McLean junior firefighters lend volunteers a hand

McLEAN — When Brian Stokes was five years old, he wanted a fire truck for Christmas.

Now in his teens, he has a real one. Stokes is a junior fire chief.

One of ten members of the McLean Junior Fire Department, Stokes is serious about his job. "I have a radio receiver, and when I hear a fire call, I notify the others on the telephone. We all drive to the fire and help however we can," he said.

The group was organized two months ago after McLean High School students Joe Creed Lamb and H.W. Harlan dreamed up the idea. They recruited other boys, and the group discussed the possibility with the McLean Volunteer Fire Department.

Fire Chief Jim McDonald approved the idea on the condition that the boys adhere to state regulations. They are not allowed to ride on the trucks, and they may not actively participate in firefighting.

Otherwise, the firemen offered support, agreeing to meet with the boys at the firehouse every first and third Thursday.

The group chose McDonald and McLean High School science teacher Gene Gee as sponsors. Officers in addition to Stokes include Lamb as assistant junior fire chief, Harlan as secretary-treasurer and Scott Raines as junior fire marshal.

The department has assisted at two fires to date: a grass fire south of McLean, where they moved hay bales from the fire area, and rolled hose, and a small fire in a commercial building in town. Not all the boys wait for a call from Stokes to drive to the scene of a fire; those who live in the city respond to the fire whistle.

Future plans include a first-aid course next month, all 10 members plan to take the course. Lamb has already had the course, but will take it again as a refresher.

Fund-raising poses a serious problem for the department, members have voted to purchase blue jackets with lettering, but their treasury is non-existent.

"As a matter of fact," Lamb said, "at the present we're five dollars in the hole. We're sponsoring a candidate in the Miss McLean contest, and Brian Stokes loaned us the money."

The boys are 15-17 years of age, when they reach 18 they'll be eligible to become members of the regular fire department.

In addition to the officers, other members of the group are Randy Kennedy, Greg Henley, Carter Trew, Joe Mercer, Curtis Simpson and Butch Cline.

"We're following in pretty big footsteps," said Harlan. "McLean has a great volunteer fire department."

The downtown firehouse is fitted with the latest equipment. There are nine trucks, two of which are pumpers. The others are equipped to handle rural fires. Rescue equipment includes a new 10-ton Porta-power unit, a heavy-duty rescue saw, foam equipment. Although entirely volunteer, the department takes fire calls around the clock.

If they call, we go," fireman Clifford McDonald said. "We've gone many, many miles to range fires, and have even answered calls into Oklahoma."

Each of the 22 volunteer firefighters has a pager unit. When a call comes in, a fireman summons other volunteers on the pager's control board in the firehouse.

"We've been on the road in 30 seconds," McDonald said.

The department receives county funds for each run they make, the remainder of their expenses are covered by local donations.

"When we bought a $17,000 truck in 1969, it was entirely paid for in three months by donations," McDonald said, adding, "there are some pretty fantastic people around McLean."

The department also maintains ambulance service, with several well-equipped units. Three firemen are certified emergency medical technicians, and Chief McDonald an EMT instructor. A course toward EMT certification is now in progress, meeting Thursday evenings at the firehouse; all the firefighters are taking the course, and nine firemen's wives are enrolled.

Asked about the junior fire department, McDonald praised the boys for their initiative and said they are a definite asset to the department. "When you're on the scene of a serious fire with a half-dozen available men, you need help," he said, "and these boys are willing to give it for as long as they're needed."

SWPS seeks okay for nuclear plant

By TIM PALMER
Pampa News Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Southwestern Public Service Co. of Amarillo and General Atomics of San Diego, Calif., today introduced to the State of Texas a proposal for a 12-year, $1 billion project to build a nuclear breeder reactor energy plant near Amarillo.

SPS and General Atomics, with support from the Federal Energy Research Development Association, plan to spend $13 million on the project in 1977.

Because state licensing and safety requirements must be fulfilled, representatives from the two companies met this morning in the old supreme court room of the State Capitol with the lieutenant governor, the speaker of the House and Senator Max Sherman.

Proposed site for the plant will be just north of Amarillo, selected because of the availability of helium there. Helium will be used in the nuclear fission processes and spokesmen today said that the gas is ideal because it does not react with air or water. It is a low energy gas and could easily be contained if there should be a leak.

Research on the process reportedly has been going on for more than 10 years.

Uranium 238 will be used in the plant. It is in plentiful supply with 700,000 tons of ore known in the U.S., according to a 1976 government estimate.

The plant also could convert the element thorium to uranium 233 and use that for fuel. That supply of energy could last for centuries, according to Bill Finley, president of General Atomics.

William Esler, vice president of engineering with SPS, said that construction will begin in 1982 and operations will get underway in 1988. Phase One of the project will run from 1977 to 1980 when, "We will prove the safety characteristics of the plant," Esler said.

Sherman said in the meeting that sometime in the "near future" Texas will not be able to meet its own energy needs from oil and gas industries. "We're going to have to look at alternatives," he said. "We're going to have to look at all the possibilities."

House Speaker Bill Clayton said, "This project certainly has my whole-hearted support. This is of major importance to us, particularly since we face an energy crisis this winter. Oil and gas will not be the energy of the future."

Court passes voice vote

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe continued to bat 1,000 in the House today, with "clean" versions of his courts and Texas Railroad Commission bills easily winning tentative approval on voice votes.

Final passage will come Monday. An attempt to suspend rules and take up the courts bill for final passage failed, 72-61, to get the necessary four-fifths vote.

Senators already have passed the measures. One transfers $188,974 from the railroad commission's oil and gas division to its hard-pressed gas utilities division, which handles gas company appeals from city council refusals to grant rate increases.

The other creates 23 new district courts, a step Briscoe contends would help the fight on crime by unclogging dockets and thus providing faster trials. Only the courts bill created any waves.

Reps. Frank Madla and Abe Ribak of San Antonio tried to get one of the new courts for their city designated for juvenile, instead of civil cases. But the delegation was split, and the amendment was tabled, 87-31.

Rep. Sarah Weddington, D-Austin, also failed in an attempt to add a new district court for her city.

She said the Administrative Procedures Act passed last session added immensely to the burden of Austin courts by requiring that appeals from state agency rulings be filed in Travis County.

Planned debate on a major bill setting out procedures for evaluating agricultural land for taxation on its productivity, not its value in the real estate market, was blocked by a point of order. Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, said there had not been adequate notice the bill would be on today's calendar.

The House adjourned until 2 p.m. Monday.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a resolution that would require all state building thermostats to be set at the "maximum efficiency level" of energy conservation. Sen. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, said he first wanted to set all thermostats at 65 degrees but found that in buildings with combined heating and air conditioning systems it might require even more energy to keep the temperature at 65.

Also sent to the House were Senate bills that would allow the prevailing party in a libel or slander suit to recover attorney fees, a bill to let the University of Texas system set up a self-insurance service for medical malpractice coverage and a bill that would allow the legislature to pay the expenses of inauguration of the governor and lieutenant governor.

The inauguration expenses bill was amended to take out a specific appropriation of $100,000 for January, 1979.

The city of Austin and private contributors now cover the inaugural costs.

Briscoe's program already has had a successful week, with House passage Wednesday of his bill to earmark $561.2 million worth of auto-related sales taxes for highway construction.

Senate passage of the highway bill, to which Briscoe and the legislature have given their highest priority, could come as early as next week. The Senate sponsor is Bill Moore, chairman of the powerful state affairs committee.

The Senate failed by two votes Wednesday to take up for consideration the proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize tax evaluation of agricultural land according to its productivity.

Sen. Tom Creighton, the sponsor, said he would just wait a month and bring the measure up then. Objections were raised to the fact it would chop $40 billion from the tax rolls and allow corporations to have the same tax advantage as family farms.

It's hypocritical to remove $40 billion from the property tax rolls and then begrudge the little folks exemptions on items that are necessary to life," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

Parker admitted he was upset because Creighton had opposed his bill to exempt automobiles from property taxation.

The Senate passed, 27-4, a bill adding a $50,000 fine to the present jail sentences that can be levied for monopolistic business practices.

The bill by Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, also allows suits by private citizens, in addition to the attorney general, to break alleged monopolies.

Hussein mourns death of queen

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan's young Queen Alia was buried in the royal cemetery near Amman today less than 24 hours after her death in a helicopter crash.

King Hussein, wearing a red-and-white Bedouin headdress, stood by grief-stricken but dry-eyed as the queen's flag-draped coffin was lowered into its grave.

A crowd of about 3,000 mourners, mostly Jordanian dignitaries, stood silently during the 90-minute service in a nearby mosque and later at the cemetery.

Queen Alia, a 29-year-old diplomat's daughter and champion of women's rights, had flown to At Tafilah in the mountains 200 miles south of Amman to inspect a hospital. Her helicopter ran into a rainstorm and crashed, killing the queen.

Health Minister Mohammed El Bashir, an air force doctor and the pilot, there were no survivors.

The burial was held on short notice at the new royal cemetery adjacent to the Hashmiya Palace, 15 miles west of Amman.

The king's close men relatives stood by his side during the funeral, but none of the royal womenfolk or children were present. Bedouin tribal chiefs tans bent and kissed the monarch's hand.

Among foreign dignitaries at the ceremony were President Hafez Assad of Syria and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

Alia was Hussein's third wife. They had been married four years and had one child, a 2-year-old daughter.

The palace announced 40 days of official mourning and flags were lowered to half staff.

In an emotional radio and television broadcast, the 41-year-old king said, "God has chosen my beloved Alia to be by His side and she is not coming back. Those with her were also martyred."

Hussein said the queen decided only that morning to make the tour. He stayed behind to meet with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

In the evening, I received reports that the aircraft was overdue, and later that contact had been lost with it. The plane was caught in heavy rain storms and crashed. Finally I received the tragic news that Alia will never return.

Carter surveys kingdom

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is visiting Cabinet departments one by one, encouraging bureaucrats in hallways, offices, cafeterias and auditoriums to be imaginative, unafraid of change and more responsive to the people.

Carter set aside time today to walk to the Treasury, next door to the White House, to meet in the Cash Room with employees lined with tellers' cages until it was closed last summer, the Cash Room was the Federal Reserve System's last remaining bank that cashed checks.

Now an empty room with marble walls, the Cash Room once turned checks into greenbacks and silver for government workers and others. It became known as a place where the poor with no bank accounts of their own could cash their welfare checks.

Like other banks of its kind across the country, it was shut down as uneconomical.

The President arranged to ride from the Treasury to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, where hundreds of workers were invited to the cafeteria to hear him. He also planned to visit several offices in the building.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter will tour every Cabinet department to see the people and to express his direct concerns. Powell said there is no significance to the order of the President's visits.

Carter went to the Labor Department on Wednesday. "Be aggressive, dynamic and imaginative," he told its employees. "I don't want any of you to be afraid of change. I want an aggressive, constant search for a better way to deliver services."

With Cabinet secretary Jack Watson in tow, the President ventured first into the crannies of the department, entering with Secret Service agents through the basement, taking an elevator to the second floor and greeting workers in the hallways.

Carter moved slowly, chatching hands like he was picking cotton.

Several women touched the hands of others who touched the President. "Jimmy, Jimmy ..." they shouted. "Mr. President, Mr. President." His bodyguards cleared a path to the department's marble lobby, where Carter stepped onto a small stage.

Gunman offered immunity

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A vengeance-seeking gunman, thinking he is "a marked man" for life, continued to hold a hostage in a booby-trapped apartment today while his lawyers studied an offer of immunity from prosecution.

Anthony G. "Tony" Kirtsis asked this morning that his attorneys examine the immunity papers which local prosecutors approved in an effort to break the tense standoff which began Tuesday at Kirtsis' apartment.

Authorities said Kirtsis indicated he would accept his attorneys' judgment. The papers, read to Kirtsis Wednesday night from an apartment across the hall, were picked up by his brother, James, and then delivered to the lawyers by a deputy prosecutor.

A spokesman for negotiators said there was no reason to believe Kirtsis would issue any new demands, and authorities were hopeful the ordeal would end when Kirtsis' attorneys verified the documents.

"He (Kirtsis) is optimistic. We're optimistic," the spokesman said.

In a pre-dawn telephone interview with WIBC radio news director Fred Heckman, to whom Kirtsis has spoken several times in the past two days, Kirtsis said, "I've already lost all my self-respect. I'm going to be a marked man all my life."

Frustrated police and sheriff's deputies maintained their vigil near the building. Occasionally, one or two uniformed officers walked between a large bus used as a police command center and a neighboring building where the sheriff's department set up headquarters.

A friend took a copy of the immunity offer Wednesday night to the apartment where Kirtsis held executive Richard O. Hall hostage, said George Martz, spokesman for police negotiators.

Martz said the friend read the offer through the booby-trapped front door to Kirtsis, who told him that he didn't want to think about it then and preferred to wait until morning.

Martz said the document, signed by a deputy prosecutor, offered "total immunity" from arrest or psychiatric confinement to Kirtsis, the 44-year-old bachelor who took Hall prisoner on Tuesday morning as part of a plan for revenge against the mortgage company.

"Tony has given us four demands and we met all of them," said Martz.

Authorities learned that Kirtsis recently bought 100 pounds of dynamite and police said they believed his declaration that the apartment has been rigged so that it could blow up.

"We felt it was more than a possibility that the dynamite would be set off," said Martz, a deputy Marion County prosecutor.

Hall, 42, is director of a mortgage company that lent Kirtsis $130,000 to buy 17 acres of land on which he planned to build a shopping center. Kirtsis contends he was swindled.

On Tuesday, Kirtsis demanded and was granted release from the loan and a public apology from Hall's Meridian Mortgage Co. He also demanded unspecified monetary damages stemming from the mortgage dispute and immunity from any damages arising from his actions after abducting Hall.

"I don't like it," Martz said of the immunity offer, "but that's beside the point. What are you going to do about it?"

Prosecutor James A. Kelley, discounting fears that immunity would set a dangerous precedent, said he would agree to free Kirtsis "if it is necessary to save a life and prevent anyone from being injured."

"It has been done in other jurisdictions and we have studied it and I don't believe it would set any precedents," Kelley said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles, where he is attending a crime conference.

Chances for precipitation tonight and Friday are 30 per cent as more clouds move into the area.

Lady pilots 'do well'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force says the first 20 women to enter its flight training program are doing well without any changes in the curriculum.

Griffin said airsickness is not too uncommon, even for male trainees.

"Once they get the hang of flying, the airsickness usually disappears," he said.

Half the 20 women admitted last fall to the program are about midway through their basic jet training program at Williams AFB in Arizona.

The other 10 women will finish basic flight indoctrination at Hondo AFB near San Antonio this Friday, said Griffin. They will leave then for Williams AFB.

"We see no problems. Our main purpose was to monitor the program to see if any changes in the curriculum were needed to accommodate the women," Griffin said.

"We get weekly reports and have not adjusted anything in the program for the women," he said.

Most of the women selected for the experimental program were captains and first lieutenants, said Griffin.

"As it happens, the ranking trainee in each class is a woman," he added.

Condemned would say goodbye high

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Bills have been introduced in the House and Senate that would require executions in Texas to be done with drugs instead of by the electric chair.

Reps. Ben Grant, D-Marshall, and Bob Close, R-Perryton, introduced a bill Tuesday calling for execution "by intravenous injection of a substance or substances in a lethal quantity sufficient to cause death, such execution procedure to be determined and supervised by the director of the Department of Corrections."

A similar bill has been introduced by Sen. Bill Braecklein, D-Dallas.

Grant said today he talked with the chief physician at the Huntsville prison before drafting his bill. The doctor told him of a three-step injection procedure that would be painless, Grant said.

First, the prisoner would be put to sleep, then injected with a lethal dose of barbiturates and lastly with a shot "to make sure," Grant said.

The Oklahoma Senate approved a similar measure Wednesday.

The Grant-Close bill also allows the prison director, Jim Estelle, to designate the executioner. Present law requires Estelle to be the executioner.

Grant said Estelle supports the bill.

The prison doctor said no doctor could be executioner because of the Hippocratic oath, Grant said.

Canal treaty rumored

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's special envoys are preparing to leave for Panama amid reports that the Carter administration is ready to ease U.S. terms for a new Canal Treaty.

Major elements of Carter's projected compromise remain secret, but U.S. officials say they expect the President, represented in the talks by Washington lawyer Sol M. Linowitz, to move nearer Panamanian demands on several key issues.

As U.S. negotiators prepared to leave Sunday for Panama, Panamanian Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd resigned Wednesday in a dispute with strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera over the canal talks.

Torrijos named as Boyd's replacement, Nicolas Gonzalez Revilla, Panama's current ambassador to the United States.

U.S. sources say the canal talks issues on which U.S. movement is expected relate to the duration of the new treaty, circumstances in which the United States can exercise primary rights to defend the canal, the size of the 553-square-mile Canal Zone, arrangements that would give Panama a bigger share of Canal tolls and other revenue and ways of expanding the waterway so that it can handle big new ships.

Carter this week named Linowitz co-negotiator, along with Ambassador Ellisworth Bunker, until now, has for years been in sole charge of the slow-moving negotiations.

With Linowitz' appointment, Carter signaled Panama that he intends a personal role in the talks. As if to underline the resolve to hustle the negotiations toward a settlement, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, before taking office, told Costa Rican Foreign Minister Gonzalo Fazio a new pact could be achieved by April or May.

Meanwhile Torrijos, authoritarian head of the Panamanian government, has sent his own signals back to the White House, defining his minimum demands in advance of the talks, which begin Feb. 20.

The Panamanian embassy said Torrijos' demands are for total and final U.S. withdrawal by Dec. 31, 1990; that thereafter the security and neutrality of the waterway should be vested in the United Nations to guarantee it will remain free and open to all countries.

U.S. officials suggest the administration is pondering concessions that would bring the time period for sole U.S. operational control, primary defense rights and occupation of the waterway more or less into line with the Torrijos formula.

That means the new treaty will run until about the end of the century, but a plan for shared control beyond the year 2000 seems likely to be pushed.

Drug bust nets 32 in Lufkin

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — A massive drugs crackdown netted more accused violators than authorities counted on.

They set out Wednesday with 44 sealed indictments in which an Angelina County grand jury accused 32 persons of assorted narcotics offenses, and all 32 were rounded up by day's end.

In addition, officers nabbed and charged two other individuals not named in the indictments.

Officers said the arrests were the result of a four-month in-

Feds order Hereford; school unworried here

By JANE P. MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

The federal government is challenging the method Hereford uses to elect school board members, the same method used by the Pampa Independent School District (PISD).

The Hereford Independent School District has been ordered to revert to an at-large system of electing school trustees.

Hereford now uses the place system with runoff elections so no candidate can be elected without a majority vote.

PISD switched to the place method in 1975.

Paul Simmons, PISD board president, is assured that Pampa is in compliance with the laws and will not be challenged.

PISD superintendent Bob Philips agrees.

"Pampa is in compliance. I feel very comfortable with our situation," he said today. "I don't think the situations would be similar anyway."

"We do have letters which have granted us permission for each election change we have made, including the recent change to move absentee balloting to 321 W. Albert from 119 N. Frost since the school business office is being moved," he told The News.

The Voting Rights Act of 1975 required schools to get Department of Justice approval for any change in voting procedure from 1971 to the present time.

Simmons quoted from a letter received in May 1976 from the attorney general's office.

"In reference to the place system and majority vote requirement ... submitted to the attorney general pursuant of Section 5 of Voting Rights Act of 1965 as amended ... the attorney general does not interpose any objection to the changes in question."

"As far as I am concerned, the at-large method is like throwing a dart at the dart board," Simmons said.

"I feel that place voting and the fact that you have to achieve 51 per cent of the vote to win really assures that the representative is the choice of the people," he added.

Judge Halbert O. Woodward will hear the Hereford suit in Amarillo. One of the charges is that the change might constitute discrimination against the Mexican-American minority in the school district.

IRA gunmen get 600 years

LONDON (AP) — Four gunmen of the Irish Republican Army who for 18 months waged a terror campaign of murder and bombing in England were sentenced today to life imprisonment 47 times over and to additional prison terms totaling more than 600 years among them.

The four men — Martin O'Connell, Edward Butler, Harry Duggan and Hugh Doherty — were found guilty Wednesday of 25 counts of murder and bombing.

The judge, Sir Joseph Cantley, who at the start of the 13-day trial was told he was on the terrorists' death list, said the four men should serve not less than 30 years each on the murder charges.

In Britain, a life sentence can be reviewed and shortened at any time by the Home Secretary, and judges frequently recommend the minimum time they feel should be served.

The convictions put the police on the alert for a new wave of bombing. One Scotland Yard officer reported: "We expect the IRA to hit back at any moment. The terrorists have already publicly stated they plan a bombing campaign far worse than anything they have done before."

"We're the best there's been," Butler boasted to Yard men who captured them 14 months ago. The Yard grudgingly agreed.

"They were a tight-knit unit, well disciplined, closely integrated and without misfits. They were also the most violent and ruthless cell active in England."

Butler and the other three men were convicted at London's Old Bailey court Wednesday on 25 counts of murder and bombing. Sentencing was set for today.

The squad was part of a crack IRA team trained in the Irish Republic in 1973 to create havoc and panic in England's major cities. Scotland Yard said. The aim was to pressure the British into ending their rule of Northern Ireland, where the Roman Catholic IRA has been fighting for seven and a half years to force the British out of the Protestant-dominated province and unite it with the neighboring Republic.

The leader of the squad was Joseph O'Connell, a sallow-faced 25-year-old Irishman from County Clare on the Republic's west coast. The others were Butler and 24-year-old Harry Duggan, both Irishmen, and Glasgow-born Hugh Doherty.

They surrendered on Dec. 12, 1975, after a six-day siege in an apartment in central London. Among their victims were anti-IRA campaigner Ross McWhirter, a prominent right-winger and co-editor of the "Guinness Book of Records."

Scotland Yard sources said the four were the last of a network of about 20 IRA Provisionals believed responsible for at least 12 killings, more than 50 bombings and a score of shootings between early 1974 and December 1975.

Lawyers predict bitter battle over medical malpractice bills

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Texas Trial Lawyers Association official predicts a lengthy, bitter legislative jousting match this spring over two bills that would reduce the cost of medical malpractice insurance.

The House State Affairs Committee and the Senate Jurisprudence Committee opened hearings Wednesday on identical 67-page malpractice measures, strongly backed by the Texas Medical Association and just as adamantly opposed by some attorney organizations.

"We have no choice but to oppose the bills as strongly as we know how," said TTLA Director John Agnew, who predicted a session-long "legislative confrontation" with doctors and lawyers.

TMA lobbyist Ace Pickens, who testified that many doctors are paying in five figures for rapidly increasing malpractice insurance, while some others are dropping the insurance altogether, also said he expects a lengthy battle.

In testimony before both committees, Pickens said malpractice insurance adds $5 to $10 to daily hospital bills and $2 to $5 to the cost of a visit to the doctor.

The malpractice "crisis" is also "having an adverse impact" on the availability and quality of medical care.

TTLA Director Michael Gallagher, a Houston attorney, called the measures "an emasculation of individual rights" and said patients would be paying for a proposed panel set up to screen lawsuits before they go to court while doctors would be protected by insurance.

The bills create, in my mind, a preferred class of defendants, the doctors, by taking away substantial rights of injured patients," said Agnew.

The proposals, sponsored by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls and Rep. Pike Powers, D-Beaumont, would limit recoveries of actual damages to $500,000, unless it could be proven that a higher amount would be needed to cover future medical expenses.

The bills would also limit to $100,000 the amount a plaintiff could recover for such non-economic losses as pain, suffering, disfigurement and inconvenience.

Other provisions include:

- A limitation on attorney fees, based on the amount of the award. The range would be from 50 per cent on the first $1,000 recovered to 10 per cent on amounts exceeding $100,000.
- Screening committees, consisting of three health care providers, with a judge as non-voting presiding officer, to review all malpractice cases before they can go to court.
- A "collateral source" rule that would reduce a malpractice settlement or judgment by the amount the injured patient had received from his own insurance, Medicaid, Medicare or social security.
- Periodic payments of jury awards instead of the present system of lump sum payments.
- Continuation of the present risk sharing pool that guarantees insurance to doctors who cannot find coverage on their own.
- Continuation of the State Insurance Board's temporary power to regulate malpractice rates.
- Stronger disciplinary powers for the State Board of Medical Examiners, which would receive automatic reports from insurance companies of all malpractice claims against Texas doctors. The board would have the power to suspend a physician's license for incompetence or require him to take further training or practice under supervision.

Former TTLA president Wayne Fisher of Houston said the bill singled out their profession while making no inroads on medical negligence.

"there's much more medical negligence occurring than is admitted in discussions that are taking place," testified Fisher in the marathon house committee hearings that lasted past midnight.

Pal claims Johnson dead

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP) — A former employe of Robert Johnson, the North Texas grain dealer who disappeared last month, says Johnson is dead despite reports by an informant that he is hiding on a Mexican ranch near Eagle Pass.

"Bobby Johnson ain't nowhere. He's sitting out there in that channel," said Raymond Lee Browne, a former Johnson employe.

Browne was said to be the last man to see Johnson before he disappeared Jan. 3 from a pleasure boat near the Port Aransas jetties in the Gulf of Mexico.

"I saw the man in the water and one of the other guys thinks he saw him too," Browne said. "And the way he was dressed — his clothes, insulated underwear and a rain slicker over that — there's no way he didn't drown. It must have been 400-500 yards from the nearest beach" when Johnson reportedly fell overboard.

Browne's account of the incident differs significantly from that of another employe who said earlier this week that Johnson staged a drowning, waded ashore and with the aid of an accomplice fled to the Central American country of Belize and finally to Mexico.

Browne, a former dispatcher for Johnson's Geronimo Trucking Co., stood in the doorway of his Eagle Pass motel room as he talked about his friend and boss of six years.

"Now they've got him down here — 75 miles from Eagle Pass. It is just a bunch of (deleted)."

"If Bobby walked up here right now and said hello, I'd know he was a ghost, because he's just not alive," Browne speculated that those who claim Johnson is alive are "trying to capitalize on one man's misfortune."

Concerning news stories which he called "lies," Browne said, "They're not going to get this thing straightened in the newspapers. They've called this grand jury up there (Wichita Falls). I don't know what it's all about, but that's where the truth is going to come out."

He said he had not received a subpoena from the grand jury but expects to be called.

There also have been reports that there is grain missing from Johnson's storage elevators.

"If Bobby were alive today, I'm sure he would have an explanation," said Browne. "Every one would be paid and the companies would still be going. However, the farmers might have a hard time believing that."

Vermell Meador to be speaker for graduation

Vermell Meador, R.N., director of nursing service at Highland General Hospital, will be the principal speaker for graduation exercises of the Shamrock General Hospital Vocational School of Nursing.

The graduation is set for Friday in Shamrock.

Mrs. James Parker, instructor, said this is the fourth class to complete the nursing course. Graduates will take state board examinations in April at Austin.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Light rain and occasionally brisk showers spread across Texas from south to north today with a promise of moisture dotting all sections the next couple of days.

Although temperatures edged below freezing at a few points in far West Texas and the Panhandle, the weather remained mild in most areas.

Rain and drizzle started Wednesday in far South Texas and gradually advanced into other sections. By this morning the wet belt extended from the coast into much of Central and East Texas and even reached into the Panhandle-Plains sector and the mountains of far West Texas.

Moisture amounts were well below one inch.

Fog developed around Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and Lubbock on the South Plains.

Early morning temperatures slipped to 26 degrees at Marfa in the far west and 28 at Dalhart and 29 at Amarillo in the Panhandle.

Forecasts promised little change in the state weather pattern through Friday.

National weather

By The Associated Press

Mild temperatures were the rule again this morning after a day of above-freezing temperatures that was just about nationwide.

Like Wednesday, the freeze held out today in the northern Appalachians, northern New England and a few spots in upper Michigan.

For some spots in Michigan and western New York, the thaw was the year's first.

There was some rain and fog in south central Texas and some light snow near the shores of lakes Ontario and Huron.

Patchy low cloudiness and fog dotted the remainder of the Great Lakes region.

There was some snow in Arizona. Flagstaff reported a six-hour snowfall of one inch.

Rain spread to the Washington coast as the result of an approaching storm system, but the storm was not expected to reach far enough south to bring needed moisture to California. High pressure began to rebuild over California, so future storms will again be deflected northward.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 3 degrees at Idaho Falls, Idaho, to 66 at Key West.

Deer hunter speaks out

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — People in this West Texas town call him simply "the deer hunter." His marksmanship is known nationwide. His true identity is not — and probably never will be.

On Nov. 21, while returning from a New Mexico hunting trip with his son, the deer hunter witnessed the death of State Trooper Sammy Long. He said he saw a man, later identified as Larry Ewers of Waco, standing over Long pumping several bullets into the fallen officer. Moments earlier cars driven by Long and Ewers had passed the hunter and stopped beside the road.

The hunter's reaction, according to a copyrighted story in the San Angelo Standard-Times, was automatic.

"I reached for my rifle as my son pulled into a roadside park about 150 to 175 yards behind Long's car. I braced the rifle against my vehicle and fired at Ewers. The whole affair was over in less than a minute."

In the bloody aftermath, police found Long's bullet-spattered body at the rear of his patrol car. He had been hit 11 times, six in the back. Ewers was shot three times. His body was found under the stolen pickup he was driving when Long stopped him.

Reporters converged, via telephone, on San Angelo. Everyone wanted to know the hunter's identity. One or two asked if he would be charged with something.

The second question will be answered later this month when a grand jury convenes in the matter.

"The investigation is complete and nothing has been uncovered to change my position," said Dist. Atty. Aubrey Edwards. "I'll present the evidence to a grand jury and ask for a no-bill. I'm confident the jury will find that the deer hunter's action was justified."

Edwards said he has received some 200 letters from people all across the country voicing their approval of one man's attempt to help another.

The hunter said he appreciated a gold-plated pistol given to his proxy by a group of lawmen. But he was not so appreciative of the "smoke-killer killer" title coined by a nearby Snyder resident shortly after the shootings were publicized.

As a precautionary measure, Edwards said he intends to seek a court order sealing all records in the case to keep others from learning the hunter's name.

The Standard-Times said the man agreed to a telephone interview only after he was promised anonymity.

Before hanging up, the deer hunter said he could see no reason to call Ewers' family in Waco.

"Nothing would be gained by it," he said with finality. "I think the best thing for all of us is to just let it fade in our memory, simply forget it ever happened. That's what I want."

Carter supports rule for blacks in Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, in a move underscoring the Carter administration's support for black majority rule in Africa, is expected to urge Congress to reinstate a total ban on U.S. imports of Rhodesian chrome.

Vance's endorsement today of a bill to halt the imports is intended as a signal of American intentions to African black leaders, officials said.

Officials say the endorsement also serves notice to Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith that he cannot stall indefinitely on demands that his white minority government relinquish power to the black majority.

While Vance's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Africa laid out the administration view, aides said the hearings also were aimed at forcing Congress to commit itself to the prospect of honoring international economic sanctions imposed against Rhodesia by the United Nations.

The U.N. adopted the British-backed ban on chrome exports from Rhodesia in 1966, but Congress in 1971 amended U.S. law to allow American companies to import the metal from the African country.

Subcommittee chairman Dick Clark, D-Iowa, told the panel on Wednesday his bill to repeal the so-called Byrd amendment "would add significantly to international pressure for a negotiated settlement" of the Rhodesian crisis.

U.S. policy, he said, has exposed the United States to charges of hypocrisy in its dealings with southern Africa, and may have falsely encouraged Smith to believe the United States ultimately would come to the rescue of his government.

"Only congressional action to end this support once and for all will convince the Smith regime that the United States is on the side of racial equality and majority rule," Clark said.

Clark's proposal was backed by the United Steelworkers Union, which said repeal of the Byrd amendment would imperil jobs in U.S. industry. That concern should not be used to undermine the embargo, "thereby contributing to the repression of civil liberties for the majority of Rhodesians," said union spokesman John J. Sheehan.

But E.F. Andrews, a vice president of Allegheny Ludlum Industries, testified on behalf of stainless steel makers that while U.S. reliance on Rhodesian chrome has declined in recent years, it would be "hazardous and undesirable" for the United States to limit access to any raw material obtainable only from foreign sources.

Chrome ore is mined only in Rhodesia, South Africa, Turkey and the Soviet Union.

Andrews said the loss of Rhodesian chrome would increase U.S. dependence on South African chrome and push prices up. And if both of those sources were lost, he said, the Soviet Union would become the primary source as it was before the embargo was lifted.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman, and I'm still a virgin. The furthest I've ever gone with a man is letting him kiss me goodnight.

Don't get me wrong. It's not that I wouldn't like to go further, but I am too afraid of sex to let myself.

I am an attractive woman with a slim body. I've been on many dates that I know could have led to the bedroom, but I always broke it up before it got that far.

I am not really afraid of MEN; it's sex I'm afraid of.

Right now I am going with a very gentle and attractive man about my age. We are casually dating, but I know he will want it to lead to sex and maybe marriage. What do I tell him? He will think I'm crazy. I'm not even sure that if I got married I would feel different about sex. Then what would happen?

I don't want to lose him because he's the first man I've ever cared for this much. If I need a psychiatrist, I couldn't afford one because I'm supporting my widowed mother who's an invalid. Help me.

"38 AND HOLDING"

DEAR "38": You need to find out why you have been fighting your normal feelings. Please seek professional counseling. And don't delay. If you can't afford a private therapist, call your local Mental Health Association or Family Service. They charge only what you can afford to pay.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine was killed while she was riding on the back of a motorcycle with a guy, so my parents made me promise I would never get on a motorcycle without their permission.

Well, last summer I broke my promise. Someone saw me and this guy on a motorcycle, so my parents heard about it. I know I should have told them the truth, but when they asked me, I denied it, and they found out I lied. Now they have lost all trust in me, and I'm being treated like a 3 year old.

Abby, if they would only give me another chance, I would never break a promise or lie to them again. All I need is a chance to prove to them that I have learned my lesson and have grown up a lot since last summer. How can I get them to trust me?

DIANNE

DEAR DIANNE: If you're trying to live something down, don't keep bringing it up. Don't whine, nag or beg another chance. That's juvenile. Keep your lip zipped and take your punishment like an adult. You'll be trusted again when your mature behavior becomes apparent.

DEAR ABBY: What should you say to someone who you know has just had plastic surgery for cosmetic reasons? If you say, "It's a big improvement," they might be insulted because that means they didn't look so hot before.

If you say, "You look much younger," they could take offense because you're implying they looked "old" before.

If you don't say anything, it could be worse because they've spent a lot of money and gone to a lot of trouble hoping for a noticeable change, and if nobody notices, it would all be for nothing.

Isn't some kind of reaction in order when the bandages come off, the black and blue marks have faded and all the swelling has gone down? But what?

LOST FOR WORDS

DEAR LOST: Just say, "You look great!" That will cover everything.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband was one of those unfortunate men who discovered he had cancer of the prostate too late. He was only 54 and his last months were terrible, both psychologically and medically. I appreciate your warning the public about this. Isn't there some way the men can be made more aware of this danger?

DEAR READER — I am sorry to hear about your husband. It is a needless waste in most instances. Cancer of the prostate can be cured if it is detected early enough — the outlook may be even better than the cure rate in early treatment of cancer of the breast.

The first step is public awareness. As I have mentioned before only five percent of the men with prostate cancer found in civilian populations survive, while 50 percent of those found and treated at Walter Reed Army Medical Center are cured. The difference is early detection.

In this regard I am disappointed in the American Cancer Society. Normally they do an excellent job and I am a strong booster of their efforts, but they have done almost nothing to educate the public about the third most common cause of death from cancer in men. There are more deaths from prostate cancer in men than from cancer of the uterus in women.

Yet, in an otherwise good publication, The Hopeful Side of Cancer, that points out how many people can be cured of cancer, there is no mention of cancer of the prostate at all or the best method to find it. The way to find it is with a simple finger examination of the rectum. Every male needs to know this and needs to know that he should have such an examination once a year after he reaches age 40. Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with well meaning friends who are so thoughtless as to ask how you are and before you can answer ask what in the world is wrong with you. They say you look so bad just because you are thin and this makes me feel terrible. It ruins my day. — BESSIE.

DEAR POLLY — This is for Mrs. A.K. whose quilted bedspread with a nylon backing keeps sliding off the bed. It is quite easy to keep one from creeping off the bed if you just cover the backing with cotton or flannelette. I prefer cotton and have put it on several such spreads. — ETHEL.

DEAR POLLY — Tell Mrs. A.K. to put a thin piece of foam rubber under her slippery bedspread. That works for me. — VIONA.

DEAR POLLY — Recently my husband installed some white paneling. Even though he used white nails, some of the heads still showed and there were also a few nicks in the paneling. I covered all these perfectly with white Liquid Paper. I have also used it on other areas where spot touch-ups were required. This product dries almost instantly and makes no mess. — MARTHA G.

Joe Campbell plans for disaster

A modern Noah's geodesic ark

By Tom Tiede

BRENT'S MOUNTAIN, Va. — (NEA) — It started when Joe Campbell was discussing philosophy with his friends and all agreed that "catastrophe is inevitable." It may not be imminent but soon or late it will come. The polar cap will melt, the earth's axis may shift, whatever — and mankind will be in a heap of trouble.

The more Campbell chafed on the prospect the more he feared for the vulnerability of the human race. Even those in his small, isolated mountain community were not secure: a hurricane in 1969 deposited 32 inches of rain here in a single evening, and some of the bodies, as many of the lost illusions, have still not been recovered.

So it was that Campbell decided to show himself, his neighbors, and those of the world who care to see, that something can be done. Eighteen months ago he began constructing what he believes is a nearly invincible "survival sphere," a 22-foot refuge from flood and earthquake that he expects to complete by the springtime thaw.

The sphere, which sits in Campbell's Blue Ridge backyard like a giant gray billiard ball, is a remarkably sophisticated extension of Buckminster Fuller's geodesic dome. Fuller was first to popularize the sturdy simplicity of the grid of triangular faces. Campbell has welded two of the domes together for his craft.

"This may be the first geodesic sphere built to live in," Campbell says. Almost certainly it is the first one built to take to the sea. Campbell worries most about flood, therefore believes he has created the ultimate ark. "Nothing," he says, "floats like a ball."

Most assuredly, Campbell's sphere looks as if it could lie on the water with reliability. It is sealed with alternating layers of cement or fiberglass, and is fitted with eight tons of ballast. For added strength, the ball is wrapped in half-inch steel cable. Campbell says the sphere has a potential displacement capability of 500 tons.

For all of the sophistication of Joe Campbell's craft, however, there are obvious questions as to its practicality. The sphere can't move except by flood waters, and the oceans haven't been to Brent's Mountain since Noah. The ball would be good shelter in another hurricane, but so would any normal inland dwelling of average durability.

Hence there are wonders here in the Blue Ridge about Campbell's personal ballast.

Some think his ark is perfectly goofy. A neighbor calls it "a balloon that don't fly." Folks think Campbell is a nice fellow, but agree that only fools build arks on mountain tops.

For his part, Campbell accepts the criticism with some grace. "I think the sphere is entirely rational," he grins, "but then if I were crazy I would think that." Other than this good natured concession, he admits to no fault. He says he is not a kinky prophet of doom, rather, he's an optimist preaching preparation and survival.

"Some people say that if catastrophe comes, only Jesus can save us. I don't believe that. I believe we can save ourselves. Whether or not I personally use my sphere is not important; this is a prototype and I've built it to show that we can plan for disaster."

SOME FOLKS in the Blue Ridge think Joe Campbell's ark is perfectly goofy. A neighbor calls it "a balloon that don't fly."

Carter invited to LBJ library

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Jimmy Carter has received a special invitation to attend a symposium at the LBJ Library next September.

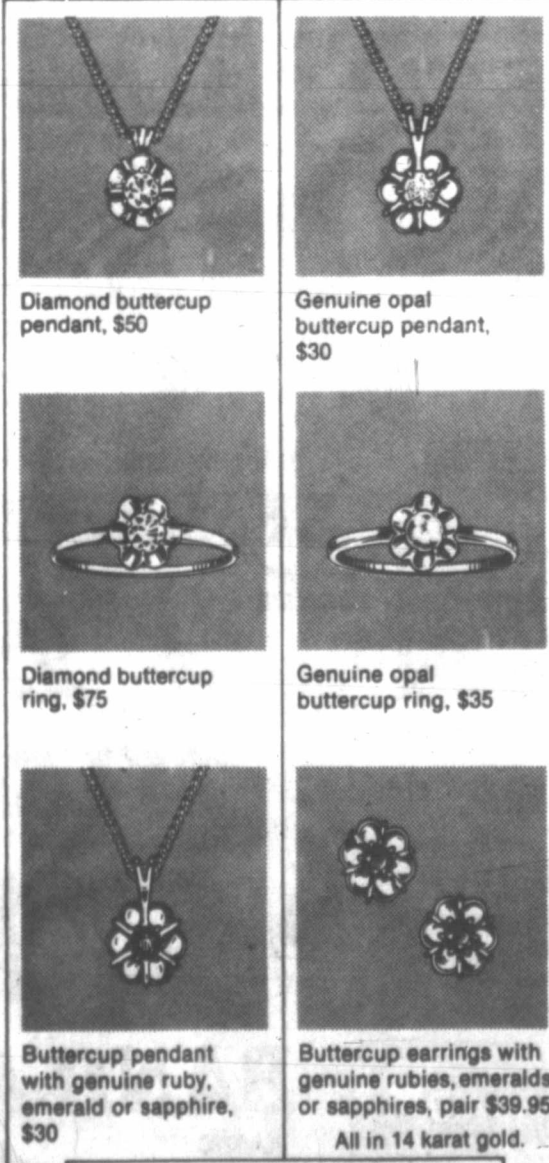

Harry Middleton, LBJ Library director, said the invitation was extended by Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall, former University of Texas economics professor. No reply has been received.

Middleton said the 7th annual national symposium sponsored by the library, the LBJ School of Public Affairs and the university, will deal broadly with the changing roles of the North and the South, including the so-called "Sun-Belt" economic boom.

We're blooming with buttercups today!

Clearly, Campbell's ark incorporates full disaster planning. It is bolted eight feet into the ground to withstand earthquakes. In case of atomic attack, mechanical scrubbers will clear the craft of radioactivity. If the lines go down on Brent's Mountain, Campbell will have an advanced communications compartment for the emergency.

And if worse comes to worse, that is to say flooding, the survival sphere is designed to float indefinitely above the turmoil. Campbell says he can store provisions for 14 people for six months. After that, if necessary, the ship's batteries would be recharged by solar energy, and food and water could be gotten from the seas.

There are some unanswered questions about this kind of survival. For example, what would happen if during a catastrophe the ark's ballast were ripped away? And strong as the outside design may be, could the inside, and more specifically the people inside, withstand a disastrous pounding? Finally, it's presumed the sphere is not immune to fire.

Still and all, Campbell is convinced he is lessening the risk of emergency for his family, and any others willing to copy his imagination.

What's more, he says, surveying the four level interior, even if the water never rises an inch, the sphere "makes a hell of a guest house."

PEANUT BUTTER MELTING MOMENTS
A friend and I devised this variation of an old-time recipe and if we say so ourselves, it's delicious!

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1/4 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup super-chunk peanut butter

In a medium bowl stir together the flour, cornstarch and sugar. With a pastry blender cut in the butter and peanut butter until a soft dough forms; if necessary, use your hands to work the mixture until it holds together. Using 1 level tablespoon for each, shape into balls. Place 2 inches apart on an ungreased cookie sheet. With flour-dipped fork tines, flatten balls in a crisscross pattern. Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until just lightly browned — 20 to 25 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Makes about 2 dozen.

JACKIE'S SOUP
Lots of ingredients but they cook quickly:

1 tablespoon olive oil
1 medium onion, chopped medium-fine
2 large ribs celery minus tops, sliced thin
2 medium carrots, pared and sliced thin
1/2 pound snap beans, sliced thin crosswise
1 large potato, pared and diced
1 tomato (any size) pared and diced
16-ounce can garbanzos (chick peas) undrained
1 quart clear fat-free chicken broth or 4 chicken bouillon cubes and 1 quart water
1 cup broken (1-inch lengths) thin spaghetti
1/4 teaspoon dried basil
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
Salt and pepper to taste
Grated Parmesan cheese

In a large saucepot heat the oil, stir in the onion and celery until wilted. Add the celery, carrots, snap beans, potato, tomato, garbanzos and broth, bring to a boil, simmer covered, until potatoes are tender — about 15 minutes. Add the spaghetti, basil and thyme and boil gently until the spaghetti is cooked — 8 to 10 minutes longer. Add salt and pepper. Serve hot, passing cheese. Makes about 2 quarts. This soup has little liquid; if you want more, add another cup or so of broth.

WINE BARBECUE SAUCE
It's non-sweet

8-ounce can peeled plum tomatoes
1/2 cup dry red wine
Small onion, finely chopped
Small carrot, finely grated
Small clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

In a small saucepan bring all the ingredients to a boil, simmer, uncovered, and stirring occasionally, until thick — about 30 minutes. Makes about 1 cup.

TURKEY HAM SALAD

3/4 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
4 cups cubed (1/2 inch) ready-to-eat turkey ham
1 cup thinly sliced celery, packed down
1 large green pepper, seeded and cut in thin short strips
1 scallion, minced
1/4 cup sweet pickle relish
Salt and pepper to taste

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the mayonnaise and mustard to blend. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Serve on lettuce. Garnish, if you like, with sliced hard-cooked egg. Makes 6 hearty servings.

CRANCATCHUP MOLDS
They're tangy so they'll go a long way.

1 pound frozen cranberries
Medium onion, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground mace

Simmer together 1/2 cup water, the thawed cranberries and onion until tender — about 20 minutes; puree in a food mill, discarding residue. Simmer the puree with the remaining ingredients, stirring often, until thick — about 15 minutes. Makes about 2 1/2 cups. Turn into a few small molds; cover tightly and store in the refrigerator. Unmold at serving time.

COMPOSITE FRANCES
My sister's version of a favorite combination.
Membrane-free sections

from 2 large white and 1 pink grapefruit
3 tablespoons clover honey
2 tablespoons golden raisins
2 tablespoons thin strips candied ginger
Stir together all the ingredients and chill. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

POTATO-LEEK SOUP
Hearty and delicious!

2 large leeks, 1/2 pound
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup thinly sliced celery
2 medium ribs
1 pound (scant) potatoes
3 chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in 3 cups boiling water
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Quarter leeks to include green tops; wash thoroughly, slice thin — there should be 2 cups packed. In a large saucepot melt the butter, add leeks and celery and cook gently, stirring often, until softened but not brown — about 15 minutes. Meanwhile, pare potatoes and thinly slice — there should be 2 generous cupfuls packed. Add potatoes and bouillon to saucepot; simmer, covered, until potatoes are tender — about 20 minutes. Put through a food mill or puree in an electric blender or food processor; return to saucepot. Add milk and salt and pepper and heat if thicker than you like; add more milk and correct seasoning, if thinner. Simmer to reduce. Makes 1 to 1 1/4 quarts.

WILD-CHINESE RICE

1 package (6 ounces) long grain & wild rice
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/4 cup water
1 can (18 ounces) Chinese vegetables, drained
6 lean pork chops
Black pepper

Mix contents of rice package, soup and water in 2-quart casserole. Add Chinese vegetables. Arrange pork chops on top. Sprinkle with black pepper. Bake 1 hour 20 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serve with Chinese noodles and soy sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Wild rice--stuff it or serve in casserole

Rice in its many variations makes a one-dish meal, a stuffing or a perfect accompaniment to a favorite meat or poultry dish.

The blend of long grain and wild rice, for example, sets the tone for a casserole that includes Chinese vegetables and lean pork chops. Serve this with Chinese noodles and soy sauce. Another dish is to stuff tomatoes with a rice mixture; or blend rice with cranberries and cashews to serve with Rock Cornish hens. The possibilities are limitless and certainly help stretch any budget with taste.

WILD RICE STUFFED TOMATO CUPS

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed beef broth
1 soup can water
1 package (6 ounces) long grain & wild rice
4 ripe tomatoes, about 3 inches in diameter
1/4 cup sliced green onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine beef broth and water and contents of rice and seasoning packets in saucepan; stir. Bring to a boil. Cover lightly and cook over low heat until liquid is absorbed, about 25 minutes. Cut tomatoes in half crosswise; remove, chop and drain pulp. Cook onion and tomato pulp in butter until onion is tender and no liquid remains. Stir into cooked rice. Sprinkle tomato cups with salt. Fill with the mixture. Place on baking sheet in 350-degree oven until heated, about 12 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Variations: Sprinkle tomato cups with Parmesan cheese before baking. Or add 1 cup sliced mushrooms or 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained, to onion and tomato pulp before cooking.

WILD RICE CRANBERRY CASSEROLE

1 package (6 ounces) long grain & wild rice
1 cup raw cranberries
1 cup sliced celery

LIBBY ALSBERG'S DILLY BEANS
Trim the tips from 1 1/2 pounds green beans and leave them whole. Wash well and pat dry with paper towel. Heat 3 tablespoons peanut oil with 1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill in deep saucepan. Add the beans and cover tightly. Place over flame guard or asbestos mat. Cook very gently, shaking the pan often, until just tender. Place the beans in heated serving dish and add salt, freshly ground pepper, a little fresh lemon juice, 3 tablespoons melted butter and chopped fresh parsley. From "The Everyday Gourmet," a food and wine letter published by Libby and George Alsberg.

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup chopped salted cashews
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Cook contents of rice and seasoning packets according to package directions. Stir cranberries into cooked rice. Heat, uncovered, until berries begin to pop, about 5 minutes. Stir in celery, sugar, cashews and orange rind. Spoon into a shallow one and one-half quart casserole. Cover tightly. Place in 350-degree oven and heat thoroughly, 30 to 40 minutes. Serve as an accompaniment for Rock Cornish hens. Makes 6 to 8 servings, about four and one-half cups.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY calls for special Heart-O-Mine cookies.

Made to melt hearts

By Allene Claire
NEA Food Editor

Romantically St. Valentine's Day is approved as a time for the giving of sweets and special gifts to close friends and family favorites. What better way to send out a few love notes than to bake some cookies which will be love notes for those of all ages. Heart O'Mine cookies done with a heart-shaped cutter are Cupid-approved. Flaky pastry-like puffs are filled with red strawberry preserves and have a nut-like flavor from old-fashioned oats plus a touch of cream cheese. These should melt someone's heart on St. Valentine's Day.

HEART O'MINE COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine, soft
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, soft
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup oats, quick or old-fashioned, uncooked
Strawberry preserves

Beat butter and cream cheese together until creamy. Blend in vanilla. Sift together flour and salt. Add to creamed mixture, mixing well. Stir in oats. Chill dough about 1 hour.

Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to one-fourth-inch thickness. Cut with floured two and one-half-inch heart-shaped cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Press with thumb to make indentation in center of each cookie; fill with a scant one-half teaspoon strawberry preserves. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 16 to 18 minutes or until a delicate golden brown. Makes two and one-half dozen cookies.

Shrove Tuesday pancakes

By Allene Claire
NEA Food Editor

Eons ago the day before Ash Wednesday became known as Shrove Tuesday in England. Back then milk, butter and eggs were among the food people gave up during Lent. Whatever was left of these ingredients the day before Lent was made into pancakes. Thus, pancakes came to be a Shrove Tuesday tradition, and an honored one it has remained in many families.

This year on Feb. 22 try a modern Shrove Tuesday pancake. It starts with a whole wheat pancake mix and includes wheat germ. The syrup is simplicity itself, too. Just combine a jar of applesauce, a cup of maple-blended syrup and a hint of cinnamon. This is a spicy and flavorful pancake combination you'll want to serve more often than their namesake day occurs.

SHROVE TUESDAY PANCAKES

Pancakes:
2 cups whole wheat pancake mix
2/3 cup wheat germ
2 1/4 cups milk
2 eggs
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

Apple-Cinnamon Syrup:
1 15-ounce jar applesauce
1 cup maple-blended syrup
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

For pancakes, combine mix, wheat germ, milk, eggs and oil. Stir until batter is fairly smooth. For each pancake, pour scant one-fourth cup batter onto hot (400-degree) lightly greased griddle. (If batter becomes too thick, add 1 to 2 tablespoons milk.) Turn pancakes when tops are covered with bubbles and edges look cooked. Turn only once.

For apple-cinnamon syrup, combine applesauce, syrup and cinnamon. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until heated. For each serving, pour about one-half cup syrup over 3 pancakes. Sprinkle with additional wheat germ, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

65 degrees may be costly

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The state would have to spend a lot of money in air conditioning in some buildings to get the thermometer "down to" a reading of 65 in winter, says a Board of Control official.

There may be a uniform need to require a maximum reading of 65 in government buildings in the north, but in Texas it depends on the building, Bob Jenkins, assistant director, told the Senate Natural Resources Committee Wednesday.

The committee approved a resolution that would allow the building supervisor at each state agency to determine what thermostat reading will save the most energy.

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, goes to the senate floor for debate.

The proposal originally contained the requirement that all state buildings be set at a maximum of 65 degrees in the winter. Jenkins told the committee many buildings achieve temperatures above that even without turning on the heating system.

The lights and human warmth in those buildings push the reading above 65, Jenkins said. For example, the power in the John H. Reagan Building in the Capitol Complex was cut off when they closed the building Tuesday night, he said, and the thermometer still read 75 Wednesday morning.

The committee changed the resolution to leave it up to the building superintendents to decide on the correct reading.

Asked what had happened to the project to install individual room light switches in modern state buildings in the complex, Jenkins said the legislature provided $120,000 for this purpose in 1975 and that the work is nearly completed.

Designed when a kilowatt hour cost only one penny, the buildings in some cases had to have as much as one-quarter of all their office lights turned on just to get one turned on, Jenkins said. Kilowatt hours today cost 3.8 cents, he said.

Individual light switches have been installed in the Stephen F. Austin Building, he said, and the savings last November over the electricity bill for November 1975 totaled $4,000. The installation of individual switches in that building cost $24,000, he said, which means the project will pay for itself in six months.

Names in the news

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerome Kurtz, a 45-year-old tax lawyer, says Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has asked him to head the Internal Revenue Service.

Treasury Department sources said Wednesday that Kurtz, who was the department's chief tax legislative counsel from 1966 to 1968, had been selected. But they added that a security check was necessary before the announcement could be made.

When Kurtz was in the Treasury Department, he directed a staff of lawyers and accountants which advised the treasury on tax matters, helping lay the groundwork for the Tax Reform Act of 1969.

If Kurtz is appointed, the Senate must also approve.

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — "I love to fly" — a trait that runs in the family — says Carroll Rickenbacker. Now she's joining the Army Reserve to learn to fly helicopters.

Mrs. Rickenbacker, a former model and actress who is in her 20s, is the daughter-in-law of World War II flying ace Eddie Rickenbacker. Her husband William flew Air Force transports during the Korean War.

"It's a great thrill and it's even more fun than skiing, which I love," Mrs. Rickenbacker said.

She has a license to fly fixed-wing aircraft, but evidently that's not enough for her. Next month she starts nine months intensive flight training at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

"She should have her wings by Christmas," said her husband. "I'm delighted. The separation will only be for about the first four weeks, and then I can fly down on weekends to visit her."

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Dennis Ketcham, 30-year-old son of cartoonist Hank Ketcham, was the mischievous inspiration for Dad's famous character, Dennis the Menace. Now he's on the other side of mischief — a prison guard.

The younger Ketcham said it all began when he was 4 or 5 and broke a lamp. His mother, talking to Dad, dubbed him a "real menace."

He was at boarding schools from the age of 12. Then, after a stint as a Marine in Vietnam, he said, he did some "horse wrangling" in Arizona. Three years ago he quit and came here, where he met Roxanna Waites in a restaurant and married her. They have a 16-month-old daughter, Jennifer.

For two months he has worked as a corrections officer at the Ohio correctional reception and medical center in Columbus.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four national sponsors and 75 television stations have signed up for the 90-minute interview series that talk show host David Frost will tape with former President Richard M. Nixon.

And Leo Koch, executive vice president of Syndicator Services, New York syndicator for the four-show series, said he expects that more than 100 stations covering 90 per cent of the national viewing audience will have signed up by May 4, when the first show is to be aired.

At least 10 foreign countries will also air the series, he said.

Urges strict SALT position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents to Paul Warnke as chief arms negotiator with the Soviet Union are concentrating on an effort to force President Carter into a hardline negotiating position when Strategic Arms Limitation Talks resume later this year.

During confirmation hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday, Paul Nitze outlined this approach when he said the issue is not only the man, but the American position.

Nitze was among three witnesses who testified against Warnke's nomination to be director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and to head the delegation that will negotiate a new SALT treaty to replace one that expires this year. As a former deputy secretary of defense and a ranking member of the past SALT negotiating delegation, Nitze is considered the most important of Warnke's opponents.

He also reflects the position of such senators as Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who are working to toughen the American stance for the arms talks.

In general, they contend that without a strict agreement, the United States should strengthen and increase its nuclear weaponry.

Nitze was asked several times why President Carter should not have anybody he wants as his prime arms control adviser and negotiator.

"One issue is the man," Nitze replied, "but this is also properly a debate about the issue" of the American position in dealing with the Soviets on arms limitations.

Nitze told the committee he distrusts Carter's views on the negotiations. Asked if he thought the President's position might be contrary to the national interest, he replied: "Yes, I do have that view... It would be a tragedy if the executive branch would negotiate a treaty... and then have the Senate reject it. The political consequences would be very serious indeed."

Intestimony Tuesday, Warnke outlined his position as calling for continued American strategic strength. Any arms limitations should be strictly reciprocal, he said, adding that "I reject any concept of unilateral disarmament on the part of the United States."

Despite the opposition, Warnke is certain to get committee and Senate approval.

Rev. Keller dead at 76

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. James G. Keller, founder of the Christophers, one of the first ecumenical movements in American Roman Catholicism, is dead at age 76.

He made familiar to millions the Christopher motto: "Better to light one candle than to curse the darkness."

Father Keller, who suffered from Parkinson's disease, died Monday in New York Hospital, where he had been a patient since last November.

He was born in Oakland, Calif., and in his early years as a Maryknoll priest served in his native state. He moved to New York City in 1931.

Father Keller directed the Christophers for 24 years until he retired in 1969. He was succeeded by the Rev. Richard Armstrong, who as director of the Christophers carries on its wide-ranging program. The movement, started in 1945 and dedicated to spreading the moral values of the Judeo-Christian ethic, is based on the conviction that each individual can help change the world.

The Christophers encouraged people to enter fields of government, education and communications as offering the best opportunity to influence society.

Ad agency may push $2 bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having failed on its own, the government now is considering paying an advertising agency $300,000 to convince Americans they need the $2 bill.

Officials admit disappointment in the public reception given the $2 bill since it was brought back with considerable fanfare about 10 months ago.

In fact, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has stopped printing the bills, at least temporarily. Of the approximately 415 million that were printed, about 222 million actually went into circulation.

But that number is not as impressive as it might seem. Millions of the $2 bills apparently were hoarded away as souvenirs soon after they were issued last April 13, and have been unused since.

James A. Conlon, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, said he is encouraged that four million of the $2 bills showed up in circulation in December, the last month for which a count is available.

Conlon said in an interview that he thinks consumers want the $2 bill but just aren't getting a chance to use it because retail merchants aren't distributing it.

The apparent reluctance by retailers to utilize the notes in making change... that's the key focal point," he said.

Conlon said there is no danger yet that the new $2 bills will go the way of the old $2 bills, which were phased out of circulation in 1966 because people weren't using them. "We're firm in our intention," he said.

He said the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the Federal Reserve Board are proposing a "more positive" public relations campaign than has been tried before to win acceptance for the $2 bill.

If Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal approves, Conlon said, the agencies will seek bids from advertising agencies and others to undertake the campaign, which would cost about $300,000.

It costs about $15 to print 1,000 bills, regardless of denomination.

Uncle may help pay fuel bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your family budget has been jolted by this winter's home heating bills there could be some financial relief coming from the federal government.

The Senate Budget Committee is recommending that the government pay up to $250 of the fuel bills of families in the areas hardest-hit by the uncommonly cold winter.

And, according to committee chairman Edmund S. Muskie, President Carter is expected to announce his support of such a plan today.

Muskie's panel wrote in the special fuel-bill payment plan Wednesday as it approved an emergency resolution that is necessary before Carter's program of tax cuts and federal spending to stimulate the economy can be considered by Congress.

The committee, which aims to set economic policy for the Senate, approved a $16.8-billion package of tax cuts and spending for the next eight months, about $1.8 billion above what Carter proposed. The House Budget Committee earlier voted for $17.3 billion.

Carter has said he could go along with some changes in his own package but has cautioned Congress against any sharp increase. Senate aides say the White House has expressed no great concern about the changes prepared by the two committees.

The two budget committees' actions would accommodate the $50-per-person tax rebate envisioned by Carter as well as any other type of tax-cut proposal, so long as it cost no more than $12 billion this fiscal year. However, neither committee is locked into supporting the rebate.

The Senate committee did endorse, on an 8-to-6 party-line vote, Carter's plan to mail a $50 bonus to each of the 36 million recipients of Social Security, Supplemental Security Income and railroad-retirement benefits. The House panel okayed the provision last week.

The Senate panel increased what Carter had asked to spend over the next eight months for special aid to cities, counties and states, public-works projects, employment training and public-service jobs, such as in hospitals and parks.

The Senate panel went along with its House counterpart in recommending that an extra $500 million be spent to ensure that jobless persons in all 50 states be eligible for 52 weeks of unemployment compensation. Without congressional action, jobless benefits will drop to a 39-week maximum on March 31.

The plan to have the federal government help low and middle-income families with their winter fuel bills was proposed last week by two liberals, Muskie and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Muskie said the program would have the federal government make grants to the states hardest hit by the winter. The governors would make payments directly to fuel suppliers on behalf of customers, under a formula to be worked out by federal officials.

Would end discrimination in gas prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clifford Allen, D-Tenn., proposed Wednesday to end the price difference to consumers between natural gas in interstate commerce and that which is used in the same state it is produced.

Allen said his bill would end discrimination against states that rely on natural gas from other states.

Under the present system, interstate prices are unregulated by the federal government and generally are higher than the federally regulated interstate natural gas. The result is that nonproducing states have lower prices and shorter supplies.

"We cannot permit this vital resource to remain half regulated and half unregulated," he told a news conference.

He said the bill was prompted by the serious shortages of natural gas in some parts of the country this winter.

Allen's bill also would establish penalties of up to $500,000 and five years imprisonment for those found guilty of arbitrary withholding of natural gas from the market. It also would give the President power to seize such natural gas.

Two judges deny Davis bond

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Turned back by two U.S. Supreme Court justices in three days, millionaire Cullen Davis may have run out of options in his efforts to win his freedom from jail before his capital murder trial here.

Defense lawyer Phil Burleson said Wednesday Justice Thurgood Marshall's decision to deny Davis' latest request for bail exhausts any practical chance of freeing Davis before his Feb. 2 trial.

Marshall issued the denial without comment Wednesday.

joining a growing list of judges who have ruled that Davis should be jailed without bond for the shooting death of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

Davis is also charged with the murder of ex-Texas Christian University basketball player Stan Farr and the attempted murders of Davis' estranged wife Priscilla and Gus Gavrel Jr. in the Aug. 3 shooting spree at the Davis mansion.

Marshall's decision was identical to one issued by Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell Monday. Burleson said he thinks Davis will not be allowed to make emergency appeals to more than two members of the high court.

Davis could ask to have his case reviewed by the entire court, but it does not reconvene for oral arguments until Feb. 18, just four days before the trial.

Burleson said his view that the bond issue is dead is "as definite as I can be right now."

The strategy decision may also bring an end of the involvement of Washington attorney Samuel Dash as one of Davis' lawyers.

Dash, who gained national prominence as chief counsel during televised Senate Watergate hearings, was employed for "limited involvement," Burleson said, and will be used only if the Davis case returns to the Supreme Court.

Dash's involvement was limited even further by Justices Powell and Marshall, who denied Dash the opportunity to make oral arguments on behalf of Davis' bond appeal.

Grand jury learns drip gas being sold

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A comptroller official has testified before the Travis County Grand Jury that illicit "drip gas" from natural gas pipelines is being collected and sold as motor vehicle fuel.

Jose Alcorta, director of the fuels tax division, issued a statement saying the grand jury probe could result in state-wide indictments.

The gas is a condensation from natural gas, with water and other impurities, and can cause engine failure or lead to major repair bills, Alcorta said.

"Our evidence shows that it is pretty widespread over Texas," Alcorta said. "Normally, the drip gas is taken to a refinery for proper processing before it is sold to the public."

The gas is collected at valves on natural gas pipelines that criss-cross the state, he said.

Comptroller agents in mid-November seized trucks, storage tanks and 17,000 gallons of drip gas from service station operators in the Panhandle, Alcorta said.

He said John C. Knowles, 31, a Dumas truck driver, was charged with the felony offense of transporting fuel without a manifest—a document listing the names of the seller and purchaser of motor vehicle fuel.

Marquette battling for bid

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When Al McGuire starts screaming at his team, shutting the door on sports writers and recriminating himself, you know something's up.

Actually, it's the Marquette Warriors.

Psychologically, the Marquette coach has no peer. McGuire knows how to get a basketball team higher than a dunk shot — and that's apparently what he did Wednesday night to inspire Marquette to an 81-71 victory over Loyola of Chicago.

The ninth-ranked Warriors, mindful of a post-season bid to the NCAA playoffs, blew a 12-point lead in the first half and this inspired a fierce confrontation with McGuire at intermission.

"I thought at halftime we were in serious trouble."

McGuire said. "We had to do it at the start of the second half, which we did. But I told them the second half might be the most important 20 minutes of the whole season, because if you blow it you'll never forgive yourselves."

Translated, that meant McGuire thought that a fourth loss would greatly injure the Warriors' chances for an NCAA bid.

Obviously dead serious about a national championship in his last year as coach, McGuire refused to allow newsmen to interview his players after the game. He said the policy would continue for a week so that the players can concentrate on their goal of a tournament bid.

Elsewhere in college basketball, sixth-rated Louisville routed Southwestern Louisiana 103-82. 12th-ranked Cincinnati defeated Eastern Kentucky 78-66. 14th-ranked North Carolina walloped Maryland 97-70. 16th-rated Providence turned back DePaul 84-73 and 19th-ranked Detroit beat St. Bonaventure 78-62.

Butch Lee and Bo Ellis each scored 22 points for Marquette. The Warriors held a slim 36-33 lead at the half, but pulled away after intermission behind their top scorers. A 10-point flurry gave Marquette a 50-37 lead and later it was 68-51 with 5:55 left.

Louisville tied a school record by winning its 15th straight game. Rick Wilson and Darrell Griffith each scored 18 points for the Cardinals, who twice led by 34 points in the second half.

Brian Williams scored 15 points. Bob Miller 13 and Steve Collier 12 in a balanced Cincinnati attack that led the Bearcats over Eastern Kentucky. Cincinnati held a 40-26 halftime edge and led by as many as 29 points in the second period.

Walter Davis produced 25 points and 12 rebounds to lead North Carolina past Maryland. The Tar Heels led the entire game and at one juncture held a 29-point advantage.

Bob Cooper scored 24 points and collected 10 rebounds, leading Providence over DePaul. Terry Tyler amassed 21 points to lead the University of Detroit past St. Bonaventure.

PJH teams play today for crowns

The Pampa Junior High ninth-grade blue team hosts Plainview for the district championship at 6 p.m. today in Harvester Fieldhouse.

In a 4:45 p.m. game today in the Pampa fieldhouse, the PJH eighth-grade red team entertains Hereford LaPlata for the district title.

Both Plainview and Hereford lost coin flips to determine the game sites, according to Ed Lehnick, Pampa athletic director.

Buffaloes meet Salukis

CARBONDALE, Ill. — West Texas State University, tied for first place in the Missouri Valley Conference, meets Southern Illinois at 7:30 p.m. today in a crucial conference showdown.

West Texas State, which came back from a 17-point deficit to clip SIU, 78-74 in overtime, in the first meeting this season, is 5-2 and tied with Wichita State for the Valley lead.

SIU is 3-3 and facing elimination in the regular-season title race. The Salukis were nationally ranked earlier in the season.

Massengale blazes 64 to take Desert lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller was discussing the problems attendant to playing a round of golf with former President Gerald Ford, Bob Hope and Sammy Davis Jr.

The foursome played before a massive, enthusiastic, shouting gallery that lined every fairway four or five deep, was constantly moving, clicking cameras and calling words of encouragement.

"It's difficult," Miller said. "There is no advantage to playing in that group."

Then he paused and a mischievous grin flashed across his face.

"Wait until (Billy) Casper plays with him on Saturday," Miller said of Ford's fourth-round partner, a normally-placid veteran who angers only at crowd noises and camera clicks. "There'll be even more people. And Billy will finish with all his hair in his pocket."

Miller, who has won the last two Bob Hope Desert Classics, could do no better than a 74 in the company of the celebrities who drew a huge gallery to the Indian Wells Country Club for Wednesday's first of five rounds. This is a unique, 90-hole event that is spread over four courses in the desert resort where Ford plans his retirement home.

"That's about par, 74," Miller said. "That's what Arnold (Palmer) had at Pebble Beach" in another pro-am event with the former President as his partner last month.

While Miller was slashing his way to a two-over-par effort on probably the easiest of the four tournament courses, Rik Massengale, the runner-up last year, fired an almost errorless round of 64 in which he hit every green, missed only one fairway, didn't have a bogey and dropped putts totaling more than 50 yards in length.

He holed two birdie putts of 20 feet, two more of 30 and one from about 45 in establishing a three-stroke lead over Alan Tapie and Bruce Lietzke, the young man who has had such a sensational start this year. Lietzke's five-under-par effort, like Massengale and Miller, was at Indian Wells and marked the 17th consecutive round this season — 22nd going back to last year — in which he has been par or better.

Pampa hosts Rebs

Pampa and Amarillo Tascosa meet in District 3-AAAA contest at 7:45 p.m. Friday in Harvester Fieldhouse, with the winner expected to go unbeaten for the remainder of the second half of loop play.

The Harvesters are 21-5 overall and 1-0 in the second half after overcoming a 10-point deficit in the second period to clip Amarillo Caprock 65-57 Tuesday. Pampa won the first-half title with a 4-0 record and needs only a tie in the second half to win the district championship outright.

Tascosa, 17-8, also is 1-0 in the second go-round after a convincing 84-65 victory over Amarillo Palo Duro. The Rebels are 7-0 this season against intra-city opponents.

"We'll have to play well because they're playing well right now," Pampa Coach Robert McPherson said today. "We've got to beat them tomorrow night or there will be a playoff probably. If we don't beat them Friday night in Pampa, I don't see anybody in Amarillo beating them."

Tascosa's big men, all among the top rebounders in 3-AAAA.

had a field day against Palo Duro. DeWayne Gilbreath led all scorers in the game with 23 points, while Dwight Cleveland added 22 and Lloyd White 14.

"Their front line may be the best in the district," McPherson said. "Tascosa's strong points are rebounding and physical

Brown places high in meets for Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J. — Former Pampa High swimmer Ted Brown, a freshman at Princeton University, recently was third in the 500 yard freestyle with a time of 4:53.8 at a dual meet with Dartmouth College.

Last week at the University of Pennsylvania Meet, he was first in the 1000-yard freestyle with a time (10:12.0) which meets qualifying standards for the Eastern Seaboard Swimming Championship to be held in March.

Princeton is undefeated in Ivy League competition this season with meets against Navy and Yale remaining.

strength. They're awfully big.

"Their guards aren't that good shooters but I think they'll try to get something going outside. I think they'll have to look for DeFee (guard Cliff DeFee) to shoot the ball over here. He got 14 on us in Amarillo."

Pampa won the first meeting 74-64.

The Harvesters have a chance to be the first team since 1959 to go unbeaten for the entire 3-AAAA schedule. No team has gone undefeated since the district went into its present reignment.

Pampa also is seeking its third straight district title.

A full house or near-capacity turnout is expected for Friday's showdown.

Pampa's McGuire to run

Bufs to compete in USTFF meet

CANYON — Coach Bob Kitchens will take the cream of his West Texas State University track team to the U.S. Track & Field Federation's indoor championships this weekend in Oklahoma City's Myriad.

The Bufs will be led by junior Joseph Kemei, the man who became WTSU's first track All-American by finishing second in the 1,000-yard run in this meet last year.

Although the meet opens Friday, West Texas State's first preliminary races won't be until Saturday morning. The finals are set for Saturday night.

Kemei ran 2:11.4 in the 1,000 to finish second behind Oklahoma's Randy Wilson in last year's USTFF meet, but the Kenyan later dropped that clocking to a 2:09.1 in setting a new Missouri Valley Conference and WTSU record.

Wilson and Kemei missed another meeting earlier this year in the dual meet between OU and WTSU in the Activities Center on the Canyon campus.

Wilson won the 1,000 in 2:17.6 while Kemei had a double win in the mile (4:09.4) and two-mile (9:50.7) with an extra lap.

McGuire ran a 31.2 in the 300, but a clerical error put him fourth in the race a 32.7. Rick just tore up the track and it's a shame he isn't getting credit for it," Kitchens said.

The only school record set in the WT-WBC-LCC meet was Curtis Lofton's 23.7, long jump, and Lofton and Curtis Landley will be WT's only field event entrants in Oklahoma City.

300, and Richard Riggins and Alvis Wright in the 60.

Willis shared the spotlight with Randy Lightfoot, the former Texas all-American now running for Wayland in the hurdle races last Friday night.

Willis won the high hurdles in 7:35 to Lightfoot's 7:4 and Lightfoot won the intermediates in 7:07 to Willis's 7:1.

McGuire ran a 31.2 in the 300, but a clerical error put him fourth in the race a 32.7. Rick just tore up the track and it's a shame he isn't getting credit for it," Kitchens said.

The only school record set in the WT-WBC-LCC meet was Curtis Lofton's 23.7, long jump, and Lofton and Curtis Landley will be WT's only field event entrants in Oklahoma City.

Here are the Buffalo entries and their best times of the indoor season:

60-YARD DASH Richard Riggins (6.2), Alvis Wright (6.3), Kal Wright (6.4).

300-YARD DASH Rick McGuire (31.8), Karl Wright (31.8), Wayne Cure (32.0).

1,000-YARD RUN Joseph Kemei (2:18.2).

MILE RUN John Chermarigo (4:17.1).

5,000 California kids permitted to perform

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Natasha Ryan, featured in the television movie "Sybil," wants to see her name on a theater marquee and maybe become a professional glass blower.

In the film shown last November, Miss Ryan was shown lying on a table, her legs spread apart, while her sick mother attacked her with a knife. Another scene showed her tied to a piano while the mother banged loudly on the instrument.

Natasha is 6 years old. Valerie Bertinelli is 17 and plays 16-year-old Barbara on the weekly primetime comedy series, "One Day at a Time."

Mother Nancy Bertinelli says

Valerie once was embarrassed about kissing this boy in rehearsal hall over and over again. I left the room a little bit to make her feel more at ease.

Natasha and Valerie are 11 years apart in age. But both are among 5,000 kids aged 6 months to 18 years currently holding California work permits to perform, says Johanne DesRuisseaux, a theatrical permit officer for the state Labor Commission.

Adult performances are coaxed from these kids by directors who sometimes have misgivings about the use of children in their adult world. But the folks who make the shows, as well as parents and the kids themselves, see a lot of benefits, too.

"We've never seen anything that has harmed her," says Tomi Ryan, Natasha's mom.

"In fact she thrives on it," adds Jim Ryan, her father, a physician and author specializing in preventive medicine.

At work, the state orders that a parent or guardian, as well as a teacher-social worker, must be present every minute the child or teen-ager is working, to monitor such things as work hours and tutored schooling.

The experience for the kids is great "as long as the child can do this work without pressure," says Mrs. Ryan.

Natasha, says her dad, started acting in commercials before she was 2 years old, after a physician studying exceptional children at UCLA suggested the acting might be a good outlet.

"Natasha is a very bright little girl," said Dan Petrie, who directed "Sybil," the story of an abused 6-year-old who grew to adulthood as a schizophrenic with multiple personalities.

"I explained to Natasha," says Petrie, that the mother on film "is not like your own Mommy."

"I never allowed any of my own kids (now aged 18 to 25) to act as children," Petrie said.

"It was just a feeling of mine that it is a very, very heavy burden to lay on them. If they're good at it they get too much approval, if they're not very good at it they get too much condemnation."

"If I had children I wouldn't want them working in show business, says Herb Kenworth, who directs Valerie Bertinelli and Mackenzie Phillips, also 17. Mackenzie plays Valerie's older sister on "One Day At A Time," which depicts the trials of a recently divorced mother raising two teen-aged daughters.

"But then you see Valerie and Mackenzie and you wonder why not," the director adds.

Valerie and Mackenzie both say they prefer being tutored by teacher and social-worker Gladys Hirsch to the schools they attend in the off-season.

Blacks played a part in settling of Old West

DENVER (AP) — When Paul Stewart was a boy his friends would never let him be a cowboy when they played cowboys and Indians because they said there were no black cowboys.

So Stewart went searching through the history books and found not only black cowboys but black miners, ranchers, hotel owners, lawmen and outlaws in the Old West.

Blacks were drawn to the West for the same reasons other immigrants were, Stewart says — the lure of fortunes to be made in the mines, land to be cultivated or simply "to do something individually for themselves."

Stewart says his research indicates that black immigrants found less discrimination from their fellow white settlers in the wide open spaces of the American frontier than they had experienced back home.

Stewart, using old history books, business directories and taped interviews with early settlers, has uncovered evidence of blacks who did everything from running hotels to serving as deputy sheriffs to riding in outlaw gangs.

For example, Stewart says, escaped slave Barney Ford came to Colorado in 1859 and tried his hand at mining before being cheated out of his claim. So he came down out of the mountains to Denver and opened a barber shop that catered to many prominent businessmen.

Ford listened to the businessmen and learned where they planned to expand, invested in the land involved and, then raised the price on it when they were ready to buy, Stewart said.

Blacks and whites who settled on the area would often help each other build homes, plant crops and take care of sick family members, Stewart said.

Stewart said most of the blacks migrated west after the Civil War. Between that time and the turn of the century it was relatively easy for them to own land, he said.

After that, as immigration to the United States from overseas increased, discrimination against blacks in the West also seemed to rise, he said.

Stewart said blacks owned ranches and mining companies or hired on as cowhands, riding the range — and carousing in town — with their white comrades.

A black named George Ransom Dalton headed up an outlaw band which included white members, Stewart said, while another, Ben Boyer, was a deputy sheriff in Salida, Colo.

He insults for 5 bucks

SEATTLE (AP) — For $5, Rich Fowler will call up your boss and tell him — anonymously — that you hope his socks rot.

He'll also deliver any other message to anybody, as long as it isn't scandalous, slanderous or obscene.

His brain child, Confidential Communication Service, is a scheme to make money from other people's cowardliness, he admits.

The last company where I worked there was a fellow, actually a good friend, who sat at the desk adjacent to mine and he didn't use any deodorant," said Fowler, 31. "I didn't know how to tell him without hurting his feelings."

"The other people in the office felt the same way and I'm sure we all would have chipped in five bucks to have somebody tell him. Look, the people in your office like you, but how about trying a little Old Spice in the morning?"

That episode, and news of a similar message business in San Francisco, got Fowler and his wife Gina started in business in mid-December.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK
Okay, you all know how I feel about camping. A Motel 6 is about as primitive as I want to get. I just cannot understand people who are turned on by swishing their silverware in a mesh bag through a stream where a dog just relieved himself.

That's why it came as a bit of a surprise when Wanda called last week and said, "Before the football game next Saturday, we're going to have a tailgate buffet."

"How far is the tailgate buffet from my all-electric kitchen?"

"Don't start that again," she said. "You have to be the most boring, unimaginative person I know. Don't you ever like to try anything different? We'll pack a lunch, allow ourselves an hour or two before the game and have a fun time eating off the tailgate of the station wagon."

"You're right as usual," I told Wanda later. "This is fun. I don't think I've had so much fun since I slid down the deck of the Titanic without spilling a drop of my iced tea."

Well, if you're not having a good time, snapped Wanda. "It's your fault. Crouching back there behind the spare tire. Why don't you stand around the tailgate like the rest of us?"

"I'm cold! Besides, the sand which is dry."

"You're eating your glove..."

I crawled out of the car and planted my feet firmly in the fresh tar, not daring to believe what I saw. The parking lot was an orgy of campers, folding tables, and tailgates. The entire football field was under siege. One lighted match and the entire place was set to blow.

"Isn't this great?" chirped Wanda. "You know, even the food tastes different out in the air."

"You're right," I said. "This doughnut tastes like it flunked its emissions test."

"One of these days," said Wanda softly, her eyes fixed vacantly, "we're going to go to a football game in a camper. We'll have our own stove where we can cook steaks and a refrigerator where we can store salads. And there'll be big, comfortable chairs and sofas where we can sit down and have a drink. We won't even have to climb into coats or boots and sit on hard bleacher seats. We'll watch the game on a colored television set in comfort."

"Wanda! You have just described your own home!"

"I knew you wouldn't understand. Are you coming?"

"A car just ran over my foot," I grimaced.

"Did anyone ever tell you you're a complainer?"

Prostitution penalties attacked

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Women lobbyists have attacked proposed legislation that would increase penalties for prostitution.

Pauline Sullivan of Citizens United for Reform of Errants (CURE) told the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee Tuesday night the bill "discriminates against poor women."

She said pictures taken by a Killeen police officer of prostitutes on the street showed the downtrodden of society. "These women are not making money," she said.

Jody Richardson of the Women's Political Caucus said the pictures failed to show the men who bought the sexual favors. "These women could not sell if there were not buyers," she said.

Dallas Police Chief Don Byrd told the committee prostitution is not a "victimless" crime, as so many claim.

"No, sir, I never have (thought that) ... I see what it attracts," Byrd said.

Byrd spoke in support of a bill by Stan Schlueter, D-Salado, that would increase the penalty for prostitution from a maximum fine of $200 to a fine of $1,000 and six months in jail.

John J. Kleuenhagen, a Houston sheriff's officer, said, "Girls of the evening and men of the night are involved in other types of crime."

Li. Tommy Thomas of the Houston police narcotics division said massage parlor women engaging in prostitution make as much as $1,000 a week. "A $200 fine doesn't deter them," he said.

Schlueter saved his best witness for last, the policemen from the biggest trouble spot in his county, Killeen.

Rick Miller testified one block on Avenue D—only one block from city hall—seethes with prostitutes, pimps, and "head" (narcotics paraphernalia) shops.

Over the last two years, 279 known prostitutes have visited Killeen, Miller said. After arrest, they often forfeit the bond and leave town, he said.

Forfeiting the bond does not constitute a conviction, which would make them subject to a $1,000 fine and six months in jail for a second conviction.

Miller showed slides of prostitutes along Avenue D. He took some of the pictures from his office window.

Rep. Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney, looked at a list of prostitutes convicted in Bell (Killeen) County and suggested to Schlueter that the multiple sentences for some must have been ordered served concurrently rather than consecutively.

"It seems to me that the fault may not be with the law," Hendricks said.

The bill and another by Schlueter that would make it a crime to solicit a prostitute whether or not money changes hands were referred to a subcommittee composed of Hendricks, Bob McFarland, R-Garland, and Pete Laney, D-Hale Center.

One in three workers switch jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly one in three American workers gave up their jobs and changed careers during a five-year period, the Labor Department found in its first major study of career switching.

In a survey based on the 1970 census, the department said 32 per cent of all workers that year had changed careers since 1965.

Career-switching was the major reason for workers' resignations during the five-year period, the report showed.

The study was published in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Monthly Labor Review. Dixie Sommers, one of two BLS economists who produced the report, said the number of workers changing careers was surprising.

It suggests that government projections of future job opportunities will have to be revised to incorporate the "tremendous volume" of career changing, she said.

While the study was based on information gathered seven years ago, she said smaller surveys recently show the trend is continuing.

The proportion taking up new trades was highest among young workers and greater among men than women. Professionals, craft workers, farmers and managers showed the strongest job stability, while workers with fewer skills and smaller incomes changed occupations more frequently.

According to the study, only 47 per cent of men and 40 per cent of women with jobs in 1965 had the same occupation in 1970. Some 32.2 per cent of the men and 27.2 per cent of the women switched careers. More women than men dropped out of the labor force entirely — 26 per cent to 14.8 per cent. The rest either were unemployed or had died.

Women were less motivated to change careers largely because they were concentrated in a relatively small number of occupations, had fewer alternatives available and earned less than men in nearly every occupation, the report said.

The proportion of workers changing careers declined steadily with age for both sexes. The percentage was highest for the 16-to-19-year-old group and declined steadily to a low for the 60-and-over group, dropping from about 58 per cent to about 12 per cent for men, and from about 38 per cent to 12 per cent for women.

Eight jail guards face dismissal

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An on-going review of Bexar County jail guards that shows some of them have police records is expected to result in a total of eight dismissals by the end of the week, a jail official said Tuesday.

Jail Personnel Director Louise Parsons said three guards were dismissed last week and five more should be terminated by Friday.

Mrs. Parsons explained a background review started in January shows guards should be dismissed for a variety of reasons, including having police records. She said the review showed one of the eight guards had a felony conviction.

"We were looking for a pattern of arrests rather than just convictions," she said. "A general evaluation has shown the men either didn't have the background or their performance has been unacceptable during the past year ... As the review continues, I'm sure more guards will be terminated."

Henry Munoz, business manager of the jail guards union, said the dismissed guards aren't being properly informed about their terminations.

"The guards should be told specifically why they are being fired even though they are on probationary status," said Munoz.

However, Mrs. Parsons explained probationary employees are not covered by the civil service commission and do not have to be told all of the reasons for their termination.

"They are sent a letter which tells them their background and performance is not acceptable," said Mrs. Parsons.

The review was suggested in a jail management study completed for the county last year.

Deputies find $34,000 after stopping car

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Two Nueces County deputies patrolling the northwest part of the county chased down a speeder on FM 3088 late Tuesday but it was not until they searched the car that they discovered why the driver probably didn't want to stop.

A sheriff's department spokesman said the deputies ticketed the man for reckless driving, speeding and an improperly registered vehicle. But a check of the car produced a brown paper bag containing $34,000 in cash.

The spokesman said the 36-year-old Corpus Christi man was taken into custody while deputies attempted to discover the source of the money.

ARTIFICIAL REEFS AID MARINE LIFE STUDIES
WASHINGTON (AP) — When American bombers sank the Fujikawa Maru in the Truk lagoon 32 years ago, no one thought they were doing marine biologists a favor. But today the Fujikawa Maru and other sunken Japanese transports, warships and supply craft form the world's largest collection of artificial reefs, and one whose age is precisely known, says National Geographic.

In 1975 marine biologist Sylvia A. Earle began studying the marine growths on the drowned fleet. "It offers invaluable clues to the growth rates and patterns of the abundant marine life that congregates around submerged reefs," she points out.

The marine growths have transformed the warships, garlanding the guns and growing like chrysantheums out of the decks, Dr. Earle said.

If fuel costs are squeezing the profit out of your corn crop, plant

The Cost Cutter

One Less Irrigation • Lower Harvest and Hauling Costs • Less Moisture Dockage • Lower Drying Cost • More Income and Profit per Acre

Pioneer brand 3780 improves corn profits four ways. It is an early hybrid that takes one less watering than the hybrids you've been planting. It also dries faster after maturity than other corns. Since it has good standability and ear retention, you can leave it in the field to dry. This means you harvest less moisture, haul less moisture, and have little or no dockage and drying cost.

SINCE IT DOESN'T COST AS MUCH TO GROW, IT CAN MAKE MORE MONEY

In 1976, farmers found that "Cost Cutter" 3780 produced significantly more net income per acre than competitive corns of much later maturity. Though the green weight yield of later maturity corns was greater, 3780 was usually much lower in moisture and thus higher in dry yield per acre. When the saving in irrigation fuel cost was added to the higher dry yield, it made a difference of $20 to $30 net income per acre.

This hybrid matures 11 to 13 days earlier than our famous 3369A but it doesn't concede yield for its earliness. Under most growing conditions, it will yield pretty close to the full-season varieties and harvest several points drier.

TOUGH ENOUGH TO TAKE IT

3780 is also a tough little hybrid that can take some stress. Head smut didn't bother it in 1976. It has good roots and stalks and holds its ears well. It is sensitive about getting pre-tassel water right on time, however. That critical irrigation time is fairly short since it passes quickly through each stage of growth.

Here are actual examples of 3780's ability to make more profit than later maturing, high yielding competitors:

	Yield wet weight Bu./acre	% Moisture at Harvest	Pay Weight after drying 1	Gross return per acre 2	Harvest and hauling cost 3	Difference in irrigation cost 4	Gross return per acre for each hybrid	Dollar per acre advantage for 3780
PIONEER brand 3780	8,788	14.6	8,788	$ 351.52	$ 43.94	—	$ 307.58	$ 22.47
VS.
M17N28* Station Cross	10,729	25.1	8,669	$ 346.76	$ 53.65	$ 8.00	$ 285.11
PIONEER brand 3780	8,156	13.6	8,156	$ 326.24	$ 40.78	—	$ 285.45	$ 26.37
VS.
M17N28* Station Cross	8,661	20.7	7,760	$ 310.40	$ 43.31	$ 8.00	$ 259.09

*The most widely sold station cross on the Plains. It is sold under several different brand names and variety designations.
1. Drying and dockage charge was 2% per point of moisture above 15.5%. 2. Returns figured with corn at $4.00 per cwt. 3. Harvest and hauling costs at 80¢ per cwt. 4. The savings of one irrigation by 3780 at an estimated cost of $8.00 per acre.

STAGGERED MATURITY

If you're farming big acreage, 3780 is the perfect hybrid to use with Pioneer brand 3369A and 3195 in a Staggered Maturity planting program. The new Pioneer program allows you to:

- Hedge against weather problems.
- Use water, labor and machinery more efficiently.
- Harvest each variety at the optimum time.

ERA voting mixed

By The Associated Press

For the Equal Rights Amendment the results were mixed. A setback of questionable effect in Idaho, a disputed victory in Nevada, and an initial victory in North Carolina helped by First Lady Rosalynn Carter.

In each state the voting in the legislature Tuesday came after protracted debate. But even after the rhetoric and the votes, the nationwide tally had not changed.

Thirty-five states have ratified the amendment so far and three more must approve it prior to March 29, 1979, for it to become part of the U.S. Constitution.

The ibis, a large wading bird related to the heron, was held sacred by the ancient Egyptians.

ANTARCTIC GRAB BAG
WASHINGTON (AP) — Research in Antarctica, the earth's "last continent," has uncovered possible oil and mineral wealth, causing concern among scientists, environmentalists and government officials that the frozen continent will become an international grab bag, says National Geographic.

Ten nations now maintain year-round research stations in Antarctica and during the summer, when dozens of camps are established, some 2,000 scientists probe the icy continent. Its 5.5 million square miles are covered by 7 million cubic miles of ice as much as 14,000 feet deep in places.

Scientists have found coal seams up to 16 feet thick, manganese ore on the coast of Wilkes Land and natural gas and oil beneath the Ross Sea.

The Antarctic Treaty, signed by 12 nations in 1959, banned all military activity or nuclear dumping and suspended territorial claims for 30 years. But the treaty neither endorsed nor restricted future exploitation, and as scientists uncover new possible wealth, claims to the region proliferate. Last summer the 12 treaty nations met in Paris to discuss rights to Antarctic resources and to prepare for a high-level conference on the subject in London in 1977.

The University of Lausanne, Switzerland, was established in 1537. By 1586 it had become famous for the education of Protestant ministers.

No new lead in five years

Stymied on hermit murder

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS, Tex. AP — There was a time when Lamar County residents whispered tales of great wealth hidden in the crude cluster of scrap lumber shacks on the northeastern fringe of Paris.

But 14 years later, only Paris police detectives occasionally discuss the bearded, mysterious hermit who lived — and was brutally slain — in those shacks.

The battered, bound and frozen body of Auvord Bevens Breathwaite Jones was discovered Jan. 29, 1963, lying amid rags and foreign newspapers inside one of the five shabby buildings.

His hands were tied behind him with binder twine. His skull was crushed. Rats had gnawed his hands and face.

Nearby was the hat in which rumor said the 79-year-old recluse kept large sums of money. It was ripped — and empty.

Paris Police Chief Lloyd Matthews said the "murder-robbery" has since stymied Texas Rangers and city and county law enforcement officials. He admitted, "I can't recall a new lead in the last four or five years."

It is difficult to find anyone in this bustling Northeast Texas city that remembers A. Jones, as the hermit chose to sign his name. But nearly every Lamar Countian has heard the tale.

His little plot of land was sold and the shacks were razed within six months after his death — coldly, quickly.

Paris has spilled over the area to which A. Jones retreated in his search for anonymity. A new animal hospital stands where the ill-clothed little man used to plod as he sold peanuts and homemade brooms.

But Matthews said Paris police, who inherited the case when the city annexed the area, have not forgotten.

"Our detectives still talk about the Jones case whenever they hear about a similar murder-robbery," said Matthews. "It is very much an active case."

"But I don't think this case won't be solved by physical evidence. It's been so long, that someone, maybe a person arrested for another crime, will probably have to confess for us to solve it."

Paris artist Anthony Paness, who kept a memorial to the slain hermit in the window of his art studio until last spring, remembered.

"I met him three times and bought brooms from him. He was a good man. He spoke Polish, German, French and some Spanish and was very intelligent. I had to study electroplating for six months before I could learn it, but Mr. Jones came by one day and pointed out something I was doing wrong."

Stories about the odd hermit are near legend. The few who knew him said he could discuss foreign relations and history with equal ease. He read and subscribed to German and French newspapers and sometimes was vexed that others couldn't read.

He was amazingly honest. Once when he was paid a few cents too much for picking cotton, he walked a mile that night to return it.

When the county paid him $10 for a small portion of his land on which to build a highway loop around Paris, he refused to pick up the money, saying they didn't owe him anything for improving his property.

Records showed that A. Jones barely subsisted on a welfare payments that never exceeded $62 per month, but he more than once contributed $5 or $10 to local charities.

Storekeepers said the hermit bought only health foods and was afraid of city water, drinking from a small pool. And though he was 79 when he died, the pathologist's report said his body was that of a 30-year-old.

A. Jones trusted and talked with few. One grocer said the recluse boasted of a college degree and had been an oil-seeking geologist.

He was his own doctor, believed in the power of the stars, read palms and told fortunes. He made his own clothes from white ducking material.

On the door of one of his shacks, the words, "Stay Out" were crudely scrawled.

No one knows why A. Jones turned his back on civilization, although he once told a neighbor that he left Indiana and started living his strange life because of trouble with a girl.

Officers knew of the rumors of A. Jones' wealth and questioned more than 100 suspects, submitting more than a dozen to polygraph exams. But each lead produced nothing.

A. Jones' funeral drew a solemn crowd of 30 persons. Some were small children he had befriended, but most knew him only as the bearded, harmless little man who minded his own business.

The hermit's body was shipped back to Henry County, Ind. from whence welfare records indicated A. Jones had come in 1922. His meager estate was bequeathed to an invalid brother there.

Paness said he believes it was a local person who killed A. Jones.

"I left that memorial up hoping that the murderer would see it and confess," said the diminutive 74-year-old artist. "I don't know if they'll ever find out who did it, but I hope I live to see the murderer brought to justice."

"I still get sick to my stomach when I think about it."
