No one ahead in presidential home stretch

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter wind up their campaigns tonight barely 100 miles apart in the President's home state of Michigan. And if the poll takers are right, the candidates are approaching Election Day in a virtual dead heat.

Too close to call is the forecast coming from most quarters in the hours before Americans go to the polls in the nation's bicentennial presidential election.

One major national poll gave Carter a one point lead. Another gave Ford a one point lead. But it's the electoral vote rather than the national popular vote that will determine who occupies the White House starting next Jan. 20.

The electoral votes for each state are equal to the state's representation in Congress, the two senators plus the number of House members. And the candidate who carries the state gets all the electoral votes.

It takes 270 electoral votes to win the election and few surveys show either candidate with a firm lead in enough states to make him feel certain of victory.

In his final day of campaigning for the office he now holds through appointment, the Republican President was in Ohio and planned to go on to Michigan for a closing rally in his hometown of Grand Rapids.

His Democratic challenger campaigned in California and then planned to wind up his two-year quest for the presidency with a rally in Flint, Mich., before flying to his Georgia home.

The Michigan stop was inserted in Carter's schedule at the last minute, an indication the candidate believes he still has a chance to carry Ford's home state with its 21 electoral votes.

Of uncertain impact was an incident Sunday at the Plains, Ga., Baptist Church. The church canceled services after a black minister from Albany, Ga., who had applied for membership in the church, attempted to join the worshippers.

Carter, a member of the church's board of deacons and a regular teacher at its Sunday school, learned of the incident while campaigning in Texas and said he believed "anyone who lives in our community who wants to be a member of our church, regardless of race, ought to be admitted." Carter later said he would "seek action" to provide that guarantee to those "who share our religious faith."

The Rev. Bruce Edwards, pastor of the Plains church, said he believed the effort of the Rev. Clennon King to join the church was politically motivated. The Rev. Mr. King had once announced his intention to seek the 1972 Republican presidential nomination and the 1970 Republican gubernatorial nomination in Georgia.

William I. Greener Jr., spokesman for the President Ford Committee, said "Obviously, we were not involved and have no further comment."

Both Ford and Carter have purchased time on each of the three major television networks tonight for final appeals to an electorate which polsters continue to find closely divided with many undecided voters.

The final Gallup Poll, released Sunday night, gave Ford

47 per cent, Carter 46 per cent, others 3 per cent and 4 per cent undecided. It was the first time since March that Ford had led Carter in a national poll, though the difference is so small that it has no statistical import.

Harris, whose latest poll, showed Carter with a 45-44 lead, said he plans to continue polling through Tuesday. "The vote is so close and so soft, you have to go right down to the wire," he said.

A New York Times-CBS poll, released Sunday, also gave Carter a slight edge but his margin was less than the 2.5 point margin of error. The Harris poll found 7 per cent still undecided; the Times-CBS survey put the figure at 10 per cent.

The paths followed by the candidates during the final days of the campaign reflected their own views of where the undecided votes are.

Both campaigned in New York with 41 electoral votes and California with 45, as well as in Ohio with 25, Texas, 26, Pennsylvania, 27, and Illinois, 26.

More than the White House is at stake in Tuesday's election.

Voters also will choose 33 senators and 435 House members, as well as 14 governors and thousands of state legislators and local officials.

The Republicans are given no chance of overturning Democratic control of the House and Senate. Thus, if Carter wins, the Democrats will be back in control of the federal government for the first time since Richard M. Nixon captured the White House for the Republicans in 1968.

No one could be certain what factors might be decisive ones in the presidential contest.

The presence of former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota in the race as an independent candidate appeared likely to drain normally Democratic votes from Carter in some states.

Ford has warned audiences in all parts of the country that Carter would raise taxes for middle income families and would press for bigger and bigger federal budgets.

Carter has said his plans for changes in tax laws are designed only to eliminate provisions that enable the wealthy to avoid payment of taxes on large amounts of income. The Democratic candidate has said he has no intention of asking for a tax increase for middle-income wage earners.

Abortion was an issue early in the campaign when first Carter and then Ford met with Catholic bishops. Both men have said they oppose abortion and the use of federal funds to pay for abortions.

But Ford said he would support a constitutional amendment that would permit states to determine whether abortions should be legal. Carter opposed any constitutional amendment on the abortion question.

The abortion issue might help Ford in some normally Democratic urban areas with large Catholic populations.

But the President's slip in his foreign policy debate with Carter when Ford said "there is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe" may have lost him votes in the same areas.

Briscoe recommends ceiling on local school taxation

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe today recommended a massive increase in state aid to local school districts, tied to a ceiling on local school district taxation.

The approximately 3,000 schoolmen who packed Municipal Auditorium applauded enthusiastically when Briscoe said his recommendations would reduce by an average of 60 per cent the local shares of the Foundation School Program cost.

Briscoe told the educators from school districts around the state that he would ask the legislature to pump $850 million in additional state funds into public education over the two fiscal years that begin Sept. 1, 1977. "The level of local fund assignment would require approximately nine cents for $100 (of property value) in effective tax effort, compared to the existing 35 per cent rate," the governor said.

At the same time, Briscoe's office of education resources laid out market value figures on property in all school districts, which would be used as the basis for determining each school district's share — or "local fund assignment" — of Foundation School Program cost.

The governor's recommendations, if adopted by the 1977 legislature, would not necessarily mean tax reductions within the districts because most districts fund their schools at levels higher than the foundation program. The foundation program is designed to provide a minimum standard of school funding.

At the end of his prepared text, Briscoe added his recommendation that the school finance package be accompanied by additional legislation placing a ceiling on local school district property taxes.

He commented that the possibility is "remote" that Texas will continue indefinitely to build up big surpluses in the general revenue fund.

The governor said he would not approve a school finance package "unless its ceiling or cap is part of that legislation."

The governor's plan to increase school aid breaks down thusly:

—A $640 million increase in the state's share of the Foundation School Program, raising it from 75 per cent to 90 per cent of the total cost.

—A $50 million increase in state funds for routine maintenance and operating expense, raising the amount per pupil from $95 to $105 per year.

—An additional $25 million in state funds for transportation.

—A total of $15 million to provide larger staffs for small school districts, defined as those with fewer than 1,000 pupils.

—An increase of $10 million to the Texas Education Agency to set up a process to determine how well each school is performing and to help make improvements.

—An increase in the neighborhood of $150 million in "equalization aid" to help poor school districts that have low tax bases.

—A total of $10 million to improve school district tax offices.

Briscoe said he also would seek creation of a state board that would train and certify school district tax assessors-collectors and "promote equity among tax payers."

Briscoe did not include a pay raise for teachers in his recommendations, but his budget officer, Dickie Travis, said he thought money would be available to increase salaries for state employees and teachers.

The size depends on Comptroller Bob Bullock's next estimate, expected Nov. 23, of general revenue income, Travis said.

Briscoe already has recommended more than $800 million in new spending for highways, plus about $50 million for a new state prison.

The 1975 legislature increased state support for public schools by about $650 million, including teacher raises. Base pay for a beginning teacher was jumped from $6,600 to $8,000 a year.

Briscoe's recommendations included abolition of the $25.4 million per year now allocated to special programs for "educationally disadvantaged children." "The money, however, would be added to the equalization aid that enables poor districts with strong tax efforts to enrich their programs."

His report said that "inflexible" federal guidelines kept most school districts from using the compensatory education money.

able to increase salaries for state employees and teachers.

The superintendent indicated that PISD taxpayers should not expect the governor's recommendations to result in any reductions in taxes.

"We still have to raise our local fund assignment," he said

"But it would not be increased as much if we are determined to be making a good effort."

Phillips explained that recent changes in school financing instituted by the state came about as a result of some school districts taking the maximum state aid available but not raising what the state considered a sufficient portion of school money through local taxes.

Baptists inaugurate church

Sunday School attendance at the First Baptist Church reached 1,257 Sunday — the highest in many years, and an estimated 1,000 persons shared "dinner on the ground" as congregation participated in the dedicatory service of the $1,650,000 building. The new edifice replaces the building which burned Dec. 23, 1973. Speaker for service was Dr. Gene Garrison, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Oklahoma City, and a former Pampa resident. He discussed "The Power of the Cross" for the morning service. During the dedicatory program, he asked three questions and answered each including a statement that "God and His People built the church for a place for His people to worship." From left are Dr. Garrison, Milo Carlson, chairman of the building committee, and the Rev. Claude Cone, church pastor.

Polls to open at 7 a.m.

Absentee balloting closed in Gray County with 1,212 votes cast for the Tuesday general election.

Although the figure is considered a good turnout, Wanda Carter, county clerk, said today that in 1968 records show a total of 4,489, and in 1972, 1,406 ballots were cast in Gray County.

Gray County has a total of 14,058 eligible voters. Polls open in 11 precincts at 7 a.m. Tuesday and close at 7 p.m. Many persons called The Pampa News today to learn where to vote in Tuesday's general election in Gray County. If uncertain, all that is necessary is to look at your voter registration certificate and in the little box at the extreme right on the card is the number of your precinct.

The locations of these precincts (there are 14 of them in the county) are as follows:

- 1 and 6 — Lefors Community Center.
- 2 — Baker School in Pampa.
- 3 — Grandview School in Grandview.
- 4 and 5 — Senior Citizens Hall in McLean.
- 7 — Horace Mann School in Pampa.
- 8 — Stephen F. Austin School in Pampa.
- 9 — Woodrow Wilson School in Pampa.

10 — Courthouse in Pampa. 11 and 13 — Courthouse Annex in Pampa.

12 — Lamar School in Pampa. 14 — William B. Travis School in Pampa.

Registered voters who do not have transportation to the polls may receive rides from either Republican or Democratic headquarters.

Transportation may be arranged by calling Gray County Republican Headquarters, 665-1722, or Democratic Headquarters at 669-2941.

Both headquarters will be open on Tuesday.

Two US billionaires survive

NEW YORK (AP) — Daniel K. Ludwig lives in a New York penthouse, running his shipping empire and overseeing the creation of a timber plantation in the Brazilian Amazon.

John D. MacArthur, an insurance company executive, holds court at a corner table in the coffee shop of a Florida hotel.

Though miles apart, the men share a bond: They are the last two living American billionaires, according to Fortune magazine.

Both MacArthur and Ludwig were born in 1897, dropped out of school after the eighth grade and "operate through an intricate web of private companies about which there is only limited public information," the financial magazine says in its November issue, to be published Tuesday.

There the parallel ends, according to Lewis Beman, Fortune associate editor who wrote the article on those he termed "magnificent relics of an earlier age of capitalism."

MacArthur and Ludwig took different paths to become billionaires in a nation that now boasts about 100,000 millionaires. They outlived the three other men who until recently shared their status as billionaires: Howard R. Hughes, J. Paul Getty and H.L. Hunt.

Fortune estimated each man's financial worth at more than a billion dollars, but said it did not have access to figures on their exact holdings.

MacArthur, whose late brother was playwright Charles MacArthur, is the only stockholder of the Chicago-based Banker's Life and Casualty, the nation's 44th largest insurance company.

Fortune describes MacArthur — the fourth son of an itinerant preacher born in Pittston, Pa. — as looking "less like a billionaire than a retired postal clerk."

He wears a rumpled shirt and baggy wash-and-wear slacks, lives in a room overlooking a parking lot, has "quit smoking three or four times a year" and drives a five-year-old Cadillac with "erratically functioning windows."

Ludwig is less accessible. Fortune said, and hasn't spoken to a journalist since 1963.

Born in South Haven, Mich., the son of a real estate agent, Ludwig started out with a tug boat fleet. After pioneering a new system for financing tankers in 1936, his fleet grew to the current 50 ships totaling nearly 7 million tons, making him what Fortune describes as "one of the world's major independent shipowners."

Fortune says Ludwig, 79, occasionally walks to work at about 8 a.m. from his home in a Fifth Avenue penthouse. There are luncheon meetings at the Warwick Hotel and "21" restaurant.

In the mid-1960s, Ludwig got the idea to raise commercially an Indian tree called Gmelina arborea, which produces wood for pulp and lumber at about 10

Local impact unknown

Bob Phillips, superintendent of the Pampa Independent School District, said today that he does not yet know what impact locally Gov. Dolph Briscoe's recommended increase in state aid to local school districts will have.

He said that Bill Jones, principal of Austin Elementary School, attended the meeting today in Austin.

"When he gets back, he'll tell us how the study says we compare with other districts," Phillips said. "The relief any district could expect would be directly related to the release of the information in the study of Taxable Wealth of Texas School Districts and how the local effort was evaluated in comparison to all other districts in the State of Texas."

Phillips said that if Pampa is "related in a favorable light in that study — and we hope it will be — then we should receive additional funding from the state in the categories recommended by the Governor."

The superintendent indicated that PISD taxpayers should not expect the governor's recommendations to result in any reductions in taxes.

"We still have to raise our local fund assignment," he said

"But it would not be increased as much if we are determined to be making a good effort."

Phillips explained that recent changes in school financing instituted by the state came about as a result of some school districts taking the maximum state aid available but not raising what the state considered a sufficient portion of school money through local taxes.

Bell hike 'excessive'

BY ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill said today Southwest Bell Telephone Co.'s proposed $298.3 million rate increase is grossly excessive.

Hill told the new Public Utilities Commission that his office has the benefit of an independent study of the proposal and also the advice of rate experts for many Texas cities.

"But according to present plans," Fortune says, "by the end of the project's 'first stage' in 1983, the total investment will amount to $1 billion."

thom marshall's FORUM and against 'em

It's the system at fault. We can't really blame Smilin' Jimmy or Good Ole Jerry for being like they are — it's the only way they could ever have gotten to be candidates in the first place.

Sure they have said things that have been wishy-washy or misleading. But if a politician takes a definite stand on any issue, he can figure on losing votes of the folks who disagree with him.

On the other hand, he can win votes by making promises but we'd better hope that whoever wins the most votes breaks most of his promises after he's sworn in because any that he keeps are going to cost us money.

I keep wondering about this "Sunset Bill" we hear so much about — especially from Senator Lloyd Bentsen and his Republican pursuer, Alan Steelman. The legislation purportedly would result in doing away with unneeded government bureaus and agencies.

Noble sounds. But I'm afraid my cynicism is showing because any way I've been able to slice it, it comes up pure hogwash.

It's the system. Government simply does not grow smaller. It grows larger. Think about it. Whoever has been president and whichever party has the power, government has continued to mushroom and rob us of more and more money. That is the nature of it.

Do away with unneeded bureaus and agencies and put all those busy-work workers out of their jobs? Highly doubtful, that.

If a politician was a party to that kind of action, look at the votes he'd lose. All those bureaucrats shoved off the governmental gravy train would really yell. They'd seek revenge at the polls and so would all the relatives, friends and neighbors they could convince.

I just don't believe any practical sunset can come about under the system. What I do believe is that those pretty "Sunset Bill" words are being spoken because they sound so good to us.

"Less government" — What great vibrations that has. Cut unneeded spending and do away with useless and costly agencies. What a wonderful, original, ingenious and practical promise that is.

But deep down, you know what's going to happen as well as I do. If any sunset legislation ever should get passed, it will only be after it is so diluted by compromise as to be rendered ineffective.

Don't kid yourself, those government agencies have lobbyists working away to protect them from any adverse legislation. That hardly seems fair, does it — government agencies using tax money to pay for lobbyists to influence federal legislation. What a mess. It's the system.

If, by some quirk, some agency or bureau should happen to be abolished, I'm betting all the folks employed in that agency or bureau will be transferred to another agency or bureau and raised in pay and grade to compensate them for the trouble.

Of course, the first thing that will need to be done is creation of a "Sunset Agency" to make long and expensive studies of all other agencies and bureaus or to assess reports from them to determine whether or not they actually deserve to have the sun set on them.

It's the system. And I'm not convinced that those who make up the system will or can do anything to change it — Lloyd Bentsen, Alan Steelman, Gerald Ford, Jimmy Carter, Bob Price, Jack Hightower, or any of the rest of them.

Read me carefully, please. I haven't said that those fellows aren't good ole boys. Quite the contrary. I like all the ones I've had a chance to visit with. They have to be likeable to be in politics.

But they ARE in politics and if they WEREN'T so likeable, we'd find it easy to get perturbed at them for taking our money away from us — which is the only way, THE ONLY WAY politicians have of getting finances for their government.

It's the system. It's a parasite sucking its life from free enterprise.

And here's the rub — the government not only steals money from us, it convinces us that it is acting in our best interests by doing it.

It's the system and I don't like it. So I'm going to protest in about the only peaceful way available. I'm going to stay away from the polls Tuesday. I'm not voting.

Many of us all over the country aren't voting this time and it isn't because of apathy; it is because we care about our country and we are sick of seeing it victimized by the system.

If there are enough uncast votes an interesting situation could occur — we could be left with a system disapproved by the majority of the citizens. How will such a system justify touting itself as the government "of the people, by the people, and for the people." It simply won't be true. But then, it doesn't have to be true. I guess. That's the system.

OSCAR W. COOLEY

Voter Disgust Is Not 'Apathy'

In the current political Donybrook, President Ford is berated by his opponent for not putting the unemployed to work and converting the 1974 recession forthwith into prosperity. This implies that whoever is in the White House has both the power and the duty to speed up the economy or to slow it down, at will.

Of course he does not. Powerful as the president of the United States is, the economy is much too big and complex to be ruled by him.

It consists of over 200 million people, producing, selling, buying, and consuming some 1 1/2 trillion dollars worth of goods and services yearly, each deciding for himself what he will produce, sell, buy and consume. It meshes with many other similar but somewhat smaller economies abroad.

Government is part of our economy, the part that is assigned the job of providing physical security. This is deemed such an important function that government had been granted a great deal of power, including the power to tax.

Grant people power and they will use it to the fullest extent to gain their ends. This is human nature. Government is being used more and more to interfere with the economy to fashion it as some group thinks it ought to be.

Unemployment? Let the government lower taxes on employers, it is said, so they will have more money with which to hire more workers. But what if the employers spend that extra money for goods instead, bidding up their prices and thereby aggravating inflation?

OK. Let government create jobs to absorb the unemployed. This will increase government expenditures, so let it borrow the money, rather than taxing more, for the tax would reduce employers' ability to hire, causing more unemployment. But government borrowing generates bank credit, which puts more money into circulation, causing inflation.

So, either road leads us to the same dismal destination, inflation.

Stymied, the government pays doles of various kinds to the unemployed to keep them from getting hungry. But the unemployed (and their friends) have become so numerous their votes have persuaded the lawmakers to liberalize the doles to the point they constitute a living wage. At that point the unemployed decide it is not worth their while to look for a job, so they go fishing.

Some don't like fish. They get bored with idleness and go out and get jobs. But this does not reduce unemployment because of the newcomers in the labor force, mainly woman and youth, many of whom seek but do not find jobs. The unemployed as a ratio of the work force does not change much. The ratio may even increase.

What might government do to reduce unemployment? It might reduce the doles and so induce the recipients to find jobs for themselves. This would be simply admitting that the government cannot put people to work — that they have to put themselves to work. But the politicians of neither party are falling over themselves to do this.

Let's face it: President Ford's administration is helpless to cure unemployment. And President Carter's, too, would be.

Inflation is a fall in the value of the dollar because of a glut in the total dollars being spent. The glut arises when government borrows heavily, increasing bank credit — the "raw material" of our dollars, beyond all need.

The government could check inflation by borrowing less. But that would mean spending less. And Congress, which votes all the spending, is made up of people who are under constant pressure by voters to spend more, in the hope that they will get "some of it." So the government's budget rises yearly, the borrowing increases, and inflation continues.

Conclusion: The government is helpless in the face of the two most troublesome economic problems of the times. Whoever is elected president, these problems will still be with us. The promises of candidates that they will solve these problems can be discounted 100 per cent.

In fact, government gets in the way of a solution to these problems. It perpetuates unemployment and exacerbates inflation. There is reason to believe these would solve themselves if government would get out of the way.

Let government quit its futile attempts to improve the performance of the economy. Let it stick to its task of protecting life and property — which it is doing all too poorly. Particularly, let it cease taxing one segment of the population to pay another segment not to work. Subsidized idleness has become a national scandal.

There is much worry about the people's "apathy" toward government. Could this apathy be due to disillusionment? Maybe Americans are coming to the conclusion that they have put too much faith in government — that it cannot work the miracles demanded of it.

A light vote on Tuesday might well be construed as a heavy vote for more freedom, less government.

It's Possible! Enthusiasm is energy

By Robert Schuller

Emerson said, "The longer I live, the more deeply I'm convinced that what makes the difference between one man and another, the great and the insignificant, is energy, that invincible determination, a purpose that once formed nothing can take away."

What's the secret of human energy? Why is it that some people are high-energy persons? To a great degree the answer is in mental attitude. Enthusiasm is energy! And enthusiasm comes from two Greek words "en Theos", translated: "In God." "In Him we live and move and have our being" (Acts 17:28)

God is the cosmic source of all spiritual energy. Draw close to God and tap the source of energy.

Capitol comedy

Dole said he was against price supports until he realized that farmers were going to divorce the GOP for non-support.

Carter expects to beat the energy crisis as soon as we can convert to peanut oil.

The administration has a plan to cut down on our surplus of generals. It will include two with every plane sold abroad.

Although congress had its sex scandals, it can be proud that no member became a transvestite.

Carter promised voters a government that's honest, economical and concerned. Maybe he does have a connection with St. Peter.

Ford spent so much time in the Rose Garden, he had to get a shot for the Japanese Beetle.

If Israel needs more U.S. missiles, we may have to cut into our surplus of over-runs.

Ford says he's no Lincoln but voters expect more than a Pinto.

Boost given to foster children

By DON OAKLEY

Right now in the United States, about 360,000 children live in foster homes of institutions. At the same time that these children wait for permanent homes, thousands of families across the country are waiting for children to adopt.

Yet current studies show that 55 per cent of all abandoned children are still in foster care after five years, and that although foster care is supposed to be temporary, a child is likely to stay four to six years, and change foster homes two or three times.

In other words, many of these children will spend a quarter to a third of their entire childhood in a series of temporary arrangements.

The dollar costs as well as the human costs are enormous. Foster care now represents the largest single item of child welfare expense on the county level. Foster care costs range from $3,000 to $6,000 a year. Annual institutional costs begin at $8,000 and soar to over $50,000. By contrast, the cost of placing a so-called "hard to place" child is typically only half that of a year in foster care. Moreover, it is a one-time expense.

The North American Council on Adoptable Children (NACAC) has launched a campaign with the goal of finding a permanent home by Christmas for as many of these 360,000 children as possible.

The Council is a coalition of more than 200 citizen advocates groups in the U.S. and Canada, many of which have been working for as long as 20 years to remove legal and social barriers to adoption.

To focus attention on the problem, the organization will stage its first North American Adoption Week during Thanksgiving week, holding conferences and other public events throughout the country.

Fortunately, old attitudes are beginning to change. The traditional concept of a "good adoptive applicant" no longer necessarily excludes single persons or people with disabilities.

However, thousands upon thousands of American children are still being denied the most basic of rights: the right of growth up in a permanent and loving family.

The $46,000 House Housing, a very sick industry, is expected to perk up slightly in 1977. The Conference Board reports. New housing starts should rise from 1.4 million units in 1976 to 1.7 million in 1977. Housing continues to be lashed by inflation, including the rising cost of money, land and building materials. The median price of a new single-family house is now more than $46,000.

More than 100,000 cubic feet of water a second pours unseen through tunnels at Niagara Falls, generating electricity for the United States and Canada.

Many voters to use computer punch cards

By KAY BARTLETT
AP News Features Writer
The Vatican still sends up white smoke, Congress still answers a roll call, but when the Great American Public chooses between Jerry Ford and Jimmy Carter, 15 to 20 per cent will pick up a stylus and punch a hole in a yellow computer card that cannot be folded, spindled or mutilated, as IBM taught us long ago.

Computer card voting is making inroads into those two other traditional American voting methods — the old-fashioned paper ballot, still used by 20 to 25 per cent of the voters on election day, and the lever-operated voting machine, which 55 to 60 per cent of the voters will operate on Tuesday.

The computer card system — legal in 35 states — was invented in 1962 by Joseph P. Harris, a political scientist, and used in the 1964 presidential and in five counties — two in Georgia, two in California and one in Oregon. The most popular of several punch card systems is known as Votomatic Vote Recorder. The voter enters a booth and inserts his punch card in the Votomatic Vote Recorder, a table-top device that helps guide the voter in punching out the squares alongside the candidates of his or her choice.

Votomatic Vote Recorder does not count the ballots. They must be taken to a computer, usually one leased for election day. Depending upon the size of the computer used, the ballot cards can be counted at a key 1,800 an hour or they can be speeded out at a rate of 240,000 an hour.

The votes cannot necessarily be counted faster than those registered on the traditional lever voting machines. But the Votomatic, designed and manufactured by Computer Elections Systems, Inc., of Berkeley, Calif., is less expensive and that helps to explain its growing popularity. The cost for each Votomatic is about $200, compared with $2,000 for a lever-operated machine. The Votomatic weighs less, than 20 pounds and can be folded to briefcase size.

David Dunbar, president of Computer Elections Systems, says one of his company's biggest chores between elections is to convince state officials of the efficiency of his system and get them to change their election laws.

It's not that the system invokes anything shady; it's just that when the laws were written the advanced technology did not exist and therefore it's not included in the method that can be used to conduct an election.

"There's a certain resistance to change," says Dunbar. "That's our big problem in lobbying. The other, of course, is the opposition." (Votomatic has 90 per cent of the computer card voting market.)

IBM bought the Votomatic system in 1965 from Harris, but in 1969 the company decided to divest itself of Votomatic.

Dunbar, an IBM employee at the time, and nearly 30 other employees decided to take it over and they set up Computer Election Systems. In 1972, they bought the patent for a reported $700,000.

Does IBM regret that move, considering that CES reported over $1 million in net earnings for the year that ended last March?

"I haven't heard one way or another," chuckles Dunbar, whose 39th birthday falls just after the election.

Dunbar says there are more than 400 jurisdictions in 32 states that will use the system on Tuesday. These range from such giants as Los Angeles, with 7,000 voting districts, and Cook County (except Chicago) to very small districts such as Gray Harbor County, Wash., with 32,737 registered voters.

Congressional aide do double duty

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The early congressional adjournment has allowed a number of Texas lawmakers to transfer key personnel from their Washington to district offices for both political and congressional purposes.

In some cases, the switch was merely one of locale as the aides remained on the congressional payroll. In other instances, the lawmaker removed the staffer from the government rolls and placed him or her on his campaign staff.

While not improper, the practice of jockeying staffers to other offices and payrolls is generally conceded to be another advantage an incumbent has over any challenger in an election.

Although federal law prohibits "political" activity of aides on congressional payrolls in federal offices, even the staffers themselves acknowledge that it is sometimes hard to distinguish between political and congressional work.

"Everything we do up here is to get him reelected," said one Texas staffer. "But that's also serving the constituents."

Adds another: "It's very hard to draw the line. Anytime I talk to a constituent and don't say 'get lost,' I'm doing something to get the congressman elected."

Both Texas senatorial candidates — incumbent Lloyd Bentsen and his Republican opponent, Rep. Alan Steelman — have moved a number of staffers from their Washington offices to Texas, and placed them on the campaign payroll.

Bentsen's chief press spokesman, Jack DeVore joined the Houston Democrat in the campaign earlier this month. Other aides have also been switched from the senatorial to political payroll in the past weeks, DeVore said.

Steelman, a Dallas Republican, has transferred four former congressional aides to his full-time political payroll while permitting one aide to split his time between congressional and campaign business.

The aide, Steelman's administrative assistant Marvin Collins, is receiving about 60 per cent of his $37,000 annual congressional salary, a Steelman spokeswoman said. The remaining 40 per cent of his time is spent on political work.

Whether a congressman decides to transfer any of his top aides to the political payroll usually depends on the difficulty of his reelection fight.

"How it looks back home is a factor in the consideration," says J. Michael Keeling, chief aide to Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Austin. "Everybody's trying to get reelected."

Although he doesn't face a tough reelection challenge, Pickle has switched four Washington aides to his Austin congressional office. Since Pickle will spend the bulk of the next three months in the district, Keeling says it makes good sense for the congressman to have his key people in his own backyard.

"There's no one in Austin who actually does scheduling. There's no one who does the press chores. Pickle is the kind of person who needs this troops where he is," Keeling adds.

Lawmakers who face strong reelection challenges, such as Rep. Jack Hightower, have placed congressional aides on the campaign payroll. The Vernon Democrat, who draws former Rep. Robert Price, R-Pampa, in the Nov. 2 election, switched his district office manager Lee McMurtry III and Washington aide Roy Ann Bomar to the political payroll.

However, another congressman who faces a stiff reelection fight, Rep. Robert Eckhardt, D-Houston, has adopted a different approach. Chairman of the influential Democratic Study Group, Eckhardt is depending on three political organizers from outside his district to help counter the challenge of Republican Nick Gearhart.

Having only token opposition, Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, has made no personnel switches this fall. Wilson's only opposition Nov. 2 is an American Independent Party candidate, Rep. Jack Brooks.

D-Beaumont also has no competition this fall, but has switched at least one key staffer — chief aide Sharon Matts — from his Washington to Beaumont office.

Besides moving from one payroll to another, a number of congressional aides have jumped to other campaigns.

Federal Land-Use Control. Where do the two candidates for U.S. Senate stand?

The pet project in Congress of Rep. Alan Steelman of Dallas, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, is the Udall-Steelman federal land-use bill he is co-sponsoring with Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona. So far this bill has been blocked in Congress. One reason is the opposition of a large majority of the Texas delegation in the House, both Democrats and Republicans. Another is the opposition of both Texas Senators: Lloyd Bentsen, Democrat, and John Tower, Republican.

Why this bi-partisan opposition to the Udall-Steelman land-use bill?

1. Because its land-use planning grants to the states are based on a concept of land-use control.
2. Because it creates a new federal bureaucracy, the "Office of Land-use Administration," with a $440,000,000 initial appropriation.
3. Because the new Washington bureaucracy would have administration rule-making authority resembling that of O.S.H.A. and E.P.A., to set "mandatory guidelines" for state land-use plans prior to qualification for funds.
4. Because it requires federal review of state plans deciding what private land should be used for, whether private land is being used in an environmentally safe manner, and whether private land can be put to a different use.
5. Because it effectively prevents local communities from developing their own local development plans, responsive to local needs.
6. Because the Udall-Steelman bill is the first giant step toward national zoning by Washington, with federal grants for planning used as a carrot to force states into surrendering local rights of land use.

In opposing the bill on the House floor, Rep. Steven D. Symms of Idaho said: "The best time to kill a rattlesnake is when you have a hoe in your hand... kill this rattlesnake right now." Governor Briscoe and other Texas leaders feel the same way. The general counsel of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn., David Witts, said: "We don't want some bureaucrat in Washington to be writing regulations telling us what we can and cannot do with our land. This bill is out of step with Texas."

Lloyd Bentsen is pledged to help defeat the Udall-Steelman land-use program; "Frankly, once I thought that incentives to the states to encourage adoption of land-use regulations might be a way to prevent waste of our resources. But it didn't take me long to discover that federal land-use planning is a real danger to individual rights. Before too many years the 'incentives' and 'enticements' become 'demands' and 'regulations.' The 'guidelines' become 'edicts.' We have had enough of that in Washington."

A major difference between Senator Bentsen and his opponent is this bill. To Alan Steelman it is a cause. To Lloyd Bentsen it is bad legislation to impose upon the people. Another good reason to vote for Senator Bentsen for re-election November 2.

Mystic aura could be water

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strange and haunting photographs which mystics claim show glowing and fluctuating "life forces" around human bodies actually may be recording just changing concentrations of water on the skin, researchers said Friday.

The widely displayed pictures, taken by a special process, show eerie displays of bright blue and white around the object (such as a fingertip) being photographed. Sometimes the coronas are backed with secondary images varying from red to yellow.

Some mystics and parapsychologists argue the auras represent the "life force" surrounding a human being. The auras constantly change in shape and brilliance in concert with changes in the person's life force, they say.

But a research team at Drexel University in Philadelphia says moisture on the skin appears responsible for fluctuations in the luminous auras.

The images, which sometimes resemble the sun's corona at eclipse, are created by using an electric generator to send charges through an object — such as a human hand or a piece of wood — resting on a piece of film. This process is called Kirlian photography.

The resulting picture shows an aura with lightning-like streamers surrounding the object. Many scientists believe this image is formed on film primarily by energy released from gaseous discharges in the electric field around the object.

The shape and brilliance of coronas around an object modulate and change. Debate centers on what causes the modulation.

Some researchers theorize static electricity or some unknown energy function might be responsible.

John O. Pehek, Harry J. Kyler and David L. Faust, in a report in the journal Science, said their studies at Drexel show that when an object touches the photographic film, the subject transfers moisture to the film.

The moisture changes the pattern of electric charges in the film and this produces wide variations in the corona image, they said.

"We found that moisture is a dominant mechanism for change in the corona," Faust said in a photograph.

The team said its study, conducted in association with Logical Technical Services Corp., a New York City research firm, suggests a practical application for Kirlian photography.

If the amount of water needed to create a desired aura effect can be quantified, then the photo process may be useful as a non-destructive way to determine the amount of water in an organism.

Dermatologists say this could be a tool for studying skin moisture. Water is very important to skin, the body's largest organ.

Names in the news

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music entertainer Roy Clark is making plans for his second concert tour of the Soviet Union.

Last winter, Clark was the first country music artist to headline his own show in the Soviet Union.

No dates have been set for a second tour, a Clark spokesman said Friday.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Raymond Nelson has cast a disabled voter's ballot for Tuesday's election even though he is temporarily paralyzed from the neck down, cannot speak and has blurred vision.

Nelson, 24, has been in the intensive care unit at the University of Nebraska Medical Center since Sept. 24, suffering from Guillain-Barre Syndrome which attacks the muscles.

Nelson can move his head and lips but can't make enough sound to form words. His sister, Bonnie Miller, learned of the man's desire to vote because she can read his lips. She helped fill out his ballot after news stories about candidates and issues were read aloud to him.

A medical center spokesman said the cause of Nelson's ailment is unknown but may be related to a previous infection. The spokesman said the paralysis should disappear in time.

NASHVILLE (AP) — Country music singer Loretta Lynn says she has gained 36 pounds in the last year.

"A year ago I was a scrawny 100 pounds," she said. "Now I am up to 136. I feel much better."

Now, she said, she's trying to lose five pounds.

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Jimmy Carter's Baptist pastor in Plains, Ga., says in a letter to fellow Baptist pastors made public Saturday he's responsible for Carter's Playboy magazine interview.

The Democrat presidential candidate's Kansas headquarters released the letter. Rev. Bruce Edwards wrote to Baptist ministers in Kansas. Campaign officials said the letter probably went to Baptist ministers elsewhere, too.

"After reading the interview with Playboy," the Rev. Mr. Edwards wrote, "I am afraid that I must accept the responsibility for his accepting the interview."

"I have been his pastor for two years, and have always taught all my people to take advantage of every opportunity to share our faith in Christ."

In the interview, Carter said he had lusted for women in his heart.

Showdown on the river!

And it's high noon for our country too. We're right on the edge of a very important day, election day, November 2, 1976. Arm yourself well before you meet the challenges of the ballotbox. Listen carefully to all the candidates, weigh the facts. Decide. Be ready for the showdown.

Vote Tuesday, November 2, 1976.

Bears stun Vikings, 14-13

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Fran Tarkenton and the Minnesota Vikings came in from the cold—and they came in as losers.

Until Sunday, Johnny Unitas had passed for more yards than anyone else in the history of the National Football League. Tarkenton took care of that matter.

And until Sunday, only the Vikings were unbeaten this year. The Chicago Bears took care of that matter, nipping them 14-13 in nippy, windy Soldier Field.

The Bears couldn't kick in that earlier loss, when they missed two extra-point attempts. They didn't have anything to kick about this time.

In Sunday's other games, Dallas downed Washington 20-7. St. Louis edged San Francisco 23-20 in overtime. Detroit dumped Green Bay 27-6. Miami beat New England 10-3. Philadelphia shut out the New York Giants 10-0. Pittsburgh defeated San Diego 23-0. Cincinnati downed Cleveland 21-6. Oakland overhauled Denver 19-6. Los Angeles slugged Seattle 45-6. The New York Jets beat Buffalo 19-14. Atlanta topped New Orleans 23-20 and Kansas City tripped Tampa Bay 28-19. Houston is at Baltimore tonight.

Tarkenton, who scored the only Minnesota touchdown on a two-yard rollout, completed 24 of 46 passes for 272 yards. That gave him 40,421 yards—that's nearly 21 miles—in his career to Unitas' 40,239.

But it was hardly a consolation. "It means nothing," he said. "I wasn't thinking about breaking the record today. Hell, I only needed 91 yards and I knew I would get that sometime."

The other thing the Vikes got on the scoreboard were a pair of 24-yard Fred Cox field goals. What really got them, though, was a 17-mile-an-hour wind.

Neil Clabo, trying to kick into that wind, shanked a pair of punts. Both resulted in Chicago touchdowns. A 15-yarder was followed instantly by a 39-yard Walter Payton touchdown run in the first period. Clabo's 16-yarder in the fourth quarter gave the Bears the ball on the Minnesota 33 and they marched to the game-winning TD, when Johnny Musso ran three yards, fumbled at the goal line and recovered in the end zone.

And overjoyed Chicago Coach Jack Pardee grinned: "Now the Vikings have lost one like everyone else in the league."

Cowboys 20, Redskins 7
Roger Staubach, playing with a taped broken pinky on his right hand, played better than most quarterbacks with unbroken fingers.

He completed 13 of 23 passes for 152 yards and also ran one yard for a touchdown. Doug Dennison scored from the three and Efren Herrera kicked two field goals as the Cowboys scored their first victory in Washington since 1971.

"It's sore, but it wasn't a factor," Staubach said of the broken pinky. "I had no trouble throwing the ball although I had to grip it differently."

Pampa sweeps matches from host Palo Duro
AMARILLO — Pampa won all 18 matches from Amarillo Palo Duro in a dual meet Saturday afternoon.

In a morning match, Amarillo Tascosa whipped Pampa, 20-4. Pampa's Curtis Henry upset Kirk Barnett, a regional qualifier last year, in the Harvesters' top match.

In boys doubles, Kent Jones and Kenny Barrett downed Greg Harding and Mark Wilson, 2-6, 6-3. It was erroneously reported in Sunday's News that the Tascosa doubles team won

Cardinals 23, Oilers 20
The Cardinals overcame one game back of Dallas in the National Conference East on Jim Bakken's 21-yard field goal with 6:42 gone in sudden-death overtime.

Lions 27, Packers 6
Ray Jarvis and Greg Landry teamed on touchdown pass plays of 74 and 13 yards, rookie Lawrence Gaines scored on a 26-yard sprint and rookie Benie Ricardo kicked two field goals in the Lions' rout of Green Bay.

Dolphins 10, Patriots 3
Bill Ansparger returned to head up the Dolphins' defense. It responded with a vengeance against the Patriots. Bob Griese's 16-yard TD pass to Jim Mandich in the second period was the winning score.

Eagles 10, Giants 0
John McVay came in as a head coach the way Ansparger went out—a shutout loser.

Falcons 23, Saints 20
Scott Hunter entered the game in the second half and passed for touchdowns of 17 yards to Alfred Jenkins and five to Haskell Stanback that wiped out New Orleans' 14-0 lead, then Stanback scored on a one-yard plunge to snap Atlanta's four-game losing spin.

Chiefs 28, Bucs 19
Mike Livingston's pair of third-quarter touchdown passes woke up Kansas City's sluggish offense against Tampa Bay, off-setting a pair of Steve Spurrier touchdown tosses for the winless Bucs in the fourth period.

Russell Wilkinson and A.J. Tipton won the "A" and "B" titles Saturday in Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club competition.

Tech, Arkansas headed for conference shootout

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Circle Nov. 27 on your calendar. That's when Arkansas and Texas Tech collide in Little Rock for what shapes up as the Southwest Conference shootout of the year.

Arkansas and Texas Tech were the only October survivors of the SWC wars which claimed preseason favorite Texas, newcomer Houston, and dark horses Baylor and Texas A&M.

Tech's explosive offense cut the Longhorns down a peg Saturday with a come-from-behind 31-28 victory and Arkansas outlasted Rice 41-17 to give both teams 3-0 ledgers.

Both the sixth-ranked Red Raiders and the Razorbacks trailed closely by Houston (4-1) and Texas (2-1).

Houston and Texas meet in an elimination joust at Austin Saturday.

Arkansas puts its perfect mark on the line against a well-rested Baylor team which has been idle two weeks.

Tech, which is bruised and battered from the physical matchup with the Longhorns, plays winless Texas Christian at Fort Worth and SMU is at Rice in the other game.

Texas A&M, which blasted SMU 36-0 Saturday, is idle.

Houston has jockeyed itself into the position that the Cougars could go to the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day if they win the rest of their games.

Tech Coach Steve Sloan said "The win over Texas really helps because Arkansas has to play both A&M and Texas and it's tough to beat both those teams."

FLOWERY BRANCH, Ga. (AP) — Jerry Hansen gained his A Sports Racing championship, his 18th over-all career title and second of the weekend Saturday in the second of three days of the Sports Car Club of America's national amateur championships.

Colts host Houston

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts are hoping to take a two-game lead in the Eastern Division of the National Football League's American Conference by beating the Houston Oilers tonight.

The Miami Dolphins' 10-3 victory over the New England Patriots Sunday took some heat off the Colts. The Patriots dropped 1 1/2 games behind the Colts in the East race with a 5-3 record.

Meanwhile, the Oilers have to win in tonight's nationally televised game to keep from falling two games behind the Cincinnati Bengals, who lead the American Conference Central Division with a 6-2 record. The Oilers are 4-3 after losing two straight.

The minimum number of tickets were not sold by Friday night so the Baltimore-Washington area will be blacked out.

The Colts' defensive line may have a difficult time containing the Oilers' explosive offense, sparked by quarterback Dan Pastorini's passing. Pastorini has gone to the air an average of 40 times in each of the last three games.

Colts Head Coach Ted Marchibroda said he is worried about the Houston offense. "Look, they have the players to make the big play," he said. "Dan Pastorini has a fine arm and excellent wide receivers in Ken Burrough with 31 receptions to date, and Billy Johnson has 29 catches."

Hansen's victory was virtually uncontested. He started on the pole, only .3 of a second faster than Randy Townsend. But Townsend, who can't or won't drive in the rain, pulled off saying, "I race for fun and this race wasn't."

Hansen of Wayzata, Minn., won the Formula A division Friday, and is the favorite Sunday in the Formula B competition.

His margin of victory Saturday was 43 seconds over Oscar Koveleski, who won the division in 1970 when his McLaren was new. Hansen drove a Lola T220.

Only eight cars started; only four were running at the finish. The rain kept the average speed down to an all-time low of 86.60 miles per hour.

The weekend activities are being presented by Champion Spark Plug company.

In other races: —Dennis Firestone, Sun Valley, Calif., took a .35 second victory over Tim Evans, Northville, Mich., in the Formula Ford competition, the closest race of the day.

—Randy Blessing, Lakeland, Fla., drove a Camaro to victory in the A Sedan category, finishing more than 65 seconds in front of Tim Crittenden, Glasstonbury, Conn.

—Carl Thompson, Wilmington, Del., beat Ed Abate, Monte Sereno, Calif., by 1 minute, 38.66 seconds in the B Sports Racing class. Only three of 11 qualifiers were running at the finish. Thompson drove a Lola T290.

—Elliott Forbes-Robinson, La Crescenta, Calif., piloted a Datsun 610 to victory over Bill Kuykendall, Rochester, N.Y., in the B Sedan race. P.L. Newman, better known as actor Paul Newman, of Westport, Conn., was a competitive third. Newman is on the pole for the D Production final Sunday.

The 21-race schedule winds up Sunday with finals in the following categories: Formula Super Vee, A Production, E Production, C Production, Formula B, D Production and B Production.

Foyt, repeatedly referred to as a living legend, became a limping legend after he lost a rear tire on the 82nd lap of the championship race, crashed into the wall and was finished for that race. He returned, however, in the stock car race and helped provide the exciting finish.

Rutherford, running back in the pack most of the day, suddenly found himself in second place behind Johncock when the yellow flag went out after Foyt's crash.

Rutherford's victory kept him locked in a hot battle with Gordon Johncock for the United States Auto Club (USAC) sanctioned national championship car title.

Johncock finished second here and the national title will be decided Sunday at the Phoenix 150.

Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., provided fans with the most thrilling victory by surviving a heated three-car duel with Butch Hartman and Foyt in the final USAC stock car race of the season.

Allison nipped Hartman, South Zanesville, Ohio, on the final stretch but that didn't keep Hartman from winning an unprecedented fifth USAC stock car national title.

If the college football picture has you confused, imagine how the bowl people feel. Of all the vacant berths that don't automatically go to conference champs, only Pitt in the Orange Bowl against the Big Eight king seems set.

Of the so-called big four bowls—Rose, Orange, Cotton, Sugar—that apparently leaves two open spots—one in the Cotton, one in the Sugar—with four teams in the running... and two of them going to be shut out.

The four attractive teams are the Michigan-Ohio State Big Ten loser, the UCLA-Southern Cal Pacific-8 loser, undefeated Maryland and once-beaten Notre Dame.

"The picture is getting a little clearer, but it's still pretty mixed-up," says one bowl official.

If the status remains quo—i.e., the rankings don't change too much over the next few weeks—look for second-ranked Pitt and Tony Dorsett to wind up in Miami. The Orange Bowl payoff, roughly $1 million per team, trails only the Rose Bowl, which, of course, has the Big Ten and Pac-8 champs locked up.

Dorsett, the all-time rushing king, ran for 241 yards and two touchdowns in boosting his career total to 5,447 as the Panthers downed Syracuse 23-13. Pitt has an 8-0 mark and doesn't figure to be severely tested by Army or West Virginia before the bowl deadline.

The Panthers are idle Nov. 20, finishing against Penn State Nov. 26. By then, though, their Miami reservations should be signed and sealed.

The Big Ten and Pac-8 losers might be more attractive to the Cotton and Sugar Bowls than an unbeaten Maryland team. The fifth-ranked Terrapins also stand 8-0 following a 24-14 triumph over Kentucky but they are hampered by a patsy schedule and an injury to star runner Steve Atkins.

Ohio State and Michigan boast famous, headline-making coaches. Southern Cal has a super runner in Ricky Bell and Notre Dame and UCLA are well. Notre Dame and UCLA.

Top-rated Michigan and eighth-ranked Ohio State remained deadlocked for the Big Ten lead with lopsided victories. The No. 1 Wolverines routed Minnesota 45-0 while the Buckeyes pulled away from a 12-7 halftime struggle to crush Indiana 47-7.

Meanwhile, third-ranked UCLA and No. 4 Southern Cal continued their battle for Pac-8 honors and the Rose Bowl's host spot. The Bruins turned back Washington 30-21 as Theotis Brown galloped for 220 yards and three touchdowns while Southern Cal defeated California 20-6. Both teams have 4-0 league records.

Notre Dame, ranked No. 11, had a rougher time than expected in defeating Navy 27-21 and the once-beaten Irish can control their own bowl destiny. A victory over Alabama on Nov. 13 probably will mean a major bid; a loss, with Southern Cal remaining to be played in Los Angeles on Nov. 27, and they can probably forget it.

"Notre Dame is the real swing team in the whole thing," says a bowl veteran. "If they're 9-1 with USC to go, I think one of the big bowls will gamble on them."

If they lose to Alabama, it's unlikely the proud Irish will say yes to anything smaller than the Gator Bowl... and even that might depend on the caliber of the opponent.

Sixth-ranked Texas Tech remained unbeaten—and tied for the Southwest Conference lead with No. 14 Arkansas—by coming from behind to beat No. 15 Texas 31-28 on Billy Taylor's touchdown plunge in the final period.

Arkansas kept pace with Tech for the host spot in the Cotton Bowl by whopping Rice 41-16 as Ron Calcagni scored one touchdown and set up two others. Tech and Arkansas meet on Nov. 27.

Seventh-ranked Georgia took a break from Southeastern Conference action—the SEC champ goes to the Sugar Bowl—and trimmed No. 20 Cincinnati 31-17. Meanwhile, No. 12 Florida, the SEC leader, ran its league mark to 4-0—Georgia is 3-1—with a 24-19 decision over Auburn on next Saturday.

The frantic Big Eight scramble was reduced from a five-way tie to a mere triple deadlock among ninth-ranked Nebraska, No. 16 Oklahoma State and No. 19 Colorado. Nebraska drubbed Kansas 31-3, Oklahoma State squeaked past No. 10 Missouri 20-19 behind Terry Miller's 228 rushing yards after trailing 16-0 in the third period and Colorado bumped off No. 13 Oklahoma 42-31. The setback made defending national champion Oklahoma a two-time loser for the first time since 1970.

No. 17 Alabama appears to be out of the SEC chase for the first time in memory with a 3-2 league record but the Crimson Tide impressed the scouts with a 34-17 triumph over No. 18 Mississippi State. Representatives of the Gator, Liberty and Peach Bowls clamored to congratulate Bear Bryant after that one.

Players, owners set meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League's owners and players were to begin talks today about the future of football without the college draft or the Rozelle rule, at least as they are now.

Federal appeals courts have struck down both rules as unconstitutional, and replacements for them were high on the list of issues in dispute as the two parties resumed negotiations that broke off on June 28. They have not had a new contract since January, 1974.

The owners and NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle indicated they hoped to get to players to agree on rules that still would give the league the right to parcel out college players to all 28 teams and maintain some control over established players.

Cowboys roll over Redskins

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Combine Roger Staubach, injured pinky and all, with the Dallas defense and that could only spell trouble for a National Football League opponent. As a matter of fact, it could be bad news for the entire NFL.

Staubach, who played with the little finger of his throwing hand taped because of a broken bone, led the Cowboys to a 20-7 victory over Washington Sunday, cementing Dallas' lead in the National Conference East and diminishing the Redskins' playoff hopes.

"This was not a good day offensively," said Staubach, "other than we didn't have any turnovers. It was the defense. They gave us great position."

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan also was pleased with the Cowboys' defensive performance, which saw them make seven quarterback sacks, two interceptions, one recovered fumble and shut out the Redskins until the final seconds of the game.

"I think we have the best defense we ever had," said Jordan, a 14-year veteran with Dallas. "It has more ability to do things, more size, more speed, more everything. I don't think we are nearly as good as we are going to be in eight or 10 weeks," he said, obviously referring to a return to the playoffs and the Super Bowl.

The victory gave the Cowboys a 7-1 record. Washington is 5-3. St. Louis now is in second place in the NFC East with a 6-2 mark after beating San Francisco 23-20 Sunday.

"This is a real big step," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "If you get to thinking in a positive way, that's the way you will play. If you get to thinking you will lose, that's what is going to happen to you."

At no time did it appear the Cowboys were thinking about losing to the Redskins, despite dropping five in a row in the nation's capital since 1971.

After threatening early in the first quarter without scoring, the Cowboys took advantage of an 18-yard punt return by Butch Johnson which put the ball on the Redskins 20. Five plays later, Doug Dennison bulled over from the three for a touchdown.

In the second quarter, a Redskins threat was snuffed out by Charlie Waters, who intercepted a 19-yard pass by Bill Kilmer to Jean Fugett in the end zone.

"If only we could've gotten a field goal before the half, it would've been a big lift," said Washington Coach George Allen.

Staubach, who completed 13 of 23 passes for 152 yards, including six of 10 from the Cowboys' spread formation for five first downs, started picking up the Washington blitz in the second half and drove the length of the field before taking the ball over himself from the one. "They took away our running game," he said. "So I had to go

Dean Smith, a 160-pound junior, may not be the biggest fullback in District 3-AAAA but he showed Friday night in Pampa's 9-7 loss to Plainview that he is one of the quickest. Smith, 9 cat-quick runner, broke for 63 yards on 11 carries after having replaced 212-pound senior David Caldwell, who is lost for the season with a knee injury. # Cavaliers, Fitch cruise to 5th consecutive win

By The Associated Press
Bill Fitch is a hard man to please. Maybe that's why his Cleveland Cavaliers are a hard team to beat.

Always the perfectionist, Fitch was not even happy after a 106-92 victory over the New Orleans Jazz Sunday night.

"We only played seven good minutes," said Fitch after unbeaten Cleveland's fifth victory of the National Basketball Association season. "There are a lot of areas we're going to have to be better in. We had too many turnovers (16). That's what really rankles me."

Despite the impressive margin of victory, the Cavs almost faltered. They dropped their guard in the last quarter and lost most of a big lead before regrouping.

This lack of killer instinct upset the highly-critical Fitch.

"The worst thing to do is get a belt-and-suspenders attitude with a 15-point lead," Fitch said. "You should keep running, but you've got to be smart."

One thing Fitch couldn't complain about was the rebounding. For the fifth straight game, the Cavs topped their opponents in that department—this time by a 57-48 margin.

"There's no team in the league deeper than we are," noted Bobby Smith, Cleveland's high scorer with 17 points. In other NBA games, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Detroit Pistons 121-101 and the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Atlanta Hawks 126-112.

Led by Smith, Cleveland put seven men in double figures, offsetting a 27-point performance by the Jazz' Pete Maravich. The Cavaliers hit 11 of their first 12 shots, jumping into a 25-11 lead with 4:37 left in the first period.

Maravich scored 14 of his game-high total during a third-quarter spurt that brought the Jazz within 66-58, midway through the period. But center Jim Chones connected on two quick jumpers for the Cavs, who took a 13-point lead by the end of the third period and coasted the rest of the way.

Lakers 121, Pistons 101
Los Angeles forwards Cazzie Russell and Don Ford sparked a 37-point outburst in the third quarter as the Lakers rolled past Detroit. After a tight first half, Ford pumped in 11 points and Russell added eight as the Lakers outscored the Pistons by 15 points and moved into a decisive 97-77 lead after three periods.

SuperSonics 126, Hawks 112
Forward Bruce Seals scored 21 points, leading Seattle over Atlanta.

In $125,000 Pensacola Wintz grabs lead in Pensacola Open

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Longshot leader Gary Wintz had a slightly puzzled, pensive look about him.

"I'll just try to make some putts and hope the good things continue to happen," he said of today's rain-delayed final round in the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Wintz, who's never before led a tournament and hasn't come close to winning in two years of tour activity, didn't realize he held the top spot until he finished off his four-under-par 67 Sunday afternoon.

"I thought I might be close, but I really didn't want to know," he said. "I didn't look at the leaderboards until I got to No. 16. Then I saw my name up there, but it was in the middle and I wasn't really sure."

But his 207 total, six under par on the 6,349-yard Pensacola Country Club course, gave him a one-stroke lead over rebounding veteran Frank Beard going into today's last round in the chase for a $25,000 first prize—much more than Wintz has won in his entire career.

The tournament schedule was pushed back a full day when a torrential rain-storm washed out Saturday's play.

"It looks like a lot of guys have a chance to win," said Beard, who is convinced he's ended his dismal, four-year slump. "Almost anybody under par has a shot at it," he said. He's just one stroke back of the leader at 208 after a two-under-par 69 in the chilly winds of the third round.

Defending champion Jerry

McGee, who led or shared the lead through the first two days, bogeyed three holes in a row at one stretch and had to rally for a 72 that left him in a tie for third at 209, two shots back.

He shared the position with former Pensacola champion Lee Elder, Mark Hayes and Tom Purtzer. Purtzer had a 68 while Hayes and Elder matched 70s.

There were a dozen others in sub-par figures. U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, a hometown boy and the gallery favorite, was at even par after a 71 and said he, too, had a chance.

"It might take a really low number, like a 63 or 64, but this is my home course and there's no reason I can't shoot a score like that," said the young man who has clinched rookie of the year honors.

Lee Trevino, who dislikes cold weather, blew himself out of it with a 77 and a 219 total.

Wintz has won only a little more than $14,000 in his brief career, ranks a distant 147th on the year's money-winning list and had his high finish of the year with a tie for 23rd in the New Orleans Open.

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

Taste-science breakthrough gives low tar MERIT the flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

By locating certain flavor-rich ingredients in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have disproven the theory that cigarette flavor depends on the amount of tar that goes with it.

They've discovered how to pack flavor—unprecedented flavor—into a cigarette that delivers one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor, natural flavor, and only MERIT has it.

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

In taste tests involving thousands of cigarette smokers like yourself, MERIT was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than current low tar leaders.

What's really startling is that these brands have up to 60% more tar than MERIT.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT. Incredible smoking satisfaction at only 9 mg. tar.
