

Prelude to winter

The roses in front of the Pampa Fire Station refused to give up this weekend despite the 4 inches of snow which fell upon them. Temperatures today are predicted to climb into the mid-40s, but they will drop to the 20s again tonight. (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

Quake rattles Peking

TOKYO (AP) — A strong earthquake struck Peking today, rocking tall buildings and sending people screaming into the streets, according to reports from the Chinese capital. There was no immediate word of damage or casualties. The National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said the quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale and the Seismological Institute in Uppsala, Sweden, rated it at 6.8.

That would make it considerably weaker than the July 28 killer quake in Tangshan, southeast of Peking, but still capable of causing severe damage.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one whole number corresponds to a ten-fold increase in ground motion. A reading of six is considered a strong quake, seven means a major earthquake.

The earthquake that devastated Tangshan registered 8.2 on the Richter. Kyodo said today's quake was apparently an aftershock from the July blockbuster.

The official Chinese media made no mention of the quake. Japan's Kyodo News Service, in a dispatch from Peking, said the tremor was felt at 9:54 p.m. — 8:54 a.m. EST. The Japan Meteorological Agency said the quake was apparently centered in the northern Hebei province.

The Kyodo correspondent wrote that the 15-story apartment where his Peking bureau is housed swayed vigorously. He said screaming people ran out of apartment houses in Peking's foreigners' quarters.

After the Tangshan quake the Chinese refused any foreign aid and never announced casualty figures or estimates of damage. But unofficial sources estimated the death toll in the tens of thousands and reported extensive devastation in Tangshan, an industrial city of 1.6 million. The quake rocked nearby Tientsin and Peking, about 100 miles to the northwest.

On Aug. 16, a quake registering 7.9 on the Richter struck a mountainous region of central China but reportedly caused only slight damage.

Governors expect Carter aid

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Seven Democratic governors from the economically depressed Northeast have emerged from their first major conference with high hopes of getting help from President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The major idea proposed for regional cooperation was a Regional Energy and Development Corp. The governors also prepared an agenda of federal aid programs that would redress what they called federal discrimination against the Northeast.

The agenda prepared at the weekend conference here will be handed to the new president and the new Congress, and the governors were confident of its prospects.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp talked in terms of "B.C. — before Carter." He charged that the last two national Republican administrations had treated the region with "blatant neglect."

He and other governors complained that their region was not getting its fair share of federal tax dollars and has been slower to recover from the recession than other parts of the country.

Carter adviser Stuart Eizenstat told the conference Saturday night that the president-elect looked favorably on the regional approach taken by the five-month-old Coalition of Northeastern Governors.

"Come on down," Eizenstat told the governors. He promised that Carter would "not turn his back on regions that now need help; you can count on that."

The coalition, organized by New York Gov. Hugh Carey, also includes Shapp, Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, Ella Grasso of Connecticut, Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts, Philip Noel of Rhode Island and Thomas Salmon of Vermont.

Maine's independent Gov. James Longley attended the conference as an observer and said he might join the coalition. Gov. Meldrim Thomson, New Hampshire's Conservative-Republican, turned down an invitation.

The regional energy corporation would start with "seed money" from member states and then sell taxable bonds to raise investment capital for strategic energy, transportation and other development projects within the region. The key is a federal guarantee for the corporation's bonds, which would significantly lower the interest costs to the corporation.

Eizenstat said he could not absolutely endorse the federal guarantee plan on Carter's behalf, but he said he was enthusiastic.

The governors also endorsed an immediate increase in the federal share of welfare funding, at an estimated yearly cost of $2.5 billion.

Peacekeeping army occupies Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks of the Arab League peacekeeping army rolled into Beirut today to complete the occupation of the Lebanese capital and try to end the 19 months of Christian-Muslim civil war.

Spokesmen for the warring Lebanese and Palestinian factions said the invasion was a 99 per cent success by midmorning.

But sporadic firing continued between radical Palestinians and right-wing Christian militiamen in the rubble-strewn heart of the city.

The Syrians controlled the city's radio and television stations, the central bank and government offices, and the 300-yard-wide buffer dividing the city for three miles.

Heavy machine-gun fire and artillery and rocket explosions that began during the night still shook Beirut as the 6,000 Syrian troops and 400 tanks, many decorated with roses and olive branches, moved into the city from the north, east and south at dawn. The fighting later subsided.

Jubilant residents rushed to balconies and lined the streets to greet the Syrians with chants of "ahlan wasahlan" — Arabic for welcome. Housewives tossed rice on the camouflaged tanks and sprayed crews with rose water as they rumbled into an area of fashionable cafes. One man climbed onto a Syrian jeep and kissed two young soldiers.

It was the first time that Beirut had been occupied since 1958 when U.S. Marines landed to put down a Moslem uprising against Christian President Camille Chamoun.

The first Syrian casualties since the occupation began five days ago also were reported. An infantryman's legs were blown off by a land mine in Ein Rummaneh, a Christian slum area. Another soldier was killed when an armor-piercing grenade mounted on his rifle went off accidentally, and the blast wounded two soldiers.

Syrian forces were also moving into other areas of western Lebanon. There was no word, however, of Syrian penetration into Moslem-held Tripoli and Sidon, 60 miles north and 25 miles south of Beirut. The Syrians also were staying away from the southern border, apparently to avoid friction with Israel.

Bulldozers smashed through concrete and sandbag barricades in the streets while tank columns created a five-mile security belt along the city's crescent-shaped Mediterranean seafront.

The Syrians took control of government office buildings, the water and electric plants and the deserted barracks of the Lebanese army.

The occupation was authorized at Arab summit meetings last month in Cairo and Riyadh where leaders called for a pan-Arab force of 30,000 to end the war.

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat reportedly planned to meet in Damascus today with Assad. Before leaving, he ordered his guerrillas to pull out of their positions inside Beirut and close down their information and security offices. Truckloads of Palestinians were seen moving into refugee camps on the southern edge of the city.

Food prices may hike 4%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers food prices next year could rise an average of 3 to 4 per cent, the same rate of increase as this year, a top Agriculture Department forecaster said today.

This year's 3 per cent increase in food prices has been the smallest year-to-year climb in five years, following leaps in both 1973 and 1974 of 14.5 per cent and an 8.5 per cent increase last year.

In terms of what a family spends on food, considering both groceries and meals eaten out, the increases have meant that what cost $10 in 1972 now costs $14.65. The forecast for 1977 means that the same $10 worth of food will cost between $15.09 and $15.24 a year from now.

Rex F. Daly of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, who made the forecast, said "the band of uncertainty is wide" when it comes to predicting farmers' incomes. In the end, net farm income for 1977 could be pretty much the same as the 1976 average, Daly said.

The tentative forecasts came in remarks prepared for the opening of USDA's annual four-day conference on the outlook in the coming year for farmers, farm families and grocery buyers.

Daly's predictions, based on normal weather and no surprises in the world agricultural situation, are the first official ones from the department to cover all of 1977, instead of just the first six months.

Daly said his projection on food prices rests mainly on an anticipated rise of 5 to 6 per cent next year in the cost of eating out at restaurants and other away-from-home spots. Those prices have gone up about 7 per cent this year over last.

Restaurant and other eatery prices account for about 20 to 25 per cent of the government's retail food-price index.

"Retail food prices... in grocery stores for use in the home have held amazingly stable in the past year," Daly said. "This was a year of big supplies of food crops and expanding output of livestock products."

Daly said the key, besides weather, is how much of a "modest decline" occurs next summer and fall in the rate of increase of meat animals going to market.

Record meat production this year has sent ranchers' returns plunging, but demand is relatively high and feed prices are still generally favorable, USDA economists have said.

Drip gas truck seized; McLean station sealed

Officials from the Texas State Comptroller's office, aided by county and state officers, have seized a McLean service station and sealed the pumps and have seized a large underground storage tank, portable pumps, and transport trucks at Cactus.

Jose Alcora, director of the Fuels Tax Division of the Comptroller's office, told The News today that the seizure took place "Very early yesterday (Sunday) ... about 5:30 or 5:40 a.m."

Alcora said, "Our personnel had been observing the loading of a transport truck at the site in Cactus."

He said officers followed the truck to McLean where "inferior fuel" or "drip" gas was unloaded.

"At this point officers asked for the manifest documents and they had none," Alcora said.

He explained that under state law any fuel that is transported must be authorized by proper legal documentation.

The fuel involved in the seizure also is called "condensate." It is a natural gasoline which condenses in pipelines carrying natural gas. This drip gas contains many highly volatile elements and has an extremely low octane rating as a motor fuel.

Officers assisting in the investigation and seizure included representatives of the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Texas Rangers, and Sheriff's Departments in both Moore and Gray County.

Deputy Sheriff Jimmie Shelton of McLean was the Gray

County officer involved in the incident.

Alcora said that the seizure on Sunday is part of an over-all program to assure that retail customers in Texas get their money's worth.

He said that possible violations involved in the incident include the Texas Motor Fuel Tax Law and the Occupation and Business Regulation.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan said today that a similar incident that occurred in August may have involved the same service station owner.

Alcora said that investigation is continuing and further action is pending. He did not report on any charges being filed when he spoke with The News this morning.

Oswald told Cuba of plot

By DAVID C. MARTIN Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House committee investigating assassinations said today he will subpoena an FBI memo indicating Lee Harvey Oswald told Cuban officials he planned to kill President John F. Kennedy.

Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., said he is aware of the memo only through news reports. But he said "I feel sure it was" a request from his committee, established to probe the assassinations of Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King, that led to discovery of the memo.

His comment, made at a meeting of the panel, appeared to conflict with statements made to The Associated Press by an informed source who said the memo had been provided to a Senate intelligence subcommittee earlier this year.

The source said the memo was written in 1964 by the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who quoted a bureau informant as saying Oswald told Cuban officials he planned to kill Kennedy. According to the source, the informant said his information came directly from Fidel Castro.

The informant said the information was based on a report Castro had received from officials of the Cuban embassy in Mexico City, the source said. Oswald visited the embassy on Sept. 27, 1963.

The source said he had personally read the memo, but discounted its significance since Castro had made a similar statement publicly in August 1967 during an interview with a British journalist.

In its second official meeting, the committee held a brief public session and confirmed Richard A. Sprague, a former government special prosecutor, as chief counsel.

The panel also agreed to form two subcommittees to probe the Kennedy and King slayings simultaneously. Rep. Samuel Devine of Missouri, ranking Republican member of the committee, questioned the action, saying it would require excessive staff.

Sprague has said he intends to hire 160 to 170 investigators.

In closed session, the committee planned to view a film of the Kennedy assassination taken by Abraham Zapruder. The film was to be shown by Robert Groden, a New York film authority who contends it provides convincing evidence Kennedy was shot from the front.

The Warren Commission, which said Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy, concluded that the president was shot from the back.

Tax statements mailed

School tax statements go in the mail today... 22,900 of them, according to Dwain Walker, business manager of the Pampa Independent School District. The statements, which should bring close to $3,230,000 to Pampa schools, are being sent in 12,800 envelopes, several boxes resided for the Post Office by Helen Seitz. Walker said his staff combined real estate and motor vehicle statements for most individuals. The mailing cost is more than $1,600, he said. Taxes will be delinquent Feb. 1. Frankenstein monster

The story of "Frankenstein" is, generally, only imperfectly grasped. In the minds of many, perhaps even most, one would guess, the chief result of the tale of the monster created by Dr. Frankenstein has been to induce vicarious chills and thrills.

The fictitious story serves that function, of course, but, if one closely examines the original text, rather than being entertained by the many movie versions, the tale carries a profound philosophical and practical import, as well.

Experimenting with forces but little understood, and desirous of creating a more perfect and efficient human being, Dr. Frankenstein created a creature he thought he could control. Instead, he brought into being a monster which, refusing to obey him, not only attacked the populace, but in the end turned and destroyed its creator.

The lesson to be learned is clear: Power, once in being and placed at the disposal of fallible human beings, obeys only itself.

Our bloated governmental apparatus, now literally threatening our very existence, is a horror story case in point. Growing law-by-law and regulation-by-regulation, each and every one of which was introduced and imposed for "a good purpose" in the mind of its creator, government today, for all intents and purposes, as a giant mindless bureaucracy answerable to no one. Worse yet, every attempt to reduce its power and scope seems to result in a further expansion.

Take the case of Max Weil, a pension plan consultant from New York City, whose tale of woe was related in a recent Knight News Wire story. Appearing before a 14-member commission created by Congress last year to do something about the overwhelming tide of paper flowing out of official Washington, Weil was quoted as saying:

"You see before you a very frustrated, exhausted individual who has given much of his time, on a voluntary basis, in an attempt to make ERISA (the Employment Retirement Income Security Act) work." But the paperwork is overwhelming. Weil groaned. "My clients are all mad at me... because all I'm doing is filling out forms. This drives us to drink."

No one really knows how much government paperwork there really is, the Knight news story went on to explain, "but the cost of producing and processing all of it is estimated at $40 billion a year."

Other horror tales touched on in the wire story:

—IRS forms for a single year, if stacked, would be two miles high.

—The 10 billion sheets of paper churned out by the Government Printing Office annually would fill 50 professional baseball stadiums.

—In New York City, 53 forms must be filled out and processed before a welfare recipient receives the first check.

—Harvard University employs 26 people, at an annual cost of $300,000, just to prepare reports required by the government in connection with federal grants.

Judging from testimony given before the commission running to 5,000 pages, the Knight story revealed, "the problem is not merely bad, it is terrible. People have come in droves, many clutching stacks of government forms, reports, booklets and position papers to prove their point... All that paper is inundating administrators everywhere."

Perhaps the most startling testimony was that of Richard Wood, chairman of the board of Eli Lilly and Co., the giant pharmaceutical firm: "His firm must prepare, Wood said, more than 27,000 government forms or reports each year at a cost of $5 million — "adding an average of 50 cents to the price of each prescription."

"A single application to the Food and Drug Administration to market a drug to treat arthritis, Wood charged, had to be submitted in triplicate and weighed 2,000 pounds."

"In fact, the Lilly executive pointed out, his company spends more man-hours filling out government forms and reports than it does studying the causes of cancer and heart disease."

"The paperwork situation is almost endemic in our society," groaned Roy Lowry, a member of the commission. "We have to restore confidence, a sense of integrity. Government seems to deal with everyone as if they are crooks."

In Czechoslovakia a girl tells her fortune by putting a cherry twig in water on Dec. 4. If it blossoms before Christmas Eve, she will marry sometime that year, World Book Encyclopedia explains.

PLUNDERED 'AID' Americans corrupted by it

A prime principle in the American way of life has always been that each pays his own way. He is a free man, not a kept man. When he feels a need, he first looks to himself and his own brain and brawn to satisfy it.

This does not mean that the American is oblivious to the needs of others. To assume another's self-reliance is to pay him the highest respect.

One senses that this way of life is weakening — that Americans more and more are turning to "somebody else" to provide for them.

Obviously, there is nobody "else" to whom Americans as a whole can look. The United States is of all countries the richest in both material resources and human abilities.

But within the nation, individuals, associations, and local units of government are turning to some other, presumable richer, entity, such as a higher level of government, for subsidy or aid of one kind or another.

"Federal aid" has become the crutch that wellnigh everybody seeks to lean on. Rare is the city or village that is not looking to that Monumental Midas, the "Federal Government," to rebuild its sewer system, its waterworks, etc. These utilities were originally built by the local citizens, but the present generation is unable, or unwilling, to keep them up.

"State aid" has long been the Dutch uncle of local school boards — and Uncle is never generous enough. Since schools serve children, closest of all possessions to the parents' hearts, schools were long considered the most local of institutions, to be financed in toto by local taxpayers and run by boards chosen by vote of the community. What became of that assumption?

Now it is federal bureaucrats who are specifying how the government - subsidized school systems shall be run, how the race matter shall be treated, etc., and the local school boards are wrestling with the dilemma of satisfying both bureaucrats and parents. Since these boards are still chosen by the local voters, presumably to set up and operate the kind of schools the parents want, it would seem logical to serve the parents and let the government take its largesse elsewhere, but so alluring is the federal fleshpot the boards cannot bring themselves to do this.

To justify state or federal financing, it is said that some communities are wealthier than others (always this was true) and can afford better schools for their children. One child deserves as good an education as another, we are told. Therefore, to equalize education opportunities, the richer communities should be taxed to help finance schools in the poorer ones, and this can be achieved by aid from higher levels of government.

The idea of equality has been elevated to take the place of the ideal of self-reliance. It was a poor substitution.

Oddly enough, in the process of redistribution, this shining goal of equality seems to get lost, for not merely the poorer communities but the wealthier ones, too, are cut in for big slices of aid. Manifestly, both poor and rich can be aided only if the aider has access to some external source. Maybe a garden of Hesperides in which grow apples of gold?

Those who receive gifts from "the government" should bear two facts in mind: 1. They can receive these only as they are first taken from their fellow citizens and neighbors. 2. It is not mere money that is transferred to them. It is real wealth — food, clothing, shelter — that is now denied to the neighbor because it has been taken by government and given to another. Once, Americans were too proud to be Pauls on the end of a rob-Peter-to-pay-Paul line. Well, times have changed.

It is seldom a case of dire or emergency need. People who have tidy sums in the bank collect government benefits without batting a lash. Young men and women, quite able to work, look for aid before jobs. Seeking hand-outs has become a national habit. It's a new game. Like Scrabble, or Monopoly, that everyone wants to play. But it's not quite so jolly for those from whom the loot has been taken. "There's no such thing as a free lunch."

And it is hard to see much jollity in the inevitable result: a decline in production as more people become drones and fewer are left to work and revitalize the hive. That is the economic result.

The human effect is even less bemusing. Dependency spreads. The work ethic is scouted. Men on strike try to justify reaching into the public pocket to finance their war on the employer. No more is one even slightly ashamed to be "on welfare." In fact, one who isn't collecting "transfer payment" of some kind is hardly in style.

Aid-grubbing by local authorities is justified on the ground that it is "more efficient" to finance needs out of the common treasury. Localities, it is said, cannot collect taxes. From the large corporation especially, as the state or federal governments can.

If, by discouraging self-dependence, we weaken the American character, has efficiency been achieved? If, to get access to state and federal treasuries, schools, colleges, libraries, hospitals, etc., have to submit to dictates that they consider oppressive, not to say absurd, haven't they traded something precious for a mess of pottage? "Whose bread I eat, his song I sing."

Concrete Idea
In 1824, an English bricklayer, Joseph Aspdin, invented portland cement, so named after a lookalike stone on the Isle of Portland. This comprises 98 per cent of cement made in the United States today — a high quality cement made by pulverizing limestone and clay, burning the mixture then grinding it into a fine powder. When sand, gravel and water are added, it makes concrete.

Big Wall
The Great Pyramid built by Khufu (Cheops) ca. 2550 B.C. was built on a square base, with an area of 13 acres, or seven average sized city blocks. The six million tons of material used in the construction would, as Napoleon figured in 1798, be enough to build a 10-foot wall around the whole of France. Cut into standard-sized bricks and laid end-to-end, the Great Pyramid would reach from the earth to the moon.

Cuba's economy is sorry mess

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 — Fidel Castro is hurting — and as usual blaming the U.S.

It's axiomatic for the burly dictator to throw a rancorously accusatory anti-Yankee temper tantrum when things go awry in Cuba — as they have increasingly for months.

The economy is in a sorry mess, and Castro's foreign machinations are no better.

This is a shattering reversal from the way things were a year ago.

Cuban economy was booming, and the 15,000 mercenaries sent to Angola had little trouble imposing Communist rule on that faction-torn former Portuguese colony.

At home and abroad, Castro was riding high and the outlook was rosy and heady.

In the short space of a few months, conditions turned upside down.

What had glowingly passed for "prosperity" vanished, and the old days of harsh shortages and other belt tightening are back with a vengeance. In Angola, the Cuban "saviors" are being implacably ambushed and harassed by anti-Red guerrillas — who have even daringly penetrated the mercenaries' strongly guarded encampments.

So once again Castro is resorting to his time-worn diversionary ploy of fuming and castigating the U.S. in general and the CIA in particular.

Empty Indicator
Revealingly indicative of the gravity of this jarring reversal is that Castro felt compelled to resort to still another placating sop — the first election in his nearly 20-year-old iron-fisted dictatorship.

It was a typical Communist charade.

Only reliable party members could run, and sole function of the winners was to attend meetings that designated spokesmen of the areas.

No administrative jobs of any kind were involved. Those bureaucratic offices are strictly appointive and held by trusted party henchmen. Castro was taking no chances of allowing dissidents and critics to gain footholds in place of control, at local or any other level.

So while Cubans were permitted to vote, it was a sham and amounted to nothing.

Meanwhile, they were unhappy learning that once again they would have to "make sacrifices" with rigorous rationing and other privations.

Already coffee has been cut to one ounce per person a week; milk limited to children, ill and aged; and candy and other sweets virtually banned — in a country where sugar is the principal crop and source of exports of 80 per cent of the export trade.

More of the same looms ahead.

Authority for that is none other than Castro himself. In a long-winded harangue blaming the CIA for the crash of a Cuban airliner, he admitted Cuba's economy is in a dire state and not likely to improve in the foreseeable future.

"Austerity is the order of the day," he proclaimed, "and we must all sacrifice for the common good. It's one for all and all for one."

What's Causing It
At bottom of it all is the spectacular collapse of the world sugar prices.

In less than a year it plummeted from a record high of 66 cents a pound to around 9 — and the likelihood it may sink even lower.

In the past few weeks, raw sugar was selling at 7.6 cents a pound.

Directly compounding Cuba's travail was a grim crop loss due to a three-year drought.

This year's sugar output is around 5.8 million tons as against 6.5 million last year.

What that means in foreign exchange income is $3 billion as against $4 billion last year.

For Cuba that is disastrous because at the same time its heavy imports have steadily gone up in cost and quantity. Estimates put those imports this year at $3.9 billion — up nearly $1 billion.

Graphically illustrative of the onerous impact this has had on Cuba are the following:

Castro had had to default on large purchases of machinery and railway equipment from Argentina — much to the latter's irate resentment. In 1974, the two countries signed a $500 million trade agreement, and did a flourishing business while sugar prices were sky-high.

Now that Castro is pinching pesos, he is in effect deadbeating on the Argentine deal.

At the same time, Moscow has had to dig deeper to keep its Caribbean puppet afloat.

Authoritative estimates put the Soviet subsidy at $2.5 million a day — up from $1 million in 1970. In other words, it is now costing Russia virtually $1 billion a year to maintain Cuba, as against $364 million six years ago.

In addition to direct subsidy, Russia is also buying half of Cuba's sugar crop (2.0 million tons) at 30 cents a pound — around three times the world price.

This is far from solving all of Castro's economic, fiscal and other troubles.

So you can expect more venomous anti-U.S. tirading and machinating.

Castro and his henchmen are doing their utmost to incite Panama dictator Omar Torrijos and his pro-Soviet cabal to force an explosive showdown with the U.S. over the long-pending Panama Canal negotiations — initiated by Secretary Kissinger several years ago with his fanfare "principles of agreement."

This period of a shift in administration in Washington is made to order for Castro, and there is every indication he is bent on making the most of it.

"Frightfully sorry, old chap, but you see all my money is tied up in pounds!"

It's Possible! Never give up

By Robert Schuller

"It could never happen," they said. "No one with that kind of handicap could play football." But no one told him that and he did the impossible. He kicked one of the longest field goals in the history of professional football. His name is Tom Dempsey of the Los Angeles Rams. You see, he was born with only half a right foot and with a deformed right arm and hand.

Even though he successfully overcame his handicap and played football in high school and college, he was turned down by all the other professional teams. They said, "You are not professional material." But he refused to accept their verdict. He says, "I have learned to never give up. So many times in life and in sports, I have seen things turn around because someone has persevered and has kept faith."

You can achieve the impossible today by believing. "If God is with me, nothing and no one can make it impossible — except ME if I quit believing and quit trying."

Reverend Schuller, pastor of the Garden Grove, Calif., Community Church, conducts a nationally syndicated television program.

Carter's home church lifts racial barriers

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says that when his small Baptist church decided during an emotional meeting to drop its racial barriers, "I was just one of the church members."

He later welcomed a black man to a worship service.

Carter, according to his fellow Baptists, exerted no pressure during the two and three-quarter hour meeting Sunday. Nonetheless, the congregation did as he has advocated since 1965.

It opened the church's doors to all who want to worship, regardless of race. And, it voted 107-84 to retain the pastor who agreed with Carter's pro-integration stand. The Rev. Mr. Bruce Edwards.

The church decision began a week for Carter in which he plans to hold a news conference today at the auditorium of the Southwest Georgia Agricultural Experimentation Station near here. Wednesday, he will meet with Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale and congressional leaders near Atlanta.

The church also voted to set up a screening committee consisting of the pastor and four deacons to be elected by the congregation in about two weeks.

"We felt the whole world was looking at Plains today," said one of the church's deacons, Frank Williams.

The church controversy was started by the Rev. Mr. Cleon King, a nondenominational minister from Albany, Ga., one-time Republican gubernatorial candidate and civil rights activist. Just before the Nov. 2 election, he tried unsuccessfully to join the church in a move many saw as an effort to embarrass Carter.

Sunday, Carter waited in the rain and said after the votes were announced, "I think it's wonderful. It vindicates the church. It vindicates the people of Plains."

Carter attended an evening service Sunday with about 65 other persons, including the black Secret Service agent who frequently accompanies him to church. The whites-only policy, adopted in 1965, had been ignored for black reporters, agents, and the tourists who came to Plains during Carter's candidacy, until the Rev. Mr. King publicly challenged it.

Midway through the service, a black man from Selma, N.C., Roger Sessoms, entered the church and sat in the pew in front of Carter.

Then the congregation set up the committee to screen applicants for church membership. Finally, it voted 120-66 for a motion offered by Jerome Ethredge, a Plains resident preparing for missionary work in western Africa, that "The doors of the Plains Baptist Church be open to all people that want to come in and worship Jesus Christ."

Weather blamed for 20 deaths

By The Associated Press

Harsh winter weather Friday and Saturday and a four-fatality wreck Sunday swelled weekend traffic fatalities in Texas to nearly the 20 level, while deaths from all kinds of violence passed the 30 mark.

Early today, The Associated Press had counted 31 deaths from violent causes, including 19 traffic fatalities, seven shooting deaths, two drownings and three asphyxiations.

The tabulation includes death that occurred between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. The four-fatality wreck Sunday came in a one-car crash 14 miles north of San Angelo on U.S. 277. The Department of Public Safety said the car apparently ran off the road, spun around and hit a tree, bursting into flames. The victims were identified as Kevin Patrick Wade, 18; Douglas Bryan Tucker, 20; Johnny D. Wise, 19; and his brother Joshua Wise, all of Abilene.

Clemitt Matheny, 36, and Mrs. Louise Holland, both of Borger, died Saturday in a two-car accident on Texas 152 about 45 miles northeast of Amarillo. Officers said ice was about three to four inches thick when Matheny's automobile struck an automobile driven by Jerry Jones of Dumas.

Three members of a South Dallas family were found dead of apparent accidental gas asphyxiation in their home Saturday. They were identified as Mrs. Doris Evars, and her two children, Latrice, 6, and Charles, 5.

Five persons died in a two-car accident on a Houston street Saturday. They were Robert Cuellar, 31, Irma Cuellar, 21, Jesse Cuellar, 11, Rachel Cuellar, 3, and Rexanna Cuellar, 2, all of Houston.

Octavio Rodriguez, 31, of Dallas was killed early Sunday when his car skidded off a Dallas highway, hit another vehicle and struck a guardrail.

Lane Kirk Washington, 20, of Wharton, died Saturday when his automobile slammed into a guard rail at Houston.

A service station attendant at Shamrock in the Panhandle died Saturday after he was shot during a robbery at the station. Officers identified the victim as Frankie Griffin, 20.

Two men died and three were rescued early Saturday when an oil rig sank in the Gulf of Mexico about 70 miles southeast of Galveston. They were not immediately identified.

Two Fort Worth men were shot to death in a robbery at a grocery store at Fort Worth Saturday. Police identified them as Ven Allen Pounds, 65, owner of the store, and Eddie Anderson, 22.

Three men died in a two-car accident near Rockwall late Friday. They were identified as Doyle Mason, 21, of Scurry, James Brent, 32, of Rockwall, and Roger Milby, 38, of Roysce City.

No developments in Shamrock

SHAMROCK — Authorities reported early today that there have been no new developments in the search for two men connected with the Friday night shotgun slaying of Frankie I. Griffin, 20.

Griffin, who was working at the North Star Texaco station on I-40 East, first was robbed of $434, then was taken behind the station and shot four times with a 12 gauge shotgun from a range of about 15 feet, according to Shamrock Police Chief George Hooten.

Griffin was found about 20 minutes after the shooting when a customer at the station became suspicious and investigated.

Griffin died about 10 a.m. Saturday. While being treated at the Shamrock hospital and during the ambulance ride to Amarillo's emergency receiving center at Northwest Texas Hospital, Griffin, managed to disclose some details of the incident.

In what authorities described "a semi-conscious state,"

Griffin indicated his murderers were in a blue pickup and that there were two men involved.

Griffin and his wife, Rita, had two sons, Robert, 2, and Joe, two months.

Services were to be at 2 p.m. today at the 11th Street Baptist Church with the Rev. Keith Johnson, pastor of the Christian Center Church in Plainview, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Roy Eason, pastor of the Assembly of God Church.

Burial was to be in Shamrock Cemetery by Recherson Funeral Home.

Other survivors include his parents, a brother, two sisters, his grandparents, and a great grandmother.

Pampan drowns in Alaska

The drowning of a former Pampan and his son in waters of Kodiak, Alaska, has been officially confirmed by the U.S. Coast Guard.

Mrs. Calvin Jones, 2201 Charles, said word had been received that her nephew, Gene Smyth, 45, and his son, Lane, 22, had been hunting on an island near Kodiak and were on their way back to the mainland when their 20-foot boat was hit by a wave and capsized.

Memorial services for the two men are scheduled at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the chapel of Polk Street United Methodist Church in Amarillo. Dr. Clifford Trotter and the Rev. James Carter will officiate.

Gene Smyth was born and reared in Pampa and attended school here through junior high. He was a graduate of Burnett High School and attended Texas A&M University before enlisting in the Navy. He was a 32nd Degree Mason, member of the First United Methodist Church, and Man of the Year from his area the year he retired from the Navy.

The drowning victims were the son and grandson of Mrs. Era Smyth of Amarillo. Gene Smyth was a communications worker with the Coast Guard in Kodiak. Lane Smyth also was a civil service employe there.

Britain proposes compromise

By ROON LEWALD
Associated Press Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Britain today proposed a new compromise timetable for transition to black majority rule in Rhodesia as black and white negotiators met for the first time in 10 days.

Ivor Richard, the British chairman of the conference, proposed at the 30-minute session to set a deadline of March 1, 1978, for the transfer of power with the proviso that it could come as early as Dec. 1, 1977.

if the necessary constitutional and legal procedures could be completed earlier.

The two key African nationalist leaders, "Patriotic Front" allies Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, said they would respond Tuesday. Mugabe and Nkomo have insisted on making December 1977 the target date with a possible extension to March 1978.

The two leaders accused Richard of using divide-and-rule tactics in first leaking his formula to two other black leaders, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole.

Nkomo charged that Britain with trying to delay the power handover from Rhodesia's 270,000 whites to 6.4 million blacks. He added: "What is quite obvious is that Britain has opened the sluice gate, the thing can go on indefinitely."

Richard said: "The main thing now is to get the conference away from this issue, which frankly I think we've spent rather too long on, and get it moving on such substantive issues as the structure of a proposed interim government."

Guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, the two allies of the "Patriotic Front," demanded that Dec. 1, 1977, be the target date, but they said this deadline could be extended to as late as March 1, 1978, if additional time was necessary to complete the arrangements.

18 missing, search ends

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Coast Guard has called off its search for 18 crewmen missing in the Pacific Ocean since a lumber ship sank last Thursday.

amidst 20-to 30-foot waves, clinging to the ship's floating cargo of logs.

The Coast Guard air and sea search covered 1,000 square miles around sunken ship before being suspended late Sunday.

Fourteen crewmen were rescued by two nearby merchant ships, but high seas and 40 to 60 mile per hour winds hampered the search. One life-jacketed crewman was found dead in the water.

The missing sailors were presumed drowned.

According to the West Coast agent for the Carnelian-1, the crew consisted of 18 Chinese and 15 Burmese.

Shamrock radio burglarized; tapes missing

SHAMROCK — Radio station KBYP was burglarized late Saturday or early Sunday and two tape recorders and a 16 channel scanner receiver were taken.

Cinderella reschedules for Friday

"Cinderella," a production by the Storybook Players sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, has been rescheduled for 1:30 p.m. Friday.

The original Saturday performance was cancelled because of the weather.

The play, which features Pampa High School students in a modern version of the classic fairytale, will be presented in Pampa High School Auditorium. Director is Rochelle Lacy.

Chief of Police George Hooten said that the burglary was committed "apparently by one person who pried open the rear door."

Pampa College of Hairdressing has styled wigs for the actors: Mrs. Irl Smith made the costumes, according to Lacy.

Hunters find safe missing since Oct.

SHAMROCK — A couple of hunters bagged some unusual game about four miles west of Shamrock Saturday afternoon, and it already had been cleaned.

The hunters discovered a safe under a bridge. Police Chief George Hooten said the safe had been missing since it was taken Oct. 16 in a burglary of Carol's Barbecue.

Hooten said the safe had contained about $500 in silver, $2 bills, and other small bills. Entry into the safe was gained by "peeling the door," the chief said.

He said that a winch truck was required to pull the safe out from under the bridge.

Race on for leadership in Democratic House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four men are seeking the job of House Democratic leader. After months of soliciting support from fellow Democrats, the candidates report pledges that add up to more than 500.

lead he compiled during the last 18 months.

The only problem is that there are only 290 Democrats in the House.

McFall is usually considered to be last. His prospects are said to have been hurt by the disclosure two weeks ago that he had accepted $3,000 in cash from Korean businessman Tongsun Park two years ago.

These exaggerated and conflicting claims of support are part of the stiff leadership contest to succeed Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, who apparently is unopposed to succeed retiring Speaker Carl Albert.

Park also gave McFall a party when he became majority whip in 1973 and gave him a silver service tea set. Three months ago, McFall was given a digital watch by a South Korean legislator.

The Dec. 6 secret balloting will choose a winner for the No. 2 post of majority leader from among Reps. John McFall, of California, now third-ranked as majority whip; Philip Burton of California, chairman of the Democratic Caucus; Richard Bolling of Missouri; and James Wright of Texas.

At least 22 present and former congressmen are reported to be under federal investigation about allegations that they took cash, campaign donations, jewelry, furniture, vacations or other gifts from Park and agents of the South Korean government who reportedly wanted to influence U.S. attitudes toward Seoul.

If McFall loses, it would be the first time in recent history that a step-by-step progression up the leadership ladder had been blocked.

O'Neill also has been linked to Park. He was the beneficiary of a 1973 birthday party given by Park at a fancy Georgetown private club. Aides say he took no gifts or money from Park.

Burton is generally conceded to be ahead, but he is said to have lost much of the early

Gilmore execution date passes

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Today was to have marked the end for Gary Gilmore. He wanted it that way.

waiting.

Instead, more legal battles loom over the fate of the 35-year-old convicted murderer, who foresees appeals and demanded to go before a firing squad on schedule.

Boaz said that if the state is unwilling to execute Gilmore on schedule it should release him, on grounds that he would otherwise be imprisoned without a legal sentence.

Last week, after court rulings first delayed the execution and then restored the original schedule, Gov. Calvin L. Rampton stayed the execution pend-

Meanwhile, attorney V. Jinks Dabney of the American Civil Liberties Union said the ACLU is preparing strategy to prevent the setting of another execution date.

The ACLU opposes the death sentence as cruel and unusual punishment, and Dabney said ACLU representatives hope to outline their arguments for board chairman George Latimer before Wednesday.

Gilmore killed a motel clerk during a robbery. If he had been executed today, it would have been the first death sentence carried out in the United States since 1967.

Brezhnev, Tito to meet forward to meet the Soviet leader as Brezhnev's limousine pulled up at the carpeted ramp in front of the White Palace. The two spread their arms, kissed and exchanged three bear hugs.

Richard's compromise timetable was seen as an effort to give the two Patriotic Front leaders a face-saving means of backing away from their hard-line demand. Muzorewa and Sithole have argued for a compromise by both sides.

They also pledged not to interfere in each other's internal affairs "for any reason — economic, political or ideological — because questions of internal system, different social systems and various forms of development of socialism are the exclusive affair of peoples of individual countries."

Condemned killer pictures self as drinker, violent

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Carrying a gun or a knife in his pocket and a liquor bottle in one hand was a common picture for much of the tragic life of condemned killer Robert Excel White.

neck of a friend, "cutting out the guts" of his brother-in-law, suffocating hundreds of chickens in a henhouse and shooting a neighbor's dogs because the noise disturbed him.

"I began drinking when I was old enough to hold the bottle, I was brought up with a knife and my father taught me how to use it. I've got a scar on my stomach where my father cut me," says White, who is on death row at Huntsville state prison and will die next month — if he has his way. He says he would like for the execution to be nationally televised.

White said he thought his road to the electric chair began with his dishonorable discharge from the army. "I teamed up with a friend of mine and he and I really got on the wild side. There wasn't much we wouldn't do."

"If any man deserves to die, I do for the crimes I've committed," White said from his cell last week.

He admits to being a heavy drinker and a frequent participant in brawls.

White is on death row in the Ellis Prison Unit, convicted along with another man of the 1974 shooting deaths of an elderly grocer and two teenage customers in Collin County.

"I'm pretty sure I didn't kill anyone else," he said with a grin. "But I can't always remember what I do when I'm drunk."

Last week State District Judge Tom Ryan granted White's wish for "the nearest execution date" and set Dec. 10 as the day for White and the second killer, James Owen Livingston, to die.

White says he was driven by rage and bitter self-hatred in the killing spree that claimed three lives.

White admits emptying a 12 round carbine clip into the victims and leaving the store with $66 dollars.

"I remember those bodies," White said. "I see those people every time I lay down on my bunk and I've been punishing myself every day."

He talks casually — sometimes laughing — of his violent past: slashing a 113-stitch wound in the

Although he admits he is "scared to hell about death," White said he is mentally prepared. "As far as I know, I can walk to the electric chair. I don't want any guard holding me."

White said he would like to see his death televised late at night, "when the children can't watch it." White said televising his death would "show people what capital punishment is really like so they will stop it."

OPEC begins price talks

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Economic and financial experts of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met today to draw up recommendations for an increase in the price of crude oil.

recommendations of the commission, they are expected to increase the present base price of $11.51 a barrel to at least 10 per cent.

The OPEC commission met at the organization's headquarters under tight police guard.

A 10 per cent boost would add an estimated $12 billion a year to the oil bill of importing nations. Officials of the U.S. State Department disclosed that the U.S. government has been consulting with the Japanese and West European governments to try to devise a strategy to head off an increase.

The oil ministers of the 13 member countries of the oil cartel will act on the recommendations at a meeting opening Dec. 15 in Qatar. Although not required to abide by the Levin acknowledged that his own major interest lies in the civil rights field, but he declined to predict what changes Carter might bring to the enforcement of federal civil rights laws.

A spokesman at the family home said this morning that Mrs. Hardy slipped and fell from a ramp.

Levin said he expects Carter to push quickly for a system of selecting federal judges on the basis of ability instead of politics.

She fractured a bone, and it will require some time for healing, a spokesman said.

On Saturday, the London Daily Express quoted Gilmore as saying he wants to marry his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, in a Death Row ceremony.

Boaz introduced himself to Gilmore as a free-lance writer and later replaced the court-appointed attorneys whom Gilmore fired after they appealed his death sentence against his will.

Prison officials said the request would be considered if made, but they also complained about the circumstances of the interview.

Boaz admitted that the Lon-

Texas Weather

By The Associated Press
Ice formed from melting snow on streets and highways in West Texas, prompting the National Weather Service to warn drivers of possible hazardous driving conditions.

In addition to the icy highways, fog cut visibility in some areas of West and North Central Texas to less than a mile and some patches of dense fog developed in West Texas early today.

Skies over the state were mostly clear to partly cloudy and were expected to remain that way through most of the day. A few showers were expected along the coast this evening.

Early morning temperatures

National weather

By The Associated Press
Freezing rain and sleet were forecast today for the southern Appalachians and travelers were warned of hazardous driving conditions, especially at higher elevations.

The warnings were posted for southern Virginia, eastern Kentucky, eastern and mid Tennessee and extreme northern Georgia.

A travel advisory due to fog remained quite cold despite a warming trend that melted some of the weekend accumulations of snow. Temperatures ranged from 20 at Marfa in Southwest Texas and Amarillo in the Panhandle to a chilly 41 at Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Other early morning readings included 27 at Wichita Falls, 37 at Texarkana, 34 at Dallas, 31 at Austin, 38 at Beaumont, 39 at McAllen and Del Rio, 30 at San Angelo 35 at Cotulla and 26 at Lubbock.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies with a slight warming trend today. Afternoon highs were expected to be mostly in the 50s.

also was in effect over much of northwest Florida. Some ice and glaze also was likely at higher elevations in the Carolinas.

Rain, drizzle and fog continue over the Southeast, except southern Florida. Rain and snow lingered over parts of the southern Plateau and central Rockies into the central high Plains.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune. N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For the woman who lost her husband to a younger woman, here's one man's story:

I loved my wife dearly, but after six children and 35 years of marriage, our relationship became so platonic I felt sure I was losing my manhood. I blamed it on her devotion to our home and children rather than on my age.

Depressed, I left home under the pretense of seeking work in a distant state, but I had other things in mind. I found a willing young girl who looked up to me adoringly, lifted my spirits and restored my lagging sense of manhood. I felt as though I had found the fountain of youth, so I filed for a divorce solely on the grounds of sexual incompatibility.

As soon as my wife got word of this, she did what every woman who really loves her husband should do. She caught a bus and travelled 1,500 miles to win back her man. She didn't whine or hire any lawyers, or even scold me for what I had done; she came courting me like a sweetheart, and she laid a loving on me like she hadn't done in years! Of course I knew that some of her passion was faked, but we men are gullible, and I loved her all the more for it.

You guessed it. She brought me back home, bound hand, foot and heart with nothing but chains of love.

HOME AGAIN

DEAR HOME: Another classic example of a woman casting herself in the role of a sex object to get what she wants. It may be fine for some women, but the Women's Libbers would have her scalp for such a degrading ploy.

DEAR ABBY: My husband sleeps in his underwear. All winter he wears the long woolen kind, and he sleeps in the same underwear he's worn all day. The problem is getting him to change it.

Abby, he has four suits of clean underwear in his drawer, but he refuses to put on a clean pair without a fight. I have a terrible time getting it away from him to put it in the wash.

Don't tell me to grab it while he's in the bathtub. It's a battle to get him to take a bath, too. He thinks deodorants are for sissies, and the smell is awful. Please help me.

BERTHA IN BISMARCK

DEAR BERTHA: Nag him, threaten him, beg him and bribe him if necessary. If nothing works, look at it this way: You'll never have to worry about another woman stealing him. And he's easy to find in the dark.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a very nice, but shy 17-year-old son. He has never had a date in his life, and I'm sure it's because he's afraid he'll get turned down.

He is an honor student, but doesn't do very well in sports, which could be the reason he isn't very popular with the "in" crowd at school. He is slightly overweight, but there are fatter boys who date so that can't be the reason.

It breaks my heart to see him alone all the time. A girls' club is having a dance, and the girls ask the boys. One of my best friends has a daughter in this club. Should I put a bug in my friend's ear and ask her to ask her daughter to ask my son? He wouldn't have to know I arranged it.

MOM

DEAR MOM: Don't put any bugs in anybody's ear. Your son may be a late bloomer. And another one of his problems could be a well-meaning mother who's inclined to run interference for him. Let him develop socially at his own pace.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How can a person prevent colds? Will vitamin C prevent them or not? Will it cure a cold if you get one? And how can I tell the difference between a simple cold, the flu or bronchitis? I'd like to get through most of this winter with a minimal number of colds if at all possible.

DEAR READER — The cold and flu season is already here. There are three big waves of respiratory infections — in the fall, mid-winter and again in the spring. However, colds and related illnesses can occur at any time.

One of the most important concepts to understand is that these illnesses are all contagious illnesses. They are spread from person to person like other contagious diseases. They are not caused by exposure to cold weather.

A number of years ago a group of scientists decided to study the Eskimos because of their exposure to cold. The Eskimos were all free of colds and had been for years until the scientists arrived to study them. Then the village came down with a whopping epidemic of colds. They had been infected by the visiting team of scientists — demonstrating dramatically the difference between the germ and the environment as a cause for the common cold.

The best way to avoid a cold is to avoid people who have one. Unfortunately people begin shedding the viruses that cause these illnesses several days before there are any apparent symptoms. But you can avoid exposure to people you know have a cold.

There is an oddity in labeling what is a cold, flu, bronchitis or other related illness. The same virus can cause a cold, laryngitis, bronchitis or even pneumonia. The diagnosis depends upon how the virus affects the body. If the virus involves the nose and sinuses with a mild, sore throat and limited fever, it is a cold.

If the same virus involves the bronchi in the lungs, it is bronchitis and the illness may be much more severe. The same germ can even cause pneumonia, meaning the lungs are involved.

No, vitamin C does not prevent colds despite all the public attention it has gotten. Properly designed experiments have failed to show any protection against colds at all by taking large doses of vitamin C. Moreover one can't abort a cold with large doses once he has been infected. There are some questionable results that suggest large amounts of vitamin C will shorten the duration of symptoms and their severity — but other studies fail to show this.

You should know that antibiotics are useless in treating any of the cold-flu group. They are helpful in treating a secondary bacterial infection — such as bacterial pneumonia as a complication of a cold or flu episode.

Many people do not realize that a good way to transmit these illnesses is by the hands. Keep your hands clean. If you are out, wear gloves to avoid picking up germs from door knobs and counters. Don't touch your hands to your face. And above all avoid crowds when you can.

To give you more information about the Cold-Flu group, I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter dealing with these problems, numbers 3-1 and 3-2. Others who want these issues can send 50 cents for each with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Before stuffing a turkey, I loosen the skin from the breast by running my hand between the skin and the breast. I slice a quarter pound stick of margarine the long way and put these pieces between the breast and the skin, adding salt. The larger the turkey the more margarine one uses. As the turkey cooks, it self-bastes for nice moist white meat and a nice brown skin. — NORA

DEAR POLLY — A good easy way to tighten roll type window shades is to pull the shade down, take out the end fixtures, roll it up by hand and return to the fixtures. Vice presidency:

Description often unflattering

ST. JOHN, Virgin Islands (AP) — Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale left his vacation hideaway Saturday to return to... who knows what?

His new job, being vice president of the United States, has been variously described — usually less than flatteringly.

"A spare tire on the automobile of government," snorted John Nance Garner, who had the job under Franklin D. Roosevelt. "Not worth a bucket of warm spit."

"About as useful as a cow's fifth teat," declared Harry S. Truman.

"Four years of silence," said Alben W. Barkley.

"Standby equipment," complained Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"Indoor work that requires no heavy lifting," decided Bob Dole, who lost to Mondale in the November election.

No less a personage than John Adams, the first vice president, called the vice presidency "the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man contrived or his imagination conceived."

Thomas R. Marshall, who was Woodrow Wilson's vice president, used to tell a story to illustrate the point.

"Once there were two brothers," he said. "One ran away to sea. The other was elected vice president."

"Neither was heard of again."

Indeed, Jonathan Dayton of New Jersey, who had signed the Constitution, figured years later that at least one mistake had been made.

He suggested the office of vice president be abolished.

Mr. Dooley, the Irish saloon keeper of Peter Finley Dunne's writings, put it this way: "The vice presidency... isn't a crime exactly. Ye can't be sent to jail for it, but it's kind iv a disgrace. It's like writin' anonymous letters."

Walter Frederick Mondale, 48, reflective after a week's holiday at Caneel Bay Plantation, the Rockefeller-owned resort on this Virgin Island, found himself possessed of no small amount of puckish humor about the job.

He told this story: Rockefeller and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, another onetime occupant of the vice presidency, had prepared an inside briefing paper on the official duties of the office Mondale assumes Jan. 20.

"It took up most of a page," Mondale said.

Reporters, not to be outdone in the banter asked: "Where would the strengths of the Minnesota senator be when he becomes vice president?"

In the foreign field or the domestic field?

"I think my strengths are found basically in the domestic and foreign fields," Mondale agreed.

His first priority? "Well, let me wait a while. I'm working on that. I've got an expert on it."

How about the transition between administrations?

"Call Mondale and get it out of the way," Mondale said in mock advice to Jimmy Carter, the President-elect. Then he paused. "That wasn't funny." Another pause to reflect. "Jimmy won't like that."

He picked up one of several black-bound Carter transition briefing books on a table at his vacation cottage. "Income accountability program," he read.

"Vice president $43,000 a year." By the rules of reverse English, a main ingredient in Mondale's self-deprecating humor, his wisecracks could reveal a genuine concern about making his job something more than a well-paid breeze.

Under the Constitution, vice presidents do two things:

One, preside over the Senate, a job that can be — and frequently is — turned over to one of the senators.

Two, be ready if something happens to the president.

But Mondale, while he was still campaigning, said he and Carter had discussed "a substantial role (for the vice president) in both domestic and foreign policy."

Mondale said he plans to play a key part in Carter's promised attempts to achieve a "long overdue reorganization" of the federal bureaucracy.

He said he would head a task force on the federal fight against crime.

And he said he will be an ombudsman for the cities in the Jimmy Carter administration.

"I read a wide range of briefing papers which have been prepared by the transition group," Mondale told reporters. "I've read some materials which my staff prepared on the vice presidency. We've been working very closely with Gov. Carter."

He said he and his aides have attended a variety of briefings and have worked closely with the transition group.

Mondale said he will help Carter pick his cabinet and other key executives and will help him make budget decisions. He said he will seek counsel from congressional leaders, governors, mayors, state legislators and party leaders on behalf of the president-elect.

Not that Mondale and Carter will always agree. In fact, they've already disagreed about three things. Mondale opposes the death penalty Carter favors it in some cases. Mondale has criticized the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Warren Burger. Carter has offered praise. Mondale favored raising Watergate as a campaign issue. Carter opposed it. Mondale raised the issue anyway.

There are indications Mondale might disagree occasionally with his boss after Jan. 20. Asked during the campaign if he would, Mondale said: "I would not have accepted being a running mate if I couldn't."

ISU knotted in Big 8

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Who is Iowa State and why are the Cyclones doing such bad things to the Orange Bowl? The Cyclones have gone along for years serenely minding their own business as one of the doormats of the Big Eight Conference, with a brief flurry of excitement when Johnny Majors took them to the 1971 Sun Bowl and the 1972 Liberty Bowl and then took off for Pittsburgh. Even so, this is only their third winning season since 1960.

So it comes as quite a surprise to see Iowa State — unheralded, unranked and, as yet, uninvited — tied for the lead in the rugged Big Eight Conference with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Oklahoma State.

And you can bet it came as a shock to the Orange Bowl people when the Cyclones up-ended ninth-ranked Nebraska 37-28 Saturday and put the onus of selecting a host team for the New Year's Night game squarely on the shoulders of the selection committee.

And as of late Sunday night, the committee still was scratching its collective head trying to solve the dilemma because the odds are that the race will end in a three-way tie among Colorado — which has only lowly Kansas State left — and the winners of the Nebraska-Oklahoma and Iowa State-Oklahoma State games.

Matters reached this confusing state when Iowa State topped Nebraska while 14th-ranked Oklahoma downed No. 11 Missouri 27-20. No. 17 Oklahoma State trounced Kansas State 45-21 and No. 19 Colorado whipped Kansas 40-17.

Seventh-ranked Georgia, 9-1 with one game left, won its way into the Sugar as the Southeastern Conference representative by drubbing Auburn 28-0. Meanwhile, fifth-ranked Texas Tech, 8-0 with three games to go, remained atop the Southwest Conference with a 34-7 rout of Southern Methodist. The Red Raiders have a first-place showdown with runner-up Houston next weekend — the 12th-ranked Cougars were idle last weekend — and tough games with Arkansas and Baylor after that.

Invitations cannot be officially tendered until next Saturday and the Orange and Cotton Bowls insist that Pitt has not turned them down — yet.

The only other bowl berth decided over the weekend was in the Fiesta Bowl, Cinderella Wyoming, which has not been in the Top Twenty all season following last year's 2-9 record, won the right to represent the Western Athletic Conference by shading Texas-El Paso 14-10.

Next weekend, second-ranked UCLA and third-ranked Southern Cal square off for the Pacific-8 crown and the host spot in the Rose Bowl, while fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Ohio State wage their annual war for Big Ten-Rose Bowl honors.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Maryland blanked Clemson 20-0, clinching at least a tie for its third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Pitt's Dorsett fell short of the 200-yard mark when he was ejected with 29 seconds remaining after exchanging punches with several West Virginia tacklers. With one regular-season game left — against arch-rival Penn State on Nov. 26 — Dorsett has 1,724 yards for the season — the major college mark is 1,881 — and 5,858 in his record-shattering career.

Sub tailback James Owens, an Olympic hurdler, scored two of UCLA's three second-period touchdowns as the Bruins whipped Oregon State 45-14. Meanwhile, Southern Cal kept up the Pac-8 pace by downing Washington 20-3 as Vince Evers passed for one score and set up another while ailing Ricky Bell was held to 21 yards on 12 carries.

'Bengals for real' says Trumpy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Isaac Curtis, who brought the big play to the Cincinnati Bengals four seasons ago, ranked it among his biggest. Teammate Bob Trumpy called it one of the biggest in the club's nine year history.

"We gave him the game ball, but we should have given him a Cadillac," said Trumpy, whose two touchdown catches helped Cincinnati stage a 28-point second half to overcome a 13-0 deficit.

"We were desperate," said Curtis, who broke loose on a 47-yard pass play from Ken Anderson with less than a minute left to lift the Bengals to a 31-27 National Football League victory over the Houston Oilers Sunday.

Trumpy saw it as another sign that the Bengals are for real.

"I don't remember a comeback victory like that since I've been here," said Trumpy, one of just 2 veterans who has been with the Bengals from their modest start. "We use to lose those type. Championship teams need victories like that. You can't imagine what it does for a team."

Facing a fourth-and-four situation and trailing 27-24, the Bengals were in a dire predicament.

"We were trying to get within field goal range," said Curtis. "It was just a basic possession pass. Then I saw I had a lot of room to work."

Curtis, a former halfback in college and a world class sprinter, beat double coverage on a tura-in-down the middle, gathered in Anderson's pass, then broke free from two defenders to run in the go ahead touchdown.

"I was a pretty good halfback in college, but the coach at California used me as a blocker most of the time," said Curtis, who later transferred to San Diego State and bloomed as a wide receiver.

"His move beat us," said Oilers' coach Bum Phillips. "We didn't make a mistake."

Anderson, who passed for three touchdowns and ran for another, described the game winning toss as "probably the most memorable touchdown I'll ever have." He's been in on 94 in his six-year career.

The victory boosted Cincinnati's record to 8-2 for the season and set up a Nov. 28 battle with defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh in a game that will decide the AFC Central Division title.

It was Cincinnati's fourth straight victory since a 23-6 loss to the Steelers a month ago.

Buffalo Bills didn't expect snow in Dallas

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Things have been going so bad for the Buffalo Bills they can't even escape the snow.

The Bills flew into Dallas Sunday for the nationally televised National Football League match with the Cowboys Monday night and there was six inches of snow on the ground.

However, the 2-7 Bills weren't expected to have to play in the stuff. A warming trend — temperatures in the upper 40s — was predicted by the Weather Bureau for the 8 p.m. CST kickoff in Texas Stadium.

The Cowboys, off to their best start since 1969 with an 8-1 record, were two-touchdown favorites despite coming off their worst game of the season — a 9-3 victory over the winless New York Giants.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach has been bothered by the flu but was expected to be at full strength as the Cowboys meet the Bills for the first time in Texas Stadium. The only previous meeting between the two clubs was in 1971 when Dallas outlasted the Bills 49-37 and held O.J. Simpson to 25 yards rushing in 10 carries.

The Cowboys have been particularly effective this year with their "Flex" defense in putting the clamps on such celebrated runners as Walter Payton of Chicago, Mike Thomas of Washington and Terry Metcalf of St. Louis.

Larry Csonka gained 89 yards last week. Baltimore's Lydell Mitchell has been the only runner in four years to gain more than 100 yards overland against the Pokes. Mitchell carved out 115 yards earlier this season.

Jim Ringo is still looking for his first victory as the Bills' head coach. Ringo was an assistant under the departed Lou Saban. Ringo is 0-4 since he took over.

"I'm getting kind of anxious for that first victory," said Ringo. "And Dallas is a tough team to get it from."

The Cowboys come into the contest kicking themselves from a near disaster last week. The Giants drove to the Dallas six-yard line in the final minute of the game before again fizzling out.

"I think the Giant game gave us a big enough scare to make us realize that we can't take anybody lightly," said Cowboy receiver Drew Pearson.

Royal denies scalping story in Oklahoma paper

AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas Coach Darrell Royal issued a strong statement Sunday against a published report that ticket scalping is practiced by Longhorn players, calling it "malicious, inaccurate and false."

The Oklahoma City Journal said last week quoted an unnamed Texas athlete, an anonymous high school basketball coach and two unidentified San Antonio businessmen.

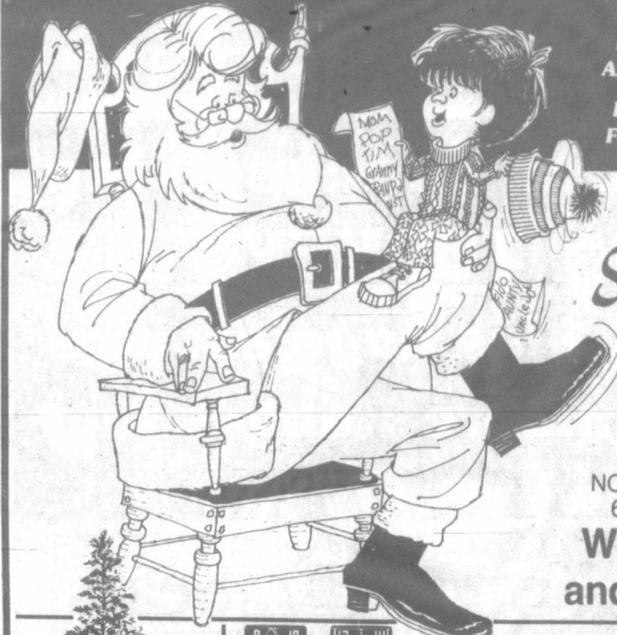

The column said players sold tickets through coaches and that an Austin clothing store would give players a percentage after buying tickets and reselling them.

"It has come to my attention that the Oklahoma Journal has written a story that is malicious, inaccurate and false," Royal said Sunday. "The article states falsely that Texas player tickets were sold through a Texas coach. Because I was concerned, an investigation was conducted."

Royal said that a former Texas assistant basketball coach was requested by a basketball coaching friend from Oklahoma to secure some tickets to the 1974 Texas-Oklahoma football game.

Steelers top Dolphins, continue streak

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer
The defending National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers are the owners of some pretty impressive statistics.
—They haven't allowed a touchdown in five games.

—After allowing 110 points in the first five games of the season, they have allowed only nine points in the past five.
—They have outscored their opponents 132-9 in the past five games.
—They hadn't given up a point in 15 quarters, including three consecutive shutouts, until Miami's Garo Yepremian kicked a field goal in the third quarter of Sunday's 14-3 Steeler victory.

But the Steelers also must face some pretty depressing realities.
Playing perhaps the best football in the NFL now, they still could miss the playoffs and a chance for a third straight Super Bowl, trailing Cincinnati by two games in the American Conference Central Division with a 6-4 record.

And, for the second time this season, quarterback Terry

Bradshaw is injured.
In the first quarter against Miami, Bradshaw sprained his right wrist. Although X rays were negative, Bradshaw said he didn't know how long he would be out.
"I'm coming off a real serious injury, and then something silly like this happens," said Bradshaw, who sustained a serious concussion in the fifth game of the season, an 18-16 loss to Cleveland.

Cox surprises Orantes in finals

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Mark Cox, the British veteran nobody had reckoned with, fought off three match points and came from behind to upset third-seed Manuel Orantes of Spain 4-6, 7-5, 7-6 Sunday in the singles final of the $150,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

In a remarkable comeback, Cox rallied from 3-5 in the last two sets before winning the title on his third tiebreaker in two days before a jubilant sell-out crowd of 4,500 fans at the Royal Tennis Hall.

It was the biggest tournament victory ever for the 33-year-old lefthander, who upset three other seeded players — including top-seeded American Jimmy Connors in the semi-finals — to reach the final.

"But I had more luck beating Manolo (Orantes) than in winning over Connors. I had three match points against me and I won several points on mis-hits and got a few lucky net-cords in my favor. It looks like somebody upstairs was looking after me today," Cox said.

Cox, who now lives in Epsom outside London, became the first unseeded player to capture this indoor tournament since the inaugural event in 1969 when Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia defeated Ilië Nastase of Romania.

It looked like Orantes would race away to a comfortable victory after taking the first set with ease and then going ahead 5-3 in the second.

Capitalizing on two unforced errors by the Spaniard at the net, Cox broke through in the 10th game to level at 5-5 and then held to love for 6-5. Another service break, after Orantes only double-fault in the match, gave Cox the second set.

Behind 30-40 in the ninth game, Cox saved his first match point with a serve which Orantes returned into the net. Cox survived two more match points with forehead volleys before holding his service. The Briton then evened to 5-5 on his third break point with a lucky net cord and both men held service, producing the tiebreaker at 6-6.
Cox took a 6-2 lead — his fourth point coming on another lucky net cord — for four match points.

Houston, Tech meet in key tilt

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Texas Tech could take a giant step Saturday toward a goal it set 16 years ago. Houston could take a mighty leap forward to a goal it set in August.

Two overlooked candidates for the Southwest Conference "Shootout of the Year" square off in Jones Stadium at Lubbock with the winner firmly in the driver's seat to the Cotton Bowl.

It wasn't supposed to be that way. This was the season Texas was selected in pre-campaign predictions as the heir apparent to defending Cotton Bowl champion Arkansas. The game between the two teams was put off to Dec. 4—and at night—when the television networks decided they wanted it nationally.

It was SUPPOSED to be another shootout similar to the 1969 confrontation between the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the nation.

But Texas has been saddled with two losses and Arkansas, slapped with a 31-10 defeat by Texas A&M Saturday, has a loss and a tie.
