

Mrs. McGonigal, 81 believes in keeping young by bowling

By PAUL SIMS
Pampa News Staff

Bowling one's age, for most people, would be considered an embarrassing score. To Delia McGonigal, it's something she does all the time... and without embarrassment.

Ms. McGonigal is 81, nearly 82.

Her average is around 100. She has bowled as high as 147 this year. That was about her average shortly after she first started bowling in 1945 when she was 50.

Ms. McGonigal's theory is you're only as young as you feel. She despises rest homes.

"I don't like these old people. I like young people. They tried to get me to join the senior citizens I said, 'Nothin' doing. You're not gonna get me around those old people'."

She even sticks to illnesses associated with the young. At 65 she contracted a childhood disease — the mumps.

"I lost my equilibrium and I couldn't walk for a month. I haven't really bowled good since then. I've bowled a 200 since then but I used to have a 140 average. Now I bowl about a hundred."

"After I lost my equilibrium it hurt my bowling. I used to take five steps and now I have to get closer. The mumps liked to kill me. My jaw's still sore and my form's not good."

"I can't take five steps — I get about two steps away from the foul line now."

She bowled 207 "about five or six years ago," Ms. McGonigal said.

"Red Watson managed the bowling alley then. He said, 'What's that old woman gonna do next?'"

Ms. McGonigal has won several trophies and some prize money for her bowling accomplishments. When she was "about 60" she collected three trophies and $90 during one tournament at Odessa.

"What did I do with the $90? I spent it, of course. That's all money's for, isn't it? I like to enjoy life."

"I also like to play bingo at the Moose Lodge once a week. The week before last I won a $30 pot. It's legal now. I'm glad."

Ms. McGonigal enjoys living so much that it doesn't bother her to hear comments about her age from bowlers who are amazed that an 81-year-old woman can pick up a 14-pound ball, much less bowl in two leagues a week.

"I hear it every day — 'When I get your age, if I live that long, I hope I'm doing what you're doing.' They all say, 'If I live that long...'"

Lord, no, it doesn't bother me. Nothing's gonna bother me. I like it — it's a compliment to me."

She is hindered somewhat by failing eyesight. Also by some after-effects of the mumps.

She doesn't keep score because she can't read the scoresheet. And she can't drive herself to the Monday night Ladies' Petroleum League.

Florence Mounce picks me up every Monday night. I'm not supposed to drive at night, that is, when they catch me. Sometimes I sneak out," she laughed.

Mrs. McGonigal believes you're only as young as you feel. And she feels like bowling twice a week.

Adult version of fable seized as pornography

ROME (AP) — Mickey Mouse and Popeye are pictured in their usual antics in children's comics on Italian newsstands, but Snow White has been involved in some scenes Grimm wouldn't recognize in a long-running adult comic series.

A million copies of Snow White and other sexy-fables were ordered seized and five persons were in jail Friday after Asst. Dist. Atty. Angelo Maria Dore launched a crusade against pornography.

Snow White, subtitled "A Fable for Adults Very Freely Adapted from the Grimm Brothers," is now in its sixth year of bi-monthly editions. The heroine started off with some very adult activities with the Seven Dwarfs and has since graduated to sexual adventures of every sort.

In the current edition on the newsstands, she goes on an undercover mission for King Gold of Kurtland and in every few pages the heroine winds up in some sexual exploit.

Other subjects for the adult comics include Pinocchio, Frankenstein, Zorro and other familiar subjects in unfamiliar roles.

Dore ordered seizures in Rome, Rovigo, Trento, Genoa, Verona, Cuneo, Pesaro and other cities.

Five persons were arrested and jailed in Rome. They were Guido Spada, 33, and Francesco Sabadini, 28, both printers, Silberio Serafini, 37, Giorgio Liberati, 27, and Maurizio Scozza, 26, all involved in various stages of the publication of the comics.

Those arrested were charged with publishing obscenity, punishable by three months to three years in jail, and also with the more serious charge of criminal conspiracy, with a possible sentence of up to seven years. The latter charge has been rarely used in pornography cases in Italy.

The porno-comics sell for an economical 33 cents, compared to several dollars for slick men-only magazines or heavier sex publications. Yet, authorities say they are tied to a business that grosses millions of dollars a year.

Costeau talks to kids

HOUSTON (AP) — Jacques Cousteau, famed underwater explorer and photographer, once said if the environment is to be saved "we must inspire our children to become planetary caretakers."

In Houston Saturday, thousands of children crowded into the downtown Civic Center to hear Cousteau speak, ask him questions and watch several of his films of the sea. They also romped in a playroom where only discarded things — old buckets, paper cartons, seashells, trash cans — were turned into toys.

Loy Hallant, a Houston housewife, brought her two children, Kerri 8, and Jennie, 3, to the first of Cousteau's Involvement Days. "I wanted my children to have a broader horizon. I wanted them to learn about the environment and conservation. I think they learned something today, even as young as they are, that will stay in their minds. It is better than spending the day just playing," she said.

Little Kerri summed it up — "It was a fun day."

The Involvement Day, Cousteau said Saturday, is an attempt to bring all citizens into the conservation movement.

If the life-systems of our water planet are to be saved, the work must be done by ordinary citizens. Politicians are concerned about being re-elected. We mothers and fathers are concerned about the world we will leave behind for our progeny.

"But we cannot do alone. We must sit down and incorporate into this immense undertaking the representatives of industry and labor and government. We must all become involved together in preserving the future," he said.

While the children played or watched movies, the adults attended several open forums on such topics as alternative energy resources, air pollution and environmental health, mariculture, drinking water quality and coastal hazards. Speakers included environmentalists, energy experts and government officials.

'Kissinger shortchanged British' -- Young

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. envoy Andrew Young returned Saturday from a 10-day tour of Africa asserting that former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger abandoned Britain in its efforts to bring black majority rule to Rhodesia.

Young, the first black U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said he felt the United States had been unfair to Britain. "Dr. Kissinger put a burden on Britain's back and then abandoned them," the former Georgia congressman said.

He told reporters in London just before departing for the United States. "This was not intended, but I think Dr. Kissinger thought they (the Republicans) would win the (presidential) election."

Young appeared to imply that Kissinger's southern Africa shuttle last September to deal with the Rhodesia situation was partly calculated to help win the election. Young indicated, Kissinger would still be in office and thus able to help ease the role Britain had assumed.

Instead, "The British have been very lonely" because there was a vacuum after the Democratic victory in November, he said.

On arrival in New York, Young predicted the British would strongly favor reopening the Geneva conference on Rhodesia once the Carter administration frames its policy.

Goal conflicts hamper energy policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Formulation of a national energy policy is being hampered by conflicting goals of government policy-makers, a Congressional Budget Office report concludes.

The report released Saturday cited major built-in conflicts among government efforts to hold down consumer energy costs, protect the environment, increase domestic energy production, boost energy efficiency and promote conservation.

Since there is no way the nation can have all these things at once, Congress now is faced with the thorny problem of deciding where sacrifices should be made and who should pay the bill, the study said.

Joint ownership is no substitute for a will, says the American Council of Life Insurance. According to federal estate tax laws, the jointly held property actually belongs to the owner who dies first.

"are open to negotiations when we establish a policy," he said.

Young called the Rhodesian problem a jigsaw puzzle but he added, "I think I have many of the pieces and I think they can be put in place when we make the right moves.

The Geneva talks broke down in December after Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and black nationalist leaders failed to reach agreement on key questions over a transition to black rule.

Young said he would meet either Sunday or Monday with Secretary of State Cyrus R.

Vance in Washington to discuss the results of his African tour.

Gunman wounds 4 policemen

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — A man armed with a rifle shot at least six persons, including four police officers, and then fired at police from a moving firm's warehouse today, police said. The gunman, described by an employee of the Neptune Worldwide Moving Co. as a worker recently suspended, barged into the warehouse and began firing just before 8 a.m., police said. A policeman said the gunman was holding a wounded man hostage and a spokesman at New Rochelle police headquarters said it was believed there were other hostages inside the building. Three wounded policemen were taken to New Rochelle Hospital, but the fourth remained lying on the ground outside the warehouse. The gunman, described as a strapping, tattooed man with an M16 rifle, kept officers from rescuing their comrade. The rifleman fired both from inside the warehouse and from the roof of the building. A company employee said that up to 50 persons could have been reporting for work when the shootings began. Many of them ran out the back door of the warehouse when the shooting began. Police wearing bullet-proof vests and carrying high-powered weapons cordoned off a two-block area around the warehouse they took up positions in nearby buildings. At 10 a.m., a steel-gray, armored personnel carrier from the New York Police Dept. arrived at the scene and moved near the warehouse. The wounded policeman still at the scene was lying in the line of fire. A company employee who had escaped said at least two employees of the moving company had been shot inside the building. Clint Wynant, the employee, said the gunman shot the two persons in the chest. "He got them point blank," Wynant said. "They weren't moving. They looked dead."

Wynant said the gunman walked into the warehouse just before 8 a.m. "He just started shooting and everybody started running all over the place. He walked in and everybody started screaming and running. It was just mayhem." William Marshall, another employee who escaped, said the gunman wounded one person with his first shot. "I hit the floor," Marshall said. He said that as the gunman continued shooting, employees ran out the back door of the warehouse. The first police began arriving shortly afterward. A state police helicopter circled overhead and a state police spokesman said a hostage negotiating team and tactical squad was en route from New York. At one point during the siege, the gunman moved to the roof of the warehouse and held policemen at bay. Fellow officers identified two of the wounded patrolmen as John Fitzgibbon, wounded in the hand, and Raymond Satero, shot in the leg. The others were not immediately identified, nor were the wounded moving company workers identified.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press: A dry norther coasted through Texas today, gusting up to 40 miles per hour but exerting no great effect on the state's weather. Although low clouds moved into the Panhandle section before daybreak, forecasts made no mention of moisture anywhere in the state. By early morning the forward edge of the cool air mass lay along a line from Wichita Falls to Lubbock. It was due to reach the Upper and Middle Texas Coast by sunset. Farther south the skies remained clear and breezes blew from the southwest at 5 to 10 m.p.h. Temperatures near dawn eased down to 23 degrees at Marfa and 27 at El Paso in extreme West Texas. Elsewhere the readings ranged from the 30s into the 50s, staying as high as 51 at Corpus Christi and Galveston on the coast. Sunday's top marks peaked at 77 in Dallas. Clear to partly cloudy and a little cooler weather was forecast for all sections.

Aunt joins anti-Ghandi fight

NEW DELHI India (AP) — Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's sister and one of the best known women in India, has joined the campaign to end the 11-year rule of her niece, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Mrs. Pandit, who was the first woman president of the United Nations General Assembly and served as ambassador to the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain is 76 and has been in retirement for nearly nine years. But her stand is likely to be a psychological blow to Mrs. Gandhi as well as a big boost to the morale of her opponents. She said she would not run in the parliamentary election next month nor join any political party formally. But she pledged to campaign actively for the human values to which India has traditionally ascribed. It is of the highest importance to put an end to the authoritarian trend which has grown to vast proportions and is destroying cherished values, she said. Mrs. Pandit told a news conference today that she did not see a single reason for the state of emergency in June 1975, under which Mrs. Gandhi suspended civil rights, imposed censorship and put her chief political opponents in jail. She said the essence of democracy is the right to dissent and that it was shocking to me to see all dissent muzzled and those who disagreed with the government put in prison. Her news conference was held at the home of Jagjivan Ram, who resigned as agriculture minister two weeks ago and formed a new Congress for Democracy party in revolt against Mrs. Gandhi's leadership of the ruling Congress party. Although she told the news conference she loved Mrs. Gandhi very dearly, Mrs. Pandit has reportedly been at political odds with her niece for years. In an interview with the New York Times last October, she said Mrs. Gandhi's government was far more repressive today, in many ways, than were the British who imprisoned her three times during the Indian struggle for independence.

Mrs. Pandit's announcement marked the resumption of campaign activity after the funeral Sunday of President Fakhrudin Ali Ahmed, a longtime supporter and confidant of Mrs. Gandhi who died of a heart attack Friday. The United States delegation was led by President Carter's 78-year-old mother, Lillian, who served in the Peace Corps in Bombay a decade ago. It also included Carter's son Chip, 26. Ahmed was India's fifth president and the second Muslim to hold the largely ceremonial post in the predominantly Hindu country. At his death, Vice President B. D. Jatti became acting president, and a successor will be elected within six months by the Parliament being elected in March and the state legislatures.

Texans defend plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Texas congressmen were to go to the Pentagon today, trying to extend the life of the A7 attack fighter plane. Secretary of Defense Harold Brown invited the trio on Sunday. They represent the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where the plane is manufactured by LTV Corp. Rep. James Wright, the House majority leader, said he did not know what the Carter administration planned to do about the A7, which has been a prime target of Pentagon cost cutters for several years. Two years ago, the Air Force tried to stop A7 production, but Texas congressmen managed to reinsert it into the defense budget. This year, the A7 has been on at least one of the lists of potential spending cuts circulated by Brown as he searched for ways to fulfill President Carter's campaign pledge to cut defense spending. The administration said Friday it had finished its work on Ford's deense proposals. The budget that Carter inherited from the Ford administration provided for construction of six A7 planes, just enough to keep the assembly line at Grand Prairie, Tex., in operation. Wright said he felt it would be a false economy for the Pentagon to eliminate the A7 entirely. He said that closing it would spread LTV's fixed overhead costs among its remaining projects, which include some work on the B1 bomber. That would raise the costs of the other planes LTV is building for the government, Wright said. Employment at the Grand Prairie plant has dropped from 26,000 in 1970 to 9,000 currently as the production of the A7 has declined from year to year. Wright and Democratic Reps. Jim Mattox and Dale Milford were the group slated to see Brown. Wright said he did not know whether they could talk Brown into maintaining A7 production.

FDIC says Manges 'borrowed' $4 million

DALLAS (AP) — A federal report says South Texas rancher-banker Clinton Manges was involved in over $4 million in loans charged-off loans and overdrafts at his Rio Grande City bank when the institution closed last year. The statement was part of a report from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC) that also said Texas has 60 "problem banks" with 25 of that number reportedly on the "serious problem" list. The report, released over the weekend by the House subcommittee on supervision and regulation of financial institutions, is the culmination of hearings on Texas banking activities conducted in San Antonio Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. According to the FDIC's assessment, members of eight "control groups" that were identified at the hearings as being involved in the acquisition and sale of Texas banks "are presently involved in 8 of the 60 problem banks." In addition to these 8 banks, these individuals have been associated with 10 other banks now carried on the problem list, the FDIC said. The report noted that some of the control groups that were involved in three banks forced to close last year in Texas. Those banks were South Texas Bank of Houston, Citizens State Bank of Carrizo Springs and First State Bank & Trust Co. of Rio Grande City. Manges owned close to 100 per cent of the Rio Grande City bank before it closed its doors Nov. 19. His (Manges) domination of this bank led to the introduction of numerous and sizeable self-serving extensions of credit to himself, his relatives, business associates and to other business interests," the FDIC report said. "As of July 9, 1976, loans to Manges and his interests amounted to 22 per cent of the total dollar volume of loans and equaled 173 per cent of the bank's capital and reserve accounts." The FDIC said major problems normally associated with problem banks involve "inordinate borrowings by the official family and their interests and excessive remuneration and management fees."

Indiana surprises Michigan

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
If ever a college basketball team went to court without a defense, it's the Michigan Wolverines.

Coach Johnny Orr certainly found them guilty Sunday after a 73-64 upset by Indiana.

"They just ran their offense in the second half," a grim Orr said of Indiana. "I don't know how they got Woodson opened so often."

Orr referred to Mike Woodson, Indiana's freshman forward who flowed through the Wolverine defense with shocking ease and scored 26 points.

While fifth-ranked Michigan wasn't playing defense, Indiana was. The Hoosiers seemingly had stop signs up all over the court and the traffic was terrific.

"We concentrated all week on defense," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "We thought we had given up some easy baskets last week (in an 89-84 loss at Michigan) before we set up. We told our kids this week that our defense started when the shot went up."

Indiana's overbearing defense got Kent Benson into foul trouble, however, and things looked discouraging when the All-American center was tagged with his fourth personal.

"We had no intention of taking Benson out," said Knight. "We were either going to win it or lose it right there. We started to hold the ball when they were in the zone because Benson was least susceptible for fouling. Benson played extremely smart with four fouls. He positioned himself well and made the key plays. And we had three guys out there setting up Benson and Woodson."

Benson wound up with 24 points.

In college basketball action Saturday, top-ranked San Francisco trounced St. Mary's 99-82; Washington upset No. 2 UCLA 78-73; No. 3 Kentucky trimmed Auburn 89-82; No. 4 Wake Forest defeated North Carolina State 84-77; No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas nipped No. 6 Louisville 99-96; No. 7 Alabama turned back Mississippi State 73-69; No. 8 Minnesota outscored Iowa 61-58 and No. 9 Marquette hammered Manhattan 86-60.

In the second ten, No. 11 Tennessee whipped Louisiana State 91-64; No. 12 Cincinnati stopped Georgia Tech 84-73; No. 13 Arkansas routed Rice 78-51; No. 14 North Carolina bested Tulane 106-94; Maryland upset No. 15 Clemson 84-78; No. 16 Providence tripped LIU 99-85; St. Bonaventure stunned No. 17 Syracuse 91-84; No. 18 Arizona beat New Mexico 88-84; No. 19 Detroit downed Wayne State 123-77 and No. 20 VMI turned back Richmond 92-87.

Bill Cartwright, Winford Boyes and Markon Redmond scored 21 points apiece as San Francisco beat St. Mary's and clinched a tie for the West Coast Athletic Conference. One more WCAC victory will earn an NCAA playoff berth for the powerful Dons, who are undefeated in 25 games over-all this year.

Mike Neill, James Edwards and Chester Dorsey combined for 54 points to lead Washington over UCLA and tighten up the Pacific-8 Conference race. It was the second Pac-8 defeat for the defending champion Bruins and put them just a shade ahead of three teams tied for second — Oregon, Washington and Washington State. UCLA has lost one fewer game than the others.

Kentucky defeated Auburn behind crucial point production from Jack Givens and Larry Johnson. Givens scored 16 of his 24 points before the half as the Wildcats built leads as large as 15 points.

Nevada-Las Vegas also came back from a 17-point deficit in beating Louisville behind Eddie Owens' 21 points. Robert Scott and Reggie King each scored 18 points as Alabama beat Mississippi State. Osborne Lockhart's two free throws with 16 seconds left led Minnesota over Iowa. Marquette beat Manhattan behind Bo Ellis' 22 points.

Groom to play Samnorwood

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

CLARENDON — Cat-quick Groom will pit its young but tested girls basketball team against patient Samnorwood, which boasts one of the area's most prolific offenses, in a Class B bi-district battle at 7:30 p.m. today in the Clarendon College gymnasium.

Both teams carry impressive win streaks into the game. Samnorwood, 22-6 overall, has won its last 14 games, while Groom, 25-7, has won its last 12. And both teams have done it with young teams. Samnorwood, which has one senior on its seven-girl squad, while the Tigerettes start only one senior — 5-8 guard Toni Bralley.

"We're young but I don't think it will be a disadvantage," said Groom Coach Diane Campbell, who once scored 100 points in a high school game while playing for Claude.

"I think Samnorwood's real young too. But they're good. They've got three forwards that can score if you leave them open. They run a slow, deliberate offense."

Groom's offense is just the opposite. Relying on its usually superior quickness, the Tigerettes are averaging 51 points per game.

Connie Crowell, a 5-4 sophomore, is averaging 23.5 points for the Tigerettes, who went 14-0 in District 3-B. The other starters on the forward end are 5-6 junior Connie Dean, averaging 10 points, and 5-8 freshman Karen Kuehler, 7.5

points. Starting guards are Bralley, averaging 11 rebounds; 5-6 junior Sherrie Smith, 6, and 5-1 junior Jeanne Britten, 4.

Crowell, Dean, Smith and Bralley are returning starters off last year's team which qualified for the regional tournament but lost in the first round to Fort Davis 74-67.

"This team probably is better than that one," Campbell said. "We've got experience with those four returning starters and we've got a lot of depth this year."

The first player to come off the bench usually is 5-10 freshman Betsy Krizan, who can play on both ends of the court.

Samnorwood's starting forwards are DiAnna Schaub (27-point average), Tonya Kincannon (17) and Mable Bryant (16).

"We'll play them with a man-to-man, one-on-one, pressure defense. I've got confidence in my guards. They can adjust to any situation real well."

West squeezes by East in NBA all-star contest

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The matchups involved the most awesome assemblage of offensive talent in basketball, but the 1977 National Basketball Association All-Star Game was won on defense.

There was Golden State's Rick Barry, diving to the floor to tear away the loose ball from two scrambling Eastern Conference players. Sprawling on his side, Barry flipped the ball to Denver's Bobby Jones, who fed Phoenix Paul Westphal for the layup that produced the decisive point in the West's 125-124 victory over the East Sunday.

Westphal's basket gave the West a 125-122 lead with 38 seconds to play. Then, after two free throws by Bob McAdoo of the New York Knicks had brought the East to within 125-124 five seconds later, along came Westphal to strip the ball from New Orleans' Pete Maravich, who was set to launch a potential winning shot for the East with seven seconds left.

Effective defense requires intensive play, and the 10,938 fans at Milwaukee's packed Arena and a national television audience saw more of that than many had expected in this annual exhibition, traditionally a one-on-one shootout.

"It was more competitive than usual," said Philadelphia's Julius Erving, named Most Valuable Player in the defunct American Basketball Association the previous three years and an overwhelming choice as MVP in this game.

"The players never lost interest, that's for sure," said West Coach Larry Brown of Denver.

"It was really neat to see guys diving after balls at the end. I never thought I'd see Rick Barry go on the floor."

Barry said the intensity existed because 10 of the 24 All-Star players — he being one of the 10 — once had played in the ABA. Brown both played and coached in it.

Maravich, however, said some of the intensity was illegal. Specifically, he thought Westphal had fouled him as he tried to shoot from the top of the key on the East's last possession.

Maravich's shot was plotted during an East time out called with 16 seconds left after a steal by McAdoo.

"We tried a simple pick and roll," Maravich said. "I came off McAdoo and Westphal fouled me, hit me on my right wrist. It was not a clear steal. In a key situation when the ball game is being decided, they (officials) should call it."

McAdoo also said Maravich had been fouled. "You could hear the contact," he said. "I was the pick and roll man. He (Maravich) came around me and I saw him going up. I thought he had shot, but the guy (Westphal) reached his hand in and fouled him."

The 6-foot-7 Erving skytwisted and slam-dunked his way to 30 points, two of them on a driving, sweeping jam over 7-foot-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles. McAdoo also totaled 30 and teamed with Erving to lead the East's abortive charge from a 97-89 deficit after three quarters.

Messengale wins Hope

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Rik Messengale so completely dominated the rest of the field that it was almost dull.

"I feel no sense of frustration," badly-beaten runner-up Bruce Lietzke said Sunday. "The way Rik was playing, it's an honor to finish second. He played one of the finest weeks of golf that I've ever heard of."

It was such a runaway that the only excitement was generated in Messengale's challenge to Arnold Palmer's 17-year-old scoring record in the prestigious Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic. And he got that, the only goal he could set for himself, with a dramatic, 30-foot birdie putt on the 90th hole of this, golf's longest tournament.

The outcome, the winner, was never in doubt. Messengale had it all the way, scoring the third victory of his career, and third in as many years, by a ho-hum, comfortable margin of six strokes.

"It was just a race for second place," said Lietzke, who eventually claimed that position with a five-under-par 67 that extended to 26 the number of consecutive rounds in which he's been at par or better. And the triumph prompted Messengale to make a change in plans. He was set to skip this week's Los Angeles Open, the last event on the Winter segment of the schedule. His triumph put him in position to gain a spot in the rich World Series of Golf off the Winter point standings and he decided to enter Los Angeles to protect his position.

Just as he'd done in earlier victories at Tallahassee and Memphis is 15-12. Admission prices are $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Hartford. Messengale led at the end of every round. He started six strokes in front in the final round of the 90-hole, five-day Hope, stayed in front and finished in front.

Only his quest for Palmer's scoring record lent any suspense, any drama to the proceedings that tailed off in spectator interest after former President Gerald Ford and the other celebrity amateurs completed their four days of play Saturday.

"I thought about the record a lot," he said. "I didn't want to go out with that big lead and play cautious, maybe shoot par and just squeeze in. I didn't want to back in. I decided to go for the record."

The softly-drawing, handsome Texan got it with the bold putt on the final hole. It capped off a five-under-par 67 last round and gave him a 337 total, 23 under par and one shot better than Palmer's old mark for the four desert courses used in this unique event.

Lietzke's five-under-par effort on the La Quinta Country Club course took the $22,800 second prize with a 343 total, 17 under par.

Young Dallas girl missing

DALLAS (AP) — Those Valentine cards which Ladina McCoy addressed to her classmates went undelivered today.

The blonde, blue-eyed first grader disappeared while walking eight blocks alone to school from her East Dallas home, and police said they feared she was kidnapped. They reported clues were lacking.

Ladina, who had never spent a night away from home, set out Friday morning. Officers said efforts to find someone who spotted her along the way had been fruitless.

"They were supposed to have a party at school," said her mother, Barbara Baughman, "and we addressed 26 cards to children in her class."

Mrs. Baughman's voice broke as she added, "They were the same little Valentines like I used to have when I was in school."

The mother picked up her husband Robert, a catering service truck driver, and returned home about 4:30 p.m. It was then that she learned that Ladina — also called Dina and Dino — never reached school that morning and a search began.

Ladina was wearing a white blouse and red slacks under a brown rain poncho and carried a brown purse. Mrs. Baughman said the little girl moved from nearby Kaufman to Dallas with her mother and stepfather about two months ago. A sister, 3, and the children's grandmother, Franci Talley, also live with the couple.

"She is basically friendly, but we've warned her not to talk to strangers and definitely not to go with anyone she doesn't know, no matter who he is, if they try to pick her up," said Mrs. Baughman.

In New York City it is possible for a subway rider to travel nearly 90 miles without retracing his route, says National Geographic. All it costs is one 50-cent fare.

Did POWS break? study asks

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department officials failed to conduct a thorough investigation of whether any U.S. servicemen violated military law while they were prisoners of war in North Vietnam, a special Pentagon committee charges.

"The investigations were minimal and the rationale supporting dismissal" of charges that some former POWs brought against others in 1973 "was very weak," the Defense Review Committee said.

It strongly suggested that this resulted from policy guidance from high officials in the Defense Department at that time.

Melvin R. Laird was defense secretary while preparations were made and policies drafted for the expected freeing of the Americans held as war prisoners. Elliot Richardson succeeded Laird and was in office when Hanoi released 566 POWs four years ago.

The report gave the first official voice to bitter criticism expressed at the time by senior POWs, some of whom tried unsuccessfully to get the armed services to prosecute nine former prisoners for allegedly cooperating with the North Vietnamese.

The 11-member civilian-military committee, which included four former POWs, addressed this question in a report recommending changes in the 22-year-old Military Code of Conduct.

The changes would make it clear that U.S. servicemen could give captors more information than name, rank, service number and birth date, but only after reaching the limits of their ability to resist torture or other severe duress.

A copy of the report, completed in November and left over for the Carter administration to consider, became available over the weekend.

The code is a standard of conduct expected of all U.S. servicemen. It is not a law. However, the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) is a parallel law and it provides penalties for aiding an enemy or other violations.

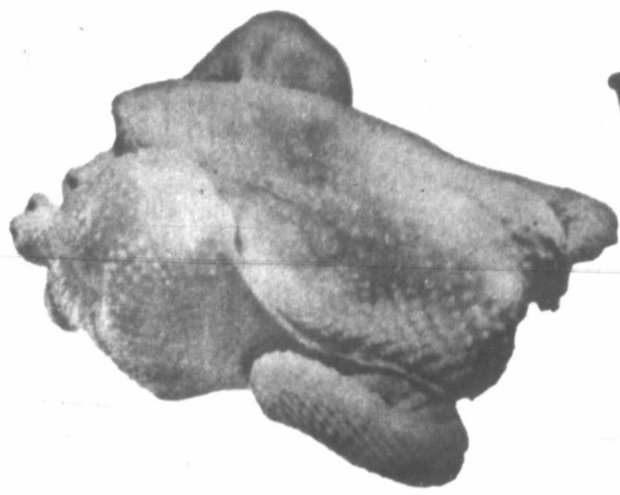

There were strong differences of opinion about the code among the Americans who were captured during the Vietnam fighting.

Some POWs believed in a rigid interpretation of the uniform code and felt it barred them from telling captors anything more than their name, rank, service number and birth date. Others believed the code recognized that men had breaking points and could not be expected to resist giving information at all costs.

The complaint made by a number of former POWs against a handful of their fellows was that these men gave information or otherwise collaborated with the North Vietnamese without duress or after only relatively slight pressure.
