

President calls for sacrifice by all

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Carter's call for sacrifice and cooperation fresh in mind, Congress moved ahead today with consideration of the new administration's $31 billion proposals to create jobs and cut taxes.

Carter drew mixed reviews for his economic stimulus program from Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who told the House Banking Committee that "our nation needs to make progress during 1977, in creating more jobs and in expanding our industrial capacity."

But Burns called the Carter proposals "an inefficient way to stimulate the economy." The Reserve Board chairman was particularly critical of the proposed $50 rebate on 1976 taxes. He called it unnecessary and added, "The Treasury doesn't have this money. It's not a good habit for the country to get into."

Nonetheless, Burns said the Carter program was "prudent," considering the advice the new President was getting.

Other congressional committees met to question Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, Labor Secretary F. Ray Marshall, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps and other top administration officials about the details and impact of the economic stimulus program sent to Congress by Carter.

His presidency barely two weeks old, Carter addressed the nation Wednesday night in a setting that evoked memories of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his radio fireside chats during the Depression and World War II.

The President wore a beige cardigan sweater and sat in front of a fireplace in the White House library. Speaking softly, his tone relaxed, Carter mixed promises of decisive action on the nation's most pressing problems with calls for sacrifice as the only path to long-range solutions.

And he promised that government officials would join private citizens giving up some comforts long taken for granted.

Burns, whose positions are influential among more conservative members of Congress, did not refer directly to the Carter proposals although his statement supported the principles behind the program.

However, Burns also warned that any long-term economic program must be directed toward combating inflation. "The outlook for prices is thus a worrisome matter and it must be given careful attention," the Reserve Board chairman said.

In his fireside chat, Carter made clear his intention to cultivate direct communication with the American people.

And even as Congress labored over his economic proposals, Carter promised to send it by the end of the week his request for authority to reorganize executive departments and agencies of the government.

Carter outlined his initial proposals aimed at solving immediate problems, from the natural gas shortage brought on by extreme winter weather to the problems of unemployment and a stagnant economy.

But the strongest message Carter had for the American people was the need for personal sacrifice to solve national problems — sacrifice on the part of government officials as well as the people.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, assistant Senate Majority Leader, described Carter's speech as "a recognition that the real power in the country lies in the hands of the people."

House Majority Leader James Wright, D-Tex., said the most important facet of the Carter speech "was his call for cooperation of the American people. He obviously trusts the American people, and this I'm convinced will inspire their reciprocal trust."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said Carter's speech "inspired trust. What America needs is confidence in its government and he is giving it to us."

Just before addressing the nation, Carter signed an emergency measure passed by Congress that gives him authority to shift natural gas supplies to the areas of the nation hardest hit by extreme winter weather.

And even as he spoke natural gas began moving eastward from California and the Pacific Northwest.

While congratulating Congress for quick action on the natural gas bill, he emphasized that a long-range solution still must be sought. He has promised to send Congress a comprehensive plan by April 20.

"We must face the fact that our energy shortage is permanent. There is no way we can solve it quickly," he said.

In addition to setting a tone for his administration that emphasized the need for sacrifice, Carter announced these specific moves:

—He will reduce the number of government regulations and "make sure that those that are written are in plain English. Whenever a regulation is issued, it will carry the author's name."

—Changes in the tax laws to provide a "fairer, simpler system" are being worked out with the appropriate members of Congress. "We will outline the study procedures soon, and, after consultation with many American citizens and with the Congress, we will present a program of comprehensive tax reform before the end of this year."

—The secretaries of labor and health, education and welfare are reviewing the welfare system, planning a "complete overhaul" which will minimize abuse, strengthen the family — and emphasize adequate support for those who cannot work, and training and jobs for those who can. "An initial report is due in 90 days."

—He also pledged to "support the Congress in its efforts to deal with the widespread fraud and abuse of our Medicaid system."

—He promised that he and his Cabinet would conduct "an open administration" with frequent press conferences and reports to the people. He also promised to appear on network radio to "accept your phone calls and answer the questions that are on your mind."

—He said, "Soon I will put a ceiling on the number of people employed by federal government agencies so we can bring the growth of government under control."

Equipment at Pampa's new $1.4 million sewage treatment plant went into full operation Wednesday for a 30-day test period. City Manager Mack Wofford, left, and Lynn Colville of Wes-Tex Construction Co. of Borger, project contractor, watch the aeration process on waste water in the concrete oxidation ditch. George Sturgill, above, chief operator at the plant holds a sample of waste water, right, before treatment and left, after it is treated and ready to be released into Red Deer Creek. ## Mexico to sell U.S. gas MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico will help the United States fight the energy crisis by selling 40 million cubic feet of gas a day to its northern neighbor at current interstate prices, American embassy sources said today.

The sources said Mexico will start the gas flowing to the U.S. Monday or Tuesday and will also provide 600,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

President Carter said last night that Mexican President

Jose Lopez Portillo had offered to help the United States in the crisis caused by the extreme cold winter which has caused shutdowns in industry because of fuel shortages.

Mexico would charge the same rate for natural gas that Americans are paying now when the gas is piped from one state to another. Those prices range up to $1.40.

Sources said there was no fixed price for the crude oil.

Congress cool on rebate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's $50-per-person tax rebate plan is getting a cold reception in Congress as a government report indicates the severe winter weather will cost each household $139 in added fuel costs.

"Heating bills will consume all of the tax rebate," Sen. Hubert Humphrey warned Charles Schulze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, at a hearing of the Joint Economic Committee on Wednesday.

Humphrey released a Library of Congress study that estimated the extra fuel costs this winter will total $8.4 billion, or an average of $139 per household. The study also projected a possible wage loss of $1.6 billion because of plant shutdowns.

"If that's anywhere near right, it's an awful blow to the economy," Humphrey said.

Schulze said a special administration task force was trying to assess the economic damage caused by the weather. He conceded that the administration may have to increase the rebates or boost the two-year, $31.2-billion economic stimulus program in some other way to offset the weather's effects.

But Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told the House Banking Committee on Wednesday he saw no need to increase the package. While the weather "clearly makes the situation worse," the economy has performed "better than expected" in recent months, he said.

Blumenthal said he expects the Federal Reserve Board will cooperate in its money and interest rate policies with the Carter plan.

Board Chairman Arthur Burns was expected to make his first public comment on the program today before the House Banking Committee.

All 38 Republican senators came out Wednesday against Carter's $1.4 billion rebate plan, calling it a gimmick. They proposed their own $26.2 billion program to stimulate the economy by permanently cutting taxes. Some Democrats, meanwhile, contended the rebates were wasteful and that the money should be pumped into public works and jobs programs.

Reps. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, and Otis Pike, D-N.Y., members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Vanik said, "I am not enthusiastic about the rebate," and Pike added, "Isn't a tax rebate a terribly inefficient way to create jobs?"

But the committee chairman, Al Ullman, D-Ore., defended the rebate plan and said he thinks it is virtually certain to win approval despite the bipartisan criticism.

But Ullman nevertheless criticized Carter's proposals affecting business as a "hodgepodge." He said he would push for his own plan for a tax credit that could amount to $1,050 to an employer for each employee hired in 1977 and 1978, instead of Carter's 2 per cent investment tax credit increase or 4 per cent credit on payroll taxes.

Property value gauge defeated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — In the new legislature's first skirmish over school finance, the House today defeated a resolution that would have used two sets of property value figures to gauge the impact of various proposals.

The vote was 53 for and 85 against the resolution by Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, chairman of the House Education Committee.

Massey proposed to bind both houses to using only the property value figures produced by the Governor's Office of Education. One set would be market value only. The other would be smaller amounts based on valuation of farm and ranch land on the basis of their agricultural productivity.

"Overall, these are the best set of figures that have been produced," Massey said.

Earlier, the House had in effect rejected an attempt to use a single set of figures—those producing the best local tax result for each district, whether market value or agricultural value.

Agricultural use figures would tend to produce a smaller requirement on rural taxpayers to finance their schools than market value.

Massey said his resolution would keep House and Senate members from "comparing cabbages with cantaloupes" when they analyze various school finance proposals.

But rural legislators spoke heatedly against binding the House and Senate committees at this early date to the governor's figures.

'JFK killer did not act alone'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Assassinations Committee, given two months to prove his panel should stay in business, says he has new evidence that indicates the killers of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. did not act alone.

After the House voted Wednesday night to continue the panel through March 31, Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., told reporters that he has new, unsubstantiated evidence of conspiracies in each assassination.

"We have threshold evidence, not yet completely corroborated and cross-checked, that indicates the strong possibility that James Earl Ray did not act alone" in the King slaying and that Lee Harvey Oswald was not alone in killing Kennedy, said Gonzalez.

The assassinations panel was established last September, but a controversy developed over its request for a budget of $6.5 million a year and its chief counsel, Richard A. Sprague.

The two-month extension was a compromise, and Gonzalez will have to work with $84,000 a month.

Gonzalez said the new evidence had developed since the committee issued its preliminary report in December. He declined to elaborate, saying it might jeopardize the investigation, and he stressed that the leads still have to be checked out closely.

His remarks conflicted directly with a Justice Department report leaked earlier Wednesday that concluded Ray alone killed King.

After a 10-month investigation, a team of Justice Department lawyers rejected theories that Ray was only a cog in a conspiracy to assassinate the civil rights leader.

The report, completed several weeks ago, was withheld from formal publication so it would not influence the House vote. Justice Department sources said. But opponents of the assassination committee cited the report Wednesday. Supporters said they found the timing of the leak suspicious.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., notes that "no group in the United States has more fringe benefits, allowance — call them what you will — than members of Congress."

In a recent speech, Goldwater listed some of the perquisites, or "perks," enjoyed by members of Congress. Among them are:

Mideast impasse

The vote was 122 to 2, with the United States and Israel voting no, when the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted a resolution on the Middle East recently.

The vote was overwhelming to resume the Geneva peace conference by March, with Palestinian delegates participating.

The United States and Israel took the position that Palestinians should not participate.

It would seem essential, however, that the Palestinians participate in any negotiations aimed at establishing a permanent peace agreement. They obviously must be a party to such an agreement if it is to have any chance of success.

But Israel understandably refuses to negotiate directly with the Palestinians as long as they refuse to recognize Israel's right to existence as an independent state.

The Palestinians won't acknowledge Israel's right to exist as long as Israel refuses to negotiate with them.

The impasse stands in the way of progress toward peace in the Middle East.

Try this one

Here's a question to try out at your next cocktail party. What word in the English language has the most synonyms?

According to Dr. Maire Weir Kay, editor of the new Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, the word is "intoxicated." The reference work lists no less than 46 synonyms, ranging from "blind" to "zanked."

It is "an odd fact of linguistic life" that a word with so many synonyms adds more as time goes on, says Kay. Yet each generation makes up new adjectives for intoxicated.

Incidentally, close runner-up in the synonym race is "insane." This word has 41 synonyms, ranging from "batty" to "wacky."

All of which seems to say something about people, but we're not quite sure what.

BUREAUCRATS

Can Carter cut 'em down?

By ROGER A. FREEMAN

R.C. Hoiles Fellow

Hillsdale (Mich.) College

Among the many broad goals Jimmy Carter outlined during his presidential campaign and among the numerous generalized and often hazy promises he made, there are not many that could be called definite and specific. One of the few: "The first piece of legislation I will send to Congress will initiate a complete overhaul of our Federal bureaucracy and budgeting systems." He promised to reduce the present 1900 Federal agencies to no more than 200, "with a great savings in tax money." Prospects of relief from the ever growing Federal burden was sweet music to the ears of taxpayers. It accounted in no small way for Carter's success in the primaries in which he was the only candidate in his party to suggest a cutback in the federal establishment and for his narrow triumph in the election.

What are the chances that Jimmy Carter, now that he is President, will and can make good on this promise? Let us look at the record. Mr. Carter's sincerity in wanting to cut the number of government agencies cannot be doubted. As Governor of Georgia he reduced the number of state departments from 300 to 22 and then claimed that he had cut administrative costs by 50 per cent. But the number of state employees and the size of state expenditures in Georgia during his term as Governor went up, not down. Georgia State Auditor Ernest Davis could find no administrative savings by the Carter administration.

Nor should this surprise us. The cost of government is set not by the number of agencies but by the nature and magnitude of the programs — money spent and people employed.

If Governor Carter had actually abolished 278 state agencies in Georgia and with them the programs they administer and if he had fired their employees there would indeed have been a sizeable saving. So there would be if President Carter were now to wipe out 1700 Federal agencies together with their staffs and programs. But there is no chance that he could do that.

What Mr. Carter intends to do is to combine large numbers of separate agencies into a smaller number to carry on the same activities. How much would that save in staff or money?

What happened since 1953 when several Federal agencies were merged in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare? The staff has soared from 35,000 to 135,000 and spending from $5 billion to $145 billion.

No activity of the agencies involved was cut out, no program was eliminated nor reduced but many were blown up to huge size and new ones added.

To merge several — or large departments — of small government departments into fewer but larger departments enhances their combined clout. It more effectively organizes an army of "big government" advocates. It is another step toward further growth, not a reduction, in the size of Leviathan.

When Governor Carter reduced the number of Georgia state agencies from 300 to 22, only those few were abolished which had been dormant for years and were then not carrying out active programs. Social welfare and other programs active before the "reform" were continued afterwards, usually on a larger scale.

The only way in which the size of the federal establishment could be reduced — cutting the size of the payroll and the budget — would be to reduce or eliminate programs. There is no intention on the part of President Carter or the 95th Congress, judging from their announced plans, to cut some of the big social welfare programs.

To the contrary — all signs point toward continued pressure for new and expanded social welfare programs.

Pressure groups prefer "their own" agency — though they may at times form temporary alliances for the achievement of common goals. Thus, Mr. Carter's promise of an "overhaul of our Federal bureaucracy" holds no prospect of relief for the American taxpayer.

It does pay to read

At a time when we hear so much about the decline in reading ability among the nation's youth, it is good to learn that one organization is successfully motivating children to read books in school systems across the country.

The organization is the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, which for the past two years has been conducting a program called the "MS Read-a-thon."

It works this way: Schoolchildren between the first and eighth grades volunteer to seek sponsors, who pledge 10 cents and up for each book the children read during a four- to six-week period. The number of books read is verified by teachers and parents and funds collected are used for multiple sclerosis patient services and to support research into the cause and cure of MS, known as the "mysteriouscripper of young adults."

Since it began locally in Cleveland in 1974, some $5 million has been raised nationwide through the program.

That's a lot of books, and a lot of kids. In fact, the society says that the hundreds of thousands of youngsters who have participated in the MS Read-a-thon have read more than 10 million books so far.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

When will we collect debts?

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — A publicly unknown but increasingly disquieting aspect of East-West relations is slated for a long-needed airing — with certain reverberating disclosures.

It's the rapidly accumulating mountain of debts owed the West by Russia and its satellites.

They are put at upwards of $38 billion — with some in default and others verging on that.

This stupendous total is what Sen. Harry Byrd, Ind., Va., chairman of the International Finance Subcommittee, intends to explore — how and why it developed, who are the principal creditors and debtors, and other pertinent details.

Due to be questioned at a series of committee hearings are State Department, Treasury and other government authorities, and officials of leading banks.

The latter's testimony is especially desired by Byrd because of the significant nature of the immense Soviet bloc debt.

Of the $38 billion, around $20 billion consists of government-to-government transactions, and $18 billion in loans by commercial banks — some of them American whose loans are guaranteed by the government.

Case in Point

Strikingly illustrative of this little-known, disturbing problem with far-reaching economic, financial and political ramifications is Poland.

This deeply troubled and restrictive satellite owes Western creditors around $12 billion, an uncertain but believed considerable part of it to private banks in Europe, Japan and the U.S.

Equally remarkable are two other startling factors:

(1) This immense debt was acquired in the last five years in the Kremlin-imposed regime's frantic efforts to industrialize Poland; (2) estimates of the cost of servicing this staggering burden range from 10 to 20 per cent of the country's annual hard-currency earnings (exports).

Compounding the difficulties are severely adverse harvests forcing the Warsaw rulers to import large quantities of foreign grain.

Communist party boss Edward Gierek has publicly stated $1.5 billion in meat, soybeans, corn and other animal feed will have to be bought from the West this year. And that isn't all.

A lot of oil will have to be imported — with Russia soaking its satellite for all the market will bear.

The Soviet Union, following in the footsteps of the OPEC countries, has hiked the price of oil to its bloc brethren by 10 per cent — with clear intimations another hefty increase is likely by spring.

These grueling pressures are forcing Gierek to seek easing of debt terms.

In one known instance, the Poles are asking for three-year credit instead of the usual six or nine-month terms. In others, large industrial projects are being shelved — among them a motor-bus plant by a U.S. concern.

No Let-Up

While Sen. Byrd is preparing to thoroughly scrutinize East-West financing, another persistent congressional crusader is renewing his long efforts to induce government authorities to collect vast delinquent sums owing the U.S.

These unpaid obligations amount to $677,130,954 — as of Dec. 31, 1975, latest available official figures.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., influential member of the Appropriations Committee, wasted no time in the new Congress in resuming his demand that the State and Treasury Departments bestir themselves to obtain repayment.

Citing a report of the Treasury's Office of Debt that there was a 9 per cent increase in these foreign delinquencies in

For Friday, Feb. 4, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are generally lucky today in love, friendship or getting along with people, but money matters aren't included in this good fortune.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're sitting on top of the world in most endeavors today, but the flaw is you don't capitalize on your good fortune. You take too much for granted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Joint ventures bring out the best in your ingenuity today, but avoid boasting about your prowess. Let others sing your praises.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In financial dealings today, let the other party set the price. If you call the shots, you could realize less than he would have offered.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The greatest rewards for you today come from what you do for others. Put your interests last.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Those who care about you are doing quite a bit in your behalf today. You may not recognize this now, but you'll appreciate it later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's essential to observe the line of demarcation between social and business situations. Like water and oil, they won't mix well today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can readily accomplish what you put your mind to today, provided you don't rely too heavily on others. Allies will be little more than dead weight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Head your own best judgment in matters having to do with your work or career today. Seeking diverse opinions will only mess up your schedule.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're much sharper in business than usual today, as long as you adhere to your normally prudent instincts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If you're negotiating an agreement today be fair, but don't be foolish. If you make a concession, make sure the other party concedes equally.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have the ear of your superiors today and you can easily advance your own cause. Don't belabor your point, however, or you might lose out.

Your Birthday

Feb. 4, 1977

Overall conditions look extremely promising for you this coming year. However, your gains will not come about in an expected fashion.

Carter turns on gas for coldest states

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is acting immediately to keep homes and hospitals warm by shifting natural gas into states punished hardest by the extreme winter.

The transfers are permitted under an emergency law signed by President Carter — the first piece of legislation he has approved since his inauguration.

Carter's chief energy assistant, James R. Schlesinger, said the administration is issuing orders today "to get the gas moving... Gas pipeline executives will be available... to tell us where the gas is and how to move it."

Generally, the gas is likely to be moved from west to east, where shortages are more severe and the winter more fierce. But that could change with the weather. And there can be no instant relief. Natural gas moves only about 15 miles an hour in pipelines.

By executive order, Carter put Chairman Richard L. Dunham of the Federal Power Commission, which regulates the natural gas industry, in charge of transferring the gas. Carter ordered Dunham to consult with the Interior Department and Federal Energy Administration.

As he signed the Emergency Natural Gas Act late Wednesday, the President said he had been told by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. that 10 billion cubic feet of gas is available in his state for transfer, thanks to strict conservation measures.

Carter also said President Jose Lopez Portillo of Mexico told him Tuesday night his country will try to provide oil and natural gas to the United States. Carter didn't say how much or when.

Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. said it has arranged to obtain about 130 million cubic feet of gas per day from the Pacific Northwest. El Paso Natural Gas and the Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. is piping the gas to south Texas and Transco-Companies Inc. will move it to Eastern Seaboard customers.

Carter said the transfers, particularly the shift of natural gas from California, "would have been completely impossible" without the natural gas law, which passed Congress only a few hours before Carter signed it.

The Senate approved the measure by voice vote. The House voted 336-82 to send it to Carter. Before his first "fire-side chat," in which he asked Americans for sacrifice and cooperation during the emergency, the President put his signature on the bill. Even as Congress and the President acted: —The Library of Congress said the fierce winter will cost each household an average $130 in increased heating bills. —Federal Power Commissioner John H. Holloman III said some factory closings because of gas shortages — and the resulting layoffs, counted at 1.5 million already — might last until spring even if the weather warms up.

$13,000 pay increase closer

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Automatic pay raises of nearly $13,000 a year for members of Congress and other top government officials are a step closer to reality.

The Senate voted 56 to 42 Wednesday to kill an amendment by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., to block the increases, which would boost the lawmakers' pay from $44,600 to $57,500.

The hikes for Congress, federal judges, Cabinet members and other top government officials were recommended by former President Gerald Ford and supported by President Carter. They take effect automatically Feb. 20 unless the Senate or House intervenes.

Allen told reporters the issue now appears to be settled. He said he would renew his efforts to block the increases only if at least five senators tell him they have shifted position and will vote no. This might happen if they felt "enough heat from back home," he said.

Despite the loss, Allen said at least he succeeded in forcing a roll call vote that put senators on record on the pay hike.

The vote came on an amendment Allen offered to a Senate reorganization bill. The Senate tabled the amendment, effectively killing it.

An attempt may be made in the House to get an anti-pay raise resolution out of committee. But Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill has predicted the House will not block the pay hikes.

The pay hikes affect 2,000 top federal officials directly, but also will allow 20,000 civil servants earning $39,600 to get raises of up to $7,900 a year. Their pay has been held back so they would not earn more than their superiors.

Ford becomes adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford has accepted a part time position as an adviser and consultant at a Washington research organization, the fourth job he has taken since leaving office.

The American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research announced on Wednesday that Ford will become the organization's Distinguished Fellow.

Ford will have an office at the institute, which probably will become his base when he is in Washington. He will be paid, but salary arrangements have not been completed.

William J. Baroody, president of the institute, said the former president will serve as a consultant and adviser, meeting with scholars in public policy studies, and probably doing some writing for the organization.

The institute, established in 1943, is a nonprofit, nonpartisan educational and research organization. William J. Baroody Jr., once a White House aide to Ford, is executive vice president.

WWII air craft crashes

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A World War II vintage aircraft sat covered with mud in a Mexican corn field today, but its former passengers were safe and waiting to return to Idaho.

Two pilots and 16 other Idaho residents saw engine trouble develop Wednesday and were forced to crash-land with landing gear up two miles from the Texas border in Mexico. No one was killed and there were no serious injuries.

Brownsville airport manager Arthur Wendt had said earlier the passengers and pilot were from Iowa, but after going to the scene he reported they came from Roberts, Idaho, and the surrounding area.

Pilot A.D. Mallord of Shelley, Idaho, and another pilot had flown their passengers on a trip to Guatemala and they were on the way home. Mallord is the owner of the plane.

"We developed a bad engine and shut it down on the left side," Mallord said. "Then about two or three minutes later we heard a banging and the aircraft was hard to control."

Passengers said cornstalks flew over the wings as the plane slid about 300 yards through knee-deep mud. The baggage door flew open, spattering the compartment's contents with mud.

The aircraft was en route to Fort Stockton in West Texas from Brownsville when the engine trouble was reported about 10 minutes after takeoff here.

"The pilot radioed he had only 100 feet of altitude with one engine out and that he was turning back towards Brownsville," said Wendt.

The airport manager said Mallord could have tried to return to the Brownsville airport but his altitude was so low he didn't want to risk flying over Matamoros, Mexico, and Brownsville, so he decided to crash-land in the corn field.

The stop in Brownsville had been unscheduled because of engine trouble. The pilot believed the problem had been cleared up before he took off for Fort Stockton, Wendt said.

"We just fastened our seat belts and knew we were in good hands," said Kay Menan, 56, of Menan, Idaho. "It was just about as smooth as an airport landing. I've been on commercial airlines with rougher landings."

Three Mexican farm pickups transported the passengers to the border, where Cameron County sheriff's deputies met them for a trip to a Brownsville hotel.

Authorities estimated it would take weeks to pull the plane out of the mud. The Idaho residents planned to use commercial means to get home.

Longet won't appeal homicide

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, unwilling to face the ordeal of a new trial, has decided to go to jail for 30 days rather than appeal her negligent homicide conviction in the death of her lover.

Attorney Charles Weedman

said late Tuesday night. "A decision has been reached not to appeal and not to seek a new trial."

He gave no reason for the change in earlier announced plans for an appeal. But he said Miss Longet made "the ultimate decision" not to pursue a new round of legal battles.

The 36-year-old former showgirl, appearing weary and dejected, declined an interview Tuesday, saying, "I want to put all of this behind me."

She told reporters who covered her trial: "I hope I never have to see any of you again."

Her decision meant that she would have to serve the 30-day jail sentence handed down Monday by District Judge George Lohr.

Weedman said she would accept Lohr's offer to let her serve the time next summer when her three children are on vacation from school. The children — Noelle, 13, Christian, 11, and Bobby, 7 — could then be sent to California to stay with their father, singer Andy Williams, while their mother is jailed.

Miss Longet will be on probation for two years.

Williams, who has supported his ex-wife throughout her trial, was present Monday when Miss Longet made an emotional plea to the judge to be spared from jail for the sake of her children.

FCC plans crackdown on CB bands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission says it plans to crack down on citizens band radio operators who transmit on single sidebands on frequencies not assigned to CBs.

Sideband, which requires a specially equipped radio, uses only one side of a channel, which is legal when CB channels are used.

But some CBers, the FCC said Tuesday, are using equipment intended for amateur radio and using false call signs.

Some signals by single sideband CBers are in the 27.40 to 28.00 megahertz range and above, which the FCC and international treaty allocate to the public safety and industrial services, the federal government and the amateur radio service, the commission notice said.

'Sing like instrumentals'

By Pampa News Staff
The Four Freshmen brought their sound to Pampa Wednesday evening in a Community Concert performance at M.K. Brown Auditorium. It is a sound polished by almost three decades of practice and performing, but still fresh, and still Freshman.

Ross Barbour, one of the two originators still with the group, said "We sing more like instrumentalists would play it than like singers would sing it. We built our arrangements by ear — everybody chose their own note."

The quartet travels in a Country Square Motor Home, usually taking shorter concert tours than the current 65-day schedule.

"We've been lucky for the last 10 years," Barbour said. "We've been free to go out for a three-week tour or a four-week tour, and then go home for a couple of weeks. This is the longest tour in a long time."

And Pampa was just the fourth day into it. The day before they were in Vernon and were scheduled for Borger today.

The Four Freshmen first earned fame in the 1950's and Ray Brown, who sings second voice and plays the electric piano, bass and drums, said "We don't pay any attention to current trends. We pay attention to songs and music. Trends have never effected the Four Freshmen and never will. We just keep on doing what we do and we did it through the folk music craze and the Elvis Presley Craze and the Beatle Mania. And we're still doing it."

Barbour said one Freshmen distinction is the fact that they provide their own backup.

"That's kind of an ace in the hole with us. Other groups play, other groups sing. But we play and sing and we always have."

He said that when the group first started, "We called ourselves modern. We think of ourselves as jazz, but we're not really a jazz group. We're Freshmen. We're not part of any other trend and we're not like any other group. We're just us. Enough people have been interested in that, it's been a key to success."

It's a key that others have tried to borrow, Barbour said.

"A lot of the groups have gone to school on us," he said, and he mentioned The Lettermen and the Beach Boys.

Concerning the latter group, "They even mention us in their concerts as being the group they learned from," Barbour said, adding that "a lot of the groups who don't do what we do are still influenced by us."

The last performance in the concert series will be March 28 by Danzas Venezuela.

Prinze fan kills herself

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Just three hours after comedian Freddie Prinze was buried, a young girl was found dying. A suicide note near her said, "If Freddie had lived, so would I."

Lynn Ann Barillier, 13, idolized Prinze, 22, star of the television show "Chico and the Man." His suicide apparently had a devastating effect on her.

As Prinze had done, Lynn Ann put a gun to her temple and fired once. She died 28 hours later on Tuesday in Verdugo Hills Hospital.

A police spokesman detailed the death of the junior high school girl Wednesday and released her note:

"The reasons I can't go on any more are many," she said in the five-page, neatly handwritten note, "including the deaths of Barney & Cindy & now Kelly and Freddie."

Glendale police said Barney was a family friend who died a few years ago. Cindy was a cat. Kelly was a dog.

"I find it hard to live now," the note said, "though it really is no one's fault but my own. I would like to be buried next to (or as close as possible to) Freddie Prinze, my favorite actor-comedian."

Police said Miss Barillier had talked about Prinze's suicide all through last weekend, but said her parents and 15-year-old brother got no hint she planned to kill herself.

She seemed normal when the mother and brother left her alone in the house at 4 p.m. Monday to go to a doctor's office, police said. They said her mother found her body 40 minutes later. The girl was lying on top of her father's .38-caliber pistol.

In her note, Lynn Ann said, "I just want to say again that it is nobody's fault but mine, so please don't feel bad or guilty, please!! I'm not sick or anything, just unhappy and depressed."

Along with the note was a will, in which Lynn Ann asked that her stuffed animals go to one friend. Girl Scout equipment to another and "home-made pillow to grandma."

Among the items she wanted buried with her was "my spotted stuffed puppy" and "the autographed picture of Freddie Prinze."

In a postscript, the note said, "If Freddie had lived, so would I. He died, so will I. Please, just please bury me by Freddie! It's my last dying wish; please grant it."

She is to be interred Friday at Forest Lawn Glendale, about eight miles from where Prinze was buried on Monday.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Snow whitened most of the Texas Panhandle again today, and rain fell nearly everywhere else in the state as the latest norther swept toward the coast. Moisture was lacking only in far West Texas.

About one inch of snow accumulated generally across the Panhandle in a storm centered on that part of the country.

Rain or drizzle, sometimes mixed with fog, varied from a trace in Southwest Texas to as much as one-half inch in places along the coast. Occasional thunderstorms rumbled across East Texas.

There was early morning fog around such widely separated points as Brownsville, Victoria and Wichita Falls.

Temperatures dipped near dawn to 29 degrees at Dalhart and 31 at Amarillo in the Panhandle. In other areas the range was from the middle 30s into the 50s, with Brownsville staying as warm as 57.

Forecasts called for the skies to start clearing from west to east and rain to stop by tonight over all but extreme East Texas.

National weather

By The Associated Press
A winter storm centered over West Texas began to weaken overnight after dumping up to eight inches of snow over the mountains of New Mexico. But snow still was falling this morning across the east and north parts of New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and Northwest Oklahoma.

A winter storm warning was extended into today across eastern New Mexico, and travel advisories were up for North Texas and Northwest Oklahoma, where one to three inches of snow was predicted.

The upper air disturbance that set off the storm in the Rockies also spread scattered snow and thundershowers across much of East Texas and Louisiana.

Snow was falling today from North Missouri to the Great Lakes. Travel advisories covered northeastern Missouri, north and central Illinois, northern Indiana, and Michigan. Gale warnings covered Lake Superior and Lake Huron.

Dense fog covered parts of eastern Kansas and western Missouri, as well as parts of the Pacific coast. Elsewhere, clear or partly cloudy skies prevailed.

Montana had mild temperatures overnight, with readings in the 20s and 30s and predictions for unseasonable warm weather today.

Elsewhere around the nation, temperatures were generally seasonable, readings were close to zero across Vermont and New Hampshire and in the teens across the rest of the north Atlantic coast states and the upper Mississippi valley.

Readings in the 20s and 30s were common across the remainder of the nation except for 40s and 50s in the Pacific states, the southern plains and the Gulf coast. Temperatures were in the 60s across southern Florida.

TEC fills 114 jobs in January

The Texas Employment Commission reported today that 114 jobs were filled in January from the Pampa office.

Bill Ragsdale, manager of the TEC Pampa office, said that the January jobs - filled figure shows an increase of 25 over a year ago when there were 89 recorded for January.

"We are filling jobs daily," Ragsdale said, adding that the job descriptions include skilled, semi-skilled, unskilled and service occupations.

Salaries range from minimum wage to $1,000 monthly.

Ragsdale said he has noticed, "no particular industry doing real well or real poorly."

He said there has been little activity concerning agriculture jobs, but noted that it is normal for this time of year.

"The lack of moisture has little effect now, but it might have quite an effect later in the year," he said.

The most recent figures available show that Pampa's November unemployment rate was 2.7 per cent, compared to a state average of 5.4 per cent and a national average of 7.4 per cent for the same month.

Relatives advise 'rich kids'

By MILLER H. BONNER Jr.
Associated Press Writer
ALICE, Tex. (AP) — The bizarre events surrounding two juveniles and $486,000 in unclaimed cash has taken a strange turn as one of the boys' relatives advised them to "stay in Waco."

The two Alice high school students were detained in Waco Monday after being stopped for a traffic violation in a just-purchased 1977 Thunderbird.

Officers found a bag of marijuana, an automatic pistol and two suitcases filled with money.

Juvenile authorities in Waco filed petitions late Wednesday accusing the 15-year-old of marijuana possession and the 16-year-old with possession of a prohibited weapon.

State District Court Judge Bill Loge set a Feb. 24 hearing date on the petitions.

"I think the boys are a lot safer in Waco," said the relative Wednesday in Alice. "A lot of drug traffic comes through the Alice area. You have to put two and two together. How many people have that much money just sitting around the house? If it is money that had been saved, why didn't someone claim it? Dope dealers don't like to be burned for half a million dollars."

If no one does claim the money, it may be returned to the two teenagers, the Dallas Morning News quoted a judge as saying.

"Our laws would require its return unless officers show it was stolen or someone steps forward with proof they took the cash after it was misplaced. And considering the circumstances, I doubt anyone will come forward," the judge said.

The relative claims one of the boys got the money from his father's ranchhouse after a family argument.

"The boys got that money and just went berserk," he said.

In a hastily-called news conference Wednesday — the first held in the Jim Wells County courthouse since the infamous Ballot Box 13 episode in 1948 — the county sheriff, Monroe Whitman, and Alice Police Chief Juan Rodriguez said their attempts to locate either the ranch or the boys' father had proved futile.

"We don't have any arrest warrants issued and we haven't gotten any search warrants," said Rodriguez.

The police chief and sheriff remained tight-lipped during the 55-minute session because, as Rodriguez said, "Our main function is to cooperate with the Waco police. If we make any statements now, it would be detrimental to our efforts and the efforts of the Waco police department."

They did admit, however, that the search for the ranch centered on an area north of Alice.

"We have a man checking the county courthouse records to see if this boy's father or stepfather has a title in his name, but that takes time," said Whitman.

Teams of mud-splattered deputies and policemen combed the area inundated by week-long rains, asking ranchers for information about the boy's father.

The other boy's parents, accompanied by a lawyer, headed for Waco Wednesday to visit their son.

Young goes to Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, flew into Dar es Salaam today and then headed straight for the island of Zanzibar for meetings with Tanzania President Julius Nyerere and other African heads of state.

The 44-year-old black Georgian arrived in the Tanzanian capital after a 14-hour stopover in London for briefings on southern Africa by top British officials.

In Zanzibar, the island which combined with mainland Tanganyika to form modern Tanzania, Young was to be Nyerere's guest at celebrations marking Tanzania's political union.

Tanzania is his first African stop on a 10-day visit to Africa that is described as a fact-finding mission for the new Carter administration.

He is to meet with the leaders of Tanzania, Nigeria and other black African states "to hear their views on African problems and U.S. cooperation at the United Nations," the White House said when it announced the trip.

Zanzibar, which lies 23 miles off Tanganyika, is now the world center of the clove trade. But for centuries it was a headquarters of Arab slave traders who roamed the African mainland capturing blacks.

Portugal ruled the island for two centuries until ousted by Arabs around 1700. In 1890 it became a British protectorate. Independence came in 1963, but after a year of bloody revolution it united with Tanganyika.

During Young's busy stop in London he met with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland, Ivor Richard, chairman of the stalled Geneva talks on the future of Rhodesia, and Shridath Ramphal, secretary-general of the British Commonwealth.

He said after the talks that his optimism for a quick settlement in Rhodesia had "waned."

"Nobody's given up hope, but nobody expects any easy answers," he said. "I know negotiations (on Rhodesia) are going to be a long and tedious process."

From Tanzania, Young flies westward across Africa to Nigeria. Aides said the ambassador has not ruled out a visit to South Africa but has had no invitation from Prime Minister John Vorster.

Young told airport reporters that his 14-hour stay in London gave him "an insight into the attitude of Britain toward southern Africa."

Britain, backed by the United States, is trying to persuade Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and his white-minority government to negotiate a peaceful transition to majority rule in the country where the 6.4 million blacks outnumber the 270,000 whites nearly 30 to 1.

Death row vows denied

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two convicted murderers who requested a Death Row wedding to make their 21-month-old daughter legitimate have been turned down by a prison official who says it would "serve no useful purpose."

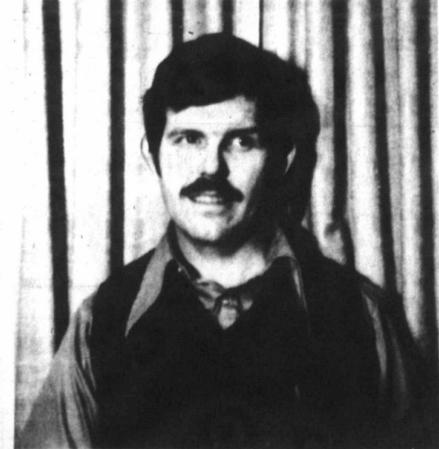

Louie Wainwright, secretary of the Florida Department of Prisoner Rehabilitation, said Wednesday that he's not sure the inmates are sincere, that the wedding would cost too much, that it might endanger the public and that the girl's legitimacy could be solved by adoption after her parents are executed.

Jessie Tafero, 30, and Sonia Jacobs, 28, imprisoned 55 miles apart, were sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murders a year ago of a state highway patrolman and a visiting constable from Ontario, Canada.

Their daughter, born nine months before the crime, is being cared for in California by Miss Jacobs' parents, who have not been identified.

The prisoners said this week that they would like to be married, just to give their daughter a name.

Wainwright said illegitimacy is one of the few grounds on which the state will permit a marriage between inmates, but he said that if the young couple had been sincere in their wish to marry, they could have done so during the 18 months between the conception of the child and their arrest.

Thomas will receive an annual salary of $17,000. Jones who had been with the hospitals 19 months received $18,600 per year.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-H. W. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last summer for my 16th birthday, my mother gave me a nose job. My nose is a lot smaller now but it's slightly lopsided. I mean one of my nostrils is higher than the other.

After I had my nose done, my mother had hers done by another doctor. Hers came out really perfect, and now she wants HER doctor to do my nose over.

I don't want to go through that whole thing again with the black and blue eyes and the swollen face, but my mother insists on it. Don't you think I should have something to say about it? After all, it's my nose.

My mother says that as a minor I have to do whatever she says.

Please help me.

HAD ENOUGH

DEAR HAD: If you're satisfied with your nose, hold your ground. Your mother can't force you into elective surgery. And knowing how you feel, no respectable plastic surgeon would take your case.

DEAR ABBY: My husband never fails to show me every item you put in your column about fat women.

Isn't it funny that a man never sees himself as he looks now? My husband had all his teeth pulled and won't wear his dentures. He's only 52, but he looks like 72. He goes around needing a shave, and I have to fight with him to get him to change his clothes.

Now for me: I was 27, slim and trim when he married me. Four years later, after I had my third baby, I was 50 pounds overweight.

My husband never wanted to go any place. He just wanted to stay home, drink beer and watch TV. I'm so fat now it's an effort for me to walk around, so of course my house is dirty. I'm in a terrible rut. If only I could lose this weight!

My husband won't lift a hand to help me, and the house is falling apart.

We have no friends and I'm so ashamed of the way we live, but I don't know how to change it. Am I hopeless?

NO FUTURE

DEAR NO: You're only hopeless if you think you are. Start with yourself. Look up OVEREATER'S ANONYMOUS and force yourself to attend one meeting. Or contact your local mental health society. The kind of help you need is available in both places. But they won't come to YOU—you must go to them. Take this advice as though your life depended upon it—because it does.

DEAR ABBY: First someone writes in and complains because it takes forever to get a check in a restaurant. In fact, one party was so burned up after waiting so long that she left without paying.

Then someone else writes in and complains because the waiter shoves the check under their noses before they even put their forks down, which is way of saying, "Goodbye, already. We need the table!"

So, Dear Abby, what do you suggest?

A WAITER CAN'T WIN

DEAR WAITER: The diner should request the check, whereupon the waiter should present it promptly.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently my rectal specialist sent me to have a barium enema. He discovered an enlarged spleen. When I asked him what would have to be done he said I would have to see my family doctor. I did and he said to forget it. Occasionally I have a left sideache. Could the enlarged spleen be the cause? Please give me some information on it as I never heard of it before.

DEAR READER — In many ways the spleen is a large lymph gland located just where the colon makes a right angle turn on the left side. It is just under the ribs on the left side.

It gets enlarged in response to innumerable disorders and sometimes for no apparent reason at all. It enlarges so often in so many diseases that I recall in medical school the students had a rule, if the professor asked how often the spleen was enlarged in a given disorder the answer was always 15 per cent of the time.

The spleen can be enlarged in response to any of the infectious diseases and it may also be enlarged in less common serious illnesses such as some leukemias. I would think that your spleen must not be very large if your family doctor is not concerned about it and that its enlargement is of no real medical importance in your case.

The spleen destroys old red blood cells and when it becomes overactive it can destroy too many red and white blood cells, causing anemia. To give you more information on the anemia group I am sending you The Health Letter, number 4-3, Understanding Anemias. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Mine is a first aid help. Four one-half cup water into a small plastic bag, tie shut very tightly with a rubber band and lay out flat in the freezer. This makes a handy ice bag for burns, cuts and bruises. I found it a life saver when I burned myself in the kitchen. The cold compress brings relief and works better than cold water or ice cubes. — A.D.

DEAR POLLY — I found I still had the clipping that once appeared in your column for making a sugar syrup to use for stiffening crocheted doilies. The paper had started to yellow so it must have been a long time ago that this appeared. Boil one-half cup sugar and one-fourth cup water, until it bubbles. Remove from the fire and when cool enough to touch immerse the doily. When saturated wring it out and shape while it dries. The doily should be very stiff when dry and may I add that this is the best way I have ever used. Hope this will help Ruth. — CLAIRE.

Polly will send you one of her "peachy" thank-you cards, ideal for framing or placing in your family scrapbook, if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peavee or Problem in her column. Write Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

Joyce Puckett to head senior center

The Pampa Senior Citizens Center has a new director.

"I took the job because I've been here about three months on a volunteer basis, and I've never had so much fun in my life," Joyce Puckett said. She recently assumed management at the center, having replaced Mrs. Wanda Talley, director for the past two years. Mrs. Talley will continue to serve as a member of the Board of Directors.

With the help of assistant Penny Hinkle, Mrs. Puckett last week began publication of a newsletter. The weekly "Senior Sentinel" is available at the center. The new director said the recent contribution of a duplicating machine made publication possible.

She said one of her primary concerns is keeping the hot lunch program in the black. "It's paying its way now, but I'd like to see more senior citizens take advantage of the daily hot balanced meals," she said, adding that the price is still $1.50 for a complete meal including dessert and beverage. Lunches served now average about 125 per day. Cooks are Jean Earl and Ann Weatherly.

In making long-range plans, Mrs. Puckett is optimistic about expanding the lunch program to include a specially equipped "Meals on Wheels" vehicle so that hot meals can be taken to shut-ins. Such a vehicle, usually a panel truck, is fitted with steam tables to keep lunch trays hot in transit, she explained.

The center's schedule includes a quilting room, arts and crafts, bridge and other games, with socials on Thursday afternoons and a dance every Friday night. "Li Hall of The Hobby Shop is here every Wednesday to teach crafts," Mrs. Puckett said, "and the socials are sponsored by clubs or civic groups."

She added that dances feature a country and western band, and the house is packed. Couples waltz, polka, schottische. "Nobody sits out," she said.

A resident of 516 Lefors, she is married to Bill Puckett, an employe of Nelson-Sikes Pipeline Co. The couple has one son, Billy, of Anchorage, Alaska.

All that's news

Mrs. Joyce Puckett, left, and Mrs. Penny Hinkle proofread the first copy of the "Senior Sentinel," a new weekly newsletter they are publishing at the Pampa Senior Citizens Center. They explained the publication is possible because of the recent donation of a duplicating machine to the center. "We didn't know a thing about the machine, but we cranked it up and out came Sentinels," they reported. (Pampa News photo)

Make a dog biscuit valentine

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
At holiday time last December I received an amusing surprise. My friend Betty McNeill brought me a Santa Claus, bedecked with colored sprinkles, that looked like a cookie.
"Don't eat it!" Betty said. "Although it's full of food things. It's a dog biscuit. I made some for Tiber (Betty's black-and-tan smooth dachshund) and his friends. Dogs get a whiff of the chicken stock

I cooked to put in it and they go bananas. Cats love the biscuits, too. I thought you might like to use the recipe in your column."
I was fascinated because I had never heard of anyone baking dog biscuits — let alone putting homemade chicken stock in them. Betty found the recipe in the December-January issue of "Apartment Life" (a magazine put out by the publishers of "Better Homes and Gardens"), to which she subscribes.

Because I am dogless and always try the recipes I recommend on my own tasters, I sent Betty's dog biscuit home with my assistant for her German Shepherd. According to her report, he ate it with gusto in one twink.

When I looked over the recipe Betty had used, I noticed it had been devised for "Apartment Life" by my friend Bernie Clayton who wrote "The Complete Book of Breads" (for humans), the best cookbook of its kind. No wonder the recipe works well.

(burgh)
1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
4 teaspoons salt
1 package dry yeast
2 cups chicken stock or other liquid
1 egg and 1 tablespoon milk (to brush on top)
Combine all the dry ingredients except the yeast. In a separate bowl, dissolve the yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. To this, add the chicken stock. (You can use bouillon, pan drippings or water from cooking vegetables.) Add the liquid to the dry ingredients. Knead mixture for about 3 minutes. (Dough will be quite stiff. If too stiff, add extra liquid or an egg.) Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Roll the dough out on a floured board to 1/4-inch thickness, then immediately cut into shapes with cookie cutters. Place on an ungreased cookie sheet and brush with a wash of egg and milk. Place in oven. After 45 minutes, turn off the heat and leave biscuits overnight in the oven to get bone hard. Reprinted by courtesy of the magazine, "Apartment Life."

Potato salad, try hot

A hot potato salad is easy to make yet many beginning cooks are hesitant to try. Here is a recipe that starts with packaged Idaho scalloped potatoes, which means less work, and includes frankfurters and frozen cut green beans.

HOT POTATO SALAD IDAHO STYLE

- 1 package (5.5 ounces) Idaho scalloped potatoes
- 3 cups water
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 small onion, sliced
- 1 cup water
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- 1/2 pound frankfurters, sliced
- 1 package (9 ounces) frozen cut green beans, cooked and drained
- 1 tomato, cut in wedges

Remove sauce packet from potatoes. Heat water to boiling in large saucepan, add potatoes, cover and cook 12 to 15 minutes, until tender but not soft. Immediately drain in colander or strainer; rinse with cold running water, and drain well.

Heat oil in large skillet, add onion and cook until tender. Blend in sauce mix, then stir in water and vinegar. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add cooked potatoes, frankfurters, green beans and tomato wedges; mix well. Cover and cook over medium heat for 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Makes 4 servings.

With Valentine's Day around the corner, Betty made some heart-shaped dog biscuits for Tiber and his friend Willi, a red longhair dachshund. Willi belongs to Betty's neighbor, photographer Haidi Kuhn, who caught Tiber of Teckwell and Willi waiting for their canine valentines and presented the picture to me.

Key to good sourdough

By Gaynor Maddox

My great grandfather was a sourdough. He crossed the plains on horseback arriving in San Francisco in 1849 on the way North seeking gold. As the 49ers usually carried containers of sourdough with them to assure good bread during their prospecting, gold seekers soon became known as sourdoughs.

Today sourdough bread from San Francisco is probably the most famous. It contains fewer ingredients than most breads and is the most difficult to bake. But get your hands on a loaf of real sourdough bread and you'll agree it is a glorious thing to eat.

However, sourdough is not limited to San Francisco. Recently I received a small loaf of sourdough bread made in Seattle. It was remarkable for its crisp crust and tender yet tough inside. Served slightly warm, with butter, strawberry jam and coffee, it made an ideal breakfast.

At the turn of the century when Jake O'Shaughnessy, a convivial roustabout, ran a saloon in Seattle, thousands of Yankees relished his excellent meals and drink before pushing on to the North. His sourdough bread was sensational.

The saloon is now re-established by Timothy Firnstahl, a knowledgeable restaurateur. He's written a cookbook, calling it "Jake O'Shaughnessy's Sourdough Book" after much research on the wholesome and satisfying bread of the gold pioneers. (Paperback, San Francisco Book Company — Simon & Schuster, $4.95.)

Firnstahl contends that the secret to all sourdough baking lies in the starter.

"It is a simple combination of flour and water containing a large number of live, wild yeast cells. Two cautions: Do not use a metal container (the wild yeast acids may corrode it.) Instead choose a one-quart glass, wood, crockery or polyethylene container with a lid that is not airtight (the yeasts need air to live.) Don't be alarmed by the look or smell of the sourdough as it ferments — it is the natural 'headiness' of the starter that will translate into a full-bodied flavor," he says.

Preparing and nurturing the starter: Thoroughly wash the container. Mix a one-fourth ounce packet of dry yeast with 2 cups of flour and 1 and one-half cups of warm water. Stir and set aside in a warm place for three days. At the end of this period your starter will be bubbly and will smell of yeast touched with alcohol. You will then have 2 cups of starter to put to task. Keep it in the refrigerator and be sure to replenish it (or feed it) as follows everytime you use it: for every cup of starter removed, add a cup of flour and three-fourths cup of water, which, when mixed, equals about one cup. Now you are ready to use the starter as the basis for all sour dough baking.

His book gives recipes for many sourdough specialties including a thorough instruction on making sourdough bread.

ORANGE GOUDA

An improvisation of ours that was well received.
10-ounce Gouda cheese, at room temperature
2 tablespoons orange-flavor liqueur
Grated orange rind

Cut a 3-inch round on top of the cheese; use a 3-inch cookie cutter if you like. Remove red covering only on top. Scoop out cheese into a medium bowl leaving about a 1/2-inch shell. With a sturdy fork, mash the cheese fine with the liqueur. Pack back into shell, leveling top; turn remaining cheese mixture into a small jar to use as a refill in the shell. Refrigerate overnight to allow flavors to blend, but bring to room temperature before serving and sprinkle top with grated orange rind.

EMMA LAW'S BACON SCALLOPS

From a good cook in Savannah.
1 1/2 pounds sea scallops
8 strips thinly sliced bacon
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Thread scallops and bacon on 4 long skewers, weaving the bacon under and over the scallops. Over low heat melt the butter and stir in the lemon juice. Broil the skewers under moderate heat, turning and brushing the scallops with the butter mixture, until the bacon is well-cooked — about 10 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

For neat butter patties, dip the knife in hot water before each cut.

Toffee pecan swirls

To prepare dough, dissolve 2 packages dry yeast in 1/2 cup lukewarm water; add 1 cup lukewarm milk, 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine, one-third cup sugar, 3 teaspoon salt, 1 beaten egg and 2 cups flour. Beat until smooth; stir in enough more flour to make a stiff dough. Knead on lightly floured board until smooth and elastic. Cover with plastic film and towel; let rest 20 minutes. For filling, cream together 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine and 1/2 cup sugar; stir in 1/4 cup chopped pecans and 3 English toffee candy bars, frozen then chopped. Punch down dough; divide into 2 equal parts. Roll each half into a 9x12 inch rectangle; spread each with an equal amount filling. Roll as for jelly roll; cut each roll into 12 even slices. Grease muffin pans and place 1 teaspoon corn syrup in bottom of each section. Arrange slices in pans, and cover loosely with plastic film. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator, uncover and let stand 10-15 minutes. Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven 20-25 minutes. Turn rolls out onto wire rack over waxed paper. Makes 2 dozen.

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — As a little boy he liked to scare people by pretending he was Frankenstein's monster. As a little boy he threw wet tissues from the roof of his apartment building.

He was quite a cutup, that Freddie Prinze, that kid who came from nowhere to become the hip, wisecracking Chicano on television's "Chico and the Man."

But as a youngster, the late television star and humorist could also be gentle and quietly reflective, his childhood friends say. He had highs and lows and liked to be the center of attention. But most of all, he wanted to make people laugh.

The suicide of the 22-year-old comic last week stunned those who knew him in the Washington Heights neighborhood where he grew up. He hated violence, they say. He had a lot of love, they say. How could he shoot himself?

"The only time I've ever seen him depressed was when his uncle died," said Luis Calderon, a 22-year-old store clerk who was Prinze's best friend for over 10 years. "His uncle used to take us to play basketball."

"Freddie was a pretty quiet guy. The only time he spoke was to make someone laugh." Prinze lived with his mother and father, a tool and dyemaker and auto mechanic, in an eight-room apartment on West 157th Street. Although a predominantly Latin area, this lower-middle-class neighborhood is still multi-ethnic. It's a poor neighborhood, but fairly stable and not an outright ghetto.

Prinze, an only child, came from a mixed background. Karl Prinze, his father, is part gypsy and part Hungarian Jew. His last name was originally "Prutzel" but he changed it. Maria, Freddie's mother, is Puerto Rican. Freddie would jokingly call himself a "Hungarian."

"His parents gave him everything he ever wanted," Calderon said. "They gave him a lot of love, especially his mother. She really loved him a lot."

Maria Prinze loved her son so much, adds Warren Lee, a close family friend, that she didn't want to work. She wanted to stay home to take care of Freddie.

Freddie went to neighborhood public grade schools and later entered a Catholic school nearby.

Like many old New York neighborhoods, the part of Washington Heights where the Prinzes lived has seen better days. Trash, scattered by the wind and by people, litters the streets. A now treeless island with splintering benches in the middle of Broadway is all that's left of the pretty little park where Freddie sat with his mother as a child.

"That's where we first met," recalled Calderon. "I was sitting with my grandmother and cousin. Freddie was there with his mother. He was making believe he was Frankenstein and started scaring my cousin."

"Even at seven," Calderon said, "Freddie was funny." Freddie's building, where his parents lived until two years ago, is across the street from the Happy Hills Casino, Juana's beauty salon and La Amistad, a Latin social club.

The Prinzes lived on the sixth floor. Freddie kept a drum set in his room and a model of a deejay's console, which he constructed himself. A large German shepherd named King also occupied a place in the Prinze household.

"We used to play a 'Man From Uncle' game over on the hill," said Calderon, pointing to the steep, icy incline on West 157th Street. "We pretended we were in a war. One day, one of the guys picked up a rock to throw as a grenade."

"Well, the rock hit a car and broke the windshield... He was scared and took off in a flash. He wouldn't come out again for a week."

No one knew this better than Herb Rubin, owner of Hornestein's Stationery, the neighborhood variety store on Broadway. When Freddie was about 13, Rubin had to constantly chase the youngster from the store because all he wanted to do was read Playboy magazine.

Prinze's high school drama teacher, Jerome Eskow, chairman of the drama department at Performing Arts, also spoke of the comic's moodiness.

"Freddie would have lows. Freddie would have highs," Eskow said. "He was basically a high kid. He liked to be on. He liked to be the center of attraction. Anyone who sells hard, comes down hard all the time."

"He was a very outgoing kid. Kind of a collector of girls. But in class he was deadly serious. Freddie always fascinated me because he had the reputation of a cutup."

While in high school, Prinze developed his comedy routines at Manhattan bistros such as the Improvisation and Catch a Rising Star. He never graduated from high school because of incomplete academic credits. After leaving school Prinze continued to be a frequent attraction — without pay — at the two clubs.

In his junior acting class, Prinze did a scene from Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park." He played a telephone repairman.

"He... hit upon the idea of making it a Puerto Rican repairman," Eskow said. "It made the character hysterical. It was so funny and went so well that when he shifted into his nightclub act, he started developing the character."

Prinze didn't have to wait long to be discovered.

Jack Paar caught Prinze's act at the Improvisation and put him on his show. Later, a tape of the guest shot was sent to the talent coordinator of the "Tonight" show. In a matter of months, that exposure led to "Chico and the Man."

Success came very quickly to the Washington Heights cutup. Too fast, maybe.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

The loudest snore, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, was measured at 69 decibels at St. Mary's Hospital in London.

Until last night, the record was broken in the bed next to mine by my husband, who sustained life at a rousing 72 decibels. (Seventy-two decibels is the equivalent of having a cannon go off in the seat next to you in the Astrodome.)

You would expect the snorer to have some compassion for the snoree, but this is never the case. Angry retorts of, "How do YOU know I'm snoring?" have to be documented by lampshades blown off the base, pictures blasted off their hooks and restless farm animals as far as 50 miles away.

Frankly, I'm sick of all the therapist remedies that never seem to work, like self-hypnosis, earplugs and rolling the snorer off his back.

The following are the only methods of relief that have worked for me:

Change beds: Get the snorer out of his own bed and into a strange one... preferably in another state.

The pillow technique: Get a large fluffy pillow.

When the breathing becomes deafening, put it squarely over every opening in his face and hold there until some demands are met.

Prolonging sleep: This one works as well as any I've tried. Just as you are both climbing into bed, get every nerve in his body on alert by offhandedly mentioning, "The IRS called you today, but will call you back tomorrow," or, "You seemed so tired today. I hope you don't have the same thing the late Fred Witherall had."

Humiliation route: Place a tape recorder by his bed and the next night when he is watching TV, play it and tell him someone is stealing his car.

Other experts believe you have to get to the root of a husband's reason for snoring. It has been suggested a person snores because he is troubled, his dentures don't fit properly, he indulges in excessive smoking or drinking, has swollen tonsils or suffers from old age.

My husband doesn't snore for any of those reasons. He snores for one thing alone... to annoy me. As I yelled to him the other morning at 3 a.m., "You'd do anything to keep from talking to me."

I thought I saw him smile.

Socialist Workers may win $40 million suit

FBI under fire for 'Mafia' tactics

By Howie Kurtz

(First in a series)

For the past 38 years, the FBI has wiretapped, burglarized, spied upon and infiltrated a small Marxist group with only 2,500 members.

Despite the small size and lack of influence of the Socialist Workers Party, the FBI saw fit to steal its mail, slander its members through anonymous letters, and burglarize its offices on the average of once every three weeks. And despite the fact that the group has never claimed more than 2,500 members, the FBI used more than 1,600 informants to infiltrate the party and find out what it was doing.

Yet after nearly four decades of bugging and burglarizing the Socialist Workers, the FBI has still not brought one criminal charge against the party or any of its members.

Now, however, the Socialist Workers Party is having its day in court.

The incredible story of the FBI's 38-year investigation has been trickling out in FBI documents being made public in a $40-million damage suit filed by the Socialist Workers. As the details of its illegal spying and harassment campaign have been revealed, the once-proud FBI has suffered far greater embarrassment than it was ever able to inflict on the SWP. Ironically, it is FBI agents who are now hiring defense lawyers for possible criminal charges stemming from the burglaries they committed as part of the investigation. At least a dozen agents have retained private counsel in case they are indicted in the Department of Justice's nationwide probe of illegal FBI break-ins.

This turn of events has caused many congressmen and officials to ask why the FBI used such overkill tactics against an obscure political party that the FBI now admits is not violent and does not advocate violent methods.

While the FBI says its investigation has ended, the SWP points to the continuing presence of 66 FBI informants, and is seeking a court injunction to declare any further FBI spying illegal.

But the Socialist Workers also want to win a definitive court ruling banning the government from using informants and illegal tactics against anyone. The revelations of Watergate, they say, proved that the "dirty tricks" used for years against left-wing groups could also be used against antiwar activists, civil rights leaders, and ordinary Democrats.

"The suit was filed on behalf of the rights of everyone," said Cathy Perkus of the Political Rights Defense Fund, which is financing the SWP's lawsuit. "Since Watergate, people are beginning to realize that what the FBI got away with doing to the Socialist Workers Party could happen to them next."

In U.S. District Court in New York, the FBI has tried to defend its illegal tactics by talking about the SWP's "potential for violence." Judge Thomas P. Griesa isn't buying that rationale, however. At one point during the suit, he said:

"I have asked the government to come forward with any indication whatever of violent revolutionary activity, or any other illegal activity, carried out by... the SWP, and the government has come forward with absolutely nothing."

All the evidence of criminal conduct, in fact, has been on behalf of the FBI. The FBI documents exposed by the suit describe in stark detail the illegal tactics used in Cointelpro, the FBI's counterintelligence program against radical and antiwar groups during the 1960s. What has emerged is a virtual blueprint for break-ins, buggings and character assassination of which any organized crime family would be proud.

Between 1960 and 1966, the FBI documents reveal, FBI agents burglarized the New York City offices of the SWP and its affiliates at least 92 times, or an average of once every three weeks. These "black-bag jobs," as the FBI calls them, produced about 10,000 photographs of documents concerning nearly every aspect of the party's business — including the defense strategies of members involved in federal legal proceedings.

Nor can the FBI claim that the break-ins were the work of overzealous underlings acting without orders. FBI agent George P. Baxtrum Jr. testified under oath that he participated in between 50 and 90 break-ins and buggings at SWP offices between 1968 and 1965 — and that they were all authorized by FBI headquarters in Washington.

Another FBI agent, Joseph Furrer, had to invoke the Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination 80 times when he was questioned about burglaries and other operations against the SWP. Attorney General Edward H. Levi ordered the FBI to end its probe of the SWP in September. Levi issued new guidelines which prohibit the FBI from spying on a group solely to gather political intelligence, or because it suspects that the members might do something illegal at some future time.

However, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley told bureau field offices that they should continue to investigate SWP members whose activities indicate that they are "likely to use force or violence." This is the same flimsy rationale that the FBI used to justify its investigation for the last 38 years, although it has yet to catch a Socialist Worker in a single violent or illegal act.

Under pressure, Kelley also suggested, but did not order, that the 66 current informants leave the party. But the SWP says the FBI is still harassing it.

"As a legal political party, the SWP has a right not to have ex-informers in its ranks," Perkus said. The SWP has always tried to bring about socialism in America by fielding political candidates, circulating petitions, and organizing peaceful demonstrations, she pointed out.

"All of these things are supposed to be protected by the Bill of Rights," Perkus said.

Although top FBI officials have admitted to Congress that the SWP is peaceful, the FBI is still talking about its "potential for violence" in court. "That's just an excuse for the FBI to try to destroy political organizations whose views they don't agree with," Perkus said.

Although the SWP suit — which also names the CIA, former President Nixon, and other government agencies as defendants — was filed in July 1973, we may have seen only the tip of the iceberg. The case is still in the pretrial discovery stage, and so far the SWP has obtained only about 100,000 pages out of the 8 million documents the FBI has compiled on the party. The FBI claims it cannot disclose information about its informants and tactics without jeopardizing the informants' lives and other ongoing investigations.

But Judge Griesa has been skeptical toward FBI claims of confidentiality so far. At one point, he accused the bureau of providing false information by withholding relevant facts about one of its informants. Many observers think that if other files are released, they will show that the FBI has really been trying to hide its embarrassment over its illegal persecution of a harmless political party.

The business of making the gospel big business

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The gospel according to Jimmy Swaggart is big business.

Spreading the word of the Lord the Swaggart way calls for one of the most extensive daily gospel programs in the Christian world, a 15-minute tape sent to more than 503 radio stations around the globe.

TV helped sell 'Roots'

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to make money, you should be selling oil, coffee, or Alex Haley's book, "Roots."

Sales of the book have now hit 100,000 a week and at $12.50 the copy, that is a very cool $1.25 million.

Bookstores agree that ABC's nationally televised serialization of the book has increased its popularity. The publishers, Doubleday & Co., said total sales should reach 1 million by March and plans are under way for a 14th printing of the book, which is Haley's account of his search for his family's beginnings in Africa.

It calls for a printing press turning out one million pieces of religious literature a month. It calls for an airplane and three-day cruises demanding a minimum travel of 10,000 miles a month.

It calls for a Baton Rouge headquarters grown in six years to the size of two football fields, holdings worth "a couple of million" and donations received from around the world adding up to $600,000 to $700,000 each month.

"Gospel is the biggest business in the world," said the 41-year-old Baton Rouge evangelist. "But, we don't sell it. We give it away."

Swaggart figures the Jimmy Swaggart Evangelistic Association is set up "very, very similar to the Billy Graham organization."

One hundred persons work in those buildings. Outside Swaggart's office, the plush kind usually reserved for corporate executives, young women and a forest of desks process the daily donations.

A select few of the women correspond with the troubled and the lost who seek counsel from Brother Swaggart, who says he is convinced "the gospel of Jesus Christ is the answer for every single problem in the world."

In a taping room sits what Swaggart describes as the largest Telex duplication system in the world, capable of reproducing from Swaggart's master tape 51 cassettes in four minutes.

In the next room, a printing press is spewing out Swaggart's literature. "The Post Office tells us we send out more mail each day than anyone in the state, including the state Capitol and Exxon," said Swaggart. Swaggart Broadcasting Inc. headquarters in the complex, anchored by WLUX, Baton Rouge, the all-gospel radio station Swaggart acquired after lengthy litigation three years ago. "After we saw the impact of WLUX, we felt it would be advantageous to the work of the Lord to have more outlets for our gospel," the evangelist said.

Swaggart Broadcasting owns four other stations in Bowling

Green, Ohio; Pensacola, Fla.; Dallas, Tex.; and Oklahoma City, Okla. Swaggart wants eventually to own the legal limits of 14 stations, "if the Lord would enable us to do so."

Across the street in the complex is the television duplication center. In addition to his radio broadcasting, Swaggart preaches a 30-minute program weekly on 172 television channels. Four machines costing $90,000 each duplicate the batch of master video tapes the evangelist periodically cuts in Nashville under the direction of the producers of "Hee Haw."

PIONEER INFORMATION BULLETIN

Subject: SMUT

Most farmers in this area have heard of the epidemic of head smut which affected the corn crop in parts of six counties of West Texas. The disease is not expected to spread much beyond that area next year, if indeed it occurs at all, but the Pioneer Agronomy Service Department headquartered in Plainview, is conducting an informational program to acquaint all corn farmers with the disease.

Not surprisingly, there is a good bit of confusion about head smut since 1976 was the first year it has appeared in the Southwest in high enough incidence to affect yields. Pioneer agronomists had studied the problem elsewhere, however, and print this information as a service to High Plains farmers.

Two distinctly different kinds of smut appeared in parts of Parmer, Castro, Deaf Smith, Lamb, Bailey and Hale counties: common smut and head smut. Common smut has little, if any, economic significance, but it is frequently confused with head smut, which is the real culprit. Estimates are that head smut reduced the yields of some fields by over 20%.

COMMON SMUT (Ustilago maydis), sometimes called boil smut, does not usually reduce yields. It is characterized by galls, bulbous growths which are at first covered with a glistening, greenish to silvery-white tissue. The galls may appear on any part of the corn plant including the exposed tips of healthy ears protruding beyond the shuck. The plant becomes host to wind or water-borne spordia which stimulate cells in young tissue to proliferate.

HEAD SMUT (Sphacelotheca reiliana) is systemic, the plant being infected by soil-borne teliospores in the seedling stage. The outward signs of the disease are less conspicuous than common smut. It first appears when ears and tassels are formed. Tassels of infected plants usually appear to be covered with a reddish brown or black, spiny rust. Silkless shucks look as if they might cover a short, fat ear of corn but opening the shuck exposes a mass of black, worm-like teliospores or a tangle of bright green, leafy buds. Since head smut is soil borne and there is no practical chemical treatment to control it, we can expect infection to increase from one year to the next if conditions are right. This year's weather (dry and cool) was particularly conducive to infestations of both types of smut fungus.

WHAT ABOUT NEXT YEAR? For the most part, head smut occurs in fields that have been planted to corn for several years. It appears that farmers with a head smut-infested field have a choice for the use of that field next year. They can plant the field to another crop or can, with reasonable safety, plant corn hybrids that offer resistance to the disease. Pioneer has three excellent hybrid corn varieties that show strong resistance to head smut. One of these is well known to area farmers and is the most planted variety in much of this area... Pioneer brand 3306. Two other Pioneer varieties... 3184 and 3195... which were planted widely in this area for the first time this year, not only resist smut but have even greater yield potential than the well-known yield champion, Pioneer brand 3369-A.

A. Common Smut Galls usually do not affect the yield of the host plant.
B. Head Smut sometimes affects the tassel but always precludes the development of grain.

The Lighter Side

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Harvey Gartley lost his boxing match by dancing himself to the canvas in the first round. His opponent never landed a punch.

Ringside observers said Gartley "danced himself into exhaustion" and collapsed after 47 seconds. His opponent, Dennis Oulette of Rogers City, was awarded a technical knockout victory.

The nonbattle came in the preliminaries of the 15th annual Saginaw Regional Golden Gloves Tournament.

Gartley, of Saginaw, was the target of several punches by Oulette in Monday's fight, but none of them connected.

STANFIELD, Ore. (AP) — An ordinance making it illegal for pets to mate in public has gone to the dogs, city officials say.

Authorities haven't enforced the celebrated May 1975 law which could land the owner of an amorous animal in jail for as long as 25 days, said Jim Dickason, recorder in this northeast Oregon community.

"We kind of let it bury itself back in the annals of history," Dickason said. "Some people made a lot of money on it. They were selling T-shirts, hats, sweatshirts."

When the law was adopted, Mayor Charles Huxoll commented, "There's a lot of that (pets mating in public) going around and besides, almost everybody here has a picture window in his house."

LYNNWOOD, Wash. (AP) — The state doesn't know what to call it, but R. Tony Riley has named it the limocycle.

The three-wheeled vehicle, which combines a motorcycle and the rear end of a 1966 Volkswagen, offers elegance and comfort for $30 per two-hour ride. The chauffeur is free.

The limocycle — newest addition to the fleet of luxury cars for hire at Riley Limousine Service — "doesn't really fit any of the state's motor vehicle registration categories," said Riley, 29.

"They finally decided to list it as a homemade motorcycle — and that's okay with me, since the fee is less that way."

Retired peace officers guns questioned

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Retired peace officers should be allowed to carry guns in order to protect themselves from the criminals they sent to prison, Sen. Frank Lombardino, D-San Antonio, testified Tuesday night.

Lombardino, himself a retired cop, spoke in support of his bill before the Senate Jurisprudence Subcommittee on Criminal Matters.

One of Lombardino's witnesses, San Antonio policeman Al Peeler, said he will be eligible to retire this month after 20 years.

"I've incarcerated hundreds of people. Some of them are out. Senate bill 70 would allow me to carry a gun and provide me and my family some degree of protection," Peeler said.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, asked if Mauzy should be entitled to carry a gun, too, because an ex-convict might come looking for him for voting to allow Peeler to carry a gun.

Peeler said that was logical. Mauzy asked about the 12 jurors who sent the man to prison. And then about the prosecutor, the judge, the bailiff and the court reporter. Each time, Peeler said he couldn't argue with Mauzy's logic.

"All I'm trying to say is, where do we stop? How many people are we going to allow walking the streets of Texas carrying guns?" Mauzy said.

"There are several people who have threatened my life, who I have sent to the penitentiary," Peeler said. "I don't know if you've been threatened."

"Yes, I've been threatened, and I haven't sent anybody to the penitentiary," Mauzy replied.

City calls meet Friday on personnel

An executive meeting of the mayor and city commissioners has been called for 2 p.m. Friday to discuss personnel matters, according to a notice posted by City Secretary S.M. Chittenden.

City Manager Mack Wofford said no action is expected to be taken at the meeting. The commission will meet in regular session at 9:30 a.m. Monday in City Hall.

FPC warned of crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years ago the staff of the Federal Power Commission urged the preparation of plans for mandatory natural gas conservation and allocation to cope with exactly the kind of emergency the nation now faces.

The warning went unheeded and today the United States still has no comprehensive plan for allocating scarce gas supplies or for managing the current crisis, which has idled an estimated 1.5 million workers.

The FPC report, titled "A Realistic View of U.S. Natural Gas Supply," warned that unavoidable, deepening gas shortages eventually would cause "widespread plant and business shutdowns and local unemployment and economic problems," and might even cut into residential gas service in some regions.

And despite efforts to find new gas supplies, the FPC's Bureau of Natural Gas saw no hope of keeping up historic gas production rates. "Even these accelerated efforts will not provide the basis for a continuation of conventional production at present levels," it said.

Making matters more gloomy for interstate pipelines, it said, was the apparent diversion of new gas supplies into the intrastate market — mainly Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma — where gas is sold inside the state where it is produced.

It Sims to me...

Teaff: 'he'll do what it takes'

Bill Yung, hired last week as football coach at West Texas State, has inherited a ton of obstacles to overcome in building the type of program that his predecessor, Gene Mayfield, was unable to.

It's almost certain, though, that Yung's selection was the most natural one for West Texas State. He had gone to Baylor with Grant Teaff in 1972 and watched the program there develop from almost nothing into the Southwest Conference championship Baylor won it all in 1974. Yung's first year as offensive coordinator.

"He'll do what it takes to get there," Teaff told The News. "We had our work cut out before we came here, too. Where he's going to have the advantage over any other coach that could have come there is he's seen us work and build a program. He knows and has seen what it takes to get there."

Yung's biggest obstacle will be coaching under the cloud of a year-in-and-year-out deficit in the athletic department. Although the amount of the projected deficit of $308,000 for the 1977-78 fiscal year has been underwritten by area businessmen, it's not certain that WTSU will be able to maintain an NCAA Division I athletic program for the following year.

People may grow tired of donating money to keep the program alive on the current level every year. And it's obvious the money-raising projects, those aside from selling season tickets and encouraging fan attendance, will be necessary from now on.

If Yung can build a winning program in football, obviously the No. 1 money maker in any school with a full athletic program, it will alleviate some of the pressure of having to raise enough money to keep everything at the status quo. Everybody supports a winner.

Teaff expects Yung to be just that, a winner.

"He's a tremendous coach in every way, one of the best recruiters I've ever been associated with, an excellent teacher... He's a winner."

"One of the biggest things

Paul Sims

about him is he really understands offensive football. He is also a very good defensive coach. He's an excellent teacher, one of the best line coaches I've ever been around."

The challenge hasn't worried him, Yung said.

"You bet, I'm optimistic. I wouldn't have taken it if I wasn't. It's a great situation. There are so many people that want it to do well."

Communication was a big problem in Pampa during the 18-hour telethon to raise money for the financially-troubled WTSU athletic program Friday and Saturday on KFDD-TV in Amarillo.

That's why no exact figure on what Pampans raised is available, although local chairman Glen Courtney estimates it to be "about $2,206."

Courtney, shortly after the telethon began, grew irritated at the telephone setup.

"They couldn't take our instructions. They'd say, 'Now repeat the number to me,' and they'd have it wrong. And, 'Now repeat the name to me,' and they'd have it wrong," Courtney said.

"Man, it would take 10 minutes of tying up the telephone lines just on a 10-dollar donation. The kids (in Amarillo) just couldn't take instructions — we had our television set going and they had all that entertainment going. We couldn't hear and they couldn't hear."

"We'd call over there and the lines would be busy... After six or seven hours, we just gave up."

Courtney admitted that "a telethon is one of the most confused types of business transactions that you can go through."

So the confusion kept Amarillo officials from receiving money figures from Pampa. And Pampa had to estimate how much money was raised. "It was a mass of confusion," Courtney said.

"The main thing about it was we got the money ($120,000 in all was raised)."

Courtney added that about $1,500 worth of season tickets were sold locally. That's more than what they gave us credit for."

UT's Jones drawing fanfare as SWC indoor meet nears

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — With Olympian Johnny Lam Jones of the University of Texas in the field, the Southwest Conference Track and Field Indoor Meet is expected to draw a record crowd at the Tarrant County Convention Center Friday night.

Baylor is the defending champion in the meet which drew 8,140 fans last year.

With Jones of Lampasas, Tex. available for the 60-yard dash and anchor duty on the relays, the sponsoring Fort Worth Coaches Association is hoping for a crowd of 10,000.

The preliminaries will be held Friday afternoon with the distance medley finals in the afternoon. All other finals are scheduled for Friday night.

The championship race appears to be wide open with Texas, the winner in 1974 and 1975, Baylor, Texas A&M and Houston as the top contenders.

Record holders returning include high jumper Kevin De Lorey, who jumped 7-1 1/2 last year; and Nial O'Shaughnessy of Arkansas, who holds the 800 record of 1:51.7.

O'Shaughnessy will probably run the 1,000 this time where he had posted the best in the world in 1977 of 2:05.5. The SWC indoor record is 2:16 by Paul Craig, the Canadian Olympian who has returned for his senior year at Texas.

Craig is planning to go in the mile and the two-mile relay—that is if the classy O'Shaughnessy doesn't enter the mile.

Texas Coach Cleburne Price says Craig won't challenge O'Shaughnessy in the mile.

Craig was injured in 1975 and laid out last year to train for the Olympics.

Texas Tech returns its distance medley relay team that set a record of 10:01.73 last year—Luther Mays, Ricky McCormick, Terrell Pendleton and Mark Freeman.

Another returning champion is Mark Collins of Baylor in the 440, although he may run the 600.

Moore inks with New Mexico

Ricky Moore (top) and David Caldwell

Ricky Moore, District 3-AAAA's leading scorer last football season and Pampa's top rusher, has signed a letter of intent to play at the University of New Mexico in the Western Athletic Conference.

Moore's decision will become official on Feb. 16, the day athletes are signed to national letters of intent.

"I doubt if my mind changes," Moore said. "Quite a few colleges have been in touch with me — Texas Tech, TCU, Tulane, West Texas State, Colorado and some small colleges."

"I really didn't have that many choices. I like New Mexico because I liked the town (Albuquerque) and I think I'll have a better chance to play — they don't have that many good running backs."

"I'll have a better chance there than probably most places. They said I may see some action my freshman year."

New Mexico plays in Honolulu, Hawaii, both next season and in 1978, another reason for his decision, Moore said.

New Mexico went 4-7 overall last season under Bill Mondt and 2-3 in the WAC, good enough for a tie for fourth place. It was led by 6-3 215-pound fullback Mike Williams, a sophomore who gained 1,240 yards last year to finish 10th among the nation's running backs.

Moore gained 722 yards on 132 carries for a 5.5 average last season for the Harvesters, who went 6-4. He scored 10 touchdowns and finished with 64 points, tops among 3-AAAA players.

Moore gained 899 yards in 1975.

"I should've done better this last season," the 6-0, 190-pound halfback said. "I wasn't pleased at all with my season."

While Moore's college future virtually has been decided, the status of Pampa fullback David Caldwell, a highly-recruited 6-3, 218-pounder, is still a question mark.

Caldwell still is considering New Mexico, Texas, Arizona State, Tulane, Wichita State and Texas Christian. He will visit Arizona State in Tempe this weekend and Tulane in New Orleans, La., and Wichita State in Wichita, Kan., on successive weekends.

"I'm still looking," said Caldwell, who gained 500 yards for Pampa last fall, suffered torn knee ligaments in the seventh game against Amarillo Tascosa and missed the last three games of the season.

In those games, Pampa lost to non-conference foe Plainview 9-7, edged Amarillo Palo Duro 15-14 and fell to district champion Amarillo High 18-0.

"When he got hurt it kind of took away a threat of not having a touchdown possibility there at fullback even though Mark Epperson and Dean Smith both did a decent job. There's just a little difference in size and speed," Pampa Coach John Welborn said.

Caldwell also is the defending district champion in both the 100-yard dash and shot put.

"Potentially, I think David could be as good as any running back in the country," Welborn said.

"The longer the game goes on, the more he carries, the stronger he gets. He and Ricky both were that way. As a pair, they were probably the two best backs I've ever had in the backfield at the same time."

"Moore is real steady. He'll break a few long runs but he's more of a punishing type of ball carrier. He has great balance and agility and good savvy... He has a good future."

Sayers, Bellino named to hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Running backs Gale Sayers and Joe Bellino head a list of 11 former college football stars have been named to the National Football Foundation's College Hall of Fame.

Chairman of the Board Vincent dePaul Draddy said six backs and five linemen had been selected at the January meeting of the Foundation's 12-man honors court.

Borg, 20, worth a lot

NEW YORK (AP) — At the tender age of 20, Bjorn Borg is a walking, talking, racquet-swinging conglomerate. His racquet arm belongs to Bancroft. His feet belong to Tretorn, his head to a Swedish brewery called Tuborg and his right shoulder to a Scandinavian air line, SAS. He gets paid handsomely for appearing on the court in the familiar striped attire of Fila and for driving sports cars made by Saab. He is immortalized in stone by a subsidized sculptor and in a syndicated comic strip. He takes it off the top from a tennis shop in Monte Carlo. But his heart belongs to Mariana. "You would have to say Bjorn is one of the wealthiest 20-year-olds in the world," said Bud Stanner, corporate vice-president for Mark McCormack's International Management Corp., in Cleveland, a sprawling firm which is helping Bjorn get rich quick. "I wouldn't want to say what he is worth — a millionaire and more." It was Stanner who orchestrated Borg's latest financial coup — a three-year, $1.5-million contract to play this summer for the Cleveland Nets in World Team Tennis.

One of the provisions is that Borg gets to bring along his pretty fiancée, Mariana Simonescu, 20, of Romania, a promising young tennis player in her own right.

Mariana was part of the package. Borg insisted on that. TV tycoon Joe Zingale, owner of the Nets, meekly acquiesced. The important thing: Keep Bjorn happy.

The golden-haired Swede is typical of the manner in which top professional athletes are packaged and sold. They are figuratively cut up and parceled out like choice pieces of beef.

Borg is a quiet, introverted young man who, like another famous Swede, Greta Garbo, probably would much prefer to be alone — with Mariana. Yet he was picked up in North Little Rock, Ark., early Wednesday morning, after playing a match the night before, and flown by chartered jet to face a battery of news and camera men at noon at fashionable 21 Club in New York. Then he was jetted to Cleveland for another press conference at 4 p.m. and from there to Pittsburgh for yet another at 7:30, flying back to Arkansas before midnight.

It's been a hectic, fast-paced life for Borg, timid by nature, mature beyond his years, adverse to partying and hijinks. On every trip he's taken, cordons of Swedish newsmen have engulfed him. His every move is flashed to papers and radio stations back home. He became a national hero and at the same time a target for criticism.

Steger, Douglass compete at Tulsa

Reid Steger placed in the top six in five of the eight events he entered over the weekend in the Tulsa, Okla., "A" swim meet.

Steger, who competed in the 10- and -under age division, and Clay Douglass, in 11-12, were the only Pampa Dolphin swimmers making the trip to Tulsa.

"They swam pretty good but not as good as I would have liked," said Dolphin Coach Malcolm Douglass.

Pampa's complete team will next compete in the Maverick Aquatic Club A-B Swim Meet Feb. 11-12 in Amarillo.

Twelve Dolphins competed in the AAU-sanctioned B-C swim meet Jan. 22-23 in Odessa. Around 200 swimmers from 10 clubs met at the Odessa Permian High School pool for the meet.

Lisa Raymond of Pampa netted four first places in the 13-14 girl and senior girl competition. She added another "A" certificate to her record.

Robbie Hill earned an "A" certificate in the senior boys' races and had two firsts, two seconds and a third in both the senior and 13-14 divisions.

Kaymond Hill had three first-place finishes, while Amy Raymond, Debi Turek and Shawn White added victories for the Dolphins, who managed 13 firsts, seven seconds and eight thirds.

Richard Steger earned two seconds and a third while leading all Dolphins in improving their times with four career bests. Cindy Raymond and Paul Turek rounded out members of the Pampa team who placed in the top three at least one event.

Harvesters rip Canyon Eagles 77-62

For the second game in a row, Pampa's opponent never seemed to even be in contention as the Harvesters romped to a 77-62 non-conference basketball victory over Canyon Wednesday night in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum.

Pampa had beaten 3-AAAA rival Amarillo High 87-58 Tuesday to clinch the district's first-half championship. The Harvesters, 20-5 for the season, open the second round against Amarillo Caprock Tuesday at home.

It is the sixth straight season the Harvesters have won 20 games. Wednesday night's victory, in which Pampa shot a remarkable 64 per cent from the field, was Pampa's seventh in a row and 12th in the last 13 outings.

The Harvesters, as they did against Amarillo High, controlled the tempo from the opening tipoff. Four players landed in double figures — Rusty Ward with 18 points, Rayford Young with 17, Don Hughes with 11 and Brian Bailey with 10.

Tim Reddell, who started against Amarillo High, added eight points.

Canyon was led by Mike Flynn with 23 points. James Walling, who averaged 22.5 points prior to the contest, managed only 10. "Brian held him to 10 points," Pampa Coach Robert McPherson said, "and did a tremendous defensive job on him."

Canyon, now 22-6, was unable to go inside often against the Harvester defense which held the Eagles to 35 per cent from the field. Pampa, meanwhile, parlayed the fast break into several baskets and was able to penetrate for layups and short shots throughout the contest.

The Harvesters' biggest lead was 19 points, 71-52, in the final quarter.

Pampa's six-four Ricky Bunton, averaging 16.3 points in 3-AAAA games, was held to two points after getting in foul trouble with three personals in the first half. He picked up his fourth foul early in the third period.

Pampa outrebounded Canyon 38-33 as Ward pulled down 13 rebounds.

The Harvesters led 39-28 at halftime. Pampa canned 10 of 16 field goal tries in the opening quarter for a 24-14 edge.

"We probably fast broke early in the ball game as well as we ever fast broke. We were getting the ball out to our forwards and getting it down the floor in a hurry," McPherson said. "I thought we gave a real fine effort, played like a championship ball club and did every phase of the game well. We had a lot of crisp assist-type baskets." Pampa had 15 assists with Bailey making good on four key passes.

"Everybody's scoring well now — these kids want to win and they're doing it," McPherson said.

McPherson will give the Harvesters today off and put them through a short workout Friday.

Amarillo Caprock and Amarillo Tascosa meet Friday in the Civic Center along with Amarillo High and Amarillo Palo Duro. Those games round out the first-half schedule in 3-AAAA.

Wednesday's Pampa-Canyon clash preceded Samford's 57-56 non-conference collegiate win over West Texas State in the Civic Center.

WTSU did not score in the final 8:07 of the game as Samford came back from a 56-51 deficit to win.

William Williams led the Bulldogs, now 7-11, with 14 points, while WTSU, 11-9, was paced by Maurice Cheeks with 15.

Sports in brief

Wake Forest maintaining the pace

Compiled from AP Reports "I think we're looking better than the sixth-place finish predicted for us at the beginning of the season," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tracy whose Deacons ripped Duke 89-80

Wednesday in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

The Deacons now are 17-2 overall and lead the tough ACC with a 6-1 record. They are ranked fifth in the nation. Forward Rod Griffin sparked Wake Forest to its latest victory with 28 points.

In other college games involving rated teams, Pittsburgh upset No. 12 Cincinnati 65-64 on a 22-foot jump shot by Junior Larry Harris at the final buzzer. Arkansas, No. 14, routed Southern Methodist 81-58 in a Southwest Conference game, and 20th-rated Detroit beat Eastern Michigan 87-82.

SMU left Marvin Delph open for outside shots and he scored a career-high 30 points in Arkansas' 10th straight victory. It was the only Southwest Conference game played Wednesday.

In National Basketball Association action, Denver shattered Washington's eight-game winning streak with a 119-105 victory, the Philadelphia 76ers built their Atlantic Division lead to 7½ games over the idle New York Knicks by defeating Detroit 138-116, while the New York Nets topped the slumping Boston Celtics 99-89.

In other NBA games, the Phoenix Suns outscored Milwaukee 130-113, Kansas City downed Portland 119-107 and Seattle routed New Orleans 120-95. The Houston game at Buffalo was postponed due to bad weather.

Pampa swimmers end regular season

The Pampa High swim team has one tuneup left prior to the regional meet Feb. 24-25 — the Amarillo Invitational Swim Meet Friday and Saturday.

The Pampa swimmers last weekend competed in the Midland Invitational, in which the Harvester boys placed ninth with 109 points and the girls 11th with 104.

San Angelo Central won the boys' title and Lubbock Monterey claimed the girls' crown in the meet, which attracted 16 teams.

The boys' 200 medley relay team of Cary Smith, Jimmy Baird, Mark Lehnick and Ronnie Gibson was sixth in 1:53.8, while Smith was fourth in the 100 backstroke in 1:04.8 and sixth in the 200 individual medley in 2:16.6.

Lehnick had Pampa's top placing — third in the 100 butterfly in 1:01.5.

Other Pampa results included Gibson, seventh in the 100 freestyle, 54.8 seconds, and eighth in the 100 breaststroke, 1:10.1; Chris Alexander, 10th in the 500 freestyle, 5:56.3; Jimmy Baird, 13th in the 50 freestyle, 25.4, and David Weyandt, 13th in the 100 backstroke, 1:07.3.

The Pampa girls' 200 medley relay team of Stacy Smith, Robin Hill, Julie Harkrader and Kim Campbell was eighth in 2:18.8, while the 400 freestyle quartet of Carla Cogdell, Kay Fields, Smith and Lynn Esson was 12th in 5:02.1.

Campbell led Pampa's individual efforts by placing fifth in the 100 backstroke in 1:19.1 and seventh in the 50 freestyle in 29.1.

Harkrader was seventh in the 100 butterfly in 1:22.4, while Cogdell was 11th in 1:26.5. Hill was 11th in the 100 breaststroke in 1:28.8, and Smith 12th in the 100 backstroke in 1:21.6.

Other girls' results included Harkrader, 10th in the 200 individual medley, 2:52.5; Esson, 13th in the 200 freestyle, 2:37.1, and Cogdell, 15th in the 200 freestyle, 2:42.6.

The Amarillo Invitational will close out Pampa's regular season schedule.

Harvesters to enter Amarillo HS rodeo

Eleven Pampa High School Rodeo Club members have entered competition in the Amarillo High School Rodeo, according to Ricky Bryan, rodeo club president.

Bryan said the rodeo attracts high school competitors from the Tri-state area. Each contestant performs in one go-round, he added.

Trying for wins in the bull riding will be Jim Morrison and Greg Terrell. Crickets Lowrey, Johnny Harper and Bryan are entered in team roping and calf roping contests.

Pampa cowgirl Lesa Stewart will compete in girls' breakaway roping and girls' goat tying. Steer riding entries will be Cindy Dyer, Donna Baggett and Kelly Caswell, and barrel racers will be Regina Benyshek and Lisa Burrell.

The competition begins at 7:30 p.m. today and other performances will be 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Fair Park Coliseum.

Stock for the high school rodeo will be furnished by Bill Hext and Curgus Lowe will work as the rodeo clown.

Admission to the rodeo will be $2 for adults and $1 for students. Bryan said the local high school rodeo contestants will ride in Lubbock the following weekend.

Muniz pleads guilty in marijuana smuggling

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two-time gubernatorial candidate Ramsey Muniz faces a possible five-year prison sentence and a $15,000 fine today after pleading guilty to conspiracy in a marijuana smuggling case.

The 34-year-old Corpus Christi lawyer entered the guilty plea Wednesday in U.S. District Court here and it was accepted by Judge John H. Wood Jr.

No date for sentencing was announced.

Muniz, who was the Raza Unida Party candidate for governor in 1972 and 1974, remained in jail in lieu of $1 million bond in the case here.

He still faces two more federal court trials in Corpus Christi, where he is charged with jumping bond and with smuggling marijuana in another case. He is held in lieu of $1 million bond in Corpus Christi, also.

Muniz and six other men were named by a federal grand jury here last November in connection with an alleged scheme to smuggle 832 pounds of marijuana from Mexico to a ranch in Medina County, Tex., southwest of San Antonio.

Two of the defendants had pleaded guilty earlier to con-spring to import marijuana, and three others pleaded guilty with Muniz to the same charge Wednesday.

Muniz originally was charged by the grand jury with four counts: conspiracy to import marijuana, importing marijuana, conspiracy to possess and distribute marijuana and aiding and abetting the possession and distribution of marijuana.

In exchange for their guilty pleas Wednesday on the first conspiracy charge, federal prosecutors said they would drop the three remaining counts against Muniz and the others.

A jury had been selected earlier this week to hear the felony case and opening arguments by prosecutors and defense attorneys had been completed when Muniz and the other three men switched their pleas from innocent to guilty.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Robert S. Bennett, outlining the government's case to the jury, said he would show that Muniz was the Mexican connection in the alleged smuggling operation.

The prosecutors had lined up more than a dozen witnesses, including Reginald Saxton, an unindicted co-conspirator in the case.

Bennett said Saxton was the pilot of the aircraft which flew marijuana on Nov. 2, 1976, from Dimas in Sinaloa, Mex., to the ranch in Medina County.

Bennett said Muniz was "in charge of operations in Mexico."

Muniz, dressed in a charcoal gray, pinstriped suit, was asked by Judge Wood if the government's case represented the truth.

"Yes, sir," Muniz acknowledged.

"How do you plead, Mr. Muniz, guilty or not guilty?" asked Bennett.

"Guilty," answered Muniz.

The judge advised Muniz and the others that their pleas of guilty "are just as binding" as a jury conviction.

Nuclear answer mystified allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. allies in Europe and Japan are promising to back President Carter's efforts to slow world trade in nuclear power and weapons, but they're mystified by how it's all going to be done.

This emerged from a survey of opinion among diplomats of key nations among the six visited by Vice President Walter F. Mondale during his whirlwind round-the-world swing.

Mondale's mission to Brussels, Rome, London, Paris and Tokyo was to emphasize a fundamental continuity in Carter's approach to U.S. alliances and objectives. His talks ranged from the affairs of Europe and Asia to end matters of nuclear strategy.

Mondale set forth a variety of U.S. ideas, proposals and intentions without elaboration, producing puzzled queries from allied capitals to diplomats here. Diplomatic sources say Washington can't answer the queries because policies and programs still are being worked out.

Some diplomats here say there is a gap between Carter's hopes and his ability to carry them out. For instance, Mondale privately told European leaders that Carter's plans for a nuclear test ban should include peaceful nuclear explosions, those that change the course of rivers, move mountains or open areas to oil and gas exploration.

But allies note the difference between U.S. and British assertions that such peaceful nuclear blasts have some military connotation and the opposite stand taken by the Soviets and even India.

Carter wants to complete by fall a second-phase pact with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev limiting strategic nuclear weapons. But European leaders want to know what he intends doing about limiting medium-range nuclear missiles the Soviets now have trained on cities like London, Paris, Bonn and other Allied centers. And, if a third phase treaty is planned, will Europeans participate?

Carter wants a pact to slow or cut back what Mondale has called "the disgraceful" traffic in conventional weapons. The United States sold $10 billion worth last year, France $4 billion, Britain about $1 billion and no one knows how much Moscow sold or gave away.

European diplomats say that so long as communist nations supply arms as a political device prospects of east-west agreement seem dim.

Carter has big plans to check the spread of nuclear knowhow, plants and facilities for turning spent nuclear fuel into plutonium, an ingredient of atomic bombs. The Carter administration, for the time being, is not permitting new nuclear deliveries pending a policy review headed by Harvard expert Joseph Nye.

Cattlemen trim herds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fed up with sagging market prices caused by a record glut of beef, cattlemen have trimmed their herds the sharpest in 28 years, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of Jan. 1, the department's Crop Reporting Board said Wednesday, the U.S. cattle inventory was 122.9 million head, down 4 per cent from about 128 million a year ago.

"This is the sharpest percentage decline since 1948 and represents the second consecutive year of herd reduction in the current cattle cycle," the report said.

The inventory, including dairy as well as beef cattle, grew steadily since Jan. 1, 1967, when the count was 108.8 million head. A record of 131.8 million cattle was reached two years ago. By then producers were in trouble, particularly feedlot operators and farmers who had depended on relatively cheap grain to fatten their stock. Prices of corn and other grain began rising steadily in 1972 as export demands took much of what previously had been available to cattle and other livestock.

The only way for producers to cut their losses was to send record numbers of cattle, including calves and females from breeding herds, to slaughter.

That produced record beef supplies for consumers and, compared with earlier record retail prices, has meant relative bargains at supermarkets since last summer.

The cutbacks have helped improve cattle prices somewhat, but there are now more hogs and poultry to compete with beef, and USDA experts say it will be months before many cattle producers are able to operate in the black.

The report said the Jan. 1 inventory included $2.4 million head of cows and heifers that have calved, a 4 per cent reduction from a year ago.

Of those, 41.4 million were beef cows, down 5 per cent from Jan. 1, 1976. Milk cows at 11 million head, were down 1 per cent.

Senate looks at local bills

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas senators aim to please the home folks today.

With no debate and few of the upper chamber lawmakers on hand, the Senate tackled a long list of so-called "local and uncontested" bills.

The House scheduled a brief morning meeting and quick adjournment for a busy afternoon of committee meetings.

Heading the committee calendar this afternoon was a session of the House Ways and Means Committee on two tax reduction measures.

One bill would exempt residential consumers from the state sales tax on utilities and allow cities to remove the local sales tax if they wish. It also would increase the inheritance tax exemption. The net loss to the state treasury would be $210 million for the next two years.

The second bill would exempt both residential and commercial users from the utilities sales tax for a net loss to the state of $344 million the next two years.

The Senate finally approved Wednesday, by a 21-7 vote, a proposed constitutional amendment to allow bingo and raffles by non-profit or charitable organizations.

If approved by the House, the proposition will go to Texas voters in the general election of November, 1978.

In other action the Senate also approved and sent to the House by voice vote a bill that would make it against the law to sell or buy a baby. Adoption agencies would still be able to charge a reasonable fee for care of the mother or the baby.

"But there will be no more of this charging $10,000 to adopt a baby," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls.

Senators also approved bills to include doctors of podiatric medicine in workmen's compensation coverage and to let certain podiatry services be covered by health or accident insurance.

Four Pampans sentenced in county court

Four Pampa residents entered pleas in Gray County Court Wednesday and were given fines and probation sentences by Gray County Judge Don Cain.

Clarence Britt, 65, entered a guilty plea to a charge of driving while license suspended. He was fined $20 and costs and sentenced to 30 days jail and six months probation after she entered a guilty plea to driving while intoxicated.

A plea of no contest to driving while intoxicated charges was entered by Velma Albright Gifford, 47. She was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days jail and six months probation.

Bruce Valentine Noel, 60, pleaded no contest to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days jail and six months probation.

The Pampa Fire Department responded to calls for a grass fire and a house fire Wednesday, according to a department spokesman.

A house at 212 E. Tuke received smoke damage to the building and contents and a bed in the house received fire damage. Firefighters reported the fire may have been caused by children playing with matches.

A grass fire was reported 20 miles east of Pampa on Texas 152.

Weather briefs

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The high cost of not doing business prompted Mayor Stanley M. Makowski to lift a ban on use of private vehicles today, seven days after a devastating blizzard struck.

"I simply weighed the inconvenience to snow removal efforts against potential losses to individuals and business people," explained Makowski in a statement late Wednesday.

The mayor estimated the cost to the area at $100 million. Economic observers put the daily loss at $13 million in wages for 250,000 idle workers and $6 million in value added by manufacturing.

The cleanup cost to the city had already totaled $2 million, Makowski said. Neighboring Niagara County's executive, Kenneth K. Comerford, estimated the loss to the economy at more than $6 million, nearly $3 million for road-clearing.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — At least one group of merchants is back on the job in snow-besieged downtown Buffalo.

Prostitutes were back to work along Chippewa Street on Wednesday after being driven off the streets by the fierce blizzard which has shut down the city since Friday.

Snow remained piled too high along the sidewalks, forcing the streetwalkers to actually walk in the streets where they approached passing motorists and pedestrians.

Meanwhile, the city remained in a state of emergency.

of the pool with a rope because the zoo's tractor had frozen. But by that time Bruno's body temperature had dropped 10 degrees, a critical loss of body heat.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A young man photographing the winter splendor of Niagara Falls — which has been choked by gigantic chunks of ice — fell into the river and was swept to within 15 feet of the brink of Horseshoe Falls, police say.

Then he grasped a chunk of ice and clung to it until rescued.

Patrolman James MacNeil was lowered down the slippery bank with ropes. He grabbed John Jordan, 24, of Niagara Falls, and other policemen pulled the pair up to safety Wednesday.

Jordan was treated at Memorial Medical Center for exposure. Niagara Frontier State Parks Police said Jordan and three friends went to Goat Island to enjoy the icy beauty.

Jordan and two others climbed drifts that covered protective railings, then fell into the ice along the shore about 200 feet upstream from the falls, police said. The other two scrambled back to land, but Jordan was swept down the Niagara River.

Goat Island was closed after the incident.

PARADISE, Mich. (AP) — Things are not heavenly for the 200 residents of this little Upper Michigan community, where 255.5 inches of snow have fallen since October.

Seventy-five inches remain.

The three residents who operate the hamlet's snow plows confess they are running out of ideas about what to do with the snow, which is pushed into banks that grow higher and higher.

One of the residents, Robert High, stuck a 16-foot pole in the ground just before the snow season and figured to keep tabs on the drifting snow that way.

"We have had so much snow I have to walk to the top of the pole and dig around to locate my pole," he says.

Apparently the only ones happy with the massive amount of snow are high school students, who are shoveling off roofs of homes and businesses to raise money for a class trip.

SMITH ISLAND, Md. (AP)

Ice on the Chesapeake Bay has isolated this island on the Virginia border from the rest of Maryland, but commerce is continuing as usual.

State officials have dropped plans to try to fly disaster employment applications to the island, but at least some bill collectors have made their usual rounds. One fisherman said insurance agents have been flown in by helicopter to collect monthly payments.

About 100 shellfishermen who live on the island have been unable to get to the state employment office at Crisfield on the mainland since last week because of the ice, which has isolated the island since early January.

At first officials planned to fly in disaster relief forms on state helicopters which are bringing emergency supplies to the island. They later dropped the distribution plan and agreed to handle the applications by telephone.

Texarkana officer slain

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A Texarkana police officer was shot and killed and another officer was critically wounded early today after they responded to a burglar alarm at a discount store.

Texarkana Police Chief John Butler said three teen-agers were taken into custody, but that no charge had been filed. The three did not offer any resistance when apprehended, he said.

Butler said Lt. Ed Worrell, 28, died at a Texarkana hospital about an hour after he was shot in the back from ambush. Butler said officer James Clark, 30, was in critical condition at a Texarkana hospital. Both officers were shot once in the back with a high-powered automatic rifle, Butler said.

Butler said Worrell was on his way home from his shift when the car he was in responded to the burglar alarm.

Butler said shortly before 1 a.m., Clark, Worrell and Paul Howell responded to a silent burglar alarm signal at Howard's Discount Store. He said the officers noted that a plate glass window in the front of the building had been shattered.

Butler said Clark proceeded to the south side of the building and Howell went to the north side. Butler said Worrell was protecting the front of the building.

Less than five minutes after the officers arrived at the scene, Clark was shot. Moments later, Worrell was shot.

Howell called for assistance on his walkie-talkie and other officers responded. They apprehended two teen-agers inside the building. Butler said the two were armed with a shotgun and a rifle but offered no resistance. Authorities also said the youths had sacks of weapons apparently taken from the store.

A short time later, a third youngster was apprehended in a telephone booth six to eight blocks from the scene. Police said they found a high-powered automatic rifle equipped with a scope in the front seat of the youth's car. A shotgun was found between the seats and a pistol also was in the car.

Pilot lights cost 3 per cent of fuel

NEW YORK (AP) — Pilot lights in furnaces, stoves, clothes dryers, ovens and other household appliances account for 3 per cent of the nation's total natural gas consumption, much of it wasted, a new study says.

But an alternative to pilot lights could save a sizable amount of fuel. Electric ignition devices that emit a spark at the touch of a button or flick of a switch.

According to the Conference Board, a nonprofit business research organization, and gas industry authorities, the electric devices are as safe as pilot lights.

But the electric igniters are more expensive than pilots, patented 65 years ago as a way of cutting down on explosions from careless lighting of stoves.

The electric devices add about $12 to the price of a clothes dryer, $30 to $36 to oven prices and $20 to $25 to the price of a furnace. According to American Gas Association spokesman Carl Ericson, most of the igniters operate off household current.

Balancing the extra cost, however, is an estimated $600 million reduction in residential gas bills if pilot lights were banned nationwide on all appliances but water heaters, the Conference Board says. California already has such a prohibition.

According to the board, Federal Energy Administration figures show that replacing pilot lights could save some of the 648 billion cubic feet of gas they burn every year — 13 per cent of the total amount used in homes.

A national ban on sales of appliances with pilot lights eventually could save 222 billion cubic feet of gas a year — enough to heat a million homes for a year, the board says.

Not all of the gas burned by pilot lights is wasted, however, since they provide some of the heat required by ovens, dryers or furnaces when they are being used.

And the small amount of heat pilot lights produce is that much less warmth a home's heating system must produce.

Still, allowing for these circumstances, the Conference Board estimated that about one-third of the gas burned by pilots is wasted.

The gas association's Ericson added "we've been pushing very hard for 1 1/2 or two years to get these going."

Fanne Foxe to make budget movie

NEW YORK (AP) — Fanne Foxe, who once kept company with one of Washington's most powerful men, is filming a low-budget movie in a dingy downtown loft often used to produce gay plays.

Miss Foxe held a news conference Tuesday — attended by one reporter — to announce what was billed as her American movie debut in a film called "Round the Naked Round." She said it would be R-rated and promised, "I won't take my clothes off."

But the Argentine Firecracker surprised even her press agent by revealing that she had already made an American film, "Posse From Heaven," in 1975. And the history of her current "studio" cast doubt on what she said were plans to "distribute the film worldwide to general audiences."

Director Steven Baker, who said the movie's budget was "over six figures," spends much of his time at the West 14th Street perch producing all-male revues, according to pamphlets in the lobby of the Pilgrim Theater in Boston. Backstage, Mills, then chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was talking of Miss Foxe being a good candidate for movie roles.

In Sanford, Fla., Miss Foxe allegedly opened a full-length gown while on stage — and while wearing nothing underneath the flowing robe. In recent exposure charges later were dismissed.

Foxe was to be paid "in two figures" for her 10 days work. Then she leaves for another film, this one in her native Argentina.

The New York movie was described as telling of an aging film star in love with a young director. "The film is about girls, and the younger girls fall all over the director and the older woman gets jealous," said Miss Foxe.

A source close to the film, said, "Listen, if you follow your intuitions about this place and the movie, you'll be right. I just don't want to be quoted on it."

The aspiring actress, who says she's 40 and whose real name is Annabel Battistella, splashed her way to fame in 1974 when she jumped into the Tidal Basin in Washington, D.C., after police stopped a car in which she was riding in with then-Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and others.

Within three months, Miss Foxe had landed a $3,000-per-week stand as a stripper at the Pilgrim Theater in Boston. Backstage, Mills, then chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was talking of Miss Foxe being a good candidate for movie roles.

In Sanford, Fla., Miss Foxe allegedly opened a full-length gown while on stage — and while wearing nothing underneath the flowing robe. In recent exposure charges later were dismissed.

We won!

Four students at Stephen F. Austin Elementary School look over congratulatory letters after being chosen regional winners in the National PTA Cultural Arts Reflection Project. Winners and their categories are, from left, Brandi Huff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Huff, piano; Susan Darling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amel Darling, poster; Debbie Mack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mack, water color painting; and Cheryl Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Armstrong, trombone. All are sixth grade students at Austin except Susan, who is in second grade. After having won in regional competition recently in Amarillo, the girls' entries are now eligible for state competition. In the art divisions, actual work is judged, and the music entries are recorded on tapes. The exhibits were under the direction of Mrs. Priscilla Alexander, Austin's Cultural Arts Chairman and a third-grade teacher. (Pampa News photo by Gene Anderson)

Family spends winter in trees

WAKHON, Minn. (AP) — David and Lois Bassett and their three children are snug and warm, even though several layers of plastic sheeting are all that separate them from temperatures as cold as 48 below zero.

The Bassett family is spending one of the coldest Minnesota winters on record in a shelter made of tree branches covered with polyethylene sheets.

Bassett, 25, said the winter weather scared the family a little, but they wanted to get onto their own land so he built the shelter near Mille Lacs Lake in central Minnesota in November.

It took two days to build the shelter and install a metal heating stove so Mrs. Bassett, 23, and the children — April, 5, Nathan, 1 1/2, and Benjamin, 3 months — could move in.

The house was built by bending over tree branches to form the outline and support for it. The house has a wood back and front and see-through plastic sides. No windows were needed, but there is a vent at the top for a stovepipe and a little air for ventilation does get in because the plastic is not sealed tightly.

The wood used to warm the shelter and for cooking is scrap left by a logging company which formerly owned the land. During the day, the sun helps warm the shelter, and Bassett said one log will keep the home warm. At night it takes a little more.

"I have seen frost on the door hinges," he said.

The Bassett's home is an extension of an idea that more and more owners of conventional homes have been using to seal drafty windows in the wintertime. The Federal Energy Administration, in fact, says covering windows with plastic creates cheap and effective storm windows. The plastic is usually installed inside the house, rather than on the outside.

Visitors who step through the wooden door of the Bassett's plastic shelter know they've stepped into a home, however unconventional. There are wood floors that are washed weekly, a cook stove, a table and chairs, a bed for Bassett and his wife, a pull-down bunk for the two older children and a basket for the baby. The house has two big rooms, but only one is being used right now.

The Bassetts also have an A-frame outhouse and a well.

A big metal washtub keeps clothing and the Bassetts clean.

"I can wash two loads of clothes and rinse them with 20 gallons of water," Lois Bassett said.

The kids take baths in the tub, but David and Lois hook up a coffeepot full of warm water and stand in the tub to take a shower.

"The kids have fun in the tub, but it's kind of squishy for us," Mrs. Bassett said.

The family uses three oil lamps for light during winter evenings.

The Bassetts get a newspaper on weekends and have a battery-powered radio to get news and music in the shelter, which they plan to replace with a hand-built cabin in the spring.
