Deaths not linked to flu shots

By Associated Press
Federal officials say there is no evidence that swine flu shots killed three elderly Pennsylvanians whose deaths have prompted authorities in eight states and the Pittsburgh area to suspend the inoculation program.

But if reports continue to link vaccinations with deaths of other elderly persons, the program started two weeks ago will come to a screeching halt. Dr. J. Donald Millar, an official at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, said today.

States where the program was suspended were Texas, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Vermont, Maine, New Mexico, Alaska and Illinois — except for Chicago.

Marje Holland, public health nurse for this area, said today that so far as she knows there will be no public immunization program in Gray County.

Local physicians probably have some vaccine and she has advised those who have inquiries to contact their physicians in regard to the vaccine.

The shots still were being given in at least 18 other states, including most of Pennsylvania.

The CDC said samples of the batch of vaccine used in the Pittsburgh area would be tested at the Bureau of Biologics in Rockville, Md.

"The continued emphasis on what is an expected phenomenon... is going to have a deleterious effect on the program," Millar, director of the CDC's bureau of state service, said in a telephone interview.

Reports of several other elderly persons dying following vaccination surfaced after the partial shutdown Tuesday of the nationwide effort.

Miller said most of the 500,000 doses of the vaccine given out thus far had gone to persons over 65. And he said evidence thus far indicated that elderly persons who were vaccinated were less vulnerable to death than those who refrain from being inoculated.

"We have no evidence to suggest that these deaths (in the Pittsburgh area) were caused by vaccine or the vaccine programs," said Dr. David Sencer, head of the CDC. "Nevertheless, this is a highly unusual cluster of deaths and requires a full investigation."

Sencer said the deaths are "going to make our job much more difficult... in convincing Americans to participate in the program."

In New York, Michigan and Utah, where the program continued, health officials suspended use of vaccine shipped in the same lot as that given to the three persons who died in Pennsylvania.

Those three victims — two women and a man, all in their 70s — died within several hours of getting vaccinations at a public health center in Pittsburgh, according to the county coroner. The Allegheny County coroner said the three had histories of heart or lung trouble.

The type of vaccine received by the three victims was produced by Parke Davis & Co. of Detroit and was part of lot A91339A. Sencer said about 1 million to 1 1/2 million doses were in the lot, which was distributed mostly in the East.

Health officials in some states said they intended to go ahead with the vaccination program using dosages from that lot.

The three who died in Pennsylvania received a combination vaccine for elderly and high risk patients designed to prevent both swine flu and Type-A Victoria flu, which was prevalent last winter.

The Pennsylvania victims were Charles Gabig, 71, Julia Bucci, 75, and Ella Michael, 74 — all of suburban towns.

Mrs. Bucci's daughter, Jennie, who was at the South Side clinic with her mother, said, "My mother felt excellent before she received the shot, but became ill within minutes after she had the injection."

The South Side clinic was closed as a precautionary measure. Then all inoculation centers in Allegheny County were shut down. This was followed by the state actions. The city of Philadelphia discontinued use of vaccine from lot A91339A.

Illinois officials said they were suspending the program as a "precautionary measure until we obtain more information concerning these deaths." However, city officials in Chicago, who deal directly with the federal government in administering the program, said they would continue giving shots "based on the information we have now."

In New York, state officials ordered 120,000 doses of Parke Davis vaccine withheld, but New York City used some of the vaccine.

Wisconsin health officials said they were suspending the program for the time being. "At such time the CDC reports its findings, which it expects to do within the next 72 hours, we will announce resumption or possible modification of the swine flu immunization program."

After some of the states canceled inoculations, Sencer said, "We have not recommended that programs be suspended or discontinued. We do not feel that there is evidence that this is warranted. But again, we recognize the autonomy of the state."

Sencer said the center had expected some unrelated deaths among people who received the vaccine but who would have had heart attacks anyway.

Broward County health officials said the vaccine came from the same batch delivered to Allegheny County. But Dr. Paul Hughes, director of the county health department, said he doubted the death was related to the vaccine.

Dr. Paul Bowers, director of the Oklahoma City-County Health Department, said he had received reports of two elderly persons dying about one hour after receiving the vaccine.

The entire world joins the Pampa News in a salute to newspaper carriers. They are no longer "paperboys" but men and women from 11 years old on up.

The News has more than 50 carriers who deliver papers throughout the county. And Saturday is their day — International Newspaper Carrier Day.

These ambitious young men and women are managing their own businesses in the tradition of the free enterprise system and are learning valuable experiences to accept responsibility, face challenges, perform reliably and maintain a courteous attitude.

Thanks, friends. The rest of the paper couldn't get along without you. We appreciate you.

A Texas-sized congratulations to the Pampa Fine Arts Association and Pampa Garden Club for this year's Top O' Texas Arts and Crafts Festival which took place last weekend in M.K. Brown.

Beverly Brown and Theda Carroll headed up the festival where more than 70 artists and craftsmen exhibited. Georgia Mack was in charge of the Garden Club's flower show and plant sale. She reported that response and participation was great.

The annual affair is only one of the many Gold Medal offerings in Pampa, one which can make the city proud.

Thelma Turcotte Jones, soon to be Mrs. Clayton Powers, was in The News this week and talked about the days of the Depression when she and the late Mr. Jones farmed near Laketon.

Some of their wheat brought 18 cents a bushel, she said. Eggs sold for 5 cents a dozen.

After the first of the Great Debates between Ford and Carter, Co-editor Thom Marshall decided perhaps he would vote for one of the two young women who appeared in little circles at the bottom of the television screen. They translated the debate into sign language for the deaf for Public Broadcasting System viewers.

After the second of the Great Debates, he tended to agree with the Phoenix television station which flashed a message on the screen when the debate appeared at 6:30 p.m. "To Tell the Truth will be seen at 9:30 p.m."

Billie Eslick dropped by The News office the other day to report seeing an elderly lady on her hands and knees picking up trash along Ballard Street. The News immediately assigned a reporter to find the woman, but she had disappeared.

"But that sure was a clean street," the reporter said upon her return.

Tourism is reported to be a $3.5 million industry in Texas, but the state highway department believes that figure might be a low estimate.

They got a clue from a couple of notes they received from tourists. One man wrote that his family "spent more than they will tell me." Another couple wrote, "If we knew how much we spent, we couldn't afford it."

Toni Williams sat in front of a Pampa television and watched a film of herself in Iran a few weeks ago.

The CBS film on F14 fighter jets showed American families living in Iran to train others to operate the jets.

Miss Williams' dad works for an oil company but the family lived with other Americans in the Poor Hotel in Isfahan in January when the film was made.

Jimmie Kay Williams, Toni's mother, and brother Jay were in the film with Toni.

"She knew everyone in the picture," said Mrs. Georgia Mack, Toni's grandmother. Toni is going to school in Pampa and living with Mrs. Mack.

Senator Bentsen's son Lan

Campaigning family style Bentsen son logs 200 counties

THOM MARSHALL

Lan Bentsen has visited more than 200 Texas counties and has logged 30,000 miles while traveling over the state campaigning in the past year and he hasn't got a chance of getting elected.

But he isn't campaigning for himself. He is working to get his father, Lloyd Bentsen, returned to the U.S. Senate.

The 29-year-old son of the senator said he took off from his business interests about a year ago to campaign for his father. He said he has three real estate companies in Houston, serves on a bank board and has other interests.

Family-style campaigning seems quite popular this year with many candidates, but young Bentsen said, "This is something our family started a long time ago. In 1970, my brother was finance chairman, my sister campaigned on campus at Southwestern University in Georgetown, and I hit 220 counties that year."

The energetic campaigner visited The News office Tuesday and said that his visit and his father's recent visit to Pampa indicate the importance they place on the counties with smaller populations.

"This is the area that elected us," he said, "and Dad's never forgotten that."

Bentsen's polls show a considerable lead over his Republican opponent, Alan Steelman.

"Our polls show what I consider to be a scary lead," young Bentsen said, "what I consider to be too big a lead. I say our polls indicate our opponent can't beat us, only our friends can, by staying away from the polls."

Steelman, a U.S.

Representative, recently accused Bentsen of trying to take credit for legislation called the Sunset Bill which would "let the sun set" on government agencies and bureaus that are no longer needed. Bentsen supports the legislation in the Senate.

Steelman, a sponsor of the Sunset Bill in the House, wasn't even around for any of the procedural votes this summer," young Bentsen said.

"The sun set on Steelman before the bill could be acted on in the House. He failed to show up for many key votes."

Which brought up another Steelman shot at the Senator: Steelman said that Bentsen's Senate attendance record has been rated 89th with only 11 other senators having worse records.

"My father's been a United States Senator for six years," Bentsen said, and he added that to properly evaluate his performance one would need to look at those six years, his record of attendance, votes he has taken, his philosophies." He expressed his belief that Steelman's background and experience cannot measure up to Senator Bentsen's.

"My father was a 21-year-old law school graduate. At 25, he was the youngest county judge in the state and he was the youngest U.S. Representative in the nation. Before he considered himself capable of serving in the United States Senate, he was a success in business and knew the horrors of war."

Senator Bentsen has been criticized for an ad which appeared in a publication in the Eastern United States. The ad indicated that Bentsen was not afraid to go against Texas oilmen in the interest of the national energy crisis and would therefore make a strong President.

"He never approved the ad," young Bentsen said, "and the man who wrote and released it was immediately fired. Dad took the blame for it. It hurt. That's too bad because he's probably one of the foremost spokesmen for the oil and gas industry."

Steelman has said he has tried to promote a debate with Bentsen.

Young Bentsen said, "We have not seen Steelman define any reasonable issues on which a debate can be held."

He conceded that Steelman is a rigorous campaigner, but he said his father "carried 95 percent of the counties and 63 percent of the vote statewide (1976 election)." He appeared confident his father will win again.

"Lloyd Bentsen has a very broad and deep backing in this state," Lan Bentsen said.

Dr. Bellamy resigns

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A third letter of resignation from Gray County hospitals' board of managers was received today, according to Judge Don Cain.

He said the letter of Dr. R.M. Bellamy came in the mail this morning.

Dr. Bellamy's resignation follows those of Fred Neslage, board chairman, and Ed Patman of McLean which were officially announced during the Gray County Commissioners Court meeting Tuesday.

The court will meet in executive session at 10 a.m. Thursday to consider appointments to the hospital board and any other personnel matters necessary.

Robert Monogue, administrator, has submitted his resignation effective Nov. 11. It came two months following a request from the Commissioners Court that he resign. The Commissioners called upon the board to terminate his services in the event he refused or failed to do so.

However, the board voted five to one to retain the administrator despite the commissioners court request.

Mrs. Susie Wilkinson cast the only dissenting vote. She released a statement to The News this morning concerning recent developments in the county hospital management.

"It is truly refreshing to see such men as our commissioners in public office speak out in behalf of the taxpayers," Mrs. Wilkinson said.

She said she believed the commissioners' actions were "necessary when you have a board dictated to and dominated by its administrator."

"An example of this occurred in March of this year when Mr. Patman made a motion to purchase a computer for the hospital business office. This motion was approved by the board which voted to purchase the equipment.

"Two weeks ago, however, Mr. Monogue ignored the board's directive and arranged instead for leasing the machine at an additional cost to the taxpayers of $17,000."

"When board leadership fails, it is necessary for the Commissioners Court to help direct their actions," Mrs. Wilkinson said.

Members of the Commissioners Court include Commissioners Don Hinton of Pampa, Ted Simmons of McLean, J.O. McCracken of Grandview and Joe Clarke of Lefors. Don Cain is county judge.

The resignation letters of the three board members were not a part of the Commissioners Court minutes and were not made available to The News.

Hinton said Friday that Monogue's resignation should have been submitted when it was requested by the county court. He indicated that he would like to see Monogue's services terminated immediately.

"I can't see this waiting until November," he said.

Chairman Neslage was not present at the Monday meeting of the hospital board when the administrator's resignation was accepted. Don Ritter, who presided, said that Neslage was ill.

Resignations from their board positions submitted by Neslage and Patman were accepted Tuesday morning following an executive session of the Commissioners Court.

At the Monday board meeting Patman requested that Monogue work with Horace Williams, administrative assistant, so that he can assume necessary duties until a new administrator is hired.

The hospital board has three remaining members — Ritter, Wilkinson, and Bill Tidwell.

Dean links Ford with cover-up

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House counsel John W. Dean III said today that President Ford had a role — although probably an unwitting one — in the early stages of the Watergate cover-up.

Dean said the incident occurred during September and October 1972 when the White House was seeking to block a pre-election investigation of Watergate by the late Rep. Wright Patman's House Banking and Currency Committee.

President Richard M. Nixon, according to the White House tapes, directed that then-House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford be enlisted to help block Patman's probe.

It was not clear at the time, nor from Dean's just-published book on Watergate, whether Nixon's instructions were carried out or whether Ford actually discussed the matter with the Nixon White House.

At his confirmation hearings for vice president in 1973, Ford swore he had not talked to Nixon, chief of staff H. R. Haldeeman, domestic aide John D. Ehrlichman or Dean about stopping the Patman hearings. But Ford added he was in almost daily contact with White House lobbyists, although he did not recall discussing the matter with any of them.

Dean, in an interview broadcast by NBC's "Today" show today, said one of those lobbyists, Dick Cook, did talk to Ford about the Patman strategy and reported back to the him on its progress.

"I can recall Dick coming back and telling, for example, how Jerry was going to call a meeting of the minority members... and really tell them what they should do on the day of the vote and how they should hold together," Dean said.

Ford did not deny in his confirmation hearings that he sought to block the Patman inquiry. But he said he did so on his own initiative, and not at the request of the White House.

NBC quoted Cook, now with the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., as saying:

"Despite John Dean's repeated and frantic requests, I never spoke with Mr. Ford about the need to deny Mr. Patman's request for subpoena power. The issue on which the investigation eventually was killed."

NBC said Cook accused Dean of using vicious lies and clever distortions in his account, adding: "There is no question in my mind that the President

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Full speed ahead

In 1951 the Federal government spent a total of $45 billion. The projected federal debt for the coming fiscal year will carry interest payments of more than $45 billion. The debt ceiling has been lifted to the astronomical height of $700 billion. Not much is being said about it and no one in official Washington seems to worry about it.

Maybe they think they have found a perpetual motion machine which will unleash monetary energy without regard for its relation to the exchange of tangible goods and services.

More likely, our monetary wizards are in so far over their heads they shut out the reality and treat the whole problem as if it is only a passing nightmare. But piled up debt plus interest cannot be forever ignored.

No man, no family, no city, state or nation has ever in history been able to avoid final accountability in piled up debt. There have been many devices designed to postpone the day of reckoning some work for a time. The longer the delay the greater will be the inevitable devaluation bust. The bigger the bust, the more people will be hurt.

From the standpoint of monetary collapse, we have been on the edge of a precipice for some time. When and in what way we will be tipped into economic chaos is now only an academic matter of conjecture.

NATION'S PRESS

Local big government

(Orange County, Ca., Register) The politicians of both parties, with popular approval, are running so hard against "big government" — that the Washington this year — against steady, continuous growth of "little government" is taking place almost unnoticed.

Consider just this fact: combined state and local taxes jumped by 8.6 per cent last year to a record $147 billion, reports Commerce Clearing House. This was an increase of $11.7 billion over the $135.3 billion collected in 1974, which was itself a record.

While state tax revenues at $82.0 billion were well above the $4.1 billion collected at the local level, local taxes went up faster on a percentage basis — 10.6 per cent compared to 7.1 per cent.

Individual income taxes registered the greatest overall increase, 10.4 per cent, followed by property taxes at 10 per cent. But state and local income from all tax sources — sales,

All the elements of such disaster are present in a greater degree than were present prior to the so-called "Great Depression" following the stock market crash of 1929.

Though the final form of the next crisis is difficult to predict, a very wise businessman and an astute financier said in 1927 that a devaluation was coming. He suggested that it was imperative to get in a cash position and to be ready to take advantage of opportunities which would arise as a great many people in debt would be forced to liquidate.

At that time there was the same attitude generally that the market would keep rising and the economy would boom. But below the veneer of "opulence forever" were the true signs of economic difficulty. And warning signs can be noted today.

There is no real measure of basis of value in any of the Western currencies being "floated" against each other. Our own currency is manipulated by debt, not assets. An ounce of gold or silver is an ounce of gold or silver all over the world. But what is a lira, yen, mark, pound sterling or dollar?

The national debt is a first mortgage against the future of every American. There seems no leadership willing to stop the accelerating increases, even though reduction is necessary to avoid impending economic upheaval.

business, motor fuel, etc. — all recorded increases in most states.

Three states — California, West Virginia and Wyoming — reported sales tax gains of at least 20 per cent or more, with West Virginia topping the list at 31.4 per cent.

Taxes tell only one part of the story of state and local government growth. According to the United States Chamber of Commerce, in the last decade state and local government employment has grown four times as fast as employment in the general economy — and seven times as fast as the number of federal employees.

We really ought to put an "s" on the end of "big government."

About 5,000,000 Americans enjoy the game of horseshoe losing each summer. Fashioned from rods of carbon steel, game shoes come in four grades of strength ranging from "dead soft" to "hard."

AIRES (March 21-April 19)
Your worthy intentions for persons you feel responsible for may be diluted by your methods. Give them in on what you intend to do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Advice given you today could be very sound. You'll have to pay attention to use it effectively.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Gains should offset losses today, but there could be much more without careless mistakes that have a way of adding up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Try to overlook petty affronts today. Don't attach undue importance to something a friend may do without thinking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Don't telegraph your intentions today. Premature publicity could cause delays.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You're slightly extravagant today, but don't fret too much. Your generosity is directed toward friends who won't forget it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Acquaintances should not mistake kindness in you for weakness today. If your principles are challenged you'll quickly display your muscle.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're prone to act on impulse today, then stew about it later. Dismiss those negative thoughts; what you did was right at the time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
The way you handle commercial situations today is quite clever, though you could lose a few points by obliging those who don't deserve it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Although you'll aim high today, conditions could drift off the mark. Second-best is nothing to be ashamed of.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Minor issues may vex you today, but in situations that really count you'll find yourself in the driver's seat.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Enjoy yourself today, but don't feel you have to spend a bundle. Things that are too costly won't be fun anyway.

Your Birthday

Oct. 14, 1976
Your ambitions will be in high gear this year, unhampered by the inhibitions of the past. You can now let out all the stops.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! Kennedy Center rattles cup

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 — The celebrated Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts is commemorating its fifth anniversary in a manner that has become an annual practice — rattling the tin cup for more federal funds.

This time the imposing marble edifice on the Potomac is seeking $3.3 million for urgently needed repairs of the roof, terraces and driveways due to extensive leaks.

Last year the Treasury was tapped for $5.44 million for maintenance of the Center when the board of trustees admitted inability to adequately take care of it because of lack of money. As a consequence, vandalism was rampant and the ornate building was glaringly deteriorating.

Congress voted the funds but took responsibility for upkeep out of the hands of the trustees. Instead, the job was turned over to the National Park Service.

The latest $3.3 million handout will be forthcoming. Congress is in the process of rushing legislation through before adjourning the end of this week. And as was done last year, the Park Service will be in charge of the renovating.

The trustees wanted to handle that with a comptroller, named by them, to be the disbursing officer. The House went along with this, but the Senate would have none of it. On the basis of the trustees' sorry management record and the fact 76.2 per cent of maintenance costs are now under Park Service jurisdiction, the Senate insisted that agency boss the extensive repairing work.

Declared the Senate Public Works Committee tersely:

"It is the committee's opinion that appropriation of funds directly to the National Park Service will be in the government's best interests... Giving the money to the Park Service will eliminate overlapping administrative functions and responsibility and should expedite necessary work."

Public Celebration
It should be noted that the renowned Kennedy Center is signaling its fifth birthday in other ways than tapping taxpayers for another $3.3 million.

Very little is being said about the latter; in fact, it's virtually unknown to the public at large. In direct and resounding contrast, a great ado is being made over the other commemorating events — a series of historic performances by the world-famed 198-year-old La Scala Opera and illustrious Paris Opera.

First visit of both to the U.S., all their noted operas are sell-outs. Culturally the appearance of the two stellar opera companies is a smash coup for the Center — and publicity-wise the most is being made of it. Unquestionably these fanfare events are redounding to the Center's ability to wrangle more millions out of Congress.

More Red Ink
The Center is definitely in need of all the appeal it can muster.

Already it is clearly apparent the Trustees will be back on Capitol Hill next year pleading for another hefty handout — this time to pay millions in accrued interest.

The Senate Public Works Committee estimates the amount at $14.6 million. Ironically, this looming sizable debt is on a $20.4 million loan Congress voted the Center 10 years ago for construction of parking facilities — that theoretically were to finance the loan but have fallen far short of that.

So Roger Stevens, lofty trustee chairman, is already dropping hints the Center won't be able to pay and will need more "financial relief."

One reason is that $5.8 million in contractors' claims are outstanding.

To date, cost of the Center is $73 million, of $69.8 million has been paid. Of this amount, taxpayers have put up more than $50 million — $23 million outright grant, $20.4 million loan, plus another $10 million in maintenance and repair outlays.

The Center will have problems wheeling more federal funds to meet accumulating interest charges.

The Senate Committee is already serving pointed notice of that. It's making no bones of harboring strong misgivings about voting more taxpayer money to meet the Center's interest debt. Says the Committee:

"Officials of the Center stated that existing revenue sources are unlikely to yield sufficient funds to pay the accrued interest ($14.6 million). While no specific request was made, the testimony indicated trustees of the Kennedy Center would be seeking relief for this obligation in the coming year."

Members of the committee expressed serious concern about granting such relief. The committee believes there is need for more information on the Center's overall financial needs and operations, and perhaps also to establish clear lines of responsibility for the Center's disparate functions.

The committee plans to review these matters next year, and may propose changes in the division of responsibilities between the board of trustees and the federal government."

NOTE: Involved in the litigation over the $5.8 million in contractors' claims are counterclaims against the architect and contractors for "poor workmanship and design resulting in the extensive leakage problems." The roof is afflicted with some 70 leaks which are seriously damaging the Center's structural soundness.

Water stains are marring the ornate ceiling of the grand foyer, paint is peeling from walls of the opera house, and water marks are disfiguring other areas.

Already the Park Service has spent $160,000 for interim relief in an effort to prevent further injury to the grandiose structure.

Radicalism takes hold among Hollywood stars

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The continuing involvement of the Hollywood entertainment community in radical politics is understandably disturbing to many Americans. They are disturbed because so many stars, who have enriched by the film industry, display such fierce hostility to traditional American values and institutions.

This hostility was displayed at a September meeting of Gov. Jimmy Carter with "about 50 of Hollywood's most beautiful people at a party thrown for him by actor Warren Beatty," according to the Washington Post.

The Hollywood types flaunted their radicalism at what the Post termed "a sumptuous party" at a "sprawling stone-and-glass home tucked away behind trees in a celebrity-studded area of Beverly Hills."

On hand, in addition to movieland types, was Armand Hammer, the businessman who advocates close ties with Russia, and was convicted of making illegal campaign contributions to the 1972 Nixon campaign.

After two hours of mingling with the movieland moguls over caviar and lobster, Gov. Carter was treated to Warren Beatty's radical views. Beatty said he hoped Gov. Carter would cut $30 billion from the defense budget, free Huey Newton, the Black Panther "minister of defense" serving a prison term for killing a policeman, and help the Chicago Seven.

The Post quoted Carroll O'Connor, star of the "All In The Family" television show, as saying he was distressed at the mounting criticism of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, adding that Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the great Russian novelist and victim of Soviet persecution, was becoming "a figure of propaganda for anti-Russian forces."

It isn't news that certain film stars are radicalized. This has been the case for years. Shirley MacLaine, the actress and dancer, regularly presents the Chinese Communists as nice, neat, friendly agrarian reformers. Actress Jane Fonda was a leader in the forces opposed to a U.S. victory in Vietnam and traveled to Hanoi while American servicemen were in communist captivity. Indeed, leftist attitudes have been popular in the film industry since the 1930s. This has been documented countless times.

The attitudes that dominate the film industry are attitudes hostile to the American system. The Paul Newman and Marlon Brando consistently line up with the people who want to radically restructure American society. Unfortunately, the medium of the film is very powerful and influential. It has an immense impact on the social mores of the nation.

Nevertheless, the radical extremism of the stars, when displayed in terms of personal involvement in politics, has evoked a strong public reaction in the past. It may do so again. When radicalism is projected in a fictional situation on film, it often is effective propaganda which is to be regretted. But when actors and studio people rally around a candidate to cheer and make him one of their own, theirs can be the kiss of death.

The reason is that the American people aren't radical. They don't want U.S. defenses to be crippled; neither do they favor release from prison of revolutionary murderers. They don't have a warm spot in their hearts for North Vietnam or the Soviet Union. The majority of the American people clearly don't favor amnesty for those who refused to serve their country or who fled to Canada or Sweden.

In short, the vision of the "biggest names" in movie "moguldom" is sharply at odds with the national vision of the broad mass of the American people.

If Ford's cabinet continues to fall apart, he may get recalled to Grand Rapids.

The administration has a plane and pilots standing by to encourage Nixon to defect.

The TV final debate Oct. 22 should be emceed by Bert Parks to decide who will be "Mr. America."

The President hopes he won't be the first '76 Ford to be recalled.

The GOP tried to cross Carter with Playboy and got lust in the pictures.

Carter said $150,000 of campaign funds were misused. But his religious supporters insisted the money was heaven-sent.

Eugene McCarthy expects to get 10 per cent of the election votes. That should leave Carter with only 60 per cent over his opponent.

"Oh, my gosh! With Congress adjourned I won't be getting bills to sign in the Rose Garden and look presidential!"

It's Possible!
Find a problem

By Robert Schuller

I am totally convinced that God does not believe in failure.

I believe in success and I don't believe that success is always measured in terms of dollars. But I am sure God takes no joy in seeing His people in squalid poverty. God takes no pride and pleasure in seeing His children suffer failure and defeat. I know that God loves you and He loves every creature born on this planet. He wants to see them enjoy health, happiness and prosperity.

I believe God wants you to be a greater success than you are today. And the secret of success is simple: find a problem and solve it. I would challenge you to go out and find a problem. Dreams are always discovered in the heart of a problem.

All you have to do is look for some person who is hurting; some need that cries for help or some problem that begs solution; and then move in!

Do something about it. And before you know it you'll turn the problem into a project. And the project will turn into a purpose and you'll turn your life on with meaning.

Be on guard against impossibility thinking! The question is not, "What do I think I can do?" The right question is, "What can God do through me?" If you look at your limitations instead of God's unlimited power, you will never in your lifetime begin to discover and develop the hidden potential within yourself.

When you see a job that needs to be done, decide to do it! Make your decisions on God's availability, not your ability.

Success starts when you seek God's guidance in decision-making and God's power in problem-solving.

Four 'f's' for government

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — A participant in a state governmental affairs conference at Angelo State University says there are four "f's" one must be aware of in state government.

He listed them as fat, frills, fraud and fairy tales.

"We should oppose anything that will decrease or stop the creating of more and better jobs and profit opportunities in the private sector of West Texas," J. Fike Godfrey, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday.

"We should oppose anything that would give state and federal bureaucratic agencies control over our lives, our fortunes, our government and our honor."

Godfrey was among speakers during the first half of the two-day conference.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe called for a review of state spending priorities, noting that "neither man nor government can afford to live beyond its means."

Addressing a dinner session, the governor said, "We can no longer afford to trade our economic freedom to the government in exchange for false promises. We can no longer naively assume that government has the power, the wisdom or the financial resources to solve every problem that besets our civilization."

In stressing need to review and renew Texas spending programs, Briscoe said, "The fiscal problems currently confronting other state governments reaffirms such a position and we must be certain it does not happen in our state."

Texas has the strongest economy of any state, the governor said, adding, "I think it is incumbent upon those of us as elected state officials that that kind of climate ... continues in the years ahead."

He said he is confident the state can meet its fiscal responsibilities in the next two years without new or additional state taxes.

Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton said earlier that while Texas promises to become the "super star state, it first must solve potential water and energy problems" to achieve such stature. He also emphasized a theme of reduced government controls and heightened free enterprise.

"Energy and water will become two problems we must find solutions for if Texans are to prosper through the year 2026," Clayton said. "Energy decisions made in the 1970s will determine the quality of life in the future, and ample water supplies could make up the breadbasket of the nation."

As for as energy is concerned, Clayton said the state has two alternatives.

"We can concentrate on the development of new technologies and the production of domestic energy resources by putting to work some of America's ingenuity and creativity," he said, "or, second, we can develop new public institutions to replace private institutions that are being strangled by government regulations."

Private business and free enterprise cannot survive, Clayton declared at another point, if capital is short and a climate that encourages initiative is not maintained.

"If only the government has money to spend," he said, "then we will move from our private, free enterprise-goods producing economy toward a service-based economy with an ever expanding public sector...."

"Preoccupation with survival rather than progress may be the dreary theme of energy-deficient and water-deficient Texas in 2026."

Observing that government must not attempt to be all things to all people, Clayton said, "Otherwise our descendants will be living in a nightmare world of robot people controlled by the all-powerful central government."

Joint sponsors of the conference with Angelo State University are the San Angelo Standard-Times and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Guest to speak at chili supper

Among the special speakers for the 7:30 p.m. Oct. 20 chili supper at the Clyde Carruth Barn in Pampa will be Calvin R. Guest, chairman of the Texas Democratic Party.

Hosts for the event will be the Democratic Executive Committee of Gray County and the Top of Texas Democratic Executive Committee of Gray County and the Top of Texas Democratic Club.

Rex McAnelly, Gray County Democratic chairman, said the supper is free and he hopes the event will attract residents from far and near. J.L. Holmes is the club's president.

Other special guests will include State Senator Max Sherman of Amarillo, U.S. Congressman Jack Hightower of Vernon, State Representative Phil Cates of Shamrock, and representatives from U.S. Lloyd Bentsen's office.

Jimmy Carter, Democratic presidential candidate has been invited, officials here said.

Guest, now of Bryan, was born in Strawn, Tex. in Palo Pinto County.

He was elected president of the Bryan Building and Loan Association in 1970 and still serves in that office. His other business interests include United Coin Meter Corp.,

General Security Life Insurance Co., R&G Investments, and interests in farming, ranching, and real estate developments.

He is a past president of the Texas Association of School Boards, and of the Southern Region School Board Association. Since 1965, he has served as a trustee of the Bryan Public Schools.

He is listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in American Politics, and in Personalities of the South: Men of Distinction.

His wife is the former Jenna V. Reeves of Alice. Their children are Gwen Bledsoe and Gary Dean.

Mondale, Dole set debate

HOUSTON (AP) — Republicans and Democrats are gearing up with political rallies and advertising campaigns in preparation for Friday's vice presidential debate between senators Walter Mondale and Robert Dole.

The 75-minute nationally televised debate will be held in the 800-seat Alley Theatre, where three years ago actors portraying Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan debated the existence of God.

Both candidates will arrive here Thursday to begin final preparations for their debate.

Mondale has set aside four full days to study and relax in preparation for the debate. He intends to play tennis here Thursday to remain relaxed. Dole will face a welcoming rally at a downtown hotel Thursday night shortly before joining well-known Republicans, including Ronald Reagan, Paul Laxalt and Pat Boone, for an old time rally.

The Socialist Workers Party has planned to have its vice presidential nominee, Willie Mae Reid, address a rally across the street from the Alley theatre.

The Harris County Republican Party has invited the public to watch the debate on television at a hotel where Dole is expected to drop in to say hello after the debate.

The Democrats have scheduled a victory party in the grand ball room of another hotel. Mondale is expected to attend the event; to be hosted by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, U.S. Sen.

Lloyd Bentsen, Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss and Jimmy Carter's Texas co-chairman Calvin R. Guest and Bob Armstrong.

Handbills advertising the rally for Republican candidates at local, state and national levels call for a $25 donation.

The rally is being organized by the President's Team for Texas Committee, a new organization headed by James E. Lyon, a Houston banker who was a Reagan delegate to the Republican national convention at Kansas City.

The League of Women Voters, sponsors of the presidential and vice presidential debates, said attendance in the auditorium will be limited to about 600 because the stage will be set up to keep television cameras from recording audience reaction.

Auto strike narrowly settled

DETROIT (AP) — Workers at a handful of Ford Motor Co. plants dusted off the machinery so assembly lines could start up today after the United Auto Workers narrowly ratified a national contract to settle a four-week-old strike.

But it will be at least several days before the firm's 102 facilities in 22 states get back to normal because of unresolved local contract disputes at key manufacturing plants.

Production workers ratified the accord 35,192 to 22,026, while skilled tradesmen — who could have vetoed it and prolonged the walkout — approved it 8,957 to 8,468.

Within an hour of the union's announcement late Tuesday that the three-year pact had been approved, several dozen workers began arriving at Ford's transmission plant in suburban Livonia, Mich., where the firm had hastily slated a midnight shift.

The No. 2 auto maker said one of its 18 car and truck assembly plants — in Wixom, Mich. — would reopen this afternoon, while assembly lines in Los Angeles, Chicago and Norfolk, Va., would begin rolling again on Thursday. A company spokesman said manufacturing plants with local contracts also would begin reopening today.

The spokesman said 29 of 99 UAW-Ford bargaining locals still were without three-year local agreements — including units at six assembly plants and nearly a dozen engine, stamping and parts plants vital to the firm's production network.

The local agreements cover general working conditions, ranging from assembly line speeds to ventilation.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said workers will remain on strike at facilities without local pacts. Ford labor vice president Sidney F. McKenna expressed hope for rapid settlement of the remaining local disputes "so the strike can be terminated completely."

Ratification came exactly one week to the hour after bargainers announced a tentative settlement and 28 days after some 170,000 workers walked off their jobs.

Union officials had feared the often rebellious tradesmen might turn down the settlement and force bargainers to renegotiate the package.

Use of radioisotopes has increased greatly in Texas, and the risks of an accident involving transportation or use of these substances also has increased, strengthening the need for emergency personnel trained in using monitoring devices, officials said.

Tax forms to be late

WASHINGTON (AP) — Changes in the federal income tax code will delay the mailing of the basic tax forms used by most citizens this year.

The forms will come two weeks later than usual this year, in January instead of December, the Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday.

Traditionally, the IRS mails out Form 1040 and 1040A tax packages at Christmas time. The 1040 is the long form used by people who itemize deductions and have other special deductions for income. The 1040A package is the short form used by people who take the standard deduction and have a relatively simple tax return.

But the IRS said the packages won't be ready until early January this year, due to the changes in the tax code contained in the bill signed recently by President Ford.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander said to look for the form 1040 packages between Jan. 3 and Jan. 11. The short form packages should be delivered by Jan. 7, Alexander said.

Radiation detection topic for seminar here

Use of radiation detection equipment by emergency personnel will be the subject of a three day Radiological Monitor School beginning Tuesday in Pampa under the sponsorship of the Division of Emergency Medical Services of the Texas Department of Health Resources and the Pampa — Gray County Civil Defense Office.

The school which ends Thurs., Oct. 21, will be held at the County Courthouse in Pampa from 7-10 p.m. Further information may be obtained by contacting Bill Leonard, director of the Pampa — Gray County Civil Defense.

The instructors from the Emergency Medical Services Division of the Texas Department of Health Resources in Austin will be Jack E. Beck and Lee M. Hancock.

George promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signed into law a bill to promote George Washington to the same six-star level as Gen. John Pershing after World War I.

Ford, without ceremony or comment, Wednesday signed the bill giving Washington the rank of "General of the Armies of the United States," a rank which only Pershing has been given heretofore.

The promotion for Washington, who died 177 years ago, is retroactive to July 4.

There was bickering in the House two months ago when the legislation came up.

Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., ridiculed the idea. "It's like having the Pope offer to make Christ a cardinal," he said.

Everly tune wins

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Phil Everly's 1960 vintage hit "When Will I Be Loved" received the Robert J. Burton award Tuesday night for the most performed Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI), country song of the past year.

Everly, whose greatest fame came in the 1960s as half of the Everly Brothers, was one of 93 writers and 74 publishers honored during the annual BMI awards show.

Citations of Achievement were presented to the artists in recognition of their songs' popularity, as measured by broadcast performances during the period from April 1, 1975, to March 31, 1976.

Twenty-five songs were repeat winners, including Jimmy Webb's "By the Time I Get to Phoenix," which received a ninth-year award.

Merle Haggard received the most citations, totaling four, followed by Tom T. Hall, Linda Hargrove, Waylon Jennings, Ben Peters, Dolly Parton, Billy Sherrill and Billy Swan with three each.

Double award winners included Jessi Colter, John Farrar, Donna Fargo, Kris Kristofferson, Kenny O'Dell, Willie Nelson, Don Reid, Conway Twitty and the late Hank Williams.

The BMI citations are the third in a four-part lineup of industry awards presented each year during the week-long country music celebration in October.

Rosalynn to fair

DALLAS (AP) — Rosalynn Carter, wife of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, is to campaign at the State Fair of Texas Saturday.

Her visit will come exactly one week after President Ford used the fairgrounds for campaigning during a two-day visit to the Dallas area.

Mrs. Carter is scheduled to arrive at the fair at 11:45 a.m. for a speech at the Big Tex stage and a tour of the women's building.

Mrs. Carter also will hold a news conference Saturday morning at the LeBaron Hotel and attend a reception hosted by Democratic Women of Dallas County. She is to leave for a

Harvest prospect picture reduced for corn, wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Crop Reporting Board has reduced the prospects for this year's corn harvest by 27 million bushels, the wheat crop by 13 million and soybean production by 25 million bushels.

But top Agriculture Department officials said after the Oct. 1 estimates were released Tuesday that the over-all picture is that the harvest will end up "in reasonable balance with expectations."

The first looks by the board at the fall potato and citrus crops turned up record numbers.

J. Dawson Ahalt, USDA's staff economist, said the market should show "a stronger price tone for crop producers."

He also said there should be no change in the department's forecast of a 3 per cent gain for consumer food prices in the 1976 averages over the 1975 averages and a similar creep upward in the first half of 1977.

Because the supply of feed grains on hand when the marketing years changed this fall was "so tight," he added, the price situation for grain farmers and livestock feeders alike should remain reasonably constant at current levels.

Ahalt said the size of the wheat crop, combined with relatively sluggish export demand, could mean less wheat being planted next year east of the Mississippi and a general

Officers shot

KILGORE, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff Tom Welch said officers shot and killed a man with a history of mental illness at his rural home Tuesday after a 20-minute siege which was ended by tear gas.

The siege started, Welch said, when the slain man — Waymond Linder, 35 — fired a pistol at his father while deputies were trying to serve papers taking him into protective custody.

Linder, driven out by the gas, was shot four times while running from his house into a wooded area. He was dead on arrival at a Kilgore hospital.

Investigators said Linder had a pistol in his left hand when they approached the body 50 yards from his house.

Ten to 15 officers fired seven or eight shots after Linder emerged. Doctors said he suffered wounds in the left leg, chest, stomach and left arm.

Justice of the Peace King Russell of Kilgore ordered an autopsy and Texas Ranger Stuart Dowell of Tyler was called to assist on the case at the request of Sheriff Welch.

Deputies said the younger Linder fired one shot at his father after officers told him they had come to serve the papers. Linder then ran into his house, and deputies called for assistance.

Bodies found

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A hunter in Central Louisiana found the bodies and the crashed plane of an Oklahoma City couple who had been missing since January, Capt. Janie Watson of the Civil Air Patrol reported Tuesday.

She said the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hay were discovered Monday near Jena in LaSalle Parish. The couple had not been heard from since they took off from Shreveport Jan. 23. The remains were identified by personal papers in the plane and by the registration of their Cessna aircraft, she said.

A massive air search was launched, but the CAP was hampered because Hays did not file a flight plan before he took off, Capt. Watson said.

"They were rock hunters, so we thought they might have gone to Colorado," she said. "We looked in New Mexico. We followed any kind of lead."

Then their daughter, Cynthia Rucker of Moore, received a credit card bill which indicated they had been in New Orleans.

An investigation showed they had filed a flight plan Jan. 25 at a small airport outside of New Orleans with a destination of Brownsville, Tex.

Capt. Watson said their plane went down in a section of woods too thick for it to have been seen from the air.

"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition," was pronounced Dec. 7, 1941, by Chaplain Howell M. Forgy on the cruiser New Orleans as it was under Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor.

Wedgeworth honored

Tribute was paid Tuesday night to E.O. (Red) Wedgeworth, executive vice president and general manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, for his 31 years of service to the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association.

He and Mrs. Wedgeworth were honored at a dinner given by the association at the Pampa Shrine Club and attended by past presidents, directors and current officials and their wives.

Wedgeworth, who came to Pampa in 1945 as chamber manager, was one of the founders of the rodeo association that year and has served as its executive secretary down through the years.

Bill Tidwell, serving the group as president for the second time, introduced Don Hinton, Gray County commissioner, who emceed the program.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan was the banquet speaker and took his listeners back over the years of rodeo association history with stories of cowboy and cowgirl contestants and the rodeo dances that followed each night's arena performances.

Following Sheriff Jordan's address, Wedgeworth was introduced by President Tidwell as the "man behind the scenes" in the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association. He was presented with a plaque expressing appreciation for his work with the association since its founding days. Mrs. Wedgeworth was presented with a bouquet of roses.

In accepting the award, Wedgeworth told how the rodeo association was started. He said there had been rodeos in Pampa before 1945, but it was in that year that the move was launched to form an organization to plan future rodeos.

"A handful of people put a few hundred dollars together and we got started," he said, "and never since then have we had to pass the hat to keep going. Today the association is in good shape, we pay our bills and have some money in the bank."

Mrs. Lois Steward, office secretary for the association, also was cited for her 20 years of service with the rodeo organization. Mrs. Steward has served as office secretary under all presidents but the first three.

Entertainment at the banquet was by Mrs. Joyce Walberg, pianist, and vocal numbers by her daughters, Doni and Zindi.

Attack kills peace effort

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian tanks hammered through Palestinian guerrilla defenses east and south of Beirut today in an offensive that killed an Arab League effort for a cease-fire in Lebanon's civil war.

The two-pronged attack took shape when Syrian tanks and infantry opened a second front against guerrilla mountain strongholds east of the capital.

This came 24 hours after they launched an assault toward the port city of Sidon in south Lebanon.

In Cairo, Arab League Secretary-General Mahmoud Riad announced suspension of attempts to arrange a cease-fire. He said mediator Hassan Sabry el Khly was asked to return to Cairo to report on his difficulties to an Arab foreign ministers conference scheduled to meet Friday.

Syrian jet fighters streaked low over guerrilla lines round Sidon in apparent intimidation or reconnaissance passes, the Palestinian command said. It reported no bombing.

Palestinian sources said Syrian ground forces stormed through guerrilla positions on the northern and eastern edges of Bhamdoun on the Beirut-Damascus highway. The assault was led by tanks behind a barrage of artillery and rocket launchers.

A communique from Yasir Arafat's guerrilla high command said another major target of the mountain offensive was the summer resort town of Aley.

Bhamdoun and Aley are 12 and 10 miles east of the capital. They form the last strongholds of guerrillas and their leftist Moslem civil war allies hold on the vital highway to Damascus.

Guerrilla strategists said the Syrian mountain assault appeared aimed at storming through Aley into the suburban presidential palace of Baabda, six miles east of Beirut and then knifing down to the Mediterranean coastal town of Damour, 15 miles south of the capital.

Five other villages between Bhamdoun and Aley are under heavy Syrian pounding, a guerrilla communique said. "Our forces are savagely fighting off the attackers," it added.

South of Beirut, Syrian tanks advanced two miles against Palestinian positions guarding the port of Sidon amid relentless rocket and artillery fire.

Syria also sent more troops, tanks and rocket launchers into Lebanon to support the new drive its forces launched Tuesday against the Palestinians and their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies. A taxi driver counted more than 100 trucks crossing the border with troops, armor and other weapons.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said the Egyptian government expects Syria to open an all-out offensive against the Palestinians on Saturday, two days before the opening in Cairo of an Arab summit conference to try to halt the 18-month-old civil war in Lebanon.

Spokesmen for the Syrians' Christian allies said the advancing Syrians captured the strategic village of Roum and four adjacent hamlets eight miles from Sidon. But a Palestinian spokesman said the leftists were holding out on the fringes of Roum and Hattura, the two villages which control the eastern approaches to Sidon.

The Christian Phalange party's radio station said Phalangist militiamen also went into action on the southern front with attacks on a string of left ist villages 10 miles south of Sidon.

There was no estimate of casualties, but ambulances sped back and forth between the front and Beirut, 25 miles to the north. Hospitals in West Beirut and other leftist areas made radio appeals for blood donors.

Israeli reconnaissance jets were observing the progress of the Syrian attack, and Israeli gunboats stepped up surveillance of ships approaching Sidon, the leftists' main unloading point for arms and supplies from abroad.

Palestinian chief Yasser Arafat urged Arab heads of states to pressure Syria into stopping the attack. Arab diplomats said Libya ordered its 600 troops in the helpless Arab peacekeeping force to put themselves under Arafat's command.

Troops round up radicals

By ED BLANCHE

Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Chinese troops rounded up a number of radicals at Peking University in an apparent extension of the purge that began with the arrest of Mao Tse-tung's widow, the London Daily Telegraph reported today from Peking.

Daily Telegraph correspondent Nigel Wade, who sent the first news report from Peking of the purge, said sources in the Chinese capital told him troops on Tuesday surrounded a university building in which leftist writers lived and worked. He said it was not known how many were arrested.

Japanese reports from Peking said Mao's 62-year-old fourth wife, Chiang Ching, and more than 30 other leaders of the radical faction of the Chinese Communist party have been arrested in a purge by Premier Hua Kuo-feng that began last Thursday.

The Japanese reports said the radicals were accused of trying to make Chiang Ching her husband's successor as Communist party chairman by forging his will and directives issued under his name during the last six months of his life.

Mao died Sept. 9, and Japan's Kyodo news service reported Tuesday night from Peking that a government spokesman announced that Hua had been named party chairman. Hua's elevation was reported last weekend by wall posters in Peking, but Hsinhua, the official Chinese news service, was still referring to him as premier in broadcasts Tuesday night.

No violence was reported in connection with the purge. The Daily Telegraph correspondent said a convoy of five trucks loaded with apparently unarmed soldiers passed his apartment, banging drums and cymbals, and other army trucks were entering the capital with soldiers waving red banners.

The death of Premier Chou

En-lai last January set off a power struggle in Peking between moderates supporting his program of domestic peace to foster economic development and Chiang Ching's radical faction demanding a militant campaign for the eradication of the remnants of capitalism.

Foreign observers said the reports of the purge indicate that Hua, a question mark since he was elevated to the premiership in April, is siding with the moderates. They viewed this as a promise of continued detente with the United States and the West.

Associated Press correspondent John Roderick, a specialist in Chinese affairs, wrote that if the moderates win the power struggle, there may even be moves to improve relations with the Soviet Union. Former CIA director William E. Colby told reporters in Washington that if the power struggle got bad enough for the army to step in, some military leaders might insist on a reconciliation with Moscow so they could get weapons from the Soviet Union.

Linkletter tickets sold out today

Tickets for the annual Chamber of Commerce meeting and "An Evening with Art Linkletter" Oct. 28 in the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium were sold out as of this morning, according to Boyd Taylor, chamber president.

It was announced a waiting list will be maintained at the chamber office for tickets that may be turned back by persons unable to attend the meeting.

New officers and directors of the chamber will be installed at a dinner for board members and their wives next Tuesday night at the Coronado Inn.

Officers to be installed are Melvin Kunkel, president; Veri Hagaman, vice president, and Luther Robinson, finance director.

In addition to the three officers the new directors will be Harold Comer, Don Lane, Floyd Sackett, Roy Sparkman and James Ward.

Installing officer will be Larry Milner, director of industrial development for Southwestern Public Service Co., Amarillo.

Gallup shows candidates tied

By DAVE RILEY

The Post that the new poll will show a Carter gain of as much as 10 per cent. Gallup said, "No, that's totally wrong" when asked about the Post figures.

Ford traveled by motorcade through crowded New York streets, was picketed and heckled at some points and cheered at others.

The two vice-presidential candidates, Democratic Sen. Walter Mondale and Republican Sen. Bob Dole, spent Tuesday preparing for their nationally televised debate Friday night, but Dole also campaigned in Tennessee.

Ford met late Tuesday with a group of New York news executives and was asked about Democratic charges that he showed poor leadership in dealing with three recent incidents: The obscene slur about blacks by Butz; Ford's statement in last week's debate that the Soviets do not dominate Eastern Europe; and confusion over his stand on releasing the names of U.S. corporations that cooperate with the Arab boycott.

But Ford said, "On a comparative basis, I think my leadership, if you take those kinds of things, is a pretty good balancing average and (Carter) is a minor leaguer."

Ford cited the Sinai agreement and U.S. efforts to mediate disputes in southern Africa as "the things that count as leadership, not the shopping list" of troubles that has plagued the Ford campaign.

Ford has been criticized by Democrats for his failure to fire Butz for making the obscene racial remark. Butz finally offered his resignation.

But Ford told the New York news executives it would have been wrong to "shoot from the hip" on the Butz case.

Ford accused Carter of doing that in the recent dispute over FBI Director Clarence Kelley. Carter had said if he were in Ford's job he would have fired Kelley for permitting FBI employees to do work at his home and for accepting gifts from subordinates. Ford, who refused to fire Kelley, said Carter "ended up looking a little ridiculous."

Earlier, in Brooklyn, Ford was faced with a small crowd of protesters waving signs and chanting "save Soviet Jewry."

In a high school speech there, the President said he had always opposed the Arab boycott against Israel and against U.S.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Texas weather stayed dry and relatively warm today as a weak cool front eased through the Panhandle-Plains section without making much of a dent in the statewide pattern.

Forecasters looked for scattered showers to develop tonight and Thursday, however, in areas west of the Pecos River in West Texas. Little change was expected otherwise.

There were scattered clouds over the east third of the state and west of the mountains in far West Texas. It was clear elsewhere.

Temperatures in early morning ranged from 43 degrees at Amarillo in the Panhandle up to 71 at Corpus Christi on the coast. Tuesday afternoon's top marks went as high as 91 at Presidio in the Big Bend of West Texas.

National weather

By The Associated Press
Fair and pleasant autumn weather favored almost the entire nation today, marred only by a few sprinkles in the northern Midwest.

High, thin clouds floated along the Gulf Coast, over the northern Rockies and from the northern Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes. Light rain fell in parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. The remainder of the nation was clear.

Temperatures moderated overnight in the Northeast following a hard freeze in many interior sections early Tuesday. Readings generally were 10 to 15 degrees warmer than a day earlier.

Forties and 50s, with occasional 60s, were the rule from the Rockies to the Appalachians in the predawn hours.

date statement.

Although Carter was not campaigning, his headquarters issued a statement criticizing Ford's health policy. Carter said the Ford administration "has offered no substantial proposals, not even a suggestion" for dealing with rampant fraud and abuse found in the Medicaid system by Senate investigators.

Carter said the administration had made "no response at all" to the allegations. In fact, Ford administration witnesses announced Sept. 22 that they had dropped their opposition to antifraud bills in Congress and that they had decided such legislation was needed.

Attacking "an unprecedented 19 per cent increase" in hospitalization costs to be paid by Medicare patients, Carter proposed a bonus system for hospitals that bring costs down.

Elsewhere, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said in Cedar Falls, Iowa, that independent candidate Eugene McCarthy "would be the best qualified" presidential candidate if he had a party behind him.

But Biden, the Democratic party's steering committee chairman, said he fears that all McCarthy can do is help Ford be elected president.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you print this so a certain guy will see it and realize a few things.

I have this buddy who's going steady with this super chick. But he treats her like dirt. He's been going out on her with his ex-girlfriend, for example.

I think a lot of this chick and would love to take her out myself but not while she's going with my buddy. Abby, if he loves her as much as he says, why doesn't he spend more time with her? (She really loves the guy and is being hurt by all this.)

Sooner or later, someone else is going to come along and she's going to leave. It'll be too late for him and me both. What can I do to help out?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Tell your buddy what's happening. Lay it on the line. If he doesn't get the message, it will be open season on chicks, buddy or no buddy.

DEAR ABBY: You recently nixed the idea of a college son bringing home a girl he's living with on campus, and sharing a bedroom with her under the parental roof. You said the girl would be a guest and should live by the rules for such.

Parents who would impose such conditions are kidding no one but themselves. My middle- and upper-middle-class friends who are parents would disagree with you on the bedroom issue. Pursue that policy, and the grown kids won't come home at all!

I know of some parents who "disowned" adult children who live with lovers. The parents wound up alone and bitter, eating their hearts out over their estranged children.

In their hearts, parents would prefer the company of their children—lovers and all—to cold, righteous loneliness.

MOST PEOPLE

DEAR MOST: Sorry, but I don't think parents should be asked to turn themselves inside out culturally or morally to accept the lifestyles of their children. Each generation should give a little in bridging the old and the new ideas and values.

DEAR ABBY: You and I see eye to eye when it comes to visiting the sick. I've put these thoughts into ten commandments which might be helpful to your readers:

1. Always call first.
2. Never come early. And if you're going to be late, call and ask if it's convenient to come later.
3. Keep your conversation cheerful. Never bring bad news or talk about sickness and death.
4. Don't tell long-winded stories about people the person doesn't know.
5. Don't ask for details about the person's illness.
6. If the person appears tired, make an excuse and leave early.
7. Don't bring small children.
8. Don't smoke.
9. Don't make promises you can't keep.
10. Don't stay and expect to be served a meal.

HELPFUL

DEAR HELPFUL: Your commandments are indeed helpful to patients recuperating at home. The biggest favor you can do hospital patients is to send them cards. They need rest—not company.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask Dr. Lamb
By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 55 years old, 5 feet 6 and weigh 158 pounds. My blood pressure is 150 over 100. Also my husband is dying of cancer. Now my doctor says it's my few pounds overweight that is causing my blood pressure to be high.

I went on a 1000-calorie diet to lose weight and did lose a few pounds. But, I have to work hard and couldn't make it so I increased the diet to 1200 calories a day. Naturally I can't lose any more.

My doctor wants me to go to a psychologist and be hypnotized to see why I like to eat. I tried to explain it wasn't the desire to eat alone, but I needed food to have strength to do my job.

He said I would have to be down to 90 pounds to be weak from no food. Ever since I had this round with him the other day I have been very upset and my heart just pounds. I feel I have enough with a sick husband without this from him.

DEAR READER — Your doctor is right in trying to help you lose weight as the best way to get your blood pressure down. However, I question the way you are trying to do it.

You should be able to lose weight slowly if you are on a real 1200-calorie diet and are reasonably active. And it is true that you will have a loss of energy on a diet too low in calories, whether or not you have already lost all your excess fat deposits. Anyone who has been on a severely restricted diet knows this. Loss of energy is par for the course. I agree it is hard to work and stay on a 1000-calorie diet very long.

May I suggest that you really stick religiously to a 1200 calorie diet and try to include at least 30 minutes of walking a day. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet constructed as a balanced 1200-calorie plan. Try it with some regular exercise and it will do the trick for you gradually.

Your pressure may be lower when you have less stress than you have now. Life situations are often a factor in increasing the blood pressure.

Others who want information on the Weight Losing Diet can send 50 cents for it. Send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a friend who is losing his hair. He has to keep combing his hair different to cover up the thin places. I feel he should see a doctor and that he probably lacks some vitamins in his meals. He says he feels good and that it will grow back again. I will appreciate any information on this.

DEAR READER — If a person is eating a balanced diet containing sufficient vitamins, taking additional vitamins will not prevent loss of hair.

It is true that a diet deficient in protein can lead to hair loss. Most people, however, get plenty of protein and usually far more than needed.

Premature hair loss can be associated with poor nutrition, any illness, and even occurs as a complication of pregnancy about three months after the baby is born. In these situations the baldness or hair loss is temporary.

Hereditary factors are a major reason for early baldness. In any case I agree that anyone who has excessive loss of hair at a young age should see a doctor, preferably a dermatologist since they specialize in disorders of the skin.

It is normal to lose about 70 hairs each day. The life cycle of a hair is from two to six years and the hair follicle has a resting period without hair for about three months.

Polly's pointers
By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I am a seamstress. It seems when I cut out any garment there are always so many bias strips left. I cut and iron these to make bias tape to sew for bindings. This little bit of effort has saved me quite a bit of money.

My plastic watchband had soured so terribly that I felt it was offensive to wear it. I made a paste of baking soda and water and applied this to the band. In an hour all trace of the odor was gone.

My mother is an ingenious soul who has a fast way to "load" pillowcases. Hold the pillow under your chin. With the fresh case WRONG side out hold the raw seam to the pillow's edge and with a deft pull on each side of the case the job is soon behind you. This may sound vague but try it and you will soon get the hang of it. — SHARON.

About books

Four worth barking about

Capsule reviews prepared by the American Library Assn.

by Brad Hooker

For most people, buying a dog is no longer as simple as heading over to the city pound to pick up whatever's available.

John Howe, an editor of "Consumer Reports," has written what is essentially a consumer's guide to "Choosing the Right Dog" — the right dog in Howe's book meaning the 121 pure breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club (the chief organization of dog breeders in the U.S.).

Howe gathered extensive information from breeders, trainers, and veterinarians on such important variations among breeds as amount of shedding and drooling, daily food intake and tendency to bark or bay. For each breed, he also notes good and bad points as a house or apartment dog and gives a physical description and the average price of a good puppy.

Responsiveness to training, guard and watchdog abilities, special care requirements, and friendliness with children are a few of the characteristics Howe evaluates.

For instance, the Newfoundland, Howe says, can readily adapt to apartment living. If it's not possible to run it regularly, the Newfoundland can get by on lots of

THE COMPLETE HOME MEDICAL GUIDE FOR DOGS by Stephen Schneck with Dr. Nigel Norris (Stein and Day, 224 pages, $8.95.)
ONE MAN AND HIS DOGS by Ian Niall (Morrow, 148 pages, $5.95.)
DOGS by Henry Morgan and George Booth (Houghton Mifflin, 42 pages, $4.95.)

HUMORIST Henry Morgan and cartoonist George Booth have written "Dogs," a delightful spoof of books on man's best friend.

daily fast-paced walking. In contrast, the Borzoi requires more strenuous exercise than most breeds, so keeping one in the city is not recommended. Information on 184 purebreeds, including some you'd be hard pressed to find in this country, such as the Vastgata Spitz and the Lucernese Hound is included in the "Pocket Encyclopedia of Dogs." This useful guide to selecting and caring for your dog was written by Ivan Swedrup, who has judged championship shows in 23 countries.

Swedrup provides a brief description of each breed's historical development and physical characteristics. In his introduction, he explores the origins of the domestic dog, noting that "finds of crania and other bones show that at least four types of dog were common in Europe during the Stone Age." He also offers advice on care, training, breeding and detection of common ailments.

In a chapter entitled "The Dog in Our Society," he discusses general regulations on licensing and gives some helpful tips on insurance and traveling.

Full-color drawings of each breed are included. Unfortunately the color is a bit off key in some drawings.

Dogs, like people, always seem to get sick or injured at night or on weekends. Anyone who has tried to reach a veterinarian during off hours will vouch for the value of a book like "The Complete Home Medical Guide for Dogs." Written by a pet owner with the help of a veterinarian, it includes an index of symptoms that a sick or injured dog would be likely to exhibit. Since dogs can't tell you "where it hurts," observing symptoms is the only recourse, and a book that takes this into account is particularly useful.

For example, if you knew your dog had ear mites, you could find the causes and treatment by looking in the table of contents under "Problems of the Head and Neck." But if you were not aware that excessive ear scratching, head shaking, or ear discharge might indicate this problem, looking up any of these symptoms in the index would lead you to the section on ear mites.

If home treatment is possible, clear instructions are given. If not advisable, the immediate attention of a veterinarian is recommended. Ian Niall, a writer for the English magazine "Country Life" for nearly 25 years, has written a splendidly soulful account of how dogs have enriched his life. The first of many dogs in his life was his grandfather's collie, Bess, who was regularly dispatched to town to get her master's whiskey and tobacco. She could be depended upon never to return empty-mouthed, or with the wrong brand.

But it's Susy, a cairn terrier who lived with the Niall family for nearly 16 years, who is the principal canine character in this memoir. Niall relates in detail how Susy reigned supreme over the household until her death — a spirited lady to the end.

Ever hear of a Schleppeuwulf? Humorist Henry Morgan and cartoonist George Booth describe this breed's origins and characteristics in a delightful spoof of the kinds of books reviewed above.

In case you're curious, a Schleppeuwulf is "one of the few dogs bred strictly for laughs."

"A true intellectual, as are many products of mixed marriage, he has no interest in children. Tots like to pester him and he likes to bite them. Since he has a large brain he never actually bites any kid but you can tell from his expression what he's thinking . . . in truth, the Schlep is a sort of hand-to-mouth existence. . . From your hand to his mouth."

Then there's the mongrel dog made of spare parts. He may not be much by American Kennel Club standards, but kids swear by him.

Teen wins $1 million, Keeps $60 a week job

By TONI DONINA
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A year and a half ago, Robert Netto dropped out of high school to pump gas in Watertown, N.Y. Now the 19-year-old has become a millionaire as New York State's first $1 million instant lottery winner.

"I was content with him just as he was, a gas station attendant," his 18-year-old wife, Judy, said Monday night as she helped him on stage to accept the first $1,000 of his reward.

He can look forward to receiving that much every week for the rest of his life, and lottery officials estimate that, at his age, Netto could live to collect $4 million from the $1 lottery ticket he bought at the station where he works.

Netto said he's not going to quit that $60-a-week job, at least not right away.

"My biggest dream has always been to win $1,000," he said. "I'd like to own a gas station someday. Now maybe I'll own a line of them."

His wife of 4½ months didn't think twice before announcing that she will quit her $60-a-week job as a department store cashier.

"This was it, this did it," she screamed from the stage, still clutching a 4-inch tall plastic statue of the infant Jesus, which she said she had been holding all day. It was given to her by her mother-in-law before the couple drove to Manhattan on Sunday for the final award program.

Netto said he will give his mother a house and will donate $5,000 of his winnings to the Roman Catholic Church.

"I was sitting there praying, and I said, 'If I win, I'll give $5,000 to the church,'" Netto added.

Netto also plans to take a trip now that he is a millionaire.

PARIS (AP) — A former ruler of Egypt, arriving in Paris for a physical examination, received an official welcome at the airport and then was rushed to a germ-free chamber.

After all, he's 3,211 years old. The mummy of Pharaoh Ramses II was taken to the Musee de l'Homme, France's central anthropology museum, for several months' treatment by French preservation specialists.

Reds capture NL pennant

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are like bottled lightning. You never know where or when they'll strike.

Manager Sparky Anderson's Reds looked like a beaten team in the ninth inning of Tuesday's third game in the best-of-five National League playoff game against the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phillies led 6-4, and had ace reliever Ron Reed out there to assure their first victory in the series and save off elimination. It certainly appeared that the Reds' fourth National League pennant clinching in six years would have to wait at least one more day.

But as Phillies shortstop Larry Bowa would say later, the Reds never quit. First they bombed Reed for consecutive homers by George Foster and Johnny Bench. Then they bled the Phillies for the winning run in a 7-6 pennant clincher.

Reed left after those two shocking homers sent a Cincinnati crowd of 55,407 into a frenzy. Gene Garber came in and gave up a single to Dave Concepcion. Phillies Manager Danny Ozark lifted Garber and sent in 22-year-old Tommy Underwood.

Underwood, chewing bubble gum nervously, walked Cesar Geronimo on four pitches.

"I let them sacrifice the runner without an out," Underwood said after the game.

Pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister sacrificed the runners to second and third, and Pete Rose was intentionally walked. Ken Griffey, who lost the league batting title on the final day of the season, stepped to the plate.

"Be patient, just get the ball you want to hit," Anderson told Griffey.

Griffey, who probably beats out more infield hits than any other National League player, topped a ball toward first. Concepcion broke for home. The ball ticked off first baseman Bobby Tolan's glove and Concepcion streaked home.

A single, a walk, a sacrifice, a walk and an infield toppler, and the Phillies were dead.

Despite his disappointment, Bowa, paid tribute to the Reds and predicted they'd blow out the American League champions in the World Series starting Saturday in Cincinnati.

"There was no luck in-olved," said Bowa. "They had more experience. They took advantage of every mistake we made. There was no excuse. We just got beat. They simply don't quit. I feel sorry for whoever plays them in the Series. I don't think there is a team over there (American League) who can compete with them."

Reed sat on the floor in an office by the clubhouse for at least a half-hour after the game. He was distraught.

"There is no way you blame anybody on this club but me for that loss," said the 6-foot-6 former pro basketball player. "I made two mistakes, and there was no excuse in the world for them. I hung a slider to Foster and threw Bench a high fastball."

Foster, who went to the plate in a 1-for-11 slump, said his eyes lit up when he saw the pitch in the middle of the plate.

"I had made up my mind to wait for a good pitch," said Foster, who hit 29 home runs in the regular season. He got it.

Bench, whose .234 batting average was the lowest in his storied 10-year career, said that after Foster's homer had reduced the Phillies' lead to 6-5, "I knew I was on the block. I wanted to hit one out more than anything."

Griffey said of his game-winning chopper: "As soon as I saw it hit off his glove, I knew it was over. This is better than any batting championship," added the outfielder who has been dubbed the infield hacker for his ability to beat out slow dribblers.

The champagne still was pouring in the Reds' clubhouse when Anderson turned his thoughts to the World Series. He announced that left-hander Don Gullett would start for the Reds regardless of which team won the American League pennant, the New York Yankees or the Kansas City Royals.

The Phillies started Jim Kaat against the Reds and the 37-year-old blanked the Reds on one hit through six innings. The Phillies, meanwhile, built a 3-0 lead off Cincinnati starter Gary Nolan and reliever Manny Sarmiento.

Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski hit successive doubles for a fourth-inning run. Bowa walked. Kaat sacrificed, Garry Maddox ripped a one-out double scoring Bowa, and Schmidt doubled home Maddox in the seventh.

The Reds erupted for four runs in the seventh to go ahead 4-3. Kaat left after Griffey beat out an infield single and Joe Morgan walked with none out. Reed relieved.

For the record, Garber was the loser and Eastwick the winning pitcher.

Not enough height

Palo Duro used a tremendous height and physical advantage over the Harvesters to win, 15-7, 14-11, in district girls volleyball play Tuesday night in Pampa. Here, Demetria Simmons, left, and Jan Johnson attempt, unsuccessfully, to block a Don spike.

Palo Duro rips Pampa in girls district play

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Amarillo Palo Duro, powered by physical Theresa Rogers and cat quick Falecia Freeman, rolled to a 15-7, 14-11 sweep over Pampa in District 3-AAA girls volleyball action Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The two Don spikers had several crucial slams in both contests and were indicative of Palo Duro's overwhelming physical strength. For Freeman, who recently came out for the team, it was only her second match of the season.

"Both of them played exceptionally well. Falecia hasn't played this year and she and Theresa are powerful spikers," said Don Coach Paulette Sharp.

Freeman also is a class sprinter on the Don girls track team.

In the second set Tuesday, two straight serves by DeAnn Gray brought Pampa from an 11-9 deficit to an 11-11 deadlock against the Dons. Palo Duro then scored twice for a 13-11 advantage with 39 seconds left in the game.

An underhanded bullet serve by Karen Kerek gave the Dons another point before time expired.

"They are a stronger team than we are to begin with," Pampa Coach Lynn Wolfe said, "but we played badly. We couldn't serve. DeAnn Gray was the only one that did any consistent serving. "You have to have at least four good servers. And Jewanna Laycock was about our only good girl at the net — she was the only one that could hit. They had two bigger girls than anybody we've got."

Sharp agreed that Harvesters' inconsistent serving resulted in their demise. That, and PD's physical strength.

"We're a power offense," Sharp said. "We attack. I think what killed Pampa was their serving. They started getting their momentum back in the second game but then they had a hard time."

"They are definitely a good ball club and they'll place high in district. We think we can win district — that's what we're after."

Palo Duro now is 15-5 for the season and 2-0 in district play, quite a turnaround from last season when the Dons went 7-14 for the year. Pampa fell to 19-2 and 1-1 with the loss.

In the B-team match, Pampa won its 10th match of the year without a loss, 15-3, 15-0, over PD.

Pampa travels to Amarillo Tascosa Thursday.

Williams calls spy charges lies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Lonnie Williams, the man Texas Coach Darrell Royal accused of spying on Longhorns practice for Oklahoma, Tuesday night labeled the charges a "bunch of lies."

"It's a bunch of lies, all of it," Williams said from his motel room here. "How could one person be in all those places they're talking about?"

"I'll tell you what the whole things about. Williams' trying to divert attention from the kind of coaching job he's doing. He has lost one game, he almost lost another."

"The whole thing is ridiculous. It's getting almost comical any more. If they keep this up, I'm going to come down hard on someone. They're all liars."

Williams refused to say whether he had consulted a lawyer or was contemplating a lawsuit. "No comment," he replied to the question.

Royal and other Texans have claimed that Williams spied on Longhorns practices and then relayed the information to Larry Lacewell, the Sooners' defensive coach who has known Williams for years.

He also has been accused of spying on Oklahoma State, Arkansas and Colorado.

Williams had been unavailable for comment since the allegations began flying last Friday, but he said Tuesday that he was not "running from anyone."

"He said he was in the process of moving his family to the Oklahoma City suburb of Moore."

Also, he said, he attended Saturday's OU-Texas game in Dallas with his wife and four children.

Williams said he is employed "in the oil business" and was worked since February for C. W. Culpepper of Oklahoma City.

and missed some of them."

He missed this one and a moment later, Chris Chambliss walloped a two-run homer that put Yankees back in the ball game.

Two innings later, New York overlooked the Royals, rallying for three runs as Herzog pa-rated four relief pitchers to the mound, trying to stop them. Thurman Munson and Elliott Maddox had key doubles in the comeback inning but it was a ringing single by Nettles that delivered the go-ahead run.

"That was the biggest hit of my career," Nettles said.

And Herzog's only comment was somewhat grim.

"The Yankee third baseman has played better than mine in this series," he said.

Harsh words but they ring true. Nettles has made some outstanding defensive plays and delivered some timely hits against the Royals. And while Brett's bat has been productive, his glove has not.

Brett helped Kansas City touch up Dock Ellis for three first-inning runs. Brett drove home the first one with a base hit and then scored the second on a sacrifice fly by John Mayberry.

Kansas City starter Andy Hassler rode the 3-0 lead into the fourth and then with two out, Piniella drilled a ball between Brett and the third base bag. "Catchable," decided Herzog, "but it would have been an outstanding play if he made it."

He did not and the Royals paid dearly for the oversight when, two pitches later, Chambliss homered.

For the Yankees, however, it was a two — the second of the three victories they need to advance to the World Series for the first time since 1964.

Colts, Redskins take Tiger League victories

The Colts, behind Bill Carter's two touchdown runs in the second quarter, blanked the Packers, 20-0, in Tiger League football action Tuesday at Optianist Park.

Carter scored on runs of five and three yards. David Sokolosky scampered 18 yards in the third quarter for the other touchdown. Brad Voyles ran over two one-point conversions.

In the late game Tuesday, the Redskins thumped the Browns, 25-7, with Lynn Don Willis scoring on runs of 25, five and two yards for the winners. Thurman Munson and Elliott Maddox had key doubles in the comeback inning but it was a ringing single by Nettles that delivered the go-ahead run.

"That was the biggest hit of my career," Nettles said.

OU picked over Kansas

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Quickie Quiz: Who's the only team to beat Oklahoma in the last four years?
Son of Quickie Quiz: Who does Oklahoma play Saturday?

Answer to both: Kansas. So it's out of the Texas frying pan and into the Kansas fire and the Sooners face a virtual must-win situation or run the risk of seeing their hopes of becoming the first team ever to win three consecutive national college football championships go down the drain. Kansas may have been looking ahead last weekend when the previously unbeaten Jayhawks stumbled against Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, which should have been looking ahead to a little revenge, was not because the Sooners never look past Texas.

Texas Tech at Rice: This marks the first time all season the Red Raiders have played on two successive Saturdays. Flushed with last week's Ole Miss-Georgia success, let's try this as the Upset Special of the Week... Rice 27-21.

Vanderbilt at Georgia: Georgia's hopping mad after that loss to Ole Miss and Vandy ain't so dandy... Georgia 35-17.

Florida at Florida State: This is a logical Upset Special since Florida catches the non-conference Seminoles between SEC foes LSU and Tennessee... Florida 33-12.

Oregon at Notre Dame: Come Saturday evening, the Oregon Ducks might wish they had ducked this one... Notre Dame 31-10.

Louisiana State at Kentucky: It's always emotional when LSU's Cholly Mac faces his alma mater... LSU 22-19.

Mississippi at South Carolina: Ole Miss is looking back to Georgia, but Carolina's looking ahead to Notre Dame... Mississippi 14-10.

Houston at Southern Methodist: Mustangs won last year, but it wasn't a conference game then... Houston 28-14.

Alabama at Tennessee: Bear Bryant says there isn't a team on "Bama's" schedule it can beat. This corner doubts that... Alabama 24-14.

Harvard at Dartmouth: Both teams got caught looking ahead to each other and lost last week, making this a battle of once-beaten instead of unbeaten... Harvard 21-14.

Other games: East—Boston College 20, West Virginia 14; Boston University 10, Holy Cross 7; Brown 17, Cornell 7; Delaware 23, Villanova 12; Penn 21, Lafayette 13; Rutgers 27, Lehigh 19; William & Mary 19, Navy 16; Penn State 24, Syracuse 7; Princeton 13, Colgate 9.

Midwest—Nebraska 28, Kansas State 0; Ball State 19, Akron 13; Bowling Green 28, Kent State 21; Central Michigan 22, Indiana State 18; Tulsa 23, Cincinnati 17; Iowa 24, Indiana 10; Minnesota 24, Michigan State 17; Illinois State 16, Northern Illinois 9; Ohio U. 20, Miami, O. 10; Colorado 21, Oklahoma State 20; Illinois 19, Purdue 17; Arkansas State 26, Southern Illinois 24; Western Michigan 23, Toledo 16; Wichita State 22, Drake 8.

Southwest—Texas A&M 20, Baylor 15; North Texas State 28, West Texas State 16.

Far West—Air Force 15, Colorado State 12; Brigham Young 24, Southern Mississippi 14; Fresno State 22, Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo 15; Hawaii 17, Portland State 16; Idaho 29, Weber State 22; California 37, Oregon State 17; San Diego State 30, Pacific 14; San Jose State 20, Long Beach State 17; Fullerton State 17.

Etiquette and sportsmanship are winning partners in any sport. Often, we tend to forget to be courteous and give consideration at all times to the rights of other participants.

Here are a few unofficial rules bowlers should abide by.

1. Prepare to take your turn promptly on the lane. Remember, the player to your right has the right of way.

2. Take your time, but don't waste time by posing or waiting until everyone else is off the approaches.

3. Stay on your own approach at all times.

4. Return to the back of the approach after making each delivery.

5. Do not use another player's ball, except with his permission.

6. Do not use chalk, resin or talcum powder to condition the approach. Your fellow bowlers may like them as they are.

7. When a player is ready to bowl, give him the courtesy of making his shot without any interference.

8. Be ready to bowl, but wait until the machine has finished its cycle and the sweep bar is raised.

9. Respect the equipment. Lifting the ball hurts your game and damages the lane.

10. Play the game to win, but be a gracious loser.

Passing Rice meets UT

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Coach Darrell Royal's expression about "dancing with them that bring us" has special meaning for Rice's nationally No. 1 ranked pass-catch team of Tommy Kramer and Doug Cunningham, who've been dancing the seven-step this season.

A Kramer-Cunningham number goes something like this: Kramer takes the snap, dances deftly backward seven steps while Cunningham glides forward, also precisely marking his movements.

The popular rhythm has worked often enough for Kramer to lead the nation in passing with an average of 24.8 completions per game while Cunningham is the nation's top receiver with 32 catches for 436 yards and a 13.6 yards per catch average.

Royal will continue dancing with his ground-oriented wish-bone and the Owls will stay with that "burning" them, new coach Homer Rice's Triple Packet Combination (TPC) offense, based on precisely stepped off patterns for both quarterback and receiver.

"Last season an out pattern meant you went straight down and broke out which made it hard to get away from a defender," said Cunningham, a messenger flanker last season, alternating every other play to relay plays from the bench.

"Now it's all based on a step count," said Cunningham, who caught only 13 passes all last season. "Then I reach a certain point, if I'm open. Tommy releases, if I'm covered, we have a signal and I CAN BREAK." Cunningham's step-n-catch style netted him 10 receptions in last week's 28-31 victory over Texas Christian. It gave him one more catch than last year's team leader had for the entire season. It gave the Owls a 2-2 record with losses to Texas and Louisiana State.

The precision necessary to make the TFC dance go smoothly was demonstrated in a 31-0 loss to LSU when Kramer got out of step. A hard Tiger rush forced Kramer to shorten his strides and consequently he hit only 10 passes for 81 yards.

But the following week Kramer marked on his footwork and came out chugging again against Texas completing 24 of 57 passes for 397 yards despite a 42-15 loss to the Longhorns. "I think the main difference this year is that we have more confidence in what we're doing," Kramer said. "We aren't afraid to throw the football."

And Kramer isn't afraid to change partners and throw to his other receivers, including James Sykes, who ranks third nationally in receptions with 23 and tight end Kenney Roy, who is eighth in the nation with 20 catches.

"I worked hard this summer but it took me awhile to realize that it was possible for us to move the ball," Cunningham said. "I caught only 13 passes last season so I didn't know what to expect."

Now everyone knows what to expect, including unbeaten and No. 10 ranked Texas Tech, which has been invited to the next Rice Dance Saturday night in Rice Stadium.

IOC may act on China

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Adrian Paulen, one of Europe's veteran sports administrators, called on the International Olympic Committee (IOC) Tuesday to break the deadlock on China before the next Olympic Games.

The 74-year-old Dutch president of the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF) said the solution could be a change of name by the Republic of China (Taiwan).

"My federation may ask the Taiwanese to drop the name of the Republic of China," Paulen said. "If all the federations acted together, the Taiwanese might agree."

"What we need is a strong lead from the IOC. If the IOC were to make a bold decision on China, the federations would follow."

The IOC executive board is meeting with the federations here this week, and China is one of the topics. The IOC is seeking a formula to try to avoid a repetition of the events at the Montreal Olympics, when the Canadian government shut out the Taiwanese because they insisted on calling themselves the Republic of China.

The 26 federations which control the Olympic sports are split over China. Sixteen, like the IOC, recognize Taiwan. Nine favor the People's Republic of China, the Communist mainland.

Mainland China consistently refuses to belong to anything alongside the Taiwanese.

The IAAF, one of the most important federations in the Olympic movement, is firmly faithful to Taiwan.

"There is no prospect of my federation withdrawing recognition from the Taiwanese," Paulen said. "There is no reason why we should do that."

"But we could ask them to change their name. We are waiting for the IOC to give a lead."

At Montreal the IOC tried to save the Taiwanese by asking them to drop the name of the Republic of China for this occasion only. The Taiwanese refused, saying they could not take such a step at short notice.

Meanwhile, none of the 15 federations which recognize Taiwan shows any sign of changing its position.

Taiwan, and not Mainland China, is recognized by the federations controlling judo, swimming, archery, gymnastics, pentathlon, cycling, handball, field hockey, luge, skiing, soccer, shooting, yachting, boxing and equestrianism.

But Communist China is accepted in the world organizations of rowing, basketball, canoeing, fencing, weightlifting, ice hockey, wrestling, skating and volleyball.

Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said in an interview it is now up to him to decide when to take up an invitation to visit Mainland China.

"I shall probably go soon, but I do not expect to learn anything that would help solve this problem," he said.

View from the Plains...

By J.D. PEER
Parks and Wildlife Dept.

LUBBOCK — A special sandhill crane permit will be required again this fall by all crane hunters and a good response to a post-season questionnaire last winter has furnished excellent data for both state and federal biologists.

Over 11,000 permits were issued for the 1975 - 76 crane season and the South Plains of Texas lead the nation in the number of cranes harvested. The special permit can be obtained by writing the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Bldg., Austin, Texas 78701. Name, address and county of residence should be included.

Crane hunters will have a 93-day season in zone "A" or the west zone of Texas which is open from Oct. 30 - Jan. 30.

Zone "A" is that area of the state lying west of a line from the International Toll Bridge at Del Rio, thence northward following U.S. Highway 277 to its junction with U.S. Highway 87 at San Angelo, thence northwesterly following U.S. Highway 87 and including all of Howard and Lynn counties to its junction with U.S. 287 at Dumas, thence northwesterly following U.S. Highway 287 to the point of intersection with the Texas - Oklahoma state line in Dallam County.

Sportsmen in zone "B" or the east zone can hunt 57 days from Dec. 4 - Jan. 30. The zone "B" is that area of the state lying west of a line from San Angelo along U.S. Highway 277 to Abilene, thence along state Highway 351 from Abilene to Albany and U.S. Highway 283 from Albany to Vernon, thence easterly along U.S. Highway 183 to the point of intersection with the Texas - Oklahoma line in Wilbarger County; and east of a line from San Angelo along U.S. Highway 87 excluding all of Howard County and Lynn County, to the junction of Highways 87 and 287 at Dumas, and thence along U.S. Highway 287 from Dumas to the point of intersection with the Texas - Oklahoma state line in Dallam County.

The daily bag limit and possession limit is three and six respectively. All regulations that apply to duck and goose hunting such as shotgun restrictions, methods and means, and permission to hunt, also apply to crane with the exception of the federal waterfowl migratory bird stamp. Crane hunters are not required this stamp while hunting cranes but, hunters are cautioned that ducks and geese inhabit or use the same water and feed areas as the cranes.

Lynn County led the nation in the number of cranes harvested with over 1700 birds bagged by hunters during the 1975 - 76 season.

Many of the South Plains counties have received ample rainfall and plays lakes and tanks are in good shape as the long-legged cranes begin arriving from the northern nesting areas.

Most successful crane hunters have used rag decoys spread in cut grain but, even with this ideal setup, bagging three of these sharp-eyed birds was no easy task.

More information is available on crane and crane hunting in the new 1976 - 77 migratory game bird digest now available at all license vendors and P&WD offices across the Panhandle and South Plains.

A FLYING CENTER CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Johnson of the Cincinnati Bengals could be called the flying center. The former Tennessee athlete has his own plane and license to fly it. His $14,500 Cessna 172 is owned in partnership with a Cincinnati doctor. "My share isn't much more than that of a full-sized car costs," says Johnson. "And it costs less to operate than any cars and gets you any place three times faster than by car."

On June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee introduced in the Continental Congress a resolution that "these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states." The largest lake in North America is Lake Superior, which is 31,820 square miles in area.

Sunshine act opens secret doors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of federal commissions and boards are preparing to hold meetings that will open their operations to public view for the first time.

The federal panels are required to begin holding open meetings by next March under the new "Government in the Sunshine" act, which is aimed at opening the business of at least some public agencies to the public.

The new law affects only the 50-odd federal regulatory agencies. It does not apply to executive branch agencies like the White House or to the Congress, which enacted it.

Only the Federal Power Commission and the Consumer Product Safety Commission among major federal regulatory agencies now hold meetings open to the public. But even these two agencies have some adjustments to make to comply with the law.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission, for example, now conducts its votes in secret but will not be allowed to vote privately on most matters in the future.

Spokesmen for several agencies contacted by The Associated Press said study groups have been appointed to consider how to convert to the "sunshine" policy mandated by Congress.

"There are many mechanics to be worked out," said Henry Patrick, a spokesman for the Federal Communications Commission. "For example, we have a room that holds about 100 people. We'll have to decide if we have to expand the room."

He said the FCC is "nowhere near ready" to implement the new law.

However, several other agencies said they plan to comply with the new requirements before the March deadline.

"Our intention is to comply by about early February," said Andy Rothman, a spokesman for the Securities and Exchange Commission. The SEC also has a task force studying how to put the new law into effect.

Rothman said one problem is that "Congress neglected to give us any funds with which to implement the law."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which now deliberates without even having staff employees present, already is moving to open its sessions.

On the day the bill was signed into law last month, ICC Chairman George M. Stafford announced that the commission had been "preparing for some time" to open its meetings in the anticipation that the legislation would become law. He promised that the commission would "move swiftly" to enforce the law.

The ICC has issued its tentative regulations on how it plans to open its meetings. It is allowing two months for public comment and expects to make the regulations final by December, a spokesman said.

The law excepts some matters from the open meeting requirement, such as national defense matters, personnel cases, trade secrets and criminal investigations.

Christopher Robin still loves his Pooh but...

LONDON (AP) — Winnie-the-Pooh will be 50 years old on Thursday, in good shape and rolling in money.

But Christopher Robin says he's not happy with the way things turned out for his teddy bear.

The famous bear made his literary debut on Oct. 14, 1926, when British author A.A. Milne's book "Winnie-the-Pooh" was first published.

With illustrations by Ernest Shepard, it told of the imaginary adventures of Milne's 5-year-old son, Christopher Robin, and his toys at Cotchford Farm, Milne's home in a Surrey wood about 30 miles southwest of London.

"Now We are Six," a collection of poems, followed in 1927, and "House at Pooh Corner" appeared in 1928.

Christopher Robin's other toys — Piglet, Tigger, Kanga and Eeyore the donkey — kept their innocence while the books were becoming childhood classics. But Winnie-the-Pooh, the teddy bear, crossed the Atlantic, met Walt Disney and has been coining money ever since.

Walt Disney Productions bought the film and merchandising rights to Pooh 10 years ago.

Today, the little stuffed bear promotes a wide variety of merchandise ranging from tee shirts to electronic calculators.

Disney farmed out the American merchandising rights to Sears Roebuck.

"When you consider that the Sears Roebuck concession alone is worth between $2 million and $6 million a year to us, you will see that Winnie-the-Pooh is very big worldwide," said Keith Bales of Disney's London office.

But Christopher Robin Milne, who now runs a bookshop in Dartmouth, on the southwest coast, told a London newspaper:

"I don't identify with many of the things which are being marketed under the name of Pooh as anything to do with anything I ever owned or felt any fondness for."

"Frankly, the exploitation of the books makes me sick. It's nothing to do with any of the Milnes. It's a caricature."

"To me, Pooh is a toy I had as a child. When he first appeared in print, the books were true to my idea of him and that was fine. But he has now gone well beyond that and become a cult."

Chihuahua train wrecks

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — Five Americans, all of them believed to be from New York City, were among the 17 persons killed and 63 injured in the collision of a two-car sight-seeing train and a freight train in the mountains of northwest Mexico, officials report.

The government railway administration blamed the engineer and conductor of the passenger train for the wreck Sunday afternoon.

The Chihuahua district attorney's office tentatively identified three dead Americans:

Mary Jennifer Loya, 30; Catherine Lloyd Baker, 28; and Mary Gertrude Mortellaro, 25.

It said two Americans were injured: Paul Joseph Callen and Mary Callen Sordia.

Railway officials said 132 passengers — most of them Mexican travel agents — were aboard the two self-powered, glass-domed railcars. They were en route to the Tarahumara Indian reservation and the Pacific coast via the scenic route from Chihuahua across the mountains.

City streets collapse into old coal mines

By ROBERT L. SCHEIER

Associated Press Writer
ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP) — People here willingly burrowed into the earth for years in this coal-mining community, but now residents of one subdivision fear they may be swallowed up involuntarily.

Streets are collapsing, walls are cracking and parents fear for their children's safety as the earth settles into abandoned coal mines.

The subsidence is not new to the 23,000 people here. But it recently began to plague a subdivision made up mostly of mobile homes mounted on concrete foundations.

"Our little boy just missed going under when the street started to crack," Sandy Kaumo said Monday after a 20-foot-wide hole appeared in a street near the family's trailer. "He stepped back just when it started up."

Some homeowners are afraid to let their children play outside or wander farther than their front yards.

"We have to spend most of our time inside," said Bonnie Fantin. "You're afraid to send them to school. You have to walk them across the street for fear the street is going to cave in."

Parts of the two main streets leading out of the subdivision have already given way, she said. Some residents say they can feel the earth shift as they lie in bed at night.

"It's kind of spooky," said Mrs. Kaumo. "It's so slight. The house creaks and doors swing. You can see the lines where the ground is splitting and opening wider every day."

Five times in a week, she said, the buckling earth cracked water mains, leaving the area without water.

The subdivision is inside the city limits. But Mayor Paul Wataha said Rock Springs doesn't accept maintenance responsibility for the streets and water lines there and is under no legal obligation to help. Wataha said the problems belong to developer Howard Routh.

Routh blamed the subsidence on a U.S. Bureau of Mines project which pumped tons of water and sand into the old shafts. That was intended to stop the sinking, but Routh says he may sue to stop the backfilling.

Agency officials could not be reached for comment.

"Everybody keeps pushing the blame off on everybody else," Mrs. Fantin said. She estimated that $6,000 in damage has been done to her family's property, and she said eight homeowners in the area are consulting with an attorney about possible legal action.

"The land just keeps moving," she said. "It's a scary, horrible feeling."
