One of our informers called this week to protest what he thought was some slick shenanigans being pulled by the Pampa Independent School District (PISD).

He qualified for the new senior citizens' homestead exemption but said that his property value went up at the same time. A deliberate move to keep his taxes the same, he said. Last year he paid $110. This year he was assessed $101.

Dwain Walker, PISD business manager, maintained that no property was re-assessed in order to squeeze tax money out of the senior set.

"The school board granted the homestead exemption because values were going up. The board felt that senior citizens needed a break," he explained.

The board of trustees hiked the ratio of assessment from 40 per cent to 60 per cent this summer. But even with the increase, Walker said that some who qualify for the exemption don't pay any taxes at all.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding on how the $3,000 exemption works, Walker said.

He explained: After an appraised value of the property is reached, the business office takes 60 per cent of that value to obtain the assessed value. The assessed value is reduced by $3,000 for those who qualify for the homestead exemption.

The resulting number is multiplied by $1.62 for every $100 of value. That is the amount of taxes charged.

Walker added that the exemptions do not apply to automobiles and other vehicles which were added to the tax rolls this year.

He also noted that some property had been reassessed in the district's equalization program.

Sometimes it is easier than at other times to determine what is newsworthy. For example, it may not be news when a dog bites a man because dogs often bite. But when a man bites a dog...

Like what happened recently down in Argentina. Amaro Maturano, 28, bit a dog. In fact, he ate part of one because his father-in-law had told him it was lamb. (Not much of a news story so far, maybe, but it isn't over.)

When the father-in-law told Maturano the shaggy dog story after dinner, Maturano didn't think it was funny and just to illustrate how unfunny he thought it was, he:

- threatened to kill everyone in the house
- strangled 40 chickens
- cut the throats of three mules and three cows
- shot six other mules dead
- broke 1,200 eggs ready for market
- set fire to the farmhouse and truck

That, obviously, is news.

Associated Press and United Press International have together adopted Webster's New World Dictionary of the American Language, Second College Edition, as their primary word authority.

A joint committee studied about 70 dictionaries but found Webster's New World more suited to the needs of the wire services and newspapers.

One reason for the choice was the fact that the dictionary includes new Americanisms. Examples: pork barrel - local improvements to please legislators, constituents; no-fault - automobile insurance or divorce in which neither party is blamed.

The best way to get a job is to marry the boss' son or daughter.

The Employment Management Association learned this when it sampled 620 companies across the country to find out where and how they were finding personnel.

The second best way to get a job, the group discovered, was to be the comptroller's baby sitter or a cousin to the business manager. The third best way is to follow up on newspaper help-wanted ads.

The Pampa Police Department has a special campaign in progress: be kind to a pusher.

Chief Richard Mills wants every drug pusher in town to spend the night in city jail and have breakfast with them.

32 shopping days left

Santa Claus is coming to town and as a reminder Pampa's Christmas decorations are going up in all business districts. A Chamber of Commerce annual project, a parks department worker is shown here atop a city truck placing one of the yuletide trimmings on a N. Hobart St. light pole. It is also a reminder there are only 32 more shopping days until Christmas and beginning Dec. 1, many stores will stay open until 9 p.m.

Personal income grows

WASHINGTON (AP) - Increases in the pay and benefits for federal employees helped push up the growth of personal income in the United States at a faster pace in October, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said personal income grew at an annual rate of $10.2 billion, or 9.2 per cent, to $140.9 billion. That contrasted to an annual rate of $6.2 billion, or 5.5 per cent in September.

On a per capita basis, the department said personal income for October climbed to an annual rate of $6,502, up 7.8 per cent from the same month last year.

The growth means Americans will have more money to spend in the near future, somewhat counterbalancing some of the government's recent negative economic statistics.

Those statistics showed that retail sales have remained virtually stable for four months, unemployment increased by one-tenth of a per cent in October, and industrial production marked its second consecutive month of decline.

October's consumer price index, or inflation rate, hasn't been reported yet. But consumer prices rose four-tenths of a per cent in September.

Personal income consists of all wages, salaries, Social Security payments, dividends and other income received by individuals after deduction of Social Security taxes.

It does not take into account other tax payments or inflation.

The Commerce Department said pay raises for civilian federal employees and military personnel accounted for $2 billion of the October increase, and a cost-of-living adjustment in veterans' benefits contributed another $500 million.

Middle and lower-level federal employees have gotten periodic cost-of-living raises. Their salaries presently start at $5,800 in grade GS1 and go to $39,400 in the top step of grade GS15.

Earlier this month, Robert E. Hampton, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, urged a "very sizable pay increase" for top-level federal personnel. He said pay for top government executives has gone up only 5 per cent since 1969.

One of President Ford's last decisions in the White House will be whether to raise salaries for the new Congress, federal judges, Cabinet members and appointees to be named by President-elect Jimmy Carter.

Some 2,400 persons would be affected directly, and a ripple effect could affect an additional 18,000 persons. Some current annual pay scales for the top salaried employees include $63,000 for Supreme Court justices; $44,600 for member of Congress and $63,000 for Cabinet members.

The Commerce Department said farm income declined during October for the fourth month in a row, but at the slowest pace in four months. Farm income slipped $700 million because of decreases in farm prices, but that was still $2 billion better than the $2.7 billion drop in September, the department said.

It said private wages and salaries increased more slowly in October, at a $3.8 billion annual rate contrasted to $5 billion in September.

The manufacturing sector accounted for much of the slower growth, the department said.

That sector gained at an annual rate of $300 million, contrasted to $1.1 billion in September. Commerce attributed the manufacturing weakness to a decline in employment and a smaller rise in average hourly earnings.

Shock troops crush siege by gunmen

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) - King Hussein's shock troops today crushed a four-hour siege by gunmen in Amman's Intercontinental Hotel that took seven lives, a Jordanian spokesman said.

Three terrorists, two hotel employees and two soldiers were killed in the siege, the spokesman said. The fourth gunman and four other persons were wounded. One of the wounded was identified as an American of Jordanian extraction.

The spokesman said the gunmen identified themselves as members of a Palestinian group called "Black June." The group was formed to protest the Syrian invasion of Lebanon last June. Its members staged a similar attack on a Damascus hotel in September in which five persons died and three surviving gunmen were executed.

King Hussein personally ordered a final attack on the gunmen, who were holed up on the fourth floor of the hotel with an unknown number of hostages, the spokesman said.

The king ordered that the operation be conducted with the minimum possible of losses in lives, especially among the hotel guests, the spokesman said.

None of the hotel guests was killed, the spokesman said.

The four gunmen ran into the Amman hotel's lobby at 9:50 a.m. firing automatic weapons to seize the hotel and hold guests hostage. Radio Amman said earlier.

Sources said that two cars were blown up during the first minutes of the attack.

Special troops of the Jordanian armed forces stormed the hotel lobby and pushed into the second and third floors, forcing the terrorists into the fourth floor, where they blew up two rooms, the sources said.

All streets leading to the hotel compound were blocked by military vehicles, and pedestrians were barred from the area, they said.

The rattle of rifle bullets and muffled explosions were heard throughout the four hours, until the Jordanian troops staged the final assault, they added.

Earlier reports had said the gunmen might be Iranians. Empress Farah of Iran is in Amman, attending celebrations marking the 41st birthday of King Hussein.

Diplomats at the U.S. Embassy across the street from the hotel said there were rumors that the invaders were Palestinians, Iranians or Iraqis.

The hotel has been invaded by Palestinian guerrillas, bitter enemies of Jordan's King Hussein, at least once before. In 1970, guerrillas took 80 guests hostage, threatening to blow up the hotel unless the Jordanian army stopped shelling guerrilla strongholds in refugee camps.

The army agreed and the hostages were released, but the Palestinians were driven out of Jordan later that year in what the guerrillas call "Black September."

The Palestinians have remained hostile to Hussein for that action.

Today's incident is the second one recently involving a major hotel in an Arab capital. On Sept. 26, Palestinian gunmen protesting Syria's intervention in the Lebanese civil war took hostages in the Semiramis Hotel in Damascus, the Syrian capital.

One of the gunmen and four hostages died when Syrian troops stormed the hotel. Syria handed the other three Palestinians outside the hotel the next day.

Doughten raves about Ireland

Jeff Doughten, director of the Pride of Pampa High School Band, called his musicians and Bill Surface, assistant director, Tuesday from Kiltarney, Ireland.

"Every other word he'd say, 'You won't believe it. Surface, you just won't believe it. Tell the kids they won't believe it.'"

Doughten is in Ireland finalizing plans for the band's trip in March. He had intended to rent a car and drive the planned route, but because he has no international drivers license, he is being chauffeured about by an official from the Irish Tourist Bureau, Surface said.

"When he called, he had been in Ireland for 25 hours and had already taken 60 pictures," Surface said. "He had driven the parade route in Limerick City and I can just see him leaning out of the window taking pictures."

Surface said that Doughten did not report having completed arrangements for a castle in which to hold rehearsals, but he has arranged for one in which to hold a banquet following the parade competition.

"He said it was green and pretty. It's foggy, but it isn't cold, just cool. He'd say something, then he'd say, 'You just won't believe it.'"

Doughten will return to Pampa on Friday.

Gilmore friend critical

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Convicted murderer Gary Gilmore, who took a sleeping pill overdose in an apparent suicide pact with his girl friend, was improved today and in fair condition at a Salt Lake City hospital.

But the girl friend, Nicole Barrett, remained in critical condition and comatose in a hospital at Provo, 40 miles to the south.

Gilmore, 35, who says he prefers death before a firing squad to languishing in prison, and Mrs. Barrett were found unconscious Tuesday morning after taking overdoses of sleeping pills. He was found in his prison cell and she at her apartment.

Gilmore's dose of 10-20 tablets was described as sublethal, and the effect may have been to postpone further the legal proceedings that could have led to the speedy execution he said he wanted.

He was described as in very serious condition and in a moderate coma throughout the night. But a new assessment from the University of Utah Medical Center at 11 a.m. EST upgraded his condition to fair and said Gilmore had been taken off a respirator. He was conscious and his condition was stabilizing, despite pneumonia complications, doctors said.

"He is breathing well on his own, but still is receiving oxygen through a face mask," the hospital statement said. "It is expected he will be able to breathe room air sometime later today."

"His blood levels reflect only a trace of the drug that led to his overdose. He also has a mild fever," the statement said.

Doctors said they plan to observe him for 24 hours and evaluate his status then, watching for signs of further pneumonia.

Mrs. Barrett's condition was described in a one-line 9 a.m. news release from doctors as unchanged - still critical and comatose.

Meanwhile, a Salt Lake County sheriff's detective, Ben Forbes, said people inside and outside the prison were being interviewed today in an attempt to learn more about the drug overdoses and whether a crime was committed in Gilmore's obtaining the pills.

The prison deputy warden, Leon Hatch, said that when Gilmore returns to the prison he'll be isolated from other prisoners and under constant supervision of guards.

for the three-man board to uphold his execution.

Deputy Warden Leon Hatch said the note in Gilmore's Utah State Prison cell said, "I leave all of my personal belongings to my mother."

Asst. Utah County Atty. Brent Bullock refused to discuss the contents of the two notes found near Mrs. Barrett, except to say that they were "like suicide notes."

A prison spokesman said the pills could have been slipped to him by visitors or other inmates and that he could have concealed them under his tongue during routine searches.

Gilmore, convicted of killing Provo motel clerk Bennie Bushnell last summer, was originally sentenced to die on Monday. But the sentence was deferred by outgoing Gov. Calvin L. Rampton.

Jeff Newman, a friend who discovered Mrs. Barrett in her apartment, said she had told him of a suicide pact she and Gilmore had made, but he said he had not believed her. Newman said Mrs. Barrett told him after visiting Gilmore on Monday that she would not be going to the prison Tuesday.

Springville Police Chief Leland Bowers said police had been watching Mrs. Barrett closely in recent days. "We knew where she's been," he said. "We knew she had received a prescription."

Mrs. Barrett, 20, was found in her apartment on Tuesday morning, with two notes and two empty vials of sleeping pills nearby.

Gilmore's condition forced the Utah Board of Pardons to drop plans to consider his case at its regular hearing today. He was to have pleaded in person

After the stay was announced, Mike Esplin, one of two fired lawyers who earlier represented Gilmore, recalled a conversation he once had with the condemned man.

He quoted Gilmore as telling him, "If they don't do it, I'm going to do it myself. I'm not going to spend the rest of my life in prison."

Doctors said Gilmore had taken a "sublethal dose" of 10 to 20 sleeping pills which would not have killed him even had he not received emergency treatment. He was found in his cell breathing with difficulty.

Gilmore's condition went from "serious" to "very serious" late Tuesday when gastric acid from his stomach was found to have seeped into his right lung, causing pneumonia. He had been getting oxygen and drug treatments for the ailment doctors described as aspiration.

He said Mrs. Barrett had been thoroughly searched before visiting Gilmore, but "there are body cavities in which she could have sneaked it into him."

The Desert News said in today's editions that Mrs. Barrett told a reporter she intended "to go with" Gilmore when he was executed. She said Gilmore had asked her "to go with him."

The News said Gilmore had specifically asked Mrs. Barrett not to take her life before he died.

Rodeo to be in July

Dates for the 1977 Top O' Texas Rodeo were set for July 13-16 at a meeting of directors of the rodeo association Tuesday night. The Kid Pony show will be July 11 and 12.

Dates were changed from the traditional first week in August to prevent conflict with some 30 other area rodeos scheduled at the same time.

The 1977 rodeo will again be produced by Elra Beutler and Sons of Elk City, Okla.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Profit: fuel of jobs

The "underemployment" of the "overeducated" was the subject of a speech made by O.L. Dunn, senior vice president of corporate development for General Electric. Dunn said, "No doubt a few educators and businessmen will insist there are simple answers to the complex challenge of guiding young people to qualify for jobs. Their theory is that all you have to do is pass a law and set some arbitrary quotas. This ignores the fact that Washington has passed thousands of laws and thrown billions of dollars at other problems, usually with disappointing results. "It is my opinion, the real solution to the problem of 'underemployed' and 'overeducated' must start basically down at the grass roots with a more precise understanding of the social and economic factors that influence the final result."

Since few young people stay with their first job, Dunn does not favor career education per se, but does state that if more college students gained a competence in the English language and basic mathematics they would be in more demand. To this observation we add a hearty amen. It is disconcerting to say the least, to hire a college graduate only to find that he really can't spell, does not know how to use a dictionary and has no skill in plain arithmetic. These are basic adaptability skills which, along with good work habits, can lead to many careers. It is no longer true that a college degree is the only key needed to launch a career. Well-grounded basics can give any youngster the plateau from which he can extend needed education to most any field. An understanding of the private enterprise system would be most helpful in attaining advancement for any young person. Sad to say, is the fact that our school system does not seem to recognize the basics of the system that has achieved the highest level of living for the individual. It is the envy of the world but is constantly downgraded by many, if not most, of those who teach our youth.

How many teachers know that profit is the fuel that drives the job-producing engine? Or do they advance the idea that profit is a dirty word? According to Dunn, "Despite what some liberals and some teachers may say, a business can do only three things with the profit it earns: pay taxes, pay investors for the use of their money, and invest in the form of new plants and equipment to produce goods and services which people buy, thus creating more jobs. Take away the profits and you take away the jobs."

Dunn finished his speech by saying, "what if a greater portion of this country's talented young people could be directed toward building a better, more energy sufficient America. As someone once said, it boggles the mind."

O.L. Dunn is right on target and we can only add, "may his tribe increase."

A VERY HEAVY ONE Mr. Carter has responsibility

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
President-elect Jimmy Carter has sought and received from the American people a very heavy responsibility. For many months, he said that the nation was in trouble, and that he knew how to cure its ills. He said that the same party should have control of the Legislative and Executive Branches in order to achieve efficient government.

Mr. Carter will have his opportunity after his inauguration in January. He will command the immense resources of the federal government. His party has a roughly two-to-one majority in the Congress. Given this advantageous position, millions of Americans will expect him to work wonders. Indeed, he has led the people to believe that he will bring about extraordinary improvement in the lot of the American people.

Specifically, Mr. Carter has promised to drastically reduce unemployment, to prevent inflation, to streamline the federal government, to safeguard the security of the United States, and to provide dynamic leadership on the world scene. This is a very large order. If he can achieve his stated goals, he will have the thanks and appreciation of the American people.

If Mr. Carter's campaign promises aren't realized, however, the American people are likely to have a very different reaction. Many observers of the economic scene are wondering how Mr. Carter will manage to increase employment dramatically without increasing inflation. To do this, he may have to be a miracle-worker.

Streamlining the federal government is a worthy and important goal. The real need in Washington is for economy in government operations. But will the streamlining actually result in fewer government employees and a lowered cost of government? If not, what is the purpose and value of it?

Mr. Carter's task in this area will be complicated by the fact that he also pledged to provide additional governmental services. If the past is any guide to the future, fulfillment of this prosperity and peace with security he will have to avoid spender economic and emotional rhetoric. The real problems facing this nation can only be solved by concern for national thrift and national security.

In any case, the Carter administration will have the entire responsibility, and will have to accept the consequences as well as the enjoyment of power.

There was a man who was the victim of injustice who asked his pastor, "Is it not man-like of me to be angry?" And his pastor said, "Indeed it is. But it would be God-like of you to forgive."

The Old Testament Bible tells how Joseph was sold by his brothers as a slave to Egypt. They had hoped they could kill him and get him out of the way. He became, however, a ruler. They meant to kill him, but they ended up in the providence of God, crowning him. As Joseph said, "You meant it for evil, but God meant it for good."

Let God balance the scales of justice. You'll be spared from the terrible toll of tension that is inevitable if you decide "to try to even the score." You'll be surprised how God will turn your scars into stars.

Lawmakers have reached the limit

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON — (NEA) As we head toward a new four-year term in the presidency and a new Congress, it becomes more clear each day how little the man in the White House and the Congress can do. Regardless of the philosophy of the men in power.

The president can propose. The Congress can vote laws. But recessions run their course. Competition forces prices down or it doesn't. Men and women look to the future with hope, start new businesses, invest or expand—or they don't.

If the president's pronouncements and the lawmakers' edicts suit the mood or the morality of the times, then men and women move slowly and painfully into a new era in race relations. But if the mood of the times is not identical with the new laws, the law fails, as with Prohibition. Men find loopholes, all quite legally—or in the evasion of the spirit of election laws.

The best a president and a Congress can do then is to sense the mood of the nation, and make laws to fit it that are consistent with their own ideals. When they're right, as were the men who developed the white—or yellow—stripes down the center of highways to prevent accidents, they hit the jackpot. Otherwise, as happened in the most recent period of price and wage control, they so distort the picture, in this case the economic picture, that grave injuries are inflicted on many. Recovery becomes slow and painful.

Ford said he would like to teach political science when he retires. That's like learning navigation from the captain of the Titanic.

Kissinger is trying to impress Carter with his expertise. He has arranged peace talks between Barbara Jordan and Lester Maddox.

There are observers who suggest, not wholly in jest, that it might be better for us all if Congress were to take a two-year holiday, give us time to digest and adjust somewhat to the mass of laws already on the books.

Already, there are so many laws, of such complication, it is impossible, I suspect, for any human being to go through a day without breaking several. I have heard a public official brag as much: he bet a group of average people he could catch any one of them breaking a law if they'd allow him to follow them around for an hour or so.

Visitors to our country, brought here under President Truman's Point Four program, came away with the thought that American industrial superiority lay not in superior equipment or in our inventiveness, or even in our abundance of resources, but rather that it came about because of something they could only define as the American spirit, the relationship of worker and boss, of worker and worker, and the goals set by each worker within himself.

These are not things set by presidential decrees or by congressional laws.

In fact, I suspect that the more government looks over our shoulder with laws which spell out what we must do down to the smallest details of daily life, the more our funds it takes, the more it details how and what farmers and manufacturers shall produce, or creates laws which determine who shall work, the more it tends to destroy that spirit which is our glory and our salvation.

Certainly we need laws to protect the weak from the strong, to aid the sick and the helpless, to discourage crime, to assist education and promote the general welfare.

But there's a limit. And I, for one, believe that limit has been reached.

Unemployed not all 'chiselers'

WASHINGTON (AP)—New government studies suggest that the long-term unemployed are unable to find jobs and are not chiselers who "ride with the system" at government expense.

The studies — one by the Labor Department and another prepared for the government by a private firm — show that the overwhelming majority of those who had exhausted their jobless benefits were still unemployed a year after the benefits ended.

Roger Rossi, who heads the department's unemployment insurance research division, said the studies provide the first information about who the long-term unemployed are and what happens to them.

The findings tend to rebut arguments by some economists and politicians that unemployment benefits discourage people from looking for work and that those who use up their benefits either quickly get jobs or drop out of the labor market.

Labor Department figures show that more than 2.7 million Americans exhausted their benefits from January 1975 through last July. The latest figures show there were 7.6 million persons out of work but seeking it in October. This was a jobless rate of 7.9 per cent.

Because the government does not keep track of individuals who are no longer entitled to benefits, no figures are available on the actual number of these people who found jobs or dropped out of the labor force. However, the two surveys indicate most were still looking for work several weeks after their benefits ran out.

The department found in a four-state sampling that 80 per cent of those surveyed were still in the labor force two months after their benefits ran out, but only 16 per cent found jobs.

The other survey, based on interviews in four major cities by Mathematica Policy Research of Princeton, N.J., showed that about 25 per cent of the "exhaustees" were working within four months after benefits stopped and that only 36 per cent found jobs after one year.

"The low re-employment rate and the low incidence of labor force withdrawal shortly after exhaustion do not support the hypothesis that long-term beneficiaries 'ride with the system' and then immediately take jobs or leave the labor force," the department report says.

The surveys found that despite federal law banning age discrimination in employment, about 70 per cent of the exhaustees "were beyond the prime working years, that is, 45 years of age or older."

Young white males had the highest re-employment rates, the studies showed. For those who found jobs after benefits ran out, the surveys found their wages averaged $19 a week less than on their previous job.

The Labor Department study was based on surveys in California, Missouri, Nevada, New York and Wisconsin. The Mathematica survey involved samples taken in Atlanta, Baltimore, Chicago and Seattle.

'Hit them in billfold' Baptists say about tv

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—A concentrated effort to let the television networks know which programs have too much sex or violence would get results, a Southern Baptist committee has been told.

The Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist General Convention is holding hearings at Arlington this week by ways to stop violence and sex on television.

William Hill, director of production of commercials for the Bloom Agency in Dallas, told the commission that network television shows are "extremely sensitive" to public opinion.

"The networks and sponsors live and die on audience," he said. "If the ratings are there, the programs remain."

The way to influence the sponsors, he added, "is to hit them in the billfold, and to select individual programs and let the network and sponsors know they are offensive."

Other hearings on the subject are scheduled for Montgomery, Ala., next month; Richmond, Va., in January and San Francisco in February.

Mrs. Gayle Taylor of Dallas said she was concerned about profanity and sex and the "subtle way sexual values are being injected into many so-called family shows."

"I believe that if my children see enough pre-marital and extra-marital affairs on television, like with violence, they will come to accept this as beneficial behavior."

Forrest Smith, a Dallas attorney and former chairman of the Texas Youth Council, said the effect of television on children and adults constitutes "a clear and present danger to our society."

But, he added, the major reason for the problem is "because much of the adult audience is on a violence trip of its own either at the movies or on television."

Smith said "Americans have, throughout history, been violence-prone and love to watch violence."

Agents got their man, but he was wrong one

HOUSTON (AP) — Roger Bicknell had received a threatening phone call recently so when he saw some men talking with his landlady and that one of them was armed, he may have done the logical thing — he ran.

"They started moving toward me, and I just took off and ran upstairs to my apartment," Bicknell, 28, said. "I didn't want to die — you know what I mean?"

The five men turned out to be U.S. Secret Service agents and when Bicknell ran, thought they had a dangerous fugitive cornered.

Bicknell, who sells auto air conditioners in Houston, told the Dallas Times Herald he had received a threatening phone call earlier and feared for his life.

Bicknell said the men began beating on his door and one of them smashed a picture window. Bicknell grabbed one of three pistols he owned and fired toward a wall — an act that would prove meaningful.

He said the men then broke down his door and one of them waved a pistol through the doorway and fired a shot that struck a wooden beam.

According to Bicknell, the first words of one of them spoke were, "We're gonna blow your head off. You just shot at a federal officer." As a result Bicknell is free on $25,000 bond after being charged with assaulting a federal officer. The incident took place three weeks ago.

Bicknell said the agents didn't identify themselves until they were in the apartment.

The agents thought they had cornered James Ray Renton, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals who is sought by the Secret Service on counterfeiting charges and by other agencies on a variety of charges that include murder.

Agent Toby Chandler testified at a preliminary hearing that the agents were excited because they considered Renton a very dangerous fugitive who was known to have an "extreme hatred for police officers."

"We thought he was Renton," Chandler said. Chandler said Bicknell was not wanted for anything, but he is now faced with the federal charge resulting from his reaction to the arrest attempt.

A U.S. magistrate has ruled that there was "probable cause" to indicate that Bicknell assaulted a federal officer, which turns the case over to a federal grand jury.

Bicknell said he told the agents after his arrest that he wouldn't have assaulted anyone if the men hadn't broken down his door.

"I'm not gonna go in there like a damn fool and let them railroad me," Bicknell said. "I'm gonna have a good lawyer. I just want my freedom — you know what I mean?"

A Secret Service spokesman in Washington said there would be no comment on the case.

"Testimony during the trial should balance it," the spokesman said Monday.

Baseball star arrested

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — A jury will be allowed to hear statements allegedly made by former baseball star Orlando Cepeda after he was arrested and charged with smuggling drugs into Puerto Rico.

Cepeda, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1967 when he was with the St. Louis Cardinals, and Herminio Cortes, a former outfielder in the Puerto Rico Winter League, were charged in December, 1975 with possession and smuggling of 170 pounds of marijuana.

Defense attorneys attempted unsuccessfully Tuesday to suppress the statements allegedly made by Cepeda after he was arrested.

With the jury out of the courtroom, Ray L. Hatch, special agent of the Drug Enforcement Administration, testified that Cepeda told him: "Let us go. This (the publicity) will kill my mother. I only did it because I owe $25,000 in income tax."

Cepeda, questioned about the remarks made by four federal officials called to the stand

Tuesday, said the testimony was "absolutely false." Asked why the four would fabricate a case against him, the former first baseman said: "That's what I ask myself."

Jury members were summoned into the courtroom late in the day to see and hear evidence presented by the U.S. Justice Department in the case. The jury is expected to begin deliberations by the end of the week, according to U.S. Atty. Jorge Rios.

The two former players face a maximum penalty of 10 years in jail and a $30,000 fine.

Beef price hike expected

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers who have seen beef prices fall steadily from last year's highs can expect to pay record prices to put beef on the table in 1977, an Agriculture Department economist predicted today.

Retail beef prices soon will begin climbing and probably will cost a record average of $1.49 a pound next year, Richard J. Crom of the department's Economic Research Service said.

That is 10 cents above the estimated 1976 average of $1.39. Last year's record average was $1.46.

The reason that beef prices will swing back up is that cattlemen, who are enduring severe financial losses because of a glut of beef this year, have reduced their herds sharply, Crom said.

One consolation is that pork prices will be down in 1977, he said, although beef accounts for about two-thirds of the meat consumed by American families. Meat is the biggest item in food budgets.

"Look for beef prices in 1977 to average about 10 cents per pound higher than this year's average, while pork prices may average five cents lower," Crom said. "Retail pork prices likely will be lowest this winter, while beef will peak seasonally in the summer months."

Pork was $1.35 a pound in 1975, and climbed another penny to a record of $1.36 this year.

Crom made his analysis in a speech prepared for the department's annual outlook conference.

Retail food prices over-all are expected to rise 3 to 4 per cent in 1977, about the same as the 3 per cent increase now estimated for this year, the department announced earlier this week. A spokesman said the prospective jump in 1977 beef prices was included in that estimate.

Beef prices traditionally peak in the summer. In July 1975, they hit a record monthly high of $1.61 a pound before turning down. By last September, store prices were about $1.34 a pound, measured on an all-cut basis.

Bomb threatens US exhibition in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — About 1,000 Russians were evacuated from the U.S. Bicentennial exhibition in Moscow's Sokolniki Park today because of a bomb threat.

Officials said the Interior Ministry telephoned the Soviet administrator of the exhibit at 12:24 p.m. and told him an unidentified man telephoned that a plastic bomb would go off in the building at 12:30.

A search for the bomb started as those looking at the exhibition were cleared out of the hall. But none was found by the time the deadline passed, and there was no explosion.

The exhibit includes photographs, copies of historic American documents and films. It was an instant hit when it opened last week, and many Russians have been turned away because of overcrowding.

A half-mile-long line of about 8,000 persons lined up before the exhibit opened this morning. It has a daily capacity of about 9,000.

Russia aids black guerrillas

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is increasing military aid to Rhodesian guerrillas even while white and black African leaders in Geneva are trying to negotiate a peaceful solution, according to U.S. intelligence reports.

Intelligence sources say a Russian ship unloaded 18 heavily-gunned armored vehicles and ammunition in Tanzania in recent days. Tanzania has served as a relay point for Soviet arms bound for the black Rhodesian guerrillas, the sources say.

This report followed another intelligence dispatch last week saying that a Tanzanian ship had delivered Russian 122mm multiple rocket launchers and armored vehicles to Mozambique, a staging area for guerrilla attacks into white-ruled Rhodesia.

U.S. intelligence sources said they have been informed that about 5,000 Rhodesian guerrillas would be moved gradually from Mozambique to camps in Tanzania for training. Meanwhile, the Geneva talks were reported to have hit a snag Tuesday as four black nationalist factions split over whether to put aside the unsettled issue of setting a deadline for black majority rule in the rebel British colony.

Russian military advisers have been reported in Mozambique at least since last spring and within the past few weeks U.S. intelligence reports have told of Mozambique military officers leaving for long-term training in Russia.

Soviet support for the guerrillas drew the attention of U.S. intelligence officials after the successful effort by pro-Marxist forces to gain control of Angola early this year.

Intelligence specialists say between 10,000 and 12,000 Cuban troops and at least 2,500 Cuban civilians still are in Angola six months after Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro promised to reduce his forces there.

Repeated press reports from Havana during the summer described the return of Cuban troops from Africa, but U.S. officials have said Cuban combat veterans were replaced by others flown to Angola.

Monster shark caught

HONOLULU (AP) — "Megamouth," a huge deep-sea shark caught by accident and thought to be a new species, has the jaws of a movie star. But scientists say its feeding habits probably would make him less than fearsome.

The 12-foot, 1,500-pound shark was hauled in from the Pacific Ocean depths — 500 to 1,000 feet down — just off Oahu this week. He had become entangled in the anchor lines of a Navy research vessel and apparently suffocated because he could not move enough to provide respiration.

"It was just a fortunate circumstance for us," said Leighton Taylor, director of the Waikiki Aquarium at the University of Hawaii. "An unfortunate one for the shark, however."

Taylor and another ichthyologist, Paul J. Struhsaker of the National Marine Fisheries Service, are studying the fish, which has been placed on ice at a local tuna cannery for preservation until a container his size can be built.

"We think it's a new species, a new genus and a new family of shark," Taylor said. Scientists at the Scripps Institute in La Jolla, Calif., — after hearing a description by telephone — agreed that the shark probably had not been identified previously, he said.

Taylor said he gave the shark the nickname "Megamouth" because its mouth is "huge." But he said that judging from its tiny teeth, the fish fed on small sea life and wouldn't even have been tempted by a baited hook.

"We'll know more about what he eats when we cut him open, but we don't want to do that now because it would make things kind of messy down at the cannery," he said.

The shark was identified as a male. Taylor said there was some calcification of the bones, showing that the fish was mature.

He also said the shark may have been equipped with a headlight.

"There is some evidence he can produce bioluminescence because there appear to be photophores in the mouth area," said Taylor. He said many fish living at the shark's depth can produce light.

Labor may seek hike in unemployment benefits

Efforts are expected to be made when the Texas Legislature convenes in January to increase unemployment benefits in Texas from the $63 weekly maximum — the lowest in the nation.

Henry Rothell, administrator of the Texas Employment Commission, predicted Tuesday afternoon in a telephone conversation with The News that organized labor will make a determined effort toward an increase.

Rothell said if the proposal is kept within the $75 to $90 range, he thinks "industry will buy it."

"But if they stick with the two-thirds (of one's salary) I think they will run into a brick wall," he explained that unemployment pay in Mississippi was once lower than Texas, but that was changed last July when the maximum benefits there were increased to $90 weekly.

Every worker who receives benefits would not be entitled to the maximum amount. It is now about 51 per cent of one's salary up to the $63 weekly maximum.

Rumors could cost bank millions in deposits

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP) — Starr County Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra has launched an investigation into problems of the First State Bank of Rio Grande City, including alleged statements that it is "unsafe and unsound."

Frank Anderson, president of the bank, told investigators Tuesday he hopes they will track down the persons responsible for rumors which cost the bank — more than a million dollars in deposits.

Anderson spent more than an hour with the grand jury while bank officials said business was back to normal after last week's flurry of activity spawned by the announcement the bank was withdrawing from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC).

Wealthy South Texas banker-rancher Clinton Manges, who owns the bank, claimed the FDIC was "trying to destroy me" when depositors began lining up outside the bank last week.

"We want to find out if the persons that are quoted in the news media as saying the bank was unsafe and unsound really made those statements," said Guerra. "Right now we are just trying to confirm all the reports that we have heard and read."

The wheelchair-bound Anderson said after the grand jury room hearing, "I would like the investigation to uncover the people who started the rumors about the bank. You don't go around saying things like that about a bank."

Guerra, citing a Texas law which prohibits spreading of "untrue statements" about the condition of a bank, vowed he would investigate the "unsafe" and "unsound" reports which were attributed to Charles Pickett, a lawyer for the FDIC in Dallas.

"We tried to contact Mr. Pickett and ask him to voluntarily come to Starr County and meet with the grand jury," said Guerra. "But his office in Dallas said he was vacationing in Hawaii. We also talked to his boss in Washington D.C. and he said the same thing."

Hill adds to fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The attorney general of Texas and his tax division chief have been admitted to practice law in California for their participation in a court battle over the estate of a dead billionaire Howard Hughes.

Atty. Gen. John Hill and Asst. Atty. Gen. Rick Harrison were not present for the brief proceeding Tuesday.

The two men will oversee the interests of Texas and the University of Texas in the Hughes probate fight. The university was named in a disputed handwritten will as heir to one-eighth of Hughes' fortune, estimated at between $2 billion and $4 billion.

The Texas authorities will participate in a Jan. 10 trial at Las Vegas which is to determine the authenticity of the will which was discovered April 29 at the Salt Lake City Mormon headquarters.

Three Hughes cousins are contesting the will in a separate Los Angeles case.

Men's shorts murder clues

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pair of men's shorts with an unusual laundry mark was one of the clues that FBI agents pursued in their search for the assassin of Martin Luther King Jr. in 1968, according to newly disclosed FBI files.

Agents also investigated seven men named John Willard because the suspected assassin used that name when he checked into a rooming house near the hotel where King stayed on his fatal visit to Memphis, Tenn.

Those details emerged in a review of 442 pages of FBI files on its investigation of the April 4, 1968, slaying of the civil rights leader. The FBI released the documents from a total of 18,000 pages to comply with requests under the Freedom of Information Act. There was no indication when additional files would be made public.

A House committee is now investigating the King slaying.

The first batch of papers dealt with the investigation's early days and did not refer to James Earl Ray, who was arrested in London on June 8, 1968, and pleaded guilty to shooting King. Ray, now serving a 99-year prison term, has since recanted and is seeking to change his plea and go to trial.

The papers showed that hundreds of FBI agents chased scores of rumors and tips from citizens and tried to use such clues as the shorts and a man's T-shirt to track the killer's identity. The underwear was found in a suitcase the assassin apparently left at the rooming house.

The first batch of documents — Samuel de Champlain created the Order of the Good Time, the oldest social club in North America.

Security sources said 10 guerrillas were killed and four policemen were wounded when 40 guerrillas attacked a police station at Arana, five miles from La Plata, before dawn.

The attackers wounded two policemen on guard duty and got inside the station. A dozen police inside held them off until a relief force of about 100 troops and police arrived and drove the guerrillas off.

PRPC officials meet in Pampa Thursday

Elected officials of Planning and Service Area No. 5 of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission will meet in Pampa at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The area includes Gray, Briscoe, Collingsworth, Donley, Hall and Wheeler Counties.

Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, a member of the board of directors, will host the group at a dinner in the Crown & Shield Room of Coronado Inn.

Mayor Wilkerson stated in his invitation to city and county representatives in the area that he is "dedicated to the policy that local elected officials must control and operate the Regional Planning Commission."

The mayor stated his term as a board member expires Jan. 1, and added:

"My experience leads me to believe that we must not fail in our duty as local officials to insure quality representation on the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission."

Election of an Area No. 5 representative to the PRPC will be one of the highlights of Thursday night's meeting.

Other matters will include the PRPC 1977 budget, a report on current and future commission activities and open discussion of any matters of concern to the PRPC membership.

Feds investigate crash

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Federal investigators have been called in to determine why a Texas International Airlines DC-9 crashed on takeoff from the Denver airport Tuesday, causing minor injuries to at least 12 persons.

The twin-engine jet overran a runway and caught fire during takeoff from Stapleton International Airport here, but all 80 passengers and five crew members were evacuated in what an airline official called a "miraculous."

That's nothing short of miraculous. We're damned grateful for that miracle.

O'Donnell said the plane had begun its takeoff roll when automatic alarms indicated the plane was losing speed and might stall. At this point, he said, the crew decided to abort the takeoff and the fire broke out when the plane overran the runway.

Officials were unsure how the fire started. "We're not sure if the plane was ever airborne," said O'Donnell.

Of the at least 12 persons treated at area hospitals, only two were known to have been hospitalized. Officials said Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hansen of Lewiston, Idaho were hospitalized at Aurora Presbyterian Hospital for observation.

Investigators for the airline, the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board have been called in to probe the crash.

The plane was on a flight which originated in Salt Lake City and was on its way to Houston.

Several passengers criticized the actions of the crew after the crash.

The crew panicked, charged passenger Don Francis. "The farthest people from that plane (after the crash) were the pilot and co-

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the woman who kicked her 24-year-old brother-in-law out of the house because she didn't want to leave him alone in the house with the 13-year-old sister prompts this letter.

When our children were small many years ago, my husband and I had sitters occasionally, and no matter what time we came home my husband made ME drive the sitter home while he stayed with the kids. He always said, "No young punk with hot pants will ever have the chance to say that I made a pass at her!"

Abby, maybe I was dumb, but the thought that one of our sitters would unjustly accuse my husband of such a thing never even entered my mind. Nevertheless, he refused to drive a sitter home. But the fact that I, his wife, was driving alone after midnight didn't seem to bother him.

How do you figure it?

STILL ANGRY

DEAR STILL: I can't say what was in the minds of those sitters, but it's obvious what was on your husband's mind.

DEAR ABBY: I see in your column that readers are submitting names for couples who are shacking up together. Well, you can quit searching. I have the perfect name. "Newlybeds."

JACK DENTON

DEAR JACK: "Friends" is still my choice, unless the Quakers object to being confused with those who are feeling their oats.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, Nell, who lives 200 miles from here, was divorced last year. She has a 4-year-old son, Terry, whom I love very much. Nell used to call me on the phone and tell me (not ask me) to meet Terry at the bus and keep him for the weekend. Naturally I always did.

Last week when Nell called to tell me to meet Terry at the bus, I told her I couldn't do it as I had made plans to go away for the weekend myself. I could tell she was irritated. Well, yesterday she sent me a telegram telling me to meet Terry at the bus again! I tried phoning her to inform her that I was going away again, but I couldn't reach her. Now I'm stuck.

How can I get out of being a weekend sitter for my grandchild when it's not convenient? With her sending telegrams and not answering her phone, I'm over a barrel.

BOILING IN LA JOLLA

DEAR BOILING: Tell your daughter that she is NOT to send any more telegrams instructing you to meet her child at the bus. And furthermore, she should phone you and give you a fighting chance, or she'll lose her free sitting service permanently.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I are heavy smokers. We have now reached the point where we can feel the ill effects from smoking so much and have tried a few times to stop but always ended up smoking again.

We have heard of hypnosis being an answer to our problem. We would like to have your opinion on how effective hypnosis is and if there are side effects. Would you recommend hypnosis as a possible solution? We are looking forward to your response.

DEAR READER — Hypnosis may help but it won't cure you. The people who are cured of smoking from hypnosis are ones who really want to quit — not those who just think they want to quit. Motivation is everything. Hypnosis may help a person cut down on smoking, but too often the person who seeks help really does so to please his mate or for some similar reason and deep down really doesn't want to stop the habit. In these circumstances the effort is usually wasted.

I think if you understand that you have to provide the willpower and realize that hypnosis is only a help and you have to do the rest it might be helpful to you.

Another solution that helps some people is to get away from their everyday environment that is associated with smoking. A vacation with your husband with an agreement that neither will smoke is a good idea. Try to plan something that will keep you busy and not associate you with friends who are used to smoking with. That may help you get started. Don't be discouraged; most people who quit try it several times before they are finally successful. Remember the old adage, if at first you don't succeed try, try again.

Railroads try to recover costs during inflation

By MICHAEL ISIKOFF

Pampa's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — While the nation's railroads were filing for the latest in a series of freight rate increases recently a railroad spokesman was predicting there are likely to be even more in the future.

"I'd be the most surprised guy in Washington if this were the last rate hike," said Lawrence Kaufman of the Association of American Railroads. "So long as you have inflation, this is the only way the railroads can recover their costs."

Kaufman made those comments in an interview the same day the railroads asked the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) for their new increases — four per cent across the board, effective next January — which would add $694 million to railroad revenues. It is the railroad's third request for an increase this year and the sixth within the last two years.

The ICC has granted an increase after each of the previous requests, although not always for as much as the railroads asked.

The main reason for the rate hikes, says Kaufman, is spiraling wage costs which he says now eat up 52 to 54 cents of each dollar of railroad revenue. Furthermore, on January 1, 1977 — the day the proposed increase would take effect — some 500,000 rail workers around the country are scheduled to receive a cost of living wage increase.

The railroads are also being hurt by generally higher prices for fuel and steel. And, when those costs work their way into specific railroad items such as freight cars, the result has been "explosive" inflation, Kaufman said. He noted that, within the last two years, the cost of a single freight car has jumped $2,000 (from $29,000 to $31,000) while the cost of a locomotive has gone up from $350,000 to $425,000.

When filing for an earlier rate hike this year, the railroads estimated that their operating costs have been escalating $1.2 billion yearly — $593 million attributed to wages and other payroll costs and $589 million to other costs.

In a statement accompanying the rate hike request, the AAR said failure to grant the increase would pose serious problems for the railroad industry.

"For the relatively prosperous lines, the alternatives are less frequent train operation, delayed capital expenditures, deferred maintenance and curtailment of service improvement projects," the AAR said. "For the marginal or insolvent lines, there is the additional alternative of partial or complete cessation of service. For all, there is the inevitable deterioration in service."

Nevertheless, Al Brown, a spokesman for the ICC, said the commission expects to be "deluged with protests" against the rate increase, mostly from big, bulk commodity shippers, such as grain companies, auto makers and the steel industry. Brown said he didn't expect any protests from consumer groups because consumers are "too far down the ladder" to feel the increases.

Despite the fact that some 35 to 40 per cent of rail tonnage is agricultural or food related, spokesmen for a number of farm groups said they also would probably not protest the increases.

Milton Hakel of the National Farmers Union said that "without question" the freight rate increases have been hurting farmers. But he added that his organization has become "very disillusioned" about the willingness of the ICC to hold down rail rates.

Even if the ICC grants the full four per cent increase, there is always the possibility that the rate hike could backfire by diverting so much traffic to barge or truck that the railroads end up losing revenue. For this reason, some individual railroads do not always put the full increases into effect. "Whenever you raise rates," noted AAR spokesman Kaufman, "it's going to divert some traffic."

Total state support of schools recommended

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The

special House Committee on Alternatives to Public School Financing recommends full state support of public school operations with less money required from local taxpayers.

The bill recommended 6-1 Monday by the committee goes to the 1977 Legislature for action.

"The special committee feels that providing a program of public school education is rightly a function of the state as a whole, and recommends that the state of Texas fully fund the foundation school program and that the local fund assignment be eliminated," the committee said in a statement.

The 100 per cent state support compares with present 75-25 support. Gov. Dolph Briscoe has recommended that local money still furnish 10 per cent of the cost of operations with the state portion increasing to 90 per cent.

Local funds required during the 1977-78 school year were estimated to be more than $508 million, about double the local fund assignments in 1974-75.

"Testimony before the committee clearly indicated that a great many citizens feel that property taxes have risen to unacceptable levels. There is also fear they will go still higher as school costs rise," the committee said.

The committee recommended no new taxes at this time, suggesting that the increased state costs be taken from the expected $2.6 billion surplus for the next two years.

The proposed bill put a limit on local districts' enrichment of the school program.

"The committee intends that elimination of the local fund assignment should work to the benefit of local property taxpayers," the statement said. "Local monies no longer required by the foundation school program should be refunded to local tax payers, not be used for additional enrichment of the local school program, at least not without local voter approval of such additional expenditures."

Additionally, the committee said, such limits would reduce the spending differences between rich and poor districts.

Journalists, politicians top list

Panel names 25 most influential women

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The World Almanac today announced its list of America's 25 most influential women. The list was selected by a panel of newspaper editors, social commentators, university presidents and writers.

The list is remarkable for the number of women in journalism and politics. Of the 25 women named, nine are journalists and six others are in elected or appointed political positions.

To determine America's most influential women, the World Almanac polled a panel of 13 men and women. Each member of the panel selected 25 names from a list of more than 200 prominent women.

Notably lacking from the list are women in business — board members and directors of banks and corporations. Mary Wells Lawrence is the one exception.

There are, moreover, no women from the physical sciences and only one from the entertainment field — Joan Ganz Cooney.

The list of America's most influential women was inaugurated last year in connection with the International Women's Year.

There were six new names on this year's list; Anne Armstrong, Lady Bird Johnson, Mary Wells Lawrence, Mary McGrory, Helen Thomas and Abigail Van Buren.

America's 25 most influential women is a permanent, annual feature of the World Almanac.

The panelists who determined this year's list include: Paul Conroy, editor, San Jose Mercury; Walter Friedenberg, editor, Cincinnati Post; Michael Grehl, editor, Memphis Commercial Appeal; Matina Horner, president, Radcliffe College; Vernon Jordan, executive director, National Urban League; Clayton Kirkpatrick, editor, Chicago Tribune; Pia Lindstrom, NBC news correspondent; Eleanor Holmes Norton, New York City Human Rights Commissioner; Jane O'Reilly, syndicated columnist, Washington Star; Helen Thomas, UPI White House Bureau Chief; Hana Umlauf, associate editor, The World Almanac; Jacqueline Wexler, president, Hunter College; Otto Zausmer, associate editor, Boston Globe.

BELLA ABZUG Congresswoman

Since earning a degree at Columbia Law School in 1947, Bella Abzug has been railing against the inequities in the American system and striving to make it more responsive. Through the 1950s, she represented labor unions and blacks in the South. In the 1960s, she was a leader of both the women's movement and the protests against the Vietnam war and nuclear testing. In 1970, she scored a surprise victory for a seat in the House of Representatives and became a national protest figure. Her booming voice, and flapping hat helped set her style and, as one observer put it, "her formidable image is one of her biggest assets — and liabilities."

This fall, she lost in her bid for the New York Democratic Senate nomination to Daniel Patrick Moynihan by a scant one per cent of the vote. Mrs. Abzug, 56, is the wife of a stockbroker and the mother of two.

ANNE ARMSTRONG Ambassador

The first woman to hold Cabinet-level status since Oveta Culp Hobby, Anne Armstrong was appointed the first woman Ambassador to Great Britain in January, 1975. In 1972, after a distinguished career within the Republican Party, Mrs. Armstrong was appointed White House counselor with Cabinet status, where she served under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

The 49-year-old mother of five has lived most of her life in Texas, where her great-grandfather, Leonidas Jefferson Storey, served as Lieutenant Governor in 1880. She began working for the Eisenhower campaign in Texas in 1952, and later became a Republican National Committeewoman from that state. In 1969, she served on the executive committee of the Republican National Committee and was elected the party's co-chairman in 1971. She is married to Texas cattle rancher Tobin Armstrong.

HELENGURLEY BROWN Magazine editor

Helen Gurley Brown, 54, probably is the most successful chief of a women's magazine in publishing. In 1965, she took a tottering periodical, Cosmopolitan, and changed it into a monthly statement about a woman's right to do what she pleases. She was an advertising copywriter when her husband, a movie executive, suggested she write a book about women, which became the best-seller, "Sex and the Single Girl." Mrs. Brown grew up in a tiny Ozark town, the daughter of two school teachers.

SHIRLEY CHISHOLM Congresswoman

As the first black woman to be elected to Congress, Shirley Chisholm, 52, always tried to persuade women to flex their political muscles. She herself did not hesitate to seek the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972, making her the first black woman presidential candidate from a major party.

After graduating from Brooklyn College and Columbia University, she was employed as a nursery school teacher, then as a state education consultant until 1964 when she won a seat in the state Assembly. She enjoys having a reputation as a maverick and speaks out strongly on issues affecting blacks and women.

CARLA HILLS Secretary of H.U.D.

When lawyer Carla Anderson Hills was nominated as Secretary of H.U.D., one senator objected that she lacked background in the field. He didn't stand a chance. The obvious intelligence and astuteness she displayed during hearings won her quick confirmation and, at 41, she became the third woman in the country's history to hold Cabinet rank. She already had achieved eminence in her profession as the first woman assistant Attorney General since Woodrow Wilson's administration, overseeing 200 lawyers in the Justice Department's civil division. A graduate of Yale Law School, she served two years as an assistant U.S. Attorney in Los Angeles, then founded a law firm with her attorney-husband. The Hills have four children.

LENORE HERSHEY
Magazine editor

Lenore Hershey's involvement and influence in women's activities always went beyond her editorial duties. Currently editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, she has conducted seminars on women's role in the economy, leading to the creation of the federal government's Advisory Committee on the Economic Role of Women. She also serves on the boards of several social action groups. Mrs. Hershey, 56, is a vice president of Downe Publishing Co., and managing director of Woman Inc., a company division.

LADY BIRD JOHNSON
Former First Lady

One of the most popular and respected First Ladies, Claudia Alta Taylor Johnson, was born Dec. 22, 1912. An able businesswoman, she became owner of a radio-television station in Austin, Texas. She married Lyndon Johnson, then a faithful worker for President Franklin Roosevelt, in 1934, and the couple had two daughters, Lynda Bird and Luci Baines Johnson.

Admired for her wise, incisive counsel as First Lady, Mrs. Johnson helped arouse the nation's environmental consciousness when she personally launched a national beautification program during her husband's term in office. Since Johnson's death, she has remained active in civic events and in overseeing the management of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Memorial Library at the Austin campus of the University of Texas.

NANCY HANKS
Cultural leader

As chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Council for the Arts, Nancy Hanks, 49, has acted as a national broker promoting the arts since 1969. She administers the imaginative federal program to subsidize theater companies, symphony orchestras and other cultural institutions. She spent 13 years at the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, directing a socio-economic study of the performing arts in America. She was named for the mother of Abraham Lincoln, a distant cousin.

JOAN GANZ COONEY
Television producer

Joan Ganz Cooney, 47, brought a fresh concept of entertainment coupled with education to children's television in the late 1960s. Her productions of "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company" resulted in numerous honors and awards. She now presides over the non-profit Children's Television Workshop. In 1954, she left a reporter's job on the Arizona Republic to do corporate publicity in New York City. Six years later, she began producing news and documentary programs for educational television, one of which won an Emmy award. She has also served on the President's Commission on Drug Abuse.

CHARLOTTE CURTIS
Newspaper editor

Charlotte Curtis broke the somber mold of society writing and turned it biting and biting. She applied the sociology she had learned at Vassar to covering well-to-do people at play. The women's pages of newspapers have never been the same since. A midwesterner, she worked on a Columbus, Ohio, newspaper for 10 years before joining The New York Times in 1961. She was promoted to family-style editor, then in 1973 to Op-Ed page editor. She is married to a neurosurgeon.

BETTY FORD
First Lady

Mrs. Gerald Ford, 59, has settled comfortably into the taxing job of mistress of the White House, despite illness and a once-professed desire for her husband to retire from public life. As First Lady, she has spoken out on her interest in the arts and in children, particularly the underprivileged and the retarded. She underwent a radical mastectomy last fall and still suffers discomfort from a pinched nerve. Divorced once, she married Gerald Ford in 1949. They have three sons and a daughter.

BETTY FRIEDAN
Author, feminist

A storm of outrage erupted with the publication of Betty Friedan's "The Feminine Mystique" in 1963. The seminal volume called attention to the wide gap between women's abilities and their opportunities at a time when no one was listening. She moved to New York City with her family, dropping her role as suburban housewife and, eventually, her husband. She helped found the National Organization for Women and the National Women's Caucus. Ms. Friedan, 56, has been criticized as being overly abrasive but she was a pioneer in women's liberation and led the questioning of male superiority in society.

ELLA GRASSO
Connecticut Governor

In her 1974 Connecticut campaign to become the first woman governor who got there on her own, Mrs. Ella Grasso, 56, carefully ignored sex as an issue. The election drew national attention, although few doubted that she could lose in the heavily Democratic state. Mrs. Grasso, a canny professional politician, learned the game in two terms in the state House of Representatives, three as Secretary of State and two in the U.S. Congress. Even so, her understated style led one wit to remark that her career was one of Connecticut's best kept political secrets. The daughter of Italian immigrants, she holds a master's degree in economics.

Barry eclipses free shot mark

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Rick Barry has got to learn to concentrate at the free throw line.

"I had hoped to make 80 or 90 in a row, but I didn't concentrate — and then I missed," said Barry, who finally saw one of his underhand tosses from the free throw line roll off the rim Tuesday night — but not before he set a National Basketball Association record of 60 in a row.

Barry's miss late in the fourth period came after he made his first eight tries of the game and erased the NBA record of 58 set last season by Houston's Calvin Murphy.

In other NBA games, the New Orleans Jazz nipped the Portland Trail Blazers 100-98, the New York Knicks edged the Atlanta Hawks 100-97, the San Antonio Spurs shaded the Buffalo Braves 114-112 and the Kansas City Kings beat the Milwaukee Bucks 100-91.

Slick Watts led Seattle with 25 points. Fred Brown had 16 points for the Sonics, including 10 in the final quarter.

Barry broke Murphy's record with his seventh free throw of the game, then added another before finally missing. He did, however, make his final toss of the game, finishing 9-for-10 — and with a streak of one.

Jazz 100, Blazers 98

"This is the year for the game to be physical," observed New Orleans Coach Butch van Breda Kolff, whose Jazz nipped Portland in a game marred by 66 personal fouls — 33 against each team — and three technicals.

Senior Harvesters

Senior members of the Pampa High basketball team, which opens its season against Midland Friday and Saturday in Harvester Fieldhouse, include (from left)

6-3 forward Keith Fisher, 5-9 guard Mark Ebenkamp and 6-7 post Winslow Ellis, all of whom saw playing time last season. Ellis played in 24 games. (Pampa News photos by Michal Thompson)

Harvester cagers prepare for opener

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

A testing non-conference schedule, the absence of Berger in District 3-AAAA and three of the conference's top returning starters may provide Robert McPherson his most successful basketball team in seven years at Pampa High.

"I keep telling them they're not world-beaters," says a cautious McPherson, who will be after his 128th win at Pampa when the Harvesters entertain Midland High in the season opener Friday and Saturday nights.

"We hope to have a good team. We're optimistic about it. We feel like we've got a great group of kids to begin with, just good solid young men. They get along well together and they play hard."

Pampa is ranked first in 3-AAAA by district coaches, followed by Amarillo Caprock, Amarillo Tascosa, Amarillo High and Amarillo Palo Duro. The basis for the five coaches' respect for Pampa is a touted trio of senior returning starters.

Brian Bailey, a 6-3 guard, returns after being named player of the year in 3-AAAA last season. Bailey averaged 20.5 points in Pampa's five district games and 14.4 overall. He also averaged 5.5 rebounds and 2.3 assists.

The other guard is Rayford Young, a 5-10 senior with a deft touch from the outside. Young scored at a 9.4 clip last season and topped 20 points twice in loop play.

Donnie Hughes, a 6-4½ post, is the other returner, coming off a season in which he averaged 12.6 points and led the team in rebounds with 264 (8.5 average).

"I think we deserved to be picked," McPherson said. "We return three starters off the team that won district. But that doesn't mean we can lay back and live on our past reputation; we've got to prove ourself every night out.

"We might not win 26 games again but we might be better than we were a year ago (26-6). We play a very tough schedule."

The best non-conference opponents should be Midland, Berger Nov. 27 in Pampa, Midland Lee Dec. 3-4 in Pampa and Lubbock Monterey Jan. 4 in Lubbock and Jan. 18 in Pampa. The Harvesters also play in three tournaments — the Bi-State Dec. 9-10 in Lawton, Okla., the Midwestern Dec. 16-18 in Wichita Falls and the Clovis, N.M., Invitational.

"The main thing I want to do in non-conference is develop consistency and evaluate all our strengths and weaknesses and be healthy and have some momentum going into district."

"We start out with five of our first six with real tough people — we've got two games with Midland, two with Midland Lee and one with Berger."

Borger dropped from 3-AAAA to 1-AAA prior to the school year. The Bulldogs also could have their best team in years after finishing as runners-up to the Harvesters last season, falling to Pampa twice in thrillers, 68-65 and 53-51.

Bailey had two of his most productive games of the season against Berger, leading Pampa with 21 and 32 points.

"He's a proven player."

McPherson said. "He's got a lot more experience and he's got more poise this year."

"Rayford's improved a lot, too. His defense is a weak point for Young last season," McPherson said. "He's concentrated on it more this year. He'll be our point guard so we can send Brian to the boards more."

Pampa's tallest player this season is 6-6 senior Winslow Ellis, who played in 24 games last season, missing eight with a broken arm. Juniors Rickey Burton and Rusty Ward also have size, standing 6-4 and 6-3, respectively.

Ward averaged 18.6 points and nearly six rebounds to lead the Pampa junior varsity to a 22-7 record last season. Burton, who was out several games with a broken arm, averaged 12.1 points and pulled down 138 caroms.

Other Harvesters are 5-9 senior Mark Ebenkamp, 5-9 junior Tim Reddell, 5-8 junior James Schaub, 6-3 senior Keith Fisher and 6-3 junior Robert Sikes.

"We've got more depth than we had a year ago. In fact, last year we had very little. Depth-wise, this could be the best team I've had here," McPherson said.

Pampa, which averaged 55.3 points and held opponents to 49.1 last season, has changed its offense somewhat but will still play a man-to-man defense primarily.

"We're running a passing game offense," McPherson said. "We'll screen and cut. Last year, we just posted the guards up a log and didn't move our post men any. This year, everybody's moving."

"We hope it'll be more exciting and we're going to look for the fast break more. It might hurt our defense — if you score more points, the other team's going to shoot the ball more, too."

"We're not going to get involved in any 95 to 90 ball games."

College predictions

USC picked over UCLA

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — How important are the remaining games in the college football season?

"Well," says UCLA's Terry Donahue, "my wife served me Mylanta for breakfast and I think I'll have Gelusil for dinner."

Let us ring in a couple of guest selectors and hear how they pick the UCLA-Southern Cal Pac-8 Rose Bowl showdown.

Washington's Don James: "A tossup. I think if they played 10 times it would come out 5-5. They're that close."

Oregon State's Craig Fertig: "The team that wins will be decided by the quarterback who gets the hot hand. I think USC is bigger and stronger on defense but UCLA is faster. I think they are even on offense."

So for the Rose Bowl... Southern Cal 28-21.

Last week's score was 50 right — including Kentucky's upset of Florida — and 19 wrong for a .724 percentage. On the season, it is 481-196-11 — 710.

Michigan at Ohio State: "I always feel good going to Ohio State; we have never played badly against them," says Michigan's Bo Schembechler... Michigan 20-10.

Houston at Texas Tech: A funny thing happened to last year's Southwest Conference tri-champs. First Texas A&M founded, then Texas, then Arkansas. And now unbeaten Texas Tech... Houston 31-24.

Iowa State at Oklahoma State: What are these two losers doing battling for a possible Orange Bowl berth? Playing good football, that's what. If Iowa State wins, they have got to hope Nebraska beats Oklahoma. The only way Oklahoma State can go — possibly — is for Kansas State to upset Colorado — unlikely — while Nebraska and Oklahoma battle to a tie. Got it? We got... Oklahoma State 24-24.

Colorado at Kansas State: Colorado is ranked 15th with a 7-3 record, including victories over Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Iowa State. Kansas State has dropped nine in a row after beating Brigham Young in its opener. This has been such a crazy conference, let's try the Upset Special of the Week... Kansas State 24-20.

Miami, Fla. at Notre Dame: Miami's schedule sent the Hurricanes against the likes of Colorado, Nebraska, Pitt and Penn State, with "only" Notre Dame, Florida and Houston left... Notre Dame 28-14.

Kansas at Missouri: Missouri has beaten four of the top 15 teams in this week's ratings, but the Tigers are no better than sixth in the Big Eight... Missouri 27-17.

Colgate at Rutgers: The Scarlet Knights match their basketball team and complete a perfect regular season... Rutgers 35-6.

Kentucky at Tennessee: If Tennessee should somehow manage a bowl bid, it would automatically extend Bill Battle's contract by a year, and wouldn't that come as a blow to his unwarranted critics? Tennessee 24-14.

Texas at Baylor: How the mighty have fallen... Baylor 28-21.

Wyoming at Air Force: Now that the Cowpokes have clinched a berth in the Fiesta Bowl, why not a letdown? Second Upset Special... Air Force 24-21.

Marlboro Lights

The spirit of Marlboro in a low tar cigarette.

Lighter in taste. Lower in tar.
And still offers up the same quality that has made Marlboro famous.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined
That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

13 mg. tar, 0.8 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Apr. 76
