

Blood donors wanted; need here critical

By SHIRLEY ANDERSON

"Right now, I'd walk to the moon for two pints of blood."

That statement from a Coffee Memorial Blood Center spokesman expressed the need for immediate blood donations in the Amarillo-Pampa area.

The mobile blood bank will be at Highland General Hospital from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Wednesday, and in Lefors at the Community Center from 3:30 until 6:30 p.m. Jan. 19.

President Gerald Ford has declared January National Blood Donor Month, saying, "I urge every American to join in building on all-voluntary system of blood donation. It represents one of the supreme acts of human compassion and generosity."

Mrs. Judith Auwen, public relations director at Highland General Hospital, said that there is an extreme shortage of blood right now due to an unusually high number of recent surgeries.

She explained that Coffee Memorial Blood Center of Amarillo supplies 22 area hospitals with blood, and that the program depends on donations of blood to the mobile unit.

"Last year, 471 units were used at Highland General, and 296 units were given during visits of the mobile blood bank. Pampa was 175 units short of meeting its quota in 1976," she said.

The need for donors is critical, she said. Pampa will use an estimated 600 pints of blood this year, Auwen added.

According to Mrs. Auwen, the record number of units given in Pampa was in May, 1976, when 101 pints of blood were donated.

She also answered questions regarding the program.

"A person may donate blood once every two months. The body immediately acts to replace lost fluid volume within a few hours. The red blood cells take four to six weeks to rebuild.

"Giving blood is painless. Ninety-nine per cent of all blood donors experience no after-effects.

"There is a blood insurance plan available whereby a donor's annual blood donation can provide himself and his family with insured coverage for future blood bank expenses.

—Donors must be between the ages of 18 and 65, or 17 with parents written permission.

—During a visit to the blood drive, the donor's medical history is taken to determine whether that person should or should not give blood. Next, a small sample of blood is taken from the donor's finger, and a quick test is performed to determine whether he has enough iron in his blood. If accepted as a donor, the person then lies down on a donor table or bed, and about a pint (one unit) of blood is taken from the vein in one arm. This takes about ten minutes. The donor then has refreshments, and is on his way about 30 minutes after his arrival at the blood bank.

—Although several companies and groups in Pampa are now supporting the blood program by sponsoring blood drives for their employees and members, the number of these drives must be increased this year if Pampa is to meet its quota.

—Prospective donors are asked to call Highland General Hospital so that their names can be placed on the donor's list.

Jerry Henderson, administrative director of Coffee Memorial Blood Center, explained one reason why more donors than ever are needed. In the past, it had been the practice to purchase blood from paid donors. This practice has been discontinued because of the risk of using unsafe blood. Now, according to Henderson, communities are being asked to become self-sufficient in their blood needs and give what they in turn receive from the blood center, since it is no longer possible to obtain extra blood from paid donors.

"We are particularly grateful to the citizens of Gray County for their support," Henderson said. "However, only about three per cent of the eligible population actually donates and we need to broaden our volunteer donor base."

"And right now," he added, "our need is desperate."

Superintendent gets 'A', $3,000 pay raise

By JANE P. MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Superintendent Bob Phillips got an "A" on his first test before the Pampa Independent School District board of trustees Monday night.

His reward was a more than 10 per cent raise, bringing his annual salary to $32,000, and a contract through 1980.

The board members unanimously voted for the increase from $29,000 to begin July 1 at the 4 p.m. meeting in Carver Center, 321 W. Albert.

Resignations were accepted from Dianna Booher, Ron Rice and Pat Jones. Cynthia Cambern was hired to teach Spanish; Frankie Sims was employed to be speech therapist.

In other action the board adopted a calendar for the 1977-78 school year.

School will begin Aug. 22 with teachers starting to work a day earlier. For students, school will end on May 26, 1978.

Scheduled holidays on the calendar are Sept. 5, Nov. 4, Nov. 24 and 25, Dec. 22-30, March 20-24, March 20-22 have been marked as snow days.

The state requires 180 days of instruction and 10 days of in-service training for teachers.

Other business before the board included a lengthy discussion of the policy manual, consideration of a job description manual and reports from the tax collector Dwan Walker.

Walker said 60 per cent of the school taxes have been collected. "We've had one or two who flat refuse to pay them because they say they're illegal," Walker said about the newly-instated tax on motor vehicles. "Of course we know they are not."

"Most pay with no comment, some pay with comment and we try to listen with a sympathetic ear," he added.

He also reported that attorneys for the school district have offered a compromise to the pipeline companies which are suing the district. "Essentially it splits the difference between the old and new schedules," he said. "I hope we can settle out of court."

The board discussed Section F of the school policy manual, the pages dealing with students in items ranging from what happens if a student keeps liquor or firearms at school to what type of vaccinations a student should have.

"Our responsibility is to provide an education, we're sort of being pushed, led and shoved instead into doing the other things for the community," Trustee Al Smith said.

The section dealt with discipline.

Board president Paul Simmons stressed that he wanted to give classroom teacher authority "to have discipline in the classroom maybe we've gotten away from this too much and put it in the principal's office."

But Floyd Sackett, principal of Baker Elementary School, thought teachers shouldn't be given too much power.

"Teachers should never bust a child when they're angry. I hope you look twice before giving teachers that authority for their sake," he said.

The policy manual, an update of the 1972 version, will set guidelines for administration and students, explained Simmons. "It is the function of the board to set policies."

The manual will have seven sections, Phillips called Section F the most difficult. It is the first to be discussed by the board.

Trustees present for the meeting were Simmons, Smith, Bill Arrington, Bob Lyle, David Crossman and Buddy Epperson. Curt Beck was absent.

Texas legislature opens

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The legislature convened today for the first time in 1½ years, facing the temptation of spending a record $3 billion windfall resulting from Texas' booming economy.

Secretary of State Mark White gavelled the House into session, pending the expected re-election of Speaker Bill Clayton, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby presided over the Senate.

The last legislature adjourned June 2, 1975, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe has steadfastly refused to call a special session despite pleas to deal with public school financing and rising utility bills as emergencies.

Managing the windfall revenue, crime control, property tax reform and school finance are considered the top issues of the 140-day session. Hobby says the state owes a joint committee on property taxation a "debt of gratitude" for the pro-session work it has done.

The election of a speaker and housekeeping chores were expected to keep the House in session until late afternoon. The Senate scheduled an afternoon committee hearing on a new procedural rule that would require lawmakers to tell how much the bills they are sponsoring will cost local taxpayers.

Hobby indicated that it may be Jan. 24 before lawmakers settle into a routine because of preliminaries and the inauguration of President-elect Jimmy Carter on Jan. 20.

Executive director Bob Johnson of the Legislative Council told Clayton and Hobby that the council has received requests to draft more than 2,100 bills and 500-600 already have been filed.

One filed Monday by Sen. Bill Meier, D-Fort Worth, would create a personnel board to develop guidelines for hiring state employees, who now number more than 130,000.

Hobby said his main legislative program would be the 50-60 bills recommended by the "Hobby Commission," which was formed by the legislature to make state government more economical.

"That and an appropriation bill is enough legislative program for me," Hobby told reporters.

Asked if he had a school finance proposal, Hobby said he "would do well to find one by the end of the session."

He announced that Camilla Bordie of the Legislative Council would serve as Senate parliamentarian.

Clayton is expected to name House committees Thursday, and Hobby said he would release his appointments Thursday or Monday. The only major change, he said, will be the naming of Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, as chairman of the subcommittee on nominations.

McKnight will replace Mike McKinnon of Corpus Christi, who was defeated for re-election by Carlos Truan, also of Corpus Christi. Truan is one of two new senators.

In a two-hour closed-door caucus, Betty Andjar of Fort Worth, the first Republican woman to be elected to the Senate, won a drawing among six senators to become assistant presiding officer.

City says 'no-no' to MKB smokers

A decision was reached at this morning's City Commission meeting to launch a public awareness campaign for preservation of the beauty and interior decor of Pampa's four-year-old M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

The decision came after 40 minutes of discussion among city commissioners and Atty. Bill Waters, chairman of the board of trustees of the M.K. Brown Foundation. Mrs. Connie McDaniel, member of the 20th Century Forum Club and Friends of the Library, Charles Cook, member of the board of trustees of the Gray-Pampa Foundation, and Dudley Steele, president of the Pampa Community Concert Association.

Today's hearing before the City Commission followed receipt of letters from presidents of the 20th Century Forum and Friends of the Library asking that smoking be banned in the lobby and auditorium and that the concession stand be removed. The letters cited damage that had been done by cigarettes, food and drink.

Waters said he was not appearing to criticize individuals or groups, but to appeal to the general public to have greater care in use of the auditorium building.

"I feel Mr. Brown, whose will provided the auditorium, would be disappointed if he knew we were not taking care of it," Waters said.

Mrs. McDaniel said she felt it was not necessary to have a concession stand in the auditorium lobby.

"The auditorium still looks good," she said, "but it is slowly going down. We feel something needs to be done right now."

Steele, head of the concert association, said his group wants to do anything possible to maintain the auditorium. He added that he had no specific suggestion for regulations but expressed hope a way could be found to continue the operation without drastic changes.

Cook stated the Gray-Pampa Foundation would support what was felt to be the best solution.

City Manager Mack Wofford brought out the point that many articles of food have been brought into the auditorium that were not sold at the concession stand.

"I also feel a strict ban on smoking would be very difficult to enforce," Wofford added.

Milton Saltzman, city administrative assistant in charge of building operations, explained that the city operates the concession stand at a profit and it is opened only at the request of organizations renting the auditorium. He said there were 53 functions in the building in 1976 and only 20 of them were in the auditorium.

After various back-and-forth discussions it was the consensus that a public appeal with speakers appearing at civic clubs, school organizations and other groups would result in better care of the auditorium by those attending events there.

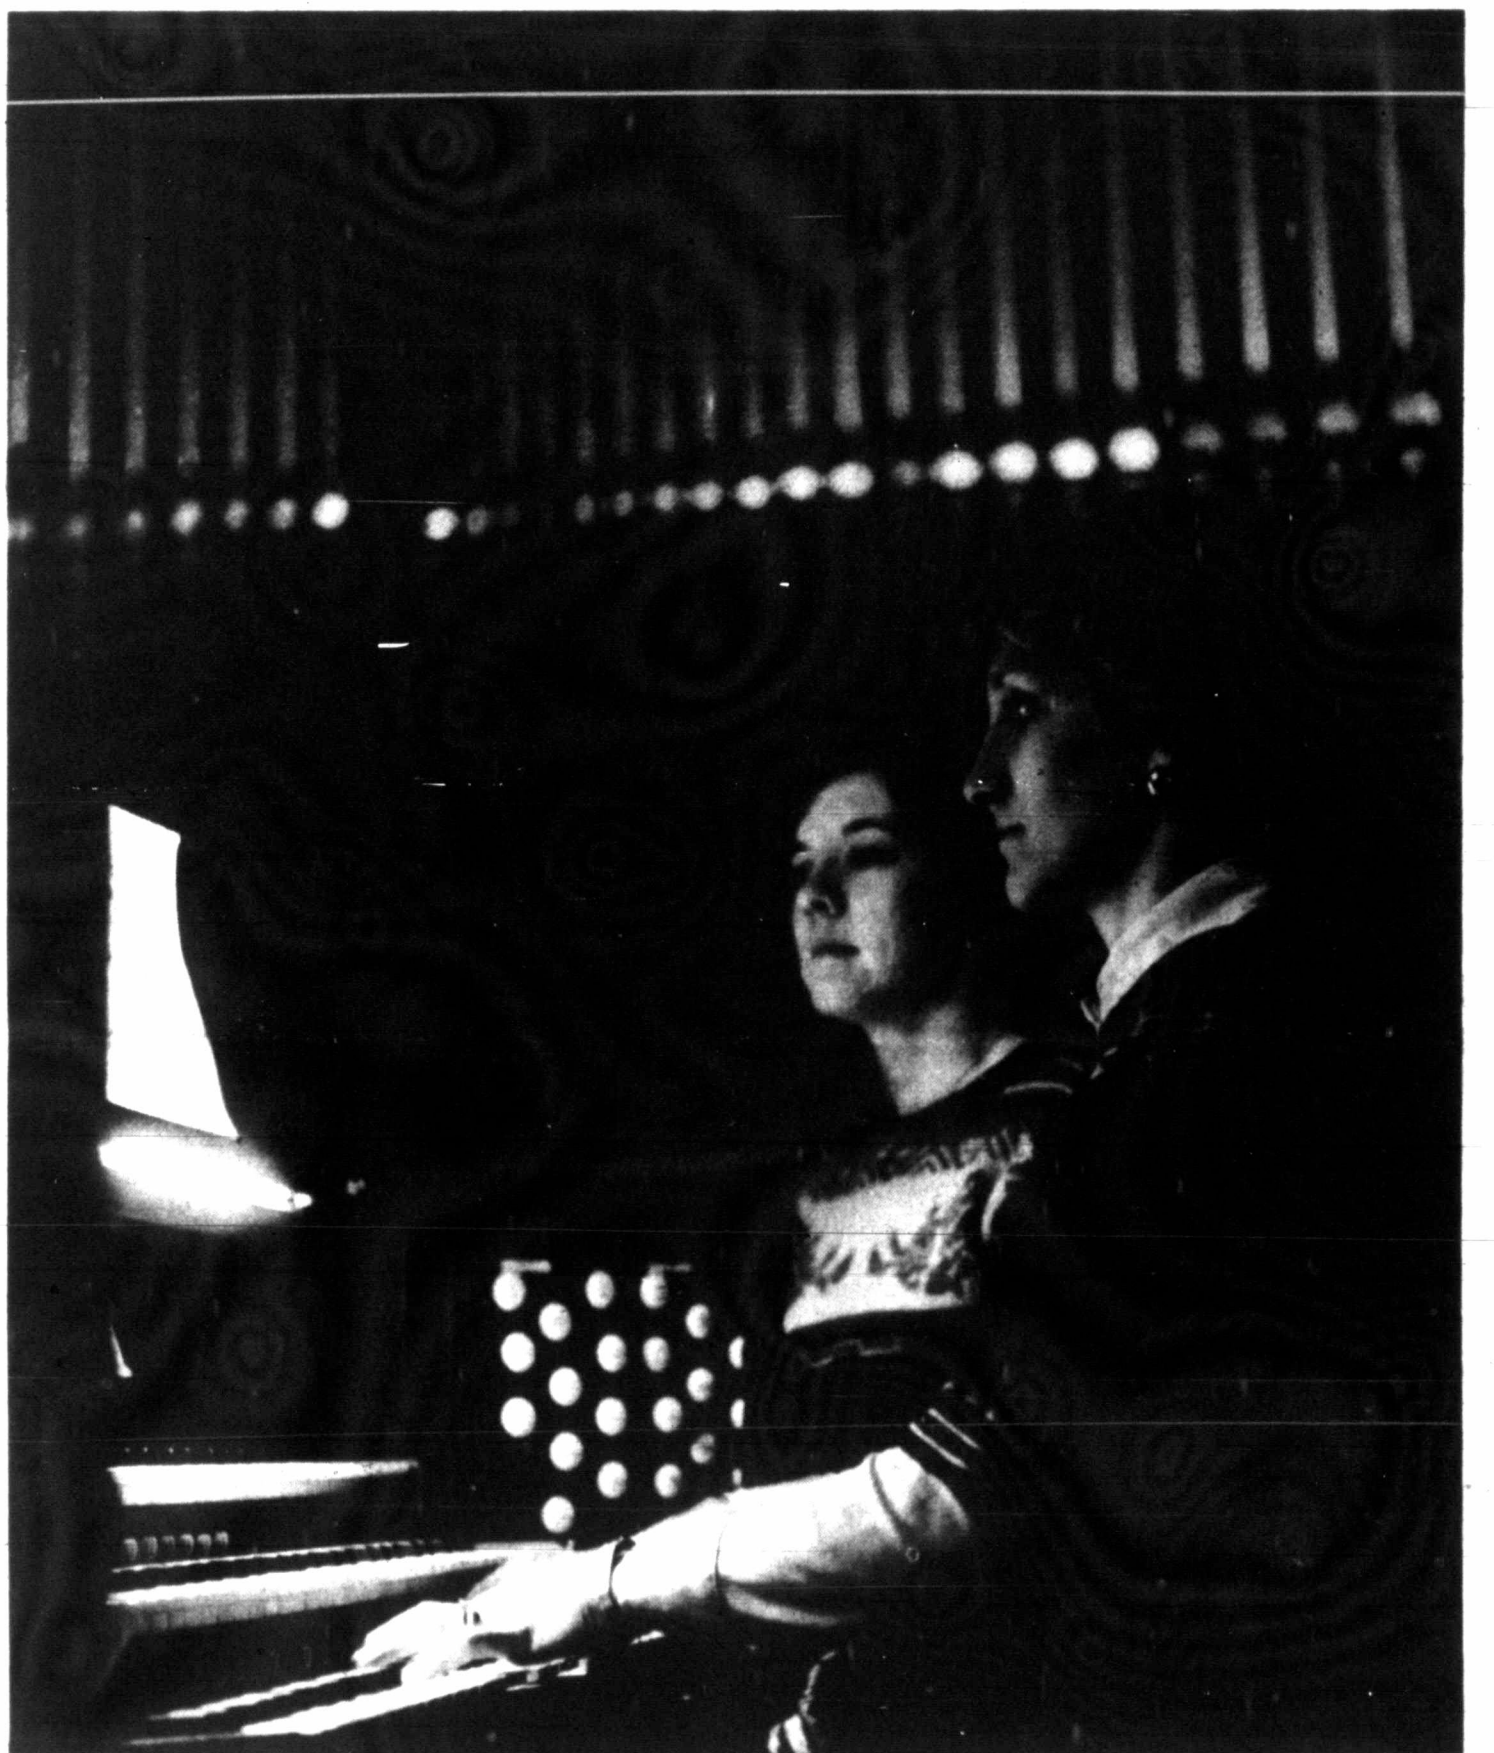

Said Mayor R.D. Wilkerson: "I feel we've had enough input here this morning that we can now work out a public awareness-public relations campaign that will bring about some needed changes and improvements."

In other business today the commission:

Set Feb. 8 to receive bids on street improvements around Block 20 of the North Crest Addition.

Authorized payment of $38,600 to West-Tex Construction Co. for work done on the city's sewage treatment plant.

Approved routine salary changes and payment of December bills totaling $80,326.85.

30 degrees in Alaska

By The Associated Press

Forecasters found a topsyturvy situation on their weather maps today with temperatures more typical of Alaska in the north-central states and the Midwest and temperatures more typical of the Midwest prevalent across Alaska.

Minimum temperatures dipped to 20 degrees below zero or colder across the northern plains, the upper half of the Mississippi Valley and western Indiana, while temperatures across Alaska ranged in the 30s along the coast and in the teens or single digit figures across the interior.

Many record lows for the date were set across the nation's midsection this morning.

Some of the cities reporting record lows included Minneapolis, with 31 below zero; Evansville, Ind., with 15 below

Fort Smith, Ark., with 10 below; Rockford, Ill., with 18 below; and Waterloo, Iowa with 26 below.

The morning's low reading was 35 below zero at Pequot Lakes, Minn. International Falls, Minn., recorded a 34 below reading. Terre Haute, Ind., had 20 below and Cape Girardeau, Mo., had 18 below.

The nation's first big winter storm of 1977 moved into Canada today after leaving much snow and ice on the East Coast and combining with arctic air to cause natural gas shortages in the South.

Meanwhile, in Florida, tornadoes spawned by the cold moving from the Northwest ripped roofs off buildings and dropped temperatures into the teens in some areas.

Forecasters predicted a hard freeze for northern and central parts of the state, and the farming and poultry industries were warned to take precautions against damage.

Winds toppled trees from Orlando to Tampa on the Gulf Coast. No injuries were reported.

The National Weather Service reported that one-half inch of rain fell at Lakeland in two hours.

In the northeastern New York village of Philmont, 30 miles southeast of Albany, firemen evacuated several dozen of the town's 1,300 residents late Monday as their efforts to control a fire carried by 30-mile-an-hour winds were hampered by foot-deep snow and ice covered highways.

In Kansas and Missouri officials blamed the weather for the deaths of at least seven persons, most of them elderly.

Officials in Detroit said at least seven persons suffered heart attacks in their city shoveling out from 6½ inches of snow that fell Monday.

Chicago reported six inches of snow, with Boston, Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, New York City, Louisville, Ky., and Buffalo and Albany N.Y., all reporting at least 2 inches of snow and as much as a foot in some sections.

Fifteen-foot to 20-foot waves and 35-knot winds battered the empty American oil tanker Chester A. Poling Monday and broke it apart off Cape Ann, Mass. One crewman died and six were saved.

The low pressure system that carried snow into the Northeast Monday moved into the Montreal area late in the day, building drifts up to 15 feet.

Storm watches continued today across northern Maine and a blizzard warning remained

Gives $250,000 to inaugural

Happy farmer celebrates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Cornhusking Champion of 1935 says he's so happy that a fellow farmer is becoming president that he's spending $250,000 to help celebrate Jimmy Carter's inaugural.

Elmer Carlson of Audubon, Iowa, is hoping that as many as 6,000 people will attend each of the three inaugural parties he's throwing in a Washington hotel ballroom next week.

Carlson, who grew wealthy in the hybrid seed and fertilizer business, is a Democratic activist and twice an unsuccessful candidate for Congress. He says he spent about $10,000 of his own money during the fall campaign for Des Moines newspaper ads that urged Iowa farmers to vote for a fellow tiller of the soil.

"We can appreciate the work they (the Carters) had to do, coming from a backwoods like Plains," he says.

Despite his efforts on Carter's behalf, Carlson has been overlooked by those who compiled the inaugural committee's invitation lists. But unlike others who say they were snubbed, he's not letting it bother him.

"The ground is frozen out here anyway, so I'm going down to Washington for the inauguration," he said. Carlson has an 1,800-acre farm that produces wheat, corn and soybeans.

He's got detailed plans for each night of the inaugural festivities. The first night's party, next Tuesday, will feature beer, peanuts, popcorn and music by Warren Covington and the Clambake Seven.

Things really heat up Wednesday night, inauguration eve, when Carlson has engaged the Duke Ellington Orchestra, led by Ellington's son, Mercer. The Tommy Dorsey band is the featured attraction on the big night itself.

Carlson's parties will feature a decor of hay, cornstalks and "peanut waterfalls," which are described as streamers of peanut vines, hanging from the chandeliers.

Carlson says he knows that Carter himself will have his hands full making it to each of the six official inaugural parties. The official parties are open, for $25, only to people who received invitations. So Carlson's not counting on the President-elect's attendance.

"At least he could send Billy though," Carlson mused.

Blood donors wanted; need here critical

Mississippi Valley and west-central Indiana, while temperatures across Alaska ranged in the 30s along the coast and in the teens or single digit figures across the interior.

Many record lows for the date were set across the nation's midsection this morning. Some of the cities reporting record lows included Minneapolis, with 31 below zero; Evansville, Ind., with 15 below;

Fort Smith, Ark., with 10 below; Rockford, Ill., with 18 below; and Waterloo, Iowa, with 26 below.

The morning's low reading was 35 below zero at Pequot Lakes, Minn. International Falls, Minn., recorded a 34 below reading. Terre Haute, Ind., had 20 below and Cape Girardeau, Mo., had 18 below.

The nation's first big winter storm of 1977 moved into Canada today after leaving much snow and ice on the East Coast and combining with arctic air to cause natural gas shortages in the South.

Meanwhile, in Florida, tornadoes spawned by the cold moving from the Northwest ripped roofs off buildings and dropped temperatures into the teens in some areas.

Forecasters predicted a hard freeze for northern and central parts of the state, and the farming and poultry industries were warned to take precautions against damage.

Winds toppled trees from Orlando to Tampa on the Gulf Coast. No injuries were reported.

The National Weather Service reported that one-half inch of rain fell at Lakeland in two hours.

In the northeastern New York village of Plimont, 30 miles southeast of Albany, firemen evacuated several dozen of the town's 1,300 residents late Monday as their efforts to control a fire carried by 30-mile-an-hour winds were hampered by foot-deep snow and ice covered highways.

In Kansas and Missouri officials blamed the weather for the deaths of at least seven persons, most of them elderly.

Officials in Detroit said at least seven persons suffered heart attacks in their city shoveling out from 6½ inches of snow that fell Monday.

Chicago reported six inches of snow, with Boston, Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, New York City, Louisville, Ky., and Buffalo and Albany, N.Y., all reporting at least 2 inches of snow and as much as a foot in some sections.

Fifteen-foot to 20-foot waves and 35-knot winds battered the empty American oil tanker Chester A. Poling Monday and broke it apart off Cape Ann, Mass. One crewman died and six were saved.

The low pressure system that carried snow into the Northeast Monday moved into the Montreal area late in the day, building drifts up to 15 feet.

Senate confirmation expected

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be a few tough questions waiting for some of President-elect Carter's Cabinet nominees, but all are expected to win Senate confirmation. Senate committees scheduled hearings today on four of Carter's nominees to Cabinet posts and on Charles J. Schultz, tapped for the Cabinet-level job of heading the Council of Economic Advisers. Scheduled for hearings today were Griffin B. Bell, nominated for attorney general, Harold Brown, nominated for defense secretary, Cyrus R. Vance, nominated for secretary of state, and Bob Bergland, nominated for secretary of agriculture. Of the four Cabinet nominees, Bell and Brown were the two most likely to face tough questions.

Bell, an Atlanta lawyer, is a one-time federal judge, long-time Carter friend and so far the most controversial of Carter's nominees. The Senate Judiciary Committee scheduled hearings on Bell that could last several days. And while a number of black leaders and civil rights and liberal groups have requested time to speak out against Bell, there appeared to be little opposition to him from committee members. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., one of the committee's liberals, predicted on Monday that the panel will approve Bell unless there is something we don't know now that is revealed during the hearings. But opponents such as the Congressional Black Caucus and the NAACP have vowed to fight Bell's confirmation. Bell served 15 years on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and Carter views his nominee's civil rights record as "superb." But Bell's opponents have criticized his judicial opinions in school desegregation cases, his membership in racially exclusive private clubs and his support of Richard Nixon's nomination of G. Harrold Carswell for the Supreme Court. Brown, a Defense Department official during the Vietnam war years, is not necessarily known either as a hawk or a dove. But some of the hawks on the committee reportedly are concerned about his performance as a member of the U.S. team that negotiated the 1972 Strategic Arms Limitation pact with the Soviets. At the same time, there is concern among some Senate doves about Brown's support of the bombing campaign against North Vietnam.

Witness calls Longet 'ringy'

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Weeping with her head in her hands as prosecutors breezed into their case against her, Claudine Longet heard herself described as a confused, "ringy" woman, driven to talk about her lover's death almost from the instant she shot him. "She repeated, 'I shot him. I didn't mean to. It was an accident,'" said former sheriff's deputy George Ackerman as testimony got under way in this Rocky Mountain ski village

Monday. "She was talking to herself. She was upset." Prosecutors said they hoped to close their case against the ex-showgirl and former wife of singer Andy Williams with a handful of witnesses today after calling 11 persons to the stand Monday. In his opening statement, Deputy Dist. Atty. Ashley Anderson said Miss Longet "raised the gun, pointed it at (professional skier Vladimir) Spider Sabich, jokingly said

"bang-bang," at which point Spider Sabich fell to the floor, dying." As she heard details of Sabich's death, Miss Longet, 35, broke down twice. Once, she buried her face in her hands and cried several minutes before becoming composed again. The first day's only surprise was provided by the security chief for the exclusive subdivision where Miss Longet lived for two years with Sabich, a 31-year-old professional skier. Roy Griffith said that as he arrived at Sabich's $250,000 mountainside home, he warned a Pitkin County sheriff's officer about Miss Longet. "Now watch it, this gal is ringy today."

Neither the defense nor the prosecution asked Griffith to define "ringy," Anderson told reporters. "Let the jurors decide." Griffith described his entry into the home. "All at once, Miss Longet appeared in the hallway," he said. "She was holding her hand to her chest, and for an instant, I thought she had been shot. I said, 'Claudine, who shot who?' and she said, 'I shot Spider.'"

If convicted of the reckless manslaughter charge, Miss Longet could receive a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $30,000 fine. She contends Sabich was teaching her to use the pistol before going out of town when the gun fired accidentally. Lt. Robert Nicoletti, a ballistics expert for the Denver police, underwent the longest cross-examination, especially on his estimate that Miss Longet was "between four and six feet" from Sabich when he was shot.

Bell files suit to block PUC cut

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has gone to court in an attempt to keep the Public Utilities Commission from cutting Bell's revenue request by 80 per cent. Bell filed a suit Monday in Judge James Meyers' 126th district court seeking an injunction to block the PUC's amended order that cut additional revenue from long distance calls. The telephone company also asked Judge Meyers to allow Bell to place into effect, under court supervision, rates which would "produce a fair return on the company's investment."

Earlier Monday, the commission rejected a rehearing motion and ordered WATS (wide area telephone service) rates doubled to make up for long distance cuts, leaving Bell's total additional revenue the same. The Bell petition charged that the commission's action confiscates the company's property and assets by failing to allow an adequate rate of return on the company's investment in Texas. The suit also alleged the commission's rate order violated the Public Utility Regulatory Act by failing to recognize the fair value rate base. The petition said the PUC "arbitrarily refused" to recognize some of Bell's operating expenses and erroneously excluded legitimate and reasonable investment from the company's rate base.

The company offered to file a bond guaranteeing refunds to customers if rates should be found too high by the court. "We strongly feel that the commission's rate order must be set aside," said Bell attorney Jon Lawrence. Rehearing motions by several intervenors also were overruled after some of the ideas in the motions were incorporated Monday when the PUC amended their Dec. 14 order. Bell originally asked for $298.3 million in additional revenue. The PUC granted $57.8 million. Monday's amended order instructed the company to cut the increase granted Dec. 14 in intrastate long distance calls from $65,059,000 to $61,535,000. It ordered the increase in WATS rates up from $3,525,000 to $7,049,000.

Texas lawyer found shot in Oxford

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Joseph T. Nance, a lawyer from Dallas, Tex., was found shot to death in his daughter's apartment here Sunday. Oxford police said. His wife Margaret and daughter Mary Caroline, 22, were wounded. Mrs. Nance was reported in stable condition at Oxford-Lafayette County Hospital. She was shot in the abdomen. Her daughter was taken to a Memphis, Tenn. hospital with gunshot wounds in the chest. Authorities said they answered a call early Sunday morning to investigate a shooting at Miss Nance's apartment. She is a graduate student at the University of Mississippi. Authorities said the Nances apparently had driven their daughter back to Oxford in time to register for the spring semester. Police Chief Billy White said officers found a .38 caliber revolver in the apartment. He said authorities were investigating but gave no further details.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A recent copy of National Wildlife contained a story about "Rounding up Rattlers" in west Texas towns—an annual event apparently and one that stunned and shocked me.

The article tells how they put gasoline down the snake holes to force them to the surface. This produced 2,500 snakes last year. Here's what happened to them: "Coiled snakes were putted like golf balls. Large snakes were juggled, or tossed 20 feet into the air, then caught by the tail as they plummeted toward the cement floor. Some snakes were tossed the full length of the 30-foot enclosure...where they landed with a crunch."

The snakes are neither fed nor watered even though they may be kept for days or weeks.

The writer of the article said, "It's not easy to feel sorry for poisonous snakes. But I witnessed the Big Spring roundup from start to finish, and by the time the last skin had been stripped from the last withering carcass, my sympathies were entirely with the reptiles."

I'm from New Hampshire, and our wildlife is something to be treasured, not to be used in this horrible manner. If the general public knew about this kind of torture, I wonder whether they would stand for it.

E.M.P.

DEAR E.M.P.: I'm told that of 2,400 kinds of snakes known to man, eight out of 100 are dangerous to man. Under certain conditions, the dangerous reptiles include the rattler. I'm told also that poisonous snakes are also helpful—killing rats, mice and other rodents that destroy crops.

Assuming the "rattler roundup" has a practical purpose, why it is celebrated in a carnival spirit escapes me.

DEAR ABBY: Our widowed daughter, approaching 50, recently remarried and moved halfway across the country. When we visited her recently, I noticed only two pairs of pajamas in the laundry and none in their drawers.

Doesn't it strike you as odd, if not improper, for middle-aged people to wear night clothes only when they have guests?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: What people wear (or don't wear) to bed is between them. The only impropriety I see here is your concern about something that shouldn't concern you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST HIM": I am not surprised. One of the biggest mistakes a girl can make is to start "improving" a guy after the second date.

If the romance is going to amount to something, save all those loving criticisms for later. They'll keep. At the beginning, love him the way he is, or look for someone else who comes closer to your specifications.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— In the last two years I have noticed that the complexion of my nose has become red in appearance, and it has increased in size. I also have three to four visible veins at the bridge of my nose. It has become a concern to me and is giving me an inferiority complex because of my physical appearance.

I'm 62 years old, 6 feet 3 and weigh 210 pounds. I take Hydrofluril, and my blood pressure is now satisfactory. I asked my doctor if the change in my nose is from high blood pressure, and he informed me it was due to alcohol.

I do not classify myself as a drinker. We have our four or five social parties each year; we have our drinks, but that is the extent of it. I was disappointed in the doctor's answer. On my last visit he looked at my nose and asked if I drink beer. I told him I drink very little beer as I am not fond of it. He didn't say anymore.

Do you have any information for me? I am not getting anywhere this way.

DEAR READER— You must have a condition called rosacea. When it involves the nose, it can become large and red, with a pitted skin and may even become a long penululated, lobulated mass. This is a complication of rosacea, which is reddening of the skin over the face with dilatation of small blood vessels. It is more common in women and more severe in men. One of several factors that cause it is alcohol. That is why your doctor has centered on that, but many cases occur in people who do not drink at all.

The condition usually begins with small dilated blood vessels apparent over the face with a reddened complexion. It may never involve the nose. It may be related to using too much cleansing cream which may be why women have it more often. It can be associated with too much hot coffee, alcohol or spices, in short the things that dilate the small blood vessels. The change in circulation through the skin leads to the other changes.

I think you should ask your doctor to refer you to a dermatologist. In early cases involving the face, tetracycline pills (an antibiotic) taken daily seem to help stop the process. The reason for its action is not entirely clear. You will have a special problem here because Hydrofluril is a diuretic, and tetracyclines interact with it to cause a rise in the level of blood urea to significant levels. There may be some problems in treating both your high blood pressure and rosacea at the same time. You may need to mention this to your dermatologist.

In the early stages the changes in the blood vessels in the nose can be treated with electrolysis. A small needle placed in the superficial vessels destroys them and helps stop the process. Later tetracyclines do not help and the condition is too far advanced for electrolysis. In these cases it may be necessary to surgically remove the markedly deformed skin over the nose. A good plastic surgeon can usually do a remarkable job of improving the condition.

Rosacea may be associated with the development of acne of the nose, but the two conditions are different. Those who want information on the common acne problem can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the makers of 100 per cent polyester men's shirts. They put pins in the shirts when they are being folded and they leave holes or even snags.

—VELOIE.

DEAR POLLY—I read L.D.'s problem with the plastic front on a clock radio being painted with nail polish by her child. Your answer was that your experiments showed nail polish remover took away the polish but left your plastic dull looking. Did you then try using clear nail polish on the face of the clock after the polish was removed? This worked well for me on the very scratched face on a wrist watch. The polish must be new so it flows on freely and easily. The polish will also help glue in a loose crystal or face of a watch or clock. This should be first tested on a small area, as some plastic reacts differently from others. —B.R.O.

DEAR POLLY—I save large foil pie pans. They are great to use under paper picnic plates, making handling easier and safer. —MRS. S.S.

DEAR POLLY—After washing my glass fiber curtains. I pleat them, when they are still damp, into the proper folds and fasten in place with clip clothespins, until the curtains are dry. They always look trim and neat.

Always cut away the good sides of discarded mattress pads. They are great to go inside pot holders you may be making. After using the oranges out of a nylon net bag, fill it with bath toys for your youngsters, hang over the tub and they will drip dry and all be neatly in one place. —STELLA.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. J.S. that I remove those small adhesive squares with a little elbow grease and a dull edged knife. It takes a while but they come off easily. I had they are easier to remove from a wood surface than others. —P.H.

Keeping gift plants pretty

By ELVIN McDONALD

It is my guess that Santa gave away more potted plants this year than ever before. In fact, a few weeks ago I visited the houseplant capital of the world in Orange County, Florida and found one grower who was in the process of distributing more than three million flowering Christmas cactus to retailers all across the country. If we add to these all the other plants from growers, the total must be staggering.

Although each of these plants has certain cultural needs in order to grow from seed or cutting to the flowering stage, once in bloom the single most important need is keeping the soil constantly moist. The first time a plant in full bloom dries out enough to wilt the leaves or the flowers, enough damage may be done for it never to fully recover.

Take an azalea, for example. If it has been well-grown, the plant will not only be covered with open flowers, but there will be almost countless buds not yet fully developed. The first thing to do when you receive such a plant is to remove any pot wrappings and ribbons and place the pot in a waterproof saucer. Situate the plant so that it receives bright light or some direct sun and where no hot, dry drafts of air from the heating system will blow directly on it. From this point, keeping the soil constantly moist and never letting the roots get thirsty is the key to bringing every last bud into full bloom.

Of course, it is possible to overwater, but this is not likely if you pour off any water that remains in the saucer after an hour or two. By the time a grower brings a plant to the flowering stage, the soil in which it is growing is often filled with water. This means that more water than usual will be needed in order to maintain a constant supply of moisture. Another reason is that growers group thousands of potted plants together on the same greenhouse bench. This creates an environment that is generally moist and far different from the average dry, over-heated house or apartment.

If the soil of a potted azalea dries out too much, the open flowers will wilt and die prematurely. The buds will wither and die, and most of the older leaves will turn brown and fall from the stems within a few days. The first thing to do if you discover an azalea or other flowering gift plant with dry soil is to immerse the pot, soil and all, in a pail or sink of water and leave it to soak for about one-half hour. Then remove and allow to drain. Return to good light and in a few days, after you can determine the extent of damage caused by the drying out, remove any withered growth.

There are several ways you can encourage flowering gift plants to stay beautiful for as long as possible. One is to place them on a pebble humidity tray, either alone or with other house plants. This helps to duplicate the moist environment of a greenhouse. Another is to place the pot inside a cachepot or jardiniere about three inches larger in diameter and pack moist peat moss between the two containers. This helps maintain soil that is evenly moist without your having to water as often or as much. A third way to promote continuing good growth is to give the plant an hour or two of direct sun plus bright light for most of the day. Of, if you have a fluorescent-light garden, place your gift plant there, positioning it so that the uppermost leaves or flowers are about five inches directly below the tubes.

When a gift plant stops blooming, some are worth keeping and others are best discarded, something you should do without a trace of guilt. Potted chrysanthemums in particular seldom make good varieties for growing in an outdoor garden and it's almost impossible to re-bloom them as house plants. If you live in a mild climate where winter temperatures seldom fall below 20°F., azaleas can be planted outdoors as permanent shrubs. Unless you have a greenhouse or sunny, airy plant room, I recommend discarding them. Most other gift plants, such as poinsettia, cyclamen, gloxinia, African violet and amaryllis, can be brought back into bloom indoors if you take good care of them.

Q: I grew geraniums from seeds last year. They were healthy plants, but they all grew to a single stem and there was not one flower. Was it my fault or that of the seeds?
A: If you were growing geraniums of either the Sprinter or Carefree strains, failure to branch and bloom probably had to do with improper growing conditions. To bloom well, geraniums need at least one-half day of direct sun and feeding with a fertilizer that is low in nitrogen but high in phosphorous and potash—5-10-10, for example. They tend to bloom earlier and more profusely if the roots are somewhat camped in the pot. Although Sprinter and Carefree geranium seedlings tend to branch naturally, you can hurry up the process by pinching out the growing tips when seedlings are four to six inches tall; repeat until the desired shape develops.

Laredo continues rabies battle

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Health officials in this border city aren't sure what caused a massive outbreak of rabies among dogs, but they say it may take "a long time to control" in spite of a massive vaccination campaign.

Jose L. Gonzalez, director of the Laredo-Webb County Health Department, said Monday there have been 22 confirmed cases of rabies in dogs since late November.

He added that 22 persons have undergone treatment after being exposed to the disease in an extensive antirabies campaign that includes the use of a relatively new serum that eliminates most of the risk associated with an older serum.

"The problem is that with the long incubation period, it will be a long time before we have these things completely under control," said Gonzalez. "We are sure there are still some rabid dogs out there."

Gonzalez said officials believe the rabies outbreak might have been caused by an infected coyote, skunk or racoon, but added, "We may never know what caused it."

Gonzalez said the problem is compounded by the variation of rabies that is affecting most of the infected dogs in the area.

Frankincense is the name of various gum resins which can be burned as incense.

and the disease's long incubation period, which ranges from 20 to 60 days.

"The variety is called 'dumb rabies' and the dog does not go around attacking people," he said. "The animal appears to be choking or have something stuck in its throat and owners become exposed when they try to pull it out."

Seven persons, including two children, have been bitten, he said. All have started or completed the series of anti-rabies shots.

Gonzalez said 300 stray dogs have been picked up, while nearly 7,000 of an estimated dog population of 22,000 have been vaccinated by Laredo and Webb County health authorities since the first case was reported Nov. 24.

He said private veterinarians have vaccinated about 2,250 other dogs and about 200 canines have been destroyed.

An antirabies gamma globulin made from human instead of horse blood is being used exclusively in Laredo to combat the disease, Gonzalez said.

Dr. William Winkler, an official of the Center of Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said of those who take the serum made from horse blood, about 45 percent have some reaction, ranging from minor itching to serious illness requiring hospitalization.

"The advantage of the antirabies gamma globulin (RIG) is that it is practically free of side effects," Winkler said.

The new serum, however, costs an estimated $170 per patient, while the equine serum costs between $15 and $25.

Gonzalez said those in the city of 75,000 that can afford the RIG treatment pay, while the state pays for those who cannot afford it.

The RIG and equine serums provide only temporary immunity. Patients still must take a series of 23 inoculations of duck embryo vaccine.

Offshore tech is topic

An Exxon Production Research scientist from Houston will discuss "Offshore Technology: How Deep is the Ocean?" at tonight's meeting of the Panhandle section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

H. Ray Brannon Jr., will review developments and associated costs of offshore resource development at the meeting slated for 6:30 p.m. at the Coronado Inn.

Brannon will discuss some of the more recent advancements in offshore technology, including the current field of testing of totally submerged production systems for use in water depths beyond the technical and economic limits of drilling platforms.

A graduate of Auburn University with an MS degree in physics, Brannon joined Exxon Corporation in 1952. His work since 1968 has been offshore-related, including establishment of environmental design criteria for offshore facilities.

Mom praised for helping imprison son

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — Rosemary Francis' identification of her son helped send him to prison for 99 years on an armed robbery charge. Now she says she is getting letters from all over the country in praise of her act.

"Bravo to you," wrote a woman from California. "If more parents were responsible and did the right thing, there would be less crime. They stand behind their children when they are dead wrong."

Mrs. Francis had recognized her son in a newspaper photograph of a bank robbery several months ago. She said she wrestled with her conscience for 20 minutes and then called police.

"If he did that, I had to turn him in," she said. "If he did that, he was liable to do something else worse and I'd rather turn him in than have him lying dead in the streets."

A teller at the bank remains in a nursing home, unable to speak after being shot in the head.

Jerry Paul Francis, 18, was convicted in the case and sentenced to 99 years without parole.

The letters began arriving after Mrs. Francis' story was printed in newspapers across the country. Most are addressed to Rosemary Francis, New Iberia.

Some other excerpts:
 —From a couple in Los Angeles: "We are tired of mothers who in an interview after their sons have killed 10 people say 'My son could not and did not do it.' We admire you for your decision."

—From a woman in Hayward, Calif.: "It was a very difficult thing to do. But you did what was right no matter what other people say to you."

—From a woman in Houston: "I am the mother of two teenage sons and I hope I will have the same fortitude you had if it is ever necessary to make a crucial decision such as you made."

—From a woman in Largo, Fla.: "I am not at all sure I would ever have the courage to do what you have done, but I want you to know I understand your doing it."

Girl drowns under ice

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A 7-year-old Fort Worth girl drowned Monday when she fell through ice covering a creek while trying to rescue her stranded dog, police said.

Authorities said Julia Villanueva drowned in the icy waters of Mary's Creek. Her dog was stranded on the ice.

Don Villanueva, the girl's father, found her body.

Supreme Court to hear veteran's pension case

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday agreed to decide whether private companies must give veterans credit for their military service when computing pension benefits.

In the near future, the case could affect hundreds of thousands of World War II veterans who are reaching retirement age. It also could have an impact on Korean War and Vietnam-era veterans when they retire.

In other action, the court: —Refused to review a federal judge's decision to take charge of desegregation efforts at strife-torn South Boston High School. —Agreed to review an Ohio law providing up to $88-million worth of materials and services over the next two years to students in private schools. Opponents challenged the law as an unconstitutional means of linking government and religion.

—Let stand a decision that none of the rights of former Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., were violated during his prosecution for crimes committed while he served as tax assessor of California's Orange County. Hinshaw was convicted last year of accepting bribes in 1972.

—Set aside a lower court's decision that a federal agency acted constitutionally in firing a homosexual activist on grounds that he weakened confidence in government by "haunting" his way of life. The justices sent the case back to a lower court.

The pension issue was brought to the court by the Alabama Power Co., which excludes employees' time in the military in computing their pensions.

Raymond E. Davis challenged the company's plan after he retired in 1971. Davis received a monthly pension of $198.95. If the company had included the two years and seven months he served in the military during World War II in computing his pension, he would have received $216.06 a month.

Federal trial and appellate courts upheld Davis' claim and ordered Alabama Power to include the period of military service in calculating pension payments.

The lower courts said pension payments are one of the benefits of seniority, and federal law requires companies to maintain the seniority of returning veterans.

Carrying the case to the Supreme Court, the company said the decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans conflicts with decisions by other federal appeals courts and creates nationwide confusion which only the Supreme Court can resolve.

The justices refused to review action taken by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr., which previously had been upheld as constitutional by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

On Dec. 9, 1975, Garrity ruled that black students at South Boston High were not receiving peaceful, desegregated education as provided for in an integration plan for all Boston schools.

Hospital board will elect officers Wed.

The Highland and McLean General Hospitals Board of Managers will elect officers for 1977 during a meeting at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Highland General Hospital Conference Room.

Other items on the agenda include reports by the chief of staff and hospital administrator.

The board will review the financial statement for the two Gray County hospitals and will be asked to approve December's accounts payable and salaries for the hospitals.

Members will be studying the 1977 hospital budget and considering the accounts receivable charge-off for the McLean hospital.

An executive session is planned for discussion of personnel matters, if any, and the board will reconvene in open session after the executive session.

Members will be asked to approve the minutes of the previous meeting.

Solar heat to be topic for EASE

Dr. Jerry Dunn of the Texas Tech University Department of Mechanical Engineering will speak to Earth, Air and Solar Energy, Inc. (EASE) at its meeting Tuesday in Amarillo.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Amarillo Room of Howard Johnson's East.

Dunn will summarize several types of solar heating systems and equipment and will discuss the solar projects for two houses under construction in Lubbock.

The houses are being built with space heating and hot water heating. Both are funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Laredo continues rabies battle

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Health officials in this border city aren't sure what caused a massive outbreak of rabies among dogs, but they say it may take "a long time to control" in spite of a massive vaccination campaign.

Jose L. Gonzalez, director of the Laredo-Webb County Health Department, said Monday there have been 22 confirmed cases of rabies in dogs since late November.

He added that 22 persons have undergone treatment after being exposed to the disease in an extensive antirabies campaign that includes the use of a relatively new serum that eliminates most of the risk associated with an older serum.

"The problem is that with the long incubation period, it will be a long time before we have this things completely under control," said Gonzalez. "We are sure there are still some rabid dogs out there."

Gonzalez said officials believe the rabies outbreak might have been caused by an infected coyote, skunk or racoon, but added "We may never know what caused it."

Gonzalez said the problem is compounded by the variation of rabies that is affecting most of the infected dogs in the area.

Frankincense is the name of various gum resins which can be burned as incense.

and the disease's long incubation period, which ranges from 20 to 60 days.

"The variety is called 'dumb rabies' and the dog does not go around attacking people," he said. "The animal appears to be choking or have something stuck in its throat and owners become exposed when they try to pull it out."

Seven persons, including two children, have been bitten, he said. All have started or completed the series of anti-rabies shots.

Gonzalez said 300 stray dogs have been picked up, while nearly 7,000 of an estimated dog population of 22,000 have been vaccinated by Laredo and Webb County health authorities since the first case was reported Nov. 24.

He said private veterinarians have vaccinated about 2,250 other dogs and about 200 canines have been destroyed.

An antirabies gamma globulin made from human instead of horse blood is being used exclusively in Laredo to combat the disease, Gonzalez said.

Dr. William Winkler, an official of the Center of Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said of those who take the serum made from horse blood, about 45 per cent have some reaction, ranging from minor itching to serious illness requiring hospitalization.

"The advantage of the antirabies gamma globulin (RIG) is that it is practically free of side effects," Winkler said. "The new serum, however, costs an estimated $170 per patient, while the equine serum costs between $15 and $25.

Gonzalez said those in the city of 75,000 that can afford the RIG treatment pay, while the state pays for those who cannot afford it.

The RIG and equine serums provide only temporary immunity. Patients still must take a series of 23 inoculations of duck embryo vaccine.

Offshore tech is topic

An Exxon Production Research scientist from Houston will discuss "Offshore Technology: How Deep is the Ocean?" at tonight's meeting of the Panhandle section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

H. Ray Brannon Jr., will review developments and associated costs of offshore resource development at the meeting slated for 6:30 p.m. at the Coronado Inn.

Brannon will discuss some of the more recent advancements in offshore technology, including the current field of testing of totally submerged production systems for use in water depths beyond the technical and economic limits of drilling platforms.

A graduate of Auburn University with an MS degree in physics, Brannon joined Exxon Corporation in 1952. His work since 1968 has been offshore-related, including establishment of environmental design criteria for offshore facilities.

Buffalo boosters begin 2nd drive

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

There now are two fundraising drives at West Texas State University. One to net $308,000 to maintain an NCAA Division I athletic program and another to finalize a deal between area businessmen and Gene Mayfield.

Mayfield resigned Saturday effective April 1 as head football coach and athletic director after compiling a 24-39-2 record.

Insolvency in the athletic department, made worse by sagging attendance figures, marred Mayfield's tenure.

The WTSU board of regents met last week in Canyon to come up with an answer to the problem of coping with an expected deficit of $308,000 in the 1977-78 fiscal year. One reason for that proposed figure is a rider attached to an appropriations bill by the State Budget Board which would end the paying of coaches' salaries out of state teaching funds.

Mayfield has three years left on his contract, which guarantees him $7,890 annually from the WTSU athletic department and $23,670 from instructional funds.

A source told The News that Mayfield, in resigning, settled for one year's salary, which is to be paid by some area businessmen.

Lair was one of three area businessmen behind the deal.

"I would say that it was done by Stanley Davis in Amarillo and myself," Lair said. "Don Max Vars, president of the First National Bank of Canyon, contacted him to see if he'd be interested in talking."

"He (Mayfield) was just first class in understanding the problem and being fair in every respect. And he certainly didn't want to stand in the way of anything."

Lair said that the drives are directly related, insofar as raising the $308,000 might be easier if Mayfield resigned.

"He realized that the attendance thing was critical and it was really unlikely that it was going to improve much. So, something dramatic had to be done."

"I think that probably 80 percent of the people I've visited with had no malice or criticism toward Mayfield at all but they felt like until there was a more exciting brand of football, people would not attend."

Lair would not disclose exact terms of the deal.

"I don't feel like I should. I considered them to very reasonable from my point of view and I think he felt that way."

"The money is not all together. We've still got to get some of that money together and we appreciate any help we can get."

Lair's biggest concern right now is the money needed to offset the proposed deficit for the next fiscal year. The WTSU board of regents last week said that if the money is not raised in 30 days (by Feb. 7), WTSU would have to consider dropping its overall athletic program to a lower level.

Lair is chairman of the committee to raise the money. Another chairman is expected to be appointed by Jack Shelton, chairman of the board of

OJ, Ham, Guy top list of NEA all-pro players

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — Linebacker Jack Ham of the Pittsburgh Steelers, the indomitable O.J. Simpson and punter Ray Guy of the Oakland Raiders were the leading choices on the 1976 All-NFL team announced today by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

The team is chosen by polling the captains, team representatives and coaches of all 28 National Football League clubs.

This year's elite roster represents a breakthrough for such veterans as defensive end Tommy Hart of the San Francisco 49ers, tackle Jerry Sherk of Cleveland and guard Joe DeLamielleure of Buffalo, gaining all-pro recognition for the first time. And it heralds such youngsters as tight end Dave Casper of Oakland and defensive back Monte Jackson of Los Angeles, who'll be all-pros for a long time.

The Oakland Raiders, in gaining the Super Bowl, tied with the St. Louis Cardinals for the most representation — each placing three men on the first team.

This is the 1976-NEA All-NFL team.

Jaworski blasts LA

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Ron Jaworski, disenchanted with his pro football employers, says, "I will never play for the Los Angeles Rams again."

Jaworski, in a telephone interview, said he is completely disillusioned by the Rams' failure to give him an adequate chance. He has notified the Rams he is playing out his option and will be a free agent May 1.

Pat Haden and James Harris shared the bulk of the Los Angeles quarterbacking this season, but Haden, a rookie and Rhodes Scholar from the University of Southern California, caught the imagination of the fans and media.

"Pat did a good job, but he doesn't possess my ability, cushioned by four years experience as the pro," Jaworski said. "But in Los Angeles, a Southern California grad is like God, the newspapers don't give it to you straight."

Covalt wins 15th match

Monte Covalt of Pampa upped his season record to 15-1 by winning the 112-pound division championship in the Denton YMCA Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday.

David Burns of Pampa placed third in 72 pounds.

Brian Gordzdek in 71 pounds, Jeff Franks in 77 and Randy Barkley, all of Pampa, in 100 captured victories in the Spearman Invitational Elementary School Wrestling tournament, also Saturday.

Bruce Norris was second in 59 pounds, while other runners-up from Pampa were Russell Owen in 74 and Ricky Borchardt in 84. Grabbing third places for Pampa were Tate Eldridge in 71, Mike Korsmo in 74 and Mark Campbell in 77.

The Amarillo Maverick Club won the tournament, followed in order by Spearman, Pampa and Amarillo River Road.

Pampa, Borger meet in non-district clash

Pampa and Borger, both favored to win their respective districts, clash in a non-conference basketball contest at 7:45 p.m. today in Borger.

The junior varsity contest will start at 6 p.m., preceded by a sophomore game between the schools at 4:30.

Pampa is 13-4 overall, having won its last five contests. The Harvesters are led by 6-0 senior guard Rayford Young, averaging 17.8 points.

Other Pampa starters are 6-4 junior forward Rusty Ward (14.8 average), 6-3 senior guard Brian Bailey (14.6), 6-4 senior forward Don Hughes (13.1) and 6-4 junior post Ricky Buntun (8.0).

Borger's high-point man this season is 6-3 senior forward Mike Jackson, averaging 20.2 points and 10.6 rebounds. Other Bulldog standouts are 6-7 senior post Jason Welch (17.4 points, 7.7 rebounds) and 5-11 senior guard Ricky Dickson, a deadly outside threat.

Pampa and Borger have split in two previous meetings this season.

Alabama wins 4th SEC game

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Two Kings, Reginald and Bernard, are having a royal time of it in Southeastern Conference basketball play.

Reginald King scored 31 points to lead unbeaten, fourth-ranked Alabama to its 13th victory of the season Monday night, a 101-88 triumph over SEC rival Mississippi.

"I'm proud of our team for winning four games in eight days," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton. "As tight as the conference race is, there is a lot of mental tiredness as well as physical. Our December schedule is behind us. Instead of 13-0, we're 4-0 in the conference. That's what matters."

One reason the SEC race is so tight is Bernard King. The SEC scoring leader also poured in 31 points Monday night to rip Red 62-32.

The Pampa freshman blue team, behind three men in double figures, ripped the red team, 62-32, in junior high action Thursday.

In an eighth-grade game, the red team, led by Sam Edwards with 12 points, defeated the blue team, 35-22.

Joe Jeffers scored 12 points while Greg Quarles and Dewayne Avery added 10 apiece to spark the ninth-grade blue team. Mickey Bynum led the red team with six points.

power Tennessee to a 92-82 triumph over Florida, boosting the Vols' record to 3-0 in the conference and 9-2 overall.
