

McGovern Hopes To Score Big Win In Today's New York Primary

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern hopes to win 200 more delegates over scattered opposition today in a New York primary that could give him nearly half the remaining votes he needs to capture the Democratic presidential nomination.

With 41 of his delegates unopposed and many others facing only token opposition, including some organization rivals that would back him also, McGovern appeared certain to win a substantial majority of the 248 delegates being elected in the last of 23 presidential primaries.

The South Dakota senator said it would be a setback if he won less than 200 of New York's total of 278 delegates. The last 30 will be allocated by the Democratic state committee in the same proportion as the elected delegates.

With only a handful of other delegates yet to be selected in other states, McGovern's firstballot strength stands at 1,072.3 votes—436.7 short of the 1,509 needed to capture the nomination.

The names of presidential candidates don't appear on the ballot in New York, where voters in each of 39 congressional districts will pick delegates and alternates. They'll have to know before they go in the booth which delegates favor which candidate.

Republicans are picking 78 of their 88 delegates, with supporters of President Nixon expected to win most of them.

Besides the presidential delegate races, a number of hot congressional races are being decided. In two New York City districts, liberal incumbents have been thrown together by reapportionment. Reps. William F. Ryan and Bella Abzug in a mainly Manhattan district and Reps. Jonathan Bingham and James Scheuer in the Bronx.

In Maine, on Monday, 74-year-old Sen. Margaret Chase Smith survived her first Republican primary challenge in 18 years by defeating millionaire businessman Robert A.G. Monks, 39. She faces a stiff battle in November against Rep. William Hathaway, who easily won the Democratic nomination.

McGovern has spent most of the past week in New York, campaigning hard to prevent any loss of momentum after his June 6 victory in California that gave him that state's 271 delegates.

His supporters are running for 237 of the 248 delegate spots in all of New York's 39 congressional districts but two, one represented by Rep. Shirley Chisholm of Brooklyn, a black who is also a presidential candidate, and the one of Rep. Herman Badillo of the Bronx, the only Puerto Rican congressman.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who has more than 80 delegates on the ballot in suburban and upstate districts, made a campaign appearance in Buffalo Sunday to remind potential supporters he is still in the presidential race.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, a distant second to McGovern in the delegate race, told a Washington news conference Monday he hopes New Yorkers will vote for anti-McGovern states if they have doubts about his positions on major issues.

McGovern replied in a statement early today that Humphrey is "undermining his reputation and jeopardizing his party by the kind of misleading statements he has been making about my positions."

There are no Humphrey delegates on the New York ballot.

McGovern planned to campaign briefly on the subway today before flying to New Orleans to address the nation's mayors.

Muskie visited South Carolina and Louisiana, seeking uncommitted delegates, after Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky led 37 delegates into his camp, as had been expected.

In other political developments: —Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, often mentioned by McGovern as a possible running mate, said at a news conference in Miami Beach "I'm not interested in being the vice presidential nominee in any way and I would not accept the nomination if it were offered to me."

"The spirit and soul of all reformation is free discussion."

Child-Care Project Faces Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders pushed for passage today of a $2.9-billion child-development bill revised in an effort to meet President Nixon's objections to legislation he vetoed last year.

Debate on the measure opened Monday, but votes on amendments were put over until today.

The bill would provide funding for the largest federal day-care program in history plus many other services needed by families when the mother works.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chief sponsor, declared that more than ever the bill is a family-strengthening measure with the changes made in it since the 1971 veto.

He stressed it is totally voluntary, as was last year's version, and that it provides a wide range of services in addition to day care.

"These services are crucial to the support of the family at a time when millions of mothers are working," he said.

The Minnesota said one-third of the mothers with preschool children, about 4.5 million women, now work at full-or part-time jobs.

"As a result," he said, "there are over 5 million preschool children who need full- or part-time day-care services while their mothers are away from home."

"Yet, there are less than 700,000 spaces in licensed day-care programs to serve them."

Nixon said in vetoing the 1971 bill that it would commit "the vast moral authority of the national government to the side of communal approaches to child-rearing over against the family-centered approach."

Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., echoing that view about the new bill, told the Senate Monday that the new version would "create incentives for families to deposit a baby each day on the door steps of an institution."

The bill would provide free day care for children of poverty-level families. Those slightly above that level would have to pay small fees. Well-off families also could use the centers but would have to pay the full cost.

The care would be much more than purely custodial. It would include nutritional, educational, medical and social services.

Smith's Plans Rapped

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston today leveled the first public criticism of plans by Gov. Preston Smith and the legislative leadership to fund the 1973 state budget without new taxes.

"It really appalls me," he said of Smith's plan at a joint House-Senate committee hearing on the University of Texas system's budget request.

Several Smith appointees, meanwhile, were grilled by the Senate Nominations Committee.

The University asked for $14 million more than it was allowed in the general appropriation bill prepared by the Legislative Budget Board, which is headed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and House Speaker Rayford Price. Included in the request were funds to upgrade cancer research and treatment at the UT Medical Branch in Galveston.

"I don't think the people of Texas realize we are sitting here under some kind of injunction (Smith's) pledge not to permit any new taxes to become law and can't do anything for the University of Texas or Texas A&M or any of these other programs," Schwartz said.

He asked UT regents chairman John Peace of San Antonio if he felt UT programs, such as cancer, water and geological research, could be upgraded "on a status quo basis."

"I want us to have the greatest university in the United States," said Schwartz, explaining he counted both UT and Texas A&M—his alma mater—in the statement. "And it really hurts me to think there are a bunch of people in Texas—maybe 11 or 12 million—who think you can advance these universities and have clean water and a lot of other things, and do it without raising any money or by 'economizing.'"

Justice Dept. Orders Halt To Wiretapping

CAMP REGISTRATION—Registration for established camp at Camp Cibola, near Clarendon, is underway at the Quivira Girl Scout Council office, City Hall. Sessions will be held July 9-15, July 16-22, July 23-29, with a special 12-day session being offered for the first time July 9-22. ## Action Taken Because Of High Court Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bowing to a Supreme Court mandate, the Justice Department has ordered a halt to wiretapping in domestic security cases where no surveillance warrant was obtained beforehand.

Striking down a key part of the Nixon administration's law-enforcement program, the court ruled 8 to 0 Monday that a judge's consent is necessary before the government may eavesdrop on suspected domestic radicals.

"The price of lawful public dissent must not be a dread of submission to an unchecked surveillance power," wrote Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., a Nixon administration appointee.

Within hours, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst directed the termination of all electronic surveillance in cases involving domestic security that conflict with the court's opinion.

Kleindienst said the Internal Security Division of Justice is reviewing pending cases and will recommend whether information obtained by wiretapping should be disclosed to defendants or whether charges against the suspects should be dismissed.

The attorney general said the department will work closely with Congress in drawing new guidelines and procedures for court-approved electronic surveillance in domestic cases.

Justice Powell delivered the wiretap opinion in a case involving a White Panther accused of dynamiting a Central Intelligence Agency branch office.

Powell wrote that the Constitution requires prior judicial approval for wiretaps and that the 1968 federal Safe Streets Act did not authorize eavesdropping without such consent beforehand.

The administration argued that tapping and bugging of suspected domestic subversives is permissible under both the 4th Amendment and the 1968 law.

The decision left open the question of whether the government needs a warrant to wiretap subversive agents of foreign governments.

The wiretap case involved Lawrence Plamondon, who was charged with bombing the CIA office in Ann Arbor, Mich. Before he went to trial, he asked for the records of any surveillance of his activities. Two federal courts ruled in his favor and the government acknowledged he had been the subject of wiretapping.

Justice William H. Rehnquist, who, as a Justice Department official, helped shape the administration's wiretap arguments, did not participate in the decision.

The Supreme Court also ruled Monday that professional baseball's 50-year-old immunity from antitrust legislation should not be removed by the courts.

The court called the immunity an economic aberration but said it was unwilling to break the tradition. It said Congress, not the courts, should be the one to remove the aberration.

The 5-3 decision, delivered by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, means baseball players who do not want to play for the club that owns their contracts have only one choice—to quit the game.

Tomorrow First Day Of Summer

Despite the cool weather that lingered over Pampa shortly before noon today, tomorrow is the first day of summer—officially, that is.

And it is also the longest day for hours of sunlight.

Using figures derived from The Old Farmer's 1972 Almanac, the sun will rise in the Pampa area about 6:31 a.m. and set about 9:08 p.m. That's over 14½ hours of sunlight—14 hours, 37 minutes.

It will stay about the same for five days, until Sunday, each day growing progressively shorter by a few seconds.

Although summer seemed near yesterday, with a high of 92, a cool front entered the Panhandle late last night, blunting a heat wave that sent temperatures to 100 at Wichita Falls and 101 at Childress and Wink.

Scattered showers fell through the Panhandle this morning and were moving into the Wichita Falls and Dallas areas before noon.

Today's forecast calls for continued partly cloudy skies, with a 30 per cent chance of thunderstorms through Wednesday. High is expected to reach into the mid-80s.

Dr. Malone To Attend NEA Meet

Dr. James Malone, superintendent of the Pampa school system, left at 6 a.m. today to join his family already en route to Washington D.C. where Malone will have a prominent role in "A Salute to Education" in the nation's capitol.

The affair, set for Wednesday in the Sheraton-Park Hotel ballroom, will be attended by President and Mrs. Nixon, Vice President and Mrs. Agnew, cabinet members, supreme court justices and their wives and all members of congress.

It is being sponsored by the National Education Association as a prelude to the NEA convention at Atlantic City, N.J. Mrs. Nixon will present an award to a child representing all children who submitted entries in an art competition related to NEA activities.

Dr. Malone will introduce Texas members of congress John Tower, Bob Price, Graham Purcell and Lloyd Bentsen during the Washington program.

He will continue on to Atlantic City to participate in the convention as an NEA official. As such, his expenses are born by that organization.

Red China Closes Ports To Soviet Union Vessels

LONDON (AP) — China has closed its southern ports to Soviet ships loaded with war supplies for North Vietnam but is still allowing ships from other Communist countries to land supplies for Hanoi, authorities in touch with both Peking and Moscow reported today.

Peking's reason, according to informants putting out the Chinese line, is that the Soviets are unwilling to risk their new relationship with the United States by challenging President Nixon's mining of North Vietnam's ports.

Moscow's version, as told by diplomats from Soviet bloc countries, is that the Chinese are easing up on their support for the North Vietnamese in favor of a more flexible international policy.

The U.S. mining of North Vietnam's ports has been condemned by both Peking and Moscow as illegal interference with navigation on the high seas. Informants in touch with the Chinese say Peking considers that Moscow has the obligation to challenge the mining.

Federal Jury Probes Heroin Trafficking

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A special federal grand jury that will be in session for 18 months was scheduled to meet again today to investigate heroin trafficking in the Austin-San Antonio area.

The grand jury, empaneled here Monday, is part of a federal crackdown on narcotics. It will meet in conjunction with a probe already started by a team of law enforcement agencies.

O'Brien Files $1 Million Suit Against Council For Break-In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Committee Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, charging that the attempted break-in at his party headquarters brought the level of politics down to "gutter level," announced today the filing of a million-dollar suit against the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

O'Brien told a news conference the suit is for compensatory and punitive damages totaling $1 million. Also named in the suit was McCord Associates, a security firm headed by James W. McCord and the five men arrested Saturday night in the break-in at the Watergate Apartment complex where the Democratic national headquarters is located. McCord was one of the five arrested.

"As far as I am personally concerned," said O'Brien, "there is a clear line of direction to the Committee for the Re-election of the President and a developing clear line to the White House."

He said the break-in was a "very, very serious matter that is certainly political espionage."

"I am pleased to note that the FBI is investigating this case," said O'Brien, "but I am shocked to learn that the White House, through its official spokesman, deems unworthy of notice this blatant act of political espionage."

"And now we learn of the potential involvement of a White House special consultant who is said to specialize in delicate assignments for the President," said O'Brien.

The Washington Post reported today that a consultant to White House special counsel Charles W. Colson is listed in the address books of two of the five men arrested.

The Post said federal sources close to the investigation said the address books contain the name and home number of

Howard E. Hunt, the consultant, with the notations, "W. House" and "W.H."

Hunt worked for the Central Intelligence Agency from 1949 to 1970," the Post said. All five suspects have had links to the CIA.

The Post said that when Hunt was asked by a reporter Monday why two of the suspects had his phone number, he said "Good God!" Then, the Post said, he said "In view that the matter is under adjudication, I have no comment."

A White House official said Hunt last worked for the White House in March 29, for a regular daily consultant fee.

School Board OK's Purchase Of Equipment And Appointees

By RAY BAXTER

In regular session last night, members of the Pampa school board authorized purchase of athletic equipment, hired five staff members, promoted one and transacted routine business.

Athletic Director Ed Lehnick was authorized to accept the bids of Pampa Hardware Co. down the line making appropriate substitutions on these items on which the local firm did not bid.

In naming five new staff members, the board formally accepted the resignation of three: Bob Parks, principal at Robert E. Lee; Terry Scoggins, high school English and Larry Sherwood, high school choral music.

Parks has gone to the Canyon school system. Scoggins has joined the staff of Clarendon College and Sherwood's new post was not announced.

Hired were Mrs. Zita Marie Prater, high school English; Mickey L. Wilson, math and athletics at Robert E. Lee; John F. Waickowski, high school choral music; Karl French, social studies and athletics and the board formally recorded a decision made earlier to name Don Walker principal of Pampa High School.

In an executive session following the regular meeting, Jack Bailey, assistant to Parks at Lee, was named principal for the coming term. His assistant will be named at a later date, according to Board President Bob Carmichael.

In other business, board member John Gikas sought to kill the school free lunch program. The move came when the board undertook the annual formality of authorizing someone to receive federal commodities which are a part of the free lunch program.

Gikas cited a rise in free lunches from less than a hundred prior to the present program to more than 500 this year. It was brought out in the ensuing discussion that commodities had lowered the cost of all lunches to the school by about 40 per cent.

After it was pointed out the appointment under consideration was a formality and did not commit the board to the free lunch program if they wished to discontinue it later, the appointment was made.

After the transaction of all business, the tentative agenda for a board "work session" was disclosed. This meeting will be July 10 at Woodrow Wilson elementary school. Members were told to wear work clothes since they would be conducted on a tour of the entire plant.

Dr. James Malone, superintendent, explained that Wilson school was selected because it was representative of all conditions of the buildings throughout the system.

At the meeting, board members will be supplied with floor plans of all the buildings and apprised of the condition and the needs of each. The meeting adjourned.

U.N. Action Against Skyjacking Expected

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.N. Security Council members were reported near agreement on some action against plane hijacking as airlines resumed regular schedules today following a worldwide, one-day strike by pilots that failed to shut down most major American lines.

Spurred by the walkout that halted much or all of the air travel in more than 30 countries, Security Council members met privately for three hours Monday.

Council President Lazar Mojsov of Yugoslavia said later that there were only "a few remaining points" in a proposed statement condemning hijacking. "Probably we can agree tomorrow," he said.

The strike was called by the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations—IFALPA—to dramatize demands for tougher action against airline hijackers.

The International Civil Aviation Organization in Montreal announced it had taken steps to permit member nations to impose sanctions against countries that cooperate with hijackers and extortionists.

Heart Transplant Pioneer Testifies At Damage Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Denton Cooley, a heart transplant pioneer, will take the stand again today in a $4.5 million damage suit filed by the widow of the man who died four days after Cooley placed an artificial heart in his chest.

Monday Cooley testified he performed the world's only artificial heart operation on a human being on April 4, 1969, because he had promised his patient, Haskel Karp, that he would not let him die on the operating table.

Three days after Karp was given the artificial organ Cooley placed a human donor heart in his chest but Karp died a day later from pneumonia and kidney failure.

Karp's widow, Shirley, of Skokie, Ill., is suing Cooley, Dr. Domingo Liotta, the designer of the artificial heart, and St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital where the operation was performed.

Cooley, called as an adverse witness, said at first Karp did not want a heart transplant but later agreed to one if an operation to correct his ailing heart failed.

At that time, Cooley said, he had performed 17 heart transplant operations and worldwide, some 25 recipients of heart transplants were living.

But Cooley said donors of hearts had been falling off in Houston and he proposed to Karp that if the heart operation failed he would use the experimental artificial heart to keep him alive until a human transplant could be found.

John Holloway, an attorney for Mrs. Karp, asked Cooley if he told Karp that the artificial heart could cause damage to his body.

Cooley replied that there is always damage, even with the heart-lung machine used in open heart surgery, and that surgeon must act in the patient's best interest. "No guarantees were made at all," he said.

Karp signed a consent April 2, witnessed by his wife, Cooley said. The physician was asked what he said to Karp the night the consent form was signed.

Cooley testified that Karp had been unable to work for six months prior to the operation and could not even brush his teeth without suffering pain.

State Senate Unit To Query Appointees To Two Agencies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Senators who are unhappy with actions—or lack of action—by the Air Control Board and Parks and Wildlife Commission were ready today with some pointed questions.

Gov. Preston Smith's latest appointees to the two agencies were scheduled for hearings by the Senate Nominations Committee.

Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth said Monday he wanted to question Smith's three parks and wildlife appointees—Max Thomas, Joe K. Fulton and Robert Bursleson—about why the commission has been "dragging its feet" in buying those state parks.

Kennard made the comment at Monday's hearing on state budget proposals by the Senate Finance and House Appropriations Committee.

President Echeverria Encourages Texans To Invest In His Country

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — With typical straightforwardness, Mexican President Luis Echeverria assured Texas businessmen that it would be worth their money to invest in his country.

Some businessmen who met him during his visit here Monday reportedly expressed reservations about Mexico's political situation.

But Echeverria said afterward that he simply told them to "come to Mexico and see for themselves."

It was an often used approach as the President met with a broad spectrum of Mexican-Americans as well as the businessmen.

He invited a group of mostly Mexican-American demonstrators who picketed him over alleged "political prisoners" in Mexico to pursue the matter themselves by visiting his country and even touring the prisoners, officials said.

Echeverria met at length both with the demonstrators' spokesmen and with leaders of a new Texas Mexican-American political party, Raza Unida—"United Race."

The Raza Unida group discussed a variety of issues with him, including economic development of Mexican-American areas in Texas.

Officials said the President agreed to send Pedro de Coster, Mexico's director of industry, to Crystal City in South Texas to study the possibilities of providing technical assistance for Mexican-American efforts to establish possibly an agricultural products processing plant.

The Raza Unida Party was founded in Crystal City about two years ago and now controls the school system and city government there.

A Mexican government official said Echeverria's meeting with Texas businessmen who may be interested in investing in Mexico was well received and that the group showed a great deal of interest.

The most enthusiasm came from bankers who indicated an interest in the possibility of financing new factories and plants under the already established border development project, the official said.

Manufacturing operations are under way at several border points in the project, commonly known as the "in-bond program." It involves U.S. plants establishing on the Mexican side of the border and employing Mexican labor, with the stipulation that the products must be exported to the United States.

Economic development also was among the topics aired when Texas Gov. Preston Smith met with Echeverria early Monday before the President began a hectic day of official functions.

Smith said they discussed the Texas International Trade Office in Mexico City, the first such office established out of the state, "and how it is furthering the good relations between our two countries."

The governor also said he and President Echeverria agreed it would be a good idea to establish a committee including representatives of Mexico along with Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, to develop better working relations between Mexico and the border states. Smith said he would begin working on the project at once through the Texas Good Neighbor Commission.

President and Mrs. Echeverria arrived here Sunday night from visits in Washington, New York and Chicago and left for Los Angeles Monday afternoon on the final leg of their U.S. trip.

In San Antonio, a cheering crowd of up to 3,500 swarmed to HemisFair Plaza, site of the 1968 world fair, to welcome Echeverria as he dedicated a unique Mexican Cultural Institute.

Nixon Campaign Head In Texas Is Appointed

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Dallas Mayor Erik Jonsson will direct President Nixon's reelection campaign in Texas. Republican Party officials announced today.

Jonsson said he thought Nixon would carry Texas "by a comfortable margin."

Headquarters for the Texas Committee to Re-Elect the President will be in Austin, and Jonsson said, "We will be busy organizing right away."

Jonsson's appointment was made by former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, Nixon's national campaign director.

"The independence of the people of Texas is well known, and I predict, that independence will be in evidence this fall when tens of thousands of Democrats and independents join Texas Republicans in guaranteeing the President their 26 electoral votes," Mitchell said in a telegram to Jonsson.

Jonsson said he did not know what role former Gov. John Connally, who recently resigned as Nixon's treasury secretary, would play in the campaign.

"He is a conservative man with a strong patriotic instinct that won't be denied. If he is called on to perform any duty that fits his abilities, I am sure he would do it," Jonsson said.

With Jonsson at a capitol news conference were Mrs. Tobin Armstrong of Armstrong, Tex., co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Rep. Fred Agnich of Dallas, GOP national committeeman.

"We feel, as appears to be the case, the Democratic Party has an extremist at the top of its ticket. It will have left the middle-of-the-road Democrats of this state and they will be looking to President Nixon," Mrs. Armstrong said.

A spokesman said Mrs. Armstrong appeared to be speaking of U.S. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and asked Jonsson if he felt McGovern was an "extremist."

SINCE 1506, when they were formed by Pope Julius II, these Swiss Guards and their predecessors have been the personal guard of the Pope at the Vatican, Rome. These present-day guards stand at attention for a ceremony.

More Supermarkets Open All Night, Survey Shows

Associated Press Writer
It's getting easier to buy groceries at 3 a.m. in the United States, but harder to fill a prescription, buy a tank of gasoline or go out for a meal in the early hours.

A rising tide of supermarkets have switched in the past few months from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. hours to 24-hour operation, bucking a trend among other consumer facilities that threatens to remake America's big cities in the image of small towns that roll up the sidewalks at night.

A survey shows that while many more supermarkets are open all night, the number of all-night drug stores, gas stations and restaurants is shrinking.

And the new 24-hour operations are being opened in suburbs, not in central cities. Their trade depends on the more mobile life style and lower crime rates of suburbia.

Last year, four per cent of the 35,000 supermarkets with over $500,000 business a year were open all night, mostly on the West Coast where such operations began several years ago, according to Bill Bishop, head of research at the Super Market Institute.

But in the last six months in the Midwest and the last two months on the East Coast, the number of chains with 24-hour operations has grown so fast that no up-to-date figures are available.

Dominick's, Jewel, and Red Owl food stores in Illinois and Wisconsin are trying 24-hour operations at selected stores.

Food Fair is putting 45 of its supermarkets in Philadelphia on 24 hours. The largely suburban Pathmark chain in New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania has had 92 of its 96 supermarkets open 24 hours since May 7.

Some Safeway stores in the Washington area have gone to 24-hour operation.

Wrigley's put 14 stores in the Detroit suburbs, 5 in Ann Arbor and 5 in outlying Michigan cities on 24-hour operation June 14.

One Pathmark store on Long Island recently had enough business at 1 a.m. to keep nine checkout lanes busy.

McGovern Denounces Break-In

Associated Press Writer
Sen. George S. McGovern Monday denounced the weekend break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington by five men with wiretapping devices as shocking and a "legacy of years of snooping."

Asked whether he blamed the Republican party for the incident, McGovern said he had no evidence that would implicate the Republican party or its leaders.

One of the men arrested in the case was employed by both the GOP National Committee and a Nixon re-election committee. Both the National Committee and the re-election committee denied any involvement.

The South Dakotan, front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination spoke at a news conference in New York after canceling upstate campaign appearances for Tuesday's primary to show sympathy with the international airline pilots' strike.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, June 20, the 172nd day of 1972. There are 194 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1789, the French Revolution began.

On this date: In 1632, the English crown granted the colony of Maryland to Lord Baltimore.

In 1837, Victoria became queen of England on the death of her uncle, King William IV.

In 1863, West Virginia became the 35th state to be admitted to the Union.

In 1867, President Andrew Johnson proclaimed the treaty for the purchase of Alaska from Russia.

In 1898, the United States seized the island of Guam in the Spanish-American War.

In 1963, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to establish the so-called "hot line" communications system between Washington and Moscow.

Ten years ago: West Berlin police were digging trenches along the Berlin wall to provide added cover against gunfire from East German guards.

Five years ago: A jury in Houston, Tex., found former heavyweight boxing champion

Muhammad Ali guilty of refusing military induction and sentenced him to serve five years in prison and pay a $10,000 fine.

One year ago: A Russian space scientist who disappeared from his delegation at the Paris air show, Anatoly Fedoseyev, turned up in Britain and was granted permission to stay.

Today's birthdays: The pretender to the Spanish throne, Don Juan de Borbon, is 59. Playwright Lillian Hellman is 67.

Thought for today: Truth crushed to earth shall rise again—William Cullen Bryant, American poet and editor, 1794-1878.

Lord Brougham, a vacationing Englishman, put the Riviera on the map when a cholera epidemic forced him into a detour in 1834. His fancy was taken by a fishing village named Cannes.

Fourth Of July To Be Marked In Western Style In Red River

The Fourth of July will be celebrated in true Western style in Red River, N.M., this year, according to Red River Mayor David Stults.

New Mexico is celebrating its 50th anniversary as a state this year and special events are taking place all over the state, but the "Mountain Playground", as Red River is called, is going "all out" to re-create the days when the little mountain valley town was a mining center and the miners always came into town to celebrate "The Fourth!"

Mayor Stults said that Mitch Hanna, manager of the Red River Ski Area is in charge of the festivities. During the entire four-day celebration, anyone in town without a beard or a moustache will have to buy a button saying "I Tried" and wear it throughout the time he is there. There will be special prizes awarded for the ladies in the most authentic "old time" dresses.

"The whole town is really getting ready for this," Mitch Hanna said in a telephone interview this week.

The festivities start Saturday with a hayride and music and dancing in the streets. The evening will be climaxed by a huge bonfire.

Sunday will be highlighted by a real old-time "tug-o-war" across the Red River. Five man teams will compete in trying to pull the others into the river.

This was the kind of "play" the miners engaged in during their heyday, each group trying to prove that it was the strongest. In the old days, different mining camps up in the mountains would choose their teams before they came to town and wager heavily on their "boys".

An old-fashioned barbecue will be held Sunday night with everyone in town invited, Hanna said.

Monday will be devoted to such things as "potato sack races," a watermelon eating contest and other "games" at the Red River Community House with a street dance in the Ski Area parking lot climaxed Monday's festivities.

Tuesday the 4th is the big day. Floats and other parade units are scheduled to come from as far away as Kansas and Texas to take part in the big parade. The awards for the best beard and the best dressed lady will be presented and one of the girls who participated in the Queen contest will be crowned.

"We're really looking forward to this," Hanna said. "We know that there will be lots of people here, and we really want to show them what Red River was like 50 years ago."

Supreme Court Upholds Decision On Baseball

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday upheld a lower court decision and refused to throw out professional baseball's reserve clause.

The decision was made in the celebrated Curt Flood case on a 5-3 vote.

In its decision, the court did, however, conclude that baseball is a business engaged in interstate commerce.

The decision, delivered by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, said "if there is any inconsistency or illogic in all of this, it is an inconsistency and illogic of longstanding that is to be remedied by the Congress and not by this court."

The suit was argued in the court by former Justice Arthur J. Goldberg. He said there was no logical reason to treat baseball differently than other professional sports which have less-rigid player contracts and are subject to the antitrust laws.

Blackmun agreed that the exemption granted baseball is "an aberration" and "an exception and an anomaly." But, he said, Congress has had a long time to do something about it and the fact that it did not indicates more than "mere congressional silence and passivity."

In fact, he said, the Court has concluded that Congress has had no intention to subject baseball's reserve system to the reach of the antitrust statutes.

The target of Flood's suit was the reserve system which binds a player to the team which holds his contract. If a professional ballplayer refuses to agree to the salary offered by that team, he cannot play for any other.

Flood, backed by the players' union, brought his damage suit against baseball after the Cardinals traded him to the Philadelphia Phillies in 1969. He wanted to be made a "free agent," at liberty to play for a team of his choosing.

Flood, a former All-Star, is now out of the game and living abroad.

Dear Abby

Readers speak out on Bill's 'act'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The mother who said her son put on an act in public, slurping, giggling, crossing his eyes and falling all over the place "like a retarded person" owes the retarded an apology.

My brother is a retarded mongoloid, and he never behaved any such way. In fact, his manners are far above most normal people.

I've also visited the State Hospital for Retarded in Fort Wayne, Ind., and I've never seen anything but politeness and good manners there. YOUNG HOOSIER

DEAR ABBY: I am writing for the Comparative Religions class of Thomasville High School, Thomasville, Ga.

We held an interesting discussion on the letter from the mother whose 16-year-old son, Bill, mimicked a mentally retarded person "to make people laugh" and his father was his best audience.

Our class consists of students from the 9th thru 12th grades, and we'd like for "Bill" to know how his peers feel about his behavior.

Bill needs help. He is trying desperately to get the attention which he never received as a child. A suggested cure would be for him to work with retarded children.

And as far as Bill's father is concerned, I think we all left class with a greater appreciation of our own. A LETTER FROM GA.

DEAR ABBY: I am really angry about that teen-aged Canadian boy who acted like a nut on the street. I can't understand why his mother didn't hit him with the first thing handy.

One way to cure him would be to take him [and his father, who thought the performance was sidesplitting] on a tour of the nearest state mental hospital, including the back wards where they keep the most severely afflicted.

If that boy and his father were still laughing by the time they finished the tour, she should have them both committed. ESTHER IN OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Concerning that 16-year-old Canadian kid who put on a "retarded" act in public to get attention. My father said if that were his son he would give him a good boot in his Francis. SECOND THE MOTION IN OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Who says Americans have lost their sense of humor? The letter from the mother whose son shakes, trembles, crosses his eyes, slurps and giggles and pretends to be "retarded," and whose father thinks it is hilarious, brightened the day for me.

The mother complains that Bill puts on this act while the family watches TV, and the father, convulsed with laughter, is holding his sides.

No generation gap here! Wouldn't many a parent of a surly, long-haired lout who spends his time goodness knows where, doing heaven knows what and getting home who knows when, be glad to trade sons with Bill's parents? WALTER IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR WALTER: I'm not so sure.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to invite "Bill," that normal 16-year-old boy, to visit the school my son attends. It's a special school for mentally retarded children. I'm sure Bill could pick up a few pointers for his "act"—that is if he didn't crack up after watching these conscientious teachers work for hours, and weeks and sometimes months trying to teach a full-grown child how to button a button or tie a shoelace. South led a club to dummy and played dummy's 10 of spades. East covered with the jack. West dropped the eight and now South was in clover.

A Perfect Match

Innocence and femininity is the look of the new long sleeved silk blouses with Peter Pan collars. A perfect match for the return of the jumper dress.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South took a very jaundiced look at that six-of-diamonds lead. He could live happily with any other opening. East put up the ace and returned the deuce and left South with the problem of finding eight tricks before giving up the lead.
Four clubs were easy and so were three spades. Four spades would come right in if the jack would drop but East had opened the bidding with one spade and almost surely had five or six for the bid.
Could West actually hold the singleton jack? Possible, but unlikely. Was there any other way to score four spade tricks? An end play? Wouldn't work. There was no way to get to the end of the hand without letting the diamonds parade home.
Finally, South saw there was a way to make his con-

THE CEREMONY
Rev. A.G. Roberts, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jim, Tex., officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The couple was married before an archway trimmed with greenery and decorated with bowls filled with arrangements of white and yellow daisies and gladioli. Candelabra flanked the archway.

Miss Margie Chastain of Graham, organist, played the traditional wedding marches for the professional and recessional. Miss Elaine Phillips of Memphis sang "A Time For Us," "Love Story," and "The Wedding Song."

THE BRIDE
The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Johnny Day of McLean, with a "her mother and father" avowal. She wore a floor-length gown of miramist over bridal satin. The fitted lace bodice featured a Mandarin collar and full sheer sleeves caught at the wrists in deep cuffs that were closed with satin shoe-buttons. The full skirt, edged with a band of scalloped lace, was styled with a detachable chapel train, also edged with scalloped lace. The gown was designed by the bride.

Her fingertip veil of illusion, edged with scalloped lace, fell from a lace coil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and yellow daisies, gladioli tips and stasis, over a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS
Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Virginia Day, sister of the bride. She wore a floor-length, mint-green crepe gown, styled with an empire waistline, accented with white scalloped lace that was laced with green velvet ribbon. Her headpiece was a white picture hat, highlighted with lace and mint-green streamers. She carried a single, long-stemmed yellow rose accented with green ribbon.

Miss Lawausa Ring of Lefors, Mrs. Gloria Meyers of McLean and Miss Mary Beth Krienkie of Follett were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length yellow crepe dresses styled like that of the maid of honor, and each carried a single, long-stemmed yellow rose, accented with yellow ribbon.

Melissa Harris of Lefors, flower girl, wore a mint-green dress and carried a small bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Rickey Withers, brother of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. He carried a white satin pillow to which the rings were attached by white satin ribbon.

Tommy Wells of Lefors served as best man, and groomsmen were Jerry Withers, brother of the bridegroom, and Richard Harkcom, both of Lefors, and Pat Ward of El Paso.

Serving as ushers were Reuben Day, brother of the bride, Mike Withers, brother of the bridegroom, and Mike Crain, all of Lefors.

RECEPTION
For the reception in the garden of the bride's grandparents, the serving table was covered with a white satin cloth, centered with an arrangement of white and yellow daisies and gladioli. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an archway.

Miss Poxon of Lefors presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Paula Beck served the cake. Guests were registered by Miss Sandra Cain.

For the wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a yellow knit dress. Her corsage was of white and yellow daisies.

The couple will reside in Kempner, Tex.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride, a graduate of Lefors High School, attended Clarendon Junior College. The bridegroom, serving with the Army, just completed his basic training at Fort Polk, La., and is stationed at Fort Hood for his AIT training.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
Pre-nuptial events included a lingerie shower by friends at Clarendon Junior College, and a miscellaneous shower in Lefors. The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held in Central Park, Pampa.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS
Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Gray of Odessa, Mrs. Barbara Harper

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE CLAYTON WITHERS and children of Velma, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, and Bonnie of Clarendon; Mrs. Elmer Day, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Day, and sons, all of McLean; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chastain of Graham; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Krienkie of Follett; Mrs. Margaret West of Groom; and Jimmy Tarbox of Higgins.

Family Picnic Fetes Sister

Mrs. Blanche Moran of Keene, N.H., was honored with a family picnic at Central Park by her brothers and sisters, Mrs. Helen Lunsford, Mrs. Kate Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Lynus Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Anderson, all of Pampa, and Mrs. Ruby Mitchell of Plainview.

Attending from Pampa were Verlene Ward; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stout, Stephen, Danny and Karla; Mrs. Nona Cole; Mr. and Mrs. Don Cole; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maul, and Matthew; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Anderson, David and Shelly.

Out-of-town guests were Pauline Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Armstrong, all of Lubbock; Mrs. Wiletta McKibbin and Kim of Lovington, N.M.; Karan McDade, Mr. and Mrs. Dee McDade, and Mr. and Mrs. Turner McDade, all of Widorado; Mr. and Mrs. Gary McDade, and Amy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evers, Jan, Sherri, Becky and Sarah, all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ward, and Philip, of Eules; Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Baker of Denver City; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sims of Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lohburger of Briscoe; and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbor Sims of Mobeetie.

THE BOSTON SEASON
BOSTON (AP) — The Opera Company of Boston will open its next season in January, with five productions, all of them new.

The season will open with Smetana's "The Bartered Bride." It will close in May with the double bill of Stravinsky's "The Flood" and Kurt Weill's "The Rise and Fall of the City of Mahagonny."

Also, Beverly Sills will sing Rosina in "The Barber of Seville." It is a role she has not previously sung on a stage. The company also will do "Don Carlo."

The only one of these previously performed by this company is "The Barber of Seville," which was done in January 1959 and February 1963.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY:
Summer solstice comes today at 3:06 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time. Those born earlier are Gemini, those born later are Cancerians. In other years the hour and minute are different, for astronomical reasons. For all born on this date the coming year promises excitement, fresh beginnings, intense emotional fulfillment.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Mend your fences as you go on with career effort. Opportunity is at hand; the idea is to recognize it and make full use of it.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You may have to move about and exert yourself. If you do this with good intentions, cooperation and cheerfulness are promised.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Working conditions are ready for more precise definition. There may be interesting developments in an old story—even a windfall of sorts.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Healthy self-interest includes some impulse buying, attention to your public image. You can unload a white elephant, if that's the problem.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Look back and see if you have missed anything. Get your background information together. Health-care courses are favored.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: An early start in high humor brings you a reasonable day. You get out of it what you put into it, by and large. Be forthright.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Financial moves yield less than promised, may be merely deferred. Pooled resources include consensus, agreement on what to do next.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A brief stroke of moderate luck shouldn't be inflated, but does come in handy. Getting off to one side relieves tensions.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: For once you find yourself going nowhere. Visit shut-in friends, work alone on difficult chores which must be done anyway.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Tending routine becomes difficult, is eased by sharing the work, taking a break for celebration of a special moment.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Dealing with strangers, fresh connections, people of influence in your own fields of interest is indicated. New ground awaits exploration.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be receptive to new friends, meet experience you've not had yet. Today helps determine future directions in your life.

Palo Duro Canyon History Is Exciting

CANYON—When famed cattle baron Charles Goodnight brought his herd over a little rise in the Texas Panhandle in the 1870s, he almost had a stampede on his hands.

The cattle were suddenly confronted by Palo Duro Canyon, and they panicked. In fact, the mules pulling the chuck wagon were so frightened that they nearly dumped the entire wagon, cook and all, into the 1,000-foot canyon.

Palo Duro Canyon, located 12 miles east of the City of Canyon, is indeed a spectacular site to behold after crossing mile after mile of the monotonous rolling plains of the Texas Panhandle. The canyon is 120 miles long and is 40 miles wide at its mouth. Because of the canyon breathtaking scenery and its colorful history, more than 15,000 acres of it have been made into a state park.

The canyon has been in the making for 90 million years through the action of wind and water on rock. At least four geologic ages or eras are exposed by the canyon's eroded formations.

"Palo Duro," a Spanish term meaning "hard wood," refers to the canyon's supply of strong cedar ("juniper") brush from which the Indians made their arrows.

Probably the first European to visit Palo Duro Canyon was Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, who is generally believed to have been in the canyon in 1541.

The canyon was one of the last strongholds of the warlike Great Plains Indians until after 1874 when General Ranald

MacKenzie defeated a large force of marauding Comanche Indians in the canyon, making it safe for permanent Anglo-American settlement.

The first rancher in Palo Duro Canyon was Goodnight, who, in partnership with John Adair of England, started the first cattle ranch in the canyon as well as the first ranch in the Texas Panhandle, the famous JA Ranch which is still in operation in part of the canyon.

The extraordinary terrain of the canyon is reason enough to visit Palo Duro Canyon State Park. It is, after all, a geological wonder.

But there is also a man-made attraction which has drawn visitors from all over the world. It is the outdoor stage production "Texas," a musical drama depicting the early settlement of the canyon area.

"Texas" is held in an outdoor amphitheater of natural stone. It is a drama of man's struggle with the elements while trying to settle the untamed portions of central and northern Texas. Since its beginning in 1961, success of the drama has been as spectacular as the country and history on which the story is based.

Pulitzer Prize winner Paul Green wrote the script, and the music was scored by Hollywood composer Isaac Van Grove. Some of the cast are students, some are housewives and many of the feature performers have professional backgrounds.

Lights playing against rugged canyon walls and special sound effects are used to heighten the drama's excitement. On stage a panorama of Panhandle history unfolds as settlers, cowboys and Indians play out the day-to-day conflicts of that colorful era. "A prairie fire rages and the settlers struggle against searing winds, dust storms and blizzards. Simple pleasures, such as hoochies and 'plum pickens,' brighten the hard existence."

TOP O' TEXAS HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

The Top O' Texas Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Don Tinney for a program on home decorating, presented by Don Tinney.

During the business session, it was decided to meet just once a month during the summer, the second Thursday of each month.

It was announced officers will be installed at 7 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Pat Kirkendall, 325 Jean.

Mrs. Linda Hutton was welcomed as a new member. Guests were Mrs. Shirley

Barker, Melba Musgrave, and Sherry Jackson.

Members present were Mmes. Don Tinney, Pat Kirkendall, Don Holt, Gerald Rasco, Bill Norris, James Kirkwood, Calvin Barbaree, Donald Bigham, Jerry LeBow and Jerry Blakemore.

Versatile Smock

The French have come out with a smock that gets an A-plus for versatility. Worn alone, the smock looks like a little-girl dress complete with back buttons and sash. But the cotton smock, printed with dollar trees, looks great over a long sleeved sweater and pants.

Quotable Quotes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

Bella Abzug, fighting for her seat in Congress, when asked what would be her future if she loses: "I have to tell you that my father had a meat market, and one of the customs was plucking one chicken at a time. I have not made any decisions for the next chicken."

Kathy Gower, 21, of Dayton, Ohio, in exile in Montreal with her husband who fled the draft: "The only thing I miss is Peter Pan peanut butter. It's scary to have a husband. It's such a responsibility. In our situation, it's a case of two people liking each other more than they love each other."

Joan Baez, folk singer, in an interview: "For me revolution means change, but the one change that the human race hasn't gotten itself together to make is recognizing the sanctity of life... inside this country you're not allowed to murder. Overseas it is yes—yes plus medals. It seems we could be capable of changing that..."

Shirley Chisholm, running for the Democratic nomination for president: "To the nation's leaders it seems more important to kill the Vietnamese than it is to house Americans."

Stephanie Allan, aide to Angela Davis, explaining why the black militant cut short a planned nationwide tour: "The reason is very simple. We don't have much of Angela Davis left and we've got to keep what we have... She's literally out on her feet."

Mrs. Donna McClung, 19, of Rapid City, a bride of six months, who fought her way out of the ravaging flood waters that swept over her trailer home and helped save a 6-year-old boy from next door: "God, I'm so thankful I don't have any little kids or anything... Before I go back to work I just want to get some of the mud out of my house. It's all we have."

Designer Vera Maxwell, showing her fall collection in New York: "I like long dresses during the day. If women have bad legs, they can wear them all the time."

Polly's Pointers

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with shoe manufacturers who make shoes with fancy ties, often odd lengths, but do not provide the stores with extra ties. These laces are usually so vital to the good looks of the shoes that when they break the shoes have lost their style.

—NANCY
DEAR POLLY—First I want to thank you for the many helpful hints I have found in the column and then used to make my life easier.

I want to tell Irene who complained about changing typewriter ribbons that I use a pair of disposable rubber surgical gloves when changing my ribbon and then wash the gloves on my hands with full strength dish detergent.

—ALMA
DEAR POLLY—As I do secretarial work Irene's complaint about changing typewriter ribbons being such a messy job caught my eye. Irene must be using an obsolete typewriter because I change my ribbon quite frequently and do not mind a bit. Mine has the ribbon in a cartridge so all to be done is destroy the old cartridge and slip the new one on and with no mess and it is done in a couple of minutes. Irene, the inventors really have been at work.

—CAROL
POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY—I have a new sweater made of 100 per cent virgin acrylic fibers (Japan) that has a strong odor resembling that of a wet dog that has just had a bath. I have washed it in that well-known cold water solution for wool and the odor was very strong while the sweater was wet and remained after it was dry. Any suggestions will be gratefully received.

—NADINE
Ruffles and bows and buttons... right from the toddler's design comes the pinafore. Short or long, in gingham, denim, cotton prints or plaid taffeta, pinafores can be worn over the hostess gowns, bathing suits or with just a body stocking.

DEAR POLLY—As a safety feature the new walker-jumpers for babies have a plastic sleeve over the spring mechanism to keep little fingers from being pinched. I have the older type without these sleeves so I unscrewed the springs and covered them with cardboard tubes such as those from waxed paper, foil, etc. and then replaced the springs. If such springs could not be removed the tubes could be cut up one side placed around the springs and then taped in place. Some tubes may have to be cut to fit the length of the springs.

—MRS. R.L.W.
DEAR POLLY—My husband is in the construction business and has to meet the public daily so he does not like to wear patched jeans. When his pants show the first sign of wear I cut a patch from the back part of the leg of a wornout pair and sew it inside the front leg. When the patched pair wears out I feel I have really gotten my money's worth. A dollar saved is like four or five bucks earned.

Pampa Parts And Supply Ready To Help In Repairs

It doesn't matter what kind of car you have, whether it is big and beautiful or small and economical, it is going to have some kind of trouble.

That is a simple fact. So why burden yourself with a sky-high parts bill when Pampa Parts and Supply Co., Inc., is in town.

Pampa Parts has parts for your car if it is major engine problems that plague you or just a rough windshield wiper blade.

A small sample of the products at Pampa Parts include Monroe shocks, Delco batteries and products, Fram and AC oil filters, Black Hawk tools, Black and Decker tools, Gates hoses and belts, AC, Autolite and Champion plugs and Victor seals and gaskets.

They have parts for most foreign cars in addition to all American-made autos.

Added to their new parts, they have rebuilt under brand names of Texas Rebuilt.

Grayrock and Borge Warner. These rebuilt parts include brake shoes and clutch plates.

If Pampa Parts doesn't have what you need in stock, they can special order it for you and have it in a short period of time.

The do-it-yourself mechanics who have saving money in mind should drop by Pampa Parts and Supply at 525 W. Brown and get a helping hand from Winford Swain, owner, and Ronnie Patton partsman.

Price No Object For EPA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discarding its old use-your-own-judgment approach, the Environmental Protection Agency now says all industries will be required to apply whatever technology is broadly used, regardless of the cost, to control water pollution.

A "best practicable" yardstick will become a nationwide bare-minimum requirement says John R. Quarles Jr., EPA assistant administrator for enforcement.

Where water-quality standards demand more money, time and effort to control pollution, they will be applied, Quarles said.

Quarles explained the EPA's new, unpublicized policy in an interview after The Associated Press obtained a copy of a letter he sent last May 25 to state antipollution officials.

He also disclosed that EPA is making a new attempt to give its regional officers clear instructions how to set discharge limits for each major category of industry.

EPA's first attempt at this collapsed last summer after The Associated Press disclosed that guidelines then in preparation were to be based on secret company-supplied information.

This time, Quarles said, when pollution abatement requirements hinge upon information on company production, "that information will be made public."

Instructions covering some industries have already gone out to regional EPA chiefs, he said.

EPA is currently awaiting action by Congress or a federal appeals court to let it begin issuing industrial discharge permits—the administration's chosen over-all method of controlling water pollution.

The program was stalled last December by a court decision requiring an environmental impact study for each of 20,000 proposed permits.

Asked to explain the "best practical control" concept, Quarles said he meant technology of demonstrated reliability, whose cost is low enough for general use.

Adoption of this policy, along with the instructions now being drafted, would give regional officials a clearer target in writing the thousands of industrial discharge permits, he said.

FRAUD GOES REMOTE
 MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — Police in the remote mountain kingdom of Swaziland have found it necessary to organize a Fraud and Vice Squad.

HEY, CULLIGAN MAN—Getting tired of dingy clothes and films on dishes and spotted silverware? Soft water by Culligan Water Conditioning could help you to get rid of all those problems. Among the men ready to help you obtain soft water locally are John Cox, left, and Clifford Pulse. For your own needs call the Culligan men at 665-5729.

Softened Water Is Alternate For Detergent Phosphate Use

"Some Suggested Solutions to Pollution", from a speech by Max E. Fuller, director of field education for Maytag Company.

Softened water not only provides better results in laundering and dishwashing, but also offers a valid and effective alternative to the use of phosphates in detergents.

In 85 per cent of the United States, water supply ranges from hard to very hard. And even with the water softening plants in many communities, 65 per cent of the households in the United States are using water that ranges from "medium" to "hard."

Now soap reacts with hardness minerals to form soap curd. This curd is visible. It clings to fabrics. It deposits on dishes and glasses and silverware. If this curd remains on fabrics, they look dirty or dingy. If it remains on dishes, it causes what is known as filming or spotting.

An often suggested solution to eutrophication (fertilization) of lakes and streams by nutrient phosphates is to return to the use of soaps.

There is no reason why clothes washers in use today cannot be used with natural soap provided both the hot and cold water supplies are truly soft, and that means less than three grains per gallon hardness.

LABOR ADDS TO COST
 NEW YORK (AP) — It is the cost of labor rather than the cost of hair that determines the price of a wig, says wig designer Richard Hartwich.

The finest wigs are made by hand and it takes an experienced worker about one week to crochet and hand knot 135,000 hairs that usually go into a fine wig.

The Hebrew name of Jacob means "supplanter; follower."

A precipitating water softener like Borax or washing soda will not work effectively in an automatic washer.

The reason is that a precipitating water softener precipitates hardness minerals right out of the water in the wash tub and they join with soap to form a curd and this soap curd gets on the fabrics just exactly the same way they would if you started with hard water in the first place.

The laundering results when using soap and washing soda or Borax are not acceptable to most homemakers.

A non-precipitating water softener added to the automatic washer (two of the national brand names are Calgon and Spring-Rain) contains phosphates to approximately the same degree as the detergents currently in use.

So while they work, it is obvious that softening the water in the appliance with these products will not solve the problem that is concerning so many people about our environment.

In those communities where there is a municipal water softening plant, the water supply usually comes out of the tap at from five to eight grains per gallon hardness, and this is too hard to permit the use of soap in an automatic washer.

So the only way to insure water of zero to three grains per gallon hardness for laundry purposes is to install a water softener in the home, making certain that it is connected to both hot and cold water lines, because both of these are used in the laundering process.

This suggestion is an almost perfect solution if we are talking about individual cases.

For if you install, buy or lease a water softener and put it in your home and operate it properly, and if you go down to the grocery store and buy some regular soap, you can achieve satisfactory laundering results in your home without adding one single bit of phosphate to the environment from laundering.

It is not necessary to redesign current automatic washers, for natural soap products can be used if truly soft hot and cold water is available.

To summarize, it is possible to use washing machines currently in the home with soap, if soft water is available.

In those homes where soft water is available, the homemaker can make a choice. If she decides to use soap instead of detergent, she can help solve our environmental problem by eliminating her detergent phosphates from the wash water.

For any of your local water problems, call 665-5729 and say, "Hey, Culligan Man!" or drop by at 314 S. Starkweather.

Space Shuttle Transportation System To Involve Texas Companies, Workers

DOWNEY, Calif. —Development of a space shuttle transportation system, the world's first reusable earth orbiting spacecraft, is a nationwide project which will involve Texas companies and workers during the program's six years of research, development and test.

This is the report of Stephen H. Nelson, director of material at the Space Division of North American Rockwell. The California company is one of four under consideration by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as a prime contractor for the shuttle program.

Nelson, in contact with both of Texas' U.S. Senators and the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, also reported that five Texas firms have already been sent proposal requests as possible participants in major subcontract efforts on the Shuttle.

This represents, Nelson notes, only some of the "long lead time requirements, as we are deeply involved in the process of determining what the total potential for subcontract work will be, taking into account labor surplus areas and small and minority-owned businesses throughout the country."

The preliminary survey of subcontractors available in Texas was first undertaken last year by the Space Division, and the results are included in its competitive proposal submitted to NASA in mid-May. Nelson also mentioned that actual subcontract awards will be dependent upon the competitive selection of the major contractor and subsequent approval by NASA.

Nelson estimates that in addition to these major subcontracts, a total of approximately $500 million will be subcontracted throughout the nation for less complex systems, on a competitive bid basis.

About the shuttle, Nelson points out that the Orbiter is actually a space "carrier" which will work like a well managed trucking operation. Its purpose is to take satellites, laboratories and scientists into earth orbit on a routine basis where they can perform research, data collection and a myriad of other duties which will make it possible to manage our earth's resources and problems.

"The shuttle," he said, "can carry up to 65,000 pounds of cargo in earth orbit, and one shuttle Orbiter can make up to five hundred round trips. Such reusability reduces the cost of space flight by a factor of 10."

The space shuttle program was announced by President Nixon last January as a major objective for America's space activity in the 1970-80 time period.

Subsequently, Congress has approved development of the shuttle program in passage of the fiscal year 1973 NASA authorization bill.

Nelson, in a letter to the Texas Senators, explained that NR's Space Division, as a principle contractor on the Apollo-Saturn Lunar Landing Program, awarded more than $21,466,000 in subcontracts to Texas firms, more than two-thirds of which were to small businesses.

One of the nation's aerospace leaders, North American Rockwell also is a major manufacturer in the automotive, electronics and industrial products markets. It has strengths in research, development and systems engineering, and has a growing position in a number of emerging industries and in international markets.

IN THE SUMMERTIME—Lawn mowing time is now with us, and lawn mowers sometimes get more than they can chew, cut and handle. Radcliff Electric Company makes a specialty of repairing lawn mowers. If rejuvenation of your mower includes a new engine, check with Glenn T. Radcliff. He has a complete line of replacement engines in stock. (STAFF PHOTO)

Radcliff Electric Specializes In Repairing Lawn Mowers

The household head who plans to save a little money by mowing the lawn himself can get awfully frustrated when he finds that his Acme Super-Duper Rotary doesn't click.

The frustration can be shortlived, however, if he will stick it in his car trunk and take it to Radcliff Electric Co. at 519 S. Cuyler, where lawn mower repair service is unequalled in the Top O' Texas area.

All makes of lawn mowers are serviced and repaired at Radcliff's, including Briggs and Stratton, Lawson, Tecumseh, Wisconsin and Cooper mowers.

Perhaps you got a good deal on a lawn mower in a garage sale two or three years ago. It's returned its investment twice already and is getting a little tired. Do not go to another garage sale. Buy a new engine at Radcliff's and have it running like new.

It's a great way to beat inflation. Radcliff's services are not limited to lawn mowers. The business also repairs all makes of magnetos, in addition to repairing and installing electronic ignition systems.

Complete diesel injection service is offered by Radcliff's, where they specialize in Rossmaster and American Bosch diesel units. Radcliff Electric also services Robert Bosch and CAV pumps and can service any pump for John Deere, International Case, Minneapolis Moline, Oliver or Ford tractors.

Small engine repair service also extends to centrifugal water pumps and chain saws and a complete line of Homelite chain saws along with Cooper, and Lawn Boy lawn mowers are in stock at Radcliff's.

If you can't afford to not have your mower running, check with Radcliff Electric at 519 S. Cuyler or call 669-3395.

Dealership Set For Autocycles

DALLAS (AP) — A dealership is being set up here in July for the distribution and sale of French-built, Solex autocycles through 44 of the nation's 50 states, it was announced Monday.

More than seven million of the cycles, which have a two-cycle gasoline engine to take over when the rider tires, have been sold in Europe. Five are already in Dallas for demonstration purposes and a first consignment of 200 has been ordered by one large Dallas department store.

Nick Zelios, who heads Sol-U.S. Imports Inc., the new distributorship, says the machines will be imported from Velo-Solex of Paris.

"With the economy and the ecology kick we're on, it should sell very well here," Zelios said. In Texas, the machines must be registered as motor bikes, he said, but the rider does not have to wear a motorcyclist's helmet.

CIIB Offers Suggestions On Happy Vacation Trips

With the peak summertime vacation season rapidly approaching, now is the time to begin making plans for its success, according to Joe Fischer, president of the Pampa Association of Independent Agents.

The automobile figures in the vacation plans of most Americans. The following suggestions for safer, happier vacation trips are offered by the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau, sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents and the Pampa Association:

Adjust the distance to be traveled according to the period of time available. A shorter trip, allowing for frequent stops and sightseeing, is more fun for everyone.

Consult a reliable touring service for the best routes. Many oil companies provide this service free. They can also offer directions for scenic or direct routes and indicate hotels, motels and camping sites along the way.

State tourist bureaus, located in the capital cities of nearly every state, can provide valuable information for making vacation plans.

Keep your car in top operating condition. Pay special attention to tires and brakes and check wheel alignment and balance. High speed driving builds up heat and takes its toll in tire wear.

If renting an automobile, make sure it is equipped for the type of country and climate you will be visiting.

Plan what you will take along. Overloading the car means extra wear and tear as well as low gas mileage. Wash and wear and permanent press clothing is preferable. Even the smallest towns have coin operated laundromats where laundry can be done quickly.

Make room reservations in advance. It's also a good idea to reserve camping sites wherever possible.

Don't carry large amounts of cash. Travelers checks are readily available and accepted, and are refunded if lost. Credit cards, including most oil company cards, can be used for rooms and meals.

Always lock your car and never leave valuables unattended in it.

Check with your independent insurance agent to make sure that your coverage meets the minimum financial responsibility requirements of other states you will be visiting. Also, if planning to visit Canada or Mexico, you will need special insurance consideration.

Above all, drive carefully, observe the basics of highway safety and use seat belts.

Diary Of PHS Students On Europe Choir Tour

Editor's Note: The following is the second report of a group of Pampa students touring Europe with the Nimitz High School Choroale of Irving. The Pampa students are Monte Bryan, John Fitzgerald, Debbie Norton and Carol Rose. The report is taken from several letters by Miss Rose to her family.

By CAROL ROSE
Thursday, June 8

Wow! I think someone had better pinch me to see if I'm dreaming all this.

The first few days I didn't have any fun. I didn't like New York, and the plane ride was so tiring. By the time we got to the city, we had already missed a full night's rest, and then we had to go all day again.

But now, oh I love it.

We stayed in Freiburg, Germany, last night and then today we came to Switzerland. We got into some of the Alps, and they are so beautiful. We ate lunch in Lucern today and shopped some.

We came on to Sarnen and went to our homes. The people we are staying with are so rich. Their home is just beautiful and so are they. Right outside their house is a lake and, of course, the Alps.

You just can't believe the beauty. I only wish you could be here to share it. I'm trying my best to take in everything I can. I can never express in words how much I have learned already from the experiences and how grateful I am for it.

Believe me, this one day in this one place has made it all worthwhile. The people in Switzerland are so kind. I think it is supposed to be one of the most peaceful countries in the world because it's neutral.

They never lock their cars because it just never happens that someone breaks into one. They never hear of rape or murder. It is just unreal.

Our concert was at 8:30 tonight and the audience was so great. They appreciate music over here. We did four encores. Then they had a big celebration for us.

Saturday, June 10

Today we got to Rome. It is really great.

This afternoon we toured the Coliseum, the Forum and Vatican City. It was just so weird to stand in a place where you know Julius Caesar once stood and to see things that were built before Christ. In the morning we are going to mass at St. Peter's Cathedral.

The tour was really fabulous. All those things you see in books is just like it looks, except pictures just aren't like being there.

We went to St. Peter's Cathedral this afternoon and it is out of this world. I really loved it. We didn't go into the Sixtine Chapel because we're going to do that Monday.

So far Switzerland has been the highlight of my trip. I think if there is a perfect place in the whole world to live, Switzerland is it. It is so beautiful and so peaceful.

Italy is so different from Switzerland. In Switzerland they don't even lock their houses, and in Italy you can't even talk to anyone without being afraid of them picking your pockets. These Italian people are weird. Especially the men.

Listen, anything you ever hear about Italians trying to be Romeos, believe it. Today every time I bought something, the man would ask me for a kiss. Men go around all the time pinching girls. Its really pretty funny.

I saw my first opera tonight. It was a comedy by the name of "Don Pasquale." It was really so neat, but so long.

Sunday, June 11

This morning we got up and went to St. Peter's Square to hear the Pope give his blessings. He gave them from his bedroom window. Isn't that strange?

Then after lunch we had the whole afternoon free.

Tonight we had another concert. It went a lot better than the last one, but the people weren't nearly as receptive. I'm going to be a lot more sure of my music now. It sure makes the trip better since I'm finally knowing my music.

Editor's Note: The choir was in Veinna over the weekend performing at the Renaissance Symposium, sponsored by the Council of Intercultural Relations and the American Choral Directors Association.

While in Italy the group also visited Florence, Venice and Ferrara. Other places on the tour include Salzburg, Austria; Munich, Bad Wiessee and Stuttgart, Germany; Metz, France, and Luxembourg. The group is due to return to New York on June 27.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Tad belongs to YAF, which has almost 100,000 dedicated members. Their zeal beats that of the young communists in Red China and Russia! So help them by giving a copy of the booklet named below, to every new young voter!

CASE U-514: Tad J., aged 19, belongs to the YAF.

YAF means "Young Americans for Freedom."

It has over 800 college and high school chapters throughout the U.S.A.

And its members are courageous patriots, dedicated to the preservation of our Republic, with its "free enterprise" system.

The most radical Communists don't beat them in zeal!

"Dr. Crane," Tad began, "we oppose playing footsie with Russia and other countries that are committed to the destruction of this Republic."

"For instance, U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT recently stated that Russia kept furnishing 350 new vehicles EVERY MONTH to North Vietnam!"

"These were obviously used to help kill and maim our American boys who were sent over there to preserve the independence of South Vietnam."

"Now, alas, Russia has asked us to come to her support and help her build a $2.5 BILLION truck factory!"

"But our YAF chapters opposed this."

"For that factory could easily be converted into making tanks and other war vehicles, in case Russia attacked us."

"So why should we be so naive as to aid the enemy?"

PRINT WEAPONRY

Newspapers have widely spread the story of the YAF.

And newspapers are the major protection of America!

"Men wearing rapiers," said Shakespeare, "are afraid of goose quills."

Which was the basis for the adage:

"The pen is mightier than the sword."

Remember, despite our tremendous military might, newspapers are the best protection for this Republic.

For newspapers ferret out the schemes of would-be tyrants, of whom there are many right here in modern America.

Hitler took over the newspapers before he could rule Germany.

For psychology, as represented by public opinion, is more vital than military hardware.

"Morale," stated Marshal Foch in World War I, "is more important than munitions!"

And morale is based on word-of-mouth talk-up, fostered by independent newspapers!

In fact, psychology is even basic to the stock market and our currency, for depressions are based on fear!

The same tangible assets are present in depression years as in boom years! So emotional produces panic!

And it is "faith" in our currency that makes a $10 bill buy eggs, bread and other merchandise.

For that $10 bill is a worthless slip of paper unless we have "faith" in its value. Its intrinsic worth is nil!

So "value" depends upon our mental outlook!

So does morale and even military might.

"It's not the size of the dog in the fight," runs a truism, "but of the fight in the dog that really counts!"

TV newscasters can "slant" stories and propagandize our nation by their brief, ephemeral words against our ears.

But newspapers run columns on BOTH sides and put those rival arguments into permanent ink form, where we can read and reread them till we sift the truth from the propaganda.

So back our youth and give all young voters a copy of the "Common Fallacies in Logic and Political Tricks," enclosing a long, stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott Indiana 47958, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope, and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Top Cowboy To Take Part In Amarillo Rodeo

AMARILLO — America's top cowboys are expected here to compete for one of the largest purses of prize money in the 30-year history of Will Rogers Range Rider Rodeos when the first go-round gets under way on July 1 at the Range Rider Arena west of Amarillo.

Rodeo chairman Cliff Lowrance reports inquiries about the forth-coming rodeo from not only Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, Wyoming and California, but even as far away as Australia.

"L.D. Ward's top rodeo stock and the excellent performances of the most colorful cowboys in the country have made this annual rodeo an Independence weekend tradition," Lowrance said.

The Will Rogers Range Riders have also joined with the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce to sponsor an Honor America Day Parade at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 1, in the downtown area.

Riding clubs competing for first, second and third place trophies will join with floats, marching units, elected officials and political hopefuls to ride a parade route starting at 12th and Polk Streets. The parade will follow Polk north to 4th and then proceed east to the Amarillo Civic Center.

Inasmuch as the President has declared June 14 through July 4 as National Flag Days, it is hoped a sea of American Flags will greet the participants as they pass.

"This parade will be highly publicized and pictures of the parade will be sent to our President and Representatives in Congress in an extra effort to promote the Golden Spread as a choice example of patriotism alive in our country today," Lowrance said.

Weekend festivities, in addition to the parade and rodeo, which will run Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 1 through July 4, nightly at 8:30 p.m.; a rodeo queen contest will be held during the afternoon on July 1, at 2 p.m. in the Range Rider Arena for girls 15 through 19.

Supreme Court Rules Against Curt Flood's Suit

For the third time in 50 years, the U.S. Supreme Court has refused to overturn baseball's unique status as the only sport exempt from antitrust laws.

The highest court in the land thus threw the matter back at a seemingly disinterested Congress, which has adopted none of the more than 50 bills introduced in the last two decades to change baseball's reserve system which binds a player to one team indefinitely.

In a 5-3 ruling Monday against a suit brought by former outfielder Curt Flood, the court's refusal to redefine the reserve clause raised the possibility of another and more massive general strike next spring than the one which delayed the start of the 1972 baseball season for more than a week.

"Technically, it is a subject for collective bargaining," said Richard Moss, counsel for the Major League Baseball Players Association. "But practically, it is the subject for a strike, a long strike. You either forget it or strike over it, and both are unfortunate courses."

The so-called basic agreement between players and owners expires Dec. 31, along with pension and health insurance agreements reached after the recent strike in April. The basic agreement covers minimum salary, expenses and many other items.

One baseball executive, asking to remain unidentified, said, "I hope we're intelligent enough—players and management alike—to negotiate this before we're forced to do it."

That power rests with Congress. But Justice Harry A. Blackmun, delivering the Supreme Court's majority opinion, noted that Congress has had a long time to do something about it and said the fact that it did nothing indicates more than "mere Congressional silence and passivity."

In fact, he said, the Supreme Court "has concluded that Congress has had no intention to subject baseball's reserve system to the reach of the anti-trust statutes."

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said the decision "opens the way for renewed collective bargaining on the reserve system following the 1972 season."

Exactly what the players want was explained by Mill Pappas, player representative of the Chicago Cubs: "The ruling doesn't make a lot of difference and the players were not looking to make utter chaos, which complete elimination of the reserve clause would do. However, some owners now have an idea how the players feel."

"What we are going to seek at the meeting table is an agreement that will give veteran players some freedom in negotiating. After a certain time with a club, say five years or eight years, a player should be able to sit down and negotiate on whether he can get more money if he's worth it, or be free to bargain with another club."

JUNIORS PLAY PROS
WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The Insurance Youth Golf Classic will be held at the Crestview Country Club in Wichita, Aug. 4 through 8.

The event, sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents, will feature 20 touring golf pros against 150 of the nation's best junior golfers.

PGA Yells 'Fore!' When Dave Hill Starts to Talk

By FRANK LINDY
DENVER, Colo.—(NEA)—"Most guys playing the pro golf tour," says Dave Hill in no uncertain tones, "seem to be afraid to voice an opinion about anything."

That has never been said about Hill, his sport's most outspoken individualist. He has strong opinions about virtually everything and will express them at the drop of a tee.

He has been fined for his remarks, and last year sued the Professional Golfers' Association and its Tournament Players Division for, among other things, "violating his constitutional right to free speech." (The suit was settled out of court with neither side publicly proclaiming victory.)

"I don't see why athletes cannot have the freedom to say what they think," Hill says. "Especially in a sport like golf where I'm my own boss and have to foot all my own bills."

"I keep hearing that I'm controversial, but I don't go around looking for trouble. Most of the things I've said that got a lot of attention were in response to reporters' questions. I've never ducked a question and I don't plan to start now."

"I suppose the writers come to me because they know most of the other players aren't going to say anything. There are more than a few guys on the tour who are glad when I speak up, because then they don't have to."

A couple of Hill's more notorious remarks were directed at a U.S. Open site and British galleries, respectively. His views probably were concurred with by most of his fellow players but they remained quieter.

When asked what was lacking at the 1970 U.S. Open site, the Hazeltine course in Minnesota, Hill cracked: "Just 80 acres of corn and a few cows." The nation's headline writers went wild.

After an unhappy experience with a customarily patriotic British golf crowd, Hill was asked if he would return to Great Britain. "Only," he replied, "if I die and my casket is shipped here by mistake."

Lost in translation, unfortunately, was Hill's puckish sense of humor. He intended both remarks as much in fun as anything else.

"Nowadays everybody takes golf so deadly seriously," he says. "It's strictly business with guys like Frank Beard. They're always complaining how much work it is. This game wasn't meant to be played so seriously. It's for fun—it's not a religion."

"I get as fed up with it as anybody else who does something to excess. I can get where I hate tournament golf, but I still love to come home to Denver and play with hacker friends. It's still only a game, you know."

Because he gets so tense if he plays the tour for long stretches, Hill is cutting down his schedule. He has played in only about half the tournaments and has come back from a slump by winning one title and earning more than $65,000 already.

"In the past I've stayed out here and beaten my head against the wall and lost 35 pounds in a year," says Hill, who weighs only 155 top weight with a couple of clubs under his arm. "It isn't worth it. Now I get away and forget about it and relax. I pick my spots."

On the course—not when he thinks something needs saying.

Baseball Roundup

The Pittsburgh Pirates blasted their way out of a rut Monday night, but the Houston Astros have found a groove they'd like to stay in.

The Pirates, shut out by San Diego 4-0 and 1-0 in their last two starts and scoreless for 23 innings, erupted for 16 hits—including home runs by Roberto Clemente, Gene Alley and Al Oliver—and pumpeled the Los Angeles Dodgers 13-3.

The Astros, meanwhile, got their second consecutive one-hit pitching performance when Larry Dierker limited New York to a lone single as Houston defeated the Mets 3-0 for the Astros' fifth straight victory.

As a result, Pittsburgh moved back into first place in the

Olympic Trials Boycott Threatened By Women

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two American record-holders in women's track events said Monday they would boycott their Olympic training camp if the site was not moved from Champaign, Ill.

Discus thrower Olga Connolly and long jumper Martha Watson said they wrote a letter to Amateur Athletic Union President Jack Kelly and sent a copy to Nell Jackson, women's Olympic team coach who lives in Champaign, home of the University of Illinois.

"We shouldn't have to compete where it's hot, humid and always raining," said Miss Watson. She said her letter was also signed by nine other Olympic qualified girls.

Miss Watson, from Long Beach, Calif., made her statement at the meeting of the Southern California Track Writers Association.

There is usually so much wind that people have to hold the high jump cross bars. It seems that Miss Jackson would like to have the camp close by so that she doesn't get docked any pay. I'm going to lose money by going to this camp."

Miss Watson shares the American long jump record with Willye White of Chicago at 21-6.

Little League Scores

Haralson Oil beat Gibson's 16-6 in the first American Little League game last night. Vansickle was on the mound for Haralson. Doom was three for four at the plate to lead all batters.

S&J Mart got by Carmichael-Whitley 11-8 in the AL's second game. Mike Harrel was the winning pitcher. Steve Stout, who hit a home run, and Mumford were the leading hitters.

Cabot bombed Holmes Gift Shop 16-1 in the NL's first contest. Dusty Hudson got the win.

Celanese ran away from Duncan Insurance 23-3 in their game. Jeff Cook was the winning pitcher. Jeff Coulter was the leading batter in the game, going three for four.

In the first farm league game of the evening, Thompson Parts beat Pampa Wholesale 18-12. Gene Moore got the win for Thompson Parts.

Fischer Insurance beat Pioneer Natural Gas 22-13 in the second farm game. Jeff Putnam was the winning pitcher.

Babe Ruth Scores

The newly formed Babe Ruth farm league (consisting of two teams, the Red and the Blue) wound up seasonal play Saturday with the Blue beating the Red for the first time, 8-7.

Brian South was the winning pitcher and Tim Hill got the loss.

In all, four games were played this year with the Reds coming out on top 3-1. A thirteen year old all-star team will be picked from these two teams.

57—Anti-Slicing Tip

Here's another thought that may help the nine out of 10 golfers who slice.

Imagine that the ball is marked off into four parts. Now instead of thinking about just hitting the ball, think about hitting the inside back fourth.

You might even want to paint that portion of some of your practice balls to help you concentrate on it.

You soon will be swinging on a more inside-out path that will straighten out your slice.

Oust The 'Old Codgers'

We see where again there is a campaign under way to get rid of some of the "old codgers" in the United States Senate.

Generally, it's the left-wingers who want to get rid of the older senators, who mostly are from the southern states and therefore are generally more conservative.

However, it was a right-winger, John J. Williams, the straight talking Delaware Republican, who focused attention on the issue two years ago.

This year there are all senators over 65 who are running for re-election for six more years. Five are in their 70s and one is 81.

'Fast' Vs. Equal Chance

Cesar Chavez, self-anointed saviour of the American farmworkers of Mexican descent, recently ended his "fast of sacrifice" in Arizona.

The new law appears to give farm workers and farm employers equal chance to survive against the bullying tactics of Chavez' group.

When a California bill was being considered in Sacramento to give workers a chance to have a secret ballot on whether they wanted Chavez' union, any other union or no union at all to represent him, Chavez and Huerta got it killed by the union-subservient Sacramento legislators.

Just for the record, here are the major provisions of the new Arizona law, as reported by U.S. News & World Report:

While we were admirers of many of the things advocated by former Sen. Williams, we do not agree that "there ought to be a law" setting an age limit for members of Congress or other politicians.

But we do believe there should be some sort of limit on the length of time an individual can hold any political office.

We, in times past, have suggested a limit of eight years in any political position. That would be for city councilmen, school board members, county officials, state officials and especially those on the national level.

It is at these points that resemblance is strong to the Kennedy campaign of 1960. Kennedy himself was the practical politician almost without equal.

He also employed roving cadres of field helpers, though they were a more limited band of dedicated friends who had exhibited political skills and knew how to use them to win Kennedy delegates in the more controlled, less open delegate selection process then prevailing.

When a new political organization is forming, when outsiders come into state after state, resentment and resistance are probably inevitable.

McGovern is playing the same game, with much larger numbers of helpers because they are needed for the more open processes of today.

It sounds pretty reasonable to us.

If busing accomplished superior education, it wouldn't have to be forced.

McGovern's Success Is Due to Skill

By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA)—On the strictly technical level, Sen. George McGovern's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination bears more resemblance to the late John F. Kennedy's 1960 effort than to the 1968 "children's crusade" of former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

To describe McGovern's surprising successes simply as a grass roots undertaking is not sufficiently revealing. McGovern and his managers surely have put together superb field organizations in state after state in every region of the country.

This heavy infusion of the young makes the campaign look a lot like McCarthy's not least because McGovern's youthful activists have in place arranged large numbers of their kind to swamp out the regulars in caucuses and district conventions.

But McCarthy's campaign never had the skillful direction this one has. The organizers who are with McGovern, who also were with McCarthy, have learned much about the tough side of politics.

Young Gary Hart of Denver is an extremely able, clear-headed manager. Old pro Frank Mankiewicz, former aide to the late Robert F. Kennedy, needs no lessons.

It can't be overlooked, however, that McGovern himself imparts a driving spirit to these and others. He is a very shrewd, competent and ambitious politician; McCarthy had neither the competence nor the real drive.

McGovern is playing the same game, with much larger numbers of helpers because they are needed for the more open processes of today.

Paul Harvey News 7 Million Americans Hit By 'Backache Epidemic'

By PAUL HARVEY Detailed discourse on the composition of and damage to the spine of Gov. George Wallace reminds 7 million other Americans of their own aching backs.

But where doctors knew what they had to do about the injured spinal cord of the fallen governor—they don't yet know what to do about most backaches.

Nonetheless, there is some optimism in the prognosis for you. The backache epidemic has 7 million Americans under treatment, with 15 million to 20 million new patients every year.

The ailment may be triggered by any unaccustomed exertion, yet some sufferers insist the back was "thrown out" when they stepped off a curb.

Backache is now the second most frequent reason Americans go to the doctor. Respiratory ailments are first.

Orthopedists of sufficient stature to concede how much they don't know, report that some painful spines appear perfect in the X-ray while some dreadfully deformed spines don't hurt at all.

The Wall Street Journal, alerted by the increasing number of man-days lost to industry because of backache, sought a medical consensus as to the cause, found none.

I found some orthopedists and osteopaths in agreement that much discomfort of the spine and bursal area may be traceable to summertime extremes of air conditioning.

They suggest that man is physiologically unable to adapt in seconds to temperatures which may vary as much as 50 degrees.

Five years ago, rest, heat, aspirin or surgery were the most frequent recommendations for so-called "slipped discs." Now medical scientists are experimenting with using enzyme injections to remove the material that

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D. How Should Cuts Be Cleaned

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently a Vietnam veteran told me that the best emergency fluid to use in cleansing a wound is freshly passed urine, and that it need not be your own.

Dear Reader—I have heard this before and it seems to be a fairly common belief. It is true that freshly passed urine usually has few, if any bacteria in it, in other words, it is sterile.

Passing from that point, I am not enthusiastic about washing out wounds with anything unless there is significant dirt or other material in the wound.

Inside Washington

Today's N.Y. Primary Threat to McGovern? By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern's inner campaign managers made a highly significant admission in their private estimates of how many of the 278 delegates he is likely to capture in today's New York primary.

They are conceding he "probably won't do too well" with the crucial Jewish vote—particularly in New York City where one out of every four registered voters is Jewish.

McGovern's record on Israel is vulnerable, and he has been distinctly defensive regarding it in his New York barnstorming. With good reason!

Heavy losses of the Jewish vote in densely populous southern California cost the South Dakota leftist the overwhelming sweep of the state he confidently expected—and which had been grossly inaccurately predicted by so-called "usually reliable" pollsters and pundits.

That could be bad news for McGovern in districts where the Jewish vote predominates—as his managers uneasily fear. That's why they have gone to such strained lengths to portray him as a champion of Israel of unalloyed love and devotion.

Under California's winner-take-all law, that still gave McGovern all of the 271 delegates. But it's different in New York; the delegates are elected locally.

That could be bad news for McGovern in districts where the Jewish vote predominates—as his managers uneasily fear. That's why they have gone to such strained lengths to portray him as a champion of Israel of unalloyed love and devotion.

There was utterly nothing new about this so-called "policy." It was all old stuff. The only thing that might possibly be characterized as new was that this was the first time McGovern professed to have an Israeli policy.

It was purely a self-serving electioneering spiel aimed at New York's all-important (and disturbingly uncertain) Jewish vote.

The record on that is incontrovertible—although you would never know it from his printed and verbal hoopla.

In 1970, McGovern voted for an amendment (to the Military Procurement Act) sponsored by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., foremost congressional advocate of aid to Israel.

McGovern did the same thing in 1971. This time he voted for another Jackson amendment (to the foreign aid bill) authorizing $300 million in military credits and $50 million in supporting aid for Israel. And then as happened, before, McGovern blandly flip-flopped and voted against the measure as a whole—thus once more flatly negating his vote for the amendment.

In both instances, he nominally was for aid to Israel. But on the crucial final votes, he was unequivocally against it.

On one hand, he put himself in a position where he could claim he supported aid for Israel. On the other hand, he adhered to his basic leftist and isolationist views and voted against U.S. defense and other military funds—including those for Israel.

Carefully unmentioned, of course, are his canny yes-and-no votes and various similar statements—such as endorsing Secretary of State Rogers' bitterly controversial and now discarded plan for a Middle East settlement; favoring the internationalization of Jerusalem, a stand quickly dropped by McGovern in a storm of denunciations; and advocating that "the United States should ask Israel not to use any additional jets for incursions over Arab territory."

This playing both sides to the middle is an old McGovern tactic.

What he has been doing in New York is a repetition of what he pulled in the recent California primary.

At the same time he was barnstorming up and down that state vociferously crusading for sweeping tax reform in the interest of the "little man," McGovern bought a full-page ($8,000) ad in the Eastern edition of the Wall Street Journal solemnly avowing that, far from harboring malevolent designs against business and the wealthy, he was merely thinking in terms of "suggestions" on how best to bring about a more fair and equitable tax system.

Also in this extraordinary ad, McGovern admitted what he never says on the stump—that Congress and not the President writes the tax laws.

Sole purpose of this ad was to soothe and placate fat-cat liberals who had become alarmed by his suddenly-discovered extremism and were cold-shouldering his fund solicitors.

It was a slick piece of demagoguery—as is his campaign leaflet aimed at convincing New York Jews that he is a true-blue friend of Israel.

Jews in California didn't fall for it, and apparently McGovern's campaign masterminds are deeply worried that the crucial Jewish vote in New York won't either!
