

Doctors want to lease physician

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

Pampa physicians want a doctor with limited power to cover Highland General Hospital emergency room on weekends. The cost of a 60-hour contract (7 p.m. Fridays to 7 a.m. Mondays) would be $81,120 annually based on $26 an hour.

The board of managers tabled the proposal at a late afternoon meeting Monday in the hospital conference room. The four-hour meeting also included business on Highland General and McLean General Hospitals budgets, credit cards for paying hospital bills and an equipment grant.

Guy Hazlett II, hospital administrator, spoke to the board on behalf of the physicians who requested the emergency room service.

The administrator offered a projected cost study which showed a $14,975 loss in net operating income during the first 12 months.

It is typical for emergency rooms to lose money, Hazlett said. This is a losing proposition. The doctors felt that because of the aging physician community, the hospital should furnish weekend relief.

The biggest advantage to the community is that the public could get immediate care on weekends. The doctors want an emergency room doctor who would not practice to compete against them, who would not practice during the week, Hazlett added.

We feel like emergency room business would grow as soon as the community found out about it, the administrator added. During a medical staff meeting last week, Dr. Earl C. Hoffer of Denver, Colo., presented a program on emergency room coverage.

Dr. Wilbur Whitsell, chief of staff, reported on that meeting to the board.

I have discussed it some with individual physicians since that meeting, Dr. Whitsell said. Everyone has a completely different aspect of it. The consensus of opinion is they'd like to have this service.

By going that low ($26 per hour), I figure we probably would have to go the doctor's professional liability, Hazlett told the board. That cost was not figured into the 12-month budget forecast. The contract would be subject to yearly renewal.

Hazlett told the board: There would have to be an hourly guarantee to entice him to come, adding that as emergency room revenue increased, the physician would want to renegotiate the contract to receive a percentage of the revenue.

Board Chairman R.D. Sidwell said: I think the idea has some merit.

Hazlett said other area hospitals have emergency room coverage, including North Plains Hospital in Borger.

The doctors there wanted it so bad, Hazlett said, they're paying for it out of their own pockets.

The emergency room physician would not be permitted to admit patients to the hospital and a Pampa physician would have to be on call to admit patients on the weekends, he added.

In a lengthy motion, the board approved a $4,006 million budget for 1977. Sidwell moved the board accept the proposed budget "as submitted with the stipulation of a room rate increase of $3 in Pampa and $3.50 in McLean, and with the provision that the administration take immediate steps to reduce overtime allocations in the budget.

The motion received unanimous approval and board treasurer Joel Plunk asked the board to approve wage and salary corrections, with the exception that the director of purchasing and central supply remain at the post's current salary.

The board voiced approval of Plunk's motion and also backed Royce Gee who said: If the expected revenue materializes within the year, I'd like to see the room rates rolled back.

Hazlett pledged a department-by-department check on the entire hospital.

The department heads have to learn to be managers, he said. We will give them objectives and progress on those will determine merit raises. A budget is a tool of control, a tool of comparison.

The administrator also promised to cut the overtime allocation, possibly by as much as two-thirds. The current allocation is $93,000 and Hazlett said he would like to see that down to $35,000.

On waste-trimming moves, he told the board: You won't be able to see improvement until next year. We will also take a serious look at mileage and travel policy.

The board approved a resolution permitting Hazlett to apply for a Panhandle Regional Planning Commission grant for the purchase of an electrocardiogram machine, a defibrillator and hydraulic beds. The equipment would cost $15,050 and cost to the hospital would be $6,020.

Board members approved contracts with BankAmericard, Master Charge and American Express.

Hazlett said the first two credit plans could be operated through the two Pampa banks and American Express receipts would be mailed to Phoenix, Ariz., and the hospital would receive a check within seven to 10 days.

I can see this being a great advantage, especially down in McLean, Sidwell said. Barry Breen, new director of accounting for the county hospitals, said he worked with the credit card accounts in El Paso and said they were a help especially in small accounts and the emergency room.

Bank Americard and Master Charge quoted a three per cent discount to the hospital. The discount quoted by American Express was five per cent.

Hazlett placed a top priority on capital expenditure requests totalling $14,639 and the board approved purchase of those items. Leading the list was a request for $11,832 to purchase a chiller unit. The units normally cost between $25,000 and $30,000 including installation, but Hazlett said the unit would be installed by the hospital engineering unit. The purchase of three intermittent suction machines at $230 each was also approved and the board approved other items for purchase, leaving the time of purchase up to Hazlett, as long as we don't go into the red, Plunk said.

Susie Wilkinson, board member, said: Let's buy what we can pay for.

The board granted associate status to Dr. James F. Tilton, pathologist.

Breen offered the January financial statements for the two hospitals. He told the board Highland General Hospital had a net gain of $16,305.56 during the month, but experienced a cash loss of $2,044.49. McLean General Hospital operated at a net loss of $4,052.94 and that facility had a cash loss of $5,372.90.

Sidwell expressed concern over rising energy costs as reflected in increased utility bills. The Southwestern Public Service bill increased 12 per cent in one month, Sidwell pointed out to the board.

Regardless of what we think, we'll be forced to curtail our energy requirements, Sidwell told the panel. To me, the department heads don't understand what we have to do here on some of these things.

The board approved payment of $152,377.75 January accounts payable.

Following an hour-long executive session, the board re-convened in open session and approved routine merit salary increases for January and approved a monthly salary of $1,475 for the new director of pharmacy.

The board also told Hazlett to continue trying to recruit an assistant administrator for McLean General Hospital, as well as a medical laboratory technician.

Getting to the point

Deon Nazworth seems to be under the impression that somebody's needling him — and all this after getting dressed up and everything. The four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nazworth of Stinnett was one of a large number of children attending Thursday's vaccination clinic at Carver Center in Pampa. The Texas State Department of Health Resources Clinic provided free vaccinations against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, mumps, measles and rubella. Public Health Nurse Berlinda Leyba of Canyon, who administered the shots, said that smallpox vaccinations are no longer being given since there were no reported cases of smallpox in the United States last year, "or anywhere else in the world with the exception of Ethiopia," she said, adding that other diseases can also be eradicated if all children receive vaccinations.

'Eyes' win approval

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislation designed to make more corneas available for transplant to blind persons won speedy House approval today, 125-19, and was sent to the Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, would authorize justices of the peace and medical examiners to permit the taking of corneas from bodies in their possession.

Only objections from next of kin could prevent the taking. Bodies come into JPs' possession when a person dies under circumstances that indicate the need for an inquest.

As many as 200 Texans now await corneas for transplantation to restore their sight, the House was told.

In Monday's action the House voted final passage to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's emergency bills creating 23 new district courts and transferring $189,974 from oil and gas to gas utility rate regulation.

The measures were sent to Briscoe for signature. Also sent to Briscoe was a bill allowing teachers with high school certificates to teach sixth grade classes without obtaining new teaching certificates.

Senators passed 26-2, and sent to the House a bill that would prevent a state bank from moving from one county to another.

New courts created by the governor's bill would include four each in Houston and San Antonio and three in Fort Worth plus one each in Anglin, Collin, Montgomery, Gray, Lubbock, Midland, Brazoria, Fort Bend and Smith Counties. It would establish multi-county districts comprising these counties: Atascosa, Frio, Karnes, LaSalle and Wilson, Hamilton, Comanche and Bosque, and Deaf Smith and Oldham.

Briscoe asked for quick action to help clear clogged dockets and speed up trials, both civil and criminal.

Cost of the new courts is estimated at $1.6 million over the next two years. Funds already are on hand for courts that start work before Sept. 1.

County deposits awarded to First National Bank

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Gray County Commissioners Court today awarded the county depository contract for the coming year to the First National Bank of Pampa.

A welfare report approved by the commissioners showed 37 families served in January at a total cost of $3,504.67. The state child welfare expenses totaled $1,591.88.

A request from the City of Groom concerning additional water storage at one of the McClellan Creek Project dam sites was tabled until the March 1 session of the court.

Billy Davis, head of the local steering committee that worked to get the project approved by congress, said of the Groom request: "I don't want to see them hold this thing up. There is only about 10 more months on the easements."

Davis and Perry Gruhkey, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, pointed out that Groom would have to seek approval of their request from both the U.S. Forest Service and the State Department.

The Forest Service would protest the proposal, Gruhkey predicted, because of the effect it would have on Lake McClellan.

And there would need be work done on FM 2300, which would be under water when the reservoir was in flood level, Gruhkey said.

I would suggest we table this thing until the next meeting and ask Groom if they have contacted the Forest Service and Highway Department. They possibly don't want to go to all the expense and trouble, Davis said.

I don't think this court should take any action that would hold up this project," Gray County Judge Don Cain said. "If we're not ready March 1, we can table it until the next meeting, but we need to take care of it pretty soon.

The court authorized seeking of bids for two trucks for Precinct 4.

In other action the commissioners —Added Fayette Bell Barton and Ruth Hess McGee of McLean to the County Historical Commission appointments announced at the last session.

—Approved a tax service contract with the City of Pampa.

—Approved a fire contract with the City of Pampa for $255 per run.

—Approved a request to seismograph Gray County school land.

—Approved a resolution supporting the Regional Emergency Medical Services System as requested by Betty O'Rourke of Amarillo with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Indians flock to Carter's mom

VIKROHI, India (AP) — This is the greatest day of my life, honestly, said Lillian Carter as she returned today for a tearful reunion with friends in the community where she worked 10 years ago as a volunteer nurse for the Peace Corps.

Some 4,000 workers mobbed President Carter's 78-year-old mother in this modern industrial center 15 miles northeast of Bombay.

Ever since I left here, I've told of my love for Vikhrohi, not just India, but Vikhrohi, said Mrs. Carter. This is where I've wanted to be.

Her friends and former coworkers presented her with a sandalwood wreath and a hand-made necklace. At a ceremony later, a dot of red dye was placed on her forehead, the traditional Indian symbol for welcome.

Mrs. Carter, a registered nurse, visited the community clinic where she used to give out birth control advice and work with lepers. Inside, she met a 40-year-old former patient who had come to see her.

How I remember him! I cured him of asthma, she said.

Mrs. Carter, wearing an aquamarine pants suit also visited a school where the children performed native dances for her.

I've forgotten I came over for a funeral, I am so happy, said Mrs. Carter, who returned to India Sunday as the head of the U.S. delegation to the funeral of Indian President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed.

Everything they have done today has touched me to the bone, she said. Today when I saw that crowd, I really forgot that I was the President's mother. I was one of them again, just like I used to be.

Recalling her meeting with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on Sunday after Ahmed's funeral, she said she found India's leader "a very nice woman, a very warm woman."

'Lone Wolf' dead at 84

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

He had steel blue eyes — cold eyes — very piercing, John Nunn said today of Manuel "Lone Wolf" Gonzaulas.

The eyes closed for the last time Sunday, when the famous Texas Ranger died of cancer at age 84 in Dallas.

It was there that Nunn, who retired Jan. 1 as sheriff of Carson County, got acquainted with Gonzaulas back in 1947-48 when Nunn was a sergeant on the Highway Patrol.

We officed together for about seven months, Nunn said.

And at that time, the legend of "Lone Wolf" Gonzaulas already had been well established. Just a few months earlier, in 1946, he had been the chief investigator in the search for Texarkana's "phantom killer." That case is the basis for a current movie, "The Town That Dreaded Sundown."

Nunn said he last saw Gonzaulas in April of 1976 at the Ranger Museum dedication at Waco. He was still wearing guns. He always wore a gun.

The famous Ranger was alert and sharp of memory, Nunn said of that visit.

We were discussing the times we had in Dallas, he said.

Gonzaulas was known for his speed with his guns.

I kept pestering him until he showed me his quick draw, Nunn said. He only showed me one time. He was the fastest man I ever saw.

Nunn described Gonzaulas as a bit short for a Texas Ranger — five-ten — but "very well built, not fat."

"Lone Wolf" once said: "I guess I got that nickname because I went into a lot of fights by myself — and I came out by myself, too."

He apparently not only won the fights, but kept from getting marked up in the process.

He had no scars that I ever noticed, Nunn said.

While they officed together, Nunn and Gonzaulas worked out a trade.

I had a pair of matched pistols I'd ordered from the factory, Nunn said. They cost $300 then, but they'd probably run closer to $700 now, if you could get them.

Nunn had bought the pistol's back when he was still an unmarried, young highway patrolman stationed in Amarillo. He supplemented his regular paycheck by doing some undercover work for the Rangers, so he had money to spend on the fancy pistol set.

At that time nearly all Rangers wore two guns, Nunn said.

At the time they were trading, Nunn had determined he was going to quit law enforcement and get into farming and ranching, so he needed a saddle more than the fancy guns, Gonzaulas had a saddle.

And it was some piece of tack to set on a horse, Nunn said — Number One bull hide throughout.

At that time it would have cost about the same as the pistols, if one bought it.

I doubt if he paid anything for it, Nunn said of Gonzaulas and the saddle.

I imagine old man Sam Myres made it for him himself, (S.D. Myres Saddle Co. of El Paso).

Nunn used the saddle first in ranching like he'd planned, but just for a few years because he soon got back into law enforcement. He then occasionally saddled up when a search in the rough country became necessary.

But the past few years he hasn't used the saddle. And since it has the story behind it, Nunn loaned it to the Square House Museum in Panhandle where it is now displayed.

Services for Gonzaulas have been set for Wednesday in Dallas.

Money mystery closer to solution

ALICE, Tex. (AP) — A state district court judge today opened the way for two juveniles to testify about the possible source of $486,000 police found in their possession and believed to be "marijuana money."

The juveniles have not been charged with any wrongdoing in connection with the money which they claim they dug up on a relative's ranch.

Judge C. W. Laughlin overruled a motion to quash subpoenas for the two boys after meeting with 15-year-old Percy Garcia, his parents, attorney and Jim Wells County district attorney and probation officers. Attorney Charles Barrera stepped out of the closed door session and announced his client, one of the two boys involved in the mystery $486,000, would meet with the grand jury later today.

We are going to discuss the possibilities with the district attorney now, Barrera said.

Garcia and 16-year-old Gene Bridges were subpoenaed to appear today along with five other witnesses.

The other witnesses are Alice Police Chief Juan Rodriguez, Alice police Lt. Pedro Hinojosa and Waco police officer Elwood Hoherz, Bridges' father and his lawyer Philip Westergren.

The two boys were stopped in Waco on Jan. 31 for running a red light. Officers discovered the cash stuffed in two suitcases in the trunk of their just-purchased Thunderbird.

Officers also found a small quantity of marijuana and a semi-automatic pistol.

The boys reportedly told police they had dug up the money in the backyard of an Alice-area ranch belonging to Bridges' father, James E. Hiroms of Corpus Christi.

We are interested in determining whether any criminal offenses were committed, says Assistant Dist. Atty. Rolando Ramirez who adds that several persons were subpoenaed and are expected to testify today.

Hiroms' lawyer, Phil Westergren of Corpus Christi, criticized the local police for indicating during the past two weeks that Hiroms had disappeared and could not be found.

I told the Alice police, the Waco police and the Texas Rangers that I was in touch with my client and my client was not trying to hide, he says.

Law enforcement officers and the district attorney's office say they are searching tax and title records to determine who owns the ranch or had legal possession of it when the money was found.

The two boys are currently in the custody of their parents until a Feb. 26 hearing in Waco.

Who needs money?

Beginning last year, heads of households with adjusted gross incomes of less than $8,000 could file for an "earned income credit" of up to $400, either in the form of a tax credit or rebate or an outright bonus if no tax was owed.

The Internal Revenue Service reports that despite an expensive publicity campaign aimed at low-income persons, 1.2 million heads of households — or about one of every seven believed to be eligible — did not claim the credit. The total amount involved is no less than $227 million.

One can suggest any number of reasons why so many people who are so greatly in need of a little extra money failed to claim it.

Maybe the tax forms are so complicated they can't understand them. Maybe they are alienated from the government and want as little to do with it as possible. Maybe they don't want "charity." Or maybe they simply don't read the newspapers or don't believe what they do read.

Whatever the explanation, the phenomenon illustrates the fact that the problem of upgrading the lives of poor Americans can be even more difficult than leading the proverbial horse to water.

Little step to China

Confucius or somebody said that the longest journey begins with a single step.

Since 1972, the United States and China have taken a number of small steps on the journey toward normal diplomatic and other relations between the two countries. Some of the latest is an "unprecedented" agreement that has cleared the way for the first visit of a Western ship to a Chinese port since 1949.

It is unprecedented because it is the result of initiatives not by U.S. diplomats but by a private cruise line.

On Feb. 25, the luxury liner MTS Danae will sail up the Pearl River carrying 220 passengers, including 120 Americans to Whampoa. From there they will be driven to Kwangchow (Canton) for two nights and three days in that south China city.

According to the ship owners, Carras, who took their case directly to Chinese officials in Peking, the agreement demonstrates that "private efforts can successfully complement governmental efforts to build bridges of understanding between peoples."

Unrestricted travel by Americans in China can carry the message of international goodwill across cultural barriers and contribute to improved relations with China.

It could, that is, if it were truly unrestricted. Unfortunately, the visitor to China sees what the Chinese want him to see, and nothing more, and the Chinese are totally uninterested in the cultures of other lands.

Still, as Confucius (or somebody) said, every little step.

Start from afar

This is what is called a sorry commentary on modern society.

The Zonn Corporation of Miami, Fla. which does a multimillion dollar business in all aspects of security, is marketing a device called the LORRA (long range radio activator) which lets a person start his car from as far away as 1,000 feet. If someone has wired a bomb to the car's ignition, it will be detonated while the intended victim is at a safe distance.

is a demand for advice like the LORRA," says Lincoln M. Zonn, a former U.S. Army counterintelligence officer.

"People having their cars bombed has become a sad reality of life in too many cities in the country and around the world."

The LORRA also has a more peaceful use, however — starting a car from inside the house on cold mornings to give the engine time to warm up.

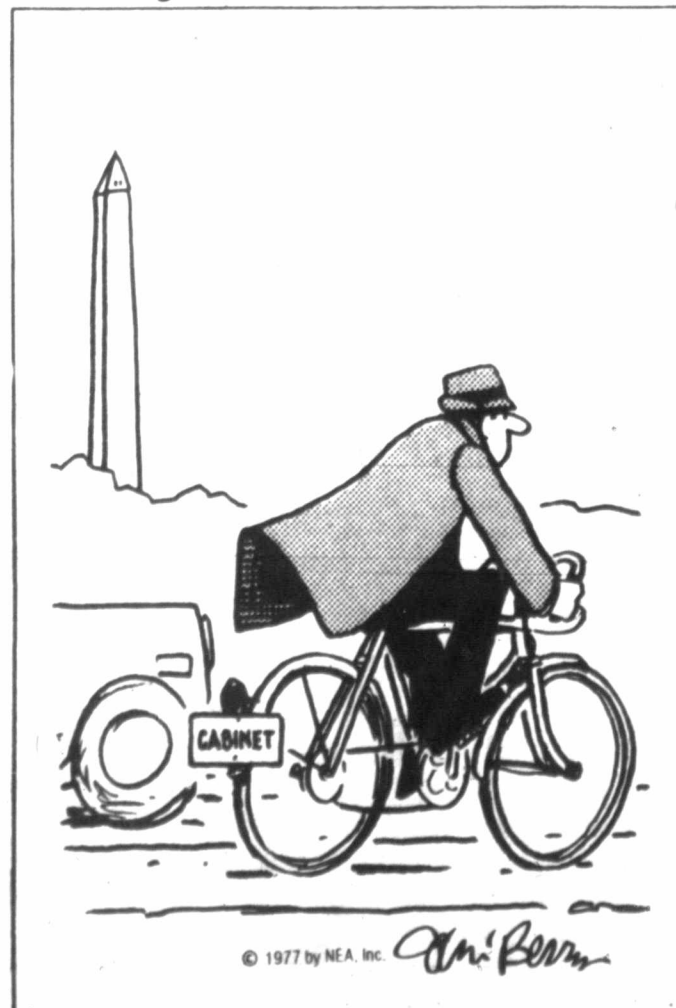

Cold mornings. That's another sorry commentary on life today, or at least this endless winter.

SHAPING UP IN WASHINGTON

Limousine ban is old news

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Carter, in his first "fireside chat," said he already has discovered that the power of the chief executive is not as broad as many believe. He may belatedly learn how really limited his authority is if he seeks to carry out his pledge to drastically reduce limousine service within the federal government.

"We have eliminated door-to-door limousine service for many top officials, including all members of the White House staff," Carter boasted in last week's nationally televised talk with his constituents.

The President has indeed made taxpayer-financed, home-to-office chauffeur service the semi-official symbol of bureaucratic waste and decadence. And he has stripped about 20 members of his White House senior staff, all men and women under his direct control, of that perquisite.

But there are approximately 800 other limousines and their drivers in the Washington area still performing an identical function for all manner of government officials — assistant secretaries, members of regulatory commissions, heads of obscure agencies, admirals, generals and a host of others.

The determination with which those people have held onto their limousine privileges is best illustrated by the fact that for many years home-to-office chauffeur service has been illegal — a prohibition which has induced few if any users to abandon the practice.

Buried in the United States Code is a section which specifically states that no money appropriated by Congress for the use of any department or agency "shall be expended for the maintenance, operation and repair of any government-owned passenger motor vehicle or aircraft not used exclusively for official purposes."

Moreover, the law specifically states that "official purposes" shall not include the transportation of officers and employees between their domiciles and places of employment, except for the president, members of his cabinet, physicians on outpatient duty, officials on "field service" away from their regular stations and other diplomatic officials stationed abroad.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who has been waging a four-year-long campaign for enforcement of that statute, has encountered little success but a great variety of preposterous justifications for the use of limousines.

The term "field service," for instance, was included in the law to cover cases such as forest rangers who must drive long distances to and from their base stations. But the senator encountered one government official who obtained a legal opinion that the drive between his home in the Washington suburb of McLean, Va. and his downtown office constituted "field service."

"Another agency head claimed he needed a chauffeur because he had a telephone in the car. He said the president might want to talk to him," recalled Proxmire.

It turned out, on questioning, that the president had never called him.

In Sept. 1975, more than 18 months ago, the Treasury Department published a "discussion draft of regulations" on fringe benefits which would have required those government employees who insist upon the privilege to at least pay federal taxes on the "imputed value" of the service.

The Internal Revenue Service subsequently has cracked down on employees of private firms who fail to classify company-provided cars as "in-kind" income — but extension of that principal to government employees has never gone beyond the "discussion" stage.

The total bill for limousine service comes to more than $15 million annually, according to Proxmire, including the chauffeurs with vast amounts of overtime or two carrying about $8,000 each a year, as well as the cost of purchasing the big cars, depreciation, maintenance, gas and oil.

Everybody agrees that the practice is extravagant, wasteful and outrageous. Everybody, that is, except a select group of very determined beneficiaries. If Carter can put them behind the steering wheels of their own cars, he will indeed have earned the title of commander-in-chief.

BATTIN' AROUND Dow Chemical's experience

By C.R. BATTEN

The reverberations from the decision of Dow Chemical Company to drop its plans to build a $500 million petrochemical complex in California will be heard around this country for a long time. The plant would have had a permanent payroll of 1,000 persons — jobs that are badly needed in California — and it would have used Alaskan oil.

It was inevitable that sooner or later some major company would spend millions of dollars on a much-needed project, only to become discouraged and abandon it.

It could have been predicted in 1970, when the authoritarians and planners who can see no order in a society that is not directed from some central authority discovered environmental concerns as the issue that would enable them to meddle in almost every human activity, from the bedroom to the utilities room to the grocery store.

On the national scene, the Environmental Protection Agency was established, and given teeth to enforce various environmental controls with little leeway to deviate from strict "non-degradation" standards. Zealots were hired to enforce EPA dictates with little regard to the full consequences.

Some of the states (and California is conspicuous among them) were not to be outdone, and enacted similar laws, many of them with consequences more far-reaching than ever anticipated.

Young Jerry Brown became governor of the state, and appointed environmental consumer activists to key positions. It became more and more difficult to establish and maintain a business. A study indicated that California ranked 47th among the states in attractiveness to business.

became obvious that Dow Chemical was bogged down in its efforts to get permission to build its petrochemical complex. He ordered a consolidated hearing by five state agencies in order to speed up the process.

He was in New York telling business leaders there that California has a good business climate, when Dow Chemical informed his office that it had decided to drop its project. The Governor's staff persuaded Dow to delay its public announcement for 26 hours, in

Earth Heat
Geothermal energy literally means "earth-heat" energy, and geothermal areas are those areas where the heat is great enough and close enough to the surface to provide a heat source. In addition, the heat source must be in or near an area of permeable rocks which contain enough water to transfer the heat to the surface — either along fractures or through drill holes.

Making it through the metric maze

Did you have your 250 milliliters of prune juice for breakfast? Did you really feel sicker when the thermometer in your mouth registered above 37 degrees Celsius? Are you following doctor's orders to keep your weight down to 72.56 kilograms which is healthiest for a man 1.82 meters tall? Do you complain because your new auto gives you only 4.45 liters to a kilometer, and do you obey the speed laws and drive 88.49 kilometers per hour? And do you brag to your friends about the hole-in-one you made on the 137.16-meter 4th hole at the Old Alligator Swamp Golf Course?

Confusing? It's part of the metric system, now adopted by almost every other country around the world, and we'll soon be using it to replace our ounces, pounds, pints, quarts, gallons, pecks, bushels, inches, feet, yards and miles.

At first, for use who have been using these old measurements for at least 60 years, this may seem to be more complicated than the new math children have had to learn in school. However, the National Bureau of Standards for the U.S. Department of Commerce assures us it will be quite simple if we don't try to mentally convert the old system to the new. The metric system is basically a decimal system that uses multiples of ten. And with our currency, we've known for a long time that ten pennies make a dime and ten dimes make a dollar.

We'll need to know only three measurement units — meters, liters and grams. A meter is a unit of length which is a little longer than a yard, a liter measures volume and is a little more than a quart, and a gram measures weight and is about the weight of a paper clip. A gram is such a small unit that we'll be thinking of a kilogram, which is 1,000 grams and is more than two pounds.

Each basic unit can be multiplied or divided by 10's to get larger and smaller units. They're indicated by prefixes such as kilo (one thousand), centi (one hundredth) and milli (one thousandth). Basically, a kilometer means 1,000 meters, and a centimeter is 1/100 of a meter.

Instead of Fahrenheit, temperatures will be calculated on the Celsius scale, which we may have heard referred to as centigrade. It will be much easier to know water boils at 100 degrees and freezes at 0 degrees than at 212 degrees and 32 degrees as reckoned with the old Fahrenheit scale of measurement.

The normal body temperature on the new metric thermometer is 37 compared to the old Fahrenheit of 98.6. But if you do have a fever and your temperature goes up a couple of points, you're not going to feel less wretched no matter which thermometer you use.

What were the reasons for establishing the old measurements? Maybe the rule of thumb, a king's waistline or the length of his nose and arms. Inch and foot came from a variety of ancient cultures, including the old Romans. An early Saxon king removed the sash from his midriff to use as a convenient measuring device. Hence, "yard" came from the Saxon word "gird" meaning the circumference of a person's waist. Or if you don't like that one, accept the theory that king Henry I decreed that a yard would be the distance from the tip of his nose to the end of his thumb.

For the future, our measuring devices will be based on simple and more scientific logic. Except, you'll still be able to belly up to the bar of a British pub and order the traditional "pint of bitter."

But the conversion to the new system will be a gradual one. The Bureau of Standards says that for quite some time signs at gas stations and one roadways, on the supermarket shelves and for just about everything we buy or use will carry the old measurements along with the new. For the most sophisticated who want to do their own conversions, there'll be available a plastic six inch ruler showing inches and centimeters, and a wallet size plastic card translating old standards into metric measurements. In most homes we don't anticipate having any trouble in the kitchen because we're sure we'll be flooded by the food processors who will tell us how to convert our recipes to the metric system — using their products, of course. But we may be scratching our heads trying to figure out our own old family recipes handed down by my grandmother for goulash, stuffed cabbage, strudel and palacsinta, which had first been translated from the original Hungarian.

Capitol comedy

The reason Carter made his fireside chat wearing a sweater was because his overalls were being washed.

Poor Jerry Ford. When he appeared in a sweater, we thought he was goofing off the job.

Carter asked us to join together in the pioneer spirit, but he didn't say anything about "bundling."

Some people are so uptight about strip mining, you'd think it was a porno theater.

When Carter asked us to renew our beliefs in our historical past, we didn't think he meant the ice age.

The new ethics code will be tough on many congressmen. They'll have to go off welfare of special interests.

The Air Force decided that 244 B1 bombers may not be needed. It meant one B1 bomber would need 244 personnel.

Congress has looked into the high price of coffee. It found TV's Alexahenti increased his payroll with more coffee tasters in white suits.

Now if some smart scientist could pulverize oil into dry powder, we could junk those leaky tankers.

Texas music teachers praise Pampa choir

A standing ovation and many words of praise followed the Pampa High School Choir's performance Thursday afternoon at the Texas Music Educators' Association convention in San Antonio.

"People just poured out of that room to congratulate us," said John Woickowski, director. "My hand got tired, shaking hands with so many people."

It was not an easy audience for a high school choir to please. There were about 1200 people, most of whom were vocal music teachers.

Bill Davis, a former Pampa High School director who took his Nimitz High School Choir at Irving to the TMEA convention last year, told Woickowski, "I hate to admit it, but you out sang us." Woickowski reported, Davis now is choir director at Angelo State University.

One of the senior members of the choir, Elbert Hensley, who soloed in one of the selections sung by the choir, said it was a pressure situation, but he was put at ease somewhat by the number of friendly faces he recognized in the audience. Many Pampa parents attended the concert and several of the directors had conducted clinics in which Pampa students had participated.

The choir attended a dinner theatre performance while in San Antonio and management there asked them to perform. They complied.

"They were good ambassadors," Woickowski said of the choir members. He said that an airline stewardess was very complimentary of their behavior on the flight to San Antonio.

"And the bus driver for Continental was a former vice principal with a San Antonio High School. He couldn't say enough nice things about the students, their appearance and behavior," the director added.

Louise Richardson, assistant director, said, "People wonder what makes the Pampa kids so special. It's the community. And it's the parents. They are all behind us."

Memories of gunman conflict

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — A handful of facts and a dual personality of a "gentle man" and a Nazi worshiper were all authorities had today in their search for why 33-year-old Fred Cowan shot and killed five persons at the warehouse where he worked.

The army-trained sharpshooter wiped out chances to provide an answer himself when he put a bullet in his brain Monday and ended a 10-hour siege by 300 police and federal agents.

Although Cowan appeared to be motivated by revenge against his employer over a two-week suspension from his job, he issued no major demands once inside the warehouse.

"He was a very gentle man who loved children," said a sister-in-law, Mary Ellen Cowan. Added a neighbor in this Westchester County community about 1 1/2 miles north of the New York City line: "He was always a nice boy."

But others remembered the hulking, six-foot, 250-pounder, who attended Catholic grammar and high schools and was described as a brilliant student, an avid gun collector and lover of Nazi uniforms.

He covered his body with tattoos — swastikas, German crosses, knives, chains, thunder, lightning, lions, and panthers — and festooned the walls of his room with swastikas.

"He hates blacks," said one neighbor, Roland Lersch. "He hates Jews."

Cowan's victims included two blacks, an Indian, and one white, all fellow employees at the Neptune Worldwide Moving Co., where the gunman worked as a furniture mover. The fifth victim was New Rochelle police officer Allan McLeod, 29, married and the father of two children.

Five persons were injured, including three other policemen.

The siege began shortly before 8 a.m. at the two-story warehouse in a commercial neighborhood of small industrial buildings, interspersed with filling stations and garages.

Cowan was to have returned to work Monday, the end of a two-week suspension caused by a difference with a supervisor.

He returned to the warehouse while about 50 others were reporting to work. But upon his arrival, in the words of fellow employe Clint Wynant, "He just started shooting and everybody started running all over the place."

He shot the first two employes he encountered and then shot a third coworker who tried to escape, killing all of them.

McLeod was the first patrolman on the scene and drove into the truck loading area.

Ft. Worth wins road battle

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — It was high noon again at the Tarrant-Dallas County line.

This time Fort Worth won a round Monday in its fight with Dallas over the Texas Turnpike Authority.

The next showdown comes when the fate of the turnpike authority reaches the Senate floor for debate.

The Senate State Affairs Committee cleared for floor debate on an 85 vote a bill that will turn over the authority to the Department of State Highways and Public Transportation when the final bonds are paid in 1978.

A bill that would let Dallas County continue the toll gates within the county, if voters approve, plus make studies for other toll roads throughout the state was left hanging with little chance it could be revived.

"We're one great big urban region and we don't want to have to pay to go anywhere in that region. We don't want to have to pay admission to go to Dallas," said former Arlington Mayor Tom Vandergriff.

This is an excellent chance for a trial run of the sunset law (where state agencies must prove their worth periodically or be abolished), said Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, who was co-sponsor of the approved bill, with Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas.

"It would be criminal to sunset an agency that doesn't use one cent of state funds," testified Charles Purcell, Dallas attorney for the authority and former executive assistant to Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

John Thompson, chairman of the present nine-member turnpike authority, argued that the authority should have a chance to improve and enlarge the part of the turnpike in Dallas County, if voters desire. He also stressed that the defeated bill by Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, had a $2 million appropriation for turnpike studies and pooling of projects within a county that would benefit Harris, Galveston and maybe Bexar County in the future.

The state of Utah takes its name from the Ute Indians.

Gas overcomes four

Two Metropolitan Ambulances were sent to White Deer Saturday night after four persons were discovered overcome by natural gas.

A ambulance spokesman said they received the call about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

One man, 26-year-old Rick Lowe, was taken to the Amarillo Emergency Receiving Center at Northwest Texas Hospital where he was treated and released, a hospital spokeswoman said Monday.

The other three — R.J. Kemp, Mike Burris and Monty Kreis, all of White Deer — were treated at the Highland General Hospital emergency room before they were released.

The four were at Tri - State Feeds in White Deer when they were overcome by the fumes.

"They had the doors closed and the gas got to them," the ambulance attendant said. "Someone found them and called the ambulance."

Valentines have Valentine baby

HOUSTON (AP) — Lake and Margaret Valentine were presented a real valentine on St. Valentine's Day.

Mrs. Valentine gave birth to a son Monday in a Houston hospital.

The father, a district advertising manager for the Wall Street Journal, said the hospital staff became so excited that a real valentine would arrive on Valentine's Day that "it took us a half hour longer than it should just to get checked in."

The new Valentine is the fourth child for the Valentines. He wasn't named at once. Mrs. Valentine said several persons had suggested "Happy."

Lefors principal resigns

LEFORS — The Board of Trustees of the Lefors Independent School District accepted the resignation of its high school principal Billy Bob Adams effective July 1.

Adams has served as principal for the school three years. It is reported he has not accepted another position.

The trustees also extended contracts through July 1, 1979 for school superintendent Jerrel Julian, tax assessor Virginia Archer and Jesse Baker.

The board will purchase a new nine-passenger bus from Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet, Pampa, to replace a 1966 model vehicle.

Also approved during Thursday's meeting was the continuance of homestead exemptions for persons 65 years and older and for disabled veterans. Okay was given to application for foundation funds and the 1977-78 school calendar.

The trustee's election will be held April 2 in the high school library. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Absentee ballots will be received by Virginia Archer at the school business office starting on March 2. Closing date for absentee voting will be March 31.

Four positions will be open during the election, the unexpired term of Arnold Story, who moved from the district, and Leon Goldsmith, Billy Keith and Edward Vincent.

Keith and Vincent have not filed for re-election. Application's for the openings will be at the school office until March 2.

G.W. Hesse, R.B. White and Dale Garrett were named to the Tax Equalization Board.

Problem: unsafe bridges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Iowa children were killed when a school bus crashed through a bridge guardrail last August. Despite the guardrail's deficiency, state highway workers used the same type rail as a replacement, federal safety officials say.

The National Transportation Safety Board feels the incident underscores a growing nationwide problem with deteriorating and unsafe bridges.

The board, in a report released today, said the guardrail on a bridge near Neola, Iowa, was deficient and "would not offer an appropriate level of protection even to automobiles."

The report criticized the Iowa Department of Transportation for not using a stronger rail as a replacement.

While the problem of unsafe bridges confronts federal, state and local highway officials, funds to repair the bridges are limited.

The Department of Transportation has classified 34,600 bridges on federal highways as deficient, and says replacements would cost $10 billion. Thousands of bridges on local roads are in the same class.

Sen. John C. Culver, D-Iowa, in a Senate speech on the problem last week, called the situation "critical."

"Many of these bridges are simply unsafe and should be repaired or replaced immediately, but it is becoming obvious that demands far outstrip the available financial resources," Culver said.

In the Iowa case, the driver and 29 other children also were injured when the school bus crashed through the rail and over a concrete parapet last Aug. 6. The bus landed on its roof on an embankment 15 feet below the bridge.

Young promises openness

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Andrew Young believes his candid, low-key style of diplomacy is what American foreign policy needs and what the Carter presidency is all about. And he intends to go right on "speaking my mind."

Nations in an interview during his recent trip to Africa. "To me that requires a certain amount of freedom of expression. ... Maybe I have a problem with reconciling the commitment of the Carter administration not to lie — to have government in the open — with what is a traditional reserve in the State Department."

administration — to stir up public debate and get the American people involved in the formulation of foreign policy. "One of the most valuable things in the progress of American foreign policy in the last 100 years was the open debate, and conflict over Vietnam," he said.

While in Africa, he repeatedly said Americans should not be afraid of Marxists taking over southern Africa since whatever ideology they espoused, once in power they would have to turn to the West for technology, capital and trade. He did not hesitate to become the first U.S. official to meet with President Agostinho Neto of Angola, although Washington has no relations with Neto's Marxist regime, and the Ford administration repeatedly attacked it for using Cuban troops to help fight its foes. Young in London said former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had put the burden of Rhodesian negotiations on the British and then "abandoned" them when the Republicans lost the election. Carter came to his ambassador's defense, saying his comments had been taken out of context and that Young had not meant to criticize Kissinger.

And because I value openness I'm willing to take flak, to be repudiated, corrected and argued with." President Carter told a Cabinet meeting Monday that Young had brought "notable improvement" in America's relations with black Africa. The President and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance were reported particularly pleased that he had laid the groundwork for improvement in relations with Nigeria, black Africa's biggest, richest and most powerful nation. But the same candor that won Young praise and friends made a dramatic entrance down the grand staircase while photographers were waiting for the Carters and the Lopez Portillos to descend. Misty was turned back by flash bulbs and a military aide. After dinner Mrs. Lopez Portillo, a former concert pianist, played two selections from Chopin's works. In introducing Mrs. Lopez Portillo, who once studied piano at the University of Michigan, Carter said she gave up her career to marry "the man she recognized as future president of Mexico."

Mrs. Lopez Portillo complained she had not played in public in 20 years, but her performance drew an ovation from the audience and a kiss from Carter. Serkin, the famous concert pianist, performed afterwards. "We tried to find the best performer in our country," Carter said, because of the Mexican first lady's interest in music

'Everything's under control'

Members of the Pampa Fire Department extinguished flames soon after answering an 11:22 a.m. Monday call to the Gilbert Petty residence, 1141 S. Wells. The fire was in the area of a floor furnace, and firemen said probable cause of the blaze was a gas leak or defect in the furnace. Damage to the floor was heavy, with light damage to a living room wall and attic. There was heavy smoke damage throughout the house. Just 22 minutes after answering the first alarm, firemen were called to the Larry Brawley residence, 1230 E. Browning, where a sofa sleeper was in flames said probable cause of the fire was boys playing with matches on the sofa. The only damage reported by the firemen was to the divan.

Carter has 1st state dinner in salute to Mexico president

By FRANCES LEWINE Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's first state dinner featured Amy Carter, her cat, concert pianist Rudolf Serkin and a surprise performer, the first lady of Mexico.

President and Mrs. Carter got all their guests away early and dispensed with a few frills as they gave a warm-hearted salute to Mexican President and Mrs. Jose Lopez Portillo on Monday night.

Nine-year-old Amy was among the 103 dinner guests and was seated at a table with her parents and the Mexican guests of honor.

President Lopez Portillo smilingly disclosed in his dinner toast that Amy had been reading "The Mystery of the Screaming Clock" right here at the table.

Amy's Siamese cat, Misty Malarky Ying Yang, tried to come to the party, too. The cat made a dramatic entrance down the grand staircase while photographers were waiting for the Carters and the Lopez Portillos to descend. Misty was turned back by flash bulbs and a military aide.

After dinner Mrs. Lopez Portillo, a former concert pianist, played two selections from Chopin's works. In introducing Mrs. Lopez Portillo, who once studied piano at the University of Michigan, Carter said she gave up her career to marry "the man she recognized as future president of Mexico."

Mrs. Lopez Portillo complained she had not played in public in 20 years, but her performance drew an ovation from the audience and a kiss from Carter.

Serkin, the famous concert pianist, performed afterwards. "We tried to find the best performer in our country," Carter said, because of the Mexican first lady's interest in music

Carter, who frequently listens to classical music in his office, disclosed that "eight or 10 hours every day I listen to music similar to what he's going to play tonight."

After Serkin's performance of Mendelssohn and Beethoven was greeted with prolonged applause, the President said, "It was almost worth campaigning for two years just to come here and hear that."

For their first state dinner, the Carters served only American food and made a point of printing the menu in English instead of French — except for "demitasse."

They served shrimp gumbo soup, capon in white grape sauce and burnt almond ice cream ring with butterscotch sauce for dessert. American wine was served before and after dinner, but there was no hard liquor.

The dinner started at 7:30 p.m., a half hour earlier than usual.

Vance hoping to resume Geneva pact by year's end

LAJES, The Azores (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance was headed for the Middle East to seek concessions on the Palestinian issue in the hope of resuming the Geneva peace conference by the end of the year.

Vance's plane stopped at this U.S.-manned Portuguese Air Force base to refuel early today en route to Israel, the first stop on his tour.

The one-week trip also will take Vance to Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

As he left Washington late Monday, Vance said he did not underestimate the difficulty of trying to bridge 30 years of hostility between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

But he said, the Carter administration is determined to achieve "a just and lasting peace" in the region.

While in the Middle East, Vance hopes to promote arms-reduction as well as to encourage a return to peace talks in Geneva.

Vance intends to find out the depth of the Arabs' commitment to creating a Palestinian state and whether they think the Palestine Liberation Organization is prepared to accept Israel's existence.

He has no meetings planned during the trip with Palestinian representatives, U.S. officials said.

In Israel, his first stop, Vance will probe for a softening in the so far ironclad objection to PLO participation in peace talks.

Vance will also register U.S. objections to Israeli oil exploration in the Gulf of Suez. State Department officials said Monday that under international law, Israel has no right to begin a new project in occupied Egyptian territory. A department spokesman said the venture was "not helpful" to peace negotiations. Other U.S. officials said, however, that it would not interfere with Vance's mission.

Other U.S. officials said the question of Palestinian participation in peace talks, insoluble until now, is one of Vance's overriding concerns.

What I am trying to do is to ascertain as clearly as I can what the views of the key leaders are so that I can return to the United States and report to the President. We can then develop our views as to how we can be most useful in trying to promote peace in the Middle East.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press Occasional patches of light rain or snow cropped up today in the wake of Texas' latest norther, which swept across the state and into the Gulf of Mexico the day before.

It was generally a bit cooler but no severe drops in temperature occurred.

The snow, ending before dawn, dusted areas in the Texas Panhandle from around Wellington, Silverton and Dimmitt southward, turning into rain by the time it reached the South Plains. Rain dotted the countryside farther south and east as far as Andrews, Wink, Abilene and Mineral Wells, and across South Texas from Schulenburg to Houston.

There was fog also near the Upper Texas Coast in early morning.

Thermometers sagged as low as 26 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle and 28 at El Paso in far West Texas. Readings at other points ranged mostly through the 30s and 40s, staying as high as 56 at McAllen in the extreme south.

No big changes were forecast anywhere in the state.

National weather

By The Associated Press Cold temperatures and snow were returning to a large section of the nation today, hovering near the zero mark during the morning hours in the Northern Plains and the Great Lakes region.

Colder air also was spreading into the Ohio and the mid-Mississippi valley. Early morning readings in the low 20s extended from southern Illinois through southern Ohio.

Light snow fell early today from western New York west across the northern Ohio valley and the Great Lakes and along the Appalachians into eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina.

A travel advisory was in effect for the north west mountains of North Carolina due to expected snow accumulations of one to two inches.

Jobs, crops in danger in drought of Northwest

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — In the midst of the Northwest's worst drought in years, Idaho has warned Washington not to try The Great Rain Robbery.

Oregon and Washington governors fear 76,800 farm jobs will be lost, along with $1.6 billion worth of crops, because drought has left reservoirs and rivers almost dry. Major power shortages also are feared, and industries depending on hydroelectric power already are laying off workers.

Some Washington officials are asking the state to try a $125,000 cloudseeding project over the almost snowless Cascade Mountains.

But inland states like Idaho and Montana get much of their moisture from the same clouds off the Pacific Ocean that drop rain and snow on Washington and Oregon.

Idaho Atty. Gen. Wayne Kidwell warned Monday that his state will go to court to prevent rain rusting. A University of Idaho geographer has predicted that northern Idaho and western Montana could lose 10 per cent of expected rainfall if Washington grabs the moisture first.

"I appreciate Washington's problems," said Kidwell. "But there is sufficient evidence to indicate a good possibility that what would be good for Washington's potential drought could be even more detrimental to Idaho's pending crisis situation."

Yet, there is great pressure on Washington and Oregon officials to act quickly.

Utility and federal officials say that unless the dry spell ends soon, there won't be enough water behind hydroelectric dams to generate sufficient electricity.

Unusual patterns of air pressure have caused the drought, weathermen say, and moisture that normally would bathe the Northwest has hit the Midwest and East.

Unsuspecting Bonneville Power Administration officials sold 1.6 billion kilowatts of electricity to California early this winter, before anyone knew there would be a crisis.

Slayings shake town

HOLLANDSBURG, Ind. (AP) — Talk in the Raccoon Lake bar usually runs to fishing, politics and country music. That was gone today, shattered by shock at the execution-style slayings of four young brothers in a town where crime has always been something that happens somewhere else.

This is supposed to be a nice, safe community," said Virginia Tyler, whose husband owns the bar and restaurant on the fringe of the Raccoon Lake recreation area.

Everybody is just shocked. They were super fine boys."

Ralph Spencer, 14; Reeve B. Spencer, 16; Raymond M. Spencer, 17; and Gregory B. Brooks, 22, a step-brother, were found Monday face-down on the blood-soaked floor of their mobile home.

Each had been killed by a shotgun blast to the head. Their mother escaped by playing dead after gunshots tore through her wig, police said.

Betty Spencer, 43, Gregory Brooks' mother and stepmother of the three teen-agers, was wounded in the back, head and shoulder. She managed to walk to a neighbor's and summon help.

The trailer was ransacked, the telephone lines were cut and the victims' wallets missing.

Mrs. Spencer told investigators four men, believed to be in their early 20s, invaded the trailer shortly after her husband, Keith, left for his job as a technician for an Indianapolis television station.

Police were unable to learn more immediately about the incident because she was heavily sedated, although listed in satisfactory condition at a Terre Haute hospital.

'Roots' may have inspired rampage

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Roots," the televised epic inspired by a black man's search for his ancestry, triggered Jesse Coulter's rampage, says the lawyer for the 42-year-old man accused of taking eight hostages in an attempt to reunite his family.

This man sat on this for 20 years, and the dynamite was "Roots," said attorney Eugene Smith.

During the siege that began Friday night at the Catherine Booth home for unwed mothers, Coulter demanded the return of a son born at the home 20 years earlier. The child had been put up for adoption.

Smith said his client, who is black, had been frustrated over the loss for some time.

Jessie told me when he saw Chicken George (a character in "Roots") get his own family back together, he couldn't help himself," Smith said. "He had to come back to Cincinnati and get the kid."

As it turned out, the effort was in vain. The siege ended when an undercover Cincinnati detective fooled Coulter and his ex-wife Rita Gibran into thinking he was their long-lost son and they surrendered.

The television program was based on a book in which author Alex Haley traced the history of his family from black Africa through the days of slavery in the South. The dramatization concluded 12 days before Coulter came here.

Housek to begin alley reign today

Richard Housek's 2½-month training period ended Monday as he becomes the manager of Harvester Lanes today, replacing the retired Gil Wuest.

Housek has been in Pampa since December learning the position from Wuest, who retired after four years at Harvester Lanes.

"I've been here since December because I've had to learn a lot of things from Gil and I've been getting to know the community and the people."

Gil's been a real good teacher. If there's anybody to learn from, he's the one. My duties will be just everything there is to do, as far as running it."

Housek, 28, actually has a year's experience as a manager, running the Grove, Okla., bowling facility prior to coming to Pampa.

Under Wuest, who has managed across the country for nearly 40 years, the Pampa alley has had its lanes resurfaced and has seen new equipment installed. Housek said that other changes would be gradual.

"The one thing I'd like to do is encourage participation of kids out there, like in the Saturday junior leagues. We need more kids to bowl in these bantam and junior leagues."

Wuest will remain at Harvester Lanes to occasionally teach classes and drill balls, a field in which he is renowned throughout the country.

"I don't know if I'll teach yet," Housek said. "Eventually I am. It takes a lot of knowledge and training. Gil's been to school for it — it's quite a talent."

To run a bowling facility, Housek said, "You have to treat everybody the same — your good bowlers the same as your average bowlers."

Whether the bowler averages 190 or 100, you can't play any favorites.

Housek and his wife reside at 1117 Crane.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman who just turned 25. I have two small children, and I'm living in fear that I will not live to see them grow up.

When I was 13, I was fooling around with a Ouija board, when I got a message from my dead grandmother saying she would see me in heaven on my 26th birthday, meaning I was going to die on that day in an accident.

I told my husband about my fears, telling him to marry again soon after I die so my children won't be without a mother, and he said, "That Ouija board stuff is a lot of bunk, so forget it."

Abby, for some reason, I can't forget it. I am not afraid to die. If God wants me, I'm ready to go, but I only have 11 months to prepare myself if the Ouija board was right.

Have you or any of your readers ever had any experiences with a Ouija board? I'm terribly confused and very frightened.

W. V.A. READER

DEAR READER: I agree with your husband. While I respect the rights of others to believe as they wish, I have yet to find a shred of convincing evidence to support the theory that the living can communicate with the dead.

I urge you to put those frightening thoughts of impending death out of your head, dear.

DEAR ABBY: My grandchildren live out of state. They are old enough to write, but they never acknowledge my gifts. I spend a lot of time shopping for things I think they will enjoy, and my presents are never cheap.

Please don't tell me to stop sending them gifts. You know a grandmother can't forget her grandchildren on their birthdays, Christmas and Easter. So what do you advise?
FORGOTTEN GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Send them each a box of "thank you notes for Easter. That's egg-actly what they need."

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very handsome (and weak) man who does not hold up very well when faced with temptation. He maintains that when a lady makes a pass at a gentleman, he should not insult her by turning her down, and he has no choice other than to oblige her.

I say he is out of his head, that a true gentleman would find a courteous way to decline. I would like your opinion.
ALABAMAN

DEAR AL: Your husband should first get his terms straight. If a woman makes a pass at a man, she's no "lady." And if the man obliges her, he's no "gentleman." And if your husband is practicing what he preaches, you'd better lock him up before his "chivalry" kills him.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to start taking vitamins and wondered if you could tell me how many grams of what vitamins I should take and when. Should I gradually get into this or can I take them right away?

DEAR READER — You are already into vitamins if you are eating. A normal well balanced diet includes all the vitamins and minerals you should need for health if you have no medical problems.

Most vitamin preparations have a label which lists the Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA) and the amount in the preparation. However, I am sending you The Health Letter number 46 that provides a table of all this information for different age groups as prepared by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences. As you will see, vitamins are usually measured in units or milligrams. Others who want information on vitamins can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I do not disapprove of people taking an all purpose daily vitamin preparation — one with iron for women in the child-bearing years — if there is any question of whether or not their diet is adequate. However, it is probably best to get one's vitamins from a well balanced diet that includes enough of all the different food groups to provide the daily requirements.

People who live alone, those on diets, and those who have illnesses or poor eating habits may benefit from a daily vitamin tablet. Taking large amounts of vitamins above the RDA can cause trouble and anyone who needs large doses of medicine for a medical problem should be

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — When there is not enough room in your refrigerator for a watermelon store it in a picnic cooler packed with ice. Plastic bread bags are useful for carrying small game home from a hunting trip and save blood stains on game pouches and clothing. Burned fingers will be avoided if you use a wooden spoon rather than a metal one for stirring foods on the stove at home or over a campfire. — HANNA.

DEAR POLLY — During these days of saving coupons I got tired of searching for the ones needed as even the coupon keeper did not separate them enough. So I bought a recipe file with a set of dividers. Now mine are separated into sections such as beverages, dessert, cleaning aids, canned goods, etc. so it is fast and easy to find before I go to the store. — DIANA.

DEAR POLLY — To have an odorless bunch of marigolds I strip off the leaves. Sprinkle cat litter on oil and grease spots on the driveway, let it stand and then sweep clean when you see the litter has absorbed the stain. — ARLENE.

DEAR POLLY — My three-year-old was going through the feet of his sleepers so they were past the mending stage. I cut off the feet on the sleepers and the feet on a pair of red socks he had worn out but had good ribbing. I sewed these to the ankles of his sleepers to make them more comfortable to wear and the project meant he had another winter's wear out of them. With clothing costs skyrocketing this was a real saving for us. — GLENDA.

DEAR POLLY — When crocheting rugs I find they lay flat if I crochet three rows, turn over and crochet three rows, turn back and crochet three rows, etc. until the desired size is reached. — DOROTHY.

Polly will send you one of her "peachy" thank-you cards, ideal for framing or placing in your family scrapbook, if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peavee or Problem in her column. Write Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

Senior Citizens more plentiful

With increasing population and longer life expectancy, the problems of the elderly are becoming far more prevalent.

In the early 1900's, only two per cent of the people in Texas was more than 65 years old, according to Aging Specialist Vivian Blair. In 1970, this figure had increased to almost nine per cent.

Mrs. Blair estimates that today there are more than a million Texas senior citizens.

Mrs. Blair, who works with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, was in Pampa last week to help local people cope with problems of the aging.

She conducted an adult sitter clinic in conjunction with Highland General Hospital to educate people in caring for the elderly.

Hospital therapists taught the physical aspects: Mrs. Blair discussed emotional and psychological aspects.

The students — mostly middle-aged and older women — became qualified to provide personal care for the aged.

Some may work as trained adult sitters; others will care for elderly people within their own families. "In many cases, the presence of a qualified adult sitter is all that is necessary to keep an elderly person from having to be placed in a rest home."

Mrs. Blair pointed to a national survey which listed nine areas of problems by elderly people themselves:

Income — Mrs. Blair explained that most people retire on a fixed income — (usually Social Security) — and that with spiralling inflation combined with longer life, this same fixed income "spirals many into poverty."

Transportation — "Lack of money and/or depleted physical health prevents many elderly people from obtaining the social contact they need," she said.

Nutrition — Lack of energy, knowledge and money causes many to become mal-nourished, Mrs. Blair said.

Health — Physical, mental and emotional health are all directly related to the other eight categories of problems, she explained.

Housing — Mrs. Blair pointed out that this a major problem can be partially solved by planning ahead, preferably by buying a small home rather than facing the ever-increasing costs of rental housing later.

Education — Mrs. Blair explained that the Extension Services teach many classes to help alleviate problem areas. She herself has held many seminars and programs in consumer buying of such things as clothing and food for the elderly, preparing for retirement, selecting housing etc.

Employment — "For many women," Mrs. Blair said, "widowhood creates this problem. Should the husband die before the wife is eligible to draw Social Security, she is faced with the problem of having to find employment in order to support herself (and sometimes also her family)."

Activities — According to Mrs. Blair, there is a necessity for the feeling of worthwhile usefulness. "The psychological and emotional aspect is as important as the financial in giving older people something to do — like in the adult sitter clinic, volunteer work or the Senior Citizens' Center," she said.

Mental and spiritual well-being — "An elderly person should not have to fear for their safety," Mrs. Blair said. "A sense of being needed and cared for can really help towards solving this problem."

Preceptor Chi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi

A macrame demonstration by Mrs. Betty Fletcher, crafts instructor at Sam Houston Middle School, highlighted a recent meeting of Preceptor Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. She demonstrated the main types of macrame knots, and displayed items made from nylon cord, jute and fishing cord.

The meeting was held in the home of Retha Jordan. The business session was conducted by Jackie Huff, president.

Announcement was made of a cocktail party the group hosted preceding the Sweetheart Ball, honoring Jackie Huff, chapter sweetheart. The reception was held in the home of Mrs. Don Stafford.

Forthcoming events announced included the Woman of the Year Tea, set for April 17 at the First Christian Church, and the April 28 Founders Day Banquet to be held at the Pampa Country Club.

Progressive Home Demonstration Club

The Progressive Home Demonstration Club met recently with Mrs. B.F. Dorman.

Mrs. Don Butler, president, opened the meeting with the club prayer. Roll call responses answered the question, "Have You Made a Will?"

Mrs. Elaine Houston, county extension agent for home economics, was a guest. She presented a program on estate planning.

Plans were made to attend "A Credit Experience" Feb. 22 at the Pampa Senior Citizens Center, and the Feb. 27-4-H Food Show at the Courthouse Annex. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Dave Rife.

Twentieth Century Forum

The Twentieth Century Forum met Feb. 8 at the Pampa Country Club with Mrs. Jack T. Ward as hostess. She was assisted by Mrs. Holt Barber.

The program, "Germany, My Spiritual Home," was given by Mrs. Frank W. Kelly. She discussed the fairy tales of Germany and their merit in child psychology, quoting Dr. Bruno Bettelheim that children can be helped find meaning in their lives with the aid of fairy tales.

Following the program, Mrs. Robert R. Williams, president, conducted a business session.

Petroleum Engineers Wives
The Petroleum Engineer Wives met recently at Tom's Country Kitchen, with Mrs. C.L. Roberts and Mrs. Carl Lawyer

as hostesses.

The program was a demonstration of embroidery with ballpoint points.

Twelve members attended. The next meeting is set for Feb. 11 at the Plaza Inn Ballroom in Borger.

Golden Harvest Home Demonstration Club

Golden Harvest, a newly chartered Gray County Home Demonstration Club, met Jan. 14 with Mrs. Ann Lytton.

The program was conducted by Mrs. Elaine Houston, county extension agent for home economics. She distributed yearbooks to members, and explained the purpose of home demonstration clubs.

Officers elected include Mrs. Lytton, president; Mrs. Iona Thompson, vice president; Mrs. Eva Hildenbrand, secretary, and Mrs. Frankie Hildenbrand, reporter.

Meetings are to be held at 9:30 a.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month; hostesses will serve in alphabetical order.

The group met again Feb. 1 in the home of Mrs. Arlene Brunting.

Business included the election of two additional officers. Mrs. Brunting was named treasurer, with Mrs. Wilma Kitterman as telephone committee chairman.

New members present were Mrs. Marilyn Tate and Mrs. Sidney Jackson.

A demonstration on making pink velvet roses was given by Mrs. Jackson. Members each made one of the roses.

The next meeting is set for 9:30 a.m. Feb. 15 at the home of Mrs. Carol Heinrich, 2124 Lynn. Mrs. Elaine Houston will give a program on estate planning.

Glass wins 'Miss McLean'

McLEAN — Forty-five girls competed for the title "Miss McLean 1977" Saturday night in the McLean High School Auditorium.

Winner was Maridale Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Glass of McLean. The high school senior was sponsored by the McLean Lions Club.

Alternates for the title include first runner-up Billie Lowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Lowery of Alameda; second runner-up Melinda Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hunt of McLean; and third runner-up Cynthia Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morris of McLean.

The 45 contestants chose Beth Hambright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hambright of McLean, as Miss Congeniality. Eleven finalists were chosen by a panel of three judges, all Clarendon Junior College faculty members. In addition to the four winners, finalists included Jill, Judy and Jamie Trew, Rachel Glenn, Glenda Pharis, Cherrise Billingsley and Toni Wynn.

The 40th annual pageant was sponsored by the McLean Mother's Club and the high school annual staff chairman was Mrs. Linda Haynes of McLean.

The red-haired Miss McLean will compete in Shamrock's "Miss Irish Rose" competition March 17, and later in the "Miss Top O' Texas" pageant in Pampa.

Pampa may win district today

AMARILLO — Pampa, depending on the outcome of the Amarillo Tascosa - Amarillo High contest, can capture its third straight District 3-AAAA basketball title by knocking off lowly Palo Duro in a 7:45 p.m. game today in the Don gymnasium.

The Harvesters, 22-5 for the season, the first-half champion in district and 2-0 in the second half, will clinch the district title by beating Palo Duro tonight, provided Tascosa downs Amarillo High, 1-0 in the second half.

Pampa has won its last nine games and 14 of its last 15 outings. Palo Duro has dropped six of its last seven games and is 7-17 overall and 3-1 in the second half.

Pampa struggled to knock off the Dons, 69-61, in the first half. That was in Pampa. The last time the Dons met the Harvesters in Amarillo Palo Duro dropped a close, 38-33, decision.

Ed Smith, PD's second-year head coach, hopes for another close game and feels his club may be the only district team that can beat the red-hot Harvesters.

"It's probably just foolish to think we might beat them but it's our intention. I think everyone else is afraid of them but we're not afraid of them. Our kids know they (the Harvesters) put their pants on like we do. They're 16 and 17 year old kids like everyone else," Smith said.

"But Pampa's playing real great right now. They seem to be developed. They know they've got it sewed up. I think they've got it locked up. Even if they lose one, they're still going to win it — they won't lose two, they just won't."

The Harvesters have four starters averaging in double figures — 6-0 senior guard Rayford Young (17.7), 6-4 junior forward Rusty Ward (14.8), 6-3 senior guard Brian Bailey (12.7), 6-4 senior forward Don Hughes (12.2) and 6-0 junior post Rickey Bunton (10.0).

Young is scoring at an 18.3 clip in district games, while Ward and Bunton boasts 16.3 and 16.2 averages. The Harvesters in district are averaging 71.2 points.

Ward probably will not start against PD because of a charley horse in his left thigh. Five-eight junior Tim Reddell (3.0) will start if Ward doesn't, according to Pampa Coach Robert McPherson.

Palo Duro tonight will start 6-2 junior forward Tracy McLean (7.5), 6-2 sophomore forward Victor Wells (4.5), 6-1 senior post Anthony Gilbreath (7.0), 6-1 senior guard Raymond Cloudy (11.6) and 5-10 senior guard Randy Whitlow (5.0).

Wells will start in place of high-scoring Cleveland Winston, a 6-5 post averaging 17.8 points for the season. Winston missed Friday's practice and will be benched for part of the game tonight.

"We hope to make them play defense on us," McPherson said. "We don't want to get in a running game with Palo Duro. We played very poorly over here against them but if we play like we've been playing, we should win the ball game."

Kentucky, 18-2, beat Florida State 97-57 and Auburn 89-82 last week, and received 846 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, in voting announced today.

UCLA, 19-3, beat Washington State 65-62 but lost to Washington 78-73 and tumbled to third. The Bruins received 663 points.

Meanwhile, San Francisco, 25-0, defeated Nevada-Reno 92-76 and St. Mary's, Calif., 99-82 and remained in first place with 1,006 points. The Dons collected 48 of the 51 first-place votes, with Kentucky getting one and UCLA two.

Mobeetie tests Wheeler

SHAMROCK — Wheeler and Mobeetie will play for the District 3-B championship in a playoff at 8 p.m. today here.

The teams have split in four games this season, with no contest being decided by more than six points. Mobeetie is 27-4 overall and Wheeler is 23-5.

Cage tourney taking teams

The Pampa Youth and Community Center will host the 13th annual Top O' Texas Independent Men's Basketball Tournament Monday, Feb. 21, through March 3, with games to be played on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights for two weeks.

Entry fee is $36 per team, with an individual player's fee of 75 cents, which will include the use of dressing room facilities, a locker, swimming pool, pool tables and ping pong tables.

Entries should be sent to the Pampa Youth and Community Center, in care of director George D. Smith, Box 1164, Pampa, 79065. Entry deadline is 12 noon Thursday. Brackets will be mailed out on Friday.

Out-of-town teams will play the later games during the first round. Teams entering from the same city will not be matched against each other in the opening round.

Each team, Smith said, is guaranteed at least two games during the two-week tournament. A consolation bracket will be held for first-round losers.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three places and consolation champion.

Tigerettes claw Samnorwood 77-51

By PAUL SIMS Sports Editor

CLARENDON — High-powered Groom, paced by lightning-quick forward Connie Crowell and a defense which forced 43 turnovers, rolled to a 77-51 Class B bi-district basketball victory over outclassed Samnorwood before a crowd of 1,000 Monday night in the Clarendon College gymnasium.

Groom, 26-7 overall and winner of 13 straight games, will face Nazareth in the first round of the girls' regional tournament at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Levelland. Nazareth is the defending regional champion.

The loss ended a Samnorwood 14-game win streak. The Eaglettes fell to 22-7 with the loss after winning the District 4-B championship.

"I knew what Groom had," said Samnorwood's Kenneth Martindale, who has just finished his eighth year as Samnorwood's girls' basketball coach.

"They're a whole lot quicker than we are. We were going to try to make them shoot the ball outside on us but we didn't accomplish it."

Substitute forward Rena Britten finished with 11 points to help Groom's awesome scoring attack, while Kuehler added 10.

Groom shot 50 per cent as a team (31 of 62) and canned 15 of 19 free throws. The Tigerettes enjoyed a 30-24 advantage on the boards as Toni Bralley pulled down six rebounds on the guard end.

The Eaglettes finished with a 38.1 percentage from the floor (16 of 42) after hitting just four of 14 shots in the first half. Samnorwood had its greatest success from the free-throw line, canning 19 of 27 charity tosses.

The difference in the game lied in Groom's quickness on both ends. Guard Sherrie Smith led the guard attack with eight steals, while Bralley, the Tigerettes' only senior and a four-year starter, kept Samnorwood from getting inside for layups.
