th straight victory over Iowa State.

Kansas stifles Wisconsin, 34-24

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Nolan Cromwell surprised Wisconsin with three long pass completions plus a 64-yard touchdown run and Laverne Smith dashed 79 yards for another score Saturday as Kansas beat Wisconsin 34-24.

Smith's romp on the first Kansas play from scrimmage in the second half put the Jayhawks in charge. The Badgers had crept to within 11 points on the last play of the first half, scoring on a disputed touchdown pass.

Wisconsin, 34-24

My mom called (from Detroit) to tell me, then I stayed up and watched TV.

"It's a good feeling to win, but we've got some more winning to do. We can't celebrate too much."

But most of Mayberry's teammates figured they had plenty of time to recover from any merry-making.

"I went over the Split's (Paul Splittorff) house," grinned George Brett. "I had some champagne. Went straight from Heineken to that."

But it was Mingori who probably best summed up the team feeling. "I am still in shock right now," he chuckled. "I probably won't hit me until tonight."

Royal players ecstatic over crown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "We're going to be rough on the other teams the rest of the way now," declared Hal McRae.

"We're there. We won it. We're going to be the best in the West for a long time now."

McRae and the rest of the Kansas City Royals were sky high Saturday, safe in the knowledge that they were—at last—champions of the American League West.

The Royals had dropped a 4-3 decision to the Minnesota Twins Friday night, but eased to the title when the second place Oakland A's were eliminated with a 2-0 loss to the California Angels.

But none of the jubilant Kansas City players, most of whom stayed up for news of the late Oakland contest offered any apologies for the way they clinched.

"I am glad it happened the way it did," said McRae. "We played bad the last few weeks and I am not proud of it. But a lot of the guys matured. I am glad we had problems. We have experienced the most pressure we can."

Tom Poquette, the Royals' top rookie, dismissed thoughts that Kansas City had backed into its first division title since the franchise began in 1969.

"We won it back in May, June and July when we had those good winning percentages," Poquette said. "Some people will say we backed in. I don't buy that. You like to win it for yourself, sure, but we did that Wednesday night in Oakland (a 4-0 win). We celebrated then."

Relief pitcher Steve Mingori predicted the Royals late season struggle with the A's in which their first place margin shrunk from 12 to 2½ games, would prove beneficial.

"It would have been more satisfying if we could have won it ourselves. But we play 162 games and any way we win, we deserve it," said Mingori. "We'll be underdogs in the playoffs too. But we will fool a lot of people."

While a majority of the Royals, along with Manager Whitey Herzog, waited up for results of the Oakland game, at least one decided not to worry about it.

"I just went home and went to sleep," shrugged John Mayberry.

Porkers trip Horned Frogs in Southwest Conference

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Ben Cowins and Clint Allen ran for two touchdowns apiece and the Arkansas defense set up three first-quarter Steve Little field goals as the Razorbacks crushed Texas Christian University 46-14 in a Southwest Conference football game Saturday.

The victory was Arkansas' 18th straight over TCU.

Cowins opened the scoring with a 35-yard touchdown run with just 2:26 gone in the game. It was Arkansas' first touchdown in seven quarters of football. Cowins added a five-yard scoring burst in the third period.

Little followed Cowins' first TD with field goals of 48 and 34 yards before Vaughn Lusby tackled TCU running back Tony Accomando in the end zone for a safety. Little completed the first quarter scoring with a 42-yard field goal that made it 18-0 with 2:51 left.

Razorback strong safety Howard Sampson sealed the Horned Frogs' fate on the first play of the second period when he intercepted Jimmy Dan Elzner's pass and raced 22 yards for a touchdown.

On Arkansas' next possession, Allen capped a 48-yard 10-play drive with a one-yard dive over right guard. He scored again from one yard out in the third period.

Houston Nutt, a freshman, quarterbacked Arkansas' No. 1 unit. Nutt was given the starting job when Ron Calcagni reinjured his knee in a no-contact drill Friday.

TCU was held to minus 14 yards rushing in the first half and didn't mount a sustained drive until late in the second quarter. That march reached the Arkansas two but time expired. The Frogs finished the game with 10 yards rushing on 34 attempts. Arkansas had 293 yards rushing on 61 attempts.

Arkansas substituted freely, beginning in the second period.

TCU finally scored with 5:36 left in the game on a 15-yard pass from Elzner to Mike Renfro.

Little's 14 points on three field goals and five extra points ties the Arkansas one-game scoring record for a kicker set by Bill McClard against Wichita State in 1970.

Cowins finished with 97 yards rushing on 10 carries while Allen had 77 yards on 16 attempts. Arkansas attempted five passes and completed three — one each by Jerry Eckwood, Nutt, and Martin Lemond.

Elzner was nine of 16 for 116 yards with two interceptions and Steve Bayuk was eight of 10 for 80 yards with one interception. Renfro caught six passes for 102 yards.

Kansas, 3-1 for the season and 1-0 in SWC play, has two weeks off, before going on the road against the University of Houston. TCU, 0-4 for the season and 0-2 in the league, is at Rice next week.

Netters crush Palo Duro

Only one match went to three sets as Pampa humiliated Amarillo Palo Duro, 18-0, in high school tennis action Friday on the Harvester courts.

Palo Duro's only set victory was in girls doubles, where Pampa's Kris Douglas and Peggy Wilson downed Laurie Wright and Beverly Chandler, 6-1, 7-5.

The shutout may have been Pampa's first in history over another Class AAAA opponent.

"They (Harvesters) played well, up to their capability," Pampa Coach Kent King said. "Everybody settled down and played tennis the way they were capable of playing."

"We're starting to loosen up now. They've proven to themselves they can play tennis."

Best score ever

Pampa's Renee Wright, a junior, recorded her lowest score ever, 96, in Friday's Pampa Invitational at the Pampa Country Club. "With some hard work, she might get below 90," Harvester Coach Tommy Lindsey said.

Others to finish near the top were Berger's Rhonna Whitson 85 and Amarillo's Valerie Colarelli 87, Kathy Eschenburg 91, Sharon Livingston 91 and Kelly McCarty 93 and Caprock's Michelle Teal 93.

Pampa's next action will be in the Amarillo Invitational Friday.

AHS, Tascosa grab grid victories Friday

Amarillo High and Amarillo Tascosa won football games Friday, but Amarillo Caprock lost to Berger, 6-3, as District 3-AAAA failed again to complete a sweep over non-conference opponents.

Host Berger scored in the fourth quarter on a three-yard run by Robin McCarty with 15 seconds left to overcome a 3-0 deficit after a 24-yard Keith Barley field goal in the third period.

Amarillo High crushed host Hereford 31-0, scoring three touchdowns in the second period, while Tascosa overcame a 9-7 halftime deficit to shellack El Paso Riverside, 35-9, in Amarillo.

Thursday, Amarillo Palo Duro edged El Paso Coronado, 14-12.

Pampa, District 3-AAAA's only other team, was open last week.

In Friday games this week, Pampa visits Lubbock Monterey, Amarillo High hosts Clovis, N.M., and Palo Duro visits Canyon Thursday. Caprock entertains Lubbock High Saturday. Tascosa host Berger.

Host Harvester girls take 6th

Amarillo High rolled to a 357 total to easily win the championship in the Pampa Invitational Girls High School Golf Tournament Friday at the Pampa Country Club.

Pampa was sixth in its own tournament, held at the Pampa Country Club. Berger finished second at 373, followed by Amarillo Caprock 389, Plainview 405, Amarillo Tascosa 425, Pampa 427 and Amarillo Palo Duro 573.

Harvester players were Renee Wright 96, Lisa Parker 100, Beth Hill 110, JoEllen Jones 121 and Sandy Britton 133. Britton's score was dropped since the four low scores comprised the team total.

Playing singles for Pampa was Terri Edwards, who shot 150.

"They played a lot better than I thought they might be in as young as we are," Pampa Coach Tommy Lindsey said. "That's Renee's best score ever in competition.

"With some hard work, she might get below 90. Our sophomores have set a goal to get our scores below 100."

Medalist was Joyce Ann Hooper of Berger with 78. Liz Ramey of Amarillo High was next at 82.

Others to finish near the top were Berger's Rhonna Whitson 85 and Amarillo's Valerie Colarelli 87, Kathy Eschenburg 91, Sharon Livingston 91 and Kelly McCarty 93 and Caprock's Michelle Teal 93.

Pampa's next action will be in the Amarillo Invitational Friday.

Rockets win, 19-14 QB-turned-end wrecks Wildcats

WELLINGTON — The passer became the passer as Shane Tarver caught a 55-yard touchdown bomb from Carl Taylor with 1:58 left in the game to give Wellington a 19-14 win over Canadian in a non-conference football contest Friday.

Tarver, usually the quarterback, moved to split end, and second-team quarterback Taylor entered the game in the fourth quarter. After the touchdown pass, Canadian did not threaten to make a comeback.

Jesse Davis was stopped on the conversion run try for the Skyrockets.

Davis opened scoring in the game on a 40-yard run off left tackle on Wellington's second possession of the game. Davis kicked the extra point.

Canadian's Robert Wilson returned the ensuing kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, and Ken Adcock's extra point knotted the score.

With about four minutes left in the half, Wellington marched 60 yards and scored on a two-yard plunge by Davis. Davis failed to add to extra points on a run.

Neither team tallied in the third quarter. Early in the fourth period, Gary Bob Hutcherson passed nine yards to Mike Schaffer for a Wildcat TD. Adcock's toe gave the visitors a one-point, 14-13 lead.

Davis was the game's leading rusher with 128 yards on 12 carries. Robert Wilson led Canadian on the ground with nine rushes for 28 yards.

Wellington's defense might have been the difference. Canadian had minus two yards rushing in the first half.

Canadian, 3-2, is open this week. Wellington, 4-1, visits Tullia Friday. The Wildcats open District 1-A competition the following week by hosting Panhandle.

Homecoming queen

Debbie Baldrige, a White Deer senior, was crowned homecoming queen during her team's 14-6 win over Sunray Friday. Runners-up were Terri Moreland and Toni McGuire, also seniors.

Bucks stun bigger Bobcats, 14-6, to open District 1-A play

WHITE DEER — Steve Williams ran 20 times for 187 yards and two touchdowns to spark undersized White Deer to a 14-6 homecoming win over favored Sunray in a District 1-A football opener Friday.

A crowd of 1,500, including homecoming queen Debbie Baldrige, watched as White Deer used its awesome quickness to offset a massive size advantage for the Bobcats. Sunray's offensive line averaged 203 pounds to White Deer's defense line which averaged 142 pounds per player.

One Buck, tackle Brian Thompson, was matched against a player, Rusty Shoulters, who was 100 pounds (231-132) heavier. Thompson still made nine unassisted tackles in the game, a feat that told the story in White Deer's stunning upset.

A 41-yard pass from Brent McCallie to Mac McClellan on the seventh play of the game gave the Bobcats a 6-0 advantage. McCallie missed on the extra point.

White Deer scored at 6:03 in the third quarter on an 84-yard run by the speedy Williams. Bobby Ensor booted the extra point to give White Deer a one-point lead.

The Bucks, on their next possession, traveled 70 yards in five plays and scored on a 35-yard jaunt by Williams. The third quarter ended with Ensor adding the extra point.

The Bobcats were led by Ricky Vasquez, who rushed for 158 yards and led the Sunray defense, which held the Bucks to 267 total yards, 260 on the ground. Sunray rushed for 173 yards and passed for 133 for 306 total yards.

"We're elated," Buck Coach Mike Purcell said. "In the first half we were very unlucky. Everything went against us. But I was confident at halftime that we'd win the game."

"We were just quicker than they were. Our blocking was greatly improved over last week."

Canadian trimmed White Deer, 13-7, the week before.

White Deer, 3-2 overall and 1-0 in 1-A, travels to Stratford Friday, while Sunray, 4-1 and 0-1, entertains Simiton.

Aggies nip Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The Texas A&M Aggies, displaying a defensive line like a stone wall, but an offense with butter fingers, stopped Illinois, 14-7, Saturday in an inter-collegiate college football game.

George Woodard carried over the winning Aggie touchdown on a 14-yard run, but he also fumbled twice. Aggie cornerback William Thompson set up the score with an interception of a Mike McCray pass.

Illinois threatened to score twice in the second half, driving all the way to the 6 before being stopped cold on four straight plays in the third period. With four minutes remaining, Illinois quarterback Kurt Steger lost a 42-yard pass to tailback James Coleman, who carried to the Aggie 20-yard line.

But A&M's big defensive end, Robert Jackson, charged in to sack Steger twice for a loss of 22 yards.

Illinois co-captain Scott Studwell set up two fumbles with vicious tackles from his linebacking position and fellow linebacker Dominic Forte wrapped himself around two of A&M's four lost balls.

The game opened with the Aggie option attack as effective against Illinois as Baylor's had been the week before, in another Illinois matchup with a Southwest Conference school.

On the first Texas scoring drive, the Aggies got five tries within the 5-yard line. Halfback Adger Armstrong finally punched the ball across from one yard out after a 67-yard drive.

Stone leads Miami past Follett, 6-0

FOLLETT — Freshman Randy Stone ran eight yards for a touchdown with 4:30 left in the game to give Miami a 6-0 District 1-B win over Follett Friday night here.

But A&M's big defensive end, Robert Jackson, charged in to sack Steger twice for a loss of 22 yards.

Illinois co-captain Scott Studwell set up two fumbles with vicious tackles from his linebacking position and fellow linebacker Dominic Forte

Miami's leading rusher was David Bean and Kirk Flowers who each carried 17 times for 44 yards apiece. Both Floyd of Follett led all rushers with 17 attempts for 75 yards.

Jim Bob Burgoon led Miami's defense with 18 tackles, while Randy Smith added 15.

The Warriors, 3-1 for the season and 3-1 in 1-B, host McLean Friday, while Follett, 2-3 and 1-2 is open.

Plano, Sherman deadlock

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD

Sherman's No. 1 ranking wasn't enough to break Plano's six-year unbeaten streak in district play Friday night, but the top-ranked Bearcats came close.

A field goal in the final minute by Steve Haynes gave unranked Plano a 13-13 tie. If the two teams finish the season with no losses, Plano would advance to the playoffs because it had led 4-3 in penetrations inside the 20 yard line.

Pampa 7th in tourney

HEREFORD — Lubbock High edged Plainview by two strokes to win the team title in the Hereford Invitational Boys' High School Golf Tournament, in which Pampa finished seventh. Friday at John Pittman Golf Course here.

Lubbock shot 307, led by David Jennings with 72, for the championship, while Plainview was next at 309. Plainview's Rob Kinkaid carded 72, then beat Jennings in a sudden-death playoff for the runner-up medalist trophy.

Job Stuart of New Mexico Military Institute won medalist honors with an even-par 71. His team tied with Berger for third at 318.

Other teams entered were Lubbock Coronado 321, Hereford 329, Amarillo High 331, Pampa 335, Amarillo Tascosa 338, Hereford B-team 346, Amarillo Caprock 349, Hereford's sophomores 362 and Amarillo Palo Duro 415.

Pampa's scores were Scott Barrett 80, Dusty Hudson 82,

Doug McFritridge 85, Grant Johnson 88 and Scott Nichols 89. "I wasn't happy," Pampa Coach Deck Woldt said. "I thought we could shoot around 320. If we'd shoot around 320, we'd have beaten everybody in our district."

"I think we got hurt a little bit by the first tournament jitters."

The low four Harvesters had 10 double bogeys in the 18-hole round.

The back side was the hardest. I think everybody had problems. I'm sure we can play better," Woldt said.

The tournament opened fall tournament play in the Panhandle 3-AAAA teams (the Amarillo schools and Pampa) will begin district competition in the spring.

Pampa's next competition will be in the Plainview Invitational Golf Tournament Friday and Saturday. The tournament, a 36-hole event, may attract most of the Class AAAA golf teams in the area.

Georgia stuns No. 10 'Bama

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Sixth-ranked Georgia, fired by the gambling of quarterback Matt Robinson and a defense that refused to budge, thrashed 10th-ranked Alabama 21-0 Saturday, virtually killing the Crimson Tide's hopes of winning a sixth straight Southeastern Conference football crown.

Robinson scored one touchdown and threw for another while Georgia's defensive unit handed Alabama its first shut-out in 70 games as the Bulldogs stretched their regular season winning streak to 10 games.

It was Georgia's first triumph over Alabama in 11 years.

White gains 251 yards as Lefors tops Booker

LEFORS — Phil White's game Friday night against Booker was...well, awesome.

That is, if you consider 42 carries for 251 yards, three touchdowns pushing another one passing and two extra points as awesome. The performance led Lefors to a 28-26 win over stubborn Booker in a District 1-B football contest here.

The Bucks squandered a 21-8 halftime lead as Booker scored twice in the third quarter to pull within one, 21-20.

Bradley Mills scored on a one-yard run at 9:41 in the period and on a two-yard run at 5:32. Darryl Cain blocked Greg Muncy's extra-point try after the first TD, and a pass failed for the conversion following the second.

White passed 28 yards to Floyd Cotham for a touchdown with 2:06 left in the third quarter, then the versatile Lefors running back kicked the extra point.

Mills scored on a 17-yard run with 9:41 left in the game. Rodney Meyer could not cross the goal-line on the run for the conversion, which would have tied the game if successful.

Lefors struck first in the game on a seven-yard run by White, who added the extra point with 5:18 remaining in the opening period. At 2:46 in the quarter, Booker's Lance Laurie scored on a 14-yard return of an interception. Rodney Meyer passed to Brent Meyer for two extra points and an 8-6 Kiowa lead.

White rambled 10 yards to score at 9:13 in the second stanza, then passed to Kenny Howard for the conversion. White ran 28 yards to score at 2:46 in the period for a 21-8 lead. He missed the extra point.

"With the overall effort, I was real pleased. We had some of the best blocking we've had all year," Lefors Coach Jim Allen said. "And some of the best rushing. It was White's best game."

Defensive standouts for the Pirates, 4-1 overall and 3-1 in 1-B, were White with 11 tackles, Randy Squiers with nine and Howard and Johnny Sierman with seven each.

Sierman, a noseguard, probably had his best showing of the year.

"He covered the whole inside by himself," Allen said. "We left it to him and he did a tremendous job."

Booker fell to 2-2 for the season and 2-1 in 1-B. The Kiowa host Grom Friday, while Lefors travels to Higgins.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Boston College end Dave Zumbach caught his first two passes of the year Saturday, and both were good for touchdowns as the 15th-ranked Eagles whipped Navy 17-13.

Zumbach hauled in a 30-yard pass from quarterback Ken Smith late in the first quarter for the first Boston College

WASHINGTON — Here are some items of interest to Texans from the nation's capital.

R U N N I N G
I N D E P E N D E N T L Y — Neither Sen. Lloyd Bentsen nor his Republican opponent this fall, Rep. Alan Steelman, appear to be overly eager to tie themselves to both their party's presidential candidates and platforms.

Bentsen, a Houston Democrat, finds no problem with Jimmy Carter — he even thinks that the former Georgia governor will carry Texas in the Nov. 2 election. However, the Democratic platform, called the "party's contract with the people," is another matter.

"I agree with some of the Democratic platform," said Bentsen, who quickly added he disagreed with some of its provisions, such as the so-called Humphrey-Hawkins full employment concept. "It's a very extensive platform," he noted.

Steelman, the Dallas conservative who is considered a progressive on environmental and financial disclosure matters, has tried to play down any ties with the national political scene. A supporter of President Ford, Steelman appears careful to avoid anything which would alienate former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's supporters.

"It's our race to run," said a Steelman spokesman. "He has said 'it's between me and Bentsen' and no one else.

For the most part, Steelman will not use the Republican platform as he campaigns against Bentsen. More than likely, he will continue his attacks against the incumbent Houston lawmaker, charging as he has that Bentsen caters to special business interests.

COUNTER SUNBELT — A coalition of about 30 House members, representing 16 northeast to midwest states, hopes to stem the exodus of people and federal dollars from their region to the "Sunbelt" — the South and Southwest.

The House members organized recently to plot strategy aimed at overcoming the disproportionate growth rate between northern states and the Sunbelt. While the U.S. population has grown as a whole more than 18 per cent since 1960, more people seem to be moving South than ever before.

The goal of the new group is to exhibit some legislative clout through numbers. Members from Maine to Iowa with 204 votes were invited to a recent meeting to see if anything could be done to reverse the trend, according to one report.

"We have a good deal of clout in Congress," one congressman was quoted as saying. "We can demand equity. That is what this is all about."

CONFUSING SETBACK — Sen. John Tower appeared to have a surprising victory recently with his amendment to reduce federal jurisdiction over state water projects, only to eventually lose through parliamentary procedure. Tower was the chief sponsor of the so-called Wright amendment (sponsored in the House by Rep. James Wright, D-Fort Worth) which would curtail the expensive jurisdiction of the Army Corps of Engineers over dredging and filling operations in "navigable waters."

The Wright provision, attached to a recent House bill, would give a broad definition to "navigable waters." In doing so, it would exempt from federal controls certain use of waters for routine farming and ranching activities, for forestry practices, and for maintenance of existing water retarding structures, such as dikes, dams and levees.

The legislation, according to its sponsors, is needed in the wake of 1975 federal court decision requiring the Corps to devise a permit program to include "all waters of the United States."

In the first tally Tower's amendment succeeded by a slim one vote margin. However, opponents of the provision succeeded in rounding up several absentee senators, and three votes later Tower lost — by one vote.

PAY RAISE SWITCH — Strange, what 14 months and an election can do to a congressman's vote.

Last July 30, 15 Texas congressmen voted to give themselves cost-of-living pay raises when the House by a one-vote margin divided to tie congressional pay hikes to salary increases in the executive branch.

However, when the issue arose Sept. 1, only four Texans supported new congressional cost-of-living pay hikes. Of the 24-member Texas congressional delegation, 18 voted to dissociate members of the House, Senate and federal judiciary from the annual wage increases — which passed by a 325-75 margin in July, 1975.

Congressmen and senators currently make $44,600 annually. The 4.8 per cent cost of living increase could bring their salaries to $46,740.

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, voted against new pay hikes. In 1975, Hightower opposed congressional pay increases.

The only Texans to support new pay hikes were Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, Rep. Robert Eckhardt, D-Houston, Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Houston, and Rep. John Young, D-Corpus Christi.

JURISDICTIONAL DISPUTE — One of the political payoffs of being an incumbent lawmaker is the privilege of announcing that a new dam or other public works project will be built in the district.

With a minimum of effort, a congressman can generally garner publicity back home by simply relating to the public a decision by another governmental agency. Usually, the honor of announcing the project is bestowed upon the congressman in whose district it will be built.

But that unwritten rule was recently bypassed with the new international bridge at Presidio in Southwest Texas. Both Rep. Richard White, D-El Paso, and Rep. Robert Krueger, D-New Braunfels, announced independently of each other that a permit has been issued to build the new bridge connecting Presidio with Ojinaga, Mexico.

The bridge, which will be in White's district when completed, will essentially replace a privately owned existing facility that is considered structurally unsound. In his statement, White said State Department approval of the new bridge culminates an intensive and constant effort on his part that dates back four years. Krueger, a freshman congressman who represents a large segment of Southwest Texas, noted in his announcement that he was the only congressman to recently testify before the State Department on behalf of the Presidio County commissioners.
