Surrenders for rape trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A man who faces trial for a rape-murder next month gave himself up Saturday, less than 24 hours after walking out of the police station on the pretext of a visit to the men's room.

Police Sgt. James Beck said Lyle Brummett called him from a telephone booth in South Austin. Beck picked him up and returned him to the city jail.

"I screwed up. I'm in the habit of screwing up. I don't know why," Beck said Brummett told him.

He is scheduled for trial March 7 for the rape and strangulation murder of Diane Roberts, 22, and on sexual abuse charges stemming from an attack on a fellow inmate of the Travis County Jail.

elderly patients does not have severe symptoms, but it can be very dangerous to the old and infirm, officials said Saturday.

Fifty-seven patients at the Treasure Isle Convalescent Home were affected by the nation's first outbreak this season of the A-Victoria flu, which generally is more severe than Hong Kong-B flu. Hong Kong-B has been reported in about 30 states so far this season.

Last year, more than 11,000 deaths nationwide were blamed on A-Victoria.

Dr. Richard Morgan, director of the Dade County Health Department, said one of the nursing home residents, a woman in her 80s who was not identified, died Friday after being transferred to a hospital. A second woman, 88 years old, died within the past week, he said.

Morgan said both deaths apparently were caused by A-Victoria influenza. Another death, that of a 98-year-old patient, might have been connected with the flu, Morgan said.

He said laboratory tests were being considered in an effort to determine a definite cause of death of all three patients.

Nursing home officials refused comment. The national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta confirmed on Friday that the A-Victoria flu strain had been found in Miami. The outbreak began Jan. 26.

Morgan said that although the illness does not have severe symptoms, it can be very dangerous to old people.

"People who are old often have underlying illnesses that make them very susceptible to this type of disease," Morgan said. "Even a mild cold can be devastating."

He said the general symptoms of the disease at the nursing home were a 101-to 102-degree fever, cough, nasal discharge, loss of appetite, sore throat and muscle aches.

He expressed surprise that the disease first showed up in Miami, especially in view of the severe weather in much of the rest of the country.

He said special checks have been made of area nursing homes and hospitals, but so far there was no evidence that the flu has spread into the general population.

State returns drink tax

Gray County received $684.60 and the City of Pampa $425.90 as their share of mixed drink tax collections for the October-December quarter of 1976.

The checks, mailed from the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock in Austin, were based on county revenue of $4,563.99 and city revenue of $2,839.35 during the final quarter of the year.

Total mixed drink tax collections in Texas during the quarter — $11.3 million — were 23 per cent greater, Bullock stated, than the $9.2 million collected during the same quarter of 1975.

The comptroller explained his office remits to counties and cities 15 per cent of the total mixed drink tax collected within their boundaries. The balance remains in the state's general revenue fund.

Bullock said Harris County got the largest check, $500,843, based on total mixed drink sales of $33.3 million during the quarter.

Knife and Fork to host singer

Singer Donna Jean Wood will entertain the Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club Monday, Feb. 14, when the group meets for its annual guest night and to elect directors. The dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Auditorium Heritage Room. Miss Wood has appeared in USO Shows, stage plays and the Lawrence Welk Show. Tickets, which cost $6 should be purchased by noon Saturday at Heard Jones Pharmacy, 114 N. Cuyler. The original program, speaker Francine Neubauer, was cancelled by her doctor.

Quits Common Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Gardner, founder and chairman of Common Cause, said Saturday he is quitting his post with the citizens' political action group.

"Every organization must renew itself," Gardner said in announcing his resignation to the organization's governing board at a meeting in Washington.

Gardner, who has served two three-year terms as Common Cause chairman, said he would head a 10-member committee to search for a successor. David Cohen, president of the organization who assumed Gardner's duties as a chief executive officer last year, is a member of the committee and considered a prospect to take over.

Gardner, 64, said he would not seek re-election when his term expires in April but that he would continue as a member of the board.

Gardner founded Common Cause in the fall of 1970, saying he hoped to create a citizens' voice in the political field. A Republican, Gardner also served as secretary of health, education and welfare under President Lyndon Johnson.

World economy worries Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is stepping up pressure on Japan and Germany to follow the U.S. lead in expanding their domestic economies to help the rest of the world.

Fred Bergsten, an assistant treasury secretary for economic affairs, says that while the world economy has started to recover, it is a slow recovery and a fragile one. There is cause for concern, if not anxiety.

Cooper said the heavy borrowing cannot continue unchecked, and that steps must be taken to ease the burden on poor nations and on struggling industrial nations to keep their economies from crumbling further.

Disaster aid on the way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Besides declaring disasters and emergencies, the government is taking action through as many as 10 departments and agencies to ease the icy crisis paralyzing parts of the nation.

The President also declared an emergency Saturday in Michigan, providing aid for 11 counties hard hit by snow and ice. He already had declared emergencies in Pennsylvania, Indiana and Ohio.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said one million persons were laid off because of fuel shortages and that labor experts expected unemployment to increase as the winter wears on.

Motorman caused crash

CHICAGO (AP) — City transit officials Saturday blamed a 34-year-old motorman for a rush-hour elevated train collision that killed 11 persons and left 200 injured.

The cost of the cold was still mounting. The legislation that enabled Carter to allocate gas to places where it was needed most, also allowed pipelines to temporarily purchase the fuel at prices higher than current federally regulated levels.

The Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in Carver Center to consider a six-item agenda.

Storm's aftermath lasting

For some, the new week will bring an easing of restrictions. Some 7,500 persons laid off at a General Motors plant in St. Louis because of a shortage of parts from weather-struck operations elsewhere will return to work on Monday.

Pampa teenager jailed Saturday on minor charge

A 19-year-old Pampa man was in Gray County Jail in lieu of two $500 bonds Saturday.

The week started with a snowstorm that hit hardest at Buffalo, N.Y., virtually isolating the city. Thirteen persons died in the upstate New York community; they were among nearly 100 cold victims across the country. As the week wore on, the snow continued intermittently.

The curtailments to industry will remain. The release did not indicate whether the note contained a confession. Bruhl declined comment.

Horton speech wins CPR contest Saturday

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Bill Horton of the First National Bank was judged to have the speech with the most heart in it Saturday morning when a dozen local citizens spoke on the topic, "Why C.P.R.?" at the annual meeting of the Gray County Division of the American Heart Association.

Placing second in the speech contest was Mrs. Dona Cornutt. The Rev. John Hansard was awarded third place.

Melvin Kunkel, president of the organization, served as master of ceremonies for the event in the Coronado Inn, which officially opens the third annual C.P.R. Week locally and the drive for funds to aid in heart research.

A house to house drive for contributions is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 13.

First prize in the speech contest was a $25 savings bond provided by Citizens Bank and Trust. Horton turned the prize over to J.C. Robert, business chairman of the organization, to be applied toward the local goal of $3,000.

Mrs. Cornutt and the Rev. Hansard also each donated their winnings of $10 savings bonds to the fund drive.

Roberts, who said he would see that every Pampa business has an opportunity to contribute to the drive, added that with more than $1,200 already raised, "It looks like the drive is going better than ever before."

The 12 local firms and organizations sponsoring speakers in the competition paid entry fee contributions of $50 each. The speakers and the firms they represented included:

Van Guillote, Cabot Company; Barry Halper, Celanese; Jim Olsen, Citizens Bank; Mrs. Beverly Hensley, Highland General Hospital Auxiliary; Scott Laingford, Southwestern Public Service; Jerry Hurt (physical therapist at Highland); Pampa Concrete Co.; Jack Reeve, Rotary Club; Bob Huton, Kiwanis Club; Milton Jones, Lee-Tex Valve.

Mrs. Cornutt represented the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Rev. Hansard performed for the Lions Club.

Judges for the contest were Art Le Clert, Bill Watson, and Joe Cole, all members of the Toastmasters Club.

Musical entertainment for the breakfast meeting was provided by the Walberg Sisters, assisted in one selection by Kunkel and Roberts.

Officers of the local Heart Association include Vernell Meador, vice president; Clara Quary, secretary; Betty Casey, treasurer; and Elaine Houston, parliamentarian.

Russian journalist ordered to leave United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Saturday that it has ordered a Russian journalist to leave the United States. The move was made in response to the Soviet expulsion of an Associated Press correspondent in Moscow.

State Department spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said the department "notified the Soviet Embassy today that Vladimir I. Alekseyev, a Washington correspondent of Tass, must leave the country within a week."

George Krinsky of the AP was given a week to leave the U.S.S.R. after being accused of espionage activities and of violating Soviet currency regulations.

Krinsky was the first journalist to be expelled from the Soviet Union since 1970. The AP and Krinsky rejected the charges and pointed out that Krinsky has reported extensively on Soviet dissidents.

"We have specified that our expulsion of Alekseyev is in response to the Krinsky expulsion. We regret this course of events, which is a step backward from the objective of improving working conditions for journalists contained in the Helsinki final act, and from the more fundamental interests of promoting a freer flow of information," Brown said.

Earlier Saturday, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., referring to Krinsky's expulsion, said, "We ought to tell one of their people right away to start packing his bags. I believe in retaliation to this sort of thing."

The White House had said earlier that President Carter asked the State Department for a report on the expulsion.

In delivering the notice Friday to David Mason, AP bureau chief in Moscow, Valentin A. Khazov, deputy chief of the Foreign Ministry Press Department, repeated charges that Krinsky is a U.S. intelligence agent and has been involved in illegal currency dealings.

On Wednesday, the Soviet Literary Gazette had renewed the spy charge, which it first voiced last year, and accused Krinsky of illegally giving hard currency certificates to a Soviet citizen who was not identified. The magazine, organ of the Soviet Writers Union, implied that the certificates were used to buy information.

Krinsky, 35, who has been in Moscow since Sept. 12, 1974, denied the charges.

The AP headquarters in New York said the so-called illegal currency operations involved payments in hard-currency certificates by Krinsky to his maid as part of her salary. The certificates permitted her to shop in special stores. The AP said Krinsky's only "violation" was that he had not given the maid a work contract.

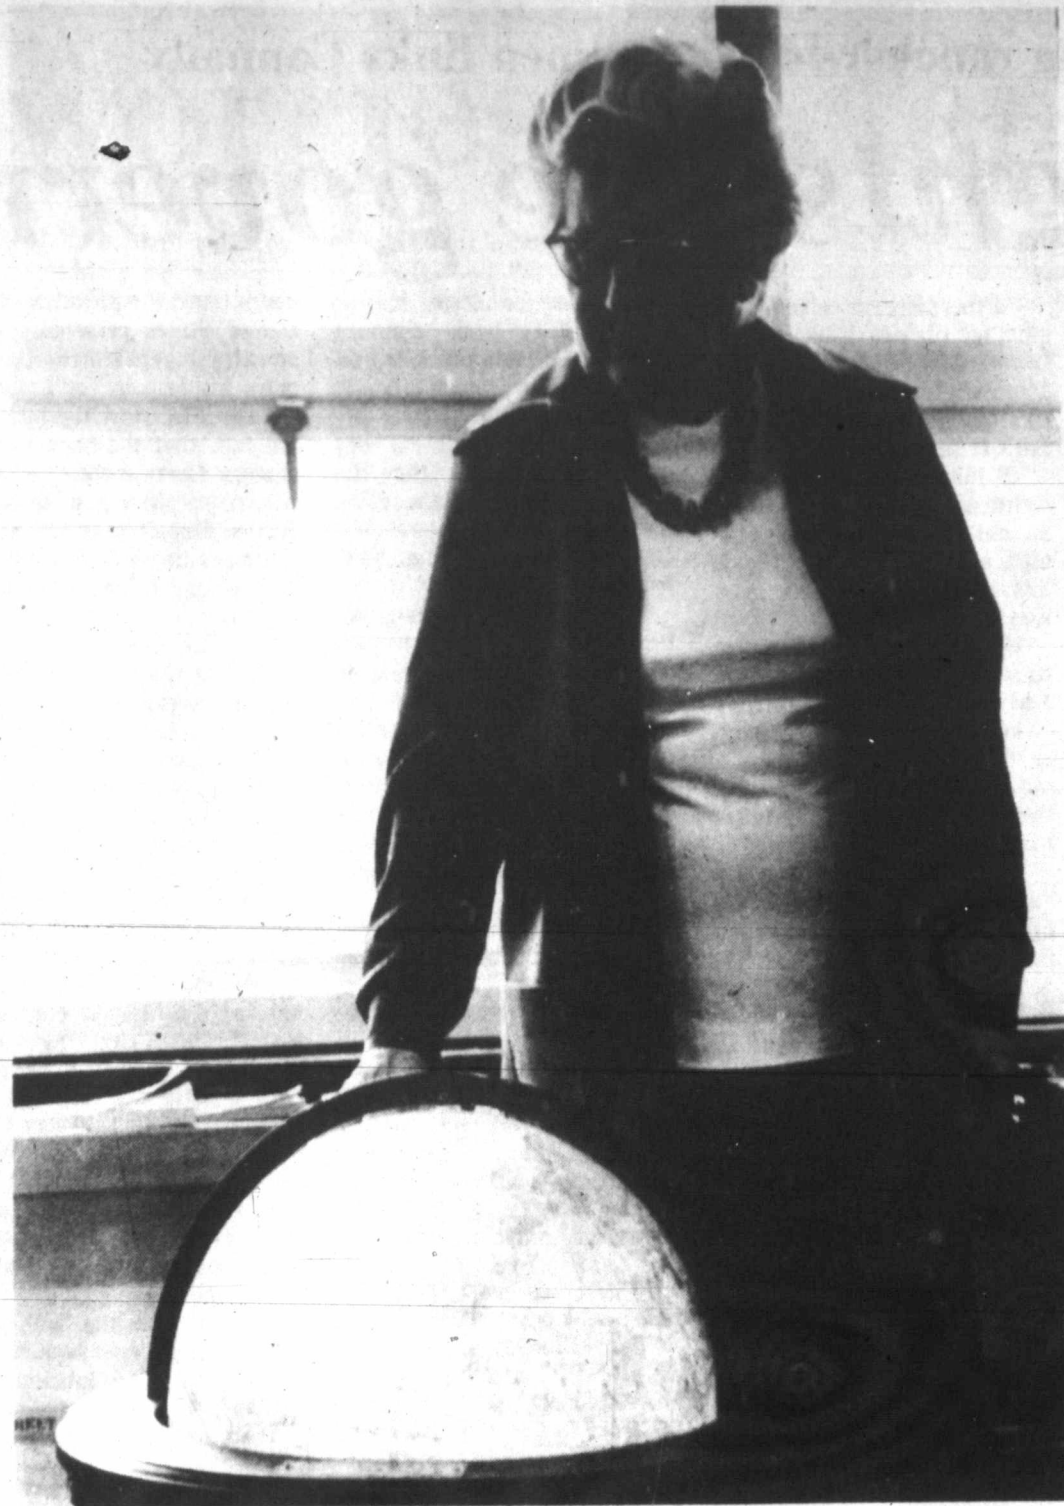

Keith Fuller, president and general manager of the AP, said

"The expulsion of George Krinsky, in our view, is a flagrant violation of the Helsinki agreement as it pertains to news reporters carrying out their mission."

"We would submit George Krinsky's news dispatches to any fair-minded third party for comparison with any other Western journalist's work within the Soviet Union."

"He did make friends with many Soviet citizens because of his language facility and his Russian heritage. He is an American, of course, but of Russian descent."

Memorial gift to library

Elephant packs trunk

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — The grand old lady of the circus has packed her trunk for the last time. Marcella, the elephant, has retired.

After 29,700 performances under the Big Top, there are no more hectic road tours, glittery show girls or custom-designed wardrobes for the 7,000-pound star of the center ring.

The aging pachyderm will spend her days lazily munching apples, hay and sweet feed and roaming with giraffes and zebras in a large menagerie at Circus World.

Nobody knows for sure how old Marcella is, but she's over 60. She was brought by ship from Ceylon in 1922. In those days, under the importation law, elephants had to be at least six years old to make the long, hard voyage.

She is the oldest of Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey elephants, and for 55 years a mainstay of the traveling show. She had a solo dance routine as the circus played in 45 cities across the country each year.

Last week, Marcella's circus friends gave her a farewell party. There was a huge elephant-shaped cake — which Marcella ate. And a dozen fresh-cut roses. She ate them, too.

Her age shows in the deep-set wrinkles and the hollowed cheeks. Her pace has slowed.

$800 collected for heart fund

J.C. Roberts, chairman of the Heart Fund's businessmen's campaign now in progress, said his committee has received more than $800 in contributions from local businesses to date.

Roberts said he has contacted approximately 100 of Pampa's 800-plus businessmen and has received two $50 donations.

The chairman emphasized the American Heart Association does not receive a share of United Fund contributions, and the campaign now underway is the association's only method of raising needed funds.

to his residence, 2301 Christine.

"Checks mailed to me will make it possible for us to utilize the limited time of the campaign more fully," Roberts said.

Others on the committee are Gil Phetteplace, Steve Huggins, Ken Rheams, Bill Horton, Benny Kirksey, Melvin Kunkel, Dan Chapin, Merle Hageman, Bill Adams and W.W. Wells.

Carter may want to stay with you

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next time President Carter is visiting your area, invite him to spend the night. He might take you up on it.

Carter is considering staying in private homes in some of his travels around the country and to have American citizens meet with him in the White House as part of an effort to bring the presidency closer to the people.

The White House is looking into the legality of having a private institution pick up the tab for those citizens to visit Washington and spend an evening with the President.

Greg Schneiders, Carter's director of special projects, said White House counsel Robert J. Lipshutz is investigating the legality of having one organization provide the funding for a special program that would choose Americans to visit the capital for a few days and discuss their problems with Carter.

"The President really doesn't get much input by shaking hands with people on White House tours," Schneiders said in an interview. "He wants to have people really tell him about themselves."

Schneiders, coordinator of what he has called the "People's Program," said other aspects of the project include:

- A radio talk show, scheduled to begin sometime in early March. The President will be in the Oval Office, and one network will set up telephone lines for Carter to receive calls. The program will last one hour, and if it works, will be scheduled once a month. Negotiations are under way to choose the network.
- Several trips a year to different parts of the country to meet with small groups, such as 20 farmers, housewives or educators. The point would be not to meet with official spokesman for groups but with private individuals to determine what the federal government can or cannot do for them.

"The stage we're at is that we're gathering ideas, determining their feasibility and picking the best suggestions for a comprehensive program," Schneiders said. "All the specifics have not been worked out."

He said one project under consideration is a presidential lunch once a week for prominent Americans such as scientists or novelists who have innovative ideas but don't usually meet the President.

He is also considering a series of mini-White House conferences which would bring together groups of individuals working in such areas as inner-city problems or with the elderly. They might spend a full or half-day at the White House, Schneiders said.

"The idea is to use the White House as a showcase for new ideas," he explained.

Schneiders said he is also considering a large White House conference on citizen participation in government.

Folks moving to rural areas

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A migration of people from cities back to rural areas has continued into the mid-1970s and shows no sign of letting up soon, according to the Agriculture Department.

Calvin Beale, a demographer in USDA's Economic Research Service, said that the latest census figures show the reversal of people moving back to the countryside has continued through 1975.

A major economic factor has been that employment has increased faster in rural counties than in urban ones, Beale said. Further, about one-half the migration has been to so-called "retirement counties" which had a population gain of 14.5 per cent, triple the national average, in recent years.

Other factors listed as reasons for moving to rural areas included: problems of big cities, such as crime, drugs, pollution, racial conflict, school troubles and finances; the high cost of city housing; a continuing growth in the number of retired people; and preferences for more space and cleaner air.

Beale said that while the urban-to-rural trend is likely to continue at least into the 1980s, "its length and extent are hard to predict."

The Agriculture Department said Monday that the payments amount to $1.70 per 100 pounds of rice produced in 1976 on allotted acres. The payments are authorized under a 1975 law which set up a new rice program.

Corn Belt land prices show 33 per cent jump

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of farm land in the five major Corn Belt states rose an average of 33 per cent last year, including a record-yielding 41 per cent jump in Illinois, according to the Agriculture Department.

Officials said that the average value increase for land in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri was the most since USDA began keeping such records in 1912.

The report, issued Monday by the department's Economic Research Service, said Illinois' 41 per cent gain raised the value of its farm land to an average of $1,497 an acre last Nov. 1, compared with $1,184 a year earlier.

It said the gain in Illinois farm land value — measured by surveys of sales prices and other information — matched a record 41 per cent jump set in 1920 for South Carolina land.

Looking at the five Corn Belt states as a group, officials said that "farm enlargement was most important" in assessing why prices spiraled so sharply. But scarcity of land for sale, crop and livestock prices, investment in land as a hedge against inflation, and availability of credit were also factors.

more this year but gave no predictions of increases by specific states. By region and state, the report's list of average farm land values as of last Nov. 1 and the percentage increase from a year earlier included:

stimulate an increase in feedlot placements. Feeder cattle prices should also improve as the fed cattle outlook brightens.

Office in the Courthouse Annex. Also information on pruning is available as this is another timely job around the homestead.

USDA reports that stacks of wheat in all positions at 48 million metric tons, an increase of 28 per cent above a year earlier. Stacks of the four feed grains (corn, oats, barley, and sorghum) totaled 148 million metric tons, 7 per cent above Jan. 1, 1976 holdings.

Increases from a year earlier for individual feed grains were 9 per cent for corn, and 3 per cent for sorghum. Barley declined 1 per cent and oats by 16 per cent.
